Cheney Union Asks U.S. Supreme Court Review Wage Slash

Local 63, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review a decision of the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors which upheld an arbitrator's award permitting Cheney Bros. to reduce the wages of some 1,600 employes 9 3/4 cents an hour.

This is the second question involving a 2½-year-old wage dispute which the local textile union has appealed to the nation's highest court. The other, which was filed in October and is still pending, concerns a one-cent roll back in the most-of-living adjustment.

In the latest petition, which presents a new issue, the union claims that the state court erred in the protection of due process of law and of equal protection of the law, in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution.

Part of all of the wage dispute, which started in September, 1953, has been aired in court three times, twice before the State Supreme Court, and in two arbitrations.

There is no question now, however, as to the present wage structure. That was settled in the second arbitration, held in 1955, when the arbitrator handed down a decision essentially the same as the original finding.

$240,000 At Stake

What is at stake is a union-estimated $240,000 in wages withheld between January, 1953, when the first arbitrator's decision was handed down, and August of that year, the effective date of the second arbitration award.

The union holds that its members will be entitled to these retroactive wages if the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors' decision is reversed.

The union, through its counsel, Ribicoff and Kotkin of Hartford, asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review the state court's decision on the grounds that the latter exceeded its statutory powers.

Rules Award as Law

The award had been vacated by Superior Court Judge Yon and Acorn on the grounds that the arbitrator had written a decision that went beyond the scope of his authority and did not conform to the

Daly Is Reappointed To State High Court

State Capitol, Hartford, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Senate unanimously confirmed today the reappointment of Associate Justice Edward J. Daly of the Connecticut Supreme Court. The secret ballot vote was 30 to 0. The Senate action came as the General Assembly began balloting on six high judicial nominations, the first to be submitted by Gov. Ribicoff.

The House confirmed Sidney A. Johnson as a common pleas judge. That too was a reappointment, and was approved 199 to 1.

Also unanimously confirmed by the Senate for reappointment were Judges Thomas E. Troland and Frank Covello of the Superior Court. The vote for Troland was 29 to 0; that for Covello 30 to 0.

The Daly, Troland and Covello nominations were immediately sped to the House for concurrent action.

The Supreme and Superior Court nominations are for eight years. Common Pleas Judges are named for four years.

House Vote Unanimous

By a unanimous 199-0 vote the House confirmed and sent to the Senate the nomination of Superior Court Judge Thomas J. Molloy for a new term.

The House also was unanimous, 172-0, in confirming the reappointment of Superior Court Judge Richard H. Phillips.

The House quickly concurred with the Senate on Justice Daly's nomination. The vote was 161-1.

In other State Capitol matters, Gov. Ribicoff will ask the legislature to approve the $25.2 million in State Institutional construction recommended by the State Longley Commission. He has decided to include this in his recommended State budget which will be handed to the lawmakers Feb. 15. The program is to be financed by bonding, as in the past.

If approved by the legislature, and there are strong indications it will be, it will bring to $84.3 million the amount appropriated for this purpose since 1947.

Reliable Sources Cited

Disclosure of Gov. Ribicoff's intention on this matter came today from reliable State Capitol sources.

Mr. Chuck Snowed in --But Good

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The groundhog was snowed in today, the Eager Beavers who sought him out were snowed under, and weather prophets of every kind took grateful cover.

The only thing sure about this groundhog day was that seldom has Pennsylvania had so much new snow on a Feb. 2. In places it was more than a foot deep.

That's a bit of important history, because Pennsylvania is where the groundhog cult every year reaches its direiest heights.

Men who, at other times pursue staid and even august professions turn out on this date to watch the woodchuck whose redeeve are supposed to have far-reaching significance.

It is accepted, with the right amount of skepticism, that if the groundhog sees his shadow we're in for a lot more winter, if he doesn't see it, then the zephyrs of spring already can be sniffed.

Field communiques poured in, rather late, to be sure, and confusing in the bargain.

Lovely Mixup

The Punxsutawney Groundhog Club members trudged up Canoe Creek on the foothills of the Allegheniss and reported that the groundhog had seen his shadow at 8:51 a. m. But maybe the groundhog was too dazed to know what he saw. Reason? The club took along two of the town's fairest lovelies, one in a Christian Dior gown and what was described as a G-look, and the other made up as Marilyn Monroe.

Charles Hess, hibernating governor of the Slumbering Lodge of Groundhogs in Quarryville, Lancaster County, reported that the wisest of that region's groundhogs finally poked his nose out of a hole at 9:05 a.m., glimpsed at what might have been a faint snow shadow, and then withdrew in disgust.

"I swear the creature was wearing ear-muffs," Hess said. "And what with over three inches of snow on the ground, he may have been wearing overshoes, too."

Formal Occasion

Both the Quarryville and Punxsutawney groundhogs took to the open before dawn in solemn and bizarre masquerade. The Quarryville lot wore high silk hats and white spats over tuxedos; full garb. Punxy's predictors turned out in formal morning attire, suitably adapted to the weather conditions.

One-eyed Connelly, the Philadelphia zoo's celebrated groundhog, one of a long line of such seers, predicted from the city's new main weather station at International Airport for a quarter century with Chief Forecaster Henry F. Alex. Connelly was exposed in

McCarthy Says Cohn 'Ethical,' Matusow Lies

Lambertville, N. J., Feb. 2 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today expressed "absolute confidence" that Roy M. Cohn never "worked with" Harold M. Matusow to prepare false testimony against 13 second-string Communist leaders, as Matusow has sworn.

McCarthy said that Cohn, chief counsel for the Senate investigations subcommittee when McCarthy was chairman, always has been "meticulous" in complying with the legal profession's ethical standards. "He would not allow testimony that was not true," said McCarthy. "I have absolute confidence in that."

The Senator, visiting friends here, made the comment in response to a newsman's inquiry.

Admits False Testimony

Matusow swore in an affidavit filed Monday in New York Federal Court that he lied repeatedly as a witness against the 13 Communists. He claimed Cohn had "worked with me" in getting ready his testimony. Matusow is an admitted former Communist who has appeared as a government witness in subversive proceedings.

Reached at his New York law office on Monday, Cohn said he would not "dignify any statement by this individual with a comment on this Communist move." Cohn

Wolfson Wins Test In Ward Co. Fight

Chicago, Feb. 2 (AP)—Louis E. Wolfson has won an important test in his bid to win court fight to gain control of Montgomery Ward & Co.

Management, however, will carry the fight to a higher court.

In a ruling yesterday circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher declared unconstitutional section 35 of the Illinois Business Corporation Act. This is the legal foundation for the Ward staggered system of electing directors.

The effect of the ruling is to direct Ward to elect a full board of nine directors in April, instead of only three. Thus Wolfson's

AFL Proposes Congress Raise Idle Pay Rates

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—AFL leaders said today that "positive appeals" from President Eisenhower to states to boost unemployment compensation payments have failed and it is time for Congress to impose higher benefit levels.

An increase both in the amount of benefits and the duration of jobless workers was advanced by the AFL Executive Council at its winter session here as a major step toward maintaining the nation's purchasing power.

The council said the revisions are particularly needed now because the AFL expects unemployment, measured by the latest government count at 2,838,000 in December, to rise to 3½ to 4 million in February or March.

Big Spending States

At present states pay an average $25 per week to workers insured by the unemployment insurance system. Eisenhower has twice called on states to raise the payments to equal half a worker's regular pay for a maximum of 26 weeks, or half a year, of unemployment.

"Few states have heeded Eisenhower's advice. Rates have been several attempts to have Congress boost benefits, including one last year, but they have been beaten very far.

Some CIO unions are attempting to get supplementary jobless pay from employers through demands for the guaranteed annual wage.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the 10 million-member AFL has

Soviet Industry Gains Yearly on U.S. Output

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—The biggest news story from Russia rarely breaks into the headlines: It's the fact that the Soviet Union continues year after year to register big gains in industry. Production of machinery—capital goods and war material—is soaring upwards.

Figures make dry reading. But they are much more likely to tell the final story of war or peace and who wins out in the race for world leadership than conflicts within the Kremlin. Only because the Soviet Union is becoming constantly more powerful does it make any difference to the rest of the world who runs the Soviet Union and how.

Premier Georgi Malenkov may be scheming these days how to unite party boss Nikita Khrushchev and vice versa. But Malenkov, Khrushchev and the other Kremlin leaders agree that the industrial building of the U.S.S.R. must be pushed.

Only last night the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party published a new decree reminding the party that the "major duty" is the "further increase of heavy industry."

Here's how the Soviets compared in 1954 with the United States in production of four major industrial commodities generally regarded as reflecting overall economic strength:

	U.S.S.R.	U.S.	Unit
Steel	41	80	Million Tons
Coal	346	373	Million Tons
Electric Power	148	544	Billion Kwh
Petroleum	38	312	Million Tons

Except for coal, U.S. production of these basic items is from two to five times that of the U.S.S.R. but the U.S. margin used to be much higher in some items.

In coal, not only a basic fuel but also a raw material for the chemical and metallurgical industries, the story is quite different. Because American coal production has dropped sharply during recent years, the U.S.S.R. is about to capture first place in the world unless there's a quick upswing in U.S. output.

The Soviet leadership has many problems to solve in industry, this particularly in agriculture. But some was serious enough to prevent the Soviet Union from increasing steel output in 1954 by more than 3 million tons, coal by 26 million, cement by 3 million, petroleum by 6 million tons and electric power by 15 billion kilowatt hours.

During this same year U.S. steel production fell off by about 20

Six on Board Ask Teacher Code Ban

Hartford, Feb. 2 (AP) — The State Board of Education today voted 7 to 1 to nipe out its controversial new code setting down the grounds upon which a teacher may be barred from Connecticut schools.

Hartford, Feb. 2 (AP) — Six of the eight members of the State Board of Education present at this morning's meeting of the board have expressed a desire to wipe out the controversial code for the revocation of teachers' certificates.

The motion to rescind the code which had been passed at the board's Jan. 3 meeting was made by John Alsop of Avon, board member representing Hartford County.

Alsop proposed that the entire matter of grounds and procedures upon which a teacher could be barred from teaching in Connecticut should be carefully restudied by teacher groups, the State Dept. of Education and the board itself.

Smith Opposes Resolution

The resolution was strongly opposed this morning by Richard Joyce Smith of Southport, board members from Fairfield County. Smith was the sponsor of the code's controversial "subversion" clause which has aroused teachers and educators throughout the state.

Although the board will not take a vote on the matter until later this afternoon, the decision, if it follows morning's discussion, should be six to one in favor of Alsop's resolution. Mrs. Dorothy S. Hutton, chairman of the board did not express herself on the resolution and as chairman probably will not vote.

Alsop, in presenting the resolution wiping out the controversial code, said that the board had acted at the Jan. 3 meeting under a "misapprehension."

He said that the board had been told that the certification advisory committee representing teacher and educational groups throughout the State had approved the code. It was true he said that the committee had given its approval, but the Board mistakenly assumed that approval by the committee meant that the teaching profession as a whole in Connecticut also approved.

It has become apparent, Alsop said, that the certification advisory committee was not speaking for the profession. Protests and suggestions for changes have been registered by many of the groups

Denies Rumors Of Peace Price

Tokyo, Thursday, Feb. 3 (AP)—Peiping radio, still silent on whether Red China will send a representative to the United Nations, today demanding again that the United States withdraw from Formosa.

A broadcast heard in Tokyo quoted from an article on Formosa in the official People's Daily, which declared "the liberation of China's territory is essential to China's security. This is the unshakable will of the Chinese people."

London, Feb. 2 (AP)—Indian sources said today Communist China's premier Chou En-lai sent a secret message about a Formosa cease-fire to Prime Minister Nehru.

This development came as Red China appeared to be easing about for a face saving way to go to the U.N. Security Council to discuss the Formosa situation.

Deny Price for Truce

The Indian informants denied reports published abroad that the Peiping message to Nehru demanded the surrender of Formosa, the Chinese Nationalist stronghold, as the price for a cease-fire in the China coast fighting. They would not disclose the contents of the message.

Peiping's top diplomatic representative in London, charge d'affaires Huan Hsiang, called on Nehru yesterday. The meeting took place at the home of Nehru's sister, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, India's high commissioner in London. Nehru is here for a conference of British Commonwealth prime ministers.

The leader of Asia's neutralist bloc received Peiping's ambassador to New Delhi just before leaving for London last week.

An atmosphere of diplomatic maneuvering was apparent in London.

Offer To Mediate

A high level diplomatic source said the Indonesian ambassador to London met this morning with Nehru and relayed a proposal from his country that the five Colombo powers offer to mediate in the Formosan dispute. The five are Indonesia, India, Ceylon, Pakistan and Burma.

British diplomats interpreted repeated broadcasts from Peiping as meaning the Chinese Reds want to try to place the United States in the role of defendant before the world.

These diplomats say such a Chinese Communist move has grave propaganda dangers for the West and fails to meet the idea of cease-fire talks envisaged in the New Zealand U.N. resolution. The broadcasts condemned New Zealand's resolution as trickery, echoing Russian moves to get Red China a role in the security council's debate.

Significance was placed here on the fact the Chinese Communists have left themselves a loophole to go to New York. This was regarded as having a certain negative value in lessening the tension over Formosa.

British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden is understood to have explained this slightly hopeful sign to the Commonwealth prime ministers assembled here, basing his information on diplomatic advices from the British missions at Moscow and the United Nations.

New Zealand's move for a cease-fire, titled "Hostilities in the area of certain islands," was adopted by the security council Monday as the No. 1 item on its agenda. The resolution placed no blame on the Chinese Communists, the Chinese Nationalists or the United States for the existing situation. The invitation to Red China to send a

President Says Formosa Stand Serves Peace

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the cause of peace has been served by the United States' making it crystal clear it does not intend to let Formosa fall to international communism.

He told a news conference he believes this country's defense Formosa declaration, voted by Congress last week, insures against any misclaculation by the Chinese Communists about American determination.

The President said there has been no commitment to use American ground forces in defense of Formosa. But he declined to go into any details as to how this country intends to protect the main Chinese Nationalist island and the Pescadores.

Eisenhower specifically refused to say whether the Nationalists' offshore outpost islands of Quemoy and Matsu would be defended by the United States.

He said he was not going to provide any blueprint for the Reds.

The news conference, filmed for presentation on television and in theaters, covered a wide range of topics. They included:

Army Strength—The President said that at this moment he sees no reason to alter plans for a cut in Army strength. He made that remark in response to a request for comment on the statement by Gen. Matthew Ridgway, Army chief of staff, that the planned cut

Background for Crisis

Algeria Is Part of France, But Natives Resent Control

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The root of French troubles in North Africa was be found in an overwhelming disparity between European and native populations. Here's an analysis of that problem and attendant economic issues which help explain why the French want to stay in North Africa, and why the Nationalists want them out. Second in a series.)

