Battle of Stalingrad Is Deadlocked Today; Nazis Claim Advance

Infantry and Panzer Units Break Stubborn Russian Resistance Offered in Blocks of Houses and Barricades; Tractor Factory Is Taken by Storm; Hit Pillboxes.

Bulletin!

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 15.—(AP)—DNB reports said tonight that Nazi forces had reached the Volga river on a two-mile front after capturing the Dzerzhinsky tractor factory at Stalingrad by storm this morning.

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 15.—(AP)—The high command said today that "in Stalingrad, infantry and panzer formations broke stubborn Soviet resistance offered in blocks of houses and barricades, and advanced deeply into the northern district of the city." A DNB dispatch said the Dzerzhinsky tractor factory (presumably in the northern part of the city) was taken by storm this morning. (This was the first time in five days that Hitler's headquarters mentioned actual operations inside the besieged city.)

Reiset Attacks Reported

"Bomber and Stuka formations in rolling engagements smashed enemy pillboxes and artillery emplacements," the war bulletin declared. "Enemy attacks of relief were repelled and sanguinary losses inflicted upon the enemy."

Of fighting to the south the high command said:

"In the Caucasus, German and Slovak troops operating in densely wooded mountain territory pierced new enemy positions and stormed over 500 pillboxes and fortifications.

"On the Terek sector enemy forces were repelled.

Elsewhere on the front these developments were reported:

"On the Don front, Rumanian troops repelled local attacks.

Shakeup Seen In Nazi Army

Halder and Von Bock Reported Ousted in Shift of Commands.

London, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The belief that Hitler has made a drastic shakeup in his military commands, ousting both Col. Gen. Franz Halder and Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock, was expressed today by qualified London observers on the basis of persistent reports from Stockholm.

Halder was chief of the German general staff, and Von Bock commanded the powerful Nazi drive on Stalingrad.

These observers, whose names could not be disclosed, said that the continued reports that the generals had been ousted appeared based on fact, but that the names of their successors had not yet been disclosed.

Confirmed by Five Sources

The Stockholm correspondent of The Daily Telegraph reported the dismissal of Halder on "the most reliable authority" and said the reported dismissal of Von Bock had been confirmed from five separate sources.

The Stockholm report said Halder, who headed the German general staff since 1938, was believed to have been replaced temporarily by Gen. Alfred Jodl who has been with Hitler as an adviser at the German eastern front headquarters.

Concession to Nazi Party

A Stockholm dispatch to The Daily Express said Halder's removal was a concession to the Nazi party which had opposed him. He was said to have demanded last month that the German offensive into Russia be halted to enable his army to regroup its positions and prepare for its second venture in the eastern front.

Power Tied To Farming Arid Lands

Government Converting Deserts into Food-Producing Areas in Harnessing of Rivers.

Denver, Oct. 15.—(AP)—As part of the United States' tremendous war effort, the government is converting deserts into food-producing land to feed the United Nations and harnessing rivers to power the factories turning out war machines.

This double-barreled program was explained today to the National Reclamation association by Federal Reclamation Commissioner John C. Page.

To Irrigate 12,000,000 Acres

To guard against possible food shortage in America and in the countries fighting at her side, the Federal Reclamation bureau has undertaken to irrigate 12,000,000 acres of land in the west and to

Russia Urges Trial of Axis Leaders Now

Proposes Special Tribunal Undertake to Punish Any Who Fall Into Hands of Allies.

Moscow, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Russian government, contributing Premier Stalin's view on punishment of Axis war leaders, proposed today that a special tribunal undertake at once to punish "any one of the leaders of Fascist Germany, who, in the course of the war, has fallen into the hands of states fighting against Hitler Germany."

While Rudolf Hess was not mentioned specifically in this passage of the Russian announcement, he seemed to be the most important if not the only captive Axis adherent falling in the category of prisoners against whom immediate action was sought by Russia.

Hess, former deputy fuehrer, has been a British prisoner since May 10, 1941, when he parachuted to earth in Scotland, bearing what both Stalin and Prime Minister

Action on Comparatively Small Scale; Every Probing Thrust by German Tanks and Infantry Reported Repulsed —Red Army Lines Remain Stable; Nazis Bury Additional Men.

Moscow, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Battle of Stalingrad deadlocked today in comparatively small scale actions with every probing thrust by German tanks and infantry reported repulsed. Red Army lines remained stable. The Germans buried additional men on the approaches to a workers settlement in Stalingrad's northwestern suburbs, the fallen of assaults which failed to reach the factories forming the backbone of the defense.

Using Smaller Forces

Although the invaders are using far smaller forces than they employed in the earlier Stalingrad offensive, the Army newspaper Red Star said they had concentrated a considerable group of infantry and tanks in an effort to occupy the northern quarter.

The noon communique said attacks by Nazi armored and infantry forces were turned back and Russian artillery fire wiped out parts of two German battalions.

Thus, as the freezing cold which already has set in from the Arctic to Moscow crept southward toward the Volga basin and the Caucasus, the Russians reported the Stalingrad situation unchanged for the third successive day.

May Be to Re-Equip Nazis

Military observers expressed the belief that the lull in German activity may be to re-equip the Nazi forces for another campaign and avoid the disastrous reverses of last year when the winter and Soviet counter-offensives caught them unprepared.

"The Germans probably have found it necessary also to reorganize units worn out by the Red Army's resistance, they said.

Five German counter-attacks were repelled northwest of Stalingrad and about 300 Germans were killed, the communique said.

A minor tank penetration of Russian lines in the Mozdok area of the central Caucasus was acknowledged, but the communique said Red Army men subsequently beat off attacks of German infantrymen upon a height and killed about 400 of the enemy. Russian fliers aided the defenders.

"Soviet airmen destroyed seven German tanks and 40 trucks and, in air combats, four enemy planes were brought down," it was announced.

Rickenbacker Sees Air Trend in Allies' Favor

European Theater to Remain Air Battlefield Until Superiority Over Nazi Airmen.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker reported today after a survey trip to the European theater air fighting front that "the trend is entirely in our favor." Captain Rickenbacker, air ace of the first World war, expressed belief that the European theater will remain an air theater until we have secured superiority over the German Air Force and paralyzed the production capacity of the German aircraft industry.

No Question of Winning

"There is no question that we will win this war," he said. "The only question is how soon."

(Rickenbacker recently inspected U. S. bomber and fighter airfields in the British Isles and several times saw flying fortresses in action, dispatches from London said today. News of his recent visit had been banned until now.

Captain Rickenbacker's report to the War Department was made public by Secretary Stimson with the explanation that Rickenbacker is sent to England to survey Army Air Force personnel and equipment under actual combat conditions and in compact London

Bill to Curb Rent Passed

New Anti-Inflation Measure Sent to Senate for Action Today.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The House today passed by an oral vote and sent to the Senate a new anti-inflation measure directing the president to stabilize rentals throughout the nation on both residential and commercial property and to regulate charges by hotels and rooming houses.

The measure would authorize President Roosevelt to freeze rentals and rates at what he considered fair levels in all states, the District of Columbia and the territories and possessions.

The House Banking committee drafted the bill unanimously yesterday after hearing Economic Director James F. Byrnes testify that charges for the use of real property in some cases had jumped as much as 200 per cent.

The committee struck out a provision that rentals be stabilized as near as practicable at Sept. 15, 1942 levels, thus apparently opening the way for the president to fix any levels he deemed fair.

$15 for Night's Rent

Stipulations for the regulation of hotel and rooming house charges were written in after one committee member struck out a

Military Leaders Testify on Draft

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson (top) testifies before the House Military committee in favor of a bill to lower the age for drafting men for military service from 20 to 18 years. Below, Gen. George C. Marshall (left) chief of staff of the U. S. Army talks with Rep. James W. Wadsworth of New York, one of the authors of the original selective service law, before taking the stand before the committee.

1,100,000 Will Be Called for Draft Before New Year

Most of Group to Come From Men Having Secondary Dependents, Such as Parents, and Those Having Wife; Favors Lower Age.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—One million one hundred thousand more men will have to be drafted by January 1, Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey testified today in support of legislation to draft 18 and 19-year-olds. Most of these 1,100,000, he told the House Military committee, will come from the group of men having secondary dependents, such as parents, and those having a wife only. The rest would be men with no dependents.

1,500,000 in Younger Group

Hershey estimated that dropping the minimum draft age from 20 to 18 would make available 1,500,000 "of what is the best of our manpower."

He explained to the committee that after Jan. 1 selective service must look for its manpower needs to the teen-age group, to men employed in agriculture and essential

Navy Aided on Brain Ills By German's Discovery

Boston, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A laboratory discovery by a German scientist in pre-Nazi days is helping the United States Navy in holding neurological problems to a minimum.

Lieut. Comdr. Robert S. Schwab (M. C.), U. S. N. R., told a convention of the American Academy of Physical Medicine in a prepared address today how Dr. Hans Berger first measured and photographed tiny pulsating electric waves produced by human brains.

Shows Diseased Brain

Smooth, regular waves indicate that a person's brain is normal, and irregular wave patterns show that it is diseased, injured or abnormal from heredity, Schwab said. The science is known as electroencephalography.

Asserting that culture and scientists are now held in contempt "in the land of our German enemy," Schwab said:

"It is sad to note that Berger was pushed out of his laboratory in 1938 and was planning to come to this country when he died in June, 1941."

Recording of the waves discovered by Berger are obtained through an apparatus attached by wires to the patient's scalp.

Has Three Aspects

This type of examination to Naval hospital, Schwab said, has five aspects. Examination of applicants for Naval service, in cases where the applicants have signs of fainting or head injuries; examination of men who faint or have spells while in service, and examination of the men who have suffered brain injuries, to determine when they may return to service.

"It must be emphasized," he added, "that this type of examination is in no way a short cut conclusion to careful history and neurological study, but does aid, as any laboratory procedure does, the Navy doctor in being prompt, accurate and efficient."

Japanese Use Heavy Warships in Effort To Regain Solomons

All Airdrome Area Alight After Raid

Rabaul Is Dealt Fourth Heavy Pounding in Period of Eight Days; All Return Safely.

Somewhere in New Guinea, Oct. 14—(Delayed)—(AP)—Flying fortresses left the whole airdrome area alight with fire early today in the fourth heavy pounding they have dealt Rabaul, Japan's key base on New Britain, in eight days, returning fliers said.

It took scarcely more time to do it than it takes to tell.

The lead plane dropped flares which lit up Lakunai and Vunukanau airdromes, flanking Rabaul's crescent-shaped harbor. The other fortresses winged over, dropped their cargoes of destruction square on the illumined targets and then they all came home.

The returning fliers, shaking the kinks out of their cramped-up legs after the 1,000-mile round trip, said that no enemy fighters molested them and that both searchlight and anti-aircraft fire were weaker than they had encountered on the three previous raids since Oct. 5.

Return Without Scratch

The whole force returned without a scratch on a ship or a man.

Lieut. Al Progar of Springdale, Pa., who piloted the flare plane, said "we made our run over the targets unloading bombs and then started dropping flares."

Rabaul was well blacked out, he said, but he saw several fires around the base "most likely hit by the Japanese to confuse our bombers, but they were too obvious even from our altitude."

By the light of the flares toward out by Corp. Rob Swanson of Anthon, Iowa, and by the bomb bursts, he said, "we could see Zap planes lined wing to wing on the airdrome."

Lieut. James Ferguson of Hartford, Conn., whose fortress was one of the first planes over, said two fires—possibly ammunition or fuel dumps or burning planes—blossomed after the bombing run.

"When we left, the entire airdrome area was blazing brightly," said Capt. Byron Heichel of Stanwood, Wash.

"I don't know exactly what we hit, but our navigator, Lieut. Irving Rappaport of Montgomery, Ala., said our bombs landed right across the dispersal strip."

Lieut. Jack Frost of San Antonio, Texas, saw one big fire when this fortress crossed over the target area and three when it left. He said his bombs burst among parked planes.

The flight of fortresses, which

Flying Autos Seen Likely After War

Boston, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The possibility of post-war development of flying automobiles—travelling both on land and in the air—was pictures today by Eugene E. Wilson, president of the United Aircraft Corporation.

He predicted also, in an address prepared for a Chamber of Commerce luncheon, that "we have probably seen the last of the express (ocean) liners of the late thirties" because of the strides made by clipper planes.

Declaring that "we may witness the end of the present automobile for personal transportation," Wilson said:

Says General Shows Favor To Big Plants

Somervell Accused of Expanding Production While Voicing Friendship to Small Firms.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Chairman Murray (D., Mont.) of the Senate Small Business committee accused Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell today of voicing "fine expressions of friendship for small business while continuing to expand production of bigger concerns.

Flushing slightly, the chief of the War Department's Services of Supply denied the assertion "categorically, 100 per cent."

Murray declared production officials "are still expanding big plants" even while they are curtailing production of "some they previously expanded" without taking full advantage of existing small factories.

Somervell said there had been some curtailment due to a decreased flow of certain raw materials, but said the situation

Continue Move to Drive American Army and Marine Forces Out of Islands Despite Considerable Losses in Last Four Days; Guadalcanal Airfield Hit Hard in Jap Attack.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that the Japanese have brought up heavy Naval units in their apparently all out effort to drive American Army and Marine forces out of the Solomon islands despite considerable enemy losses in the last four days. The enemy's losses in the fight and its preliminary stages, covering a four-day period, were reported by the Navy in a communique as being seven ships, including a battleship, damaged and 33 planes shot down, destroyed on the ground or damaged both in actions over the American airfield on Guadalcanal and as a result of American attacks on Japanese bases.

Bombers Raid Airfield

Damage to American forces and installations was disclosed to include that done by an unintercepted enemy bomber raid on the airfield at Guadalcanal and also the loss of two fighter planes.

Secretary of War Stimson disclosed today that substantial American Army ground and Air Forces had arrived on Guadalcanal to help the Marines defend the Solomon islands key point against newly-developing Japanese attacks.

The damage done to the Guadalcanal air-field, which had previously been bombarded by Japanese warships, was not disclosed nor was there any exact explanation as to why American fighters in that one instance had failed to take the air to repel the attack.

A communique, following up last night's announcement that the enemy troops on the strategic island had been heavily reinforced said that United States reinforcements had been landed on Guadalcanal time, and that although the ships which carried them were attacked by enemy bombers they suffered no damage and unloading operations were accomplished successfully.

Matron Fined $150

Atlanta, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, matron of the Community Home for Girls, was fined $150 and given a suspended prison sentence of 11 months today on an assault conviction stemming from testimony by two girls that she punished them by burning. She was convicted yesterday after a brief trial in which the prosecution was based chiefly on the testimony of two teen age former residents of the home that she burned them with matches as punishment for smoking. Today's sentence was appealed by defense counsel.

Postpones Considering Bill

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Senate today postponed consideration of a $6,000,000 supplemental appropriation measure, principally for the Navy, so that the members might have more time to study it. The Appropriations committee unanimously approved the bill, which would boost the fiscal year's outlay for the Navy to $38,827,000,000.

Heavy Bomber Attack On Axis Supply Ships

Two Direct Hits Are Scored on Large Merchantman in Daylight Assault on Tobruk.

Bulletin!

Cairo, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The aerial battle of Malta, stumbling-block on the Axis convoy route to Africa, has cost Germany and Italy at least 81 planes since Sunday, it was disclosed today.

Cairo, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A daylight heavy bomber attack on Axis supply shipping in the port of Tobruk was announced today by the United States Army headquarters which said two direct hits were scored on a large merchantman. A lighter alongside the merchant vessel was said to have been demolished by another direct hit. The raid was carried out yesterday, a communique said.

Metis Beach, Quebec, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A westbound merchant ship was torpedoed and sunk last Thursday night off this summer resort on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river, farther upstream than previous submarine attack, it was announced today.

Metis Beach is 180 miles upriver from Anticosti Island at the mouth of the St. Lawrence, and 190 miles downstream from Quebec.

Priorities May Change Industry Management

Effectiveness in Producing War Materials Governed by Handling Of Complex Problem.

By James Marlow and George Zielke

New York, Oct. 15.—(Wide World)—Priorities, forced on industry by the war, should channel peacetime management into the smart intelligent operations it has ever known.

Now a company's effectiveness in producing war materials is largely governed by its handling of the complex problem of priorities.

When materials are plentiful management, through carelessness, is often wasteful. When materials are scarce it has to be careful. Waste costs money.

The lessons management is learning now will be carried over into post-war operations.

G. L. Murphy, priorities specialist of the management consulting firm of McKinsey and Company, says:

Enforcing Good Methods.

"The system of priorities has already done a great deal to enforce good management methods, so the by-product effects are sometimes as important as the immediate objectives of the priorities system.

"General executives and supervisors, as well as purchasing agents, are gaining a more intimate knowledge of materials and manufacturing operations.

"The necessity for supplying intimate facts to the government—answering the what, where and why of materials consumption—will revolutionize management procedures in a large number of companies.

"When management knows more accurately and intimately what machine it is using and what it needs for profitable operations, it is likely to use less of them and thus make more money.

"This is the picture as Murphy sees it developing:

"The control of priorities—or any modification of the system—plus to allocate materials — must be centralized so that reports can be quickly assembled.

"Because of this, many companies for the first time will be able to evaluate accurately the real worth of many long-range policies such as the value or worthlessness of centralization as opposed to decentralization.

(For instance: whether it is better for a firm to have a number of plants scattered around the country or centered in one place.)

Priorities will force better thinking on organization for many companies. The variety of organizational failures are due to defects in organization planning.

The various data which a company must collect for the government under the priorities system will furnish the basis for fundamental corrections in management policies.

Three Essential Steps

The following three steps are essential in setting up the machinery necessary in dealing with priorities:

1. In the planning of production and procurement: Many medium-size and small companies have found it necessary to set up procedures to regulate accurately the flow of production through the plant. Today, if this is not done, the manufacturer cannot state convincingly to the government why he needs certain materials.

2. Inventory control. In the past many companies depended upon the manufacturer to carry the inventory because fast and dependable transportation enabled them to order what was needed for a specific job at the last minute. Thus they could conduct their manufacturing operations with virtually no organized inventory control and with meager control data. Now it is essential to carry and control an important amount of inventory so that work can be scheduled in accordance with priorities. This requires sound inventory control methods.

3. Accounting for materials. Under government demands that facts be accurate and completely stated, management has been forced to adopt new methods to clarify the keeping of records.

Information Needed

Murphy explains that the priority managers must have the following information:

1. Data on supplies and inventories which his company has received during the previous quarter.

2. Facts on the ratings of orders which are on the books. Materials are "rated" in accordance with their "need" or urgency. If a war manufacturer has a contract to make shell caps which require copper, for example, the availability of copper would naturally be rated ahead of copper for repairing office fixtures.

3. With the foregoing information, estimates can be made of the amount of each type of material required; an accurate schedule of production developed, and shipments can be prepared with reasonable accuracy.

Murphy believes compliance with priority regulations would be practically hopeless if any of the above information were lacking.

Procuring materials, relatively simple in pre-war days, now is a full-time job of finding where supplies are and then obtaining them.

Cooking Study Is Needed Now

Food Shortage and Rising Prices Make Knowledge Necessary.

All indications point to a record attendance at the opening session of the State Theater cooking school, which begins Tuesday, Oct. 20 at 1 p.m. Manchester housewives confronted with the problem of food shortages and rising prices are eager for new wartime cooking and tips on how to keep within their budget, yet serve their families food that's good and good for them.

Arid Miss Kathleen Crowley who conducts the cooking school, is just the right person to give this advice. A specialist representative of the Spry Kitchen in Cambridge, Mass., she is both practical cook and trained home economist, as well as a most interesting lecturer. She knows her talk, she will prepare a number of dishes right on the stage.

There will be three sessions of the State theater cooking school all on three Tuesdays, Oct. 20-27 and Nov. 3 at 1 p. m. on the stage of the State theater. Under the operation of the local merchants, a large list of valuable gifts is to be given away at each session. A grand prize is to be awarded at the final school. All foods prepared during each days school are to be given to the audience at the session. Each person will receive a printed folder containing recipes of the dishes prepared during the school. These recipes have been thoroughly tested in the Spry Kitchen and are very handy to refer to.

Come and bring your neighbor to this interesting cooking school.

Ski Club Sets Banquet Date

Local Organization to Open Season on Oct. 19 at Sheridan Hotel.

The Manchester Ski club will open its season with a dinner at the Hotel Sheridan on Monday, October 19 at 7:00 o'clock. All old members are urged to be present and new members are cordially invited. They may obtain further information and make reservations by telephoning 4460 by Saturday noon.

The president of the club, Norman Osborne, will outline plans for the winter season for outings and ski jumps with neighboring clubs in this vicinity. He will also report on the transportation situation. Movies of the Sun Valley operation will be shown to illustrate skiing techniques.

Classes for beginners and for intermediates will be organized when snow conditions make this possible.

Husking Bee To Be Held

St. Bridget's Parish to Stage Annual Event In Hollister School.

Members of St. Bridget's church voted last night to hold a Thanksgiving festival on November 20, at the Hollister street school. The festival of the evening will be a modern and old-fashioned dancing, an entertainment and an old-time husking bee. Thomas Burke is was named chairman of the public relations committee and will handle the sale of tickets which will be put out within a few days.

