The Friendly bridge club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Jennie Tracy of North Elm street.

Men are at work repairing the Circle theater building on Oak street. A staging has been erected on the front part of the building. The men today were working on the roof, making such repairs as was necessary and will repoint and wash the front part of the building before the work is completed.

The G Clef club will present a concert at the Swedish church in New Haven tonight and members are asked to meet at the Emanuel Lutheran church at 6 o'clock. The club will be assisted by Miss Helen Viertel, local violinist. Miss Helen Berggren, contralto, and Mrs. Elsie B. Gustafson, soprano.

Dr. Howard Boyd, who has returned from the annual convention of the American College of Physicians in Philadelphia, Pa., last week will return to his practice tomorrow. Following the convention in Philadelphia, Dr. Boyd enjoyed a short vacation.

Washington Loyal Orange Lodge No. 99, will hold its regular meeting at Orange hall tomorrow night at eight o'clock.

The scheduled meeting of Ausonia Lodge for tomorrow night has been cancelled due to the fact that the members are attending the ball to be held in Hotel Taft, New Haven. All members planning to attend the ball should contact Miss Marguerite Squatrito, Oak street, before 6:30 tomorrow night for reservations.

Wisdom Court, Order of Amaranth, of West Hartford will entertain Grand Royal Matron Maud A. Hall of Meriden, Friday evening, and officers and members of Chapman Court of this town will be welcome to attend. Dinner will be served at the Masonic Temple at 6:30 and the meeting of Wisdom Court will follow at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. House of Ellington Road, Wapping, have opened the Pine Grove on their property for the season, and as in previous summers will be prepared to cater to private parties, or rent the equipment of this ideal outing spot to organizations. Last Saturday night a private party of 70 banqueted at the cabin. Tomorrow night the first public setback will be held there, and every Friday evening thereafter until further notice. Details will be found in their advertisement in today's issue.

The Amaranth Sewing club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Georgiana Zimmerman of 33 Church street.

At the meeting of Manchester Tent No. 2, Knights of the Maccabees, held last night in the Balch and Brown hall, a soft-ball team was organized. It was voted to have a clambake on July 14 at Hills Grove in Wapping and the following committee was appointed to make arrangements: Andrew J. Stroker, John Berk, Edward Perkins, Albert J. Hewitt, E. A. Rock, Howard Spencer, Francis Happeny and A. L. Brown.

The music committee of the North Methodist church will conduct a rummage sale tomorrow from 9 o'clock on in the Farr building, next to the Salvation Army citadel. Those who are making arrangements include Mrs. Walter Schober, Mrs. C. Homer Gunn, Mrs. C. I. Balch, Miss May Hanna and Miss Bernice Lydall.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Mann of Linden street have returned home after spending three weeks with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Peterson of Portland.

Mrs. Thora Stoehr, pianist, and Miss Ada Robinson, soprano, who announced a concert for Wednesday evening, May 14, at Emanuel Lutheran church, for various reasons have decided to postpone the program a week from that date, or until May 22, at which time they will be assisted by a brass sextet from the Salvation Army band and advanced pupils of Mrs. Stoehr.

Mrs. W. R. Mitchell of 14 Beech street left this morning for a visit with the family of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Frasier of Medford, Mass.

Loyal Circle of Kings Daughters has set the date of Thursday, May 16, for its annual spring rummage sale, to be held in the Farr building on Main street. Donations will be called for the day previous if friends will dial 7635.

GENERAL ELECTRIC SHOULD BUILD
THE BEST ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS
It is to be expected that General Electric would build the refrigerator that is universally recognized as the standard of excellence.
This great corporation is the world's largest electrical manufacturing company. They have devoted millions of dollars and unequalled facilities to electrical research through half a century. From the famous G-E House of Magic have come the major contributions to the present electrical age.
All General Electric's vast resources were available to the scientists and engineers who first developed and perfected the Monitor Top mechanism, the all-steel cabinet and other features that revolutionized household refrigeration.
Today, with an unparalleled record for dependable, attention-free performance at low cost, the General Electric refrigerator offers greater value than ever. Be sure you see and compare General Electric values before you buy any refrigerator.
There is a complete line of General Electric Monitor Top and Flat-top models—a size and price for every home. See them here.

BOLD THIEVES GET 40 SUITS AT GLENNEY'S

Take About Half of Local Store's Stock Shortly After Closing Time; Were Evidently Frightened.

nearly 40 suits of men's clothes were stolen from Glenney's clothing store at 789 Main street shortly after it was closed last night. Twice as many suits, nearly the entire suit stock of the store were abandoned in the rear of the store as the thieves were scared away. The morning Christopher Glenney, proprietor, estimated his loss at $800. It was not covered by insurance.

Professionals

An organized gang of professional store thieves, believed to have its headquarters in Hartford, was suspected by the police today of burglarizing the local store. Two months ago $2,000 worth of suits were taken from a Willimantic store and less than a month ago a Middletown store was robbed in much the same fashion.

The store was entered through a small window from the fire escape in the rear of the building. The lock was broken by forcing the bottom half of the window. The two-tiered, suit show case was cleaned of its 150 suits. From the top or a large safe the suits were lifted through a rear window, ten feet from the floor.

Patrolman Comes On Break

A large passenger car or truck had apparently been backed into the rear yard to a point near the store. Shortly before 10:30 p. m. Policeman John C. Cavagnaro entered the front door of the store to make sure it was locked. A few minutes later, after investigating a disturbance in a nearby tavern, the policeman went to the rear of the building to try the doors there and found the abandoned suits strewn about the fire-escape, rear roof and back yard, seemingly left when the thieves fled after he tried the door.

The suits stolen were part of the light-weight, summer stock received in the store earlier this week. Many of the light-colored suits recovered were soiled and wrinkled and will have to be cleaned. In their hurry the burglars took the pants from some suits and the coats or coats and vests of others.

Familiar With Spot

Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon and Lieutenant William A. Barron were called from their homes and started an immediate investigation. They were convinced today that the burglary had been carefully planned for some time. The thieves were apparently familiar with the interior of the store and the Thursday night closing schedule. Entrance was made soon after Mr. Glenney closed his store at 8:45 p. m. the police believe.

Police departments of other cities have been notified of the robbery and asked to watch for stores where the goods might be sold.

Town Similar To Manchester Votes Down Buying Light Plant

The town of Auburn, N. Y., the other day rejected a proposition for a municipal electric plant by a large adverse vote. The date was April 18. The plan was similar to the Manchester situation.

The amount involved in Auburn was $1,500,000, for the purchase of the private system. As the referendum date approached, there was organized an Auburn Citizens' Committee of business and professional men, contractors, home owners and representatives of all walks of life to oppose town ownership.

When the votes were counted, the public ownership idea was found buried effectively.

Some of the same facts are shown here to inform Manchester voters that they have a duty to perform when the question is up at the all-day election, Wednesday, May 15th. The project would cost about $1,500,000., requiring another bond issue.

If the people will take the time to absorb even a few of the facts as to the tremendous cost to the taxpayers of such a plant, at a time when every property owner is surrounded by increasing taxes, it is believed that Manchester, too, will speak with force against public ownership of the electric business.

ETHIOPIA IS MASSING TROOPS ALONG BORDER

Italian Newspapers Say Tens of Thousands of Soldiers Mobilized; Germany Supplies Munitions.

Rome, May 10.—(AP)— The authoritative newspaper Giornale D'Italia, in an article reliably described as officially inspired, said today Emperor Haile Selassie was rapidly mobilizing Ethiopian troops close to the frontier of Italy's African colonies.

Tens of thousands of men are under arms near the frontier, the newspaper says, and great quantities of war materials, much of it allegedly furnished by Germany, have been supplied them.

The newspaper said the Emperor had just visited the Harrar zone, one of the allegedly concentration points and strategically important because it commands caravan and rail routes into Abyssinia, on an inspection tour.

Ethiopia's mobilization is of an offensive nature, the newspaper said, because troops are concentrated at points most favorable for an invasion.

Deposits of arms, ammunition, anti-gas materials, uniforms, foodstuffs, fodder and gasoline and hangars for airplanes have been provided, it said.

New Radio Stations.

Gionna also declared new radio stations and telephone lines had been erected to keep Addis Ababa in touch with frontier posts.

A war tax has been imposed, it said, and propaganda against Italy is being actively conducted.

From January to mid-April 10,000 Mauser rifles, 2,000,000 cartridges and 300 machine guns arrived in Ethiopia, the newspaper declared.

Germany, it continued, was the chief supplier of munitions furnishing chemical materials, rifles, machine guns, anti-aircraft batteries, armored cars and junkers airplanes. Ethiopia pays for these goods through five-year contracts for mechandise, particularly coffee, it was said.

The Giornale D'Italia said the Italian government called the attention of certain European countries to the fact their factories are furnishing war materials to Ethiopia

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, May 10.—(AP)— The position of the Treasury on May 8 was:

Receipts, $103,368,873.60; expenditures, $138,868,038.10; balance, $1,782,309,725.61; customs receipts for the month, $7,914,375.58.

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $3,192,048,402.13; expenditures $5,113,033,45.02 (including $3,030,209,857.05 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $2,920,985,048.89; gross debt $28,616,743,351.98, a decrease of $28,490,528.85 under the previous day; gold assets, $8,727,860,888.59.

Use Chain Letter Idea To Collect Stamps, Beer

Kansas City, May 10.—(AP)— Non-financial variations of the send-a-dime chain letter craze appeared today in many parts of the country as the monetary phase of the fad began dying of its own weight.

Students, war veterans, anti-dimetists, and just plain jokesters began the new phase.

Topeka, Kas., high school students started a chain letter among themselves and their parents to show support for a teacher accused by a boy student of whipping him unduly hard.

Philatelists at Nowata, Okla., said they have been receiving missives identical with the "send-a-dime" types, except that commemorative stamps instead of dimes are sent to the person whose name appears at the top of the list. The sender in turn sends out five more letters to friends.

At San Diego, Calif., the fighting Bob Evans Post of the American Legion started a chain intended to carry 500,000 letters to President Roosevelt urging him to veto the Patman bonus bill.

The idea is being used by students at the University of California to obtain an inexhaustible supply of dates with coeds.

Chain letters ordering the delivery of beer instead of dimes boosted the business of brewery salesmen in the Imperial valley of California.

Glen Ferrins, columnist of the Ogden, Utah, Standard-Examiner, is using the scheme to obtain enough hairs to construct a toupe for a slightly bald spot.

He has received enough hairs to make either a blonde, black or red toupe. In addition some one sent him a real live, brown hare.

REPORT BUSINESS AT A STANDSTILL

Trade Survey Shows Pause; Cold and Rainy Weather Given as the Cause.

New York, May 10.—(AP) — A slight hesitation in the forward movement of business this week was reported today in the weekly trade review by Dun and Bradstreet.

"A pause in the forward movement of business was revealed by reports emanating this week from manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in various parts of the country", the review said.

"Thus far, however, the recession appears to be only trifling proportions and there was nothing to indicate a change in the upward trend.

"Among factors mentioned as contributing to the hesitancy were seasonal slackening of industry, the vagaries of the weather, and the uncertainties regarding the outcome of national legislation.

"As neither manufacturers nor retailers are holding burdensome inventories, their positions are viewed as favorable for a prompt response to stimulating influences which a chance to more seasonal weather undoubtedly will bring, with prospects strong for a continuation of the upward movement before the close of the current month.

Slow Beginning

"After a slow beginning, due to the cold and rainy weather, retail sales widened in nearly all parts of the country, and there was less unevenness to the gains reported in a few days preceding. For the country as a whole, nevertheless, retail sales were estimated at not more than 2 to 8 per cent in excess of the figures for the corresponding week last year."

Wholesale buying was reported running in excess of the comparis-

Cross Declares His Opinion On Issue Is the Same As It Was Four Months Ago; Text of His Letter.

State Capitol, Hartford, May 10. —(AP)—Once again urging the necessity for speed, Gov. Wilbur L. Cross told the chairman of the Judiciary committee today that his opinion on the liquor issue is exactly the same as it was four months ago, when he outlined his views in his inaugural message.

Replying to a letter he received from Senator J. Kenneth Bradley in which the latter asked the chief executive for his present opinion on the proper disposition of certain difficulties confronting the Judiciary committee, Governor Cross in a letter said:

"My reply is that my opinion is exactly the same as it was four months ago when I delivered my inaugural address to the General Assembly."

Position Is Clear

"The chief executive, who earlier in the week had asked Bradley as to when the Judiciary committee might be expected to submit a report on proposed changes in the liquor control act, said he failed to see how he could be more specific so far as it is given to the governor to recommend legislation.

"It seems to me to be the duty of the Judiciary committee," he said, "to report a liquor control bill without further delay, incorporating so far as it can, the prevailing views that were expressed at the hearing."

Governor Cross pointed out that the Judiciary committee held a public hearing on the liquor issue which "I assume was for the purpose of obtaining an expression of public opinion.

"Under the nice division of responsibility which exists between the three departments of our government," he said, "it would not have been proper for me to have attended the hearing. I have not, therefore, the advantage of knowing what the apparent majority opinion was regarding the statement in my inaugural concerning the most pungent problem in the solution of the sale of distilled liquors.

"Again urging that the Judiciary committee report a bill promptly, representing the majority opinion of the committee, as that chief executive told Bradley, chairman of the committee, "I am ready at all times to confer with members of the Judici-

HALT BONUS VOTE UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Patman Bill Supporters Are Gathering Forces to Save Measure from Defeat.

Washington, May 10.—(AP)— Delaying the final struggle until next week, bonus leaders plunged today into a week-end effort to marshal every ounce of their strength in a last minute effort to save the Patman new currency bill from defeat.

Methods that proved so potent in the House when the veterans' ranks were called into play as veteran leaders sought to deluge the Capitol and the White House with a million c. more telegrams from supporters.

President Roosevelt made no pronouncement, though he conferred with financial advisers in what was generally regarded as a move to marshal statistic. for a veto on the $2,000,000,000 bill. He did mention the word "bonus" in a greeting he sent last night to St. Louis, where the convention committee for the forthcoming 1936 American Legion conclave was in session.

What No Compromise

Earlier Patman supporters had turned thumbs down on compromise proposals from non-Presidential sources, which would give the President a choice of methods of financing the bonus payment.

The American Legion leadership, which had fought for the orthodox Vinson bill, joined the Veterans of Foreign Wars, backers of the Patman bill, in a signin. support for the latter measure.

Frank N. Belgrano, National commander of the Legion, sent messages to Legion leaders in the states urging them to "urge the President not to veto and wire your Congressmen and Senators if the bill is vetoed to vote to override the veto."

James Van Zandt, commander-in-chief of the V. F. W., appealed to the country to telegraph President Roosevelt. The goal he set was 2,000,000 telegram.

BANK BILL PASSED BY HOUSE 271-110

But Leaders Predict a Bitter Battle When the Measure Reaches the Senate.

Washington, May 10.—(AP)—The New Deal's bid for greater power over money and credit came face to face with a Senate crisis today after winning overwhelming approval in the House yesterday.

Marriner S. Eccles, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, was summoned before a Senate sub-committee to answer questions about the omnibus banking bill which the House passed 271, to 110.

Senator Carter Glass, (D., Va.,) chairman of the sub-committee has opposed some of the powers which the measure would concentrate in Washington.

CAROL CELEBRATES 5TH ANNIVERSARY

King of Rumania Reviews Monster Military Parade With the Crown Prince.

Bucharest, Rumania, May 10 —(AP) —King Carol and Crown Prince Mihai today were central figures in Rumania's nation-wide celebration of the fifth anniversary of Carol's re-accession to the throne and the 58th anniversary of Rumanian freedom from Turkish domination.

Dressed as a field marshal, brilliant with decorations and brightlued sash and carrying a gold baton, the King sat for three hours on a magnificent white charger reviewing a monster military parade on the Cotroceni aviation field.

He drew orderly scant applause, however, as he rode in front of an estimated 50,000 spectators.

Magda Lupescu, the King's red-haired friend, was nowhere to be seen and her non-appearance evoked widespread comment.

Is Military Cadet

The 13-year-old Crown Prince, now as tall as his father, was dressed as a cadet of the Military Academy. He was more generously applauded than the King.

Every branch of Rumania's army of 250,000 men was represented in the parade. Tanks and artillery lumbered over the ground while 20

GOVERNOR AGAIN URGES SPEED IN LIQUOR CONTROL

This most familiar view of London, looking up Ludgate Hill toward the inspiring mass of St. Paul's Cathedral, shows how the British capital has been transformed for the Silver Jubilee celebration of George V's 25-year reign. Bunting, streamers and flags give the famous old street a gay carnival appearance.

JAPANESE SET UP BRAIN TRUST ALSO

Army and Navy Not Represented and Protests Follow; Is Political Move.

Tokyo, May 10.—(AP)— A week of political struggle that dominated the front pages of the Japanese newspapers ended today with the setting up of an official Japanese "brain trust."

The constitutional innovation, demanded to bolster the prestige of the Okada Cabinet and extend its tenure of office, is to be called "the National Policy Council." It has been attacked by the Diet.

In addition to Premier Keisuke Okada and Minister of Finance Korekiyo Takahashi, ex-officio members, the body consists of 15 councillors, among them such veterans as former Premier Viscount Mako-

ARTIST'S DAUGHTER DIES FROM BURNS

Toll Increased to Five in Boston Fire; Two Were Buried Yesterday.

Boston, May 10.—(AP)—Mary La Valle, 12 year old daughter of John La Valle, noted portrait painter, died today of burns suffered last Tuesday when flames swept the family's Back Bay home. Her death brought to five the toll taken by the fire.

Two of those who perished in the fire were buried yesterday. They were Mrs. John La Valle, Sr., the artist's mother, who was a sister of Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of a former Massachusetts governor and another daughter, Alice, 14.

The other previous deaths were those of Miss Mary Dolan, 24, and Miss Kathleen Costello, 25, maids in the La Valle home.

Leaped from Window

The girl who died today suffered serious injuries when she leaped from a second story window.

Another daughter Eileen, 9, was seriously injured in a similar manner. The artist was in New York, exhibiting some of his work when the tragedy occurred and his second wife, the former Virginia Wilson of Cincinnati, also was out of town.

A ten year old son, John escaped uninjured by leaping to a lawn after waking his sisters.

SUSPECT FATHER OF POISONING 5

Wife and Four Children Died Since March 29; Another Child Is Sick.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 10.—(AP) —Frederick Gross, an auto-mobile-owned bookkeeper for a Manhattan chemical company, was held for questioning by police today following five mysterious deaths in his family since March 29.

Gross was picked up for questioning early today by Brooklyn detectives after an analysis of the vital organs of two of his daughters who died April 26, showed traces of an obscure poison.

Arthur Edge, the arresting detective, said that an analysis of a can of cocoa in the Gross home, disclosed the same poison.

Members of the family who have died since March 20 are Katherine Gross, 18, wife and mother of five children; Frederick, Jr., 9; Leo, 3; Barbara, aged one; Katherine, 7.

Suspicion Aroused

Police, made suspicious by the last two deaths, ordered an autopsy which failed to show the cause of the deaths of the two girls. Edge said that the vital organs were then sent to Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, city toxicologist, for analysis and upon receipt of his report yesterday, Gross was ordered detained for questioning.

Gross was taken into custody by Edge and Assistant District Attorney Vincent Ferreri, acting under orders of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan.

