Ike, Aide Air Farm Dispute

Augusta, Ga., April 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson met in a tiny office here today to discuss an election year farm bill they don't like and which the President may veto.

Benson joined Eisenhower at the President's working vacation headquarters above the pro shop at the Augusta National Golf Club. With the cabinet officer on his arrival at the sun-splashed, white frame building was a team of advisers who sat in at the meeting.

Farm Bill Still Unacceptable

Benson flew from Washington last night and declared as he stepped from his plane that the farm bill still is unacceptable to him.

"I have not changed by position," he told newsmen.

But he declined to say whether he would recommend a veto of the politically explosive measure which already is figuring in the presidential election campaign.

Eisenhower and Benson chatted easily in the chief executive's small office while photographers took turns crowding into the sparsely furnished room. The President wore a light gray sports jacket over a pink shirt and tie with a bright blue tie.

Eisenhower himself has said the bill does not meet the test of a good piece of legislation. But he too has kept his own counsel regarding veto or approval.

The weight of the Eisenhower and Benson remarks about the measure seems against presidential approval, but Benson said at the airport here last night he did not know whether the chief executive had made up his mind.

"Will you recommend a veto?" a reporter asked the Agricultural Secretary.

"I can't tell," said Benson.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said anew that the President's decision most likely won't be announced until he returns to Washington early next week from an Augusta vacation mixed with work.

To Discuss TV Talk

One thing scheduled for discussion at today's conference was whether Eisenhower should make a nationwide television and radio address next week to explain whatever action he takes.

Hagerty said the President has been studying a proposals that

Adlai Says U.S. Role As Leader Periled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Adlai Stevenson says the United States is entering a period in its foreign affairs which he regards as more perilous than it has faced since the last war.

Speaking in Tampa, Fla., he told the Tampa Bar Assn. last night at the end of a day of busy campaigning that this was a period which called for strong leadership in order to preserve U.S. prestige abroad.

"I say it will take the highest responsibility and political courage to stand firm today, when things look good but are not good," he said. "It will take more than that—it will take the highest integrity at the very center of government."

Stevenson slugged away with criticisms of both foreign and domestic policies of the Eisenhower administration in a round of speeches he mixed with handshaking and a reception by women supporters.

Crosses Kefauver Path

Twice during his rounds Stevenson crossed paths with Estes Kefauver, (D-Tenn), his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, but only once—on a school ground—did they come face to face.

They also attended a political fish fry at the same time last night but went handshaking in different sections of adjoining halls.

The two are contesting for Florida's 28 convention votes in the May 29 presidential preference primary, their only direct clash in the South.

Stevenson planned to wind up his current tour tonight in Pensacola, but his aides said he would return for as long as a 10-day stretch of campaigning immediately before the primary.

In his talk to the bar group, the former Illinois governor said high government officials, including Secretary of State Dulles and President Eisenhower, were saying "that all is well and we have little to fear—that indeed we are gaining on the enemy every day, while the rest of the world gasps with dismay."

He said these statements didn't jibe with reports from abroad.

"From abroad we hear that the Soviets are outstripping us in industrial production, that they are wooing the undeveloped countries with promises of what they can make good, and that their economy is indeed expanding at a more rapid rate than our own," he said. "These are disturbing reports."

In another talk last night to the Tampa Pan American Committee, Stevenson said foreign policies of the Eisenhower administration were leading to "deterioration of our situation abroad" and loss of friendships with some of the Latin American countries.

Meanwhile, in Winter Haven, Fla., Kefauver last night attacked what he called the lack of Veterans Administration and lack of hospital facilities for servicemen.

His targets included what he described as high interest rates on veterans home loans and "the almost FBI type of investigation" before a veteran is certified for hospital treatment.

Veterans hospital facilities should be enlarged, he said, and he promised that if elected he

Grace Warmly Praised By Rainier's Chaplain

Monte Carlo, April 14 (AP)—Prince Rainier of Monaco's chaplain said today Grace Kelley had made her Catholic marriage vows and relaxed in the 48 hours they've been together in Monaco.

"She did in one day what I've been trying to do for six years—make him happy and relaxed," the Rev. Francis Tucker, told reporters.

"I've never seen my boy so happy. My work is done."

Father Tucker, of Wilmington, Del., played a major role in the romance. He arranged for the prince and the Hollywood movie actress last Christmas eve at the Philadelphia home of her parents. The engagement followed.

Shortly after noon Rainier drove out of the palace with Grace at his side and cruised off down the steep road toward Monte Carlo. A wall of policemen formed behind them, blocking off a double wall of photographers who tried to follow.

A friend said the two were spending a lot of time with each other and had let both their families know they'd like to get slightly lost.

Rink in Happiness

While the Prince and Grace basked in their second honeymoonness, the high chamberlain of Monaco announced they would get a lecture on the seriousness of marriage vows during the civil ceremony Wednesday. He said that Marcel Portanier, president of Monaco's State Council, would devote three minutes to the lecture.

Meanwhile, many of the American wedding guests were greeting each other with "what do you think of Grace?" They have found that the walls of Rainier's palace are even thicker than they look.

Neither the American guests nor even the bridesmaids have managed an exchange of hellos with Grace since she took up residence in the 120-room palace overlooking the Mediterranean. The palace switchboard has stalled all efforts to get through to Monaco's next princess.

But they'll have a chance to get together tonight when the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly, kick off the social events with a party for the wedding guests.

Since her arrival, the actress and her prince have been trying to find a little unsociability by the functions which will begin from next week.

They have had some success despite a brief encounter yesterday with a photographers' roadblock. The roadblock so angered the prince that he barred all photographers from the palace.

That didn't settle the photographers too much because they hadn't been paid for the pictures they got. But it dampened their hopes of gaining entrance to the gilded throne room Wednesday to photograph the civil ceremony. The photographers raised protests at the palace.

After their encounter with the photographers, the prince and Grace retired behind the palace walls. A palace source said Rainier had decided to avoid public

Wallace Backs Ike In President Race

Falls Village, April 14 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace says he will "no doubt" vote for President Eisenhower if the latter is candidate for reelection in November.

"Not on the farm issue," he adds, "but on the peace issue."

The former vice president and one of the original new dealers made the statement last night as he and five other experts discussed "the new technology and government farm programs" at a forum meeting in Housatonic Regional High School here.

Wallace, who once sought the presidency as a Progressive, told the gathering that most problems farmers have faced since World War I had resulted from "astounding changes in farm technology."

Onetime secretary of agriculture, Wallace also said he favored a "mild veto" for the farm bill recently passed by Congress.

Bulgarians Clear Aide Killed in '49

Vienna, Austria, April 14 (AP)—The Bulgarian Communist party today officially admitted the innocence of Traicho Kostov, former deputy premier and party secretary, who was executed in 1949 for alleged treason and "Titoism."

The announcement said that Kostov and his co-defendants were all convicted on faked evidence.

Stalin Era Victims Free

Defendants who survived the big Stalin era purge trials in Bulgaria have not been released from prison and declared rehabilitated, the announcement said.

This confirmation of Kostov's rehabilitation, which had been unofficially reported from Bulgaria two weeks ago, was contained in a statement by Todor Zhikov, first secretary of the Bulgarian Communist party, which was published today in the official party newspaper and broadcast by Sofia radio.

At the same time a broadcast from Prague said that Czechoslovak Premier Viliam Siroky officially confirmed the release and rehabilitation of three co-defendants of the executed Czech vice premier Rudolph Slansky. He confirmed the release of former deputy Foreign Minister Arthur Lendon and Vavro Hajdu and former Deputy Foreign Trade Minister Eugen Loebel. Siroky, however, maintained that the hanging of Slansky and former Czech Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis was justified. "Titoism" was one of the major charges against the men.

Student Blasts Gov. Griffin at Debate on Bias

Cambridge, Mass., April 14 (AP)—Bitter remarks directed at Gov. Marvin Griffin (D) of Georgia by a Negro student threw a Harvard-Georgia school forum debate on segregation into an uproar last night.

The incident occurred during a discussion period that followed a debate between Griffin and Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits of New York state under the auspices of the Harvard school.

The student, who identified himself as Seymour Hazegod, an Negro, said to Griffin:

Denies U.S. Peaceful

"The U.S. Constitution serve and you tell us that you are a peaceful nation. After hearing your speech tonight I can find nothing to justify that.

"Do you think, after listening to you, I should go back to my people and say that we should go along with your side . . . when down in your part in Georgia they shot and cut up Negroes?"

Griffin said only "I think you've gone a little too far."

The director of the forum, to continue, but a rising murmur from the audience upset him and he fled as aide of the Boston High School auditorium as some 1,500 law school faculty members, students and their guests, many of them women, applauded or hissed.

Gov. Lee to Face Treasury Tax Suit

Salt Lake City, April 14 (AP)—Utah's Gov. J. Bracken Lee said yesterday he got a letter from Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey telling him he had better pay his federal income tax by Monday.

But Lee said he wouldn't.

He said Humphrey wrote him that if he didn't, then the Internal Revenue Service would proceed in the usual manner to collect the taxes . . . by filing a lien and levying on assets."

"I wrote him back," said Lee "asking him to clarify what this 'usual manner' is.

"I want to know if he means that tbsy'll just move in and confiscate property and money without due process—like they've done in the past at times—or if they'll have a court order."

Lee, a Republican, withheld part of his income tax payment when he had his return Jan. 15—on that portion of his income above his $10,000 governor's salary. He

Dag, Nasser in New Talks As Mideast Quiet Prevails

Fishing Derby Opens at Center Springs

While fishermen throughout the state must wait another week before the official opening of the fishing season several local youngsters got an early start today in the Fishing Derby conducted by the Park and Recreation Department at Center Springs Annex. Parents accompanying the boys and girls were not allowed to fish until noon when Center Springs Pond was open to the general public. (Herald Photo).

Cairo, Egypt, April 14 (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold held more peace talks with Egyptian leaders today. There was relative quiet along the tense Israeli-Egyptian frontier, but a Jerusalem dispatch said five Israeli soldiers were wounded today when their military vehicle was blown up by two landmines near Nirytihahu, east of the Egyptian-held Gaza strip.

Prior to this incident there has been quiet in this sector for two consecutive nights.

Talks 30 Minutes

Hammarskjold talked for 30 minutes with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and for an hour with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi. He said he would meet again with Fawzi before returning to his temporary headquarters in Beirut this evening.

The secretary general was accompanied to the talks by U.N. truce chief Maj. Gen. Burns and two U.N. experts, Henri Vigier and John Ridman. He was to return to his temporary headquarters in Beirut later today.

Asked by reporters if he considered his Cairo mission successful, Hammarskjold said tersely "I've done in Cairo what I came for."

The secretary's mission appeared to have succeeded in clamping at least a temporary lid on the smouldering frontier situation. Early today there had been no reports of border incidents since Thursday afternoon.

