Jay Rubinow To Consider House Race

The name of Atty. Jay Rubinow was mentioned today as a possible Democratic candidate for State Representative from Manchester.

A wide-open race also raised the possibility that the party's two unsuccessful 1956 candidates, Attorneys Francis C. Shea and Irving L. Aronson, might run again.

No incumbent will be a candidate for either of the two places in the House to be filled by Manchester residents.

Shea said that he thinks he would be interested in running again. Aronson said he has not yet thought about it.

Asked about the possibility of his candidacy, Rubinow said he had received calls from persons who had requested him to make the race.

"I promised them that I would think it over, although I don't think at this time I would run," the attorney said.

Rubinow pointed out that his law partner, Atty. John D. LaBelle, former Democratic town chairman, is now a member of the State Attorney's staff. "Somebody's got to keep the store," he said.

The long-time civic leader, who was a powerful force in the integrated group which gained control of the party in 1956, added: "At this point, it's too far away for me to make any decision."

Two new State Representatives will be elected next fall.

The other is now held by Republican Ray S. Warren, who has said he will not run again for the State Representative's position.

Youths of Church Conduct Service

Young people of the Second Congregational Church assumed full charge of the morning service yesterday, Youth Sunday. Diane Joyce, president of Mu Sigma Chi Society and Evelyn Crie welcomed the worshipers as they arrived and other members served as ushers. The Youth and Sanctuary vested choirs rendered the anthem, "O God of Youth," under the direction of Miss Viola Foster, choir director.

Opening sentences and invocation were given by Albert Fyler and William Daddato. Sandra Smith read the scripture passages and Alan Williams told the children a story as they gathered around him prior to leaving for their respective Sunday School rooms.

Sandra Stimson read the litany and Susan Holtenberg offered prayer. Principal messages were brought by Judith Barnes and Michael Patulak. Roxanne Brainard was in charge of the Communion service and the Youth Choir sang the German melody, "Alleluia," at the offertory. Lorraine Martin pronounced the benediction.

Two bouquets of carnations and snapdragons were placed on the altar by Mr. and Mrs. John Partridge, in memory of their daughter, Joyce.

Two new State Representatives will be elected next fall.

The other is now held by Republican Ray S. Warren, who has said he will not run again for the State Representative's position.

Church Notes Youth Sunday

"Lord...Help Our Unbelief" was the theme yesterday morning at Center Congregational Church when young people conducted the three-morning services in observance of the 18th annual Youth Sunday.

The message of the morning was presented by four young people. Ralph Geer spoke on "Faith's Silent Plea"; Charles Ryan on the subject "I Believe"; Janet Morimer on "Help Thou My Unbelief"; and Loretta Bushnell, "A Statement of Faith."

Developing the theme, the speakers felt that it was a natural process of maturing in Christian faith to progress from the implicit beliefs of the young child to the more questioning attitude of the teenage.

It was suggested that one important factor in the development of a good Christian is to know and understand Jesus, who must have been a man of strong masculine character and qualities to have attracted and inspired the many types of people whom he met during his lifetime.

Some of the experiences and problems were mentioned which cause a teenager to ponder on the nature of God. Examples of these are the fact that death seems to be random and unexplained of their apparent need and usefulness in the world; that mental ability and talents are not at all equally distributed among people; that many are born with physical or mental handicaps which cause suffering and unhappiness.

The idea was presented that all people are witnesses in their belief and concern for Christ in what they say and do, and in the things to which they give their attention. Prayers, it was suggested, should be not self-centered, but God-centered." The combined message of the young people challenged the older church members as well as the teenagers to work for the strengthening of their Christian faith.

The morning prayer was delivered by Mary Anne Beach and the scripture read by Pamela Barnes. Scott Cleveland served as leader for the services. Two anthems were rendered by the Pilgrim choir at the 9:15 service, and by the Cherubs Choir at the 11 o'clock service. Boys from the CYF Club and the Junior Fellowship served as ushers.

B'nai B'rith Plans Manchester Lodge

An initial organizing meeting of Manchester Lodge, B'nai B'rith will be held on Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at Temple Beth Sholom.

Alfred P. Werbner will serve as chairman pro tem. He will be assisted by an executive committee composed of Maurice Pass, secretary pro tem; Harry Baker, Bret Bretschneider, Richard Don, Philip Freedman, Dr. Robert Harris, Sidney Green, Ned Moses, Dr. Herbert Snyder, Alvin Spitalnick, Isidore Stadlan and Mark Tarlow.

Landon Radding, president of Arratt Lodge, Hartford, will introduce the guest speaker, Emanuel H. Sonnenreich, Past President of New York Lodge No. 1, and presently serving as Commissioner of District No. 1. A social hour will be held following the meeting and all members of the Jewish community in Manchester and surrounding areas have been invited.