The committees to handle the affair were named at the meeting. They are: Food and refreshments, Foster Williams, chairman, assisted by Thomas Sullivan, Robert Coleman, George Patten, Joseph Volz, Stanley Biskus and Michael Benevento. Produce committee, Andrew Healy. Assisting Father Breen on the ticket committee, William P. Quish. Refreshments, Mrs. John Wilson, Mrs. John Crotty, Mrs. Walter Balch, and Mrs. Richard Brannick.

The affair as planned this year will be one of many and diversified settings within the hall. Drawings for $300 in cash will be made at it takes place. Contrary to the work belonged in the Highway department.

The thing of charges of "misconduct, material neglect of duty and incompetency against Highway Commissioner William J. Cox early this year constituted another attempt, said Hadden, to embarrass the governor of "inspiring" the charges. Cox, who was appointed for several months, was reinstated by the governor after the charges were filed and the filing of a timing of facts by State Referee George E. Hamilton.

Housing Shortage Hit

The governor flung another charge at the governor, accusing him of responsibility for the housing shortage in the state and of giving out "false information" about the decision to build a 300-unit defense housing project in Waterbury.

The Democrats' chief spokesman last night was Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, candidate for reelection as secretary of the state, who charged the Republicans by declaring in their platform that they have "cast aside" the exigencies of war were exhibiting "the same attitude which they showed it in Congress in refusing to see that the war was coming."

Urges All to Vote

Making a special plea that everyone vote on Nov. 3, Mrs. Woodhouse said personally, I should regret very deeply a low election with a large vote, polled by one party, coupled with a election with only a small per cent of the registered voters coming to the polls.

"The entire Republican state ticket came to New Haven last night, not for campaign addresses, but to attend a reception tendered them by the New Haven Women's Republican club.

The gubernatorial candidate, Raymond E. Baldwin spoke briefly, scoring a Democratic charge that the efforts of the 1938-1940 administration to bring new industries into Connecticut and create employment had been "worthless."

He declared that two factories in the New Haven area, The American Cyanamid plant in North Haven and the United States Electrical Motors company of Milford, has come to Connecticut as a result of his administration's campaign.

A new wrinkle in campaigning was disclosed by William J. Miller of Wethersfield, First District Republican candidate for Congress, who announced that up to last night 431 persons had agreed to hold "radio rallies" for an address he will deliver tomorrow night.

He had asked his supporters each to invite a few friends to their homes to listen in small groups to his broadcast.

All Candidates At Meeting

The Connecticut League of Women Voters announced it had arranged a meeting at which all candidates for governor—Democrat, Robert A. Hurley, Republican Raymond E. Baldwin and Socialist Jasper McLevy—would appear together for the first time.

Hurley, Democratic candidate for Hartford's Bushnell Memorial hall last Thursday evening, Oct. 29, and the announcement said the other gubernatorial candidates had agreed to appear with Democrat Chairman P. Kopplemann, Democrat Cox, incumbent, and Republican opponent, William J. Miller, Representative-at-Large Lucian Lincoln, Democrat, Republican, in election, and his Republican opponent, Ella Grasso, Democrat, Republican Monkiewicz have been endorsed by Socialists.

The league said the meeting was arranged to answer a "challenge" by Republicans that Democrats are pressed in every political campaign speech made thus far" that the women's vote will be especially important in the coming election.

Charges Hurley Seeks Highway Unit Control

Hadden Sees Attempt To Turn Small Towns From Republican to Democratic Vote.

By The Associated Press

The Connecticut State Highway department was in the middle of the political campaign today as a result of House Leader William L. Hadden's charge that Governor Hurley, Democrat seeking re-election, was trying to gain control of it for political purposes.

"One of the theories of the Democratic party," Hadden, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, said in a radio campaign address last night, was that the approximately $18,000,000 annual appropriation of the Highway department "put to best political purposes would turn small towns from Republican to Democratic.

He charged that Governor Hurley first tried to control the department in 1937 when, as newly appointed public works commissioner, he assumed authority over all highway construction and maintenance projects costing more than $1,000 without the knowledge that this work belonged in the Highway department.

The thing of charges of "misconduct, material neglect of duty and incompetency against Highway Commissioner William J. Cox early this year constituted another attempt, said Hadden, to embarrass the governor of "inspiring" the charges. Cox, who was appointed for several months, was reinstated by the governor after the charges were filed and the filing of a timing of facts by State Referee George E. Hamilton.

would clear up when private industry found was finished, so the building trades,

"Isn't it recognized that you've overexpanded plants?" Murray questioned.

'Put Below Needs'

"No," General Somervell replied. "We are putting below our needs.

"Well," retorted the chairman, "it looks like we are beating around the bush. We are trying to get some of these contracts to small plants." Rep. Gerlach said he is expressing a pious friendship for small business, but doing nothing about it unless you discontinue this expansion."

General Somervell doesn't show that. Somervell declared, contending every effort was made to place the small plant facilities.

Murray said he had instituted that 70 to 75 per cent of the Army's contracts went to district ordnance offices for letting and delivery to certain contractors.

"That is in the New York district and applies only to the ordnance contracts," General Somervell said, adding that the bulk of these contracts were continuous orders to plants already doing specialized work.

Murray directed him to produce—marketing for all divisions.

To Allow No Slow Downs

Earlier Somervell had testified that existing war production lines would not be allowed to slow down in order to place work with small plants "where such action will interfere with deliveries to troops."

However, the chief of the War Department's Services of Supply assured the senators "simple items" would be placed in smaller plants wherever practicable "in order to allow more capacity for production on complicated items" in bigger concerns.

Meanwhile, Representative Kopplemann (D., Conn.), testified at the industry had complained since the beginning of the defense program of the concentration of work in a few industries.

Even with legislation designed to relieve the situation and authorize federal loans to aid small business, he declared, "we now find another severe bottleneck in that the War and Navy Department must first award the contracts to small industry" before they can obtain loans.

Pass Up Little Fellows

"Ever since we permitted contracts to be negotiated instead of competed for, in the interest of speed," Kopplemann continued, "the Army and Navy have notoriously passed up the little fellows in awarding contracts."

Somervell summed up the War department's war production policy as follows:

"The production load must be spread over the broadest base practicable through increased prime contracting and subcontracting in order to meet requirements of our troops on schedule.

"Simple items will be placed in smaller plants wherever practicable in order to allow the more capacity for production of complicated items in the larger plans.

"Existing production lines must not be slowed down or stopped in order to place the work with small plants not now having war work where such action will interfere with deliveries to troops.

Must Transfer Work

"Wherever practicable, work must be gradually transferred from congested areas to areas having a surplus of labor.

(Mayor F. H. LaGuardia complained to the committee this week New York had more than 70,000 vacant apartments, nearly 500,000 unemployed and ample transportation facilities which were being overlooked in the war program.)

"In order to make the best use of our supply of raw materials, the placement of contracts in accordance with the Army supply program must not be made earlier than is necessary to meet the delivery requirements under such program."

More Women Working In Plane Plants Now

Come from Homes and Chorus Lines; Some Can Handle Any Job Men Able to Do.

By William F. Bond
Wide World Military Editor

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.—A few weeks in this bustling war industry area and you decide that, if women are still in the picture, she certainly isn't spending much time there these days.

At more and more corner filling stations you find signs reading "Victory Girls on Duty" and then see two or three grinning gals in coveralls clambering all over a grease job.

On street cars you see young women and older ones, in shirts and slacks, wearing the identification buttons of plane plants or other war factories.

In Los Angeles the nerve center of the Fifth Column Air raid warning system is staffed almost entirely by women, almost all of them volunteers. They are pledged to (and do) keep the secret of their operations, which is quite a trick when you realize that it takes about 2,000 of them to keep the center going 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The Hollywood Bowl is used in Hartford's Bushnell Memorial hall last Thursday evening, Oct. 29, and the announcement said the other gubernatorial candidates had agreed to appear with Democrat Chairman P. ICC Approves Railroad Buy

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission approved yesterday the purchase by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company of its own stock and equipment trust certificates for around $5,000,000 in securities. The plan must become effective during the 1943 calendar year.

The exact date of effectiveness will be fixed by the reorganization committee in accordance with the plan, when securities can be delivered.

The reorganization was reconsidered by the ICC after having been disapproved by Federal Court, which made suggestions for improving the program.

Among the provisions in the revised plan is one to permit discontinuance of passenger service on the Old Colony lines if the losses exceed so-called critical figures which were fixed at $850,000 for any consecutive 12 months within the first two years after the plan becomes effective and $500,000 for any consecutive 12 months after the initial two-year period.

Oil Dealers To Register

All of Them, Even to the Corner Grocer, Must Sign Up With Board.

Hartford, Oct. 15—From the corner grocer who sells kerosene one gallon at a time to the fuel oil distributor who contracts his sales in tens of thousands of gallons, all who have a part in the sale of heating or cooking oil will register with their local OPA War Price and Rationing Board on October 21 and October 22, Chester Bowles, State OPA director, has announced.

Not only must the dealers in registering be prepared to give the capacity of their oil tanks according to the type of oil they use, but they will give a detailed account of the amount of all kinds of fuel they had on hand as of midnight, September 30.

Customer Purchases

"The fuel oil dealers are cooperating with the local War Price and Rationing Boards," Bowles said, "and will be given application blanks which they will distribute to each of their last year's customers along with a statement of that customer's purchases during the 1941-1942 heating season. Because many dealers have been in the habit of selling fuel oil from door to door on a cash basis, complete customer lists may not be available in all instances.

"As a consequence, should a fuel oil user not receive his application blank from his dealer in time to file it in a reasonable time after October 22, he should go to the local OPA War Price and Rationing Board and secure his copy of the application. Bowles said.

Many householders who buy kerosene in small quantities do not receive a dealer certificate but instead receive at the last year's of oil and report the figure on their applications.

Court Scores Draft Dodgers

Fines and Imprisonment For Members of Religious Sect.

New Haven, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Scoring citizens who are interested in the welfare of their country and who refuse to accept the obligations of that citizenship, U. S. District Judge Hincks stated yesterday imposed jail sentences ranging eight years and six months and fines totaling $1,400 upon four members of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect, who had been previously convicted in Federal Court here on charges of violation of the Selective Service law.

The four defendants, three of whom claim to be ordained ministers of religion, were sentenced as follows:

Joseph Claxton, 25, of 523 Russell street, New Haven; Americo Angelo Guarrera, of Waterbury; and Joseph Erichetti, 37, of Waterbury, all of whom were convicted on charges of failure to report for assignment to camps for conscientious objectors, each were sentenced to serve two years in a penal institution and were fined $500.

Ernest Fittig, 26, of Old Town Road, Trumbull, convicted on a charge of failure to report for induction into the U. S. Army, was sentenced to serve two years and six months in a penal institution and was fined $500.

Asked For Protection

Before passing sentence on the members of Jehovah's Witnesses, Judge Hincks declared that "the records of the Supreme Court of the United States show that the members of this sect have frequently appealed to the courts for protection of their rights as citizens.

"And those great privileges contained in the Constitution have been confirmed in them by the Supreme Court. Having these privileges confirmed in them, I cannot understand how these members of Jehovah's Witnesses refuse to carry out the obligations of this citizenship.

"It is apparent to any student of history," Judge Hincks stated, "that this country can endure when its citizens are interested only in the rights of citizenship and refuse to carry out the basic obligations of their citizenship.

U. S. Assistant District Attorney Valentine J. Farco recommended to the court that jail sentences of three years be imposed in each case.

Fines Are Imposed

"Since these men will have to be supported by the government while serving their sentences and their families with them seems to have substantial property, I can see no reason why a moderate fine should not be imposed. The defendants have property which the government can take to help defray the expense of their sustenance.

One of them, he continued, appears to have no property but the fine should be imposed to serve to delay his release.

In passing sentence on Fittig, Judge Hincks pointed out that Fittig's offense is more serious, since the Draft Board found no occasion to class the defendant as a conscientious objector and ordered him to report for induction which he refused to do.

The institutions where the defendants will serve their sentences will be designated later by the Attorney general.

In each case, the court specified that the defendants be stated committed until the fines are paid.

Plea for Help In Dining Hall

Jorgensen Says University Will Not Close Despite Situation.

Storrs, Oct. 15—(AP)—President Albert N. Jorgensen of the University of Connecticut appealed today for students to volunteer help in the dining halls on a basis of "no workee-no eatee."

He said that unless the dining hall situation was "acute" the school, with an enrollment of 2,000 students, would not close.

"The dining hall situation is acute. The women running the dining halls are frantic," the president declared. "Regular help is now exhausted."

Formulates New Rules

In this connection he formulated several new rules intended to alleviate the situation:

1—No guest shall eat in the dining halls.

2—No catering to special conferences or parties.

3—Staff members who live on campus and have wives no longer can eat in the cafeteria.

President Jorgensen said that it might be necessary soon to serve only two meals instead of three on Sundays.

The dining halls are operated as cafetarias and students form long lines to get their food.

"Breaking into lines by students will have to stop," said the president.

Situation "Not Satisfactory"

He added that the student help situation was "not satisfactory" and said that while some students have been very cooperative and have worked only one or two meals and then missed a number.

He said that 34 full-time workers in the dining halls had been lost to the school.

"There is an especial lack of kitchen help at the school," he said President Albert N. Jorgensen, "the staff is working such long hours that it is asking too put some of them to bed from sheer exhaustion."

Imperative More Take Jobs

Commenting on the problem nationally, said it was imperative that more of the approximately 2,000 students leave the university, and President Jorgensen was instrumental in preparing a direct plea to students to apply for work.

The Campus reported that 612 students were now working, fewer than last year, and that 40 per cent of this number were co-ed, many of them holding dining hall and laboratory assistant jobs that formerly had been eagerly sought by men.

The paper blamed the high wages of war factories for the situation, claiming men students returned to school this fall with bulging bankrolls.

The situation became public yesterday when President Jorgensen addressed a meeting of the Ansonia Rotary club, at which a reporter heard him say that the school might have to close next week.

Confirms Closing Danger

Later, the president confirmed that he had said there was some danger that the university might have to close, but denied having said it was as imminent as next week.

"The present kitchen and dining hall staff cannot continue to feed approximately 2,000 students unless help is found," he told the Rotarians. "We have reached not only our own state, but Maine and Vermont as well. This type of help just isn't to be found. We are 58 hands short. Unless we get at least 25 the university will have no alternative but to close for it will be impossible to feed the students and staff."

Burned to Death In Her Bedroom

West Haven, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Miss Margaret Costello, 70, burned to death today in the fire that destroyed a bedroom in her home.

A police dog was suffocated in the blaze and the body was found in the front hall of the one-story bungalow.

Miss Costello was found kneeling beside her bed. Firemen and authorities said, that she had made an effort to extinguish the flames by throwing overcoat.

The fire was discovered by two men walking by the home at third man at an intersection.

Miss Costello, who lived alone in the building, firemen said, that they were prevented from entering.

Medical Examiner Harold S. Appell said that Miss Costello apparently had left her bed and accidentally knocked over an oil lamp.

No Rent Date Changes Here

Extension of Control to Whole Country Does Not Affect This Area.

Hartford, Oct. 15—Extension of rent control to the entire country does not mean that the rent date for the Connecticut defense-rental areas will be changed, it was warned today by G. Ray Smith, director of the Hartford-New Britain Defense-rental area. Inquiries to the local area office indicate that some landlords believe that the recent announcement of extension of areas and imposition of a new rent date later than those included in the original order means that the entire country will be under the rent control based on the same rent date.

"The recent orders designating the entire country as a defense-rental area specifically accepts the areas where rent control is already in effect," Mr. Smith said. "The legal rent date for accommodations other than those included in hotels and rooming houses is April 1, 1941; and for hotels and rooming houses the 30 days ended on April 1, 1941. This legal maximum rent date will remain in effect unless it is changed by a specific order written for this area. If any such change is made it will be given adequate publicity."

of my company, has perfected the helicopter. This is a rotating wing aircraft, capable of ascending or descending vertically, moving sideways, forward or backward, and hovering under complete control.

"It can be built with the body of a small car. Its owner could use it as a business car and as an airplane when distance warranted."

Wilson said that many persons thought at the close of the last war that the airplane then would come into its own in private transport.

"This was premature," he added. "There was no airplane suited to this purpose; there were few airports and few pilots. This will not be true at the end of this war, and it seems likely that new vehicles will be made available."

Pointing to progress made by commercial planes in competing rail and water transportation, he said that air freight was being developed rapidly, but added:

"The airplane is not a cure-all. Transportation of aviation gasoline is an important factor. The airplane is a poor substitute for the tanker."

Wilson saw air power as "the decisive factor" in warfare, although "used independently, the airplane seems unlikely to bring about a decision alone."

GOP Women Meet Tonight

Vernon Group to Hear Prominent Leaders at Rockville Club.

Rockville, Oct. 15—(Special)—The Vernon Women's Republican club will hold a chicken supper on Saturday evening at seven o'clock at the Italian Social club on Snipsic street.

It is expected that several prominent Republican leaders will attend including John McWilliams of Norwich, candidate for congressman; Carl Sharpe of Pomfret, candidate for state treasurer; Mrs. Frances R. Redick of Newington, candidate for secretary of state; Attorney General Francis A. Pallotti and the former congressman, Alfred L. J. Monkiewicz.

Miss Agnes Woods, Mrs. Kenneth Smith, Mrs. Henry Hoermann and Miss Edith West are in charge.

Break at Club

For the second time in a year the Italian-American Social club, located on Snipsic street, was broken into early Wednesday, but nothing of value was taken. Cash box was pried open, but since the break a year ago, no money was left in the box overnight. Entrance was gained by breaking a basement window. Last year when the break was made a small amount of money was taken. The club is now in some distance from the street. Patrolman Arthur Francis made an inspection of the property.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Allan C. Smith of Hartford, state vice president in charge of organization of the League of Women Voters, was the speaker at the tea held by the Rockville Junior League of Women Voters this afternoon with Mrs. H. J. Regan and Mrs. Paul Canfield as hostesses.

Rockville Girl to Wed

Miss Estelle Grace Belyea, 28, of 58 Mountain street, and James Joseph Gray, 41, serving in the armed forces, procured a license to marry yesterday at the Municipal Building in New York City. The couple indicated they would be married immediately in the City Chapel by Deputy City Clerk Murray W. Stand.

The prospective bride was born in St. John, Canada, the daughter of John F. and Grace Armstrong Belyea. Mr. Gay, the son of Frank and Rose O'Brien Gay, was born in Hudson Falls, N. Y.

Change Bonnet Place

The annual 4-H Baby Beef Club banquet will be held at Piedmont Hall, in Somers Center, instead of the Scout Cabin as formerly announced. Among the guests expected to be present are Commissioner Cornell J. King, Charles A. Nash, general manager of the Eastern States Exposition, Harlor Leland, assistant State Club Leader in Massachusetts; J. E. Kelly, First National Stores representative. Several members of the University of Connecticut staff will be present and movies of the recent Baby Beef show will be shown by A. J. Brundage State Club leader.

Arrangements for the banquet are in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Avery of Somers and W. B. Young, Shore Green S. Trask, County Club agent, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Victory Exhibits

Twenty-one 4-H Fairs and Victory exhibits were held in Tolland County during the past two months. Each of the 13 towns held at least one fair or exhibit with a total estimated attendance of 1,700. This figure is more than triple the attendance of the 4-H County Fair in 1941. Most of the people were able to visit these fairs, thus without using cars, thereby saving valuable rubber and gasoline that might have been used if a County Fair had been held.

Summarizing the 21 exhibits, it was found that over 600 4-H Club, Victory Corps and school members made 1,500 different entries. Outstanding exhibits were held by the Kibbe-Fuller school in Somers, the Hebron Center school, the Ridges school in Mansfield, and the two Union schools, Ellington and Vernon young people held a two town fair at the Vernon County Home which was featured by a parade of winners. Through the generosity of the State 4-H Club office ribbons were awarded to first, second and third place winners.

Several Granger 4-H Clubs, schools and other organizations donated defense stamps and cash prizes at many of the exhibits.

County Club Agents, Dorothy M. Morton and Owen S. Trask were impressed with the fine work that had been done by many of the young people during the summer months. With a more extensive program being planned for the coming months, every boy and girl is expected to take an active part in the production and conservation of food and feed crops and in the general improvement of health.

Lost in Manchester, Bag Found in Bolton

Bolton, Oct. 15.—(Special)—Wednesday's Herald carried an ad in the lost and found column stating that a lady's brown bag containing two blank checks, etc., was lost between Cheney mills and Russell street. The owner of the lost article now is in possession of the bag and can have it in Manchester but in Bolton.

Mr. and Mrs. Keeney Hutchinson of Bolton were returning home from attending the Grange meeting at Wapping when they noticed what appeared to be a lady's handbag in the middle of the road directly in front of Herbert Hutchinson's home near Bolton Center. The contents of the bag were strewn over considerable area and included two Cheney checks, already endorsed, money, keys, medicine, etc.

A check-up revealed the reason for the bag's appearance in Bolton as follows: The owner of the bag was a passenger in a car driven by a Bolton man on Tuesday evening when the passenger got off at Bissell street. The bag evidently was dropped on the running board and remained there until the driver of the car turned into the curve in front of Herbert Hutchinson's home.