After preliminary questioning at the Wilson avenue station, Gross was taken to the district attorney's office, where Geoghan personally continued the questioning until daylight. Gross was then returned to the Wilson avenue station where

NEW PLAN TO SCRAP HEARING ON JUDGES STIRS MORE STRIFE

HOPE TO SEND LOCAL BAND TO WASHINGTON

Seek $300 Fund to Send Salvation Army Band to Capital "Connecticut Day" —Reward for Concerts.

Patronage Jam is Analysed Intensified; County Board List of Judiciary Body Carrying Only One Democratic Name Is Subject of Caucus by That Party; Senators Too Busy to Explain Purposes.

State Capitol, Hartford, May 10 —(AP) — The patronage problem ran the Senate into another jam today and promised to grow even more serious as reports became current that the Judiciary committee planned to break with the past by reporting the minor judgeships without holding a public hearing.

With a fight over the county commissionership imminent, most of the Senators found little time to discuss the new complication presented by the report.

Senator J. Kenneth Bradley, (republican) floor leader and chairman of the Judiciary committee declined to comment on the report. Asked if any date had been set for a public hearing on the judgeships a moral procedure in other years he replied:

"I don't know."

Because of a caucus of Senate Democrats, Senator Raymond J. Devlin, the minority leader, was unable to discuss the report with newspapermen.

Democratic Caucus

The Democratic caucus was held to decide on what to do with the county commissionership resolution, which was starred for action on today's calendar.

The list, submitted recently by the Republican controlled Judiciary committee contains the names of 15 Republicans and one Democrat. Democrats were reported as determined to have, at least two more members of their party placed on the list. It was understood they want Senators Robert Chaffey of Hartford and Edmund R. Gebhardt of New Haven.

Some Democrats expressed the view that the list of county commissioners proposed by the Judiciary committee was an indication of what they might expect in the distribution of the judgeships.

Two years ago, the judgeships were divided between Republicans and Democrats on an alliance between three Democratic Senators and Republicans.

Spellacy Present

Thomas J. Spellacy, Democratic chairman, who was charged on the Senate floor two yes a ago, with being responsible for the alliance was in the Senate chamber today.

The Senate session was delayed considerably by the party conference over the patronage squabble. The patronage question reached what most Legislators regarded as a critical point last week when the Senate rejected the nomination of Senator Harvey L. Thompson, Democrat of Middletown as State Agent.

During the debate on the nomination, Senator Bradley hinted broadly that Republican Legislators and Governor Cross had come to the parting of the ways.

Called to order at 12:40 p. m., nearly an hour and a half late, the Senate received from the Judiciary committee favorable reports on the nominations of Judge Earle Garlick of Bridgeport and John T. Dwyer of Norwalk as judges of the Court of Common Pleas.

The two nominations were submitted recently by Governor Cross together with four other Court of Common Pleas selections. The Judiciary committee early this week, reported favorably on four of the six names but held back those of Judge Garlick and Dwyer until today.

Like the four nominations previously reported, the two which came in today were placed on the calendar.

With the ban on the consideration of controversial questions lifted in the interest of speed, the Senate immediately ran into a squall over a measure proposing the inclusion of certain Hartford streets in the state trunk highway system.

Reported unfavorably by the committee on roads, bridges and rivers, the measure was defeated 17 to 18 as a result of a Republican-Socialist alliance after the House had defeated it in an attempt to have the bill reconsidered.

This bill in substance is similar to one of four amendments which Democrats in the House sought to attach to the Bransfield road project which was up recently by both branches after a spirited debate.

The Senate Hartford measure was defeated only after several counts had been made during the roll-call vote.

While the vote was in progress, Republicans and Democrats who had been out of the chamber hur-

COUNT'S DAUGHTER IN AN ELOPEMENT

Donna Christiana Torlonia Weds Daniel Lord, a Bank Clerk in Harrison, N. Y.

Harrison, N. Y., May 10.—(AP)— Italian royal blood and that of New York society were united early today in the elopement of Donna Cristiana Torlonia, 21-year-old daughter of Count Marino Torlonia of Italy and the former Countess Elsie Moore Torlonia, of 375 Park avenue, New York City, and Daniel Lord, 26-year-old bank clerk and son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin B. Lord, of 160 East 66th street, Manhattan.

The bride's brother, Don Alessandro Torlonia, married this spring the Infanta Beatrice, daughter of Alfonso, abdicated King of Spain, at a state wedding attended by royalty of Italy and Spain in Rome.

Young Lord and his bride were married at Town Hall a few minutes after 2 a. m. by Justice of the Peace Leo Minter of Silver Lake, who had been called from bed to perform the simple civil ceremony—no unlike the pomp and preparation the Rome

100 Fairfield Residents Are Made Sick by Food

Fairfield, Conn., May 10.—(AP)— The outbreak of a mild form of illness among more than 100 residents of this town was disclosed today with the announcement of Dr. Laurence E. Poole, town health officer, that he had taken food samples for laboratory tests in an attempt to trace the disorder.

The ailment is believed to have reached its peak yesterday with fifty pupils and ten faculty members of the Fairfield High school reporting themselves as ill. The faculty members remained on duty, but the students were excused for the day.

Dr. Poole said the symptoms were mild cases and in some cases paralleled those of amoebic dysentery, while in still others there were mere stomachaches.

Physicians said they had treated many other cases outside of the High school during the past week and Dr. M. P. Pitock said three of his patients definitely showed signs of food poisoning.

Samples of food served in the High school cafeteria were taken by Dr. Poole in his search for the cause of the drouble. He said he would take other samples later.

NEW PLAN TO SCRAP HEARING ON JUDGES STIRS MORE STRIFE

tried to their seats to be recorded in the vote.

An attempt to secure passage of a measure which would give the mayor of Bridgeport the power to remove "any one directly or indirectly failing to conform with the city charter in relation to the waste, accounts or street improvement account," was blocked by Senator Blackall, Democrat. The Hartford Senator called the attention of Senator Taft, Bridgeport Socialist, that there was no provision in the bill for court consideration of the action and it was agreed to put the matter over until Tuesday.

Bills providing a salary of $6,000 a year for the secretary-treasurer of the Pharmacy Commission and permitting the employment of more than one school nurse in children were passed without debate.

A bill relating to the licensing of private institutions for the treatment of the insane was favorably reported.

The Senate dropped all attempts to recall the bill prohibiting the docking of horses tails when the report of the retainl by the House to concur was read. Senator Blackall said that he "always recognizes the inevitable" and moved the Senate concur.

The bill, as passed by both Houses is now in the office of the secretary, clerk, and efforts were made by the Senate to recall it for reconsideration.

IN THE HOUSE

State Capitol, Hartford, May 10—(AP)—Echoes of the anti-capitalist fight between the Board of Trustees and students at Connecticut State college reverberated in the State House of Representatives today.

Representative Stanley Yzenskiewicz, Democrat of Bristol, an alumnus of the institution, introduced a resolution calling upon the trustees to reconsider their action threatening removal of faculty members and students participating in any anti-military demonstrations on the campus. After a point of debate the resolution was tabled.

The Board recently passed a resolution that "any formal public agitation or discussion on the campus promoted by individuals on the college staff or individual students which reflect upon the military instruction or training, will subject such individuals to cause for removal."

Text Of Resolution

The text of the Czenskiewicz resolution reads:

"Whereas the action of the Board of Trustees of Connecticut State College in denying the students and faculty of this college the freedom of assembly for the purpose of discussing military training, is contrary to best traditions of Connecticut and the spirit of Articles 1, Sections 5, 6 and 16 of the Constitution of Connecticut.

"Be it resolved that the Board of Trustees be requested to reconsider its action."

The Board's action brought a protest from a number of the students and Monday it is planned to present a resolution to Governor Cross and the Board asking the board to rescind its action that it infringes on the right of free speech and is a threat to academic freedom in American educational institutions.

Yzenkiewicz is a member of the class of 1933 and graduated with the degree Bachelor of Arts. While in school he was a cadet captain and now holds a lieutenant's commission in the ORC.

The controversy has centered around compulsory military training which must be continued for the school to obtain a $50,000 annual grant.

Some Opposition

It is understood that the majority of students are not opposed to this training but one or two faculty members have been outspoken against it.

A bill now is pending before the education committee to make the adjutant general a member of the board.

Considerable opposition appeared to the bill at a hearing yesterday. Committee it is learned, has decided on a hands off policy, feeling it best to permit the school to settle its own affairs if possible.

In asking adoption of the resolution Yzenkiewicz said he was not opposed to military training but most consciously objected to the board's action which is contrary to the Connecticut constitution granting the right of free speech and assemblage.

Representative E. A. Hall, Republican of Old Lyme and chairman of the House Education committee, said the House has much work to do and if it is to be done, it has sufficient business to keep it busy. He is not for the legislature to question the motives of the board.

Representative Cattil, Democrat of Salisbury seconded the remarks and move the resolution be put on the table.

The House passed bills providing for an annual audit of the accounts of the city comptroller and city treasurer of Norwalk and the creation of a bi-partisan public welfare board in that city.

A favorable report was received on a bill for the issuance of $100,000 welfare relief bonds by Norwalk but the House killed a measure to set up a commission to consolidate the Norwalk tax district.

A favorable report was received on a bill which could permit public clocks to show daylight savings time. Under the present law they must show eastern standard time.

Under other bills passed by the House were:

Permitting absentee voters' ballots to be in the hands of the town clerks at least three days before an election.

Providing a $100 salary for the Waterbury aldermen.

Making monthly fire drills in schools compulsory.

The House concurred with the Senate in passage of a bill permitting savings banks to accept Christmas Club or other similar temporary deposits.

BANK BILL PASSED

State Capitol, Hartford, May 10.—(AP)—The House concurred with the Senate today in passage of the Culhane-Daly Bank Receivership bill.

The measure sponsored by Senators George T. Culhane of Waterbury and Matthew A. Daly of New Haven, provides that the State Bank Commissioner should act as receiver for banks which are closed now and which may be closed in the future.

It sets up machinery for the reopening of banks that are now closed.

The proposal was offered as a substitute for a measure reported by the Judiciary committee, making it optional with the Superior Court as to whether the Bank Commissioner should be named receiver for banks closed in the future.

Representative E. L. Dennis, Republican, of Scotland, a member of the Judiciary committee, sought to substitute for the Culhane-Daly plan a proposal providing that the State Bank Commissioner shall be named receiver of any bank closed in the future. In effect, the Dennis plan would have retained the Judiciary committee's bill but make its provisions mandatory rather than permissive.

After a long debate, the House rejected the Dennis plan by a vote of 94 to 211 and soon after approved the Culhane-Daly proposal overwhelmingly by a viva voce vote.

The measure generally regarded as one of the most important pieces of banking legislation approved this season, now goes to the governor.

MERRITT HIGHWAY

State Capitol, Hartford, May 10.—(AP)—Senator J. Kenneth Bradley stated today that Federal allocations he has decided to make in the bill, he plans to wait until next Monday before submitting to the Finance Committee his Merritt highway measure.

The proposal drafted by the Republican floor leader of the State Senate is designed to make possible the immediate construction of the highway in Fairfield county, which, when completed would connect with the Hutchinson River Parkway in Westchester county, New York.

Under the Bradley bill, Fairfield county would be authorized to float a $15,000,000 bond issue to be retired in 15 years at the rate of $1,000,000 a year with funds allocated by the state for the project.

Bradley did not disclose what provisions he plans to make in the measure during the week, but it was understood that they were technical and would in no way affect the principles of the bill.

The General Assembly will not meet Monday, but Bradley said he had decided to submit his measure to the finance committee on that date so that its members may study it over the week-end before convening week Tuesday. The Senator himself is a resident of Fairfield county, expressed the hope that the Finance committee would find time Saturday to act on the bill.

Senator Sedgwick Tracy, Republican chairman of the Finance committee said yesterday he could see no objection to the general plan.

Bradley discussed the provisions of his bill informally late yesterday with members of the finance committee.

SECRECY SURROUNDING MASS PLANES FLIGHT

Navy Officials Will Give Out No Information As to Whereabouts of 48 Machines.

Honolulu, May 10.—(AP)—Official secrecy veiled in silence today the whereabouts of 48 navy seaplanes on a trail-blazing mass flight to Midway island, 1,323 miles away.

As the hours passed with no information made public by Navy officials, speculation grew that the huge air fleet—greatest flying group ever assembled for such a flight—possibly stopped at French Frigate shoals, 500 miles distant, or at Pearl Harbor and Hermes reef, 100 miles from Midway.

Rain was falling and a 24 mile wind was blowing at Midway when the airmen began taking off from Pearl Harbor at 7:18 a. m., (12:48 p. m., eastern standard time) Thursday, lending credence to the belief the planes might have stopped at some intermediate point.

MAY ARRANGE FHA LOANS ELSEWHERE

Can Get Money Out of Town If Bank Here Does Not Desire Them.

If the Manchester Trust Company continues to look askance at applications for loans under Title 2 of the Federal Housing act, which provides for the construction of homes—the FHA will make arrangements with national banks in other cities to handle Manchester loans, Major John G. Mahoney, office manager for the FHA, was informed by Hartford FHA district representatives yesterday.

Six Have Applied

Joseph Lewis and Edward Burns, of the Hartford office, learned from Major Mahoney that the local bank had refused to go in loaning money under Title 2. Six residents already have applied for loans under this clause, Lawlor and Burns learned. Major Mahoney, according to the latter, that Manchester persons need not be deprived of the advantages of Title 2, when completed would arrange to do procure loans elsewhere.

Harold Alvord, treasurer of the Manchester Trust Company, whose attention was called to Major Mahoney's statement today, said that the Manchester Trust Company was not prejudiced in fairness to its depositors and the state statute governing loan on mortgage security, to loan money on Title 2.

Bank's Stand

Mr. Alvord said that Section 3885 of the Revised Statutes of Connecticut provides specifically points out that commercial banks may loan money secured by mortgages on real estate, located in this state, provided no such loan shall be secured, shall be made for a larger sum than 50 per cent of the appraised value of such real estate, and provided the total amount of such loans shall not exceed 10 per cent of any bank's capital, surplus, undivided profits.

As the total assets of the Manchester Trust Company is in the neighborhood of $600,000, the word said that only $60,000 could be used as loans under Title 2. This amount would represent only "drop in the bucket." Total of loans applied for if any great demand to be had under Title 2 developed here, according to Mr. Alvord.

Not Federal Reserve Bank

The Manchester Trust Company, a commercial bank, is not a member of the Federal Reserve bank. The time of reorganization it also assumed approximately $34,000 in mortgage loans of the old bank. Consequently the amount available for loans under Title 2 actually would be the difference between $34,000 and $60,000 or $26,000.

Unless the state law is changed expanding the loan clause from 50 to 80 per cent of the appraised value, is passed by the present Legislature, there is little likelihood of the Manchester Trust Company loaning money under Title 2, Mr. Alvord said.

The Savings Bank of Manchester, under the law, is not permitted to invest in mortgages in excess of 70 per cent of its deposits and surplus. This bank already has mortgage loans amounting to 50 per cent. It is allowed by law to advance on its assets.

Praise Canvass

Messrs. Lawlor and Burns expressed themselves as being completely satisfied with the result of the local canvass to date. They learned that 133 leads had been obtained in the residential sections with the business district yet to be canvassed. These leads call for an expenditure of about $18,000 for house repairs.

MONARCHY IS POSSIBLE IN GERMANY—BIGELOW

Noted Writer, Close Friend of the Former Kaiser, Gives This As His View.

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Restoration of a Monarchy in Germany with Prince Louis Ferdinand at its head is seen as a possibility by Poultney Bigelow, veteran traveler and writer.

"The German people are decidedly Monarchistic," he said yesterday on his return from Europe after a visit with former Kaiser Wilhelm at Doorn.

Louis Ferdinand, grandson of the Kaiser, is the most likely object of German Monarchistic plans, Bigelow said, asserting the German people have no bitter memories of the Monarchistic government as other nations have.

Bigelow reported the former Kaiser was in excellent health and still spends much of his time chopping wood. The former ruler was described as being desirous of returning to Germany.

"I can safely say he would not conspire to return to Germany but would entertain any proposition consonant with his dignity as a sovereign and patriotic German," Bigelow said.

His visit with the former Kaiser was his fifth since the World War. He and Wilhelm were schoolmates in Germany 65 years ago.

Bigelow, who will be 80 in September, said Germany was steadily improving under Hitler and that there were no beggars or tramps on the streets of her cities.

GOVERNOR AGAIN URGES SPEED IN LIQUOR CONTROL

ary committee if this procedure is necessary.

Text of Letter

The text of the Governor's letter:

"Dear Senator Bradley:—I have not received your letter of yesterday in reference to legislation amending the present liquor act, which I hope to apply to my inquiry as to when the Judiciary committee would be able to act with a bill with the recommendations under consideration.

"I observe that you say you cannot speak for the committee. When I wrote to you, however, I thought it would be understood that I addressed you as the ranking member of the Judiciary committee and that my letter was intended as official communication to the committee and so called for an official reply from that body.

"The pertinent part of your letter is a request for my present opinion as to the proper disposition of the various questions outlined in your letter concerning changes in the present liquor control act. Since my opinion is exactly the same as it was four months ago when I delivered my inaugural address to the General Assembly, I fail to see how it could be more specific so far as it is given to the Governor to recommend legislation. Let me repeat what I then said under the heading Television of Liquor Control:

"The liquor control act passed by the last General Assembly anticipation of the virtual repeal of the 18th amendment, stands in need of many changes. Some of these changes relate to details and to the removal of provisions which experience has shown to be discriminatory. The great question is whether the retail sale of distilled liquors shall be confined, as it is now, to drug and package stores. Public opinion, I think is in favor of permitting bona fide hotels, clubs and restaurants to serve any kind of liquor.

Tavern Problem

"A special and puzzling problem is presented by taverns, which because of their large number, it is difficult to keep within the law. They should be greatly reduced, number and restricted in location before consideration can be had of the question whether they may be permitted to serve distilled liquors under any conditions. Already taverns are selling distilled liquors which, it is alleged, sell illegitimate hard liquors in resorts along the highways, which are a menace to life. We have before us, ascribed the most difficult problem which I trust we may work out together in the with prevailing public opinion.

"For our guidance we have two fundamental principles to keep in understand all agree. The first is state control, the second is local option.'

"In due course your committee held a public hearing in the hall of the House of Representatives, which I assume was for the purpose of obtaining an expression of public opinion. Under the rule of division of responsibility which exists between the three departments of our government, it would not have been proper for me to have attended the hearing. I have not, therefore, the advantage of knowing what the apparent majority opinion was regarding the statement in my inaugural, concerning the most puzzling problem in the liquor traffic in this state with distilled liquors.

"I, however, have my opinion in regard to this question. It seems to me to be the duty of the duty of the Judiciary committee to report a liquor control bill without further delay, incorporating, so far as it can, the prevailing views that were expressed at the hearing. When such a measure reaches me it will be, in due course, my duty to approve it if it appears to my preponderative that it does not violence to the public welfare. I am ready at all times to confer with members of the Judiciary committee if this is desired.

"Again I urge that the Judiciary committee report the bill promptly representing the majority opinion of the committee. In the final analysis such action is the only way by which controversial matters may be settled under our form of government.

"Believe me, as always,

"Most sincerely yours,

"WILBUR L. CROSS,

Governor."

PREDICTED HER DEATH.

New Britain, May 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Eno Mumford, who died yesterday on her 93rd birthday predicted the date of her death several months ago, relatives revealed today.