In Jerusalem, an Israeli military spokesman said an Israeli police vehicle was fired on near Meron, Upper Galilee, in northern Israel near Syria today. No casualties were reported. Israel had charged there were two new Arab incidents yesterday, but neither involved the frontier with Egypt. An Israeli army spokesman said a child in Jerusalem's Israeli sector was wounded by fire from the Arab quarter. Israeli workers also were reported fired on in the central Jordan River Valley.

Both Israel and Egypt have given Hammarskjold written assurances they will refrain from hostile acts. The Egyptian has allowed by a brief aerial dog fight and an exchange of fire on Thursday. Then quiet prevailed.

Withdrew Consulate

Egypt was said to have given further assurance that she has pulled Arab commandos out of Israel, which accused the raiders of killing 14 and wounding 52 in the past year.

Hammarskjold, who is expected to stay about a month conferring with Arabs and Israelis, tentatively is scheduled to push on to Israel Monday after a weekend of staff work at his Beirut headquarters.

The Secretary General has seen Premier David Ben-Gurion a message asking further assurance that Israel had given orders to quit shooting across the border. He said Egypt had promised to issue such orders.

Hammarskjold is expected to take to Israel a plan to pull troops of both sides about one third of a mile back from the border.

Nasser originated the idea last summer and it received endorsement from the U.N. Security Council. Unconfirmed Cairo reports said Israeli had now agreed in principle.

U.N. experts and Egyptian officials devoted two long meetings

Parley Termed Partial Success

Soviet Leaders Start Historic Trip to Britain

Moscow, April 14 (AP)—Premier Bulganin and Soviet party chief Nikita Khrushchev set out today on the first leg of their historic journey to Britain.

It marked the first time since the Russian revolution that top rulers of the world's chief communist state have left their capital to pay a visit to a major Western power.

Although they had complained earlier this week that the program laid down by the British will hamper their contact with ordinary Britons, neither Bulganin nor Khrushchev showed any chagrin as they boarded their special train in Moscow to begin the first part of their trip.

To Set Sail From Baltic

The two Soviet leaders were to get mail from the Baltic port of Baltiisk. They are scheduled to arrive in Britain Wednesday for their 10-day visit.

A party of Soviet dignitaries — including Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and deputy Premiers A. I. Mikoyan and L. M. Kaganovich who will hold the reins during the leaders' absence — pulled up at the station in a glittering Zis limousine to bid farewell to the departing duo.

A huge throng gathered outside the station to watch the scene.

On the platform inside was most of the foreign diplomatic corps. Britain was represented by charge d'affaires Peter Ramsbotham.

The Soviet leaders' train was scheduled to arrive Sunday at Kaliningrad. The Foreign Ministry said no foreign or British journalists could accompany them there. The only foreigner permitted to witness the leaders' departure from the adjoining port of Baltiisk was one of the Bulganin-Khrushchev party.

To Get Salt From Baltisk

The Soviet leaders will get salt from the Baltic port of Baltiisk. They are scheduled to arrive in Britain Wednesday for their 10-day visit.

Spanish Bread Strike By Benefits Cut

Madrid, Spain, April 14 (AP)—The government appeared today to be broken the back of a widespread strike by 50,000 workers in northern Spain.

Last night the government announced dismissal of striking workers, cancellation of their labor contracts, seniority rights and other benefits. Strikes are illegal in Spain.

But today the civil governor of Pamplona, center of the strike, said strike wave would receive full pay for the time of the strike. Workers who stayed on the job would be back at work this afternoon. Pamplona is the Spanish government's get-tough threat combined with its inducement offered to the workers.

Earlier messages from San Sebastian and Pamplona had described the strike as "ugly" as a result of the drastic dismissal order.

Strikers Indignant

The cabinet announcement had been received with general indignation by strikers and non-strikers alike. Many indignantly said the

Gov. Thomas Garcano Gopi of San Sebastian was expected to follow with action similar to that of the governor at Pamplona.

The result would be an end to the strike with nobody winning. The government will have backed down on its reprisal threats while the workers will have failed to obtain wage increases.

The strikers, brought on general discontent over a recent government-ordered wage increase, have spread from Barcelona on the Mediterranean to Bilbao on the Bay of Biscay. Workers contended the pay boost—first since January

Star of Air Force Rise with Norstad

Washington, April 14 (AP)—The forthcoming retirement of Army Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther may make the Air Force is a step nearer to having an air officer picked as chairman of the strategic-making Joint Chiefs of Staff. The official announcement that Gruenther is leaving the Army late this year was coupled with a put to persistent reports that President Eisenhower might name his JCS chairman when a vacancy occurs next year.

Until his retirement, Gruenther will continue as Supreme Commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces in Europe.

The service unification law under which the Joint Chiefs organization was created does not specify that the chairmanship must be rotated among the services. However, in the approximately eight years of the JCS, the organization has been headed by one Army general (Omar Bradley) and one Navy admiral (Arthur Radford), each serving two terms. The Air Force's hope is that at least a custom has been established.

The Air Force may be confronted with choosing not one but two officers for top spots next year—the JCS chairmanship and the post of Chief of Staff of the Air Force. The second term of Gen. Nathan F. Twining as USAF chief will expire in June 1957.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, air deputy to Gruenther and now designated as Gruenther's successor in the supreme command of NATO forces, long has been mentioned in speculation regarding both top domestic posts.

President Eisenhower, with whom Norstad served when the latter chief executive was wartime commander, and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, has praised the young general on several occasions.

Other Market Presented

However, Norstad will not take over his new job until late this year — which means he would be in that post for little more than a half year before the high command vacancies occur in Washington.

Among the upper echelon air generals whose names also figure in speculation as successor to the chief of staff and JCS chairman posts are Gen. Thomas D. White, vice chief of the Air Force; Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command; Gen. Earle E. Partridge, chief of the Air Defense

GIs in Germany Curbed For Beer Hall Brawls

Augsburg, Germany, April 14 (AP)—A U.S. Army general today restricted any soldier involved in his division to their posts for the weekend because of a wave of brawls in German beer halls.

Maj. Gen. Derrill M. Daniel, commander of the 11th Airborne Division, said he took the measure "to protect the reputation of the Division and to maintain harmonious relations with the Germans."

First Time Taken

It was the first time that a U.S. commander in postwar Germany restricted his entire division to their posts as a disciplinary measure. The order involves between 10,000 and 15,000 men.

In a talk to his men here, Daniel said:

"There is no place in the 11th Airborne Division for bad soldiers or hoodlums."

A spokesman said disciplinary action, against individual soldiers involved has already been taken. Details of the incidents were not made public.

German newspapers reported that some of the incidents involved both soldiers and Germans. Daniel said that the incidents were "damaging our reputation and endangering our relations with the Germans."

He told unit commanders "I expect immediate results" in stopping the incidents, and added:

"There is a small group of personnel within the division pulling down our reputation, injuring our prestige and casting reflections on our division.

"One bad impression overshadows 99 good impressions. When one of our men gives a bad impression, it is not alone he who is judged. The entire division gets the blame."

Pledges Cooperation

He said that he would cooperate "to the fullest extent with the local authorities in fostering good relations between the 11th Airborne Division and the people of Germany."

"Every member of the proud 11th Airborne Division will remain within the confines of his military installation until Monday, April 16th," Daniel said.

The division composed of its transfer from Fort Campbell, Ky., to Germany last month.

"BLOODY PURGE" CONFIRMED

Moscow, April 14 (AP)—The Communist Daily Worker says it has received confirmation of a bloody purge of Jewish leaders in Russia during Stalin's reign. ## Student Blasts Gov. Griffin at Debate on Bias

Scores of police were detailed throughout the auditorium during the 5 hour session, but the remarks by the student were not only disturbance. The audience previously punctuated statements by Griffin and Jevits (eq) with frequent applause.

Griffin, in his debate remarks, lashed the Supreme Court's segregation decisions as a "judicial deliberate usurpation" of states' rights.

"No court," he said, "has authority to settle the controversy. This dispute is determinable only by the people themselves, speaking through their legislative bodies."

Javits said the Supreme Court's "historic decision" 23 months ago poses "the greatest challenge the American people have faced in the battle for civil rights since the Civil War."

Many Southerners, the New York Republican said, "are deeply and honestly" convinced that segregation is vital to the maintenance of "racial integrity; meaning to many Southerners decent standards of social organization."

Javits, a former New York City Congressman, said he would recommend to the Eisenhower administration that it call a White House conference of the governors and attorney generals of all 48 states to consider the problems of compliance with the court's decision.

"In that way," Javits said, "the whole body of law enforcement authority on the state level would be expressed and the reasonableness of what may be asked the Southern state could be determined."

Gov. Griffin called the high court's decision "baseless," seeking to "transmute socialistic theory into law" and founded on what he called a "ridiculous theory" that Negro children suffer a "sense of inferiority" in segregated schools.

The court "overstepped" its authority, the Georgia Democrat said, and in such a case "it is the duty of the state in flagrant cases to interpose its powers between its people and the effort of the court to assert an unlawful dominion over them."

Trinity to Get $50,000 in Grant

Hartford, April 14 (AP)—The Hartford Foundation for Public Giving has made a $50,000 grant to Trinity College, the college announced today.

The grant, given to Trinity as part of its "program of progress" development campaign, will be used to remodel Williams Memorial Hall, formerly used as the college library.

The building will be used for administrative offices and lounges for faculty members and the secretarial staff.

A spokesman for the Hartford Foundation, a permanent, nonprofit community trust, said the $50,000 grant was the largest made to any one recipient this year. It was made possible, he said, by a five million dollar bequeath made to the foundation in 1953 by Howard H. Garmany who stipulated in his bequest that "the needs of Trinity College be met."

Bolton Court Continues Silverstein Case

Bolton, April 14 (Special)—The Silverstein zoning case scheduled for Trial Justice Court Tuesday evening has been continued until May 1, according to an announcement by court officials.

Mrs. Esther Silverstein's attorney, William Pomerantz, requested the delay in hearing the case because of pressure of other business.

The defendant was served a warrant early this month, under the direction of the Zoning Board which maintains that a dance studio she is erecting on Tolland Turnpike violates zoning regulations in two respects.

The Board contends the building has twice been increased in size since its permit to build was issued and that it is being constructed closer to the street than regulations permit.

Driver Acquitted In Higher Court

Raymond C. Palmer Jr., 28, of Andover, was found innocent Thursday on appeal of his local conviction for evading responsibility in the Court of Common Pleas.

Palmer, defended by Atty. Edwin Lavitt of Rockville, was charged as the result of an accident Jan. 27. Evidence brought out in Town Court showed Palmer's car was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Miss Shirley Dorsey, 18, of South Coventry.

Palmer testified he got got out of the car after the crash and talked for a few minutes with Miss Dorsey before continuing on his way.

He was later arrested when Miss Dorsey and a companion spotted his car, Prosecutor John R. FitzGerald maintained here. Palmer had not complied with the statutes by failing to identify himself to the other driver involved.

