Mr. and Mrs. H. B. DeWolf of Phelps road have been enjoying a scenic trip by auto and steamer. They were thrilled by the beauty of Mt. Ranier National Park, Wash. They sailed from Seattle to Vancouver, B. C., and returning through the Canadian Rockies they stopped at Lake Louise and Banff National Park. They were guests at Banff Springs Hotel with its 992 rooms which overlook the Bow River Valley. They plan stops at Montreal and other places in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Furay and family of Dallas, Texas, who have been visiting Mr. Furay's parents on Step Hollow lane for the past 10 days, left yesterday for Allentown, Pa., to spend the remainder of their vacation with Mrs. Furay's parents. They stated that although the temperature in Dallas has exceeded 95 degrees since the first of June, the humidity is low. When it reaches 50 per cent, which is rare, it rates headlines in the newspapers. Mr. Furay has been with the Chance-Vought division of United Aircraft for the past 14 years. Confessed Girl-Slayer Is Charged

New York, July 18—(AP)—A fanatic who claims the key to mankind's greatest secret — eternal life — appears in court today, accused of one of mankind's greatest crimes —murder. Bayard P. Peakes, 29-year-old pseudo-scientist, is to be arraigned in felony court, charged with killing pretty Eileen Fahey—a slayer he admitted in a fantastic confession.

New York, July 18— (AP) — Bayard Peakes, confessed slayer of a girl he had never met, was sent to Bellevue Hospital for mental examination when he was arraigned today.

The pseudo scientist objected to the court appointing a lawyer to defend him, saying:

"I don't want this guy. I'm not nuts."

He said he killed the 18-year-old blonde stenographer for the American Physical Society because the scientific body had rejected his theories on how to live forever.

Didn't Know Girl

He didn't even know her. He had marked eight others for death but he saw her first.

"I was going to shoot anybody," police quoted him.

Why, police asked.

"It was my book," Peakes whined.

"They wouldn't look at my book. They wouldn't even look at it."

The book was his 12,000-word thesis, "How To Live Forever." He had printed 7,500 copies of it with $1,000 he saved. But no organization would publish it.

He brooded over its rejection by the society, and made up his mind. He headed for New York from his Boston rooming house.

Monday, eight pistol shots rang out in quiet Columbia University, which houses offices of the society, an organization interested in physics and electronics research and papers.

Miss Fahey lay dead, killed at her desk as she was transcribing notes from her boy friend in Korea.

Hoped Escape In Boston

Peakes was arrested in Boston early yesterday and, grinning happily

Alarm Grows As Steel Strike Snags Industry

Washington, July 18— (AP) — Growing alarm expressed over the creeping effects of the steel shortage on other industries indicated today that increasing pressure was being exerted for a quick end to the seven-weeks-old steel strike.

Washington, July 18— (AP) — The White House was reported today to be seriously considering a plan to seize part of the steelmaking industry under the Selective Service act.

Meanwhile, rumors that a secret settlement had been reached between the CIO United Steelworkers and the mill operators remained officially undented and unconfirmed.

Truman Is Better; Fever Goes Down

Washington, July 18 —(AP) — President Truman's doctor gave him the last of a series of medical tests today while Democratic politicians waited impatiently for his dismissal from the hospital. After nearly a week's bout with a virus infection, the President's temperature had returned to normal, but Democratic presidential aspirants could not boast as much with the Chicago national convention opening Monday.

Truman expects to return to the White House tomorrow, but there is no indication that he plans to make known his choice of a successor in advance of the balloting. Such a move on his part could be the deciding factor in selection of the Democratic nominee.

Most of the people around Truman prefer to be in the dark. Even cabinet members are buttonholing reporters asking them: "What is the boss going to do?"

And Truman's own alternate to the Democratic convention, the man who will cast his vote, has been unable to see the President during a trip to Washington this week.

Tom J. Gavin of Kansas City apparently was en route home without getting an audience with the President, because of Truman's illness and his subsequent trip to the Army's Walter Reed Hospital for thoughtful tests.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told reporters that "as the best of my knowledge" Gavin did not talk with the President and that he knew Gavin did not see Truman personally.

Mrs. Truman carries her dark glasses in hand as she walks from her car on arrival at Army's Walter Reed Hospital in Washington to see the president. Mrs. Truman, who was not summoned to his bedside, decided to come by train from Independence, Mo., to keep her husband company. (AP Wirephoto).

Red-Allied Truce Talks Still Termed Stalemate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Korean truce negotiators resumed off-the-record talks today with no sign of a break in the deadlock over prisoner exchange. Sweltering United Nations and Communist delegates met 15 minutes in the parleys tent at Panmunjom. The meeting ended a four-day recess asked by the Reds. They agreed on another session for tomorrow.

Today's was the 11th meeting since a Communist-requested news blackout which began July 8. The Red request for secrecy and for recess strived speculation that the Communists were counting higher authority on possible concessions in the prisoner issue—a final obstacle to an armistice.

Nuckols Is Silent

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, the Allied spokesman, would not say whether the Reds were ready to accept UN refusal to force unwilling prisoners to rejoin Communism.

He declined comment also on announcements from the U. S. Sixth Fleet that Russia's UN delegate, cancelled plans to sail for home, and that India has cancelled all contacts with Red China aimed at ending the war.

The Malik announcement touched off speculation that a break in the talks might be imminent.

Informed by newsmen of the Fleet and talks in Peiping, Nuckols declared:

"The UN delegation is engaged entirely in attempting to negotiate a military armistice with the Korean Communists at Panmunjom. The UN command delegation quite properly would not have knowledge of any conversations that might take place anywhere than in the conference tent."

Planes Join In Search For Girl, 10

Lakeville, July 18— (AP) — Searchers took to the air today in an effort to solve the mysterious disappearance of a 10-year-old Sundance, Wyo., girl from Camp Sloane here two days ago.

State Police Lieut. Osmun Avery said a Connecticut State Police plane, piloted by trooper Robert Harrison and with trooper Richard Chapman as observer was in the air over the search area at 10 a. m.

Air-Sea Plane

This plane, he said, was to be joined by a seaplane from planes from Westover Field, Mass., and planes from the Connecticut Wing of the Civil Air Patrol later in the day.

Meanwhile, he said, an augmented ground search goes on for little Linda Sue, granddaughter of former Gov. and Mrs. Nels H. Smith of Sundance, Wyo.

Avery said today that "one new clue" placed the missing girl about half a mile farther east along U. S. Route 44 where she was reported

Texas Delegations Bitter As Seating Battle Starts

150 Area Delegates Plan Trip

Boston, July 18—(AP)—The six-state New England area is sending 150 delegates to next week's Democratic national convention in Chicago.

They have a total of 68 convention votes divided among them.

The 72 Massachusetts delegates have a half vote each—including the convention keynote speaker, Gov. Paul A. Dever.

The other five New England States are sending congressional district delegates armed with a full vote each, while their delegates at large rate only a half vote apiece.

McGrath Is Going

One of the Rhode Island delegates at large, with only a half vote, is J. Howard McGrath, former attorney general of the United States.

Four years ago it was McGrath who opened the Democratic convention at Philadelphia, as national chairman of his party. He has been governor of Rhode Island and one of the United States Senators, and also has been solicitor general of the United States.

Gov. Dennis J. Roberts of Rhode Island is chairman of his state's delegation.

With Massachusetts Governor Dever as keynote speaker of the convention, the Bay State delegation is headed by U. S. Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, former governor of Massachusetts.

Another former governor in the delegation is James M. Curley, Massachusetts national committeeman.

Favorite Son

The Massachusetts delegation voted at a pre-convention meeting several weeks ago to vote unanimously for Gov. Dever as a "favorite son" candidate for President, at least through the first ballot.

They voted that on the suggestion of the governor that the Bay State delegation should maintain a position of "strict impartiality" because of his assignment to deliver the keynote speech to the convention.

Gov. Dever is to go to Chicago Saturday—he has been away from his state home office for the last two days watching with two of his chief secretaries, J.

Army Readies Court Martial For Gen. Grow

Washington, July 18—(AP)—The Army is expected to announce shortly the date for its court martial of Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow on charges he mentioned military secrets in a dairy which was copied by a Soviet spy.

It was about six weeks ago that the Army notified the former military attache at the American embassy in Moscow that he must stand trial, and almost three months since he was informed of the specific charges against him.

Gives Him Time

An Army spokesman, in answer to a question today, said the delay was "to permit General Grow and his counsel to thoroughly prepare his case."

An Army announcement on June 8 said Grow would be tried at Fort George G. Meade, Md., before eight generals. Sessions will be closed to the public.

On April 28, it said that as a result of an investigation charges had been preferred against Grow on two counts, one charging classified military information in private records, and (2) failed properly to safeguard classified military information.

The charge sheet was based on the alleged disclosure in a Com-

Qavam Begins Job As Iran Premier

Tehran, Iran, July 18—(AP)—Iran's new strong man premier, Ahmed Qavam, today began the task of forming a new government for his near-bankrupt nation—the job passed up by National leader Mohammad Mossadegh.

Qavam, who as premier head in 1946 and 1947 brought Iran safely through two dangerous disputes with Soviet Russia, was nominated to the top post last night by the Majlis, Parliament's lower house.

Woman Vice President Campaign Gets Started

Chicago, July 18—(AP)—For the first time in the history of a major political party, formal campaign headquarters—complete with American flag, portraits, badges, workers and a water cooler—were open today for a woman candidate for Vice President. She is India Edwards, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee and director of its women's division.

Ordinarily the idea would get the brush-off at this stage of feminine political development—except that India is quite a vocal figure in the party. Men, as well as women, besiege her office for appointments.

Lightning Strikes

Furthermore, even within the Republican party, a woman convention last week there was astonishment when "the lightning hit" Sen. Richard Nixon of California, with the thunderbolt exploding in a floor fight.

To least anything were some southern delegations over the action of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia in denouncing the Taft-Hartley act.

Russell added to the controversy by saying in a television news conference last night that he see no reason why he couldn't support Democrat Truman for re-election—in the unlikely event Truman runs.

The notice was given in a letter signed by President Thomas I. B. Cook who, in a longer communication, to more than 300 striking production workers, blamed the work stoppage on "the top officers of the United Automobile workers at Detroit" who he said "are not as interested in your problems as

52 Convention Votes at Stake

Chicago, July 18—(AP)—Bitterly contesting delegations from Texas began their fight to be seated at the Democratic national convention today by lurid charges of "holiers" and "slanderers." At stake are 52 convention votes. And at issue is whether Texas will cast its lot with the rebellious southern delegations of the convention or keep itself in position to support an "anti-Truman deal" candidate.

Defending his claim to head the Lone Star State's delegation as the choice of the "regular" party in Texas, Gov. Allan Shivers said the contesting faction "got beat by about 95 per cent of the voters."

Personal Abuse

Shivers said the party "loyalists" led by former New Deal Rep. Maury Maverick, therefore "have based its campaign on "personal abuse, slander and villification."

Maverick, who opened the case for the "loyalists" by branding the Shivers faction a bunch of "Republicans, Dixiecrats, bolters."

Television and other cameras were trained on the scene before a credentials subcommittee of the Democratic National committee as it got down belatedly to the business of deciding two red-hot delegate contests.

Spokesman for the anti-New Deal "regular" faction led by Shivers, were to have their say later.

The contest—and another involving Mississippi—is expected to votes—grew out of the refusal of the regular Democratic parties in states to pledge their loyalty to the Democratic nominee, whoever he might be. Their fear was that the convention might pick up a "Fair Deal" supporter who would go down the ticket as President Truman's civil rights program.

Meanwhile Vice President Alben W. Barkley arrived here from Washington today in his race for the Democratic presidential nomination with reports he will get some first place ballots on the first ballot.

Ready For Prior

While all candidates jockeyed for position in advance of the opening of the Democratic national nominating convention Monday, there was no sign that Governor Dwight Green, Illinois national committeeman, is ready to take a political flier on the 74-year-old Vice President.

There also was no sign of any stirring of a temporary lull in the sectional and presidential battle over civil rights that might explode into a floor fight.

To least anything were some southern delegations over the action of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia in denouncing the Taft-Hartley act.

Russell added to the controversy by saying in a television news conference last night that he see no reason why he couldn't support President Truman for re-election—in the unlikely event Truman runs.

Boston, July 18— (AP) — New Englanders mopped their brows again today as temperatures rose into the 90's after a one-day respite from a five-day heat wave. The U. S. Weather Bureau forecaster said the mercury would hit the mid-90's in most of the area and might equal the 97 record for the day set in 1900.

It was Rhode Island's second day of above-90 temperature. The test of New England hasted a pleasant, mild-90 temperature.

Scattered thunderstorms, forecast for today, brought relief to northern portions of New Hampshire and Maine, where it was expected to take several forms.

New England has had no heavy rain for three weeks.

The mercury in the 90's wave appeared to be settling in for a long stay. The U. S. Weather Bureau forecaster said the heat wave would continue "for some time" with temperatures averaging above Monday. But that was only a first guess, the forecaster said.

Smoking and building of outdoor fires were banned in many woods, effective at midnight tonight, because of the drought induced fire danger.

Monopoly Is Charged

U. S. Will Probe Oil Cartel of 7 Firms

Washington, July 18—(AP)—The government today prepared a brass-knuckle investigation designed to break up an alleged international oil monopoly by seven giants of the vital industry.

Both criminal and civil proceedings against five American and two foreign oil companies are being worked up by the Justice department under anti-trust laws forbidding monopolistic practices, price fixing, and restraint of trade.

Attorney General James P. McGranery told a news conference yesterday that a federal grand jury, sitting here, will shortly start probing into activities of what he called "the international oil cartel."

At the same time, McGranery said his department will institute a civil anti-trust suit against the seven companies in the District of Columbia.

Seven Firms Cited

The criminal proceedings are designed to punish past offenses. The civil proceedings are aimed at to prevent any repetition of the same offenses in the future.

McGranery named these firms as involved in the probe: Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, Texas Oil Company, Socony - Vacuum, Gulf Oil—all U. S. owned—and two foreign firms dominated by the British, Royal Dutch Shell and Anglo-Iranian Oil.

A spokesman for Standard Oil of California said at San Francisco last night "our record is clear" and that the international operations of its affiliated companies had been "carried on to the best interests of the United States."

There was no immediate comment from any of the other oil companies, either in this country or in London.

However, last week Eugene Holman, president of Standard of New Jersey, said his company was not guilty to illegal practices of any kind.

Denies Charges

"This company is not a party to any conspiracy of any kind, including those which would fix prices, allocate markets, control or restrict production anywhere in the world," Holman said.

The points Holman mentioned are among those covered by the 63-year-old Sherman-Clayton anti-trust law which bans monopolistic practices and outlaws agreements to fix prices or restrain trade between states or between the U. S. and foreign countries.

The Eisenhower Story

Tremendous Pressure Reverses Ike's Ideas

Editor's note: In the fifth and concluding chapter of the Eisenhower story, AP Newsfeatures writer Saul Pett traces the process by which the reluctant hero of a popular military hero became a full-fledged political candidate.)

By what mental process does a man decide he ought to be President of the United States?

Does he start simply by wanting the job because it is the biggest, the most important and carries the most prestige of any in the world?

Does he then unconsciously change the word "want" to "ought" by rationalizing personal ambition into a sense of duty?

Or does he begin thinking of the White House purely out of a sense of duty as a patriotic response to the demands of many that he serve?

In the case of Dwight D. Eisenhower, his admirers are certain it was duty alone which finally, after years of soul-searching, made him available for the Republican nomination.

Had Enough Glory

He had more than enough glory for one man after liberating Europe, his admirers say. He did not need to seek the presidential nomination, they add; it sought him.

Supporting his first proposition, AP Newsfeatures Washington bureau chief Frank Cormier said: "Ike was a candidate. Why? What changed his mind?

Eisenhower critics may say he was decidedly not coy, waiting for the right time. But Eisenhower's friends answer that he had to wrestle through two conventions. One was that no military man, except in very special conditions, should serve in the White House. The other was that a general who should refuse any call to service in his country would be a "phony" in the world?

Does he then unconsciously change the word "want" to "ought" by rationalizing personal ambition into a sense of duty?

job, told a long story to officers which included the following:

"I walked to the American Physical Society and walked in. There was a nice looking girl sitting at the desk.

"I asked her have they dropped the electronic theory? She said she didn't know anything about it.

"Before she said anything else I fired at her.

"Peakes said, "She just lay there the five minutes before she died.

"It was awful.

"Then, gun in hand, he left the office and unknowingly came face to face with one of the eight persons he had marked for death.

"I just killed a girl," Peakes said. "Call the police."

Then he fled.

Strike man he left astonished in the corridor was Professor Thomas Green—whose name he had clipped from a Columbia catalogue along with those of seven other professors.

"I didn't run into any of the professors, so I shot the girl," Peakes was quoted later.

Actually, police said, he planned to blow up the university with an electronic bomb but "time ran out" before he could build such an explosive.

Assistant District Attorney Carl Grebow said, Peakes also planned to attract attention to his theory by killing a newspaper editor and "some newspaper officials."

Peakes became a suspect and was traced through his angry correspondence with the society. Police trailed him to Boston and also learned he had been discharged from the Air Force as a "mental case suffering from dementia praecox."

Meanwhile, Miss Fahey's first and only boy friend—20-year-old Ronald Leo, a Marine private first class—was flying home for her funeral. The service has been set for tomorrow, but it appeared Leo could not reach here until Sunday.

He ordered a final bouquet for his young sweetheart, the chance victim of a twisted personality.

The wreath rested near her bier with a card:

John Fox and John H. Morris, on the Chicago speaking staff.

"Most of the New England delegates are unpledged and undecided.

"The only exceptions are the Connecticut and New Hampshire delegations. Connecticut's 22 delegates are under instruction to cast their votes for U. S. Sen. Brien McMahon, of Connecticut. In New Hampshire, Sen. Estes Kefauver picked up six of the state's eight convention votes in the hard-fought state primary election last March 11. Of other two New Hampshire votes are listed as favorable to Kefauver.

It was the New Hampshire primary which Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower swept before he became a candidate officially.

President Truman's name was on the New Hampshire ballot, too, but Eisenhower beat him in the popularity poll.

That upset also left the more prominent Democrats of New Hampshire without convention seats. They were on the ballot as favoring Truman. Kefauver's victory gave the delegate seats to a group of "lesser echelon" Democrats from the Granite State.

Both New England delegations are planning to call pre-convention meetings soon after their arrival in Chicago.

Here's how they're going:

Connecticut's 22 delegates, along with alternates and honorary delegates, will leave Boston on a special train Saturday at 2 p. m. (d.s.t.) and arriving in Chicago at 6:30 a. m. (C.s.t.) Most of the delegates will be at the Palmer House, with some at other hotels.

Connecticut—The 22 Connecticut delegates, along with their alternates and other guests are leaving Saturday afternoon in special cars to be attached to a New York-Chicago train due in Chicago about noon Sunday.

Rhode Island —The Rhode Island delegation also is leaving Saturday to go to Chicago by way of New York. They expect to arrive there before noon Sunday.

Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont—Delegates and alternates with other guests from the three states made no joint plans to travel to Chicago. Some have already started west by automobile, and others are traveling by plane or train.

Truman's Better; Fever Goes Down

The President was stricken Sunday. While he has shown steady improvement since Monday, according to the White House, he was hospitalized for the first time since he entered the White House for a checkup on orders of Major General Wallace H. Graham, his physician.

Truman plans to fly to Chicago next week to address the closing session of the convention.

But the president has not been idle. Today he issued career diplomat Walter J. Donnelly as envoy to the Bonn government for Germany.

At the same time Llewellyn E. Thompson, Jr., was appointed to succeed Donnelly as American ambassador and high commissioner for Austria. Also a career diplomat, Thompson is now minister-counselor at Rome for the past two years.

Donnelly succeeds John J. McCloy, who is retiring for personal reasons after three years' service, climaxed by the new peace contract and other steps ending the occupying up West Germany with the west.

McCloy's resignation becomes effective July 22 and Donnelly is expected to assume his new duties at that time. McCloy is expected to return to the capital for consultation around July 25.

