Blizzard Roars in Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The worst blizzard in five years swirled in Kansas and Missouri today, halting transcontinental road traffic and virtually paralyzing Metropolitan Kansas City.

Two deaths were attributed to the storm.

The weather bureau in a special bulletin at 11 a.m. (CST) issued heavy snow warnings for northeast and north central Missouri and southeast Iowa, forecasting an additional four inches for an area in which depths already ranged up to 14 inches with some drifts of six feet.

The weather bureau had to go back 27 years to find a storm comparable to this one in Kansas City.

The bureau said the storm is expected to spread tonight into northwest and extreme north Illinois, southeast and extreme south Wisconsin, and lower Michigan.

At midmorning snow was falling from northeast Oklahoma through eastern Kansas into west and north Missouri, southeast Iowa and northern Illinois.

Behind the storm, a mass of cold, dry air hung over Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico and was beginning to edge into western Kansas. It was expected to move eastward tonight, bringing temperatures down from the present low 30s to from 5 to 15 below.

Air and bus travel through Kansas City came to a standstill this morning and several of the main highways were blocked by high drifts and stalled vehicles. Schools were closed in many areas.

Next President Still in Doubt For Guatemala

Guatemala, Jan. 21 (AP) — Guatemala's Congress today appeared stalled to elect the country's next president. Rightist Gen. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes had piled up a big lead from Sunday's balloting but seemed certain of falling short of the needed majority.

Ydigoras, whose supporters in the capital staged bloody riots to nullify the election last October, expressed confidence Congress would choose him if it had to decide the issue. He promised trouble if it didn't.

"I would not make trouble but the people would," the 62-year-old Rightist leader said.

Unofficial returns from all but 30 of the country's 322 municipalities gave Ydigoras 140,802 votes. leftist Mario Mendez Montenegro 98,238 and Moderate Jose Luis Cruz Salazar 97,768.

Presidential press officer Fernando Molina said the only areas not heard from were small districts and their inclusion in the count would have little effect on the result. If no candidate has the combined total of the others, Congress must choose between the two top men.

Candidates from Ydigoras' reconciliation party also were reported leading in the race for many of the 37 congressional seats being filled to take office in March. The other 29 Congressmen

Minor Courts Held Near Breakdown

Hartford, Jan. 21 (AP)—Connecticut's minor court system, riddled with politics, is no longer workable "and is on the way toward becoming a national disgrace."

In strong statements similar to this, the Court Study Committee of the Legislature's Interim Committee on Judiciary and Governmental Functions was advised Monday that it should do what it can to help with legislation that will integrate the state's lower courts with the rest of the judicial system and put full-time judges on the municipal court benches.

The warning of a breakdown in the trial justice and municipal courts came as Atty. Ernest W. McCormick of Hartford, chairman of the Court Reorganization Committee of the State Bar Assn.

Attorney McCormick reviewed the conflict that has existed since 1945 when the state constitution was amended to provide for nomination of minor court judges by the governor with appointment by the general assembly.

"From 1947 to 1955 there has never been a time when the Governor and the General Assembly could get together and make these appointments because of political differences over this form of patronage," he declared. Interim appointments made by governors after the legislature adjourns have only complicated the situation, he said.

Judge Vincent J. Scamporino of Middletown municipal court was another with strong condemnation of the present political system of naming lower court judges.

Sees 'No Respect'

"The public has no respect for the lower courts," he warned. "This injures the courts and makes the judges' job harder.

"The inferior courts for many years have been subject to political activity, the appointments are political, the whole state knows it, and until you remove the stigma from these courts you are not going to have good jurisprudence," he told the committee.

He said the lower court judges today are "whipping boys" who can't do a good job in the face of such opinion.

"Remove the politics from our lower courts and the judges from practicing civil cases in any lower court and you will be on the road to improved conditions," he added.

One of the few speakers in favor of keeping the present system was a committee member, Rep. Benjamin M. Schlossbach of Westport, attorney and hotel owner.

He said he saw nothing reprehensible when people in a small town apply a municipal court judge or prosecutor and talk over a case with the purpose of adjusting charges or fines downward "in order to speed the case along and save time and money." There is nothing wrong with tempering justice with "a bit of mercy," he declared. He warned that court reform would be a very expensive procedure and that little would be gained from it.

Atty. Belton A. Copp of New London, former prosecutor of town courts in Groton and Old Lyme, said the present judicial system "seems to be rotten at the base. Administration of justice at the

Brownell Sees GOP Sweeping State This Fall

Hartford, Jan. 21 (AP) Connecticut Republicans today headed confidently for the November elections following a gala and profitable fund raising dinner.

Some 725 GOP backers paid $100 a plate last night and heard former U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, the principal speaker, predict a Republican sweep in Connecticut next fall.

Brownell's comments came on the heels of an exposition by U.S. Sen. Purtell (R-Conn) of the party's status in the state. The senator, whose first term expires in the fall, sounded the keynote for Republican optimism at a pre-dinner news conference.

"I believe we are going to be a very successful party in Connecticut," he said. "We have no major differences and I see no reason at all for believing that the party is not united."

Purtell conceded, however, that there were some minor disagreements within the party.

Praises Eisenhower

Brownell devoted a large portion of his speech to a defense of the Eisenhower administration's military policies.

He said the United States is militarily the most powerful nation in the world. This gives it "a lot of friends" and "a lot of respect" from the world, he said.

He said he has no doubt that the United States lacks the strength and power to deter aggression."

He said the administration has been developing a steady program of missile and aircraft production.

He said the program has been carried out without any accompanying saber rattling because it will not be used for aggressive war."

Paralyzed Slayer Has Single Chance To Escape Chair

Hartford, Jan. 21 (AP) Court attaches say that Fiafih Wojculewicz, hospital patient and former British slayer of two, has only one slim chance left to beat death in the electric chair.

The Connecticut Supreme Court yesterday denied his plea for a mistrial sought on the ground he had not had a fair trial when a jury convicted him in 1952.

Superior Court officials say Wojculewicz's one last chance to escape execution lies in an appeal to the State Board of Pardons for commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment.

He can plead for mercy, they said, because the country convicted him as he lay on a wheel litter, refused to recommend mercy.

Wojculewicz was convicted of fatally shooting a New Britain police sergeant and a by-stander following an unsuccessful holdup attempt nearly six years ago.

He was himself cut down by police bullets, one of which lodged in his spine, paralyzing his legs.

He claimed in his appeal for a

Ike Says Security Not Political Issue

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP) President Eisenhower says America is strong militarily and will grow even stronger and that national security must be barred as a political issue in this year's congressional election campaigns.

The President also told a Republican $100-a-plate dinner rally and a nationwide television and radio audience last night that United States defense is "adequate today and for than when he took office five years ago."

Eisenhower again pledged effective modernization of the defense set-up to "cooperate completely with the Russian threat in the future. And he told assembled Republican faithful here that in the modernization program, "I intend to participate personally, until the job is done."

The President, with Mrs. Eisenhower at his side, spoke for 15 minutes before about 5,000 enthusiastic diners at Chicago's International Amphitheater at the start of his sixth year as chief executive. He talked over TV and radio to more than 40 other party fund-raising dinners around the country, kicked off the 1958 drive to capture control of Congress from the Democrats.

Near the outset of his address the President said the Republicans' first objective "security and a just peace" is not a matter or political matter. Then he added:

"Americans must never and will never let the issue of security and peace become a pawn in anyone's party game."

Some Democrats and some Republicans have criticized the election year and in this dawning space era that U.S. security is being imperiled.

Adams Hits Democrats

Even as Eisenhower spoke his chief aide, Sherman Adams, was using Democrats of "politicking with national defense." And Adams saying the Democrats ought to be called strictly to account by the American people, asserted further:

"We Republicans greet the opposition on the battlefield and with much anticipation as we other Democrats on occasion."

So it appears that again the President may remain relatively aloof from the give and take of political warfare while Adams and other GOP stalwarts stand ready to do the slugging.

Departing from his prepared text at one point, the President hit at "at peacemists but he named no names. He gave Republicans, independents and those he termed "discerning Democrats this advice:

"Don't pay any attention to the peacemists, those people who for reasons of their own contend that America is fearful. America is strong.

"Let us throw back our shoulders and stand proudly and erect. Let us throw out our chins and say: America is strong and will grow ever stronger as long as there is any danger of attack upon us or our allies.

"America has never been afraid to sacrifice for the common good and America does not want war. It wants only peace. Just and secure and lasting peace. This country wants all people to attain a better world for themselves and their children.

"America's heart, her strength, her faith are dedicated to this single, over-riding objective.

Democrats Hit Eisenhower for Defense Claims

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP) Top Senate Democrats challenged today President Eisenhower's contention that the nation's security has been "markedly strengthened" during his five years in office.

The Democrats also struck hard at the assertion by Sherman Adams, chief presidential assistant, that their party has been politicking with national defense.

Defense matters received major attention as Eisenhower, Adams and other administration officials launched a series of Republican rallies throughout the nation last night. Eisenhower's speech in Chicago was part of a half-hour program carried by radio and television on a national network.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee and Eisenhower told only part of the story in claiming that the nation's defenses have been bolstered under the Republican rule.

Relative Matter

"Of course," Russell said, "we have got the B52 bomber, and the B58 on its way during the period in which Eisenhower has been President. We have strengthened ourselves, but all defense is a relative matter.

"In the last five years the Russians have made much faster gains than we have. We have definitely lost ground in relative strength in those five years and we must get

Governors Oppose Rail Service Cuts

Stowe, Vt., Jan. 21 (AP) The New England governors seek to have the Interstate Commerce Commission regulate the abandonment of railroad service.

The governors passed a resolution at a conference yesterday for submission to the Interstate and Foreign Commerce subcommittee now studying the railroad situation in Washington.

Gov. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn) said federal levies on passenger ticket and freight rates could be eliminated but added that "we must be careful that the railroads improve and expand their service."

None of the six governors supported a proposal by Patrick McGinnis, president of the Boston & Maine, that "the public pay the cost of the military services rendered to this single, over-riding objective.

Soviet Warns Mideast On U.S. Rocket Bases

Dag Weighs Arms Talks In Moscow

United Nations, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold indicated today he was considering a visit to Moscow to discuss world problems. This would include disarmament.

Hammarskjold already has had private talks with Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

Asked at a news conference whether he had plans to visit Moscow soon, Hammarskjold said he was going to Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, early in March for a meeting "of hoped to visit several capitals in his way to and from Malaya. So far, he said, there was no definite decision as to which countries he would visit.

The Secretary General said the disarmament problem was still primarily a matter for the U.N. and he knew of no government which wanted to change this. He acknowledged however, that it could be handled both inside and outside the world organization.

The Secretary General indicated one way to tackle the problem would be to use the formula employed after the nationalization of the Suez Canal by Egyptian President Nasser in 1956. In the canal case he conducted private negotiations while the Security Council met at the foreign ministers level.

"I feel that this formula could be applied in many cases." He said "I would not exclude the present case."

He pointed out, however, that the disarmament problem also could be taken to the U.N. organs, especially the Disarmament Commission and the General Assembly.

Hammarskjold said he never had been pessimistic about this disarmament issue, but had been a little worried by the loss of time.

The Secretary General said he welcomed President Eisenhower's suggestion for international cooperation on a science for peace program. In response to a question, he said such a program should not be linked with disarmament.

Meanwhile, the United States and Britain proceeded today that Jordan and Israel destroy their military facilities in a No Man's Land south of Jerusalem.

The proposal will be introduced in the U.N. Security Council tomorrow. The meeting was requested by Jordan for further consideration of her complaint that Israel violated a 1949 armistice agreement by digging in the border but for now Israel contends she is planting trees.

The U.S.-British resolution says Jordan and Israel should remove all forces from passing over armistice demarcation lines and that Israel should stop digging or planting until U.N. truce chief Byron Leary determines property ownership in the zone or until an agreement is reached.

Nimitz Urges 3-Man Joint Chiefs of Staff

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Gen. Carl Spaatz, Air Force head in 1947-48, urged "a single chief of staff for the secretary of defense instead of the committee system we have now." Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations in 1945-47, said it would be "totally wrong" to set up a single chief of staff in place of the present joint staffs.

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP) Chester W. Nimitz, former top naval officer, proposed today that the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) be reduced to three members.

He told the Senate missile-satellite inquiry that the post of chairman of the top military advisers be rotated among heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

"This would remove one layer in this pyramid of the chain of command," Nimitz said.

The white-haired Nimitz recalled that at one time during World War II, when he was a top commander in the Pacific, he favored a "single chief of staff."

Sense of Frustration

That was when he had a sense of frustration" waiting for decisions from Washington, he explained. But he said hindsight and experience have convinced him it was wrong and I am now opposed to a single chief of staff.

After World War II, Admiral Nimitz served as chief of naval operations for two years and then retired.

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee called him and Gen. Carl Spaatz, former Air Force chief of staff, for public testimony in its search for ways to streamline the Defense Department and speed missile-satellite programs.

At the same time, the House Armed Services committee was continuing its separate inquiry into the Pentagon's management. Lee's at finding ways to strengthen the defense set up. The House group called Secretary of Defense Army Brucker and Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, acting Army chief of staff, for closed door questioning.

Brucker had a prepared statement, given to newsmen, which said that "the Army has never submerbled to the theory that the ICBM (intercontinental ballastic missile is or will be the ultimate weapon."

Brucker said the Nike-Zeus anti-missile on which the Army is working "will provide this country with its first effective defense against Soviet intercontinental ballastic missiles

Funds Unit Votes More for Missiles

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today votes an emergency "time-buying" $1,410,000,000 fund to speed missile programs and put more punch to the Air Force's retaliatory power.

This is $40 million more than the Eisenhower requested two weeks ago.

The addition is all for the Army. The Air Force committee, in its last minute revision doubled the proposed increase by allotting $20 million for the Pershing project, aimed to develop a solid-fuel successor to the Army's 200-mile range Redstone.

Of the total, $1,260,000,000 is new cash and $150 million is to transfer funds to projects already available. The $40 million increase is in the transfer funds.

The House will consider the committee's action tomorrow and there are indications of a strong drive to provide even more money.

The new money will be made available to the Defense Department immediately to finance space age weapons programs which are developing faster than anticipated.

In a report written by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex), chairman of a subcommittee that drafted the measure, the committee said "our military strength as of today, in the over-all, is superior to that of the U.S.S.R.," although in the critical areas of space satellites and ballistic missiles "we are generally behind Russia."

In those vital areas, the committee added, "We cannot afford to be in second place."

SAC Deterrent

Today's superiority of the United States over Russia, the committee said, is due to the striking power of the Strategic Air Command, whose long-range bombers pose a deterrent to aggression but would not continue to be "against an aggressor equipped with a substantial stockpile" of operational missiles.

The Air Force's share of the new funds in the emergency bill is $910,000,000 earmarked for dispersal of the fleet of nuclear-bomb planes, construction of new facilities to warn of approaching enemy planes, and development of the Atlas-Thor and Jupiter ballistic missiles. The money will provide also for construction of intermediate range ballistic missile platforms and facilities for an op-

Sees Insult And Threat To Moslems

Moscow, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Soviet Union warned the nations of the Middle East tonight that U.S. plans to establish nuclear and missile bases on their territory are a threat to their existence and "an insult to the dignity and feelings of the Moslem people."

The Soviet Foreign Ministry called a special news conference to announce the Kremlin's stand prior to the scheduled opening of the Baghdad Pact Conference in Ankara Monday.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Leonid Ilyichev took the occasion also to warn the United States and other members of the Baghdad Pact that they would have to "take full responsibility for the consequences" of the Middle East policies.