Mrs. Mumford frequently said, "I'll see my 93rd birthday and then I'll go." Death came while relatives were reading to her birthday messages from friends. Yesterday also was the anniversary of her marriage to the late Joseph F. Mumford of Philadelphia.

DAINTY SERVING OF SUDS TAUGHT TO BRITISH MINERS

London—(AP)—Dainty serving of beer and ale is being taught here in an eight-week course for idle miners.

The graduates, at the end of this time, are given a certificate of competency—and, more important still, employment.

This represents a new kind of social work approved by the minister of labor. Some 300 men already have been trained under the supervision of Mrs. Ernest Botham, the honorary organizing secretary.

Historians say the thigh wound, which caused the death of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, Confederate commander, in the battle of Shiloh, would not have been fatal had he been able to find a doctor.

AUCTION MARKETERS TO MEET TUESDAY

Gathering to Be Held in Sub Alpine Club — Expect to Follow Last Year's Plan.

A meeting of the Fruit and Vegetable Producers' Marketing Association of Manchester, Inc., will be held in the Sub Alpine Club on Tuesday evening of next week at 8 o'clock. The meeting is called to arrange for the opening of the market at the theater. There are several applications for membership from towns outside of the section first included in the association and while the directors have the power to pass upon the applications the distance that the new applicants are located from the local market may be left to the association to decide.

There will be no concert or speaking on the manner in which the market will be conducted, but there is expected to be some talk on the change from the plan followed last year when the sales were by auction and the Manchester Trust Company acted as treasurer. It was handled in a much better way than the first year that the management of the and all members of the association are more sure of getting their money.

The meeting next week will select an auction master who will rule on the grade of the berries presented and it is planned to have nothing but the best of berries brought into the market for sale and as be represented.

VETERAN KILLS HIMSELF; BLAMES THE PRESIDENT

Jumps from Hotel Window After Leaving Note Saying Mr. Roosevelt Was His Murderer.

St. Louis, May 10.—(AP)—Leaving a note in which he described President Roosevelt as "my murderer," Albert B. White, Jr., 45, son of a former Congressman from Ohio, of West Virginia, leaped to his death from a hotel window here today.

In a note White identified himself as a disabled emergency officer of the United States Army and said he had been dropped from compensation because of agitation affecting veterans for which he blamed President Roosevelt.

"Roosevelt, the arch-enemy of the veterans, by order of Bernard Baruch, is my murderer," he wrote in a note left in his room, "as well as of hundreds of other veterans and able to struggle on. May God forgive him, for I cannot—not for my own case, but for hundreds of my buddies."

"This dying protest," he wrote in another part o the letter, "may be considered the ravings of a deranged mind, but I have been adjudged competent by the several government hospitals I entered."

He was registered at the hotel as C. R. Watson of Columbus, Ohio, but said in the note he had so registered "because afraid the hospital would take me," if the correct name appeared.

DENTISTS' PARLEY ENDS

Waterbury, May 10.—(AP)—The 71st annual convention of the Connecticut State Dental Association closed its three day business session this morning at Temple Hall with election of new members appointment of chairman of standing and special committees, the selection of a list of ten dentists who will be presented to Gov. W. L. Cross as state dental commissioner.

Applications of 48 new members were read before the assemblage and a vote of acceptance was recorded. Dr. Fred Daniels of this city, chairman of the New Members committee was complimented upon his work in this respect.

12 LOCAL YOUTHS TO JOIN U. S. NAVY

Adventure On High Seas Calls Large Number As Enlistment Officer Arrives

Adventure on the high seas and visits to ports in distant parts of the world apparently hold a fascination for twelve Manchester young men.

When Chief Machinist's Mate John J. Lewisky, attached to the United States Navy recruiting office at New Britain, yesterday took up a post in the lobby of the local post office he didn't think he would have much to do.

But Mate Lewisky got the surprise of his life. He literally was swamped with inquiries by youths who asked him questions about everything pertaining to enlisted life in the Navy—from duty in the cramped interior of a submarine to the nature of chores and sports on the super dreadnaughts.

Mate Lewisky originally intended to stay about an hour in the center and then leave for Thompsonville. But a street fair took place for more than two hours. Before he finally departed for the Capital City he had the enlistment applications of twelve students in his pocket.

The recruiting officer will visit Windsor Locks and Simsbury today, completing his tour of Hartford and Litchfield counties by Friday night. The local applicants process will be forwarded to Newport for the physical examination as soon as Lewisky submits the papers to headquarters.

"LADDIE" FINE LIFE SAGA OF DRAMATIC PUNCH

Gene Stratton-Porter's Famous Novel Transferred Faithfully to the Screen; At State Now.

Through the magic of the great Gene Stratton-Porter's novel "Laddie" playing today and tomorrow at the State theater has become one of the world's most glorious books, and through the magic of the modern motion picture, the famous story now brings to the screen the same entertainment, relaxation it has displayed as a novel.

It's a true tale of Indiana of 0 years ago, and because it reflects Mrs. Stratton-Porter's experience from her own girlhood, it pulses with the realism of life itself. It is a saga of the soil, the children and the typical Americans, save for the one family whose adventures it relates. The "Princess," furnishes the principal comedy, the Irish family come from overseas, bringing drama with them, and Laddie grows into a hero and grander drama in the farming country.

The characters symbolize the strength of America and its people and likewise set forth the virtues of the English cousins across the ocean. Laddie himself (played by John Beal) becomes the ideal of American youth, his parents (Henry Stanton, played by Willard Robertson and Dorothy Peterson) typify pioneers who helped found the new civilization. The "Princess" (played by Gloria Stuart) is the flower of overseas beauty and womanhood, the noble blood, she and her parents come to see the worth of the tillers of the soil about them. The Irish family in their own lives finds its solution on this New World soil.

The picture is a faithful translation to the screen of the book which has been published in the principal languages of the world, and which is said to have had 40,000,000 readers.

George Stevens directed this Dandro S. Berman production for RKO-Radio.

SAYS BRITISH GOLD INFLUENCED ARABS

Author in New Book Strips the Glamor from Lawrence of Arabia.

London, May 10.—(AP)—A book called "Iraq," just published here, seeks to strip the glamor from the figure of Lawrence of Arabia.

The author, Ernest Main, contends that Lawrence, from the viewpoint of Iraq, "raised problems infinitely more difficult than those he solved."

A former managing editor of the "Times of Mesopotamia," Main now edits a newspaper at Dorchester a few miles from where Lawrence, under the name of T. E. Shaw, lives at a lonely cottage.

"Arabs or no Arabs," Main writes, "the military situation in the middle east at the end of 1918 would have been the same."

What Lawrence did, the author asserted, was "to start tendencies and release forces which are not yet worked out to their ends."

Lawrence's weapons in his Arabian work were "his persuasive power, his electric personality, and his gold—a crescendo of arguments which no Arab could resist," the Main declared.

While he gave no estimate of the drive of gold which Lawrence poured into the desert tribes, Main's policy there to flower, Main wrote:

"Stranger than his powers of persuading the Arabs (to move to help the British) was Lawrence's success in persuading the British community that Lawrence could be control on," the book asserts, "was pay day."

HURT IN ACCIDENT

New Haven, May 10.—(AP)—Louis Gibson, 29, of Bridgeport, was injured seriously today in a collision of automobiles here. Louis Krull, 22, of New Haven, driver of one of the cars, was arrested and today had his case continued for two weeks in city court where he appeared to answer a charge of reckless driving.

Gibson was taken to New Haven hospital with a fractured skull and severe lacerations suffered when he was thrown from behind the wheel of the other car to the pavement.

POLICE COURT

Robert D. McConnell, 19, of 24 Hawthorne street was convicted of operating an automobile with defective brakes when stopped at 10:45 last night near the underpass on Center street by officers who found light and could not stop his car satisfactorily. His brakes were examined and found defective.

McConnell was represented in court by Edward C. Elliott, Jr., prosecuted by Officer Prentice, while on patrol on Oakland street last night tried to stop Charles F. Ardito of 372 West Rock Avenue, New Haven for defective headlights. Ardito continued on after the officer's warning and was caught and brought into the police station, charged with operating a motor vehicle with improper headlights and failure to stop for a police officer.

Ardito posted bond of $30 last night to appear in court for trial in court this morning. Continuance was granted William S. Hyde, his attorney, until May 18.

The increasing number of convictions for operating motor vehicles with defective brakes emphasizes the danger that arises from careless driving and reckless driving, the operation of cars with defective brakes is the worst offense on the list of motor vehicle offenses.

McKINLEY DINNER INTEREST IS GREAT

Unusually High Spirit of Enthusiasm for Republican Gathering.

With interest in the 1936 presidential campaign already at a height not ordinarily reached until the winter preceding a national election and with interest also running high in current legislative affairs of the state, it is expected that the 29th annual dinner of the McKinley Association of Connecticut to be held at the Hartford Club, Hartford, next Wednesday evening, May 15, will assume a degree of importance not paralleled by any previous off-year meeting of this Republican organization, according to former State Senator Fuller F. Barnes of Bristol, president of the association.

Mr. Barnes stated that a capacity attendance of G. O. P. leaders and party workers from all sections of Connecticut is now indicated.

With Mr. Barnes presiding as toastmaster, the speaking program for the dinner includes Charles Francis Coe, noted author and editor, and former U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham. Mr. Coe is nationally known both for his speaking and writing ability. He has participated in Republican campaigns in the past and wherever he has spoken he has been enthusiastically acclaimed. This was particularly true of his appearances in the last state campaign in Connecticut. It is expected that Senator Bingham will have an interesting message on national affairs to impart to the audience. According to Mr. Barnes, announcement may be made before next Wednesday of one or possibly two more additional speakers who will speak briefly.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the 1935 McKinley dinner consists of the officers of the association, who are as follows: President, Fuller F. Barnes, Bristol; vice-president, Raymond A. Johnson, Manchester; secretary, Clarence C. Willard, New Haven; treasurer, Howard W. Alcorn, Suffield; executive committee, Hartford County, Robert J. Smith, Manchester, and Mrs. Helen S. McPherson, Hartford; New Haven County, Charles M. Bakewell, New Haven, and Mrs. Bernard H. Matthies, Seymour; New London County, Daniel M. Cronin, New London, and Mrs. Theodore Bodenwein, New London; Fairfield County, Matthew H. Kenealy, Stamford, and Mrs. Helen R. Lewis, Stratford; Litchfield County, Anshel W. Mitchell, Woodbury, and Mrs. Ernest Howe, Litchfield; Middlesex County, Elwyn T. Clark, Haddam, and Mrs. Maybelle Reynolds, Middletown; Windham County, Raymond F. Gates, Windham, and Miss Katherine Byrne, Putnam; Tolland County, John Buckley, Union, and Mrs. F. O. Vinton, Mansfield.

Dinner will be served at 7:00 p. m. d. s. t.

There are, it is estimated, 10,000 pecan trees on the lots of more than 2,500 homes in San Angelo, Tex.

THIRD DEGREE IN REVERSE

Kansas City—It remained for 2-year old Harry Moore, Jr., to solve a police "third degree."

Picked up as he wandered about downtown, Harry was questioned at length by detectives in a futile effort to learn his name and address.

All they got were noises from a whistle and a rattle the youngster carried. The police were ready to quit when the lad's father called.

TOWNS USE FERA FUNDS TO FIGHT ELM DISEASE

18 Towns in State Are Employing 758 Men to Control Spread of The Dread Disease.

Eighteen towns in Connecticut employing a total of 158 men are now engaged in tree sanitation work aimed to control the spread of the Dutch elm disease in this state. The men are paid by funds allotments under the FERA, and are supervised by Philip Wallace of the Agricultural Experiment Station at New Haven, according to Station Forester, Walter O. Filley.

The object of these sanitation projects is to remove all dead and dying wood in elms on town property and, in Hartford and Meriden, in other trees as well as elms. Elm bark beetles, carriers of the Dutch elm disease from sick to healthy trees, breed in the dead wood of elms. Cutting down and burning dead and dying elms, pruning dead wood from thrifty trees and spraying for insect enemies, are measures recommended by the Station in fighting the Dutch elm disease.

So far Mr. Wallace reports that European elm bark beetles, as well as the native variety, are scarce. No new cases of Dutch elm disease in Connecticut have been reported this season.

Towns engaged in the sanitation work are: Greenwich, New Canaan, Wilton, Redding, Bridgeport, Stratford, Shelton, West Haven, Derby, Ansonia, Hamden, Meriden, Bristol, Plainville, New Britain, Glastonbury, Hartford and Windsor.

WAPPING

The Wapping Community "Y" sponsored a Travel Night entertainment, at the Community church-house, last Wednesday evening, which proved to be very entertaining. There were over 60 persons present. Richard Belchenbach was master of ceremonies, and opened the program by a song by all. Mrs. Marion F. Pierce then told of her trip to Tennessee. This was followed by a vocal solo by Leslie Carrol and was accompanied by Fay Birchard with his accordian. Miss Ellen J. Foster told of her trip to Key Largo and the hard work in an instrumental duet by Fay Birchard on the accordian and harmonica at the same time. Next, Mrs. Walter Smith told of the "Social Life in Florida." Ralph Smith talked of sports in Florida. He was followed by Ernest Sharp who told of life on the sea. Leslie Carroll sang another solo. George A. Collins was the next speaker. He told of his trip to California. Walter G. Smith who spoke briefly, as the hour was getting late, on "Farming in Florida."

Mrs. Ruth Grant Sears, department poppy chairman of the American Legion, was the guest of Abe E. Miller Post last Friday evening, at the Legion hall.

Ernest Bergin, a former Wapping boy, is spending a few days with friends in Wapping.

A sale of articles made by the third grade will be at the Said Memorial Public Library this Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. A blind instructor will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. William Armour of Wapping had as their guests last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. James Richie of Bridgeport.

Frank C. Stodard is making extensive repairs on the Wolcott Green place, his tenement house.

Ronald Platt will leave next Saturday for a camping sojourn in Coventry Lake.

LOCAL TOWNSEND MEMORIAL FILED

Resolutions from Club Here Presented in Congress by Senator Lonergan.

In the Congressional Record of Tuesday of this week appears the following relative to a memorial presented to Congress by the Townsend Club of this town:

"Mr. Lonergan presented a resolution adopted by sundry citizens and affiliate members of Townsend Old-Age Pension Plan Club No. 1 of Manchester, Conn., which was referred to the Committee of Finance and ordered to be printed in the record, as follows:

"A memorial to the President of the United States, the honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled:

"We, your memorialists, the 3,000 petitioners and 500 affiliate members of the Townsend Old Age Pension Plan Club No. 1, of Manchester, Conn., respectfully represent:

"Whereas, there is pending before the Congress of the United States a measure known as the revised (McGroarty) Townsend old-age pension bill; and

"Whereas said bill setting forth the plan to have the government provide the initial sum calculated at a rate sufficiently high to provide the necessary revenue to meet the requirements of said bill; and

"Whereas it is obvious that said bill will, in the beginning of its operation, place in the hands of the general public such purchasing power as to stimulate every avenue or commerce and trade The banking system which stagnates the monetary flow of currency has proven inadequate to keep trade and commerce at a healthy level, free from panics and depressions); and

"Whereas the tax levy as provided in the revised McGroarty bill for the express purpose of paying (trust fund) of those who qualify will relieve society from a tremendous burden of taxation now made necessary by the contributions to Government and civic relief, community chests, and all forms of charitable institutions. The fund would provide a steady flow of monetary circulation from the taxpayer to the Government, revolving back to the pensioner (trustee) and thence to the channels of trade; Therefore be it

"Resolved: That the senior Senator of the State of Connecticut enlist the service of the junior Senator of said State, together with other members of the Senate, to have the McGroarty (Townsend) bill given an impartial period of time for debate and that a record vote be attained, and, if possible, an insertion of this memorial be placed in the Congressional Record.

"We further pray."

The memorial is signed by Sidney Elliott, president of the club; Katherine DeF. Hardy, secretary, and John H. C. Longdyke, treasurer.

MENUS

For Good Health

A Week's Supply Recommended By Dr. Frank McCoy

DAILY MENUS

Dr. McCoy's menus, suggested for the week beginning Sunday, May 12, 1935.

Sunday

Breakfast—Glass of milk; Grapefruit as desired.

Lunch—*Boiled new potatoes with parsley butter sauce; Green peas; Lettuce and celery.

Dinner—Baked ham with whole tomatoes; Buttered string beans; Lettuce and endive salad; Jello or Jell-Well.

Monday

Breakfast—Coddled eggs; Melba toast; Stewed prunes.

Lunch—Steamed artichoke, served with butter; Sliced cucumbers with lettuce.

Dinner—Lima bean loaf; Cooked spinach and parsley; Grated raw carrot salad; Small dish of Junket.

Tuesday

Breakfast—Wholewheat muffins; Peanut butter; Stewed figs.

Lunch—Fresh asparagus on toast.

Dinner—Spring soup; Flank steak with vegetables, boiled; chopped cabbage and celery salad; Pineapple whip.

Wednesday

Breakfast—French Omelet; Melba toast; Stewed raisins.

Lunch—Stewed corn; Raw spinach and celery salad.

Dinner—Broiled mutton chops; Buttered beets; String beans; Head lettuce with olive oil dressing; Stewed apricots.

Thursday

Breakfast— Baked stuffed apple with cream.

Lunch—Potato soup; String bean salad.

Dinner —Roast beef; Carrots roasted with meat; Buttered asparagus; Crisp celery; Peaches (canned halves) with a dash of whipped cream.

Friday

Breakfast—Coddled eggs; Toasted cereal biscuits; Stewed apricots.

Lunch—Salad of tomatoes, lettuce and cucumbers.

Dinner—Baked sea bass; Baked stuffed tomatoes; Buttered parsnips; Lettuce and watercress salad; Jello or Jell-Well.

Saturday

Breakfast — Breadcrumb breakfast food.

Lunch—Salad of tomatoes, lettuce and cucumbers.

Dinner—Broiled steak with mushrooms; Cooked greens; Salad of chopped raw cabbage with bits of pimiento; Minced prunes in gelatin.

*Boiled New Potatoes with Parsley Butter Sauce: Scrape potatoes and drop in boiling water. The time depends upon the size and kind of potatoes. Usually 30 minutes will be sufficient, but the test is to pierce the potato with a fork firmly. If it goes in take the potatoes out. Put in colander over boiling water, cover with a napkin for a few minutes to absorb the moisture.

Prepare parsley butter sauce by melting a piece of butter the size of an egg over a slow flame, add a level tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley and a teaspoonful of finely chopped celery leaves. Pour over the potatoes and serve hot.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Shortness of Breath)

Question: Mrs. T. E. L. writes: "Although I have been told that my heart is in good conditions and my lungs are all right I notice that the most any activity will cause me to be short of breath."

Answer: If the heart and lungs are normal, the most likely causes are muscular weakness due to lack of exercise, and anemia. If the symptom is due to not enough exercise you will find that it will soon appear if regular exercise is obtained. If the cause is anemia, as soon as the blood is brought back to normal, the shortness of breath will be overcome. You do not say if you are overweight, however, shortness of breath is a common symptom when the patient is too heavy.

(Skin Cold)

Question: Mrs. Mildred T. states: "My trouble is that I have a spot on the back of the right hip where the skin is always cold. This chilly sensation comes even though I am in a warm room. I do not have any pain or stiffness, such a continual cold feeling."

Answer: The cause probably lies in the blood circulation. The best general treatment is to try to increase the circulation through exercise. It is difficult to outline a satisfactory treatment without first examining you.

