Mrs. J. F. Wallett and Mrs. Milton Hansen, co-chairmen of the supper committee, request members planning to attend the supper to bring a hot dish or salad and to contact either of them as to what they will provide.

Plans were also made for a rummage sale in the near future and all members are asked to set aside articles.

The sum of $10 was voted to the National President's project for the Legion Child Welfare Foundation and also the annual donation to the Polio fund.

Chaminade Club Enjoys History Of Jewish Music

The Chaminade Club, as guests of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Shalom, enjoyed a most educational and entertaining talk last night by Cantor Arthur Koret of Emanuel Synagogue, Hartford, on the history of Jewish music and its influence on the liturgical music of the Christian church.

Cantor Koret, who has a beautiful voice of operatic quality, sang several ancient chants often used today in the Hebrew service of worship. He noted their counterpart in the antiphonal sentence used in the liturgy of some of the Christian sects, especially the Gregorian chants sung in the Episcopal and Roman Catholic services. Both employ the minor key and similar intonation. Cantor Koret further illustrated his talk with recordings by other well known cantors who have won international acclaim.

The cantor's talented young accompanist, Sheldon Rosenbaum, played two selections, "Wedding Dance", by Jacob Weinberg and "Palestinian Dance" by Julius Chajes, a modern Israeli composer.

At the close of the program, hostesses of the Sisterhood who served refreshments included Mrs. Bernard Krutt, Mrs. William Peck, Mrs. Benjamin Hamilton, Mrs. David Rottenstein, Mrs. George Sandak, Mrs. Samuel Solomon, Mrs. Harry Tarlow, Mrs. Shaul Wenick, Mrs. Harry Schwab, Mrs. Irving Goddard, Mrs. Samuel Pearl and Mrs. Alexander Rothchild. Mrs. George Lessner furnished the Shiucha cake.

The Chaminade Club, before the program, met at the Center Church for its annual potluck supper and a brief business meeting at which the nominating committee for the scholarship benefit concert in May was presented to the club for approval. Chairmen for the supper committee was Virginia Benson, who was assisted by Irene Foster, Carolyn Godsoe, Elsie Gustafson, Anna McMullen, Mary Stewart and Betty Walters.

A chorus rehearsal for the concert followed the supper meeting after which the club members adjourned to Temple Beth Shalom for the program of the evening.

Ike Doubts Soviet H-bomb Lead

U.S. Plane Downed By Red China Guns In 'Non-hostile' Act

With U.S. 7th Fleet, Taichen Waters, Feb. 9 (AP)—Communist anti-aircraft fire today shot down a U.S. Navy AD Skyraider but an American officer said that was not considered a hostile act. He explained the pilot apparently wandered off course and may have flown over the Red Chinese mainland while on patrol in the Tachens evacuation area.

The pilot and his two crew members were rescued.

An officer aboard the amphibious flagship USS Estes said the Navy did not consider the shooting a "hostile act," because "the AD apparently made too wide a turn and was off-limits."

The incident took place about 15 miles southwest of the Tachens at 10:35 a. m.

Plane Off Course

A statement by Vice Adm. Alfred M. Pride, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet, said "the aircraft mismavigated southwest of the Tachens and was hit in the engine by tentative fire and ditched four miles west of the Tachens."

The pilot, Lt. (j.g.) W. J. O'Heren, 1404 E. Prairie, Decatur, Ill., said that because of low visibility he did not know the source of the gunfire. He said he could see the spacing between shots and it looked like 20 mm. anti-aircraft fire.

He ditched the plane about four miles west of South Tachen after the engine began spitting oil and then sputtered to a stop.

His two crewmen were identified as Chief Aviation Technician A. J. Chelewski, 136 E. Casper St., Casper, Wyo., whose wife Josephine and three children live at 388 Citrus Ave., Imperial Beach, Calif., and Aviation Machinist Mate R. E. Drennan, whose wife and one child live at 3918 Vista Grande St., San Diego.

O'Heren's wife lives at 201 Avesia Ct., Coronado, Calif.

The three men were picked up by a Nationalist minesweeper and transferred to the U.S. destroyer Rashel. The minesweeper was one of 10 ships the U.S. turned over to Chiang Kai-shek's Navy three weeks ago.

Navy officers said they did not know whether the plane was over the Red mainland, or even within the three-mile limit. They also added it would have been out of

U.S. Policy Unchanged In Red Shift

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today there certainly is no proof that Russia has surpassed the United States in hydrogen bomb development.

The President made this statement at a news conference in commenting on yesterday's statement by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that Russia has had such success with hydrogen weapons "it is the duty of the Soviet Union but the U.S.A. which is in the position of laggard."

Eisenhower said it would be a rather remarkable feat if Russia has taken the lead. He added it is not worth while to speculate on this point.

Peril to Civilization

The President also said the danger to civilization from atomic warfare is so great that intelligent people everywhere must address themselves to preventing such a war from happening.

He did not comment any more directly than this on Molotov's statement that a hydrogen bomb war would not destroy all civilization but would leave the western world in ruins.

On Capitol Hill, Secretary of Defense Wilson told Senators Russia recently has expanded its "ability to produce and deliver nuclear weapons."

Appearing before a closed door session of the Senate Armed Services committee he said:

"Their (Russian) military power has continued to increase, but more particularly they have increased their ability to produce and deliver nuclear weapons."

Eisenhower said the Russians have been assisted by any understanding with its Allies in the use of atomic weapons for this country's own defense.

He said if the United States were to trouble he doesn't know of any understanding that would prevent its using its strongest weapons.

Before the President stated his view on Molotov's H-bomb boast, Sens. Jackson (D-Wash) and Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) had said they are confident this country retains

Key Figures in Red Political Change

Malenkov Gets Power Ministry

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Moscow, Feb. 9 (AP)—Georgi K. Zhukov, top Soviet military hero and a man who was a close associate of President Eisenhower, was appointed the new defense minister of the Soviet Union today.

Immediately after the announcement, the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) was informed that Georgi K. Malenkov, who resigned yesterday as Premier, has been named a deputy Premier and minister of power stations.

Both nominations were made by the new Premier, Nikolai A. Bulganin, until yesterday the defense minister. A marshal of the Soviet Union, Bulganin will now chair President Eisenhower's meeting of this momentous Supreme Soviet Session.

At Today's meeting of this momentous Supreme Soviet Session, Bulganin, in his first speech as new Premier, pledged his government to work unswervingly to expand the Soviet Union's heavy industry in order to build up Soviet armed might and raise the country's living standards.

He spoke just before the appointments of Malenkov and Zhukov were announced.

Unanimous Approval

Both appointments were unanimously approved by a show of hands of the 1,200-member Parliament's joint session in the great Kremlin Palace.

Bulganin accepted the defense ministry post until this afternoon when he asked the Parliament to relieve him of the post in view of his assumption of the premiership.

Today's sessions spotlighted another outstanding Soviet war hero, Marshal Ivan S. Konev, who headed the tribunal that condemned Secret Police Chief L. P. Beria to death in December, 1953. In an address to the cheering Parliament, he asserted that the U.S.S.R.'s armed forces have "all kinds of weapons for the complete defeat of aggressors."

Zhukov's appointment to the defense ministry is another step in a profound shakeup of the Soviet government which now underscores the powerful influence of Nikita S. Khrushchev, first secretary—and boss—of the Communist Party.

Zhukov has been a first deputy minister of defense. He merged to great prominence after the death of Stalin, after a period in virtual eclipse after the end of World War II. During the war, he came to know Eisenhower, then the Allied Supreme Commander in Europe. Both men have in the past spoken warmly of each other's qualities of leadership. A glittering hero of Berlin, Zhukov is known and respected throughout the Soviet Union and his name is well known throughout the non-Communist world. He has been considered a

Zhukov Called Powerful Red Political Factor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, the new Soviet minister of defense, has a unique position on the Soviet scene.

He's the only top-ranking Soviet citizen who inspires immense respect and also some measure of affection not only among Russians but also among peoples of non-Communist countries as well.

His name is one to conjure with both in internal and external Soviet politics. And this fact makes Zhukov a powerful political factor whether he himself wishes to be or not.

He is the only top ranking Russian who has demonstrated independence with President Eisenhower. That dates from Eisenhower's days as Supreme Commander in Europe.

Flair for Politics

Zhukov has displayed a flair for politics uncommon in most soldiers. With one of the most brilliant records of any Soviet soldier in World War II, Zhukov, captor of Berlin and hero to the Russian masses, found after a time that he was able to throw that great weight around. He did.

Now 59 years old, Zhukov has a glitter which once threatened to overshadow that of Joseph Stalin, a possibility which brought about the eclipse of Zhukov for about four years.

He came glitter, plus a resistance to the interference of party bureaucrats in the purely military affairs of the Army, caused Zhukov to clash with high-ranking party leaders. Some time back he has been reported, was his predecessor as Soviet defense minister, N. A. Bulganin, a marshal who never commanded troops and an Army bureaucrat with a dash for government finance. Bulganin is the new Soviet premier.

Despite the opposition to interference before and during World War II, Zhukov apparently re-

New Drug Removes TB Traces in Tests

Atlanta, Feb. 9 (AP)—Discovery of a powerful new drug which has removed all apparent traces of tuberculosis bacilli in a number of test patients was disclosed today to physicians from throughout the nation. About 300 doctors attending the 14th Veterans Administration-Army-Navy Conference on Tuberculosis were informed that the antibiotic, called cycloserine, "exerts a powerful anti-tuberculosis effect."

The Veterans Administration announced simultaneously that it soon will begin a control test on 200 patients to determine more definitely what the drug, which was compared to streptomycin, will do.

Tested Three Months

Already tests have been conducted with 37 severely ill pulmonary tuberculosis patients over a 3 to 6-month period, Veterans physicians were told at Atlanta's Academy of Medicine.

The results were that in 11 of the patients tests for tuberculosis bacilli became culturally negative, 26 patients looked and felt better, x-rays showed improvement of the infected lung areas in 28 cases, 30 patients gained between 4 and 14 pounds during a 16-week period and fever was reduced in 24 patients who had it.

Cycloserine is a powder administered orally in capsules.

The drugs usefulness as a preventive has not been determined and no research on this subject has been undertaken.

Dr. Martin M. Cummings, director of medical research for the VA, said psychosis seen in "a long way off, I should think."

400,000 Cases In U.S.

The National Tuberculosis Assn. estimates that there are about 400,000 tubercular cases in the country. They have been treated with many drugs, but even the best of these have been regarded only as aids in control of the disease.

Parolee Scraps Fight to Avoid Florida Prison

Hartford, Feb. 9 (AP)—The state of Florida apparently has won its fight for Watson Moulthrope, the 50-year-old Connecticut prisoner it wants to convert a life sentence for killing a detective.

Moulthrope's attorney, William S. Geddes, said today he and his client have withdrawn a U.S. Supreme Court appeal to keep him out of the Florida prison and would be sent to Florida late this month, at no expense to the state of Florida.

Moulthrope has already spent 25 years in Connecticut's Wethersfield Prison on a life term for other crimes.

He has been fighting extradition to Florida since 1945, but decided to drop the case because the Parole Pardon Board refused on Feb. 1 to allow him to stay in Connecticut, where he has been promised a job. His prison term ended with a parole last June, but he was taken back to Wethersfield last month to await a decision or his extradition.

Former Gov. John Lodge and the current governor, Abraham A. Ribicoff, have asked Florida to release him because, they said, he had completely rehabilitated himself.

Moulthrope was convicted of slaying a Florida detective in 1930 when he was captured after his escape from Wethersfield prison. He was sentenced to life but was returned to Connecticut to serve

Governor Restates Plan To Split Courts, Politics

State Capitol, Hartford, Feb. 9 (AP)—Gov. Ribicoff reiterated today that he would like to see municipal courts abolished. But he said "once and for all they can be taken out of politics."

The question, one that has been before the General Assembly for many years, came up at his news conference when he was asked whether he has given any consideration to the possibility of cooperating with Republicans in naming municipal judges in exchange for their cooperation on his legislative program.

Ribicoff said that he has not discussed the minor court appointments with anyone yet and that the problem "at present is the furthest thing in my mind."

His only interest in the courts at present, he said, is reform. He would like to see them made part of an integrated judicial system with the judges serving full time.

Wants 33 District Courts

Before the present General Assembly is an administration bill proposing the creation of 33 district courts to replace the minor courts.

Ribicoff said he has no idea what Republicans will do about the court question. He expects his own Democratic party, however, he said, to get behind the district court measure.

The municipal judges are nominated by the Governor and must be approved by the state Senate. Republicans control the House while Democrats control the Senate.

Ribicoff also discussed two other issues at the conference—beach erosion and educational television.

In his discussion of beach erosion the Governor said his understanding is that Connecticut's beaches are being taken away at the rate of one foot a year.

In former years, when shore land was more densely populated, the problem was not particularly serious, but now there are many communities built up right to the waterfront, the Governor pointed out, and erosion is eating away at beaches that are very valuable.

Ribicoff said he is exploring the possibility that Connecticut may be able to demonstrate to the federal government that all beach property in the state is in the public domain, and thus make the state eligible for a much larger share of state aid in solving the beach erosion problem (now, formerly) as thought possible.

Under present law, the federal government will pay one-third of the cost of beach erosion projects, but only on public beaches.

Malenkov Held Destined to Be Slain in Russia

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—Some American officials who study the ways of the Kremlin believe that Georgi Malenkov, who lost his job yesterday, is destined also to lose his life.

They hold to this view despite surface indications from Moscow that the resigned Premier remains on good terms with Soviet rulers and holds a place in the government post.

These officials see it as only a question of time until Malenkov is done away with, his would be in the tradition of Joseph Stalin, whose way of doing things apparently is back in vogue in the Kremlin.

The struggle for Stalin's mantle goes on just the same as American officials see it. They figure Nikita S. Khrushchev, the tough Ukrainian Communist Party No. 1 man in the Kremlin, Nikolai Bulganin, who succeeded Malenkov as premier, is regarded as a figurehead.

But this does not mean U.S. officials consider the power struggle over.

They expect old Bolsheviks like Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov

Private Firms Plan A-plant in New York Area

New York, Feb. 9 (AP)—Construction of the nation's first nuclear power station entirely owned and operated by private industry is planned for the New York metropolitan area.

Negotiations to join the project have been sent to about 10 large companies in the fields of electronics, petroleum, food, pharmaceutical and chemical products, ceramics, rubber, metals, textiles, agriculture, machinery and others.

Plans for the reactor, to use radiation for contrastive experiments by the cooperating companies, were announced yesterday by the American Machine & Foundry Co.

Gen. Walter Bedell Smith (Ret.), vice chairman of the company's board of directors, said in a statement:

"We envision the development of many new and important commercial products and the advancement and extension of a great variety of industrial processes."

Among the expected uses of the reactor are sterilizing and preserving foods and agricultural products, sterilizing medical products, diagnostics and making measurements.

The cost is estimated between 1 and 1½ million dollars.

These details of the project were outlined:

It will occupy 250 acres somewhere in the New York area. Con-

Ridgway Cites U.S. Danger in Military Slash

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, continuing his campaign for a strong Army, told Congress today that "in the first critical stages of war" the Army could get needed units only "from active forces in being."

The Army Chief of Staff and former Korean commander said American forces were "nearly swept into the sea" at the start of the Korean War because active Army units were under strength and spread too thinly to support our worldwide commitments," and were inadequately reinforced.

"If we are to avoid the tragedies of the past," he said in testimony prepared for a House Armed Services Subcommittee, "we must face up to the realities of the future.

"The requirement for Army units in the first critical stages of war can be met from one source only—from active forces in being when war starts."

Ridgway urged the subcommittee to approve administration legislation designed to strengthen the reserves and said the alternative is "to continue to rely upon a demonstrably inefficient system which would fail us in an emergency".

Ridgway has spoken out against the Eisenhower administration's proposed Army cuts of 173,000 men in pruning the present military force of over three million to 2,850,000 by mid-1956. Ridgway testified last week the reductions would "jeopardize our security . . . to a degree."