He singled out Turkey for taking "an especially aggressive stand" against the Soviet Union at the recent NATO summit conference in Paris.

Ilyichev charged that the United States, although not officially a member of the Baghdad Pact, is plotting to link the Baghdad Pact, the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization into an aggressive bloc against the Soviet Union.

U.S. participation in the Baghdad Pact has the aim of uniting under one roof the aggressive military blocs of NATO, SEATO and the Baghdad Pact and thus . . . of imposing the military obligations of NATO on members of SEATO and the Baghdad Pact," he said.

The United States, Britain and Turkey have been trying to expand and strengthen the Baghdad Pact militarily by bringing in other Middle East nations such as Lebanon and Jordan, Ilyichev said, and "by exerting pressure on these countries."

He accused the United States of "playing hypocritically on the religious feelings" of the Moslem people.

The United States refuses to take into account the fact that installments of nuclear and rocket bases in the Middle East in close proximity to areas held sacred by all Moslems is an insult to the religious feelings of the Moslem people.

Ilyichev said Secretary of State Dulles is trying to revive the Baghdad Pact and make it more firmly under U.S. leadership.

Ilyichev said Dulles is going to Ankara in his official capacity (as Secretary of State) rather than as a representative of American oil monopolists and primarily the oil empire of the Rockefellers."

HOUSE FOR DEBT BOOST

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The House today shouted down a move to limit a proposed increase in the national debt to $3 billion rather than $5 billion. The House then moved quickly toward expected overwhelming passage of a bill enacting into law the Eisenhower administration's request to hike the debt ceiling from $275 to $280 billion.

LIVING COSTS UNCHANGED

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The government reported today that a decline in new car prices kept living costs from advancing in December. They averaged the same as in November. Lower prices for automobiles and apparel offset slight advances for food and other goods and services in December. New car prices declined 2.3 per cent as dealers began granting larger discounts on 1958 new cars.

MILLER PLEADS GUILTY

Hartford, Jan. 21 (AP)—William P. Miller, 56, Hartford and East Hartford advertising promoter, pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court today to 13 counts of mail fraud. Miller was arrested last summer and later indicted by a federal grand jury on 24 separate counts of soliciting advertisements, for several publications. The government alleged that much of the advertising for which Miller's advertising firm was paid never was published.

Minor Courts Held Near Breakdown

lower court level is inherently vicious and costly." He said the state must have the highest possible standards in the minor courts and "that means fulltime, high caliber judges free from political pressure."

Town Chairmen Judges

Mrs. Abraham A. Lubschansky of New London, chairman of a court study committee from the League of Women Voters, told the committee that in some cases town political chairmen have served as court judges.

She said the state can't build up a corps of experienced court personnel when part-time judges and their staffs are turned out every time the political administration changes.

She said the league favors reorganizing the court system, with fulltime judges who do not engage in private practice of law.

Rev. Ernest M. Arnold, Bridgeport said the present system of minor courts works well and that court reform would wreck procedure that in Bridgeport handles from 120 to 150 traffic court cases in one evening.

He said a setup similar to that in Common Pleas would prove expensive not only to taxpayers but litigants. Traffic court defendants who now line up only an evening for a court appearance would lose a day's work under the reform and would have to pay much higher lawyers' fees, he warned.

Since Governor Ribicoff's license suspension rule for speeding went into effect the cost of a lawyer for a traffic case has jumped from $25 to $100 or $125, he said. Fees will be even higher if lower courts are integrated, he added. He warned also of the problems which do not exist in the present system. He saw a value in establishing regional traffic courts to serve smaller towns.

Dr. John M. Austin of Meriden said abolition of the municipal court setup would be a disservice to the people of Meriden, and a mistake throughout the state.

William L. Tierney Jr., senior judge of Greenwich Town Court, said the present setup in his city is state badly needs a standard test for drunken driving, a standard for radar speeding arrests, standard treatment of alcoholics and that judges should have the right to suspend drivers licenses on the basis of evidence in court.

Favors Integration

Judge Charles Henchel of New Haven, speaking for himself, said he was in favor of doing away with the present political system and integrating the lower courts.

"Let me be frank," he told the committee. "We do not at present have equal justice in Connecticut because of the politics behind the appointment of court personnel. Connecticut should not content itself with an archaic court system that was perhaps all right 150 years ago. The reason people want to see home town control of their courts is that they want to see home town people treated gently and out-of-towners put the screw to. To have a grand juror, or a justice of the peace, untrained in the law, judging a case, is not my idea of American justice."

Judge Richard Scully of West Hartford, said the integration job would be "herculean." It must include not only municipal courts but also trial justice courts. He said "there is good and sufficient reason" for the present lower courts, but that the volume of cases they handle would be a problem in more formal courts. He suggested creation of a commission to study the problems involved, and said the commission should include a businessman "who could come through red tape and legal niceties and the hysteria we get to present when they try to make changes in the system."

Columbia
CMPA Slates District Talk

District 10 of the Connecticut Milk Producers Assn. (CMPA), dairy farmers from this town, Columbia, Hebron and Marlborough, will hold its annual meeting in Yeomans Hall Monday.

Romolo J. Saglio, district president, urges all members to attend. A discussion on the Federal Order to Market Milk will take place, and should be of interest to every dairy farmer, he said.

Among the guests will be E. A. Perregaux of Storrs, who heads the Milk for Health advertising program; Donald Hammerburg, state milk administrator; Joseph Gill, Commissioner of Agriculture and several CMPA officials, including Ken Guyer, manager.

The meeting opens at 10:30 a.m. Dinner will be served at noon by women of the local PTA.

School Closings

Superintendent of Schools George E. Graff has announced that arrangements have been made with Radio Stations WTIC and WILI to broadcast closing of local schools because of snowstorm or any other emergency during the current school year. The announcement in the morning will be made between 6:30 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. and between 11:30 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. for closing in the afternoon only. It should be understood that each town operates separately. The high school may close and the local school may not. The technical school does not close.

Parents and pupils are urged not to make calls to the radio station, members of the school staff, or Board of Education members, concerning the closing of school. Calls have been known to interfere with getting messages through. Usually, the superintendent, Board members and teachers are using their telephones for emergency purposes.

Women's Guild Meeting

Mrs. John Card will open her home on Jonathan Trumbull Highway at the center, tonight, for a meeting of the Women's Guild of the Congregational Church. No special program is planned because of uncertainty of the weather. The meeting would be postponed if conditions are bad.

EVEN EXPERTS SLIP IN TENSE MATCHES

By Alfred Sheinwold

When the 1958 world championships begin this Friday in Como, Italy, we must expect to see some pretty bad mistakes. Even experts are human, especially in the tension of an important match. For example, one of the most famous players in the world muffed two different chances to defeat a vulnerable game contract in the first session of the 1957 match.

The bidding seems a little strange to American eyes. South's opening bid of one club showed merely a very strong hand, not necessarily a club suit. North's response of one heart was likewise artificial, showing one king and no aces.

The rest of the bidding was fairly natural, leading to a reasonable final contract of five clubs.

The boys father, a boat and motorcycle dealer, is in New York attending a Boat Show, having left before his son was taken ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Card, Columbia, left Sunday on a vacation trip to the south.

Manchester Evening Herald Columbia correspondent, Mrs. Donald R. Tuttle, ACademy 3-5435.

West, our famous American player, opened the queen of spades. East played low, and South won with the king.

South cashed the ace of hearts, led a club to dummy's queen, and returned a heart. South put up the king of hearts and ruffed a low heart with dummy's king of clubs, a very doubtful play.

Declarer got back to his hand by leading a trump to the ace, discovering the bad news. West was sour. He then led the seven of hearts.

West Has Chance

West should have ruffed with the nine of trumps, forcing East to feat the contract by leading his remaining trump. Declarer would win card a spade, but the defenders would still get one spade trick and the ace of diamonds.

Instead, West discarded a diamond on dummy's seven of hearts. Declarer gratefully discarded a spade from dummy and led the jack of hearts.

This time West ruffed with the ten of clubs, properly enough. Dummy discarded the last spade.

West now had his second chance to beat the contract. A trump would seal South's doom, South would win and lead the king of diamonds, whereupon East would take the ace of diamonds and make dummy ruff a spade. South would wind up with another losing spade.

Instead, West led the nine of spades, and South scrambled home with 11 tricks.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: Spades, K 7 6, Hearts A K J 7 6, Diamonds K Q, Clubs A J 3. What do you say?

Answer: Big 2-suit bid. This hand usually shows 22 to 24 points, but your strong 5-card suit is easily worth an extra point. An opening bid of one heart is also condemned.

rehearing that when he was brought to trial he was under the effect of sedatives given him to ease his pain. Because of this, he said, he was unable properly to follow the proceedings.

In addition, Wojciulewicz, 40, claimed he was "degraded" by being brought before the jury on a stretcher.

Justice Raymond E. Baldwin, who wrote the opinion dismissing the New Britain man's plea for a new trial, said he had been physically and mentally able to go on trial, and that his mind had not been clouded by the pain killing sedatives given him.

As for his having been brought into court on a stretcher, Justice Baldwin said this would "tend to arouse the sympathy of the jury rather than work against him."

"Her condition," the High Court ruled, "did not prevent him from securing witnesses or from testifying in his own behalf which he freely decided not to do."

Technically, the High Court acted on Wojciulewicz's plea that Superior Court Judge Richard H. Phillips had refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus directing the warden of the state prison to free him because he had not been fairly tried six years ago.

The High Court ruled that Judge Phillips' conclusion that he had been given a fair trial "was reasonably and properly drawn from the facts."

Wojciulewicz is confined to the prison ward at the State Prison under 24-hour guard. He recently has been able to sit in a wheel chair for several hours daily.

The job of setting a new date for Wojciulewicz's execution will be up to Judge William J. Shea presiding over the January criminal term of Superior Court here.

Rescue Try Fails, State Girl Drowns

Jewett City, Jan. 21 (AP)—A 26-year-old Scout master watched in helpless horror last night as a girl slipped from his frozen fingers and drowned in Ashland Pond.

Hector Gibeault, also a volunteer fireman whose wife is expecting her sixth child, was within inches of passing 14-year-old Yvonne Guimond into the waiting hands of other would-be rescuers.

Yvonne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guimond of Norman Rd., crashed through thin ice while skating with a friend, Denise Lisee, 15, who also plunged into the water.

Gibeault and Joseph Romaino of Griswold went to the rescue of the two girls, and Romaino succeeded in pulling Denise to safety.

Yvonne had slid under the ice and Gibeault had to search for her. He reached her as the frigid water began stiffening his fingers. As he struggled toward those who waited on the ice to take the girl from him, he lost his grip and she slipped under the surface.

Her body was recovered later.

Bob Steele Heard By Buckley PTA

Dr. Harold L. Davey, 51 Elsie Dr., vice president of the Buckley PTA, presided at the "men's night" program last evening at the school. Charles Hodgins introduced the guest speaker, Bob Steele of WTIC fame, who gave the highlights in his athletic career and, in a humorous manner, related many of his experiences.

He began working for WTIC in 1936 and is sports director for this station and for Channels 3, TV. He stressed the importance of physical exercises for the youth of today, and urged the parents to encourage their children to participate in all sports available to them. A large audience heard Bob's humor and wit.

Refreshments were furnished by parents of Grade 3 children, the table had a centerpiece of athletic equipment covered with ivy.

Mrs. Dorothy Elkin's second grade class won the attendance prize.

Rockville
Religious Group Pledges Battle For Freedoms

Seventh Day Adventists of the Rockville congregation who opposed use of public funds to transport children to their own schools have adopted a declaration of religious liberty.

Representatives of the Adventist Church testified at State Legislature hearings last year against a law to permit publicly supported transportation of non-profit private school pupils.

The Legislature last session passed the bill which allows communities on local option, to transport parochial and other private school children on municipally-supported school buses.

At a meeting Saturday, the Rockville congregation passed a resolution stating in part:

"We believe that all legislation and other governmental acts which unite church and state are subversive of human rights, potentially persecuting in character, and opposed to the best interests of church and state."

Against State Bus Aid

The Adventists are against accepting State aid for church school bus transportation although they transport students to their own school in Hartford, according to Richard Anderson of the Rockville congregation.

The church also operates schools in Connecticut at New London, New Haven, and Bridgeport, Anderson said.

A director of the Hartford chapter of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State, he testified at the legislative hearings last year.

The resolution announced by Anderson for the Rockville congregation reads:

"As America becomes increasingly a church-going nation, its religious leaders must resist the temptation to invoke civil power for the protection of religious institutions. This is completely alien to the American way of life."

'Blue Law' Protest

The congregation, which observes Saturday as the Sabbath, protested against enactment or enforcement of "Blue Laws" protecting Sunday as a religious day, and asserted the national headquarters in Washington, D.C., that there is increased pressure for adoption of such "Blue Laws" was made to the congregation by Seventhfied Sandstrom, Sabbath School superintendent.

The average life expectancy of religious leaders, based on 1950 census statistics, is 74.5 years as against 71.1 for men.

State Readies Law On Poison Goods

Hartford, Jan. 21 (AP) — State Food and Drug Commissioner Attilio Frassinelli says regulations are being prepared to implement a new law which requires all household products containing dangerous substances to be so labeled before they can be sold in Connecticut.

Under the law enacted by the 1957 Legislature the labels must not only call attention to any dangerous substance or substances but also name them.

"And not in small print," added Herbert Plank, chief of the commission's Drug and Cosmetic Division. "They must be prominently displayed."

Frassinelli said that a public hearing on the regulations will be held in about six weeks.

Some Businessmen Disagree With Ike's Recession Views

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Jan. 21 (AP) — President Eisenhower's views of the extent and probable timetable of the business recession are at odds with those of some of the economic advisers of industry.

As presented in Monday noon's economic report, the President holds:

1. The slump began sooner and hit harder than his advisers had told him to expect and presumably with the timetable stepped up the recovery should come earlier, too.

2. Some chief strong points in the economy haven't been hit much and will quickly outweigh those that were — with two new factors, enlarged defense spending and recently liberalized credit, already being felt.

The administration is counting on a reversal in the business and employment trends before the Fourth of July.

Experts Split

In industry the guessing was along that line, too, until recently. Now there is a split amongst the business experts.

A handful, doubtless impressed by the earlier timetable of the slump and the changes in public thinking wrought by sputnik, think the turn will come with Easter.

But many more experts have switched their ideas of the time for reversal of the trend from midsummer to sometime around Thanksgiving or Christmas.

When looking at any guessing along those lines these days, remember:

This is an election year. And in and out of Washington one side will stress anything that makes the business and employment picture look bad, perhaps even worse than it is. The other side will call attention to the strong points and glow with optimism about the chances for a big new upsurge before the November voting.

Most non government economists and business leaders agree that greater defense spending will boost certain affected industries, and that if credit liberalized to the point where borrowing costs turn notably lower other forms of spending will be boosted, particularly spending by the state and local governments.

But the more cautious think that the real turn in the business slump will be signaled by the reports of the durable goods industries as a whole when the current phase of trimming inventories ends, when capital goods makers report their backlog of orders has stopped falling and new orders have started to appear again in volume on their books, then the new business boom will have been born.

Strong Consumer Demand

The president points confidently to a strong consumer demand, sustained to a large degree by the fact that so far there has been only a small decline in total incomes and hence in total buying power.

More cautious outsiders fear that this slight dip will become more pronounced between now and Easter.

The President also counts on rising outlays by state and local governments and an increased private spending on research and development. But he lays great stress on strong business confidence as shown in long range corporate programs for expansion and construction.