An announcement said that regretfully accepted McCloy's decision to quit, and "expressed my great personal appreciation for the outstanding contribution Mr. McCloy has made in bringing the Federal Republic of Germany into the family of free nations and in the development of friendly relations between the U. S. and the Federal Republic of Germany."

Donnelly is expected to become the first postwar American ambassador to Germany when the new peace contract comes into effect.

The President also signed into law today a bill continuing government support of prices for cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts at 90 per cent of parity through 1954.

The President said in a statement that the new law "is a valuable addition to the agricultural legislation which has been so important in maintaining a strong and stable farm economy and which has contributed so markedly to a much-needed increase in the American standard of rural living."

The law provides that parity for these six crops will be determined, through 1955, by whichever of two present formulas gives the higher price. The controversial "sliding scale" parity program was set aside for the 1953 and 1954 crop years.

Parity is a price determined by the government to be fair to farmers in terms of things they buy.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan already has announced the six crops will be supported at 90 per cent of parity this year.

in demonstrating their power."

The company spokesman has been completely shutdown since the strike, to enforce wage demands and other contract benefits for 1951 contract expiration, work was shifted to the company's rolling mill at nearby Thomaston, where, the company says "space is limited, and we cannot find space for anything but essential functions."

Beale told a newsman that 46 office workers had been retained to work at the Thomaston plant office "until we decide what we are going to do."

Those who were laid off have received pay for the first week the plant was closed, and their two-weeks vacation pay, he said, stating that "the financial condition of the company does not permit paying for work not done."

"We realize the hardship this will lay on you," he told the workers in his letter. "We know we stand a good chance of losing your services permanently, but we have no other course. We will advise you when we desire your services again."

Beak Tells Story

To the more than 300 strikers returning July 21 as the only workers, Beak said in his communiqué:

"A meeting with your union leadership was held by representatives of the company on July 15, at state and federal mediation offices. Results were negative. No further meetings are scheduled.

"In you we hope the last of regular pay and your families face charity and hardship. Just remember that your international officers are not suffering in the same way. While you face payless weeks, their pay goes on.

"As I pointed out in a prior letter, the top leaders of the United Automobile workers in Detroit are not as interested in your problems as they are in demonstrating their power. The suffering of Waterbury citizens is far away.

"I know that, if foreign influences were kept out of the bargaining between our employes and the company, a mutually satisfactory settlement could have been reached before now.

"At yesterday's (Thursday's) meeting, for instance, we offered an eleven cents an hour! increase to all employes in the bargaining unit effective July 21.

"We were told: the employes turned it down. We will keep them out until we get everything. The facts are that they are not going to get everything."

"You may have gone to end of your resources and enough of you indicate you want to work, we will open the plant for you, with a 11 cents an hour effective when you start work."

Korea Truce Talk Is Still Deadlocked

"Old Baldy" hill on the Korean western front.

About 700 Communist troops hit the strategic hoge west of Chorwon after a deafening preparatory barrage from Red mortars and field guns.

Allied reinforcements scrambled up the slippery hill shortly after the battle began.

The Red guns opened up on "Old Baldy" last night and 50 minutes later Communist troops assaulted the height. Then high velocity fire from Communist tank guns raked the hill.

United Nations tanks answered and at least one of the Red armored vehicles was set afire.

The Red tanks pulled out of the fight shortly after midnight and the infantry assault was blunted by 1:05 a. m. Sporadic firing continued however, and the Communists did not give up the assault until 3:45 a. m.

The UN seized the strategic hill five weeks ago.

Manager Receives Bond Issue Notice

General Manager Richard Martin has received a copy of the notice advertising the sale of the town's $1,550,000 school-bond issue which its agent, the First National Bank of Boston, is sending to financial institutions throughout the country.

Bids for the purchase of the issue, known as School Project Bonds of 1952, will be received until 11 a. m. Wednesday. The Board of Directors will meet with General Manager Martin at 2 p. m. that day to open the bids.

Payments on the bonds, which will be amortized over a 20-year period, will be made in the amount of $80,000 yearly from July 1, 1953 through July 1 1968, and in the amount of $75,000 yearly from July 1, 1969 through July 1, 1972.

The bonds will be issued in denomination of $1,000 each, in coupon form, and interest will be payable semi-annually and annually on Jan. 1 and July 1. Both principal and interest are payable at the First National Bank of Boston.

The bonds will be sold as a package, and not in part, to the proposed purchaser requiring the lowest interest rate on the bonds. A 2 per cent ceiling has been put on the interest rate that will be accepted in the sale of the bonds. However, it is believed that the bond market at present is such that the town will not have to pay more than 1½ per cent.

Included in the notice is a statement of the town's financial condition which allows that Manchester has a total assessed property valuation as of Oct. 1, 1951, of $99,047,132. The taxable property valuation amounts to $97,892,561. The town's present bonded indebtedness, not including the school bond issue, is $3,210,000.

Hart's Burns Prove Fatal

Local Man Dies in New Haven; Injured While Lighting Picnic Fire

Elmer Hart, 35, of 96 Chambers street, died in New Haven Hospital last night from burns received July 5 in Madison, Conn., while attempting to start a picnic fire. A suitable Fuhon Toilet George Heinhold of Madison said that Hart, while visiting his sister in that town, poured a liquid on a smouldering fire which blazed up and burned him about the face.

The Herald learned this noon that Hart has been employed by the Southern New England Telephone Co., as a cable splicer since 1947, working out of the Hartford office. Besides his sister in Madison, Hart has a brother, Harold T. Hart, whose address is Station 56, Rest Windsor Mill. He could not be reached today.

Two Hurt in Crash On North Main St.

The cases of two drivers charged with violations of rules of the road as a result of a crash at 8 p. m. yesterday at North Main and North streets which caused slight injuries to one driver and left badly damaged both cars were continued one week in Police Court this morning.

Reginald J. Hilinski, 39, of Deming street, Windsor, was treated at Manchester Memorial Hospital for a bruised knee, a rib injury and a broken nose, and was later discharged.

William R. E. Whaley, 60, of 65 Main street, Lebanon, Conn., also received head and shoulder injuries. He was not hospitalized.

Whaley's car, going east on North Main street, began making a left turn into North street. The other car, going south on North Main street, struck Whaley's auto in the middle of the right side. The driver told police she failed to see Whaley's car until it was too late to avoid the collision and had time to apply his brakes.

Patrolman John Turner is continuing his investigation of the accident.

Marine Struck, Injured On Wilbur Cross Highway

Rockville, July 18—(Special)—Marine Lt. Leon C. Randall, 27, of Henderson Hall, Arlington, Va., was taken to the Rockville City Hospital by ambulance this afternoon and later removed to the Newington Veterans Hospital, with reported broken right leg, head injuries and possible broken left leg and spine injury.

State Police reported that Randall was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Ann Hoskins of Lakeville while he was standing next to his own auto on the Wilbur Cross Highway in Tolland. State Policeman Walter Smiegel of the Stafford Springs barracks stated Randall was driving east on the highway when his car became disabled and he parked off the traveled portion of the road. The Hoskins auto swung out of line and struck Randall when traffic ahead suddenly slowed down, according to the police. No one in the Hoskins car was hurt.

Later the wreckage owned by Ray Smith of Tolland was struck as it was starting to move the cars damaged in the previous accident. Randall Grundy, 54, of RFD, Stafford Springs, reported he was going west, suddenly applied his brakes and the car skidded about 100 feet, turned in the opposite direction, striking the wrecker, the police statement. Grundy was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. State Policeman Merrill Johnson investigated Officer Smiegel in the investigation.

U. S. Will Probe Oil Cartel of 7 Firms

Leonard J. Emmerglick, Justice Department attorney who conducted the government's successful anti-trust suit against Paramount Company of America six years ago, was commissioned to go before the grand jury and prosecute the civil action in international oil. Sen. Hennings (D. Mo.), currently demanding a Congressional investigation of the seven oil firms, said in a public statement two days before the grand jury convened, U. S. foreign policy in the Middle East, Iran and Venezuela and works together in the pricing field and elsewhere "with the regularity and precision of a fine Swiss watch."

The activities of the group in the international oil field were analyzed in a recent secret report prepared by the Federal Trade Commission staff.

This report has been circulated among government agencies, including the Justice Department, but has been withheld from public and congressional view. President Truman's aide, Charles S. Murphy, said it would not be in the national interest to give it out.

Hennings and Sen. Long (D. La.), members of the Senate subcommittee on monopoly, have been demanding its publication.

Hennings has described the alleged cartel as "an independent world government" backed up by powerful governmental interests behind it.

Long has said he wants to know "the extent to which the operation and price structure of the allegedly international oil monopoly is responsible for the exploitation of the American government and the people on whom, behalf it functions."

The attorney general, in response to a question, said that the theme will be "Where, by What, Where."

The postponed picnic of the Vernon Grange will be held on Sunday, July 27, the time and place announced following tonight's meeting.

and might seek a reconciliation with Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Democratic bloc.)

Nenni came to the Soviet Capital from Berlin, where he attended a meeting of the Communist-backed World Peace Council earlier this month.

His interview with Stalin, which took place yesterday, was revealed in a brief official announcement on the front pages of all Moscow newspapers.

"On July 17, Comrade J. V. Stalin had a talk with deputy chairman of the World Council of Peace; Pietro Nenni," the announcement said.

So far as the foreign colony here knows, Nenni is the only Italian received by Stalin in recent years.

The Soviet premiers' other known foreign contact this year was an interview in April with the Indian ambassador to Moscow, Sir Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan, prior to the latter's quitting his post.

Speculation arose recently in Italy that Nenni might be ready to draw his support of the Communists away from the Reds when, on June 2, he told a political meeting in Milan that his forces would "be with those who intend to consolidate the Democratic Republic institutions." Nenni added that his group's alliance with the Italian Communists does not destroy socialist autonomy but only limits its range.

In Rome today, the Communist newspaper L'Unita indicated that the Stalin-Nenni interview might be used to highlight intensified Red peace propaganda.

Pilot in Coventry Crash Reported on Danger List

South Coventry, July 18—A Glastonbury man who crashed his single-seater Cosmos plane in a hay field here yesterday afternoon about 3:15, was on the danger list and his condition reported as critical by authorities at Windham Community Memorial Hospital today. Gilbert E. Williams, 36 of Great Swamp road, Glastonbury, the hospital authorities said, seemed to be resting more comfortably today, but he suffered internal injuries and cuts about the face and right knee.

Williams said the motor of his plane cut out on him and he tried to land in the field of a fellow Pratt and Whitney employe, Michael Dwoonszyk of Tucker road. After bouncing over the bumpy surface of the field for 250 yards, the plane struck a stone wall and rolled over, coming to rest across the street. He had taken off from Brainard Field just a short time previously.

Saw Plane Crash

Dwoonszyk was working near his home when he saw and heard the plane crash at the far end of the field. He got to his car and went to the scene, reaching Williams from the plane.

Five companies from Coventry and Glastonbury were called and an ambulance was dispatched from the hospital. Gasoline was spilled around the area.

State Policeman Donald Wallace said that Williams had been rushed blood from the Hartford Hospital in Willimantic when it proved and cuts about the face and right knee.

Truce Hopes Rising

Something is stirring again in the Korean truce talks, and perhaps the significant thing is that the stir extends around the world and is not limited to the negotiating scene in Korea.

From Peiping has come the first announcement of tentative acceptance, by Communist China, of the Geneva Convention, which has already informally the guiding code for both sides in Korea. The significance of this may be that it was one of the Geneva rules, hitherto not highlighted, provides that the exchange of prisoners may be entrusted to a neutral third party.

From India comes news that Indian diplomats have been dealing directly with Communist Chinese diplomats in the effort to propose a truce solution. The significance of this may be that India is offering to be the third neutral party who would take charge of the prisoners involved in the Korean negotiations, and that India may be acceptable, in this role, to China. This, if it worked out, would make possible a conclusion of the truce in Korea without direct settlement of the prisoner issue between the United Nations and Communist negotiators.

For several days there has been a high air of expectancy at United Nations headquarters in New York. This atmosphere has now been intensified by Russian delegate Malik's cancellation of his scheduled passage home next Tuesday. It is thought that only the prospect of important developments with regard to Korea could produce such a change in his plans.

We can do no more than hope that all this place smoke hides some reality.

Except for the single issue of prisoner exchange, the terms of negotiations have long ago been mooseafuil. This single issue has been made hard to clear by the particular methods we have taken in advancing good principle, and it may be that the designation of a third party to have final responsibility for handling the problem will provide the opening from a situation in which any other form of compromise would be difficult.

The large things at stake should never be forgotten. This is the first time in history that a collective security police action has been taken in enforcement of a world law against aggression. This police action has, so far, contained military success and performed its mission. It takes a formal peace agreement to weigh it up and establish it as a clear precedent, brought to a successful end. If we get this, the law-abiding nations of the world know exactly what to do if aggression should ever be tried again, and potential aggressors should know exactly what would happen, too. We are close to a world knowledge that there is a law against aggression, and that it can and will be enforced. It takes much more ingenuity and loyalty to an ideal and patience to enforce a law than it does to wage a war, but the hope involved is worth every last human effort.

These "Good Times"

All of us are quite aware that, economically speaking, we are supposed to be living in "good times." That fact is supposed to influence our voting next November. We're supposed to like our full employment, our high wages, and we're even supposed to like the high prices which are part of this kind of prosperity. And most of us—unless we really think about it—probably do like it.

If we ever think about it, we try to locate the real basis for this "prosperity." What is the happy key to it all? Is it our natural economic genius? Is it something we have earned for ourselves, by our ingenuity and our hard work? Has an all-wise government created it for us, and treated it soundly?

None of these questions invites the truth.

The truth was expressed, very clearly, the other day in the Herald Tribune's daily story on the stock market.

This story read as follows:

"Stocks turned dull and moved aimlessly after a slightly higher opening yesterday. Disappointment over failure of a management-union agreement to end the steel strike, and indications from Korea that the Reds may make new truce concessions, caused traders to move with extreme caution."

America, of course, is not Wall Street, and few of us ever actually think of events as coldly and naktly as do professional traders on Wall Street.

But that was the basis of our prosperity, nonetheless — steel mills at full capacity to feed a war. Cool the war which demands the product of our steel mills and none of us really knows what we would have left.

That is the basis of the particular kind of prosperity we have today—blood-letting in Korea, and the prospect of even more bloodletting elsewhere.

Let's not kid ourselves—without this blood ingredient the Wall Street professionals would not know how to calculate optimistically. Without this blood ingredient the wizards of Washington wouldn't know how to keep even for a month, the inflated level of prosperity we have today. With a war, we never fail to be prosperous. Achieving prosperity without a war demands eternal talents, which can make the American economy run safely without artificial shots in the arm. Right now we are on top of a bubble, which is kept inflated by the fact that blood is being spilled and by the prospect that more may be spilled. Let's not forget that the loss of this kind of prosperity, by peace, would be a joyful sacrifice, if we can ever achieve it.

Natural Actions

Some of the leaders of the Taft camp at the Chicago convention are indulging themselves in post mortem alibis, the alibis usually consisting of some "mistakes" made by this leader or that leader. It is charged that Congressman Brown of Ohio made a tactical mistake, Temporary Chairman Hallinan is accused of not having made the right ruling at the right point. Senator Dirksen is accused of having over-played his oratorical hand. And so forth.

Really, all these gentlemen might as well set their memories at rest. The mistakes that were made in the Taft campaign may seem to have been the acts of individuals, made by individual decisions, but actually they were inevitable. They were inherent in the Taft movement. They were the natural product of what these men stood for, and the natural product of their level of political mentality. The surprise would have come if they had not made the mistakes they did make.

They made the mistakes they made because they respected neither the conscience nor the intelligence of the American people. When they began to be proved wrong about this, their only sense of strategy was to pursue their own methods, founded on that lack of respect, even more violently and vigorously. Their inherent method of political argument was the reckless attack. When signs appeared that this method was failing, they merely carried it on toward new extremes.

Their political creed was that they had the votes, that "possession was nine points of the law," that issues which were stirring the country were not moral, but merely parliamentary, and this was the creed emphasized, at crucial and decisive moments, by their own leader in his own comments on developments. Naturally, the only way they could defend this creed when it came under attack was to be even bolder in following it.

They did have one other resort. That was to include a heavy proportion of hymns in their faction's convention music, and to have their fork-tongued chief orator quote more extensively from the Bible than any other convention speaker. The sanctimonious front—and its inevitable failure to convince and seem sincere—was part of their inherent equipment, too.

There is no need for them to indulge in recriminations against each other, or to fall out publicly over the failure of their scheme of operations. If it is any consolation to them, they were all bound to act this way, and bound to lose.

All Settled

At least we don't have to worry any more about which direction General Eisenhower is going to favor, now he's nominated.

According to one famous national commentator, he's going to turn to the right.

According to another famous national commentator, he's going to turn to the left.

And that, we guess, is that.

Ellington

A bond for deed has been filed at the Ellington Town Clerk's office for the sale of the 100 acre farm of William N. Pinney of Pinney street to Louis and Antoinette Gaask, also of Pinney street.

Ancestors of Mr. Pinney purchased the farm from the Indians in 1717 and it has been the home of five generations of Pinneys. Mr. Pinney was a farmer and in his younger days also was in the milk business which he conducted with his farm. A Democrat, Mr. Pinney was very active in politics and was also a member of the Board of Selectmen.

He was one of the founders of the Hartford County Insurance Company, and one of the originators of the Federal Land Banks serving this area and was one of the first to assist in the formation of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association. Mr. Pinney will retain life use of the house, which is of brick and has a chimney on each corner and a fire place in each room.

The storms and hurricanes have not disturbed the old structure, which is in fine condition both inside and out. Mr. Pinney served his home town in the General Assembly in former years. A large hall runs through the middle of the house and this hall was the scene of many square dances when Mr. and Mrs. Pinney were young.

Mrs. Pinney died some few years ago, but Mr. Pinney is in good health.

The Ellington Friendship Class held its annual picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Schlude on Maple street, Wednesday night. A potluck was served to about 40 people at 6:30 p.m. The evening was spent playing games and reminiscing.

Mrs. Herman Borowski of Pinney street, Ellington, will attend the 11th reunion of the 304 Ammunition Ammunition which will be held in New Haven at the Taft Hotel today and tomorrow. A banquet will be served tomorrow night at the hotel. Mr. Borowski was a member of the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Pinney of Maple street are the parents of a son born at the Rockville City Hospital.

Growing Numbers

More than 40,000,000 motor vehicles are registered in the United States each year, as compared with only four registered vehicles in 1895.

ordered Qavam to form a new government.

The selection of the 77-year-old pro-western rightist as the new government chief may ease the way to a settlement of the bitter quarrel with Britain over nationalization of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company properties here.

Qavam has been described as amenable to a settlement, but observers expected no immediate marked change in the nation's oil policy. Nationalization is popular with all classes of Iranians and any sudden retreat from Mossadegh's flat opposition to British proposals would probably set off violent outbreaks by the country's extreme nationalists.

The new premier was picked after Mossadegh suddenly resigned the job in a huff because the Shah refused to let him be war minister also in a new cabinet. The sudden action, sent into eclipse, at least temporarily, the political star of the emotional old Nationalist who kicked British oil interests out of Iran and made his country a thorn in the western flesh.

The Majlis voted 49-0 for Qavam, with three abstentions. Thirty-one pro-Mossadegh deputies boycotted the meeting, however, and claimed the nomination was unconstitutional because a nominal quorum—57 of the 76 deputies (two for elected—was not present.

Anti-Mossadegh deputies contended the constitution sets no rules for the nomination of a premier and only majority approval was necessary.

Qavam was dubbed the "Strong Man of Iran" after he led his country's successful fight in the United Nations against a Russian troops out of Iran's border province of Azerbaijan, and subsequently used Iranian troops to put down a Communist autonomous republic there.

The new premier's major headache now is Iran's near-bankruptcy, one result of oil nationalization.

A large share of the government's revenue formerly came from royalties paid by the British-operated oil company. With the government take-over and the subsequent British boycott of Iranian oil, the income dried up.