McElroy Asks Speedy Billion

Washington, Jan 28 (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy told Senators today that "on the whole our military position is sound." At the same time he urged speedy appropriation of more than $1 billion to step up programs for ballistic missiles and related defenses.

McElroy was leadoff witness in a closed-door session of the Senate Appropriations Committee on an emergency measure calling for a $1,280,000,000 of new funds plus transfer authority on $150,000,000 of old funds.

The measure won unanimous passage in the House last Thursday and is expected to get similar Senate treatment, possibly with some additions.

It was McElroy's initial appearance before the Senate purse string committee as secretary of defense. He took over the post from Charles E. Wilson, auto industry executive, after the end of the last session of Congress.

McElroy said the emergency fund measure "is in effect, an advance action of the 1959 program" already under consideration by the House.

That was a reference to the defense money bill for the fiscal year that begins next July 1.

McElroy's prepared testimony was made available to newsmen outside the closed-door session.

Accompanying him were Assistant Secretary of Defense McNeil, sometimes called the "operations manager of the" Pentagon, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In advance of the committee meeting Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said he is afraid President Eisenhower's defense budget does not provide enough military "strength in being." He predicted Congress will put up more money for the Strategic Air Command.

McElroy said he accepted an increase of $40 million made by the House above the transfer authority initially asked by the President and Defense Department.

Of this, $20 million are for research and development on the Army's Pershing missile, planned as a solid-fuel successor to the liquid-fuel redstone.

The decision to push this was reached after the budget request went to Congress, McElroy said.

The other extra $20 million, he said, would be used to "provide accelerated support for second generation" divisional and corps-type missiles for the Army the Pentagon chief said.

Khrushchev Seeks Minor Issues Talk

Moscow, Jan. 28 (AP)—Still plugging for a summit conference, Premier Nikita Khrushchev proposed last night that government heads start with issues "We can agree on before tackling the tougher and more ...

The Communist Party boss was talking with Western ambassadors at an Indian National Day reception. He spoke with the quip that he usually displays on the Soviet capital's cocktail circuit, in considerable contrast to his blasts at the United States and the "West" in a speech last week in Warsaw Russia.

Khrushchev did not say just how the Soviets and the Western allies could agree on minor issues when they are likely to agree on ...

Summit talks, Khrushchev said, should be like a Russian meal. Let's start with Zakuskas (hors d'oeuvres) and then go on to soup and fish and end up with the main course.

The length of such a multi-course meeting was not specified.

The Western powers usually try to hold their top level conferences to a tight schedule of only a few days, but most East-West talks have dragged on interminably. One Western ambassador cited fears abroad of Soviet aggressiveness.

The government newspaper Izvestia today published the Western Big Three replies to Premier Bulganin's earlier proposal for a summit meeting. The answers contained proposals which can only lead any international problem into an impasse, Izvestia commented.

Izvestia did not specifically rule out the western call for lower-level talks first but said the West's replies "contain no convincing explanation why serious talks between the heads of various States cannot comment in the next few months."

Assurances in the letters from President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Macmillan and French Premier Gaillard that their nations have no aggressive designs on Russia, Izvestia said, but it added:

"No matter how solemn the tone in which statements are made, they are undoubtedly inadequate."

A bilateral British-Soviet nonaggression pact was urged last night in London by Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik at a cocktail party opening an appearance by a Ukrainian troupe of musicians and dancers, he said.

A nonaggression pact could be concluded on the basis of a many-sided treaty, or a two-party basis. Finally, the question of a treaty of nonaggression between the Soviet Union and Britain could be examined favorably."

Chanel Shifts With Balmain To Sack Styles

By NADEANE WALKER

Paris, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Chanel fashion house—last of the hold-outs—broke down today and brought out the sack line.

It was the first time Coco Chanel had given in to the mounting trend, exploited heavily by Dior and other top houses. Where others were pushing the sack, Chanel was standing with her box suit.

Earlier today, conservative Pierre Balmain displayed the sack's typical loose waistline and dresses with little indication of it.

It happened this morning when Balmain unveiled his latest collection of tube dresses and cylinder skirts. Balmain's sack is far from a bag; it fits everywhere except in the middle. His top-of-the-calf skirts were radically shorter for him, but other designers are flirting with the knee-cap.

It was altogether the newest-looking Balmain collection in years, but there were still vintage touches. These included sunray pleated backs, sometimes with the slack pulled up and draped over one arm like a Grecian Toga; long femme fatale sheaths with flounces or frilled trains and pannier or basket-skirted formals with fullness at the side.

Balmain suits have short, blouse-backed jackets, loosely tied in front, and he makes many waists, semifitted shortwaist.

He always has fun with fur, and this time it's a broadtail cocktail sack, and an ermine lined blue satin "trench coat," worn over a sinuously draped sequin tube.