Palmer was fined $50 when convicted here.

The Court of Common Pleas proceeding was a jury trial and Judge C. FitzGerald presided.

Spanish Break General Strike By Benefits Cut

1954—has not been enough to cover spiraling living costs.

The increases have in some cases amounted to only 1-1-2 cents a day. Since January, 1954, prices have soared between 30 and 50 per cent.

DANISH STRIKERS IN RIOT

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 14 (AP)—Police clashed with bands of rioters early today in incidents that saw automobiles overturned, streets barricaded and officers stoned.

A police source said the rioters touched off the violence in a lull following yesterday's big demonstrations by striking workmen. He added that the latter claimed nothing to do with the strike activity. Many involved today, police said, were youngsters wearing motorcycle helmets and leather jackets.

No arrests were made but riot police were reported under orders to give the youths "rough treatment."

In yesterday's strike demonstration, an angry crowd of about 1,000 workers tried to enter the Danish Parliament building and battled police an hour before they were routed. The attack followed a demonstration by 100,000 workers in front of the building. Authorities said the demonstration was Communist-organized.

The clash broke out after a day of wildcat strikes protesting a decision by Parliament to put into law a state mediator's compromise plan for ending a nearly month-old strike. About 60,000 workers were involved in the original strike for higher wages and a shorter work week. The compromise plan offered a slight wage hike and some social benefits but did not cut the work week. Workers in Parliament defeated the compromise and shop stewards said they would defy parliament's action backing it up.

Meanwhile, 15 persons were arrested during yesterday's demonstration but only seven were still held today. Two demonstrators were still hospitalized out of about a dozen injured.

At Alborg, in northern Jutland, a police officer was killed last night in a fight between police and a big crowd of demonstrators. Several other persons were injured.

Soviet Leaders Start Historic Trip to Britain

post war reparations.

The green and white stuccoed station was festooned with flowers and flags.

Television lights glared as newsmen and photographers crowded around the two departing leaders.

They entered through the station's first class waiting room. A luxurious red carpet stretched from the porte cochere, where they descended from their cars, all the way to the train. Their route took them past a big statue of Stalin which dominates the departure area.

yesterday to the withdrawal plan and a proposal to thin out troops along the frontier areas.

One of the most dangerous aspects of the frontier situation in the opinion of many has been the heavy concentration of troops over the past six months.

It has been estimated that Egypt now has about 50 per cent of its armed force in the eastern Sinai Desert near the Israeli frontier. There have been reports of a similar buildup on the Israeli side.

In Washington, the U.S. Navy announced that four destroyers were being sent to the Mediterranean but it gave no indication there was any connection between the move and the Middle East tension.

He said the destroyers were being "assigned to the 6th fleet to provide a boarder training base in the area and to provide for occasional cruising in the Red Sea and Persian Gulf." The four ships assigned—the McNair, the McCormick, the Gearing and the Sullivans—now are based at Newport, R. I. They will leave that port tomorrow.

Region School Supported for Vo-Ag Location

Andover, April 14 (Special)—The establishment of a regional vocational-agriculture center at the future Regional District 8 high school was supported last night by representatives of Columbia and Colchester at a meeting at Lebanon High School. They voted to recommend to their individual boards of education that vo-ag students from their towns should be sent to a center located in Hebron.

Members of a regional vocational agriculture consulting committee and representatives of boards of education in the area also voted unanimously that the area under discussion was too large to be served by one center.

Lebanon has also indicated that it would file for a center. At last night's meeting, however, the possibility of locating an additional center at Norwich rather than Lebanon was also indicated.

W. Christof Heisler, superintendent of Regional District 8, stated that arrangements have been completed for the preliminary filing of an application for the center for the regional board.

The number of farms in towns which have indicated that they would send students to this district is as follows: Hebron, 115; Columbia, 101; Colchester, 185; Andover, 32; and Marlborough, 35.

Judge Fines Man On Three Counts

Coventry, April 14 (Special)—A Mansfield man who, his attorney said, "wasn't here at the time he is name," was fined $106 in Trial Justice Court last night by Justice Raymond M. Roberts.

Atty. Milton W. Horwitz recommended to Roberts that he be lenient with Clifford C. Champion, 24, released from jail this week. Champion was fined $100 and costs on three counts of reckless driving and failure to pass a school bus, charges he struck here Dec. 2 in addition to making alimony payments.

In another case last night, a charge of failure to grant one-half of the highway against Reginald Elsworth, Daley Rd., was nolled.

Five Insurgents Attack Gryk In Democratic Party Battle

The Manchester Democratic party was rocked by charges yesterday in the wake of a personal attack levied yesterday by Judge Wesley C. Gryk, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee.

A Republican statement issued yesterday by five insurgent members of the Democratic Town Committee characterized Gryk as a "boss" and his operation of the town committee as "dictatorial."

Today Gryk said the statement was "so ridiculous and asinine that it isn't worthy of comment." And, pointing out that Atty. John D. LaBelle, a rebel leader and a committee member as well, had not signed the statement, Gryk added: "It's noteworthy that the spokesman for the insurgents who is also a committeeman failed, neglected or refused to subscribe to such a statement. Perhaps he doesn't agree with it."

The statement was signed by Norman Comollo, Mrs. Mary Aceto, Pascal Mastrangelo, Roger Hilliard and Mrs. Ann Moran.

Plan Campaigns

The five factions in the Democratic Party are currently lining up support and planning strategy in preparation for the May primary at which time they will decide the make-up of the town committee.

Gryk's critics have backed candidates and their friends met at the Community Y last night in Rockville to plan a town-wide door-bell ringing and telephone-calling get-out-the-vote effort.

The insurgents will meet Monday night in the Manchester Y to plan a similar campaign.

In their statement yesterday, the five rebel committeemen hit again at Gryk's repeated charges that the insurgents wanted to dominate the Town Committee so that they could control the town court patronage.

"We are not interested in personalities or in becoming judges," the statement said. "We are fed up with political double talk, rosy promises and empty rhetoric."

The statement also chided Gryk for "attempting to influence town judgeship and the town committee membership. It referred to Gryk as "Chairman-Judge Gryk" and "Democratic-Judge Gryk."

The statement also charged that "the present committee owes its allegiance only to Gryk. In support of this claim, it said meeting after meeting over recent months Gryk was interested in "political jobs for himself, his brother, or his inner circle." Gryk's brother, Anthony, is clerk of the Town Court.

Then the statement listed a series of five objections to "power control" as used by Gryk "in his dictatorial operation" of the committee: to the "policy of keeping real party workers out" of the committee because they will not take orders from the "boss"; to Gryk's "dual role"; to "reckless statements" issued under Gryk's sponsorship; and to Gryk's failure to support candidates nominated by the majority of Democratic voters.

"As loyal Democratic party members," the five signers of the statement concluded, "we consciences do not permit us to follow a leadership that substitutes talk for performance."

Court Cases

John J. O'Brien, 20, of West Hartford, was fined $18 in Town Court today for speeding.

O'Brien, arrested as the result of an accident when he skidded by a stop sign in E. Center St. from Hamlin St., had charges of reckless driving and passing a stop sign consolidated into speeding on recommendation of Prosecutor John R. FitzGerald.

He said he felt the accident was due to speeding alone. Atty. Morton Appleton of West Hartford representing O'Brien, pointed out that a car will skid about 40 feet after the brakes are applied even on a dry road.

At the time of the accident, Appleton said, the side skid marks were only about 36 feet and the road was sandy last Monday, the date on which the accident occurred.

Robert Fournier, 16, of West Hartford, was fined $15 for passing on the right, a rules of the road violation.

In other cases, Gerard A. Parent, 32, of Willimantic, was fined $5 for passing a stop sign; Albert E. Gendron, 38, of RFD 1, South Coventry, and Albert J. Mushrall, 20, of Collinsville, were each fined $9 for rules of the road violations.

Continuances were granted Andrew L. Fisher, 45, of RFD 1, Andover, charged with passing a school bus; Ernest Jones, April 21, Mrs. Agnes M. Knapp, 73, of 397 S. Main St., charged with passing a stop sign, until April 30; and Raymond Lee, 17, of 78 Hilliard St., charged with speeding, on a day-to-day basis.

Ike, Benson Air Farm Problem

he take the politically charged issue to the people. Key congressional Democrats who want the bill on the farm program kept Eisenhower must take this measure or none at all. The President told them Congress.

Some members of both parties urged the President to sign the bill. They included Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), who is seeking re-election this year, and Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

The Republican governors of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota also urged support of the President in Washington Monday with a similar plea.

Suspended Term Given McCrystal

Thomas N. McCrystal Jr., 16, of Maple St., Vernon, was given a suspended indeterminate sentence at the Connecticut Reformatory for Boys and probation for one year, on condition that he receive psychiatric treatment, by Judge Wesley Gryk today.

The youth, originally charged with taking a motor vehicle without the owner's permission, had the charge reduced to breach of the peace on recommendation of Prosecutor John R. FitzGerald.

He made the recommendation on the basis of a psychiatric report on McCrystal by Dr. Harold Bancroft of Hartford, which said a corrective sentence in jail on the original charge would only return the youth to society with further effects and danger of deterioration."

The doctor felt psychiatric treatment would be the best thing for the youth, whom he termed an early case of "schizophrenia" but not yet mentally ill.

Atty. Robert Kahan of Rockville defended McCrystal and agreed with the final sentence made by the judge as a result of FitzGerald's recommendation.

The youth was returned here after being apprehended by New York City Police with a car he had taken to try out before purchase from a local car dealer. Kahan said the teenager face trial Monday on a charge of taking a motor vehicle without the owner's permission for another incident in West Hartford.

Cifarelli to Face Bad Check Count

Victor Cifarelli, 59, of Hartford, co-owner with his son, Donald, of the Five England Players Co., plant destroyed by fire after Christmas, was arrested yesterday and charged with two counts of fraudulent issue of checks.

He was released after posting $1,000 bond. Cifarelli surrendered himself at police headquarters in company with his attorney, police said.

Prosecutor John R. FitzGerald said the amount of the allegedly bad checks which resulted in his issuing the warrant under which Cifarelli was arrested totaled about $3,700. The alleged offenses occurred Dec. 5 and 16, 1955, about 10 days before the fire.

The company plant, located at 99½ Gardner St., was totally destroyed in a spectacular fire a few days after Christmas. Attachments totalling about $20,000 have since been entered against the firm.

No court date has yet been set as Judge Wesley C. Gryk, the only judge at Town Court, has disqualified himself from hearing the matter.

Ellison-Gentilcore Wedding

Loring Photo

MRS. PAUL ALFRED ELLISON

Miss Marge Geraldine Gentilcore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Gentilcore, 57 Oak St., became the bride of Paul Alfred Ellison, French Rd., Bolton, son of Edwin Ellison of Willimantic and Mrs. Ruby Dittrick of Bolton, at 11 o'clock this morning in St. James' Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edgar J. Farrell. Mrs. Jane Maccarone, organist and soloist, sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus." Church decorations were white gladioli and carnations.