By PRESTON GROVER

Algiers, French North Africa, Feb. 2 (AP)—Algiers was the last point I touched on a tour of French North Africa. It's almost wholly a French city now, though its history runs back into the ages.

Built above the harbor, the city climbs straight up the side of a steep hill which is almost a cliff. In some places you can flip a coin from one street to another 100 feet nearly straight down.

Phoenicians Held Area

The Phoenicians were her several hundred years before Christ. Then came Romans, Vandals, Arabs, Egyptians, Portugese and the Turks, who sold the country's crops as fast as they could take them.

In 1527 an imperious Turkish ruler, impatient over wheat negotiations, slapped a French official across the face with a fly whisk. That was a bad thing to do.

Despite their recent defeat at Waterloo, the French still felt "big power." Moreover, they and other European nations were getting pretty tired of piracy. It took a little time but finally the French sent a fleet and in 1830 Algiers was occupied. The fleet was out of a job.

Unlike Tunisia and Morocco, there was no existing government in Algeria when the French came. The Turks ruled only the city. So the French didn't make the place a protectorate. They conquered it outright and 50 years later, in 1881, they formally annexed it to France.

The native Algerians have never

New Clues Found In Serge Murder

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Police officials say new information has been turned up in the Serge Rubinstein murder case, New York's biggest murder mystery in years, but they are keeping the facts to themselves.

A four-hour inspection at the home of the slain millionaire playboy and draft dodger was made yesterday by the two men in charge of the investigation, Asst. Dist. Atty. Alexander Herman and deputy Chief Inspector Edward T. Feeley.

After leaving the luxurious house on Fifth Avenue, they went asked if anything new had been learned.

"Yes," answered Herman. He declined to elaborate.

Herman said he and Feley had inspected once again the third-floor bedroom where the 48-year-old Rubinstein was found gagged bound and strangled last Thursday.

However, Herman added, most of the time was spent questioning Rubinstein's elderly mother and aunt and the household servants—a butler, who discovered the body, a cook, parlor maid, personal maid of Rubinstein's mother and a secretary.

As a result of information gleaned, Herman said, "new and more witnesses are being sought. He said detectives had been sent out of the city but declined to say where.

Rubinstein's wide business and social connections reportedly include persons of high position in Hollywood and Las Vegas, Nev., gambling circles.

Herman said the day's questioning had discounted earlier reports about the mysterious "woman in brown" roaming about the house on the morning of the murder.

Both Rubinstein's mother, Mrs. Stella Rubinstein, 78, and her sister, Mrs. Gerda Forenta, 82, had reported seeing such a woman. They slept that night on the floors above Rubinstein's chambers.

Mrs. Rubinstein had said she saw the "woman in brown" on the stairway. Herman said this now appears to have been an ambulance attendant wearing a brown coat over his white uniform.

Mrs. Forenta had reported that a woman briefly snapped the light on in her room. Herman said this impression was apparently caused by the butler, who, after discovering the body, ran upstairs to check on others sleeping in the house.

Herman said he was also inclined to believe that Mrs. Rubinstein was confused in reporting that she heard angry voices arguing in her son's rooms on the morning of the murder. Rubinstein often had late night visitors, Herman said, and his mother might have been thinking of an argument on some previous occasion.

Miss Edna Guberman has been appointed chairman of the dance which is a single or coupled affair. She is being assisted by Miss Ruth Oppenheimer, Miss Rita Pollack, Miss Judith Tobin, and Miss Anita Wolf. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

million metric tons, coal by about 60 million, and petroleum about 8 million tons.

In electric power output, however, the U.S. output increased more than twice as much as that of the U.S.S.R.—by 31 billion kilowatt hours. Since power production is considered the most significant single index of industrial development this demonstrates that America is not by any means sliding backward economically.

Nevertheless, a comparison of the postwar Soviet and U. S. economies underlines that the Soviet output of most key products of heavy industry has been increasing at a considerably more rapid rate than that of the U.S. narrowing the still considerable gap between American and Soviet heavy industry potential.

While giving priority to heavy industry—capital goods, war goods; fuels and the like, the Kremlin also has increased output of many industrial consumer goods.

Wolfson Wins Test In Ward Co. Fight

chances of gaining control of the board appeared increased.

However, Wolfson's chairman, attorney for the huge merchandising firm headed by Sewell Avery, told Avery, announced the decision will be appealed immediately to the Illinois Supreme Court.

A test of strength between Avery and Wolfson, 45-year-old New York and Florida financier, will come April 22 at the annual meeting of Ward stockholders in New York.

Wolfson in a statement in New York after the decision said:

"The court's decision was a triumph insuring the rights and prerogatives of all Montgomery Ward stockholders. It is highly gratifying. Our entire committee is optimistic about electing a majority of the nine-man board.

Wolfson filed the suit to force election of all nine directors Nov. 1. The ruling, if upheld, would also affect numerous other Illinois firms which use the staggered system of electing directors.

Ward's had assets of more than 600 million dollars, including nearly 500 million in cash and government bonds.

Avery and other Ward officials made no immediate comment on Judge Fisher's decision.

In his opinion, Judge Fisher agreed with Wolfson's attorney that the staggered elections thwarted the intent of the Illinois constitution to provide proportional representation to stockholders.

Management had maintained that "staggered elections preserve stability and continuity of business management."

The judge said it "may be questioned" whether "continuity of the same individuals on the board insures stability. So may be the value of continuity, generally, he questioned. It may well lead to the perpetuation of error and mismanagement."

Also, Fisher said, he saw no merit in the company's assertion that "confusion and uncertainty will result if section 35 is held unconstitutional."

"All that would happen," Fisher said, "would be that the election following the final decision of the court all directors would be elected for a term of three years."

HURRICANE UNIT NAMED

Hartford, Feb. 2 (AP)—Creation of a 10-man bi-partisan committee to prepare a program for tackling the problem of hurricane damage and shore erosion at the town and state level was voted yesterday by legislators from affected communities. Presiding at the meeting was Rep. Norman K. Parsells (R-Fairfield), who said he will appoint the committee after consultation with Democratic leaders Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff previously announced he would call a conference of all parties concerned with the problem.

Cheney Union Bids U.S. High Tribunal Review Wage Slash

question asked. The State Supreme Court, however, in overturning Judge Alcorn, corrected the award and permitted it to stand.

The union is now claiming that by this action that court has departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial proceedings as to call for an exercise" of the U.S. Supreme Court's power of supervision."

Say Limitations "Ignored"

In its petition, the union argues that while the State Supreme Court is empowered to make "technical" corrections in an award, it is not empowered to make corrections which affect the merits of the case.

The union says that the decision did affect the merits and "ignored the limitation of the arbitration statutes (and the courts) previous decisions in interpreting the statute."

The union also claims that even though the record of the arbitration proceedings was not received in evidence, the court corrected an ambiguous award and confirmed it." By so doing, the petition adds, "the court exceeded its authority and deprived (the union) of due process of law and equal protection of the laws in contravention" of the Constitution.

"Indefinite Award"

The question presented, the petition states, is "whether a party to labor arbitration" is entitled to the protection of the Constitution "when a state court at least report, which is empowered to make only technical corrections of an award and does not have a record of the arbitration before it, exercises its power to amend and corrects and confirms an indefinite award."

The petition also states that "the decision of the Conn. Supreme Court of Errors constitutes a holding that the power in any case, in its absolute discretion, to correct and interpret an award, to conform to the submission. The impact of such a decision is obvious. It undermines the entire structure of arbitration."

The wage-cut controversy started in September, 1952, when the company, claiming it was having difficulty maintaining a competitive position in the textile industry, asked the union to accept a pay cut.

The cut asked would have rolled wages back to where they were in March, 1951, when a general wage increase was granted. That increase averaged 8¾ cents an hour.

The union refused to accept the reduction, and the issue went to arbitration in November. The arbitrator, Prof. John Hogan of the University of New Hampshire, granted a flat 9¼-cent hourly wage reduction, as well as a merit roll back in the contract-living formula.

Then the union, claiming that the award did not conform to the question put to the arbitrator, took an appeal to Superior Court. The union held that an across-the-board decrease would result in a reduction greater than the March, 1951, increase for more than half of Cheney Bros. employes.

These employes, the union said, had actually been granted an increase less than 9¼ cents an hour. The union also said that the complicated mathematical formula used to determine increases, as well as many technical terms used in the wage structure, had not been explained to the arbitrator.

Decision Reversed

Judge Alcorn, finding that the award did not conform to the submission and that the award was not final and definite, vacated it.

The company, however, appealed to the State Supreme Court, where Judge Alcorn was reversed by a 4-to-1 decision. The union later filed a motion to reargue the case on seven grounds, five of which involved the general-decrease issue.

The State Supreme Court granted a reargument on only one paragraph of the motion. This held that the court did not take into account the fact that social security taxes had been granted a 9¼-cent hourly increase in 1951 and, hence, consequently, "the basic premise upon which the court's decision rests is erroneous."

After hearing the reargument, however, the court last November affirmed its previous decision by a 3-to-2 majority.

Skating Attracts 37,145 in Month

Attendance figures released today by the Park Dept. disclose that the month of January was a busy one for ice skaters.

Thirteen consecutive days of skating at Center Springs Pond, Manchester's No. 1 area, attracted 37,145 skaters over the period. Second most popular spot was Center Spring's Annex, which had 4,615 skaters spread over 25 days of skating.

Charter Oak Park, a new skating area this season, saw 1,650 skaters in 22 days of skating. Robertson Park at the North End had 2,850 for 30 days.

The Park office said today that skating hours (night) at Center Springs will be from 6:30 until 10 o'clock, if the snow stops. It requires several hours to clear the pond.

Skating at the other three areas will depend upon the amount of snow fall today. If snow is light, all ponds may be cleared for skating between the hours of 6:30 and 10 o'clock.

Work Starts on New Bridge At Notch over NHRR Tracks

Bolton, Feb. 2 (Special)—Work began at the Notch Bridge yesterday in preparation for the construction of a new bridge over the New Haven Railroad tracks to replace the old worn out wooden structure now in the process of construction Co.

The bridge has been closed to all traffic and will remain so throughout the construction period as set forth in a work agreement between the railroad and the town. The Selectmen have suggested that Williams Road be used as a detour for those who find it necessary to reach locations on Notch Road.

Travel to and from the school will be most severely affected while the bridge is closed. Transportation Committee members of the Board of Education are studying changes necessary in existing bus schedules which will be somewhat longer and will undoubtedly require more time.

Workmen uncovered one side of the old wooden bridge yesterday revealing the heavy timbers underneath. The wooden sides of the bridge which everyone found so objectionable since they obstructed vision at the site, protected these timbers from the weather. Some of the timbers uncovered yesterday are reported to show blackened areas, reminders of the fire which necessitated rebuilding back in 1924.

Justice Court Results

The session of Trial Justice Court last night heard the cases of five persons, four of them in one case. Lawrence D. LaGasse of Willimantic pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $15 by Justice John Swanger. He was arrested last week on Route 6 by State Policeman Richard Powers who pinned the accused's speed at 50-55 miles per hour.

Donald Muldoon, John Patelli, both of Manchester; Michael Toomey and John Greenwood, of Hartford, were arraigned under Section 9454 of the General Statutes charged with willful injury to property. The boys are all "under age." Muldoon being 17 years old and the other three, 18. They were all represented by Manchester counsel who pleaded guilty for them, acting as guardians. Parents of the accused were also present in court.

The accused were arrested after investigation by Officer Powers of complaints last month of holes being shot in windows of several local homes. It was established that windows at the homes of James G. Hassett, Charles Gage and Paul Manegaig were damaged.

After some discussion in which Judge Swanson expressed the belief the boys should be taken to jail instead of being released on bond and asked he would want them to enter military service or get a job so "they won't be hanging around getting into more trouble." Prosecutor Renato Cocconi recommended the case be continued for two weeks before judgment was passed.

Justice Swanson accepted the suggestion and indicated to the boys he expected them to make adjustment for the damages caused and show some evidence they intend to mend their ways. Damage to a thermopane window at the Gage home was estimated at $125 by the property owner during the court session.

$5,200 Dairy Theft Suspect Nabbed

Fairfield, Feb. 2 (AP)—Police said that an early morning shot-riddled crate slung along a lonely road here early today resulted in the capture of a suspect in the $5,200 Beachcroft Dairy payroll robbery in nearby Bridgeport Jan. 13.

The suspect, Peter Cirella, 47, of Bridgeport, was booked on a technical charge of breach of the peace and held in lieu of $25,000 bail for further investigation.

Cirella's was the second arrest made by police who are still seeking a third man for the holdup. John Mazon, (age unavailable) of Bridgeport, was arrested last week in that city by investigators who identified the informant as Mazon's uncle, Frank Mazon, also of Bridgeport. Mazon is also held in lieu of $25,000 bail.

The holdup gang of three menheld up Jerome J. Niedermeier, Beachcroft Dairy secretary, as he walked along a Bridgeport street with the company's weekly payroll.

Senate Approves Asia Defense Pact

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Senate ratified by an 82-1 vote late yesterday the Southeast Asia Defense Treaty designed to combat either open aggression or subversion in the Far East.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) cast the lone dissenting vote, saying he thinks this country "ought to mind its own business and keep out of foreign entanglements all over Europe and Asia."

Parties to the treaty, negotiated at Manila last fall, are the United States, Great Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand. The treaty area specifically embraces three nonsigners: Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

Among the signers, only the Philippines has not yet ratified the treaty.

Terms of the treaty say that any military action to be taken in the event of aggression will be in accordance with the constitutional processes of each nation. In the case of threats to security or subversion, they are pledged to consult on what counter action to take.

Sixth A-Gun Unit Slated for Europe

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Army is now to strengthen its atomic striking force overseas, said today it will send a sixth battalion of 280-millimeter cannon to Europe in the near future.

The unit is the 216th Field Artillery Battalion, now completing training at Ft. Sill, Okla. Like the other five already in Europe, it has six of the cannon capable of firing both conventional and atomic ammunition up to 50 miles.

The Army: halted manufacture of 280 MM cannon last year, saying its production needs for 1954 had been met. Officials hinted, however, that no more of the 85-ton artillery pieces would be made because it might be practicable to squeeze useful atomic loads into shells that could be fired by smaller, less costly and more flexible guns.

RIBICOFF HOST TO VIVIEN

Hartford, Feb. 2 (AP)—Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff was host to Vivian Kellems, Stonington industrialist, at lunch yesterday. Miss Kellems said they discussed four bills in which she has a strong interest. The measures, now before the General Assembly, proposed a direct primary, biennial registration of voters, social security for absentee ballots, and restoration of party lever from voting machines.

Clue to St. Peter's Burial Held False

Vatican City, Feb. 2—(AP) A Vatican spokesman said today that wooden tablets purporting to shed new light on St. Peter's final burial place are doubtless false.