New Cypriot Strife Leaves Four Dead

Nicosia, Cyprus, Jan. 28 (AP) British troops and Turkish Cypriots battled again today on Cyprus for the third successive day. The British opened fire on the first time, and four persons were killed.

Security forces were braced for still more trouble with the island's Turkish minority, which planned a mass protest in connection with the funerals of two of their people killed in the battling yesterday between demonstrators and British forces.

The earlier demonstrators had been stirred up by Turkish fears that Britain made cede the island to Greece. But today the Turks were inflamed by the killing of ...

Baghdad Pact Votes Plan for Arms Strategy

Ankara, Turkey, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Baghdad Pact council of ministers today approved long-term plans for a strategic system of roads, ports, airfields and radio telecommunications. If carried out, the project will cost billions of dollars over a period of several years.

The five-nation conference—with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles sitting as an American observer—okayed the plan in approving the report of the Pact's military committee.

Other aspects of the committee's report were not immediately disclosed.

Informed sources said the council was moving, however, toward turning the military planning group into a full-blown unified command. An Iranian move last year to set up a NATO-type command failed to go through because of proposals that Iran's king, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, become the supreme commander.

The plans approved today would provide a continuous hookup from the Dardanelles to Khyber Pass, trunk and tired highways, civil airports which could be used for military purposes and seaports with arbor and storage facilities on the Mediterranean, Persian gulf and Indian ocean.

The conference continued a survey of the Middle East political scene.

Conference sources reported there was no unanimous support for Iraq's demand that the council define its policy toward a Palestine settlement.

Premier Nuri Said of Iraq yesterday pressed his country's support Arab demands that Israel be forced back to the frontiers suggested by the United Nations in 1947.

The secret parts of the military committee's report were believed to have recommended:

1. That any major assault from the North must be met as far as possible in the craggy mountain passes between Russia and Turkey, Iraq and Iran.

2. National forces of the region, which also include Pakistan, must be developed and ...

Bergman Not Contesting

Roberto Asks Voiding Marriage to Ingrid

Rome, Jan. 28 (AP)—Roberto Rossellini has asked a Rome court to void his marriage to Ingrid Bergman. The actress is not contesting the Italian film director's suit.

Rossellini claimed Miss Bergman was "still technically married" to Dr. Peter Lindstrom when she married the Italian film director by proxy in Mexico on May 24, 1950. Fraudulent marriage is a legal ground for annulment in Italy, where divorce is not legal.

Miss Bergman received a Mexican divorce from Dr. Lindstrom on Feb. 9, 1956, the week after the birth of her first child by Rossellini.

Miss Bergman's brief reply to Rossellini's suit admitted his claim that she would submit to the findings of the court.

Her attorney, Ercole Graziadei, said no date had been set for a court hearing. He added that several months might elapse before a decision and that it would not be necessary for Miss Bergman or Rossellini to appear in court.

The couple was legally separated here Nov. 7 after Rossellini's name was linked with that of an Indian Script Writer, Sonali Das Gupta. He met her while making films in India and later unconfirmed reports said she had come to Europe.

Miss Bergman, at work filming a movie in Lapland, sent word from her studio to newsmen that she had no comment to make on the annulment action.

Rossellini was reported somewhere in Paris and could not be reached.

Rossellini's attorney, Antonio Corrao, said in the suit neither Italian nor Swedish law contains a Mexican divorce legal. Therefore, he contended, the actress "was not in a free status" when she married Rossellini.

Although a native of Sweden, Miss Bergman became a naturalized American citizen in 1945. She and Lindstrom have one daughter, a college student, in the United States, and by Rossellini she has three children still living in her apartment here.

Rossellini, whose postwar success as a movie director attracted Miss Bergman to Italy to do a movie with him in 1949 obtained an Austrian annulment that year of his marriage to Marcella De Marchis. The annulment was later recognized in Italy.

Surprise Halts Word Torrents

Detroit, Jan. 28 (AP)—There was a loud crash as the two cars came together.

The drivers bolted out of their cars, looked at each other and cut short what might have been twin torrents of harsh words.

"Mike!" exclaimed Mrs. Helen Omell.

Ike School Aid Plan Competes With 7 Others

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower's billion-dollar program of federal aid to education taken legislative form today, but must compete with at least seven other somewhat similar plans already presented or suggested.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) planned to introduce a bill to carry out the Eisenhower program. A message outlining the four-year plan, designed as a booster shot in the nation's scientific arm, was sent to Capitol Hill yesterday.

In his message Eisenhower tied the program directly to the nation's security and national defense.

The country's national security aims, he said, can be fulfilled only by the efforts of individuals whose training is already far advanced. But if we are to maintain our position of leadership, we must see to it that today's young people are prepared to contribute the maximum to our future success."

Congressional reaction to the message was pretty well divided along party lines. The Republicans called it "forthright," "sound and sensible," and "a good basis for Congressional consideration." The Democrats contended, for the most part, that it didn't go far enough—particularly since it made no mention of federal aid for school construction.