Mrs. Jennie Gremmo, 96 Maple St., sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Marge Gentilcore, 149 Spruce St.; Mrs. Marilyn Wadsworth, 23 Cumberland St., and Miss Sally Heatley, 198 Chestnut St.

Donald DeVita of East Hartford was best man, and ushers were Roy Goff of Hartford, Rich Gentilcore of 57 Oak St., and Neil Wadsworth, 23 Cumberland St.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of Chantilly lace, fashioned with bulle fitted bodice, portrait neckline with pearl trim, long lace tapered sleeves, and bouffant skirt of pointed lace over tulle with satin underslip. Her imported illusion veil was draped from a lace contour with sequin trim, and she carried a bouquet of philodendron and stephanotis.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore similar waltz-length gowns of crystalize ice taffeta made with fitted bodices, long torson and bouffant skirts, that of the matron of honor in aqua and those of the bridesmaids in orchid pink. Matching veils and tiaras completed their ensembles. The matron of honor carried a bouquet of orchid pink carnations and the bridesmaids, aqua carnations.

The mother of the bride chose a Chantilly lace and net over taffeta dusty blue dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The mother of the bridegroom chose a leopard print on brown taffeta dress with black patent leather accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

A dinner for members of the immediate families and close relatives was held at 12 o'clock this noon at the Italian American Club, with a reception for 150 guests following there beginning at 2 o'clock.

When leaving on a motor trip to Florida, the bride will wear a black and white tweed suit with matching accessories. The couple will be at home at 58 Chestnut St., after May 1.

Both the bride and bridegroom attended Manchester High School. She is employed at Travelers Insurance Co., and he, a veteran of the Korean War, is employed at U.S. Glass Fiber Co.

The bride's gift from the bridegroom was luggage, and her gift to him was a camera.

Rainier Chaplain Applauds Grace

appearances as much as possible before the wedding.

Rainier has turned over the palace to Grace and her parents. He leaves each night to sleep in his nearby villa.

Meanwhile, the tiny principality and its famed casino looked as if a U.S. invasion force had occupied it. American wedding guests, reporters, photographers, cameramen and a horde of tourists were prowling about, rubbernecking at Monacans, the scenery and each other.

The U.S. government's official representative, hotelman, Conrad Hilton, hadn't showed up yet. Monacans were looking forward to greeting him in the hopes he might build a new hotel here.

At one time you could count 17 expensive automobiles with U.S. license plates in the area by the casino and Hotel de Paris, headquarters for the wedding guests. You also could see the gleaming black Rolls-Royce of Greek ship pimping magnate Aristotle Onassis, who owns a big share of the casino, and the gold-trimmed daimler of Sir Bernard and Lady Docker of Britain.

So little French is spoken in the lobbies of the Hotel de Paris and the nearby Hermitage—where many of the wedding party are staying—that lobby sitters stare with concern when they hear it.

Actress Rita Gam, a bridesmaid, said her first impression of the tiny resort was that people "dress for Cote D'Azur, not the Riviera." The Americans in particular are shunning the casual sports clothes suitable to a resort city. And you can almost invariably spot members of the wedding party by the new look of their dresses, suits, hats and shoes.

Good Flying Weather

Manchester police are a prosaic bunch. As they say, they're just interested in facts, not fancy.

So when a Manchester woman telephoned them yesterday afternoon to report she had "been two red wheels converted by an axle and flying "like a wren," they were not intrigued — just interested in checking it out.

Patrolmen Emanuel Motola and William Cooke climbed up to the skywatch atop the police station and scanned the skies. When they came down, they reported: "box kite flying over Cheney Bros' mills."

Those are probably the facts, Mam.

Navy Commissions Carrier Saratoga

Federal and state notables, including Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas, are to take part in the commissioning on the huge flight deck of the ship, berthed at Brooklyn's Naval Shipyard.

The Saratoga, bearer of an illustrious name in American Naval history, is the second ship to be launched of the class of the carrier U.S.S. Forrestal, but she embodies advances over her sister ship.

Both are 60,000-ton vessels larger than any other fighting ships, including the biggest, 45,000-ton battleships. But the Saratoga, at 1,039 feet in length, is three feet longer than the Forrestal, and also swifter and more potently equipped.

Her newly designed 250,000-horsepower engines have the highest propulsion force of any ever installed on an American vessel. About the equivalent of 100 train locomotives.

Although her top speed is secret, she'll cruise at an average of about 34 knots (a little over 38 miles an hour).

She's about five city blocks long, and about a block (352 feet) wide, with a flight deck more than four acres in size.

Her two acres of hangar space for the some 100 planes she'll carry have the combined flight operations area to more than six acres.

The entire population of a city of 40,000 could stand on her decks.

In height, from keel to top mast, the giant carrier rises to the equivalent of a 25-story building. She'll carry a crew of about 3,800 officers and men.

Taking over as her commander at the commissioning ceremonies is Capt. Robert J. Stroh, 48, a New York-born career officer who weathered some of the rough Pacific fighting in World War II. He and his wife, Dorothy, have two children now in in Alexandria, Va.

Gov. Lee to Face Treasury Tax Suit

would not say how much that was.

He said he wants to test the constitutionality of the tax itself, and the use of tax money for foreign aid.

Humphrey, in his letter, said he has legal advice that Lee's action would not serve as grounds for such a test case.

"My counsel has advised me," wrote Humphrey, "that the Supreme Court, in the case of Frothingham vs Mellon (1923), rejected a taxpayer's attempt to object to Congressional appropriations on the ground that tax payposes claimed by the taxpayer to be unconstitutional.

Lee said he and his attorneys have studied this case, too, but still want to get into court. That's why, said the governor, he wants to know more specifically what the government will do in its "usual manner" of collecting the delinquent tax.

Completing his second term as governor, Lee plans to announce his political intentions tomorrow, when income taxes are due.

"That seems to me to be as an appropriate time as any," he said.

Gas Station Application Faces Motor Vehicle Group Hearing

Bolton, April 14 (Special)—Officials of the Motor Vehicle Department will hear the application of John J. Barnini, Manchester, for approval to build a gas station on Rts. 6 and 44, in Community Hall Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

The proposed station would opposite Doc's Drive-In at the Bolton Lake Point.

Another application Barnini forwarded for a gas station, in Rockville at the corner of Hale and Grove Sts., was strongly protested by a group of Rockville townspeople at a public hearing there Thursday.

The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals turned down a similar request by Barnini March 26, in which he proposed to build a station on property which would have abutted another gas outlet location at Center and Church Sts.

At the Rockville hearing, parents of children attending the Northeast School argued that the proposed station would be a safety hazard to children walking to and from school in the area.

Atty. John D. LaBelle represented Barnini in Rockville and Atty. Wesley C. Gryk represented him on the Manchester application.

Hi-Y Sends Delegates To Capitol Youth Day

Ten Hi-Y members from Manchester High School attended the two sessions of the State Hi-Y Youth and Government program held at the State Capitol in Hartford Saturday, March 10 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and April 7, 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. Delegates attending the Model Legislature from the Senior Hi-Y were Representatives Bill Carlson, Bill Karvela and Don Squatrito; Senator Bob Warren; President Pro tem of the Senate Barry Schaller; and alternates Bob Carter and Dick Wright. Attending from the Junior Hi-Y were Representatives Lee Bull, Dave Guay and Danny Renz.

The main purpose of the Youth and Government Assembly, sponsored annually by the YMCA, is as Governor Abraham Ribicoff's representatives state the second our youth begins learning about government, the better that government is going to be." In addition, the program affords to young people of Connecticut, participating in Hi-Ys throughout the state, the opportunity to become acquainted and work with, teenagers from other parts of the State. Over 250 boys and girls participated in the program representing more than 50 high schools in Connecticut.

Each delegation participating submitted a bill which was introduced and passed in the legislature in exactly the same procedure as takes place in the regular Connecticut Legislature. During the opening session on March 10, bills were introduced and reported, either favorably or unfavorably, by committees. At the program speeches were delivered by Governor Lodge, lieutenant governor, and governor, secretary of state and treasurer.

During the April session, bills were introduced in each house, debated, and voted upon. Roger Bernard of Torrington, the newly elected youth governor, was sworn in by former Chief Justice William M. Maltbie. Other highlights were a banquet and Governor's Ball at the Hotel Bond and addresses by United States Representative Horace Seely-Brown and Mrs. Frances Burke Redick, former secretary of state.

Legion of Honor

Larry LaPolla

Pat Fogarty

A History of Western Civilization course occupies a great deal of our legionnaire's scholastic time and has inspired a great ambition into a future plan—that of traveling in Europe. Every year as a student in this class, she has been exposed to a broader and more fascinating picture of civilization in time past in relation to that of today. After a short time, it is evident that just this picture or panoramic view of European culture is not sufficient and the student is certain to want to get a closer and firmer hand wit-satisfy her interests.

April 11, at the Manchester County Jail, at the Manchester County Jail, Mrs Patricia Fogarty, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Fogarty of 111 Ridge St., informally known as Pat, and attractively crowned with red tresses, our legionnaire is professionally called "baby sitter" and is employed every week-end.

College-level English IV and Modern Problems, and Spanish II are Pat's senior efforts to prepare for entering college and graduation. As a freshman at Our Lady Of The Elm in September, she will begin studies to become an elementary school teacher.

Pat has been a member of the Girls' Leaders' Club for four years and a member of Book and Buskin for three. Her other activities include Somaaha, 4; Paint and Powder, 1; Current Affairs, 3 and 4; Spanish Club, 3 and 4; Sophomore Girls' Club and Senior Girls' Club.

As a representative from Manchester to a Y-Teen conference, she traveled to Silver Bay on Lake George in New York. Also, in her sophomore year, Pat was given a merit award for her service as vice president of the Y-Teens organization.

The legionnaire is in church work as well as taking on MHS activities as president of the Junior Council of the Youth Organization at St. James' Church and she teaches Catechism classes.

Pat holds being elected to the Girls' Legion of Honor and graduating in the top quarter of her class means her greatest honors, and her classmates know she is highly worthy of them. Her hobbies include reading, enjoying music from "bop" to semi-classical, and keeping up with "Dennis the Menace" comic books.

Persistent, punctual, pretty, Pat has the best wishes of her classmates for the fulfillment of each of her ambitions and plans for future days. Anne Stilson, '56

Uses of Atomic Energy Discussed by Speaker

Atomic Energy for peaceful uses was discussed by Davis Mayo from the American Museum of Atomic Energy at Oakridge, Tenn., in the morning assemblies held Monday, April 9. Several demonstrations were used to make the talk vivid.

An electrically controlled screen was used to show the construction of the atom and, what is meant by an isotope. Transmutation, the process of one type of atom changing to another, was described. While explaining how atoms split, Mr. Mayo said that it is possible to produce different atoms by the splitting of the Uranium atom. Another electric poster showed the process of fission and chain reaction.