The tablets were unearthed recently at Bettona, 90 miles north of Rome near Assisi. Latin inscriptors on them said that the ashes of Peter, first Pope of the Roman Catholic Church, had been transported from Rome.

Marg. Giulio Belvederi, a member of the Vatican's pontifical commission for sacred archeology, said today that he believes that the tablets are "absolutely false."

Msgr. Belvedere said that he had inspected one of the three wooden tablets dug up by peasants and expressed a belief that it "most likely dates from the 11th or 12th centuries." Inscriptions on the tablets indicated they dated from the 3rd century.

A first word of caution on the much-touted discovery was expressed yesterday by Bishop Giuseppe Placido Nicolini of Assisi, who termed the finding "still a very vague matter."

Henri J. Pesnini

Henri J. Pesnini of Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post 102, American Legion, announced today he is heading the committee sponsoring the Manchester Community Players in "Time Out for Ginger", a comedy by Ronald Alexander.

The local community has in the past enjoyed and benefitted by the many projects which the Legion has given assistance to and sponsored through its Community Service Fund. Included in these activities are the annual fireworks display, Community Service Awards to high school Girl, Boy's State program, Junior Legion baseball and the Little League.

Last year this Community Service Fund was greatly depleted and therefore the Legion has undertaken the sponsorship of "Time Out for Ginger" in order to replenish this fund and be able to continue for the coming year its service program.

Pesnini has requested that all Legion members make their tickets at returns tonight.

"Time Out for Ginger" is under the able direction of Mrs. Ann Handley and will be presented on Friday and Saturday at the Bowers School. Tickets may be procured from any member of the American Legion or the Community Players.

Hear Taylor Talk On Blood Plasma

Marine Capt. Wilber F. Taylor, officer in charge of recruitment for Connecticut and Western Massachusetts, was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club meeting last evening at the Manchester Country Club.

The highlight of Capt. Taylor's talk was depicting the many ways in which the Red Cross Blood Bank so definitely served the armed forces and the Medical Corps in saving the lives of many young men who, except for the plasma used, would never have returned from Korea to be among us.

In addition to imparting this very valuable information, Capt. Taylor also showed action pictures taken by himself while overseas.

The members of the Rotary Club wish to take this opportunity to thank Capt. Taylor for telling them why it is so important for all of the service clubs and all of the people of the town of Manchester to donate blood to the Red Cross Blood Bank not only on Feb. 8, the next visit of the Blood Bank, but each succeeding time that the Blood Bank pays its visit to Manchester.

BOY SCOUT Notes and News

Last Friday night Cub Pack 27 held its monthly meeting at St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

After separate meetings of the Cubs and parents, Den 5 opened with a flag ceremony, followed by singing. Clint Hendricksen, Cubmaster, then presented the following awards to his Cubs: Arthur Nickerson and William Hankinson, Jr., Den 5, Wolf badges; Peter Everett, Den 6, Webelos badge and silver lion arrow; Paul Giglio, Den 3, Webelos badge; Edward Cronin and Ronald Arcand, Den 7, Bear badges; Paul Christianson and Richard Gingas, Den 3, one year pins, and Edna Christianson and Mary MacNichol, den mothers, one year pins.

All the dens gave excellent skits on the theme of the month, different phases of railroading. Edna Christianson's skit contained the engine and car featured on the cover of this month's Charter Oak Chatter, along with her children. Railroad movies, made by the Class of American Railroads, were shown as the closing feature. The program was planned by Janette Everett, den mother.

At a very beautiful and solemn ceremony, presided over by Cubmaster Clint Hendricksen, Peter Everett and Paul Giglio received their Webelos badges. They were taken through their early Cub days up to the present time of their Webelos badges, by a pyramid building of the symbols of their badges and arrows, which through the three years they have had to attain. This was eventually turned around to discloss the pinnacle, the Boy Scout emblem.

Peter was presented his future troop scarf and the slide by Harry S. Mildrent, Scoutmaster of Troop 23, and Paul received his scarf and tie slide from Norman F. Larson, Manchester district chairman, who represented Troop 47.

Cubmaster Henrickson has been and still is conducting Webelos classes for his Cubs who have come of age and because of this his boys are ready to start on his big tasks of becoming Boy Scouts, with a little more ease than those who have not had this advantage. Thanks are due to him for this.

Saturday morning the Cubs of Pack 27, with den mothers and committemen, had a train ride from Manchester to Hartford. In Hartford they were given a tour of the railroad station, where they were weighed in on the baggage scales. All Cubs weighed a total of 2,480 pounds, which is a lot of "Cub."

Following this they went on a tour of the freight yard, where they had a ride on a diesel switcher and also on a box car, each Cub and a few den mothers "tooting the whistle." They also went on a tour of the repair house where they had a closer look at the engines and the parts used to run them. Arrangements for this tour were made by William F. Naylor of the New Haven Railroad.

Blaze Destroys Navy Test Ship

Bay City, Mich., Feb. 2 (AP)—Fire swept through the main shop of the Defoe Shipbuilding Co. early today, destroying the plastic hull of an experimental 57-foot U.S. Navy minesweeper under construction.

Damage was not estimated officially but unofficial estimates placed it at several hundred thousand dollars.

The fire wiped out 10 months of work on the project. The mine sweeper, known as the MSB23, was a prototype of a non-magnetic vessel under development by the Navy.

A Navy official hinted that the loss of the hull may result in calling off further work on the experimental project valued roughly at $1,500,000. The project reportedly was half-completed.

The MSB23 would have been the Navy's largest vessel to boast a single plastic hull. All other plastic vessels are of sectional construction.

DEMOCRATS NAME CLERK

Hartford, Feb. 2 (AP)—Robert P. Claffey, of Hartford, was named yesterday as Democratic Clerk of the Appropriations Committee. Claffey, a former State Senator and city assessor, was unanimously endorsed at a Democratic House caucus last week. The committee's Republican clerk is Kenneth Hoffman of West Hartford, former state representative.

Plane Crash Kills Two Passengers

Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 2 (AP)—An airplane carrying six passengers and the pilot on what was to have been a 30 minute flight crashed in the Queen Charlotte Islands yesterday, killing two of those aboard and injuring the others seriously.

Only meager details were available of what happened to the B. C. Air Lines Ltd. plane on the short hop from Alliford Bay to Aero Camp. Scene of the crash was about 500 miles northwest of here.

The injured and dead were taken to Sandspit in the center of the island group, and were to be flown to Vancouver in a Royal Canadian Air Force plane.

Identity of the victims was withheld.

Lake Wamgumbaug Subject Of Game Commission Visit

Coventry, Feb. 2 (Special)—Members of the Blue and Gold Game Commission will attend a Lions Club meeting Feb. 22 at the Cove Restaurant to answer questions at an open meeting from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. relative to problems of restocking Lake Wamgumbaug with perch, pickerel, bass and other game fish. The visitors are coming to town upon the requests of Representatives Stephen Leymin and Herbert Ljunn.

All interested townspeoples are urged to attend as it will be through these efforts that the local lake may again be stocked with desirable game fish, club officials said today. This will be an opportunity to get first hand information on present and future problems concerning the question, they said.

Among those attending from the Commission will be Lyle Thorp, superintendent; Douglas Moss, head of the State Fishery Dept.; Cole Wilde, federal aid coordinator and Robert Jones, regional fish biologist.

Yesterday the local club members attended a meeting of the Willimantic Lions Club at the Nathan Hale Hotel. The dinner meeting was in honor of Ernest Hopkins, former governor 25?

A Fall And A New Mandate?

It may be true that, so far as the people of France are concerned, Premier Mendes-France is the first post-war leader who has united them. But, if that is true, this unity of the people has not yet translated itself in any solid fashion, into unity among the elected representatives of the people. The situation would seem to be that there is a popular mandate for Mendes-France, but that no election has yet formally expressed it, and that, in the meantime, political factions consider themselves free to ignore it.

At any rate, they are building troubles for Mendes-France, on every conceivable phase of his policy, and the general expectation seems to be, among his foes and, among his supporters, too, that the attack on him will succeed at almost any moment now, and he be toppled from power. The combination of political faction and pressure group feeling against him, ranging from those who object to his statesmanship in North Africa to those who simply object to paying taxes, is believed strong enough to defeat him on some one of the many votes of confidence which will be required in the near future.

The assumption of his enemies is that Mendes-France can be disposed of, through defeat on such a vote of confidence.

But some of his friends are no less eager for such a defeat to take place than are his enemies. Their reasoning is that he does possess the country, and that, if he goes directly to the country, he will obtain a mandate which will enable him to govern for a long time to come. Some of his supporters would just as soon have the present phase of French politics, in which he has perpetually been skating on thin ice, brought to an end, to be succeeded by an era in which he has parliamentary support which is clearly his own, and clearly the country's direct backing of him and his policies.

Mendes-France has inevitably, in the kind of thing he is trying to do for France, stepped on not only many unworthy political pettiness and special self-interest in French life, but also on many an honestly held special conviction. No honest, forthright, sound policy could avoid such risks. But the things he has offended are the very things which keep France a splintered nation. In the future lies the hope of new national unity and purpose.

A Mild Prescription

The President has gone back to Congress with his proposal for a federal health reinsurance service, in which a federal fund of $25,000,000 would be set up to insure private and voluntary health insurance plans against failure, just as the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insures bank deposits against loss.

This is a mild policy, recommendation, which stays as far away as possible from any proposition of putting the government itself in the health insurance business, but which still does contribute something as a stimulus for the growth and spread of private insurance plans in the health field.

Mild as it is, this same plan was turned down by the last Congress, mainly, one suspects, because the medical lobby was so ill-advised as to oppose it.

But two things are very obvious. One is that the way to make sure this nation never does feel a compelling need for any kind of socialized medicine is to have private health insurance cover the field so well that no other kind of program is necessary.

The other obvious thing is that either the government does give this kind of mild support to the development and spread of private health insurance, or it does nothing.

If it does nothing, it runs the risk that the health need of the country will demand some different kind of answer, which does lie in the direction of socialization. For the one thing President Eisenhower does insist upon, no matter how little he is attacked for it, is the statement that "as a nation we are doing less than now lies within our power to reduce the impact of disease."

By insisting on that statement, he refuses to indulge himself in the glib and easy and false answer to the issue of socialization, that dangerous answer being that there is no pressing health need in this country. There is a need. We do not do all we can do. Those who would ignore such truths completely are exactly the ones who could, some day, bring us to a socialized medicine nobody wants. The President does recognize and admit the situation, and he presents a mild form of tonic for it. If there is any possible real quarrel with this prescription, it would be that it attempts too little, rather than too much. Congress should fill it.

Now An Ex-Ex-Communist

A Communist who turned ex-Communist—at least in the stories he tells.

He is one Harvey Matusow, who was expelled from the Communist party in 1952, and who then took up what amounted to a career of providing testimony in various government trials against Communists or alleged Communists. His testimony was used repeatedly by government prosecutors, and he was, for a time, one of Senator McCarthy's committee staff.

Now this same Harvey Matusow is in the headlines—and in print with a book—recanting much of the testimony he gave in various court proceedings. He is confessing that he lied in his role of professional informer about Communists. He charges, in his latest confession, that Roy Cohn, when a government prosecutor, helped him formulate damaging testimony which both knew was false. Cohn denies this and labels the alleged disclosure as a publicity trick designed to boost sales of Matusow's book. But, inevitably, some of the people whom Matusow helped convict are trying to use his change of story in order to gain new trials, or a reversal of verdicts against them.

The difference between Matusow and some other well-known professional ex-Communists is that he has confessed that he deliberately manufactured testimony. Others have obviously done the same thing, but do not confess it, even when, on occasion, their testimony is factually disproved. And then there are ex-Communists whose conversion from Communism has included not merely a surface shift of creed, but an abandonment of the lying technique which made them good Communists in the first place. These more sincere ex-Communists are often noteworthy for their reticence and restraint in the field of public testimony.

How much falsehood, and how much truth, has gone into the record by which this nation has conducted its Communist purges may never be known. For, when we are dealing with a character like Matusow, we do not know, really, when to believe him. He may come along next with a repudiation of his repudiation. He may have been lying before, or he may be lying now. As a general thing, however, it can be said that American justice should depend upon such ideological human refuse as little as possible.

The Ultimate Monster?

Down behind lock and key, which is wise precaution for the time being, in the RCA David Sarnoff Research Center in Princeton, N. J., there is a new mechanical marvel called the "Electronic Music Synthesizer."

It is a complicated instrument which can produce, upon demand, any sound made by man or known to man and some not known to him. Under the right direction, it could reel off a symphony, fully orchestrated and played, directly from the mind of the composer.

This is not the use which makes it particularly important that the Synthesizer be, for the nonce, kept under lock and key.

What it can do in place of musical instruments, it can also do in place of the human voice. Under the right direction, the machine could produce a full-blown speech. It could be a speech, on any desired subject, for any length or occasion.

More than that, it could be anybody's speech. The machine could, upon order, produce a full speech, for instance, by President Eisenhower.

Its Eisenhower speech would have the very sound of the President's voice. It would copy his pronunciation accurately. No one could tell, listening to it, that it was not the President of the United States.

What can be done for Eisenhower—which might be a whole series of completely persuasive campaign speeches, guaranteed to win any election—could also be done for anybody else. The machine could also produce a speech by Malenkov perhaps one in which he declared war, perhaps one in which he praised the friendship of America, perhaps one in which he denounced his fellow rulers in Russia. No one listening would be able to tell that this was not Malenkov.

If the Russians had this machine they, of course, could have Eisenhower announcing to unsuspecting they pleased to have him announce.

In short, this machine might be able to rule or ruin the world. It could raise order fleets into action, atomic bombers into flight, or peace delegates into signing on the line. It could even instruct its own keepers to hand over that key to somebody else.

Coffee for Council Assailed by Voter

Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 2 (AP) — The American custom of a coffee break came in for criticism before the city council.

Executive Secretary Paul Wilcox of the Associated Property Owners told the council yesterday that city employes were wasting time "unnecessarily, unjustifiably and dishonestly" by taking coffee breaks.

When Wilcox finished, Mayor George Vermillion announced:

"Council will now recess for a coffee break."

Swimming Down Stream

Last month the Association of Hand Laundries, the Roseland Dance Hall and other interested groups sponsored "Stay-A-Bachelor Week" with a big Exhibition at the Armory. As each man entered the Hall he was snapped by a cranky lady for dropping ashes on the floor. Next he passed the Mother-in-Law Booth, the Wife's Wardrobe Exhibit and the Offspring Booth, where he was forced to hold a damp doll while a 5-year-old kicked him in the shins and yelled "Daddy is a goat!". Next was the Home Cooking Display where he sampled dishes such as burnt toast, boiled coffee, canned spaghetti and overdone eggs. Then he staggered out a beautiful girl kissed him goodbye and picked his pocket. I was educated—but I doubt it will save many of us.