Generally speaking, the President's program calls for federal fellowships and scholarships, primarily to students studying the sciences, and federal grants to the states for improving teaching of science and mathematics, and for starting programs in these fields.

Eisenhower said in his budget message earlier this month that he was not asking this year for funds for school construction, a request that failed to get House approval last year and the year before.

Already pending or proposed are these other competing plans:

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), who says he is for the administration program "As far as it goes," wants to add 500 million dollars a year for school construction.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass), who also says that the President's program doesn't go far enough, plans to introduce legislation this week call-

Ic Milk Price Boost Labeled Serious Error

Cheshire, Jan. 28 (AP)—The President of Milk Producers Inc., Asan, says the emergency drought boost in milk prices, which ends Feb. 1, was "the most serious error made by Connecticut milk producers" in several years.

Richard H. Merritt of Farmington, speaking last night at the annual meeting of the organization, said that the increase resulted in increased purchases of unregulated milk from outside Connecticut at low prices.

It resulted, he added, in price-cutting between distributors and a 4 per cent drop on milk sales for the year.

Only Fee of Increase

The organization and other producer groups favored the central-August increase which went into effect Aug. 1 as a means of compensating farmers for drought losses. The Brock-Hall Dairy Co., itself, opposed the increase, the only opponent to appear at a public hearing on the matter.

Merritt said that milk produc-

Gas Blaze Doused In Cuban Refinery

Miami, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP)—William Pierce, plant manager of the Esso Refinery in Havana, Cuba, today noted a gasoline fire there is under control although still was burning.

He said the origin of the blaze cannot be determined until it is completely extinguished.

Pottle reported by telephone the Havana refinery has a 20,000 barrel capacity and is considered a small operation. It processes crude oil delivered by tankers.

The refinery is in Havana's Belot industrial section. The fire started about 4 p.m. yesterday.

Union Heads Deny Worker Pay Grab

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—A cluster of witnesses swore today that neither officials of the Operating Engineers Union was organized gambling on a Delaware site, picking on the union pay checks of union members.

There were immediate denials from the three officials. Fred Ferro, Paris (Reggy) DiSimone and Joseph Valentino.

Four witnesses had named them as the men who ran dice, card, numbers and horse betting games in the "tidewater job in Tidewater City Del.

One after another, the three accused told the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee that there was a lot of gambling by workers at the site. Ferro, DiSimone and Valentino to the witnesses stand in a group, and they entered their denials.

Next, the committee called Michael Williams of Wilmington, Joseph Sylvester of Wilmington and Ground Chief of Philadelphia, who backed up Lattanzio's testimony.

All three said that Ferro, the organized gambling to them, with Ferro and DiSimone apparently the ringleaders.

Like Lattanzio, three witnesses testified that Ferro was a field foreman whose job was to tour the job in a truck. They said Ferro used this as a cover for picking up horse and numbers bets all through the day.

The committee heard testimony yesterday linking the union's international President William E. Maloney with Ferro, who rose to power as boss of its Philadelphia and Newark, N. J. locals.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he expected that Ferro would be called to the witness chair later in the day.

One of the witnesses testifying that there was big scale gambling at the Tidewater job was Louis Lattanzio of Wilmington, Del.

Lattanzio told of craps games in which as much as $500 changed hands on a roll of the dice, and said he often saw union members lose their entire pay checks.

Lattanzio said this was in 1950 and 1956.

The committee first heard Lattanzio. The it called Ferro, DiSimone and Valentino to the witness stand in a group, and they entered their denials.

Next, the committee called Michael Williams of Wilmington, Joseph Sylvester of Wilmington and Ground Chief of Philadelphia, who backed up Lattanzio's testimony.

All three said that Ferro, the organized gambling to them, with Ferro and DiSimone apparently the ringleaders.

UAW Urges Industry Justify Hikes in Price

Wants U.S. Agency For Probing Facts

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—Walter Reuther urged today that Congress require large corporations to justify their price increases in advance before a special government agency. An independent consumers council would represent the public.

The United Automobile Workers President said that such an agency should not have powers to block the price boosts but should be able to lay all the facts before the public in advance of the effective date for the increases.

Reuther made the proposal at the opening session of a hearing on auto industry prices before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn).

Auto company presidents are to appear later.

Reuther termed the pricing policies of the Big Three auto makers "fiscally irresponsible." He said that if the pricing policies of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler were followed by all manufacturers, the economy would be operating at only 30 per cent of capacity and the nation would be in a major depression.

The union leader contended that the Big Three in the automobile industry hold a monopoly position that enables them to "rig" prices without regard to the law of supply and demand.

Using a mass of charts, Reuther contended that purchasing power has not kept pace with productive capacity.