Uranium 235 is one of the elements used for atomic bombs. Another model represented the uranium in a reactor, producing heat energy which is absorbed by liquid sodium and potassium. The heat is extracted from the liquid sodium and used to turn a turbine which turns a generator to produce electricity.

The use of isotopes in medicine was mentioned. The diagnosis and treatment of some diseases can be made with radio-active materials resulting from fission.

Mr. Mayo demonstrated the use of a Geiger counter by using a radium watch and showed how by using how much radiation a person receives from that type of watch.

On a Geiger counter, he gave a Geiger counter can locate the source of radioactive compounds after the patient has swallowed a harmless radioactive substance.

A question period followed the talk in which the students found answers to questions which arose throughout the talk. Mr. Mayo spoke later to Mr. Anthony Allison, a two Physics classes, telling the science students more about the procedure used at Oakridge and other research centers throughout the United States.

Hold Discussions On Famous Books

Panel discussions on famous books have been held through the months in two freshman English Understandings classes taught by Miss Mary McAdams. The panels were a follow-up to reading the books after studying the countries in which the authors lived.

Miss McAdams chose a chairman for each book, whose assignment was to select questions for discussion from the indicated book. The panels consisted of all the students who had read the book.

The chairmen include: "Les Miserables," Karl Peichell and Bob Donovan; "Tale of Two Cities," Steve Thomas and Norma Pickering; "Ivanhoe," Carol Ryan and Paula Adams; "Lorna Doone," Sue Moore and Bob Balfour; "Pride and Prejudice," Claire Carlson and Ted Gamuts; "Wuthering Heights," Lorraine Cormier; "Jane Eyre," Gail Bunnell; "The Count of Monte Cristo," Richard Barth; "Oliver Twist," James Burril.

The discussions were both, enjoyable and beneficial to the classes.

Paula Adams, '59

Panel Discussion Held by Seniors

Six members of the senior class who participated in the teacher-observing program, sponsored by the Manchester Education Assn. in February, presented a panel discussion at the meeting of the Buckley PTA April 10. The following composed the panel: Sandra Stevenson, Karolyn Kaye, Larry LaPolla, Bill MacArdle, Tom Riddell and Bob Leigh, the latter acting as the groups moderator.

The informal discussion was begun by telling the main impression received by each panel member. Some of these impressions were the size of the people, the amount of knowledge they really had, the enthusiasm they showed in their work, and many others.

Here We Go Again?

The fact that we are now Japan's greatest friend, where we were once power and influence rival and then outright enemy, has not altered the inevitable fundamentals in our relationship.

The new, friendly Japan still makes certain goods more cheaply than we can, and still likes to sell them in this country, and we still want them somewhere, and if it can't sell them here must seek to sell them somewhere else, and if it doesn't sell them anywhere will be faced, some day, with a choice between an internal blowup and a new explosion of external aggression.

These facts, almost permanent for Japan, have not changed because a war has been fought which makes Japan our conquered friend.

Nor have the facts about us changed, either, because we now happen to be friendly to Japan. It would be to let Japan make the cheap textiles for the world. Or it would be to refrain from choking off Japan while, at the same time, we tried to teach Japan how to raise its own living standards and wages so the competition between us and part be quite so one-sided in the department of price. The right things are seldom easy to do or accomplish. But at least we know what restrictive laws and boycotts accomplish. We tried them before.

At Least He's Disturbed

Thomas E. Murray is the sometimes appealing off-horse on the Atomic Energy Commission, and the thing that makes him appealing is the fact that he has some instinct to act, in his position, as if he had a conscience and also was experiencing grave moral doubts about the way the world is handling atomic energy.

When we read, in the Truman memoirs, how a President authorized the attack on Hiroshima without the slightest hesitation, or when we see the bland, routine assumption of most atomic energy officials that we must proceed to do the biggest worst with atomic energy because others will if we don't—then it is refreshing, and a little saving, now and then, to have at least one individual on the scene who acts as if he were trying to be a human being, instead of a soulless atomic robot.

But the fact that there is this something refreshing and appealing about him also makes it a little big tragic that—after an adventurous free run of his own—he usually winds up coming back disappointingly close to the norm.

Thus, in his latest venture out into independent thinking, Commissioner Murray wants us to stop testing big hydrogen bombs, whether or not Russia agrees to anything about bombs. He says he can still find no moral justification for our use of the atomic bombs at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and he says the bombs we have now are too big for moral use.

But then he gets down to the potential core of his argument, which is that there is no security in bombs too big for use, wherefore we ought to concentrate on bombs small enough for us to be sure that we would and could use them. He wants us to give up making the great big bombs, but to compensate for that by making more smaller ones.

So his struggle with conscience and morality, in the end, comes down to this: that it is apparently all right with conscience and morality if we still say 20,000 people with one bomb but not if we kill 100,000.

Now this wasn't what Commissioner Murray started out to conclude. He started out because he was disturbed at the horror of atomic war. He would like to abolish it altogether. He might even, we might guess, like to have the United States market treatment of Russia's aggressive attitude, unilateral gesture toward being the first to abandon it as a weapon. Perhaps he would like to go all the way, and abolish war itself, and not merely some of its weapons. Perhaps he doesn't believe in killing even one human being, let alone 20,000 or 100,000 at a blast.

But the voices of realism and practical policy told him, we presume, that you must act not openly at your ideal, but only at the possible. So the man of some conscience winds up arguing that we ought to give up the big bombs because a large number of small bombs would be more efficient. We felt a little more civilized, for part of the ride. And we do not reproach him, because he failed to reach any real destination. At least he has the grace and the humanity of being disturbed.

More Troops, No Victory

The French in Algeria, like the British in Cyprus, have determined that order must come before any concessions, and, in the bargain, are not considering too many concessions, either.

And as in Cyprus, the practical problem is one of whether armed forces can produce order. And as in Cyprus, there is as yet no clear evidence that it can.

The latest news on the situation is hardly encouraging for the French cause. It is that the French government has had to decide to send 100,000 additional French troops to Algeria, to assist the more than 200,000 already there.

To date, the continued reinforcement and expansion of the French military effort in Algeria has produced a marked increase in the average number of natives killed daily. It has not produced a cessation in the willingness of these natives to be killed.

The Algerians want something, and it is taking a major military operation to try to cure them of wanting it. France has much right on her side, a strong case, as these situations involving colonialism go. Yet no one, on the other hand, can deny the right of the Algerians to want their own full independence. So the bloodshed goes on, and no end, not even the inconclusive victory for the 300,000 French troops, in sight. We have certainly known, during our adventure in civilization, how to create the tragic, unsolvable mess.

Hostage

Our resolution—not to care—was hard and bitter. Our distrust of the season, our refusal to respond to its more hopeful signals, had been frozen and blizzarded deeply into our feeling. We did not know what this spring would become and we did not care and we had no responsibility for it, and we were not going to be caught with outgrown down acting as if we thought spring would ever really come.

We were as well protected as mortal can be, against all traps and wiles.

Then, yesterday morning, spring sent an emissary and a hostage. This messenger took up his post atop the tallest tree just outside our mental redoubt, and proceeded to pour down the first real open-throated song of spring. His song itself made spring seem real and unconquerable. His hostage presence reassuringly asked how spring could send him there, and still be planning blizzards.

Well, we are gullible and soft and very much given to believing what we want to believe anyway. But still we are not exactly a pushover, not this time, not after what we have been through. It took a meadowlark, and nothing less.

A Thought for Today

Communion

With the dawn the earth awoke
And through humble silent sod
Love's pulse throbbed, though no voice spoke,
While green hills broke beneath God

They sipped wine of holy dew
That would have been not and leaf,
All God's glory, born anew
Shared communion's sweet belief
That love's sacrifice would bloom
Into beauty lifting from
From earth's sacred temple room
Stone pure radiance of grace.

Along the Road
With Joe Owens

County Editor

Three strikes means out and four wide ones allow the batter to take a walk. The Vernon-Board of Finance was struck out in three Town Meetings and finally took a walk Tuesday evening, one week to the day, following a special referendum rejection of its Board of Education budget.

The pitch was by Wilson, Olson, Berger, Pigeon, Kahan and McCarthy surprised everyone and pleased quite a few, according to early reaction. Interest in the eight months dispute between the Board of Education and the Board of Finance goes far beyond the town line. Practically every town in Tolland County has appreciated having single seats during the all important battle because similar situations, on a much smaller basis, have plagued other communities.

A feeling of independence often flavors the operation of a board of education, because of the premise that public education is primarily a state function, not a local one. When the "independence" builds up to a point where school board members believe they can "dictate" policies to the town, the sparks begin to fly.

This is not meant as an insinuation that the Vernon Board of Education tried to overpower the Board of Finance, but rather an attempt to pave the way for an explanation of the virtues of having a good solid board of finance.

Connecticut State empowers a school board to operate its schools on fund allocations approved by a board of finance and a town meeting.

Each school board must therefore submit an itemized estimate of the cost of maintenance of public school for the coming year, both to the board of finance at least two months before the annual town meeting. The board of finance has the power to make adjustments in the budget and the final figure arrived at by the finance unit is the one which goes before the voters.

If the finance board is unjust in its handling of a school budget, the board of education has, of course but to solicit support among the voters and have the budget recommitted by a town meeting to the finance board for further study. This is exactly what happened in Vernon on four different occasions.

Very few school board members in area towns approved of this policy. They believe that the operation of schools should not be likened to other municipal agencies.

Perhaps a school budget should not have to by-pass the scrutiny of the town's financial men, but it would seem to be the logical conclusion from the Vernon affair where the Board of Finance allowed a stubborn attitude to rule, but yet such a course could prove dangerous.

Already boards of education have the power to transfer unexpended funds of their appropriation from one item to another without being forced to account for the action.

Thus a policeman on the beat has prevented many crimes. To take him away might invite trouble.

"Flea's Eye View of Dalmatian"

Mrs. Schwinn, who has a soft spot for all dumb animals, has just started a movement to have a "Be Kind to Fleas Week." She says the way things are today a hard-working flea hardly knows where his pest dog is coming from. Pet shops are selling more and more flea powder and D.D.T. and city people are always giving their dog unnecessary baths. In the good old days there were plenty of dogs to go around and if a flea got tired of being cooped up on a tiny Chihuahua he could move to a roomy spacious Spaniel or to a ranch type Dachshund. Or, if he liked the wide open spaces, to a Great Dane. Mrs. S. says a flea isn't a flea if it hasn't got a dog. And vice versa.

Connecticut Yankee
By A. H. O.

Governor Ribicoff, the great crusader against speed on Connecticut highways — a crusade he undertakes in the name and sound belief that speed is the one greatest single factor in death on these highways—has just announced an increase in the speed limit on the Wilbur Cross Parkway, from the Charter Oak bridge north to the Massachusetts line.