Business leaders go right along with this—on the long term phase of the economy.

But what worries them is the fairly sharp cut in plans for such spending this year; the evidence of wavering confidence shown by the hand-to-mouth ordering of retailers and wholesalers as well as the trimming of manufacturing inventories; and the lack of confidence shown by many stock market traders, with its repercussions on public psychology.

Everyone hopes the President is right—but some are waiting to see.

Brownell Sees GOP Sweeping State This Fall

He said expenditures on the intermediate and intercontinental range missile program grew from $14 million in 1954 to the $1,340,000,000 appropriated for fiscal 1958.

"Of the $3,426,000,000 spent for these programs (since their start) all but $7 million have been spent in the last five years," he said.

Brownell forecast GOP success in the fall but said an all-out effort would be required. Republicans dominate both houses of the State Legislature and would like to move into the Governor's mansion, where Gov. Ribicoff, a Democrat, is planning a reelection campaign.

Brownell's Comments

Brownell commented:

"We see every day the disadvantage of a divided government in Washington—divided between a Republican administration and a Democratic congress.

"We have to get together and will get together in a strong united party effort for a Republican sweep in Connecticut this November and I know you all will do your part."

Purtell, asked at his news conference if there were any cracks in the party, said "no, no more than normal. In every party there are some minor disagreements."

He said he was conferring with party leaders and potential candidates for the gubernatorial nomination recently because he wants to ensure as candidate the "best man possible for the Republicans and the Democrats."

Purtell said he had no one particular in mind as candidate.

He commented, in answer to other queries, that he hasn't changed his mind about running for reelection to the Senate and that he wasn't interested in the governorship.

Rev. Rask Attends Area Conference

The Rev. K. Ejnar Rask of the Covenant Congregational Church left yesterday for Woodstock to attend the East Coast Conference of the Evangelical Covenant Church of America, which opens tomorrow afternoon at the Senexet House.

This 1958 conference will feature two speakers, the Rev. Carlton Gregory, head of the department of History and Philosophy at Providence R. I. Bible College and the Rev. Joseph C. Danielson, secretary of home missions for the Covenant denomination. The latter will take for his theme "Covenant Home Missions." The Rev. Mr. Gregory's theme will be "Some Current Problems in Philosophical Theology."

Pastor Rask will serve as organist, and the conference will conclude Friday afternoon.

Town Takes Snow Off Side Streets

Highway Department employees were working today to prevent melting snow from flooding residential streets.

They were clearing the sides of streets where lack of drainage might cause trouble after the snow melts.

If not removed, the snow might run into standing ponds which could freeze over and create a serious traffic hazard, a department spokesman said.

Your Income Tax—No. 2

Half the Battle Lies in Tax Form; Pick Right One for Your Income

(Note: The second in an 8-part series, this article describes how to select the proper form for filing your income tax return. Later articles will deal with classes of returns, exemptions, taxable income, deductions and other important subjects.)

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When you have all the facts and figures collected for your 1957 income and deductions, the next step is to decide which form to use in filing your tax return.

There are two basic forms available—the 1040 and the 1040A. The latter can be used as a short form, using only page 1, or as a long form using pages 1 and 2, and possibly 3 and 4. You should pick the form that fits the size and type of your income and expenses.

Form 1040A is the simplest of all, and the Internal Revenue Service would like to see it used more than it is. It is a printed card, about the size of an ordinary check, and can be processed by machine. It's designed to save both taxpayer and tax collector considerable time and trouble.

The IRS says about 30 million taxpayers could use this form if they only would. Last year 14 million did, and 16 million at least 20 million will this year.

Time Saver

1040A takes care of for any great detail. You could probably fill it out, including your income, in five minutes or less by using it.

All you have to do is fill out a few blanks, sign it, and send it to the revenue service. They'll do the rest of the task and send you a bill or a refund, depending on your individual situation.

If you want, you can compute your own taxes from the instructions you'll get, and enter it on the form. This will be to your advantage if you have a refund coming, because you'll probably get your check from the government a bit sooner. However, if you do your own computing, you find you owe Uncle Sam more taxes, you must send along a check for the amount—you can't wait for a bill.

The gimmick on this easy, almost painless, way of filing your return is that not everyone is eligible to use it, and you may not want to use it even if you can.

For instance, your total income must not be more than $1,999.99. If it's a joint return, the combined income of husband and wife must not exceed $4,999.99. This income must consist mainly of salaries or wages from which income taxes have been withheld. Not more than $100 can be in other wages, dividends or interest.

You can't use the 1040A if you had other types of income such as annuities, rent receipts, royalties, pension payments, business profits, professional earnings, security transactions, farming income, or earnings as a participant in partnerships, estates and trusts.

And you can't use this form if you want to itemize your deductions or deduct your business-connected expenses (such as traveling costs) or "sick pay." Nor can you use it if you claim the special "head of household" status.

Short or Long—1040?

If you can't use a 1040A, or don't want to, you'll next have to decide how many pages of the 1040 you should fill out.

Form 1040 is printed on pages about the size of a large letter head. There are four pages, but the average taxpayer needs worry only about pages 1 and 2.

If your adjusted gross income is not more than $4,999.99, you may be able to get by with page 1 only. You can do this if your income is what's left after you've deducted your business expenses and deductions bring the adjusted gross below $5,000 mark.

On this form, too, there are certain restrictions.

You can get by using just page 1 if you are single with no dependents to claim as exemptions, or if you are married and claim exemptions only for your wife and children. And to use the first page only you must accept the standard 10 per cent deduction, just as on the 1040A.

If your adjusted gross income is $5,000 or more, you have no choice. You must use the longer form of 1040, which means pages 1 and 2, and possibly 3 and 4.

This calls for a bit more work, but there are a number of special benefits you can claim. For instance, if you have other dependents besides your wife and children—say your mother or mother-in-law, a niece or nephew, etc.—and you are qualified to claim them as exemptions, you can list them on page 2 and thus reduce your tax.

Also on page 2 you can itemize your deductions for interest paid, charity, medical expenses, etc., and this may result in a substantial saving to you.

Pages 3 and 4 are for use in reporting income from dividends, interest, rents and royalties, and from partnerships, estates, trusts or other sources.

Remember, the first $50 of dividend income—$100 if the income is jointly owned with your wife—is tax free.

Rates Among Instructions

If you use the short form of 1040A, you'll find the tax rates on the back of the instruction book. You can tell what your liability is according to your marital status, the number of your adjusted gross income.

If you use the long form you get the help of a table, but you still have to do the arithmetic of working out your own tax.

By looking over your income figures you should now be able to select the proper form to use this year in filing your tax return. The next article will deal with the various classes of returns.

Democrats Hit Eisenhower for Defense Claims

on about the business of making it up."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), a member of the preparedness subcommittee investigating the missile and satellite programs, said the Eisenhower administration has "failed in its imperative responsibility" to keep the United States well ahead of Russia.

"Comparatively speaking, we are considerably less secure than when Eisenhower took office," he said.

In a separate interview, Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, agreed with Russell and Kefauver in saying the Democrats are trying to keep politics out of consideration of the defense program.

Eisenhower said the objective of security and a just peace "is not a partisan or political matter."

Claims Signals Crossed

But in Minneapolis, Adams accused the Democrats of playing politics with national defense in an effort to unify a party he said was divided and said they "ought to be called strictly to account by the American people for using this subject as party debate."

Adams added that "We Republicans greet the opposition on this battlefield with as much anticipation as any other they can conjure up."

"It's too bad the coach and the quarterback didn't get together before the game and before they got crossed up on their signals," he added in field commentary.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler issued a statement calling the differing stands and saying "tonight's Republican orations are somewhat confusing."

Russell said the Democrats aren't playing politics in the ordinary sense in criticizing administration defense policies.

"But we have two parties under our system and that's what the opposing party is for, to criticize and to help correct," he said.

"Our Republican Brethren have been playing plenty of politics trying to hang the blame for our lag in missiles on former President Truman. That is about as sensible as it would be for us to blame everything on former President Hoover because he didn't spend a cent on missiles during his administration."

Acted Without Truman

Vice President Nixon said from New York that the Democratic party is so divided "it is incapable of effectively leading the nation" in the space era. He said the President has enjoyed "the best government the nation has had in any five year period," adding:

"And all of this has been accomplished without having Mr. Truman around to tell President Eisenhower what to do."

This was an allusion to Truman's recent statements that Eisenhower was a great general because he had someone around—Truman—to tell him what to do.

Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) told a Newark, N.J., audience that some Senate Democrats "have the bit in their teeth and feel that they have a mandate to take over the reins of leadership from the administration.

At Tulsa, Okla., Secretary of Commerce Weeks said Democratic attacks are "more reckless—more hypocritical" than ever. He predicted citizens would condemn anyone "who plays cheap politics with national survival."

At Des Moines, Iowa, Secretary of the Interior Seaton said Democrats have blamed the situation on GOP economies but he said Congress last year cut $2,600,000,000 from Eisenhower's defense appropriations request.

At St. Joseph, Mo., Sen. Potter (R-Mich) contended that if the United States is behind Russia, in missiles the responsibility is a large share of the blame rests squarely on the shoulders of the Truman administration."

A Pile Of Dirt

An urgent personal visit by United Nations Secretary General Hammarskjold, followed up by three weeks of intense negotiation by his personal representative, has resulted in acceptance by both Israel and Jordan of a new plan to ease tensions over Mount Scopus in Jerusalem.

Under the agreement, both Israel and Jordan win certain points. Jordan is pleased that Israel now agrees that United Nations representatives shall have the right to inspect Mount Scopus, to see that Israel is abiding by the original truce agreement to keep it a demilitarized zone. Israel is pleased that no fortifications which already happen to be there must be torn down, which will leave Israel in military dominance of the demilitarized situation. By such a delicate and tedious balancing of concessions United Nations mediation has apparently eased an almost microscopic crisis which, if not eased, might nevertheless have led to a world war.

For that, we suppose, we should be grateful, to the United Nations, and to some statesmanship on the part of both Israel and Jordan.

But, although we would not revoke it, we must also realize that this is a pitiful kind of accomplishment. What kind of world is this, that it might blow itself up over the management of a few square yards of territory? What fundamental lack of capacity to live together condemns us to realize that, although this microscopic controversy may be quieted, something equally trivial may plunge the world into horror tomorrow? In addition to trying to keep fierce and narrow passions from triggering disaster for all, is there no way to approach and heal these passions themselves?

We know the hopeful, patient answer. It is that we must accomplish the petty possible, and build little understandings and experiences of understanding until, some day, we find conditions ready for something bigger and more fundamental. We must never despair of the odds, and never act as if we felt ourselves living under a hopeless condemnation. We must not give up trying to regulate and control enmities merely because enmities will not turn, over night, into mutual respect and tolerance.

Nevertheless, who does not hunger, too, for some bold clarion call to the better part of man everywhere, that it awake and take over and shrink every Mount Scopus into a pile of dirt, not fit to contaminate and embitter and divide the good destinies of man?

The Mayors And Detroit

In his capacity as chairman of the Metropolitan Regional Conference, an association of mayors and other officials from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, Mayor Wagner of New York City has written the presidents of five automobile manufacturers asking them to turn out a smaller product.

Since 1928, the average American car has expanded from 71 to 78 inches in width. In the same period, its length has grown from 16 feet 1 inch to 17 feet 8 inches.

This, said Mayor Wagner in his letter, has had the effect of shrinking available parking space in the cities, has reduced the capacity of existing parking lots by 15 per cent, and that of garages by 40 per cent. In addition, it threatens to outmode parking meters which were set only 29 feet apart. The greater length of the cars, said Wagner also, has intensified traffice jams and congestion in the tri-state area.

So there is a plea to Detroit, to stop making cars which are forever bigger and better, and to begin making some which are smaller and better.

We do not expect the plea of these mayors to cause much of a stir in Detroit's planning rooms. But something else ought to be disturbing Detroit, and that is the possibility that the merchandising theory behind this big-car planning may have begun to wear itself out. Detroit has been following a boom time theory that it could find an ever-increasing market for cars which were forever bigger and better and which sold at a price which went higher every year.

Sooner or later there has to be an end to this trend. The sky is, after all, the limit. And an America which has done very nicely at converting itself into a two-car family civilization is, sooner or later, going to demand that it be able to buy some elemental transportation along with its luxurious road behemoths. Actually, a rather remarkable phenomenon has already occurred, in that the atmosphere of distinction, today, has deserted the big car, which has now become universal and common, and gone over to the car which is spectacularly small.

So far, however, Detroit has been defying the law of boom, the law of gravity, and even the law of supply and demand, as witness its blithe talent for raising its prices and laying off workers at the same time. Detroit seems to have invented a new economic law which says that the way to stimulate a lagging market is to make your product still more expensive. The inevitable sequel to too much reliance on this impossible law will find Detroit eager to comply with the plea of the mayors.

Swaying The Apple Cart

The prospect that a few party leaders could organize their own private game of musical chairs in California's politics, and then depend upon the voters to ratify it without question has never appeared realistically good to our long range observation. Now the deal by which Governor Knight was forced out of his own renomination in order to permit Senator Knowland to run for governor with Knight, in consolation, to be permitted to run for the Senate, is being challenged by a brash third candidate, Mayor Christopher of San Francisco.

Mayor Christopher refuses to be bound by a deal on which he was not consulted. And he is taking aim not at Knowland, but at the senatorial nomination which is supposed to go to Knight. Whereas Knight could apparently be forced to do whatever Knowland and Vice President Nixon wanted him to do, Christopher defies everybody. Since the thing that made Knightcraft was the threat of the party's big contributors that he would get no more campaign financing if he didn't play ball, it would appear that Mayor Christopher feels able to finance himself.

Mayor Christopher won a surprise early round in his fight last Saturday, when a meeting of state Republican leaders, supposedly convened to endorse Knight for the senatorial nomination, deadlocked instead with 18 votes for Knight and 18 for Christopher. This opens the possibility that Knight, having been pushed around once, may now be pushed all the way to political extinction, and robbed of his guarantee in the deal he made under compulsion.

At any rate, Mayor Christopher's battle cry, after his surprise showing Saturday, sounded like something Californians might be ready to hear.

"I went to Knight," said Christopher, "three times before I announced for the Senate. He gave me his word of honor each time he would be running for reelection as governor and nothing else. I was in Europe when he changed his mind. I got the information from the newspapers.

"They thought I would return and pull out like a little stooge.

"Well, I'm no stooge. I'm over six feet tall; I weigh 200 pounds; and I'm fighting now to save the Republican party of California.

"The switch has done the party a tremendous amount of harm. People look on the switch as a behind-the-scenes deal. They are getting suspicious of the Republican party.

"I'll show them that the Republican party is still the over and above-board party it always was."

It would be quite an outcome for the best laid plans of Knowland and Nixon, wouldn't it, if next fall should find Knight out in the cold, Christopher winning the Senate seat Knowland is vacating, and a Democrat taking the governorship supposedly in the bag for Knowland? But stranger things have happened, and any such high-handed effort to pre-manage the affairs of California's voters has to constitute dangerous flirtation with just that kind of result.

Wrecking Crew

Milwaukee, (AP)—Wrecking crews sent to demolish a filling station to make way for an expressway made one big error—they began to rip apart the wrong station.

But the workers realized their mistake soon after they started work on the closed station, which was across the street from the doomed building.

They hurriedly replaced such things as doors and radiators.

Connecticut Yankee

By A. H. O.