A Thought for Today

Jesus And Our Need

One of the passages from the Gospels which reveals the deep humanity of Jesus is caught up in the Master's remark following His miraculous healing of the daughter of Jairus. In the presence of the three intimate disciples, and of Jairus and his wife, Jesus advises them, "Give her something to eat."

Jesus raised the little girl of 12 years from the folds of death. His first advice is to look after the physical needs of a sick child. This is typical of the Healer of soul and body alike—the Galilean supervised the feeding of the multitudes, even as he ministered to their spiritual needs.

"Give her something to eat." Does this not strike at the heart of the missionary program of the Christian Church? Does this not reveal the amount of response to human need, which ought always to characterize those who have made public their allegiance to Jesus Christ?

Jesus' concern for the material needs of people is a sharp rebuke to those who are critical of religion for its abstractness? Jesus brought the humanitarian relationship of the highest outreach of the spiritual life and the plainest needs of mankind. In His following we minister to whole range of human need, remembering His word to us . . . "Inasmuch as you have done it to one of the least of these, you have done it to me."

Three Minor Mishaps Here Blamed on Poor Conditions

Three automobile accidents occurred yesterday and today and while only one could be attributed to that season of the year, a woman slipped on the sidewalk this morning and suffered minor injuries to her head.

She was Mrs. Edward MacNamara, 43, of 98 W. Center St., treated for a scalp laceration at about 9:30 this morning at Manchester Memorial Hospital and then released.

Sand trucks were out and the Highway Dept. seemed to be keeping up with developments as James Sheekey, town engineer, said he had received no complaints about the streets up to 11:30 this morning.

The town's private ambulance service agreed with the U.S. Weather Bureau that about one inch of heavy snow could be expected. Police began putting on chains about 11 this morning as some streets were getting little slippery.

John J. Molletti, 23, of 309 W. Center St., was arrested for failure to sign his operator's license following an accident at Weaver and Lawton Roads just after noon yesterday when a truck and a car collided into one another, police conditions contributed to the mishap, police said.

Investigating Patrolman Albert Scabies said Molletti was driving the truck and saw the car, driven by Victor Dorman, 32, of 77 Elizabeth Dr., start to skid, but was unable to avoid the accident. None were injured but damage to the truck amounted to about $75 while it will cost about $100 to fix the car, Dorman car's right front fender and hood, Scabies estimated.

Another truck and car accident at about 9:15 this morning, also investigated by Scabies, resulted in the arrest of Roy O. Yarnell, 38, East Longmeadow, Mass., on a charge of a violation of rules of the road. He posted a $25 bond.

The officer said Yarnell was attempting to pass a truck belonging to Burr Nurseries and driven by John E. DeCarli, 27, of 63 East St., Rockville, when the car mishap occurred on Oakland just north of Mill Street.

DeCarli had pulled out of the nursery driveway and was signaling for a left turn into Mill Street when the car tried to pass, police said. The truck was undamaged but Scabies estimated damage to the car at about $75.

Three cars were involved in the third accident which took place on Main just north of Park Street at about 12:35 yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Winslow McLoughlin, 35, of Autumn St., was attempting to back out of a parking space around the corner when she drove into the mishap occurred, according to investigating Patrolman John Fitzgerald.

A car driven by Richard A. Brownell, 30, of Redfield Street, then struck the rear of the McLoughlin car, Mrs. McLoughlin pulled forward after this and brushed into a parked car belonging to John Barry, 61, of 297 N. Main St., Hughes said.

No arrests were made and none were injured in the three way scrape. The Brownell vehicle and the McLoughlin car were each damaged to the extent of about $50 while Barry's car was barely touched, Hughes estimated.

AFL Proposes Congress Raise Idle Pay Rates

refused, out of dissatisfaction with the policies of Secretary of Labor Mitchell, to appoint a representative to a Labor Advisory Council which Mitchell is trying to form.

The AFL, along with the CIO, United Mine Workers Union and the Independent Railroad Unions, all were invited to name representatives to the group, which is to advise Mitchell on labor legislation and other matters. All except the AFL have named their representatives.

The AFL council may reconsider and select someone to Mitchell's advisory group, but so far the union leaders have been extremely critical of Mitchell.

For example, the council yesterday accused Mitchell of installing "new and novel gimmicks to undermine established prevailing union construction trade wages." In administering the Davis-Bacon Act, Union that law the labor secretary fixes wages rates and working conditions binding on contractors on government-aided construction projects.

In Washington, Mitchell quickly took issue with the AFL stand. He said in a statement issued last night that the AFL "completely ignored the record," that its executive council apparently had been misinformed.

"During the last fiscal year (which ended June 30)" said Mitchell, "20 contractors engaged on government work were blacklisted by the Dept. of Labor for violating the provisions of the Labor Standards Acts. These contractors were barred from receiving further federal contracts. This is more than twice the total number who were blacklisted during the past 20 years.

"The AFL Executive Council may call this a 'gimmick.' I call it effective enforcement of the law."

The council said Mitchell was fixing rates below union standards and was also refusing to support legislation to provide more rigid enforcement. The AFL leaders said workers were being cheated out of millions in wages rightfully theirs under the law.

When it was pointed out that Mitchell had installed C. F. Gray, son of President Richard Gray of the AFL Building and Construction Trades Dept., to head Davis-Bacon Act enforcement in the Labor Dept., AFL President George Meany said the younger Gray had "quit in disgust" after only four months.

Margaret Rests For Carib Tour

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Feb. 2 (AP) — Princess Margaret rested this morning in breeze-swept Government House, gathering strength for her rigorous tour of Trinidad and nine other British islands of the New World.

Government authorities said they were "overwhelmed" by the public turnout which welcomed the radiant 24-year-old princess when the royal airliner Canopus landed her yesterday afternoon at sunny Port of Spain to start her month-long goodwill visit.

Officials estimated 40,000 to 50,000 tropically clad people jammed the roadways and city streets to cheer and wave Union Jacks as the smiling princess drove by on her way to the home of the British governor, Sir Hubert Rance.

Two incidents were reported, but neither interfered with the royal progress.

Authorities said two "drunk" East Indians threw themselves in front of a police car ahead of the procession en route from the airport to Port of Spain. The pair were hurried off the highway unhurt and the motorcade behind was not disturbed.

And 60 bell-ringing cyclists tangled in a mass collision after keeping up with the procession for miles. No one was hurt and the riders remounted and caught up.

After the tumult the royal visitor got a breathing spell until this afternoon, when 1,000 guests were invited to Government House for the first big reception of the tour.

The highlight of the program was a preview by West Indian dancers and calypso singers of the island annual gala carnival, later this month.

Director Quits Town Position

T. R. Fairbanks Submits Resignation to Board; Pressure of Business

Theodore Fairbanks last night resigned from the Board of Directors.

In a move which apparently came as a surprise to his fellow Directors, Fairbanks submitted a letter of resignation, handing it to General Manager Richard Martin immediately and the vacancy must be filled by the Board of Directors.

Inside letter, Fairbanks says he is resigning because of "pressing business associations, which make it necessary for me to be out of town."

Fairbanks was serving his second term on the Board, having been elected in 1952 and re-elected in 1954. Fairbanks was a Republican.

Text of Letter

His letter of resignation follows:

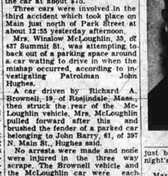
Mr. Mayor and Fellow Board Members:

"Due to present business association, which make it necessary for me to be out-of-town, I can no longer devote the time required to the Board of Directors, therefore, I feel it is fairness to all concerned that I must submit my resignation, effective immediately.

"It has been a pleasure and an honor to have served the Town of Manchester as a member of the Board of Directors, and I am deeply grateful for the confidence shown in me by my election to two successive terms.

"I have enjoyed my associations with my fellow Board members, and wish for them, and my successor, a continuation of the fine and continued success in office.

"Although I will no longer be a member of the Board, I will continue my interest in civic affairs, and if in the future I can be of service, I do not hesitate to call on me."



Theodore Fairbanks

PROBE TRACKS

Anapolis, Md., Feb. 2 (AP) — A probe of the state's laws on all-day land race tracks, particularly with respect to the effectiveness of drug detection tests," was proposed today by a member of the State Legislature. Del. Sol J. Friedman of Baltimore said he was introducing a resolution calling for the investigation as a result of a recent (Life) magazine article which said some drugs used to stimulate horses cannot be detected by tests now in use.

Heavy Fall in Gotham

Groundhog day brought New York City its heaviest snow of the winter, piling up more than two inches by early morning and slowing traffic in the Metropolitan area.

The Weather Bureau said the snowfall, driven by fresh to occasionally strong northeast winds, would continue until midafternoon. The forecast said an accumulation of between four and five inches was expected.

Maryland's roads also were in hazardous condition. The snow in Maryland ranged up to a foot in Garrett County.

Intense cold stung northern New York and New England. Boston had its coldest day of the season with a temperature of 5 above.

Readings included: Old Town, Maine, -33, Caribou, Maine, -26, Presque Isle, Maine, -29, Saranac Lake, N. Y., -20.

There were unofficial readings of Bellows Falls, Vermont, 7, and -30 at West Plattsburgh, N. Y.

The Weather Bureau said Maine would have another cold night by night, with the thermometer getting down to about -30.

The wintry picture was complete with about four inches of fluffy snow deposited in some parts of southern New England yesterday.

Another storm, moving eastward from Kentucky, brought more light snow today to southern New England.

The Weather Bureau at Boston said the southern portions of Connecticut and Rhode Island and southeastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod may accumulate another one to three inches of snow.

Robin Here Three Weeks

In New London, Conn., Mrs. Stephen A. Chapin, 1 Lower Boulevard, again looked out her window this morning and there it was, sure enough, peeking out from the snow-laden rose bush.

The snow was falling steadily and the temperature was hovering around 17 degrees as her visitor, a robin, peered back at her.

She said the bird has been showing up in her yard for the past three weeks. It has been eating the larger pieces of bread she tosses out, leaving the crumbs for the usual assortment of familiar winter birds.

Background for Crisis

taken that very seriously, but the French have. French officials become furious if you suggest that Algeria is not really a part of France. Long ago they opened up schools jointly for Moslems and French alike. Even before the last war, they gave full French citizenship to educated Moslems who chose to ask it; and after the war the extended French citizenship to all Algerians.

"As between France and Algeria, no message is conceivable," Mendes-France recently told the assembly. The whole assembly applauded him, except of course the Communists.

Mendes-France made this declaration in telling the National Assembly he had rushed troops to Algeria to put down a Fellagha (outlaw) rebellion that broke out in November in the Aures Mountains, a perennial trouble spot in the interior.

Just as in Indochina, a few tough rebels in the hills may stand off a lot of troops. Two dozen divisions were used in Ho Annam affair. The exact figures are not given out. Many French battalions are still on the spot although it is estimated only about 400 Moslems are still in rebellion, for the time being, it is "in control."

Coupled with the operation against the interior hillmen, the police spread in on extremists and terrorists in the big cities to prevent an outbreak of terrorism they felt sure was intended as a support for the interior rebellion. The government outlawed the most radical of the Nationalist political parties and arrested 1,500 possible agitators and terrorists.

The uprising was a shock to the French who had considered Algeria "safe," and not like Tunisia and Morocco. But here on the spot, officials are less easy. Governor General Roger Leonard says there is no doubt France will preserve its authority here, but in response to questions he said that if trouble develops in Tunis and Morocco next spring there will be trouble here.

Soon after arriving I talked to some members of the opposition 50-50 division of power in the internal government. They said they would be satisfied with that even though there are 8½ million Moslems against a million French in the country.

French Hold Assembly Votes

At present, the French dominate the representation of Algeria in the National Assembly, they dominate the town councils, and they dominate in the Algerian legislature which has authority to help shape the budget and impose taxes.

That makes the Nationalists pretty indignant.

They are angry about the schools, too. They claim the schools were built mostly in areas predominantly French, so Moslem youngsters don't get a chance to enter. Like many of these things, it is partly true, partly wrong. French officials explain there are more schools in French areas because for a long time very few Moslem children came to the public schools, so fewer were built for them.

The Moslems have the right to send their children to any school, but since the French parents are more determined about getting their children educated, they get on the rolls earlier and pack the schools.

Over since the early '30's, when the Moslem rush for schools started, the government has been building schools and training teachers. They are short of both. Eighteen per cent of the budget now goes for schools, a higher percentage than in France itself.

But there are 1,200,000 children of school age in Algeria, with 9 places only for 450,000. The Moslems manage to get about 300,000 of those, leaving nearly one million out of school. Some French youngsters are crowded out too, but mighty few.

This population problem is exciting the French. In these three North African areas, the population is increasing more than a half million a year. Food is getting proportionately scarcer. Jobs, too. Perhaps two million men are jobless, or earn too little to live on.

Four In Capital

The French point in considerable capital in the form of government grants for roads, housing, reservoirs, sanitation and education. But they haven't got enough money. Mendes-France hopes to negotiate German and Italian capital into North Africa, but tightly under French control. That will take time, and the Nationalists are pressing for more and more outside help right now.

France has a controlled market in Indochina, Many French cotton mills and phosphate chemical manufacturers lived on it. France will hold North Africa for itself as long as is can, especially Algeria. To lose another "captive market" would be critical.

Bolton School Bus Routes Altered Because of Bridge

Bolton, Feb. 2 (Special)—The construction of a new bridge at the Notch has made it necessary for the Elementary School bus schedule to be altered temporarily.

Today, John McDermott, chairman of the Board of Education, said that until the new bridge is opened the bus driven by Mrs. Lee will operate on the following morning schedule: Trip number one: Start from Rosedale at 7:40 a.m.; trip two, Bolton Center Road and Williams Road, Routes 44A and 6, Vernon Road and Notch Road trip from the school at 8 a.m.; third trip, Route 6, South Road and Route 44A will start from school at 8:30 a.m.

McCarthy Says Cohn 'Ethical,' Matusow Lies

said he interviewed Matusow "in the presence of FBI agents" and others and that he left for Europe "before I ever knew he was to be a witness."

At the time, Cohn was an assistant U.S. attorney in New York and helped prepare the government's case for the trial which resulted in conviction a year ago of the 13 Communists on charges that they conspired to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government. The 13 are under prison sentences ranging up to three years and fines up to $5,000.

Matusow's affidavits were presented to support a defense motion for a new trial. A hearing on the motion was scheduled for today.

McCarthy protested as "cheap, dirty politics" what he said was the action of "the Democrats" on the Senate investigations subcommittee in asking seven staff members to resign.

It is not unusual for committees to have a staff shakeup when party control of Congress shifts. But McCarthy said the present case violates a rule adopted by the subcommittee last year—at the Democrats' insistence, he said.

He said he has advised the staff members not to resign, and that he will resist any effort to vote them out of office. Asked if the subcommittee meets next, presumably late this week or early next week.