(Feels Heart Beat)

Question: Molly Y. writes: "When I am especially tired, I can feel the beats of the heart beat in the side of my neck and it appears as though I can feel through my head. It is a heavy, steady beat. My doctor say it does not amount to anything."

Answer: This symptom is not unusual in a convalescent. The patient with a tendency to nervousness. Avoid: over-fatigue, too much excitement, or strain.

TOLLAND

The Tolland Library Association held the May meeting in the library rooms Monday afternoon with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Helen Jewett, presided. Five new members were added to the membership roll. After the regular business, the Library program was in charge of Mrs. Ethel Hayden when several readings were given. The social hour followed when dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Valentine S. Allison and Mrs. W. Hoyt Hayden.

The annual meeting of the Tolland County Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers and of the Tolland County Missionary Society will be held at the Federated church Wednesday, May 15, beginning at 10 a. m., and extending through the afternoon session. Luncheon will be served by the Ladies Aid Society of the church.

Tolland 4-H club held the regular meeting at the church Tuesday afternoon.

Next Sunday, May 12, being Mothers' Day, a special invitation has been extended to mothers for this special service.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wrisley of Manchester were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Steele Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Bartlett, who have spent the winter in Hartford, have opened their home here for the summer.

Jarvis Brown of Hartford and David A. Brown of Talcottville were recent guests of relatives and friends.

Mrs. John H. Steele attended the May meeting of Sabra Trumbull Chapter, D. A. R., at the home of Mrs. Patten at Stafford Springs, Wednesday afternoon.

The Ladies Aid Society will serve the May supper in the church Friday evening at 6 o'clock. There will be held, in connection with the supper, a sale of articles made by the blind people of the state, beginning at 3 p. m. All are invited to "s" supper and sale.

SHORT AND SNAPPY

West Chester, Pa.—Brevity may be the soul of wit; but a couple of wills here prove it is no guide to material things.

On a price tag, the late M. A. Flanagan's will is on file stating: "I will and leave everything to my sister, Kate."

That was verbose compared to Cyrus S. Williams' will written on a piece of wrapping paper:

"Everything goes to Kate."

AFTER 35 YEARS

Morrison, Ill.—Mrs. Elizabeth Sims moon of Fulton, who is past 80, entered into divorce court to complain that her husband, Matthew, also more than 80, was cruel. Judge L. B. Tellen granted her a divorce. They had been married 35 years.

Have you any guarantee that spending $1,500,000 in a town electric plant will be succesful?

Read these experiences of towns which have had town plants and abandoned them. (Names are given for verification if anybody wishes.)

Natoma, Kansas

"We found that owning our plant was a very expensive proposition."

"Every city election was based on the point of getting a new superintendent."

F. H. KOELLING, JR., City Clerk.

Clearwater, Kansas

"We could not operate and keep up our distributing system and compete with the rate in effect in other places."

W. E. ALDRIDGE, Mayor.

Oakland, Oregon

"We first produced our power with a small water power plant—then we had a steam generator plant in two different locations. These were both expensive to operate and were not a paying proposition."

E. G. YOUNG, Mayor.

Castle Rock, Colo.

"As a general proposition, I feel that political activities are detrimental to efficient operation of a public utility."

E. S. BRESLOW, Treas.

Andover, S. D.

"We did have a municipal electric plant and sold it for the purpose of getting both lower rates and better service."

SCARED

While administration leaders in Congress and administration spokesmen generally maintain an air of complete assurance that the President's veto of the Patman bill will be sustained in the Senate, there is one great authority that is palpably frightened, which is in a perfect agony of fear that the soldier paid vote will be overridden. That authority is the New York Times.

Not in a long time has the Times worked itself up to such a point of excitement as in its leading editorial of yesterday demanding, in tones of quaking terror, that the Senators rally 'round Mr. Roosevelt and we cannot remember when that calm and dignified organ of the Haves was so obviously and thoroughly scared.

Whatever may be the actual probabilities—and there seems to be a reality about the administration professions of faith in the sustaining of the veto—very clearly the Times is convinced that there is a better chance that the President will be beaten than that he will win.

When an editor writes that "possibly political motives and maneuvers may hold them in line to support the President" he would seem to regard his cause as a desperately forlorn hope.

What is aching the Times is the realization that a successful revolt of Congress for the Patman bill would indubitably spell the finish of the control of the government by the deflationist group that has so far held the whip hand over the nation and which is liquidating the depression for its own benefit. That would be terrible, for the Times; but it would be wonderful for the people—quite apart from the minor it immediate interests of three and a half million veterans.

TELEVISION

The particularly lucid and straightforward statement on television made by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, at the corporation's annual stockholders meeting should dispate much confusion and quiet many unwarranted expectations on the part of the public with relation to that fascinating but elusive subject.

Many persons have entertained, for some time, the belief that almost any day would come the announcement that television had been "perfected" as a commercial proposition and that all they would have to do would be to purchase equipment and sit in on all sorts of visual entertainment hooked up with radio sound service and which might be expected to improve from day to day almost, with experience. Mr. Sarnoff quite effectually disposes of such anticipations.

The main point of his disclosures is this: While radio early in its history became a merchantable activity and purchasers of receiving sets were advantaged by each progressive step in the art of broadcasting, the television problem is entirely different; for the vital reason, as explained by Mr. Sarnoff, that for every improvement made in the dissemination of the picture at the studio there must be a corresponding change and improvement in the receiving set or it will not function at all. Obviously this is an insurmountable obstacle, not to the development of television, but to its development subsequent to initial public installations. One may still use a radio set ten years old; even if it is not up to this year's standards. But once television is installed there must be no more changes or improvements because they would destroy the usefulness of all receiving appliances in the public's hands.

The television scientists have no doubt that they will one day be able to present clear pictures of action in the homes. But that day, as Mr. Sarnoff frankly states, is neither here nor around the corner. It is going to take a lot of time to bring it to pass. Television, while going ahead rapidly, is still a laboratory and field-experiment matter—and likely to be for some time—perhaps a number of years.

GAMBLING INSTINCT

To those not possessing the strictly mathematical mind the operation of the chain letter fad, as exemplified in Springfield, Mo., is not exactly easy to understand. But in large the spectacle is apparent of practically the entire population of a fair sized city rushing frenziedly about, selling each other chain letters and thus accumulating a small fortune in a few hours. Nothing exactly like it had ever been seen before. The nearest thing may have been the informal curb market for mine shares in the wildest boom days of Virginia City, long ago; it quite resembled the Florida real estate boom at its height never hit any such tempo.

We have only a very general idea, at this writing, of what was going on yesterday in Springfield; but it is clear enough that here was a big mass in which everybody, practically, had gone clean, stark, staring, gambling-mad. Every man and woman, boy and girl who mixed into the chain-letter scheme, hoping to get out of it with a wad of cash, was animated by precisely the same instinct as the race track bettor who is clawing his way to a window to get down his money before the betting closes, on a last-minute hunch.

One may have no doubts that among these sudden chain-letter addicts were many—a very great many—persons who would hold up their hands in holy horror at any suggestion that they take a flier at a roulette wheel or buy a ticket in a state lottery. Yet here they were, up to their necks in a game in which there could be very few winners and where the vast majority of them stood only to lose.

Was it John Billings or someone else who said, "The human animal is a queer class?"

AS TO BEARING ARMS

Attorney General Cummings believes that all pistols should be registered and taxed just as automobiles are. And the Bridgeport Times-Star, expressing approval says, "The time when the ordinary man needed to carry a revolver about his daily errands has passed."

We are possessed by a mild wonder as to whether Mr. Cummings has ever interested himself in such primitive law-reading as the second article of the Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution, and as to what "time" the newspaper refers to as having passed. The second article in amendment of the Constitution provides:

A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

Obviously a federal law requiring the registration of firearms would not constitute an infringement of the right of the people to keep and bear arms, but obviously, too, the imposition of a tax would. There are valid state laws against the carrying of concealed weapons, but it is the concealment that constitutes the offense in those cases. It is extremely doubtful whether some other laws against the carrying or possession of arms are of any constitutional validity whatever.

As to that matter of "time"—it would be interesting to know when, even including colonial days when the colonists had succeeded in stirring up the Indians against them, there was ever a period in which the average citizen ran greater hazards of personal violence than he does today. Of course he doesn't need a gun for the performance of his own errands—what he needs it for is to prevent the other fellow from performing his. And there are lots of pretty nasty little errand boys about, these days.

A QUEER CASE

There are elements in the case of Peter Zeindzak to upset the self confidence of even the most assured criminologist.

Zeindzak is the young fellow who was arrested in Bridgeport recently by federal operatives charged with having written extortion letters, carrying threats of dire physical harm and death, to a number of persons of wealth and prominence in the East.

The authorities have probed the youth's record very closely without disclosing that he had any bad blood in his veins.

Born on Manhattan's East Side, and never having been abroad, he has one of the finest accents ever heard on this side of the Atlantic. His father, also born on the East Side, still lives there in a building which successively has been a Baptist church and a spiritualist meeting hall.

It is the only theater in New York that doesn't charge admission, and it always is filled. These facts are offered by Mr. Davenport as proof that commercialism is ruining the American theater. He started his enterprise in 1910 as a school where ambitious youngsters might learn the rudiments of acting. He is a great stickler for rudiments, and during intermission appears before the curtain with a sheet wrapped around him as a bit of his aims for the theater. Members of the audience ask questions about the drama, and he answers them. Then a collection basket is passed along the 250 seats, and a few people contribute—usually a total of from $6 to $8.

Box Office Flop

That sounds like a pretty mean average, but actually it is better than selling tickets. Three years ago Davenport became rather desperate and tried to get all his patrons to pay. They were insulted and stayed away en masse, so he gave up the idea.

Most of the plays are by Shakespeare, Molieve and Pinero. "The Bells" is the play bringing in the largest collections, but "Hamlet" is Mr. Davenport's favorite, with himself in the title role. His supporting actors are recruits from the neighborhood and from among the drama students who attend his school of histrionics. A good many of his people, incidentally, have gone on to some prominence in the Broadway theater and the movies. Gene Raymond, Gertrude Flynn, Lloyd Gough, and the most famous of Negro actresses, Rose McClendon, have been among his pupils.

Mr. Davenport has a stock joke relating to his struggles. "For 20 years I have been living with the wolf," he says. "and have almost starved him to death." He admits he was very lucky ever to have been able to buy the building which his Free Theater occupies. One evening seventeen years ago he presented "Difference in Gods," a play dealing with divorce. It happened that a wealthy couple whose minds were on divorce attended that evening and became reconciled. In appreciation, they gave Davenport $10,000, and with that he bought the old church and remodeled it.

Slimp in Ideals

What I wanted to point out, several paragraphs ago, was that there are mighty few genuine idealists extant. Poets sing of cemeteries, Wistlekes and corneta, Gertrude Stein writes utter gibberish, and is unable to explain what it's all about—except that publishers buy it. For years George Bernard Shaw found it profitable to be sassy and sardonic, and only recently have large numbers of people begun to find him a bore.

I am acquainted with several artists and a couple of sculptors who like to remind each other that they must be fired by high purpose, else they never could endure the privations of Greenwich Village garrets. Phooey! They live very well, glory in their pretensions of martyrdom, are pastmasters of drawing-room panhandling, and would rather starve than work. Boondoggers; that's what they are. One man is a "modernist," daubing in outlandish colors and impossible perspectives, because he is incapable of more literal reproduction.

Some critics seem no more sincere than artists. There have been embarrassing instances in which prizes were awarded surrealist paintings hung upside down. Only recently a well known critic visited an exhibition at the Morton Galleries and said of an artist named Everett Shinn: "Obviously he is a very young man anxious to make an impression. Experience and recognition doubtless will give him a steadier base for working. . . . Yet Shinn is scarcely a young man. He was a magazine illustrator before the turn of the century. And for 25 years he has been a front-rank magazine artist.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Manchester Herald's Washington Correspondent

Miracles DO happen. Five Senators from Virginia bowed down a mile to Virginia Islands . . . . Company union shows in true light at appr . . . . AAA gets snicker at NRA expense . . . . Cuba isn't inviting grief . . . . Butchering the truth.

Washington, May 10.—The Senatorial junket to the Virgin Islands this month is going to be one of those parties to which nobody comes.

In a gesture of abnegation quite unparalleled, each member of a five-man committee has decided he's too busy to go down and participate in the investigation of the islands' administration. The five were Chairman Tydings of Maryland, Clark of Missouri, White of Maine, King of Utah, and Metcalf of Rhode Island.

Clark quit the committee when Tydings insisted the trip be made in May while Congress was in session. Others began to get cold feet as they considered the large number of important votes ahead which could not be cast if they were in the Virgin Islands.

Publicity, apparently, finally deterred even Tydings from going. But the investigation will proceed. In a brilliant flash, Tydings saved it when he picked Senator Bob Reynolds of North Carolina to take Clark's place.

Reynolds is an insatiable world traveler. His friends say he could no more resist the temptation to take a trip away from these shores than he could start going without meals.

He has been around the world several times and he has home is full of maps, charts of voyages, and the like.

So Reynolds will go to the Virgins, a lone Senator accompanied by two Baltimore politicians chosen by Tydings as counsel.

Was This Embarrassing!

One of the most amusing incidents of the hearings on the Wagner labor relations bill doesn't appear in the record.

A long line of company union officials from steel, automobile, and other industries came before the committee and claimed their unions were independent of company domination. Senator Wagner usually asked who was paying their expenses to Washington and it usually turned out to be the company.

Toward the end of the hearings, Senator Walsh asked one such group whether it wished to testify or merely submit a statement. The group, confused, turned to an official of its stool pigeon on the sidelines—who motioned them away, then muttered to his companion:

"This IS embarrassing."

AAA Gets Laugh on NRA

The AAA crowd, which never did like the NRA gauch, because it boogled industrial prices while AAA was trying to increase farm purchasing power, can't help snickering.

The Schechter case, which is being argued before the supreme court as the first big NRA test case, arose under the poultry code. And the poultry code is not an NRA code, but an AAA code. It was written by the AAA and Secretary Wallace selected an AAA man to administer it.

The only thing NRA had to do with the code was its insertion of the wage and hour provisions.

And maybe you think the AAA fellows don't enjoy pointing out that the lower federal court in New York upheld the government on the 18 counts involving trade practice provisions (AAA's) and turned it down on the two wage and hours counts (NRA's).

Trouble Enough Now

Mr. T. L. Bergoff, so-called "king of the strikebreakers"—who will send any number of strikebreakers anywhere on demand—gave the State Department a tremor during the recent Cuban strike troubles.

Bergoff telegraphed President Mendieta of Cuba that he could send 10,000 men to break the general strike.

But the State Department, with visions of 10,000 international complications in one bunch—and possibilities of violent death, drunkenness, or stranded Americans—had men at Mendieta's elbow.

The President replied to Bergoff with thanks, explaining that Cuba had a large unemployment problem of her own.

Butchering the Truth

A harassed AAA official exploded into a denunciatory speech in a local meat market the other night when he heard the butcher explain to a woman that the high price of beefsteak was "due to the processing tax."

He suspects subtle propaganda from the packers. There isn't any processing tax on cattle.

An average of three Americans a day are killed by carbon monoxide gas from automobile exhausts.

HEALTH--DIET ADVICE

Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can not undertake to prescribe for individuals. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

FROM FORTY TO FIFTY

In the average woman, the years from forty to fifty are important to her health. This time of life is marked by the beginning of the degenerative diseases of middle-age such as diabetes, nephritis, high blood pressure or heart disorders. If these chronic diseases are to be prevented, it is necessary that a determined effort should be made to improve the health by using every health-building measure.

Through observance of the rules governing good health, it becomes possible to increase the well-being of the latter part of life and look forward to many more busy, active years. Not only are the degenerative diseases avoided, but the entire period between forty and fifty may be passed without any undue discomfort.

There are a great many women who view these years with needless alarm and anxiety. Instead of possessing accurate information regarding the method of living to be followed, the average woman bases her opinion upon hearsay. She has heard that during these years she will begin to grow old, that she will have less vigor, or that she must take life easy. Sometimes she fears that she will lose her attractiveness, become less alluring and therefore she worries lest she find that it may be hard for her husband's affection. Such notions are ridiculous. By means of a sensible, healthful way of living, she is need to suddenly become old, and while of course, the strenuous activity permitted to a woman of 20 should not be indulged in suddenly, nevertheless, a moderate amount of activity is to be encouraged. Very often, the patient finds that she has much to do to devote to companionship with her husband and their relationship may become more satisfactory in every way.

The big mistake in the past has been that at 40 the average woman at too feel that with middle age she should retire to the shelf. Such a mistaken attitude produces the feeling that the best part of life is over. The actual truth is that between forty and fifty, the best years of child raising are over and the woman is free to devote herself to the home. Her mother is able to go ahead and live her life for herself. She can at least do what she wants to. The multitude of demands upon her time and her energy made in earlier years by small children is over and her time becomes her own. Rather than feel that the door of life is closing, she is entering corner of the door. Behind her she is equipped to face life with the wisdom of maturity. All that has gone before has led her to this. Life should be at its fullest, richest, and best.

Fortunately, during the last few years, we have begun to appreciate the value and worth of the middle years of human life, when an individual reaches full bloom. In fact, a recent magazine article states, "The prime of life belongs to the middle-aged woman."

It has to be note that many woman in the prime of life are nourished by a more wholesome physical and mental activity. I feel that as more women learn to put the emphasis on good health at that particular time of life, that we will see the decades of the forties become better appreciated.

In response to the letters asking for a new article to be helpful to the woman past forty, I have prepared some special material. Will it care for this material and ask for your copy. With letter, send a large self-addressed envelope and 6c in stamps.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Habitual Air Swallowing)

Question: "Puzzled" asks: "What could cause a man to be afraid of belching during the day? I am not a drinker and I am healthy but I do but this continuous belching is a bother."

Answer: Since belching may be due to any one of several different causes, it is hard for me to know the actual cause present in your case. The two main causes of belching are digestive disorders and a spasm of the liver or gall bladder. If the stomach, liver and gall bladder are doing their work normally, the probability is that you have formed the habit of swallowing air. If I could examine you for only a few minutes with the Fluoroscope I could tell you definitely if this is your trouble. If you are an air-swallower the Fluoroscope will show a pocket of air in the top of the stomach produced by belching. I find that the habit is most in cases where the health is good and where the organic causes have not developed, is to let the patient swallow air forced while the Fluoroscope is being used, so that she can see that the cause of her trouble is a habit of swallowing air. The habit can be corrected.

(Tattooing)

Question: Mr. H. G. writes: "Can tattooing be removed without leaving a scar?"

Answer: While several satisfactory methods of removing tattooings are known, there usually remains a slight scar. If you wish more, of course, a great deal depends upon the skill of the operator doing the work. In experienced hands, the removal will be attended by less scarring than would be the case otherwise.

(Eyes Need Care)

Question: J. L. writes: "Lately I notice that I have headaches and my eyes seem to hurt when I look at a bright light. I also notice a dull ache that seems to arise at the back of the eyeballs. When I try to read, the print blurs."

Answer: It is impossible for me to tell you definitely what is wrong, but the symptoms which you describe indicate that you may be in need of glasses, eyestrain being a common cause of the difficulties you mention. Have the eyes tested.

CASTLE OAK

We revive the favored wood of early Connecticut cabinet makers

Down from the 18th century, solid oak had been a popular, easily obtainable cabinetwood for English craftsmen. Naturally when early pioneers first settled our shores they turned to oak for their furniture.