"The American economy is limping along, it is in low gear and its employment is increasing," he said, at a time when the nation needs to be strong to cope with the free world struggle against Communist Imperialism.

The series of hearings is a part of a broad study of administered prices in major industries which the subcommittee began last year. Administered prices are those set by a company, rather than fluctuating with the ups and downs of demand.

Kefauver said in a statement prepared for the hearing that the automobile industry is the nation's "greatest single direct source of jobs and purchasing power."

Cuts Cut in Output

He said the sub-committee had been disturbed by a "decline in automobile production and employment . . . accompanied by an increase in automobile prices."

Reuther's views were contained in a 110-page statement, accompanied by 29 charts, which he would offer for the record. He planned to testify extemporaneously.

His statement repeated the UAW's frequently stated view that increased labor costs have not been responsible for increases in prices since the end of World War II and that the profits of the automobile corporations have been excessive.

One effect of the public review would be to determine impartially what effect union wage demands may have in forcing price increases, Reuther said.

Compares Pay, Price Hikes

He contended that "price increases imposed by the automobile corporations have been jipped 10 for every $1 gained in wage increases" in the last 12 years.

Reuther said the independent consumers counsel would have authority to intervene on behalf of the public before not only the proposed price agency but also other government agencies whose actions affect the public interest.

The price agency plan he proposed, Reuther said, would apply only to a corporation which controls 20 or 25 per cent of the sales in its industry.

Zeller to Seek Governor Spot On GOP Ticket

In a speech prepared for delivery at the party's weekly luncheon in Hartford, Zeller said that should the Republican convention in June nominate him as their standard-bearer, "I will accept the nomination and will wage an energetic and militant campaign for victory in November."

The State Comptroller, who is rounding out his 14th year in that office added:

"I seek the office not because of my years of service to the Republican party, but because of my years of service to the state of Connecticut and my knowledge of its departments and institutions."

Zeller, a resident of Stonington, is the first announced candidate to report, at this point are considered to be the leading contenders for the nomination.

Zeller and Bradley, who has indicated his availability are close personal and political friends and have indicated that they will not contest one another for the nomination.

The turnout at today's luncheon to hear Zeller's official pronouncement was so great that the luncheon was transferred from the main dining room to the larger ballroom, which accommodates 350 persons.

Bradley, who has strong Fairfield County backing for the nomination, has announced his availability for the nomination, "if it is strong and right."

Attorneys Will File Briefs In Tamarack Hills Action

Attorneys in the Common Pleas Court action of Tamarack Hills residents against the Zoning Commission of the Vernon Fire District have agreed today to present their arguments in briefs to be filed by next Tuesday.

Atty. Eugene Kelly of Podrove and Kelly in Manchester, representing the plaintiffs and Atty. Charles Crockett, also of Manchester, representing the Zoning Commission, appeared briefly before Judge William P. Barber in Tolland County Court of Common Pleas this morning.

Both attorneys are apparently basing their arguments on whether or not the change of 65 acres of land off Rt. 15 from residential to industrial zone follows a comprehensive plan for the fire district.

Atty. Crockett agreed to permit inclusion of all previous zoning regulations, although contending that the only regulations concerned were those which became effective March 14, 1957.

Atty. Kelly said he intends to present evidence showing that a pattern was set by previous zoning regulations and amendments, and that the recent zone change did not follow the pattern.

He attempted to introduce evidence that other industrial areas in the fire district are available to industry. Judge Barber refused to admit this material because there was no proof it had been presented at the Zoning Commission hearing May 7.

Atty. Crockett has submitted a zoning map, minutes of the zoning hearings and petitions in an attempt to prove the Zoning Commission rightfully re-zoned the disputed area.

One petition from 42 residents of Talcotville states "We are in favor of industry for Vernon and support the proposed plan of the Commission for industrial zoning but with modifications that would be mutually acceptable to the parties involved."

Another petition, also with 42 signatures from residents of the area involved, states definite objection to the zone change.

The Zoning Commission held a hearing on a proposed change of zone on 350 acres between Bamforth Rd. and the railroad tracks west of Tunnel Rd. The area finally re-zoned for industry was 65 acres between Bamforth Rd. and Bolton Rd. Tamarack Hill is located on the opposite side of Bamforth Rd.

New Overpasses Open

The two new overpasses on Rt. 15 in Vernon were opened yesterday to traffic, according to an official notice received by the Selectmen.

The overpasses carry Tunnel and Bolton Rds. over the Wilbur Cross Highway, and allow limited access to the highway.

The access and exit at Tunnel Rd. are on the west side of the overpass, permitting traffic coming from the direction of Hartford to enter Tunnel Rd., and traffic from Tunnel Rd. to enter the westbound lane of the highway.

At Bolton Rd. overpass, the access and exit are on the east side, permitting traffic from Bolton Rd. to enter the Boston-bound lane of Rt. 15, and allowing traffic coming from the direction of Boston to enter Bolton Rd.