In Washington Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said in an interview that "the chairman (McClellan himself) has advised some members of the staff he would not submit their names for confirmation" to continue in their jobs, "and offered them the opportunity, if they cared to, to resign." He declined to name them.

McClellan said that if they decide not to resign, the matter will be submitted to the full subcommittee for a vote on whether to replace them.

McCarthy said those asked to resign are Thomas LaVenia, Daniel Buckley and C. George Anastos, his appointee as assistant counsel; Miss Mary Cushen, Robert McElroy, staff investigators; Miss Rosemary Engel, assistant clerk, and Miss Regina Roman, research assistant. All serve as appointees from McCarthy's administration as the subcommittee's chairman in the last Congress.

None of the seven was reached for comment.

McCarthy said he views it as a case of "the Democrats having waited in cowardly fashion until I got out of town for a day or two to raise the issue. He said it was not consulted in advance, and adds:

"This is cheap and petty politics to the lowest and dirtiest extent—a cowardly attempt to get at me through people who don't strike back."

McCarthy said he will protest that the handling of the case violates a rule requiring full subcommittee action on the hiring and firing of staff members.

Board Lists Expenditures, Discuss Teaching Problems

Rockville, Feb. 2 (Special)—Teaching problems of the school in 1956 school year and the approval of additional expenditures of federal funds occupied much of the time at the meeting of the Board of Education last evening.

It was reported that 10 new elementary teachers would be needed, six for additional grades made necessary by the anticipated large enrollment and four to replace expected resignations.

Allen Dresner, principal, said that six additional teachers would be needed at the High School as the enrollment is being estimated at 920, divided as follows: Seniors, 160; juniors, 200; sophomores, 260; freshmen, 300.

Upon the recommendation of the principal, the Board voted to hire a library teacher. In the past one of the teachers has acted as librarian, but due to the increased usage of the library by the pupils, the need for a full time library teacher has become increasingly apparent. The total circulation of books at the High School library from September through January was 3,979 books.

The Board voted to establish the suggested inter-scholastic council and appointed Samuel Goldfarb as its director. He will receive an additional $300 for training the unit as an after school project.

The secretary, Mrs. Barbara Turek of the Home Economics Dept. was announced that Mrs. Anne O'Connor who started her duties yesterday will be the replacement.

Mrs. Alice Hammer reported that there was some concern over the 185 children who travel on the Connecticut Co. bus as there is no matronly person to designate it as a school bus, therefore motorists are not required to stop. Arthur Chatterton, Jr., superintendent of schools, said he would take the matter up with the company.

Federal Funds

Raymond Hammond, assistant superintendent, reported that $29,700 of the federal funds had been spent to date. Purchases employed at last night's meeting included gymnasium floor-lines, three tiers high, for the Vernon Elementary School, steel lockers for the Vernon School, the painting of the exterior trim on buildings A & B, also painting and varnishing interior of these buildings on School Street, now used by high school pupils; venetian blind shades for Vernon; mowing machine and snow plow attachments for the Northeast School; new dishwasher for the Maple Street School; renovations for the principal's office at Vernon and three metal gates to shut off portions of the school and various articles of high school equipment.

Tuition Bills

Tuition bills for the semester have been sent out as follows: Ellington, 155 students, $25,362; Manchester, one pupil, $167; Somers, 91 students, $15,242; South Windsor, one pupil, $167; Tolland, 82 students, $13,735, for a total of $55,275.

The subject of reading and its problems in the schools was also discussed at length. Hammond said that he had made a study since the subject of special classes was mentioned and that he was still of the opinion that there were not enough pupils for a separate class. However, he felt strongly that a teacher should be used where pupils was necessary and could be more useful than special classes. He explained the manner in which such type of teacher would fit into the school program.

The Building Committee is to investigate the matter of improving the electrical service at the Maple Street School where the increased number of electrical appliances is causing some difficulty with the present service equipment.

The report of Miss Margaret Dorsheimer, school nurse, showed the vision of 452 pupils treated last month, 28 were given first aid, 7 were sent home and 141 examinations made in the High School and 1,000 in the individual health examinations and first aid was given in 1,000 cases.

The Board voted to return to its former meeting night, Wednesday. The next meeting will be held on March 9.

March of Dimes Benefit

The March of Dimes benefit dance will be held Saturday at the Elks Carriage House, with admission from 9 to 1 a.m. Julius May, chairman of the local March of Dimes committee which is sponsoring the fund raising drive, announced that music will be furnished by "The Rhythmaires" and that refreshments will be served. Tickets may be procured from any member of the Elks or at the door on Saturday evening.

May also urges that anyone who has not yet contributed to be contacted through the "Mother's March" in rural Vernon to mail his or her contribution to Raymond Spurling, treasurer.

County Meeting

The Tolland County Democratic Association will meet in the Columbia Town Hall on Monday at 8 p.m. The principal speaker will be Professor Philip Taylor, of the Dept. of Economics at the University of Connecticut. He will speak on "Alternative Tax Policies for the State of Connecticut." The Columbia Democratic Town Committee will serve refreshments.

Court Cases

Joseph J. Kagan, 19, of Hartford, was fined $25, given a 30 day suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for one year on a charge of breach of the peace by Deputy Judge John J. O'Connor in Town Court this morning.

Kagan was originally charged with having a concealed weapon in a motor vehicle and possession of obscene literature, but Prosecutor David Keith said investigation showed these charges might not be warranted by the facts. Kagan was arrested Jan. 19 by Patrolman John Bissell.

Three men arrested yesterday by Patrolman Emanuel Motola in Depot Square were fined $20 for intoxication. They were Leonard LaChance, 43, of 41 Homestead St.; Emmett Brogan, 38, of 116 Adams St.; and Bernard Kasulki, 46, of Chapel Street.

Edward Turgeon, 27, of Hartford, was fined $10 for a violation of rules of the road. He was arrested Sunday by State Patrolman Elmer Neal and charged with speeding, but the charge was reduced.

Two motorists had charges of violations of the rules of the road nolled. They were Ivy Riddell, 65, of 142 W. Center St., and James A. Kendall, of RFD 2. Prosecutor Keith recommended the action after investigation of the two cases.

C. Henry Olmstead, 51, of East Hartford, charged with passing a red light following his arrest yesterday by Patrolman Albert Scable, had his case continued until Saturday.

Also, William H. Gess, 38, of 26 Little St., charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs, had his case continued until Monday under $200 bond.

Bristol, England, Feb. 2 (AP)—A new turbo-jet engine billed as the world's mightiest went through its first public paces here yesterday. Capable of 11,000 pounds thrust, it is more powerful than seven locomotives.

The engine, known as the Olympus 101, is being built by the Bristol Aircraft Co., for both military and civilian planes.

Coed Sees Prince In Monaco Palace

Monte Carlo, Monaco, Feb. 2 (AP)—American Coed Jo Ann Stock has met Monaco's reigning Prince Rainier III and says she'd "love to be a princess and live in this country." There was no indication today that bachelor Rainier would grant her wish.

The 20-year-old University of Illinois student flew to Monaco last week on the blind chance of meeting the handsome, 31-year-old prince after residing in a U.S. magazine that his subjects want him to get married and some would like the bride to be an American.

At first she couldn't get past the palace gates. Then the prince's Roman Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Francis Tucker, interceded and she visited Rainier for two hours yesterday afternoon. Father Tucker and Rainier's sister, Princess Antoinette, chaperoned.

Joan said they discussed football, yachting, music, the prince's private zoo and Joan's plans for the future. They toured "the Green Room, the Blue Room, the Throne Room, the corridors with pictures of his ancestors on the wall," and the terrace, which has a "marvelous view."

Rainier, she bubbled, was "a real prince charming . . . more handsome than all the pictures I have seen of him."

Joan didn't say what further plans she has. The prince wasn't available for comment.

Move Toward Addition To Washington School

A good portion of last night's meeting of the Board of Directors was dominated by discussion of the town's school building problems and the Board went forward with the proposed addition to Washington School.

The Board authorized General Manager Richard Martin to engage an architect to draw preliminary plans for a 4-room addition to the Washington School and took steps toward setting up a committee to advise Martin in his choice of architect.

Reduce Insurance Premiums

And in a report on the high school, Martin told the Board 12 general contractors have obtained copies of the specifications. He also said the Town Insurance Committee has reduced the premium for insurance during construction from $28,000 to $14,000.

Director Walter Mahoney abstained from the vote giving Martin the go-ahead for an architect. He said a petition is being circulated among some residents of the West Side asking for an auditorium.

The Board of Education has asked for a 4-room addition and plans to continue using the facilities of the West Side Recreation Center for gymnasium and auditorium purposes.

No Plan to Meet

Mahoney said the Washington School does not provide any place for PTA meetings and other adult meetings.

Director Gilbert Barnes said it is within the province of the Board of Education to determine what facilities they need.

The committee to advise Martin on naming an architect will consist of three members each from the Board of Directors, the School Building Committee and the Board of Education. Mayor Harold A. Turkington was authorized to name the members from the Board of Directors.

Question Mahoney

In public discussion which preceded the meeting, former Director Helen Fitzpatrick quoted Director Mahoney as saying in public he inspected plans for the high school and when he asked what to do with them was told by General Manager Richard Martin to burn them.

Mahoney made the statement Monday at a Town Planning Commission hearing.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick asked if the final plans now in the hands of the State Board of Education are the same as the ones which town groups have approved.

Says Plans The Same

Martin said the plans dated Jan. 10 and approved by the School Building Committee and the Board of Directors are the final plans being given to contractors who ask for them and the same ones in the possession of the State Board of Education.

He said those plans contain revisions and corrections made as the result of discussion by the School Building Committee of the plans submitted to the town earlier.

Director Mahoney said "The people found out last night that they weren't going to get tennis courts. I don't know whether we are going to recognize the school when it is built."

"Did somebody make a statement to the effect that tennis courts would be eliminated," Director Jacob Miller asked Mahoney.

Mahoney said he believed Willard Rogers said something to that effect.

Four Tennis Courts

Ray Goslee, chairman of the School Building Committee, said today the plans being passed out to contractors call for four tennis courts to be located on the E. Center Street side of the site, back some distance from the street.

Another former director, Sherwood G. Bowers, who headed the Bowers block on the old board, brought up the knotty question of substantial accordance of the final plans with the preliminary plans for the high school.

Martin said the School Building Committee passed a motion finding the plans substantially in accordance with the preliminary plans.

"I did not inspect them in detail," Martin said, "with that (accordance) in view, but my opinion is they are substantially in accordance."

Considered Plans in Detail

Bowers asked if the SBC considered the plans in detail before making the finding. Martin said the vote was unanimous on the SBC. He said the members gathered in small groups to study the plans before that. He noted that G. N. Cole and Atty. Wesley Gryk had some 40 questions concerning the plans.

In answer to a question by Bowers on square footage, Martin reiterated his statement that the final plans called for 280,000 square feet as compared with 300,000 originally contemplated.

Martin said he could not say specifically where the 20,000 foot difference was taken out, but that it was spread around the building.

Bowers said 20,000 square feet is considerable space and he thought should know where it is coming from.

Bowers criticized what he felt was the inconsistency of the SBC in holding Walter Crabtree's plans for the Keeney Street School to the letter of substantial accordance and permitting wide latitude in the high school.

Criticizes Griswold, Rotner

Harking back to the Monday meeting of the Town Planning Commission, Bowers criticized Hayden L. Griswold and Atty. John R. G. Rotner. He said after working long and faithfully on the School Building Committee they should not "turn around and sell their services to someone who wants to do something which the Board of Education unanimously opposes."

Rotner represented Mott Supermarkets in its application for a zone change on E. Center Street which the Board of Education opposed because the land in question is next to the high school site. Griswold appeared as a witness for the firm.

Repeating his frequent assertion that the town should not pay so much for its schools, Bowers used figures quoted recently by Arthur H. Illings, superintendent of schools, to point out that the town will need to build 20 classrooms a year.

Bowers' Figures

At a million dollars for 20 rooms, a figure he based on the costs of Waddell and Vernon-Lydall Schools, the cost in five years would be $5,000,000 to which should be added the $2,000,000 additional bonds for the high school and from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

"It's high time official taxpayers took the matter in hand and stopped squandering money and credit," Bowers asserted.

Recommends Buying Tract

Bowers also recommended the town seek to buy the 70 acre tract on Jackson Street which Chesney Bros. plans to sell, presumably to a residential developer.

Bowers said it "will cost less to buy the land than to build classrooms for the pupils who will come from homes that will be built there."

Another recommendation for land purchase came from Mrs. Martha Stevenson. Speaking as an individual, she said if the Town Planning Commission does not rezone the land owned by Edgar Clarke near the high school, the town should try to buy it and other lands nearby as they become available.

Gibbons Assembly Hears Fr. Yuhas

Father Cassian Yuhas, C.P., of the Holy Family Monastery, West Hartford, who addressed the members of Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus last night, gave a most interesting and colorfully live account of his experiences in Rome where he was fortunate in completing his studies in sacred eloquence and other subjects for a full year after his ordination there, enabling him to remain for the greater part of the Marian Year.

Introduced by Chairman Mrs. Lou Barrett to an audience that filled the banquet hall to capacity, he related many incidents of his studies and travels through Europe and in Rome, where he studied at the Pontifical University and the Vatican Library. The main theme of his discourse was his ability to hear and see His Holiness Pope Pius XII, who would like to be remembered as the sanctifier of his people.

Father Yuhas asserted that over two million people lined the streets from St. Peter's Cathedral to St. Mary's Major Cathedral for the opening of the Marian Year. Pope Pius said his first Mass as a young priest at St. Mary's.

The speaker said he was impressed with the Pope's great ability to speak on every subject with infinite wisdom, and on one occasion he was in an audience when the Pope spoke fluently in Spanish, German, French, Portuguese, Italian and English languages to different groups.

Another characteristic of the Pope which impressed Father Yuhas was his great love and concern for children, especially orphans, which was fully returned by them. During his illness they would kneel outside, even in the rain, praying and hoping he would be able to come to the balcony and wave at them. On his death he was carried in the center, on one side a statuette of "Our Lady of Poland" (He has great compassion on the Polish people because of their persecution.) On the other side is a rag doll, the gift of one of the children, who gave him her most treasured possession. Before he was ill, the speaker said, the Pope's day began between 5:30 and 6 a. m. and closed between 1 and 2 a. m. the day following.

The Rev. John F. Hannon, chaplain of Gibbons Assembly, accompanied the guest speaker, after which the following new members were welcomed: Mrs. Catherine Vendetta, Mrs. Monique Healy, Mrs. Irene Khotowicz, Mrs. Jennie Rydlewicz, Mrs. Patricia Quinn, Mrs. Beverly Cronin and Mrs. Betsy Hannah.