We're reviving this wood . . . castle oak . . . in celebration of Connecticut's Tercentenary. You'll like its rich old worn and scarred finish. Two excellent dining rooms are now on display.

SCHOOL EXHIBIT OPENED TODAY

Displays Depicting Historical Scenes Set Up in Trade School Hall.

The Tercentenary Exhibition prepared by the public schools of Manchester opened today in the auditorium of the local State Trade school and will continue through May 23, depicting historical scenes and episodes in the 300 years since Connecticut was founded. The exhibition is open to the public at the following hours:

Weekdays from 8:30 to 12 noon, 1 to 4:30 and 7 to 9 o'clock; on Saturdays from 9 to 12 noon and 1 to 4 in the afternoon. The exhibition is one of the most unusual ever presented by the local schools and represents months of painstaking effort on the part of the students and teachers. It seems almost incredible that so much work has actually been done on this project and it will be to the advantage of the townspeople to inspect the exhibit during the next two weeks.

There will be presented historical scenes, in the form of tableaux, depicting the following:

Indian life in Connecticut; Adventure in Wilderness; Colonial Life; Revolutionary Period; Industrial Revolution; Civil War; Modern Connecticut.

Also a pageant in three parts, showing the growth of Manchester from the Indian days to the present time. The pageant will be presented on Friday, May 23, at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Following is a complete program of the pageant:

Part I—Indian Life in Manchester.

Indian Dance—Indian Girls.

Indian Lore—Mr. Fred Wilson.

TRADE SCHOOL NINE TROUNCES STAFFORD HIGH AGAIN

Ragged Fielding Brings Locals 15 to 5 Victory

Visitors Commit 12 Errors as Mechanics Gain 4th Win in Six Starts; Cook and Rolston Star; Meet High Team Monday.

Manchester Trade chalked up an easy victory at Mt. Nebo yesterday afternoon at the expense of Stafford High, twelve fielding errors by the visitors helping the local Mechanics to their fourth win in six starts by a score of 15 to 5. In the previous game on Stafford soil the home team displayed a far better brand of baseball and the Traders were lucky to romp off with a 6 to 3 verdict by scoring three runs in the final inning.

Due to the ragged fielding that marked their play in yesterday's clash, any advantage Stafford may have had in the pitching department was swiftly thrown away. In marked contrast was the work of the Trade school's infield, fast and accurate fielding for two lightning double plays. On several occasions, advancing base runners were cut down by these rifle like pegs, which really featured the rather one-sided game.

Cook and Rolston were responsible for most of the Mechanics' runs, collecting three hits apiece with the sacks occupied on each occasion. Manchester tallied twice in the first, four times in the third, three in the fourth, three in the fifth, one in the sixth and two in the seventh.

The mound work for the locals was shared by Quartus, Cook and Gvensky, neither one of whom were forced to bear down at any stage of the contest. Panciera and Champagne were outstanding with the yellow for Stafford.

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Traders oppose Manchester High at Mt. Nebo field in what promises to be a bang-up tussle. Last season the Mechanics belted out a 23 to 17 triumph in the best meeting and then dropped the second by 15 to 4.

NELLIE FLAG HOT TIP TO WIN THE PREAKNESS

Baltimore, May 10.—(10)— Once again the racing clans are gathering the time at historic Pimlico for the 47th running of the Preakness.

Unlike a week at Churchill Downs when a strapping filly, Nellie Flag was the "hot tip" on every corner, they are lauding Omaha, the stretch running son of Gallant Fox, William Woodward's Belair Stud, which showed a muddy pair of heels to the turf's greatest in the Kentucky Derby.

Barring an unfavorable turn in the weather, some 30,000 fans are expected to pack the rambling old old top course on the outskirts of this city for the $25,000 three-year-old stakes, first won by the horse from which the race got its name. Vice President John Nance Garner and Speaker of the House Joseph W. Byrnes are expected to lead the large delegation of government officials from the nation's capital while Harry W. Nice will view his first Preakness as governor of the state of Maryland.

FAVOR LOU AMBERS TO TOP CANZONERI

Herkimer Hurricane Is the Choice for Lightweight Crown in Tonight's Go.

New York, May 10.—(AP)—A new lightweight boxing champion will be crowned tonight when the veteran Tony Canzoneri, a former wearer of the crown and youthful Lou Ambers meet at 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden.

They will battle for the throne abdicated by Chicago's Barney Ross, who announced some time ago he no longer could make the weight limit of 135 pounds. Advance sale of tickets indicates the fight will attract close to 19,000 capacity, with the receipts about $50,000.

Ambers rules the betting odds choice at 9 to 5. The Herkimer, N. Y., hurricane's punch, sturdiness are popularly figured too strong for Canzoneri to break down the walls of tradition and become the first lightweight title-holder ever to regain his crown.

Against so young and aggressive an opponent, Canzoneri with 122 fights behind him and winner of the title in 1930, when he knocked out Al Singer, must get his man early, as the gentle fraternity says it "Get Git" himself.

Foster Features As High Golfers Blank Middletown

Manchester High's linksmen began defense of their C.C.I.L. championship at the Sun Country Club yesterday afternoon by making a clean sweep of their match with Middletown High to triumph by a score of 18 to 0. Outstanding in the impressive outcome was Thurston Foster, son of J. R. Foster, grounds keeper of the Manchester course, who turned in the best score of his golfing career when he shot an 81.

Captain Danny Civiello trimmed William Benson by five and four, scoring an 84 to his opponent's 86. William Weir's 85 defeated Michael Gorman, who had a 96, four and three. Civiello and Weir paired to whip Benson and Gorman by six and four. Foster low gross of 81 swamped Bill Frauline, who had a 97, seven and six. Francis Reardon shot an 89 to beat Thomas Westerberg by five and four, the latter having a 98. Foster and Reardon then paired up to turn back Frauline and Westerberg, six and one. The locals took three points in each of the six matches.

It was the second victory in as many starts for the Red and White team, which will make its second League start tomorrow against Meriden High here in a match that was postponed from last week because of rain. Two other postponed matches with West Hartford and Rockville have not been arranged for play as yet.

Jennings Sees 4-Minute Mile, 9-Second Century

Noted Coach Also Looks for 15-Foot Pole Vault, 7 Foot, 2 Inch High Jump; No Limit Can Be Set On Feats of the Future.

BY CONRAD M. JENNINGS
Marquette Track Coach.

I believe that the four-minute mile, 15-foot pole vault, and 9-second 100-yard dash will be achieved one of these days—and sooner than many of us expect.

Considerable has been said of the ultimate of human effort in track and field performances. Brutus Hamilton, formerly of Kansas University, now of California, has presented figures which tend to show how far, how high and how fast the human athlete contests.

My criticism of these figures — and Hamilton's too, I imagine — is that they are based to some extent on records which will today. Performances of 10, 20 and 40 years ago in their respective days were thought to be exceptional, and sportsmen in those eras probably never dreamed of some of the records of which we boast now.

Mechanics of coaching are constantly improving and trackmen are annually turning out in larger numbers, two good reasons why unbelievable achievements are possible in the future.

The greatest obstacle is the physiological makeup of man. Lactic acid fills the system as physical energy is spent. When this poison becomes greater than the fuel which feeds the body, the athlete can go no farther. He must rest.

Mile Mark Whittled Down.

Back in the 'eighties, W. George, of England, ran a mile in 4 minutes, 12 3-4 seconds. It was not until 1915 that Norman Tabor was timed in 4:12.6. Eight years later, the great Nurmi set a mark of 4:10.4, and we thought surely that was to be an all-time mark.

But in more recent years they have been Jules Ladoumegue, of France, with 4:09.2, Bill Bonthron, of Princeton, with 4:08.7, Jack Lovelock, of Oxford, with 4:07.6 and, finally, Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, with 4:06.7.

Bill Hargiss, Cunningham's coach, installed in his man the Nurmi philosophy of even quarters, as evidenced by his 62-second first, 62-second and 59-7-second laps as he set the record.

I can't say that I believe there will be a four-minute mile in our time, but I feel certain that someone, under ideal physical, weather and track conditions, will approximate the mark sooner than we expect.

How about the 15-foot pole vault? It's here!

In the 'seventies, a vault of more than 10 feet was considered remarkable. With the advent of the bamboo pole and a better technique, the records went soaring and the official mark today, held by Bill Graber, of Southern California, is 14 feet, 4 3-8 inches. Bill recently turned in 14 feet 5 5-8 inches in a meet at Santa Barbara.

Now come whispers from California that Rod Deacon of Stanford, is clearing 15 feet in practice.

The prime requisites for a vaulting remainder, are speed, spring, acrobatic ability and co-ordination; a combination of these facilities should find a new ceiling.

Factors in 9-Second Century

Give me a sprinter with the start of a Yoshioka of Japan, the pickup and power of a Metcalfe, and the finish of a Paddock, and then, I think, you will have your 9-second 100-yard dash.

We caught Metcalfe unofficially in 9.3 seconds several times, and that only his start prevented him from cutting the other three-tenths of that mark.

Similarly in other events, I feel that only time and not charts will tell of the ultimate in human effort.

Just now 27 feet seems to be the ultimate in the broad jump, Archie L. W. St. John, athletic director at Wichita, predicts that Jesse Owens, the dusky flash, will achieve it before his collegiate career is ended.

Cornelius Johnson, the Negro high jumper from Compton, Calif., Junior College, believes the maximum in his event is 7 feet 2 inches, but that someone taller than himself will have to do that height.

So it is—while we're talking about a 4-minute mile and a 9-second century as the ultimate performances in this day and age, 50 years from now those standards may seem comparatively slow to that generation.

As coaching and candidates' condition improve, so will the records in the different events.

Mayor Took to Pitch First Ball With Treasurer Waddell Behind the Plate and Selectman Pero Calling It As He Sees It.

When the Bluefields play the Philadelphia Colored Giants at Mt. Nebo Sunday afternoon in the opening game of the season for the town baseball champs, three town officials of Manchester will participate in a brief ceremony at the start of hostilities at 3 o'clock. It was announced today by Manager Prosper Desrivieres, that Mayor Cheney will toe the slab and pitch the first ball, with Treasurer George H. Waddell on the receiving end and Selectman Joseph Pero calling the pitch as he sees it.

At last night's practice, the Bluefields displayed a wealth of pep and speed and ability and they'll need all three against a team of the calibre of the Philly Colored Giants, former holders of the world's colored championship and rated as one of the leading road attractions in the game today.

The town champs' infield will consist of Eddie Raguskus at first, Chucky Smith at second, Al Rogers at short and Andy Raguskus at third. The quartet went through a strenuous workout last night and Manager Desrivieres expressed the belief that this combination will shine and possibly better than any in the state.

Director Frank Busch of the Recreation Centers has promised to have Mt. Nebo in first class shape for Sunday's game. Bleachers from the West Side diamond have been removed to the Mount and there will be adequate seating facilities for the huge crowd of fans expected to witness this stellar opening attraction.

Local Sport Chatter

It is our expert opinion (what we can hear our readers exclaim, didn't the Kentucky Derby teach that guy anything) that the town opening ball games will clinch the Central Connecticut Baseball League title race for 1935. And if the present mad scramble continues it won't be surprising to find five victories enough to take the bunting.

If Manchester comes through practice tonight and tomorrow we believe that Rose raise was all a mistake. Bleachers will be the players after the session. In case of rain, the uniforms will be distributed at the home of Tony Kaminski on Oakland street.

The Bluefields baseball team will meet at the clubhouse tonight for the purpose of electing a captain for the coming season, which will be opened Sunday at Mt. Nebo against the Philadelphia Colored Giants.

The Y. M. C. A. baseball diamond is in great demand and Dave Hamill, in requests that teams wishing to use the diamond obtain permission from the Y office, or the Rec. Monday ball games are not permitted on the Y field.

Moriarty Brothers baseball team will practice at Mt. Nebo field tonight at 6 o'clock. The filling station representatives had a stiff workout Wednesday evening at the Charter Oak street diamond and officials of the team are well pleased with the material they have turned out for the team. Manager McPhett is making an earnest effort to book a game for Sunday, May 19.

Baer Is Accidently "Shot" With a Blank Cartridge

Asbury Park, N. J., May 10.—(AP) — Heavyweight Champion Max Baer had a powder burn on his chest today and some very disrelated ideas about persons who play with firearms as a result of a studio accident.

Baer, who hurt while rehearsing a radio skit yesterday, Jerry Cadkin, attached to his camp, was watching. There was some talk of sound effects.

Cassie decided the sound of the revolver shot, heard over the air, wasn't loud enough. He loaded a revolver with blank cartridges, accidentally pulled the trigger and the gun went off, injuring Baer superficially.

"But they can't keep a good man down," the champion said when it was all over, and he had received an injection of tetanus anti-toxin.

"I'ed be back at work, but I'll be back in a day or two getting in shape for my fight with Braddock."

"That guy Braddock" is James J. Braddock, contender for the heavyweight crown. They are scheduled to meet June 13 in the Madison Square Garden bowl in Long Island City, unless complications set in—and Dr. Silverstein thinks that unlikely.

"I never did like guns. I'm afraid of them," Baer said.

Also Peg le Gentra, who plays in the radio skit with Baer, was burned on the face.

"I scared Jerry almost to death," Baer said. "He came up here after I got out of the hospital and I told him I'd see him hang for him. He won't play with any guns for a long, long time."

Baer called his mother in California after the accident to assure her he was all right.

One-Eyed Colt To Compete In Hambletonian Classic

Goshen, N. Y., May 10.—(Special)—An exclusive young trotting Miss in the handsome person of Tillie Tonka, now rounding into top form at Lexington, Ky., boasts the distinction of being the only one of 33 colts eligible to this year's $40,000 Hambletonian stakes which has as a sire a former victor in the person of the harness turf.

Tillie Tonka, fleet-footed daughter of Spencer, winner of the Hambletonian in 1928, is owned by Mr. C. W. Phellis, New York, while the famous sire, in the stud at Castleton, near Lexington, Ky., is owned by David M. Look, son of New York. Whether Tillie Tonka can strut the brand of stuff which her daddy did seven years ago when she goes to the post August 14 at Good Time Park here, is still in the lap of the Gods, but Fred Egan, her trainer, reports she is rapidly responding to demands for faster stepping.

But if Tillie Tonka's she's exclusive, she has not heard of Volo Arion, a rival colt in the harness horse derby. Owned by William Stubley, Newburgh, N. Y., and now under training here by Leo Petach, Volo Arion may prove to be a gate-crashing conceived Cinderella of the Hambletonian. Equipped with only one good optic, this colt sired by Peter Volo, as he can others in the big race, can see enough, Fleisch maintains, to prove a dangerous threat.

"Blink," as the half-seeing equine is styled, is blind in the left eye, which won't prevent his seeing any competition sneaking up to the starboard. Opinion is divided as to "Blink's" chances, but he stands at 10 to 1 just now if anyone's palm is itching.

Among other Hambletonian Stake hopefuls in training here are Prince John, The Ritz and Guardsmen, all under the watchful eye of Walter Cox; and Black Helmet and Peter Tipton, being trained by Will Hodson.

DETAILS OF BABE RUTH DEAL TOLD

Situation Created Hard Feelings in Two Leagues, Particularly in Brooklyn.

New York, May 10.—(AP) — The deal which sent the feud between the National and American Leagues where by the Boston Braves acquired Babe Ruth are beginning to leak out, and here and there lurks considerable hard feelings, particularly in Brooklyn.

It seems that when the matter of placing Ruth for 1935 became a question of national, almost international importance, the club owners got together and talked the situation over.

The Yankees didn't want Ruth any longer, but they had to have a right-hand pitcher. No one in the American League wanted to sell or trade them the kind of hurler they wanted. Boston and the National League wanted Ruth, and there were pitchers in the League that clubs wouldn't sell or trade to each other but didn't mind sending to the Yankees, in the American League, where the pitcher wouldn't be doing up to among them by winning ball games away from them.

So the Yankees agreed to pay $15,000 for a National League pitcher and the National League clubs owners prepared a list from which the Yankees could choose. In return for this the Yanks gave Ruth his unconditional release and along went the Babe to Boston.

The list turned over to Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, contained the name of Big Ted Malone, one of Joe's favorites when he was piloting the Chicago Cubs to a pennant in 1929.

"There's my man," he said.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

ZOE PARKER sat at the breakfast table in the new pseudo-colonial house her parents had built on the very tip-end of Elmicod Beach. A wall built of blue stucco and studded at intervals with cream-colored fibre bounded their grounds. There was a yacht landing and a pier, and several small boats floated anchor at the foot of the steps. Zoe, wearing white tennis shorts and a white blouse which made her look like a very small girl, was peeling an orange juice from a glass decorated with lilies of the valley. The glass stood in the center of a bowl of the same delicate make. There was sheer linen mats, the texture of cobwebs, on the dark oak table, and maid who served Zoe was in pale yellow, with a musical comedy aprons. Everything in her room last season, Bucky was listed as a spare catcher this spring. He had pitched as a sand lotter, however and begged so hard for another trial that Manager Jimmy Wilson gave it to him and found he had another starting pitcher on his hands.

Walters made his second start yesterday, allowed the Cards only three singles and a double and handed out five walks. The only Cardinal run was unearned, coming in George Watkins' fumble of Virgil Davis' two-bagger. To top off the performance, Bucky scored the winning run himself off Bill Walker, stellar St. Louis southpaw. Mickey Haslin singled him home in the ninth.

Wildness Is Factor

Blanton's wildness was the principal cause of his downfall as he rang up six strike outs for a season's total of 56. But two of his five passes led to the first run and an error and two blows brought the other pair. His rival screwball hurler, Hubbell, lost a shutout through Arky Vaughan's sixth home run of the year.

Brooklyn remained in second place two games behind the Giants with a 5-4 "gift" victory over the Reds. two runs were forced in by walks and two more scored on an error in the third inning which produced all five runs. With Tex Carlton pitching a neat five hit game, the third place Cubs slammed out a 5 to 1 victory over the Braves in a game marked by Rabbit Maranville's first league appearance since 1933.

Indians Take Lead

Cleveland Indians sailed back into the American League lead trimming the Yankees 5 to 0 in a contest marred by five innings by rain. The Red Sox finally broke the "charm" the home park has held for them, knocking down the pale-hose 10 to 1 behind Wes Ferrell.

Rogers Hornsby's Braves moved up into a virtual tie with the seventh place Athletics by taking a 4 to 2 decision on Dick Coffman's six hit flinging. A three run burst in the fifth, abetted by Wally Moses proved decisive.

The Washington-Detroit game was rained out.

Sport Briefs

Notre Dame has won 26 straight dual meet golf victories since 1932, taking the first seven this season.

Edward T. Kennedy has been swimming and water polo coach at Columbia university for 25 years.

Sherman Finger, track coach at the University of Minnesota, has been given a sabbatical leave of absence for one school year that he may study physical education methods in Europe.

TENNIS STAR INJURED

New York, May 10—(AP) —Vincent Richards, professional tennis player and former United States amateur champion, was injured early today when his automobile crashed into an electric light pole.

Dazed he was taken to a hospital in the Bronx, where it was said he had suffered a fracture of the right thigh and cuts on the head.

Richards, 32, lives in suburban Bronxville.

"Who's coming?"

"Oh, the Strykhursts and the Julies, and Captain Weir, and his fiancee. Two or three other people I forgot—your father has the list."

"Do I show up?"

"You certainly do!" Mrs. Parker made her eyes very round. She was a young, well-preserved woman with a nice color and cheerful blue eyes behind nose glasses. You could see that she, too, had been a pretty girl; like Zoe, with all Zoe's animation and verve.

