British Ban Moscow Trip of A-Scientist

Cancel Visa Of Foreign Office Aide

London, July 21—(AP)—Britain today abruptly cancelled the passports of a British atomic scientist who had planned a flight to Moscow and a Foreign Office official.

The clampdown came in a new re-screening by British security officials following the mysterious disappearance of two British diplomats two months ago.

Donald MacClean, head of the American department of the Foreign Office and Guy Burgess, former second secretary of the British embassy in Washington, disappeared after boarding a boat for France, May 25. They are feared to have fled behind the Iron Curtain with valuable secrets.

Neither of the two whose passports were cancelled today were immediately identified. A Foreign Office spokesman said the scientist was "a lecturer at a university." He added that the scientist proposed visiting Moscow as part of a "good will" group.

Identify Scientist

Other sources identified the scientist as Dr. E. H. S. Burhop of University college, London, who has advocated an approach to Russia in an atttempt to reach a limited agreement on atomic control before the West steps up its race for the hydrogen bomb. He is secretary of the British Association of Scientific Workers and worked on the Atomic Energy project in the United States during World War II.

Cease-Fire Talks Recessed; Next Session To Be July 25

Munsan, Korea, July 21—(AP)—Korean cease-fire talks at Kaesong were recessed today until July 25 at Red request.

The Communists said they wanted the recess "to enable both sides to study the proposals thus far presented."

After today's meeting Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief United Nations negotiator, flew to Tokyo to confer with United Nations Supreme Commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

Newsmen there asked him if things were going all right and he replied: "I guess so." He had no further comment.

Joy was accompanied by Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie and Rear Adm. Arleigh Burke, two other members of the Allied five-man negotiating team.

U. N. Aides Silent

Craigie, in a happy mood, told the Tokyo correspondents: "I can't tell you anything and I wish I could tell you more."

The delegates will return to the Allied peace camp here on Monday.

United Nations headquarters in Tokyo said in a statement the U. N. command agreed to the temporary halt in the talks "Although it sees no need for such a recess in view of the agreement reached thus far on points it considers necessary for an agenda."

A question not immediately answered was: Did that mean that not many points had been agreed upon?

Or did it mean that negotiations had been progressing so smoothly and agreeable that the United Nations delegates saw no reason for any backward looks?

Air Basic Issue

At Eighth Army headquarters, Associated Press Correspondent Nate Polowetzky said there was speculation that Communists

Mrs. Betty Jane Gallagher (above), 20, a bride of four months, poses at Lakehurst, N. J., yesterday after she was freed in bond on charges of atrocious assault and battery following the shooting of her 20-year-old sailor husband, Patrick. State Trooper James Harker said the young woman admitted shooting her husband through the stomach with a rifle when he threatened her. Condition of the husband, in the Navy hospital at Philadelphia, was described as "poor."

Big Flood Crest Due In St. Louis

St. Louis, July 21—(AP)—Fed by the devastating flood crest of the Missouri river, the Mississippi is expected to climb late tonight to its highest level at St. Louis in 107 years.

The predicted crest of 40½ feet at midnight tonight would be just .9 of a foot under the all-time record set June 27, 1844.

The Missouri was swollen to a width of five miles in many places. It smashed one dike after another as the crest moved across the state from Kansas City, in the hardest hit area, to the point where it is emptying its grimy burden into the Mississippi 15 miles north of here.

Most of St. Louis is on high ground out of reach of the flood, but precautions were taken against a water-shortage and contamination of the supply from sewer seepage.

41 Dead

As the Missouri crest passed into the Mississippi, Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of the Army engineers, reported the billion dollar flood had cost 41 lives in Kansas and Missouri.

Reporting to a Senate subcommittee in Washington after an on-the-spot survey, Pick gave the following breakdown covering the two state area for the period up to last Tuesday.

Two million acres flooded, 1,074,000 in Kansas and 926,000 in Missouri; 518,000 persons displaced, 368,000 in Kansas and 150,000 in Missouri, 17 bridges swept away in Kansas.

The Missouri smashed nearly all the flood barriers near its mouth, spilling the flood over thousands of additional acres in the area where nearly 60,000 acres already was flooded.

Heiress to Dime Store Millions Wins Mexico Suit from Troubetskoy

Cuernavaca, Mexico, July 21—(AP)—Dime store Heiress Barbara Hutton finally has her divorce from husband number four, Prince Igor Troubetskoy.

Judge Alfonso Roqueni said last night that he signed the decree July 14—four months and 18 days after the blonde, ailing 38-year-old heiress to the Woolworth millions applied.

Miss Hutton has been in Europe recently where she has been photographed with German tennis ace Baron Gottfried von Cramm.

The divorce was held up after Miss Hutton asked for it Feb. 26 because Prince Troubetskoy claimed he had not been properly notified of his wife's action. Troubetskoy lives in France and notification consisted of a note posted on the bulletin board of the dingy Cuernavaca courthouse.

Rita Stands Firm For Aly Divorce

New York, July 21—(AP)—Prince Aly Khan is wasting his time trying to win back movie "queen," Rita Hayworth, says the actress' attorney.

All she wants from her Moslem husband, adds Lawyer Bartley Crum, is "a speedy divorce." She's not even asking alimony, Crum says.

Of course, Crum said yesterday in an interview, there is a matter of a trust fund for their daughter, Yasmin. The lawyer said that Miss Hayworth "thinks her daughter should receive the same treatment as the prince's sons."

"She will insist on the same trust fund as he set up for the boys" and she has not scaled down her demand, emphasized Crum.

Crum estimated that the trust fund for the boys, Aly's sons by a previous marriage to a British

China Reds Grab 3 U. S. Oil Firms

Hong Kong, July 21—(AP)—The property of three American oil companies in China has been seized by the Communists regime, Peiping Radio said today.

The companies were Caltex, Ltd., Standard Vacuum and Cathay Oil Co. (Chung Mei). The seizure apparently became effective July 18.

The properties have been under strict Communist control since last Dec. 29, when Red China ordered the seizure of all American property in China. The oil companies apparently were not taken over physically until July 18.

The reason for the action was not clear. Only a trickle of American oil has reached the Communist mainland in the past two years, and stocks are reported very low.

There was speculation the Chinese were making a "face-making" move in connection with Korean war cease-fire talks.

1950 Farm Plan Slash Revived in 1952 Bill

Washington, July 21—(AP)—Informed Senators said today that $25,000,000 which Congress ordered President Truman to cut back in last year's farm program has sprouted anew in the billion-dollar Agricultural Appropriation bill for fiscal 1952.

The lawmakers, who asked that they not be identified by name, told a reporter the House probably passed the bill without knowing that it, in effect, reversed last year's order.

The Senate appropriatoins committee was expected to approve today its version of the measure. This also carries the topical $25,000,000, Senators said.

How It's Done

Here is the way they explain it: Last year Congress voted some $36,000,000,000 to carry out regular government activities. But it directed Mr. Truman to save a half billion dollars of this by applying cuts to certain departments and agencies.

The President ordered a slash of $25,000,000 in the $282,250,000 "conservation and use" funds of the production and marketing administration.

These are the payments made to farmers for following certain approved programs and practices of soil conservation.

The agency which directs these programs, the Production and Marketing administration (PMA) already had made contracts with

U. S. Grants Spain 7.5 Million Loan

Washington, July 21—(AP)—Two days after the State department disclosed the United States is negotiating with Spain for naval and air bases, the U. S. granted Spain a $7,500,000 loan for railway improvement.

This raised to about $30,500,000 credits granted Spain out of a $62,500,000 special appropriation made by Congress. But officials of the government's Export-Import Bank said none of the money has actually been spent or paid out. The new credit bears three per cent interest payable each six months, and is to be paid off in 25 years.

New Haven, July 21—(AP)—A Marine Corps private, totally disabled by a wound in the head suffered in Korea, was "neglected" by the Department of Defense after his release to inactive duty, the Connecticut department of the Marine Corps League has charged.

He is Pfc. Robert N. Harte, 20, of Danbury, who was released to inactive duty last May 1 after months in various government hospitals.

Mayer Seeks Job As French Chief

Paris, July 21—(AP)—Former Finance Minister Rene Mayer will ask the National Assembly on Tuesday to confirm him as the new premier of France.

Socialist party whip Charles Lussy said Mayer told the Socialist party. He often is attacked by Communists because of his relationship, through his mother, to the wealthy Rothschild banking family.

Lussy said the Socialists have not yet decided whether they would consent to enter a coalition with Mayer. Since no party has a majority in the Assembly, Mayer must win an agreement for a coalition in order to form a government.

France's previous cabinet, headed by Henri Queuille, resigned on July 10, in accordance with standard procedure after elections. Another former finance minister, Maurice Petsche, tried to form a cabinet but failed.

See Strife For Throne Of Jordan

Cairo, July 21—(AP)—Prince Tallal, the anti-British eldest son of murdered King Abdullah of Jordan, was reported to be furious today because his younger brother, Prince Naif, has been named regent, and thus the apparent successor to Jordan's throne.

The Egyptian news magazine Akhbar El Yom, reporting this in a dispatch from Geneva, Switzerland, predicted Tallal would make a surprise visit to Jordan. If he does so, a dynastic struggle might ensue which could plunge the whole Middle East into strife.

The magazine declared, however, that Tallal, 40, would not succeed to the throne "because of his nervous state," even though members of his entourage were addressing him as "his majesty, the king."

Denies Glubb Attack

(Some weeks ago, the Israeli press declared Prince Tallal had been taken to a hospital in Beirut after shooting Brig. John Glubb Pasha, British-born commander of the crack Arab legion. Officials in Amman denied the attack. After Abdullah's assassination in Jerusalem yesterday it became known that Tallal had left Beirut for a vacation in Switzerland.

Another fearsome possibility in the explosive Middle East was a renewal of the Palestine war. And to the north, Soviet Russia watched the whole scene with great interest.

Justice Dept. Promises Quick Probe in Case 'Influence' Salesman

Washington, July 21—(AP)—The Justice department today promised prompt study of the case of pudgy Sam Mason, accused by Senators of being a slick confidence man who bilked victims of thousands of dollars.

Senator Mundt (R., S. D.) said meanwhile that he hopes the department and the Internal Revenue Bureau will concentrate on Mason's testimony to Senate investigators that he has filed no income tax returns for more than 20 years.

Mason said he didn't file because he never had any money left over at the end of the year.

Mundt, a member of the Senate committee which investigated Mason's bizarre activities, declared to reporters that "conditions in the country at present are conducive to creation of a swindler's paradise."

The North Dakota lawmaker said he will urge the inquiry committee to issue a report "warning the public against get-rich-quick schemes." He added:

Data on Oatis Trial Shows No Espionage

Washington, July 21—(AP)—The full record of the trial and conviction of Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis in Communist Czechoslovakia has been received by the State department from American Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs in Prague.

Department officials said today that it showed no evidence of what any government in the world outside the Iron Curtain would call espionage. Oatis, who was arrested April 23, was sentenced July 4 to 10 years imprisonment on a charge of spying.

The Oatis case is unique among trials of foreigners in the Communist countries, department experts said, because the record shows so clearly that the defendant was judged guilty of doing well the job which he had been officially admitted to the country to do.

Throughout the bulky transcript of the testimony the Communist prosecutor treats routine news inquiries from Associated Press offices in New York and London as "instructions" for espionage. Oatis is pictured as the "head" of an espionage network. His news reports, though published for the world to read, are referred to as if they were secret dispatches to a hostile government.

Much of the questioning set forth in the transcript is concerned with or relates to the arrest earlier this year of former Czech Foreign Minister Vladimir Clementis. This was a major news story of the period. Here are some of the questions and answers bearing on that subject:

Prosecutor: Here are original documents marked L-23. . . They are concerning instructions regarding details about the anti-state activities of the Clementis group, at that time considered secret by our government. Your instruction also concerns not only Clementis but also others who were concerned with Clementis. What steps did you take?

Oatis: First I was to find out if Clementis disappeared. x x x I went to the American embassy and got in touch with the clerk, Colclough, who gave me the address and number of Clementis' apartment. Then I went back to the office and got Svoboda and Wojdinek (Czech employees of A.P.) to go with me.

Air Force Party Turns Into Riot

Sacramento, Calif., July 21—(AP)—Police officers armed with tear gas and fire hoses last night subdued a suburban riot that began as a peaceful Air Force dancing and swimming party.

Sheriff's Deputies Roy Turner and Lonnie Eastmade said the riot was sparked by some 60 to 70 civilian youths who tried to crash the party, sponsored by an Air Force unit from nearby McClellan Field.

One airman and one civilian were injured critically in the wild melee. An undetermined number of others, both military and civilian, suffered lesser injuries.

Almost 200 policemen, summoned by a frantic riot call, swarmed to the commercial recreation area in suburban Elverta to help quell the angry rioters.

Indict 12 for Sales Of U. S. Jobs in Miss.

Jackson, Miss., July 21—(AP)—A dozen Mississippians, some of them leaders of the pro-Truman faction in the state, are under federal grand jury indictments charging conspiracy to sell federal jobs in Mississippi.

Among them are Clarence E. Hood, deposed acting National Democratic committeeman from Mississippi; Frank Mize, brother of U. S. District Judge Sidney Mize and chairman of the pro-Truman Democratic committee in this state; Curtis Rogers, secretary of the committee; and Forrest Jackson, committee counsel.

Perjury Charge

Special Assistant U. S. Attorney Ben Brooks of Washington, who announced the indictments here last night, said that Rogers and Jackson, in addition to the counts charging conspiracy to sell federal jobs, are charged also with job selling and with perjury.

Other defendants and the charges, Brooks said, are:

Former committee secretary Curtis Beasley, conspiracy to sell jobs and selling jobs.

Miss Laverne Yelverton, committee office secretary, conspiracy to sell jobs.

Reveal 'Wrong Drug' Death Of Woman in Childbirth

Denver, July 20—(AP)—The administration of the "wrong drug" by error was blamed today for the death of a 23-year-old Denver woman after she gave birth to her third child.

Dr. James P. Dixon, manager of health and hospitals for the city, said Ursula Martinez died June 15 after giving birth to a daughter.