The fourth annual meeting of the Coventry Garden Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clayton Hunt of Lake street. The matter of disbanding for the duration was considered, but owing to war-time demands, but it was finally voted to continue the organization with a curtailed program. The present officers were asked to serve another year, with meetings to be held every other month for the duration of the war. At each meeting the president will appoint a program committee to take charge of the following meeting. All money making activities will be discontinued, and no further contributions will be made by the club to city or other extensive War Chest. The Garden Club has in the past contributed to a number of civic and charitable causes. Officers are: President, Mrs. Clayton Hurd; vice president, Mrs. Burton Hutchinson; secretary, Mrs. Winthrop Merriam; treasurer, Mrs. Lynn Beerwort. Mrs. Wilton Rose resigned as recording secretary, and Mrs. Merriam, former corresponding secretary, will take over both duties. Mrs. Hurd was presented with a silver tray by the club in appreciation of her services for the past year.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Jessie Clasey, of "Miles-Away" Farm, gave a talk on Gardening in England, her former home, and added many interesting sidelights gleaned from journeys in many foreign states with her husband, the late Charles M. Clasey, former European manager for the Texas Oil Company.

Earle W. Green Post and Auxiliary, American Legion, met Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reynolds on Babcock Hill. It was voted to send president Mrs. Ethel Nelson of the Auxiliary or an alternate to be appointed, to the banquet at the Hotel Bond in Hartford on Oct. 24, for Department President and Department Commander. The next meeting of the post and auxiliary will be held in the town hall on November 11. Ex-servicemen's night will be omitted this year.

Mrs. Alexander Haddad of South street received cuts and bruises in an auto accident, Monday evening in Willimantic, when the car in which she was riding struck a lamp post. Her son Edward L. Haddad, was struck by a car driven by Donald Brown of Willimantic, who told police he had lost control of the car when his front tire blew out. After hitting the Haddad car, Brown collided with a second car, driven by Clayton Hunt of Columbia. Brown was arrested.

The evening at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow will be the public meeting of Coventry's first Board of Finance, held in the town hall. At this meeting, the tentative estimate of expenditures of the town for the ensuing year will be presented to the public.

Weddings

Freidrichs-London

Miss Arlene W. London, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. London of Andover became the bride of Charles Mortimer Freidrichs son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freidrichs also of Andover at a ceremony performed at the home of the bride on Wednesday at high noon. Dr. Brownell Gage of Bolton officiated at the single ring service. The home was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father wore a Defense Blue travelling suit, blouse, black velvet and lace hat, and a corsage of white rosebuds and mums. Her maid of honor, Miss Carol Fredericks, sister of the groom, wore a grey tweed suit with a corsage of yellow mums.

Ivan E. London, brother of the bride, was best man for the groom.

The mother of the bride wore a black corded dress with green trimmings and the mother of the groom was gowned in navy crepe with navy accessories.

Following the ceremony a luncheon for the immediate members of the family was held at the Hotel Sherman, Manchester, at 1:30. The couple left for a wedding trip to New York City, the bride wearing her travelling suit with mink furs and brown accessories. Upon their return the couple will reside in Andover.

The bride is a graduate of Windham High School, class of '40, and has been connected with the Prudential Life Insurance at Manchester where she has made many friends.

The groom is also a graduate of Windham High, class of '39, and is associated with the Travelers Insurance at Hartford.

During the past week the bride was feted at two showers receiving innumerable gifts of china, blankets, linen, glassware, lamps, and a substantial sum of money.

The color of the eyes is governed by heredity, and if two parents have eyes of the same color the children probably will have eyes of the same hue.

Second Front Tied to Raids

Normandy Expected by Germans to Be Scene Of Possible Invasion.

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 15.—(AP)—DNB reported today a series of British commando raids along the coast of France last month, and said it can be deduced that the British command hopes to tie up forces of the Soviet domain for a second front and to make Normandy the scene of such an attack.

In September, Commando raids on a large scale were carried out by the British," it said. "Adding to the other indications for a British landing on the coast of Normandy.

One night during the month, the news agency said, the German post on a stretch of coast on the Cauquets group west of Alderney was attacked.

"This position is in the channel northeast of the Channel islands and west of the peninsula on which the French port of Cherbourg is situated.)

On Sept. 7, it said, the British attempted to land on the west coast of the Cotentin peninsula of Normandy but the coastal defenses were stated to have driven off the boat.

Further such attempts were observed on other points off the coast of Normandy during the same period, it said.

The last Commando raid on German positions in France itself to be announced was the Aug. 19 raid on Dieppe.

However, after the German broadcast, there was a raid on the Channel Island of Sark, the British announced that a party of 10 officers and men landed on the night of Oct. 3. They said the raiders came from "base operations which frequently were carried out but not ordinarily announced."

(The Germans charged the British in the Sark raid with forcing German prisoners, precipitating the current shackling controversy, in which the Germans have shackled more than 1,376 British prisoners and the British and Canadians retaliated by putting a like number of Germans in chains.)

Danger as Well As Promise Seen

London, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A Times editorial discussed today decisions which "must be taken in coming weeks . . . will determine the mode in which allied strategy is to assume the general offensive."

Decisions to be made while Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts of the Union of South Africa is available in London for talks with Prime Minister Churchill, the editorial said, are "of the utmost importance."

"Planning of the mode of the attack must have regard to the ever-mounting need that victory should be not only complete but speedy. . . . The plans must be mainly concerned with the choice of points at which to challenge the defenses which the enemy is busily making to make impregnable. They relate above all to the opening of our fresh offensive, in which Germany cannot be beaten."

Engagements

Hendrickson-Deptula

Frank Deptula, of 11 Kerry street, announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Bernice Frances Deptula, to Staff Sergeant Thomas B. Hendrickson, of Montgomery, Iowa, who is stationed with the Armed Forces in Iowa.

The wedding is scheduled to take place Saturday, Nov. 14, at St. John's church in Colony street.

Women's Clubs In Convention

Willard B. Rogers Is One of Principal Speakers at Parley.

Hartford, Oct. 15 — "Keeping Connecticut in the Front Ranks, the subject assigned Willard B. Rogers, chairman of the State Development Commission, resulted in Mr. Rogers describing the activities of the Commission at the annual Convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs (in the Hotel Bond in Hartford today) in part as follows:

"The State of Connecticut Development Commission, of which I have the honor to be Chairman and the objectives of which you have asked me to highlight today, is the outgrowth of the former Connecticut Publicity Commission. The job of the latter was to publicize the Industrial, Agricultural, Recreational and Educational opportunities available in Connecticut.

"The broader program of the Development Commission involves upon this body of eleven business men and a trained staff, the responsibility of the general welfare of our business and social activities and with examples these assets in a dignified and permanent way for the future.

After the War Needs

"At the moment there is a tremendous wave of industrial development. The war effort is taxing our industrial plants more than absorbed our labor. Yet, we are today experiencing every effort toward insurance against migration of industry from Connecticut after the war and definitely for the establishment in Connecticut of new industries and plants to help take up inevitable slack which will follow the cessation of this conflict. It is interesting to note that prior to the entrance of this country into the war, the Development Commission, in conjunction with the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, had succeeded in bringing into the state many industries not dependant upon war work. Connecticut is in a definite contribution to permanent peacetime prosperity.

"Why should new industry want to come to Connecticut? Climate does not enter into it.

"Topography or geographic location do not enter into the actual analysis, it is people — the kind of people — that attract business of all kinds. And let me say to the president of a company which moved its plant from the Pacific Coast to Connecticut. He said, 'We chose Connecticut because we like Connecticut folk. They are neither high-hat nor low-brow. That, friends, is the greatest tribute ever paid the populace of any section.

Trained Organization

"One of the most definite contributions of the Development Commission to the war effort and an achievement which shows what it can do, was the organization by a trained technical organization of the transfer of machine tools from the debacle of Pearl Harbor, which Japanese bombers and war contractors together in a manner which unbelievably expedited war production. For that service, the Ordnance Department of the War Department expressed its gratitude.

"In the Department of Agriculture, the objective of this Commission is to assume the role of an overall stimulator and coordinator. We make no claim to wielding the sickle or the scythe, but we propose to make all Agricultural efforts successful. We want to be the guidance to the many state and federal agricultural departments and organizations. We do, however, believe that this Commission can be of tremendous value greatly in their marketing and promotion activities and we hope to bring about shortly a common marketing agreement which will utilize of the soil, dairymen and producers in Connecticut to produce more effectively and successfully.

Home State of Artists

"In the field of recreational Development, or as Francis S. Murphy, a member of our commission and publisher of the Hartford Times, so aptly phrased the designation of a tremendous source of income in our state, 'Recreation,' the Commission has directed its efforts toward the right place in attracting visitors. To surprise your members to know that in addition to our invaluable frontage on Long Island Sound, Connecticut is the proud possessor of more than one thousand named lakes, to say nothing of our several rivers, each bank of which is lined with summer homes, and our mountains of Northwestern Connecticut upon which several hundred natural lakes are surrounded by artists, business folk and others live and prove a great source of local tax revenue and sky-rocketed business in those favored areas.

"We, of course, would be carrying coals to Newcastle were we even to suggest changes in our educational program to such men as Dr. Alonzo Grace, State Commissioner of Education. In too few people in the rest of the country know that Connecticut is a Utopia when it comes to educational opportunities for those who want to pursue their studies in financial or social status. I refer not only to the opportunities in our elementary schools, but also to our institutions of higher learning. What State offers more?

"I now turn your direction to the long-range program of the Development Commission and one that will be of great value to Connecticut and to the nation, if we carry fully and not too optimistically—not too optimistically because the type of men who comprise this Commission frown upon exaggerated statements or blue-sky propagands. I refer to post-war planning.

Cannot Just Stop

"A greater authority than I says that the war is over, the agreement cannot just dissolve the Army, close down munition factories, stop building ships and remove all economic controls. We have been warned against the demobilization and reconstruction.

"Let me at this point make a sharp line of demarcation between government control in an all-out war and in peace times. I have no criticism to make of the present governmental direction of business and society, excepting that if we have had a peace control we should have had simultaneously and not a day following, wage control. Inflation is inevitable unless both travel hand-in-hand.

"But we Connecticutites can righteously approve a social disorganization and regimentation in time of a war which we know a democracy remain the antithesis of a totalitarian state unless we so quickly as is practical return to freedom of enterprise, freedom from control, freedom of employment of employers and employes, freedom for the individual to make his own choice of occupation.

"Then this brings to that challenge, that great challenge—the challenge of whether we financed and sweated and bled and died for the preservation of Democracy as we have prayed, we are willing and ready to lose our very independence of thought and action. And I have not even touched upon the conditions for which our forefathers came to America, the freedom in religion, freedom of the press, etc.

"This post-war job cannot be left to Government. Private business must prepare now to do not just its share but more than its share. Inevitably, in the early stages of our economic readjustment, there will have to be some governmental projects. It is beyond the wish of the greatest dreamer to expect industry in such a highly industrialized States, as Connecticut, to re-tool their plants overnight, to re-convert their mass production set-ups, to reclaim lost markets, to provide for our own public demand, and to do the thousand-and one things that must follow the return from war-time to peace-time production.

"In addition to the millions who will be gradually mustered out of the Armed Forces, there will be millions of industrial workers who will suddenly be confronted with the problem of readjustment. I repeat—only a dreamer would dare predict that this colossal task will be accomplished without hardship.

Experience Great Teacher

"But, experience is a great teacher. It was my privilege to be a member (as a representative of the Mayors of Connecticut) elected from the General Assembly by the late Governor Marcus H. Holcomb of President Wilson's Reconstruction Conference immediately after the last war. At the conclusion of that Conference, Secretary of Labor Wilson, President Wilson's Cabinet, said to me, 'The only trouble with this Conference is that it should have been held a year ago.'

"Let me offer reason for thorough study of post-war planning is that with either federal, state or local work making projects, there must be no more of this haphazard, unplanned and off-the-cuff type of job creation. Rather, these work projects must be scientifically developed so that when the job will have been completed, our citizenry will not continuously ask why so much money was wasted here or there.

"We must, too, be careful in that readjustment period that we do not ask or even permit our money spend unproportionately to the end that industry will move into additional small towns where the raw material is much nearer but where to all intents and purposes the industry and its employes are located in a city.

"This war will end. It will end victoriously for this country and its allies. The right kind of a partnership between the Federal government, the State, City and Town Governments, and business, large and small, can build a peace which while not entirely successful in averting dire days in the post-war era will cushion this jolt to the extent that Democracy as we have come to know it will survive. That and nothing less will justify the terrible toll in human lives this victory will cost. Other costs are relatively unimportant.

Rommel Returns To North Africa

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 15.—(AP)—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has returned to North Africa after a visit to Germany, it was reported here today the enemy's position, improving his own lines, examining supplies and watching over the health of his troops."

Senate Given Big Navy Bill

Appropriations Committee Unanimous in Approval of Measure.

Washington, Oct. 15—(AP)—A bill that would boost the fiscal year's outlay for the Navy to $20,827,000,000 in cash and contractual authority went before the Senate today with the unanimous approval of its Appropriations committee.

The measure, carrying $2,882,000,000 for the construction of 14,611 additional Navy planes, was expected to win speedy approval. Included in it was an authorization for the Navy to begin work on contracts on 500,000 tons of new aircraft carriers, 300,000 tons of cruisers, 900,000 tons of destroyers and escort vessels and 200,000 tons of auxiliary vessels at an over-all cost of $9,500,000,000.

Pay Increases Included

The measure would make $460,954,000 available for pay increases and to finance allowances to the dependents of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel.

In approving the bill, the Senate committee restored to $600,000,000, the level requested by the Budget bureau, an appropriation the defense housing The House had cut this amount to $500,000,000.

It also acted to make available $1,000,000 the War

One Department Trends

One trend toward the eventual recognition of the wisdom of creating a Manchester Defense Department is developing in the policy of the Eighth District directors, who are preparing to expand their district with respect to its fire protection function, and who must necessarily be discussing improvements in alarm system and equipment, and research for best efficiency in covering a great deal more territory than is naturally within the capacity of the district's present fire protection establishment.

As more territory is taken in as the question of the fateful time in the full fire protection rate in comparison with the amount of protection offered, inevitably rises in the minds of those who have joined the district, as the need for new equipment and almost certainly for new fire houses continues the inevitable development, the wisdom of a town instead of a district plan of fire protection is certain to become more and more recognizable. When that day and that recognition comes, the entirely laudable sentiment and loyalty connected with the district system will cede to efficiency and progress and economy. And the day is probably not far off. It is certainly close enough to demand early thought and consideration on the part of all the people of Manchester.

That is one certain trend toward acceptance of the town plan. The day will come when even the Eighth District directors efficiently solved by the creation of a Manchester Fire Department.

Our Victories Not Enough

This morning, in the school of sharpening, we have learned a little more about our enemy, the Jap.

American headlines for the past few days were full of fine victories—victory in a night fleet engagement, victory for our pursuing air forces, victory for our submarines. From these headlines, one could and did gain the impression that the Jap effort to bear back down on Guadalcanal had been decisively defeated.

Our headlines today tell us that such American victories were not enough, not against an enemy who really means business.

Despite all these setbacks, the Japs have kept coming at Guadalcanal. We are not told where our own Navy was when heavy Japfleet units actually bombarded the island and held it hold on Guadalcanal. We are not told where our own Navy was when heavy Jap reinforcements, probably outnumbering our own air and artillery, landed on the north coast of Guadalcanal. But when we are told the facts of the bombardment and of the new landings, it seems likely that either we were badly outnumbered or that the Japs temporarily had the more successful numbers.

We have now been on Guadalcanal for more than two months. We have maintained our position there in spite of our victories. It is a test sample of what the war in the Pacific must be like for perhaps a long time to come. Perhaps some of us haven't believed Ambassador Grew when he told us what kind of enemy we had. More of us understand, today, what he meant.

What A Man

The appearance of Rubber Director William M. Jeffers before the Senate Agriculture Committee was a classic, both in example of what is still wrong with our effort to meet the realities of this war, and in example of the cure for it.

Mr. Jeffers had been called in because cotton Senators were filled with alarm over the prospect that rayon instead of cotton would be used in the manufacture of tires for the army.

The cotton Senators made a painfully clear that they were interested in getting the tire job for cotton regardless of the consequences.

"Do I understand you gentlemen to say to me," Mr. Jeffers asked at one point, "that I am to continue to hold up the war program for 60 to 90 days while tests are made on cotton?"

"So far as I am concerned the answer is yes," said Senator McKellar.

Somebody is going to have to do something to stop me," Jeffers replied.

Senator Bankhead feared that rayon producing plants would control the tire manufacturing business after the war.

"—(For) job now is to win the war," said Jeffers. "Let's quit talking about what's going to happen after the war."

Senator Wheeler, of all people, resented inferences that Congress doesn't want to win this war. And that is just where this isolationist would naturally be found—in alliance with some special group interested in blocking progress toward the winning of this war.

On the Congressional side, the entire hearing was a naked and sordid example of special interests seeking to dominate and distort the war effort.

Fortunately, Director Jeffers had all the answers and the courage to make them. He announced he was going ahead with plans for rayon, if that was what the army wanted, and that no one was going to stop him.

"I'm not going to put myself in a position where it is said of me, said Jeffers, "that I lack the intelligence and guts to do a job. Too many haven't done their job because they were afraid of some committee or pressure group. I'm not going to work on that basis.

Amen! And thanks, America, for a man like Jeffers!

The Final Illusion

A national lottery, as a substitute for direct taxation, is just what we need to complete the unreality of this war. It is proposed that there be 140,000 monthly winners, with top prizes of $100,000. We should rush to it, it is the one illusion we haven't yet tried.

Under the lottery system, when we give money to the government, we won't be preserving our way of life, or saving our necks from slavery, or giving proper support to young men who are dying for us. No, we'll be doing something much more exciting and attractive and pleasant—taking a chance on $100,000.

That is, its supporters proclaim, in one certain way of getting this nation in back of the war effort. With a lottery ticket in our pocket, there would no longer be any question about where our heart would be. It would be out on the line, feverishly, devotedly anxious for the next completion—the next communique from the lottery. Supporting the war in this way won't hurt at all; it will be painless patriotism, perhaps it is the solution our soft leadership, anxious to spare the people all unpleasantness, has been looking for.

"Win $100,000 and lick Hitler!" What a slogan!

What was that? France tried it? And France lost?

You don't get the point, "We, here in America, are not to show the world our collective every last weakness France had and still win. How and why? Because we are America, that's why. We always have the jealousy between special groups. We already have supreme confidence that everything we have is the best in the world. We're still pretty comfortable behind our two Magnificent Lines, the Atlantic and the Pacific. We have only the last illusion, the national lottery. What are we waiting for?

Connecticut Yankee

This is the season of year when the politicians are mentally and spiritually keyed to the campaign type of performance. The most prized talent of all is that of being able to throw a golden glow over your past record and another over your potential future service to the voters. The active politicians have come alive for this period by a series of strong gulps at the warm tonic sometime in September; his feet have left the ground about the first week in October and he doesn't normally make his next landing until some early November Wednesday. The interval he spends in some ever-varied, where claimed virtues are always real and vote-compelling, where past records and future promises are as handsome as words can make them, and where persuasive eloquence soars blithely and self-intoxicatingly along impervious to all the potential pin-pricks of fact and reality.

In this period, the politician is really without responsibility. He is excused from normal conduct on the ground that he is "campaigning." He is not expected to make two and two come out four; the whole crest of the period is to be how glamorous a job he can make of adding them up to six.

But this year it is different, the question of voting hours has mercifully allowed its way into the political world, providing a brief and unpleasant shock to many. And now it has gone so far as to call upon the politicians of the state to come down out of the clouds and actually perform the business of a special session of the General Assembly. This touch of actual responsibility in the midst of a political campaign is like having an adder crawl out of a deflated balloon, and our politicians are properly unnerved and disconcerted, touchy, suspicious and irritable. No sane mind would answer for their conduct in this peculiar scene. They obviously are a little bit worried about how they are going to behave themselves.

Ordinarily, General Assemblies function in the after-glow of elections, secure in the knowledge that voters may have a chance to forget what they do before they have to face another election. This is on the eve of election. The voters may not forget. Perhaps they can be impressed one way or another. But there must be no chance for the voters to feel comfortably high and immediate. In this year the highly nervous group of politicians who meet at Hartford on Monday.

of course, was instantaneous in recommending that the Governor come down out of the political clouds, but even he was feeling something a little off the ground.

Let the thing develop this way: Let the special session will actually be going strong in November, for who would adjourn until he had the last word?

The best remedy is to have the politicians concentrate on the nectiest vow they will pay no attention to anything that is said in this special session. Then the politicians might meet, enact, and go home.

Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York —We had a big scrap metal salvage campaign in our neck of the woods the other day, and walking along the waterfront noticing the miscellaneous piles of junk waiting for pickup I could be sure we think (8-4) the words, or common nouns to appear more learned, that have gone into the scrap heap too.

For instance, I saw a sad-iron in one pile, the average housewife's girl of today probably never knows what it is, but her mother and grandmothers certainly have!

Old uses, old sayings this scrap metal drive, digging deep into forgotten relics in the basement and attic, actually punctuates the story of this age which has seen so many changes in methods of heating, lighting, transportation and communication. We can get along fine without these useless reminders of the clumsy old ways.

It would be a fine thing if our wartime economies would carry over into the coming days of peace. Our national prosperity would be a great deal sounder. But our memories grow short, and it often costs more to save something than the objects is worth. Perhaps annual salvage campaigns would be the answer, bringing in everything, possibly to the support of war widows, orphans and hospitalized veterans.