We have found, in a brief appraisal of the situation of Governor Ribicoff at the end of three years in office, and at the beginning of the year which will find the voters giving their own appraisal, a certain mixed waxing and waning of his appeal.

He retains his key charm, that of being able to be candid and honest in situations where lesser politicians would straddle and evade. This was the thing which built his original reputation, and carried him to his original victory. And, since he has been able to preserve it, it has, in the past three years, made its conquests in new areas of the state's population, so that he could conceivably be much stronger in 1958 than he was in 1954.

At the same time, however, is the opinion of those who watch him most closely, there have appeared signs of frayed patience and psychological wear which, placed in conjunction with the inevitable boredom of newsmen and commentators even with virtue, threaten to cloud the unparalleled honeymoon between Ribicoff and the state press.

We think have a rather interesting situation in which the Ribicoff appeal seems to be spreading itself in widening circles through the state while, at the same time, it seems to be suffering some impairment at the center. It is this feeling that there are psychological gaps developing in the Ribicoff armor which encourages and spurs the Republicans to thrusts at his glamor, at his "do-nothing" record, at his vacations, all aimed not merely at the hope that the state will believe some of this, but much more importantly at the hope that Ribicoff can be taunted into being off-balance, and goaded into moves and reactions which will send a gradual wave of disillusionment out through the state in damaging pursuit of the original Ribicoff appeal.

Thus, although Ribicoff has to be rated, at the moment, as stronger in appeal than when he won election, there is this nucleus suggestion of some lack of poise at the center, which leads the Republicans to hope that Ribicoff himself may help them in accomplishing the job they could never do alone —that of destroying Ribicoff.

The danger is real enough. Should the increased tension of an election year find Ribicoff losing poise instead of gaining it, reaching too hard and too recklessly for opportunities to prove his honesty and candor, trying too obviously to prove his dynamism in office, and forgetting his own original rule for that kind of conduct which makes criticism bounce rather than stick, then the picture could change, and change swiftly enough to affect the voting next November. No human being is unbeatable.

Unfortunately for Republican hopes, however, Ribicoff has hitherto usually had some talent for discovering even his own weak spots, and reinforcing them promptly.

'Tip from Old Timer'

To the Editor,

I would like to use a little of your valuable space to answer the article written by Francis Happenny about the poor job done by the highway department in removing the snow. I put in 26 years and three months on the highway and know a little about the hardship that the highway workers has to contend with. I was out all night one time in just such a storm as we had last week, only there was plenty of sleet and rain with it. We went up Porter St. and Camp Meeting Rd. to the town line back through Finley St. to the old Bolton Rd. back to the New Bolton Rd. to the town line and back to Lake St. to Lydall St., down Lydall St. to Vernon St., up Vernon St. to the town line' and back to the Green in the early part of the night there were several cars off the road and stuck. I got out of the cab and hooked a chain on to them as we came to them and told the drivers to get their motor going and help themselves when the truck started to pull. I hooked the chain to the left side of the truck so it would pull them from the gutter, and told them to follow us and we would make a track for them. We pulled out 16 cars that night, they all followed us except one and when they came to their homes they pulled into their own driveway. One fellow was a little too smart, he drove past us and did not get very far before he got stuck again. When we went to him the plow threw the snow against his car and we left him there, we were not going to pull him out twice.

I had a heavy lined jacket on and it was wet through and I had to wear it the remainder of the night. My mittens were so wet the water ran out of them but I always carried an extra pair of gloves with me so I had them to put on. I got home in the morning long enough to get some breakfast and get my lunch box put up for noon time, and was out again, but I left the wet coat home and put on an old leather coat I had.

That is just a sample of what the highway workers do and they get no credit for it. The public does not appreciate it and all they get is criticism. I think it is too bad for Mr. Happenny or anyone else to criticize them when they are breaking their backs trying to get a lot of frozen snow off the roads and sidewalks, but the public thinks it should be got off regardless of how hard it is frozen. My opinion is they have done well to get as much of it off as they have. So, Francey, take a tip from an old timer, don't criticize the highway workers, it will not get you anything, but it will do harm to more harm that you will do them. Be a good sport, grin and bear it.

Grace at Meals

Saying grace at meals is a wonderful habit. It makes one remember that good food comes from God, in fact it makes the food, however humble, taste better. And even more than that it has a wonderful power of uniting families and keeping them together.

If you do not say grace at meals now let me suggest that you begin by using the ones listed below.

"We acknowledge thee, O God, to be the giver of every good and perfect gift. Bless this food to our use and us to thy service. In the name and spirit of Jesus we pray. Amen."

"Accept our thanks, dear God, for the blessings which thou hast provided. Teach us to be grateful for all thy mercies. In Jesus' name. Amen."

Committee Plans May Force Capt. Dowgewicz to Retire

Police Committee plans for reorganization of the Police Department may force the early retirement of Captain Peter J. Dowgewicz.

The plans were revealed by Police Commissioner Francis John J. Yaskulka at a meeting of the Common Council last night.

The committee is studying police pension plans which will permit retirement at age 55 or after 25 years of service, with retirement compulsory at age 60. If this plan is adopted, and there was no opposition voiced to it, Captain Peter J. Dowgewicz would be forced to retire in a couple of months when he reaches 60. He could retire earlier since he now has 29 years of service.

The captain's retirement pay would amount to 60 per cent of his average pay over the last five years. The plan calls for retirement on 50 per cent for 25 years of service, plus 2 per cent for each additional year.

Yaskulka said a meeting will be held soon with members of the Police Department to see if they are willing to contribute 5 per cent of their pay for pension cost.

Court Appearance Pay

The city will soon be paid for time spent in City Court in connection with arrests, under the new regulations voted by the Police Committee. Regular men will be paid a minimum of one and one-half hours pay, plus either equal time off or regular pay for any time above one and one-half hours spent in court.

Supernumeraries will be allowed one-half day's pay for time spent in City Court.

Allowances for sick time has also been set up in the new regulations. If a policeman is absent for sickness one or two days he will be required to make up the time. If he is ill more than two days and presents a medical certificate he will be paid for a maximum of five days.

The regulations define procedures generally practiced in the department now.

Clothing Allowance

Policemen will be required to buy their own uniforms the first year of duty, but thereafter they will receive $70 at the end of the year to cover replacement costs.

Patrolmen presently receive the same amount for clothing, but it is only given to them as they purchase items, and this requires a lot of bookkeeping, Yaskulka said.

Cruiser Checks

Each policeman using a cruiser will be responsible for its condition when he returns it to the station. He will be expected to have the gas tank filled and the car checked before leaving it for the next patrolman.

Applications from three men for positions as regular policemen are being investigated by the Committee.

To Enforce Parking Laws

A parking ordinance prohibiting the parking of cars on city streets overnight will be enforced, Yaskulka said. Motorists will not be allowed to park cars in the municipal parking area on School St. overnight, either.

However, during snow storms, the recreation field will be plowed first so that motorists who cannot get their cars into their driveways can park them at the field rather than on the street.

Cars left on the street overnight will be towed away. A $5 towing charge will be levied against the driver, as well as a $1 parking fine. He will be charged a dollar for each day he leaves the car at the towing garage.

Contracts are being drawn up with several local garages, protecting the city from responsibility for any damage resulting from the towing. All garages participating must be insured.

Residents will also be required to shovel their sidewalks within eight hours of the time a snow storm ends.

These ordinances have been in the City Charter for some time, but have not been strictly enforced. An ordinance controlling loitering will be looked into so that this law can also be enforced.

The Council approved a new nuisance ordinance, requiring all rubbish trucks to be covered, and prohibiting anyone from throwing papers on the street. The ordinance also restricts anyone from shoveling snow from the sidewalk into the street.

A fine not exceeding $100 can be imposed on violators of any of these ordinances.

Officials of American Dyeing Corp. will be advised that their employes will not be allowed to park on both sides of Grove St. during storms, as this is in violation of parking regulations for that area.

Personal records of each policeman will be compiled by the City Clerk under the supervision of Captain Dowgewicz.

Minutes of all committee meetings will be kept and made available to the public, Mayor Herman G. Olson stated.

Aerial Ladder Requested

Fire Chief John F. Aahe, in a letter to the Council, asked consideration of an aerial ladder truck, which he considers a necessity to the Department.

Any city having five buildings of 3-stories should be equipped with such a ladder, he said.

Chief Engineer David I. Driscoll of the Boston Fire Department, guest speaker at the Firemen's Banquet Saturday night, expressed "amazement" that the city did not have an aerial ladder.

Aahe said the 20-year old Pilton Fire Co. pumper needs to be replaced.

Fire Committee Chairman Richard Hilter said he believes a combination pumper and aerial ladder truck could be purchased for about $35,000. The cost rises to or 38 cent yearly, Hilter said, noting that the price last year was $21,000.

The Fire Chief said ladder trucks, a 1925 Maxim, is valued at $200 in the department's inventory.

It is an antique, and certainly not a piece of equipment to be depended on, Hilter said. "I'm afraid to see this hook and ladder go out to a fire," Hilter said. "It's mechanically unsound . . . and the ladder is unsafe."

The Fire Department's inventory shows a total of $87,500 in vehicles. This includes the fire houses, trucks, and equipment.

Snow Removal Cost

The recent storm cost the city $3,600 for snow removal, Aldermen Luther Trouton told the Council. This included the Public Works Department payroll of $2,772, plus rental of extra men and equipment hired for the snow removal. The men worked 16 hours a day for three days.

Sand will be delivered to householders Wednesday and Thursday of this week, weather permitting. Residents should place a container at the curb if they want to receive sand from the city trucks.

Other Matters

Other matters considered by the Council at its first full business session since inauguration, include the following:

The Water Company will be advised to go ahead and lay the 10-inch water main through Regan St. The city does not plan to improve the street at this time, but has given the water company the plan which it will follow if it ever does improve the street. The street is presently privately owned, but the city has a right-of-way.

Inspection of restaurants throughout the year showed that the city's restaurants and grills are in "good" condition, with only eight of the 72 visits finding them in "fair" condition.

Of the eight visits to bars, four found "good" conditions and four found "fair" conditions.

Garages were visited 72 times, with 60 visits reported "good" and 12 "fair."

Appointments

Clarence J. McCarthy was reappointed to the Planning Commission, since his term expires this year.

William A. Schmalz was appointed to the Zoning Board of Appeals to replace the late Frederick Maharan.

The Council accepted the auditor's report and reviewed the recommendations. The city report will be published for the first time in four years.

Town Improvement Program

The Civic Improvement Committee of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, has suggested an 8-point program for improvement of Fox Hill Tower. The suggestions were outlined in a letter to Mayor Herman G. Olson yesterday.

The proposed program, calls for the following:

1. Regrading and grassing of the gravel area close to the tower.
2. Installation of pay telescopes by the Rotary Club, which has previously discussed the matter.
3. Trimming of trees on all sides of the tower to afford a better view of the surrounding landscape.
4. Contact veterans' organizations to consider use of spaces provided on the tower for memorial plaques.
5. Provide a flag for the flag pole.
6. Encourage the Rotary Club to floodlight the tower at night, as previously suggested by that club.
7. Clean up and maintain the tower and establish a schedule of open hours.
8. Provide an attendant for the tower during open hours and to keep it clean.

Ike Says Security Not Political Issue

Eisenhower's audience at flag-draped Donovan Hall in the amphitheatre—where he was nominated for a first term in 1952—interrupted him with applause 16 times during his quarter-hour talk.

Still convalescing from the minor stroke he suffered last Nov. 25, the president delivered his talk vigorously and he obviously got a kick out of rousing ovations he received at the start and conclusion of his speech.

Introduced by Nixon

The President was introduced on TV and radio by Vice President Nixon, who was the principal speaker at the New York Republican rally. Party dinners held in 27 states and the District of Columbia attracted an estimated 40,000 who paid from $10 to $100 a plate.

The President's pledge he intends to participate personally in modernization of defense, until the job is done came as another departure from text—and got a round of applause.

Since he took office five years ago yesterday, Eisenhower said, his administration has given the nation "five full years of sound government." In talking further about that the President said in part:

"A war was stopped. No other war has been allowed to take its place.

"The nation's security has been guarded and markedly strengthened. Prosperity has risen from peak to peak. A record-breaking tax reduction was granted. The economic security of all our people has risen.

"The President made no mention of the economic report he sent to Congress just before traveling to Chicago yesterday afternoon. The Riverside Bank and Trust Co. was named administrator.

The Anderson inventory was composed principally of stock in the ABA 1958 and Die Co. in which he was a partner.

Ashe said the $10,000 was in common voting stock while $86,937 was in non-voting preferred stock. Mart ownership in two pieces of property, one on Goodwin Rd. and the other on the Tolland Tpke., were also listed as well as personal property.

remain in office until 1960, when a complete new house is to be elected.

The present lame duck congress is to meet Friday to begin carrying the vote, a job that may take 10 days. The House now is made up mainly of supporters of the late president Carlos Castillo Armas' Democratic National Movement (MDN), which supported Cruz Salazar.

Hanging over Congress, however, will be the threat of a repetition of the riots after the last election. Yidgoras' supporters took to the streets after their leader, who carried the capital—charged vote frauds in rural districts had given victory to the government candidate. Congress finally nullified the vote.

Both Cruz Salazar and Mendez Montenegro issued statements yesterday that they still had hopes of surging ahead.

Mendez Montenegro, Revolutionary party candidate, has been accused of being influenced by the communists, now outlawed in this onetime Red beachhead. He denied the charge and promised he would be exonerated from the government if elected.

The election was brought on by the assassination of Castillo Armas by one of his guards—allegedly a Red. The group of Castillo Armas led the 1950 revolt that overthrew the communist-influenced regime of President Jacobo Arbenez Guzman.

3 Inventories Filed Monday

Three separate estate inventories totaling almost a half million dollars were filed yesterday with Probate Judge John J. Wallett.

The largest of the inventories, $386,000, was for the estate of John Lentl; a $115,489 estate was listed for Helmar G. Anderson; and the third, for Samuel McCurry, was for $87,293.

Lentl died last July, Anderson was killed in a highway accident in August and McCurry died in September.

The Lentl inventory was broken down as being $103,605 in real estate, $172,935 in mortgage loans and $11,467 in securities. Nine major parcels of property were specified in the inventory while 33 mortgage loans were listed.

Under the terms of the Lentl will, the bulk of the estate was left to his two sons, John F. and Paul Lentl. His daughters, Mrs. Louise Bonino and Mrs. Teresa Chiaraviglio, received $2,000 each. The Riverside Bank and Trust Co. was named administrator.

The Anderson inventory was composed principally of stock in the ABA 1958 and Die Co. in which he was a partner.

Ashe said the $10,000 was in common voting stock while $86,937 was in non-voting preferred stock. Mart ownership in two pieces of property, one on Goodwin Rd. and the other on the Tolland Tpke., were also listed as well as personal property.

The $15,000 in voting stock was bequeathed to his three sons, Donald, Earl, and William Anderson. The rest of the estate was placed in the Manchester Trust Co. to be held in trust for Mrs. Anderson.

The bank, Mrs. Anderson and Donald Anderson were named executors.

The majority of the McCurry estate listed in the inventory was in cash—$62,612. Real estate valued at $13,500 was also listed while personal effects accounted for $6,681.

Under the terms of the will, a total of $9,000 was left to one son, John, while another son, Samuel, was given the property at 60 Pleasant St. A daughter Barbara Bartley, received $2,000. Another son, Joseph, received $2,000 and another daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Ritchie, was left $1,000.

The will directed that $20,000 be placed in trust for the education of William McCurry, another son.

The rest of the estate was to be divided equally among the children. Atty. George E. Lesmer was named executor of the will.