"By error, a wrong drug was administered to Mrs. Martinez for the production of anaesthesia during the course of her delivery," Dr. Dixon said.

"The error was immediately discovered and all measures were taken to remedy the act."

A coroner's report named Bruce M. Porter, a resident physician at Denver General Hospital, as the doctor who administered the drug. Dr. Dixon said Dr. Porter was doing post-graduate work after receiving his M.D. degree.

Dr. Porter has been cleared of any charges of criminal negligence, Dr. Dixon reported, because investigation showed that the administration of the drug was "in effect, an accidental mis-administration of medication."

Raging Windstorm Lashes S. D., Minn.

Minneapolis, July 20—(AP)—A roaring, 100-mile-an-hour windstorm cut a swath of destruction through eastern South Dakota and central Minnesota, killing three persons and injuring upwards of 100 tonight.

Violent lightning bolts set numerous small fires. Trees toppled in the violent gusts to cut power lines and blackout large areas in the storm's path. Acres of grain crops almost ready for harvest were levelled.

Two deaths came at St. Anthony, a north Minneapolis suburb, when the wind and deluge of rain collapsed the roof of a food

Wholesale Prices Dip for 7th Week

Washington, July 21—(AP)—Wholesale prices have dropped for the seventh week running, this time one-half of one per cent, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports.

The Bureau reported yesterday on prices in the week ended July 17.

Its index after last week stood at 178.8 per cent of the 1926 base period average. That was 14 per cent above the average before fighting started in Korea. The Bureau said farm products and chemicals declined most while food prices rose slightly.

store crowded with Friday night shoppers.

Ernest Nelson, St. Anthony fire chief, said bodies of a man and woman were caught in the tons of debris and jumbled canned goods. He added that removal of the bodies would require some time.

In St. Paul, four-months-old Terrence Malm died shortly after a chimney on the family home toppled, pierced the roof and covered the crib with bricks and other debris.

At midnight, Minneapolis General Hospital nurses said 70 storm victims were being care for and "more are still being brought in."

The airport weather bureau said the storm was the worst ever recorded in the twin cities. They reported wind gusts "exceeded by a large margin" the 100 mile an hour wind velocity capable of being recorded on the station's gauges. Rain amounted to 1.61 inches in less than 60 minutes, a forecaster said.

A score of the 700 persons attending a revival meeting in South Minneapolis were injured, none seriously, when the tent blew down. Many wer ecut, bruised and scratched by flying tent poles and loosened screening.

As the wind rose, the Rev. Russell H. Olson, delivering the sermon, ordered men in the congregation to attempt to anchor the tent poles. The effort failed and the 50 by 100 foot spread of canvas was swept in a sodden, jumbled mass over cars in an adjoining parking lot.

Women screamed as the lights failed. Near-panic reigned as the worshippers sought to scamper for safety over muddy fields in torrential rain.

state court, then ruled he was not competent to deal with the case: the Morales Supreme Court said he was and told him to act.

The Prince's lawyers, who accused Miss Hutton of trying for a "quickie" divorce, withdrew from the action. They never confirmed a report that Troubetzkoy put a $3,000,000 price on his consent to a separation.

Miss Hutton's husbands were.

1. Prince Alexis Mdvani, a Russian refugee, 1933-1935. Married in Paris, divorced in Reno.

2. Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, a Dane for whom she gave up her American citizenship, 1935-1941.* Married in Reno, divorced in Copenhagen, Denmark. A son, Lance, was born of this marriage in 1936.

3. Cary Grant, British-born movie actor, 1942-1945. Married and divorced in Los Angeles.

4. Prince Igor Troubetzkoy, a Lithuanian refugee, 1947-1951. Married in Switzerland, divorced in Mexico.

Cease-Fire Talks Recess to July 25

needed time to receive further instructions to deal with the UN delegation's adamant stand against withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea.

Today, for the first time, the United Nations command disclosed officially that the "basic" issue between the two delegations was the Communist demand for withdrawal of all foreign troops as a condition to a cease-fire.

An official army statement said: "The senior U. N. command delegate requested that communications between the two delegations be maintained in order to facilitate a meeting at an earlier date than July 25, if at all possible."

There was no armistice conference Friday. Rain grounded the U.N. delegates helicopters and a flooding stream prevented them from reaching Kaesong by jeep.

But they flew to Gaesong in four helicopters Saturday and the eighth armistice session began at 10 a.m. (7 p. m. Friday e.s.t.)

There was a recess at 11:03 a. m. and the talks started again at 11:30 a. m.

The meeting ended at 11:38 with the agreed recess until July 25.

The recess came at a time of ticklish military developments in Korea.

Check Red Buildup

For more than seven weeks, the Communists have had time to rebuild their forces depleted in the abortive April and May offensives.

Only a few hours before the negotiations recessed, an Eighth Army briefing officer disclosed the Communists were now back at the strength they had when they attacked on April 22.

He estimated there were some 300,000 Red troops in the front line and immediate reserve and that about 200,000 more Communist soldiers were stationed elsewhere on the peninsula.

There was no evidence of a concentrated enemy buildup in any one area nor any evidence the Reds intend offensive action. But the fact remained that the Communists could launch a new assault at any time following a breakdown in the armistice negotiations.

The sudden recess also posed the question of the status of Kaesong during the three-day waiting period. It was admittedly controlled by the Red army but neutralized by agreement with the U. N. command. It seemed likely the neutrality would be preserved during the three-day recess.

erings from 15 to 10 per cent, with 21 instead of 15 months to pay.

5. Allow homes costing up to $10,000 to be bought with only a 10 per cent down payment, with 25 years to pay off the mortgage.

The bill also: Contains a ban on imports of fats and oils, peanuts and dairy products for two years; keeps the 10 per cent beef rollback in effect, but bars any further reduction; allows a 10 per cent rollback in the prices of some other farm products; and refuses President Truman the authority to acquire and operate defense plants or to license businesses.

All these actions are subject to change by a House-Senate conference committee.

That's where the bill goes next. The conference committee will iron out differences between the House bill and the Senate bill. The latter extends controls for only eight months.

After that, the bill goes back to House and Senate for a vote on the compromise, or conference, measure.

Big Flood Crest Due In St. Louis

keep the waters out of the town of West Alton had been lost, most of the 300 residents stubbornly stuck to their homes.

The water had pushed its way into at least half the homes and was running three-feet deep on some of the streets. But the town people in the village near the Missouri's mouth merely moved to second floors.

Twenty-seven miles upstream, power company trouble crews toiled through the night in an effort to save the only source of electricity for St. Charles, Mo., a city of 15,000. One pole supporting a 33,000-volt line was washed out yesterday. Workers on a barge cut off the pole to relieve the strain on the wires.

Two more poles began to settle as the fight to save the power line continued.

With the worst yet to come on the Mississippi, airmen at nearby Scott Air Force Base, Ill., were alerted for possible flood duty. All military personnel at the big base except married men and officers whose families live in the immediate area were restricted to the base.

Army engineers still were confident that nearly all of the major dikes on the Mississippi downstream from St. Louis would hold. Scores of workers toiled feverishly at weaker points.

New Dangers

Two levees protecting 3,000 acre on the Illinois side just above St. Louis were pronounced in critical condition. Some concern was felt for another barrier in Perry County, Mo., holding flood waters from 15,000 acres 60 miles south of here.

Mayor Joseph M. Darst of St. Louis advised the city Health department to take steps to prevent contamination of the water supply by sewage backed up by the flood. This followed his plea for St. Louisians to go sparing on drinking water, even though the supply on hand is expected to last through the emergency period. The flood cut off trains supplying the city's two pumping plants with coal and chemicals.

It was business as usual in more than 90 per cent of St. Louis establishments.

Travel still was sharply curtailed in Missouri.

Aly's ideas on the trust fund for Yasmin were not known.

This was the "one primary condition" as necessary to any delay in the divorce action, said Crum.

Directors Seek Information on Bid Plan from California City

A suggestion that the town's insurance might be handled on a bid basis will be considered by the Board of Directors after some information has been compiled on the matter. The directors Tuesday night continued the item on the agenda.

General Manager George H. Waddell reported that he has written for information to Berkely, Calif., a city which has had experience in handling insurance in that manner, and that he is awaiting a reply.

The method of handling the town's insurance has been the subject of considerable controversy over recent months. The directors finally decided on a rotating committee of insurance men, with commissions to be divided on a percentage basis. The idea of placing the insurance on a bid basis was suggested by Director Melvin Hathaway.

He has also proposed that the general manager publicize or advertise all bids on items involving the sum of over $500. The directors approved the motion Tuesday.

coroner, reported that Mrs. Martinez died "from severe swelling of the brain and spinal cord," and continued:

"We further find that the severe swelling was a result of an accidental injection of salyrgen into the spinal cord of Mrs. Martinez."

One of Those Things

"It is an unfortunate tragedy which could have happened in any hospital," Dr. Dixon said, "and it is an undesirable reflection on Denver General Hospital and the medical profession, but it is one of those things that is an inherent hazard in the profession."

He explained that the drug is used to stimulate kidney functions and usually is injected into the muscles and the blood stream.

"Salyrgen is packaged in an ample that is essentially the same size, shape and color as the usual anaesthetic nupercainal, used for such cases," Dr. Dixon said.

"In reconstructing the accident, it appears that ampules of both types were in the medication jar where they are kept sterile until used. Although markings are different on both ampules, the doctor administering the drug to Mrs. Martinez selected the wrong one."

Dead in 3 Hours

Dr. Dixon said Mrs. Martinez died about three hours after the drug was injected.

The child suffered no ill effects and is being cared for by her grandmother. The two surviving children are four and 30 months old.

"Life" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, July 22, 1951.

The Golden Text is from Romans 6:23. "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Selections from the Bible include the following: "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?" (Psalms 27:1).

Correlative passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 495): "When the illusion of sickness or sin tempts you, cling steadfastly to God and His idea. Allow nothing but His likeness to abide in your thought. Let neither fear nor doubt overshadow your clear sense and calm trust, that the recognition of life harmonious—as life eternally is—can destroy any painful sense of, or belief in, that which Life is not."

The Red Cross and Civic Council sponsored swimming course, now going on at Amston lake, has increased its registration from 59 to 81 since the last report. Russell Wheeler, Jr., is again instructor, and has classes Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. The registration is smaller than last year, when there were over 100 listed. Another year it may take a jump upwards as other children come of age to take the course.

Mrs. William W. Hammond and daughter Peggy have returned from a visit of a few days at Cape Cod. During Mrs. Hammond's absence her sister, Mrs. Nicholas Bochain of Colchester, stayed at the Hammond home.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Horton of Hackensack, N. J., spent a few days here this week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Horton. They attended the Farmers' Field Day, Wednesday.

Inter-County League games for Sunday will be: Gilead Tigers at Hebron, Lebanon at Bolton and Andover at Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis A. Keefe, who live in the upper story of the J. B. Tennant house just south of the Green, have been on a week's vacation which they spent in Buffalo, N. Y., making the trip by auto.

An auto accident in which two were injured, occurred Thursday in the vicinity of the Frederick J. Brehant place, Hebron-Willimantic road, when the car driven by Alfred Batista of Middletown skidded, resulting in the above injuries to Alfred Branciforte and a woman passenger, whose name has not been learned. The two were taken by police ambulance to the Windham Community Memorial hospital for treatment. Exact details have not been ascertained. Wet roads presumably caused the accident.

The picnic for Hebron Grange, set for July 17, has been postponed to a later date. The postponement was on account of Farmers' Field Day, which took place on the 18th. It was felt that the two events had been placed too near together.

farmers for the full amount. So it borrowed the $25,000,000 from the Commodity Credit corporation (CCC), another Agriculture department agency. PMA has congressional authority to borrow up to $50,000,000 each year from CCC in advance of actual appropriations.

The pending money bill contains funds which will make it possible for PMA to clear its account with CCC.

According to Law

Although this maneuver may cause some howls, government lawyers tell senators it is all according to law.

Senator Russell (D., Ga.), who will be floor manager for the Senate's big farm bill, told a reporter it contains "some additions" to amounts voted by the House. Russell is chairman of the subcommittee which wrote the bill.

Senators Douglas (D., Ill.) and Dirksen (R., Ill.) served notice in the Senate late yesterday that would try to whittle down soil conservation payments provided in the measure. The House voted $256,500,000 for these. The Russell subcommittee increased it to $280,000,000.

Douglas said he wanted to knock out $128,000,000 and Dirksen said he wanted to slash even deeper.

Good farmers will follow soil conserving practices, whether paid to do this or not, Douglas said.

The Senate bill calls for some $720,000,000 in cash to finance the government's far flung agricultural activities; $250,000,000 in loan authority for such projects as rural electrification and farm tenant aid; $19,000,000 in authorization for administrative expenses of corporations under the department; and more than $100,000,000 in note cancellations.

The last two items cover $76,808,000 spent in subsidies and cost for exporting wheat under the international wheat agreement, and $32,700,000 spent largely in Mexico for eradication of the hoof-and-mouth disease.

In both these items the Treasury advanced funds to CCC and is directed to cancel the notes

There was a very small attendance at Dr. Mila Rindge's lecture on polio Thursday evening.

This was the first in a series to be given on various diseases of interest to parents.

Raymond Valade of the Public Health Nursing Association had hoped more interest would be shown by the parents in the talks planned.

Dr. Rindge said that polio affects less children than other diseases such as rheumatic fever or cerebral palsy.

She said some of the first symptoms were a slight temperature, headaches and irritability for two or three days. Then the patient feels better for three or four days. At this time the temperature will rise again accompanied by pain in the back of the neck and sore muscles. It is necessary during this time to see that the patient does not get over tired or chilled she said, as that is what probably brings on the second set of symptoms.

South Coventry

Mrs. Pauline Little

George Frederick Hawkes, Jr., 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hawkes of Plains road, South Coventry, will report for training Monday at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. He received a telegram Wednesday notifying him of his appointment as a qualified alternate candidate. He was recommended an alternate to the Academy by United States Congressman-at-Large, Antoni N. Sadlak of Rockville in the spring. He was advised that he had received a perfect mark in the entrance English examination. Mr. Hawkes was graduated with honors from the Center school in South Coventry in 1945 and Windham High school in Willimantic in 1949. He completed two years at the University of Connecticut, where he planned to major in physical education. He was a member of the ROTC at the University. He played football at Windham High school and at the University. He was one of the first Pioneer Boy Scouts in the local Troop 57 and had attained Life Scout rank. Out of 35 applicants who took the physical examination in May only six passed.