Along in this vein, the "Keys to Victory" campaign, I am told, will be continued although the present drive for a hundred million of keys has officially been completed. It only recently has become possible to smelt down profitably the valuable metals used in these keys, and I see no good reason why this economy should be ended, with the war.

As individuals, after the war, we again will be inclined to think of a useless key as something to throw away, but if we could know that in a certain store there was a certain container for discarded keys, and that said keys would be melted down by the thousands with the proceeds going to some good cause, we might carry those keys around until we happened to visit that store.

No matter what economies we may forget, however, we should remember that it turned out to be a bad idea to be the world's junkman, selling scrap iron to anyone who could furnish a ship and haul it away. Wouldn't grandmother feel badly if she knew one of her old sad-irons had come back in the shape of a bullet fired at her grandson?

Washington in Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—In the War Department, in the Department of Labor and in the offices of the War Production Board these days, they are mapping plans for a nationwide battle against industrial accidents.

The rise in accidents in the war plants of the nation since we got into the world fracas has some of our production chiefs jittery.

The War Department recently issued a statement that of the first half of 1942 rate is maintained on industrial accidents, the year will go off the calendar with more than 20,000 war workers killed, 90,000 more permanently disabled and 2,000,000 others injured. The man hours lost probably will run close to half a billion. Is it any wonder that the production chiefs are perturbed?

In an Illinois factory, a wrench carelessly knocked from a scaffold fell into the gears of a powerful machine. One operator was killed, an assistant badly injured and about $6,000 damage done to the machine, which will cost 1139 hours while repairs were being made.

In a shipyard near Washington, a rickety scaffold collapsed. One man was killed, two injured. In Washington itself the other day, cement forms collapsed and injured workers—11 injured. Multiply these three little items by hundreds and you'll have what is happening every week.

The Labor Department has been fighting the industrial accident battle for years and had made excellent progress until the war came along. The terrific speed-up in production, the influx of inexperienced workers, the race against time, the relaxing of supervision, has wiped all that out.

The Army engineers are now swinging into the fight in earnest. The Labor Department is making available to them all the records and case histories of that long battle. Where the Army engineers are in direct supervision of a job, they are instituting all known precautions against accidents.

Where they are not, they are organizing an army of 25,000 supervisors and foremen to take up the fight for safety. These supervisors are being trained under experienced safety engineers in night classes at universities and colleges in more than a score of states. These supervisors will go back into the firing line armed with all the knowledge they need to make their plants accident-proof, but it won't get them far if they can't stir up the individual workers to a sense of personal responsibility.

The National Safety Council is raising a $5,000,000 war chest just for the purpose of campaigning against accidents on the industrial front.

What the council wants to do and the Army, too, is make every worker a safety "bug." If they could cut the 110,000 killed and permanently injured rate for the year in half, it would be a home-front victory that would be felt from Chungking to Stalingrad the long way round.

'Send a Book to a Soldier' Best Xmas Shopping Guide

If the Nov. 1 mailing deadline is closing in on you and you still haven't found the right gift for that boy in foreign service, send a book. When you put a book in the mail, you are guaranteeing pleasure not only for the lad who will receive it but also for all his buddies. One book may go the rounds of an entire battalion and that is really spreading out your Christmas joy.

Don't confine your book gifts to Christmas. Send a book to a soldier or a sailor whenever you can. Books, wrapped individually, comply with all postal restrictions and can be mailed under the low book rate. The average book will cost you about 6 cents postage.

Current releases supply an excellent selection for gifts for men in service. Books on the war are differentially omitted.

Short Stories Top List

Collections of short stories lead the list. A short story can fill in an empty hour or a dreary day. Ben Ali Haggin's "Best Short Stories the work of 93 living American authors White Burnett has collected 150 stories, essays, poems and profiles, each selected by the author as the finest product of 1942.

"American Harvest," (Fischer $3.50) contains the cream of American literary talent during the period 1920 to 1940. All the "big names" of fiction and fact are here with carefully selected samples, articles and verse. "The World's Great Short Stories" (World; 49c) offers 24 great tales by authors of all nations.

Around the World

American troops are guarding the far corners of the earth. The gardens of where your soldier friend may be stationed, you can find a book that will give him the background and some of the romance of the country.

For those in the Egyptian-Near East zone there is Emil Ludwig's "The Mediterranean". (Whittlesey House $3.75) the story of the inner sea from Pericles to Mussolini. The Mediterranean has been the center of the greatest part of our civilization, the source of culture and religion. Ludwig's history covers all the important facts and individuals, the rise and fall of empires, in a brilliant and entirely readable volume.

"The Ship Alaskan nights may seem shortness if the "Lord of Alaska" (Viking $3) is in hand. This is the story of Andrevich Baranov, leader of Russia's colony in Arctic America. It is a vigorous man-sized yarn, with plenty of adventure.

"My Father in China" (Farrar and Rinehart $3) is not only an exceptionally fine biography of William Burke, Methodist missionary, but is the story of China too, in a period of eruptive change. The Boxer uprising with Chiang Kai-shek is one of the daughter's pages an important part in the story.

Ernestine Hill writes a most readable, however fantastic, account of the people, animals and country "down under" in "Australian Frontier" (Doubleday Doran: $3.50).

Historical Fiction

There is an inspiration for every fighting American in the stories of the early struggles of this nation. Inevitably, he must realize that these principles of freedom which were worth fighting for in the 18th century are still worth preserving in 1942. These historical novels are recommended:

"Look to the Mountain" (Holt: $2.75) by Leland Cannon is set in pre-Revolutionary New Hampshire, details the courage and love of a young Americanism who were willing to fight for personal liberty. Of such pioneer stock the nation built to greatness.

"The period of America's expansion to the west after the Civil War forms the background for Armstrong Perry's "No Bugles for Glory" (Macmillan; $2.75). The adventures of Bede de Chambrelet and Dr. Mark Denny lead from staid New England and glittering Manhattan to the Southwest and the vigorous Northwest frontier.

Mysteries Never Miss.

The mystery story is always a good choice for gifts. With Gypsy Rose Lee as the author, "Mother Finds a Body" (Random House; $2) is a sure-fire hit. Gypsy isn't particularly worried by rules of grammar and the plot is somewhat secondary, but it all adds up to a most entertaining and brightened by burlesque asides. "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" is a better job than Conan Doyle's original stuff, introduced her as a writer.

There are killers, dope fiends, doctors, baby pins and a very crystal ball mixed up in the plot of "The Hanging Judge Case" (Dutton; $2) and you'll have to be as good as Sheriff Ivan Rodes to solve it. With all its angles, it is a well-managed mystery yarn.

Jaundice Is a Symptom, Not Disease

If you have ever seen a patient with a severe case of jaundice, with the whites of the eyes of a peculiar yellow tint, you will never forget the experience. When jaundice is present, we see a very interesting example of how the body fluids, which are beneficial in their own place, may become poisons when in the wrong—part of the body. Bile in its proper place in the gall bladder, liver or intestine is an absolutely essential fluid, but when it gets into the blood, it acts as a harmful substance just as though it were a material foreign to the body. If enough bile is introduced into the blood, it turns a yellow, under the skin, or into its perfectly normal place, causes alarming symptoms of poisoning; in fact, experiments have shown that death will follow in less than a day's time if enough bile is introduced into an animal. The bile has been found to act in this poisonous manner on all the mammalian bacteria or whether it has been sterilized. From this you will understand why the patient with a severe jaundice, whose blood stream is carrying the bile so often becomes a very sick person.

Jaundice is not a disease, but it is a symptom that the normal flow of bile is interrupted, and that the liver cannot eliminate the bile through the bile channel, the bile duct, which leads to the gall bladder and the duodenum. The bile then is reabsorbed by the blood and is the cause of the yellow discoloration of the skin, the whites of the eyes, and even the mucous membranes of the mouth. The liver recur when a gall stone has passed into the common bile duct and is unable to pass through; or, more rarely, the outlet of the liver is clogged due to a pressure upward due to a tumor or during pregnancy. In the latter instance, it is called "catarrhal jaundice." Also the liver may be clogged by a catarrhal inflammation. Whatever the cause, the jaundice will subside as soon as the normal outlet is opened.

Some of the symptoms common symptoms noticed from jaundice are: a yellow or a yellow-green color of the skin, loss of appetite, dizziness, nausea, and vomiting. There may be itching, extreme dryness of the skin, bad breath, light or clay colored stools, dark urine, irregularity of the heart beat, sweating and the liquid portion of the blood in the urine may be of a very dark color.

The treatment for the simpler forms of jaundice may usually be accomplished by dietetic measures. One of the first things to do when this disorder is noticed is to go on a fruit juice fast, using orange or grapefruit juice and taking an eight-ounce glassful every two hours. Also drink large quantities of water during this period. Also the bowels should last at least five days or perhaps longer. Enemas should be taken each day, for the purpose of carrying of toxic material from the intestines to the liver. The application of a towel wrung out in hot water over the entire abdomen for 20 minutes. In the stubborn case of jaundice will be corrected by taking the regimen just outlined.

In the relatively few cases where the jaundice remains, it may be advisable to drink 2-4 milk fast for a few weeks as the best available nourishment. It omitted to say what kind of breakfast food helped inspire the Governor to his decision, but it left no doubt that the Governor took this occasion to wish each and every voter a Merry Christmas in addition to a dutiful November Third. Little Advance Notice On Football Schedules

New York, Oct. 15—(Wide-ty World)—This year the networks, more than ever, are following a football policy that provides for little advance scheduling of games from the college gridirons. The result is that most football games is being made available only a few days before the broadcasts.

A couple reasons have been given, one—to avoid too much publication by too many networks desiring the same game, although this has been interpreted by some as a bit of a stretch. Another, the radio experts say, is to permit contests between the widest interest, based on previous victories. So, this week's schedule includes only now has been completed. It calls for four games, one of which, Notre Dame vs. Iowa Pre-Flight, will be heard on both CBS and the BLUE. MBS has scheduled two games starting out with Colgate vs. Duke and Michigan vs. Iowa vs. Illinois. Concluding the group will be Alabama vs. Tennessee, which NBC is to handle.

Kate Smith, cooperating with the movement of Writers' War Board to promote the last sales of a. of "The Star-Spangled Banner" as a contribution to the war emergency, is to devote a part of her Friday night program on CBS to the subject. Miss Smith is to discuss, recite and sing the national anthem.

Meanwhile, Kate, for her contributions via radio and otherwise was not due until 10. Billy hung up her wraps and began opening his stack of mail, as she had done yesterday morning. She noted that Pop took the plate from his overcoat and kept it on his jerkin as he sat down, and she decided it's speak quite frankly.

"Pop, there's something you ought to know. Something I know.

"Jumps" What?

"This." She opened his center drawer, took a manila folder, she drew the unsigned mystery note. "You can't get by with that. Say nothing. And be ready.

"It came in yesterday's mail," she added. "And Pop—I—I didn't tell you. I was worried, thought it would upset you. Pop, you're out of bed. But I guess you understand it. You wanted a gun."

He stared at the paper a long time.

"Yes—" he said then, quietly. "I understand it. And I understand now why you've been so worried. You know more than I thought. But you stop fretting, honey. Your old Pop has been taking care of things for over 50 years. Just wait, and keep mum."

The head nodded, steps in the hall, then, and both started a little, involuntarily. Pop dropped quickly at Blythe. "Open it," he advised, "and stand back as you do, just in case."

Blythe felt confident of him and herself as well, she obeyed. But then there was a letdown.

"Pop—Norman!"

There stood Norman Dana, in dust and far once he was not smiling. His countenance held no look of excitement or pleasantry or play.

"Hello, Sly! Good morning, Cecilia."

Pop exhaled audibly. "Come in, Norman. Sit down. Let's see. We got a week's work to do, and we need some extra pleasure to get turns on."

"Pop," Norman said, sliding into a chair, "I just came from Colonel Rutherford, at the field headquarters. He commanded me to call, to tell you the truth, they aren't letting it in everybody, but I was pretty close to Henry Underwood and all. And Pop, there's an eight-engine Liner on the stage, with Gordon on the Cripple Creek Times-Record calls our death warrant."

The hope is slim, but Cripple Creek fole to the Liner, and at the present, Gedder reports that few families have moved out of it and that miners will work as long as the "broken out" ore lasts.

The mine companies have promised, too, Geddes says, to pay the time wages for miners salvaging scrap. The community, insisting on a Scenic Railway, has collected, rejected an offer by Chap Grant, Grant's Amusement Co., of soldiers for salvage work.

Explosions Point To Naval Battle

Lisbon, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Explosions at sea shook buildings and shattered windows yesterday afternoon on Cape Roca, westernmost point of Portugal — and Europe — tending to bear out earlier reports, still without confirmation, of a naval battle in the Atlantic off Portugal.

What actually happened at sea could not be seen from the shore owing to poor visibility, but the action evidently was close by. Cape Roca is west northwest of Lisbon.

Mining of Gold Stopped Today

Silence of Idle Machinery Will Foreshadow Empty Streets.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Oct. 15.—(AP)—By a command or war the gold mines of the west closed today their noisy air compressors and pneumatic drills.

In all the camps, which founded and maintained some of the nation's famous mining towns, the silence of idle machinery will foreshadow empty streets, boarded-over windows and curtained business and stores—the trademarks of a ghost town.

A War Production Board edict, issued to affect the transfer of men from mining gold to digging out weapon-making metals like copper, lead and zinc, ordered all "breaking out" of new ore must cease today. By the end of additional grace the mines and mills can only "clean up" for the industry's final shutdown.

In Cripple Creek the stop production hour was 4 p. m. (6 e.w.t.).

Evil Paradox

In camps like Cripple Creek and Deadwood and Lead in South Dakota, the blighting prospect of imminent economic paralysis with assured reverses of riches underground is an evil paradox. Both districts had their booms but settled into stable careers with an assured life of a generation.

Since Cowboy Bob Womack discovered Cripple Creek's first ore, Poverty gulch in 1891, sold his claim for $500 and went off to celebrating lost, the district has produced close to $400,000,000.

Lead, discovered by President Merrill Shoup of The Golden Circle Corp. with an associate, in 1876, and Deadwood in the WPB set a reprieve of 15 days for Senator Bob Gelder on The Cripple Creek Times-Record calls our death warrant.

"The hope is slim, but Cripple Creek fole to the Liner, and at the present, Gedder reports that few families have moved out of it and that miners will work as long as the "broken out" ore lasts.

News of Our Boy Scouts

Troop 23

Douglas Anderson, scribe

The weekly meeting of Troop 23 opened at 7:15. Part of the meeting was about emergency service.

We learned how to make a stretcher out of coats. We also learned how to carry it with an injured person in it. We also had some drills.

Scout S. Silverstein passed his Tenderfoot test. The meeting was closed with the Pledge to the Flag.

Troop 15

Frank Quirk, Jr., Scribe

The weekly meeting of Troop 15 held Thursday, Oct. 8, was opened with the Scout Oath and Law. Scouts then went into their patrol corners where tests were passed. The following second class tests were passed: Safety, compass, axe and axe and first aid by several of the Scouts. A successful attempt was made to start a fire with the regulation fire making set. A discussion followed with reference to laying proper flags, but no definite action was taken. This subject is to be taken up at the next meeting. A small game of Double-thirty rounded out the evening. The meeting was closed with the repeating of the Scout Oath.

Next meeting will be held on Thursday, Oct. 22, at 7:30 at St. James's school.

Troop 128

Parker Vetrano, Scribe

The weekly meeting of Troop 126 was opened at 6:30 Wednesday night with the saluting of the flag. The Scouts then formed a troop in marching and different kinds of formations. The hour played two games, the first called Right Angle Tag and the Tail Tag and the second an obstacle race. The boys had great fun in play. Scout Arthur Edlund was the troop agent the remainder of the evening playing lanyard, horseshoe, bells etc. The meeting broke up after about an hour of play. The boys are reminded that there will be a meeting of all the troop committee men and women party at the church at 7:30 this evening.

Troop 98

Richard Dobsen, Scribe

The meeting was called to order with the Scout Oath at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Fiedler, our assistant scoutmaster and Mr. Bigelow (our Scoutmaster talks) to the boys on a matter of importance to the troop. The boys then had their patrol corners and afterward went to their classes. The First Aid Patrol practiced blackout first aid, and the signaling patrol made some progress with its Morse code.

Two or three tests were passed. The boys in the troop are doing fairly good in their test passing. Many of the boys are showing advancement.

A committee meeting will be held in conjunction with the scout meeting next Friday at the North Methodist church. All committee members are asked to be present.

The meeting was closed at 9:00 with the Scout Law and Scoutmaster's Benediction.

Pack 4

William Sarnacki, Scribe

The meeting opened with inspection for neatness. The Flag ceremony was led by Den Four.

After a game the Cubs retired to their dens and worked on special tests.

Around the camp fire Den Four gave a skit and sang one verse of America.

The dumbbell club was called to order by Earl Schlemminger. Roger Preston was elected a dumbbell.

The meeting closed with the Cub Law and Promise.

Croatia Torn By Civil War

Followers of Macek in Open Revolt Against Puppet Government.

Bern Switzerland, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Croatian revolt against Italy was reported from by civil strife today, with followers of the powerful peasant leader, Vladimir Macek, in open revolt against the puppet government of Dr. Ante Pavelic.

Yugoslav sources, who would not be quoted, said that force was used, said an army of about 4,000 well-organized peasants was battling Pavelic's brown-shirted Ustachi—the militia which he organized in imitation of Premier Mussolini's blackshirts.

Adds to Complications

The revolt added to the complications facing the Axis armies of occupation in Yugoslavia, already engaged in bitter strife with the guerrilla warfare from the fastnesses of the Yugoslav mountains.

Mihailovic was said to be constantly reinforcing his army, and the effectiveness of his campaign was demonstrated by official Italian figures reporting that 4,388 Italian soldiers had been killed and 4,490 wounded in the Balkans in the last 10 months.

Dispatches from Ankara, Turkey, said reports were current there that the Germans might take over control of Croatia and Slovenia because of the inability of Italy's failure to cope with continued anti-Axis outbreaks. These reports also mentioned Italy's demand full control of the Adriatic port of Trieste, which Italy got from Austria at the end of the First World War.

Communications In Turmoil

Communications in Yugoslavia were reported in turmoil as a result of repeated attacks by insurgents upon railway trains. Yugoslav quarters said 46 trains had been derailed in Croatia alone in September and declared that Nazi troops were compelled to guard the whole length of the Zagreb-Belgrade railway.

These quarters expressed belief the Croat revolt had been stirred up by the arrest of Macek and five other leaders of the Croatian Peasant party for their refusal to cooperate with the Axis.

Macek, who for years had the largest popular following of any Croatian leader, was opposed to Pavelic's Fascist-type regime, but being an exponent of moderation had not actively opposed it.

News of the revolt followed by two days a German broadcast announcement that Pavelic's cabinet had resigned and had been replaced by a new set of ministers pledged to govern according to Fascist principles.

To Look Over Voting Place

Registrars and Town Officials to Inspect American Legion Hall.

The Registrars of Voters, Robert N. Valleli and Edward F. McGarty, Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington and Town Treasurer George H. Waddell will make an inspection of the Legion Home, Leonard street tomorrow morning for the purpose of ascertaining if the building is suitable for holding the State election and to make such changes as may be necessary within the building to assure uninterrupted use of the town's voting machines on election day, Nov. 3.

The Selectmen previously had sanctioned the use of the Legion Home for voting but interest in the election this year warrants advance inspection of the facilities in order to eliminate a possible slowing up of voting especially in the event of stormy weather.

Stalingrad Battle Deadlocked Today

communique said Soviet artillery and mortar gunners of many regiments—which is already in the grip of seasonal cold—had demolished 12 German blockhouses and silenced four gun batteries.

The Soviet Information Bureau announced that the fighting yesterday caused no significant changes at the front.

German thrusts were repelled both at Stalingrad and northwards of the city, the midnight communique reported. It said "battles of local importance continued," but the details indicated that these—in contrast to the clash of whole army corps as late as last week—were little more than skirmishes.

Nazi riflemen and tanks alike were reported turned back at Stalingrad. Garrison artillerymen were credited with destroying three German dugouts, five siege guns and seven machine-guns and annihilating about two companies of German infantry.

Russians Take Prisoners

Russian guardsmen were attacked by two infantry companies northwest of the Volga Verdun, but they were reported to have taken prisoners and routed the other survivors.

A battalion of German officers and men remained on the battlefield, the communique said.

A tank-supported German regiment assaulted Russian positions in the Mozdok area of the central Caucasus and some of the troops reached the machine broke through.

"Fighting went on for the destruction of this group of enemy tanks," the communique said.

Shelling from Russian guns was declared to have destroyed two ammunition-laden trains at a German-occupied railway station southeast of Novorossisk, on the Black sea coast.

To Assist Stalin

Appointment of two deputy commissars of defense to assist Premier Stalin was announced in Moscow as a sequel to the decree last week abolishing the political commissar system within the Red Army and vesting its authority in the military command.

The appointees are Alexander Shcherbakov, who had been chief of the Soviet Information Bureau, and Col. Gen. A. Vassilevsky.

Shcherbakov was assigned to political work in the Defense commissariat. As head of the Information Bureau, he has been in charge of civilian propaganda since the start of the German-Russian war.