The increase in the legal speed limit on this stretch of highway is from 50 to 55 miles an hour, which matches existing legal speeds on the Merritt Parkway and Merritt Parkway portions of the same route.

The Governor, in announcing the increase in the speed limit, said the State Traffic Commission had taken into consideration all safety features of modern cars and the roads involved. It is hoped, he said, that the higher speed limit will enable traffic to move more expeditiously over the route involved.

He refrained from saying that the higher speed limit would make travel on the route involved safer than it has been. In fact, it happens to be a short-sighted view. And if there is anything in the Governor's own diagnosis that speed is the primary cause of most fatal accidents, it will now be bloodier still.

It is too early, in the Connecticut picture, to guess whether or not Connecticut officials, acting on a one of the things reacting to signs of fiscal alarm now showing themselves in other toll road states. The alarm is over the possibility that toll income is beginning to slack off proportionately, and may not prove to equal the obligations represented by toll roads already or built.

If the toll roads are to fight for business, speed, and the time it takes, is one of the things they have to sell, one of the things that justifies the price they charge. The section of Connecticut highway on which the Merritt Parkway has just been raised is the last section of a toll highway, which may soon have a toll station of its own, and it is even possible that this raising of the speed limit is the prelude to the installation of such a toll station.

If, on the other hand, Connecticut were to reduce its toll highway speeds, to the level which, in accordance with the Governor's principle, might save lives, the long-range result might be to drive trade off the toll highways.

There will be six trophies awarded at the spring frolic this evening at the PAC Ballroom on Village St., for the benefit of the St. Joseph's Church building fund.

The jungle will be headed by Ray Heuer, whose orchestra will furnish music for the dancing from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Members of the church societies have donated prizes and cakes for the frolic and refreshments will be available.

Little League Tryouts

The Little League tryouts will start at Recreation Field tomorrow afternoon, with Coach Ernie Schmitz in charge.

Boys are reminded that they must have the tag given them at the time they registered. All boys at the tryouts will stay up. To take the measures which might prevent such loss of lives would cut the toll in dimes.

That is, perhaps, an underlying thing, for more and more people are becoming aware of the horror of the parkways, with their increasing compulsion upon all drivers to maintain whatever top rate of speed is set, with their feeling that the driver is locked in a perilous roller-coaster from begin to end. Fatal accidents will now be bloodier still.

Sense and Nonsense

A woman never knows what kind of husband she doesn't want until she marries him.

This 'n That

The ides of March are filled with folly. Tie clasp the income tax is due. Twas then poor Caesar—Oh! by golly—was stabbed till he was black and blue. Ten-forty is the form you're filling; and if you are extremely bright, with wifey's help —and dear Lord willing—You'll fill the gash-blamed thing correct right. For one whole year I saved my mostest. I wouldn't spend an extra cent. I strained my cents and medulla and saved till I was badly bent. For we must get a television; our neighbors all have got a set. And wifey made the stern decision: That television we must get! I rose me at the rooster's crowing and labored all the livelong day. And when the neon lights were glowing, I worked right on for extra pay. I did odd jobs, for all and sundry; I babysat for Mrs. Jones; I stoked the fire for Mr. Grouty, and made me many extra bones. At last I had "200 folding" enough to get a TV set, on which I hadn't paid "withholding," which put the "I-man" in a fret. And so they came in nice white collars, those delegates from Uncle Sam, and took my whole 200 dollars—without as much as "Thank you, ma'am." — Earl Flatter.

Texans, of whom there are hundreds in the government, are not amused by the latest Texas story going the rounds in Washington. As the story goes, a Texan, visiting in Chicago, put in a long distance call and asked the operator to report the charges.

Reporter—Your call, sir, was $3.45.

Texan—What! Why in Texas, I hold call the devil for $3.45.

Operator—You must be mistaken sir. In Texas a call to the devil is a local call.

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE Rag In His Pocket BY WILSON SCRUGGS

THE Herald Angle

By EARL W. YOST
Sports Editor

SHOTS HERE AND THERE . . . Bob Couny will appear with Frankie's Drive-In against the New Britain Pacers Thursday night at the East Hartford High gym. Couny is getting $250 for his appearance. . . . Trinity's Charlie Sticka is undecided whether to sign a pro football or a pro baseball contract. Having seen Charlie perform in both sports there is no question but that his best bet is with the gridders. He's the finest all around small college back I have ever seen play. The Little All-America gridder is a fine banquet speaker. I was impressed with his recent message to the inmates at the sports banquet at Wethersfield State Prison. . . . Ray Ossting, Trinity director of athletics, is the new president of the NCAA College Coaches Assn. . . . "I was in Chicago at the recent tournament and I watched Bill Russell of San Francisco play and he is fabulous. I have never seen a big man with as many different type dunk shots as Russell. He's one of the reasons we have made changes in the basketball rules," he said.

Tony Randall, who stepped down last week as coach of athletic teams at Wethersfield State Prison, compiled an enviable record during his 20-year tenure. His baseball teams won 208 games and lost 102, he coached basketball clubs to 283 victories against 155 defeats and his football teams won 43 games, tied 3 and lost seven. "Sportsmanship displayed by the players was far greater to me than all the victories. In all my time my (prison) teams never have been involved in a fight with an outside team." The prison teams, for obvious reasons, played all their games at home. . . . Eleven races are scheduled tonight on the stock car racing program at Riverside Park Stadium. Gene White of Manchester is listed as one of the entrants. First race starts at 8:15. . . . Ed Earle has been appointed advertising manager of all Yale Athletic Assn. publications. Earle is a graduate of Dartmouth. . . . Nine New York sports writers will be covered the Yankees in spring training are convinced the Bombers will repeat as American League champions. In the National League, five scribes like the Dodgers and the other four the east their votes for the Cardinals.

Channel 8 in New Haven will telecast all home games of the three New York teams on Mondays and Sundays during the 1956 baseball season beginning April 15. Channel 18 and 30 will not carry any games this season while Channel 24 will carry all the Brooklyn New York Giant games into this area. . . . There are six Italian Americans with the Cleveland Indians. The list includes Rocky Colavito, Joe Ginsberg, Joe Altobelli, Sam Mele, Sal Maglie and Coach Tony Cuccinello. . . . B a t t e r m a n, pitcher, Bill Bixby and catcher G e n e o n e Conway are co-captains of this season's Wesleyan baseball team. Johnny Vitko is coaching the Wesleyan nine with Keith Doyle handling the Cardinal freshmen squad. Norm Daniels coaches the varsity, a post he has held for many years. . . . Bobby Boyd of Chicago and Holly Mims of Washington, two middleweights, clash in the 10-round main teevee dish Wednesday night from Chicago Stadium. . . . Sugar Ray Robinson, awaiting a title defense against Bobo Olson, has accepted an exhibition bout with Ricardo King tonight in Paterson, N. J. . . . Rory Calhoun, sensational new middleweight, was sent North from Atlanta by former lightweight king Beau Jack.

Large Lou Viacual, formerly of Hartford, is the new promoter in Houston, Tex. . . . Duke Snider has taken over the honor as the best dressed man on the Brooklyn Dodgers now that Russ Meyer has been shuffled back to the Phillies. . . . National League umpires get no salary for working exhibition games in the spring. However, they are paid their traveling expenses, plus $20 a day for meals, room and incidentals. . . . The Washington Senators have already sold 200,000 tickets for the 1956 season. The sale of contracted only 423,000 all last season. . . . Youthful Johnny McMillan has been named head basketball coach at Windham High in Willimantic. John has had universal successful seasons at Ellsworth High in South Windsor. McMillan, who hails from New Jersey, replaces Ed Mulcahy who resigned at the end of the 1955-56 season.

Sunday Spectacular Sunday night on teevee from 7:30 to 9 will be a Salute of Baseball. It's a must viewing for every died in the wool baseball fan. . . . Johnny Chapman, backfield coach at the University of Connecticut, is the new tennis mentor at UConn. . . . Manchester High was among 25 high schools which competed today in the eighth annual Connecticut Relays at the University of Connecticut. A total of 575 track and field stars were registered in the TAC event. . . . Four-run fifth inning enabled Trinity to open its home baseball season with a 6-1 victory over Springfield at Long Jr. College Case allowed but three hits in the game cut short by rain after seven and one-half innings. Preliminary plans have been made to stage a baseball game in Manchester early this spring for the benefit of Joe Bertuhe, former catcher with several Silk Town teams who is now hospitalized.

Pros Must Defeat New Britain Tonight or Fold for Season

Coach George Mitchell and his Green Manor Pros "Go for Broke" tonight against the youthful New Britain Pacers at 8:15 at the Verplanck School. Defeated 96-85 last Sunday in the first game of the best-of-three series for the Central Connecticut Basketball League championship the locals must win to force a third and deciding contest. A preliminary is on tap at 7 o'clock.

The experienced Pros got off to a bad start in the first game at the Stanley Jr. Arena trailing the Pacers 28-24 at the end of the opening quarter. Strong outside shooting by tonight's visitors gave them a 39-16 edge in the second period and a comfortable 58-40 margin at halftime. Although the locals managed to gain a sight 24-23 edge in the third quarter and a 21-15 advantage in the final 10 minutes they were unable to overcome their 18-point deficit at the intermission. Thus far in three games played by the rivals the Pacers won both on their home court while Green Manor captured the contest played at the East Side Rec.

Confident of repeating their earlier triumph and ending the series in two straight games the Pacers plan no lineup changes. Sharpshooting Sonny Thomas and Dick Watson will start at the forwards, Cal Calloway will jump center, and steady Frank Perry and playmaker Rudy Knight will start at the guards. Capable reserves include Jim Bowie, Ron Hartfield and Dave Jones.

Mitchell will retaliate with set shooter Ronnie Bushyell, popular Kenny Goodwin up front, tall Burr Carlson at center, and either Jimmy Ahearn or Ed Grindall will team with Bobby Knight in the backcourt. Grindall will be on hand if the high-scoring Ahearn is unable to get away from his Aetna office at 8 o'clock. Green Manor's reserves, Wally Widholm, Frank Tero, Ronnie Harris and Tilly Dubose are considered superior to the Pacers' bench strength.

Should the best quintet prevail a toss of a coin will decide the date and site of the third game.

Boardman Set To Beat Sandy

Boston, April 14 (AP)—Lightweight Larry Boardman thinks he's got the formula to upset favored Featherweight Champion Sandy Saddler in their 10-round non-title fight tonight—battle him on the inside.

But the confident Boardman, with a 31-2 professional record and the No. 10 lightweight contender's rank, will have the stiffer punch and a weight edge, The Marlboro, Conn., boy boasts a 5-pound advantage Wednesday and here I am ON A THREE MONTHS' CRUISE ... TO THE MEDITERRANEAN! Saddler—possessing an amazing record of 104 knockouts—is an 8-to-5 favorite.

Heard Along Main Street

And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

Give Us Blankets

The future may have its attractions, but some aspects of the years to come appear as drawbacks in our eyes.