Seven Boy Scouts of Troop 57 have been awarded a week's vacation at Camp Quinebaug in Preston as the result of a competition in the improvement of scout spirit. John M. Tyler, Sr., chairman of the troop committee states all boys have been doing well during the last year in their development of scout skills in the line of passing tests, etc. However, each time a Scout appeared before the board of review for advancement when questioned as to how he has lived up to the Scout oath and Scout law the board of review found that most Scouts do not give much thought to the oath and law excepting when either or both are under discussion at the time of troop meetings, or scout affairs. The troop committee felt that both are equally as important as learning scout skills and for that reason sponsored the scout competition.

The seven boys include Lucius A. Pettingill, Jr., Theodore Seitz, George DeWitt, Raoul Diette, Lawrence Clawly and Richard Littell. In the case of Richard Littell, he will be given the equivalent of the cost of a week at camp in scouting equipment. He will not be going to camp as his family will be on vacation then. Reservations have been made for the six other boys to go to camp during the week of July 29 with expenses paid by the troop committee treasury. Mr. Tyler also said that undoubtedly these six boys will move up one rank while at camp.

Harley Rowland, Gerald C. Mitchell, Jr., Patrick McShea with John M. Tyler, Jr., senior crew leader all of the Explorer post of Troop 57 completed a 90-mile round trip by bicycle Wednesday night. The trip was made to Rocky Neck Monday where they camped that night. Tuesday the four Scouts were guests of the Coast Guard and were given instructions in life saving. They also watched the Coast Guard going through drill and were able to do the same things themselves under the advice of officials. They attended a moving picture Tuesday night. On their return home Wednesday the boys stopped at Hebron at the Horton farm where the Connecticut Farmer's Field Day program took place.

Burton E. Moore, Jr., of South Coventry has accepted the position of supervisor of the newly organized Fraud and Over-payment Detection Unit of the Unemployment Compensation department at Hartford. Mr. Moore completed about two and one half years of manager of the Unemployment Compensation department E. Willimantic.

William Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Hoffman, entered Windham Community Memorial hospital Thursday afternoon where he underwent a tonsilectomy Friday.

Coventry Zoning and Planning Commission began work of preliminary drafting of zoning regulations at their executive meeting Thursday night. Kenneth M. Spencer, chairman, again reminds residents to return questionnaires as an aid in setting up a workable plan for the future and continued development of the town. He states a supply of these questionnaires are available at the Board of Selectmen's office in the Town Office building in South Coventry. These also may be obtained from any member of the commission. When the regulations will be in the final state the commission is planning to have their meetings open to the public instead of in the executive form. These open discussion meetings are being planned soon.

Bank Microfilms All Transactions

The Recordak Duplex Microfilmer was installed today at the First National Bank of Manchester according to N. William Knight, executive vice president. This machine is the latest of its type for microfilming bank records and replaces the older model installed when the Bank was first opened.

This duplex machine cuts the microfilming time one third by photographing the fronts and backs of checks simultaneously. "The Friendly Bank" has maintained modern streamlined equipment both for efficient service to its depositors as well as making it easier for the personnel to handle tremendous increase in volume of work which the bank is absorbing. Photographic records are kept on all transactions passing through the bank, both as to customers' checks, outgoing items, statements, ledger cards, mortgage records and all other important documents which would have to be reconstructed in the event of destruction by fire, possible bombing or other means.

With the installation of the Microfilmer also comes the Film Reader or Projector, which enlarges on a built-in screen records which can later be reproduced if necessary. Mr. Knight points out that his bank will continue to keep pace and acquire the necessary modern machinery in order to keep the banking services geared properly to the needs of the community.

The phenomenal growth of the Bank in its 15 months of corporate existence to the present total resources of over $3,500,000 represents a 54 per cent increase over the resources shown just a year ago in June and a 17 per cent increase since year end statement. The actual volume of business which necessitates the use of microfilming equipment has doubled in volume since the first of the year.

The public is cordially invited to inspect these machines and observe the operation of them at any time during regular banking hours including Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings.

What Armament Is For

Russia, say those who specialize in keeping us on our guard, is now engaged in the opening phase of a great campaign designed to "get us to disarm." That sounds like the most dangerous kind of plot that could be unleashed against us, and if there seems any general surface agreement among Americans, it is to the effect that we must not let Russia do this to us.

Yet this reaction, although it is natural enough, avoids the real situation involved.

Let us ask ourselves why we arm. And one way of answering that is to say that we arm in order to persuade Russia to persuade us to disarm again.

Armament, in itself, is not a great and favored goal of American life or of American foreign policy.

We make ourselves strong for a relative purpose—to be sufficiently strong in relationship to an aggressive Russia.

The best result of our armament would be that it might persuade Russia to a brand of behavior which would diminish our own need for armament.

What we need to fear, then, is not that Russia might persuade us to disarm, but that it might trick us into disarming, or lure us into disarming unilaterally.

On the other hand, we ought to welcome any prospect that Russian behavior in the world, Russian disposition to behave peacefully, would show that our armament had achieved its good purpose.

There are only two potential goals for an armament effort such as we are indulging in. One is to produce a state of peace in which escape from such an excessive arms burden is possible for everybody. The other is to regard the armament effort as the inevitable preparations for use of the military strength it creates.

If we reject the first alternative, we commit ourselves irrevocably to the second. If we are not willing to disarm, in the right circumstances, we bind ourselves to the future use of these arms.

So, if we are sane, we should hope that Russia, by acts and policies and attitudes, does persuade us to ease off our emphasis on military force in the world. It is in the hope that Russia will come around to doing this that we have been arming in the first place. Disarmament, under the right circumstances, is not something to fear, but something to welcome.

The greatest blessing that could possibly occur for mankind would be to have it be made possible for all the arms we are now creating, at such great expense to ourselves, to be taken out, some day, and thrown on the scrap heap. That is the best possible end for them. That has had to be the decent hope in our minds as we have gone about the business of making them.

So let us keep in mind, as Russia makes her moves, that these moves may actually be what we ourselves hoped to produce when we began arming ourselves. To surrender our preparedness prematurely would be a mistake. But it would be a mistake, also, to scorn a legitimate opportunity to help reduce the armament burden upon ourselves and upon the world.

The Favored Enemy

We don't blame Italy for demanding a revision of its peace treaty. Its excuse for doing so is the prospective nature of the peace treaty with Japan. It is a good excuse.

Why should Italy pay war reparations, and Japan not? Why should there be restrictions on the armed strength of Italy, and none on that of Japan?

There is no sensible answer to these questions. If we are to rate the comparative war villainy of nations, Italy was certainly not more villainous than Japan. Italy was even, in some measure, our tacit ally before the war itself was over. We are much closer to the Italian people than we are to the Japanese, and enjoy affectionate ties with them. The Italian people are struggling to make a success of democracy, but their struggle is genuine, and not the fake it may be in Japan.

The answer to the difference in the two treaties is, one guesses, that, although we may like Italy more, Japan seems the more powerful as a prospective ally. Because we consider Japan a more powerful ally in a possible next war we are willing to forgive and forget her crimes of the past war. Our "reconciliation" goes first to the more powerful, to the more regimented fighters.

But the Italian people should not feel too jealous of our greater solicitude for Japan. The Italian people are well rid of the trappings of militarism, and should consider limitation on their militarism a blessing rather than a slight. And along with our "reconciliation" of Japan there goes the demand for a continued American military occupation of that country, an occupation which, no matter who maintains it anywhere, is the supreme affront to the sovereignty of any country.

Perhaps the country which has real reason to feel jealous of Japan is Germany, with which the comparisons in war behavior and guilt and the contrasts in treaty proposals are more direct and definite. Germany, so far, has received hardly any rewards for losing the war.

Controls In Label Only

What is happening in Congress on the issue of economic controls is plain enough. The coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats is convinced that there is no real need for controls. But it is afraid, politically, to take the extreme gamble of voting controls definitely out the window.

So it is passing a bill which is crammed with provisions by which it sabotages itself. It is passing a bill which wears the title of a control bill and which, nevertheless, will operate to make controls impossible and intolerable.

This is the same technique with which the same coalition operated in July of 1946, five years ago, when it also held the opinion that the OPA ought to be abolished. Then it did not dare vote outright to abolish the OPA, but passed a continuation bill which, although wearing a label which indicated that it dealt with controls, made controls impossible.

The reason for such strategy, then, was that the members of the coalition did not quite dare take direct and open responsibility for the rise in prices which might follow the death of the OPA. Inflation did come whooping in after President Truman gave up on OPA, but we doubt very much that the coalition escaped responsibility, even though it hid behind indirect methods.

Today we happen to think the coalition has a safer gamble. We don't think prices will rise if controls are abolished. We think it is relatively safe, politically, to vote for an outright end of controls.

But in any case it would be the more honest course. What is now heading through Congress is a mere mockery of a controls bill. From any point of view, it would be better to have no bill at all.

That Extra Power

We are almost sorry that faith ever moved mountains. It has too much real power to have itself discounted, in modern imaginations, by such association with the impossible. Nor does it belong, to our way of thinking, in the category of the miraculous. We don't care to believe that it will accomplish, of its own special power, something that might not be accomplished otherwise. We don't like to see people go it "on faith alone."

Nor do we think that really ever happens. Faith, in our book, is nothing more than a little extra muscle power behind some hope, some intent, some purpose which is in itself good and reasonable. It is the accelator by which, instead of idling along, we bring that extra power to bear. It is the good confidence by which we believe that this extra power, devoted to a good aim, cannot in any event be wasted or its use regretted.

A magazine article on General Eisenhower facing his present task in Europe says that his great quality and force is "faith." What that really means is not that he has brought some mystic quality to an impossible task, but that he has fearlessly committed all his own resources to a project he considers good and necessary—and possible.

Attempting the impossible is in itself a betrayal and abuse of the power which resides in the quality we call faith. Nor is faith ever properly found in the evil design, or the unworthy purpose, or the merely negative wish. But give a man, or a nation, the good purpose, the objective which will be ennobling and beneficial, the aspiration which will lead upward, and then the extra power, that extra something which means the difference between failure and success, defeat and accomplishment, is always available. Faith is what you find, ready for use, after you have got yourself off on the right track, that extra jet touch that makes a new altitude possible.

Blood Donor Program

To familiarize the public with the Red Cross Blood Program, we are trying to answer, in these columns, the questions which are most frequently asked about the process of becoming a blood donor. One of the queries most often encountered is:

"Does anyone have to pay to receive the blood I donate to the Red Cross?"

Because of the complicated setup of the Blood Program, there is much misunderstanding of the financial aspects of the organization.

In the first place, it should be clearly understood that no recipient pays for the blood received from the Red Cross.

The Defense department supplies it gratuitously to the wounded servicemen, of course. In civilian life, the hospitals receive the blood free of charge from the area Blood Bank, and in turn do not charge the patient for the blood.

The Red Cross agreed to supply the Defense department with the blood which would be needed and requested. The Red Cross also agreed to process the blood or plasma, and to ship it. To pay for these technical services, only not for the blood, itself, the Defense department has set aside a sum sufficient to cover these expenses. The Red Cross is paid nothing in advance, but at certain specified periods of time, bills the Defense department for expenses already incurred for processing and shipping. In turn, the Department draws upon this sum which has been set aside to pay for the service.

The charge for such technical service amounts to approximately $12 a pint. It cannot be too sharply emphasized that not one cent goes to the Red Cross to pay for the blood itself.

Civilian hospital procedure is, of course, different. There is a certain amount of hospital work involved in giving a transfusion. Before the transfusion can be made, the patient's blood must be typed. A compatible type of blood must be chosen and mixed with a portion of the patient's blood to see if it will match. This process is done in the hospital laboratory prior to the transfusion and is called "cross matching". A nurse must be in attendance during the tranfusion and, often, for some time afterwards. A certain amount of equipment must be sterilized, prepared, and used.

For these services the hospital must be reimbursed. When the Red Cross Blood program started, the Connecticut Hospital association considered the problem and decided that $7.50 was a fair service charge. All hospitals have not accepted the association's recommendation, and some hospitals are known to charge as much as five dollars more for this service.

Manchester hospital, however, has never deviated from the recommended charge. We emphasize, again, that this $7.50 charge is a hospital service charge. No patient is charged one penny for the blood he receives.

"Who does pay for the program" you may ask. It is your Red Cross dollar which pays for it—the dollar you gave to the fund drive in March. It pays for the nurses and doctors who man the Bloodmobile units, and for the technicians who process the blood. It pays for the refrigerating that is so necessary to keep this life-saving fluid. It pays for the gasoline that transports the blood to the hospital when you need it. All other personnel is volunteer help, given without recompense.

But it is your donation which is the very heart of the Program, and beyond price.

When the Bloodmobile visits Manchester on Monday afternoon, will you be one of those donors whose pint of blood will help to keep this important work going? Hundreds of seriously ill people depend upon you. Don't fail them.

Connecticut Yankee

By A. H. O.

One of the great injustices in Connecticut public service is about to be repaired. All through these long inflationary years, during which the ably and vigorously represented regular state employes have received one merited advance after another, one group on the state payroll has been standing still.

This has been the group of officials whose salaries are set by statute, and, in addition, a companion group of officials in similar or deputy positions, whose salaries were rather necessarily limited by the existence of statutory limits on the salaries of the first group. The fact that some commissioners had salaries limited by statute made it inequitable to raise other commissioners even if their salaries were not rigidly fixed. And the fact that top level salaries were thus static made it impossible to make any real adjustment in the salaries of deputies or department heads or administrative institutional officials. The situation already was, in fact, that some underlings, salaries uncontrolled, were drawing almost as much as their superiors.

The reason why nothing was done about this situation was obvious, and it was largely political. The regular state employes, beyond being good and faithful public servants, were also a pressure group of redoubted political power. But the higher state officials, although they might possess some political power as party leaders, were also targets. A raise for them would be called a grab, a feathering of political nests.