The military post was added to his already long list of jobs, including secretary of the Moscow District committee of the Communist party, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the party's Central committee and head of the Red Army's Political Department.

Political education of Russian troops is now entrusted to the vice-commanders of each unit.

Churchill later said was an overture to Britain to make peace with Germany and join the Reich in an onslaught on Russia, the German attack on Russia started June 22, 1941.

Hess has long been known as a bitter opponent of Communism.

Proposal Practically Ignored

The Russian proposal startled London. A British Foreign Office commentator said that "Hess, of course, is regarded as one of the Nazi leaders who might be affected by the British government's own earlier declaration proposing a tribunal for such criminals.

He emphasized, however, that "Hess became our prisoner on May 10, 1941" and "of course while there were plenty of crimes to be charged against the Nazi leaders prior to that date the atrocities affecting the Russian people and the majority of those against other European peoples occurred later.

"The commentator also emphasized that the Russian announcement had not been addressed to London and was known here only through broadcasts.

"Although he said that the Russian statement seemed "to show complete agreement with the objectives" of Allied announcements of intention to punish Axis leaders, the commentator declined to discuss specifically what view Britain might take of the proposal that high Axis prisoners be tried before the war's end.

Fact-Finding Body

He noted, however, a statement in the House of Commons by Richard Law, undersecretary for foreign affairs, who said that the proposed tribunal was "intended to be a fact-finding body," essentially for the purpose of collecting evidence.

(Lord Chancellor Viscount Simon and Undersecretary Richard Law followed an Oct. 7 statement by President Roosevelt in outlining official British and American intentions as regards the punishment of Axis leaders responsible for organized atrocities.)

The Russian government approved the program outlined by President Roosevelt and went further by citing names.

Organizers of Atrocities

Hess along with Hitler, Reichsmarshal Goering, Propaganda Minister Goebbels, Gestapo Chief Himmler, Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop and Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi ideological leader and minister of occupied territories, in the eastern regions occupied by the Germans, were named as organizers of the central gangs.

The Russian note was given a leading place in the Russian press and circulated textually through out the world by Tass, official Russian news agency.

Technically, the note was a response to a solicitation from the governments-in-exile of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, Norway, Greece, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg as well as the French National committee, the Fighting French.

These governments and the Fighting French had asked, following a declaration by them on Jan. 13, that the Soviet government "issue a warning concerning the responsibility for crimes committed by Hitlerites in the countries they have occupied, so that preamble to the Russian note explained.

Issued By Molotov

Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov issued the announcement on behalf of Premier Stalin.

"The Soviet government undertakes to cooperate fully in providing information of specific crimes by specific persons and bringing the criminals to book in meting out punishment," it said.

"The whole world knows the names and bloody crimes of the leaders of the Hitlerite clique—Hitler, Goering, Hess, Goebbels, Ribbentrop, Himmler, Rosenberg and others."

The statement said Russia was in full sympathy with the sufferings of the people of the countries of Europe occupied by Germany.

"The miseries, degradation and privation inflicted on peoples by the Hitlerite tyranny are all the more readily understood by the people of the Soviet union since the Hitlerite invaders in temporarily-occupied Soviet areas are perpetrating their crimes on a monstrous scale," it said.

Urges Court Action Now

The announcement said "the Soviet government considers it essential to hand over without delay to the country of a special international tribunal and to punish with all severity of the criminal code any one of the leaders of Fascist Germany who, in the course of the war, has fallen into the hands of the states fighting against Hitlerite Germany.

"This statement was not amplified Rudolf Hess, a prisoner in Britain since he made his mysterious flight from Germany to Scotland May 10, 1941, is in the category outlined."

President Roosevelt differentiated between Axis leaders and Axis peoples in a statement Oct. 7 on the punishment for high crimes against humanity under the terms of a United Nations victory.

"It is not the intention of this government or of the governments associated with us to resort to mass reprisals," he said.

"It is our intention that just and swift punishment shall be meted out to the ringleaders responsible for the organized murder of thousands of innocent persons and the commission of other atrocities which have violated Christian precepts.

Work Started On Cafeteria

School Lunch Room to Be Ready by November 3, It Is Expected.

Actual work started today on the new cafeteria for the pupils of Manchester High school under the direction of Superintendent of Schools Arthur H. Illing. It is expected that the equipment needed will be installed and here within a week or ten days so that the proposed cafeteria, slated for November 3, will find the cafeteria in operation. It is located in the basement of the Barnard school.

Most of the work will be done by employees of the school and it is progressing rapidly. There is quite a bit of work in getting the partitions ready, cleaning out the rooms for the cafeteria. When everything is cleared away and the partitions erected the whole interior will be painted.

Mr. Illing said that an open range would be installed and other modern kitchen utensils employed so that the work of preparing the noonday luncheons will be expedited. It is expected that the cafeteria will accommodate about 200 pupils. Menus will be posted daily in the various classrooms so that the students can make up their minds what they want for lunchtime. Another item that should speed up the service is the system of payment. Tickets will be sold in advance.

British Naval Forces Sink Supply Ship

near the channel island of Guernsey one German E-boat was blown up and a torpedo boat was damaged.

"An important enemy supply ship was intercepted and destroyed by light Naval forces in the English channel early on Wednesday morning," the Admiralty communique said. "The survivors of the escort which consisted of torpedo boats and minesweepers was such that it was obvious that the enemy attached great importance to the safe passage of this vessel."

The engagement was said to have taken place off Cape de la Hague and the Admiralty declared that in this action and in the subsequent clash near Guernsey "enemy coastal traffic was upset fire on our ships without loss."

The flames from the two damaged escort vessels could be seen from the English coast, the communique said. The rest of the escort was reported to have scattered and withdrawn.

The important supply ship first was damaged by gunfire and then hit with two torpedoes in a motor torpedo boat attack.

"A heavy explosion followed," the Admiralty said. "The enemy ship blew up."

The communique said "only superficial damage was sustained by one of our ships. Casualties were confined to two ashore wounded."

American-built Mustang fighters of the R.A.F. attacked railway facilities in Holland and damaged three small Axis vessels off the coast yesterday afternoon, the Air Ministry announced today.

None of the Mustangs were lost in the forays, which coincided with a series of offensive sweeps over northern France by Spitfires and Beaufighters.

The Spitfires were credited with damaging two enemy motor vessels off the French coast and shooting up a railway workshop near Boulogne. All the Spitfires were reported to have strafed two Axis E-boats.

Japs Using Heavy Warships in New Solomons Actions

were made on the early morning of October 15, which was yesterday by Guadalcanal time, and the transport which today's communique noted, was covered not only by destroyers and cruisers, but also by a battleship.

An American aircraft striking group attacked the enemy ships and the communique said reports indicated that three hits were made on one transport while two other transports were set afire and were burning when last observed.

"The Japanese battleship was damaged in this same United States attack and one enemy fighter plane was shot down.

Such resistance, however, apparently did not deter the enemy in the least and the communique, dated Oct. 15, reported "vigorous forces including heavy units have been sighted in the vicinity of Guadalcanal."

On Oct. 13, the communique reported, the enemy struck twice by air at the American field on Guadalcanal and lost three planes while one United States fighter was lost. That attack apparently was carried out short the time that United States reinforcements were arriving.

Then during the night of Oct. 13-14 the enemy brought up his surface force of battleships, cruisers and destroyers and bombarded the American positions "heavily."

The bombardment was mentioned by the Navy last night but the fact that the Japs armada contained battleships had not been reported until today.

Shore batteries which answered the fire of the Japanese warships scored three hits on enemy destroyers.

On Oct. 14, the enemy made the attack on the Guadalcanal airfield and succeeded in getting through without interception by the Army, Navy and Marine Corps fighter planes based there. An attack by only two, separate groups of bombers, each of which had fighter escort, and it was the first group which got through unscathed.

"Our fighters were unable to intercept the first flight, which contained about 25 bombers," the communique said. "During the second attack they shot down nine of the 15 bombers in the group and destroyed four fighters. Our United States fighter was lost."

The communique then carried the report into the 15th, which was yesterday in Guadalcanal, and disclosed the American aerial counter-attacks on the enemy landing forces.

Stimson reported at his press conference also that Army forces in the Aleutians had bombed Japanese Paramushiro and Kuriles in the Kiska islands on the route between the United States and Australia, as well as at other points where their presence had been disclosed previously.

In New Guinea, Stimson said, Army fliers for months have been taking a heavy toll of Japanese aircraft and shipping and rendering "splendid support" to the Australians in the advance over the Owen Stanley range.

"The grim struggle for control of the Solomons was rising in crescendo again today with newly reinforced Japanese troops apparently determined to recapture the prized Guadalcanal airfield.

In spite of an American cruiser-destroyer force recently assigned the task of fighting off seaborne reinforcements on the island, the Japanese, the Navy said, succeeded in landing sectional troops on Guadalcanal yesterday, (Thursday in the Solomons.

Covered by warships, Japanese transports slipped to the north coast where the enemy troops are concentrated and in the early morning landed reinforcements and presumably artillery which the invaders have lacked.

Bill to Curb Rent Passed

gressman had been handed a $15 bill for a night's sleep in a Washington hotel.

"Sleeping comes high," remarked Representative Byrne. "I am astounded to hear that."

Representative Ludlow (Democrative Lynch (D-NY), shied away at naming the hotel for fear he might be charged $25 the next time he is unable to find lodging elsewhere.

"I was in my office when I was the way Representative Ford (D-Calif) described some hostelries."

Byrne explained the principal purpose of the bill was to extend rent controls to commercial property, and to "remove any uncertainty" about the application to residential property. The measure does not provide rent controls for farm property.

Are Fines $100 For Breakage

Hartford Firm Asks Rule Be Made Uniform.

Hartford, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Two employes of Colts Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing Company pleaded guilty to charges of breaking rules in force in the plant and were fined $100 by Judge James E. Murphy, as an given 30-day jail sentences, suspended after serving 10 days. The men were placed on probation for one year.

The two men are George Amato, 42, and Leslie Abramson, 31.

State's Attorney Hugh Meade Alcorn, Jr. declared that both men had persisted in taking home on horse racing after his anti-gambling drive was in full swing and in the face of knowledge that both authorities at Colt's and the court were trying to eliminate gambling in defense plants.

Mr. Alcorn recommended substantial fines and sentences of a year in jail, suspended after 30 days, in both cases.

Taking Measures To Protect State

Hartford, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Additional protective measures will be taken in Connecticut as a result of information released by the FBI at the annual conference of Police Chiefs of New England at Washington, D. C., State Police Commissioner Edward J. Hickey said today. The conference was held Tuesday and Wednesday.

He said he could not say anything about the "measures" or the information, for reasons of national security.

Commissioner Hickey and Police Chief William G. Simpson of Wethersfield were reelected members of the New England Police Chief Association's executive committee, Hickey said. Fred Darlen, was elected fifth vice-president.

Make 48 Voters At Session Here

The Selectmen and Town Clerk made 48 voters in last night's session of the Manchester 26 Red cross the Republican party, nine with Democratic party and thirteen did not register any party preference.

Those who registered took advantage of the opportunity to practice using the voting machine which is set up in the Municipal Building lobby. The machine will be demonstrated again on Saturday, when voters will be made from 9 a. m. until 8 p. m. industry, and to the group having dependents.

Explaining the rapid increase in the induction rate, General Hershey said that during the first six months of this year inductees were at the rate of about 200,000 monthly increased to more than 300,000 monthly during the third quarter, would be 300,000 this month and approximately 450,000 in November and in December.

Rapid Pace Of Induction

The rapid pace of hearings, by both the House and Senate Military committees, indicated they might be finished tonight. Continuance of such a gait could mean that high school students might be in the Army by Christmas.

Even if the draft age is lowered quickly, Hershey explained, this hardly would affect the draft of married men before December, 15 November, he said, would depend on developing play of the Army to send its brightest young men to colleges.

Leading Educators Consulted

Wilson said that he had been consulted and that it was his hope to have 400,000 relevated authorities at Colt's and the court were trying to eliminate gambling in defense plants.

Mr. Alcorn recommended substantial fines and sentences of a year in jail, suspended after 30 days, in both cases.

Tells of Fight Aboard Quincy

Bridgeport Youth Is Back Home; Describes Sinking of Cruiser.

Bridgeport, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Hands burned, his anti-aircraft gun ablaze with only five or six bullets left in its drum, Walter Cooper, a former Harding High school student here, leaped overboard from the Quincy as it beach at the waters off the Solomon islands, scramble ashore and hide in the jungle, he remained several hours before he rejoined.

Although only 20 years old, Cooper, a seaman first class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cooper of Yellow Mill Village, calmly described the sinking of the heavy cruiser which took a toll of three American heavy cruisers and which left him a veteran of one of the greatest naval epics in the history of American war.

Garbed in undressed blues, a uniform he had worn for weeks aboard ship, the only clothing left to him, Cooper was joined the Navy at the Bridgeport recruiting office 27 months ago on his 18th birthday, tells of the bravery of the men in the Navy. He bears the marks of bullets which struck his legs. Some of the metal is still to be removed.

His division commander, Lieut. Parker S. Webster, 26 year old Fairfield athlete, was killed by captain of the Syracuse University football team, although not with reverence, as one of the many heroes of the fight.

On the night of the sea battle, Cooper recalled that he was on watch with Lieut. Webster and that he had been relieved from his post. He had turned over his phones to another sailor and prepared to take over his duties of watch officer when a barrage fire, Lieut. Webster remained in the pilot house. One shell fired at Cooper was about to turn away from the pilot house and the blast of two star shells. Cooper continued to his regular assignment. At the time of the burst of star shells it could not be determined whether they came from a ship craft or from the air. A third shell made certain that they were from a surface craft.

The searam relieving Cooper reported that he saw the star fire shells and the guns were ablaze. Lieut. Webster, the shell fired by Cooper went through one of the enemy aircraft but because of the range failed to explode. Latter this aircraft made a landing on the water and the plane was sunk by a bomb from an American plane.

When his gun jamed, Cooper and others closed the services blocks which contained five shells for the 5-inch gun to explode. He then went to the second deck and the Quincy was located aid he still was in the pilot house. Cooper then went back to his post and there he was cutting loose life nets while others were throwing empty airtight five inch/ammunition cans overboard for floats for the men.

Cooper said men aboard waited for debris to float by and then jumped overboard to swim in the life preservers. Just as he was leaving the compartment he could see two men with buckets close to the Lieut. Webster. The men were stationed attempting to put out fires which had started. He did not know the Lieut. Webster's fate but knew that he still held his post.

(The Lieut. Webster has been reported missing in action).

attacked Vunukanau airdrome was led by Maj. Allen Lindberg of Westfield, N. J. Lt. Col. Kenneth Walker, who was the first to drop a bomb guided a heavy explosion which was followed by fires.

"One of our thousand-pounders landed a crater in the landing strip," Lindberg said.

Asked if it were a successful mission, he pointed to a fire burning under the tail of a fortress sitting in a portable photograph.

"The boys look pleased, don't they—that's the best guide—because they have already flirted fire stations and their total reasons count in the final analysis," he answered.

Lieut. Cecil Knudson of Phoenix, Ariz., who flew three missions in comparatively low altitude, said he could not estimate the bombs accurately, but he was sure "some planes parked there when we came were blown to bits."

Lieut. Curtis Holeridge of Alhambra, Calif., who was flying wing for the Rabaul flight so he said, he paid a surprise call on Buna on the way back, leaving a package of explosives on the landing strip of that airdrome as well.

"The Japs banged away at us, but didn't touch us," he said.

Other pilots in the raid were Lieut. S. G. Salisbury of Syracuse, N. Y., Major Rose of Rochester, N. Y., Captain Prahl of San Antonio, and Lieut. Fred Weache of Roselle, N. J.

Birth Records Are Broken Here

Belated vital statistic returns from Hartford received by Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington, indicate that a record of births for Manchester was established for the month of May, this year. Hartford's 20 births to Manchester parents including births recorded here for the month, total 69, something of a record for the month or more than two a day.

Saturday Pickup Day For Scrap Metal Here

Town Trucks to Visit Each Street to Collect What You Put Out on the Street.

Saturday will be scrap metal collection day in Manchester!

Town trucks will cover every street in the municipality to gather the salvaged material.

Residents are asked to search every nook and cranny on their premises for scrap iron and steel. Put it out! Do it before eight o'clock Saturday morning.

To Start Promptly

The pick-up trucks will start on their jobs promptly at eight o'clock and no stops will be made for the collection of scrap metal alongside your sidewalk bright and early Saturday. It is impossible to tell what time the trucks will reach your home. They may be there early—or they may arrive late. To be sure to have your scrap collection picked up, have it out early.

Still Lots In Town

Saturday's collection should bring in a huge amount of salvaged material. Although school children have done a fine job in gathering old metal, and many residents have contributed to the gasoline station scrap heaps the town has actually been ripped for old metal. Residents can do a thorough job between now and Saturday, if they will, and the results should be astounding.

To Make Record Here

Defense Council Chairman George H. Waddell and Salvage Chairman G. Philip Skeawa estimate that the pre-war rate of 250 tons, Cheney Brothers have collected a great quantity throughout the silk plant, as yet unweighed. Case Brothers have gathered another large pile from their plant.

Saturday's collection is up to the townspeople themselves!

build huge hydroelectric plants to supply power for war industries, Page said.

At present about 4,500,000 acres of land are irrigated under reclamation projects. This may increase, which will result from projects now in construction or authorized, will imbibe 5,000,000 acres of land in Arizona and California, Page told the Reclamation association at one of its annual convention's opening sessions.

More than 70,000 farms irrigated by the reclamation projects are valued at $200,000,000 this year and produce crops worth $100,000,000, Page said, went to the Army.

Under the reclamation program, Page declared, will give irrigation benefits to 135,000 farm families, and will add 1,000,000 people to cities in 16 western states will be served by Army and supplemental water facilities planned by the bureau.

All of the power projects serve irrigation, directly or indirectly, minimum, but most contribute primarily to develop power for war work, Page said.

Power Increase Capacity

Western power plants capacity, scattered over 11 states, is expected to 2,500,000 kilowatts by July, 1943, increasing 750,000 of electric volume in two years. And this, Page added, can be increased 1,500,000 kilowatts by adding installations in the plant.

These 4,500,000 kilowatts Page explained, could put 150,000 bombers and fighting planes aloft annually, if devoted solely to airplane production.

In addition to supplying power for war industries, the projects are furnishing water for cities and military camps in the west, Page pointed out.

Mentioning various projects, Page said that Parker dam in Arizona would be producing power for war work in Arizona next month, that the capacity of Boulder dam will be greatly increased in December and that numerous projects will be completed next year, including Green Mountain dam in Colorado and Shasta and Keswick dams in California.

Defense Rests In Gurski Case

Litchfield, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The defense completed its testimony in the rape-murder case of Peter Gurski, 25, of Torrington today and the state began rebuttal with summation scheduled for this afternoon.

The last defense witness, Dr. Robert C. Odenbaugh of Torrington, who sprained his arm so badly that he was unable to appear yesterday, testified he found no blood stains on Gurski's clothing but added that such stains could be washed out if attended to immediately.

On rebuttal for the state, State Policeman Norman Davis, photographer at the Gurski home, identified a photograph he received from Sheriff Bull, written by Gurski to Lieut. John Scherba.

Said the letter in part:

"I feel very sorry but you can see what drinking does for me. I can not sleep or eat now. What can I do now? It is too late now."

Sees Air Trend In Allies' Favor

British and German planes and personnel.

Conceptions Proving Sound

The captain concluded that American conceptions of Army aircraft and their tactical employment are proving sound in combat and that the British took over the practical application of our air war theories with increasing approval.

Rickenbacker estimated that the British Royal Air Force now has exceed 4,700 operational combat planes of every type, a very small percentage of the Allied total.

"It would be a mistake, however, to draw the conclusion that British air power is on the decrease," he continued, and explained:

"While we may hope that British air power will increase as our crippled German aircraft production is slowed and bombed in Germany and France, the case may well be that the Germans are working hard on a new design plane to offset the aerial superiority which is at the present writing, is definitely on the Allies side.

Bound To Suffer Losses

"We are bound to suffer losses, maybe even great losses, before the conquest of Germany is completed."

He praised American and British combat planes, both bombers and fighters.

Shakeup Seen In Nazi Army

(A Berlin broadcast, heard today by CBS in New York, denied the report that Von Bock had been relieved of his command as army group C. in C.)

Von Brauchitsch, 66 years old, was the author of the blitz of the Polish campaign and the early phases of the Russian campaign.

Rumors of his resignation have been rife for months. Hitler is said to have been angry at the failure of his armies to take Moscow before the winter set in.

Von Brauchitsch is married and has no children.

About Town

Sergeant Conroy enlisted two years ago. He is a graduate of Manchester High school.

Lower Age May Defer Call for Married Men

Huge Army Need Necessary Against Any Eventuality; May Mobilize Manpower.

By James Marlow and George Ziebar

New York, Oct. 15.—(Wide World)—President Roosevelt in his fireside chat this week broke wide open two problems which have been rattling around for weeks awaiting solution:

The drafting of youths 18 and 19 years old for military service and the possibility that American manpower— and womanpower—may be mobilized under law for war work whether on a farm or in a factory.

It still is not clear how sharply the solution of one would affect the other.

This is the background.