It is thought that the Chinese first used natural gas piping it from its springs in bamboo lines.

ed yesterday as having been seen Wednesday morning.

"Beyond that," Avery added, "we have nothing new as to her possible whereabouts."

Made Inquiries

"She was insistent on knowing the way to Lakeville," said Avery, pointing out that Connie was heading in an easterly, not westerly direction. There had been speculation that she might be headed toward Bellerica, N. Y., but Avery said this theory was destroyed when her second request for directions placed her still further to the east.

Avery said that Peter Smith, the girls prosperous rancher father reported flying to Connecticut from Sundance "has not communicated with us as yet."

He added that Mrs. Helen J. Smith, the mother, had returned to the Greenwich home of relatives. Avery said she did not identify Greenwich residence of Mrs. Smith, saying she had asked it not be made public.

Officials Don't Know

Officials of Camp Minnetaska, operated by the Westchester, N. Y., YWCA, off Indian Mountain lake in the western section of the town of Salisbury where Connie was located, were unable to account for Connie's disappearance and to say she had been somewhat homesick.

Police, who have questioned scores of residents in their quest for the girl, said she was believed not to have any money. They added she was wearing a pair of Keds blue shorts and tan shoes when last seen.

Columbia

Fund Supper

Columbia Congregational Church re-decoration fund will be bolstered considerably it is hoped, by the potluck supper tomorrow night, which is being sponsored by the Women's Guild of the church, assisted by the members of the choir and members of the church. Mrs. William C. Robinson II, will head the work, as general chairman.

A committee meeting will be held at her home Tuesday night to make plans. This was one of the items of business taken up at the picnic meeting of the Guild held at Orchard Hill, the home of Miss Jean Natsch, Tuesday night when about 25 members were present. The meeting named Mrs. George Peters as the societies representative on the re-decoration committee.

Mrs. Francis Lyman, Miss Jean Natsch and Mrs. John Koselka were named as a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers to the September meeting for election. The August meeting will be omitted. Mrs. Prescott Hodges, Mrs. Donald Woodward and Mrs. Adam Kowalski were named to audit the books.

The regular committee, Horace E. Little and Saul Blum, will meet in Yeomans Hall, July 30 from 6-9 p. m. for enrollment of electors who will be eligible to vote this year and to make any changes necessary in the voting list.

Many new residents, potential voters, have been inquiring about being made voters here and this is the first step. Mr. Little points out that if an applicant cannot apply in person, he must send with his application, an affadavit sufficient to prove his identity, residence and signature. Indications are that people are extremely anxious to have their ballot this fall, Mr. Little said.

The hostesses served a supper of cold cuts, potato salads, fruits, cake and cold drinks. Miss Tashlik is to be married Aug. 10 to Mortimer S. Weintraub of Willimantic.

Andrew Gough, superintendent of the West Warwick, R. I., sewer department reported bursting thermometers as the sun pushed the mercury up to the 130 degree limit and out of the glass top.

Highest reading in Boston yesterday was a comparative balmy 83.

Hope of a few light showers and possible thunder storms in most sections today was held out by the weather bureau for the drought-threatened farmers.

However, no steady rain was predicted for at least several days as farmers reported their crops rapidly burning up in parched fields.

The drought already has ruined much of New England's hay crop, cut milk production and killed poultry by the thousands in many sections.

Allentze MacDougall, Middlesex county agricultural agent in Massachusetts, reported that one-third of all farmers in that county have not irrigate are suffering severe losses in corn, potatoes and cabbage.

Milk production is reported off 25 per cent in Essex County.

Bristol Mass. County Agent Charles W. Harris Jr., said that the county's sweetcorn, ready for withering, half of the tomatoes are gone and summer squash crop is wiped out.

In Maine, Deputy Agriculture Commissioner L. S. Woodbury said the state is "on the edge of trouble. We can't stand it much longer."

Clement Lyon, director of New Hampshire's market bureau, said that apple orchards are turning brown and farmers are cutting hay to feed their cattle in the barns.

Riley Jones and other state reported low water pressure and forest conservation authorities have alerted the area's residents to the danger of forest fires.

Woodlands in the area have been described by authorities as tinder-dry and firefighters in Maine and Massachusetts have been kept busy the past few days battling brush and forest fires.

Thus far they have been able to keep them under control.

Texas Delegates In Bitter Battle

Averell Harriman of New York, the Mutual Security administrator already have staked out their victory claims here, along with Russell.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, who has deadlined the nomination others are scrambling for, invited all Democratic governors to breakfast with him here Monday in advance of a scheduled welcoming address to the convention.

Stevenson has insisted he is running only for re-election as governor and Arvey's reported switch to Harriman was a blow to the Illinois committeeman's public pronouncements that he has given up hope of getting the governor into the presidential contest.

There remained the possibility, however, that the Barkley report might take the form of a holding action—with an appeal to Stevenson possible if the convention deadlines itself in a week after seven or eight ballots.

One of Kefauver's backers in Wyoming charged last night that an attempt had been made to bribe one of that state's delegates.

Frank Bodron, Casper attorney, said one of Kerr's backers had offered to pay the travel and convention expenses of a delegate. He named neither man in the alleged maneuver.

Kerr, en route to Chicago, denied similar charges in connection with a California delegate. Earlier at Duluth he said delegates who favor him as a first choice, plus those who would give him votes later, number 616—exactly enough to win the nomination.

Harriman, running as an all-out exponent of the "Fair Deal," made no predictions on ballot strength except to say: "The cause I represent will have increasing support." He said he believes it will give him the nomination eventually.

The possibility that the President would disclose his views through the vote of his convention alternate, Thomas J. Gaul of Kansas City, was being discounted. TWO Kansas City and the Missourians may vote under a unit rule for James M. Pender, east, of the Kansas City organization, Gaul, if he probably wouldn't.

Associates said they believe the President will pass along his preference through one of his leaders here but won't get into any fight for his name.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan and Oveta Culp Hobby, the Federal Security administrator, are due tomorrow. Attorney Gen. McGranery and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder will be in Sunday.

Sense and Nonsense

During the war with Great Britain an American officer, who carried a flag over to the British lines, after having dispatched the business of his mission, was invited by the commanding British officer to dine. As usual on such occasions, the wine was circulated, and a British officer being called upon for a toast, gave "Mr. Madison, dead or alive"; which the American drunk without appearing to give it particular notice. When it came to the American's turn to give a toast, he gave, "The Prince Regent, drunk or cobor"—"Sir," said the British officer, bristling up and coloring with anger, "that is an insult."—"No, sir," answered the American very coolly, "it is only a reply to one."

The young husband was pretty tired when he came home, but he livened up when his bride told him of her latest effort.

She—Last night, you remember, I baked my first cake and tonight I made another surprise. I baked you my first pie.

He—Wonderful, (who no doubt will be a real diplomat when he gets around to it) As it is your every first one, let us put it aside where we can always admire it. You know they always put the first one of any great new invention aside so people can always look at it in the future.

He—They tell me Colonel Lively is a scoundrel.

She—The old fool, and at his age, too!

Two bunnies were chased into a hollow log by a pair of hunters. In the darkness of the log, after regaining their breath, they went into a huddle to plan their escape.

"We have one of two courses open to us," said Mr. Rabbit to his sweetheart, "Either we slip out of this log right now and make a run for it, or we stick around until we out-number our enemies."

The prosecuting attorney was having trouble with an evasive witness. Finally he asked him if he was acquainted with any of the members of the jury.

Witness—Yes, sir, with more than half of them!

Lawyer—Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?

Witness—If it comes to that, I am willing to swear I know more than all of them put together.

Ike Changes Mind About Presidency

While few other people noticed, a Legion post honored him for President. Said Eisenhower:

"Baloney! Why can't a simple soldier be left alone to carry out his orders? And I furiously object to the word 'candidate'—I shy and won't."

On June 22, 1948, he told a news conference in Abilene:

"All I want is to be a citizen of the United States and when the War Department turns me out to pasture that's all I want to be. I want nothing else. It is silly to talk about me in politics . . . There's no use my denying that I'd fly to the moon, because no one has suggested it . . . The same goes for politics. I'm a soldier and I'm positive no one thinks of me as a politician."

The general was never more wrong. Less than two months later someone did suggest him for President. Someone very important.

After the Potsdam conference, President Truman told Ike, "General, there is nothing that you may want that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically includes the presidency in 1948." (The statement later was substantiated by Truman.)

Writing in his "Crusade in Europe," Eisenhower said he told Truman, "Mr. President, I don't know who will be your opponent for the presidency, but it will not be I."

"There was no doubt about my sergeantness," the general wrote, and he emphasized the "my."

But two years later, Eisenhower began to waver on the question of duty. On Sept. 17, 1947, he wrote Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, his friend and former chief of staff:

"I do not believe that you or I or anyone else has the right to state, categorically, that he will not perform any duty that his country might demand of him . . ."

In the same letter, published by Kevin McCann in "Man From Abilene," Eisenhower added that he would not consider it a call to duty if nominated by a deadlocked convention as a compromise candidate.

Writes Famous Note

On Jan. 23, 1948, as the Eisenhower boom gathered momentum, came the famous letter in New Hampshire publisher Leonard V. Finder:

". . . It is my conviction that, unless an individual feels some inner compulsion and special qualifications to enter the political arena—which I do not—a refusal to do so involves no violation of the highest standards of devotion to duty.

". . . It is my conviction that the necessary and wise subordination of the military to civil power will be best sustained . . . when military soldiers, in the absence of some obvious and overriding reason, abstain from seeking high political office.

"I say this as one who remains myself completely from the political scene in definite and positive . . . I . . ."

A few days later, the told a friend he felt relieved, felt as though an abscessed tooth had been pulled. Again he was wrong. The surgery wasn't complete.

On July 8, 1948, while some highly placed Democrats were booming him for their nomination, he issued a "final and complete" refusal.

"But several months later at Columbia, he was speaking out on Social Security, capital and labor and other public issues. Skeptical critics thought they heard the noises of a candidate. Ike again referred them to the finder letter.

On Oct. 15, 1950, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York endorsed the general as the GOP candidate in 1952. He said he was grateful but had not changed his mind since 1948.

Change Starts In

But evidently something began to change his mind. Through the winter of 1951-52, he seems to have struggled with the problem of where his duty lay. Now events began moving faster.

March 17, 1951. From his SHAPE headquarters near Paris, Ike denies a published story that Truman had made a deal with him to make the general available for the 1952 nomination.

Nov. 4. Both Eisenhower and Truman deny New York Times story that Truman had again offered to support Ike for the Democratic nomination.

FACTS ON FUSES
General Service 15 Amp. Fuse—Never use larger than a 15 ampere fuse for each general service circuit. 30 ampere fuses are for main line use only.
Heavy Duty Service—For water heaters, ranges and other 220 volt appliances use 60 to 200 ampere cartridge fuses as recommended by your electrical contractor.
Fuses are designed to give out or "blow" when a circuit is overloaded. When a fuse "blows", it warns you of an overload or defective wiring in a circuit. Airmen Hope to Annex State Semi-Pro Title

Betting the 1952 state semi-pro baseball championship will be no easy task tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at Mt. Nebo. A bitter struggle is in store when Hamilton and Pratt & Whitney cross bats in the finals. The arch-rivals have little to be desired when they face one another on the diamond, and there is no reason to expect anything different as they wind up the tournament.

HAMILTON WON the crown two years ago and journeyed to Kansas. The Airmen have made two previous tries and were knocked out of it early. This year Coach Johnny Rose's charges have been the hitting stars of the tourney. They reached the finals with sound trouncings at the hands of St. Cyril's and Electric Boat Diesels of New London.

Both nines are sponsored by the United Aircraft Men's Club. That itself is a challenge to the teams for supremacy. They meet each other several times a year in the Hartford Dusty League and Twilight League. In recent seasons it has been the Props on top. But the shoe is on the other foot this year. P&W is the leader in the Dusty circuit, owning two victories over Hamilton, the only losers on the Props' record. In Twilight League action, they have split in two games.

REVENGE FOR TWO LOSSES to their rivals this week will be sought by the Props. Tuesday night the Airmen all but clinched the Dusty title. Wednesday they handed Hamilton a setback in the local circuit. The Props have not been hitting the ball with the same authority the past two weeks. They hope to shake out of the slump against P&W in the crucial test.

Elliott Takes Ump's Advice, Hits Homers

New York— (NEA) —Bob Elliott gives Lee Ballanfant a big assist for improving his batting.

In a game played in Pittsburgh early this season, Umpire Ballanfant told Elliott he was letting too many good pitches go for strikes.

"Stand closer to the plate and swing at those outside pitches that are going for strikes," the New York outfielder was advised.

Elliott did and hit two home runs the next two games against Cincinnati.

Husband and Wife Rivalry A Feature as 37 Major U. S. Skeet Crowns Are Decided

Dallas, Tex.—(NEA)—The husband-and-wife, a 500-target, 12-gauge event, is only one of 37 major championships being decided in the annual National Skeet Tournament, ending a week's run in Dallas, July 27.

THIS TYPE OF RIVALRY is especially keen in the southwest. The defending champions, Tucson's Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Hecker, will encounter plenty of opposition.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Amburgey of Odessa, Tex., raised the world record to 395 out of 400 winning the Pan-American Open championship here. Dallas' Mr. and Mrs. Fred Alford set a new record of 385 winning Galveston's Oleander Open in the Spring of 1951. The Amburgeys raised the record to 394 in the Texas State shoot on the same fields. The Heckers equalled the mark last Fall. Now the Amburgeys have raised it to within five targets of perfection.

OTHER STRONG PAIRS are Dallas' Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Ragland, Jr., winners of the Great Eastern at Lordship, Conn. and the Southeast Zone Nationals at Spartanburg, S. C.; Los Angeles' Mr. and Mrs. C. Earl Stoner, 1950 National winners; and Clarence and Louise Camp of Ocala, Fla., 49 titlists.

There is almost as keen a rivalry in the parent-and-child championship, won last by the Alfords. George W. Glass, Sr. and Jr., of Midland, Tex., led the world record for 400 targets until George H. Hodges of Jacksonville and his 14-year-old son, George, Jr., came along with 398 in the Southeastern Zone National.

A NEW QUEEN of skeet is likely to be crowned, since Mrs. Hecker, four-time captain of the All-America team and in '50 clean-sweep winner of all five national titles, has done little competitive shooting this year.

Favored to ascend to the throne is the vivacious Cuban beauty and Chicago north shore socialite, Mrs. Carola Mandel. Last season, her second in skeet, Mrs. Mandel came to Dallas to wrest the 20- and 28-gauge championships from Mrs. Hecker.

Among the numerous trophies she has garnered this season are those authentic of New Orleans' Fiesta Open; Louisville's Blue Grass Open; Kansas City's Midland Empire Open; Louisville's Blue Grass Open; Kansas City's Midland Empire Open; Nationals titles and the 410-gauge championship from Mrs. Hecker.

STEPS UP—Mrs. Carola Mandel is favored to ascend the women's skeet throne. (NEA)

Palmer 4-Stroke Canadian Leader

Winnipeg, Man., July 18—(AP)—Johnny Palmer held a four-stroke lead today in the Canadian Open Golf Tournament after setting a competitive record for the St. Charles Golf and Country Club course.

The 34-year-old Badin, N. C., pro shot a dazzling seven-under-par 65 yesterday in the second round of the 72-hole event to give him a score of 131.

Palmer's opening day 66 also broke the course record of 67 set three years ago by Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn.

On Palmer's heels for $3,000 first money in the $15,000 race was another American, Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., with 66-69-135.

In close pursuit with scores of 136 were Roberto De Vicenzo of Venezuela, 69-67; Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., 67-69, and Dutch Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., 68-67.

IN FOURTH PLACE was Fred-dy Haas, Jr., of New Orleans with 68-69—137 while Smiley Quick of Pasadena, Calif., with 68-70—138, and Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., with 68-69—138, were tied for fifth.

After threatening on the opening day, the Canadian slipped that back. The top three, including Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, who shot a hole-in-one yesterday on the par-three 139-yard sixth, shared a score of 139 with six Americans.

Among those at 139 were defending champion Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, 71-68; Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., 72-67; Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., 68-71; Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill., 71-68; Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., the U. S. PGA champion, 71-68, and Ulrich, 70-69.

Playing his hottest golf of this tournament season, Palmer faltered only once in yesterday's round. He took three putts on the 18th green where he missed a two-footer. But the rest of his play was brilliant as he one-putted the 12th and sank a 40-yard chip shot for an eagle three on the 12th.

A field of 132 teed off yesterday. It will be cut to low 100 and ties today and to low 60 and ties for the final turn tomorrow.

Kiner Regaining Home Run Touch

Pittsburgh, July 18—(AP)—Slugging Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates has regained his home run touch. Kiner's 17th round-tripper with a man on base in the ninth inning of yesterday's second game against the Phillies was his fourth homer in the past seven days. Kiner now trails the current leader, Hank Sauer of the Cubs, by six.

RUNS CAME CHEAP as Nassiff's batters rapped out 10 first safeties without a hit. Three walks, a fielder's choice and an error produced the scores. George English walked with the bases loaded in the fourth to force in Mike Kacavitch with the third run after Mike had walked on an error. Yogi Wants to Take Rest, Don't Care Who Knows It

New York, July 18—(AP)—Larry (Yogi) Berra, the World Champion Yankee catcher, sat in the dugout, looked quizzically at the clear, blue skies overhead and muttered:

"No sign of rain, dem it."

The stocky All-Star receiver shuffled back to his seat on the bench and uttered a long, drawn out sigh.

"GEE, I'M EXALTED," he said wearily. "I'm just plain pooped."

Yogi, who is famous for fracturing the English language, meant "exhausted," of course. And he looked it, too. His face appeared drawn and there were lines under his eyes.

"I didn't have no sleep last night," the good-natured strong boy wailed, "maybe three or four hours. I was so tired after working in both games yesterday, I just couldn't sleep. And now I've got to catch another doubleheader.

"How long did those two games take yesterday anyway? Seven hours? It seemed like 24. I never never so hot in my life. I dunno. I keep asking Casey (Stengel) for a rest but he tells me he can't afford it. Casey's matter? He's complained, 'Is Cam mad because I missed a few innings Sunday?'

"What's the matter? Nothing. Even though the Americans were beaten 2-1 when rain halted the game at the end of five innings. Yogi managed a grin.

"Poor Casey," he groaned in mock sympathy. "I don't know which hurts him the more—that we lost or that I didn't catch nine innings."

8,000 Athletes Ready For Olympic Games

Helsinki, July 18—(AP)—Another 24 hours and the greatest sports show on earth—the 15th modern Olympic games—will open on the Kelly green turf of Helsinki's modernistic stadium.

SIXTY-NINE COUNTRIES, a record, and almost 8,000 athletes, another record, will be represented at the colorful ceremonies tomorrow.

A 70th nation may show up, but probably not by tomorrow.

The ticklish question of which China—Communist or Nationalist—can be the China in the games was settled temporarily yesterday. The International Olympic committee voted to let both take part.

Nationalist China then said it did not care to play with the Communists here or anywhere else. The Nationalists promptly cancelled any plans to compete.

Communist China will be eligible for one more attempt. But this team will have to get here by a week tomorrow when the track and field events start.

Present wherabouts of the squad are unknown. Guesses range from the Russian naval base 10 miles southeast of Leningrad, Moscow, Siberia and China.

Today the International Olympic committee delves into East-West politics again. It will discuss East Germany. As far as sports games are concerned the question of whether East and West Germany can't take part here.

EAST GERMANS are here more or less by default. At its meeting last March, the Olympic I.O.C. ordered the Germans to get together and form one squad. The Soviet Germans balked and the West Germans showed up at the Oslo winter games.

The I.O.C. again told the Germans to get together before the summer games but the East Germans weren't in a conciliating mood.

So for the big show here prepared to go on the committees confirmed final arrangements for the 1956 games at Melbourne. Now they will tackle the problem of reducing the staff—Team sports—baseball, soccer, field hockey and water polo—will have to put up a good case to justify their retention.

The 1952 games are so large that preliminary competition has been running in three sports for the past four days. This was necessary to squeeze the 20-sport program into the prescribed period of 16 days.