The result of this stalemate, on salaries in the higher state brackets has been, although it seems strange to say it, to throw higher state positions into an unfavorable position with regard to jobs in private employment. For the positions usually associated with political rewards, there would still be a healthy, or unhealthy, number of hack candidates. But for the positions where administrative ability was needed there was no pulling power in state salary levels, and those who were in such positions have, during the past few years, suffered financially.

The 1951 Legislature voted increases for state officials whose salaries are controlled by statute—the increases for the elective family not to take effect until 1954—and authorized "comparable" increases for state officials whose salaries are not specifically set by statute.

What is meant by "comparable" is a matter of some debate, for the increases the Legislature itself voted range from thirty-three and a third per cent for the secretary of state, treasurer and comptroller down to twenty per cent for the finance commissioner. Within that range there will apparently be some revaluation of individuals and of jobs, and disappointment for officials who think that "comparable" should mean the highest possible percentage of increase.

But, aside from the headaches involved for those who have been plotting the increases, and for some of those who will receive them, the general justice will have been done, and the bi-partisan leadership of the General Assembly deserves credit for facing honestly an issue where no pressure group was involved, and where its action is likely to win only that criticism which always goes to "more money for the politicians."

Practice Defense Session Is Held

At a test demonstration held last night as a preliminary to the big Civil Defense program Sunday afternoon, the joint Fire departments of the South Manchester Fire district and the Eighth Utilities district turned out in force to carry out a well executed piece of work. The LaFrance pump of the Eighth district was placed at the brook back of the old Rogers Paper mill site on Charter Oak street, where a pond had been made by sandbagging the brook, and over 1,000 feet of 4-inch aluminum irrigation pipe was laid up the hill to Mt. Nebo Field and there connected to standard hose lines from the S.M.F.D. LaFrance pump.

Several gasoline and oil fires were set in some old wrecks of cars and the technique of extinguishing these fires with Rockwood fog nozzles was ably done by the men. The lines were also connected to the deluge set on the LaFrance pump of the South Manchester Fire district on the field and with a one and one-half inch tip delivered over 400 gallons of water per minute. This was accomplished by both pumpers working in unison. It is expected that there will be a large turnout of firemen on Sunday and all personnel of all divisions are urged to report not later than 1:00 p. m. at Charter Oak field.

Dyer to Speak To Kiwanians

Joseph Dyer of Manchester will speak at Monday's dinner-meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Manchester Country club. Employed by the State Labor Department, Mr. Dyer will explain the work of his division.

An expert on time study and aptitude tests, Mr. Dyer will speak on both subjects. He will display charts with his message to the Kiwanians.

The attendance prize will be donated by Ed Adams.

Bernard Baronousky of Route 85 was charged with violation of the rules of the road by State Policeman Daniel McKenzie following an accident on Route 85 yesterday afternoon. Baronousky was unable to stop when cars ahead of him slowed down and he struck the rear of a car operated by Mrs. Arlene J. Johnson of 45 Fairview avenue, Marlborough. Passengers in Mrs. Johnson's car included her six months old baby, Mrs. Frederick Green, also of Marlborough, and her three minor children. All the children were shaken up and bruised but State Police report no serious injury. Baronousky has been summoned to appear in Bolton Justice Court on July 24.

The Manchester Emergency Corps radio contact car will put on a demonstration for the members of the Bolton auxiliary town police on Monday, July 23, according to an announcement by David L. Bailey, chairman of the CD police group. This will be the second meeting of the auxiliary town police and will be held at the firehouse at 8 p. m. Anyone interested in taking the course is asked to be present at this meeting.

A gift of $53.00 to the David Murdock Memorial Fund has been reported by Mrs. Thomas Bentley, trustee of the fund which now total $93.12. Interest received on the fund will be used to purchase books for the school library. Growth of the fund in memory of the 11 year old boy who lost his life this spring is a happy circumstance since increased enrollment at the school creates an ever greater demand for new books.

Rev. Arthur A. Wallace of Center Congregational church will continue his sermon series on "The Gospel of the Out-of-Doors" at morning worship tomorrow at 11 o'clock. His topic tomorrow will be "Books in the Running Brooks".

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have as their guests at the parsonage, Mrs. Wallace' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peacock of Detroit, Michigan.

The Bolton baseball club will be fighting for the top spot in the Inter-county League when they meet Lebanon tomorrow at Memorial Field at 2:30 p. m. Al Giglio pitched his 5th consecutive victory last week when the Bolton club beat Columbia 7-4. They had been beaten by Columbia in two previous games. The team has won 6 games and lost 3.

Indict Dozen In Jobs Sales

Dewey MacLeod of Mt. Olive, conspiracy to sell jobs and selling jobs.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Murphy of Winona, Miss., conspiracy to sell jobs.

Twelve Bills

The 12 defendants were covered in 12 bills of indictment, returned by a grand jury after an eight-day session.

In the event of conviction, a count of conspiracy to sell federal jobs carries a one-year imprisonment or $1,000 fine, or both. Brooks defined a conspiracy to sell federal jobs as a plot to violate a misdemeanor statute, calling for a comparatively light sentence.

The actual sale of a federal job is punishable by a similar sentence—one year imprisonment or $1,000 fine, or both.

The perjury count is a felony, punishable by five years imprisonment or $2,000 fine, or both.

Released in $2,500 bonds were committee attorney Jackson, a former candidate for U. S. senator and widely known political figure, and the Murphy couple. Murphy has been a rural letter carrier for 26 years.

U. S. District Judge Allen Cox set similar bonds in all cases and ordered all defendants to appear in federal court here Sept. 5 for arraignment.

Follow Hearings

The indictments followed hearings by a Senate Jobs-Sale Investigating sub-committee in Jackson and in Washington last April and May. The committee, consisting of Senator Clyde Hoey (D., N. C.), Senator John McClelland (D., Ark.), and Senator Karl Mundt (R., N. D.), was named after Mississippi's Democratic Senators James Eastland and John Stennis, on the Senate floor, read affidavits that federal jobs were being bartered in their state. Primarily, postal jobs were involved. Many of them were sought by war veterans.

Eastland and Stennis bolted the national Democratic party in the 1948 presidential campaign and sided with the States Righters in Mississippi. Thereafter the Mississippi congressional delegation was deprived of its federal patronage privileges. The privilege of recommending federal employes in this state, the Senate Investigating committee was told, was placed in the hands of Hood, a lumberman with interests at Meridian, Miss., and Summerville, S. C.

The National Democratic committee severed connections with the pro-Truman group after the job sales investigation, and declared vacant the office of acting National committeeman. Federal patronage was returned to the state's congressional delegation.

New Features For Washers

Summer weather is delightful but hot days make the family wash a major item for many housewives. There are no blue Mondays if you have an ABC-O-Matic washer in the home. The ABC-O-Matic, sold at the ABC Appliance Company at 21 Maple street, is the final word in fully automatic washers. It fills itself, washes, rinses, dries the clothes to a damp-dry and turns off. Surely other automatic washers do this, you say, but there are some outstanding features about the ABC-O-Matic that you cannot find in others.

You have a time and water selectivity with the ABC-O-Matic which means economy of operation. Small washes can be done with this washer without using the full amount of water required in average automatic washers. You select the amount of time you wish clothing washed. The agitator produces a gentle, pulsating action that loosens dirt from the clothing without undue wear. This agitator starts before the machine is full, thus, soap is thoroughly distributed, producing a shampoo action on the clothes.

With the ABC-O-Matic you have no soap curds or film left to yellow the clothes for the rinse water goes over the top, swishing all film from soap with it. Water drained from the bottom takes this film or curd down through the clothes, but with the ABC-O-Matic this cannot happen. Every bit goes over the top leaving the clothes sparkling clean. The clothes are spun around in the machine but not so fast that they become tangled and hard to extricate.

The ABC-O-Matic can be installed anywhere in your home. There is no need for a special bracing or platform. You may install one in your home on a 10-day trial period and pay for it for as little as $5.00 weekly. Ask J. C. Tourtelotte or C. S. Wilson, proprietors of the A.B.C. Appliance Company about the ABC-O-Matic automatic washer, the Hotpoint Automatic Washer or the Blackstone Automatic Washer today. See how easily you can gain leisure time with one of these fine washers, and remember, A.B.C. gives prompt service on all machines.

Corsets Stop Tired Feeling

Most of us look forward to summer with anticipation, the warm, sunny days that can be enjoyed at the shore, lake or mountains. Summer promises all kinds of pleasure, picnics, tennis, golf or just relaxed comfort in your own back yard. There is no side stepping the fact that all of these enjoyable plans make extra work for the average homemaker and many women have found that mid-summer finds them too weary to enjoy themselves. Mrs. Mary F. McPartland, the popular Spencer corsetiere of 523 East Center street, has found that in many cases the lack of a proper support is the cause of excessive fatigue. In fact, she has had many women complain to her of back aches and once she has fitted them to a Spencer their relief was almost miraculous.

Naturally, Mrs. McPartland does not say that wearing a Spencer will cure all backaches or that wearing a garment that offers fatigue, but she does say that you can be helped a great deal by wearing a garment that offers proper support in the right places.

It is a well known fact that harm can be done by wearing a corset that is not properly fitted, not to mention the discomfort caused the wearer. Why not talk with Mrs. McPartland, telephone 7654, about your particular problem? She is always available for a conference about foundation garments and no one could be better qualified or trained in her particular field. She will call at your home at your convenience, explain about the Spencer and you may choose from the many materials the one you like best.

There has been no increase in the price of the Spencer garments. The materials are still of the highest quality and a wide choice is available. Because each Spencer is made to your own measurement, because they are individually designed and because the material used is the best money can buy, you save when you choose a Spencer for they will outlast other garments, giving proper support all the time. Doctors frequently specify Spencer in ordering surgical supports, for they know their value. Call 7654 and make an appointment for Mrs. McPartland to call at your home.

[N]o Major Changes Made Yet by Directors in Waddell Statement

Budget talks held by the Board [of] Directors to date have not re[su]lted in any important changes [in] General Manager George H. Waddell's recommended 1951-52 budget of $3,120,425. Another spe[ci]al session is scheduled for this Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The directors this year are call[in]g in various departmental heads [to] answer any queries as regards [th]eir requested appropriations. Departments considered so far [h]ave been highway, police, park, recreation and building inspector.

In past years, the board has directed all budget questions at the general manager. When the suggestion was made to call in department heads, Waddell pointed out that "this is my budget, not the departmental heads."

Prior to presenting his recommended budget, the general manager held extensive discussions with the heads in which details were hashed out and cuts made. These sessions resulted in the total departmental requests being cut from $3,246,944 to $3,120,425. This is a reduction of $126,519 and represents a savings of nearly two mills.

Some observers feel that the directors, by meeting with the departmental heads, are merely duplicating the efforts of the general manager. It has also been said that the directors are assuming Waddell's administrative duties instead of sticking to their own legislative powers.

Although the directors have not yet decided on any definite changes in the manager's budget, sessions to date have resulted in three minor changes being suggested.

One would increase the salary of several town engineers, another would add about $400 to a park appropriation for fireplaces and picnic tables, and the third involves a slight increase in a recreation department item.

If the directors decide to add a new item of expenditure or to increase any item over the amount requested by any department or recommended by the general manager, they must call another public hearing.

The final budget must be adopted not less than five days before the start of the new fiscal year on August 15. If the directors take no final action to do so the tentative budget submitted by Waddell shall become the legal budget of the town for 1951-52.

Air Force Party Turns Into Riot

high pressure streams of water from fire hoses.

Turner said the trouble began early in the evening when 10 to 15 North Sacramento youths turned up at the combination dance hall, swimming pool and picnic ground which the 55th Reconnaissance Squadron had rented for the night.

Some 400 airmen and their dates were there.

Angry Words Passed

Apparently angry words passed between the airmen and the civilians, Turner said, because the youths left and returned with 50 to 60 companions.

"They came with their sleeves rolled up and ready for action," Turner said.

A free-for-all developed almost immediately. Deputies on duty turned in a riot alarm and called for reinforcements.

Turner said the civilian youths told him later that they returned with reinforcements because three airmen had picked on a 17-year-old sailor in civilian clothes during the first visit.

Windows Control Testy Tempers

Toledo—(AP)—If mother is down in the dumps most of the time, or if junior is on a continual rampage around the house, it may be because they need their windows adjusted. A study of the effects of home daylighting shows a direct relationship between the amount of light entering the home and the dispositions of its occupants.

Families living in homes with big picture windows or floor-to-ceiling glass walls were found to enjoy happier and more tranquil relationships than those in homes where the out-of-doors was shut out by small and poorly located windows, according to Dr. James Bender, director of the Institute of Human Relations.

"In creating the new American style of home, the kind that makes for brighter, happier living, architects have been aided by such modern improvements as double-paned insulating windows," explained Frank Sohn, architectural consultant of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co.

Butcher Discreet With Huge Dog

Redondo Beach, Calif.—(AP)—There were no questions asked when butcher Jack Watson was cutting up some roasts in his shop and a great dane "of about shetland pony size" came in, selected the biggest ones, and stalked out with the choice cut in its mouth.

Watson watched the dog disappear down the street. He said he didn't do anything because of its "unusual size."

Oatis Trial Data Shows No Spying

Czech.

P.: What did you three do?

O.: We were investigating that Clementis was not in his apartment. We learned that he was not there and that security measures had been taken.

P. What did you do with this information?

O. I sent the news to London.

P. Did you file this item? (Showing an exhibit).

O. Yes, that is part of that item.

P. Did you send more reports regarding Clementis? It is then possible to say that there were quite a number of them?

O. I sent several such stories. Yes that's true.

P. Did you try to find out where Clementis was interned?

O. Yes.

P. Your employers either in New York or London were interested in Clementis?

O. They were highly interested.

P. You finally obtained a photograph? (of place where Clementis was held by police).

O. Yes I did.

P. Respective information regarding photograph did you send to London or New York?

O. Before I could do so I was arrested.

The questions and answers go on for more than 50 pages of typewritten transcript in somewhat the same view. Officials here said much of the questioning was designed to show that Oatis was guilty of espionage simply because he sought to dig out information which the Czech government wanted withheld.