"Dad is having Mr. Cotaine from the office—very nice Englishman, rubber expert, to take you in," Mrs. Parker went on. "Son of a lord, Dad says."

Zoe made a not altogether complimentary sound with her pretty lips.

"Naughty girl," coed Mrs. Parker. "What else did you have in mind?"

"There's a dance at the cmb," Zoe pouted. "Frank Corliss was coming out for me."

"The Princeton boy?" Mrs. Parker frowned inwardly, hating the deception but not being able to do much about it. She knew very well her mother had welcomed this handsome, sophomoric Corliss as an anicdote to Gibbs. Might as well make Mother happy by kidding her along....

"I'm very sorry," she said.

"Well," pondered Lisa Parker happily, "Dad can arrange that. We'll all go over to the club later, then. Wouldn't you like to ask Frank to dinner, Darling? I'm sure you can kidnap Strykhurst. That will make the table just right...."

"No, don't," Zoe said hastily.

"He's dining with some people from Boston. Mrs. Winnemore Williss—something like that. He just said he'd see me there." He wouldn't do to get Mother too excited about Frank Corliss. She'd be having them engaged before you knew it. Engagements were Mother's meat. She adored them — that is, if the man was suitably young and rich and decentbooking. She would never, never have consented to an engagement between Zoe and Gibbs....

"No," admitted Zoe to herself, "that he ever asked he....."

"Katharine is busy,anyhow," she amended hastily. "There's some boy friend or at any rate beau in New York now. He's coming out for the Prom."

"Oh, very well, then. It's all settled," Mrs. Parker was "perfectly happy to be agreeable." Anything to be going unusually well. Zoe appeared to be contented; her trip had been a success.

Zoe ran out of the house and around to the garage. Waters was polishing the car in which her father drove to town every morning. "My car at once, please."

The little chauffeur came around to the side of Zoe's roadster. "It was the parking lever stiffness, miss. I fixed it."

"Thanks." She climbed in with a flash of brown legs. Good thing Mother didn't see her start off in shorts. Mother was old-fashioned that, buying her clothes and groceries. Zoe wondering what fun it was to shop.

Katharine wasn't in, the maid at the Strykhursts said. She would be back from riding club in an hour.

"Riding every day, hm?" Zoe muttered, backing the little car and wheeling it about. "I wonder Strykhurst did everything that way, violently and intensively. She had gone to art school devotedly several seasons, but nothing had come of it except a few rather clever black and white sketches which appeared in Katharine's big, old-fashioned dressing room. Katharine hated being a rich man's daughter, she often said. She envied girls who worked, the newsgirls she saw leaping and bounding in the numbers of a musical comedy or night club; the newspaper girls who covered the golf tournaments. "We're just too stupid to earn our own livings, that's it," she often said miserably. Katharine couldn't, it was tried . . ."

Zoe drove into the door yard of the riding school. It was the old Rogers farm: this new man, however he was, rented it from Dan Rogers. There was nobody about but an elderly colored man who said Miss Strykhurst was due back any minute.

Zoe shut off the engine and waited. It was very quiet here, a few chickens fluffed about in the yard, and occasionally a horse in quiring head, with its big, mild eyes would appear over the open door of the stall. There was a faint sound of switching and stamping. As flies tormented the beasts inside.

Zoe closed her eyes. Sometimes, at moments like this, she thought it would be nice if she could get over Gibbs — get over wanting the queer excitement his presence, always brought her. Maybe she could go away to some place simple and quiet, and forget him. But she had a feeling, deep down, that there were rough roads ahead of her. But she had fallen in love with Gibbs

She didn't know what to do about it. Europe had been a dead without him. Other men were just shadows.

She hadn't slept well last night. Maybe that was why she dropped off into slumber as she waited for Katharine. That was why she didn't know the horses and their owners had returned. Her car was drawn up alongside the dirt road, in the shadows of a drooping willow. Katharine didn't see her, either, for quite a little time. She was talking to the tall young man who dismounted from the big, nervous horse with two white star on his forehead. Zoe, awaiting, stared at the handsome pair.

Why, whatever was the matter with Katharine? She had never seen her look that way — never before in all her life. Katharine was pale, but her eyes glittered as though she had an inward fever. She laughed vaguely and stripped off her gloves and put them on again, without seeming to know exactly what she was doing.

The young man was talking to her quietly, it seemed the most casual sort of conversation. Good-looking chap, Zoe told herself. He must be the young westerner who runs the place. But Katharine had never been interested in any man before. She (Zoe) couldn't be imagining things.

Presently Katharine saw Zoe waiting for her. She flushed deeply, painfully, and said something to the young man as she gave him a high wooden platform, dieted on special dairy feed, dried pulp and hay, and received artificial sunshine.

WALL ST. BRIEFS

New York, May 10.—Demand for wool goods, says the weekly summary of the Wool Top Exchange, was moderately active last week and writing of large orders for fall goods backlogs of orders for fall goods. Sales of clothing at retail continue fairly heavy in many localities, according to the report.

Hudson Motor Car Co., announced that retail sales of Hudson and Terraplane units totaled 9,535 in April, a record for any month since April, 1931, which was the peak month for that year.

BULL, 17 MONTHS OLD NEVER SAW A PASTURE

Washington, May 10.—(AP) —Born at sea enroute to Little America, "Klondike Iceberg" will see a green pasture for the first time in his bovine life this week.

"Klondike," a 17-months old Guernsey bull, is aboard the Byrd expedition's ship Jacob Ruppert at Quantico, Va. Born 150 miles north of Little America he survived two antarctic winters.

Klondike lived a strange life in the frozen wastes. Wrapped in blankets, he lived on a high wooden platform, dieted on special dairy feed, dried pulp and hay, and received artificial sunshine.

SPECIAL EXPOSITION STAMP IS ISSUED

Post Office Here to Have Them After May 31— May Get Cancellations May 29.

A special postage stamp of the 3-cent denomination commemorating the California International Population which opens at San Diego on May 29 will be on sale at the Philatelic Agency and at post offices throughout the country after May 31, according to a bulletin received at the local post office today.

The central subject of the new stamp is a view of the Exposition grounds with Point Loma and San Diego Bay. Inscriptions read, "1935—San Diego —1935."

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations on May 29 may send not more than 10 addressed covers to the postmaster at San Diego. The order must be accompanied by cash or money order and not by personal check.

McCARTHY BETTER

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, convalescing from an attack of influenza, is showing much marked improvement, that he is expected to be able to rejoin the Yankees when they return to New York Friday from their first western invasion, Mrs. McCarthy announced today.

BARGAIN HOUND

Property owners in Dover, Del., proud of their gardens, cultivate community good will and spread the gardening gospel by keeping their plots open for tourist inspection. How this novel plan works will be told by Mary Margaret McBride in a special illustrated article in the Herald soon.

Have your shoes properly rebuilt at the State Shoe Repairing Shop.

This is the time to get your home ready for summer. Put away winter rugs and draperies and in their places substitute washable scatter rugs and plain glass curtains. At Venetian blinds.

Lazy pictures with heavy frames should come down too. Small floral prints—just a few—may be hung instead.

Store all your extra vases, than the statuary and the like in boxes. The fewer gadgets you have out during the hot months the more comfortable your home will be.

Go to Garmon's for native asparagus. They have it for 25c a bunch. Try their fresh mint at 15c a bunch.

Here are some neat, and fruit combinations: Ham and pineapple. Frenched pork tenderloins with apricots, lamb chops with orange slices, roast beef with browned pears, veal and raisin loaf with bananas, ham burger steak with broiled bananas, beef roll with apricots and beef and raisin loaf. Filet of fish with pineapple sauce is even more unusual and good, too.

A box of candy from Magnell's will make a lovely gift for mother on Sunday. The prices run from 50c to $3.50.

Cotton, silk or rayon lace is widely used, not only for evening and dinner dresses, but for sports togs and tailored daytime suits. One especially nice street ensemble, shown at New York's Lace Ball, included a gored skirt of starched white lace in wide mesh, buttoned down-the-front jacket to match and a bright red lace Ascot of the same fabric.

It is such a pleasant feeling to be remembered! Think how delighted mother will be when you give her a box of fresh and delicious chocolates from the Princess Candy Shop. Some boxes are as low as 25c.

Don't fail to attend the refrigerator show this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Center show rooms. This display sponsored by the Manchester Electric Co. and the electric refrigerator dealers of Manchester will be under the direction of Mrs. Marion Rowe, well known Home Economist. Two models of each refrigerator sold in town will be on display and Mrs. Rowe will gladly give any information concerning the refrigerators desired.

The Weldon Drug has some attractively wrapped boxes of Mother's Day candy from 25c up.

Say good-bye to those jaunty little taffeta and velvet evening jackets that, with their bright colors and racy lines, added so much to comfort and gayety of formal summer functions, last year. We're going to be a long season for the girls who go in for evening clothes in a big way.

Reviving long wraps the haut couturier has achieved effects that are not only picturesque and luxurious but bespeaking the formality of the occasions for which they are to be worn.

There are sumptuous summer velvets in rich shades of red, brown and blue; equally luxurious moires in pastel colors; brocades redolent of the East and rustling, flowered taffetas reminiscent of 18th century beauties. Strangely enough, thanks to the efforts of textile manufacturers who have been able to combine lightness with richness of effect, they all look cool and fresh, despite the fact that many of these fabrics generally have been set aside for winter wear.

Fragrant, delicate, colorful, flowers are the ideal gift for Mother's Day and if you want to be certain of their lasting freshness you will select them at the Park Hill Flower Shop. Some of the flowers and plants that make beautiful gifts are Hardy Azalea in bloom, Hydrangea plants, blooming Rose bushes, Easter Lilly lilies, Fuchsia, Geranium, combinations of blooming plants and Bleeding Hearts. All the flowers at the Park Hill are reasonably priced. Don't forget to remember for Sunday.

STATE EDUCATOR KIWANIAN GUEST

Robert Deming to Be Speaker at Meeting at Noon Next Monday.

Robert Deming of the State Board of Education will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Manchester Kiwanis club Monday at 12:15 at the Country Club. His subject will be "Connecticut's Tercentenary Observance." He is an excellent speaker and well versed on his subject. He has been invited to address gathers of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Educational club in town already this spring on the state's three hundredth anniversary. The prize will be furnished by Principal Thomas Bentley of the North End schools.

BOLTON LAKE IDEAL FOR SUMMER HOME

Edward J. Holl Pioneer in Developing Shore Property for Cottage Purposes.

Had Horace Greeley lived in our day he would probably have advised East instead of West as the place to go for happiness and success—especially from a health standpoint. Few people realize the charm of the nearby Town of Bolton from a residential standpoint—either for summer or all around the year purposes, and since the inception of the automobile and the good roads which now prevail it is remarkable that this virgin territory which lies at our door should still be undiscovered. However, there are a few people in this vicinity who have made this discovery and have located summer or all around the year homes in this area.

One of the pioneers in this movement is Edward J. Holl who more than twenty years ago purchased the so-called Daniels Farm on the eastern shore of Bolton lake. This farm had been closely held in the Daniels family for nearly 100 years—and as a fact—was bought by Waite Daniels from one Carver in 1824. During their ownership—to be precise about 1854, about 375 acres of abutting land was purchased by two former residents, Aaron Cook, Jr., and Olin R. Fitch, acting for a syndicate who eventually turned this area into a lake which now extends from the old Boston Turnpike Road Northerly for about three miles into the Town of Vernon. This lake is known as Bolton Lake and many prominent families from Manchester, Hartford and nearby cities have located summer residences nearby. Along the western shores are many summer dottages and among the larger homes are those of Frederick Beding, formerly of the City Coal Company of Hartford, Charles B. Cook, president of the Royal Typewriter Co., Alexander Bunce, Dr. Douglas J. Roberts and Dr. C. C. Beach and Goodwin Beach's son.

On the eastern shores are camps of Edward R. Grier of the Arrow, Hart-Hegeman Company, Leon Roundhurst of the Phoenix Bank of Hartford and many others.

Through additional purchases made since the original purchase, Mr. Holl through the Holl Investment Company controls more that two miles of frontage along the eastern shore of this lake and has been busily engaged during the last two years cutting roads through the century old timber land so as to get easy access to the lake frontage.

Most people in this vicinity will be surprised when visiting this property which can be reached by taking the first left road, when going from Manchester toward Coventry after passing the Bellknap church. The distance from Manchester Center is six miles, or ten minutes by auto. Here you will find a good gravel road winding along Lake front with hundreds of lots laid out for your inspection. The area is covered with magnificent, century old trees, elevation about 800 feet and will doubtedly develop into one of the favored summer resorts for this and other nearby cities.

Our word "sincere" is derived from two Latin words meaning "without wax."

DAN HICKEY TO BE YOUNG G. O. P. GUEST

Majority Leader in House to Be Speaker at Banquet Here On May 27.

Daniel F. B. Hickey, Stamford attorney, majority floor leader of the House of Representatives, House chairman of the judiciary committee and chairman of the House rules committee, will be one of the speakers at the banquet of the Young Republican club in the Masonic Temple, Monday night, May 27.

Dinner at 6:30 p. m. will be followed by a speaking and entertainment program and dancing. Clifs Knight of Hartford, rapid-fire sketch artist and ventriloquist, will have a place on the program. Invitations are being made for other speakers, including one nationally known.

Mr. Hickey has been for several years a prominent member of the Republican Party in the state. Although this is his first session in the legislature, Mr. Hickey has been a familiar figure at other sessions and at state conventions.

GOES TO NEW ORLEANS AS DELEGATE TONIGHT

W. R. Campbell to Represent New Haven Railroad Clerks at Sessions.

William R. Campbell with Mrs. Campbell are leaving Manchester this evening for New Orleans, where Mr. Campbell goes as a delegate of the Brotherhood of Railroad Clerks, representing the New Haven employees. They are due to arrive at the convention city on Sunday and the sessions will last a week. At the close of the convention Mr. and Mrs. Campbell instead of returning to Manchester, will go on to Texas where they will visit friends and will next go to New Mexico. They will continue on to California and expect to be absent from Manchester for a period of four or five weeks.

GOVERNMENT AGENT MURDERS HIS WIFE

He Had Been Drinking and Kills Her When She Pleads With Him.

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Angered when his wife pleaded with him not to stay out so late, Edward J. Murphy, 39, an investigator for the alcoholic tax unit of the Treasury Department, shot and killed her today, police said, when he returned to their Bronx home, 4333 Keppler avenue, from an all-night testimonial dinner for a neighbor.

Murphy, immediately after the shooting, telephoned Bronx police headquarters, according to Detective Gilhooley, and told them to come for him as he had shot his wife.

Detectives found him bathing his wife's head and mumbling:

"Mummie, Mummie, wake you up—"

Police said that Murphy told them that when he returned home at 6 o'clock his wife opened the door for him and started pleading with him not to stay out so late. An argument ensued and Murphy, whom police said had been drinking, became angry and fired at his wife.

Murphy was locked up at the Wakefield police station on a charge of homicide. The couple had three children.

COME AGAIN!

New Bedford, Mass.—A burglar visited the home of Mrs. Olivia Mendonca but she didn't mind in the least.

She entered her rear door just in time to frighten away an intruder who escaped through a front door. She took inventory. A $2 bill was missing from a bureau drawer, but on the kitchen floor was $5 the thief had dropped in his haste to depart.

EASE FOR TRAPEZE

Harrisburg, Pa.—Daring young men could perform on flying trapezes or cut-up any other high jinks in public without thought of the law, if Senator Peter Graff, Third, has his way.

Graff introduced a bill to repeal the act of 1883, which prohibits "the exhibition of any feat of dexterity of performers or exhibitors in places of public amusement."

WINS $1,100; GIVES HIS FRIENDS PARTY

Summit Street Man Has Streak of Luck Right After Losing His Job.

Winning $1,100 by hitting the five numbers on a treasury balance ticket about the same time that he lost his job as a meat cutter at the Atlantic & Pacific market, Main and Park streets, J. Henry Patnaude, of 177 Summit street last night celebrated his phenomenal luck by treating a dozen of his friends to a chicken and ravioli dinner.

The meal was prepared at the house of Charles N. Raccagni, of 74 Cottage street, by Charlie himself and all who partook of it agreed that he is a culinary masterpiece. Frank Rocco did the serving.

Although Mr. Patnaude at first confided at reports that Dame Fortune had smiled so dazzlingly upon him, he finally had to admit his splendid luck to his friends. The windfall was particularly welcome, too, because he lost his work with the A & P A few days ago, however, he obtained work as a brush salesman.

Among those who attended were, Chairman Aaron Cook of the Board of Selectmen, Mr. Patnaude, Mr. Raccagni, Mr. D'Amico, William Falcone, Robert McLoughlin, James Maher, William Brown, Peter Wind, Fred Johnson, Cecil England and Roy Norris.

Organization Meeting of Workers to Be Held in Masonic Temple.

The organization meeting of the Manchester Memorial hospital campaign of 1935 will be held this evening at a luncheon meeting to be given the workers by individual members of the Board of Trustees and a local business man in Masonic Temple. The corps of workers will be instructed in their relative to the canvass of Manchester and vicinity for $15,000 in sustaining funds for the hospital. The luncheon will be served at 6:30 p. m. sharp.

Elmer Woden, general chairman of the campaign committee urges all workers to be present on time this evening in order to expedite the organization work. Charles W. Hotman, president of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Corporation, will speak, and movies of the Manchester hospital will be shown by Dr. D. C. Y. Moore.

BANK BILL PASSED BY HOUSE 271-110

Leaders predicted there would be no action on the bill in the Senate for several weeks, but they foresaw a bitter controversy immediately before the Glass sub-committee.

Republicans Fail

House Republicans tried unsuccessfully to eliminate sections of the bill which would extend Presidential control over the Federal reserve board, extend reserve board control over reserve banks, allow the reserve board to tell the 12 Federal reserve banks when to buy or sell government securities and permit the reserve board to vary the reserve member banks must maintain against deposits to "prevent injurious credit expansion or contraction."

The House voted to eliminate a provision of existing law requiring that all state banks must belong to the Federal Reserve system by July 1, 1937, in order to get Federal deposit insurance. Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Deposit Insurance Corporation, and other high officials approved this requirement. It was opposed, however, by Chairman Steagall (D., Ala.) of the House Banking committee, who long has contended that forcing state banks into the Federal reserve would bring them under the domination of larger institutions.

Glass' Position

On the other hand, Senator Glass has long contended that the state banks should be brought into the Federal reserve system.

As passed by the House the bill would make permanent the present law providing for insurance of deposits up to $5,000 each.

It would change the assessment banks must pay, in order to obtain deposit insurance, from one-fourth of one per cent on insured deposits to one-eighth of one per cent on all deposits. Advocates of this change said it would benefit small banks.

The bill also would abolish, effective July 1, 1937, the present authority for assessing stockholders of National banks twice the amount of their stock.

National banks, under regulations prescribed by the reserve board, would be permitted to make loans of up to 60 per cent of the appraised value of real estate.

The bill would direct the reserve board to use all its powers "to promote conditions conducive to business stability."

Approximately 2,000 acres of farm land in Tagua county, Oklahoma, has been contracted for terracing projects.

ABOUT TOWN

Men at work stringing new wires crossed a fire alarm wire just after a o'clock yesterday afternoon resulting in the bell at the Center sounding one strokes. This caused many who were on Main street to count the rings. But none came for about two minutes. Then it rang twice—It did not sound again, however.