The State Highway Department is planning to run a connecting road between Tunnel and Bolton Rds., about 1,000 feet south of Rt. 15, to facilitate access to the highway. The Board of Selectmen had advised the State Highway Department that they were not satisfied with the limited access overpasses.

School Expense Standing

Vernon places 151st in the rating of 169 towns of Connecticut in total current expenses per pupil.

Statistics released by the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council for the year 1956-57 show the standing of each town in comparison to others.

Total current expenses, in the CPEC report, includes most expenses of school operation, plus interest payments on school bonds and payments for the physically handicapped, transportation and industrial arts programs. Principal payments on school bonds are not included.

Vernon stands 131st in general current expenses, which excludes the payments for physically handicapped, transportation and industrial arts programs.

67 at CD School

Some 67 policemen and future auxiliary policemen attended the second session of the Civil Defense Auxiliary Police School last night.

Martin Fagan, teacher at Rockville High School, explained the setup of civil government, and advised the students on note taking.

Next week's class will be on communications, both police and Civil Defense.

Local CD Director Edmund F. Dwyer, host to the school, said the course is being well received.

Hospital Notes

Events Tonight

The Board of Selectmen will meet at 7:30 at Town Hall.

The Red Men will meet at 8 p.m. at Red Men's Hall to elect officers.

Fayette Lodge, 69, AF&AM, will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, Orchard St., when the entered apprentice degree will be exemplified.

The Women of the Moose will meet at 8 p.m. at the Moose Home, with a social following the meeting.

The First Evangelical Lutheran Church will hold its annual meeting at 8 p.m. with the Rev. Paul Reisch, president of the New England Conference, attending. A potluck supper will precede the meeting at 6:30 p.m.

29 Pints of Blood

Twenty-nine pints of blood were donated to the Red Cross in the Bloodmobile visit here Friday. Donations fell far short of the 150-pint quota. This is the smallest amount of blood collected at any visit of the Bloodmobile.

Most of the local people who give blood are repeat donors, and those who gave in December were not allowed to give at this visit because two months had not elapsed.

NO ELEMENT OF CHANCE

"Calculated risk" seems to be a popular phrase for old-fashioned "gamble." But there's no place for either in preparing or dispensing pharmaceuticals.

Ever notice the letters U.S.P. or N.F. on a medicine label? The letters represent two official books that are recognized by federal law — the United States Pharmacopoeia and the National Formulary.

Together, they are the pharmacist's "bible." They give approved standards of the quality, purity, and potency of most medicinal agents.

Krieger Gives Lecture Here

The second lecture relating to mental health, sponsored by the Manchester Mental Health Society, was held last evening at the Bowers School.

Robert H. Krieger, East Hartford manager of the Family Service Society, told of the many services available through this Greater Hartford Community Chest-sponsored organization.

Krieger stated that the primary purpose of the Family Service Society is to help troubled people to solve their problems. Its services include professional counseling in family and individual problems, "homemaker" service, with emphasis on care of children in times of family crisis, "homemaker" service for elderly persons, family homes for elderly persons, and family life education.

Trained Personnel

The counseling service is conducted by professionally trained personnel who help solve such problems as domestic discord, imminent divorce, juvenile delinquency, personal disorder and the services is determined by the person's ability to pay.

The counseling services of the East Hartford office of the Family Service Society are available in Manchester residents, but since Manchester is not a member of the Greater Hartford Community Chest, the "homemaker" services are not available locally.

The Manchester Mental Health Society is interested in having a branch office located in town, so that all of the services of this organization could be readily available to Manchester residents. It is probable that the Family Service Society would be willing to open an office here if the community so desires.

Krieger said, "Mental health is a grass root movement which needs the help of lay people. Good mental health is everyone's business, and the development of good mental health is as important as the development of Spitfires.

The speaker emphasized the importance of people seeking help with their problems before they reach the "breaking point." To seek help early," he said, "is a sign of strength."

Shows Film

Krieger showed a film entitled "A Family Affair" depicting an average family with quite normal problems. However, the problems were of longstanding and the family had never "talked out" these problems together. When they were confronted with a real crisis the "breaking point" was reached and they were unable to cope with the situation alone. Through Family Service counseling, the family learned to face their problems, understand them better, and work them out in a normal, adult manner.

A report given by Mrs. Jay Rubinow told of visits made by a joint committee of the Clinic Board and the Manchester Mental Health Society to clinics in New Britain and Meriden. Both clinics are community-sponsored," each with a board of directors composed of lay people.

The final lecture in this series will be held Monday, March 31, when David C. King, consultant on Gerontology at Hillyer College, will talk on "Later Maturity." The public is invited.

Youth Rally Set For South Church

The Manchester Council of Churches met last evening at the Salvation Army Citadel for its bimonthly dinner meeting. Following the dinner, Major John Pickup led the devotional service.