After being in jail for two months and denied outside counsel, Oatis "confessed" to espionage and, more generally, to activities hostile to the Czech state.

However, on the second day of his trial, in a voluntary statement couched in the terms familiar in such Communist court sessions, he made clear in the view of officials here that all he was actually confessing to was the normal, industrious activity of an American reporter.

'Mother Russia' Newsmen's Pal

Berlin — (AP) — For the budding newspapermen of East Germany, the professor's first advice is: "Look to Mother Russia, son, and learn." Leipzig University's newly-founded journalism institute starts its course off with extensive lectures on the Soviet press.

At Leipzig, the future newshawks go through a three-year course. Applicants, according to "Taegliche Rundschau," newspaper of the Soviet Control Commission in Russian-occupied East Germany, must have an "unequivocally progressive" outlook. The student's curriculum includes a course in social science, which lays a first Marxian foundation for the future newsmen, then comes journalism proper, an elective subject, and finally, a full-steam language course—in Russian.

Brooder Alarm Aid to Growers

Raleigh, N. C.—(AP)—A brooder alarm is now being used on the Birchwood Farm at Fayetteville, N. C. The alarm operates by thermostatic control, one under each hover, and is wired to the turkey producer's residence. If the temperature drops below 75 degrees or rises above 110 degrees, a bell rings in the producer's bedroom.

L. W. Herrick, Jr., extension turkey specialist at State College, says faulty brooder operation or a brooder stove going out may cause poults to chill, pile up, and smother. Or the stove may become extremely hot and possibly cause fire to break out. In either case, the alarm will notify the turkey manager. This could mean saving the poults from smothering or preventing the house, equipment, and birds from being destroyed by fire.

always has had one of the tightest censorship in the Middle East.

Reports reaching Cairo from Jordan's capital of Amman have attributed King Abdullah's death to a follower of the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem. Arab league informants said the Mufti, Haj Amin El Husseini, was in Cairo, but reporters were unable to find him for comment.

The tiny, 69-year-old Abdullah was shot by an Arab yesterday noon as he entered the Mosque of Omar in the Arab-held old city here to pray at the tomb of his father. The Mosque marks the spot from which the Prophet Mohammed is said to have ascended to heaven on his white horse. Abdullah claimed direct descent from the Prophet.

Identify Killer

An official announcement identified the assassin, who was shot down immediately by the king's bodyguards, as a 21-year-old Jerusalem Moslem tailor named Mustapha Shukry Ashsho. The Arab News agency said he was a member of the sabotage squad of an underground terrorist group called the "Sacred Struggle Organization."

Abdullah, staunch friend of Britain was counted on by the West to maintain some semblance of order in the Middle East. Britain and the United States also hoped, through him, to obtain final peace in the Arab-Jewish quarrel over Palestine. The effect his death will have on these aims is being studied.

The murdered King's personality was the force that made Jordan a strong power among Arab countries, even though his small country was so poor it depended on British subsidies to keep going.

His desert Arab legion stood as the West's firmest friendly military unit in the entire Arab world. The British-run legion apparently had the situation in Trans-Jordan under control for the present.

A tug of war between British and anti-British influences appears imminent, however, over succession to the crown.

South Coventry

Mrs. Pauline Little
Coventry 7-6231

Hannan-Cummisk

Miss Joyce Mary Cummisk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cummisk of South Coventry was married to Victor Ryan Hannan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hannan of Russellville, Ky., Saturday, July 21, at 10 a. m. at St. Mary's church in South Coventry. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Bernard J. Foster with the bride given in marriage by her father.

The altar was decorated with garden flowers.

Francis D. Franz, organist, played the Wedding March from "Lohengrin" as the processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the recessional. Miss Jane McKeon of Norwich, an associate of the bride's while they were at the William W. Backus hospital in that city, was soloist and rendered two solos. Albert E. Marrotte of Windham road, Willimantic, sang the Mass and a solo.

The bride was attended by Miss Kathryn Grady of South Coventry as maid of honor; and Mrs. William J. Hipp of Norwich and Mrs. Paula Marzola of Jewett City as bridesmaids. William MacFarland Hannan of Russellville, Ky., brother of the groom was best man. Ushers were John J. Cummisk, Jr., of the USN, brother of the bride, and Robert Howie of Poquonock, and USN.

The bride wore a gown of ivory white satin, fashioned with long pointed sleeves, fitted bodice with a yoke of lace and Mandarin neckline, and a long circular skirt. Her fingertip veil of net trimmed with lace fell from a lace sweetheart tiara with seed pearl. She carried a prayer book which is about 100 years old of Mother of Pearl in a cover of white roses. The book is a Hannan family heirloom and the bride is the fourth to carry it during a marriage ceremony.

Miss Grady wore a gown of pink lace to the hip-line over net, with a full skirt of net and a bolero jacket. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. Hipp wore a lemon yellow gown. Mrs. Marzola wore a lime green gown. The bridesmaids both carried bouquets of talisman roses. All three attendants wore small picture hats of colors to match their gowns.

The bride's mother wore navy blue and white with a corsage of white carnations. The groom's parents were unable to make the trip because of the distance.

A reception followed at Pleasant View Lodge in Chaplin with guests from Meriden, Norwich, Jewett City, New London, Hartford, Willimantic, Auburn, Mass., Worcester, Mass., Langley Field, Va., and Coventry.

For going away on an unannounced trip the bride wore a dusty rose Palm Beach suit with white accessories and an orchid corsage. Upon their return from about a three weeks' trip the couple will reside in Norfolk Va.

The bride is a graduate of local schools, Windham High School and the William W. Backus Hospital School of Nursing in 1948. She was a member of the staff at Hartford Hospital until the end of June.

The groom has been in the USN for the past 10 years. He has the rank of Engineman First Class. He attended State Teachers College in Bowling Green, Ky. He is on a 30-day leave. He is stationed with the USS Conger which is based at Norfolk, Va.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Rowley from Havana, Cuba, are spending a month at a cottage in the Oak Grove Development at Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry.

Mrs. Providence Cartaya and two children, Susan, who will be 11 years of age on July 26, and Ronaldo, age 7, and Mrs. Cartaya's sister, Miss Nilida Rizzo, 16, are vacationing here while their husband, father, and brother-in-law is continuing his study at Columbia University in New York. The family lives temporarily in New York City and have been up from Havana for about a year and a half. They plan to be in the United States for another two years in order that Mr. Cartaya be able to complete a medical degree. He is studying at Columbia University all year 'round. At that time he will return to practice in Havana. He has a brother and also a sister in Havana, both of whom are practicing medicine.

Mrs. Rowley met the family through her brother, Joseph Hynes, of New York City, who had been acquainted with the Cartayas while visiting in Cuba. He has been acquainted with members of the family for about 20 years. Mr. Hynes is now a police officer in New York City. He is a frequent visitor at the Rowley home and Wednesday came especially to visit the Cuban family here.

Mrs. Rowley states the family have found Coventry and Connecticut most peaceful as compared with their surroundings in New York City. While on a motor trip to New London and Rocky Neck on Wednesday, Susan and Ronaldo, as well as their mother, were thrilled with the small towns and the narrow country streets and roads with their many winding routes and curves. Many road curves especially reminded them of their native Havana.

Mr. Cartaya will come to Coventry Saturday for the first time this year to spend the week-end with his family and new friends. Mrs. Rowley has visited in New York City with her new friends. Last summer the family were guests at the Rowley home.

About 21 members of Coventry Grange Thursday evening toured the new Hartford Courant plant on Broad street in Hartford. The trip was part of a surprise Lecturer's Hour program following the business meeting at the hall in North Coventry. The group found the trip most interesting and enlightening and asked many questions.

Coventry Players have set a tentative date of August 9, 10, 11 to present three one-act plays entitled "Patchwork Quilt," "Dear Departed," and "Party Line." Rehearsals next week at the Burton E. Mrs. George Roberts of South Coventry is directing the plays.

Sunday services at the First Congregational church will be at 9:30 a. m., during the summer.

The Second Congregational church services will be at 11 a. m. The Christian Endeavor Society will leave immediately following church services for an annual picnic at Misquamicut Beach, R. I.

Masses at St. Mary's church in South Coventry for the summer will be at 9:30 a. m., and 10:30 a. m.; at St. Joseph's church in Eagleville at 8:30 a. m.

No Compensation

Rogerson said that under the "career compensation act of 1949" Harte was entitled to 75 per cent of his base pay, or $67.45 a month, but has not even received that.

"How in God's name," he asked, "is a private first class who is totally and permanently disabled supposed to even exist on that pay?"

The League cited Harte's case in urging Connecticut's congressional delegation to work for elimination of "the extreme hardship now being caused enlisted personnel" under the compensation act.

Rogerson said the Red Cross has been helping Harte with payments of $20 a week. The League has called the attention of the Veterans Administration to the case, and Rogerson said a happier future was in store for the disabled veteran.

VA Taking Over

Beginning August 1, said the League official, Harte will be under VA jurisdiction and will receive $261 a month in addition to being entitled to hospitalization, outpatient treatment and occupational and education training.

Rogerson emphasized that authorities at the Naval hospital at St. Albans, N. Y., where Harte was released from duty, could have given the veteran a straight discharge and placed him under the VA immediately instead of under the career compensation act.

"Somebody missed out," he said, "but Harte's case may help other forgotten men and eliminate hardships due to the career compensation act."

Rogerson said plans are being made to send Harte to the VA hospital at Framingham, Mass., as soon as possible. The Defense department had no comment.

committee yesterday he draws about $195 a month in government compensation for a leg lost in World War I. This was confirmed by the Veterans administration.

Mason asknowledged under oath that he collected about $88,000 from five "clients" who testified Thursday they paid him up to $260,000.

He admitted the money he got was in return for his promises that he would obtain bargain leases on "surplus" government buildings which could be sub-leased at a big profit. Another promise was to obtain business contracts in government and private industry.

Knew Right People

Mason said he himself never made any direct effort to make good on those promises. He said he turned a big chunk of the money over to a mysterious "Mr. Eungart," whom he described as an influential man "who knew the right people" in Washington.

Eungart, Mason said, was to help him meet the promises he had made. The committee said it had been unable to find Eungart. Mason said he understood, Eungart was in Australia but might be back next month.

Two priests of the Greek Catholic church in New York told the committee they paid Mason between $150,000 and $200,000 to get their order of St. Basil leases on federal buildings. They said they got nothing in return.

Mason testified, in reply to questions, that he entered into a scheme to bribe government officials with "sewer money" to pave the way for leases on federal buildings.

"What's wrong with that?" he demanded.

British Society for Cultural Relations, cancelled his ticket shortly before the airliner left.

A reporter who phoned Burhop at his home was cut off with the statement: "Before you say anything, I have no comment." Later Burhop told newsmen he never had access to documents of a secret or restricted nature and has had no connection with atomic energy projects for six years.

Burhop, a 40-year-old Australian, signed the Communist-sponsored "Peace Petition" last October. At a British-Soviet session two years ago he ducked the question "Are you a Communist?" with the declaration:

"A man's politics—like his religion—are a private matter."

An informant said the Foreign Office official has been suspended from duty. He declined to say what rank the official held.

Burhop declined to say whether he was the scientist referred to by the Foreign Office spokesman.

"I was to have gone to Moscow today but have not done so," he told a reporter. "I do not see why I should confirm that I am the scientist referred to as having his passport impounded."

The spokesman said the Foreign Office official has been suspended from duty. He declined to say what foreign office rank the official held or give any indication of his job.

The spokesman said the home office has been asked to instruct immigration authorities to report any attempt of the two men to leave the country.

The spokesman said the atom scientist was notified Thursday that his passport had been cancelled and he was asked to return it. The passport has not been returned as yet to the Foreign Office and immigration authorities have been ordered to impound it if the scientist attempts to use it.

"This action was taken because it was not considered in the national interest that this gentleman should make his proposed journey to Moscow at this time," the spokesman told his regular daily news conference.

He told questioning newsmen that the scientist was in possession of valuable scientific knowledge but the spokesman refused to say exactly what the knowledfge was.

The passport of the Foreign Office official was withdrawn "as the result of certain inquiries."

"He gave it up when requested and it is now in the possession of the Foreign Office," the spokesman added. "As a precautionary measure the Home Office was asked in this case also to instruct the immigration authorities to inform the Foreign Office should the official concerned attempt to leave the country," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said that the cases of the two men were not connected and it was pure coincidence that the action against the two came at about the same time.

I.B.C. Cleans Up On Garden Bouts

Seattle, July 21 —(AP)— There's not enough lettuce in the Garden—except for the promoter—and a fighter can harvest more of the long green stuff in the hinterlands. Prestige? Yes. Money? Nope.

That is the observation of Jack Hurley, the scholarly looking grey-haired fight manager of Seattle's light-heavyweight boxing hope, Harry "Kid" Matthews.

The manager can sheave some money, too, especially if he holds a 50-50 contract with his scrapper, such as Hurley has with Matthews.

Hurley told a gathering of Pudget Sound sportswriters and sportscasters that he's sown $20,000 in revamping Matthews into his kind of a fighter, and he hasn't started to get it back yet, what with the rise in expenses.

He says there are two ways to reap the returns: A title scrap with the International Boxing Club-controlled lightheavy or heavyweight champions, or bouts against the best available at such cities as Boise, Idaho; Portland, Ore., Seattle and Salt Lake City.

The independent Hurley bows his neck to nobody, so he and Matthews are not exactly persona grata around the Garden diggin's.

Hurley criticized the I. B. C.'s television setup in Madison Square Garden, contending the promoters base the purses for fighters on the attendance, then ladle off most of the gravy from TV sponsors.

He said Matthews only got around $7,000 for his sensational victory over Irish Bob Murphy in the Garden a few months ago, but that fat offers are flowing in from various Western points eager to see the ex-Idaho Adonis.

"Lots of towns want to see us," Hurley said, "but the problem is finding opponents."

The kid is slated to battle the veteran Lloyd Marshall in a 10-rounder here next Friday night. Marshall is the only fighter other than new heavyweight titlist Jersey Joe Walcott to kayo Ezzard Charles. He belted him out in 1943.