We recently came across the information that future beds will be heated by radio frequency, heating units and covering will not be needed except for privacy. Also, the bed of the future will fold away and be sterile-cleaned, while not in use. (Science Digest)

Now this is all very well but we remain unconvinced that invisible and unlit radio waves will be as cozy as the warmth engendered by several comforters on a crisp night.

Utilities have been known to fail and we can visualize no more uncomfortable feeling than that of awakening in a cold room with no blankets keeping out the frigidity.

On the other hand, we can see the insidious attractiveness of a bed which requires no comforters to a busy housewife.

At the risk of arousing the ire of Manchester's housewives, perhaps it may not be a wholly good thing to take all the effort out of living.

Philosophers, sometimes regarded as a fuzzy minded lot, have at no pointed out the value of work in keeping the mind healthy. It might just be that they have a point.

It is hard for us to conceive of a more uninteresting life than one lived in a home in which most of the furnishings are almost like those of the neighbors.

Yet these folding, sterile, perhaps even unlovely, efficient machines for sleeping would seem to imply mounting standardization of manufacture.

No doubt the bedroom would disappear from architectural fashion if its most important furnishing became one which would vanish. Would anything look more empty than a bedroom with a bed in the wall?

So, perhaps, one more of the old joys of life may go. We can't imagine a person who would find it satisfying to curl up lazily in his radio waves to listen to a robin sing outside.

Where's the Fire?

Spring surely must have arrived one in a time, what with the change in the schedule of its arrivals and all. That is, we are going way out on an almost frozen limb and assuming it has arrived.

We even heard of a local fire chief who got left behind when his men went to a fire and had to investigate to find out where they went.

He was at a fire which had just been extinguished at some distance from his trucks when the suddenly left for another fire. He had been helping render some first aid and the other firemen evidently received a radio message about the second fire.

Anyway, he had to get police to radio in to ascertain where his trucks had gone. He made it to the fire, just in time to see the trucks returning to the station.

These grass fires—fires of spring—have kept everybody hopping.

New Problem

Just when it seemed that all the problems in connection with building the new high school had been solved, another is about to crop up.

We'll wager there'll be some discussion before it's decided just how the Veteran's will be honored at the school.

It was quite a while back that the late Walter Hibbard suggested a blue flame burning eternally in the lobby.

Recent thought tends more toward a rather elaborate terrace in front of the school. The architect has worked up a scale model of such a mall. It's a flat rectangle enclosed on two sides by a filigree-like wall against the inside of which are plaques containing the names of veterans.

The estimated cost, we understand, is about $35,000.

One town officer has already taken the stand that naming the school Gold Star Memorial High School will be as good as an expensive flagpole terrace. It may be less costly, but offhand it sounds like a compromise solution.

And judging from comments made so far by high school students, the name won't go over with them.

They object, it seems, even to "Manchester Memorial High School," which they apparently feel lacks the simple dignity of "Manchester High School."

They have a point, we think.

Like Mystery

The Bissell Motor Vehicles Department released some news this week we found disturbing. It was a description of the new license plates Connecticut motorists will be issued next March as replacements for the present markers, many of which have been in use eight years.

We don't object to new markers—Lord knows they're needed, what with all the battered and rusting cars in the state. And we don't mind many of the changes—a blue background instead of a white, for instance.

But one change we do object to is having the State's name spelled out in large letters instead of its being abbreviated, CT, as now.

Apparently the aim is to make it easier for residents of other states to identify a Connecticut car when they see one.

But that's just the point. We like the mystery that attaches to that cryptic CT. A few years ago, on a motor trip to the far west, a Washingtonian looked at our license plates and said, "Where you from, Japan?"

Ever since, on trips out of the State, an atmosphere of Orientalism incrutability seems to pervade the car and we like it. It appeals to that part of us that likes to play the mysterious stranger. But now the State is going to take the mystery away from us, presumably in the name of better publicity for the state. And they probably call that progress.

Mixup in Menus

Something went haywire along the road for a recent gathering of a certain Manchester civic organization.

Arrangements were made by committemen with the chef to serve the same dinner as was served when the club came into existence over three decades ago. The committee handed in the dinner menu to the chef and the chef followed the list to a T.

However, on the day of the get-together, the dinner committemen realized that they had turned in the wrong menu, but by the time they got around to calling the chef the dinner was already on the fire.

Instead of a prime ribs of beef au jus, the main course was top sirloin of beef. The mixup came when two menus were printed, one which was used at the initial meeting and the one which was supposed to be given the members at their recent dinner.

Anyway, no one went away hungry.

Exception Rather Than Rule

The other day we ran into a friend whom we hadn't seen in many a moon. After bringing one another up to date on our past achievements and future prospects, he told us of a unique commercial enterprise he chanced to see in action while traveling abroad.

But let him tell the story.

"I was on a business tour for Algorian Utilities, Ltd., back in 1955 when I had occasionally visit the town of Prechsch in the Province of Wunderpoor in the principality of Kasit," he confirmed.

"It was a hot, humid day, and since there were no cooler soda shoppes like we have in America, I was obliged to visit the village store in quest of something with which to quench my thirst.

"It was the first time I had ever been in a store so shoddy what I saw came as more than a small surprise.

"I saw shelves lined clear to the ceiling with every possible variety of tinned-food. When I asked a gentleman standing behind a counter, and looking much like an extremely alert French waiter, how the customers got at the food which was obviously very much out of their reach, he replied condescendingly, 'How else? I get it for them.'

"A little non-plussed by his curt response, I decided to ask him for my beverage and get out as quickly as possible. But, before I could even form the words, my attention was drawn to another rather incongruent custom. I observed him waiting on what, I believe is their term for his customer, a woman customer. He was cutting for her a piece of the finest meat which she, herself, had chosen from the flank of an uncomfortably attractive side of beef. I looked in vain for signs of pre-cut, pre-wrapped cuts and was about to call the clerk's attention to the progressiveness of his firm when I thought better of it and decided to let the incident pass.

"Then I noticed that the woman had a pile of other purchases in front of her on the counter. They were neatly packed in a box, which I assumed she would carry out with her when she departed.

"However, when the same time for her to leave, she walked out without the groceries. I could hold back no longer, and I asked the clerk what would happen to her goods. He said, sneeringly, I thought, why, we deliver it to her house, naturally.

"Will wonders never cease, I murmured to myself. Then I thought of the old-fashioned way we do things in America. The customer goes into a huge warehouse like building, picks out a creaky wagon, for which he has to supply the propulsion himself, hunts for his own groceries before he can place them in his cart, and then stands in line for precious minutes before he can carry his purchases out to a crowded parking lot to his car which we might drive home through traffic while dodging the fenders and bumpers of like-minded citizens.

"After I got my drink from the clerk, he volunteered the even more unbelievable information that in his country people didn't even have to go to the store to do their shopping. He said many just picked up their phones, placed their order with the clerk and had the groceries delivered to their shop.

"Well what could I say to this?"

Brown-n-Serve

A bachelor who puts up with his own cooking was recently recounting to a friend the adventures he had with one of those pre-fried chicken pies you are supposed to pop into the oven.

He doesn't have an oven so he contrived to make his hot plate do.

Strapped for some method of browning the top of the crust, he bent a coat hanger into a superstructure over the hot plate top.

Then he balanced the pie upside down on the coathanger.

It took a while, but the top browned.

Trouble was the bottom of the crust was just as white and raw as when he started and the pie wasn't especially hot.

Now a patient man would have propped the pie right side up on the coat hanger, but this man just popped the whole mess into a saucepan and had chicken stew with dumplings.

Young at Heart

Builder Bill Knofla, one of the charter members of the Kiwanis Club of Manchester, was called upon to say a few words by the toastmaster at last Thursday's 32nd anniversary of the local group. Bill injected a little humor into his brief message when he remarked, "I must be getting old when I see some of the fellows who are new members of Kiwanis! There is one fellow in this room who was only one year ahead of me! I was the president, Today I go to same fellow, now a lawyer, for advice. I must be getting old."

The toastmaster, incidentally, was also from the Knofla clan, this one being Art, who has a free job in setting up the program.

Still Best Policy

Every so often we get wind of a story that indicates to us in general, still believe that honesty is the best policy.

An anedote which particularly interested us was the one about the woman who had a habit of using her baby's stroller as a repository for such things as wallets.

One day, while pearanbulating her tot down Main St., she happened upon a leather wallet. She was unsuccessful, however, and she discreetly returned home, a bit groaning her fate.

Then there was a knock on the door. Opening the door, Madame X was surprised to find a woman with her missing wallet. The woman asked Madame X if the lifefolk had hers. Madame X acquiesced and had her project returned.

The woman refused to take a reward, and left.

Rug for a Blanket

Undoubtedly the most hand-hooked and braided rug exhibit of the Soroptimists in the Community Y was a big event, attracting upwards of 900 persons during parts of two days. Although police protection was solicited and ample insurance coverage was placed on the valuable collection of rugs, we hear on good authority that three of the gals on the committee slept there all night, whether they relied up on the rugs or stretched on the metal chairs, we don't know. Maybe they took turns in sleeping. Anyway, their aim was for more protection.

We noticed the following poem at one of the booths. It hardly applies to today's methods in which the wool strands are new and evenly cut, a far cry from the hooked rugs of grandmother's day of uneven width and different fabrics. It's titled "The Husband's Lament."

Not a suit or a sweater is mine
Nor a shirt of fine linen
And even the blankets are swept from my bed
My woolies are rugs now, so gaudily dyed,
The floor's better covered than most of my hide.
Not a thing I possess has been overlooked.
There's no doubt in my mind I was I who was hooked.

President Vetoes Farm Measure To Protect Farmers, Consumers

Washington, April 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower today vetoed the farm bill. He said it would hurt both farmers and consumers.

His action thrusts the farm situation into towering prominence in this year's political campaigns. It becomes an issue on which Eisenhower will be at odds with his Republican party.

Eisenhower will get in some first licks in this debate when he goes on the air at 10 p.m. (EST) tonight to explain why he rejected the bill, designed by Democratic architects but supported by some members of his own party.

He will speak on all major radio networks and on ABC-TV, NBC-TV will carry a kinescope repeat of the address at 11:30 p.m.

In a message returning the bill to Congress, Eisenhower asked that it be reconsidered as a separate measure—of his soil bank plan.

This one contemplates payments of up to $1,200,000,000 a year to farmers for retire acreage from crops and thus reduce surplus supplies.

Soil Bank in Vetoed Bill

The soil bank was in the vetoed bill, but so also were numerous provisions which Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson found objectionable.

The chief of these was a return to support of basic farm commodity prices at 90 per cent of parity—the system in effect during previous Democratic administrations.

Eisenhower and Benson contend this has been chiefly responsible for building up surpluses which they say depress market prices.

Even before Eisenhower's veto arrived at the capital, Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said there was scant prospect that Congress would bring a darking cloak and dagger mission.