In Pierre, S. D., is a 300-acre tract where 250 juvenile boys and girls live.

Sense and Nonsense

TODAY IS OURS

Today is ours—with chance to smile
And make the day a day worth while,
To speak kind words of hope and cheer
To those cast down with care and fear;
To check the frowns at only mar
And leave upon our brow their scars;
Our trivial ills will come to naught
If other's sorrows claim our thought.

Today is ours to boldly dare
To meet our justice and be fair
In all our dealings—at we say,
Now is our hour, now our day.
Only today we can—all our own;
Today is ours, and today alone.

If you think no one listens to family quarrels, you don't know the folks next door.

When King Pyrrhus prepared for his expedition into Italy, his wise counselor, Cyneas, to make him sensible of the vanity of his ambition, said:

"Well, sir, to what end do you make all this mighty preparation?"

"To make myself master of Italy," replied the king.

"And what after that is done?" said Cyneas.

"I will pass over into Gaul and Spain."

"And what then?"

"I will then go and subdue Africa; and lastly, when I have brought the whole world to my subjection, I will sit down an rest content at my own ease," was the triumphant reply of the king.

"Sir!" exclaimed Cyneas, "tell me what hinders that you may not, if you please, begin by the condition you speak of? Why do you not now, at this instant, settle yourself in the state you aim at, and spare all the labor and hazard you interpose?"

If you are having trouble keeping up with the Joneses, think how old man Jones feels.

In an upstate New York town certain busybodies began to carp about the carelessness of the grammar and general diction of the editor of the local weekly newspaper. Having heard echoes of this that dignitary rose at the next town meeting and said, "I hear I been criticized some ewhat by some of you folks for usin' poor grammar. I have three _oc reasons for it. To begin with, I don't know any better; If I did, none of you would know the difference; and more than that, if I spoke and wrote any better than I do, I'd be managing editor of a big New York paper at a decent salary and you farmers would lose the bes. darned editor in Herkimer County.

Funds Unit Votes More for Missiles

erational intercontinental ballistic missile squadron at Cooke Air Force Base in California, and for two overseas IRBM squadrons.

The Navy is allotted $350 million in new cash, of which $90 million is for construction of three atomic submarines capable of firing the Polaris ballistic missile. The committee described the missile-toting subs as "a major deterrent to any nation that threatens the peace and a retaliatory weapon of great magnitude." Actually, it added, the Polaris becomes an intercontinental missile when used for submarines that can sneak within firing range of an enemy shore.

There are no new funds in the bill directly for the Army. Eisenhower asked for no Army money except $133,600,000, allotted to the Air Force, to reimburse the Army for work on the Jupiter Missile. That transfer was approved and the committee directed the Army to use an additional $40 million through transfer of other funds to speed up the Lacrosse, Little John, Sergeant and Pershing Missiles. Eisenhower had not requested this transfer for acceleration of the Army's so-called "second generation" missile program.

The committee approved the President's request that he be allowed to use $10 million of available funds for the new advanced research projects agency (ARPA). It also granted his request for permission to transfer an additional $100 million from other funds into the emergency defense fund for unforeseeable and promising research work. The committee said it expected some of the $100 million to be used to step up the Titan Missile and the anti-missile programs.

In connection with the allotment for the new research projects agency, the committee said there is a "need for clear-cut and coordinated programs" and the past "lack of effective direction and coordination has undoubtedly contributed to the inability of our department (defense) to go forward as rapidly as necessary." It said it had assurance that the director of ARPA "will have authority to act" in order to bring "order and efficiency out of the chaos."

The committee itself described the emergency measure as a bill to "buy time" and emphasized that none of the funds represent restoration of amounts previously denied by Congress.

"Rapid development in recent years of modern weapons," it said, has made this country and our friends and potential enemies much more vulnerable to sudden and destructive attack. We live in an age of ever-increasing danger . . . the momentum of this development must be made promptly. . . . The present requests are conservative in relation to the need in the critical areas to which the supplemental (appropriation) is directed."

Car Destroyed, Garage Burned In Blaze Here

A fire of undetermined origin late yesterday afternoon destroyed a car and the interior of the garage in which it was housed at 945 E. Middle Tpke.

About eight p.m., firemen from Town Fire Department Companies No. 2 and 3 and the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department responded to a call from the old Robertson Farm. They fought the stubborn blaze, in one of the stalls of a multi-stall wooden frame shed, for more than an hour before bringing it under control. The property is owned by Martin E. Robertson, who lives across the street, and is rented by Leo J. Begin.

Fire Chief W. Clifford Mason said that the fire threatened the Begin residence a few feet from the shed, but that it was squelched in time. He said that the car was completely destroyed and the interior of the garage in which it was charred. He could give no estimate of the damage and added that the cause of the blaze is still being investigated.

Mason added that firemen were hampered somewhat by the fact that the shed was locate beyond the main water-line and that two department pumpers had to be used to pump water from a stream, heavy traffic on E. Middle Tpke. and icy roads, he said, was a deterrent to the work.

Bryan Takes Appeal from TPC Decision

A Town Planning Commission decision denying a zone change sought by George Bryan for a 55-acre tract north of Rt. 15 for subdivision purposes has been appealed to the Conn. of Common Pleas in Hartford.

In a legal notice served on Mrs. Dorothy Jacobson, Commission secretary, and notifying her of the impending court action, Bryan claims the Commission "acted illegally, arbitrarily and in abuse of the discretion vested in it," by denying his request.

At a meeting Jan. 6 Bryan had sought to have his property, which adjoins the Bowers Tract, changed from a Rural Zone to an A Zone for subdivision purposes.

At a hearing in Rotenber, Bryan had indicated that he wished to build 150 homes in the area over a period of three to five years. Considerable opposition from the Orchard Hill Assn. formed of nearby residents arose at the time.

In letters to Bryan's attorney at the January meeting, the Commission based its decision on the lack of a sewer system in the area, lack of the Commission ever having felt that the planned subdivision should not have to depend on the septic-tank method of waste disposal if too, were A Zone size. They felt that a had precedent would be set in establishing other subdivisions in outlying areas if the zoning were allowed.

Lone dissenter when the matter was put to the vote was John Bowers, who said he did not feel that the area in question, because of its location, was comparable to other possible outlying subdivision sites.

In the notice served on Mrs. Jacobson, Bryan said he felt his request for re-zoning should have been approved by the Commission because the bordering Bowers tract is zoned as Residence A and that his property forms a logical extension east of the Bower's development.

He also pointed out that development nearby in Birch Wind-sor has homes which have been built and are being built under zoning regulations. These houses are lower in floor area and cost less than those in the Manchester Residence A Zone, he said.

No Access

Bryan said to the south of his land is the Wilbur Cross Parkway to which he has no access and to the east is Statewoned land. "As for his land, he could best be used if it were zoned Residence A.

He said his application for a zone change was made with the intention of conforming to the general purpose and intent of zoning regulations of Manchester and in accordance with the comprehensive plan for the development of the town and that it is designed to protect the town.

A preliminary hearing on the court appeal is set for the first Tuesday in February.

TPC Approves Site Locations

The Town Planning Commission has given its official "go ahead" on four major items expected to be voted on at a referendum Jan. 31.

At a meeting last night in Municipal Building, the Commission approved locations for additions to the Mary Cheney Library, Washington School, and construction of a pump house at the Porter-Howard Reservoir and a swimming pool at Globe Hollow.

A public hearing on the four capital improvement projects will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Bowers School.

Commission approval of the locations chosen was necessary before the proposed construction projects could be voted on at the referendum.

The Commission decided it will not approve the location of the proposed new Buckley School on Tolland Tpke., also scheduled for discussion at the public hearing, until a further study is made and a conference held with Town Engineer James H. Sheehy.

It is anticipated that the Board of Directors will temporarily defer action on the project.

PTA Hears Talk On Medical Care

"What constitutes good medical care and how to get and maintain it," was the subject of Dr. Francis Heitrick's discussion at the meeting of the Lincoln School PTA last night.

In his talk Dr. Heitrick recommended first that each individual have one physician who would be the "health manager," one who can be responsible for integrating the patient's past records and past experiences. It would be the responsibility of this doctor, he said, to recommend further or protect against unnecessary medical care.

Secondly, he advised that an annual physical examination should not be neglected. Through these periodic checkups the doctor is able to maintain the patient's "continuord of the patient's physical and mental status."

Dr. Heitrick pointed out the three aids to which an individual may refer in selecting a well qualified and well trained physician. First, the Directory of Physicians which lists every doctor in the United States and Canada and defines his educational background and experience; second, the list and recommendation of other professional men in the community, and third, the recommendation of friends or the local hospital staff.

Mrs. Edgar Clarke presided over the business meeting during which Nathan Cooley, principal, welcomed the large group and extended to the parents an invitation to confer with the teachers as to the progress and development of their children. He stressed the fact that there are no problem children, only children with problems."

Mrs. Albert Stevenson and her committee served sandwiches and coffee in the cafeteria at the close of the meeting.

Political Figure Drops Dead Here

William B. Geary Sr., 61, of 410 Burnside Ave., East Hartford, a former candidate for mayor of East Hartford for the past 25 years, died suddenly in the Manchester Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon after suffering a heart attack in a parkade store.

About 5:30 p.m. police responded to an ambulance and an inhalator. Geary was taken to the hospital but was dead upon arrival a hospital official said. Dr. Robert E. Kenney, medical examiner, told police that Geary died of a "coronary attack" which struck him without warning.

A native of Walpole, Mass., the deceased had resided in Hartford for 15 years before moving to East Hartford. He was active in Democratic party affairs in that town and served two terms as town councilman. He was a former chairman of the town building committee, and served as chairman of a former member of the East Hartford ordinance committee.

He is survived by his wife, three sons and a daughter. Funeral arrangements will be held in East Hartford Thursday.

Rockville

Driver Injured In 1-Car Crash

John H. Chipman Jr., 21, of 95 W. Main St., Rockville, was treated at Rockville City Hospital late last night for injuries received when his auto skidded into a railroad bridge abutment on Filter Bed Rd.

State Policeman Joseph Bagasser and Frank Shay of the "Hazardous Springs" barracks said Chipman car rounded a curve on Rt. 30 road, spun around on icy pavement to the shoulder and then plowed into a snow bank. He was warned by a driving too fast for condition of the highway.

His car was extensively damaged. Police said Chipman was released from the hospital after treatment.

Nimitz Urges 3-Man Joint Chiefs of Staff

intercontinental ballistic missile.

Quarles said: "There is nothing Congress can do beyond the appropriation of the funds that we have asked for."

Quarles said the United States has lagged in missile-satellite development because a low priority was given the programs from 1946 to about 4½ years ago.

Quarles was questioned too as to what authority has been given to Dr. James Killian, special assistant for scientific matters to the President.

Quarles said that technically Killian has no decision-making authority but must go to the President. But he said it would be misleading to say Killian "has no authority," adding:

"I am sure that if he were sure something needed to be done he would get backing to have it done. So that is kind of an authority—a hidden big stick, if you like."

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, which Nimitz proposed to shake up, now consists of the chief of staff of the Army, the chief of staff of the Air Force and the chief of naval operations plus a chairman. In addition, the commandant of the Marine Corps sits in on consideration of matters of major importance to the Marines.

Tonight, the Board is to set a date for a hearing on the transfer of $15,000 from the Water Department extensions and improvement account to its operations account. This transfer is needed because of extra costs of pumping during the night in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Another hearing is to be set on a transfer of $1,000 from the Sewer Department extensions and improvements account to its operations account. This money is needed to pay insurance costs, Martin said. On Nov. 19, the Directors approved a similar transfer, of $1,800, to pay for Sewer Department insurance.

Of the $1,500, a total of $1,208.37 has been spent and bills are due for another $1,027.16, according to the Water and Sewer Department.

Sewer Department insurance costs have risen with a plant opened last year.

The Board will also act on authorizing the manager to accept a quitclaim deed from Tumbledown Acres, Inc., on Frances Dr. property.

Rate Increase Would Affect Area Users of Hartford Gas

A proposed rate increase which will run about one cent a day was filed by the Hartford Gas Co. yesterday with the State Public Utilities Commission.

If approved, the hike will affect only a portion of the 7,200 users living in the Manchester-Glastonbury area and, oddly enough, some of these may find themselves paying less than they did before.

W. F. Jebb, company president, said the rate hike would yield about $250,000 in additional gross annual revenue from the company's 70,000 customers.

Ralph Kryzak, manager of the local office, explained some customers in the Manchester-Glastonbury area would be paying about 35 cents a month more—giving the gas company approximately $30,000 more annual income. Approximately 6,000 users in the area live in Manchester.

Practically the entire amount, however, Kryzak said, will come right back in the form of reduced rates to 36,000 customers in the area who formerly paid a surcharge for the use of the gas. About 5,000 of these live here.

Drop Surcharge

When announcing the proposed hike, Jebb had also announced the dropping of the surcharge of 15 cents per 100 cubic feet of gas for users in Manchester and Glastonbury.

This means, Kryzak said, that the proposed rate hike will be countered by the dropping of the surcharge rate.

"It's like taking the money out of one pocket and putting it in another," he said. The $50,000 expected from the increased rate will go into the company coffers but then will be taken right back out again by the loss of revenue from the surcharge rate.

Kryzak said the surcharge rate is no longer necessary because natural gas is now largely in use and the company doesn't need to maintain pumping equipment as it did in the past.

The company's last increase was granted in 1949. Since that time, Jebb said, increased wages, rising operating costs and taxes have led to the decision to ask for a rate hike.

The company president, however, also hinted at a possible rate reduction in the future, after the company's already started construction of straight natural gas service is completed by late 1959.

He said most of the operating cost increase of the past eight years have been offset partly by the economies gained in the use of natural gas, the steady increase in volumes of gas sold and improved operating efficiencies.

Proposed Rates

Here are the proposed monthly meter rates for residential customers with one gas appliance.

First 200 cubic feet or less will cost 22.5 cents per 100 cubic feet; next 1,600 cubic feet 19.5 cents per 100; next 30,000 cubic feet, 17.1 cents per 100; next 33,300 cubic feet, 15.6 cents per 100.

Monthly meter rates for gas customers using a combination of gas range and gas refrigerator, or gas range and fully automatic water heater, or gas refrigerator and fully automatic water heater would be:

First 200 cubic feet or less will cost $1.50; next 700 feet, 22.5 cents per 100; next 700 feet, 19 cents; next 31,700 feet, 16.3; over 33,100 feet, 14.8 cents.

Proposed commercial monthly rates begin at $2 for the first 200 cubic feet or less. Thereafter, next 500 feet, 22.5 cents;

Coliseum Under Fire By Baseball Pitchers

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Roy Campanella tried to soothe nervous National League pitchers today, claiming the Los Angeles Coliseum "will be a better pitchers' ball park" than Cincinnati's Crosley Field or Philadelphia's Connie Mack Stadium.

Meanwhile, some of the league's best pitchers ranted that the Dodgers' new playing field and its 250-foot left field foul line was "ridiculous" and a "big farce."

Campanella, who has hit more home runs than any other National League catcher, agreed with Commissioner Fred Frick that the brief foul lines will add little to the pitchers' burden against the Dodgers.

"The batter will have to pull the ball right quick and sharply to get it over the line and over the 40-foot wall," said the burly Dodger backstop. "I believe there will be more home runs hit in Philly and Cincinnati than in the Coliseum. It'll be a better pitchers' ball park than those two and a couple of others in the league."