A meeting of the Holy Name Society of St. Bridget's church will be held in the church hall this evening at 8 o'clock. President Robert Coleman announces that there are several matters of importance for the meeting to consider.

The regular monthly meeting and summer drill of Company No. 1 of the Manchester fire department will be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Following the drill and the meeting there will be refreshments served under the direction of Lawrence Noonan, the company steward.

The ending of the truck drivers' strike has shown its effect on the amount of express matter now coming into the Manchester station. The load this morning has about the normal incoming express.

A large delegation of members of Sumset Council, Degree of Pocahontas, will attend the dinner and rally at Odd Fellows hall, 420 Main street, Hartford, Saturday, May 18.

TWO DESPERADOES ARE ELECTROCUTED

Hamilton Dies Meekly in Contrast to His Boasting While at Large.

Huntsville, Texas, May 10.—(AP)—Raymond Hamilton, exhibiting even in his last minutes a shell of the vicious conceit he held which made him a ranking public enemy, died meekly today in the electric chair.

He followed Joe Palmer, his partner in the slaying of Major Crowson, prison guard, to the execution chamber. Palmer was pronounced dead at 12:08 a. m. Hamilton, strapped into the chair at 12:19 was dead at 12:27.

Had Long Record

The electrocution of the 22-year-old gunman closed a crime career that began with snatch-and-grab operations in his teens and developed swiftly to bank robbery, kidnaping, prison breaks and murder.

Hamilton's death was in marked contrast to his talk. He bragged he never would be taken alive but he surrendered meekly when Bill Decker, Dallas deputy sheriff, showed a pistol into his ribs in a Fort Worth railroad yard a few weeks ago. One of his last acts was to send a word of thanks to Decker for not shooting him that night.

COUNT'S DAUGHTER IN AN ELOPEMENT

nuptials of Mrs. Lord's brother and the Spanish princess.

A license had been obtained from Town Clerk William A. Wilding here after a wedding party of six, garbed in evening attire, had first called at White Plains police headquarters "to see about finding a parson or justice."

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride telephoned from the Town Hall to her mother's Park avenue home and in a brief conversation broke the news and said "we're coming to New York now." Lord likewise phoned to his parents. His mother is the former Lillian L. F. Barker.

The bride was attended by her sister, Donna Marina, whose debut was a feature of last winter's New York social season. Alexander Mostyne, New York Social Registrite, was best man.

Others of the party were Edith de Forest Lord, a cousin of the groom, and Louis Clark Grinnell.

The party left by automobile from Town Hall but the bride and groom gave no indication their honeymoon plans.

It was thought, however, that the couple might proceed to the Tyrolonia summer place at Belle Haven, Conn.

HOSPITAL AVERAGED 61.8 PATIENTS IN APRIL

The daily average of patients at the Manchester Memorial hospital during the month of April was 61.8 according to the monthly report of the hospital office. The largest number of patients on any day last month was 75 and the lowest 51.

During the month 153 patients were admitted and 41 outpatients were given treatments. Discharged for the month totaled 127. Twenty-four babies were born and 34 X-ray examinations were made in April.

and received from some of them promises to "control" the shipments.

Another front page article in newspapers said 200,000 applications have been made by Italian workmen to be sent to Africa. The seriousness with which Italy now regards the Ethiopian situation was indicated by the fact that newspapers devoted three-fourths of their front pages to it.

Every two full-quart bottles of Clicquot Club Pale Dry actually contains three full quarts (96 ounces) of ginger ale! Actually, you get an extra full quart free! Actually, 48 ounces for the price of 32 ounces! Actually, 2 full-pint bottles for 25 ounces! Actually, 2 full quarts for 25 ounces! Actually, 2 full quarts for 25 ounces! A FULL QUART IS 32 OUNCES ... A FULL PINT IS 12 OUNCES

GROCERY STORES, DELICATESSENS, AND DRUG STORES EVERYWHERE ARE FEATURING CLICQUOT CLUB THIS WEEK TO HELP US CELEBRATE!

UNTIL about a year ago, Clicquot Club Ginger Ale was sold in full-pint bottles. Then, we decided to have a large bottle too. And, having decided upon a large bottle, we naturally made it a really large bottle . . . not 27 ounces or 28 ounces, like so many so-called "quart" bottles, but a full, 32-ounce quart!

Our business during this last year has shown that people appreciate good quality and real, honest measure. We could not let this first anniversary of Clicquot Club's full-quart bottle go by, without expressing our thanks for your patronage. Clicquot Dealers, by the thousands, join us in this message!

Clicquot Club today is the same fine ginger ale it was a half-century ago! We are still drawing on the deep, rocky recesses of the earth for water so pure that chemicals are unnecessary. Jamaica's choicest ginger is still being blended with our aged taste-heightener. And, of course, Clicquot gives you long-lived effervescence through carbonation under refrigerated pressure!

Hot, humid days are at hand. You will appreciate Clicquot Club more than ever, within the next few weeks. Imagine a tall, frosty glass of this fine ginger ale . . . tiny bright bubbles swirling and eddying. Here is a drink! Order a case of Clicquot during this full-quart anniversary week!

Fragrant, delicate, colorful flowers are the ideal gift for Mother's Day and if you want to be certain of their lasting freshness you will select them at the Park Hill Flower Shop. Some of the flowers and plants that make beautiful gifts are Hardy Azalea in bloom, Hydrangeas, plants, blooming Rose bushes, yellow Calla lilies, Fuchsia, Genista, combinations of blooming plants and Bleeding Hearts. All plants at the Park Hill are reasonably priced. Don't forget to remember her Sunday.

This is the time to get your home ready for summer. Put away winter rugs and draperies and in their places substitute washable scatter rugs and plain glass curtains or Venetian blinds.

Large pictures with heavy frames should come down, too. Small floral prints—just a few—may be hung instead.

Store all your extra wares, marble statuary and the like in boxes. The fewer gadgets you have out during the hot months, the more comfortable your home will be.

Go to Garrone's for native asparagus. They have it for sale by the bunch. Try their fresh mint at 15c a bunch.

Here are some meat and fruit combinations: Ham and pineapple, Frenched pork tenderloins with apricots, lamb chops with orange slices, roast beef with browned pears, veal and raisin loaf with bananas, hamburger steak with broiled bananas, beef roll with apricots and beef and raisin loaf. Filet of fish with pineapple sauce is even more unusual and good, too.

A box of candy from Magnell's will make a lovely gift for mother on Sunday. The prices run from 50c to $3.50.

Cotton, silk or rayon lace is widely used, not only for evening and dinner dresses, but for sports togs and tailored daytime suits. One especially nice street ensemble, shown at New York's Lace Ball, included a gored skirt of starched white lace in white mesh, buttoned-down-the-front jacket to match and a bright red lace Ascot of the same fabric.

It is such a pleasant feeling to be remembered! Think how delighted mother will be when you give her a box of fresh and delicious chocolates from the Princess Candy Shop. Some boxes are as low as 25c.

Don't fail to attend the refrigerator show this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Center show rooms. This display sponsored by the Manchester Electric Co. and the electric refrigerator dealers of Manchester will be under the direction of Mrs. Marion Rowe, well known Home Economist. Two models of each refrigerator sold in town will be on display and Mrs. Rowe will gladly give any information concerning the refrigerators desired.

The Weldon Drug has some attractively wrapped boxes of Mother's Day candy from 25c up.

Say good-bye to those jaunty little taffeta and velvet evening jackets that, with their bright colors and racy lines, added so much to comfort and gayety of formal summer functions, last year. It's going to be a long season for the girls who go in for evening clothes in a big way.

Reviving long wraps the haut couturier has achieved effects that are not only picturesque and luxurious but bespeaking the formality of the occasions for which they are to be worn.

There are sumptuous summer velvets in rich shades of red, brown and blue; equally luxurious moires

STATE EDUCATOR KIWANIAN GUEST

Robert Deming to Be Speaker at Meeting at Noon Next Monday.

Robert Deming of the State Board of Education will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Manchester Kiwanis club Monday at 12:15 at the Country club. His subject will be "Connecticut's Tercentenary Observance." He is an excellent speaker and well versed on his subject. He has been invited to address gatherings of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Educational club in town already this spring on the state's three hundredth anniversary. The prize Mr. Deming furnished by Principal Thomas Bentley of the North End schools.

BOLTON LAKE IDEAL FOR SUMMER HOME

Edward J. Holl Pioneer in Developing Shore Property for Cottage Purposes.

Had Horace Greeley lived in our day he would probably have advised East instead of West as the place to go for happiness and success—especially from a health standpoint. Few people realize the charm of the nearby Town of Bolton from a residential standpoint—either for summer or all around the year purposes, and since the inception of the automobile and the good roads which now prevail it is remarkable that this virgin territory which lies at our door should still be undiscovered. However, there are a few people in this vicinity who have made this discovery and have located summer or all around the year homes in this area.

One of the pioneers in this movement is Edward J. Holl who more than twenty years ago purchased the so-called Dunisch Farm on the eastern shore of Bolton lake. This farm had been closely held in the Dunisch family for nearly 100 years—and as a fact—was bought by Waite Dunisch from one Carver in 1864. During their ownership—to be precise about 1854, about 375 acres of abutting land was purchased by two former residents, Aaron Cook, Jr., and Olin R. Fitch, acting for a syndicate who eventually turned this area into a lake which now extends from the old Boston Turnpike Road Northerly for about three miles into the Town of Vernon. This lake is known as Bolton Lake and many prominent families from Manchester, Hartford and nearby cities have located summer residences nearby. Along the western shores are many summer dottages and among the larger homes are those of Frederick Redding, formerly of the City Coal Company of Hartford, Charles B. Cook, president of the Royal Typewriter Co., Alexander Bone, Dr. Douglas J. Roberts and Dr. C. C. Beach and Goodwin Beach's son.

On the eastern shores are camps of Edward R. Grier of the Arrow, Hart-Hegeman Company, Leon Broadhurst of the Phoenix Bank of Hartford and many others.

Through additional purchases made since the original purchase, Mr. Holl through the Holl Investment Company controls more than two miles of frontage along the eastern shore of this lake and has been busily engaged during the last two years cutting roads through the century old timber land so as to get easy access to the lake frontage.

Many people in this vicinity will be surprised when visiting this property which can be reached by taking the first left road, when going from Manchester toward Coventry after passing the Belknap church, the distance from Manchester Center is six miles, or ten, minutes by auto. Here you will find a good gravel road winding along Lake front with hundreds of lots laid out for your inspection. The area is covered with magnificent, century old trees, elevation about 500 feet and will undoubtedly develop into one of the favored summer resorts for this and other nearby cities.

Our word "sincere" is derived from two Latin words meaning "without wax."

DAN HICKEY TO BE YOUNG G. O. P. GUEST

Majority Leader in House to Be Speaker at Banquet Here On May 27.

Daniel F. B. Hickey, Stamford attorney, majority floor leader of the House of Representatives, House chairman of the judiciary committee and chairman of the House rules committee, will be one of the speakers at the banquet of the Young Republican club in the Masonic Temple, Monday night, May 27.

Daniel F. B. Hickey

Dinner at 6:30 p. m. will be followed by a speaking and entertainment program and dancing. Cliff Knight of Hartford, rapid-fire sketch artist and ventriloquist, will have a part on the program. Arrangements are being made for other speakers, including one nationally known.

Mr. Hickey has been for several years a prominent member of the Republican Party in the state. Although this is his first session in the legislature, Mr. Hickey has been a familiar figure at other sessions and at state conventions.

GOES TO NEW ORLEANS AS DELEGATE TONIGHT

W. R. Campbell to Represent New Haven Railroad Clerks at Sessions.

William R. Campbell with Mrs. Campbell are to leave Manchester this morning for New Orleans, where Mr. Campbell goes as a delegate of the Brotherhood of Railroad Clerks, representing the New Haven employees. They are due to arrive at the convention city on Sunday and the sessions will last a week. At the close of the convention Mr. and Mrs. Campbell instead of returning to Manchester, will go on to Texas where they will visit friends and will next go to New Mexico. They will continue on to California and expect to be absent from Manchester for a period of four or five weeks.

GOVERNMENT AGENT MURDERS HIS WIFE

He Had Been Drinking and Kills Her When She Pleads With Him.

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Angered when his wife pleaded with him not to stay out so late, Edward J. Murphy, 59, an investigator for the alcoholic tax unit of the Treasury Department, shot and killed her today, police said, when he returned to their Bronx home, 4335 Keppler avenue, from an all-night testimonial dinner for a neighbor.

Murphy, immediately after the shooting, telephoned Bronx police headquarters, according to Detective Gilboley, and told them to come for him as he had shot his wife.

Detectives found him bathing his wife's head and mumbling:

"Mamaie, Mamaie. Are you hurt?"

Police said that Murphy told them that when he returned home at 3 o'clock his wife opened the door for him and started pleading with him not to stay out so late. An argument ensued and Murphy, whose police said had been drinking, became angry and fired at his wife.

Murphy was locked up at the Wakefield police station on a charge of homicide. The couple had three children.

COME AGAIN!

New Bedford, Mass.—A burglar visited the home of Mrs. Olivia Mondenca but she didn't mind in the least.

She entered her rear door just in time to frighten away an intruder who escaped through a front door. She took inventory. A $2 bill was missing from a bureau drawer, but on the kitchen floor was $5 the thief had dropped in his haste to depart.

EASE FOR TRAPEZE

Harrisburg, Pa.—Daring young men could perform on flying trapezes or cut up any other high jinks in public without thought of the law, if Senator Peter Graff, Third, has his way.

Graff introduced a bill to repeal the act of 1883, which prohibits "the performance of any life and limb of performers or exhibitors in places of public amusement."

WINS $1,100; GIVES HIS FRIENDS PARTY

Summit Street Man Has Streak of Luck Right After Losing His Job.

Winning $1,100 by hitting the five numbers on a treasury balance ticket about the same time that he lost his job as a meat cutter at the Atlantic & Pacific market, Main and Park streets, J. Henry Patnaude, of 177 Summit street last night celebrated his phenomental luck by treating a dozen of his friends to a chicken and ravioli dinner.

The meal was prepared at the house of Charles N. Raccagni, of 74 Cottage street, by Charlie himself and all who partook of it agreed it was a culinary masterpiece. Frank Raccagni did the serving.

Although Mr. Patnaude at first doubted all reports that Dame Fortune had smiled so dazzlingly upon him, he finally had to admit his splendid luck to his friends. The windfall was particularly welcome, too, because he lost his work with the A & P. A few days ago, however, he obtained work as a brush salesman.

Among those who attended were, Chairman Aaron Cook of the Board of Selectmen, Mr. Patnaude, Mr. Raccagni, Mr. D'Amico, William Falcone, Robert McLoughlin, James Maher, William Brown, Peter Wind, Fred Johnson, Cecil England and Roy Norris.

OPEN HOSPITAL DRIVE TONIGHT

Organization Meeting of Workers to Be Held in Masonic Temple.

The organization meeting of the Manchester Memorial hospital campaign of 1935 will be held this evening at a luncheon meeting to be given the workers by individual members of the Board of Trustees and a local business man in Masonic Temple. The corps of workers will be instructed in their relative to the canvass of Manchester and vicinity for $15,000 in sustaining funds for the hospital. The luncheon will be served at 6:30 p. m. sharp.

Elmer Weden, general chairman of the campaign committee urges all workers to be present on time this evening in order to expedite the organization work. Charles W. Holman, president of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Corporation will speak, and movies of the Manchester hospital will be shown by Dr. D. C. Y. Moore.

BANK BILL PASSED BY HOUSE 271-110

Leaders predicted there would be no action on the bill in the Senate for several weeks, but they foresaw a bitter controversy immediately before the Glass sub-committee.

Republicans Fall

House Republicans tried unsuccessfully to eliminate sections of the bill which would extend Presidential control over the Federal reserve board, extend reserve board control over reserve banks, allow the reserve board to tell the 12 Federal reserve banks when to buy or sell government securities and permit the reserve board to vary the reserve member banks must maintain against deposits to "prevent injurious credit expansion or contraction."

The House voted to eliminate a provision of existing law requiring that all state banks must belong to the Federal Reserve system by July 1, 1937, in order to get Federal deposit insurance. Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Deposit Insurance Corporation, and other high officials approved this requirement. It was opposed, however, by Chairman Steagall (D. Ala.) of the House banking committee, who long has contended that forcing state banks into the Federal reserve would bring them under the domination of larger institutions.

Glass' Position

On the other hand, Senator Glass has long contended that the state banks should be brought into the Federal reserve system.

As passed by the House the bill would make permanent the present law providing for insurance of deposits up to $5,000 each.

It would change the assessment banks must pay, in order to obtain deposit insurance, from one-fourth of one per cent on insured deposits to one-eighth of one per cent on all deposits. Advocates of this change said it would benefit small banks.

The bill also would abolish, effective July 1, 1937, the present authority for assessing stockholders of National banks twice the amount of their stock.

National banks, under regulations prescribed by the reserve board, would be permitted to make loans or up to 60 per cent of the appraised value of real estate.

The bill would direct the reserve board to use all its powers "to promote conditions conducive to business stability."

Approximately 2,000 acres of farm land in Texas county, Oklahoma, has been contracted for terracing projects.

ABOUT TOWN

Men at work stringing new wires crossed a live wire just after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon resulting in the ball at the Center sounding one stroke. This caused many who were on Main street to count the rings. But some came for about two minutes. Then it rang twice—It did not sound again.

A meeting of the Holy Name Society of St. Bridget's church will be held in the church hall this evening at 8 o'clock. President Robert Coleman announces that there are several matters of importance for the meeting to consider.

The regular monthly meeting and summer drill of Company No. 1 of the Manchester fire department will be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Following the drill and the meeting there will be refreshments served under the direction of Lawrence Mosman, the company steward.

The ending of the truck drivers' strike has shown its effect on the amount of express matter now coming into the Manchester station. The load this morning was about the normal incoming express.

A large delegation of members of Sunset Council, Degree of Pocahontas, will attend the dinner and rally at Odd Fellows hall, 420 Main street, Hartford, Saturday, May 18.

TWO DESPERADOES ARE ELECTROCUTED

Hamilton Dies Meekly in Contrast to His Boasting While at Large.

Huntsville, Texas, May 10.—(AP)—Raymond Hamilton, exhibiting even in his last minutes a shell of the vicious conceit he held which made him a ranking public enemy, died meekly today in the electric chair.

He followed Joe Palmer, his partner in the slaying of Major Crowson, prison guard, to the execution chamber. Palmer was pronounced dead at 12:08 a. m. Hamilton, strapped into the chair at 12:19 was dead at 12:27.

Had Long Record

The electrocution of the 22-year-old gunman closed a crime career that began with sneak-thief operations in his teens and developed swiftly to bank robbery, kidnaping, prison breaks and murder.

Hamilton's death was in marked contrast to his talk. He bragged he never would be taken alive but he surrendered meekly when Bill Decker, Dallas deputy sheriff, shoved a pistol into his ribs in a Fort Worth railroad yard a few weeks ago. One of his last acts was to send a word of thanks to Decker for not shooting him that night.

COUNT'S DAUGHTER IN AN ELOPEMENT

nuptials of Mrs. Lord's brother and the Spanish princess.

A license had been obtained from Town Clerk William A. Wilding here after a wedding party of six, gathered in evening attire, had first called at White Plains police headquarters "to see about finding a parson or justice."