Ridgway said "the present reserve forces continue in an unac-

Zhukov May Visit U.S. as Ike's Guest

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower recalled today, pleasant relations with Marshal Georgi Zhukov, new Soviet defense minister, during World War II—and held open the possibility that he might invite Zhukov to visit the United States.

A reporter came out with the idea of such an invitation at the President's news conference. Eisenhower seemed momentarily startled. But he did not close the door against it.

The President, appearing to catch his breath, said he had no sure. It was the first time the idea had been put to him, he his present job, he said, but it was a remarkable thing to consider and he certainly wanted to talk it over with his aides.

Leading up to this, Eisenhower had related understanding that while Allied commander in World War II he came to know and trust Zhukov, who led the Red Armies into Berlin.

Eisenhower said he invited the Russian soldier to visit America in 1945,—when Zhukov was chief of staff to Stalin—at his disposal for the trip and suggested his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, accompany the Russian as an aide.

A newsman said Zhukov stated recently that he dreams of visiting America. The reporter asked whether Eisenhower's 1945 invitation was still open.

It was then the President said he would like to talk it over with his aides.

Letter and Present in 1956

Eisenhower warmly recalled his friendship with the Russian military hero. He said he last heard directly from Zhukov in April, 1946. It was a letter, Eisenhower said, and he also received a present—a bear rug which, incidently, he still has.

Eisenhower said Zhukov to him was a competent, splendidly trained military leader. One thing they learned together the President said, was that they could get along so long as they recognized the fully of not getting along.

Eisenhower said his invitation to Zhukov in 1945 was issued at the direction of the U.S. government.

Telling the story, the President chuckled when he recalled that

'Slum Clearance' Launches Johannesburg Segregation

By ARTHUR GAYSHON

Johannesburg, South Africa, Feb. 9 (AP)—South Africa's segregationist government today launched three days ahead of schedule its drive to clear the Negroes out of Johannesburg's tumbledown Sophiatown District and resettle them where the city whites want them.

Scores of the first groups of evacuees fled their shanty homes under cover of a midnight thunderstorm, taking refuge deeper in the district with relatives and friends to postpone their removal.

Nearly 2,000 armed police and troops surrounded Sophiatown at dawn to carry out the removal of the more than 100 families still left of the first batch of 150 families ordered to pack and move. The police chief in charge said there were no clashes and no arrests.

The uniformed men loaded the Negroes and their belongings onto Army trucks in the pouring rain as thousands of sullen bystanders looked on. Police flattened the vacant house to prevent reoccupancy. The trucks, crammed with ramshackle furniture and people, trundled in convoy to the new government-built township of Meadowlands, where the government plans to relocate 60,000 Negroes from the western part of Johannesburg.

Meadowlands is 14 miles outside the city limits. Sophiatown is four miles beyond the boundary but faces the encroaching white suburb of Westdene. From there, the

Prefers Jail Over Surgery

Suffers Attack in Cell; Gets Six Month Term On Embezzling Count

A Hartford man, who refused to undergo surgery for appendicitis at Manchester Memorial Hospital last night, was sentenced to six months in jail this morning for the embezzlement of a camera on Jan. 15.

Chester F. Papineau, 21, was stricken in his cell at the local jail last night. Dr. Nicholas Marciano and hospital officials diagnosed his ailment as appendicitis and when he refused to be operated upon he was returned to jail.

In Town Court this morning, Papineau pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement by bailee. Prosecutor W. David Keith told the court the stolen Polaroid camera, the property of the Cousins Bridge of Coventry, had pawned it for $55 at a Hartford pawn shop.

Arrested Yesterday

Papineau was employed by Mrs. John T. Cousins, operator of the home portrait studio, as a photographer who took pictures on commitment. He was arrested yesterday on a warrant, issued on July 19 by Keith.

During the three weeks he was at large, he traveled over the country and spent two days in California.

Before passing sentence, Judge John S. G. Rottner referred to Papineau's record and said "you're an old hand at this sort of thing, aren't you?"

It was brought out in court that he had already spent one year in jail and had had a two-year sentence at Cheshire Reformatory suspended.

Planners Get Green Light On Projects from Board

The Board of Directors last night gave the Town Planning Commission the go-ahead on three projects the Commission brought up for discussion at an informal meeting of the Board, the TPC, the Development Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The projects are the relocation of Parker Street, the joining of Brookfield Street and N. Elm Street to provide a north-south route from E. Center Street, and the new high school to Woodland Street, and a general traffic and parking survey.

Check On Cost

Consensus among Board members was that the TPC should go forward and interview property owners who would be affected by the proposed relocation of Parker Street to determine about how much the move would cost.

Using a map to illustrate, Wilfred Maxwell, planning administrator, explained that the proposed relocation would create road cutting off from the street Parker Street south of the Colonial Board Co., continuing along the rear of the mills and rejoining the present Parker Street north of Green Manor Estates office and lumber yard.

The old portion would remain but under a different name.

Would Form Boundary

The new street would form the eastern boundary of a 260 acre potential industrial tract Oakland Street would be the western boundary.

Maxwell pointed out that Lilian Drive and Mill Street, both of which now dead end east of Oakland Street, might some day be extended to Parker, helping to provide access to the industrial land.

The land directly involved in the relocation is owned now by Green Manor Estates, Colonial Board Co. and Kilpatrick Iron Works. Also included is part of the Chambers farm.

A request to change a portion of that farm from Rural Residence to Residence Zone A is now before the Town Planning Commission.

Provides Buffer

Many present last night noted the high residence zone would shut the industrial zone along Parker Street and questioned the wisdom of allowing such a situation. Maxwell and members of the TPC pointed out that the street itself — 60 feet wide—would provide some sort of buffer, while it is not the best, it is better than none.

The consensus appeared to be, however, that the Industrial Zone might extend southward to Sautters Pond, a natural buffer.

Director Jacob Miller asked if the TPC might not zone the Cushman property for industry. Martin Alvord, chairman of the TPC, explained that while the planners have the legal right to initiate a zone change, he did not feel it can take the responsibility of zoning for industry land which the seller is prepared to sell for residential development.

Director Philip Harrison noted that allowing the residential zone would accentuate the school problem, a subject which evoked considerable discussion later in the meeting.

The TPC was also told to discuss with the two property owners involved the 800 foot strip of road to join Brookfield and N. Elm Streets. Consensus was that the project would be worthwhile. Director Miller suggested the street be more than 40 feet wide, however.

Might Extend Street

In explaining the proposal Maxwell noted that Delmont Street might be extended eastward to meet the proposed extension.

Director Mahoney opposed the move, saying Walker Street and Princeton Street in combination provide a better north-south route.

Set Aside Fund

The Board of Directors is prepared to set aside some $5,000 to come ultimately from the parking meter fund for the traffic and parking survey to implement the TPC comprehensive plans for the Main Street business area.

Bruce Watkins, a Main Street retail merchant, favored the creation of a parking authority. That move has been backed by the Chamber of Commerce. Supporting Watkins, Director Harrison indicated the study could be made under the auspices of such an authority.

Earlier Martin said a competent study could be made. He said Maxwell should prepare the specifications for the study and get cost estimates for it. But first, Martin said, the Board should agree on the specifications so that there could be no argument later on whether the study covered what it should.

Make Study First

Martin also said the study should be made before a decision is reached on the creation of a parking authority. Joined agreed with Martin, both on the procedure for setting the study in motion and on the contention that the study should be made before an authority is set up.

Noting that the arguments against a parking authority hinged on the vast power of such a body, Harrison said he does not see why anyone should be any more suspicious of a parking authority than of any other municipal board.

The outcome of the discussion was a decision to have the TPC prepare specifications and get cost estimates. Maxwell already has roughed out the specifications and has received a quotation of $5,500.

Future Development

A brief talk by Maxwell on future land use brought forth a discussion of more residential development and its affect on the school building problem. The vast majority of those present felt some means should be found to discourage further residential development.

Maxwell and members of the TPC felt there was no justification in zoning land for industry in order to keep it out of the residential development market. Maxwell pointed out, however, that the Town of Bolton was upheld in court recently on its stringent zone regulations.

Upgrade Zones

Many present felt the residential zone regulations might be upgraded to restrict development. Martin noted that when a town upgrades its zones, it does not do so for the avowed purpose of restricting the number of homes, but for the health and well-being of the community.

Director Mahoney violently opposed such a restriction, asserting it would prevent veterans from buying homes and insisting the community has an obligation to veterans.

Plan Public Hearing

An Andover Assadol request for a subdivision was discussed during the meeting and the Board Of Directors agreed with the Town Planning Commission's recommendation that a public hearing be held soon.

This procedure is in accordance with regulations governing establishment of such subdivisions, according to Maxwell. A date for the hearing will be set some time in the future.

Zhukov May Visit U.S. as Ike's Guest

Zhukov said he certainly would feel very at ease with Eisenhower's plane and Eisenhower's son. The two were that friendly, he said.

Eisenhower also recalled that he and Zhukov savored each other that neither Russia nor the United States ever would launch a surprise attack on the other. Eisenhower said he expressed the view to Zhukov that it would be absolutely impossible for a democracy to organize a surprise attack against anyone. He said Zhukov said Russia wanted only peace.

Develop Accord

He said he and Zhukov, at the end of World War II in Berlin, had developed a means of getting along or seeing eye to eye. He said he and Zhukov tried to set up a pattern for operations to get along when they realize it is folly for them not to get along.

Asked about the matter of sending food to Russia, Eisenhower replied that a very complex issue. It comes down, he said, to how much confidence you can have in people who have broken their word in the past.

Zhukov was in fact all set in the fall of 1945 to visit the United States to reciprocate for a trip Eisenhower made to the Soviet Union. Zhukov's arrival was scheduled for October 5, and elaborate plans were laid for a trip to Kansas City, Abilene and Philadelphia to tap the Liberty Bell.

But on Oct. 2 Moscow announced that Zhukov had been stricken ill and his visit would be delayed. On Oct. 20 he was still off until the following year, with the explanation that Zhukov was recovering from a serious throat infection.

Jarvis Forming New Corporation

A new $100,000 corporation has been formed and will do business as The Pinehurst Stores, Inc., according to an instrument recorded today at the Town Clerk's office.

Incorporators of the new firm are Alexander Jarvis, Alice Jarvis and Donald Jarvis.

Capital stock to be issued will amount to $100,000 and the business will begin with $32,900 in capital assets. Atty. Raymond Johnson handled the incorporation of the company.

Personnel Appeals Board Sought by Town Employes

Workers in several of the town's departments are pushing the establishment of a personnel appeals board, which would be allowed under enabling legislation passed during the 1953 session of the General Assembly.

General Manager Richard Martin said this morning that Town Counsel Charles N. Crockett will be asked to study the matter and submit an opinion as to whether the board's establishment would conflict with the Town Charter in any way.

He said that if the group were set up, it would appear to have jurisdiction over personnel problems for all town employes, considering the wording of the enabling act.

Martin has asked all department head to consider the move and confer with their employes on the matter. Hourly rated workers in the Highway, Water and Sewer, Cemetery and Park Depts. are those affected by the action being taken by the town's administration.

The act under which the board would be set up is headed, "General Statutes, 1953 Supplement, Title IX, Municipal Employes, Chapter 63, Sec. 395."

It reads as follows:

"Personnel Appeals Board. Any town, city or borough may, by action of its legislative body, create a personnel appeals board which would be allowed to hear members who shall be electors of such municipality holding an salaried municipal office and whose terms of office shall be fixed by election or appointment shall be fixed in the ordinance."

It then goes on to set up requirements concerning membership on the board.

The section continues, "Said board shall hear and determine any grievance, as defined in such ordinance, of any employe or group of employes of such town, city or borough. It shall adopt rules of procedure which shall insure any aggrieved employe a prompt and fair hearing and an opportunity to be heard in person or by a representative of his choosing. The decision of said board shall be final and binding upon the parties."

Local 991, State, County, and Municipal Employes Union, AFL, supported the Manchester move, according to Frank Hipple, president of the local. The union represents the town employes who made the request.

House Votes Bill To Extend Draft

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP) — The House voted 394-4 yesterday to extend the military draft for another four years beyond June 30.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate, continues authority to draft able-bodied youths between 18½ and 26 years of age for two years' active duty, followed by six years in the reserves. Draft calls now are running about 11,000 monthly.

House passage came as expected with no important opposition. Four Republicans voted against it, after debate during which no one attacked the idea of continuing some form of draft.

The House defeated, 153-62, a proposal by Rep. Wier (D-Minn) to extend the act for two years instead a four. It also defeated proposals by Reps. Hoffman (R-Mich) and Marshall (D-Minn) to give broad exemptions to farm workers.

While supporting the draft extension, House Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts said during the debate he is concerned about reductions in armed forces manpower strength proposed by the Eisenhower administration. He will oppose them in connection with other legislation.

Across the capitol, Sen. Symington (D-Mo) told the Senate yesterday the proposal to reduce military manpower in the face of a 32 per cent increase in the Russian arms budget was "absolutely incredible."

Plan Musical Skit At PTA Meeting

A musical skit, "Board Meeting Blues," will be presented by a cast of 20 members of the Buckley School PTA Monday, Feb. 14, at the school. Songs, comedy and surprises should attract a record turnout.

Mrs. William Cooper, director, announces the following cast: Vern Hauschild, Nanette Bernstein, Louise Nathan, Eleanor Magnano, Doris Silverstein, Louis Heard, "Jinx" Herman, "Beanie" Bellak, Lucy Spivack, Frank Samia, Barbara Gold, Judy Krutt, Nancy Harry, Alice Hutchinson, Ruth Rottner, Louise Cooper, Leah Segal and Irene Goss. The Buckley School PTA will welcome all interested.

Yesterday the Manchester Child Study Center met at the school to view a film entitled "The Child" with Principal Vincent Palmisiti as moderator. Presenting the problem of an unwanted and neglected boy and steps taken to aid in his rehabilitation, it proved interesting to the parents who attended. At a brief business meeting, plans were made for a field trip to the Yale Child Study Center in New Haven about the middle of March.

Opens at State

The scene is the moment of discovery in "The Barefoot Contessa" when Warren Stevens, Mari Aldon, Humphrey Bogart and Edmond O'Brien await the appearance of Ava Gardner. At this meeting the unknown dancer starts her meteoric rise to Hollywood stardom. Joseph L. Mankiewicz wrote and directed the Technicolor film, now being shown at the State theater.

Ceramics Party Planned by Club

The officers of Manchester Emblem Club No. 251 are planning to give a ceramics party on March 10 at the home of Mrs. Walter Tinker Hall.

At this affair each participant will be given a ceramic piece to paint by the demonstrator. After the piece is painted it will be fired by the demonstrator and then returned.

Chairman of the committee in charge is Mrs. Harold Burnett. Assisting her are Mrs. Walter Williams and Mrs. Ronald Gates.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the club.

Rec Swim Class Gains Attention

The Manchester Recreation Dept.'s program of swimming instruction for handicapped children is receiving national attention this month with the publication of an article in Recreation, a magazine published by the National Recreation Assn.

The article, "Swimming for Handicapped Children," was written by James Herdic, superintendent of recreation in Manchester, who relates the origin of the program and describes the manner in which it operates.

The program started, Herdic wrote, when the father of a blind boy asked whether some provision could be made to give swimming instruction to his son and other blind children.

With that, Herdic and his staff mapped out a program which would include all handicapped children, including those who are mentally retarded. The children are segregated according to their disability, and taught in Saturday afternoon classes.

In the article, Herdic calls the swimming for handicapped children one of the department's "most gratifying programs."

Show Chinchillas At Coming Show

Three local chinchilla ranchers will exhibit their animals at the chinchilla show which will be held in the Governor's Foot Guard Armory in Hartford Feb. 12 and 13.

The local men, Lester Sickel, Harry F. Fogarty, and Elmer L. Johnson, will be among the ranchers from California, the Carolinas, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York as well as Connecticut who will display some 300 entries.

Connecticut Valley Branch of the National Chinchilla Breeders of America will sponsor the show at which the animals' furs will be judged. Sickel is secretary-treasurer of the branch.

Senate Vote Sure For Formosa Pact

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Mutual Defense Treaty with Formosa heading today toward almost certain Senate ratification over the opposition of a handful of members.