Mark Not in Danger

Frick said:

"I do not think Babe Ruth's record is in particular danger. Foul lines are not especially important where home runs are concerned. The rest of the wall in right center, left center and dead center determines whether you'll get a lot of homers."

According to Dodger plans, the Coliseum field will be bounded by the short left field line (bulwarked by a 40-foot wall). The right field line will measure 300 feet from home plate. Deepest center field will be 440 feet at its farthest point.

Left, center and right field measurements at Crosley Field are 328 feet, 387 and 342; at Connie Mack Stadium, 334, 447, 329.

But Johnny Antonelli, San Francisco Giant lefty, said "It's the biggest farce I ever heard of." When Antonelli pitched in New York with the Giants, he appeared in the Polo Grounds where right field line extended 259 feet from the plate.

"It's ridiculous," said Bob Friend, Pittsburgh Pirates' pitcher.

Eagles Move Games

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League will play their 1958 home games at the University of Pennsylvania's 68,000 seat Franklin Field. Since 1940, the Eagles have played NFL games at Connie Mack Stadium with a football seating capacity of about 35,000. Frank McNamee, president of the Eagles, said the move will provide pro football fans in this area with better seating and parking facilities.

Mackay Ousted Leaving Green Lone U.S. Hope

Sydney, Jan. 21 (AP)—Big Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, American's chief threat, was eliminated today in the second round of the Australian National Tennis Championships, leaving Mike Green of Miami as the lone U.S. player in the quarter-finals.

Mackay, who was especially impressive against the top seeded in the Davis Cup Challenge Round, lost to Ray Emerson of the home forces, 6-4, 4-6, 9-7, 9-7.

Before Mackay's loss, Green, another of America's young aces, turned on Rod Laver and ousted the 19-year-old redhead 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. 6-4. Laver held the U.S. junior championship in 1956.

Australia's big guns—Ashley Cooper, Mal Anderson, Neale Fraser and Mervyn Rose—moved into the quarter-finals with straight set victories. All eliminated countrymen.

Results

Defending Champion Cooper dashed John Pearce, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0. Anderson outplayed Barry Phillips-Moore, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2. Fraser knocked off junior Martin Mulligan, 9-7, 9-7, 6-2. Rose eliminated Warren Woodcock, 6-4, 6-3, 7-5.

Other quarter-finalists are Australians Rod Hewitt and South African's Trevor Fancutt. Hewe defeated Graham Lovett, another Aussie, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2, and Fancutt outlasted Bob Mark, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 12-10, 10-8.

Green faces one of the toughest tests of his career in the quarter-finals Thursday. He meets Cooper.

Laver pulled into a 3-0 lead in the first set and had Green backtracking, but the American stepped up the pace in the second and third sets, repeatedly forcing Laver into errors.

With the score at 4-4 in the fourth set, Laver needed to hold service, but Green passed him as he came to the net and then held his own serve to close out the match.

Spider Webb Stops Calhoun In Four Heats

San Francisco, Jan. 21 (AP)—One mistake and a highly-touted beat if they are to retain the National League pennant. The source for this information was lanky Ernie Johnson, pride of Brattleboro, Vt., and one of the Milwaukee Braves who distinguished himself in the 1957 World Series against the Yankees. Handsome Ernie, one-time professional basketball player in Manchester, will wind up his two-day guest appearance stint at the Connecticut Sportsmen's and Boat Show tonight at the Hartford Armory.

Johnson is sharing top billing with a dog, the nationally famous Rin-Tin-Tin of movie and teevee fame with Lt. Rip Masterson, co-star on the Rin-Tin-Tin series.

How does Johnson feel about the Eastern clubs going West?

"I think the Dodgers should have had a park lined up before they made the move. I know that it gets real cold at night in San Francisco and there are bound to be many problems. The people on the West Coast deserve a team. But it makes for a lot of flying and I'm not too keen on flying. I do because it's my business but I prefer other means of travel."

Was the only Vermont native in the major leagues thrilled at being in a World Series?

"I sure was. It's not just another game. The atmosphere is entirely different than during the regular season. There are 70,000 people in the stands (meaning New York) and you pitch against different batters. You are nervous, I know that I was.

"When I was called in from the bullpen the first time the fellows on the bench kidded me about how fast I had jumped over the fence to the outfield. They also thought that I had walked in a little faster than usual to the mound. Guess they were right. I had not been never been in a Series game and I didn't want to let down my teammates. Anyway anyone who thinks he can change his mound after he is called for me. After a couple of pitches I felt great. Don't let anyone tell you that he isn't a little nervous. It's only human. It certainly was a big thrill. Johnson was the pitcher in all three relief appearances against the Yanks.

He pitched one complete game in the Series. He's not sure he has a real good chance and Fred Hutchinson is a tough manager to fool.

"There are four or five solid clubs in the National League. St. Louis, Brooklyn (He's not sure of saying Los Angeles), Cincinnati and the Braves. The Yankees, if they were in our league, wouldn't have any easy time winning."

Would the Braves have won the Series without Red Schoendienst? This question was popped during an interview with Johnson yesterday noon at the Hartford Armory.

"We wouldn't have made it without Red. Not to take anything away from the other fellows. There is only one Schoendienst," he answered. Red was acquired late in the season from the New York Giants at midseason and the freckled faced second baseman was a standout in Bradenville during the balance of the season.

"Red is always thinking. He's hit over .300 for you and he comes up with one great play after another. And on top of it, he's a great guy," he told the members of the Connecticut Sports Writers' Alliance.

Known as a notoriously poor hitter, as are 90 per cent of the pitchers, the former Hartford Eastern League righthander bemoaned the fact the Braves wouldn't be playing in the Polo Grounds any more. "The first home run I ever hit in organized ball came last year at the Polo Grounds and it wasn't any fluke down the foul line," he added. Johnson, who was signed by the Boston Braves out of Brattleboro High, pitched for Hartford in his pro debut at the age of 18. He is now starting his 13th season, counting three years in the Marine Corps.

"I'll be shooting for the fence in Los Angeles," he told his listeners. The new L.A. Park in the Coliseum will be the shortest in the majors.

Pair of Top Ranked Quintets Suffer Unexpected Setbacks

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—If West Virginia's top-ranked Mountaineers and second-rankers in the Associated Press' new weekly top 10 of college basketball are grateful today to be involved in mid-term exams, it's little wonder.

Last night was a night for giant-killers and no night for a highly-rated club to be leaving the classroom for tests of a different sort on the basketball court.

Two members of the new lineup of the nation's elite, sixth-ranked Maryland, and 10th-rated Bradley, learned the hard way—Maryland as it was bounced out of the Atlantic Coast Conference leadership by North Carolina State, 57-48, and Bradley in a shocking 58-50 loss to unsung Portland.

The eight others, and most of the nation's major clubs, are out of competition at least until Saturday when they concentrate on examinations.

In addition to West Virginia, again a romping winner in the AP poll with 925 points to 728 for runnerup Kansas, they include Kansas State, No. 3, Cincinnati, No. 4, San Francisco, No. 5, Oklahoma State, No. 7, North Carolina, No. 8, and Kentucky, again No. 9.

Even the second 10 had its hazards, with 15th-rated Michigan State, the Big 10 favorite, solidly whipped by Wisconsin 66-52.

North Carolina State, creating a tie with North Carolina for the lead in the ACC, threw a zone defense against Maryland that limited the Terps to only six field goals in 30 attempts in the second half. The Wolfpack went all the way with its five starters with Bob MacGillivray leading the attack with 19 points.

Cincinnati, coached by Ed Jucker, combined for 40 points in Pittsburgh's upset of Bradley, losing its third in 13 games. Bradley pulled within one point with 85 seconds left but Jaley and Armstrong split four free throws to clinch the victory. Portland's ninth in 16 starts.

Walt Holt scored 22 for Wisconsin against Michigan State, which lost a game to the idle Michigan for the Big 10 lead. Ohio State, with 6-7 Frank Howard netting 27, downed Iowa 70-64 in another Big 10 game.

Tennessee, 16th ranked nationally, routed Sewanee 92-39 to push its record to 12-2 and Georgia Tech downed Georgia 72-59 in a game that does not count in the Southeastern Conference standings.

Pittsburgh's Don Hennon, moving into fourth place in the national scoring race with a 26-point average, hit 34 in an 86-68 victory over Carnegie Tech. Another of the nation's leaders, Seattle's Elgin Baylor counted 24 in his team's 75-53 romp over Gonzaga and his season's average dropped to 30.2.

Idle Kansas State (2-0) assumed the lead in the Big Eight Conference as Iowa State lost to Colorado 45-56 for a 2-1 record. Oregon State stayed close to co-leaders California and UCLA in the Pacific Coast Conference race, defeating Stanford 68-58. Five players scored in double figures as VMI downed Randolph-Macon 68-52 and Ducky Castelle and Joe Viviano split 46 points in leading Xavier of Ohio over Western Kentucky, 102-76.

Basketball

Y MIDGET LEAGUE

Two games were played in the Y Midget Basketball League last night. The Elks continue to pace the field as they romped to their 6th win of the season, beating Wyman Steel 54-18. The Manchester Auto Parts picked up their third triumph against the cellar-dwelling Cycle Shop 24-19.

Fred McCurry, the backbone of the Elks, led his team with 13 points and his teamplay and aggressiveness was too much for the Fustmen. Bob Hamilton, Tom Andreoli and Dick Klein teamed up with McCurry to account for the one-sided victory. Cris Wollenberg, Ron Brannick, Bill Whitesell and Mal Rhines played well for the losers.

Jim Smith of the Auto Parts proved again that size does not count too much as he potured in half of the Partsmen's 24 points to lead them to their victory. Ken Salo helped in the scoring and Brian Fogarty, Gary Meachan and Guy Abrahamson easily got their share of rebounds and played good floor games. The Cyclists put on a late period scoring drive that fell short. They were led by Paul Quiatkiewicz, Roger Macaione, Mark Shepiorf and Jim Blanchfield.

Due to the rapidly mounting of the game Thursday night the game between Keith's and Fletcher Glass has been postponed and will be played at a later date.

POLICE & FIRE

Sparked by Ernie Pecoraro Kasavage the caller-dwelling Engines dealt the Chiefs a hard blow with an upset 25-23 win in the Police and Firemen's Midget League at the East Side Rec last night.

The determined Engines, who had fared well in games since the season's opener, came bounding back to knock the Chiefs out of first place in the race for the flag. The Engines, who showed plenty of spirit, jumped from a 8-0 lead at the end of the first period and then held a commanding lead throughout the remainder of the contest.

Kasavage, who played his best game of the year, led the attack with 15 points and also did a fine job of rebounding. Little John Nicotra added 12 markers for six points for the winners. For the losing Chiefs aggressive Randy Smith was high by point-getter with eight markers.

REC SENIOR LEAGUE

Because of a mixup in the schedule there were no games played last night. Instead two makeup contests have been rescheduled for next Monday night at the high school with the Chatterbox Restaurant meeting the All-Stars in the opener at 7 o'clock and Manchester Sales and Appliance engaging Manchester Trust in the All-Stars and Manchester Trust in the nightcap.

Herm's	2	6	.250

Personalized Floors continue to show improvement under Coach Doug Avery. They pulled out a hard-fought 42-43 victory over a scrappy West Side five last night. Phil McGehan, with 16 points, sparked the Floormen and was ably assisted by Dick Avery with eight and Dick Sylvester with seven points.

In the second game House and Hale walloped Herm's Camera by a 47-17 score. The winners were led by Greg Manchuck with 16 tallies and Bill Belekwicz with 18. Ronnie Puckett was best for Herm's with seven points while Joe Camposeo played a good floor game.

BUSINESSMEN'S LEAGUE

Led by Jack Boothby the league-leading North End Wrecks crushed Herm's Camera Shop 59-41 in a Businessmen's League game at the East Side Rec last night.

The North Enders held on to their slim first place lead as they defeated Herms' in a game that found 36 personals called. With the score knotted at 13-all at the end of the first period, the winners broke loose to take a 26-18 lead at the end of the first half and then held a commanding lead thereafter.

While Boothby found the range for 29 points, Harry Eggleson chipped in with 12 tallies. For the losing Cameramen, Bud Kelsey and Ed McCarthy teamed up to scope 13 points each.

Banquet Trail More Rugged Than Fighting

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—Carmen Basilio today showed away the S. Rae Hickok $10,000 pro athlete of the year award in his bulging trophy case and headed into the final week of his busy coast-to-coast banquet tour. "I think this is more rugged than fighting," said the affable middleweight boxing champion. "But it's great too. It means I've made it.

"I'll say this, though, I'll be glad when it's over so I can get to work training in Miami Beach for the return fight with Sugar Ray Robinson. Training will be a rest in a way."

Narrow Decision Triumph

The Basilio-Robinson return, is scheduled for Chicago March 23.

It was Basilio's narrow decision triumph over aging Sugar Ray in a thriller last Sept. 23 that earned the 30-year-old ex-Marine the hefty diamond-studded gold buckle belt that goes to the winner of the pro athlete of the year poll.

Basilio edged out two baseball luminaries, Milwaukee's Lew Burdette and 36-year-old Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox in the voting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

The gritty little champ collected 218 points to Mr. Burdette's, who pitched three complete winning jobs in the World Series, for 195 points. Williams trailed Basilio by 88½ points. Others who received votes on a 3-2-1 basis for first, second and third place were Jim Brown, Jim Ryun and Bill Belichick.

Led Majors in Hitting

Basilio received 17 first place votes, Burdette had 32 firsts and 186 points, Williams, who led the majors in hitting with a .388 batting average was third.

"I'm happy for him, hardly wait to start training," said Carmen. "I'm anxious to get at Robinson. I'm going to beat him but I want to make it more decisive this time.

"I learned something about him last time and I'm sure he learned something about me, too. I think I learned a little more than he did.

"What he learned, he wouldn't say, naturally.

"I hope to show you in the ring," he said.

Cards, Not Dodgers, Big Threat

St. Louis, and not the Brooklyn, oops, Los Angeles Dodgers, will be the team the Milwaukee Braves must beat if they are to retain the National League pennant. The source for this information was lanky Ernie Johnson, pride of Brattleboro, Vt., and one of the Milwaukee Braves who distinguished himself in the 1957 World Series against the Yankees. Handsome Ernie, one-time professional basketball player in Manchester, will wind up his two-day guest appearance stint at the Connecticut Sportsmen's and Boat Show tonight at the Hartford Armory.

Johnson is sharing top billing with a dog, the nationally famous Rin-Tin-Tin of movie and teevee fame with Lt. Rip Masterson, co-star on the Rin-Tin-Tin series.

How does Johnson feel about the Eastern clubs going West?

"I think the Dodgers should have had a park lined up before they made the move. I know that it gets real cold at night in San Francisco and there are bound to be many problems. The people on the West Coast deserve a team. But it makes for a lot of flying and I'm not too keen on flying. I do because it's my business but I prefer other means of travel."

Was the only Vermont native in the major leagues thrilled at being in a World Series?

"I sure was. It's not just another game. The atmosphere is entirely different than during the regular season. There are 70,000 people in the stands (meaning New York) and you pitch against different batters. You are nervous, I know that I was.

"When I was called in from the bullpen the first time the fellows on the bench kidded me about how fast I had jumped over the fence to the outfield. They also thought that I had walked in a little faster than usual to the mound. Guess they were right. I had not been never been in a Series game and I didn't want to let down my teammates. Anyway anyone who thinks he can change his mound after he is called for me. After a couple of pitches I felt great. Don't let anyone tell you that he isn't a little nervous. It's only human. It certainly was a big thrill."