CANADA, BULGARIA and the Philippines qualified yesterday in the basketball tournament, and Czechoslovakia will qualify today. These will be the winners in the Belgium-China, Greece-Hungary and Egypt-Italy matches. The United States and Russia didn't have to play in the qualifying round. Neither had Argentina, Israel, Chile, Mexico, Finland, France, Czechoslovakia or Uruguay.

Two qualifying rounds were needed to sweat out the regular field hockey tournament started Tuesday. Australia and Belgium were knocked out in field hockey last night. Holland plays Germany and Pakistan plays France in second round matches tonight.

At 70,000 seats, the main Olympic Stadium have been sold for tomorrow's opening. Ticket prices range up to 14 dollars. These seats were reported sold 13 years ago. The stadium was built for the 1940 Olympic games. Then came the war.

Shea Works Hard For Victories

Washington, July 18—(AP)—Eddie Yarnall, veteran Washington ballplayer of the Washington Senators' staff who is a close friend of Shea, has had to work hard for his decisions. His last three victories were all by margins of one run. Shea won his ninth last night by shutting out the Detroit Tigers, 1-0.

Gas Housers Oppose BA's

Twi Loop Rivals Clash Tonight at 6 at Nebo After Two Week Rest

Moriarty Brothers and the BA's resume action after a two week layoff in the Twilight League tonight at Mt. Nebo. It will be the third and final meeting of the teams this year. They are fighting for a playoff berth.

With several make-up games to be played before positions in the playoffs can be decided, no team is out of it as yet, but the Gasmen have played nine games and won only two, both at the expense of league-leading Willimantic Bridges. The BA's have a half dozen games to play. They have won a pair in six starts and trail P&W, holders of third place, by a full game.

COACH TONY BERUBE will be sitting out his suspension when the Maple Streeters take the field tonight. Manager Herb Stevenson will probably run the team from the bench while Jimmy Griffin, nursing a pair of sunburned legs, will be the field general from his third base position.

Either Cal Lyons, Norm Bouchard or Jack Gallagher will toss them for the BA's with Dave Reed of Yale behind the plate. The Gasmen will send Bob Wheeler, more at first, George LaPointe or Bill Reaves at second, Jimmy Fox on short and Griffin at third. Jack Donahue, Freddie Booth and Bob Quinn make up the outfield with Lefty Jadzinsky, Chuck Pease and Dick Gagne in reserve.

TIO TAGGART will be Al Burcevitz starter for Moriarty's and Bernie Alemany is slated to be behind the plate. Sid Rest, Jim Klein, Willie Oleksinski and Mike Swiok form the infield while John Dziadol, Bob Willis and Bob Zimmerman may make up the outfield. John Okanuk, Conrad O'Connor and Bob Fiath will probably see action.

Browns Winless Behind Holcomb

Philadelphia, July 18—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns just can't seem to score runs when Ken Holcombe pitches for them. Since leaving from this White Sox early last month, the veteran hard-luck hurler has appeared on the mound ten times for the Brown, once as a starter and nine times in relief roles, and St. Louis has but all ten games. Holcombe was charged with two of the defeats and his season's record is 0-7.

Easy Way to Learn Golf Rules
By The National Golf Foundation

If your ball has entered the pond, and you know or are sure that it is in the water, you may play it as it lies, or you may take a penalty of one stroke and drop another ball behind the water hazard, and continue play from there, or, if he has so stated, you may concede your opponent the hole.

If there is no water anywhere on the course, and your ball is lost, you must take a penalty of one stroke and play a ball from where your last shot was played. If your opponent has hit a ball from within hazard, you must take a penalty of two strokes.

But, if in another place, you find a golf ball within sight, you must take a penalty of two strokes.

Miller's Ring Experience Makes Him a Top Referee

By FRANK EUS
AP Newsdeatures Sports Editor

New York—When Ray Miller is the third man in the ring you hardly notice him. Yet, he rates as a top-ranking lightweight boxing is the answer. It's as simple as that.

"As soon as a fight starts you will see one of the two fighters take the lead," says the Chicago native who now resides in Plainfield, N. Y. "The idea is to work behind the man who is the boss. It's easier for ringside and television

Youth Parades At West Rec

Various Prizes Awarded For Best Dolls, Bikes, Carriages; Winners

One hundred and fifty playground children gathered at the West Side Rec last night and paraded their dolls and decorated carriages and bicycle before the judges to win a variety of prizes. Most children were the winners of events staged on the various playgrounds during the week of wheel and doll shows. Richard Day was the marshal of the parade and the judges awarded the prizes to the following:

Prettiest doll, Linda Moore; biggest doll, Patty Dickson; smallest doll, Valerie Ford; most unusual doll, Cheryl Gibson; best decorated bike, Shirley Rabagliosi; best decorated carriage, Judy Sommers; most colors in decorated bike, Clifford Lautenbach and the smallest bike, Kenneth Reynolds.

Following the awarding of the prizes popsicles were given to all contestants by the Recreation department. More than 75 spectators and parents gathered to see the event. Judges were Marylin Wupperfield, Jane Burr, Ann Marie Hanson, Catherine Hayes, William Englston, Ray Blanco and Charles Pepiniello. Next week's events on the playgrounds will be tournament week.

Court Cases

Four cases were disposed of in Town Court this morning, Judge John B. G. Rottner presided and Prosecutor John J. O'Connor prepented the cases.

Russell T. Corcoran, 24, of 8 Foxcroft drive, arrested yesterday by Patrolman Joseph Sardella on a speeding charge, was fined $36.

Raymond J. Menard, 18, of 1942 Main street, Hartford, arrested Wednesday by Lt. Raymond F. Griffin on a speeding charge, was fined $15.

Harold Friedman, 41, of 2300 Park East, Bronx, N. Y., arrested and charged with peddling goods without a license, forfeited a $30 bond.

William E. LaPaine, 40, no certain address, was convicted on a vagrancy charge and sentenced to 15 days in jail.

Receiving Stolen Goods Charge Is Nolled by Court

The case of Gerhardt E. Schoenewolff, 34, of 64 Wethersfield street, charged with receiving stolen property in connection with his purchase of a tape recorder stolen from the Coburn and Middlebrook brokerage office last March, was nolled in Town Court this morning by Judge John B. G. Rottner on recommendation of Prosecutor John J. O'Connor who told the court there was no proof Schoenewolff knew the recorder was stolen when he bought it.

O'Connor told the court there must be actual proof, according to Supreme Court interpretation, Knowledge that the item was being offered for a price far below its value has been held insufficient for a conviction.

In a signed statement to police, Schoenewolff stated he agreed to pay $10 for the instrument to a chance acquaintance he met in a local grill.

Police are searching for the man on the basis of a description taken by Schoenewolff. The suspect is believed to have left the state.

Southern Senators Face Fight From Benton on Filibustering

UN Renews 'Old Baldy' Hill Attack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tank supported United Nations infantrymen fought through furious artillery fire today in a renewed drive to dislodge the Communists from the northwest slope of "Old Baldy," in western Korea.

Late frontline reports said the crest of the hill was a no-man's land. The Chinese were resisting fiercely.

The dawn attack opened a third day of bitter, rain-drenched fighting for the hill west of Chorwon.

Foes on Shelfs

From positions on "Old Baldy's" northwest slope, the Reds Friday poured an average of seven shells a minute at Allied positions—one of the heaviest Communist artillery pounding of the war.

Frontline officers said UN soldiers ran into fire almost as heavy Saturday when they attacked from the hill's southeast slope.

The battle has been raging since 10 p. m. Thursday, when the Chinese opened up with a screening artillery barrage and Red infantrymen assaulted the height under cover of Red tank fire.

Both Allied and Communist big guns have been firing every since.

By 6 p.m. yesterday, the Reds had unleashed 10,031 artillery and mortar shells.

Win Hill Post

The Chinese won their hold on the northwest slope Friday after repeated attacks. "Old Baldy" was rested from the Chinese last month.

Action elsewhere along the front was light. Weather hampered Allied air attacks.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported bad weather cut the Allied air effort all week and losses to Red guns fell off in proportion. Two Sabre jets were shot down in aerial dogfights and two fighter bombers were lost to Red ground fire. In the dogfights, Allied Sabre jets downed two Communist fighters.

On the truce phase of active Korean armistice negotiators met in their 12th straight off-the-record session today but there was no indication progress was being made in settling the truce blocking issue of prisoner exchange. Another secret session was set for 11 a. m. tomorrow.

However, newsmen got the impression that Communist negotiator Vice Adm. Pak Hak Sun was willing to make an attempt to settle the issue.

Lie Is Charged By Auto Union In Waterbury

Waterbury, July 19—(AP)—When the president of the Plume and Atwood Company told striking employes in a letter that the company had offered them a new 11-cents-an-hour raise, he uttered a "deliberate lie," a union official charges.

The approximately 500 Plume and Atwood employes who have been on strike from the brass fabricating plant since June 2 got lots of mail yesterday—first a letter from President Thomas I. S. Boak, and then one from Thomas J. Cooke, international Representative of the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

Boak's letter, informing the strikers the plant would stay closed "until enough of you indicate you want to work," said among other things that the company made the 11 cents offer at a negotiating session July 15.

"Deliberate lie," said Cooke, asserting he was at the negotiating session and that Boak wasn't.

"The company made no offer of 11 cents an hour, or any other increase," Cooke wrote.

He further asserted that an 11 cent offer wouldn't end the strike, and that the union would hold out for a contract comparable to that given employes of the Mattatuck Manufacturing Company.

He said it provided an 11 cent raise retroactive to October, an additional annual vacation of four cents, a cost-of-living escalator clause, a "generous pension plan" and a modified union shop.

East Germans Set Anti-Church Drive

Berlin, July 19—(AP)—East Germany, following the lead of other Soviet satellites, proposed today to be embarked on a menacing drive against the church.

The communist-controlled press assailed what it called "unhygienic and unworthy conduct" in vacation camps conducted by church officials, both Protestant and Catholic.

The press proposed that police check the camps for violations of government regulations before they are permitted to operate. West Germans immediately viewed the idea as an opening wedge to

President Gets Angry Over GOP

Washington, July 19—(AP)—President Truman, fighting mad at GOP Congressmen, packed up his bags and left the hospital today.

His angry mood was undersecored by a promise to tell the voters how the Republicans danced when a well-heeled lobbyist pipes a tune.

Truman signed last night a bill increasing Social Security benefits by 546 million dollars a year. But he declared misgivings by the American Medical Association's lobby had inspired "insurance protection for millions of disabled Americans."

And he insisted "this victory for the lobby, at the people's expense, was accomplished by a great majority of Republicans in the House."

Fever Is Ended

After two straight days without fever—the apparent victor in a bout with a virus infection which forced him to cancel all engagements this week—Truman returns to the White House this morning, two days before the opening of the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

He entered the plush presidential suite at Walter Reed Army Hospital Wednesday for a complete checkup, his first hospitalization after more than seven years of the grueling strain of the presidency.

While secrecy enveloped Truman's choice of a Democratic presidential nominee, he made no secret of the kind of campaign he wants leveled at the Republicans in a strong statement accompanying the signing of the Social Security legislation.

The bill, one of 224 the President acted upon while away

Grave Reports On Eva Peron Are Revealed

Buenos Aires, July 19—(AP)—The condition of Eva Peron, critically ill wife of President Juan D. Peron, today appeared grave.

A crowd gathered in front the presidential press office said Mrs. Peron was suffering from a relapse after a serious turn for the worse yesterday. The early morning bulletin said she was "resting quietly" at 3 a. m. (1:30 EST).

But Argentine government officials appeared downcast and gloomy. Peron, himself, stuck by the bedside of his wife, who fought beside him through the battles of his six presidential years.

Groups of anxious Argentines formed outside the iron fence surrounding the Presidential Palace in the Palermo residential section of the city this morning. They were kept moving by squads of reinforced police.

The diagnosis of Mrs. Peron's illness has been been officially disclosed. She underwent a major operation last November after an examination by a New York cancer

Sought After

President Philip Murray of the CIO pulls on his cigarette lighter as he talks with other labor leaders in Chicago. Numerous labor chiefs reached the city yesterday to call casting a vote in the convention's choice of a Democratic presidential candidate.

Stevenson's 'No' Boosts Other Stock

Chicago, July 19— (AP) — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's veto on new efforts to get him into the race projected two senators and Vice President Barkley into top contention today for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson—most reluctant presidential possibility since James A. Garfield declared in 1880 that he wasn't going to be seized by the presidential fever which later overtook him—smacked down new attempts to make him an active candidate.

But as he has done before, the governor quickly nullified the effects of his wall of resistance against a presidential fever which later he said was that he would meet that problem if it arose, believing that it never would.

These and other declarations moved Stevenson into the background and gave impetus to the active drives being put on by Barkley, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

Veep Stronger

Barkley was emerging from advance maneuvering before the convention Monday as at least a temporary refuge for some delegates who want Stevenson but almost despair of getting him.

The vice president is regarded acceptable to all elements of the party, including rebellious anti-Truman contingents from the South, northern advocates of a strong civil rights platform and labor leaders who want to place a dominant role in selection of the nominee to oppose the GOP's Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But Barkley is 74, six years

Olympic Contests Open In Splendor at Helsinki

Helsinki, July 19—(AP)—The gigantic 15th Olympic games opened today before an enthusiastic crowd of 70,000 with Soviet Russia taking part for the first time.

Seventy nations paraded 5,819 athletes and 2,000 officials in a fantastic splash of color around the red brick running track and onto the emerald green turf of Helsinki's modernistic stadium.

The games were proclaimed open by Juho K. Paasikivi, president of the Finnish Republic, and the Olympic touch atop the stadium's slender 240 foot tower burst into flames—kindled by fire relayed across Europe from sacred Mount Olympus in Greece.

Stage Is Set

Thus the stage was set for a dramatic sports rivalry between Russia and the United States, which up to now has dominated the games since their founding at Athens in 1896.

The two great powers have the biggest teams—334 American athletes and nearly 400 Russian. Each drew heavily in the 17 Olympic sports, except for field hockey.

The parade of athletes around the running track to take up positions in solid masses of color behind their flags, was accompanied by cheers from the crowd, some of which prid as high as 10,000 finnmarks ($28) on the black market.

Norman C. Armitage, veteran New York fencer, carried the American flag.

The parade followed the alphabetical order in Finnish, except that Greece, as always, came first, and Finland last as the host team. This brought the Netherlands Antilles next after Greece followed by Argentina, Russia—which is Neivvostliitto in Finnish was midway in the parade, and the United States—Yhdysvallat—at the very end, just ahead of Finland.

Fellow Protocol

The ceremony followed the rigid Olympic protocol established by Pasatkivi spoke the simple words, "I declare the Olympic games games at Helsinki open," and Jaakko Tuomi, Finnish champion pigeons circled up as artillery outside the stadium boomed a 21-gun salute.

Next the torch was lit, following which massed choirs sang the Olympic hymn composed for the occasion by Jaakko Linjama. Archbishop Limari Salomies pronounced the benediction, and

Newest VP Candidates Are Women

Chicago, July 19—(AP) —A former policewoman is vying with an expressswoman for the honor of being nominated "Veep" this year in Democratic ticket. The two would be "Madame Veeps" are India Edwards of Maryland and Judge Sarah Hughes of Texas.

Both are experienced politicians —and so the bobby pins may fly.

Mrs. Hughes who worked her way through George Washington University with a job on the Washington, D. C., police force, is a former member of the Texas State Legislature and judge of the 14th District Court of Texas since 1935.

Mrs. Edwards was on the staff of the Chicago Tribune for 22 years as reporter, society editor and woman's page editor. Her byline as India Moffett was well-known throughout the midwest. Since her second marriage to a

Labor Wants To Say More About Politics

Chicago, July 19—(AP)—Labor union leaders feel they will have a lot to say about the Democratic nominee and platform but the facts seem to be against any "clear it with Sidney" situation like the party's 1944 convention.

The late Sidney Hillman, chief CIO political strategist in 1944, was credited with being that convention's boy wheelhorse. He was said, and also denied, that the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt instructed politicos to "clear it with Sidney" on convention strategy.

Both AFL and CIO leaders hope to team together this year and steer through next week's Democratic convention a pair of candidates for President and Vice President and a platform friendly to the aims of labor unions.

But there is a potent force, the organized labor contingent realizes, there will be plenty of other people trying to sit in the driver's seat.

Tehran Is Rocked By Violent Riots

Tehran, Iran, July 19—(AP)—Violent riots erupted in Tehran today as supporters of ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh demonstrated against the appointment of new Premier Ahmed Qavam.

First fragmentary reports said at least seven persons were bayonetted in fights. Mobs shouting "death to the traitor Qavam" roamed the streets.

Officials of the newspaper Ettelaat, which opposed Mossadegh reported an estimated 300 demonstrators stormed the building and attempted to set it on fire.

45 Are Rescued In Freighter Fire

New York, July 19—(AP)—A flaming freighter spewed 49 persons overboard without life rafts 65 miles at sea last night, but 45 were plucked from the rolling Atlantic in a dramatic pre-dawn rescue.

The steel freighter Black Gull, sent its passengers diving overboard after its volatile cargo of naphthalene caught fire and burned fiercely through the vessel.

Two crewmen died in the blaze. The passengers drifted through rough seas for hours before two ocean liners and Coast Guard planes saved most of them from certain death.

Four still were missing.

Survivors Are Sighted

Searching through the gloom of the dark Atlantic, the rescuers sighted survivors by the dozens glare of the burning ship and by the bright flares dropped from planes flooring overhead.

Swiftly they were taken aboard the liner Gripsholm, a one-time hospital ship during World War II.

They were treated by the Gripsholm's doctor and then moved to a Coast Guard cutter, the Mackinac, which raced to the scene of the disaster from its nearby patrol in Long Island Sound.

Meantime, the 5,000-ton Black Gull burned on, shooting flames far into the skies.

She was carrying 500 tons of naphthalene from Bremen to New York, stored in metal drums.

Naphthalene is used in making dyes and explosives.

The ship had radioed the Coast Guard here at 11:22 p. m. (d.s.t.) Saturday night that it was in trouble.

Thirty-six minutes later it said

Rule Revision Is Demanded

Chicago, July 19—(AP)—Sen. William Benton of Connecticut moved today to wrest from southern senators the filibuster weapon they have used to kill federal civil rights bills.

He demanded that Democratic platform drafters call upon the Senate to revise its rules so a filibuster can be ended.

Assailing the Republicans, he said in a statement distributed in advance to newsmen:

"In their civil rights plank of two weeks ago, the Republicans pay the same old lip service to the ideals of equality under law but conspicuously ignore the cause of the filibuster indentured with their aid in the Winery rule."

Simple Majority

Under this Senate rule, named for the late Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, it takes a vote of 64 of the 96 senators to end "a talkathon."

Benton proposed "a Senate rule which makes it possible to put an end to a filibuster by a simple majority vote of those present and voting after 15 days of debate, and by two-thirds majority vote of those present and voting after four days of debate."

Turning to another subject, Benton called for a plank urging the expulsion from Congress of members who violate "American concepts" of ethics. Benton has been engaged in a running fight with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) over the methods used by the latter.

But it was Benton's anti-filibuster proposal which caught most attention in a city preparing for a knock-down drag-out fight over the civil rights plank.

Democratic leaders were trying to avoid such a fight, which might split the party.

Backs Humphrey

Many of them confided it was touch and go at the moment whether they would back veteran Massachusetts chairman of the platform committee, Sen. Lehman's solution.

If harmony moves fail, Dixie Democrats who bitterly oppose federal intervention in the field of racial relations must decide whether to surrender or battle it out on the convention floor.

Northern Democrats, led by such men as Senators Humphrey of Minnesota and Lehman of New York, claim enough pledged votes to write a tough civil rights plank.

They are opposed by Dixie Democrats who accept it or take a walk as they did four years ago at the Philadelphia convention after a searing floor battle.

McCormick, House majority leader and seasoned by many similar scraps there, told reporters: "I am hopeful that the civil rights platform reported to the floor of the convention by the committee will be approved. Common sense would call for unity."