In advance of formal debate opening this afternoon, the Foreign Relations Committee worked on accompanying language designed to put the Senate on record that the pact is not intended to solve the question of the ultimate sovereignty of the island.

Some committee members have expressed concern that the pact might be interpreted as recognizing Chiang Kai-shek's regime in perpetual control of the island refuge. Taken from Japan at the end of World War II, Formosa's sovereignty has since remained legally unsettled.

The committee report, not yet officially filed, also expresses as an understanding of the Senate that the United States would be under obligation to resist "only... external armed attack" against Formosa and the Pescadores.

Backers, too, say that the treaty area, now including Formosa and the Pescadores, should not be enlarged without a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

These three provisions in the committee report, however, did not modify the opposition of Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore), Lehman (D-Lib-NY) and Langer (R-ND). Morse termed them "without any legal binding effect whatsoever." These same three Senators stood alone in opposing the defend-Formosa resolution.

The Homemakers Club conducted by the Recreation Dept. at the Community Y has been moved from Thursday to Wednesday evening beginning at 7 o'clock. It is open to any girls who are interested, but they must be a member of the Recreation Program or planning to join.

The classes will be under the direction of Mrs. George Potterton, who will teach various aspects of cooking. The club will meet in the kitchen at the Community Y.

Announce Judges For Science Fair

Sixteen prominent Manchester citizens have volunteered their time to help make the Manchester High School Science Fair a success by agreeing to judge the exhibits on Wednesday, March 2. Chester Robinson, vice principal of Manchester High School, has as in previous years been appointed chairman of the judges.

Those offering their services are: Arthur Illing, superintendent of schools; Town Manager Richard Martin; Dorothy D'Amico, high school biology teacher; Timothy Horan, chemist for Cheney Bros. Allan Cox, instructor at Hamilton Standard; D. L. Ballard, head of the service school at Hamilton Standard; Dr. Morris Fanchet, dentist; Thomas Bentley, principal of Hollister School; Dr. Richard Olmsted, veterinarian; Lawrence R. Perry, high school chemistry teacher; David J. Blick, associate professor at the School of Education, University of Connecticut; Philip Emery, high school biology teacher; Curtis Wilson, chief engineer at Manchester Memorial Hospital; Dr. Benjamin Orehorn, chiropodist, and Benjamin Orehorn, packaging engineer for Spencer Fibre Box Co.

Entries will be judged on creative ability, scientific thought, thoroughness, skill, clarity and dramatic value.

Blood Donations Fall Short Of Meeting Monthly Quota

The Bloodmobile which visited Manchester yesterday collected 120 pints of blood during its five hour stay. The quantity collected was disappointing, said Atty. Paul R. Marte, chairman of Manchester's Red Cross Blood Program. Manchester's quota each month is 130 pints.

The donors consisted of 55 "walk-ins" and 57 donors by appointment, 23 of whom were rejected for physical reasons. Of the 120 pints donated, 26 were the result of the joint efforts of Manchester's Service Clubs. The members and friends of members who donated in the names of various service clubs number as follows: Lions Club, 12; Soroptimists, 9; Rotary, 7; Kiwanis, 5; and the Jaycees, 2.

Again this month, as in other months, the number of persons failing to keep appointments was disgusting: fourty-one persons failed to appear after making an appointment.

Donors by Appointment

Following is the listing of donors by appointment: Raymond Johnson, Mrs. Arline Ragimon, Wintrop Merriam, Mrs. Gladys Meibert, Mrs. Emily Baetis, Miss Susan Dente, Robert W. Rushford, Mrs. Kenneth Beer, Felix Gavello, Robert G. Johnson.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Edwards, Ernest Pohl, Mrs. J. Norris, Mrs. Cynthia Reale, Mrs. Muriel Stevens, Patrick Bolduc, Mrs. Kerwin M. Lisk, John Zelinsk, Jean Winter and Mrs. Ida Dagnon.

Mrs. Eleanor Russell, George Miller, Mrs. Bertha Burns, Mrs. Lucille Savey, Leonard D. Pivral, Frank Peggioli, Mrs. Clare Priteman, Mrs. Edith Saplenza, George Willard, Raymond Jones, Caroline Krinjak and Ann Ambrose.

Jack Early, Mrs. Charles Case, Mrs. Dorothy Potter, William Keish, Russell M. Smith, Mrs. Ann Gordon, Edward Macauley, Paul R. Vasalonis, Ronald N. Buckminster, Walter Grady.

Allen W. Ballard, Miss Stella Cote, Mrs. Rudolph Albair, Norman Boucher, John Alvord, Joseph Malsick, Mark Kravitz, George M. Johnson, Wesley Miles, Leslie Spencer, John T. Buck, Elwood J. Howlea, Mrs. John Swanson, Jr., W. R. Williams.

Thaddius Klejna, Charles Griffin, Clarence Foley, E. E. Perkins, Thomas Reese, William Kuhns, Hugo Benson, Donald E. Alisbaugh, Mrs. Roxy Foss, Gerard Blanchard, Robert A. Blake, Robert Ellington, Justin V. Gidman, Patrick Grakowsky, Mrs. Robert Ostrander, Robert Ostrander, Dr. R. S. Kennon, Harry Baskind, Gertrude Sweeney and Louis Steinberg.

Walk-in Donors

The "walk-in" donors were as follows:

Joseph A. Conti, Rocco Salerno, Mrs. Thomas Johnston, Frank Koss, Paul Kristoff, Mrs. Eileen Stevens, Mrs. Evelyn Fitzgerald, Mrs. Wanda Chartier, Mrs. Harriet Mitchell, Donald Jorgensen.

Gladys Sheffield, Alice Chapman, Ronald Gildea, Richard Therien, Donald Messer, Mrs. Marion Wasser, Russell Perkins, Edward Krasenics, Frederick Nassiff, Atty. Paul R. Marte.

Carl Woetzes, Norman Weil, Mrs. Edith Fawcett, Rudolph Beck, Richard S. Carpenter, Rev. Clifford Simpson, Doris Erickson, John W. Klein, Mrs. Sadie Grossman, Lincoln Murphy.

James McCoos, Richard Martin, Stanley Sheldk, Stanley Conway, Robert Dugan, Arthur Tanofred, Clifford Risley, Michael Wilk, Maybelle Woodin, Albert W. Cole.

Still No Skating

No ice skating will be permitted on any of the Park Dept. maintained areas today or tonight.

If cold weather continues tonight, Center Springs Pond will be open tomorrow night for skating.

Also, the shallow pools at Center Springs Annex, Robertson, Park and Charter Oak Park are not expected to be ready again this season unless there is another extended cold spell.

Parolee Scraps Fight to Avoid Florida Prison

his term for the escape from prison.

Atty Gordon went to Tallahassee, Fla., last month to ask the Pardons Board to free Moulthrope, but he was turned down. However, Gordon said the Florida board would consider the case after its parole officers had a chance to determine the extent of Moulthrope's rehabilitation.

In his plea for freedom, Moulthrope's attorney told the Florida board the state never would have known about Moulthrope's release from the Connecticut Prison. He said Moulthrope's was a forgotten case in Florida and that authorities there had to search their records to locate Moulthrope, had written in 1949 asking for clemency.

FOORD, BACKES APPEAL

Hartford, Feb. 9 (AP) — The Connecticut Supreme Court heard arguments yesterday in the appeal by former State Rep. William M. Backes, R-Bacons, of Wallingford, from their 1953 superior Court conviction on bribery charges.

Foord was found guilty of receiving a $1,000 bribe as a member of the 1951 legislature. Backes, a fireworks manufacturer, was convicted of trying to influence legislation improperly. Each was given a suspended sentence of one year and fined $1,000. Neither man was present yesterday.

A grand jury investigation into General Assembly—irregularities resulted in the charges.

Attorneys for Backes and Foord argued that the Superior Court conviction should be reversed and that the two men should be acquitted of the bribery charges. They contended the dealings between the two men were honorable, claiming the $1,500 payment was for services Foord performed in preparing a fireworks pamphlet and drafting a model fireworks law for the American Pyrotechnics Assn.

Albert S. Bill, state's attorney, and his assistant argued that the appeal by the two men was nothing more than an attempt to get the Supreme Court to retry the case.

Governor Restates Plan To Split Courts, Politics

The governor said he is studying Connecticut law to determine whether it permits public access to all beaches below the high tide mark, thus making all of Connecticut's shoreline quality, in the eyes of federal officials, as a public beach.

The Governor emphasized that this question has not yet been given full study, but said he understood the federal government had accepted such a definition of public beach in connection with projects in New Jersey.

He also added that the federal government will foot "practically the entire cost" of projects involving navigable waters, and said that the towns of Milford and Stratford are "substantial beneficiaries" of federal dredging work now being done at the mouth of the Housatonic River.

Asserting that "the problem is too big for towns to tackle individually," the Governor said the first thing that needs to be done is to determine the approximate cost of the whole project in Connecticut.

Then, he added, after it is decided what share the federal government will pay, he will recommend that the state issue bonds to finance "a substantial portion of the balance of the cost."

Also to be decided is whether, and how, private property owners and individuals will share in the expense.

The governor said the four years he spent in Congress has convinced him that there is more federal money available to help states with various projects than Connecticut is aware of, and that he is anxious for the state to get all it is entitled to.

Ribicoff said some persons are opposed to the state's accepting federal grants, but he asserted that Connecticut pays more in federal taxes than it gets back, "and I want the state to get every dime that's coming to it whether it be for beach erosion, roads, welfare, or any other program."

Sympathetic to TV Plea

As to educational TV, Ribicoff said he is "sympathetically inclined" toward a proposal that the state sponsor such a project on an experimental basis.

If the legislature decides to do so, he said, he will go along with it.

With its many universities, said Ribicoff, the state has a "rich source" for such a project.

"There is a job to be done in the field," he said, "and we are fortunate in the talent we have in Connecticut."

The legislature's Education Committee is scheduled to hold a public hearing this afternoon on educational television proposals, including one that would direct the state to build and operate a TV station.

Ribicoff said he thought the "sensible approach" to the question would be for the state to develop TV programs for dissemination over present private facilities.

range of shore-based batteries if it had been on proper course.

The pilot radioed he was being fired upon, and was ordered to fly east. Then he radioed he was ditching.

3,753 Evacuated

Meanwhile, 3,753 Tachen islanders debarked at Keelung, a north Formosan port. They are the first evacuees to reach Formosa from the threatened islands 200 miles north since the U.S. 7th fleet moved in to cover the operation.

Although the Reds made no direct move to interfere with the evacuation, it was plain they were manning their guns around the clock.

Yesterday they fired at three carrier-based U.S. planes which ventured too close to their batteries. One plane, which Adm. Pride said "inadvertently came within range of a small Communist island" got three small holes in one wing.

There were no reports of interference with the vessels taking the evacuees to a new life in Formosa. Local newspapers said nine ships had reached Keelung from the Tachens today, but did not give their nationalities.

The attack transport USS Lenawee was the first American ship to dock. Its sister ship, the USS Henrico, was due later.

Other American and Nationalist transports, convoyed by U.S. warships and planes, were proceeding southward through the East China sea on the 200-mile run from the Communist-menaced Tachen islands to Formosa.

Refugees spilled ashore on the docks. Their faces mirrored homesickness for the twp bleak islands which the Red Chinese covet.

U.S. sailors shepherded the refugees ashore. They carried 40 sick and wounded Nationalists of the ship in stretchers.

American and Nationalist volunteers greeted the refugees. They handed out food, tea, soap, towels and wash basins.

Most of the 15,000 or more civilians on the Tachens were loaded on ships before last midnight, the Defense Ministry said.

Behind them they left about 15,000 Nationalist troops and guerrillas who blasted and burned defense works. The Communists would get only scorched earth on the Tachens.

Ralph Boyce of the U.S. Foreign Operations Administration, who returned from the Tachens, said only one islander, an opium peddler wanted to remain behind.

Adm. Pride said in a message one of his U.S. Seventh Fleet ships had sighted what appeared to be a periscope Monday about 100 miles from the Tachens.

Finding for Defendant

A memorandum of decision was filed yesterday by Judge Alva P. Loiselle for the defendant in a civil action which occurred nearly five years ago, and which has been on the court list since August, 1951. It originally entered as the London & Scottish Assurance Corp. against George Akkerley.

The original two-defendants were Raymond E. LaBonte of Mansfield and Edwin T. Nyberg of Willimantic. The case was tried last week in the Common Pleas Court against defendant Nyberg. The summary to the court stated: "Although the plaintiff has made the usual claims of negligence against the defendant Nyberg, it is found that it has failed to sustain the burden of proof by a fair preponderance of the evidence that Nyberg was negligent."

Schelz, Weinstein, Seltzer and Kinney represented the plaintiff and Atty. Samuel R. Harvey represented the defendant.

Cases Settled

Two cases listed for yesterday were also reported settled. They are Edith Casati vs. Emily Savitsky; and Alexander Rogowski vs. Emily Savitsky.

The records were taken by the court in the case of R. Lynn Beeworth against the Zoning Board of Appeals of the town of Coventry.

Decision was reserved in the case of the Furniture Distributors, Inc. against John Mocko which was heard yesterday.

Hill Assails Laws For Road Projects

are needed without specific legislation.

Before the General Assembly are bills directing the Highway Dept. to construct roads near Middletown and Meriden.

Besides criticizing the make-up of these bills, Hill opposed one seeking to forbid the Highway Dept. from exercising its right of eminent domain over land used as a cemetery unless the owners consent.

Hill charged that the bill seeks to enact general legislation to take care of a specific situation.

The eminent domain bill was introduced and supported by a group of Norwich officials and residents because the proposed route of the new Greenwich-Killingly Expressway will go through part of a Norwich cemetery.

Hill said the expressway route does not encroach on any part of the cemetery property now used for graves. He said to put the expressway on either side of the cemetery would require the removal of bones or the added expense of $1,200,000 to the expressway's cost.

As for the other bills, Hill told the committee he was in doubt as of whether it wants to favor such legislation "depends on whether you can trust my successor to be an honest and patriotic citizen, and I think he will be."

One of the bills would authorize construction of a new bridge in an atomic research installation in which the federal government plans near Middletown. The other bill would do the same in Meriden.

Supporters of both bills say they are designed to cut out congestion. The Road, Rivers and Bridges hearing was the first of the current session of the General Assembly.

Postponed until next Tuesday was a hearing on the administration bill creating a 3-member state highway planning and priorities commission to determine where and when highways should be constructed.

Yesterday's lone hearing followed a short, routine session of the lower house of the legislature. Neither body had bills to consider yesterday.

Molotov's Speech

The first declaration of Russian policy made under the new regime is, of course, contained in the speech by Foreign Minister Molotov yesterday.

This speech has already been widely interpreted as being "tough," with two qualifications for its "toughness" offered. One is that the new Russian regime is in a hardened mood. The other is that somebody had to make a lot of noise to direct the attention of the Russian people, and the outside world away from the confessions of internal weakness and rivalry revealed in the changes in Soviet leadership.

Actually, however, the Molotov speech reflects little change over positions Russia has been emphasizing for many months past, even under the supposedly mild Malenkov administration. The toughness which wins the headlines is to be found in Molotov's boasting about Russia's progress with the hydrogen bomb, and in his glib oratorical assumption that one side, his side, could somehow manage to win an atomic war.

But this is, in reality, no more threatening in atmosphere than some American oratorical flights of not so many months ago, in which we were announcing policies of "liberation" and "massive retaliation."

Molotov's real claim was that Russia and the United States are now on a par with one another in power and resources, which can be accepted as true as far as the capacity of each to destroy the other is concerned. And, in making this claim, he was obviously not pointing toward any test of arms, but toward further tests of diplomacy.

In other respects, Molotov's speech was actually less than the threatening document first judgments assumed it to be. It was, in reality, a well-rounded summary of a Russian position which has been maintained for some time. And it may well be that the most significant changes in this position which were introduced by the speech itself were actually some retreats in Soviet diplomatic argument. Molotov, for instance, finally wrote off the letter of the Yalta and Potsdam agreements as the basis for Russian policy on Germany, admitting, at last, these things had now become almost meaningless in the light of subsequent events.