The hall was appropriately decorated with Valentine motifs. The centerpiece on the buffet table was mounted on little dolls dressed as the Queen of Hearts and surrounded by valentine and red candles. Mrs. Barrett, Mrs. John R. Morin and Mrs. George Willard poured. Home made apple and cherry pie, tea, coffee and red and white candy hearts were served.

Attention Mrs. Bombard

A little further description of the rose breasted grosbeaks may be allowable to answer to the query by Mrs. C. A. Bombard, Sr., of East Middle Turnpike, Manchester, in "Heard Along Main Street," in the Jan. 22 issue of The Herald. It can hardly be otherwise than that the flock of 15 or 20 handsome colored birds that she saw at her feed box were of the above species. The male grosbeak has a brown light yellow beak, a rose colored breast, white belly, black wings and tail, touched with white. This means to another bird-description very closely. The female is much less showy than the male, being mostly brown or streaked with brown.

Allan L. Carr, who is here for the winter, says he has sometimes come across these birds at dump heaps picking up food. Almost any bird book will give pictures and descriptions of these birds. But they are not often seen.

Zone Board Session

A meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals is slated for tonight in the old Town Hall at 8 p. m. to consider the request of Edward J. Spencer for a slight change in the zoning laws.

A few weeks ago Spencer was denied a request to establish an industrial zone in the area of his property with permit to have a junk yard at that place. He now asks for establishment of the business within the present zoning regulations.

While dancing of the ballroom order for grades seven and eight also will be resumed Friday evenings at the auditorium, under direction of Mrs. Stanley K. Negus. She would be glad of assistance by others in the classes, either in teaching or in other details.

Club Ribbon Awards

In a home egg laying contest for December, sponsored by Tolland County Farm Bureau, Carolyn Coolidge and Charles Schreier came out near the top. Carolyn had a flock of 20 hens, with an average of over 20 eggs each through the month. Charles had a flock of 140 hens, with an average nearly equaling that of Carolyn's. They received blue ribbon awards.

Mardi Gras Plans

Allan L. Carr has been appointed as fortune teller at the coming Mardi Gras. Mrs. Donald E. Raymond, Mrs. Douglas H. Porter and Mrs. Henry C. Osborne will arrange for decorations. Tickets will be on sale in the near future.

Lunch Program Out

So far there has been no report of resumption of the school lunch program in the local school. At present these pupils who live within a convenient distance from home are taking their lunches back and forth and eating at their homes. Others who live several miles from home are taking their lunches with them. The arrangement has been used as plan.

The program was dropped a few years ago on account of lack of support, not enough pupils taking advantage of the lunches to make it a paying proposition.

Kindergarten pupils are being served milk, their parents taking care of the expense.

Mendes Faces Crucial Debate On Africa Issue

Paris, Feb. 2 (AP)—Opponents of Premier Pierre Mendes-France, determined to topple him from power, launched a sharp offensive today as the National Assembly opened a crucial debate on the Premier's policies in North Africa.

Gen. Adolphe Aumeran, member of the Independent Republican party from Algeria, bitterly criticized Mendes-France and Interior Minister Francois Mitterrand. Aumeran declared their policies had encouraged bands of terrorists to attack French settlers.

He also accused American and British trade union officials of seeking to oust French influence in North Africa under the guise of union activity. This remark was apparently aimed chiefly at the American Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO), which has been advising the Tunisian General Labor Confederation.

A feverish atmosphere pervaded the chamber and its lobbies when Pierre Schneiter, president, gavelled the legislature to order. The Premier was facing one of the most decisive tests of his seven months in office, and veteran observers were reticent about predicting an outcome.

Confidence Vote Possible

Mendes-France foresaw a possibility that he might want to make the ballot on the confidence motion a vote of confidence—staking his governmental life on its passage. He reserved his decision, however, to await the political lineup revealed by the debate. If he poses a confidence vote, it is expected early Saturday morning, 24 hours after the end of the debate.

The debate comes at a time of growing dissatisfaction with the Mendes France government. Twice in two days the cabinet has been defeated on minor budget points. The opposition has been organizing attacks on any available target in an effort to wear down the ministers.

The question remaining was the choice of an issue on which to topple the cabinet. The North African question presents the first major opportunity, but some opposition deputies may prefer to wait for a later date.

Although deal party positions on the debate have not hardened, Assembly sources appeared pessimistic that the government could survive without last minute support from unexpected quarters. But the possibility that Mendes-France might swing some deputies into line during the next two days was not excluded.

At least 15 deputies submitted specific questions to the government and planned to speak on their chosen subjects during the debate.

Mendes-France, interior minister Francois Mitterrand and Christian Pouchet, minister of Tunisian and Moroccan affairs were expected to present the government's case.

Negotiations Drag

Mendes-France is hampered by the lack of any agreement with the Tunisians on terms for local autonomy in that protectorate. The negotiations, after dragging on for months, seem to be stymied on the division of police powers.

For Algeria, which is governed as a part of France, Mitterrand has drawn up a list of proposed reforms to give Algerians a little more voice in local affairs.

He also has moved to transfer control of the police in Algeria to Paris, apparently inspired by reports that French residents in Algeria are exerting influence on the police force that often nullifies orders from Paris. Many Algerian French have strongly protested the proposal.

Tunis and Algeria will get most of the attention in the debate, with Morocco only a side issue.

10 Killed in India Airplane Tragedy

New Delhi, Feb. 2 (AP)—All 10 persons aboard, including a member of the Indian Parliament and an Indian government official, were reported killed early today in the crash of a C47 transport plane in central India near Nagpur.

The plane was on a regular night flight from Madras to New Delhi.

The dead reportedly included Bhaurao Borker, Congress Party member of Parliament; C. Parthasarathi, deputy secretary to the Transport Ministry, and the crew of four.

Tornadoes Kill 31, Injure 100 In South Africa

injured were school children. Each twister had an elementary school dead center in its path.

National Guardsmen patrolled the Cannon Landing area today as survivors searched the Leatherman plantation's splintered tenant houses for possible additional victims.

Most of the damage at Olive Branch centered at Wiggins Elementary School. Twenty-three students were at their desks when the twister struck. A teacher and two children were killed.

Ambulances from towns in the surrounding delta area moved the injured to hospitals in Memphis and Tunica, Miss.

The 25-bed hospital at Tunica, about 15 miles south of Cottonwood Landing, was soon jammed. Volunteers, some of them pretty girls in party dresses, were organized to help the staff. A school was converted into a makeshift dormitory for the homeless.

The Commerce Landing tornado cut a swath 200 feet wide through the 8,000-acre Leatherman plantation, destroying a row of tenant houses, a church, a school and a cotton gin.

W. V. France said the school was whipped away before his eyes, as if a giant hand had snatched it up and tossed both wreckage and bodies into the bulging clouds.

"Afterward men and women came to the spot," he said. "They would find a child and come crying up the road with it in their arms. It doesn't seem possible anybody got out, but they say two little boys did."

The school had an enrollment of 45. No one knew how many of the children were in the school when the tornado struck. The teacher was among the battered dead. Her car, crushed into a ball, was found 200 yards away.

There was no accurate estimate of the number left homeless. The highway patrol reported about 50 homes destroyed or damaged.

Two-year-old Rudy Lee Clark said she was at the Landing school when the giant twister struck.

"The teacher told us we could go home before the storm got too bad," she said. "About five of us started up the road when the wind began to blow real hard.

"We went into a house and it just came apart. I landed about 10 feet away."

The child suffered facial cuts.

Mrs. Matilda McCoy was at her tenant farm home with her seven children when her husband, Fred, and her father, Cliff, came in out of the field and said:

"There's a storm coming."

"Fred told me to put out the cook stove fire," Mrs. McCoy said. "I had just poured water on it when the back door of the house blew off. I grabbed up my baby and the wind knocked me to the floor.

"My father knelt over two of my children and covered them with his body. My husband lodged after the rest. The next thing I knew the house was in splinters and I was sitting on a pile of bricks in the mud."

Three of her children were hurt but none seriously.

Surgeon Says Races Different In South Africa

Los Angeles, Feb. 2 (AP) — Some striking physical differences between the white and black men of South Africa were reported today by an English bone surgeon who works among miners in the fabulous gold country near Johannesburg.

These differences do not signify the superiority of one racial group over another but they mean that a doctor has to be on the lookout for variations in physique as he works across color lines, the surgeon said.

Better For Heavy Work

In several respects the black men of Bantu are better built for the heavy hot work in the mines than the whites, Dr. G. T. Du Toit told the American academy of orthopedic surgeons.

Dr. Du Toit works for an industry-wide gold mining organization which uses about 400,000 Bantu and about 40,000 whites. The blacks sign on contract to work three years and are grouped in camps where they are fed, housed, clothed and kept in top physical condition. Dr. Du Toit said. The white laborers live full on their own homes and act as foremen for the blacks.

One outstanding physical difference the surgeon reported was in knee structure. The Bantu knee is better for squatting, he said, because it is somewhat more primitive than the white man's knee, which is superior for standing.

This difference, Dr. Du Toit reported, is due to the fact that the Bantu leg does not straighten out completely when it is put forward in walking or running, but remains slightly flexed. The white leg, he added, straightens out even beyond a straight line, with the knee locked. This action that allows a doctor to open a little too far. The white knee locks and unlocks from this position at each step. That causes a jerk that makes the white man run slower than the Black, Dr. Du Toit asserted.

Some of the other differences reported by the surgeon:

More Ligament Injuries

Blacks have more ligament injuries than whites because of a greater deposit of calcium at the junctures of the tendons and bones.

The blacks seldom have backache even though they work strenuously on all fours, in tunnels only 30 inches high. Even though they carry their babies on their backs, they seldom have trouble.

The 40,000 whites need about 200 knee operations a year; the 40,000 blacks almost never need one.

The blacks, who average 135 pounds in weight, eat twice as much meat as the whites.

Because of their phlegmatic temperament, the blacks are better surgical patients than the whites.

Even though they come from hot climates, the blacks, can't stand the 120 degree temperatures at the depths of the mines. They have to be acclimated before they are sent underground. The whites are similarly conditioned.

Tuberculosis is more prevalent among the blacks; artery sclerosis is high among the whites — twice as severe as among the blacks.

Try this for a mid-morning pick-up. Stir a teaspoon of beef concentrate (in liquid form) into a cup of hot water.

Board Sets Informal Meeting On Traffic, Parking Survey

Name Atty. Mrosek to Library Board; Town Clerk Ass'ts Approved

The possibility of a traffic and parking survey of the town under the joint auspices of the Town Planning Commission and the Board of Directors will come up for discussion at an informal meeting of those two groups Tuesday.

The decision to take the matter up then was made last night by the Board of Directors which also discussed other aspects of traffic and parking.

Table Action

The Board tabl' action on a traffic light at E. Center Street and Summit Street until a report by the State Traffic Commission is available.

The action came after Andrew Kennedy, an investigator for the Commission, explaining the criteria used for determining whether a traffic signal should be installed at a location. Kennedy was speaking at the E. Center Street location but has not completed his studies.

Meanwhile, Police Chief Herman O. Schendel is recommending similar investigations on Spruce Street at Oak, Maple and Russell Streets.

Joseph Mortensen, chairman of a parking and traffic committee of the Chamber of Commerce, submitted a C of C recommendation that the town set up a parking authority.

Explains Procedures

In his explanation of the State Traffic Commission's procedures and decisions, Kennedy said the commission is reluctant to place for signals on town controlled streets is largely procedural. The applications are investigated largely to be sure the signal proposed meets standards for, color and sequence of lights.

As for state controlled roads, like E. Center Street, the Commission applies a series of warrants which concern the volume of traffic, the interrupting traffic, the number of accidents which could be corrected by a signal, the volume of pedestrian traffic and other factors.

In answer to questions from the Board members on control points where traffic is heavy for limited periods, Kennedy said the answer is usually a police officer.

The Board later instructed Mortensen to discuss this possibility with Schendel.

Confirm Appointments

In other actions last night, the Board confirmed the appointment of Mrs. Barbara Harrison and Miss A. Esther Matchett as assistant town clerks, named Atty. John Mrosek to the Library Board to succeed Mrs. Eleanor B. Robinson, and decided to schedule an informal meeting on the Priority Work Program, a list of problems which face the town.

Discuss Purchasing Methods

A request for a waiver of competitive bidding brought about a general discussion of purchasing methods and whether preference is given to local outlets when possible.

The request came from Civil Defense which seeks to buy coveralls for block wardens at $584. Two quotations were received.

The Board instructed Martin to discuss the matter with Fred Edwards, CD Director, to determine whether local outlets were asked to quote.

Speaking about purchasing in general, Martin told the Board he feels a part-time purchasing agent might be hired and a file of specifications built up. The move would save some money, Martin said, but he does not know how much. "The experts say 10 per cent," he added.

Supported Revision

On, of the charter revisions discussed in a workshop conducted by the League of Women Voters would create a purchasing department. That revision was supported by a majority of the 13 member subcommittee which evaluated suggestions and approved by a majority of the 27 workshop members who voted on alternatives.

The Board also set Feb. 15 as the date for a public hearing on an additional appropriation of $15,000 to be used for several purposes.

Notes Grand List Up

In a report on the town's new Grand List, Martin noted that the list increased by $1,026,000. The increase was chiefly in 237 new dwellings. Multiplying the new dwelling by 1.5 children per dwelling by $240 a year average cost per child for education, he gets $85,200, Martin said. The total increase in value of dwellings, garages, and barns is $1,412,811 which at 35 mills brings $50,500.

"We can't afford many of this kind of increase," the Grand List," Martin observed.

Douglas Attacks Smears by GOP

Baltimore, Feb. 2 (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) says he believes the Democrats want to cooperate with the Eisenhower administration but he does not believe such cooperation fully possible until the Republicans spokesmen cease what he called their "smear tactics" in last fall's congressional campaigns.

Douglas spoke to about 500 persons who paid $5 each to attend the 7th annual Roosevelt Day dinner sponsored by the Americans for Democratic Action last night.

He said "such smear tactics threaten the foundation of American democracy by misleading the people and inflaming their passions to hatred."

He said they also threaten the national unity.

Douglas attributed what he called a growing unwillingness to fight Communism to a Republican emphasis on "peace at any price."

Calling "tyranny worse than war," Douglas added "if we say that we will not fight, the Communists will take full advantage of this and push from victory to victory."

Merrills Report Second Robbery

Wapping, Feb. 2 (Special)—A break at Merrill's Restaurant on Ellington Road early morning when a quantity of tobacco products were taken, is being investigated by Constable David Shea.

Police said, the intruders, who ransacked the entire restaurant gained admission by smashing a rear door, and left by the front door which was left open.

The break was discovered by Armond Bureau of Foster Road at 11 a.m. Sunday when he came to the restaurant. He notified police and George L. Duroe, the restaurant owner of Penn Drive, West Hartford.

Duroe, who took over the business on Nov. 1, said that this was the second break in two weeks at the same place.