The armed forces are expanding into millions of men — some sources predicted a 13,000,000 man Army eventually although recently there has been talk that figure was too high—and as they go into the service they go out of civilian jobs.

Labor shortages start right there and are increased by the fact that this country's war production is so terrific and mobilization so far reaching the millions.

Where are those needed millions coming from to step into the places of the men taken into the armed services? The president explained it. He said there would be called upon: Older men, handicapped people, more women and even more boys and girls whenever possible and by more efficient military fitness.

Form Vigorous Pool

The 18 year old youths form a great, vigorous pool of men for the armed services but there is a great part of that age group would have been in school unless drafted. They would not have Army mobilized manpower shortage in jobs.

At the same time if those youths were drafted, it seems likely the drafting of married men with children would be deferred for quite a while. For that period of deferment, at least those married men would still be in the ranks of the workers.

If the Army were expanded to 13,000,000 man size or even 10,000,000 men, the married men with children eventually would be called. That would mean a serious shortage on farms and factories still would remain.

Would Cause Temporary Halt

Thus: Drafting of the youths would at best cause only a temporary halt—if it caused it at all—in the drafting of men with families.

Some estimates now say that the military services will have 5,500,000 men by the end of this year, about 9,000,000 by the end of 1943, perhaps 12,000,000 by the end of 1944.

There is a tremendous labor supply in the presently married women in this country. Since a manpower mobilization is a reality in the taking stage, there is no way of knowing whether its provisions would require many of those unemployed women to find jobs.

Probably the law would put rigid controls on the distribution of women around the country, even empowering the government to move them where needed, for the president pointed out:

"It is not fair that do not have enough people in this country to do the job. The problem is to have the right people in the right place in the right places at the right time.

If there is women hesitation about the size of the talked-of 12,000,000 man army, the military point of view must be considered.

In the first place: It is the responsibility of the military leaders to see that this country has an Army and Navy large enough to wage a war and win it.

Battle-Fronts Far Flung

The battle-fronts are far flung—unlike the First World War when the battle line for American forces was in France — and require streams of men, reinforcements, replacements.

The American troops already moved abroad in these first nine months of war can still be only a drible compared with the force that must take the field, whether in a continental invasion, in Libya, Russia, China, or elsewhere.

It can be expected that millions of men will be transported to foreign theaters. Even the outline of this country cannot remain unprotected.

Must Be Army at Home

There must be an Army at home, ready for action or in training.

"There is this consideration, even though it is not pleasant—to contemplate—that military leaders of this country must keep in mind if they are going to have a roughly realistic as soldiers /and plan for the worst eventualities, as well as the merely probable.

What if this country's allies fell by the wayside and the war turned against us? If China, Russia and England fell and we were left alone against the Fascist powers? No military expert expects this to happen, but rational views of demands preparation for anything that could happen.

An Army cannot be created overnight. If we had a large force at home—besides a huge Army abroad—this country would have protection it otherwise would lack if military leaders had thought only in terms of a small, compact, expeditionary force.

If within the next year the Axis began to crack badly it is possible there would be revisions in the plans for a 13,000,000 man army or even a 10,000,000 man army.

In the meantime: This country's leaders are taking no chances.

Chile Watches Former Consul

Police Mount Guard Over Borchers; Three Spies at Same Resort.

Santiago, Chile, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Chilean police are reported mounting guard today over Dr. Hans Borchers, former German consul general in New York and former consul in Cleveland, who arrived in this country last March without diplomatic or consular credentials.

It was understood that Borchers, who was ousted from the United States in 1941 following the closing of German consulates by Federal order, had been placed under surveillance at Zapallar, seaside resort north of Valparaiso.

Police were said to be taking three other men, arrested last week at German spies and venomous criticism of the Nazis, to the same resort. They were identified as Alfred Kiefler, Ludwig Rose and Wilhelm Dorbach.

No Official Statement

No official statement was forthcoming immediately regarding Borchers, known as an associate of Fritz Weidemann, former German consul general at San Francisco, who travelled widely in Latin America after he left the Orient after his ouster from the United States.

The reported action, however, came as political circles continued to wrestle with debate provoked last week when Sumner Welles, United States acting secretary of state, said in a speech at Boston that "Nazis and their agents were being used as bases by Axis agents."

Seek Immediate Break

Leaders of the Socialist and Conservative parties called for an immediate break in relations with the Nazis, following Foreign Minister Ernest Barros Jarpa and demanded his resignation.

Jarpa, however, said he did not reflect the desires of the Chilean people as a whole.

President Juan Antonio Rios, who returned to the capital from visit to Washington after his government had protested Welles' statement, escaped the barrage of criticism. The powerful Radical party, which is a strong ally of the Axis.

Novel Car Plates In So. Carolina

Hartford, Oct. 15.—South Carolina, taking steel for 1943-vehicle registration plates, is attempting to solve the problem by taking the plates from the 1942 registration for 1942, pressing them flat and restamping them. Some Carolina cars, therefore, will travel with only one registration plate. The Motor Vehicle Division of the Highway Department of that state points out that although close inspection of the 1943 plate will show the outline of the previously, painted-over 1942 figures, the plates are genuine.

The Carolina state and the year is stamped on the bottom of the plate rather than the top as formerly. Ordinarily in finished product would arouse the suspicions of police authorities in other states, but South Carolina has been careful to notify all states that the 1943 plate is due to the exigencies of war. South Carolina registrations expire on October 31.

Will Use Water At Launching

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Champagne will be replaced by well water from a farm in Dunbarton, Ohio, when the U. S. S. Choctow, a Navy tug, is christened at The Charleston Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company yard Sunday.

Mrs. Lou Cordell of Durham, Okla., has been designated by Secretary Knox as sponsor. She will break a bottle of water from well across the bow of the ship shortly before it slides down the ways.

Willkie Urges Second Front

Renews Appeal After Reporting to Roosevelt on His Journey.

Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie stepped out of the role of personal representative of the president and back into that of private citizen today after endorsing a second front in Europe and appealing anew for a second front.

From the White House itself, where he reported to President Roosevelt late yesterday on a 31,000 mile tour that took him to fighting fronts in the Middle East, Russia and China, Willkie urged that a second front be established. He had made the same appeal in Moscow.

Yet he told reporters: "In my judgment, Germany will never conquer Russia."

Unwilling to Name Spot

Willkie said he had his own opinion where a second front should be opened, but he was unwilling to name the spot. He based his decision that there should be a second front on talks with "military men all over the world."

He said he had seen such men in Egypt and in the Middle East, and that he had sounded out British, Russian, Chinese, and American generals.

"May I say without boast," he remarked, "that I have had considerable experience in and recommendations of technical men."

Seated on a tremendous, circular mahogany table in the White House lobby, Willkie asserted with confidence:

"Sure, we're going to win this war. We have the power and the resources on our side.

Concerned Over Cost

But he said he was concerned over the cost in money, lives and human values and over winning the peace as well as the war.

Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee in 1940, toured the country in 50 days accomplishing "certain things" for the man who beat him at the polls. These things he regarded as confidential.

In a formal statement, he said he had two other purposes

1. To demonstrate to our Allies and to a good many neutral countries that there is unity in the United States on the purpose of winning this war." He said this was his own idea and nobody had asked him to do it.

2. To find out what he could about the war and how it could be won "as quickly as that we can get back to our jobs again, and work securely so that the peace which will follow will last."

To Make Reports To People

The Republican leader said he found out a lot and had made some reports along the way, from Moscow and Chungking. He said he wanted to put a lot more in writing and to make "careful, crystal-clear reports to the American people." He did not say what form these reports would take, but he did tell reporters he "looked to submit no written report to Mr. Roosevelt.

He said he had learned at first hand that "a lot of us, including public officials, are going to have to use our minds more and our minds before we win.

"Before I go back to work—which will be at my old job," he asserted, "I am going to do what I can by an honest piece of reporting to my fellow-citizens to help in this new job, which we all face of re-educating ourselves to win this war and to make the peace."

A four-motored B-24 Army plane, which flew the paint off her nose, took Willkie around New World. But he returned to New York City, his starting point, by train early today.

Plan to Rest Few Days

The Republican presidential candidate said he plans to rest a few days at his home in Indiana before buckling down to work on his reports to the people.

In the course of his hour-and-a-half conference with Mr. Roosevelt, Willkie said the President had volunteered word that any report that the chief executive had criticized him while he was abroad was entirely erroneous.

Fending off at a recent press conference a request for comment on Willkie's remarks about a second front, the President said he had read only the headlines and thought the stories under them were speculative and not worthwhile reading.

Methods Some Communities Using In Collection of Scrap

By The Associated Press

Buffalo, N. Y.—Any East high student who failed to produce a free theater ticket at today's roll call was to be assigned to write a 1,000-word essay on "Patriotism." The reason: Each student who brought 10 pounds or more of scrap to the school's salvage pile received a free ticket to a theater. The students yesterday piled up 35 tons of old iron and steel.

Miami, Fla.—The Miami police raised a way back for a contribution to the scrap pile but managed to add a touch of modernity. They contributed half a dozen slot machines seized 14 years ago, together with two machines taken Monday night in a raid on night clubs.

Jackson, Miss.—The city donated to the scrap pile its ancient horse-drawn fire engine which was bought in 1871 at a cost of $5,000. Its estimated weight was 8 tons and contained bronze, nickel, steel and brass.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The patrons of the Hotel Patten have to forget about the Market street entrance now and use the one on the Eleventh street side.

The hotel removed a set of iron steps, complete with handrails, from the Market street entrance which now will be sealed. Total donation of the iron to the scrap pile, 1,800 pounds.

Santa Barbara, Cal. — Santa Barbarans said these scrap pile contributions expressed their sentiments toward Hitler.

A bucket—to kick; a potshoe even—for hoifoot; roller skates—for the skids; and a Made-in-Germany mantelgrinder — you know what for.

Eugene, Ore. — University of Oregon students will hold a "noise parade" Saturday night, dragging all kinds of scrap through the streets of Eugene to stimulate their campus salvage drive.

New York—Today is the last day of the keys to victory drive to collect aluminum for special Navy needs—and, it appears, America has scored another touchdown.

E. J. Durkin, national drive chief, said he was confident the amount collected had gone well over the goal of 100,000,000 keys.

Movies Show CD and Bombs

Extinguishing Fires and Bombs Demonstrated In Movies in Assembly.

Two pictures on Civilian Defense were shown to the assembly on Tuesday morning, one concerning the Civilian Defense Workers in action and the other a demonstration on how to extinguish different types of bombs.

Previous to the showing of the movies Edson M. Bailey referred to the President's speech in which he spoke on the ten million people in the U. S. who are in Civilian Defense already. The OPA has asked high school pupils to go home directly from school in order to free the buses for use elsewhere. A request by this department was also made to ask sport fans not to waste gas by following the teams out of town. "Now that 18-20-year draft is becoming a reality, it may mean an entire reconstruction of the high school program," was also stated by Mr. Bailey.

The first movie, entitled "The Civilian Series," had a group of scenes in it taken in London, England during air raids. This picture opened with a speech by the President. Civilian Defense Volunteers were shown registering for work, in action in certain fields such as getting civilians off the streets during an air raid, training of air raid wardens, men searching the ruins and airplane spotters. Scenes from the show food being passed out to people and the damage done by bombs.

The movie ended with a Civilian Defense worker walking between a soldier and sailor with women in the many fields of defense as a background.

A magnesium bomb composed of three parts; the tail assembly, Thermit (power) and magnesium case which holds the powder.

Most bombs may be extinguished by playing a sprayed stream of water on them, by chemical agents, or by foam and by smothering them with sand or earth.

Phosphorous bombs will reignite when dry if put out with water. Regular fire extinguishers may be used for flammable bombs.

The movie ended with a plea to help defeat every day fires. Some rules to follow are:

Sound alarm promptly.
Keep a clean shop.

Train Older Pupils For C. D. Work

Begun last Monday, the newly inaugurated Civilian Defense training program now rapidly gains momentum as assemblies, speeches, gas instruction and gas mask demonstrations take their places beside the text books, notepads, pencils, and various other paraphernalia that flourish in a high school student of today.

Differing chiefly from the usual curriculum course in the attendance of students for an extra week, the supercalendar was offered a chance become valuable members of the nation-wide C. D. organization at the successful completion of the course.

During the first session in the homerooms, the students were all introduced to the organization of the Civilian Defense Corps. Thereafter the need of it was emphasized in the several movies that were shown to enlarged audiences, irrespective of height in high school. However, it was at this point that the courses of underclassmen and upperclassmen diverged. The need for gas education was imperative on the minds of the upperclassmen, the effects of gas raids and their antidotes being discussed in homeroom. The main weapons of the gas attack is the fear and uncertainty factor which enter into the uneducated mind, many times causing panics in which a large number may be struck down by gases against which no precautions had been taken.

On Monday the description of the use of 6 gas mask along with a detailed account of its functions was presented for assimilation. Further information which will lead to protection against gas, should one be caught out in a gas raid without a mask, were discussed. In several homerooms the students were asked to report on their plans for protection against gas in their own homes.

The discussion of the qualities, properties, and effects of the various war gases was interesting. In a homeroom period in which the subject was first aid for burns the fortunate enough to come into contact with any of these gases.

Interesting Bulletin Board

If you have ever wondered where turkey pins or bobby pins come from, you had better see Miss Gillette's bulletin board. There is a number of posters which show the life history of variety pins, bobby pins, hook and eyes and snaps. All of these simple necessities which seem pretty little to us mean so much to us that life is a thing of metal.

World Alumni Invited

World alumni are invited to attend the first World party of the year to be held in the kindergarten at the West Side Rec. Friday evening, Nov. 6. All alumni planning to attend are asked to call Miss Estes or Eleanor Struff, editor-in-chief.

Committees were chosen at the last World meeting. They are: Initiation, Mary Johnson, chairman, Bernard Karlin; Entertainment, Marjorie Sheridan, chairman, Jerry Sapienza, Carol Hansen, Donald Porterfield, Bill Noren, Mary Sullivan, Barbara Hess; Food, Ruthmary Wirtalla, chairman, Don Stidham, Mary Ann Balch, Joan Apurton, Bob Kurland.

Pleased—To Meet You!

In New Haven High School, there is a new course which concerns South America.

At Boston University there was a decrease of 15 per cent in enrollment. The decrease was noted the most in the upper classes.

Here are a few laughs from "Curtsies and Confiaws" in Holyoke High's paper:

Heard in the halls:

Paul: "Did you see Mrs. Minister?"

Willie: "No, which way did she go?"

Teacher: "Are you fond of geometry, Daniel?"

Teacher: "Robert Burns wrote, To a Field Mouse."

Pupil: "Did he get an answer?"

—Also it was noted in the "Hersonian" that all of their stories have to abide by certain censorship rules as just a mailing address in one might be a valuable clue to Axis agents.

Incidentally the bombs will ignite when dry if put out with water. Regular fire extinguishers may be used for flammable bombs.

The movie ended with a plea to help defeat every day fires. Some rules to follow are:

Sound alarm promptly.
Keep a clean shop.

Sports Digest

No sooner had I said last week that we would have to wait for Pete Wigren's cross country team to prove the first victory of the '42-43 season, for M. H. S. in the fall cross country and soccer teams triumphed.

At Plainville that Wednesday afternoon the Harriers of M. H. S. triumphed over Plainville High by a close margin. Captain Frank Hale and Jack Jakubiak paced the high school student of today.

The results in order of placing: Hill, P., time 12:16; Rieder, M., 12:30; Jakubiak, P., 12:34; Hyde, M., 12:58; McCann, M., 13:15; Stevenson, M., 13:22; Bray, M., 12:26; Strange, M., 13:32; Johnston, M., 13:44; Richards, P., 14:12; Minnson, P., 14:27; Dodge, P., 14:51; Heatly, M., 15:16; Bartlett, P., 15:19; Nemen, P., 16:37; Beverly, P., 18:25.

The second meet was held between Hartford, Bristol and Manchester at Manchester, Wednesday, October 14.

Inflation Topic of Panel Discussion

A panel discussion on inflation was held by volunteer members of the Current Affairs club at its meeting in 26M, Tuesday, seventh period.

Blonde and with sparkling blue eyes, Arline can always be found smiling amidst a group of friends.

Choir and other church activities take up much of her extra time. On several days of the week, Weenie works in a store.

She followed the College Course for two years, the Secretarial Course last year, and is taking the Secretarial Course this year. She intends to enter the business world after graduation.

"I have no extra time for hobbies," Weenie laughingly states, but I do like sports and music." She enjoys both, classical and popular music.

Cross Country First in Meet

M. H. S. Runners Down Plainville Team 24-31, In Season's Starter.

The Manchester High Cross Country team beat Plainville High in its first meet of the season. The Wigren-ites turned in a score of 24 to Plainville's 31.

Hill, of Plainville, came in first, followed by Rieder of Manchester. In the last few seconds Rieder put on a terrific sprint and passed Jakubiak who came in one second later. Following Jakubiak came a solid wall of Wigrenites.

The results in order of placing: Hill, P., time 12:16; Rieder, M., 12:30; Jakubiak, P., 12:34; Hyde, M., 12:58; McCann, M., 13:15; Stevenson, M., 13:22; Bray, M., 12:26; Strange, M., 13:32; Johnston, M., 13:44; Richards, P., 14:12; Minnson, P., 14:27; Dodge, P., 14:51; Heatly, M., 15:16; Bartlett, P., 15:19; Nemen, P., 16:37; Beverly, P., 18:25.

The second meet was held between Hartford, Bristol and Manchester at Manchester, Wednesday, October 14.

Paint and Powder Admits Thirty-nine

This year there are about seventy-five members in Paint and Powder. Of these seventy-five, thirty-nine members were initiated this year, after try-outs were held. Final try-outs were held on Tuesday, October 6.

Of the thirty-nine members the following girls were initiated at the a try-out: Donna Carpenter, Laura Carpenter, Ann Cobb, Mary Raimondo, Imogene Warren, Elynor Wagner, Phyllis Kozlowski, Barbara Hewitt, Betty Buck, Mary Raimondo, Imogene Warren, Elynor Wagner, Phyllis Kozlowski, Barbara Hewitt, Betty Buck, Mary Raimondo, Beverly Ducy, Elinor Dougan.

Assembly Centers On War Gases

What would one known burning in the middle of suddenly the wind brought to his nostrils a smell which seemed like a combination of garlic and rotten cabbages?

Those present at the freshmen-sophomore assembly in the high school hall Friday October 9 could correctly respond to this question. The program of the assemblies held at the assembly hall to promote a prudence and feeling of co-operation among the pupils of M. H. S. and for that matter all high school students throughout the United States.

Mr. Sullivan explained to the different war games and how they affect the body.

Chlorine it was learned is a non-persistent gas. It has a bitter, irritant smell and irritates the lungs.

Mustard is a persistent gas and causes blisters. It has an odor which strongly resembles that of garlic.

Mustard is a gas which is persistent. It has an odor resembling that of garlic or rotten cabbages and causes blisters.

Tear gas is a persistent gas which has a benzine-like odor. It causes temporary blindness.

The gas mask and its use was demonstrated by a member of the audience, Hans Bond. The gas mask is merely a piece of rubber with a tube connecting it to a canister. As the air filled with gas passes through the holes on the side of the cannister the air is filtered and thus purified.

Through the program it was learned the enemy is trying to do have things through gas. They read as follows:

1. To produce an effect upon the body.

2. To make a smoke screen.

3. To produce a secondary agent.

It is of interest to note the variations of the programs of the upper and lower classmen. Where as the freshmen-sophomore Civilian Defense Program consists of assemblies and homeroom discussions. The upper classmen are taking a more extended course than that of the lower classmen, their programs ending on October 27, while the lower classmen will complete their course on October 16.

Speaking Analysis Given

Each student in one Sophomore English class has in his possession an analysis of his own speaking abilities now. Last week one whole class has given an oral topic. After each person finished speaking, the chairman allowed time for the rest of the class to jot down one good and one bad point about each person. These were summarized into individual analysis which should prove very valuable to the student.

Legion of Honor

Miss Arline Benson

"An example of good sportsmanship, dependability, and leadership all rolled into one" was Miss Violet McRae's statement of Arline Benson, this week's candidate for the Legion of Honor.

Especially active in sports, Weenie has been a member of Leader's Class all four years, and is president this year. She has been a member of the "Acts" basketball team for three years, and her teammates consider her "one swell girl!" She also took part in volleyball and field hockey.

Arline is also musically inclined, proof of which is that she was in Capitola's one year as a Capipella I three years. She is her home-room alternate in Student Council this year and held the same position last year.

Blonde and with sparkling blue eyes, Arline can always be found smiling amidst a group of friends.

Choir and other church activities take up much of her extra time. On several days of the week, Weenie works in a store.

She followed the College Course for two years, the Secretarial Course last year, and is taking the Secretarial Course this year. She intends to enter the business world after graduation.

Singing Sister Sets Swing It at State

Just four little sisters
No, there isn't any mix.

One is a junior, one is a sophomore
And the third's in the class of '46.

She isn't here just yet

But next year with the freshies
Will come the fourth, Paulette!

Yes, we know you didn't expect to find two sets of four sisters if you went to the State Theater in Hartford Saturday night. You did however go in with the idea you were going to see the famous Andrews Sisters, and you certainly did though tt. find a second set in-addition. Three M. H. S. girls are their younger sister among the entertainers.