Johnson was the pitcher in all three relief appearances against the Yanks.

He pitched one complete game in the Series. He's not sure he has a real good chance and Fred Hutchinson is a tough manager to fool.

"There are four or five solid clubs in the National League. St. Louis, Brooklyn (He's not sure of saying Los Angeles), Cincinnati and the Braves. The Yankees, if they were in our league, wouldn't have any easy time winning."

Would the Braves have won the Series without Red Schoendienst? This question was popped during an interview with Johnson yesterday noon at the Hartford Armory.

"We wouldn't have made it without Red. Not to take anything away from the other fellows. There is only one Schoendienst," he answered. Red was acquired late in the season from the New York Giants at midseason and the freckled faced second baseman was a standout in Bradenville during the balance of the season.

"Red is always thinking. He's hit over .300 for you and he comes up with one great play after another. And on top of it, he's a great guy," he told the members of the Connecticut Sports Writers' Alliance.

Known as a notoriously poor hitter, as are 90 per cent of the pitchers, the former Hartford Eastern League righthander bemoaned the fact the Braves wouldn't be playing in the Polo Grounds any more. "The first home run I ever hit in organized ball came last year at the Polo Grounds and it wasn't any fluke down the foul line," he added. Johnson, who was signed by the Boston Braves out of Brattleboro High, pitched for Hartford in his pro debut at the age of 18. He is now starting his 13th season, counting three years in the Marine Corps.

"I'll be shooting for the fence in Los Angeles," he told his listeners. The new L.A. Park in the Coliseum will be the shortest in the majors.

Boxing Managers Call for Showdown

Mackey and Moore Ignore Challenges

Hartford, Jan. 21 (AP)—Promoters of the Carmen Basilio-Gaspar Ortega welterweight boxing match in Hartford March 17 as heavyweight champion if Floyd Patterson refuses a showdown with Machen of Redding, Calif., and Foley of Chandler, Ariz., the No. 1 and No. 2 ranked contenders, yesterday signed for a non-title televised 12-rounder at the Cow Palace.

That signing came just 19 days after NBA Secretary Fred Saddy proposed such a match to determine a title challenger.

Sid Flaherty, who manages Machen, said the NBA statement was "a joke" and he wasn't going into this fight. I see no reason why they won't stand up for us here."

'Whipping Boys'

Flaherty said further, "I think Ortega is using the IBC and Jim Norris (its president) as whipping boys to avoid all the good fighters. The top four or five all have signed with the IBC at some time in the past."

The March 17 bout is under the promotion of Abe Saperstein and Jim Punaro (who have promoted several shows here during the past few years). Tonight's Rory Calhoun-Spide Webb middleweight bout.

Both Flaherty and Bill Swift, promoter of the Cow Palace Championship that last three years, ignore the challenge of Tommy Moore, 147, Philadelphia, 4.

Las Vegas — Del Flanagan, 151, St. Paul, Minn., outpointed Chato Hernandez, 160, Juarez, Mexico, 10.

NBC Asked To Weigh Future Bout

San Francisco, Jan. 21 (AP)—Managers of Eddie Machen and Zora Folley today called for the National Boxing Assn. to recognize the winner of their bout here March 17 as heavyweight champion if Floyd Patterson refuses a showdown.

Machen of Redding, Calif., and Folley of Chandler, Ariz., the No. 1 and No. 2 ranked contenders, yesterday signed for a non-title televised 12-rounder at the Cow Palace.

That signing came just 19 days after NBA Secretary Fred Saddy proposed such a match to determine a title challenger.

Sid Flaherty, who manages Machen, said the NBA statement was "a joke" and he wasn't going into this fight. I see no reason why they won't stand up for us here."

'Whipping Boys'

Flaherty said further, "I think Ortega is using the IBC and Jim Norris (its president) as whipping boys to avoid all the good fighters. The top four or five all have signed with the IBC at some time in the past."

The March 17 bout is under the promotion of Abe Saperstein and Jim Punaro (who have promoted several shows here during the past few years). Tonight's Rory Calhoun-Spide Webb middleweight bout.

Both Flaherty and Bill Swift, promoter of the Cow Palace Championship that last three years, ignore the challenge of Tommy Moore, 147, Philadelphia, 4.

The other East starters are Bob Foxy and Bill Sharman of Boston, Willie Naulls of New York and Dolph Schayes of Syracuse, a 9-year NBA veteran who ranks as the league's top all-time scorer.

In the West's starting lineup will be Maravich's own Bob Pettit and Slater Martin of the St. Louis Hawks, Maurice Stokes of Cincinnati, Dick Garmaker of Minneapolis, and George Yardley of Detroit, the NBA's current top scorer with a 27.7 average.

Comes to Have Hand X-rayed After Knocking Out Smith

New York, Jan. 21 (AP) — Harold Gomes, Providence featherweight will have an x-ray of his injured right hand today before he plans any future bouts.

Gomes, 131¼, injured the hand last night while knocking out Harold Smith of Washington, D. C., in 59 seconds of the seventh round at St. Nicholas Arena.

It was Gomes' first fight after a five-month layoff since his unbeaten string of 13 was snapped by Isidro Martinez in August.

Smith, 133¼, a Washington rookie, was fighting his first main event as a sub for Gil Cadilli who had to pull out of the match because of an eye cut.

Gomes dropped Smith in the sixth round and the count reached six before the bell rang. A right to the jaw dumped Smith again early in the seventh. Referee Dave Feld started to count and then bent over to assist Smith. Feld ruled it a knockout "although he didn't go through the formality of a 10-count."

After examination in the dressing room, Dr. Samuel Ostrofsky of the New York State Athletic Commission said Smith was "perfectly fit both physically and neurologically."

Judges Nick Gamboli and Leo Birnbaum scored it even 3-3 through six rounds. Referee Feld had Gomes, a 3 to 1 favorite, ahead 4-1. Gomes had been officially called the fifth for a low blow.

A crowd of 1,152 paid $1,850 to see the bout, televised in some sections.

West Hopes to Run Against East Five

St. Louis, Jan. 21 (AP)—The West hopes to run all the time and keep a favored East team off balance in the annual National Basketball Assn. All-Star game tonight at the St. Louis Arena. That is the plan of Alex Hannum, coach of the West.

He admits the East teams, coached by his bitter rival, Red Auerbach of Boston, holds an edge in size, experience and scoring power.

Auerbach will have three members of his own Boston Celtics on the starting East five chosen by sportswriters and broadcasters.

One is 6-foot-10 Bill Russell, the tallest man on either squad and the NBA's top rebounder and shot-blocker. If Russell gobbles up rebounds in his usual manner, the West may find it hard to keep its running game going.

Foust May Start

Hannum's answer to Russell may be 6-foot-8, 230-pound Larry Foust of Minneapolis, who wasn't named to the starting five. Hannum said he is impressed with Foust's defensive jobs against Russell this season.

The other East starters are Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman of Boston, Willie Naulls of New York and Dolph Schayes of Syracuse, a 9-year NBA veteran who ranks as the league's top all-time scorer.

In the West's starting lineup will be Hannum's own Bob Pettit and Slater Martin of the St. Louis Hawks, Maurice Stokes of Cincinnati, Dick Garmaker of Minneapolis, and George Yardley of Detroit, the NBA's current top scorer with a 27.7 average.

Yardley Snaps Out of Slump To Take Lead

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Detroit's George Yardley, breaking a slight slump, whipped in 167 points in five games last week to take a 100-point lead over Dolph Schayes of Syracuse in the National Basketball Assn.'s scoring race.

With a 27.3 average for 44 games, Yardley has one of the top averages ever as the NBA season reaches its annual peak for the All-Star game.

Official statistics from the league today show Yardley with 1,201 points to 1,101 for Schayes, who has a 25 point per game average. Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks slipped through perhaps by a wrist injury, follows in third place with 1,049 points in 42 games, a 25 point average.

Included in Yardley's output were 53 points in a game against Boston last Wednesday against Boston, matching the season's top figure set by Pettit against Syracuse on Dec. 14.

Second to Mikan Mark

His 27.3 average at the All-Star break is second only to the 27.4 mark George Mikan carried into the first NBA All-Star game in 1951. Last year Pettit held a 27.3 average at game time.

Cincinnati's Jack Twyman, who will play for the Western All-Stars in the game at St. Louis tonight, is the league leader in field goal percentage with .490 on 284 field goals out of 581 shots. New York's Ray Felix follows with .454 and teammate Ken Sears with .452. Schayes is the leader in free throw accuracy with 377 out of 417 for a .904 percentage. Bill Russell of Boston still leads in rebounds with a per game average of 23.4 and Dick McGuire of Detroit in assists with 256 in 41 games.

STREAK IN REVERSE

Winston-Salem, N. C. (AP)—When the Wake Forest Deacons, this 1958 football campaign it will start with a 12-game losing streak. Besides losing all 10 games last season the Deacons lost their last two contests in 1956. Last year they tallied only 64 points in 10 games. Their rivals made 225 points.

New Big Fella

The New York Yankees see a big fellow who can hit a big hitter. In his first full season organized baseball, the 19-year-old outfielder led the Eastern League with 26 home runs.

Dickie Moore and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion each picked up two points in three games with Henri (Rocket Rocket) Richard, sidelined the two games because of an injury, nevertheless gathered in three points to hang on to the runnerup spot behind Moore.

The Montreal trio all kept ahead of their closest pursuers. Behind them there were only minor changes in the individual official standings.

Moore and Geoffrion each clicked for three goals and two assists. Moore's five points boosted his total to 56. The Little Rocket with a goal and two assists in his single game, followed with 52. Geoffrion is in third place with 49. Alta 26 goals top the league's scorers. Moore and Camille Henry of the New York Rangers are closest with 24.

Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings failed to score but picked up two assists and moved into a fourth-place tie at 45 points with Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins, who had a one-one count.

Tony DeMarco Seeks Revenge Against Akins

Boston, Jan. 21 (AP) — Cagey Virgil Akins and tough Tony DeMarco, a pair of explosive punchers campaigning for the welterweight title, meet again tonight in a scheduled 15-round rematch of one of Boston's most spectacular ring brawls.

The second meeting of the fighting church deacon from St. Louis and the blocky slugger from Boston shapes up as another slugfest with both confidently predicting an impressive victory.

"Tony is a tough fighter with a lot of guts, but I should have an easier time," said the 29-year-old Akins who knocked out De Marco in the 14th round three months ago.

"I'm going to knock him out," said the 26-year-old De Marco who never before has publicly made such a prediction.

Even-Money Choice

Despite his triumph last October, Akins is expected to enter the ring no better than an even-money choice because of the Massachusetts version of the welterweight champ's ability he won by knocking out De Marco.

Akins, who is expected to become the first battler to stop De Marco in two bouts since Carmen Basilio in 1955, has trained a little more for Marco and then successfully defended his title against the 147-pound championship contender Carmelo Costa. Jackson for the middleweight crown last September.

Promoter John Buckley expects a crowd of some 11,000 and a gate of about $75,000 for the entertainment which, like the first, will not be shown on closed-circuit TV. The first drew 9,688, who paid $62,608.

Canadiens' Line Ups Production

Montreal, Jan. 21 (AP) — Despite the temporary loss of one of its number, the Montreal Canadiens' high-scoring No. 1 forward line continued today to make the opposing goalies pick up the pucks.

Dickie Moore and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion each picked up two points in three games with Henri (Rocket Rocket) Richard, sidelined the two games because of an injury, nevertheless gathered in three points to hang on to the runnerup spot behind Moore.

The Montreal trio all kept ahead of their closest pursuers. Behind them there were only minor changes in the individual official standings.

Moore and Geoffrion each clicked for three goals and two assists. Moore's five points boosted his total to 56. The Little Rocket with a goal and two assists in his single game, followed with 52. Geoffrion is in third place with 49. Alta 26 goals top the league's scorers. Moore and Camille Henry of the New York Rangers are closest with 24.

Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings failed to score but picked up two assists and moved into a fourth-place tie at 45 points with Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins, who had a one-one count.

Paul Cervini

In Paul Cervini, Manchester has a collector of revenue who takes his job of getting the money to run the town government with great gravity.

A sturdy little man, Cervini stands four-square behind the collector's window on the first floor of the Municipal Building.

With two full-time helpers and a part-time clerk, he sends out the tax notices, keeps a running tabulation of payments and non-payments, and collects an average of 99 per cent of the taxes levied, an excellent record.

Polite and pleasant to his "customers," he is careful to remind them when their money is due.

All the money that comes into the town goes through Cervini's cash register. Each month, he makes a public report on revenues collected, not only through taxes but also through State aid funds, water and sewer fees, parking meters, town court fines, and other sources.

Born in New York, Cervini came to Manchester in 1909 at the age of one. As a young man, he was a well-known local baseball player. He married the former Mary V. Limerick and now lives with his wife at 71 Main St. They have one daughter, Mrs. Berenice Poucher, still a Manchester resident.

When Cervini joined the town as Water Department accountant in 1940, he had a record of 23 years of work already behind him.

Eighteen of these years he had spent at Cheney Bros., where he was time keeper, time study man and cost accountant. Five had been spent at Steiger's in Hartford, where he was purchasing agent and foreman of the receiving and marketing department.

Before 1931, when he became collector of revenue, he had also served in several offices with the Eighth, School and Utilities District. A fire department member for 33 years, he is now treasurer of the 8th District Fire Department in the North End.

When Cervini took over as tax collector, there were 18,000 tax accounts. Seven years later, he is keeping the records on more than 25,000. If they stop there, he'll be surprised.

Zero Weather

really tests your water heater
This is the time of year when lots of folks switch to ELECTRIC water heating to be sure of plenty of hot, clean water at the touch of the tap.
In cold weather, the old water heater just can't take the extra load of icy water and the increased demand for really hot water.
This is the time when they come to realize that they have used their old water heater too long. They discover that they weren't really satisfied with it . . . just used to the old thing.
A switch to electric water heating means plenty of sparkling clean hot water (no rust) . . . lots of water (for everyone, all day) . . . really hot water (hot enough to cut grease and dirt) and automatic (worry-free) operation for years and years.

Sen. Finney Seen GOP Nominee for Secretary of State

Hartford, Jan. 22 (AP)—State Sen. Florence D. Finney of Greenwich, only member of the distaff side in the upper house, today was being mentioned in top GOP circles as the party's possible nominee for secretary of state.

The Greenwich lawmaker's name entered the picture only a few hours after Secretary of State Mildred P. Allen of Hartford rocked the party by announcing that she would not seek renomination at the June state convention.

A member of the General Assembly since 1949, Mrs. Finney is recognized for her demonstrated ability and is a popular figure among the Republican women of the state.

Mrs. Finney, reached at her home, said:

"I can't comment at this time because I was not sure until now that Mildred Allen would not run. I think she has made a wonderful secretary of state. I'd like to be sure first that the party is interested in my running because I even think about it. I really think this is the kind of thing that has to be thought over very carefully because of the 4-year term.

Another possibility being discussed for the post being vacated by Mrs. Allen was Mrs. Anna-Mae Switaski of New Britain, state chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

However, it is recalled that Mrs. Switaski declined to consider the post in 1954, when Mrs. Allen accepted the equivalent to a draft for

Big Profits Held Peril By Reuther

Detroit, Jan. 22 (AP)—Walter P. Reuther told a special convention of the United Auto Workers today that big corporations are putting the nation's economy in peril because "they take so much" in profits.

The UAW president said the union was proposing a profit-sharing plan because "million of families lack purchasing power."

Keynoting the convention of 2,000 delegates in Masonic Temple, Reuther declared "we are fighting for realistic economic policies."