Public Hearings

Meanwhile McCormick and his committeemen pushed ahead with public hearings on other phases of the party platform at 11 a. m. e.d.t. today. They listed more than 40 witnesses for testimony on almost as many different subjects.

McCormick said his committee need not reach its decisions until next Monday or Tuesday, ahead of the Wednesday deadline for presenting the new platform to the convention.

Humphrey, who led the successful

Democrats From State To Entrain

Hartford, July 19—(AP)—Connecticut's Democratic national convention contingent —22 delegates with a total of 16 votes—takes off today for Chicago bent on voting for Senator Brien McMahon and, so far as anybody will say, nobody else.

Though he figures hardly at all in nationwide speculation about who will put the presidential nomination, McMahon is sure of Connecticut's votes until he releases them. That was taken care of at the state convention last month.

All A Mystery

Where they will go when and if he releases them, none of the delegates would say. They contributed they didn't know.

Chairman John M. Bailey, lately known, and it may well be that he will be, as "the man who gave Bailey has been in Chicago setting up "McMahon for President" headquarters. He is expected to call a caucus of the delegation soon after it arrives in Chicago tomorrow. A second choice for the Government Is Striving To End Steel Walkouts

Washington, July 19—(AP)—Government officials striving for an end to the crippling 47-day steel strike studied a new seizure plan today but retained hope they would not have to use it.

Murray Is Backed

Philip Murray, CIO and Steelworkers president, was reported solidly backed by his lieutenants in his refusal to compromise further on the demand for a union shop—a form of compulsory unionism.

One union source said the wage-policy committee night ask Murray to retreat some of the ground he has given on through compromise and take a new position even farther away from the industry's stand.

The steel industry appeared to be just as firm. In Chicago, Clarence B. Randall, president of the Inland Steel Company and a leading spokesman for the industry, said "strong public opinion" is urging his company "to stand fast and not sign a contract that will prevent a non-union man from working."

The possible seizure of a portion of the idle mills under the Selective Service act was reportedly taken under active consideration after a White House conference Thursday between Defense Secretary Lovett, defense mobilizer, and government production and defense officials.

Seizure on April 8

President Truman ordered the industry on April 8 under his claimed inherent constitutional powers. Two months later, on June 2, the Supreme Court in a 6 to 3 opinion held the seizure unconstitutional and ordered the mills returned to private ownership.

A great deal of groundwork would be necessary if the government did decide to attempt seizure of a small part of the industry under the 1948 Selective Service act. The Defense Department would have to place direct orders with individual mills for the supplies needed for the emergency.

Some of these were not filled within a specified time, the President could seize the mills.

The seizure provision of the Selective Service act was not designed to deal with deadlocked labor disputes. Nor did the government consider it a practical solution at the time of the first seizure.

But the shortage of defense steel is becoming so acute the government may feel compelled to use

Confessed Girl-Slayer Is Charged

New York, July 18—(AP)—A fanatic who claims the key to mankind's greatest secret — eternal life — appears in court today, accused of one of mankind's greatest crimes — murder. Sayard F. Peakes, 29-year-old pseudo-scientist, is to be arraigned in felony court, charged with killing pretty Eileen Fahey—a slaying he admitted in a fantastic confession.

New York, July 18— (AP) — Sayard Peakes, confessed slayer of a girl he had never met was sent to Bellevue Hospital for mental examination when he was arraigned today.

The pseudo scientist objected to the court appointing a lawyer to defend him, saying:

"I don't want this guy. I'm not nuts."

He said he killed the 18-year-old blonde stenographer for the American Physical Society because the scientific body had rejected theories on how to live forever.

"Didn't Know Girl"

He didn't even know her. He had marked eight others for death but he saw her first.

"I was going to shoot anybody," police quoted him.

Why, police asked.

"It was my book," Peakes whined.

"They wouldn't look at my book. They wouldn't even look at it."

The book was his 12,000-word thesis, "How To Live Forever." He had printed 7,000 copies of it with $1,000 he saved. But, no organization would publish it.

He brooded over its rejection by the society, and made up his mind. He headed for New York from his Boston rooming house.

Monday, eight pistol shots ranout in a quiet Columbia University, which houses offices of the society, an organization interested in physics and electronics research and papers.

Miss Fahey lay dead, killed at her desk as she sat reading letters from her boy friend in Korea.

Caught In Boston

Peakes was arrested in Boston early yesterday and, grinning happily, confessed.

Alarm Grows As Steel Strike Snags Industry

Washington, July 18— (AP) — Growing alarm over a threat that the creeping effects of the steel shortage on other industries indicated today that increasing pressure was being exerted for a quick end to the seven-weeks-old steel strike.

Washington, July 18— (AP) — The White House was reported today to be quietly considering a plan to seize part of the strikebound steel industry under the Selective Service act.

Meanwhile, rumors that a secret settlement had been reached between the CIO United Steelworkers and the mill operators remained officially undenied and unconfirmed.

Truman Is Better; Fever Goes Down

Washington, July 18 — (AP) — President Truman's doctor gave him the last of a series of medical tests today while Democratic politicians waited impatiently for his dismissal from the hospital. After nearly a week's bout with a virus infection, the President's temperature had returned to normal, but Democratic presidential aspirants could not boast as much with the Chicago national convention opening Monday.

Truman expects to return to the White House tomorrow, but there is no indication that he plans to make known his choice of a successor in advance of the balloting. Such a move on his part could be the deciding factor in selection of the Democratic nominee.

Most of the people around Truman profess to be in the dark. Even cabinet members are button-holing reporters asking them, "What is the boss going to do?"

And Truman's own alternate to the Democratic convention, Ireman who will cast his vote, has been unable to see the President during a trip to Washington this week.

Toni J. Gavin of Kansas City apparently was en route home without getting an audience with the President because of Truman's illness and his subsequent trip to the Army's Walter Reed Hospital for a complete checkup.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told reporters that "to the best of my knowledge" Gavin did not talk with the President and that he knew Gavin did not see Truman personally.

Red-Allied Truce Talks Still Termed Stalemate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Korean truce negotiators resumed off-the-record talks today with no sign of a break in the deadlock over prisoner exchange. Swiltering United Nations and Communist delegates met 41 minutes in the parleys tent at Panmunjom. The meeting ended a four-day recess asked by the Reds. They agreed on another session for tomorrow.

Today's was the 11th meeting since the Communist-requested news blackout which began July 8. The Reds' request for secrecy and for recess started speculation that the Communists were consulting higher authority on possible concessions in the prisoner issue—final obstacle to an armistice.

Nuckols Is Silent

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, the Allied spokesman, would not say whether the Reds were ready to accept UN refusal to force unwilling prisoners to rejoin Communism.

He declined comment also on announcements from the U. S. that Jacob Malik, Russia's UN delegate, cancelled plans to sail for home, and that India has initiated discussions with Red China aimed at ending the war.

The Malik announcement touched off speculation that a break may be near at Panmunjom.

Informed by reporters of the India-China talks in Peiping, Nuckols declined comment.

"The UN delegation is engaged in fully attempting to negotiate a military armistice with the enemy representatives at Panmunjom," he said. He commended negotiation quite properly would not have knowledge of any conversations that might take place anywhere in Korea but the conference tent."

Planes Join In Search For Girl, 10

Lakeville, July 18— (AP) — Searchers took to the air today in an effort to solve the mysterious disappearance of a 10-year-old Sundance, Wyo., girl from Camp Sloane here two days ago.

State Police Lieut. Osmun Avery said a Connecticut State Police plane, piloted by trooper Robert Harrison and with trooper Richard Chapman as observer was in the air over the search area at 10 a. m.

Air-Sea Planes

This plane, he said, was to be joined by air-sea rescue planes from Westover Field, Mass., and planes from the Connecticut Wing of the Civil Air Patrol later in the day.

Meanwhile, he said, a second ground search goes on for little Connie Smith, granddaughter of former Gov. and Mrs. Nels H. Smith of Sundance, Wyo.

Avery said today that "one new clue" placed the missing girl about half a mile farther east along U. S. Route 44 where she was reported

Monopoly Is Charged: U. S. Will Probe Oil Cartel of 7 Firms

Washington, July 18—(AP)—The government today prepared a brass-knuckles investigation of the seven big oil companies accused by several congressmen of the vital industry.

Both criminal and civil proceedings against five American and two foreign oil companies are being worked up by the Justice department under anti-trust laws forbidding monopolistic practices, price fixing, and restraint of trade.

Attorney General James P. McGranery told a news conference yesterday that a federal grand jury, sitting here, will shortly start probing into activities of what he called "the international oil cartel."

At the same time, McGranery said his department will institute a civil anti-trust suit against the seven companies in the District of Columbia federal court.

Seven Firms Cited

The criminal proceedings are designed to punish past offenses. The civil proceedings are designed to prevent any repetition of the same offenses in the future.

McGranery named these firms as involved in the probe: Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, Texas Oil Company, Socony - Vacuum, Gulf Oil—all U. S. owned—and two foreign firms dominated by the British Royal Dutch Shell and Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

A spokesman for Standard Oil of California said at San Francisco last night "our record is clear and that the international operations of its affiliated companies had been "carried on to the best interests of the United States."

There was no immediate comment from any of the other oil companies, either in this country or in London.

However, last week Eugene Holman, president of Standard of New Jersey, said his company was not "guilty" of illegal practices of any kind.

Denies Charges

"This company is not a party to any cartel arrangements any kind, including those which would fix prices, allocate markets, cut production or restrict production anywhere in the world," Holman said. The points Holman mentioned are among those covered by the 6-year-old Sherman-Clayton anti-trust law which bans monopolistic practices and collusive agreements to fix prices or restrain trade between states or between the U. S. and foreign countries.

Texas Delegations Bitter As Seating Battle Starts

150 Area Delegates Plan Trip

Boston, July 18—(AP)—The six-state New England area is sending 150 delegates to next week's Democratic national convention in Chicago.

They have a total of 86 convention votes divided among them.

The 72 Massachusetts delegates have a half vote each—including the convention keynote speaker, Gov. Paul A. Dever.

The other five New England states are sending congressional district delegates armed with a full vote each, while their delegates at large have only a half vote apiece.

Straight Is Going

One of the Rhode Island delegates at large, with only a half vote, is J. Howard McGrath, former attorney general of the United States.

Four years ago it was McGrath who opened the Democratic convention at Philadelphia, as national chairman of his party. He has been governor of Rhode Island and one of its United States Senators, and also has been solicitor general of the United States.

Gov. Dennis J. Roberts of Rhode Island is chairman of his state's delegation.

With Massachusetts Governor Dever as keynote speaker of the convention, the Bay State delegation is headed by U. S. Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, a former governor of Massachusetts.

Another former governor in the delegation is James M. Curley, Massachusetts national committeeman.

Favorite Son

The Massachusetts delegation voted at a pre-convention meeting several weeks ago to vote unanimously for Gov. Dever as a "favorite son" candidate for President, at least through the first ballot.

They voted that on the suggestion of the governor that the Bay State delegation "adopt a position of strict impartiality" because of his assignment to deliver the keynote speech to the convention.

Gov. Dever is to go to Chicago separately—he has been away from his state house office for the last ten days working with two of his chief secretaries, J.

Army Readies Court Martial For Gen. Grow

Washington, July 18—(AP)—The Army is expected to announce shortly the date for its court martial of Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow on charges he mentioned military secrets in a dairy which was copied by a Soviet spy.

In a bout six weeks ago that the Army notified the former military attache at the American embassy in Moscow that he must stand trial, and almost three months since he was informed of the specific charges against him.

An Army spokesman, in answer to a question today, said the delay was "to permit General Grow and his counsel to thoroughly prepare his case."

An Army announcement on June 5 said Grow would be tried at Fort George G. Meade, Md.

On April 28, it said that as a result of an investigation charges had been preferred against Grow that he: 1) Improperly recorded classified military information in private records, and (2) Failed properly to safeguard classified military information.

The first charge was based on the alleged disclosure in a Com-

Woman Vice President Campaign Gets Started

Chicago, July 18—(AP)—For the first time in the history of a major political party, formal campaign headquarters—complete with American flag, portraits, badges, workers and a water cooler—were open today for a woman candidate for Vice President. 52 Convention Votes at Stake

Chicago, July 18—(AP)—Bitterly contesting delegations from Texas began their fight to be seated at the Democratic national convention today by trading charges of "bolting" and "slanderers." At stake are 52 convention votes. And at issue is whether Texas will cast its lot with the eventual nominee at the convention or keep itself in position to support an "anti-fair deal" candidate.

Defending his claim to head the Lone Star State's delegation as the choice of the "regular" party in Texas, Gov. Allan Shivers said the contesting faction "got beat by about 95 per cent of the voters."

Personal Abuse

Shivers said the party "loyalists" led by former New Deal Rep. Maury Maverick, therefore had based its campaign "upon personal abuse, slander and vilification."

Maverick had opened the ball for the "loyalists" by branding the Shivers faction a bunch of "Republicans, Dixiecrats, bolters."

Television and other cameras were trained on the scene before a credentials subcommittee of the Democratic national committee as it got down belatedly to the business of deciding two radical delegate contests.

Spokesman for the anti-New Dealers "regular" faction led by Shivers, were to have their say later.

The contest—and another involving Mississippi's 15 convention votes—grew out of the refusal of the regular Democratic in both states to pledge their loyalty to the Democratic nominee, whoever he might be. Their fear was that the convention might pick up a Fair Deal nominee they might be down the line for President Truman's civil rights program.

Meanwhile Vice President Alben W. Barkley pulled a stride forward today in his race for the Democratic presidential nomination with reports he will get some first place ballot support from Illinois.

Ready For Flier

While all candidates jockeyed for position in advance of the opening of the 1952 Democratic nominating convention Monday there were signs that Jacob Arvey, Illinois national committeeman, is ready to take a political flier on the 74-year-old Vice President.

These developments came during a temporary lull in the seething pre-convention battle over civil rights that might explode in a floor fight.

No last searching talk by some southern delegations over the action of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia in denouncing the Taft-Hartley act.

Russell added to the controversy by saying in a televised news conference last night that he sees no reason why he couldn't support President Truman for re-election—in the unlikely event Truman runs.

It was Rhode Island's seventh day of above-90 temperature. The rest of New England basked in pleasant, mid-80 temperatures.

The Eisenhower Story: Tremendous Pressure Reverses Ike's Ideas

Editor's note: In the fifth and concluding chapter of the Eisenhower story, AP Newsfeature writer Saul Pett traces the pressures behind the reluctant decision of a popular military hero to run for a full-fledged political candidate.)

By SAUL PETT

By what mental process does a decision to be ought to be President of the United States?

Does he start simply by wanting the job because it is the biggest, the most important and carries the most prestige of any in the world?

Does he then unconsciously change the word "want" to "ought" by rationalizing personal ambition into a sense of duty?

Or does he begin planning for the White House purely out of a sense of duty, as a patriotic response to the demands of many that he accept the nomination?

In the case of Dwight D. Eisenhower, his admirers are certain it was duty alone which finally, after years of soul-searching, made him available for the Republican nomination.

Had Enough Glory

He had more than enough glory for one man after liberating Europe, his admirers say. He did not need to seek the presidential nomination, they add; it sought him.

Responding to his first presidential boomlet in 1943, Ike said "balony." But nine years later he was a candidate. Why? What changed his mind?

Eisenhower critics may say he was merely being coy, waiting for the right time. But Eisenhower supporters answer that he had to wrestle through two conventions. One was that no military man, except in very special conditions, should serve in the White House. The other was that he should refuse any call to service.

He's friends also point to his action in 1948 to prove the sincerity of his reluctance. In that year, some said, he might have had the nomination of either party or both.

But both friends and critics must agree that the man from Abilene went through a fascinating—exhaustive, even generous—approved candidate.

In April, 1948, speaking of one phase of his job in Europe, Ike wrote a friend: "Once this war is over, I hope never again to hear the word 'politics.'"

In September, 1948, the word took on a different meaning.

July, told a long story to officers which included the following:

"I walked by the American Physical Society and walked in. There was a pile looking girl sitting at the desk.

"I asked her have they dropped the electronic theory? She said she didn't know anything about it.

"Before she said anything else I fired at her."

Peake said "She just lay there for five minutes before she died.

"It was awful."

Then, gun in hand, he left the office and unknowingly came face to face with one of the eight persons he had marked for death.

"I just killed a girl," Peakes said. "Call the police."

Then he fled.

The man he left astonished in the corridor was Professor Thomas Greene, whose name he had copied from a Columbia catalogue along with those of seven other professors.

"I didn't run into any of the professors, so I shot the girl," Peakes was quoted later.

Actually, police said, he planned to blow up the university with an electronic bomb but "time ran out" before he could build such an explosive.

Assistant—District Attorney Carl Grebow said, Peakes also planned to attract attention to his theory by killing a newspaper editor and "some newspaper officials."

Peakes became a suspect and was traced through his angry correspondence with the society. Police trailed him to Boston and also learned he had been discharged from the Air Force as a mental case suffering from dementia praecox.

Meanwhile, Miss Fahey's first and only boy friend—20-year-old Ronald Lee, a Marine private first class—was flying home for her funeral. The service has been set for tomorrow, but it appeared Lee could not reach here until Sunday.

He ordered a fast bouquet for his young sweetheart, the chance victim of a twisted personality.

The wreath rested near her bier with a card:

"Fay—sweetheart, with love from Ronnie."

John Fay and John H. Moyle, on the Chicago speech.

Most of the New England delegates are unpledged and undecided.

"The only exceptions are the Connecticut and New Hampshire delegations. Connecticut's 22 delegates are under instruction to cast their votes for U. S. Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut. In New Hampshire, Sen. Estes Kefauver picked up six of the state's eight convention votes in the hard-fought state primary election held March 11. Six other two New Hampshire votes are listed as favorable to Kefauver.

It was the New Hampshire primary which Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sought before he became a candidate officially.

President Truman's name was on the New Hampshire ballot, too, but Kefauver beat him in the popularity poll.

That upset also left the more prominent Democrats of New Hampshire without convention seats. They were on the ballot as favoring Truman. Kefauver's victory gave the delegate seats to a group of "lower echelon" officeholders from the Granite State.

The New England delegations are expected to call pre-convention meetings soon after their arrival in Chicago.

Here's how they're going:

Massachusetts: The delegates, along with alternates and convention guests are having Boston on a special train Saturday at 3 p. m. (D.s.t.) and arriving in Chicago at 6:30 a. m. (C.s.t.). Most of the delegates will be at the Palmer House, with some at other hotels.

Connecticut—The 22 Connecticut delegates, along with their alternates and other guests are leaving Saturday afternoon in special cars to be attached to a New York-Chicago train due in Chicago about noon Sunday.

Rhode Island—The Rhode Island delegation also is leaving Saturday to go to Chicago by way of New York. They expect to arrive there before noon Sunday.

Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont— Delegates and alternates with other guests from the three states combined plans to travel to Chicago. Some have already started west by automobile, and others are traveling by plane or train.

"The President was stricken Sunday. While he had made steady improvement since Monday, according to the White House, he was hospitalized for the first time since he entered the White House for a checkup on orders of Major General Wallace H. Graham, his physician.

Truman plans to fly to Chicago next week to address the closing session of the convention.

But the president has not been idle. "Today he named career diplomat Walter J. Donnelly as United States high commissioner for Germany.

At the same time Llewellyn E. Thompson, Jr., was appointed to succeed Donnelly as American ambassador and high commissioner to Austria. Also a career diplomat, Thompson has been minister-counselor at Rome for the past two years.

Donnelly succeeds John J. McCloy, who is retiring for personal reasons after three years' service, climaxed by the new peace contract and other treaties aimed at limiting up West Germany with the west.

McCloy's resignation becomes effective July 20 and Donnelly is expected to assume his new duties at that time. McCloy is expected to return to the capital for consultation around July 20.

An announcement said that regretfully accepted McCloy's decision to quit and "expressed the great personal appreciation for the outstanding contribution Mr. McCloy has made in bringing the Federal Republic of Germany into the family of free nations and in the development of friendly relations between the U. S. and the Federal Republic of Germany."

Donnelly is expected to become the first postwar American ambassador to Germany when the new peace contract comes into effect.