Molotov, further, made a potentially significant alteration in the Russian position on the question of a treaty of peace for Austria. Hitherto, the signing of this treaty, which both sides have accepted so far as form is concerned, has been delayed by a side Russian demand that Russian troops be allowed to remain in Austria for an indefinite period after the signing of the treaty.

Now Molotov concedes that Russia can abandon this requirement, and that there can, if the Austrian treaty be signed, be an immediate withdrawal of all foreign troops from Austrian soil. He imposes a new condition, which is that Austria should pledge itself not to join its sovereignty to that of Germany. This seems no particular handicap to the treaty.

Along with this, Molotov presses for a new four-power conference on questions of Austria and Germany. But, where he has hitherto denied that such a conference could take place after ratification of the Paris Agreements, he has now apparently shifted his position to permit a conference so long as the fact of German rearmament has not yet taken place.

So, along with the hydrogen bomb blister of the Molotov speech, there are also new diplomatic teasers thrown out by which Russia continues to weave a familiar pattern, still seeking, by diplomacy, to prevent the fact of German rearmament, and offering, in this speech, concessions not previously made. If the speech had not been made in the dramatic atmosphere of a shift in the Russian leadership, free world diplomacy might have found it routine progress along a line Russia was already following, with the same hunter, and a little more carrot. Perhaps that is how it will be classified, as time goes on.

Knifing Our Policy

If words alone could bring World War III, we would be in it now. For the words which have the direct object of bringing it about continue to come from Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa.

In his first announcement with regard to the evacuation of the Tachen Islands, he said this was being done in order to strengthen the Nationalist position on the islands of Quemoy and Matsu. This was a relatively mild attempt, on his part, to take the peaceful atmosphere out of the Tachens operation, and make it a contribution to new strife in the Far East instead of a contribution to peace.

Then, apparently, Chiang Kai-shek decided he hadn't been quite violent enough. So he came out with a new statement. This time, the evacuation of the Tachens was hailed as preparation for an invasion of the Chinese mainland.

Chiang knows that this, although it may be his purpose, is not ours. He knows very well that the intent of the Eisenhower policy is not to launch new war in the Far East, but to end what war has been going on. He knows very well we do not intend to take him back to the mainland. He knows we are trying to bring about some kind of cease-fire.

He knows these things, and resents them bitterly, and yet feels compelled to go along with our policy, up to a point at least. And, at the same time, he is doing his best to upset the whole operation, and do and say those things which can plunge us into war against our own will.

How long we shall continue to be plagued and endangered by a situation in which we try to follow one policy and Chiang Kai-shek announces it is another, no one can tell. Eventually, however, if there is to be peace, Chiang Kai-shek will have to be gentled down, even in his words.

There is one reason for this which goes beyond politics, or anybody's system of security. It is the simple humanitarian business of stopping bloodshed. Either Communist China's ambition to try to conquer Formosa, or Chiang's ambition to try to go back to China, would, if unleashed, give the world a new blood bath. It is our policy to forbid both ambitions, to forbid the use of war as an attempted solution of the Formosan problem. Chiang Kai-shek keeps pretending that this does not and will not apply to him. But it does, and sooner or later this will have to be made so clear and firm to him he abandons his efforts to contradict our policy and snare us into war.

Fred A. Verplanck, at 85, is a distinguished individual at a distinguished age.

He has vigorous memories of a career which was vigorous and meaningful. He is younger in spirit, today, than many three score years his junior. Retirement has not dulled him, or bored him, or even retired him. He has the eminence of an older statesman, but the sharpness and interest of a young blade.

It is with rather a fine, but affectionate defiance of the true state of his being, then, that this community persists in monuments to him. One of these is the fine modern school named after him, functioning, daily, in the field of his own life's work.

Another is the Verplanck Foundation, which holds a fund for scholarship loans to Manchester young people on their way through college. Pittingly, the teachers of Manchester, with other friends who share their respect and affection for Mr. Verplanck and for the cause served by the Foundation, have chosen to make their gift, on this 85th birthday, to the Foundation itself. They judged, rightly, we think, that nothing would please Mr. Verplanck more. It is the right kind of gift to a great signer.

Jap Stocks Spiral On Kremlin Shift

Tokyo, Feb. 9 (AP)—Prospects of a tougher Soviet world program today sent heavy industry shares booming on Japan's stock market.

Price rises sharply and a near record total of about 10 million shares was sold in the morning session alone.

The only issues depressed were fisheries. Fishing interests, who recently have been hoping for a return to northern waters through Russian cooperation, apparently feared the changes in Moscow dampened their chances to fish the rich areas off Sakhalin, the Kuriles and the Habomais.

Prices jumped quickly at the opening, but tapered off during the afternoon when big securities companies took the opportunity to sell.

Especially popular was Mitsubishi heavy industries. Some 500,000 shares of this big basic manufacturer changed hands with prices up 9 to 11 yen a share.

Japan's economy has been in the doldrums since the end of Korean War orders a year and a half ago. Today's stock flurry without doubt signified hopes for future armament and heavy industry contracts, both at home and from abroad. The market composite, however, apparently held opposite views.

Green Thumb Club Hears Agronomist

"Soils, Fertilizers and Composting" was the subject discussed at the Green Thumb Garden Club of the YWCA Monday evening by R. A. Brown, agronomist of the University of Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station.

He outlined the most common recommendations for fertilizing, seeding and managing both old and new lawns. In discussing the treatment of the sandy soil conditions peculiar to Manchester, he suggested spreading the soil in each spring with a one-half inch layer of peat, supplemented with organic fertilizer.

He highly recommended the building of compost piles of leaves and vegetable peelings, treated with proper chemicals. Grass cuttings should be left on the lawn to decompose and enrich the soil.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, Mrs. James Tilis and Mrs. H. C. Angell, Jr.

The next meeting of the Green Thumb Garden Club for Beginners will be held March 7 at 8 p.m. at the Community Y. John Zapadka of the Woodland Gardens will speak on "Annuals, Perennials and Cold Frames." Anyone interested in gardening is invited to attend.

A Thought for Today

What Am I?

I am a little thing with a big meaning.
I help everybody.
I open doors, open hearts, do away with barriers.
I create friendship and good-will.
I inspire respect and confidence.
Everybody loves me—
I bore nobody.
I violate no law—
I cost nothing—
Many have praised me—
None have condemned me—
I am pleasing to everyone—
I am useful every minute of the day—
I am COURTESY.

Girl Scout Troop to Learn Fundamentals of First Aid

Bolton, Feb. 9 (Special)—Mrs. and Mrs. Ellsworth E. Perkins will meet with Troop 108 of the Girl Scouts tonight to teach their fundamental first aid. Points covered will be those requirements for the Girl Scout first aid badge.

The instruction will be conducted at the PTA 16 meeting which Mr. and Mrs. Perkins will also attend. Girl Scouts have been requested to bring a piece of old sheeting or similar material measuring at least 36 by 36 inches. These will be cut into the familiar triangular bandage, the "jack-of-all-trades" of first aid work.

The Girl Scout troop meets at the Community Hall with Wednesday evening from 7 until 9 p.m. under the leadership of Mrs. Lawrence Converse, assisted by Mrs. Gasprin Morra.

Street Fair Plans

The fifth annual Yankee Street Fair of the Congregational Church will be held on Saturday, June 4 this year, it has been announced. The fair will be conducted under the direction of the Executive Committee of the church who began formulation of plans at its meeting Monday night.

The chicken barbecue included in plans last year will be a part of the day's events again this year it was decided. Committee assignments will be announced at an early date. Proceeds of the all out event from which the entire church and its friends in the community participate will be used for the general budget needs of the church.

Skating Resumed

Sunday saw the closed the skating rink at Sperry's Pond and excess water kept it closed all day Monday. Skating was resumed yesterday afternoon. Hassel Smith, local park director, reports the pond is safe over its entire surface. Condition of the surface is in terms fair at this time saying it needs several "good freezes."

Farm Discussion

John H. Elliot, county agricultural agent, has announced a county dairy meeting will be held in Andover Town Hall on Tuesday. The program will open at 10:30 a. m. with a movie entitled "Look to the Future." R. Russell, agronomist, will speak on weed control and W. Tunis, extension entomologist, on insect control during the morning session.

Paul Phillips, extension farm management specialist, will speak on "Methods to Use to Determine Whether Changes Will Pay" at 1 p. m. An Evening Discussion Group with a fairly adequate forage program will be used as basis for this discussion. Questions to be considered include, "Does high production per cow pay off?" "How can it be done?" "Will it pay to increase the herd size?" and "What things should be determined before building or remodeling?"

Crop management will be discussed by Mussell and a question panel will bring the program to a close at 3 p. m.

Icy Road Causes Loss of Control

An 18-year-old motorist knocked out three guide rail posts on E. Middle Turnpike yesterday when he lost control of the vehicle he was operating after hitting an icy spot on the road.

Police said this morning, James W. Kuhlmann, 18, son of Mrs. Margaret Kuhlmann of 122 Lyness St., owner of the vehicle, was making a right turn around a curve 1,530 feet east of New Bolton Road when the accident occurred.

He attempted to apply the brakes but the car pulled to the left side of the road, hit the rail posts and went over a 10 foot embankment, police said.

Some $15 damage was done to the vehicle. The accident was investigated by Patrolman Primo Amadeo. No arrest was made.

CRARY DIES AT 80

Waterbury, Feb. 9 (AP)—John H. Crary, who was sentenced to two months in jail and fined $500 in the million dollar conspiracy trial of electrical equipment firms here yesterday at the age of 80, City Coroner Leo J. Rush said the trial, Crary resigned. He also ended his political activity, which lasted 25 years as a member of the Democratic State Central Committee and chairman of the Democratic Town Committee. He served the Crary Insurance Co. for 50 years. He is survived by his widow, a son and four daughters. Service and the funeral will be held here Friday.

Weddings

Giuca-Amato

Miss Beryle Amato, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Buckler, 39 Marshall Rd., became the bride Saturday of Mario Giuca, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Giuca of Hartford, Saturday morning at 11:30 in the Church of the Assumption. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Joseph Carroll, the Rev. Dr. Fred B. Edgar.

The bride was attended by Miss Kathleen Dunbar of Manchester, maid of honor, and Miss Christrizzo of Hartford was best man. Ushers were Arthur B. Buckler and Robert Buckler, brothers of the bride.

The bride was attired in a gray suit with pink accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

Following a reception at the State Armory, the couple left on a motor trip to Washington, D. C. They will be at home to their friends at 71 Greenfield St., Hartford, after Feb. 17.

AGED IN WOOD

Flagstaff, Ariz. (AP)—Neither rain nor snow delays the mailmen "in the swift completion of their appointed rounds"—but back at the post office things sometimes move slowly.

The post office here put up for sale six cords of wood that had been aging in the basement since 1936. The building has had its heat piped in for the last 18 years.

Mayor Lauds Boy Scouts

Expressing his recognition of the 45th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America, Mayor Harold A. Turkington proclaimed the "The Boy Scout program has affected the lives of 22,750,000 American boys and men since 1910, when it was chartered by the Congress of the United States as a program for all boys and now has an active enrollment of 3,660,000. I believe that this organization is a great force for training youth in right character and good citizenship; and the Boy Scout movement is accepting the challenge that is expressed in its current theme, 'Building For A Better Tomorrow'. I urge our citizens to recognize the patriotic service being rendered to our community by the volunteer Scout leaders, and to express their appreciation to the religious bodies, school organizations, veteran's associations, fraternal groups and service clubs which sponsor our Cub Packs, Boy Scout Troops and Explorer Units."

AFL, CIO Nearing Accord on Merger

ment to present to larger 10-man AFL and CIO merger delegations.

It appeared that the subcommittees had hammered out a tentative solution to the long-standing problem of preventing one union from invading the organized membership of another union.

However, the six subcommittee members maintained silence on some binding authority to stop the "raiding" practice and to assure the CIO a more secure place in the merged setup. The AFL now has an estimated 10,000,000 compared with the CIO's 5,000,000.

From all signs the AFL and CIO negotiators were keeping hard at work. They spent seven hours yesterday in a Roney Plaza Hotel suite and ordered in sandwiches and coffee instead of taking time for more elaborate meals and strolls on the sunny beach front.

Reuther last night told reporters:

"You know, I've always been in favor of labor unity, and it looks like we're really making progress."

The AFL President George Meany was reported to have contended in the closed door merger talks that while he could not provide an ironclad pledge against union "raiding," he was willing to agree that union territorial jurisdictions could be strongly dealt with under the proposed new setup.

The CIO leaders, headed by President Walter Reuther, sought more binding authority to stop the "raiding" practice and to assure the CIO a more secure place in the merged setup. The AFL now has an estimated 10,000,000 compared with the CIO's 5,000,000.

Zhukov Named Red Arms Head

(On Same Day Page One)

rising influence in the Soviet Union ever since the death of Stalin.

Malenkov Has Minor Post

As for Malenkov, it was noted that his new ministry is a rather minor post for a man who had occupied such eminence. But on the other hand, the Soviet Union is engaged in a vast electrification program which could lend to Malenkov's new ministry more importance than it otherwise might hold. He demonstrated his ability with business affairs just after the war. Malenkov was in charge of a vast program of reconstruction left in the wake of the Nazi invasion.

Malenkov succeeds A. S. Pavlenko in the new ministry. Pavlenko was dismissed to make room for the former Premier.

Malenkov's appointment thus once again emphasizes the determination of the regime to carry out its heavy industry and defense industry programs rather than concentrate on the production of consumer goods, a program first promulgated by Malenkov in August, 1953. This seems to have been the motivating force behind the events of today and yesterday which have shaken up the Soviet government.

Great applause once again greeted the changes.

The changes also gave added significance to the words of Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov who yesterday, in a 2½ hour speech, laid down a tough Soviet foreign policy which denounced the United States as an aggressor nation and warned that the Soviet Union had made strides in hydrogen bomb production which made the United States look laggard.

He warned also that a new war would mean the ruin of capitalist civilization and the world triumph of Communism. This was in contrast to the Malenkov statements of the past that a war with nuclear weapons would mean the destruction of both civilizations.

Taking a similar line, Marshal Konev in an apparent reference to nuclear warfare, said recent Soviet maneuvers "have improved the Soviet training in ways based on modern Soviet science."

"Our Army represents a mighty force which fully answers the demands and characteristics of modern war," he continued. "If the imperialists dare to attack our motherland, the Soviet armed forces have at their disposal all kinds of weapons for the complete defeat of the aggressors."

He accused American "imperialists" of surrounding the Soviet Union with bases and propagandizing for atom warfare, but under these circumstances, he said, "The Soviet loses no time in perfecting its skill and training."

Bohlen in Galleries

U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen was among the diplomats filling the galleries to hear a discussion of Soviet policy begun yesterday by Molotov.

On the stage, Bulganin sat next to Communist Party B ss Khrushchev. Malenkov, who yesterday confessed his failure and inexperience as a government leader, was moved down in the seating arrangement from the middle of the front row to the end.

Bulganin, portly and epauletted, went to the stand after a procession of other speakers who proclaimed the idea of Soviet devotion to peace and a determination to thwart what they called aggressive American designs.

"During the last war," said Bulganin, "there was close collaboration between England, the United States and the Soviet Union. It could have been prolonged after the war and up to now, and it is not our fault that it has not been. It is because the government of the United States is trying to build its policy toward the Soviet Union from the socalled position of strength."

This was a repetition of previous post-Stalin Soviet statements which have made some slight acknowledgement of the United States part in the World War. In the days of Stalin, the Soviet people always were told that the Soviet Union alone was responsible for the defeat of Germany and Japan.

With regard to the Far East situation, in which Molotov yesterday appeared to back Red China to the bill, Bulganin said:

"The American government has undertaken a dangerous task in Taiwan (Formosa) in trying to conquer Taiwan.

"We are surprised at the position of the United Nations, which up to now has not condemned the aggressive American action. The Chinese people receive much support among our people."