Hurley said he's confident Matthews can beat Marshall, unless he gets knockout-happy. "Harry wants to lay 'em all out with one poke," Jack said, "and I've warned him constantly not to get careless."

Hurley told the writers he'd like to get Matthews a match with Walcott, too, but "it all depends on that I. B. C. stymie."

He said he wouldn't be surprised if Walcott actually is 45 years old rather than 37, but he declared Walcott's legs are springy as a kid's, no matter how old he is.

Girls Prepare Camping Skill

Scouts Gain Experience Needed for Proposed Trip Through Europe

A group of eager Senior Girl Scouts, members of Troop 1, are busy this summer with preparations for a contemplated trip to Europe next summer, only eleven months away now.

Fired with enthusiasm after the successful trip of the twelve who went to Europe in the summer of 1949, the present group of thirteen girls and four leaders is planning a similar and perhaps even more exciting trip. As part of the requirements for a group of Girl Scouts going on such a trip the girls have been busy this summer setting up a primitive camp. Meeting on the average of twice a week the Scouts have been learning various outdoor skills and have been practicing outdoor cooking, so that they all may become experts in the American way of rough camping before going overseas.

They have chosen a site in the woods, out Manchester Green way, and have been developing this site into a so-called primitive camp. First it was necessary to clear the site, a shady secluded spot in the heart of the woods. Many of the essentials for living in a primitive way have been constructed by the girls, including a fireplace, bean-hole, latrine, washstand, table and drain. Although not yet completed, it is possible to live at the site and this weekend some of the members are going to do so, sleeping out under the stars at night.

Through camping of this type and the acquiring of certain outdoor skills the members of the troop hope to become excellent campers and so meet one of the most important requirements for groups planning to go abroad as representatives of the Girl Scouts of the United States of America. Inasmuch as not many American Girl Scouts go to Europe it is necessary that those who do go are fine representatives of the organization, who will be a credit not only to their community but also to their country.

Members of Troop I who are planning to take the trip to Europe in the summer of 1952 are Doris Beyer, Helen Davis, Sandra Doutt, Jean Hansen, Patricia Jones, Janice Murphey, Alayne Murphy, Mary Quintin, Carol Ann Robinson, Patricia Shirer, Ann Thrall, Betty Ann Trotter and Nancy Weir, all of whom are at present attending Manchester High school. Leaders of the troop are Eleanor Gordon, Barbara Kloppenburg, Claire Olds, Carolyn Scott and Emily Smith, the latter four were members of the group who went to Europe in the summer of 1949.

American League Race Tighter Than Ever

Five Percentage Points Separate Top Four Teams; Yanks Defeat Garver; Red Sox Lose

By Ralph Roden
Associated Press Sports Writer

.005.

That insignificant figure is the difference between first and fourth place in the sizzling American League pennant race today.

The Boston Red Sox lead the jam session by two percentage points. The Chicago White Sox are second, the New York Yankees third and the Cleveland Indians fourth.

Here's the situation in a nut shell:

	W	L	Pct.	G.B.
Boston	52	35	.598
Chicago	53	36	.596
New York	50	34	.595	½
Cleveland	51	35	.593	½

The race tightened up considerably last night as both the White Sox and Red Sox lost while the Yanks and Indians won squeakers.

Boston dropped a 6-1 decision to the Detroit Tigers while the White Sox lost a 2-1 ten-inning battle to the Washington Senators. The Yanks edged the St. Louis Browns, 1-0, and the Indians nipped the Philadelphia Athletics, 1-0, in ten innings.

Meanwhile, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-2, as the New York Giants trounced the Cincinnati Reds, 11-5, the Philadelphia Phils knocked off the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 11 innings and the Boston Braves humbled the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11-6.

Marlin Stuart, 32-yearold righthander, made his first start of the season and shackled the Red Sox on six hits before 45,653 fans at Detroit.

Sluggers Checked

Stuart, called up late in May from Toledo, slipped his newly-developed slider past the Boston sluggers without trouble except for the sixth inning when singles by Lou Boudreau and Billy Goodman scored a run.

The Tigers hopped on Chuck Stobbs for five runs and the ball game in the fourth inning. Jerry Priddy, George Kell, Vic Wertz and Johnny Groth opened the inning with successive singles. One out later, Hoot Evers and Bob Swift singled and after Stuart forced Groth at the plate, Neil Berry clouted a two-run single to complete the rally.

Chicago was one out away from regaining first place. The White Sox led, 1-0 going into the ninth and Lou Kretlow retired the first two hitters. Ed Yost singled and Gil Coan whacked a double, his fourth hit of the game, to tie the score. The Senators, beaten ten straight times by Chicago, won out in the tenth on singles by Mickey Vernon, Sam Mele and Cas Michaels' run-scoring ground out.

Young Tom Morgan won a brilliant pitching duel from little Ned Garver, Brownie ace, at St. Louis. Morgan permitted three singles while Garver was tapped for six hits.

The Browns' largest crowd of the season, 15,242 fans, witnessed the well pitched game. The Yanks broke a scoreless tie in the eighth. Morgan started the rally with a single. Phil Rizzuto singled Morgan to second and the rookie righthander scored two outs later on a single by Bobby Brown.

In the pitching gem at Cleveland, hustling Bob Avila doubled Dale Mitchell home from first base with two out in the tenth. It was the second game in a row Avila has won. Thursday he scored from first on a single to beat the Red Sox in 11 innings.

Sam Zoldak, former Indian, and Mike Garcia battled all the way. Zoldak allowed eight hits while Garcia checked Philadelphia on four.

Lefty Preacher Roe turned in his 13th victory as the Dodgers made it seven straight over the Cardinals before 30,683 at Brooklyn.

Home runs by Enos Slaughter and Wally Westlake accounted for all of St. Louis' runs. Roe now has thrown 20 home run balls, tops in the majors.

Home runs by Willie Mays and Sal Yvars featured the Giants' victory over the Reds. Mays drove in four runs, three on a home run in the eighth inning. Yvars connected with one on in the seventh. The triumph moved the Giants into second place eight games behind the Dodgers and one ahead of the Cards.

Boston also piled up an early lead in smearing the Pirates. The Braves hacked Vern Law for six runs in the first inning and added three more in the second. Ralph Kiner smashed a 390 foot homer for Pittsburgh's first run in the fourth inning. The belt was Kiner's 24th, four behind Brooklyn's Gil Hodges who tops the field with 28.

Pirate outfielder Erv Dusak suffered a separated left shoulder while driving to make a shoestring catch in the second inning. He will be sidelined from four to six weeks.

Richie Ashburn singled with the bases loaded and one out in the 11th to give the Phils the nod over the Cubs.

The Garden Grove Caterers slugged out their sixth win of the campaign last night as they downed Paris Curtain 10 to 5 at Charter Oak. The win enabled the Grove to go into a third place tie with the losers with a six win six loss record.

Bernie August and Johnny Lupe led a thirteen hit attack by the Caterers, blasting out three safeties apiece. August drove in two of his teams runs while scoring three and belting two homers and a double. Lupe scored one run and drove home another on a three base hit and two singles.

The Grove started things rolling in the fourth, scoring four runs which were backed up by a single tally in the fifth, three more in the sixth and two in the seventh frame.

Pete Aceto, Grove hurler, issued eight free passes during the course of the game but five Curtain hits didn't bother the situation much. The Curtain nine scored in the third, fifth, and seventh frame leaving a total of eleven base runners stranded.

Jim Minicucci and Aceto collected two hits apiece for the winners, while Kozicki's double for the losers made him top offensive man.

Protests Decision

Mailbag yesterday included a neatly printed letter from a local baseball fan who witnessed Wednesday night's game at the West Side Oval between Pratt and Whitney and Moodus in the State semi-pro event. The fan, who signed the note "Anon." felt that Umpire-in-Chief Vic Dennis erred in removing a spectator from the scorer's table.

The letter follows:

"Umpire Dennis suddenly found himself smack up against a stonewall last night (Wednesday) when he attempted to rule a spectator from the scorer's bench. For a short time it was a case of 'rule without reason' until Al Kean informed him (Dennis) that the scorer's bench is NOT a part of the playing field by reason of its being behind the backstop where a ball is out of play. Up to this point there was an argument, pro and con, but after Al vociferously made this statement to Dennis we heard no more. We don't know if Al was officially correct but we go along with his logic for Al has a wealth of baseball under his belt."

This writer missed Wednesday night's game. He was unable to contact Dennis for his version of the incident. However, an umpire has the authority to request league officials, or the home team management, or as in the case of Wednesday night, the tourney commissioner, to remove any player, coach or spectator from the benches or stands provided that said fan or fans are out of line, such as for the use of profanity or for the throwing of any objects.

Just a week ago in the Longhorn League in Texas, the plate umpire ordered the official scorekeeper out of the press box because the scorer joined in with the fans in booing his decisions. The game did not continue until the scorer left the box.

Ordering a spectator from the stands is a rare occurrence in baseball.

Dodgers Score First Win Of Season, Upset Red Sox

Swan Boasts Perfect Tourney Control Mark

Southpaw pitching ace George Swan of the Hamilton Props has compiled a fine control record in Connecticut Semi-Pro Tournament competition at the West Side Oval in the past two years.

Swan has pitched in five games in the two year period, four last summer, and one this season, and has not allowed a single base on balls.

The Little League Dodgers finally won a baseball game last night at Memorial Field. The defending champion Dodgers, winless in seven previous starts this season, got up off the floor last night to pin a 7 to 3 defeat on the first place Red Sox.

Although outhit, six to five, the winners took advantage of five Red-Sox errors and six bases on balls to score their tallies.

Mark Solomon was the batting star with two hits, one a double. Jimmy Maneggia collected two singles for the Red Sox.

Bobby Reynolds went the route on the hill for the winners while Maneggia and Steve Cooper hurled for the Red Sox.

The winners scored three runs in each, the third and sixth innings and added a single tally in the fifth. The Sox scored twice in the third and once in the fourth.

Bright Future For Walcott

New Champion Expected to Prosper; Louis May Be Next Foe

Camden, N. J., July 21 — (AP)— The only thing certain about the heavyweight boxing picture today is that Jersey Joe Walcott is champion and that he has a very prosperous future.

Walcott is committed by contract to give Ezzard Charles a return shot at the title in New York.

But big question marks have suddenly appeared, fogging the heavyweight horizon. Will Walcott fight Charles next? Or will the new champion risk boxing's most coveted crown in the ring with the old Brown Bomber, Joe Louis? And then will Charles meet the winner of this match?

The answer might come from Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club that has exclusive rights to Walcott, Charles and Louis.

Up until yesterday, when Walcott was greeted by 100,000 wildly cheering neighbors here on his return from Pittsburgh where he lifted the title Wednesday, it appeared certain that the next big heavyweight fight would be a fourth Walcott-Charles meeting. Only the date and site were indefinite with New York, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Atlantic City, N. J., and Philadelphia mentioned as possible locations.

Then Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager, let loose a statement that packed almost as much dynamite as the left hook that Walcott used to kayo Charles. Bocchicchio said Joe Louis had asked for the first crack at Walcott's title.

Said Bocchicchio:

"I told Joe it was okay with me if it was okay with the International Boxing Club. Louis gave us two shots at the title. I think we owe it to him. Walcott will be glad to oblige Louis if Norris and IBC say okay."

Louis denied in Detroit that he had talked with anybody about a title fight but said, "I sure hope it's so." The Brown Bomber declared he was ready to fight Walcott at any time but that he really thought Charles deserved the first chance. "He's entitled to it. But, he does need a rest. He's been fighting too much," added Louis.

Circuit Clout Comes in Sixth Inning; Best Crowd of Season on Deck; Hensley Homers

Hamilton moved closer to gaining its second straight Connecticut semi-pro title last night when they bumped off the British Americans by a score of 4 to 2 in a semi-final game at the West Side Oval before the largest crowd of the season. Bobby Knight played the hero's role when his line drive single in the sixth with two men on took a crazy hop after hitting a stone and bounced over Al Surowiec' shoulder, rolling to the cars in leftfield for a homer. The blow overcame a 2-1 lead held by the BA's at the time.

Southpaw George Swan and right hander Jack Scully pitched fine ball with Swan allowing six hits and Scully seven. Four hits in the big sixth frame doomed Scully and the BA's.

Fred Hensley got the former champs off to a good start in the second when he led off with a homer into deep left. The lead was short-lived, however, as Hamilton bounced back in the third to score their first run. Showboat Porter walked, stole second, and scored on a hit-and-run single by Art Pongratz into left. It stayed that way until the fifth when an error by Knight allowed the tie-breaking run to come home. Surowiec got a hit and was sacrificed to second by Tony Berube. Scully's grounder back through the middle was snared by Knight who tossed to Porter. The ball was in the dirt, rolled away from the first sacker, and Surowiec scored.

McMeans Starts Rally

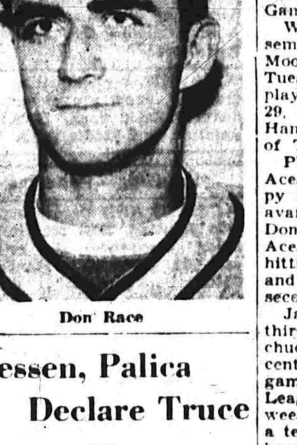
Charlie McMeans led off the sixth with a line hit to left for the Props. Johnny Green fouled off two bunts and then fanned, but Red Jacko singled, sending McMeans to second and set the stage for Knight's hit.

Kelley followed with a single. He stole second when Berube threw the ball into centerfield. There was only one out, but the suicide squeeze was put on and Mike Zwick couldn't offer at the pitch that was low and in the dirt. Berube scooped it up and tagged Kelley.

Swan pitched his fifth victory in two seasons in the tourney without having suffered a loss. Besides this, he has not allowed any walks in these games. He was practically the whole show as the Props went all the way last year.

Silk City, Wethersfield Nines Play Tonight

Aces' Catcher



Don Race

Winner to Reach Semi-Final Round in State Baseball Tournament; First Pitch at 6 p. m.

Tonight's baseball game at the West Side Oval in the State Baseball Tournament will pit the Wethersfield Shadows against the Silk City nine of Manchester. Game time is 6 o'clock.