The President also signed into law today a bill continuing government support of prices for cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts at 90 per cent of parity through 1954.

The President said in a statement that the new law "is a valuable addition to the agricultural legislation which has been so important in maintaining a strong and stable farm economy and which has contributed so materially to a much-needed increase in the American standard of rural living."

The law provides that parity for these six crops will be determined, through 1955, by whichever of two present formulas gives the higher price. The controversial "sliding scale" parity formula was set aside for the 1953 and 1954 crop years.

Parity is a price determined by the government to be fair to farmers in terms of things they buy.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan already has announced the six crops will be supported at 90 per cent of parity this year.

in demonstrating their power."

The company's plant here has been completely shut down since the strike to enforce wage demands and other contract bargaining began. Necessary office work was shifted to the company's rolling mill at nearby Thomaston, where the company says "space is limited, and we cannot find space for anything but essential functions."

Brass told a newsman that 66 office workers had been retained to work at the Thomaston plant and that "we decide what we are going to do."

Those who were laid off have received pay for the first week the plant was closed, and their two-weeks vacation pay, he said, adding that "the financial condition of the company does not permit paying for work not done."

"We realize the hardship this will force on you," he told the workers in his letter. "We know we stand a good chance of losing our services permanently, but we have no other course. We will advise you when we desire your services again."

Brass Tells Story

To the more than 300 strikers represented by the United Brass workers, Brass said in his communique:

"A meeting with your union leaders was held by representatives of the company on July 15, with state and federal conciliators in attendance, and it was agreed further meetings are scheduled.

"We are now in the last of your pay and your families face charity and hardship. Just remember that you are fighting in the same way. While you face payless weeks, their pay goes on.

"As I pointed out in a prior letter, the Chevrolet plant of the United Automobile workers in Detroit are not as interested in your problems as they are in demonstrating their power. The suffering of Waterbury citizens is far away.

"I know that if foreign influences were kept out of the bargaining between our employes and the company, a mutually satisfactory settlement could have been arranged before now.

"At yesterday's (Thursday's) meeting, for instance, we offered an eleven cents an hour increase to all employes in the bargaining unit effective July 1.

"We were told: the employes are not. We will keep them out until we get everything. The facts are that they are not going to 'get everything.'

"When you have gone to end of your resources and enough of you decide you want to work, we will open the plant for you, with a 11 cents an hour effective when you start work."

"Old Baldy" hill on the Korean western front.

About 700 Communist troops hit the strategic slope west of Chorwon after a deafening preparatory barrage from Red mortars and field guns.

Allied reinforcements scrambled up the slippery hill shortly after the battle began.

The Red guns opened up on "Old Baldy" last night and 50 minutes later Communist troops assaulted the height. Then high velocity fire from Communist tank guns raked the hill.

United Nations tanks answered and at least one of the Red armored vehicles was set afire.

The Red tanks pulled out of the fight shortly after midnight and the infantry assault was blunted by 1:45 a. m. Sporadic firing continued, however, and the Communists did not give up the assault until 3:45 a. m.

The UN seized the strategic hill five weeks ago.

Manager Receives Bond Issue Notice

General Manager Richard Martin has received a copy of the notice advertising the sale of the town's $1,580,000 school-bond issue which its agent, the First National Bank of Boston, is sending to financial institutions throughout the country.

Bids for the purchase of the issue, known as School Project Bonds of 1952, will be received until 11 a. m. Wednesday. The Board of Directors will meet with General Manager Martin at 2 p. m. that day to open the bids.

Payments on the bonds, which will be amortized over a 20-year period, will be made in the amount of $80,000 yearly from July 1, 1953 through July 1, 1968, and in the amount of $75,000 yearly from July 1, 1969 through July 1, 1972.

The bonds will be issued in denomination of $1,000 each, in coupon form, and interest will be payable semi-annually and annually on Jan. 1 and July 1. Both principal and interest are payable at the First National Bank of Boston.

The bonds will be sold as a package, and not in part, to the proposed purchaser requiring the lowest interest rate on the bonds. A 2 per cent ceiling has been put on the interest rate that will be accepted in the sale of the bonds. However, it is believed that the bond market at present is such that the town will not have to pay more than 3.7 per cent.

Included in the notice is a statement of the town's financial condition which shows that Manchester has a total assessed property valuation as of Oct. 1, 1951, of $36,647,152. The taxable property valuation amounts to $37,892,861. The town's present bonded indebtedness, not including the school bond issue, is $3,210,000.

U. S. Will Probe Oil Cartel of 7 Firms

Leonard J. Emmerglick, Justice Department attorney who conducted the government's successful antitrust suit against Aluminum Company of America six years ago, was commissioned to go before the grand jury and prosecute the civil action in international oil.

Sen. Hennings (D. Mo.), who recently demanding a Congressional investigation of the seven oil firms, said in a public statement two days ago that the group dominates the oil fields spanning the Middle East, Indonesia and Venezuela and acts together in its pricing and elsewhere with the regularity and precision of a fine Swiss watch."

The activities of the group in the international oil field were analyzed in a recent secret report prepared by the Federal Trade Commission's staff.

This report has been circulated among government agencies, including the Justice Department, but has been withheld from public view. President Truman's aide, Stephen Neal, said it would not be in the national interest to give it out.

Hennings and Sen. Long (D. La.), members of the Senate subcommittee on monopoly, have been demanding the publication.

Hennings has described the alleged cartel as "an independent world government" backed up by powerful governmental interests here and abroad.

"Long has it been said he wants to know the extent to which the operation of the cartel, one of the alleged international oil monopoly is responsible for the exploitation of the American people by the people on whose behalf it functions."

The attorney general, in replying to Hennings, said that the suppressed FTC report may figure in the grand jury investigation, but asserted that the seven companies be named had been under Justice Department scrutiny for more than a year.

Expects Foreign Action

He expressed no views on possible international repercussions, but said that when the grand jury is calling witnesses, "you will no doubt have in some of our foreign friends."

Hennings has said the oil cartel represents "not a powder keg in the Middle East" and possibly in the United States.

Penalties under the anti-trust laws range up to $5,000 fine and one year's imprisonment for each offense in criminal prosecutions. On the civil side, the courts are empowered to dissolve all agreements found to be illegal and order them to cease and desist from such practices.

Dwonszyk was working near the first week in August with the exception of July 29 and 31, and of Aug. 5 and 7.

Stalin in Meeting With Italian Red

and might seek a reconciliation with Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Democratic bloc.)

Reds came to the Soviet Capital from Rome, where he attended a meeting of the Communist-backed World Peace Council earlier this month.

His interview with Stalin, which took place yesterday, was revealed in a brief official announcement on the front pages of all Moscow newspapers.

"On July 17, Comrade J. V. Stalin had a talk with deputy chairman of the World Council of Peace, Pietro Nenni," the announcement said.

So far as the foreign colony here knows, Nenni is the only Italian received by Stalin in recent years.

The Soviet premiers other known foreign contact this year was an interview in April with Sir Benegal Narsing Rau, Indian Sir Satyapindi Radhakrishnan, prior to the latter's quitting his post.

Speculation arose recently in Italy that Premier Stalin was ready to draw his segment of the Communists away from the Reds when on June 2, he told a political meeting in Milan that his forces would be with those who intend to consolidate the Democratic Republic institutions." Nenni added that his group's alliance with the Italian Communists does not destroy socialist autonomy but only limits its range.

In Rome today, the Communist newspaper L'Unita indicated that the Stalin-Nenni interview might be used to highlight intensified Red peace propaganda.

Pilot in Coventry Crash Reported on Danger List

South Coventry, July 18—A Glastonbury man who crashed his single-seater Cessna plane in a hay field here late yesterday afternoon was reported in critical condition today. Gilbert E. Williams, 38 of Great Swamp road, Glastonbury, the hospital authorities said, seemed to be resting more comfortably today, but he suffered internal injuries and cuts about the face and right knee.

Williams said the motor of his plane cut out on him and he tried to land in the field of a fellow Pratt and Whitney employe, Michael Dwonszyk of Pucker road. After bouncing over the bumpy surface of the field for 250 yards, the plane struck a stone wall and rolled over, coming to rest across the street. He had taken off from Brainard Field just a short time previously.

Pine Crashes Home

Dwonszyk was working near his home when he saw and heard the plane crash. He ran to the field. He got to his car and went to the nearest telephone booth a mile away, reported the Coventry Fire Company. Coventry and Willimantic were called and an ambulance was dispatched from the hospital. Gasoline was spilled around the area.

State Policeman Donald Waite rushed blood from the Hartford Hospital to Willimantic for him. It was discovered the Windham Hospital did not have the type blood to give Williams necessary transfusions.

Dwonszyk went to Glastonbury and brought Mrs. Williams to her husband's bedside.

Williams made his first solo flight about two weeks ago and had been flying "nearly every day," reported the Glastonbury Fire Service at Brainard Field.

Truce Hopes Rising

Something is stirring again in the Korean truce talks, and perhaps the significant thing is that the stir extends around the world and is not limited to the negotiating scene in Korea.

From Peiping has come the formal announcement of tentative acceptance, by Communist China, of the Geneva Convention, which was already informally the guiding code for both sides in Korea. The significance of this may be that one of the Geneva rules, by the fact that blood is being spilled and by the prospect that more may be spilled. Let's not forget that the loss of this kind of prosperity, by peace, would be a joyful sacrifice, if we can ever achieve it.

Natural Actions

Some of the leaders of the Taft camp at the Chicago convention are indulging themselves in post mortem shifts, the alibis usually consisting of some "mistake" made by the leader or leadership. It is charged that Congressman Brown of Ohio made a tactical mistake, Temporary Chairman Hallinan is accused of not having made the right ruling at the right point. Senator Dirksen is accused of having over-played his oratorical hand. And so forth.

Really, all these gentlemen might as well set their memories at rest. The mistakes that were made in the Taft campaign may seem to have been the acts of individuals, made by individual decisions, but actually they were inevitable. They were inherent in the Taft movement. They were the natural product of what these men stood for, and the natural product of their level of political mentality. The surprise would have come if they had not made the mistakes they did make.

They made the mistakes they made because they respected neither the conscience nor the intelligence of the American people. When they began to be proved wrong about this, their only sense of strategy was to persist in pushing their own methods, founded on this lack of respect, even more violently and vigorously. Their inherent method of political argument was the reckless attack. When signs appeared that this method was failing, they merely carried it on toward new extremes.

Their political creed was that they had the votes, that "possession was nine points of the law," that issues which were stirring the country were not moral, but merely parliamentary, and this was the creed emphasized at crucial and decisive points, by their own leader in his own comments on the developments. Naturally, the only way they could defend this creed when it came under attack was to be even bolder in following it.

They did have one other resort. That was to include a heavy proportion of hymns in their factions' convention music, and to have their fork-tongued chief sing for other, more extensively from the Bible than any other convention speaker. The sanctimonious irony—and its inevitable failure to convince and seem sincere—was part of their inherent equipment, too.

There is no need for them to indulge in recriminations against each other, or to fall out publicly over the failure of their scheme of operations. If it is any consolation to "Joe," they were all bound to act this way, and bound to lose.

All Settled

At least we don't have to worry any more about which direction General Eisenhower is going to favor, now he's nominated.

According to one famous national commentator, he's going to turn to the right.

According to another famous national commentator, he's going to turn to the left.

And that, we guess, is that.

Ellington

A bond for deed has been filed at the Ellington Town Clerk's office for the sale of the 100 acre farm of William N. Pinney of Pinney street to Louis and Antoinette Gasek, also of Pinney street.

Ancestors of Mr. Pinney purchased the farm from the Indians in 1717 and it has been the home of five generations of Pinneys. Mr. Pinney was a farmer and in his younger days also was in the milk business which he conducted with his farm. A Democrat, Mr. Pinney was very active in politics and was also a member of the Board of Selectmen.

He was one of the founders of the Hartford County Insurance Company, and one of the originators of the Federal Land Bank serving this area and was one of the first to assist in the formation of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association. Mr. Pinney will retain life use of the house, which is of brick and has a chimney on each corner and a fire place in each room.

The storms and hurricanes have not disturbed the old structure, which is in fine condition both inside and out. Mr. Pinney served his home town in the General Assembly in former years. A large hall run through the middle of the house and this hall was the scene of many square dances when Mr. and Mrs. Pinney were young.

Mrs. Pinney died some few years ago, but Mr. Pinney is in good health.

The Ellington Friendship Class held its annual picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Schude on Maple street, Wednesday night. A potluck was served to about 40 people at 6:30 p.m. The evening was spent playing games and cards and reminiscing.

Mrs. Harman Borowski of Pinney street, Ellington, will attend the 11th reunion of the 504 Anti-Aircraft Artillery Association which will be held in New Haven at the Taft Hotel today and tomorrow. A banquet will be served tomorrow night at the hotel. Mr. Borowski was a member of the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Pinney of Maple street are the parents of a son born at the Rockville City Hospital.

ordered Qavam to form a new government.

The selection of the 77-year-old pro-western rightist as the new government chief may ease the way to a settlement of the bitter quarrel with Britain over nationalization of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company properties here.

A large share of the government's revenues formerly came from royalties paid by the British-operated oil company. With the government take-over and the subsequent British boycott of Iranian oil, the income dried up.

It is thought that the Chinese first used natural gas, piping it from its source in bamboo tubes.

Planes Join In Search For Girl, 10

ed yesterday as having been seen Wednesday.

Beyond that," Avery added, "we have nothing new as to her possible whereabouts."

The missing girl, whom Avery says is possessed of "considerable independence," left the home to inquire the route to Lakeville, Conn. Since she was the youngest one made in the vicinity of a road intersection.

Made Inquiries

"She was insistent on knowing the way to Lakeville," Avery added.

The new premier was picked after Mossadegh suddenly resigned the job in a huff because the Shah refused to let him be war minister also in a new cabinet. The sudden action sent into eclipse, at least temporarily, the political star of the emotional old Nationalist who kicked Britain oil interests out of Iran and made his country a thorn in the western flesh.

The Majlis voted 49-0 for Qavam, with three abstentions. Thirty-one deputies reportedly boycotted the meeting, however, and claimed the nomination was unconstitutional because a nominal minimum 57 of the 79 deputies thus far elected—was not present.

Anti-Mossadegh deputies contended the constitution sets no time limit for the nomination of a premier and only majority approval was necessary.

Qavam was dubbed the "Strong Man of Iran" after he led his country's successful fight in the United Nations to force Russian troops out of Iran's border province of Azerbaijan, and subsequently put down a Communist-supported regional revolt.

The new premier's major headache now is Iran's near-bankruptcy, one result of oil nationalization.

Qavam has been described as amenable to a settlement, but observers expected no immediate marked change in the nation's oil policy. Nationalization is popular with all classes of Iranians and any sudden retreat from Mossadegh's flat opposition to British proposals would probably set off violent outbreaks by the country's extreme nationalists.

Andrew Gough, superintendent of the West Warwick, R. I., sewer department reported bursting thermometers as the sun pushed the mercury up to the 120-degree level and out of the glass top.

Highest reading in Boston yesterday was a comparative balmy 83.

Hope of a few light showers and possible thunder storms in most sections today was held out by the weather bureau for the drought-threatened farmers.

However, no steady rain was predicted for at least several days and farmers reported their crops rapidly burning up in parched fields.

The drought already has ruined much of New England's hay crop, cut milk production and killed pastures by the thousands in many sections.

Allister MacDougall, Middlesex county agricultural agent in Massachusetts, reported that one-third of all farmers in that county produce no milk because their pastures are so dry.

Milk production is reported off 25 per cent in Essex County.

Bristol Mass. County Agent Charles W. Harris Jr., said that the county's sweetcorn crop is withering, half of the tomatoes are gone and summer squash crop is wiped out.

In Maine, Dairy Agricultural Commissioner H. S. Hewkin said the state is "on the edge of trouble. We can't stand it much longer."

Clement Lyon, director of New Hampshire extension service, said that upland pastures are turning brown and farmers soon will have to feed their cattle in the barns.

Many towns and cities reported low water pressure and forest conservation authorities have alerted the area's residents to the danger of fires.

Woodlands in the area have been described by authorities as tinder-dry and firefighters in Maine and Massachusetts have been kept busy the past few days battling brush and forest fires. This far they have been able to keep them under control.

Texas Delegates In Bitter Battle

Averell Harriman of New York, the Mutual Security administrator already have staked out their victory claims here, along with Russell.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, who has disclaimed any intention others are scrambling for, invited all Democratic governors to breakfast with him here Monday in advance of a scheduled welcoming address to the convention.

Stevenson has insisted he is running only for re-election as governor and Arvey's reported switch to Harriss was in line with the Illinois governor's announcement that he has given up hope of getting the governor into the presidential race.

There remained the possibility, however, that the Barkley report might take the form of a holding action—with an appeal to Stevenson possible if the convention ties itself in a knot after seven or eight ballots.

One of Kefauver's backers in Wyoming charged last night that an attempt had been made to bribe one of their delegates.

Frank Bodron, Casper attorney, said one of Kerr's backers had offered to pay the travel and convention expenses of a delegate. He named neither man in the alleged maneuver.

Kerr, en route to Chicago, declined similar charges in connection with a California delegate. Earlier in Denver he said delegates who favor him as first choice, plus those who would give him votes later, number 616—exactly enough to win the nomination.

Harriman, running as an all-out exponent of the "Fair Deal," made no predictions on ballot strength except to say: "The cause I represent will have increasing support." He said he believes it will give him the nomination tomorrow.

The possibility that the President would disclose his views through the mouth of his convention alternate, Thomas J. Gaffney of Kansas City, was being discounted. Gov. Forrest Smith asks the Midcoventry women vote under a unit rule but James M. Penders, Tolland, Mrs. Carol Schocher of 17 Summer street, Alan Bradley of 44 Sterling place and Max M. Mayhew of 88 Campfield road.

Ike Waves Son Off for Korea

and his wife, Mamie, bade farewell to their soldier son, Maj. John Eisenhower, as he stepped briefly in Denver en route to Seattle and Korea.

It was an emotional send-off to war for the 29-year-old major. Mrs. Eisenhower, who remained in Denver with her mother, Mrs. John Dowd, choked back tears and bit her lips as she said good-bye.

When the big transport taxied off en route to Seattle, Mrs. Eisenhower waved and then kissed the general, who had paced nervously back and forth before going up the plane's stairs to have a final word with his son.

Eisenhower and Nielsen fished for an hour and one-half yesterday along the St. Louis Creek near here. Each landed one trout. The trout was about seven inches long.

"I never saw this creek for such poor fishing," Eisenhower told newsmen. "I'll tell St. Louis Creek did us dirt."

The general seemed genuinely happy, however. He could look forward to cool nights—temperatures often drop below freezing in this mountain-locked town—and leisurely, undisturbed angling.

He was not he quoted as cut off from the world. The mountain ranch has radios, on which he will listen to the Democratic national convention next week if he wishes.

A five-car detachment of newsmen accompanied Eisenhower to the Nielson ranch, but because of the trick of tying accommodations for so many, they returned to Denver last night. They had arranged, however, to get daily news of the general.

Eisenhower's political staff remained in Denver, keeping his campaign rolling.

Staying on the ranch with Eisenhower and Nielson are Dr. Hoover and Snyder, the general's physician, and two Denver detectives on security detail.

DeVita said the warrant was issued on the complaint of the State Motor Vehicles Commissioner. Myrsko was on patrolman of selling cars to dealers without a license and without an established business. Myrsko was released that night and released in $1,000 bail.

Sense and Nonsense

During the war with Great Britain an American officer, who carried a flag over to the British lines, after having dispatched the business of his mission, was invited by the commanding British officer to dine. As usual on such occasions, the wine was circulated, and a British officer being called upon for a toast, gave "Mr. Madison, dead or alive"; which the American drank without appearing to give it particular notice. When it came to the American's turn to give a toast, he gave, "The Prince Regent, drunk or sober." — "Sir," said the British officer, bristling up and coloring with anger, "that is an insult." — "No, sir," answered the American very coolly, "it is only a reply to one."

Like the British Constitution, she owes her success in practice to her inconsistencies in principle. —Thomas Hardy.