Diplomats in the gallery noted Bulganin carefully limited any indication of official Soviet support for possible Red Chinese moves against Formosa. The words were of support and sympathy for "the Chinese people."

As in newspaper articles and previous official speeches, the only thing said was that the Soviet people sympathized with the Chinese people in their desire to "liberate" Formosa. There was no actual mention of government support.

Agree With Molotov

Bulganin said, however, he thoroughly agreed with everything spoken yesterday in Molotov's tough speech on foreign policy.

Although he touched on foreign affairs, Bulganin devoted most of his speech to domestic Soviet problems. He said:

"I and the Council of Ministers pledge in all our activities to carry out the policies worked out by our Communist party, which are warmly approved by our people.

"We will work for the further strengthening of the might of the Soviet Union, for the cooperation of workers and peasants and the strengthening of peace and security."

After Bulganin spoke, the Soviet endorsed unanimously the review of foreign policy by Molotov yesterday. It also gave unanimous endorsement to a decree of the Supreme Soviet ending the U.S.S.R.'s state of war with Germany.

Then it unanimously adopted a declaration that "Europe could become the arena of a new war" if the Western nations carry through their plan to rearm West Germany. The declaration was addressed to "the people and parliaments of all countries of the world, and especially to the countries of Europe, drawing their attention to the situation in Europe." It was introduced by Pravda Editor L. Shepilov, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Council of Nationalities.

Five-Year Plan Ahead

On domestic issues, the new Premier told the Parliament the Soviet Union's fifth 5-year plan, scheduled to end this year, is being fulfilled ahead of time. Therefore, he said, the Communist Party Central Committee has decided to increase the annual grain harvest up to 10 billion pods (about 70 billion pounds).

The grain plan and a plan for further cultivation of virgin lands should be achieved in the next five or six years, he said.

"In the sixth five-year plan, which will be drafted during 1956, our main task will be the advancement of Soviet science, Soviet production and the expansion of our ties with society in agriculture," Bulganin said.

"We will work to raise the living standards of our country, and for this the main thing is the development of our heavy industry, whose production is now three times that of 1940 . . . heavy industry is the basis of all the defensive capacity of our country and the might of our armed forces.

"We need only remember the years of the great patriotic war (World War II) and remember that heavy industry saved the freedom of our motherland."

a strong lead over Russia in nuclear weapons.

Internal Dissatisfaction

Eisenhower also said the shakeup in the Soviet command reflects internal dissatisfaction in Russia.

The President said the shakeup will bring no change in basic United States policy aimed at achieving a just and lasting peace.

And, the President declared, he does not believe the developments necessarily mean that Russia has launched on a calculated tougher policy toward the United States.

But, he added, the Russians will say anything which suits their purposes and the United States must remain alert.

Eisenhower recalled that he became acquainted with Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov during World War II and knew him as a competent soldier — a well trained military leader.

But Eisenhower said he could scarcely interpret what the appointment of Zhukov as Soviet defense minister means so far as the possibility of world peace is concerned.

Most of the questions at the President's self ascribed seven conference—there were 220 newsmen present—dealt with the reshuffle in the Soviet government.

The questions on that matter and other subjects developed these points:

Formosa—The Chief Executive said it would be idle to speculate on the possibility of a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait inasmuch as Red China rejected a United Nations bid to discuss the matter and instead issued a very bellicose statement.

As for evacuation of the Chinese Nationalist Tachen Islands under protection of the U.S. 7th Fleet, Eisenhower said it is going according to plan and should be completed soon.

Referring to Communist antiaircraft fire that brought down a U.S. Navy plane yesterday in the Tachens area, Eisenhower said that was the plane that, as he put it, got a little lost—wandered off into a bad area.

American officials in the Far East have said they do not regard the shooting down as a hostile act since the plot apparently got lost over the China mainland.

Discusses School Aid

Education—The President spent several minutes discussing the seven-billion-dollar school construction program he outlined to Congress in a special message yesterday. It calls for a federal outlay of about $1,100,000,000 over the next three years. The remainder of the money would be raised by the states.

Eisenhower said he feels the program offers the best way to relieve a shortage of 340,000 classrooms without undue federal participation.

He said it preserves state and local responsibility, but still puts the federal government in the picture in a proper role.

Eisenhower also said his school

Zhukov Called Powerful Red Political Factor

mained a party man and a party general. He is a Communist, and probably will be swayed by Communist dialectics in his approach to world problems. He is just as apt to use the party as a tool for Russian expansion as any nonmilitary party leader.

On a white charger, traditional mount of the military ruler, Zhukov rode in triumph through Moscow's Red Square, before the eyes of two million spectators, while the radio and the press blared his glories as the conqueror of Germany.

Stalin himself called upon Zhukov to make a speech on that memorable day in June, 1945, during the triumphant victory parade of Soviet troops. He reacted like a Great Russian. The Great Russian people and the spirit of Russia liberated the world, he told the cheering throng, and the invader of the "sacred soil" perished.

Joined Red Army

Zhukov is thoroughly Russian in looks, outlook and background. A son of peasants, he was born in 1896 in a village 60 miles from Moscow. As a boy in Moscow he worked as a furrier's apprentice. When the first World War came, he turned up in the Czar's army, where his love and knowledge of horses got him into the 10th Regiment of the Novgorod Dragoons. He soon became a non-commissioned officer, and for his exploits was decorated with Czarist medals.

But after the Bolshevik revolution, he joined the Red Army to fight in the civil war. Thereafter, he studied at a military academy and a cavalry officers school. At about the same time he married the woman who bore his two daughters, for whom he displayed great affection.

In 1939 Zhukov was at the head of tank divisions facing the Japanese in Mongolia, where his troops destroyed the Japanese 6th Army and probably engendered Japanese respect for Soviet armed power sufficiently to keep Tokyo from attacking at a time when the Soviet Union was engaged in the death struggle with Hitler.

In the Soviet war with Finland, Zhukov served on the staff of Marshal Semyon Timoshenko. At his conclusion he became a general of the army and commander of the Kiev Military District in the Ukraine. It was there that he first attacked the Communist political commissar system in the Army as a hindrance to efficient military operations. The commissars could overrule a commander's decision. It took courage to stand out against the system, particularly at a time when a great purge was just coming to a close, but Zhukov apparently won out. Stalin brought him to Moscow to reorganize the army with more authority for command officers.

Saved Moscow

In the pre-invasion days of 1941 Zhukov was a vice commissar of defense and an alternate member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party. When the Germans attacked, it fell to him to save Moscow. He did.

Zhukov, alternately commanding field armies and working in the Kremlin on grand strategy, finally came to command troops numbering many millions. When he lifted the siege of Leningrad in 1943, he was made a marshal. Zhukov, too, planned the victory at Stalingrad, drove the Germans from the Ukraine and the Crimea, and blasted into the Baltic countries, Poland and Germany itself. It was Zhukov who sent 4,000 tanks rolling into Berlin to begin the coup de grace which ended Hitler's career.

Zhukov expressed admiration of American tactics, strategy and general boldness in the war, and appeared to have had a warm feeling for Eisenhower, then the supreme Allied commander.

After all the glories of the triumph had passed into history, Zhukov in 1946, still a glittering hero, found himself suddenly kicked upstairs as commander of Soviet ground forces. A year later he was sent quietly into the Ukraine to become commander of the Odessa Military District, a demotion for a man of his stature.

For almost four years, little was heard of Zhukov. Suddenly he reappeared in Moscow at a Supreme Soviet session, and then at a Communist demonstration in Poland. He gained more and more prominence as time went by.

Zhukov became the topic of excited international gossip in November, 1953. The occasion was a big reception given by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in honor of the 37th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Supports Bulganin Toast

At the reception, during the course of many toasts, U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen proposed a toast to justice. Later, Zhukov was summoned to the head table. The then Trade Minister Anastas Mikoyan, asked Zhukov to make a toast.

Zhukov, looking sternly disapproving of the proceedings in which high-ranking leaders of the hierarchy were beginning to reel from the procession of toasts, stood up solemnly.

"I wish," he said, "to support the toast made by our American ambassador to justice."

Mikoyan snapped: "What's the matter, Zhukov, can't you make your own toast?"

"I repeat," said Zhukov somberly, "I wish to support the toast to justice."

Shortly after this there was an action on the case of the arrested police boss, Lavrenty Beria. A military court announced it had found him guilty of treason and that he and his henchmen were shot by a firing squad.

The speculation centered about Zhukov as displaying the great new power of the Soviet Army. Zhukov, it was said, wanted the Beria case cleared up in the eyes of the public, and the secret police, the Red Army and the regular military, discredited.

Thus, Zhukov's appointment today begins to look like a deal between the Army and the Communist party, a sort of sharing of the power of the Soviet Union. Zhukov represents the Army at the moment.

Pecan Coconut Squares

Ingredients: ½ cup sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup instant nonfat dry milk, 2 eggs, 1 cup firmly-packed brown sugar, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 cup coarsely chopped pecans, 1 cup shredded coconut (lightly packed and then chopped).

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and dry milk. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored; gradually beat in sugar, then vanilla. Stir in sifted dry ingredients just until combined. Fold in pecans and coconut. Turn into well-greased pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven about 35 to 40 minutes or until center springs back when lightly touched with finger. Cool slightly. Cut into 2-inch squares in pan; remove with spatula. Serve warm.

Hebron

Panorama of Busy Mills Brings Back Memories

By MISS SUSAN PENDLETON

Hebron, Feb. 9 (Special)—From their start in 1702-3, local people were industrious, though probably not more so than those of other towns of a like population and situation. First there were gristmills and sawmills on every stream.

It was necessary to have a vote in Town Meeting for permission to operate either, supposedly on account of damming the waters of Blackledge River. The late Mr. Hart E. Buell of Gilead has located a great many abandoned mill sites on that river and on other streams.

A sailing ship was noted on Old Sawmill Brook, now posted as Raymond Brook. Zerrubbabel Robinson, an ancestor of the late Frank R. Peat, operated a tannery in Gilead some 200 years ago where Lewis H. Hodge now lives.

Farmers brought their hides there to be tanned from all around, and for a great many years Robinson did a large business.

In 1832 Ezra Backus had a tannery on the L. M. Lord farm. When the leather was tanned the cobbler came to the house and measured for a pair of shoes. The shoes, a year's supply of them, were made by a Colchester, in 1714, was voted the right of "two of poles and one pair for a corn mill. This brook flows past Hebron Green and is part of the Salmon River.

On this stream Fuller's Gristmill, first mentioned in 1789, was in constant use within 50 years ago. The gristmill building has been demolished of its mill stones and its roof, and only part of the building itself still stands as does also the house and barn which lives the mill and family for many years.

Munitions Center

During the Revolutionary War cannon balls and bullets were made at Burrows Mill, where the name Gay still lives. Old people have told of the trip-hammer, and the ring of horses traveling round and round over their grandfathers, as little boys, stealing a ride on the pivot. How this worked the writer does not know, but hope to find out somehow.

Later shears and afterward axes were made there by Daniel Burrows and son. Samuel Gilbert, a deaf mute, was a goldsmith 150 or more years ago. The late Miss Caroline E. Gilbert has a set of silver spoons made by him, trade marked S. G. He had a workshop on the Green. A brother was a cabinet maker, and on an old chest in the town clerk's office is his printed image and occupation.

John Cravens in 1816, was a cabinet maker and had a shop where he made furniture, coffins, brooms, and chairs. He had a turning lathe on the little brook back of the house where we can see the wheel pit where it falls over a stone wall.

Tool of Invention

This condition was the same in all the old towns when transport was difficult, and necessity was the mother of invention.

After the Revolutionary War we find a woolen mill on Blackledge River in the very southern corner of the town, operated by Summer and Strong.

This failed soon after the War of 1812, and H. P. Sumner bought it in and made salmet cloth and did carding for customers until 1830 when the mill was burned and never rebuilt. The ruins are very interesting.

The site in that area has now been made into a state park. The mill was operated by Socrates Tarbox.

The papermills at Fawn Brook, near Marlborough, did a large local business following the Civil War.

A brick kiln was in operation on the site where William E. Lavery now lives, and here were made bricks. St. Peter's Episcopal Church, the old Gilead Hill School-house, the house owned by William W. Hammond, and some other brick buildings of the area were built of bricks made at this kiln.

Wooden rakes were made by Ephraim Wilcox, ancestor of the Wilcoxes of Gilead. Later, near the Jeremy River on the old road to Colchester, a fulling mill, 1815 the Washington Manufacturing Co. made cloths and sold at cotton fabrics on the stream from Church Pond, now known as Amston Lake. This site was later known as Grayville, and William Gray, ancestor of the Gilead Grays. On the same stream a papermill was operated as early as 1819 by Daniel Burrows and son. This was afterwards a woolen mill.

All are now burned to the ground. In 1835 was the last furnace feeded by Buell and Crouch in Jared mills, now in Colchester. This was located at the then Turnerville, now Amston. The ore used was bog-iron obtained in and carted from ponds in Lebanon and Colchester, but was not a financial success. It was bought in 1837 by Mr. Turner when he began buying land for water power. Later a forge, which did a thriving business following the building of the railroad.

Weaving Done

Many Germans and Swiss families settled in the little houses and did the intricate business of weaving, knitting and clothes. The weaving of ribbons in all colors and sizes, which for a time in early part of the past century, since which time industrialism has taken over, only fairly recent industry, being that of Elton Buell of Gilead, who made suspenders, plugs and gadgets.

Hat Manufacturing

Hats were made by Moses Kellogg at the former Helon White place, before and after the Revolutionary War, of beaver, felt and straw.

Straw hats were made by Oliver Phelps before the Civil War, probably for the southern trade.

Progressive Italians have bought up large farms in the Gilead neighborhood, and are doing a thriving farming, sending supplies of strawberries, pearches, and raspberries as far as to Chicago, as well as all manner of vegetables. Dairy and fruit farming are now the principal occupations of the rest of the population, though many in these latter years have gone to cities of the area to maintain their homes here.

There might be an argument as to whether small town people were better off in the olden time than now. Some might think so, others not.

The name of Jordan Post of Gilead should be added to the list of those who carried on industries there in the early days of the town. He made clocks, and some of these, signed by his name, have been preserved in a Manchester collection. He was an ancestor of the late Frank R. Post of this town.

Oh, Those Names

A smile or a guffaw may arise about the names which parents bestowed upon their children, as shown in these pages. What modern young American would submit to such a name as Zerrubbabel, Notwithstanding, or even Ephraim? Now we have the Donalds, the Kenneths and so forth. But there was a good old New England ring about those former names.

Firm Honors Veteran Employes at Retirement Dinner

Moyers Studio.

Frederick H. Lavey of 81 Foster St., (second from left) will be honored along with two fellow veteran employes of the Henry A. Wright Division of Rinhart Manufacturing Co. of Hartford at a retirement party at the Italian American Club in Hartford tonight. Lavey, who retired Feb. 1 as an estimating and methods engineer after 46 years, is shown with Frank A. Miller of Hartford, on his left who last put in 50 years with the company, and John Winterbottom of Wilson, on his right, who retired after 18 years. F. W. Wamester, plant superintendent, is shown congratulating the oldtimers. Lavey will be given a surprise power workshop by his fellow employes, and the men retiring with him will also be given gifts. There will be 63 people attending the dinner, including the three guests.

Atheneum Offers Two Art Films

Two films reviewing aspects of modern art will be presented at the Wadsworth Atheneum on Sunday, Feb. 13, at 3:30.

The first film, "Rehoir to Picasso," is essentially an essay in art-criticism done in animated terms. The face value of the film is a comparative study of Rehoir, Beurat and Picasso, but beneath is an intelligent presentation of whole structure of modern art.

Second film of the afternoon will be "Miserere," in which the famous series of prints by the contemporary French artist, Georges Rouault, is studied in detail with the main tenets of the artist's philosophy set forth in the commentary.

The film program will be held in the Morgan Lecture Room at the Wadsworth Atheneum, and will be free and open to the public.

Lalime Describes Audio-Visual Aids

"Audio-visual aids are basically teaching and training aids, and the first of these was the motion picture projector," stated Arthur Lalime, audio-visual aids director in the Manchester school system, speaking before the Rockville PTA last evening at the school.