It happened like this — Jane, Betty, Barbara and Jean Andrews had been given a letter of introduction from station WNBC to the Paulette Sisters. When they appeared at the State last Friday night they introduced themselves as acquainted, the King Sisters found out that the Andrews Sisters were sing and sing well, too. They were so pleased that when they had finished their act, they had brought forth Jane, Betty, Barbara and Jean Andrews to meet them to the audience. Then with excellent harmony! Jane and the Paulettes sang "The Pennsylvania Polka." Barbara Andrews sang as well that the four little sisters got together on the "Three Little Sisters." Their singing must have a hit with everyone that the four Paulettes have been asked back by the King Sisters to sing with them at their next appearance at the Hotel Astor in New York city.

Sugar 'n' Spice

We're going to take it upon ourselves to scold the juniors and seniors a bit for laughing when the sophomore girls walked by them during the assembly Tuesday. It was just plain bad manners on the side of the cannister the air is filtered and thus purified.

Through the program it was learned the enemy is trying to do have things through gas. They read as follows:

1. To produce an effect upon the body.

2. To make a smoke screen.

Sophomore Clubs Give Oral Reports

On Monday afternoon the third of Miss Todd's Spanish classes had its first club meeting. The first part of the period was devoted to nominations and elections for the three officers of the club. The following were elected: President, Robert Barrett; secretary, Charlotte Hoole; and program chairman, John Hansen.

Oral reports were then given on the different imports the United States receives from South America. The following were the speakers and the topics they spoke on: Frank Rizzo, rubber; Georgia Carter, chewing gum; Frances Straugh, tobacco; Nancy Eldridge, cocoa; Ann Brown, bananas; David Klein, coffee; Jean Starch, sugar; Virginia Dix, nitrate fields; Hans Bonn, sulphur; Ann Polson, tin; Raymond Carmody, gold; Francis Violette, silver; Mary Ragazzo, platinum; Charlotte Chase, wool.

Tuesday morning found the fourth period class assembled. The following are the officers of their club: President, Billy Noren; secretary, Rosalind Turkington; and program chairman, Paul Marte.

Here—too the leading topic was "Imports from South America." People who gave reports and the subjects they spoke on are: Donald Porterfield, Brazil nut; Jerry Sapienza, Rosalind Turkington, bananas; Sherwood Chong, coffee; Carolyn Curtis, sugar; Billy Noren, nitrate; Nancy Stevenson, cocoa; Jean McLean, tobacco; Ann Kosinski, llocak; Paul Marte, asparella.

Subjects having to do with Spanish and also the lives, customs and achievements of our South American neighbors will be taken up in these periods.

Bookkeeping Useful

"Can bookkeeping be of any value to me?" Many students have asked themselves this question. The answer, probably is "Yes."

Mrs. Warren's General Bookkeeping classes have discovered that bookkeeping is of value not only to office workers, but also to housewives in keeping a household accounts.

Even in school, the treasurers of the clubs use bookkeeping in keeping the records of the club. In bookkeeping, one must keep his accounts accurate, and handwriting legible, because accounts are of no value unless they can be read by others.

Private Speaks To Geog. Class

A Former Forester for The Government, Pvt. Wood, Describes Work

"Forestry" was the subject of an informal talk given by Private John Wood of the anti-aircraft unit stationed in Manchester, in George Dougherty's sixth period Economic Geography class, Monday. Private Wood, a graduate of Michigan State University and the University of California, was a government forester for about five years before entering the service.

Private Wood worked in various parts of the country. He described, for example, planting trees in the Great Plains Shelter Belt, and fighting fires in the Appalachians. Trees were planted in the Shelter Belt on many farms, particularly to prevent wind erosion, and Private Wood said that despite controversy, they were fairly successful.

He also pointed out many benefits of forest conservation, one being the increase of waterflow by keeping the soil from eroding and checking the rapid melting of snow, thus adding to streams. Because it takes so much water to manufacture paper, a suffocating company was forced to hunt all over the United States for a factory location, where there is a sufficient supply of water for making their cigarette paper. By planting trees more water will be available for such uses.

As forestry will be included in their studies in the future, the students should find Private Wood's talk of help.

Second Game Lost By M.H.S. Eleven

Manchester High lost a bitterly fought football game to the Bristol eleven here last Monday by a score of 13-0. With the running and passing of Nim LaBella and the plunging of Coughlin the Bristol team had scored touchdowns to Keep the Red and White gridiers on the defense during most of the game.

Middletown threatened in the opening quarter when Coughlin plunged through the local line for continual gains. With the ball on the four-yard line, (the Manchester line held the winners for three down. LaBella attempted to pass for a score, but his pass was far over Marino's head. Manchester was stopped cold and Middletown began a march towards the losers' goal. LaBella threw a pass to Captain Marino for the first ...tally. LaBella circled another aerial to Augeri for the extra point.

Entering the third period with the score 7-0, the Kelleyites held the winners but the Manchester squad also was unable to tally. The silk City eleven scored early in the third period. Deguise ran around a rally at the start of the period. Deguise ran and passed the locals into Middletown territory but a fumble on the drive short. The Middletown lads then proceeded to force M. H. S. against their goal. Zemenek, Red and White quarterback, punted to the 36-yard line where the fleet-footed Nim LaBella caught the ball and scooted to the 15 yard line. Nim LaBella for M. H. S. forward wall for ten yards. Two plays later LaBella was thrown again scored on a pass. The ...ll from the fourth. Yes, we know you didn't expect to find two sets of four sisters if you went to the State Theater in Hartford Saturday night. Marine Values Runners Training

The experience of a runner, even though he doesn't make the team or get his letter, is invaluable to a boy, according to Tony Cosico, class of '38 and U. of Conn. graduate in a letter to his former track and cross-country coach, "Pete" Wynn.

Tony, now a commissione, officer in the Marine Corps, advises high school boys now in track stable up a sport like running and stick to it. He says that it will pay big dividends in the future. For this training will always be of value in the rough life of a marine, no matter what line of work they take up. Especially would it be of value in the armed forces, as Tony himself can well testify.

He has found that training which he received to be practically invaluable to him. He tells of lank, husky men who had played such sports as track, football, baseball, and basketball where continuous stamina is not required, but who do not stand up to the hike of the Marines for any duration as well as the men who have had some track training behind them in their time. Of course, those men who have trained are much more quickly than the poor fellows who had not done anything in sports of any kind, but the point is that those who run have an edge on the best equipped.

"Tony concludes that he likes the life of a Marine very much, and has found that the running he did while in school did him more good than anything else possibly received from any other sport.

Leaders Class Members take note:

All those who plan to attend the initiation party on October 23rd please bring ten cents to Rella Sinnamon '44M, or Jewell Averill '43M before the deadline, October 16th.

To you girls forever inquiring when bowling will start—it will begin in November when this detention course is over. You know if you have an hour's detention or making up the gym period, and composing short magazine articles —about 75-100 girls have signed up. But chances that they're really interested—

If you are on one of the field hockey teams you already know what it means! you know wooden-girl "hockiers" have a new hockey field. Incidentally the grass doesn't look as if it had been scared out of a year's growth.

The conditioning of Manchester High Girls has begun with corrective posture exercises led by Miss Cole.

Hi-Y to Hold Social Tomorrow Night

Come to the Hi-Y Victory Social Friday evening, Oct. 16, at 7:30 o'clock, at the High School Auditorium. All are cordially invited to swing and sway to the music of Bernie Kaye and other famous band leaders. The bands will dish out the rhythm in a variety of both waltz and jazz numbers. Admission to the novel jam session will be the purchase of a 25-cent War Stamp at the door. Don't forget now. Come one and all to the Hi-Y Stamp Social and have a swell time. Refreshments will be there, so why not come yourself? Don Porterfield.

Hold Dancing Classes

Ballroom dancing classes which are conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Wirtalla in the assembly hall for one hour after school once a week have been formed, with approximately one hundred students who have signed up to learn to dance various steps of the foxtrot and the waltz, to the accompaniment of a piano played by Jerry Porterfield. Besides learning dance steps, the pupils are also taught "ballroom etiquette. This includes passing through the reception line at school proms, forming the grand march, the way to hold a partner's hand correctly, etc.

There will be 10 lessons given 'n the course. Barbara Hess, '44.

S. A. A. Progresses

"The Student Activity Association has progressed very well so far," said Mrs. Marguerite Campbell, since last Friday approximately 31 percent of the students in the Main Building alone have bought S. A. A. tickets. This comes to a total of $213.50.

A more detailed report of the S. A. A. drive will be published next week when the entire high school will be represented.

Final Results Are Tallied

Grand Total of 105,000 Pounds Is Collected by Various Homerooms.

A grand total of 105,000 pounds of scrap is now reported as collected by the various homerooms in high school. Approximately 500 pounds of rubber scrap was also found, even though it was not included in the metal scrap total.

The winner in the scrap competition in the Barnard building was Room 218, with a sum total of 38,013 pounds of metal scrap collected. Room 218 was not far behind, as they collected according to all reports 22,854 pounds of metal scrap.

Other rooms which collected over a ton of scrap were 23M, 6,000 pounds and six auto tires; 13M, 2,150 pounds; 14M, 2417 pounds; 31M, 2,422 pounds; 24M, 6,800 pounds; and 26B, 4,820 pounds.

Several pieces of rather old scrap were collected by the members of some of the homerooms and one student gathered over four tons "all by his lonesome." For instance, Shirley Shipman brought in an old sewing machine; Betsy Bernard carted many pounds of old furnace parts to the junk heap; Doris Flavell found and interesting pieces of scrap as an old bicycle and a lamp frame, a Fountain copped beds, springs, 12 car fenders, bumpers, car doors, running boards, car hoods, a lawn mower, and 4 gas tanks; Joseph Kaley got an automobile frame and many tin cans.

Artists Initiated At Recent Picnic

Twenty-seven members were initiated into the Art Club at a picnic held Wednesday afternoon, October 7, at the Center Spring Clubhouse.

Irene Illing and Bob Genovesi were the first to be initiated. They were told to portray, in pantomime, a lady who had run out of sugar, and a grocer determined to give her none. Through many gesticulations, Irene finally persuaded Bob that she was entitled to it and he reluctantly handed her the sugar bowl.

For his initiation, John Bickford had to count as far as he could in ten minutes, kicking his legs out alternately at every count. Bickford was initiated by an announcer on a radio drama and was asked to tell why he considered good looking, his conclusion being "because of his big brown eyes and long eye lashes!

Given the choice of describing his favorite dish, cheese or grill, Jerry Porterfield chose a grill, which consisted of a steak and all the trimmings, and demonstrated a flat foot floogy and of a jitterbug was quite in order. Marjorie Kloppenburg told what she would do if she were to behave uncouthly.

Ernest Cartier told the club all about his favorite movie, as a movie, with the regular stop in an old barn and the crashing.

There were a few old members who had not been initiated, namely Shirley Clemson assumed the facial expression known by a ten year old girl, dreaming of her boy friend. Pat Fagin and "Bill Hard Stream" were heard, when Clara Johnson named and imitated three opera stars rendering that song.

Other initiates were Tina Raimondo, Ada Flora, Lauren Hickler, Barbara Cary, Beverly Rayber, Roberta MacFockean, Nick Ambulos, Dick Herron, Carolyn Hale, Nancy Kane and Gene Cumberbelas, Constance Ash, Flora Stevenson, Jane Wallace and Jane Walter. Jimmy Elliot, who was listed by mistake as a new member, had to be initiated a sin old member.

A picnic supper was enjoyed by the Art Club members after games were played. Accompanying the group were Miss Jessie M. Low as a guest and Miss Hope Henderson, faculty advisor.

Science Classes Study Aviation

The pupils of Mr. Potterton's science classes in Room 285 received a lesson in the fundamental problems of modern aviation. Some of the pupils have made models for issues of an aviation digest put out by the scholastic board. Some of the pupils have also to do with theories on how an airplane flies and other theories of the atmosphere on the motion of the plane. Some of the pupils are also interested in some article from the magazine, Other pupils are interested in the magazine, Problems of the Air. They are learning of the properties of oxygen and what effect it has upon fuel. The composition of air is also another important subject topic.

Race to Victory In Both Varsity Events Yesterday

Marsch's Colt Might Upset Famous Jinx

Kentucky's Derby Hard Luck to Every Colt That Won Futurity; Occupation May Do It.

New York Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz undoubtedly were a bitterly disappointed couple when Count Fleet could do no better than third in the $69,890 The Futurity down the Widener chute at Belmont.

Lemieux of Hartford was first across the line in the varsity race, five seconds ahead of Billy Mansfield of Manchester. Each of the harriers from here in dominated with Bristol hopelessly outclassed all of the way.

Yesterday's race was over a mile and one half miles and the time of the winner was 2:29 flat. The old course record. The Hartford team was totally unknown to fame before the meet was held but Manchester managed the upset when the entire pack ahead of the pack about 500 yards from the finish. The scores follow:

Varsity

Lemieux H, 14:08; Mansfield M, 14:13; Hanter H, 14:14; Rieder M, 14:15; Carlson H, 14:17; Al Bray M, 14:20; Sutanski B, 14:32; E. Bray M, 14:46; Stevenson M, 14:47; Scolley H, 14:53; McCann M, 14:56; Tubey H, 14:57; Harris B, 14:59; Strange M, 15:05; Greenham M, 15:06; Johnston M, 15:10; Skelly H, 15:14; Carpenter B, 15:16; LaFleur H, 15:17; Peterson B, 15:19; Griswold H, 15:51; Claire B, 15:52; Adamcik B, 16:16; Carter P, 17:00; Buchanan B, 17:32.

Second Team

Donovan M, 15:31; Strickland H, 15:32; Rinaprio H, 15:38; Dionne H, 15:34; Holmes H, 15:46; Dupuis H, 15:10; Hall M, 16:11; Waters H, 16:17; Carroll H, 16:21; Randazzo H, 16:23; Stidham M, 16:25; Kozlowski B, 16:42; Hardy M, 16:45; Duffy M, 17:39; Smith H, 17:50; Wachna M.

Bristol Outclassed on Local Course; Highly Favored Before Meet Hartford Lacked Any Reverse Kick; Billy Mansfield Second.

Coach Pete Wigren's Manchester High harriers upset a favored Hartford high team yesterday afternoon over the local course and squeezed out a close victory, 29-30 in the triangular meet and literally swamped a Bristol high squad, 29-61. In the final meet between Hartford and Manchester the local boys came through with flying colors, 27-28. The Hartford team, however, proved a tough, Manchester hopefuls, 17-30.

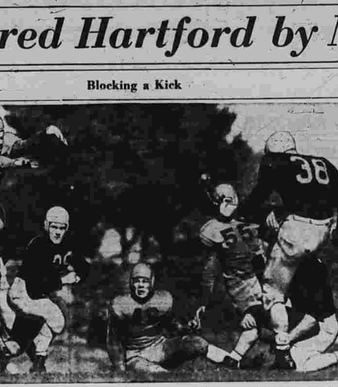
Tavern Team Enters Loop

Last Year's Champions Sign Up Last Night; Props Also Entered.

Only four teams showed up at the West Side bowling alleys last night and signified their intentions to enter the Tavern Bowling League. The West Side Tavern team, last year's champs, was the first team to show up at the newcomer, Bullard's of the Hamilton Propeller of East Hartford, and Cheney Brothers. Bullard's West Side team was the champs, Cole, Johnson, Hedlund, Mc 16:45; Duffy M, 17:39; Smith H, 17:50; Wachna M.

Blocking a Kick



Minnesota tackle Paul Mitchell blocks Jim McCarthy's attempted extra point, but surprising Illinois topples Gophers, 20-13, at Champaign. Others are Buck Correll, 39; Herb Hein, 48, and Vic Kulbitski, 55. Ray Florek held ball.

Ohio State Leads Nation's Gridders

Slick Nick

Nick Buseff, 6-foot 4-inch, 204-pound end, is Washington State's pulverizing candidate for All-America.

Western Teams Will Carry On

Conference Leaders to Lower Frosh Bars If Conditions Continue.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Western Conference—which has down the bars on intercollegiate freshman competition at its spring meeting, may be forced to go a step further and permit use of freshmen on varsity football and other varsity teams—in view of the proposed draft of 18-19 year olds.

This was the opinion of officials today following demands before Congressional Committees for lowering the draft age limit.

Doug Mills, athletic director at the University of Illinois, said, "when the time comes, I am sure the Conference will let the bars down. Of course, we will be crushed, particularly if it means keeping the program of physical fitness going.

Unless the government orders otherwise, college football will continue next year "even if our friend, Hitler, should drop in on John L. Griffith, Commissioner of the Big Ten Conference.

"And the best indication that we will be able to play next year," continued Mills, "is the high value our military men place on competitive athletics in keeping up morale."

Intimating the probable end of Conference rules, Griffith asserted: "but we will have to get along with less players or be some 'old men' 24 years of age."

Cravat League Opens Friday

Oldest Bowling Circuit Ready for 28th Year; To Roll at Murphy's.

"The oldest bowling circuit in Manchester, the Cravat League, gets underway this Friday evening and it promises to be a banner year as ...any season since it was organized about 27 years ago. This was due to the fact that Cyrus "Pop" Blanchard had been inducted into the armed forces. The league will meet at Murphy's at 7 o'clock Friday evening. All the bowlers are and adopt rules for the coming season.

It is hoped that the league will have at least four teams, of four men each to start the season, the members will try and keep it going until the members are discharged from the army, and other service arms, return. The following bowlers are asked to attend the meeting Friday night, Schubert, Larder, Tedman, Brennan, Murphy, Bengston, Benson, Dwyer, Irwin, Metcalf, Cote, Duff, Delitz, Delitz, Felica and Pacek.

Small Town Boys— Big Time Football

Austin, Texas— Reserve guard Paul Tracy of San Antonio is the only big city product on the Texas football squad. No other member comes from the state's major cities. Max Minor, wingback, is from Abilene; Charles Moore, halfback, hails from Junction. Coy Wagner comes from Cisco, Jack Lasseter from Electra, Guard Jack Freeman is from Mexia. His understudy, Fritz Lobpries is from Schulenberg boy. Harold Collins, guard and Hocking back, hails Breckenridge and tackle George Watkins San Saba as home address. Franklin Jeffers, end, is from Belton, his flanking colleague, Lewis Mayne, from Quero.

146-Pound Guard

Tulsa—Tulsa has a 146-pound guard in Gene Hendrix of Fort Smith, Ark.

Boxers Need Better Deal From States

Interests of Fighters Should Be Protected From Start of Ring Career to Finish.

The V. & H. Promotions, meaning Ed Hurley and Lew Viscusi are going to shake Bobby Ivy to the fatic fans of this vicinity next Tuesday night. It may be that the once-popular Hartford boy is not all washed up....but indications are that he is.... and it is too bad that he is going to meet a clever boy like Lulu Constantino in the main bout.

This writer picked Ivy to beat Pep and was honest in that belief until they met at Bulkeley. Ivy is dium last summer. Pep's ability to make the most rugged Ivy quit should have been the warning signal to Ivy.... if nothing else. Apparently not. Bobby lost Ivy is taking on another great fighter next week.

Ivy was a great fighter. He gave every thing he had once inside the ropes. He should have made money enough to live comfortably the rest of his life. Is there any reason be the reason for this time against Constantino.

For a great many years now, this writer has often wanted to make some proposals for the boys who takes out a license to fight. The boxing game is full of this and that when a man is on top, but once he starts to slip he is a "bum." It would take a genius to defense, Manhattan was second at 71, followed by Illinois (76.03), Arizona, last week's leader, (79.7), and Temple (85.3).

Against forward passes Tulsa has yielded an average of 15.3 yards a game. Then came Arizona (22.7), Illinois (23.3), Georgia Naval Pre-Flight (26.1) and North Carolina (29.3).

At throwing passes, the Golden Hurricanes were outranked only by Columbia and its ace, Paul Governali, who have averaged 250.3 yards to Tulsa's 206. Third was Georgia with 166, then Georgia Naval Pre. Flight (161.3) and Southern Methodist (154.7).

Brown topped Ohio State in average yards gained by rushing with 346 in two games to the Buckeyes 338.7 in three. Behind the leaders were Illinois (327), Dartmouth (98.3) and Arizona (297.7). Tops against rushing tactics was Boston College with a minus 8.

Embroidered Bed Linens

By Mrs. Anne Cabot

Poppies—the symbol of restful sleep and pleasant dreams—are gorgeously embroidered on this pair of pillowcases and top-sheet. Reds, pinks, pale and dark greens are harmoniously blended in the big cross-stitch poppies and the leaves. The tiny buds are done in sunshine-y yellow. Pillowcases have large scallops to be done in buttonhole stitch.

A charming set to embroider for your guest room, for a present to a new Army bride, to complete and put away in your treasure chest of holiday gifts.

To obtain 3 transfer patterns for the Poppy Design for pillowcases and sheet (Pattern No. 5435) send 10 cents in Coin. Your Name and Address and the Pattern Number to Anne Cabot, The Manchester Evening Herald, 106 Seventh Avenue, New York City. Enclose cent postage for each pattern desired.

My popular Album—32 pages—this designs you have admired and asked for— needlework of all types—is now available. Send for your copy of the "Anne Cabot Album". The price is 15 cents.

— Sense and Nonsense —

One of the four freedoms is freedom from want.

Does Washington mean fear of the voters or of the dictators?

Mabel—I like married men best. Rosie—So do I—the only one I can't stand is my husband.