Rep. Hoeven (R-Iowa) said:

Johnson said:

"It is quite sure. Congress is not going to roll over and play dead at the crack of a whip."

Backers of the bill conceded there was little prospect it could be enacted over the President's disapproval.

This would require a two-third vote in both House and Senate.

House Republican Leader Martin (Mass) said the President is definitely incited to an article in Time magazine titled "Algo Leardi, Boldly Speaking."

Williams called the press release

Bulgarian Premier Quits Under Cloud

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, April 16 (AP)—Communist Bulgaria's Premier Vulko Chervenkhov, a Moscow protege, was announced by his party last week as a "Little Stalin," submitted his resignation in Sofia today. A change in the premiership should help improve relations between Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Chervenkov was a spokesman of the Soviet bloc's campaign against President Tito's government and the Stalin-Tito break of 1948 and had dragged his feet in the moves for reconciliation initiated by Soviet leaders Nikotai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev last spring.

Telephoned advices from Sofia and broadcasts of Radio Belgrade, the voice of Tito's government, told of Chervenkov's resignation at a special session of the Bulgarian Parliament. The session was attended by a Yugoslav delegation led by Moshe Pijade, president of the Yugoslav National Assembly, who is one of Tito's closest advisers.

Chervenkov, 56, entered in an unusual silence, a little Stalin, after the past has greeted his arrival in parliament was lacking.

The tough-talking veteran of almost 40 years in Communist party ranks asked to be released of his duties. The parliament adopted an agenda for examination that of request and election of a new premier, probably tomorrow.

Belgrade sources said Anton Yugov, 62, a member of Bulgaria's Communist Politburo since 1937 and a former minister of Bulgaria's heavy industry, probably would get the job.

It was not clear whether Chervenkov would remain in the government. There was a possibility he would be made a deputy premier with limited possibilities.

Chervenkov has been attacked by Communist party for practicing a Stalin-like one-man rule in the Soviet satellite.

The Bulgarian Communist party on Saturday "rehabilitated" Traicho Kostov, former deputy premier and party secretary who was executed in 1949 for alleged treason and Titoism.

The campaign against him was

Grace, Rainier Rehearse for Wedding Rites

One Last Word On Grace's Hat

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

Monte Carlo, April 16 (AP)—Grace Kelly and a nervous Prince Rainier went through a rehearsal today for their marriage ceremony.

The American film star had a strained look on her beautiful face and Rainier bit his finger nails during the rehearsal of the religious ceremony which will take place Thursday.

Grace's bridesmaids also appeared at the cathedral for the runthrough.

First Ceremony Wednesday

The couple will take part in a civil ceremony on Wednesday. Marcel Portanier, Monaco's justice minister who will officiate at that ceremony said Grace will automatically become a citizen of Monaco.

"What repercussions this may have in the country are far-reaching," he said.

"But when a princess of a reigning house marries a commoner, she does not lose her nationality."

Portanier predicted that Grace's marriage will "last forever," Portanier said.

"As the man who'll marry them first... I hope this marriage will last forever too."

The Justice Minister, who is the highest legal authority in Monaco, added:

"We are certainly not expecting but nothing in the life of the Prince ever'wasn't a divorce they'll have to apply for it in Monaco.

"We would not be surprised if we heard Madame X acquiesced and had her project returned."

The woman refused to take a reward, and left.

U.S. Rejects Baghdad Pleas To Join Middle East Alliance

Tehran, Iran, April 16 (AP)—Baghdad Pact leaders appealed officially today for Iraqi Iraq today to join their Middle East defensive alliance. But the chief U.S. representative in the meeting said ministerial meeting indicated there is little possibility of such a move.

Premier Hussein Ala of Iran opened the meeting with a speech urging U.S. membership in the five-nation alliance as the way to greater strength and financial resources to defend the Middle East against possible Communist aggression.

He said the presence of observers assigned by Washington demonstrated the interest in the Baghdad Pact which its members hope "will some day lead to its accession." He was echoed by Premier Nuri Said of Iraq.

But Loy Henderson, U.S. deputy under-secretary of state, appeared to rule out U.S. membership in the alliance. He promised U.S. cooperation with its members, but added it is our aim to "continue to retain close, friendly and effective ties with other nations in the area."

Henderson was apparently trying to confirm general opinion in the Middle East that the United States has refrained from joining the Baghdad alliance for fear of weakening relations with Egypt and other Arab nations which opposed the pact and have denounced it repeatedly.

"Shift in U.S. Policy"

Henderson promised pact members a program of "broader economic cooperation coordinated through the pact organization." This represents a shift in U.S. policy which in the past has been to deal with economic and military aid to individual nations and not regional groupings.

The Baghdad meeting brought together about 150 delegates in the ornate reception room of the Iranian Foreign Ministry. Delegations of four Middle East countries—Iran, Iraq, Pakistan and Turkey—are headed by premiers and foreign ministers. Britain's delegation is led by Defense Minister Sir Walter Monckton. In addition to Henderson, the United States is represented by Adm. Walter Cassady, commander of Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean Forces, who is to observe military committee meetings.

Ala welcomed Henderson and Cassady and said their presence stressed "the deep interest of the United States in this pact." He added, "We at least trust this interest will soon develop into full accession. There is no doubt about strengthen our defensive treaty bringing in its train appeasement in the Middle East."

Cites Expenditures

Ala declared member nations are "willing to make every effort and sacrifice" in building up defense. But, he added, "this entails expenditures far beyond our possibilities. In the course of deliberations I will furnish further details and arguments regarding this matter."

In an obvious reference to Russia and several Arab countries which repeatedly have denounced the Baghdad Pact, Ala said:

"In recent months various quarters have attempted to disparage and arrayed their ranks against us. They have voiced their opposition.

In some cases Ala said—presumably referring to Russia—the reason for this attitude is clear."

He said the alliance's aggression manifested by other countries "is based on fear in the same region and united by traditional and inevitable relationships cannot be explained."

Ala said the alliance is open to all nations "who share our same ideology and wish to avail themselves of the protection afforded them."

He also asked delegates to review the progress of the organization and plot future steps to "accelerate our advance towards our ultimate aim."

This is none other than the improvement of our economic and social conditions, as well as the defense and protection of our borders in order to contribute to world peace and prosperity," he said.

Premier Nuri said of Iraq, the only Arab country in the five-nation pact, was even more forthright than Ala in denouncing other Arab countries for "sabotaging the alliance."

He accused other Arab nations of objecting to the pact "for short term profiteering motives."

Nuri, like Ala, also called on the United States to adhere to the treaty in order to better carry out

Vulko Obeyed Stalin's Orders To Erase Foes

By TOM WHITNEY

New York, April 16 (AP)—Tough Vulko Chervenkov — the Red wolf of Bulgaria — got to the top by faithfully executing Stalin's orders and Stalin's opponents.

His career took him from underground work in Bulgaria to Moscow for nearly 20 years and back to Bulgaria in the wake of the Soviet Army. There he rose to be a little Stalin, after death and execution removed his leading competitors.

Tried to Kill Tsar

Chervenkov — his first name means wolf — achieved fame by organizing the bombing in 1925 of Resurrection Cathedral in Sofia—killing 160 people. The bomb was intended for Tsar Borne but Boris wasn't there. Chervenkov had to leave for Moscow.

Chervenkov also played the leading role in the liquidation of Bulgaria's Communist leader, Traicho Kostov, in 1949 as a "titoist." While Chervenkov sat out in Moscow the years of severe purges from 1936 to 1944, Kostov had led the Bulgarian underground inside the country.

Chervenkov could almost serve as the prototype of a Moscow-dazed foreign Communist leader accusing his orders and tactics of the Kremlin.

He was born 55 years ago in a middle class Bulgarian family. His father was an army captain. He became involved in Communist activity when he was in high school and joined the party before he was 20. In 1923 he became secretary of the Bulgarian Young Communist League.

After his unsuccessful attempt to kill Tsar Boris, Chervenkov went to military school in Moscow. He graduated subsequently from the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute in the Soviet capital, worked on the staff, and in 1937 became one of its deans.

Estes Pauses In Jersey for Final Vote Bid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New Jersey Republicans learned his energetic campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination into California today after a last-minute attempt to snare some of the 36 delegate votes being selected in tomorrow's New Jersey primary.

The fast-traveling Tennessean returned to the New Jersey political wars yesterday for another stab at putting over a slate of delegates pledged to him. He is opposed by an uncommitted slate headed by New Jersey Gov. Robert Meyner and supported by the state organization.

The issue was seen by state political observers as a test of Meyner's national and state strength. The governor has been mentioned as a possible dark horse candidate for president or vice president in the event of a convention deadlock.

Icardi on Trial For Lies About Holohan Death

By KARL BAUMAN

Washington, April 16 (AP)—Rear Adm. Calvin M. Icardi went on trial today on charges of falsely swearing in photos that he became World War II slaying of his superior, Maj. William V. Holohan, behind enemy lines in Italy.

The trial began in federal district court after two judges turned down defense motions for a 30-day delay.

While the indictment charges Icardi with perjury, it is clear it is to excuse him of the charges of the death of Holohan in a daring cloak and dagger mission.

Rear Adm. Edward Bennett Williams, Icardi's chief counsel, charged prosecutor Cunningham with an article in Time magazine that "poisoned the well of public opinion" against the defendant.

U.S. District Judge Edward M. Curran, sitting in assignment court for the District of Columbia, ordered today for a plane reported sinking over Lake Erie about two miles from shore. Two persons were believed aboard the craft which lost radio contact after its pilot said he was having difficulty" at 700 feet altitude.

Suez Canal Ship Rights Issue Raised by Israel

United Nations, N.Y., April 16 (AP)—Israel has asked Dag Hammarskjold, U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, a formal demand that he lift all restrictions on Israeli shipping through the Suez Canal.

This was disclosed today when the Security Council made public a new exchange of message between Israel and Hammarskjold, U. N. Secretary General.

Insistence on coupling the Suez Canal issue with the pacification of the tense border area threatened to produce a serious obstacle to Hammarskjold's Middle East peace mission.

The issue was first raised Friday in a communication from Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion to the Secretary General. Hammarskjold replied that his mission was concerned primarily with the situation which has developed along the demarcation line between Israel and Egypt.

The Secretary General added that the Suez Canal issue in any event could be considered only to the extent that the governments concerned wished to discuss it with him outside his formal mandate from the Security Council.

Egypt has refused in the past to heed council resolutions calling on an end of the shipping restrictions. The Arab countries also insisted that Hammarskjold's present mission be strictly limited.

Despite Hammarskjold's efforts to brush off the Israeli demand, he received a second Israeli message Saturday pressing the issue. This one was from Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett.

"In our view," said Sharett, "interference with legitimate shipping constitutes a hostile act which is incompatible with the general armistice agreement."

He added that Egypt's pledge to comply with Article 2, Paragraph 2 of the armistice agreement of 1949 could not be "regarded as genuine and unconditional if interpreted as leaving it open for