The speaker said that good progress has been made since 1929 when the first sound motion picture projector was first used as training aid. Today, there are 11,000 educational films available for use in schools on a rental basis, with an average of 2,000 additional films being produced each year. All of these are in color and of excellent quality.

To illustrate his talk, Lalime showed a film entitled "The History of Motion Pictures," which traced the development from the lantern slides of the early 1900's to pictures taken from a rocket while in flight at a distance of 76 miles up in space. He went on to show the advantages of a film strip in teaching geography, when the strip is tied in directly with a fifth grade textbook.

The uses of other types of projectors, record players and tape recorders were discussed and demonstrated. These "educational tools" are now essential to good teaching and the generosity of the PTA units in procuring them for the schools was praised by the speaker.

Prior to the program, Mrs. Herbert Hutfilod presided over a business meeting. The proposed zone change and construction plans for the property adjacent to the school were explained to the group and discussed. Named by the Connecticut Power Co. were on display.

Tribute was paid to the Girl Scout and Boy Scout leaders of the eight units now sponsored by the Verplanck PTA by John McKiernan, president of the activity. Attention was called to the displays set up both in and outside the auditorium and in the cafeteria.

'Slum Clearance' Launches Johannesburg Segregation

white residents looked on today from the verandas and the shade of umbrellas. When Sophiatown is cleared, it will be opened to white settlement and white-run industries.

Seven Year Project

The government estimated the whole removal operation, which it describes as slum clearance, will take seven years to complete.

The first evacuation was originally scheduled for Saturday. It apparently was speeded up at reports of plans for organized resistance. As a prelude, all public meetings were banned in the Johannesburg area for the next 20 days.

Negroes who clustered together today to roar out their national rallying cry of "Africa, mayibuye (Africa, arise!)" were quickly dispersed.

Those who fled before dawn during the storm were mainly followers of the African National Congress (ANC), South Africa's largest Negro organization which has pledged to resist the removal. The ANC, a Communist-inspired group that the King stored their furniture, but the church groups also will be ordered out of the area eventually.

The flight was directed by a hooded mystery man, an ANC leader hunted by police for helping to organize the resistance campaign his organization is leading. For awhile he traveled in a reporter's automobile, getting out occasionally in murky alleys to whisper instructions to the movers.

Newsmen Trailed

Police cars trailed foreign correspondents touring the area. Whenever the newsmen stopped to talk with residents, the police ordered them to move on.

Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom's Nationalist government plans to move 60,000 Africans from the western part of the city to new homes outside the metropolis. The government calls the program slum clearance. It will also segregate the race but will leave the Negroes close enough to the city to provide a labor force.

Backing the ANC opposition to the move are such prominent white South Africans as Alan Paton, author of the novel "Cry the Beloved Country"; Patrick Duncan, son of South Africa's first governor general, and the Rev. Trevor Huddleston, Anglican missionary and chairman of the Black-White Western Areas Protest Commission. They have termed the evacuation "legalized theft."

A spokesman for the ANC said the Congress planned to stage a "kneel-down" Prayer Day protest strike soon. Secret plans reportedly have been worked out for other passive resistance along the pattern set by Mohandas K. Gandhi in India. Participants would risk a stiff penalty—a five-year jail sentence, a heavy fine and 12 lashes—if convicted of resisting South African law on political grounds.

Duck's Delusion Confusing to All

Seattle (AP)—George is a duck who apparently thinks he's a dog. He joined the David Dugan family last summer. Where he came from they do not know. And Smokey, the Dugan spaniel, possibly flattered at his success in winning friends and influencing mallards, is willing to go along with the duck's delusion. They pal around together, even teaming up to chase bats and cars.

There is a complication, though. "They fight like everything at meal time," Mrs. Dugan explains. "George likes meat."

PIGEON SHORTAGE?

Miamisburg, Ohio (AP)—There must be a shortage of pigeons in Silver Springs, Ky., says Irvin Egelus, safety service director here. He said he had hired a Silver Springs man to rid the business district here of troublesome flocks of pigeons, and the man reported he will take them to his home town.

Ridgway Cites U.S. Danger in Military Slash

ceptable state of readiness, unable to reach combat effectiveness within any period of time likely to be available to use" in major war.

Noting present worldwide commitments, Ridgway said: "It is my conviction that adequate active Army forces in being, supported by truly ready reserve forces, will enable us to protect these outposts with a minimum prospect of success and with assurance that the security of our nation shall not be jeopardized."

At present, he said, "should an aggressor attack, time will be limited and though untrained personnel could be committed to battle, the casualty rate would be excessive."

Ridgway added:

"No amount of postwar recrimination could excuse such losses."

WATES Receive Bylaws at Membership Dinner

Mrs. Ruth Packer, left, and Mrs. Elsie Minicucci, right, official weighers, are shown above weighing Mrs. May McLoughlin, one of a long line of "WATES" waiting to be weighed in prior to the membership dinner last night in Tinker Hall. Two scales are necessary and the women use alternate scales each week to avoid any error, as gains of a pound or fraction of a pound result in a fine of 25 cents.

As Manchester people know by this time, this independent, nonprofit organization, Women's Aten to Enjoy Slimming, was organized less than a month ago by a group of 10 local women who were members of the Nutmeg Silhouettes of Hartford. This first banquet was attended by more than 100 members and guests, and was a pronounced success due to the tireless work of preparation on the part of officers and many members. The hall presented a festive appearance with decorations appropriate to the approach of St. Valentine's day.

Decorations

Flowers added greatly to the attractiveness of the tables. At the head table was an artistic rectangular bouquet of mixed flowers and at the other tables which extended the length of the hall were small bouquets, and at each place was a red or white carnation. Outstanding red hearts bore clever phrases lettered in white, and on the inside were typed recipes with non-fattening ingredients, also souvenirs from local concerns and others in regard to dietic foods.

Mrs. Charles H. Thompson, 466 Woodland St., known to her friends as "Ruby," presided and welcomed the members and guests. She presented beautiful rose corsages to Miss Marjorie Burr, dietitian at Manchester Memorial Hospital, speaker at one of the meetings and helpful with suggestions; and to Mary Taylor of The Herald, who has assisted Mrs. Thompson in publicity chairman.

President Mrs. Thompson introduced Atty. Philip Bayer, who also received a carnation boutonniere, and her associate officers, Mrs. Kay Meacham, vice president; Mrs. Jean Buchholz, secretary and Mrs. Loretta Gagne, treasurer.

Atty. Bayer, who has drawn up the by-laws of the organization spoke briefly in his usual humorous vein. He said he was enjoying their hospitality, and supposed he was retained by the group because he was the thinnest lawyer in town, with one exception. He added that the long line of members waiting their turn to be served brought back to memory six years in the Navy when long lines stood waiting for "chow." He said he was a slow eater and sometimes missed some of the good things thereby. He read the bylaws from start to finish, and called for comments or suggestions which were few, as he had covered the ground fully.

Contribute to Dinner

The diners at the head table were served at their seats and of course interest centered in the menu. Local firms contributed generously such items as cottage cheese, dietetic bread, skim milk and ice cream. Turkey was the piece de resistance, and it was suggested that members omit the bread if they chose dressing, and in most cases gravy was passed up. No potatoes were served, but plenty of turnips, carrots and peas and toased salads. Heart-shaped molded salads were much in evidence and one member had fashioned two large hearts on a platter with an arrow piercing them. Coffee writings and helpful with suggestions; and to Mary Taylor of The Herald, who has assisted Mrs. Thompson in publicity chairman.

struction and operation costs will be borne by the companies which will use the reactor for research. The American Machine & Foundry Co. designed the reactor.

A so-called "swimming pool" reactor will use uranium fuel surrounded by water serving as a moderator, cooler and shield.

The atomic furnace will produce 10 trillion neutrons a square centimeter a second for radiation experiments.

The location of the project, the starting date for construction, the names of the firms to cooperate with American Machine & Foundry and other details will be announced later.

Research projects will be on an individual basis but the companies will share both expenses and the facilities and each will be represented on a board of directors which will guide the policy of operation. There will be a permanent operation and experimental staff.

A license by the Atomic Energy Commission is required for the reactor. The plans call for the commission to lease the fuel for the reactor.

Honor Mrs. Doutt At Farewell Party

A farewell luncheon honoring Florence Doutt of the Cemetery Dept. was held today at noon at Miller's Restaurant at the Center.

About 20 women employes of municipal departments attended. She has worked for the town about five years and is leaving to take a position with United Aircraft.

ILL WIND

New London, Iowa (AP)—A violent windstorm last spring tore the glasses from the face of Mrs. E. M. Strawhacker and whisked them away.

Recently one of her sons found the glasses hanging from a high tree limb on the family farm near here—undamaged.

Malenkov Held Destined to Be Slain in Russia

and L. M. Kaganovich to stay in the arena.

But Khrushchev, who teamed with Malenkov to purge police chief Lavrenty P. Beria in June, 1953, is counted now to have the upper hand.

Malenkov is expected to disappear politically and physically in the Stalin tradition. No repetition is expected of the bulldozing way in which Beria was liquidate.

Stalin's way was more subtle: Hang a wrap on him—in Malenkov's case, it was confessed "inexperience" leading to failure to cope with the farm problem. Put him to work at odd jobs until the heat cools. Then erase him.

That was the way Stalin got rid of a prime rival some 20 years ago.

He was Alexei I. Rykov, chairman of the Soviet Council of People's Commissars from 1924, when Lenin died and the struggle for his mantle began, until 1930. Imposed and succeeded by Stalin, Rykov finished short in a purge in 1938.

Then he was executed—ironically, after being accused of sabotaging industry and agriculture.

Rykov and a number of others similarly accused confessed guilt. One of them, the Communist newspaper Izvestia, and especially the ultra-Stalinist publications chief, Karl Radek, cried out at his trial that he was guilty of all counts against him plus "treason to the fatherland" and accuse him of.

Perhaps touched by Radek's humor, Stalin spared him. He got a prison term instead of the firing squad.

Thus do American officials read Malenkov's future in his party's past.

Malenkov could escape, of course, if he could run away. That's what Lazar Kaganovich did until an assassin's ax ended his life at his Mexico City home.

But American officials think the chances of Malenkov's defection are nil—too much party discipline and too many guards.

New Drug Erases All Traces of TB

Cycloserine was developed by Commercial Solvents Corp. of Terre Haute, Ind. Its work at present—like that of virtually all "wonder drugs" of recent years—is discovered—is unusually high. Commercial Solvents, makers of Solvents, predicted, however, that eventually the drug will be as cheap as streptomycin.

Three New York clinicians—Dr. Israel Epstein, Dr. K. G. S. Nair and Dr. Linn J. Boyd—have conducted tests of the new antibiotic. They indicated they are being cautious about the drug's potentialities but declared it has brought "impressive" improvement in severe pulmonary tuberculosis cases.

Marks 45 Years In Church Choir

Mrs. Samuel W. Plank of Hebron Avenue, Glastonbury, received a citation and gifts Sunday in recognition of long and faithful service of the Buckingham Congregational Church. For 45 years she has been a contralto singer in the choir.

Percy Brock, president of the official board of the church, read the citation and presented her with a corsage of orchids. Her associates in the choir gave her a handsome lapel pin and earring set, and the minister, the Rev. Philip M. Rose, and others congratulated Mrs. Plank and voiced their appreciation of her loyalty to her church.

Dr. Rose and his wife are beginning their 10th year as spiritual leaders of the church. The present church is the fourth place the parish was first established in 1731. Dr. Rose, from the nearby parsonage, saw the building was destroyed by the hurricane of Sept. 1938. The present building was dedicated in Sept. 1941; three years after the "Big Blow", meetings were held in the interior in the East Glastonbury Methodist Church and in the homes of members.

Catholic Groups To Hear Haffert

Manchester Council of Catholic organizations, a newly formed group made up of representatives from the Catholic organizations in this community, tomorrow night is Anthony Bonner, has arranged to have John M. Haffert of Washington, N. J., national director of the Sodality of Mary, spread to the world, to speak at the Verplanck School auditorium Sunday, March 6.

Editor of Soul Magazine and author of five books, of which three have been best sellers in Italy, Haffert will explain in his Manchester talk the "Miracle of Fatima." He is the only non-religious layman who has ever interviewed the one surviving visionary, "Lucia." Now a nun in her late forties, she is known as Sister Mary of the Immaculate Heart. D.C. Her two companions, Francisco and Jacinta, died while they were young.

Warner Brothers motion picture, "Miracle of Fatima," depicted the apparitions to the three girls in Portugal in 1917.

Haffert interviewed Sister Mary in 1946 to get the history and meaning of the apparitions. A later interview followed during which she disclosed "The conversion of Russia cannot be sooner than is expected." The message which she and her companions received in the visions, and its direct consequence with the conversion of Russia and world peace will be explained by the speaker, who since 1946 has been making near-annual visits to the scene of the apparitions, and has been an eye-witness of at least three of the hundreds of miraculous cures.

The following organizations are represented in the activities of the Council: Campbell Council, Knights of Columbus; Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus; Combined Catholic Mothers Circles; Holy Name Society, Church of the Assumption and Ladies of the Assumption, St. Margaret's Cir. le, Daughters of Isabella, Manchester Chapter of the Holy Family Fcci s, Cornerstone Club, St. Bridget's Church.

Baptist Minister Here Two Years

Sunday marked the second anniversary of the Rev. John R. Neubert as the first minister of the Community Baptist Church. The congregation took this opportunity to surprise their pastor and his family with a gift of a record player as a token of appreciation.

At the conclusion of the service, as his custom, the Rev. Mr. Neubert moved to the rear of the church to greet the departing parishioners. Much to his surprise his entire congregation and choir, instead of preparing to leave, remained in their seats.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Neubert were then requested to come to the front of the church. The entire church school, including the cradle class, made their way into the already crowded room and found places in the aisles and on the floor in front of the pulpit. Two hundred and twenty-four happy, knowing people smiled up at their young minister and his equally surprised wife.

As chairman for the group, A. Winthrop Ballard remarked that the Rev. Mr. Neubert and his wife for their congregation are usually quite evident, through the service they perform in its behalf, and that the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Neubert were exceptional examples of this devotion to their church. He went on to note the many services performed by them beyond the usual duties expected of a minister and his wife. Among these, is the opening of their home each Sunday morning to accommodate the overflow of the Church School. Ballard also added that the manner in which the presentation came to be, was fortunately to be considered a tribute to the Neubert's. There was no committee, nor had there been any meetings; it was a spontaneous response of all and the work of many to express in a small way the love and appreciation of a congregation for their minister and his wife.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Sense and Nonsense

During my sojourn in the Philippine Islands, 1907-1909, says Paul Bartsch, naturalist of the Smithsonian Institution, "I was deserted by my native flock in scaling a mountain in northern Mindanao. The natives claimed that the mountain was infested with poisonous snakes, and they would not risk the ascent. The only man who ventured with me was my Filipino interpreter.

"Later on I visited the southern part of this island and had the pleasure of practically crossing it under the protection of the then Major Partello, who was an ardent naturalist, and to whom the National Museum is indebted for many specimens.

"A few years after this the Major paid a visit to our Museum and piped me with the question, 'Are there any cobras in Mindanao?' To this I replied affirmatively, saying: 'You sent two in your last shipment.'

"The major accepted this statement rather phlegmatically, stating that he might see them for proof. Being taken to the Division of Herpetology, the specimens were trotted out. The major was greatly taken aback upon beholding them, and exclaimed: 'Heck is that a cobra? Why that thing wouldn't go into the bottle, so I picked it up and shoved it in!'"

A man who bragged that he intended to remain a bachelor all his life, told a close friend, that he didn't say it for effect—he really meant it. The friend left town for a few months and when he returned he found that Charlie had suddenly married. He called him up and asked what had happened.

Charlie—It was a girl from Gimbel's. I used to buy at her counter and she was always considerate. I invited her to lunch one day, and one thing led to another—you know how it is.

Friend — Well, now that you're settled married man, what do you think of it all?

After a brief pause, Charlie said, Charlie—Sometimes I think I could have done better at Macy's.