Winner will gain a spot in the semi-finals and will draw the Moodus Noises as an opponent Tuesday night. The finals will be played on Sunday afternoon, July 29, with the defending champion Hamilton Props facing the winner of Tuesday night's skirmish.

Player-Coach Pat Bolduc of the Aces will have Dick Cephus, Skippy Kearns and Dick Blow all available for mound duty with Don Race behind the plate. The Aces boasts one of the hardest hitting teams in the Twi League and at this writing hold down second place.

Jackie Hart, Dartmouth's fine third baseman, will probably chuck for the Shadows. Hart recently tossed a no hit, no run game in the Hartford Twilight League and then came back a week later to beat the Merchants a team composed mainly of members of the Manchester British American team.

The Shadows are deadlocked for first place in the Valley League.

Dressen, Palica Declare Truce

Brooklyn, July 21 (AP) Manager Chuck Dressen and pitcher Ery Palica of the Brooklyn Dodgers shook hands last night to bring their feud to an end.

Dressen, two days ago called Palica "a gutless kid who doesn't belong in the majors." Dressen charged that Palica "chokes up and always has something to crab about."

Palica said that Dressen "had better watch out." The pitcher claimed he was worried about his wife who expects to have a baby in the next two or three weeks.

Dodger Vice President Buzzy Bavasi asked Palica: "Why didn't you punch Dressen in the nose?" Palica replied: "Imagine me punching my manager in the nose? I'd probably get a heavy fine and kicked off the team to boot."

Bavasi said the Dodgers have been trying to get Palica "mad" for two years. Dressen said: "I once punched Paul Derringer in the nose and he won 22 games."

Dressen said that Palica would pitch next Monday in the exhibition against Cleveland at Cooperstown, N. Y. After that Palica would return to Ebbets Field and work out until the powers that be believe he is capable of pitching major league ball.

Chiefs Narrow Barons Margin

By The Associated Press

Potent pitching and home-run hitting by the Hartford Chiefs have narrowed Wilkes-Barre's Eastern League lead to two games.

The second-place Chiefs whittled down the 1950 champions in both ends of a doubleheader at Wilkes-Barre last night.

Big Gene Conley, the circuit's ace righthander, blanked the Indians, 2-0, for his sixth shutout and 15th win, after teammate Ray Crone won the opener, 5-3, for his eighth straight.

Crone's victory ended a Wilkes-Barre streak at 12 games. He gave nine hits. Conley granted only three.

Len Pearson hit two homers to spark Hartford's attack. His second decided the nightcap, coming with the mate aboard against Jose Santiago, who lost his third against 10 wins.

Pearson homered at the start of the second inning of the opener for the Chiefs' first run. They added three more that frame.

Why is it women love to move the furniture about? Just when it's settled in the groove, they pull the darn stuff out. I like to find my Morris chair, just where it was before; and know the runner near the stair, is anchored to the floor. The antique sofa can remain just where it is...for good. The bookcase does not give me pain, where it has always stood. My reading lamp, I like to find, beside the Morris chair; in fact... it gives me peace of mind, to know the things are there. But no- the wifey has a spell of moving stuff around. When I get home, I cannot tell, where things are to be found. My Morris chair has disappeared...it's back in Junior's room. My reading lamp, as I had feared, has met the selfsame doom. The antique sofa's turned about, and faces toward the wall. I skid upon the runner...which is half way down the hall. But when I see my wifey's eyes...as happy as can be; I say, "Oh, what a grand surprise, this moving is to me.

Heard Along Main Street

And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

We have been puzzled, for some time, over some of the designations which seem to attach themselves, automatically and by custom, to certain professions.

Why is it always a "rising young barrister?" As far as we can observe, attorneys are like other people. Some go up, and some go down, and some of those who go down go down sooner than they need to if they had confidence in the hand life deals them.

Then why is it aways a "struggling young doctor?" What are they struggling about—the business of fitting their incomes into their bank account?

Why the "energetic" or "up and coming" young businessman? We know some young businessmen who are pretty clever in a very quiet, lazy way.

Thent here is the young mortician who "has his feet on the ground" and, in this age of fourth estate sobriety, the "dissipated young newspaperman" and others which bear no relationship to reality. There is only one adjective we would really apply to some young careers, and that is "promising." If they have the talent for "promising" they are "likely" prospects, and somebody "to be watched", as in "keep an eye on that young man, he's going places." Wethersfield maybe. We like, too, that supreme tribute, "he has a head on his shoulders," primarily because we like to imagine how the future Mr. Big would get along without one.

A stray black and white mongrel dog tried last week to get into the gas chamber box in Dog Warden Lee Fracchia's especially constructed dog warden truck as the warden beamed from ear to ear.

The episode all started while Warden Fracchia was servicing a car at his service station. The little dog came running into the yard. He did not have a license on his collar. The dog started sniffing around and finally jumped into the cab of the truck. He was there but a few minutes when he pranced around to the back of the truck and tried to get into the dog catcher's wire cage. However, he wasn't content there and kept sniffing.

Finally, he jumped down to the ground and then walked up the gas chamber door entrance. The warden opened the chamber door and the mongrel went inside. He crawled up in a corner and was soon off to sleep.

Several hours later the dog got up and ran back home. The dog was recognized by a passerby and when last seen it was back with its owner. Oh yes, the dog was properly licensed but the tag had become lost in the yard.

Vacation time means a period of freedom from worries and day-to-day responsibilities. Unfortunately, many of us over-do the festive spirit to the extent that we even shed ordinary good driving habits as completely as we do our regular business clothes.

A safety slogan for the month of July is "Have a Safe Trip and take your manners with you."

Relaxation of ordinary courtesy combines with the abnormally high mileage driven in July to produce a constant hazard to the millions of persons who take their vacations at this time of the year. All vacationists should bear in mind that they are someone's guest every moment they are away from home. Every discouteous example of driving reflects both on them personally and on the state represented by their license plate. Death never has two weeks off with pay.

The latest official report on the country's fire loss standing from the National Board of Fire Underwriters certainly doesn't make good reading. Although losses for the month of May showed a decrease of .03 per cent compared with the same period last year, the overall picture for the first five months of 1951 is discouraging.

As of May 31 this year, the nation had lost $331,038,000 due to fire. Last year's five-month total was seven per cent less. With more than half the year to be recorded, we may even beat last year's staggering total. And it's not much for the country to be proud of—when fire safety experts still insist 90 per cent of this needless waste could be eliminated with commonsense fire prevention and fire protection.

Although these terms are not synonymous, both of them aim at the same goal—the ultimate reduction of loss of life and property as a resulting of fire. If you manage to combine them effectively in your daily routine, you can be pretty sure you're doing your part to make the country more fire-safe.

Fire prevention boils down to a continuing program—at home and in industry—of plain old-fashioned "good housekeeping." Any fireman can tell you that the saying "a clean place seldom burns" is more than a well-worn phrase.

In spite of apparently sound fire prevention, many fires still occur. That's where fire protection enters the picture. Many small fires can be kept under control with relatively small damage through more effective use of such fire protection equipment as approved extinguishers. It's not enough to have these life-saving weapons on hand. Learn how to use them so you won't be helpless in the face of emergency.

Let's see if we can't make the fire picture for 1951 brighter by the time the next National Board report rolls in.

Thanks to Mrs. Claribel Carr, 59 Foster street, Heard Along now has some copies of the Herald dated 1923 the year in which Manchester celebrated its Centennial. We are indebted to Mrs. Carr for some very interesting reading.

The Centennial celebration was quite an affair. The Herald, which boasted a circulation of 3,952, published a special edition. Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon lined up 35 men, many of them recruited from the state police, to handle the celebrating crowds.

The Waranoke Hotel was featuring a special Centennial dinner. Over 35,000 people turned out to view the pageant of Manchester's history.

And here are other glimpses of Manchester yesterday:

The Manchester Trust Co. was celebrating its 15th anniversary.. Cook's Cider Mill advertised cider in 1-5-10 and 50 gallon jugs, kegs and barrels.. Colleen Moore and Antonio Moreno were playing in "Look Your Best" at the Circle in "an irresistibly funny picture that will make fat folks thin and thin folks fat with laughing."

E. J. Holl was described as "the largest real estate operator and one of the biggest individual property owners in town".. R. J. Smith was advertising a new two-family house with bathroom, laundry tubs, electricity, cement walks and cellar plus seven building lots for $6,500, 12-room house for $6,000 that "would cost about $8,500 to build," and "a single cottage of five rooms and bath" for $3,600.

The Connecticut Company ran a big ad picturing one of its 98 "high-speed" cars that traveled daily between Hartford and Manchester in 40 minutes.. The Hupmobile and Oakland Six opened a "new home" at 14 Eldridge street, the Manchester Motor Sales Co.

A leading automobile company, the same one which recently was the first to "go modern" in car design, sponsored a full-page ad pointing out that "four-wheel brakes are unnecessary, mechanically impractical, and dangerous in the hands of unskilled drivers" and "will cause more accidents and trouble in a month than they will prevent in a year."

Cheneny Mills covered 36½ acres and employed 4,500.. Manchester had 110 tobacco growers "from the small farms up to the big plantations".. Bon Ami had been made in Manchester for 37 years and hadn't scratched yet.

Radio was enriching everyone's language, the paper said.. The E. E. Hilliard Co. had operated continuously for more than 129 years.. The celebrators hailed Cheney Brothers as "the mills that have made Manchester famous."

Here's a hot little story on how to keep cool on these muggy summer evenings.

A local couple had visitors from New York last week and took them to a downstate amusement park on Saturday night. While taking in the sights, the wife-part of the Manchester couple suggested a speed-boat ride.

Uh-uh, said hubby as he cast an affectionate glance at his neat summer suit. The spray will get us all wet. No boat ride.

Later in the evening they decided to take a trip on a miniature train that winds about the outskirts of the park. Everyone, even hubby, agreed it was a fine idea.

The air was warm and the trip was cool and the ride was fine—almost. It was near the end of the line where the train passes by some bushes. Seems that some little monsters had their own idea as to what is amusing in an amusement park.

As the train passed the thicket, a couple of buckets of water slopped over several confused passengers—including our friends and hubby.

The unexpected bath failed to dampen wife's spirits. She just laughed and laughed. The New Yorkers got a kick out of it too. But the harder wifey laughed, the more hubby burned. It would only have been spray on a speed-boat ride, she giggled.

But the water didn't douse the fire in hubby's eye and he sought out the manager. An agreement was reached whereby the waterlogged ones would have their clothes cleaned and send the bill to the manager.

Now that it's all over, even hubby can laugh. And wifey? She thought it was funny right from the start.

Children love pets and are always ready if they lose one to take another into their hearts. A case in point: A local family on their way home from vacation in a distant state stopped at a place where they raised rabbits. The children admired a group of little, almost black, bunnies and pleaded with their parents to buy one. The owner explained that they didn't sell them at that age but would give them one. They brought it home, hunted up a strawberry crate and took the best of care of it for a week or more; fed it lettuce leaves and clover, and took it out of the crate for exercise on the lawn. They didn't know that a cat in the neighborhood had been watching its opportunity for a meal of tender rabbit meat and was seen making off with it.

Their dad in the meantime told a friend about the new pet, when he was reminded that a state law prevents rabbits and a number of other things being brought into Connecticut without a permit. By the time he was ready to obey the law, the little animal was gone and another pet had replaced it—a young robin not able to fly was engrossing the attention of the children. The couple who found it on their lawn had been feeding it with baby food and giving it water through a medicine dropper. The mother had probably met the same death as the little rabbit through another carnivorous cat.

Now, here's a new one. Did you ever hear of anyone getting himself pinched?

One night last week a call was received at Police Headquarters. The party reported a disturbance at the home around 3 o'clock in the morning. A patrol car went to the scene. When the officer got through investigating, he found the party that called was the responsible person for the disturbance and arrested that person on a charge of intoxication.

That's what we call doing your duty to society, reporting a disturbance, even if you are the cause yourself.

Local Guard Unit Praised

Commendation Is Given To Manchester Company by Commander

At a ceremony preceding the Regimental Parade held Friday, July 15, at Camp Lodge, Niantic, Conn., the following commendation was read to the men of the 2nd Battalion, Connecticut State Guard.

HEADQUARTERS
2nd Bn. 1st Inf. Regt. CSG
CAMP LODGE
NIANTIC, CT.
13 JULY, 1951

SUBJECT: COMMENDATION.
TO: THE OFFICERS AND MEN
HEADQUARTERS COMPANY
2ND BN. 1ST INF. REGT. CSG
CAMP LODGE
NIANTIC, CT.

1. The Battalion Commander wishes to express his commendations and appreciation to the Officers and Enlisted Men of Headquarters Company, Manchester, Conn., for:

a. The excellent team work and the outstanding cleanliness and appearance of the quarters assigned to Headquarters Company.

b. To Headquarters Company for their skillful performance in the execution of all administration duties within the Battalion.

2. In recognition of the above, Headquarters Company is awarded Gold Streamers for Excellence and Blue Streamers for skillful performance of duties.

Fobian E. Johnson,
Lt. Col. Inf., Commanding.

This special recognition, the only one given to any Headquarters company in the regiment, testifies to the effort that the officers and enlisted personnel expended building the local unit into a crack outfit. Later that afternoon with the newly earned ribbons streaming from their guidon, Headquarters company drew applause and numerous compliments from the spectators as they passed in review before Lt. Gov. Allen, Col. Butler and many other distinguished guests.

The 1st Regt., C. S. G. arrived in Niantic about 10 a. m. Sunday, July 8th and immediately set about making camp. Double decker beds with comfortable mattresses were assigned and made up, personal clothing and equipment were hung in correct order and by 12:30 the troops sat down to a Sunday dinner of half a roast chicken plus fixings per men. In order to give more time to training, all food service and KP duties were performed by a caterer and the quality and variety of food served was excellent. The enlisted men were served cafeteria style, eating from compartmented trays. Religious services were held at 2 p. m.

Little known to many Connecticut residents, the establishment at Camp Lodge is one of the largest and best equipped State owned military reservations in the United States. There are sufficient modern buildings to quarter and feed a regiment of State Guardsmen. There are office buildings, school rooms, shops, hospitals, club rooms and a theater. The camp, bounded on the east by Niantic Bay, has a parade ground over one mile square in addition to areas for bayonet training, village fighting, rifle practice and other phases of military education.