The young husband was pretty tired when he came home, but he livened up when his bride told him of her latest effort.

She—Last night, you remember, I baked my first cake and tonight I have another surprise. I have baked you my first pie.

He—Wonderful, (who no doubt will be a real diplomat when he gets around to it) Are it is your very own, my own, that I hear when where we can always admire it. You know they always put the first one of any great new invention aside so people can always look at it in the future.

He—They tell me Colonel Lively is a scaragnarian.

She—The old fool, and at his age, too!

Two bumsies were chased into a hollow log by a party of hunters. In the darkness of the log, after regaining their breath, they went into a huddle to plan their escape.

"We have one of two courses open to us," said Mr. Rabbit to his sweetheart. "Either we slip out of this log right now and make a run for it, or we stick around until we out-number our enemies."

It's a great pity the right of free speech isn't predicated upon the obligation to say something sensible.

The prosecuting attorney was having trouble with an evasive witness. Finally he asked him if he was acquainted with any of the members of the jury.

Witness—Yes, sir, with more than half of them!

Lawyer—Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?

Witness—If it comes to that, I am willing to swear I know more than all of them put together.

We like a pretty girl who refuses to go down and sell tickets to the people who don't want them.

Graduate—Will you pay me what I'm worth?

Employer—I'll do better than that. I'll give you a small salary to start with.

Daddy—(after eloquently enlarging on the dangers which he encountered while "over there" on the war front). And that, my son, is what I did toward winning the World war.

Son—But, Daddy, why did they need so many men besides you?

While few other people noticed, a Legion post boomed him for President. Said Eisenhower:

"Baloney! Why can't a simple soldier be left alone to carry out his orders? And I furiously object to the word 'candidate'—I ain't said work."

On June 22, 1945, he told a news conference in Abilene:

"All I want is to be a citizen of the United States, and when the War Department turns me out to pasture that's all I want to be. I want nothing else. It is silly to talk about me in politics . . . There's no use my denying that I'll fly to the moon, because no one has suggested it . . . The same goes for politics. I'm a soldier and I'm positive no one thinks of me as a politician."

The general was never more wrong. Less than two months later someone did suggest him for President. Someone very important.

After the Potsdam conference, President Truman told Ike, "General, there is nothing that you may wanu that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically included the presidency in 1948." (The statement later was substituted by Truman.)

Writing in his "Crusade in Europe," Eisenhower said he told Truman, "Mr. President, I don't know who will be your opponent for the presidency, but it will not be I."

"There was no doubt about my seriousness," his general wrote, "but Truman laughed."

But two years later, Eisenhower began to waver on the question of his duty. On Sept. 17, 1947, he wrote Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, chief of staff:

"I do not believe that you or I or anyone else has the right to order his subordinates that he will not perform any duty that his country might demand of him."

In the same letter, published by Kevin McCann in "Man from Abilene," Eisenhower added that he would not consider it a call to duty if nominated by a deadlocked convention as a compromise candidate.

Writes Famous Note

On Jan. 25, 1948, as the Eisenhower boom gathered momentum, came the famous letter to New Hampshire publisher Leonard V. Finder:

". . . It is my conviction that, unless an individual feels some inner compulsion and special qualifications to enter the political arena—which I do not—a refusal to do so involves no violation of the highest standards of devotion to duty.

". . . It is my conviction that the necessary and wise subordination of the military to civil power will be best sustained . . . when lifelong soldiers, in the absence of some obvious and overwhelming reason, abstain from seeking high political office.

". . . My decision to remove myself completely from the political scene is definite and positive . . ."

A few days later, the told a friend he felt relieved, felt as though an abscessed tooth had been pulled. Again he was wrong. The surgery wasn't complete.

On July 1, 1948, while some highly placed Democrats were boosting him for their nomination, Ike issued a "final and complete" refusal.

But several months later at Columbia, he was speaking out on foreign policy, capital and labor and other public issues. Skeptical critics thought they heard the noises of a candidate. Ike again referred them to the Finder letter.

On Oct. 13, 1950, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York endorsed the general as the GOP candidate in 1952. Ike said he was grateful but had not changed his mind since 1948.

Change Starts In

But evidently something began to change his mind. Through the winter of 1951-52, he seems to have struggled with the problem of where his duty lay. Now events were moving faster.

March 17, 1951. From his SHAPE headquarters near Paris. The denies a published story that Truman had made a deal with him to make the general available for the 1952 nomination.

Nov. 4, 1951. Eisenhower and Truman deny New York Times story that Truman had again offered to support Ike for the Democratic nomination.

Jan. 6, 1952. Senator Lodge says Eisenhower is a Republican and enters him in New Hampshire primary.

Jan. 7. Eisenhower says he is a Republican, will answer only a "clear-cut call to political duty," will not campaign.

March 12. Proud of so much support, "by golly," after sweeping New Hampshire primary.

Airmen Hope to Annex State Semi-Pro Title

Settling the 1952 state semi-pro baseball championship will be no easy task tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock, at Mt. Nebo. A bitter struggle is in store when Hamilton and Pratt & Whitney cross bats in the finale. The arch-rivals leave little to be desired when they face one another on the diamond, and there is no reason to expect anything different as they wind up the tournament.

HAMILTON WON the crown two years ago and journeyed to Kansas. The Airmen have made two previous tries and were knocked out of it early. This year Coach Johnny Rosen's charges have been the hitting stars of the tournament. They reached the finals with second treatings at the hands of St. Cyril's and Electric Boat Detroit of New London.

Both nines are sponsored by the United Aircraft Men's Club. That itself is a challenge to the teams for supremacy. They meet each other several times a year in the Hartford Daily League and the Twilight League. In recent seasons it has been the Propos on top. But, the shoe is on the other foot this year. P&W is the leader in the Dusty circuit, owning two victories over Hamilton, the only losses on the Propos' record. The Twilight League action, they have split in two games.

REVENGE FOR TWO LOSSES to their rivals this week will be sought by the Propos. Tuesday night the Airmen all but clinched the Dusty title. Wednesday they handed Hamilton a setback in the local circuit. The Propos have not been hitting the ball with the same authority the past two weeks. They hope to break out of the doldrums against P&W in the semi-pro test.

Elliott Takes Ump's Advice, Hits Homers

New York— (NEA)—Bob Elliott gives Lee Ballanfant a big assist for improving his batting.

In a game played in Pittsburgh early this season, Umpire Ballanfant told Elliott he was letting too many good pitches go for strikes.

"Stand closer to the plate and swing at those outside pitches that are going for strikes," the New York outfielder was advised.

Husband and Wife Rivalry A Feature as 37 Major U. S. Skeet Crowns Are Decided

Dallas, Tex.—(NEA)—The husband-and-wife, a 500-target, 12-gauge event, is only one of 37 major championships being decided in the annual National Skeet Tournament, ending a week's run in Dallas, July 27.

THIS TYPE OF RIVALRY is especially keen in the southwest. The defending champions, Tucson's Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Hieber, will encounter plenty of opposition.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Amburgey of Odessa, Tex., raised the world record to 395 out of 400 winning the Pan-American Open championship here. Dallas' Mr. and Mrs. Fred Alford set a new record of 393 winning Galveston's Oleander Open in the Spring of 1951. The Amburgeys raised the record to 394 in the Texas State shoot on the same fields. The Heckers equalled the mark last Fall. Now the Amburgeys have raised it to within five targets of perfection.

OTHER STRONG PAIRS are Dallas' Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Ragland, Jr., winners of the Great Eastern at Lordship, Conn., and the Southeast Zone Nationals at Spartanburg, S. C.; Los Angeles' Mr. and Mrs. C. Earl Stoner, 1950 National winners; and Clarence and Louise Camp of Ocala, Fla., 49 titlists.

There is almost as keen a rivalry in the parent-and-child championship, won last by the Al-Sabbagh's, Mr. Ali, Sr., of Houston, Tex., held the world record for 400 targets and George H. Hodges of Jacksonville and his 14-year-old son, George, Jr., came along with 398 in the Southeastern Zone Nationals.

A NEW QUEEN of skeet is likely to be crowned, since Mrs. Hecker, four-time champion of the All-America team and in '50 clean-sweep winner of all five national titles, has done little competitive shooting this year.

Favored to ascend to the throne is the vivacious Cubana beauty and Chicago north shore socialite, Mrs. Carola Mandel. Last season, her second in skeet, Mrs. Mandel came to Dallas to wrest the 26 and 20-gauge championships from Mrs. Hecker.

Among the numerous trophies she has garnered this season are those emblematic of New Orleans' Fiesta Open; Louisville's Blue Grass; three Northeast Zone Nationals titles and the 410-gauge runner-up title in Rochester; the Great Eastern Championship at Lordship, Conn.; four Great Western titles and the Central States Open 20-gauge in Chicago; and the Rocky Mountains and Midlands Zone Nationals in Omaha.

Talk about Annie Oakley.

STEPS UP—Mrs. Carola Mandel is shown to assume the women's skeet throne. (NEA)

Palmer 4-Stroke Canadian Leader

Winnipeg, Man., July 18—(AP)—Johnny Palmer held a four-stroke lead today in the Canadian Open Golf Tournament after setting a competitive record for the St. Charles Golf and Country Club course.

The 34-year-old Badin, N. C., pro shot a sizzling seven-under-par 65 yesterday in the second round of the 72-hole event to give him a score of 131.

Palmer's opening day 66 also broke the course record of 67 set three years ago by Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn.

On Palmer's heels for $3,000 first money in the $15,000 race was another American, Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., with 66-66-135.

In close pursuit with scores of 136 were Roberto De Vincenzo of Buenos Aires, 69-67; Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., 67-69, and Dutch Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., 69-67.

IN FOURTH PLACE was Fredy Haas, Jr., of New Orleans with 68-69—137 while Smiley Quick of Pasadena, Calif., with 68-70—138, and Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., with 69-69—138, were tied for fifth.

After threatening on the opening day, the Canadians slipped far back. The top three, including Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, who shot a hole-in-one yesterday on the par-three 129-yard ninth, shared a score of 139 with six Americans.

Among those at 139 were defending champion Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, 71-68; Dermont Molloy of Durham, N. C., 72-67; Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., 68-71; Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill., 71-68; Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., the U. S. PGA champion, 71-68, and Ulrich, 70-69.

Playing his hottest golf of this tournament season, Palmer faltered only once in yesterday's round. He took three putts on the 18th green where he missed a two-foot putt. But the rest of his play was brilliant as he one-putted the 13th and sank a 40-yard chip shot for an eagle three on the 13th.

A field of 132 teed off yesterday. It will be cut to low 100 and ties today and to low 60 and ties for the final turn tomorrow.

Kiner Regaining Home Run Touch

Pittsburgh, July 18—(AP)—Slugging Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates has regained his home run touch. Kiner's 17th round-tripper with a man on base in the ninth inning of yesterday's second game against the Phillies was his fourth homer in the past seven days. Kiner now trails the current leader, Hank Sauer of the Cubs, by six.

Friday's game: Elks vs. Moose.

Slack's shutout pitching has sent the bases loaded in the sixth inning featured a PAC victory over the Moose by a 10-0 margin in last night's Little League game. Until the sixth inning the game had been fairly close and interesting with the PAC leading 5 to 2. DeCarli opened the sixth inning with a sharp single to center field that Elkin misjudged for a two base error. With DeCarli on third Nelski hammered home a hard Stevens brothers. Heim was then brought in from center field to relieve Nelski and that set the Moose back. Heim did not get first ball pitched for a long triple. Heck also collected two other singles, starting the batting honors for the PAC with Donald Stevens who had two. Slack was the pitcher for the winners.

The youngsters representing the Moose have yet to win a ball game, and in spite of this, they have kept right on trying to get that first win.

Yogi Wants to Take Rest, Don't Care Who Knows It

New York, July 18—(AP)—Larry Yogi Berra, the World Champion's one-man catching staff, asked his head out of the dugout, looked quizzically at Casey Stengel, blue skies overhead and muttered:

"No sign of rain, darn it."

Yogi, the Yankee All-Star receiver slumped back in his seat on the bench and thought, and thought for eight sixty-odd seconds. Pearson then took over and hit the Yankee catcher with a fastball. Cole was up by a pitched ball to start the seventh and stole second. Pearson then walked Kisber which did wild pitched Cole to third. With one out, Cole scored on the plate on a passed ball for the win.

The Trust scored single runs in the first two innings and a pair in the third. Simmons then took over and held the Trust at bay over the next four.

LITTLE LEAGUE baseball game last night at Memorial Field resulted in a 10 to 0 victory for the American Legion over the Kiwanis Club. Ronnie Simmons pitched an ineligible pitcher. Commissioner Russell Paul reported this morning that all records—pitching and hitting—in the game will be counted following word from State Commissioner Sharon Pitkenger of Hartford.

RUSS PAUL reports that the scheduled Little League baseball game on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 2 has been postponed due to the Third District Tournament which starts on Sunday, Aug. 3 at Memorial Field.

TICKETS are still available for the Knights of Columbus baseball excursion to Boston's Fenway Park Sunday for the game between the Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians. Tickets may be secured from Jimmy Murray at 3-9424. Price is six dollars which includes round trip train ticket and admission to the ball park. Train will leave the Hartford station at 8:15 and the Manchester depot at 8:35. Return trip is listed at 7:30 from the South Station in Boston.

Andy Pafko Hits In Form Again

Cincinnati, July 18—(AP)—It finally looks as if the Dodgers' Andy Pafko is returning to his form of two years ago. With one hit in four trips to the plate in yesterday's 2-1 win over the Reds, Andy raised his batting average to .299 and entered the top ten hitters in the National League. The sturdy ex-Chicagoan has added 27 points to his batting average in the past month by collecting 32 hits in 59 trips for a blazing .390 pace.

8,000 Athletes Ready For Olympic Games

Helsinki, July 18—(AP)—Another 24 hours and the greatest sports show on earth—the 15th summer Olympic games—will open on the Kelly green turf of Heisinki's modernistic stadium.

SIXTY-NINE COUNTRIES, a record, and almost 8,000 athletes, another record, will be represented at the colorful ceremonies tomorrow.

A 70th nation may show up, but probably not by tomorrow.

The tickling problem of which China—Communist or Nationalist—can be China in the games was settled temporarily yesterday. The International Olympic committee voted to let both take part.

Nationalist China then said it did not care to play with the Communists here or anywhere else. The Nationalists promptly cancelled any plans to compete.

Communist China will be eligible for one sport, swimming. But its boys will have to get there by a week from tomorrow, when the first Olympic events are scheduled.

Present whereabouts of the squad are unknown. Guesses range from the Russian port of Vladivostok miles outside Helsinki, to Leningrad, Moscow, Prague and Cairo.

Today the International Olympic committee will hold its final meeting of the season. It will discuss East Germany. As far as the Helsinki committee is concerned the decision is theoretical. The East Germans are in, for good.

THE WEST GERMANS are here too, but only by a hair. The Bonn Olympic committee had asked the West Germans showed up at the Oslo winter games.

The I.O.C. again told the Germans to get together before the summer games but the East Germans weren't in a consolidating mood.

As the big show here prepared to go, the committee confirmed final arrangements for the 1956 games at Melbourne. Down there will tackle the problem of reducing the affair from fourteen to twelve days. Soccer, field hockey and basketball will have to put up a good case to justify their retention.

The 1952 games are so large that preliminary competition has been staged in three separate cities during past four days. This was necessary to squeeze the 30-sport program into the prescribed period of 15 official days.

CANADA, BULGARIA and the Philippines qualified yesterday for the basketball tournament and three more teams will qualify today. These will be the winners of the Belgium-Cuba, Greece-Hungary and Italy-Mexico matches. The United States and Russia will be the last two to enter the opening rounds. Neither did Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Finland, France, Czechoslovakia or Uruguay.

Two qualifying rounds were needed in soccer and the regular field hockey tournament started Tuesday. Austria and Belgium were knocked out in field hockey last night. Holland plays Great Britain and Pakistan plays France in second round matches tonight.

All 70,000 seats in the main Olympic Stadium have been sold for tomorrow's opening. The prices range up to $15 a seat. Some ringside seats were almost sold 13 years ago. The stadium was built for the 1940 Olympic games. Then came the war.

Gas Housers Oppose BA's Twi Loop Rivals Clash Tonight at 6 at Nebo After Two Week Rest

Moriarty Brothers and the BA's resume action after a two week layoff in the Twilight League tonight at Mt. Nebo. It will be the third and final meeting of the teams this year. They are fighting for a playoff berth.

With several make-up games to be played before positions in the playoffs can be decided, no team is out of it as yet, but the Gasmen have played nine games and won only two, both at the expense of league-leading Manchester Rifles. The BA's have a game in hand on the Gasmen. They have won a pair in six starts and trail P&W, holders of third place, by a full game.

COACH TONY BERUBE will be sitting out his suspension when the Maple Streeters take the field tonight. Manager Herb Stevenson will probably run the team from the bench. Outfielder Jimmy Griffin, nursing a pair of sunburned legs, will be the field general from his third base position.

Either Cal Lyles, Norm Boucher or Jack Gallagher will toss them for the BA's with Dave Rest of Yale behind the plate. The youthful club will find Bob Wintemore at first, George LaPointe or Bill Stevens at second, Jimmy Fox or short Art Griffin in third. Leo Donahue, Freddie Booth and Bob Quinn make up the outfield with Lefty Jadzinisk, Chuck Pease and Dick Gagne in reserve.

VIC TAGGART or Al Surowiec will pitch for Moriarty's and Rev Nie Alemany is slated to be behind the pitch. Bill Beal, Ken Klein, Willie Oleksinski and Mike Switek form the infield while John Dalaas, Bob Wilson and Bob Zimmerman may make up the outfield. John Olszewski, Connie O'Connor and Bob Flath will probably see action.

Yogi Wants to Take Rest, Don't Care Who Knows It

New York, July 18—(AP)—Larry (Yogi) Berra, the World Champion's one-man catching staff, asked his head out of the dugout, looked quizzically at Casey Stengel, blue skies overhead and muttered:

"No sign of rain, darn it."

Yogi, the Yankee All-Star receiver slumped back in his seat on the bench and thought, and thought for eight sixty-odd seconds.

"GEE, I'M EXALTED," he said wearily. "I'm just plain pooped."

Yogi, who is famous for fracturing the English language, meant "exhausted," of course. And he looked it, too. His face appeared drawn and there were lines under his eyes.

"I didn't have so sleep last night," the good-natured strong boy wailed, "maybe three or four hours. I was so tired after working in both games yesterday, I just couldn't sleep. And now I've got to catch another doubleheader.

"How long did those two games take yesterday anyway? Seven hours? It seemed like it. I never so hot in my life. I dunno. I keep asking Casey (Stengel) for a rest, but he tells me he can't afford to give me a rest. He says he's afraid I might go stale. Imagine that? I tell him to try it and see how he just laughs.

"OVERWORK APPARENTLY has no ill effects on Berra. Tired as he claimed to be, Yogi rapped out three hits in seven times at bat including a pair of doubles as the Yankees divided a twi-night doubleheader with the Cleveland Indians. The Yanks won the second game, 5-4, after the Indians had captured the opener, 11-6, to retain their four and a half game margin.

Berra, American Leagues most valuable player last year, has been a real workhorse this year. He missed the first nine games because of 4 bruised right ribs. But once he got into action there has been no letup. He's caught all but one of the Yankees' last 76 games.

Yogi got a brief respite yesterday when Charlie Silvera replaced him behind the bat during the last three innings of the first game. It must have seemed like a vacation to him. It was only the third time this season Yogi had not caught the entire game. Stengel took him out once before in the seventh inning after the Philadelphia Athletics had built up a 10-0 lead against the Yankees. Umpire Jim Honochick gave him an enforced four-inning vacation in Philadelphia on the Sunday before the All-Star game for protesting too vigorously over a decision.

YOGI ENJOYED the last laugh on Stengel during the All-Star game, though. Before the game, Casey, who managed the American League All-Stars, announced that Berra would be one of the three All-Stars who would play the full nine innings. Yogi was downhearted when he heard the news.

"What's the matter?" he complained. "Is Casey mad because I missed a few innings Sunday?"