The man stood for a while watching the boy fish, and finally spoke.

Man—How many fish have you caught now?

Boy—Well (without looking around), if I catch this one I'm after now and then two more, I'll have three.

The bystander noticed that the farmer was having trouble with his horse. It would start, go slowly for a short distance, and then stop again. Every time it stopped, the farmer had great difficulty in getting the horse started again. Finally the bystander asked.

Bystander—Is your horse sick?

Farmer—Not that I know of.

Bystander—Is he lazy?

Farmer—No, he's as afraid I'll say what I feel he won't hear me he stops every once in a while to listen.

Keep your light burning, however small, and somebody will be certain to hunt you out.

We have no evidence that Honest Abe, the railsplitter, ever ate in the Yarn Dept. of J. W. HALE CORP. It's a perfect dessert for the Lincoln's Birthday party.

Lincoln Log (Orange and Mace Cake)

(Yield: 8-10 servings)

1 cup sugar, 1 cup hot soft brown sugar, 1½ tablespoons fresh orange juice, 1½ tablespoons grated orange rind, 2 sifted cake flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon ground mace.

Beat egg whites until they stand in soft peaks. Beat in ½ cup sugar and set aside. Beat egg yolks until light and lemon colored. Add orange and lemon juice. Gradually beat in remaining sugar. Fold beaten egg whites into batter. Sift flour with the salt, baking powder and ground mace and add one ½ at a time, folding gently.

Pour into a 10-inch ungreased 13½ x 10½ x 1-inch jelly roll pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Turn out onto a towel sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Quickly remove paper. Roll up cake in the towel. Cool.

Unroll. Spread with orange frosting. Roll up. Sift confectioners' sugar lightly over the roll or frost, to resemble bark on the log, with orange frosting. If desired, shave bitter chocolate or slivered orange rind over top.

Orange Frosting

(Yield: Sufficient frosting for both inside and outside of cake roll)

1 egg white, 1 cup butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon grated orange rind, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 3 tablespoons fresh orange juice.

Beat butter or margarine, grated orange and lemon rinds together. Add confectioners' sugar alternately with orange juice. Spread over cake roll. Roll up and frost top and sides.

Make It a Photographic Valentine

"An EXPOSURE METER is an excellent gift for any occasion", reminds THE FALLOT STUDIO, 70 E. Center St. You'll get better pictures every time, save money and avoid disappointment with an exposure meter by knowing the correct exposure times under all lighting conditions.

Nutritionists recommend that some animal protein be included in each meal. The following foods give about the same amount of animal protein: ½ cup cottage cheese; 2 ounces cheddar cheese; 2¼ cups milk; 3 ounces of cooked lean meat, poultry or fish; 3 medium-sized eggs.

Valentine Greetings

One visit to THE PINE PHARMACY, 664 Center St. suggests many ways to express an "I Love You" message on Valentine's Day. Delectable assortments of vividly bound CHOCOLATES by Whitman, Lovel & Covel, Burnham & Brady are suggested together with an appropriate CARD to express your sentiments exactly to a sweetheart, a special friend, beloved relatives living nearby or across the miles. COSTUME JEWELRY sparkling and gay makes Valentine's Day linger in memory a long time. Gifts of COSMETICS and PERFUMES, lavishly packaged for the occasion are excellent gift choices to endear yourself completely.

Braising pork chops? Top them with green pepper and onion rings for delicious flavor. Canned cream of mushroom sauce, with a little soy sauce added, makes an excellent braising liquid.

Valentine Gifts for "Him"

Observe cupid's message to your favorite beau with good looking CUFF LINKS or a TIE SLIDE from the choice assortment at C. E. HOUSE & SON. Personalize the gift further with his initials if you wish, or the emblem of his favorite lodge. Priced $1.50 to $3.50 all are nicely boxed. New Patterns in HANDSOME TIES, SOCKS and BELTS for thoughtful Valentine remembrances.

A package of cake mix will make a pudding if it is steamed. Add extra milk (or pineapple) to the batter, fill well-greased custard cups about two-thirds full and tie a couple of thicknesses of waxed paper over the top of each cup. Steam the individual puddings about 30 minutes and serve with an orange sauce.

Officials Trying to Organize Mexico City Trip

Southington Checks Rockville Win Skein

Defending champion Southington snapped Rockville High's seven straight at home against the night at Southington, coming out strong in the last half to triumph, 42-40, over Coach John Canavan's Tankerville squad.

Despite the loss, the Yellowjackets clung to second spot on the Valley 8 Conference alongside Wethersfield, both with 10-4 records. A full game ahead is Farmington (11-3) while potent Southington is in fourth spot (8-4). Only a game and a half separate the first four teams.

Possible Three-way Tie

Last night's win enabled the Blue Knights to keep their foot in the door insofar as gaining at least a share of the league crown for the 1954-55 season. With the torrid league race rapidly drawing to a close, it is conceivable that the league could end with two or possibly three teams tied for first place.

Rockville faces an improved Windsor quintet Friday at home and whens its league play Tuesday against hot and cold Middletown. Meanwhile, Farmington is at Wethersfield Friday and is host to Southington Tuesday in crucial contests.

Southington visits highly regarded Windsor and Newington and Plainville next week. Other than the Farmington tilt, Wethersfield's only remaining game is with Windsor, a game it dropped earlier in the season.

"We're not out of it yet," was Coach Canavan's commentary. "We've got to beat the last two teams and hope someone beats Farmington. If that happens we're sure of at least a tie for first place."

Illness kept Captain Eddie Moser from starting for the first time this year. Jim McMullen was also a dubious starter as he is playing a little better than a quarter, asked to be relieved. In addition, reserve Don Beerworth did not dress because of a sprained ankle.

Better Club Were

However, there was no alibi last night as Southington was the better team. The Blue Knights shooted to a 19-8 lead at the quarter with Captain Joe Florian and Bill Peck showing the way. Superior rebounding was the big difference in the initial period.

Rockville came to life in the second quarter with Gary Staiger, Don Plank and Larry Remkiewicz providing the push. Southington led 29-20 with three minutes left in the half, but two bonus shots by Plank and two free throws and a hoop by Remkiewicz cut the margin to 29-26 at the intermission.

Rockville opened the third 16 minutes like a new ball club. With only 30 seconds gone, Jose Delfiente made the bonus count for two, narrowing the gap 29-28. Fifty seconds later Stu Rupferschmid connected on a one-hander for a 30-29 Rockville lead. Hope among the fine crowd of Rockville supporters soared over the possibilities of dealing Southington the death blow. Nardi and Plank exchanged twin pointers as the scoreboard registered 32-31. Rockville.

No one knew then, but this was the last time Rockville was to lead. With Nardi hitting from outside and Jon Florian connecting from inside the key, the Blue Knights moved to a 43-35 spread at the third turn.

With Jon Florian sidelined with four fouls the point-seeking fell to little Nardi and he obliged with four eye-fitting two-baskets from 40-feet straight away. Trailing by 10 points, Rockville was forced to scuttle its zone in favor of the press. The Blue Knights retaliated with a possession game, waiting to break a man loose underneath. This they did on several occasions.

Cut Lead To Six

DelPonte hit twice from the floor in the opening minute of the final period cutting the lead to six. There appeared to be still a chance but Dick Lorenzo slipped inside for a layup and Bernie Buteau added two free throws to put Southington safely on its way.

Nardi was sensational with his outside shooting in addition to hitting 8 of 11 from the line. He took games scoring honors with 22 points. Jon Florian had 15 in a supporting role.

DelPonte led the Windy City crew with 14 tallies while Remkiewicz had 13, including 7-9 from the charity stripe. Remky played well defensively as well, preventing Nardi from driving underneath.

Plank, filling in for McMullen, did an outstanding job rebounding as well as contributing two hoops. Moser was not up to par physically but did manage to stay in the last three quarters.

Southington hit 22 of 50 from the field for 44 per cent. Inside of this was a 61 per cent average for the last half when playing the possession game, they took only 18 shots and connected on 11.

Rockville was a mediocre 16 for 52 for 30 per cent.

Both teams had good scores from the foul line. Southington 17 for 28 while Southington was 18 for 27.

Rossamondo Takes Italy Baseball Job

New Haven, Feb. 9 (AP) — Joseph Rossamondo, assistant baseball coach at Yale University for the past nine years, said today he expects to leave for Rome within two weeks to teach baseball to the youth of Italy.

Vieira Cut from Squad For Missing Practice

New Haven, Feb. 9 (AP) — Perky Vieira, a 5-6 guard who has been averaging 31.5 points a game, has been cut from the Quinnipiac College basketball team for missing a practice session.

Quinnipiac Coach Tulio Marcon announced Vieira's suspension along with that of guard Joe Gaetano's last night. Gaetano, suspended for the same reason, figured in many of Quinnipiac's 13 victories this season. The club has lost six games.

The suspension stemmed, Marcon said, from Vieira's and Gaetano's refusal to attend a practice session last Thursday, the day after Quinnipiac drop ped a 64-70 decision to Sec. Havens Teachers College. In defeat, Vieira had a tremendous output. He poured in 41 points.

"The quick little sophomore has scored 472 points in 15 games this year. Last year his 836 points were second to the scoring of towering Bob Francis of Rio Grande in small college scoring with his point average last year was 31.1.

In the current small college scoring, Vieira is seventh in the nation.

Marcon declined to comment further on Vieira's suspension.

The Ladders upset the league-leading Chiefs 27-26, last night in the Police & Firemen's Midget Basketball League.

Behind until the last period, the winners put on a drive which put them one point ahead and then froze the ball for the remaining minute. It was as important win as the Ladders have a chance to reach either first or second place.

Bob Bohn and Ron Gaudreau were Pat Mustapha and Tommy Topping as they netted 21 points between them. The game was well played by both teams. The Ladders dominated again was outstanding with 13 points.

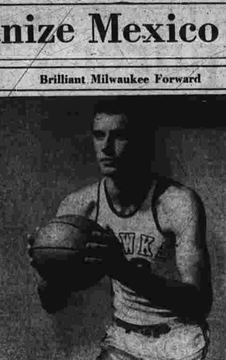
The Chicago White Sox in 1906 could go over the .500 mark for their American League "lifetime" mark and had a record in the 1954 season ended the Comiskey Club had won 4,063 games while losing 4,097 in the league's 54 seasons of play. The club's best year of years, under Paul Richards, the White Sox won 94 games and lost 60 for a percentage of .562.



Brilliant Milwaukee Forward

BOB PETTIT

High-Scoring Rookies Due Here with Hawks

High-scoring rookies this season in the National Basketball Association, Frank Selvy and Bob Pettit, will appear at the Armory Wednesday night, Feb. 16. Highly publicized Selvy and the Milwaukee Hawks' teammates will face the talented Bob Pettit and his teammates in exhibition contest starting at 8 o'clock. Two Midget League teams clash in the preliminary at 7.

Since joining the Hawks after the Baltimore Bullets dropped from the NBA, Selvy, the holder of countless scoring records while at Furman, has teamed with Pettit, Louisiana State's two-time All-American, to accord Milwaukee the finest one-two rookie scoring combination in the NBA. And the two some currently ranks as one of the leading scoring duos in basketball's big leagues.

Hawks' 6-11 Center

Selvy, 6-3, also an All-American at Furman, and Clyde Lovellette, 6-9, will handle backcourt duties for the Hawks. Pettit, 6-6, will start up front with Chuck Cooper, 6-6, who was with the Boston Celtics last winter. Giant Charlie Share, 6-11 will jump center against George Mitchell's array.

Bill Calhoun, 6-3, Al Hammond, 6-7, Lee Hitch, 6-8 and Frank "Pep" Saul, 6-2 complete the Hawks' NBA roster. Calhoun and Hannum are the squad's veterans having performed six years in the league.

Harrison and Saul have been in the "big time" for five seasons. Cooper has four years to his credit while Hitch and Share have been playing professionally for three winters.

The host quintet won't be meeting the Hawks simply for a workout. It will show a lineup quite capable of pressing the visitors to the final buzzer. Hustling Dick Suhaf, who played 23 games with Milwaukee last year, and popular Kenny Goodwin will start at forward. Towering Burr Carlson is unable to be on hand for the exhibition, and Mitchell has secured the services of Ed Grindall, 6-8 from New York. The former Eastern and American League will be assigned the task of guarding Share.

State's Finest

Two of the state's finest cagers, Worthy Patterson and Bobby Knight, will start at the guard positions. Both are familiar with NBA play. Patterson, last year's brilliant UConn leader, was given a lengthy tryout with the Celtics early last fall. Knight has played against several NBA quintets while playing with the Lynn, Mass., Pros.

Tickets for the exhibition are now on sale at Nassiff Arma, British-American Club and at the Armory.

Travel Seen Big Problem And Not $$$

New York, Feb. 9 (AP)—All is not well south of the border. As developed today, and United States officials trying to get things organized for the Pan-American games are worried.

The opening of the big carnival is just a month and three days away and the Americans don't yet know how they're going to get into Mexico City, site of the event.

"We've received two different sets of instructions from Mexico," said J. Lyman Bingham, executive director of the United States Olympic Committee—the fellow who has the unenviable task of organizing the team.

Received Two Answers

"I got both two quarter concerning visas for our team and received two answers from people in authority that contradicted each other," he said. "We've just about ironed everything out in this end."

How about money, the big problem of every Olympic team.

"The money is in hand. No worries on that count."

How about the travel?

"I won't tell you," he laughed. "But we figure it will take quite a $100,000 to get the team and all the officials there. We plan to take 278 athletes with us. All told there will be 360 in the party.

"We could use the many officials in our entourage because in 1956, officials will be permitted to total only 10 per cent of the athletes. Something had to be done to let them in. In the last Games some countries had as many officials as athletes. We're having our quota."

Lanky Bird McCabe broke loose for four successive baskets at the outset of the third quarter to turn a close game into a romp that saw Tiny's All-Stars romped 64 to 45 over the Lawyers in the Businessmen's League. In the opener the Teachers had little trouble rolling over the winless Lawyers, 92 to 45.

Tiny's All-Stars paced by a lengthy tryout with the Celtics early last fall, Frank Ferraro against several NBA quintets while playing with the Lynn, Mass., Pros.

Tickets for the exhibition are now on sale at Nassiff Arma, British-American Club and at the Armory.

Giants Have Little Trouble Signing Players

Dodger Rookie School Boasts Good Material

Brooklyn, Feb. 9 (AP)—It was a mistake to call the Dodgers and ask about the rookie school starting Feb. 15 at Vero Beach, Fla.

"Greatest ever" was but faint praise from the sanctum of Dick Walsh, who tends the farm when Farm Director Fresco Thompson is home nursing a cold. Words like "sure fire", "sensational" and "can't miss" poured from the phone.

The Dodgers, it seems, have decided to conduct a pre-camp rookie school. Actually it is patterned after the Yankee school but don't you dare say so in Flatbush.

Alston to Supervise

Head man Walter Alston will supervise with help from his coaches, Billy Herman, Jake Pitler and Joe Becker, and the high brass of the scouting and farm system departments—Thompson, Walsh, Johnny Corridon and Alex Campanis.

"Some people have the wrong idea about our school," said Walsh. "They back to earth. "These 31 boys aren't necessarily the top prospects. Some of the boys whom we feel can be helped most by additional instruction are in the lower grades."

(When farm system men talk about grades they mean the various classes of minor leagues, from Open, Triple A, Double A, A, B, C, and D).

"These 31-boys are hand picked," Walsh continued. "Nine of them are just finishing up in the Army and six are moving all the way from Class D ball. Some are from the Brooklyn club roster because we aren't allowed to cut back above the big club until March 1."

Walsh was talking off of some of the more prominent.

"John Podres, a frightfanded pitcher from Stratford, Conn., is coming back from the Navy. He was the guy who outpitched the Red Sox's Dick Brodowski every time they met.

"Then there's Larry Lassalle, a lefthander we drafted from Pittsburgh off their New Orleans club. He was shelved last year on a deal that sent Danny O'Connell to Milwaukee last year.