Hugh Brautigam, president of the Council, called for committee reports. Mrs. Robert Pratt, chairman of the Youth Committee, reported that this is Youth Week and, as part of this program, the Annual Youth Rally will be held next Sunday at South Methodist Church. The Rev. Charles Reynolds will be the main speaker for this service and he will speak on "Lord... Help Our Unbelief." Mrs. Pratt also reported that Paul Norling of 59 Santina Dr. is a new member on the Youth Committee. The Reformation Day Committee announced October 26 as Reformation Sunday.

The Rev. R. Russell Peery submitted his resignation as chairman of the Social Action Committee and Dr. Robert Alexbury was chosen to succeed him.

Major Pickup, chairman of the Committee on institutions, expressed his appreciation to the Manchester Youth Council for its cooperation in distributing gifts and booklets to residents of institutions in Manchester during the Christmas season.

Mrs. Harold Iversen, the new representative of the Welcome Wagon in Manchester, was introduced to the Council members. Mrs. Iversen aids the Council by distributing information about the member churches and their service to new residents in the area.

The subject of a Council sponsored chaplaincy was referred by Brautigam to a special committee for study and recommendations.

Soroptimists Hear Nike Base Officer

The officer is stationed at the local base. He pointed out that this State is a highly industrial area and the large cities are guarded by a ring of Nike installations. "They are as necessary today as police forces," the speaker said.

Lt. Dowd received his training at Fort Worth and has been located at the local base since October 1956. He was assisted last night by Sgt. William Hawkins Jr., who saw service in Korea.

The speaker answered questions and invited the Soroptimists to visit the base.

LIGHT TAKE-OUT DOUBLE PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

By Alfred Sheinwold

The world championship match now being held in Como, Italy, is partly a battle of bidding systems. One of the differences in the systems has to do with the take-out double.

West's double on the first round of bidding was meant for a takeout. That is, he wanted his partner to take the double out in any long suit.

Billy Seamon, the well-known Miami expert, had a very light hand for his double, but he trusted his partner to give him leeway. His trust was well founded, since his partner was Helen Sobel, long one of the greatest stars of the bridge firmament.

Mrs. Sobel relied on the double to bid four hearts even though she had only an ace and a couple of queens. If allowed to play the hand at hearts, Mrs. Sobel would have made her game contract, losing only one spade, one diamond, and one club.

Doubled for Penalties

When South went on to four spades, Mrs. Sobel realized that the hand belonged to her and that South was trying to steal it. Nobody steals Mrs. Sobel's hand and gets away with it. She doubled, this time clearly for penalties, and collected 800 points in penalties.

Mrs. Sobel and Helen said, "you can steal as often as you like."

The hand was played in last year's world championship against the Italian team that is now competing in Como. At the other table of the match, the Italians held the East-West cards. They never entered the auction, and an American played the hand at four spades undoubled. This unlucky contract went down the same number of tricks, but the loss was only 300 instead of 800 points.

It was the light take-out double that paved the way for the eventual penalty double. This made a difference of 500 points on the hand as a whole.

Daily Question

Dealer, at your right, bids one heart. You hold: Spades 10, Hearts Q J 8 7, Diamonds K J 7 3, Clubs K J 10 4. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. It is all right to double for a take-out if you have a singleton in the bid suit and good support for the other three suits. When one of your good suits is bid, however, do not double; pass and await development.

On the other hand, the Russians wanted a direct New York-Moscow air service so they could show off its latest Soviet jet, the Jetliner. The United States demurred, pending officials confided, the time when the United States also will have such service on commercial air lines.

The Russian lost out, too, on their call for swapping visits by American Congress members and deputies of the Supreme Soviet. They also wanted, but did not get, a meeting of interparliamentary or United Nations groups.

All these things were left to possible future meetings. Apparently they hinged on how effective the sweeping new agreements in principle are carried out. American officials have left no doubt they have qualms about whether the Russians will obey the letter of their agreements, leaving no time to tell.

The agreement was good news to many lovers of ballet, music, athletics and improvement of American industry, medicine and education. All told, 35 or more delegations in these and other fields will bring some 500 Soviet specialists to the United States during 1958-59. A like number of similar experts will go from the United States to Russia during the two years.

Tourist travel was hard to figure. But officials estimated some 1,500 Russian tourists and possibly, 3,000 American tourists will visit the respective foreign lands during 1958-59 as a result of the accord. Between 2,000 to 3,000 American tourists went to Russia last year. Soviet tourist travel here was nil.

One of the biggest bonuses washte projected visit next year of the 120-member Bolshoi Ballet Theater, considered the world's best. In exchange, the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra will go next May or June to Russia.

Other cultural events will bring to the United States such performers as Pianist Emil Gilels, who already has been here, and possibly the red army dancers. American artists like Conductor Leopold Stokowski and singer Roberta Peters and Blanche Thebom will go to the Soviet.