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride telephoned from the Town Hall to her mother's Park avenue home and in a brief conversation broke the news and said "I'm coming to New York now." Lord likewise phoned to his parents. His mother is the former Lillian L. P. Barker.

The bride was attended by her sister, Donna Marina, whose debut was a feature of last winter's New York social season. Alexander McIlvaine, New York Social Registrite, was best man.

Others at the party were Edith de Forest Lord, a cousin of the groom, and Louis Clark Grinnell.

The party left by automobile from Town Hall for the bride and groom on no indication of their honeymoon plans.

It was thought, however, that the couple might proceed to the Tryonna summer place at Belle Haven, Conn.

HOSPITAL AVERAGED 61.8 PATIENTS IN APRIL

The daily average of patients at the Manchester Memorial hospital during the month of April was 61.8 according to the monthly report of the hospital office. The largest number of patients on any day last month was 75 and the lowest 51.

During the month 152 patients were admitted and 41 outpatients were given treatments. Discharged for the month totaled 127. Twenty-four babies were born and 54 X-ray examinations were made in April.

Another front page article in newspapers said 200,000 applications have been made by Italian workmen to be sent to Africa. The serious-ness with which Italy now regards the Ethiopian situation was indicated by the fact that newspapers devoted three-fourths of their front pages to it.

CLICQUOT CLUB'S Full-Quart ANNIVERSARY

20¢ A FULL-QUART BOTTLE TWO FULL-PINT BOTTLES 25c (Plus Bottle Deposit)

AN EXTRA DRINK IN EVERY TWO BOTTLES OF CLICQUOT CLUB PALE DRY!

Every two full-quart bottles of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale make enough drinks for 12 people (6 glasses to a bottle). Two full-pint bottles (25c plus bottle deposit) make only enough for 8 people. Buy full-quart bottles! Save 5c. All stores in town have them. Look for the big, red, full-quart bottle in the window. A FULL PINT IS 16 OUNCES . . . A FULL QUART IS 32 OUNCES!

GROCERY STORES, DELICATESSENS, AND DRUG STORES EVERYWHERE ARE FEATURING CLICQUOT CLUB THIS WEEK TO HELP US CELEBRATE!

UNTIL about a year ago, Clicquot Club Ginger Ale was sold in full-pint bottles. Then, we decided to have a large bottle too. And, having decided upon a large bottle, we naturally made it a really large bottle . . . not 27 ounces or 28 ounces, like so many so-called "quart" bottles, but a full, 32-ounce quart!

Our business during this last year has shown that people appreciate good quality and real, honest measure. We could not let this first anniversary of Clicquot Club's full-quart bottle go by, without expressing our thanks for your patronage. Clicquot Dealers, by the thousands, join us in this message! Clicquot Club today is the same fine ginger ale it was a half-century ago! We are still drawing on the deep, rocky recesses of the earth for water so pure that chemicals are unnecessary. Jamaica's choicest ginger is still being blended with our aged taste-heighteners. And, of course, Clicquot gives you long-lived effervescence through carbonation under refrigerated pressure!

Hot, humid days are at hand. You will appreciate Clicquot Club more than ever, within the next few weeks. Imagine a tall, frosty glass of this fine ginger ale . . . tiny bright bubbles swirling and eddying. Here is a drink! Order a case of Clicquot during this full-quart anniversary week!

ESSAY WINNERS GREETED TODAY

Tercentenary Commission Is Host to 24 Boys and Girls in Hartford.

The Connecticut Tercentenary Commission was to be host today to twenty-four boys and girls, winners in the historical essay contest sponsored by the Commission for pupils in all public, parochial and private schools in the state.

The climax of the afternoon and evening in the capital city will be the presentation by Governor Wilbur L. Cross of the prizes during the state high school music festival at Bushnell Memorial Hall tonight to the winning authors.

Prior to the ceremonies in Bushnell the group will have its picture taken on the steps of the state library, will meet the governor in executive chambers, tour the capitol and the city, and have dinner.

Samuel H. Fisher, chairman of the Tercentenary Commission will preside at the awarding of the essay prizes, all of which are cash prizes, totaling more than $200 contributed by the Connecticut Society of the Colonial Dames of America. The first prize winner in each of the three groups of contestants will also receive one of the Tercentenary medals.

On the stage during the presentation, in addition to the twenty-four winners, Governor Cross and Mr. Fisher, will be the six judges of the contest, the prize essay committee members, and guests of honor.

The winners of the essay contest and the amount of their respective cash prizes are as follows:

Group I—ninth, eleventh and twelfth grades: First, Laura Elizabeth Morris, Milford High school, $50; second, Evelyn St. Onge, Plainfield High school, $25; third, Joan Keyes, Ridgefield High school, $10; Robert F. Barber, Bulkeley High school, New London, Byron W. Wheeler, Jr., Shelton High school, Dickson MacBird, Morgan school, Clinton, Cornelia Gottlichen, Salisbury High school, and Donald Harris, Bulkeley High school, New London, $5 each.

Group II—seventh, eighth and ninth: First, Bernice Galbraith, Somerville school, Somers, $25; second, Mary Taggart, Spring Glen school, Hebron, $15; third, Elizabeth Pollard, Washington school, West Haven, $5. Hilda Constable, St. Francis school, Torrington, Stanley Mulak, Somerville school, Somers, Helen Millstein, Waureegan, Plainfield, Mary Robinson, Sacred Heart school, Waterbury, and Sarah Epstein, Pine street school, Columbia, $3 each.

Group III—sixth grade and below: First, Theodore Hodges, Migeon Avenue school, Torrington, $15 second, Margaret Calvin, Roger Sherman school, Fairfield, $10; third, Doris Brooke, Nathan Hale school, New London, $5; William Ely, Landing school, East Haddam, Adela Maine, Franklin school, Stratford, Frances Higgins, H. Sidney Hayden school, Windsor, Elizabeth Brown, Nathaniel White school, Cromwell, and Barbara Walters, Grasmere school, Fairfield, $2 each.

The winning papers were considered by three sets of judges. First, town judges in the town in which the paper originated; second, county judges; and finally the state judges.

The latter were Edgar F. Waterman of Hartford, Dr. Charles C. McCracken of Storrs, Francis Parsons of Hartford, Dr. John Edwin Wells of New London and Thornton Wilder of New Haven.

The prize essay committee consisted of the following: Chairman, Dr. Remsen B. Ogilby, Hartford, George R. Armstead, Hartford, Mrs. John L. Buel, Litchfield, Irwin A. Buel, West Hartford, Paul W. Coons, Hartford, M. H. Dooy, Hartford, George M. Dutcher, Middletown, Miss Julia Havemeyer, Hartford, Charles C. Hemenway, Hartford, Mrs. J. A. Norcross, New Haven, Charles J. Rohr, Hartford, Mrs. M. C. Treadway, Bristol, Thornton Wilder, New Haven, Leonard W. Larabee, New Haven, Robert C. Deming, New Haven, and Rev. Austin Munich, Bloomfield.

Guests of honor on the stage tonight will include the following: Mayor Joseph W. Beach, Charles H. Cook, Ralph L. Baldwin, James D. Price, W. Raymond Randall, Fred D. Wish, Jr., Dr. Ernest W. Butterfield, Mrs. Lucius B. Larbour, Mrs. Winchester Bennett, Mrs. Mary Beard Hooker and Charles B. Whittlesey.

At the dinner, Mrs. Howard Glob of the Colonial Dames of America and Miss Marjory Boyd of the Tercentenary Commission will act as hostesses. Dr. Ogilby, as chairman of the essay committee, will give a brief talk on the contest.

DYNAMITE BURNS

Ridgefield, May 10.—(AP)—Local residents are still talking today about their anxious half hour when a full case of dynamite blazed merrily during a small shed fire here.

The blaze occurred at the rear of the home of John Morganti and more than 200 residents stood around and watched—but at a respectful distance.

The shed caught fire from a torch in the hands of Morganti's son while he was destroying tent caterpillars in nearby fruit trees.

PASTEUR'S WORK SAVED MILLIONS

State Bureau Director Outlines Story of Progress of Preventive Medicine.

Summarizing the progress of preventive medicine from the dawn of the 19th century when the cowpox discovery of Edward Jenner in England was proclaimed to have saved half a million lives annually, Dr. Millard Knowlton, director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the State Department of Health, in the department's weekly radio talk yesterday declared that the lives saved by the work of Louis Pasteur and those who followed him may be counted in the millions.

Pointing out that despite the progress already achieved there is still a large field of disease yet to be conquered, Dr. Knowlton said: "We save our children from germ diseases, and those that survive accidents die later in life of heart disease, cancer, nephritis or some other disease of adult life. When will these diseases be brought under control so that milestones may be set to mark the way toward still greater prolongation of human life?"

Dr. Jenner's work with cowpox innoculation came in 1798, but it was nearly three-quarters of a century later when another milestone in disease control was reached, Dr. Knowlton said. Typhoid fever had been prevalent in Munich and Pettenkofer thought that it resulted from noxious gases. On his advice a supply of pure water was obtained, and outside toilets and shallow wells formerly used were abandoned. The typhoid fever death rate dropped from about 203 per 100,000 population to almost nothing. Pettenkofer was wrong in theory but right in method. Proper sewage disposal and pure drinking water are highly essential to health.

Our greatest achievements in disease control are concerned with diseases caused by germs. Long before Pasteur, the primitive microscope had been invented by Anthony Leewenhoek, a Dutchman, and with it "animalcules" had been discovered. An English physician had written that certain species of animalcules caused tuberculosis. John Wesley in his book on primitive physic had mentioned animalcules that grow in the mouth and cause the gums to shrink from the teeth. Dr. J. K. Mitchell had proposed that certain fevers were caused by fungi similar to common molds. He was getting close to the truth.

Pasteur, a French chemist, demonstrated that germs really do cause disease. Then discoveries came thick and fast. The tuberculosis germ was reported in 1882 and the diphtheria germ a year or two later. The role of insects in spreading disease was soon recognized. Success of diphtheria antitoxin, 40 years ago, led to other curative sera. Pasteur himself devised methods for immunizing against anthrax and rabies. Other immunizing procedures have been perfected, and today small-pox and diphtheria may be relegated to the field of historic interest by universal application of present knowledge, the director declared. Typhoid vaccine prevented in the World War the disastrous experience of the Spanish War.

Pasteur, Dr. Knowlton reminded, invented methods of killing germs by heat and has had his name perpetuated in his word "pasteurization." Pasteurization of milk to kill germs and refrigeration of foods to prevent their growth are important factors in the practical elimination of gastro-intestinal disease.

FAMOUS FRENCH SLEUTH ONCE A GANGSTER

Here's a Great Tale of a Noted Detective That Beats Fiction.

By BRUCE CATTON

Conan Doyle, Edgar Allan Poe and all the other geniuses of the detective story never succeeded in inventing anything half so amazing as the real-life experiences of the grand-daddy of all sleuths—the famous French detective, Vidocq.

This man, who rose to the surface under Napoleon and retired in the 1830's, or thereabouts, occupied his declining years by writing his memoirs. His contemporaries suspected that he was kidding them, but it is now agreed that for the most part he told the truth; and these memoirs, translated and edited by Edwin Gile Rich, are now published in America under the title, "Vodoq: the Personal Memoirs of the First Great Detective."

If you like stories of detection or accounts of roguery and picaresque adventure, you will find it a meaty and sustaining book.

Vidocq started out as a wild young man who was forever getting into scrapes that got progressively more serious. He was lodged in many prisons, and he succeeded in escaping from all of them, becoming famous for these exploits all through the French underworld. At last he made a deal with the Paris police, offering to death for them if they would drop all charges against him.

They accepted—they had to, for they couldn't keep him locked up—and the fun began. Vidocq was a genius at disguises; he was also, one gathers, rather conscienceless. For years he terrorized the Parisian underworld by his uncanny skill at finding out its secrets and arresting its ringleaders. The book is a highly entertaining account of its stunts.

JUDGES CHOSEN FOR GLEE CONTEST

Distinguished Musicians To Name Winner Tomorrow Afternoon.

Three distinguished musicians have consented to act as judges for the annual contest of the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs, which will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Bulkeley High School in Hartford.

The contest will precede the concert to be held in the evening at 8:15 at the Bushnell Memorial, proceeds from which will be used for a fund to make music available to boys and girls throughout rural Connecticut.

The judges will be: Theodore Van Yorx of New York, conductor and teacher; Joseph S. Daltry, head of the music department at Wesleyan University; and Grant Drake, assistant supervisor of music in Boston schools.

These judges will sit behind screens at the contest, and listen to the singing of the same song by each club, and to individual numbers chosen by the various organizations. They will judge on the basis of interpretation, ensemble, diction, tone and pitch. The verdict will be made known during the concert at the Bushnell just before the last two numbers.

G. Loring Birwell of Waterbury will conduct the program in the evening, and will direct his Mendelssohn Male Chorus in the contest. This group will act as host to the visiting clubs while they are in Hartford.

The clubs which will participate in the concert include: the Amphion Club of Melrose, Mass., the Amherst and Arlington Glee Club of Maynard, Mass., the Andover Male Choir of Andover, Mass., the Beethoven Glee Club of Manchester, and Beverly Men's Singing Club of Beverly, Mass., the DeKoven Glee Club of West Lynn, Mass., the Fall River Men's Glee Club of Fall River, Mass., the General Offices Athletic Association Glee Club of New Haven, the Highland Glee Club of Newton, Mass., the Hyde Park Glee Club of Hyde Park, Mass., the Imperial Male Glee Club of Whitinsville, Mass., the MacDowell Male Choir of Springfield, Mass., the Masonic Choir of Lowell, Mass., the Mendelssohn Male Chorus of Waterbury, the Naugatuck Valley Glee Club of Ansonia; the Pawtucket Men's Glee Club of Pawtucket, R. I., the Pratt & Whitney Choral Club of Hartford, the Torrington Men's Choral Club, the Vernanda Male Chorus of Providence, R. I., the West Side Male Choir of Ware, Mass., the Willimantic Men's Glee Club and the Wollaston Glee Club of Quincy, Mass. One guest club, the Norwich Men's Glee Club will take part the year.

At 7:45 there will be an organ recital by Waldo S. Newbury of Norwich. At 8 o'clock the Hartford Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps will play for fifteen minutes. As a feature of this part of the program, twelve-year-old Buster Harvey, will give an exhibition of baton twirling which has made his famous since he was less than half that age. Promptly at 8:15 the 1,000 men will take their places on the stage, with Major H. W. Bailey acting as grand marshal.

During the concert, the chorus will be accompanied at two pianos by Herbert France, director of music at Connecticut State College, and Gordon W. Stearns, choir director of the Immanuel Church of Hartford, and on the organ by Mr. Newbury.

Just before the last two numbers, the judges will announce their decisions of the winners in various classes.

After the last number, the members of the Federation and their guests will go to the Hotel Bond where there will be dancing and an entertainment in the ballroom.

Foot Welfare

Barney Wichman, D. S. C.

No consideration of the question of hosiery can be complete without some discussion of garters, which are necessary devices that are employed to hold the stocking or sock up on the leg. The deleterious effect of circular garters is obvious, and yet by far the larger proportion of clothing stockings employ circular strap or elastic for supporting their hose. Women are comparatively positive in this connection that are men, for many wear some type of abdominal corset or girdle to which are attached fastenings for stockings.

When, a few years ago, women threw aside the steel or bone reinforced corset, they did much to benefit their back and abdominal muscles, but they also achieved the idea of "rolling" their stockings, which thus prevents certain disturbances of circulatory trouble in the lower extremities. In general, this practice was worse than employing a circular elastic band to catch up the hosiery, for the upper binding vein of the stocking was pulled tight, then twisted, and the twisted knot was tucked back between the tensed stocking edge and the leg. Happily fashion is swinging back to the flexible girdle that permits the attachment of garters which support the hosiery suspension, father than by binding it to the leg.

The present type of circular garters, so generally worn by men, is to be condemned; and yet, apparently, there is no other practical or efficient way of holding half hose in place. Suspensory types of garter have been tried, but each was found wanting and was short-lived. The location of the girdle portion of the man's garter just below the knee in back of the leg does not constrict the deeper blood vessels, but the band does unquestionably interfere with superficial circulation. In many cases of varicose veins, the encircling garter has been an important contributing factor, and the use of such appliances must be entirely abolished in cases of any circulatory disturbances or diseases of the lower extremities.

The photo finishing department of The Fallot studio is now equipped to render to the public a service which is unique in this vicinity. The installation of one of the latest photographic printing devices, makes it possible to obtain double or quadruple sized prints at a price comparable to ordinary snapshots.

It is a radical change from former methods of Kodak finishing and brings out brilliance and detail ordinarily lost in contact printing.

CURFEW LAW IN BELFAST

Belfast, Ireland, May 10.—(AP) — A curfew law was imposed on the York street area of Belfast today after rioting last night in which one man was shot and wounded and several bombs exploded.

In an effort to prevent fresh outbreaks, the authorities ordered residents to stay indoors between the hours of 10 p. m. and 5 a. m. The Duke of Gloucester is due to arrive here Saturday for several engagements in Ulster.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Oh, Mister Ink Man," Scouty cried, "I've stood right here and tried and tried to make you hear my voice, because I need somebody's aid.

"Now, I'll explain, if you don't mind. I've left the Tinymites behind. By this time, they're in trouble with that pirate, I'm afraid."

The ink man said, "calm down a bit. Whate'er it is, we'll handle it. Now, tell me what the trouble is. Then I'll begin to think.

"The pirate is my fault, you see, so, now, I guess it's up to me to save the bunch, and I will do it quicker than a wink."

Then Scouty told all that he knew about the Tinies. "Oh, won't you please hurry and go back with me?" he finished, out of breath.

That fellow's threatened all of us, and we just don't dare start a fuss. I must admit, quite frankly, that he has us scared to death."

The ink man smiled and said, "Well, son, I'll shortly end this run of fun. You lead the way. I'll follow. I've a dandy plan, right now.

"It really is a clever art to handle folks when they get smart. You just be patient for a while, and I will show you how."

"Oh, gee, that's fine," cried Scouty. "Gee, I knew that you would come with me, but how will you get cross that stream and reach the little isle?

"Upon my lasso I can make the trip, but, with you, it would break."

"Oh, I know how we both can cross," the man said, with a smile.

"Hop right up on my shoulders, son. Here's where we have a lot of fun. I'm going to wade across the stream. It is not deep at all."

Wee Scouty did as he was told. They started out. "The water's cold," exclaimed the kind old ink man. "Now, be careful you don't fall."

(The Tinies welcome the ink man in the next story).

SENSE and NONSENSE

Just a friendly greeting.
Just a cheerful smile.
Just a pleasant meeting—
These make life worth-while.

Don't feel that it is up to you to explain everything that seems doubtful and obscure. Why not let others try their knowledge on it, or just let the rest of the folks wonder as well as yourself.

Husband—Yes, Mary, it's a way I seem to have when it gets anywhere near your birthday.

Still, there would have been millions of unemployed before the war if millions of women had done the work.

The Truth of This Matter

If a man says he can save money these days, that's jawbone.

If he says he's trying to save money, that's wishbone.

If he really does save money these days, that's backbone.

Mrs. Newrich — I hear you are getting married.

Martha, The Maid — Yes.

Mrs. Newrich—Not to that young fellow who's been calling on you?

Martha—Yes, ma'am, he's the one.

Mrs. Newrich—But you have known him only two or three weeks.

Martha—Well, it isn't as if he was a new fellow. A girl I know was engaged to him for quite a long time.