One night about two weeks ago, when returning to the restaurant from a dance, he said he had noticed noise in the storage building at the rear of the restaurant. A figure darted from the building across the fields to Pleasant Valley Road. He gave chase but was unable to catch the intruder. A quantity of kerosene oil was missed after the incident.

He said the same week a suspicious person had been hanging around the restaurant, and was an obtomobile with out-of-state licence plates.

Landing of Plane Stirs Excitement

Andover, Feb. 2 (Special)—There was quite a bit of excitement Sunday about 10:30 o'clock in the morning when Charles and Edward Myers landed their plane on the lee at the lake which is about 1½ miles thick now. The Myers brothers visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Skoog who have a year-round home at the lake.

The Myers brothers have been flying for over 20 years and are instructors in flying. The weather was ideal and Scout flags marked out a runway for the plane and every precaution of safety was taken. The whole business of St. Valentine's Day started because of a young Roman priest who was to be beheaded on Feb. 14, 270 A. D., for refusing to renounce Christianity.

In prison, on the eve of his execution, he wrote a farewell letter to consoll the jailer's blind daughter, signing it "From Your Valentine."

This act of kindness to a little girl who had befriended him, established Valentine's Day as an occasion for exchanging gifts of friendship.

The Romans, however, had been celebrating Feb. 15 for several centuries as the Feast of Lupercalia, dedicated to the pastoral god, Lupercus and the goddess of love, Juno.

Indians Come to Life and Pin Defeat on Bristol, 62 to 59

Rockville Trounces Glastonbury To Gain Second Place in League

Rockville High's basketball forces yesterday afternoon hurdled obstacle number one in the path leading to next Tuesday's all-important clash with Southington High. The Blue and Gold turned back Glastonbury, 60-48, in a loosely played game before a handful of students at Glastonbury.

The win was Rockville's sight, straight in the Valley B league, giving the Windy City favorites sole possession of second place with a 8-2 record. Farmington continued as the pacesetter with a 10-3 record while Southington is in third slot with an 8-6 mark.

Overall it was the tenth victory of the season and assured the Yellowjackets of a place in the CIAC Class "B" tourney scheduled for early in March. For Rockville's hard-working mentor John Canavari, it will mark the third time in three years that he has taken a team to New Haven.

Yesterday's rout was achieved mainly on the strength of a tremendous first half offensive that gave Rockville a 22-point lead at intermission, 39-17.

Jim McMullen, enjoyed his best effort of the season in the point department, showing the way in the opening eight with two field goals and four for five from the line. Captain Eddie Moser also had two hoops and two free throws as Rockville led at the turn, 18-10.

The Blue and Gold really opened up in the second quarter outscoring its opponents, 21-7. Cary Staiger, John DelPonte, and McMullen each scored five markers and Moser six in this frame to show the fine balance which has characterized Rockville's successes all season.

With Moser and Staiger sitting out the entire last half, and McMullen and Stu Kupferschmid seeing only limited action, Rockville stayed on even terms throughout the final 16 minutes. The play at times was very ragged, with excessive fouling contributing to the poor play. Canavari cleared the bench in the last quarter as he experimented with different combinations.

Bruce Forbes and Jim Breen sparkled the Tomahawk attack in the last half, scoring 17 points between them. Breen was high with fourteen.

The For Honors

DelPonte and McMullen tied for scoring honors for Rockville with 13 points each, while Moser chipped in with 12. Larry Rinkiewicz regained his shooting eye, scoring nine points all in the last half.

Rockville shot 24 for 62 to nearly 39 per cent from the field. From the foul line it was 21 for 35 with McMullen and Moser each hitting four for five.

In line for greatest shot of the season honors is Eddie Moser, who yesterday with only six seconds remaining in the first half, recovered a loose ball at midcourt on the fast left side and quickly turned to his right and hooked the ball lefthanded to the direction of the hoop. Unfortunately the ball travelled the 45 straight and true off the backboard and in—swish—truly an unbelievable shot.

The second big obstacle looms Friday evening when Newington visits Rockville. The Indians own an early season 56-31 decision over Rockville and are a much more formidable opponent than their record might indicate.

Pete Rockert is the big gun for Newington, with Bill Madden and Ed Schwager expected to give a good account of themselves.

Must Win Friday

Rockville must defeat Newington Friday and then face Southington at Southington Tuesday in a game that could decide the Valley B championship. Farmington, current leader, faces the toughest schedule, having to meet improving Windsor, Wethersfield and Southington in that order. Southington, meanwhile, must face Wethersfield, Windsor, Wilson, and Farmington. After Tuesday, Rockville will meet Windsor and Middletown at home. It is still conceivable that a team can win or gain a share of the title with a 12-4 record. In case of a tie, co-championship would be crowned.

Rockville came from 13 points behind at halftime to capture the jayvee contest, 52-30. Don Plante led the winners with 18 points.

Stunning Upset

By PAT BOLDUC

Beware Meriden, Windham and New London. The Indians have not as yet wiped off all their warpaint. Their tomahawks were really sharp last night in Bristol as they fought back from an 18-point deficit early in the third period to stalp the Bell Twoners, 62 to 59 in a rousing finish. The Red and White met win its third winning three games to qualify for the State Tourney and saw fans in attendance last night in the Bristol Armory will dare wager that it cannot accomplish the feat.

Last night's loss was the first for Bristol at home since 1947 in a CCIL contest. It also marked the fourth defeat this season against nine victories. In the other victors, the Twirling nine win their fourth and they have but seven.

Brilliant Leader

Co-Captain Ron Morhardt was a brilliant leader. He tallied eight points in the first quarter although his team fell behind, 18 to 12. He was held to two free throws in the second period, but what a comeback he made in the final 16 minutes of action that had the fans yelling throughout. Morhardt tossed in 12 baskets in the third quarter and still the Indians trailed 43 to 46 at the buzzer.

Holy Cross Crusaders Continue To Roll After Two Early Losses

New York, Feb. 2 (AP) —When Lester (Buster) Sheary began coaching basketball at Holy Cross in 1948, he had some mighty big shoes to fill. He replaced Alvin (Doggie) Julian, whose Crusaders had won 65 and lost 10 in his three seasons at Holy Cross.

But Sheary, in making the jump from high school to college coaching, has done a good job. Under him, the Crusaders have been a perennial court power, winning 148 games against only 31 setbacks—including a 12-2 record this season.

Outlook Not Bright

Holy Cross won the Sugar Bowl and NIT tournaments last year, but the outlook didn't appear bright at the outset of the current campaign. Graduation had taken its toll with high-scoring Togo Palazzi and playmaker Ronnie Perry among the missing. In addition, last year's freshman squad was poor.

Nevertheless, with Tommy Heinsohn taking up the scoring slack, the Crusaders have been nearly as strong as ever. They bowed to Brooklyn St. John's 93-73 in New York and to Notre Dame 74-69 in defense of their Sugar Bowl title at New Orleans. But Holy Cross avenged the Notre Dame defeat by trouncing the Irish 93-57 last month.

Idle for the past two weeks because of the great snowstorm, the Crusaders, ranked 14th in the weekly Associated Press poll, returned to action last night with an 82-56 triumph over St. Francis of Brooklyn. It was Holy Cross' sixth straight victory.

Confined to Jumpers

Heinsohn came off the bench and scored 20 points to break open a tight game. The 6-6½ junior had been confined to the infirmary Monday night with a touch of bronchitis.

He sat out the first 11 minutes of the game as his teammates led 17-15. Rushed into the lineup, he scored 10 points as Holy Cross pulled away to a 36-23 halftime advantage. The lanky center collected 10 more points in the first 10 minutes of the second half and left the floor with the Crusaders ahead 62-35.

Three others of the nation's top 20 teams, Kansas State (No. 6), Dayton (No. 13) and Marquette (No. 17) also had to sweat to Brooklyn St. Johns 93-73 in New York and to Notre Dame 74-69 in defense of their Sugar Bowl title at New Orleans. But Holy Cross avenged the Notre Dame defeat by trounching the Irish 93-57 last month.

Vic Molochet tallied 34 points as N.C. State came from behind to turn back Virginia 98-97 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. Dayton, paced by big Bill Uhl's 23 points, bowled over Western Kentucky 73-67 and Minnesota overcame its undisputed possession of second place in Big Seven conference with an 84-67 triumph over Iowa State.

Second Half Surge

In another Big Seven test, Kansas State put on a second half surge to whip Oklahoma 71-60 as Dick Stone sank 25 points. Wichita, sinking 30 free throws, downed Detroit 85-75 in a Missouri Valley tilt.

Murray Bailey set a Bayou season scoring record as his team trimmed North Texas State 88-73. Bailey scored 20 points to give him 250 for the season. The previous mark was 248, set by John Starkey in 1953. Elmer Fortner's 20 points marked Memphis State to its 12th straight victory—an 81-67 conquest of Xavier (Ohio).

In other games Houston trounced Murray (Ky) State 91-65, Phillips Oilers rolled over Wake Forest, 91-54 and Santa Clara whipped San Jose State 57-45.

Quite a Night

Moe Morhardt

With 3:16 remaining in the CCIL encounter, Morhardt made good his ninth and tenth consecutive attempts from the refined mark by one. 49-50. Thirty-four seconds later he intercepted a Bell twoner's captain took a pass from teammate Norm Hohenthal and dashed in for the basket which put the visitors out front for the last time since early in the opening period, 51 to 50. Fouled in the act of shooting Morhardt made good his 11th straight charity toss to give his team ahead by two. The disaster leading scorer enjoyed excellent assistance from his mates in making good 15 of 15 tries.

Strong Defense

Six of the losers' 13 baskets in the first half, during which time they hit on 13 of their 29 attempts from the field resulted from driving layups by Junior Ferraro, Bergin, Co-Captain Bill Henry Gadek and football star George Bergin. Not once did the Bell Twoners score on drives in the second half as Manchester's strong defense forced them into shoot from the outside. As a result they were held to nine hoops in 30 attempts. They ended up hitting 27 per cent of their tries, 22 for 80.

The Indians were a fair eight for 24 from the field in the first half, an impressive 11 for 29 in the final half which gave them a total of 41 per cent. Each rival grabbed 14 rebounds in the initial half but the visitors had a 31 to 14 edge in the last half.

Bristol's Gadek and Dorner in the first period matching fouls with Manchester's Moe Morhardt and Wojcik who assisted his cop-captain with three tallies. With Morhardt and Dorner temporarily in the second quarter, Wojcik and teammate Ron Johnson took over the scoring duties with six and two points, respectively. That was all of Manchester's scoring as Philpott, reserve Jerry Green and Gadek shot their team into a 36 to 22 advantage at intermission. Both CCIL rivals were guilty of poor passwork, loose ball handling and several of their shots were easily blocked. Gadek, host team's leading scorer, tallied all nine of his points in the first 16 minutes of play.

Rampaging Warriors

Nearly two minutes passed in the third period before Philpott and Gregor both hit on one-handers to put Bristol out front, 40 to 22, and the situation looked mighty dark for the Manchester scoring section. That was until Morhardt and Hohenthal took charge. Bristol was held scoreless during the last four minutes as the Indians tallied 15 straight points, eight by Hohenthal and seven by Morhardt, and two by Johnson, and the Red and White trailed 37-40 before the losers hit for six straight points to go ahead 46-37 with 1:00 remaining in the period. Not to be denied in the last period, the Indians tallied 15 points, eight by Morhardt, five by Hohenthal, and two by Johnson and gave the Red and White trailed 37-40 before the losers hit for six straight points to go ahead 46-37 with 1:00 remaining in the period. Not to be denied of 140,000 men might jeopardize national security "to a degree."

The President said Rigdway's report was made in May, and that it might be called a parochial interest. He said Rigdway naturally had to express his conditions before the House Armed Services committee, but that the decision to reduce Army strength has not been altered and he sees no chance at this time of its being altered.

Supreme Court — Eisenhower said it is unfortunate the Senate has delayed action on his nomination of John Marshall Harlan to be an associate justice. The delay is bad, the President added, but he is not going to stand up and criticize Congress because of it.

The President said he would cringly in response to a question that he does not intend to withdraw the controversial Dixon-Yates contract as a result of Democratic opposition to it in Congress.

As for the resolution adopted by the Democrats on the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee asking for cancellation of the contract, the President said he has not seen it and that if the resolution was drawn along party lines,

Ownership—The President said he didn't see how anyone could originally make the charge, coupled with respect to the filming and the subsequent release of portions of his news conferences in the Eisenhower Room of the theaters. He said he understands that about 30 minutes of the first presidential news conference was filmed, that of 1953, was released for public viewing.

Eisenhower added that he had received no protests from any Republicans that he had recommended there was censorship.

Red Chinese Retaliation — Responding to a question, Eisenhower said he has no information, so far as he knows, with respect to both the administration's highest level meeting and the projected cut in Army strength. Secretary of Defense Wilson, he said, attended, conferred with Democrats about the Army cut, and Gen. (Ret.) Gavin has been consulted with respect to the highest level meeting.

"The whole purpose, the President said, is to keep the peace.

Standby Controls — The President said that he might be some advantage to en

Chou Rejects Truce Parley Unless He Gets Seat in U.N.

Demands U.S. Stand Accused

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—Communist China tonight rejected the United Nations' invitation to appear before the Security Council until it gets a seat on the council.

1. Red China is given the Chinese Nationalists' seat on the Security Council.

2. The United States is cast in the role of a defendant in the council's Formosan discussions.

Premier Chou En-lai's reply—broadcast by Peiping Radio—was to an invitation issued by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

The invitation was based on a New Zealand resolution adopted by the council. That resolution placed no onus on any of the parties in the China coast dispute but sought Red Chinese participation in cease-fire talks.

High Diplomatic Price

The Chinese Premier did not slam the door on sending a delegation to New York but set a tremendously high diplomatic price for their appearance.

Chou said he fully supported Soviet resolutions pending before the council. These resolutions accuse the United States of "aggression" in China Waters and ask Red China to appear before the U.N. to discuss the charges.

Chou's reply went into a long series of accusations seeking to place the blame for the Formosa fighting on the United States.

A Peiping Radio broadcast quoted Chou as saying:

"The government of the People's Republic of China holds that only for the purpose of discussing the resolution of the Soviet Union and only when the representatives of Chiang Kai-shek's clique have been driven out from the Security Council and the representative of the People's Republic of China takes a seat in the name of China can the People's Republic of China agree to send a representative to take part in the discussions of the Security Council."

Blames U.S. for Tension

Chou's reply also said "without the representative of the People's Republic of China participating in the discussions of the United Nations Security Council, all decisions taken in the Security Council on questions concerning China would be illegal and null and void."

The Premier said tension in the Formosa area was brought about by "United States occupation of Taiwan (Formosa) and intervention in China's internal affairs. All genuine efforts to ease and to eliminate the tension created by the United States in this area and in other areas of the Far East will receive the support of the People's Republic of China.