Declaring there is a "serious imbalance" between production and purchasing power, Reuther said "we are in trouble in 1958 for the same basic reasons we were in trouble in 1929."

Reuther opened with an attack on Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz). He quoted Goldwater as saying here in a speech Monday night that he considered the UAW, because of its political activity, more dangerous than the sputniks. Reuther said "anybody who says that is mentally unbalanced and needs a psychiatrist."

He added "They're really mad because we (Democrats and they (the Republicans) are losing in Michigan."

Earlier, Reuther had invited GM President Harlow Curtice to appear before the convention to tell the union members how to shape their demands.

But Curtice remained silent at General Motors headquarters a mile from the convention site. There was no indication he planned a reply.

Acceptance by the convention of Reuther's new collective bargaining program in 1958 contract negotiations appeared certain. The convention will vote on it either late today or tomorrow.

Fashion Designer Fights Sack Style

By CELE WOHL

Florence, Italy, Jan. 22 (AP)—Emilio Federick Schuberth is having none of high fashion's current trend toward shorter skirts and the sack style. In fact, he's going the other way.

Presenting his new spring and summer line last night, Schuberth startled some 600 foreign buyers and fashion writers with sashed waists and long skirts.

He dropped the hemline to 11-12 inches from the floor, lower than it has been since Christian Dior's "New Look" revolution of 11 years ago.

Middles were tightly bound. Panels floated from below the waists. They were panels of print over solid colored sheaths.

Schuberth was the first of nine "high fashion" designers to show in the Florence round of the current Italian displays. Earlier shows in Florence featured sportswear and casuals, including skirts above the knee from Fabiani. Most of these houses also hedged with a few sacks to be on the safe side.

Ike Concerned on Red Threat in Middle East

President Eisenhower studies a statement prepared for release by Secretary of State Dulles at a meeting two hours before the Secretary's departure for the Middle East today. (AP Photofax).

Dulles Flies To Baghdad Pact Parley

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower dispatched Secretary of State Dulles to the Middle East today on a mission of declaration of "deep concern" for the security of Communist-threatened countries in the area.

At the same time Eisenhower made a new pledge of "unwavering support" for the defense principles of the Baghdad Pact.

Dulles conferred with the President for 30 minutes some two hours in advance of his scheduled departure for the Middle East.

He will attend a meeting of the 5-power Baghdad Pact in Ankara, Turkey, next week. He will be an observer there, and not an official participant, since the United States is not a member.

'Glad to Help'

In a statement on his talk with Eisenhower, Dulles said Middle Eastern countries are under "the threat of Communist imperialism" and the United States is "glad to help them" in their collective self-defense effort.

In that connection Dulles cited the Middle East resolution of last March asserting an American policy of defending the whole Middle East area against Communist aggression. The resolution was passed by Congress and signed by the President.

Shortly before Dulles went into his meeting with the President—which followed a session of the National Security Council—the State Department denounced as "totally false" a Soviet charge that Dulles is planning to force U.S. nuclear missiles bases on Middle Eastern countries.

Calls Statement Arrogant

The department statement was "incredibly arrogant" a Soviet

Dissent Unit to Fight State Schools Group

(Reaction Story on Page Eleven)

Hartford, Jan. 22 (AP)—A new state-wide organization of members of local boards of education has come into existence in opposition to the established Connecticut Association of Boards of Education.

The new group, headed by Howard Whitaker Jr., a member of the Bozrah School Board, also lists among its founding members Thomas E. McGillian, president of the Hartford board, and Kenneth A. McGilton, president of the Hartford board. McGilton is secretary of the new organization.

The new group, to be known as the Connecticut Council, Members of Boards of Education, will hold its first official meeting Feb. 19 at the Hawthorne Inn in Berlin. All interested school board members in the state have been invited to attend the meeting. A letter announcing the formation of the new group will be read at board of education meetings this month.

According to the letter, the Council has been organized so that "active school board members in this state might develop, through association with members of other school boards, a stronger and more efficient educational system within our state . . . the council is designed to strengthen the individual board member and through him the school board.

"Our main emphasis, therefore, must be devoted to the quantity and quality of subjects" taught in the schools.

It is understood that the new group and its meetings will be open only to present members of boards of education. Superintendents and other professional personnel and former board members may attend upon personal invitation from the council.

The council has apparently grown out of a series of state-wide meetings held last year by an informal group of board members headed by Whitaker and McBride and several other board members and now former board members in other towns and cities.

At the meetings of this informal group, which numbered at times up to 30 or 40 members, dissatisfaction was expressed with the existing Connecticut Association of Boards of Education, (CABE), also a state-wide group comprising in its membership most of the local school boards in the state.

The members present at the informal meetings felt that the CABE was too closely tied to the professional element in education and in politics with the state department of education.

The members of the new council at the time also objected to a provision in the by-laws of the CABE allowing any superintendent to attend any CABE meeting. The members felt that meetings of an association of members of boards of education should be open primarily only to board members. They said they felt that too often the superintendents and other professionals "took over" CABE meetings and used them to advance their own points of view.

At the Feb. 19 meeting, five directors of the new organization will be selected. Thus directors, who will constitute an advisory board, will "assist in developing the activities of this organization."

Probers Hear Union Paid for Pleasure Boat

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Senate Rackets probers developed "testimony today that $150,000 of working engineers union funds were used to buy and support a pleasure boat and a plane.

Rebuked Patrick W. Clancy, president of the union's San Francisco Local No. 3, testified the plane was used on one occasion for a trip to get $10,000 in checks cashed out of town.

He said "I presume" the objective was to conceal that the $10,000 was for use in the union's 1956 election campaign, and to make it appear as a legitimate expenditure for organizational work.

Clancy said he and others on the trip spent about $400 of the money for themselves.

The special Senate Investigating Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), is exploring allegations of misuse of union funds and abuses in the labor-management field.

Allows Few Expenses

At its start of today's session, chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy told the committee he had erred yesterday in contending that real abuses in the area with union funds produced "hidden profits" of $59,956.76 for two ousted union officials.

"The hidden profit was approximately $40,000," Kennedy said, adding that the $59,955.76 figure failed to allow for expenses by those who swing the deal.

Kennedy contended the profit went to Victor S. Swanson, since ousted as international vice president and San Francisco boss of the Bank Discount Cut Seen Business Aid

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Financial circles forecast a boost for business and the stock market as a result of the Federal Reserve Board's approval of a lower discount rate today at the Philadelphia Reserve Bank.

News of the money-easing move, a reduction in the discount rate from 3 to 2½ per cent for that district, raised prices on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange in San Francisco yesterday afternoon.

The exchange still had 45 minutes of trading time remaining when the announcement was issued.

The Philadelphia district reduction is effective today. The other Federal reserve banks are expected to request similar reductions shortly.

Prime Rate Cut

New York's biggest bank, the Chase Manhattan, immediately said it was cutting its prime interest rate—that charged big borrowers with top credit ratings—from 4½ to 4 per cent today. Smaller reservers predicted other big institutions would follow quickly.

The Wall Street reaction generally was optimistic. Business men there, however, expressed disappointment because the rate was not dropped to 2½ per cent.

The discount rate is the interest Federal reserve banks charge their member banks for borrowed money.

Here are some Wall Street comments:

Bache & Co.: "The move is along the lines of the program indicated to aid business, through easing of the money situation, which should invariably affect the stock market."

A. W. Zelomek, an economist: "If it is reflected in a cut in interest rates by banks, then it is a really encouraging development for business."

Gerald Loeb of the E. F. Hutton & Co.: "I believe that the rapidity and presistence of the administration and federal reserve policy in an effort to check the recession will succeed in restoring confidence and stimulating business. These are important factors that should tend to extend the recovery in the stock market."

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson described the decision as a "logical step" and "continued evidence of the flexible use of the federal reserve mechanisms in the national interest."

The reduced rate on loans to the Labor Stores will permit them to lower their interest charges to corporations and individuals, thus encouraging the financing of new productions, plant expansions and other business ventures.

The trend toward lower cost borrowing was described by President Eisenhower, in his economic discussion before Congress Monday, as one of the favorable factors making it likely that business will recover this year from its recession.

The Philadelphia bank's action dramatized the abrupt reversal in the national economy in the past few months from business boom to recession and from tight money to comparatively easy credit.

Until mid-November the discount rate was 3½ per cent, having been carried to that figure in the 2-year upsurge of demand for credit that accompanied an unparalleled industrial investment in new plants and equipment.

Starting on Nov. 15, after it was generally recognized that business was faltering, the federal reserve

Market Erases Opening Gains

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—The Stock Market opened higher today in the wake of news of easier money, then erased some of its gains in early trading.

Near the end of the first hour, some key stocks were up fractions to around $1 a share, with some fractional losses.

There was no frenzy at the start the ticker tape was a minute behind in reporting transactions. Volume was lighter as prices fell back.

Late yesterday the Federal Reserve Board approved a cut in the discount rate from 3 to 2½ per cent by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia. The discount rate, the interest rate charged member banks for money, influences other short-term interest rates. Immediately after the federal reserve action, the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York's largest, reduced from 4½ to 4 per cent its prime rate, the interest rate charged the bank's best credit risks.

American Telephone & Telegraph leaped $2.38 a share at the opening, but later was ahead only $1 or so.

Small gainers included Chrysler, Union Carbide, Dow, Gulf Oil, Southern Pacific, Kennecott Copper, and U.S. Steel.

Adams Tagged Hatchetman of GOP '58 Race

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Sen. McNamara (D-Mich) suggested today that presidential assistant Sherman Adams may be supplanting Vice President Nixon as the Republicans' chief opposition critic in this year's campaign.

McNamara said Adams' attack on the Democrats in a Minneapolis speech Monday night indicates "Adams is taking over the role Nixon is abandoning."

"We could expect something like that," McNamara said. "Nixon is running for President and Adams isn't, so Adams is the logical man to blast at us.

"I think he made a terrible mistake in the kind of an attack he made on the Democrats," McNamara added. "He gave a lot of people who are trying to be nonpartisan in a national crisis a shove in the wrong direction."

While President Eisenhower was urging nonpartisan consideration of defense matters, Adams implied the Democrats were to blame for Pearl Harbor, the "true loss" of China, the Communist invasion of Korea, "eight years irretrievably lost" after World War II in development of missiles and subsequent cuts in Eisenhower's military budget.

Bowles Claims U.S. Being Sold Short

Norwich, Jan. 22 (AP)—A former Democratic governor of Connecticut says he believes "a disturbing number of leaders in both political parties are selling America short."

"The smug complacency of August has given way in January to defeatism that is not justified by the facts," Chester Bowles told a special meeting of the Democratic town committee here last night.

"Russia is the most tough struggle between police state communism and our democratic faith," Bowles asserted that as at other great moments in our history, the American people are prepared to support the bold and imaginative policies which are now called for."

"They ask only for the facts," declared Bowles, a former U.S. ambassador to India, "and for the global perspective on those facts

Fog, Rain End Ice Threat on Roads in State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A heavy fog hung over sections of Connecticut today slowing traffic during the early morning rush hours.

The fog was heaviest in the area from Greenwich to New Haven.

Some fog was reported in the New London area, but driving conditions were not bad.

The fog followed heavy to moderate rain during the night.

Roads were wet throughout the state, but relatively warm temperatures prevented freezing. The rain and warmer temperatures cleared roads of some old snow and ice.

Elsewhere in New England, the Weather Bureau issued freezing rain warnings.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Bradley Field said the outlook today was for clearing and cooler temperatures tonight. The predicted high today was 46-52.

Rainfall during the night measured up to 1.5 inches in some areas.

Rain continued to fall in the Torrington area, with total precipitation since 8 a.m. yesterday at 1.15 inches.

Blizzard Deaths 17 In Midwest Area

Kansas City, Jan. 22 (AP)—Kansas City and environs are digging out from under 15 inches of snow today after the worst blizzard in 46 years.

The storm left 17 dead in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Illinois as whipped northeastward last night.

Its fury was spent but it left 10 to 12 inches of snow in addition in Iowa, northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin before blowing itself out along the shores of the Great Lakes.

Most of the deaths were attributed to accidents on slick roadways or heart attacks after shoveling snow or breaking drifts.

There were three in Kansas, five in Missouri, three in Iowa and six in Illinois.

The storm reached blizzard proportions and continued at that intensity in an ellipse straddling the Missouri-Kansas line and bounded by Topeka, Kan., and St. Joseph, Lexington and Butler, Mo. Topeka is 68 miles west of Kansas City. St. Joseph is 55 miles north. Lexington is 40 miles east and Butler is 70 miles south.

Most of this area got at least a foot of snow. Odessa, Mo., 38 miles east of Kansas City, had 18 inches. Kansas City's 15 was the greatest snow depth since a 2-day 25-inch storm in March of 1912.

A frigid paralysis still gripe the Missouri-Kansas area today.

Nearly all the schools are closed. Industrial plants are shut down, including a major steel mill and three big automobile assembly plants in the Metropolitan Kansas City area.

Snow drifts up to six feet deep blocked five major highways: U.S. 36, U.S. 24, U.S. 40, U.S. 50, and U.S. 71. Other main arteries were reduced to one-way traffic in spots, on packed snow and ice. The Kansas Turnpike was blocked for a time. Highway patrols pleaded with motorists to stay off the roads.

The snow let up in Kansas City at 5:40 p.m. after 26 hours. Thirteen inches fell in the final 12 hours, an all-time record. Wind gusts up to 40 miles an hour whipped it into drifts and cut visibility at times to less than a block. Temperatures were in the low 20s.

Snow plow crews gave up the fight during the day but turned out in force when the storm ended.

Their progress was slow and today main thoroughfares still are packed trenches only two lanes wide between high ridges of snow. The cross blocks of streets still are impassable, a cluttered patchwork of snow mounds with abandoned cars underneath.

Downtown hotels overflowed last night with stranded suburbanites and outlying motels with out-country travelers.

Twelve transit buses were stalled at one point on a three-block stretch of the 11th St. hill just east of the downtown business district.

Many stores sold all the tire chains and overshoes they had. Garages ran as much as 12 hours behind on calls for help.

Air traffic through Kansas City resumed as soon as the snow stopped. Interstate bus travel was stalled. Trains ran throughout the storm but frequently were late.

Caracas Strike Brings Riots, Shooting, Curfew

Caracas, Venezuela, Jan. 22 (AP)—A dusk-to-dawn curfew was in effect in Caracas today and government troops were ordered to fire on anyone disturbing the peace after an outbreak of rioting and shooting during a general strike.

Reports reaching Washington said 20 persons were killed and 100 injured in street fighting in a workers' area of Caracas yesterday. They said 1,000 persons were arrested after the Chile Strict censorship prevailed.

The U.S. State Department said there were no reports of any Americans being injured or American property damaged. About 10,000 Americans live in Venezuela and U.S. investments top there total about $3 billion.

The strike was called by underground opponents of President Marcos Perez Jimenez, who three weeks ago survived a short-lived revolt by the Air Force and some Army units. Since then Caracas has been in a continual state of tension.

The interior ministry claimed the people had not responded to the general strike call. In a nationwide broadcast the ministry conceded there had been "disorders and offenses" in Caracas and disturbances in Los Teques, Valencia and Puerto Nuevo but said the rest of the nation was normal.

Businesses in downtown Caracas began closing about noon yesterday and workers began to leave the city's main square. Heavily armed police used tear gas to clear the square after the crowds taunted them with anti-government slogans and stoned buses.

Newspapers were on strike and most stadiums stayed away from school either in support of the strike or in fear of violence.