"Jake Abbott, another lefty who was plagued by sickness and injuries, Fresno, Calif., has a great ch

Increase Margin In Setback Play

The 4XXXX maintained their hold on first place in the Bead Men's Club setback tournament at last night's round at the Brainard Place club.

Their lead over Liebe's, closest pursuer, is now 120 points, 4096 to 3976. The other teams among the first five after last night are Piano Bloops, 3872; Pattet, 3860; and Red Men, 3925.

Other teams and their total scores are Milikowski, 3865; Miretta, 3830; Coughlin, 3789; Colia, 3701; Oliva, 3687; Manchester Paint, 3677; and Town Motors, 3671.

Postpone Meeting On Work Contract

A meeting between union representatives and town department heads scheduled for this morning was postponed because General Manager Richard Martin would be unable to attend today, according to Frank Hipple, president of Local 991, State, County and Municipal Employes Union, AFL.

The meeting had been called to discuss any proposals for revision of the one year working agreement between the town and its outside employes, which expired Jan. 1. Provisions in the old contract allow it to continue to apply until a new one is agreed on and placed in force.

Members of the police department are not among those covered by the working agreement.

High Court Choices in Legislature

State Capitol, Hartford, Feb. 10 (AP)—Gov. Ribicoff sent to the legislature today the nomination of three common pleas court judges for promotion to the Superior Court.

They are John P. Cotter of Hartford, Walter M. Pickett of the New Preston section of Washington and Philip R. Pastore of New Haven.

To replace them on the common pleas court, the Governor nominated former State Sen. Benjamin M. Leipner of Bridgeport, Joseph W. Bogdanski of Meriden and Mrs. Margaret Connors Driscoll of Bridgeport. The latter, if her nomination is confirmed, will be the first woman in Connecticut history to hold a high court judgeship.

Other Incumbents Renamed

Ribicoff announced he also the renominated five of five incumbent superior, common pleas and juvenile court judges.

Those he renamed are: Superior Court Judges J. Howard Roberts of Thomaston for eight years beginning April 1, 1955; and John H. King of Willimantic for eight years beginning May 1, 1956.

Common Pleas Judges Richard S. Keatt of Bridgeport for four years beginning May 13, 1955; and John T. Dwyer of Norwalk for four years beginning Nov. 3, 1956.

Juvenile Court Judge Stanley P. Mead of New Canaan for six years beginning July 1, 1955.

Today's nominations, said Ribicoff, completes the list of higher court judges that he is required to make during the current legislative session.

Cotter, a former State Representative from Hartford and one time Democratic minority leader of the House, was named to move up to the Superior Court on March 1. He would succeed Judge John T. Cullinan of Bridgeport who has resigned because of ill health.

Pickett was appointed to succeed Judge Thomas J. Molloy on June 29, when the latter reaches the mandatory retirement age.

Pickett himself will reach the mandatory retirement age next Dec. 2. Pastore was nominated to succeed him on that date.

Succeeds Cotter

Leipner, named to succeed Cotter on the common pleas bench on March 1, is a former Bridgeport city court judge and was Democratic Majority Leader of the State Senate four years ago.

Bogdanski, a Meriden lawyer and prominent in Democratic circles in that city, was nominated to succeed Pickett on June 29. Some 20 years ago, Bogdanski was a star end on the Colgate football team, and at one time coached the football team at Arnold College, a school which subsequently merged with the University of Bridgeport.

Car Crash Kills Con. Unwilling Girl Driver, 17

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 10 (AP)—A wild auto chase ended in flaming death early today for a man injured in the crash of a stolen car and teenage girl he forced at gunpoint to drive him in a getaway attempt.

The innocent victim of the tragedy was identified as Constance Cobb of Milltown, a pretty, 17-year-old brunette who attended New Brunswick High School.

Police and the Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office identified her rapist as Leonard Pasco, 23, whose last known address was Round Brook. Police said he had a record dating back to 1951, but were unable to give any details at his recent or parole pending a further check.

Got Permit Yesterday

Constance, who received her driver's permit only yesterday, drove the car while Pasco held a gun at her neck. It smashed into a Hudson County police patrol car parked on a road block on the Pulaski Skyway.

The vehicle skidded, flipped over and burst into flames. The girl and Pasco were trapped inside and injuned despite police efforts to get them out.

Late last night, Pasco was picked up by a Millburn patrolman beside a nearby railroad bridge. His trousers were soaked to the knees as patrolman Nylan Petri was taking Pasco to headquarters.

Historic Handshake

President George Meany, left, of the American Federation of Labor, and Walter Reuther, president of the CIO, join in a handshake in Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 9, to seal the bargain after they announced the two union groups had come to an agreement on a merger. (AP Wirephoto).

AFL, CIO to Unite, Drive for Members

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 10 (AP)—The nation's top union officials, agreed on consolidating forces into a single organization, today planned a giant drive to take in millions of new members.

Leaders of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations decided to bury traditional rivalries and embark on the same sort of intensive mass organizing campaign that sparked the CIO's surge two decades ago.

The AFL and CIO chiefs worked out what appeared to be an ironclad arrangement to merge into one 15-million-member union federation.

A long series of ratifying actions still was required to solemnize the wedding, but declarations of intentions from principals appeared convincing. Both George Meany, top man in the AFL, and Walter Reuther, CIO chief, predicted the merger would be an accomplished fact before the end of the year.

They said a well-financed organizing drive to take in new members would be launched and where possible unions in the same general field would be combined to make more effective their bargaining and political powers.

Neutralized in Textiles

An initial organizing goal was the chemicals and plastics industries. A field where combining rival unions appeared most likely was in the textile industry where relatively weak AFL and CIO unions have largely neutralized each other for years.

There was no way of anticipat-

Red Sphere Uneasy In Guns-Butter Shift

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Soviet Russia seems to have trouble in East Germany by returning to the "guns instead of butter" policy, western diplomats in Vienna believe.

These East European experts say the ousting of Georgi Malenkov to bring many changes in the leadership of the Soviet satellites. One or two "front" men for the apparently outdated policy of heavy consumer goods may be kept in office. But these diplomats think Russia will be just as happy to let "collective leadership"—on its way out at home—continue in the satellites as a barrier to any new drive.

The big effect of the Moscow changes, the diplomats predict, is likely to be in the resistance of the 10 million people of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

Opposition to the Communist regimes was strong before Stalin died and Malenkov announced his policy of more for people. That "new look" policy undoubtedly lessened suppressed resistance a little, but there is still a great deal. Recent Iron Curtains travelers report continued bitterness and disillusionment.

Export Terror Policy

With the new back-to-Stalin industrialization policy, western diplomats expect resistance to increase again. Some observers expect it to be kept underground by a revival of the Stalin "big stick" terror policy.

Cienski Girl's Death Blamed On Ex-Convict by Coroner

Hartford, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Hartford coroner's office today blamed Joseph DeMaio, Jr., 35, Springfield, Mass., an ex-convict, criminally responsible for the death three years ago of 20-year-old Celia J. Cienski of Windsor Locks.

The girl's body was recovered in the Windsor Locks canal in Suffield Jan. 18, two days after she had vanished on Jan. 22, went on a double date with DeMaio and Donald Cioetti, 34, also of Springfield.

Fell Into Canal

Coroner Louis W. Schaefer found, in a report filed in the superior court clerk's office, that Celia lost her life when she fell into the canal after fighting off an attempt by DeMaio to rape her.

"The evidence shows, said the Coroner, "that Celia was in great fear, apprehensive, crying and hysterical and that she had struggled fiercely to prevent the attempted raping by DeMaio.

"In this distraught and fearful condition, she ran from the area to save herself.

"In that effort she unwittingly, in the dark, and on unfamiliar ground, ran over rough terrain and through underbrush toward the canal and there she drowned.

"The evidence leads to the conclusion, and I so find, that the criminal acts of Joseph DeMaio, Jr., caused the death of Celia Cienski."

Report Discloses Details

The coroner's report unfolded for the first time the details of the events which led up to the tragedy. It also contained the first full report made public of the Cienski girl's injuries.

"Upon autopsy," said the coroner,

President's Zhukov Bid Grows Dim

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower may invite Russia's Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov to visit him someday, but the experts are not betting on it.

There are too many problems, hostilities and suspicions between Moscow and Washington to make such an invitation possible now.

One of the President's associates said he does not see "a chance in a million" for such an invitation. State Dept. officials label the whole question "premature."

Yet diplomats said that in some special future circumstances the friendship which developed between Eisenhower and Zhukov when they were Allied military leaders in Berlin at the end of World War II might prove useful to both countries.

Now, however, the two men could not meet just as onetime comrades in arms. World situation would focus on any meeting now because both have become figures of world political significance.

Zhukov moved into the spotlight yesterday when he was appointed defense minister of the Soviet Union. A few years ago under the late Joseph Stalin he had apparently been banished from Moscow.

Eisenhower was reminded of Zhukov's new eminence at his news conference yesterday and was told Zhukov had said recently he still held the dream of visiting the United States some day.

Eisenhower paid warm tribute to Zhukov as a military leader and confirmed that each of them had told the other he was sure his country would not attack the other's homeland.

The President said he had, at the direction of Washington, invited Zhukov to visit this country in 1945.

Zhukov accepted but later called off the visit, giving illness as the reason.

The President himself indicated to newsmen the improbability of a visit under present conditions. He commented that "this would be a remarkable thing at the present state of affairs." He added that he "certainly wouldn't hesitate" to talk over with his adversary the problem of an invitation "if we could do anything."

His words clearly implied that he was the whole matter in terms of statecraft rather than personal friendship. That is, if he were to invite Zhukov to the United States it would be to see whether the two men could do something directly to improve Russo-American relations, not to play golf.

Protocol, generally restricting formal international dealings to officials of equal rank, would rather effectively bar any official state visit by Zhukov as a subordinate minister, to Eisenhower, as a chief of state.

Matusow Book Publisher Asks Court Set Bail

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Federal Court of Appeals decides today on the plea for bail by publisher Albert E. Kahn, sentenced to six months for contempt of court in refusing to supply a grand jury with certain facts about Harvey Matusow's forthcoming book "False Witness."

Kahn of the publishing firm of Cameron and Kahn, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge John W. Clancy.

Kahn's counsel immediately appealed the sentence, and Clancy granted a stay of sentencing pending the appeals court's decision on granting of bail.

Should bail be denied, Kahn must begin serving his sentence tomorrow while he appeals the verdict to higher courts.

Kahn won a stay of sentencing on grounds the contempt sentence invaded the freedom of the press.

Kahn and Angus Cameron were subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury probing Matusow's statements in his book about how he testified falsely in a number of cases against alleged Communists, government witnesses, during the Red hunting years of Senate Republican leaders.

On the basis of Matusow's statement that he testified falsely, the Communists charge, and filed a

Chiang Forces Removed from Three Islands

Taipeh, Feb. 10 (AP)—Nationalist China has stripped three small islands near the Red mainland of their entire population — civilian and military — and begun redeployment of its forces on the barren and blasted Pescadores Islands, the Defense Ministry said today.

A communique said all the civilians from the two Tushan islands, 20 miles north of the Tachens, and from Pishan, 32 miles southwest of the Tachens, had arrived in Formosa.

The communique said guerrilla forces from those islands had been redeployed — indicating they possibly were taken to Quemoy, Matsu or Kaohsiung.

Reports from the Tachens said Nationalist troops were firing shoulder U.S. transports in biting cold and rain squalls. The civilians already had left.

There was still no sign of Chinese Communist interference.

Explosions reverberated around the Tachens as Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek's forces blasted and burned a maze of underground defense works. Other troops loaded tons of ammunition and other supplies to the rocky beaches.

U. S. 7th Fleet warships churned the Taiwan Strait sea around the island and kept overhead protecting the critical military withdrawal.

Senate Votes 64-6 To Defend Chiang

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—For the second time in two weeks, the Senate in effect has told Communist China to keep hands off Formosa. By a lopsided 64-6 vote, the Senate last night approved a mutual security treaty with Nationalist China pledgeing American military aid in defense of Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands.

A strong favorable vote had been expected in the final approval given Jan. 28 to President Eisenhower's request for congressional approval of his use of American troops in the Far East is necessary, but the final action on the treaty came with surprising speed.

The Senate decisively rejected attempts to amend the treaty and probably were taken to Quemoy, Matsu or Kaohsiung.

Eden Declines Plea for Quick Cease-fire Talk

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden sidestepped a Laborite demand today that he immediately call a Geneva-type conference to obtain a Formosa cease-fire.

Opposition member James Hudson asked Eden in the House of Commons: "In view of the refusal of Red China Premier Chou En-lai to meet the United Nations, will you take immediate steps to summon an international conference to which both China and the United States will be invited, with a view to obtaining a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait?"

The Foreign Secretary replied: "The consequences of the Chinese refusal are being studied by Her Majesty's government in close consultation with the Commonwealth and other friendly governments."

The British Foreign Office refused to comment on the government's secret negotiations with other nations for a cease-fire.

Says Bonn Arms Must Come First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prime Minister Churchill said today he will eventually seek talks with the new Soviet Premier, Marshal Nikolai Bulganin.

He told the House of Commons, however, a favorable time for him, President Eisenhower and the French premier to sit down with Bulganin is unlikely to occur before the final ratification of the London-Paris agreements for rearming West Germany in western defense.

In answer to Laborite questions, the 80-year-old British leader showed the mildness in Moscow this week has not lessened his desire for talks at the top level aimed at easing East-West tensions.

"As I have said before, the policy of the government is to seek a four-power conference at a time when it seems likely to yield genuine results, but that occasion is not likely to occur until after the ratification of the London-Paris agreements," Churchill said.

Says Churchill Stalled

Laborite W. N. Warbey declared Churchill had stalled on the question of Big Four talks for two years and thereby had lost an opportunity to negotiate with Georgi Malenkov, who was removed as Soviet premier Tuesday. The house rang with laughter.

Warbey asked if Churchill would move now or "dither another two years" until it was too late to talk to Bulganin.

The Laborite continued in a sharp tone: "And since the interval night approved a mutual security treaty with Nationalist China, the greatest seriousness and, not one for flippancy, what signs, action does he (Churchill) propose to relieve international tension?"

This remark stung Churchill, who is somewhat hard of hearing.

"I was not aware I had been guilty of any flippancy," Churchill replied. "But I did not fully hear the question because of the extreme hilarity shown on the benches opposite (Labor)."

Churchill made it clear he still favors talks with the Russians as proposed by first ministers in May, 1953. The change in Kremlin leadership this week has not changed his mind.

The 80-year-old Prime Minister maintains timing is the all important consideration to such talks

Unions End 1953 Strike, Many Find Jobs Gone

Pittsburgh, Feb. 10 (AP)—Members of 12 AFL unions involved in a 18-month-old labor dispute reported for work today at three of five strike-harassed department stores but many were told no jobs are immediately available.

Told To Lift Picket Lines

A committee made up of AFL union officials and working with the 12 unions instructed the members to lift picket lines and return to work at Frank & Seder, Horne's and Rosenbaum's.

Picket lines remain at Kaufmann's and Gimbel's.

The union officials said they reached verbal agreement with management of the three stores on issues which allowed all workers to return.

This was denied by the individual managers and Samuel E. Robb, executive director of Labor Standards Assn. LSA is the bargaining representative for the five stores.

Store managers privately referred to the move as a divide and conquer strategy adopted by the 12 unions—most of which had been away from work since Nov. 27, 1953.

Five of the 12 unions have signed new contracts, but attached notes they would not return until agreement was reached with all 12 AFL locals.

Robb said three other unions have reached agreement and members have returned to work although contract has been signed. One other union lag sent members back to work but has foregone signing a new contract at this time, Robb said.

A large percentage of members of two other unions have returned, Robb said, but the stores are not able to place all of them. He did not elaborate.

The unions said some personnel had been permitted to return to prepare trucks and machinery for a full resumption of work.

The 12th union—Local 237 AFL Restaurant Workers ... has been asked to establish its right to bargain with the stores through a National Labor Relations Board election, Robb said. He added:

"Until this is done we will not bargainin with the restaurant workers."

The union claims the five stores have seeking to drop many of the union members who have remained on strike.

Stores Continued Business

The stores have continued to do