It is located in Niantic, within a short walking distance of the business center, and is close to many fine beaches and places of amusement.

The serious part of the training schedule started on Monday with a physical examination of all officers and men. Lectures and field practice, followed by written examinations on various phases of military training took up the remainder of the week. Also included in the schedule was a five mile hike, formal guard mounts, three battalion and one regimental parade.

The program was so well planned and supervised that two weeks training was telescoped into one, yet the men still had plenty of time left for athletic events, swimming and evenings out on pass.

After policing camp Saturday morning, the troops boarded chartered busses and the local contingent arrived at the Manchester armory about 11:45. Field equipment was checked and turned in after which the men were paid off and dismissed. Everyone was in agreement that they had had a good time and were looking forward to two weeks in camp next year.

The regular Monday night drill period was resumed this week starting at 8:00 p.m. or 2,000 hours as the men would have called it at camp. Any men interested in joining the State Guard are invited to drop in and talk it over.

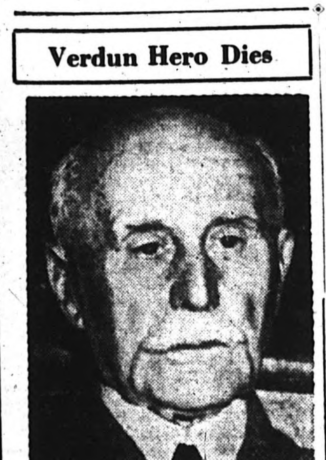
Petain Dies; Verdun Hero

Verdun Hero Dies



MARSHAL PETAIN

Ile D'Yeu, France, July 23.—(AP)—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, the French hero of Verdun in World War I, died today on this bleak island where he had served more than five years of a life sentence for treason in World War II. He was 95 years old.

But he was not a prisoner when he died. The French government commuted his sentence last month, shortly after the parliamentary elections, because of the state of his health, and he was moved from his prison cell to a private mansion here off the southwest coast of France.

It was announced that funeral services will be held Wednesday in the Church Notre Dame Du Port, in Port Joinville, on this island. Petain's lawyers wired government officials a request to relent and permit burial at Verdun, instead of on Ile D'Yeu. There was no immediate response.

The aged marshal succumbed at 9:20 a. m. (3:20 a. m., e.s.t.), in the island's military hospital. He had been in failing health for months and since an attack of pneumonia in April had suffered several relapses.

Two days ago his family and his lawyers again were called to his bedside. His 75-year-old wife, Annie, who had voluntarily shared his exile, was with him when he died.

Ironically, death came to Petain only three days after it claimed the German commander—former Crown Prince Wilhelm—who opposed him at Verdun. Wilhelm died Friday at Hechingen, Germany.

Petain's heroic defense at Verdun in 1916 had made him one of

Await Judges Case Verdict

Impossible to Predict When Court of Errors Will Reach Decision

Hartford, July 23—(AP)—Chief Justice Allyn L. Brown said today that it is impossible to predict when the Supreme Court of Errors may reach a decision on the minor court judgeship issue.

"We can't tell how long it will take," Justice Brown said, "We will get it out when we can."

The High Tribunal retired late Saturday afternoon after listening for more than four hours to arguments as whether the Democratic judges holdover or whether Governor Lodge's Republican appointees are legally the judges.

The main dispute centered around the 25th and 47th Constitutional amendments.

Atty. William S. Gordon, chief counsel for the Democrats, maintained that the 47th amendment adopted in 1948 repealed the 20th amendment, which stipulated that

Widen Search For Lost DC-4

Hope Fades for Lives Of 38 on Plane Missing on Hop to Korea

Juneau, Alaska, July 23—(AP)—Rescue planes fanned out over the rugged Alaska coastline early today in an expanding search for a missing Korean airlift transport and its 38 occupants.

As the search for the Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-4 widened with a gradual improvement in weather conditions, hope for the occupants diminished. Searchers said the area where the plane last reported was one of the wildest on the North American continent.

The transport, carrying among its passengers 29 Americans including two "high-rated" civilians, left Vancouver, B. C., late Friday for Anchorage, Alaska, on the first leg of a flight to Tokyo.

The pilot, Capt. Victor Fox, last reported off Cape Spencer, Alaska, at 12:17 a.m. p.s.t. (3:17 a.m. e.s.t.) Saturday. Fox said the plane was on course at 9,000 feet, about 80 miles due west of Juneau, with a 5½ hour fuel supply.

U. N. Advance Headquarters, Korea, July 23—(AP)—Allied negotiators gathered here again today, armed with final U.N. instructions for the resumption of Korean war cease-fire talks in Kaesong Wednesday.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief of the five-man United Nations team, flew back from Tokyo tonight after a series of conferences with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway. He was accompanied by two other U.N. delegates, Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie and Rear Adm. Arleigh Burke.

They talked with the Supreme Allied Commander Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Meet Wednesday

The decisions made in Tokyo probably will remain secret until the ninth meeting of negotiators in a Kaesong schoolhouse Wednesday.

Says Some Insurance Firms Aid China Reds

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—Chairman O'Conor (D., Md.), said today a Senate subcommittee on export controls has received reports that certain American insurance companies are aiding trade with Red China.

"We are told," he said, "that these insurance firms, in cooperation with British companies, are helping to make possible a continuation of the flow of materials to our enemies by jointly underwriting maritime and war risk insurance on the vessels engaging in trade with the Communists."

His statement did not name any of the companies, but O'Conor said he considered the reports "of such moment to be the security of our country that x x x I intend to have the matter explored fully."

He said information about the "re-insurance pool" to provide coverage for foreign flag ships carrying cargoes to Red China was obtained recently by a subcommittee investigator in the Far East.

Under such pool arrangements, O'Conor said, each participating firm earmarks a portion of its assets to re-insure a part of each

8 Die in Flames In Frisco, 23 Hurt

San Francisco, July 23.—(AP)—Eight persons burned to death and 23 were injured as fire roared through a wooden apartment house yesterday.

Six other residents were missing, but probably were vacationing.

It was San Francisco's worst fire since 1944, when 22 were killed.

About 70 residents scrambled from the four-story building as flames raced upward from the ground floor just after dawn.

Some jumped, screaming. One woman bounced from a life net, struck the building and suffered a fractured skull.

Sanni Wiertensen tried to escape down a drain pipe with her 5-year-old son clinging piggy-back. She fell, fracturing her pelvis. The boy suffered a brain concussion.

Ten of the injured were firemen.

Acting Fire Chief A. J. Galli said the flames had a 20 minute start before a newsboy sounded the alarm. He reported suspicious circumstances and police began questioning known firebugs.

Galli estimated damage to the 44-year-old building at $40,000.

Paris, July 23—(AP)—U. S. Senator Brian McMahon (D-Conn), flew to Belgrade today. He hopes to talk with Premier Marshal Tito on Yugoslavia's role in the East-West crisis.

McMahon ended a tour of Europe with eight other Senators of a Foreign Relations sub-committee Saturday. Others of the party left for Washington yesterday.

Horace Smith, a State department adviser, accompanied McMahon to Belgrade. They will remain there overnight and fly back to Paris tomorrow.

Anglo-Iran Settlement On Oil Due

Tehran, Iran, July 23—(AP)—An Iranian cabinet member said today a formula has been found for reopening negotiations with the British on the oil nationalization dispute.

The first specific statement of progress in settling the critical British-Iranian deadlock came from Dr. Karim Sanhari, Minister of Education, after a six-hour conference between Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh, the cabinet and the Iranian Oil Nationalization board.

Another member of the government indicated that some formal announcement of the extent and nature of the progress might be made after continued talks tonight with President Truman's global trouble-shooter W. Averell Harriman.

Agree on Memo

Kazem Hassibi, a government representative on the oil board, said:

"The cabinet and the joint oil board agreed on a memorandum which will be handed to Harriman tonight.

"It forms the basis on which negotiations with the British might be resumed."

The memorandum apparently is based on the result of week-long talks between Harriman and Iranian leaders.

There was no immediate indication what specific points were contained in the memorandum.

Sanjabi hinted, however, that Iran is sticking to its position

Solons Stress West Defense

Agree Europe Can Do More to Build Lines Against Communism

Washington, July 23—(AP)—A group of Senators returned from Europe today in general agreement there is need for greater speed in building western defense against Communism.

Senator Green (D-RI), chairman of the foreign relations subcommittee which visited seven countries in two weeks, said in a statement that some of the North Atlantic treaty nations "can do more than they are now doing to develop their armed forces."

Green emphasized that these countries need U. S. assistance to build their military strength.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis) said "The western world is woefully weak. We cannot build our strength too fast."

Aid For Spain

During the group's absence strong support has built up in Congress for the idea of dealing Spain into the U. S. foreign aid program in exchange for American use of Spanish military bases.

OPS Grants Price Hike In Clothing

Washington, July 23—(AP)—Higher prices on some clothing, especially woolens, were permitted today under a ruling of the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS).

The OPS also lifted a 23-day freeze on wearing apparel ceiling prices. The freeze was ordered June 30 on a long list of clothing items. It followed a Congressional move banning price rollbacks during July while Congress worked on new economic controls legislation.

The ceiling price rises in apparel items follow up recent ceiling rises for many manufacturers of wool yarns and fabrics and cotton textiles. There was no estimate of how much prices would increase under the new order. Leather shoes are not affected by the change.

Under the order all apparel manufacturers who were granted ceiling price increases in an OPS order of June 14 now are allowed to put these increases into effect.

Issued June 14

"Since the apparel order was not issued until June 14," an OPS statement said, "few apparel manufacturers were able to complete the calculations of new ceiling prices and put them into effect by June 30th. However, many manufacturers of wool yarns and fabrics and cotton textiles had placed new and higher ceilings and effect under their regulations, so that manufacturers were confronted with frozen prices and rising costs."

In another order OPS permitted manufacturers to put into effect new ceiling prices if they made a public announcement of the price changes before July 1, even though the price lists were not effective until after that date.

It eased the effect of a price

ADMIRAL SHERMAN

Adm. Sherman Coming Home

Body of Naval Chief Of Operations Will Be Flown from Naples

Naples, Italy, July 23.—(AP)—Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, his last mission completed as head of America's Navy, starts his last flight home tomorrow—in death.

The 54-year-old U. S. chief of Naval Operations died in his Naples hotel yesterday noon after suffering two heart attacks. He had just completed a tour of Europe's Atlantic Pact defense area. He had also visited Generalissimo Francisco Franco and was believed to have reached a tentative agreement for American use of Spanish air and naval bases.

The admiral's body will be taken tomorrow to Naples airport after simple services on the deck of the American warship, U.S.S. Mt. Olympus, anchored in the Bay of Naples. The body was taken to the ship yesterday.

Four U. S. destroyers, all veterans of the Korean fighting recently arrived to join the U. S. Mediterranean fleet, will be alongside as the shipboard services are held.

As the ship—the "Fuske," the "William R. Rush," the "Hawkins" and the "Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr," —moved into position today their crews stood at attention at the rails.

An Italian armed forces guard and an honor guard of American sailors will render final honors at the airport. A four-motored American plane carrying the body will

New York, July 23—(AP)— Some 400 members of the CIO Textile Workers Union of America have pledged $100,000—and "more if necessary" —to finance their revolt against Emil Rieve, the union president.

The rump conferees also have formed a 70-man "pre-convention committee for a democratic TWUA." This group will map the strategy to be followed against Rieve and his administration at next April's TWUA convention in Cleveland, Ohio.

Asks Vast Expansion Of Military

Washington, July 23—(AP)—President Truman today told Congress it probably will be necessary to strengthen the armed forces beyond the present goal of 3,500,000 men, regardless of peace prospects in Korea.

He called for "full speed ahead" on the military build-up, with no yielding to those who would discard the anti-inflation control system "or shoot it full of holes."

The message, was Mr. Truman's midyear economic report. It went to Congress along with a 255-page economic review prepared by his Council of Economic Advisers.

Need More Workers

Mr. Truman set his sights on a $30,000,000,000 increase in the annual military spending rate in the year ahead.

This, he said, will require up to 2,000,000 more workers, a five per cent boost in national output despite cuts in civilian goods, plus stiff taxes and controls to offset a widening "inflationary gap."

At this moment, he disclosed, "We are reviewing our immediate goals for military strength, and it is quite possible we shall have to raise them in several important respects."

The President called the 3,500,000-man strength of the armed

Chamber, Senators Dispute Tax Need

Washington, July 23—(AP)—The U. S. Chamber of Commerce declared today there is no need for a tax increase this year, but Republican Senators Taft (Ohio) and Millikin (Colo.) were skeptical.

Both Taft and Millikin, members of the committee, challenged Alvord's argument that federal spending can be cut enough to help avert a tax increase.

Nickel Soda Pop May Fade Like Five Cent Cigar, Beer

Washington, July 23 — (AP)— Nickel-a-bottle soda pop soon may be only a memory.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) today authorized soft drink bottlers to boost their prices to retailers to a top of 96 cents a case.

This probably will mean an increase to six cents a bottle at retail on the beverages whose bottlers take full advantage of the new ceiling, the agency said.

In the trade it was reported unofficially that Coca-Cola will stick to its present price. However, some other large companies do plan to change, OPS spokesmen reported.

The new ceiling applies to both six-ounce and 12-ounce bottles, effective July 28.

OPS said it will relieve bottlers of "extensive and serious" hardship. The Senate Small Business committee, after a 1950 survey, estimated that two-thirds of the country's 6,500 soft drink bottlers were losing money or barely breaking even.

The new price will permit a wholesale boost of up to 16 cents for the 24-bottle case, so long as the resulting price does not exceed 96 cents. Some wholesalers may elect to take less than the whole 16 cents, depending upon their competitive situation.

The new order also permits an increase in the deposit charge for bottles, up to the amount it would require to replace them if lost.

The regulation does not apply to soft drinks mixed at soda fountains or, except as to deposit charges, to soft drinks in bottles of more than 12-ounce size.

Warsaw Poland, July 23—(AP)—Soviet Russia's Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov and military hero Marshall Georgi K. The presence of these high officials was considered significant and sensational.