Bill Nye, America's humorist two generations ago, was also a philosopher. He advised that we prepare for the worst though it may never come because "there's a great deal of satisfaction in having been ready for action." That philosophy paved the way of many individuals to success, and many nations too. It animates this nation today in preparations for achieving victory in the present war. Prepared for this, America will be ready for victory to come for almost any crisis, for it will have air, naval, and military power with which enemy nations will fear to cope.

The minister had "tied the knot" and was filling out the certificate. The young man, who appeared very nervous, spoke at last:

Groom—How much do I owe you?

Minister (smiling)—As much as you think the girl's worth.

The young man handed the minister a dollar, which the minister took without comment. The young man was reluctant in leaving; in fact, the minister thought he was not going to get rid of the couple.

Minister (finally)—Have I forgotten anything?

Groom—My change.

About Town

An enjoyable session of contract bridge held last night by the Harvard Road Bridge Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George French. It was announced that it was the last get-together at their home, due to the fact that they are moving out of town. High scores were made by Mrs. Robert E. McKelvey and Phil Tangarone.

William E. Mahoney, of 76 Walnut street, who left for Fort Devens, was a guest of honor at a party at his home last Saturday evening. Thirty-five guests attended and a delicious luncheon was served.

American Legion auxiliary members will have an all-day sewing session tomorrow from ten o'clock on, at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Thomas, 46 Courtland street. Work will be on articles for the annual Christmas sale. Every member is urged to attend. If they are unable to attend all day, they may come when convenient. Each one is requested to provide something for the "pot luck" luncheon at noon and Mrs. Thomas will serve tea and coffee.

Pfc. Laurence F. Mallon returned to Camp Pendleton, Virginia, yesterday after spending a seven-day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Mallon of 38 Pearl street.

The Ration Board will hold another session this evening from 7 to 10 p.m. for the benefit of persons wishing to obtain gas ration renewals.

Cummings Boys See Action in War Zones

One Now in Solomons, And Another Survivor Of Sinking of the Vincennes in Pacific.

The three sons of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Cummings of South Main street, Manchester's first 3-star family, are all in active service of their country, one in the Solomons, where recent fighting was heavy, another a survivor of the sinking of the U.S.S. Vincennes and the remaining son a technician in the Marines Air Force.

Picture in Magazine

Word was received last week from Ted, youngest of the Cummings brothers, whose picture in last week's Life magazine attracted much attention in town. Ted is a member of the Marines and is serving with the Fleet Marine Force on Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons. Due to military restrictions he was unable to give his parents much news, but stated that he had been in heavy action and was a member of the initial force which took over Tulagi Island. He is now stationed on Guadalcanal Island.

Is In California

Burnett, or Barney as he is known to his friends here, is also a Leatherneck, and he wrote his parents last week that he had been advanced to staff Sergeant and is in charge of the Marine Air Station Operations Office at Goleta, California. Barney was formerly an instructor at the Marine Radio School at the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla., but a few months ago was detailed to duty in California to help set up the new Marine Air Base.

Ed On the Vincennes

Edwin, the oldest of the Cummings boys, and married, is the Navy. He is one of the survivors of the ill-fated U.S.S. Vincennes which was sunk by Jap bombers in the Solomons. He had been at sea since his enlistment and now on submarine duty at Pearl Harbor.

The two youngest boys enlisted in July 1941 and received their "boot" training at Parris Island, S. C. From there Barney went to radio school and upon graduating was made a radio instructor in the Marine School where he remained until a few months ago.

Ted was sent to Chicago for a short time after leaving Parris Island but returned to New River, N. C., for Fleet training and from there was sent to the South Seas.

Edwin was in Newport, R. I., for three weeks after he enlisted last December and from then until the battle in the South Pacific on August 8-9 was aboard the cruiser Vincennes.

Barney Writes Poem

Following is a poem written by Staff Sergeant Barney Cummings while stationed at Jacksonville, Fla.:

Attack!

From out the grey-streaked dawn they flew, bombers,
And on our people strew destruction.
Hawaii, the Philippines, Midway, and Guam.
To them all came death from the yellow-man's bomb.
While here at home on our peaceful shore,
Their statesmen assured us there be no war!
Lying, deceitful, with surprise they attacked,
Truthfully they caught us flat on our back.
For we trusted, and that's when we made a mistake,
One which never again will we make.
In Luzon they landed, the dispatches say,
But our plucky forces have held them at bay.
And soon we will drive the invader away,
Thus keeping the mainland from harm
So we pray: that God will approve of
The action we take, to destroy the Axis.
And for all peoples make
A civilization, where people may live
According to God and the creed he did give Us, to guide our lives in a thoughtful way.
And so our forces did take up their stand,
On Wake, for example,
A small island band
Of Marines did cling to their embattled post.
Through shell, fire, and bombs
They lived up to the boast
Of the Leatherneck Corps,
Which, as Winchell did say,
Is the best fighting force
In the Far East today.
The Navy, though sustaining terrific loss,
Had set out to prove to the world, who is Boss.
And the Blue jackets roam the Pacific so blue,
Where blood will run freely before this is through.!

Jap Forces Shelling American Positions; Raid Camp at Kiska

Many Large Fires Are Started by Air Attack; Three Enemy Seaplanes Destroyed On Water; No Air Opposition Encountered But One of Army Fighters Is Lost.

Washington, Oct. 16.—(AP)—In an air attack on the Japanese camp at Kiska in the Aleutian islands it started many large fires and destroyed three enemy seaplanes on the water, the Navy reported today. The raid was carried out Wednesday by Army Liberator bombers, accompanied by twin-engine lightning fighters, a communique said. While the bombers rained incendiary bombs on the enemy camp, the fighters strafed and destroyed the Japanese seaplanes. No enemy air opposition was encountered, but one of the Army fighters was lost.

Take Over Another Island

The Alaska Defense Command disclosed earlier today that American troops had taken over another island in the Andreanoff group of the Aleutians, in a "routine operation."

On Oct. 11, the Navy communique said, Army long-range bombers dropped six tons of demolition bombs on the Kiska camp, but results were not observed. The raiders Wednesday saw three beached and two sunken ships at Kiska, the result of previous bombings. The text of the communique, No. 155:

"North Pacific

Results Not Observed

"1. On Oct. 11th, Army long range bombers dropped six tons of demolition bombs on the camp area at Kiska. Results were not observed.

"2. On Oct. 14th, Army 'Liberator' bombers accompanied by 'Lightning' fighters, dropped incendiary bombs on the camp area at Kiska starting many large fires. No enemy aircraft opposition was encountered. Our fighters strafed and destroyed three enemy seaplanes on the water. One of our fighters was lost.

"3. Three beached and two sunken ships, the result of previous bombings, were observed in the vicinity of the harbor at Kiska."

Couple Is Held For Kidnaping

Man and Wife Admit Abducting Little Girl; Found Unharmed.

Red Bluff, Calif., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Brown-eyed little Vivian Miller waited impatiently in Grants Pass, Ore., for her foster parents today as police at Red Bluff, Calif., held a man and his wife on confession they kidnaped the 4-year-old girl. The man was quoted as saying he and always wanted a child of his own.

Vivian was found unharmed in a Grants Pass school yesterday. Almost simultaneously though she did not become known for some time—Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont B. DuBois of Red Bluff, Calif., were arrested near here for questioning.

Several hours later DuBois, in the presence of his wife and three officials, dictated a brief statement confessing the kidnaping, said Sheriff James N. Froome. Both he and his wife signed it.

Mother Cries With Joy

In San Francisco, Mrs. Louise Miller, the child's mother, cried for joy when informed that Vivian had been found safe. Later she talked by telephone with Vivian in Grants Pass.

"It was wonderful to hear her voice," the mother said.

"Thank God, she's well," commented Morris Miller, the child's father, a shipyard worker.

Miller accompanied two San Francisco police inspectors here today and came face to face with DuBois in the sheriff's office. He met considerable difficulty in controlling himself and officers had to hold him at one time when he muttered, "Just let me have one crack at him; that's all I want, just one crack at the guy."

Tour Heralds Burma Drive Coming Soon

Wavell Returns from Reconnaissance of Frontier; Dovetails With Roosevelt Suggestion.

New Delhi, India, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander in chief of India, returned today from a reconnaissance of the northeast frontier under circumstances accepted here as heralding possible action to return Burma from the Japanese.

"His excellency the commander in chief has returned to headquarters in New Delhi after a four-day inspection of forward positions on the northeast frontier. During the visit General Wavell crossed the Burma frontier."

Suggestion Of Attack

Reliable but unofficial sources indicated that Wavell gave a suggestion that an attack upon Burma could be expected.

A spokesman amplified this: "General Wavell's activities," he said, "were a practical illustration of his recent statement that reoccupation of Burma is now foremost in his mind."

This information, the sources of which can not be identified by name, dovetailed with President Roosevelt's hint in his speech that day that the Allies could expect to begin hitting back soon.

Floods Force Hundreds Out

Bulletin!

Washington, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Flood waters of the Potomac river and tributaries, approaching an expected record height, had claimed at least one life today and caused the Navy department to warn its personnel that nearly automobile parking fields might be flooded. Last night a flash flood churning down Cabin Branch swept John E. Buell, 21, an auto repair shop owner, off a bridge near Md., in his death as he tried to hook a stalled automobile to his tow truck. At low tide this morning the Potomac overflowed into East Potomac park and police warned that at high tide streets in both the Georgetown and southwestern sections of Washington likely would be flooded.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Floods disrupted road, rail and power service in a third of Virginia today after forcing hundreds of persons to evacuate their homes.

Hardest hit was the Shenandoah valley where the Shenandoah

Land Large Reinforcements, Equipment, Including Artillery on Guadalcanal; Large Concentration of Enemy Ships Discovered Near Shortland Island to Northwest.

Washington, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The Japanese have landed large reinforcements with equipment, including artillery, on Guadalcanal island and are now shelling American positions on the island, the Navy reported today. A large concentration of enemy ships also has been discovered near Shortland island about 259 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, a Navy communique said, in addition to the enemy Naval units in the southeastern Solomon islands.

Attacked by Torpedo Boats

Presence of American motor torpedo boats in the Solomons area was disclosed in a report that enemy warships shelling American positions on Guadalcanal the night of Oct. 14-15 were attacked by these torpedo boats, which reported a probable torpedo hit on a Japanese cruiser.

During the morning of Oct. 14, the Navy said, searching planes sent off to scout the enemy strafed and damaged nine enemy planes on the beach at Rekata bay on Santa Isabel island, about 115 miles north of Guadalcanal.

The same afternoon, Navy and Marine Corps dive-bombers, escorted by fighters, left Guadalcanal to attack enemy transports approaching the island.

Score "Minor Damage"

In two attacks on the Jap ships they scored "minor damage," but lost one fighter.

The communique did not say whether the enemy concentration in the Buin-Faisi area near Shortland island were transports or warships, but the implication appeared to be that it was composed of both, and that the enemy was preparing to reinforce still further the heavy detachments it has succeeded in placing ashore on Guadalcanal.

Steppedup aerial and Navy action throughout the whole Solomons area bolstered Allied hopes that a showdown was near at hand for possession of the pivotal Guadalcanal island and the prized airbase captured more than two months ago by United States Marines.

Within the last 24 hours, the Navy reported, the enemy Japanese bombers have blasted at the

Will Retain Victory Tax

Committee Makes Only Minor Change in Levy As Adopted by Senate.

Washington, Oct. 16.—(AP)—A joint Senate-House Conference committee agreed today to retain in the new revenue bill the 5 per cent victory tax on all income of individuals over $624 yearly.

Making only minor changes in the form of the levy as it was adopted by the Senate, the committee acted to cut out of the bill a comparable 5 per cent withholding tax on net income previously voted by the House for the advance collection of income taxes. This latter levy would have been increased to 10 per cent in 1944.

$350 For Dependents

Acting swiftly on controversial sections of the bill, the conferees agreed to fix the credit for dependents under the regular income tax at $350 instead of the $400 level voted by the House and the Senate figure of $300.

This reduced the prospective revenue from the bill by an undetermined amount.

In approving the victory tax, which would be collected at the source from most wage and salary earners beginning next Jan. 1, the conference committee agreed to exclude from the withholding provisions fees paid to such public officials as sheriffs and others.

It also instructed experts to draft language to regulate the collection on persons whose earnings largely are from commissions and moved toward clarification of provisions requiring employers to furnish employes with receipts for the amounts withheld from the latters' pay checks.

Senate Committee Recommends Using Lower Age Group

House Arranges for Final Action Tomorrow On Similar Legislation; Displeasure Over School Deferment Amendment.

Washington, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The Senate Military Committee recommended the drafting of 18 and 19-year-olds today shortly after the House arranged for final action tomorrow on similar legislation. Rumblings of displeasure arose on the House side of the capitol over a school deferment amendment in the bill before it and in the acceptance of a full 12 months' training for the youthful selectees.

Expect Swift Passage

The objections were aired at a Rules committee hearing on House procedure on the bill, which administration leaders said they expected would be passed swiftly, as one answer of a democracy at war to totalitarian threats.

The bill approved unanimously by the Senate committee was sponsored by Senator Gurney (R-SD) who announced that the measure would go to the Senate floor Monday. A $6,000,000,000 Naval appropriation bill has the right of way, however, and Gurney said that a vote on the draft bill may similarly before Tuesday.

Gurney's bill lowers the minimum draft age from 20 to 18 and provides that high school students may be deferred until the end of the last half of the academic year.

Battles to Decline Share In Her Brother's Estate

Kansas City, Oct. 16.—(AP)—You people can do what you please with it. I'm not going to have any of it."

That was Mrs. Max Eichenberg speaking, as the estate of her late court battle to decline her $23,000 inheritance. He will argue in bankruptcy court Oct. 23 that the probate judge, not a bankruptcy referee, is the man who must say whether Mrs. Eichenberg can refuse her inheritance.

Attorney Nelson E. Reports Riots Follow Nazis' Aid Request

Violent Disorders Occur in Unoccupied Zone of France as Pressure Increased.

Bern, Switzerland, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Violent disorders have broken out in the unoccupied zone of France as the Nazis increased pressure on French workers to go to Germany, dispatches to the Swiss press reported today.

Lyon, Chambery and Annecy were mentioned as trouble centers in a dispatch to the Tribune de Lausanne, which said that, while details were lacking, it "is known that violent outbreaks occurred and that public forces (whether police, gendarmes or Army units was not specified) had to intervene, and that blood flowed."

This dispatch said there were uncontrolled reports "that bombs were thrown, that the public forces had used weapons, chiefly hand grenades, that railway stations and other strategic points were occupied by troops."

Vichy sources, however, said officials of the Laval government were minimizing the extent of the disorders and insisting that it was not yet known that bloodshed had occurred.

The outbreaks were said to have

Stalingrad Defense In Stubborn Stand; Nazis Get to Volga

Germans Report Tanks And Infantry Smash Through to River and Storm Fiercely Defended Factory Area; Red Army 'Continuing To Fight As If Nothing Had Happened'.

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 16.—(AP)—The high command said today that German tanks and infantry had smashed through Stalingrad defenses to the Volga and stormed a fiercely defended factory area, but military spokesmen declared that the Red Army "is continuing to fight as if nothing had happened." A Transocean report quoted these sources as saying that the Russian task force relief attacks to ease the German pressure on two other great factories, Red October and Red Barricade, which were described as cut off and bypassed.

Capture Tractor Factory

Captured in the stubborn house to house fighting was the big Dzerzhinsky tractor factory, the daily war bulletin reported.

DNB said yesterday that the tractor factory had been stormed yesterday morning, and that German troops had driven through to the Volga on a two-mile front.

The high command reported these developments in the Caucasus:

"Operations southeast of Novorossisk once more led to encirclement and annihilation of enemy forces.

"In the direction of Tuapse German troops stormed two mountain positions which are of special importance for continuation of the attack."

Of the Stalingrad fight it said:

During Night Attack

"In Stalingrad, one Panzer division in a daring night attack pushed through to the Volga and then in cooperation with infantry formations took in stubborn house and street fights, the northern part of a factory suburb with the large Dzerzhinsky tractor works.

Hungarian troops on the Don bend front were said to have repulsed Russian attempts to cross the river.

The communique said German planes attacked the remaining Red Army defense positions at Stalingrad and communications behind the Russian lines along the central front.

"On the Murmansk front," the

Cologne Marks For Hundreds Of Bombers

Industrial Rhineland Is General Target of Assault; British Report 18 Planes Lost.

London, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Britain's biggest bombs fell in crushing weight on Cologne last night from a raiding force of hundreds of great four-motored bombers after the R. A. F. virtually had ignored the blackened Rhineland city in the four and a half months since it was made the target of history's first thousand-plane raid.

The Industrial Rhineland—Germany's "bomb alley"—was the general target of the assault, probably one of the largest against the Nazi homeland in weeks.

Set for "Crucial Moment"

London, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Labor Minister Ernest Bevin declared today that the Allied nations were all set for "the crucial moment of the war," which he said was in opening. The Allies "have their program and their strategy," he said, adding that Britain "knows what contribution she can make—and where and when." Bevin said "nothing is farther from the truth" than suggestion that the United Nations are not keeping their agreements with one another.

Will Lose Rationing Books

Washington, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Motorists with tires not "legally adjusted" will lose their gasoline ration books, the Office of Price Administration disclosed today in announcing details of a nationwide program for periodic inspections of tires. The five tires listed by the motorist by serial number in connection with rationing, plus tires acquired through "rationing certificates," will be the only "legal" tires, OPA said the periodic inspection program was designed as a check against illegal use or sales of casings, as well as to keep tires in good repair.

Cooperative Settling Disputes

Chicago, Oct. 16.—(AP)—American labor and management have cooperated better than 99 per cent in settling their disputes through collective bargaining and collection, John R. Steelman, director of the United States Conciliation Service, reported today. "This is not a perfect record," he said in an address prepared for the annual meeting of the Printers National Association, "but it is the best work we have ever attained."

"Arms And Explosives" Dropped

New York, Oct. 16.—(AP)—It was reported hearing the Vichy Radio broadcast a Laval government statement today that "arms and explosives" had been dropped by parachute in French territory. The statement was issued following a session of the Vichy cabinet.

Russians Retreat to New Positions Under Cover Of Early Morning Darkness; Desperate Nazi Effort to Hack Path to River and Victory; Infantry Divisions Form Spearhead.

Moscow, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The defenders of Stalingrad retreated to new positions under cover of early morning darkness today and with their backs to the broad Volga were reported making a new and stubborn stand against a desperate German effort to hack a path to the river and victory. Two infantry divisions paced by 100 tanks and supported by 500 planes formed the spearhead with which the Germans hoped at all cost to split Stalingrad's defenses.

Penetration Dangerous

The attackers already had penetrated dangerously into the Russian defenses on a one-mile-wide sector of the northern suburbs in this renewal of the offensive after days of stalemate and the Army newspaper, Red Star, said that "the vile enemy aims to capture the city at any cost."

The Battle of Stalingrad, like the long struggle for Sevastopol in the Crimea, had already disrupted the Germans' offensive schedule.

Possession of a factory settlement was the immediate issue. Dispatches said the main struggle raged "several kilometers deep" within the settlement, with garrison forces pitted against the enemy's thrusts of two infantry divisions and 100 tanks. The Nazi corps, tank-supported, was less than half the size of the offensive force used last week, but more men could be brought up and probably into the narrow salient.

Russians Pressed Back

The Russians were pressed back at various points—the noon communique reported German attacks of several streets—and numerical superiority of the assault forces was officially acknowledged. Little room was left for maneuvers on the west bank of the Volga there.

The Germans declared last night that they had reached the Volga on a two-mile front, the Berlin radio said.

Down 14 Axis Planes in Day

Malta Again Under Attack by Enemy; Four Spitfires Are Lost.

Cairo, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The defenders of Malta shot down 14 Axis planes in daylight yesterday as the enemy continued to batter at that island stronghold in the central Mediterranean, a British communique announced today.

Four British Spitfires were reported lost in the action, which brought the total of enemy planes destroyed over Malta since Sunday to 85.

The communique said still another German bomber plane was shot down into the sea south of Crete, and acknowledged the loss of two more British aircraft over the Egyptian front.

Attack Transport Columns

British aerial activities in this zone included attacks on Axis transport columns by fighter bombers yesterday and raids the night before by medium bombers on Tobruk, Sidi Haneish and Derna.

Operations on the Egyptian land front were reported limited to patrol activity.

Blaze Stops Sub Building

London, Oct. 16.—(AP)—A Moscow broadcast, heard here by Reuters, said today that a "fire of great proportions" in a submarine-building yards at Trondheim, on Norway's Atlantic coast, out of operation for a long time.

The Russian radio said that Josef Terboven, the Nazi commissioner for Norway, had visited the scene of the trouble and then flew back to Berlin, and that a high member of Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo had arrived in Oslo.

Clergymen Confined

The Gestapo regime has confined more than 1,100 clergymen of the official Norwegian church to their residences and replaced members of church councils with Quisling followers, official Norwegian sources here declared today.

They said the move was "the boldest attempt yet to take over all church property."

The priests were said to have declined to recognize the Quisling regime as the official government and held to that stand for weeks despite threats.

Norwegian circles here said that "in an effort to keep the church open, Quisling is obtaining hundreds of unqualified laymen to fill the pulpits of 750 churches."