Then, Chou said it was "especially intolerable" that his country, with its 600 million people, was "deprived of its legitimate position and rights in the United Nations while representatives of a small handful of remnants of the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek clique, repudiated long ago by the Chinese people, continue to usurp the position "of Red China in the United Nations."

Chou said he was of the firm opinion that the Security Council should condemn the United States "for its acts of aggression against China and call upon the United States to stop immediately its aggression against China, and withdraw all its armed forces from Taiwan (Formosa) and the Taiwan Straits.

Plan to "Liberate" Formosa

Chou repeated his thesis that Red China's determination to "liberate" Formosa could not be the

Governor Seen Promoting Trio To High Court

State Capitol, Hartford, Feb. 3 (AP)—A high administration source reported today that Gov. Ribicoff intends to promote three common pleas judges—Walter M. Cotter, John P. Cotter and Philip R. Pastore—to the Superior Court bench.

To replace that trio, it is understood, Ribicoff will name former state Sen. Benjamin M. Leipner of Bridgeport, former Senate Democratic leader; Mrs. Margaret Connors Driscoll of Bridgeport, CIO counsel, and Joseph Rogansky of Meriden; as common pleas judges.

Superior Court Judge Thomas J. Molloy, who was confirmed for a new term only yesterday, reaches the mandatory retirement age of 70 on June 29, 1955. A second vacancy will be created on Feb. 28 when Judge John T. Cullinan's resignation because of illness becomes effective.

It is understood that Judge Pickett will be named to succeed Judge Cullinan. Pickett, however, will serve only until Dec. 2, 1955 when he too reaches the mandatory retirement age.

It a policy of promotion based on seniority is pursued, Pastore is likely to succeed Molloy in June; while Cotter would ascend the Superior Court bench on Pickett's retirement in December.

Ribicoff has no comment at his news conference on the reported appointments other than to say that he believed in filling vacancies through promotions from lower courts.

"To the fullest extent possible," he said, "it is my intention to pro-

GERMAN SHIPS COLLIDE

Hamburg, Germany, Feb. 3 (AP)—Two German vessels collided in dense fog 15 miles off the port of Emden today and harbor officials said the 246-ton Greta was sinking. They said the Greta and the 4,614-ton steamer Konsul Schulte were involved in the accident and that four ships were hurrying to the scene.

SEE MATUSOW RED PLANT

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Chairman Walter (D-Pa) of the House un-American Activities Committee said today "there's no question" but that Harvey Matusow was in a Communist "plant" designed to discredit congressional investigators. "I am thoroughly convinced this man has always been a Communist," Walter told the House.

ESTATE SUIT SETTLED

Bridgeport, Feb. 3 (AP)—A five-year legal controversy concerning the right of James G. Plunkett, 50, to take the $500,000 estate of his wife, Caritin Father Bird Plunkett, whom he shot and killed in their Stamford home Nov. 1, 1949, has been terminated by a settlement, it was disclosed today.

FREIGHT CRASHES HOME

London, Ohio, Feb. 3 (AP)—Six members of a London family were injured early today when one of 19 freight cars derailed in a New York Central railroad accident crashed into their home as the slept.

WEINSTOCK SENTENCED

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Louis Weinstock, 51, a "second string" Communist party leader, today was sentenced to 1 to 5 years in prison for lying in an affidavit to the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB). Weinstock was convicted yesterday on one count of a two-count indictment by a federal court jury which today acquitted him on the second charge.

Party Lines Firm over Dixon Pact

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Sharply conflicting views of Republicans and Democrats on the Dixon-Yates contract were contained today in a report by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee on the contract hearings held last November.

The Democrats asserted in their section of the report that the Atomic Energy Commission which negotiated the contract at President Eisenhower's order, "has been distracted from its primary task of assuring our country world leadership in atomic energy." They called the contract "fundamentally wrong."

Report Urges U.S. Subsidy

The Republicans contended the real issue is whether the Tennessee Valley Authority should be allowed to continue to expand its "massive, indefinitely subsidized by federal funds."

"Let us be frank—its adopt that policy would be rank, unrestrained, unadulterated socialism," the GOP members said.

When the Republicans had a majority on the committee last November they voted, in a 10-8 straight party line, a waiver in favor of an AEC contract with the Dixon-Yates private power group for a West Memphis, Ark., power plant. This private power TVA distributor would be needed for the Atomic Energy Commission in the Paducah, Ky., area.

The Democrats now control the Atomic Energy Committee. Last Friday, by an identical 10 to 8 vote, they forced through a resolution rescinding the waiver and calling on AEC to cancel the contract. The legal effect of this is not yet clear.

Yesterday the President said at his news conference he has no intention of withdrawing the controversial contract. He commented that the committee vote to cancel the contract was drawn strictly on party lines.

Demand Cancellation

They also called for a congressional investigation of "the role played by the bureau of budget in the Dixon-Yates negotiations."

They declared the bureau "overstepped its legitimate au-

Turks Pushing For Iraq Pact Despite Arabs

Rome, Feb. 3 (AP)—Turkish Prime Minister Adnan Menderes declared today his government will go ahead with its mutual defense alliance with Iraq despite the opposition of other Arab League countries.

Leaving for home after four days of talks with Italian officials, Menderes said other Arab nations were still welcome to join the Iraqi-Turkish alliance, but "we don't care about the attitude of other Arab countries, nor do we care about their reaction."

Lebanon's government announced last night that Iraqi Premier Nuri Said had agreed to meet Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser in Beirut in an effort to smooth the split in the Arab League caused by Nuri's agreement with Menderes. But, in Cairo, Nasser, after a meeting of the Egyptian cabinet, said no decision had been made on whether he would meet Nuri and the cabinet had approved Egypt's withdrawal from the Arab League if Iraq, a league member signs the treaty with non-Arab Turkey.

Lebanese Premier Saml Solh and leaders of three other Arab nations are now in Baghdad trying to iron out the squabble. Egypt charges the proposed pact is a threat to the neutral position she contends the league should maintain in the East-West cold war.

(Some observers feel that Egypt also fears that outside alliances might threaten her position as acknowledged leader of the Arab bloc. In blasting the Iraqi-Turkish alliance, the Egyptians have made no mention of the existing mutual assistance pact between Britain and Jordan, another Arab state, or of Egypt's own agreement to let the

Scientist Discloses A-Work Casualties

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—A University of California scientist, Ralph W. Chaney, says atomic laboratories are "having their ups and downs" from radiation.

He declined to give any precise details in talking later with newsmen. But inside the statement yesterday to the House Armed Services committee he argued against a plea that Congress exempt promising young scientists from the military draft.

Atomic scientists are serving under hazards "as serious as those of the battlefields," he said.

The committee meanwhile prepared to approve a bill, probably today, extending for four years the government's authority to draft

Why Income Tax Officials Slyly Smirk

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—There's an air of quiet satisfaction at Revenue Service headquarters for an unusual reason: A lot of people apparently have not caught on to one provision of the new tax law.

A number of taxpayers evidently think the income tax rate cut in line is still March 15, as it was for 49 years. But the 15% tax was moved the date to April 15, effective this year.

Since this change was widely publicized, the Revenue Service had glimmy expected a dull June sary followed by a mounting crush as calls for help came in making returns during February, March and early April.

It just isn't developing that way. Headquarters reports that check of some major tax filing points today disclosed that business is as good this January as a year before or better in some places.

And a check of one long line of taxpayers waiting for advice in the Washington area disclosed that something like 80 to 85 per cent of the people in the line thought the income tax deadline was still March 15.

The Revenue Service is continuing last minute advertising.

Ex-Red Called To Explain His False Reports

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—A federal grand jury has subpoenaed a Communist Harvey Matusow, apparently to explain his repudiation of testimony he gave as a prosecution witness at the trial of 13 second-string Communist leaders on conspiracy charges.

Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock, who presided at the 1950 trial, yesterday turned down a request by counsel for the 13 Reds that he kill the grand jury subpoena which called for Matusow's appearance tomorrow.

Instead, the judge set next Monday for Matusow's grand jury appearance. He also asked that briefs be submitted tomorrow on the motion to quash the subpoena.

Last Monday, counsel for the 13 Communists asked for a new trial on the basis of an affidavit by Matusow that he had given false testimony against several of the defendants.

The Communists' counsel sought to have Matusow's grand jury subpoena quashed because of the pending motion for a new trial. Comments on the motion at to be heard March 10.

Matusow said in his affidavit that Roy M. Cohn, then an assistant U.S. attorney here, "worked with him in preparing some of the testimony the witness said was false.

Cohn, who later became chief counsel to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's (R-Wis) Senate Investigating Committee, told newsmen at his New York law office:

"I will not dignify any statement by this individual with a comment in this Communist move. I inter-

The rules, formulated by a seven-nation advisory committee of scientists which met here Jan. 17-28, specify that the conference is for exchange of information only. One provision reads: "No proposals requiring adoption by voting shall be submitted or entertained by the conference."

Reds Order 12% Hike in Arms Fund

Moscow, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Soviet government announced today a 1955 defense budget about 12 per cent higher than last year's.

The budget, presented to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament), called for defense expenditures of 112,100,000,000 rubles.

Crease was about 12 billion rubles.

The ruble is quoted officially at four to the dollar, meaning an increase in defense expenditures of about three billion dollars.

Explaining the defense appropriation, Finance Minister Arsenty G. Zverev told a meeting of the two houses of the Supreme Soviet in the great Kremlin Palace:

Relaxing Cause of Peace

"Our main task in the sphere of international relations is strengthening the cause of peace. But nothing has happened in the international arena which would give us the opportunity to reduce our defense budget. That is why we have to spend so much to promote the further strengthening of our military forces."

The Soviet defense budget submits it $28,025,000,000 at the official exchange rate. President Eisenhower has called for a 34 billion dollar spending program for the U.S. armed forces in the fiscal year starting next July.

Experts in Soviet affairs say government price fixing policies would supplement revenue from sale of industry would permit Russia to build up its armed forces beside whatever over-all defense budget figure is announced. Such items as education, social welfare, defense functions. Some U.S. experts have estimated that at least half the Russian budget goes directly into military expenditure.

Delegates Applaud

Delegates broke into applause when military figures was announced. It was part of a total budget for 1955 of 589,500,000,000 rubles. Last year's over-all total was 562,900,000,000 rubles.

Western diplomats said it is difficult to assess the exact proportion of the Soviet national income going into defense since the regime owns all the means of production and many items charged off to the military in the west are not so charged here.

Government leaders sat in a box behind the Finance Minister as he spoke in the glare of television lights. In the first row were Lazar Kaganovich, first deputy chairman of the U.S.S.R. Council of Ministers; Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, defense minister; Communist Party General Secretary Nikita Khrushchev; Premier Georgi Malenkov; and the chairman of the Presidium of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet, Klementy Voroshilov.

V. M. Molotov, foreign minister, occupied the end position in the second row with other members of the government sitting alongside him. Khrushchev carried on animated conversation with others in the front row during the speech.

The military share of the budget was about 20 per cent last year, the estimated expenditures for 1955, as compared with 17.8 last year.

No relief is in sight from the ear-biting cold wave which yesterday sent the mercury skidding to readings of four below zero in the Hartford area. According to the U. S. Weather Bureau at Windsor Locks, temperatures again will slip below the zero mark tonight, with lows of zero to five below anticipated.

In other parts of New England the season's most severe cold snap continued to hold an icy grip on the region for the seventh day, with the mercury diving to 30 below zero in northern Vermont and below zero in Boston.

Ex-Con Reveals He Told Killer Of Nitro Bomb

Houston, Tex., Feb. 3 (AP)—Texas Rangers and Houston police continued today a search for an explosive cache from which a convict says the nitroglycerine bomb which killed Helen Harris Weaver was made.

Mrs. Weaver, 51, a wealthy San Antonio, Tex., ranchwoman, was blasted to death Jan. 19 when she stepped on the starter of her husband's automobile.

Police Chief Jack Heard said last night, "We now know who set the bomb that killed Mrs. Weaver." Heard said Andrew H. Nelson, 45-year-old ex-convict told officers that he instructed a man on how to rig the nitro bomb.

Heard said Nelson declared this man went to San Angelo the night before Mrs. Weaver was killed, rigged the bomb in Weaver's automobile and was back in Houston by the time the explosive was detonated.

A former son-in-law of Mrs. Weaver's—Harry L. Washburn, 38, of Houston—is under a murder charge in her death and held in the Tom Green County Jail at San An-

Climb of Courage

Backing agonizingly up the steps, Mary Susan Evans, of East Spencer, N. C., was doing one of the hardest things she will ever have to do in her life. Recovering from polio, she was learning to walk again with braces. Mary Susan is a symbol of an unusual demonstration of courage in adversity. She represents the institution which she is being treated. The Central Carolina Convalescent Hospital, Greensboro, N. C., was built in a record 94 days with contributions subscribed in 43 days during the polio epidemic in 1948. Valued at six million dollars, it has handled 1,767 patients. It is one of a few in the country to take care of the whole scope of polio from early phases through rehabilitation.

Mendes Ouster Looms In North Africa Debate

Paris, Feb. 3 (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France's government is expected to pull 20 to 30 of the Radical-Socialist votes with him.

Mendes-France set quietly on the government bench with his hands folded much of the time showing none of the zest for parliamentary rebuttal which has distinguished him in the past.

Mayer said that, in negotiating with anti-Nationalist elements of Tunisia, Mendes-France had undermined the loyalty of Moslems in North Africa who always had been friends of France. He asserted the government had been guilty of contradictions of policy and psychological errors which he be-

French Problems Multiplied By Split North Africa Policy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In many ways France is her own worst enemy in North Africa. Despite the backing of the United States and cooperation from some far-sighted Moslem leaders the French remain hamstrung when it comes to effective action for the area. Here's a look at the political stakes involved, third in a series.)

By PRESTON GROVER

Algiers, French North Africa, Feb. 3 (AP) — The problems arising from a divided and almost immobile French National Assembly are complicated by a conflicting two-way policy for North Africa. At the same time that France is trying to graft Algeria onto herself, she is agreeing to early home rule for Tunisia and, later on, for Morocco.

Will Nationalists Sit?

If Tunisia gets home rule first will the Nationalists in Algeria sit quietly by?

Just to make France's problems more difficult, the Communist Radio in Budapest and the Arab radios in Cairo, Beirut and Karachi bombard North Africa with daily broadcasts inciting Nationalist demonstrations and terrorism. Even Franco's radio in Spanish Morocco takes a daily kick at her.

Aside from petty party squabbles in the assembly itself, the government is heavily influenced by hundreds of thousands of French colonists in North Africa. They are there. They are tough people. They have little sympathy with the Nationalist yearnings for self rule. They admit they have a privileged position and intend to keep it if they can.

They have brought high quality farming to North Africa which the Arabs are not likely to have produced. The increased yields coming from French farming provide much of the food for the increas-