Even though the Americans were beaten 2-1 when rain halted the game at the end of five innings, Yogi managed a grin.

"Poor Casey," he groaned in mock sympathy. "I don't know which hurts him the more—that we lost or that I didn't catch nine innings."

Women of India believe no marriage can be successful unless the bride wears pearls.

Browns Winless Behind Holcomb

Philadelphia, July 18—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns just can't seem to win a game when Ken Holcombe pitches for them. Since traded from the White Sox early last month, the veteran hurler has appeared on the mound ten times for the Browns, once as a starter and nine times in relief roles, and St. Louis has lost all ten games. Holcombe was charged with two of the defeats and his season's record is 0-7.

Shea Works Hard For Victories

Washington, July 18—(AP)—Ex-Yankee Frank Shea, currently the ace of the Washington Senators' mound staff with a 9-2 record, certainly had had to work hard for his decisions. His last three victories were all by margins of one run. Shea won his ninth last night by shutting out the Detroit Tigers, 1-0.

MAN BEHIND THE SCENE — Man behind the scene of American Legion Junior baseball in Manchester is Matt Moriarty of Moriarty Brothers. Many of us are aware of the fact that the Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post 102, American Legion fields a baseball team each summer but few realize where the financial backing comes from.

Matt handles all expenses of the Legion nine, winners of the First District championship by virtue of their 6 to 0 win over Windsor. He scored last Wednesday night at the West Side Oval. The boss man at the super service station at Center and Broad streets foots the bills for uniforms, bats, balls and for umpires fees.

A keen and ardent follower of sports in Manchester, Matt shared the satisfaction Wednesday night with Coach Wally Partin upon learning that the boys, in whom he was interested, had come through with a championship.

Wednesday was Coach Partin's birthday and the victory added an extra layer of frosting to the cake. All members of the team from Coach Partin down to scorer Leo Oye deserve credit for their fine showing in the championship. Matt is interested in the Legion baseball team. Matt too can step front and center and take a bow for his continued interest in helping the youth of Manchester.

The writer can recall a number of years ago, I believe it was in 1944, the Legion did not sponsor a Legion Junior baseball team. The project was dropped due to lack of financial assistance. I called Commander Frank Miner at that time, and encouraged the Post to form a baseball team. Shortly after the matter was dropped. Matt Moriarty was approached and the Legion has since been able to stand about financial aid for one of the standout programs for young boys.

Matt Moriarty is one of the men who has helped in the Legion program. Matt's name is never in the headlines. He doesn't want it there. He is a man who has helped a worthy cause and who has helped many boys. Matt Moriarty is a man who is entitled to a bouquet for his efforts in behalf of the Legion.

Miller's Ring Experience Makes Him a Top Referee

By FRANK ECK
AP Newspaperman Sports Editor

New York—When Ray Miller is the third man in the ring you will see one of the best jobs given as a top-ranking lightweight boxing is the answer. It's as simple as that.

"As soon as a fight starts you will see one of the best jobs given take the lead," says the Chicago native who now resides in Flushing, N. Y. "The idea is to work behind the man taking the lead. It's easier for ringside and television fans to see the fight that way."

ONCE A FIGHT starts and Miller is the referee he conveniently forgets the names of the fighters. Their names are on the round-by-round card anyway. Below one fighter's name he writes "black" and pots down "white" beneath the other boxer's name. When each round is over Miller scores his points either for "black" or "white."

Miller likes to use the sign language rather than the voice when working a bout. Every referee uses the palms up method when signaling a fighter to keep his blows above the belt. But Ray also grabs the back of a neck when he sees a fighter try the rabbit punch. He also makes hel and backhand motions when he catches a ringster trying these illegal tactics.

The one motion in boxing that might be confus

Various Prizes Awarded For Best Dolls, Bikes, Carriages; Winners

One hundred and fifty playground children gathered at the West Side Rec last night and paraded their dolls and decorated carriages and bicycle before the judges to win a variety of prizes. Most children were the winners of events staged on the various playgrounds during the week of wheel and doll shows. Richard Day was the marshal of the parade and the judges awarded the prizes to the following:

Prettiest doll, Linda Moore; tightest doll, Patty Dickson; smallest doll, Valerie Ford; most unusual doll, Cheryl Gibson; best decorated bike, Shirley Rabagliuo; best decorated carriage, Judy Summers; most colors in decorated bike, Clifford Lautenbach and the smallest bike, Kenneth Reynolds.

Following the awarding of the prizes popsicles were given to all contestants by the Recreation department. More than 75 spectators and parents gathered to see the event. Judges were Marylin Wopperfield, Jane Burr, Ann Marie Hansen, Catherine Hayes, William Engleson, Ray Blanco and Charles Tarpinian. Next week's events on the playgrounds will be tournament week.

Court Cases

Four cases were disposed of in Town Court this morning. Judge John S. G. Rottner presided and Prosecutor John J. O'Connor presented the cases.

Russell T. Corcoran, 24, of 5 Foxcroft drive, arrested yesterday by Patrolman Joseph Sardella on a speeding charge, was fined $26.

Raymond J. Menard, 18, of 1942 Main street, Hartford, arrested Wednesday by Lt. Raymond F. Griffin on a speeding charge, was fined $15.

Harold Friedman, 41, of 2300 Park East, Bronx, N. Y., arrested and charged with peddling goods without a license, forfeited a $50 bond.

William E. LaPalme, 40, no certain address, was convicted on a vagrancy charge and sentenced to 15 days in jail.

Receiving Stolen Goods Charge Is Nolled by Court

The case of Gerhardt E. Schoenewolff, 36, of 88 Wethersfield street, charged with receiving stolen property in connection with his purchase of a tape recorder stolen from the Coburn and Middlebrook brokerage office last March, was nolled in Town Court this morning by Judge John S. G. Rottner on recommendation of Prosecutor John J. O'Connor who told the court there was no proof Schoenewolff knew the recorder was stolen when he bought it.

O'Connor told the court there must be actual proof, according to Supreme Court interpretation, Knowledge that the item was being offered for a price far below its value has been held insufficient for a conviction.

In a signed statement to police, Shoenewolff stated he agreed to pay $10 for the instrument to a chance acquaintance he met in a local grill.

Police are searching for the man on the basis of a partial identification by Schoenewolff. The suspect is believed to have left the state.

Southern Senators Face Fight From Benton on Filibustering

Rule Revision Is Demanded

Chicago, July 19—(AP)—Sen. William Benton of Connecticut moved today to wrest from southern senators the filibuster weapon they have used to kill federal civil rights bills.

He demanded that Democratic platform drafters call upon the Senate to revise its rules so a filibuster can be ended.

Assailing the Republicans, he said in a statement distributed in advance to newsmen:

"In their civil rights plank of two weeks ago, the Republicans pay the same old lip service to the ideals of equality under law but conspicuously ignore the cancer of the filibuster imbedded with their aids in the Western Bloc."

Simple Majority

Under this Senate rule, named for the late Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, it takes a vote of 64 of the 96 senators to end "a talkathon."

Benton proposed "a Senate rule which makes it possible to put an end to a filibuster by a simple majority vote of those present and voting after 15 days of debate, and by two-thirds majority vote of those present and voting after four days of debate."

Turning to another subject, Benton called for a plank urging the expulsion from Congress of members who violate "American concepts" of ethics. Benton has been engaged in a running fight with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) over the methods used by the latter.

But it was Benton's anti-filibuster proposal which caught most attention in a city preparing for a knock-down drag-out fight over the civil rights plank.

Democratic leaders were trying to avoid such a fight, which might split the party.

Being Kept Vague

Many of them confided it was best not to put the matter, which are counting upon the veteran Massachusetts chairman of the platform committee, to find a solution.

If harmony moves fall, Dixie Democrats who bitterly oppose federal intervention in the field of racial relations must decide whether to surrender or battle it out on the convention floor.

Northern Democrats, led by such men as Senators Humphrey of Minnesota and Lehman of New York, claim enough pledged votes to write a tough civil rights plank. They are openly taunting "the Dixiecrats" to accept it or take a walk as they did four years ago at the Philadelphia convention after a searing floor battle.

Democrats From State To Entrain

Hartford, July 19—(AP)—Connecticut's democratic national convention contingent —22 delegates with a total of 16 votes—taken off of today for Chicago bent on voting for Senator Brien McMahon and, so far as anybody will say, nobody else.

Though he figures hardly at all in national speculation about who will get the presidential nomination, McMahon is sure of Connecticut's votes until he releases them. That was taken care of at the state convention last month.

All A Mystery

Where they will go when and if he releases them, nobody seems willing to guess. In fact, they insisted they didn't know.

If state chairman Thomas M. Bailey knows, and it may well be that he does, he isn't saying.

Bailey has been in Chicago setting up McMahon for Presidential headquarters. He is expected to call a caucus of the delegation soon after it arrives in Chicago tomorrow. A second choice for the

New England Woods in Peril From Dryness

Boston, July 19—(AP)—Smoking and camp fires were banned in Maine and New Hampshire woods today as a blistering heat wave held its grip on New England for the eighth consecutive day.

The ban was imposed because of the "extremely dangerous" woodlands in those states officials feared spread of forest fires which already have blackened wide areas.

The prolonged hot, dry spell also is threatening crops. The second of the three normal summer hay crops is feared lost. Truck gardeners in eastern Massachusetts

UN Renews 'Old Baldy' Hill Attack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tank supported United Nations infantrymen fought through furious artillery fire today in a renewed drive to dislodge the Communists from the northwest slope of "Old Baldy," in western Korea.

Late frontline reports said the crest of the hill was a no-man's land. The Chinese were resisting fiercely.

Four on Shell

From positions on "Old Baldy's" northwest slope, the Reds Friday poured an average of seven shells a minute at Allied positions—one of the heaviest Communist artillery poundings of the war.

Frontline officers said UN soldiers ran into fire almost as heavy Saturday when they attacked from the hill's southeast slope.

The battle has been raging since 10 p. m. Thursday, when the Chinese opened up with a screeching artillery barrage and Red infantrymen assaulted the height under cover of Red tank fire.

Both Allied and Communist big guns have been firing ever since.

By 6 p.m. yesterday, the Reds had unleashed 10,031 artillery and mortar shells.

Win Hill Post

The Chinese won their hold on the northwest slope Friday after repeated attacks. "Old Baldy" was rested from the Chinese last month.

Action elsewhere along the front was light. Weather hampered Allied air attacks.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported bad weather cut the Allied air effort all week and losses to Red guns fell off in proportion. Two Sabre jets were shot down in aerial dogfights and two fighter bombers were lost to Red ground fire. In the dogfights, Allied Sabre jets downed two Communist fighters.

Lie Is Charged By Auto Union In Waterbury

Waterbury, July 19—(AP)—When the president of the Plume and Atwood Company told striking employes in a letter that the company had offered to give the men 11-cents-an-hour raise, he uttered a "deliberate lie," he said an official charges.

The approximately 300 Plume and Atwood employes who have been on strike from the brass fabricating plant since June 28 got lots of mail yesterday—first a letter from President Thomas I. S. Book, and then one from Thomas J. Cooke, international Representative of the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

Boak's letter, informing the strikers the plant would stay closed "until enough of you indicate you want to work," said among other things that the company made the 11 cents offer at a negotiating session July 15.

"Deliberate lie," said Cooke, asserting he was at the negotiating session and that Boak wasn't.

"The company made no offer of 11 cents an hour, or any other increase," Cooke wrote.

He further asserted that an 11 cent offer wouldn't end the strike, and that the union would hold out for a contract comparable to that given employes of the Scovill Manufacturing Company.

He said it provided an 11 cent raise retroactive to October, an additional annual increase of four cents, a cost-of-living escalator clause, "a good pension plan" and a modified union shop.

Sought After

President Philip Murray of the CIO puffs on his cigarette July 18 as he talks with other labor leaders in Chicago. Numerous labor chiefs reached the city yesterday—all seeking a voice in the convention's choice of a Democratic presidential candidate.

Stevenson's 'No' Boosts Other Stock

Chicago, July 19— (AP) Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's no has won efforts to get him into the race projected two senators and Vice President Barkley into top contention today for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson—most reluctant presidential possibility since James A. Garfield declared in 1880 that he wasn't going to be seized by the presidential fever whole later overtook him—smacked down new attempts to make him an active candidate.

But as he has done before, the governor left undled the crack in his wall of resistance against a convention draft movement. All he said was that he would meet that problem if it arose, believing that it never would.

These and other declarations moved Stevenson into the - background and gave impetus to the active drives being put on by Barkley, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

Keep Stronger

Barkley was emerging from advance maneuvering before the opening of the 31st Democratic convention Monday as at least a temporary favorite for some delegates who want Stevenson but also desperate of one-time.

The vice president is regarded as acceptable to all elements of the party, including rebellious anti-Truman contingents from the South, northern advocates of a strong civil rights platform and labor leaders who want to play a "deliberate" role in the nomination of a nominee to oppose the GOP's Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But Barkley is 74, six years

President Gets Angry Over GOP

Washington, July 19—(AP)—President Truman, fighting mad at GOP Congressmen, packed up to leave the hospital today.

He angry mood was underscored by a promise to tell the voters "how the Republicans dance when a well-heeled lobbyist pipes a tune."

Truman signed last night a bill increasing Social Security benefits by $46 million dollars a year. But he declared maneuvering by the American Medical Association's lobby had impaired "maximum protection for millions of disabled Americans."

And he insisted "this victory for the lobby, at the people's expense, was accomplished by a great majority of Republicans in the House."

Fever Is Ended

After two straight days without fever—the apparent victor in a bout with a virus infection which forced him to cancel all engagements this week—Truman returns to the White House this morning, two days before the opening of the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

He entered the plush presidential suite at Walter Reed Army Hospital Wednesday for a complete checkup, his first hospitalization after more than seven years of the grueling strain of the presidency.

While nursed by unexpected Truman's choice of a Democratic presidential nominee, he made no secret of the kind of campaign he wants leveled at the Republicans in a two-page statement accompanying the signing of the Social Security legislation.

The bill, one of 234 the President acted upon while away

Grave Reports On Eva Peron Are Revealed

Buenos Aires, July 18—(AP)—The condition of Eva Peron, critically ill wife of President Juan D. Peron, today appeared grave.

Official reports from the presidential press office said Mrs. Peron showed some improvement after a serious turn for the worse yesterday. The early morning bulletin said she was "resting quietly" at 8 a. m. (EST).

But Argentine government officials appeared downcast and gloomy. Peron, himself, stuck by the bedside of his wife, who fought beside him through the battles of his six presidential years.

Groups of anxious Argentines formed outside the iron fence surrounding the Presidential Palace in the Palermo residential section of the city this morning. They were kept moving by squads of reinforced police.

The diagnosis of Mrs. Peron's illness has never been officially disclosed. She underwent a major operation last November after an examination by a New York can-

Olympic Contests Open In Splendor at Helsinki

Helsinki, July 19—(AP)—The Olympic games opened today before a crowd of 70,000 with Soviet Russia taking part for the first time. Seventy nations paraded 5,870 athletes and 2,000 officials in a fantastic splash of color around the red tracks of the stadium and onto the emerald green turf of Helsinki's modernistic stadium.

The games were proclaimed open by Juho K. Paasikivi, president of the Finnish Republic, and the Olympic torch atop the stadium's slender 240 foot tower burst into flames—kindled by fire relayed across Europe from sacred Mount Olympus in Greece.

Mass Ceremony

Thus the stage was set for a dramatic sports rivalry between Russia and the United States, against which it called "unhygienic and unworthy conditions" in vacation camps conducted by church officials, both Protestant and Catholic.

The press proposed that police check the camps for violations of sanitary regulations lest they are permitted to operate. West Germans immediately viewed the idea as an opening wedge to which prid as high as 10,000 finishers (328) on the black market for seats.

Norman C. Armitage, veteran New York fencer, carried the American flag.

The parade followed the alphabetical order in Finnish, except that Greece, as always the first, and Finland last as the home land. This brought the Netherlands Antilles next after Greece followed by Argentina. Russia—which is Neerouotoliitto in Finnish—was midway in the parade, and the United States—Yhdysvallat at the very end, just ahead of Finland.

Follow Protocol

The ceremony followed the rigid Olympic protocol. President Paasikivi spoke the simple words, "I declare the fifteenth Olympic games at Helsinki open," and 3,500 Danish and Swedish homing pigeons circled in an artillery outside the stadium boomed a 21-gun salute. [illegible]

Next the torch was lit, following which massed choirs sang the Olympic hymn composed for the occasion by Jean Sibelius. Finnish Archbishop Lennart Salomies pronounced the benediction, and

Newest VP Candidates Are Women

Labor Wants To Say More About Politics

Chicago, July 19—(AP)—Labor union leaders feel they will have a lot to say about the Democratic nominees and platform but the facts seem to be against any "clear cut Sidney" situation like in party's 1944 convention.

The late Sidney Hillman, as chief CIO political strategist in 1944, was credited with being that convention's big wheelhorse. It was said, and also denied, that the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt instructed politicos to "clear it with Sidney" on convention strategy.

Both AFL and CIO leaders hope to learn together this year and appear through next week's Democratic convention a pair of candidates for President and Vice President and a platform friendly to the aims of labor unions.

But, while a potent force, the organized labor contingent realizes there will be plenty of other people trying to sit in the drivers' seat.

45 Are Rescued In Freighter Fire

New York, July 19—(AP)—A flaming freighter spewed 49 persons overboard without life rafts 65 miles at sea last night, but 45 were plucked from the rolling Atlantic in a dramatic pre-dawn rescue.

The Norwegian ship, the SS Black Gull, sent its passengers diving overboard after its volatile cargo of naphthalene caught fire and burned fiercely through the vessel.

The crew members and nine passengers drifted through four-foot swells for hours before two ocean liners and Coast Guard planes saved most of them from what seemed at first almost certain death.

Four still were missing.

Survivors Are Sighted

Searching through the gloom of the dark, foggy Atlantic, the rescuers sighted survivors by the eerie glow of the burning ship and by the bright flares dropped from plane droning overhead.

Swiftly they were taken aboard the liner Gripsholm: a one-time hospital ship during World War II.

They were treated by the Gripsholm's doctor and then moved to a Coast Guard cutter, the Mackinac, which raced to the scene of the disaster from its nearby patrol position.

Meantime, the 5,000-ton Black Gull burned on, shooting flames far into the skies.

She was carrying 500 tons of naphthalene from Bremen to New York, stored in metal drums.

Naphthalene is used in making dyes and explosives.

The ship had radioed the Coast Guard at 11:22 p. m. (d.s.t.) that it was in trouble.

Thirty-six minutes later it said

Government Is Striving To End Steel Walkouts

Washington, July 19—(AP)—Government officials are striving to end to the crippling 47-day steel strike studded with sparks that today but retained hope they would not have to use it.

Murray Is Backed

Philip Murray, CIO and Steelworkers union president, was reported solidly backed by his lieutenants in his refusal to compromise further on the demand for a union shop—a form of compulsory unionism.

One union source said the wage-policy committee might ask Murray to retrace some of the ground he has given up through compromise and take a new position even farther away from the industry's stand.

The steel industry appeared to be just as firm. In Chicago, Clarence B. Randall, president of the Inland Steel Company and a leading spokesman for the industry said "strong public opinion" is urging his company "to stand fast and not give in." Randall, who is a self-made man from Northwestern Michigan, said he would present a non-union plan for working."

conference Thursday between Dr. John R. Steelman, acting chief mobilizer, and government production and defense officials.

Seizure on April 8

President Truman seized the industry on April 8 under his claimed inherent constitutional powers. Two months later, on June 2, the Supreme Court in a 6 to 3 opinion held the seizure unconstitutional and ordered the mills returned to private ownership.

A great deal of groundwork would be necessary if the government did decide to attempt seizure of a small part of the industry under the 1948 Selective Service act. The Defense Department would have to place direct orders with struck plants. If these were not filled within a specified time, the President could seize the mills.

The seizure provision of the Selective Service act was not designed to deal with deadlocked labor disputes. Nor did the government consider it a practical solution at the time of the first seizure.

But the shortage of defense steel so hemmings on acute the government may feel compelled to use