Delegations of Soviet scientists, teachers, students, doctors, veterinarians, writers, painters, sculptors, radio-TV technicians; movie stars and so on will swap visits with their American counterparts.

Everything, however, is agreed "in principle" only, leaving details to be worked out. But the American officials involved are hopeful that the Russians mean business and will follow through on their commitments.

Driver Arrested On Road Charge

Fred Burke, 58, of 412 Porter St., was arrested yesterday after a 3-car accident on Park St. Charged with failure to grant the right of way when entering a highway from a private driveway, he is scheduled to be arraigned in Town Court Monday.

Patrolman Emanuel Motola said that Burke's car was hit by a car driven west on Park St. by Frank Haynes, 22, of 55 Foster St. The impact forced the Haynes vehicle into a parked car owned by Laura M. Wright of Hartford, being used at the time by Joseph A. Ringuette, 42, of Hartford.

No one was hurt but both the Haynes and Burke cars received extensive damages and had to be towed away. The Wright vehicle received minor rear end damage, police said.

Gray-Tone Windows Grace St. Paul's in Glastonbury

By Alfred Sheinwold

Stained glass windows at St. Paul's Church, which was formally dedicated in ceremonies held Saturday, are of unusual interest. Designed and fabricated by the Rambush Studios of New York, they are of antique type glass. Delicate grisaille paintings on individual panes are permanently fused by firing.

The theme of the windows is derived from the dedication of the Roman Catholic church to St. Paul and depicts scenes concerning the great missionary saints of past centuries.

The first in the series is the Primacy of St. Peter when the keys were bestowed upon him by our Lord. The second window portrays the missionary zeal of St. Paul holding a book which as he preaches to bystanders. As in each of the series the pictorial background conveys a message. In this window a sailboat of ancient times depicts his trials and journeys as a missionary.

Next is the Apostle of the Irish, St. Patrick, in the confounding of the Druids at Tara, followed by St. Augustine, missionary in England, and the Spanish saints, Cyril and Methodius for their zealous work among the Slav nations. The great priest and martyr of modern Poland, St. Stanislaus is the subject of the last window on one side of the church.

The window nearest the entrance on the opposite side depicts St. Francis Xavier, the Apostle of India and Japan, but best known and loved for his gentleness with animals and birds. Another first saint, St. Rose of Lima, appears as a mystical vision in the next window. The Auriesville martyrs, St. Isaac Jogues, St. Rene Goupil and St. John Lalande who worked among the Indian savages are depicted. Founder of some other missions in California, Father Junipero Serra is shown baptizing an Indian.

The last in the series are of Mother Cabrini, foundress of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart and Mother Seton, foundress of the Sisters of Charity. Both were renowned for their work in education.

Side windows in the gallery contain the coat of arms of Pope Pius XII and the Archbishop O'Brien, while those in the hall show saints and historic figures associated with the ancient abbey of Glastonbury in England, known as the Mother of Saints.

The $400,000 building of colonial design has a seating capacity of 600. Expansion needs are met by a motor-operated wall which can be rolled back to add seating for an additional 300 people in the wing. Normally, the wing with its separate entrance will be used as a hall for church activities.

Potter to Head State Dinner

Democratic State Chairman John M. Bailey announced today the appointment of Donald J. Potter of Glastonbury, high sheriff of Hartford County, as chairman of the Jefferson-Jackson dinner to be held at the Hotel Statler in Hartford March 8.

The traditional $100-a-plate dinner is an annual affair and is expected to draw a capacity crowd as an opener for the 1958 campaign.

Sheriff Potter has held this top county post since his election in 1950. He served previously as a member of the House of Representatives from this town and was first selectman for four terms.

Prominent in Democratic circles, Sheriff Potter is a past president of the Hartford County Young Democratic Assn. and is active in community and civic affairs.

A veteran of World War II, Sheriff Potter was education and training officer with the Veterans Administration prior to his election as sheriff.

A list of committee members will be announced by Sheriff Potter for the March 8 dinner. A prominent national Democrat will be invited to make the main address at the party conclave which will be addressed also by Gov. A. Ribicoff and State Chairman John M. Bailey.

Workers Filling Holes in Roads

Gaping holes and cracks opened town roads by the recent snow storm and its aftermath were being repaired by Highway Department workers today.

Sixteen men with eight trucks were patching up potholes, according to Fred Lewis, department foreman.

They were working on Park St., Chestnut St., the W. Middle Tpke. and other streets, Lewis said.

No repairs have been found necessary so far on roads covered with new State-developed asphalt mix last summer, the foreman added. "It's done a wonderful job," he said.

The department is planning to cover more roads with the mix this year.

On the State's Center St. highway workers were patching numerous holes yesterday. The stretch of road is slated for reconstruction to improve drainage and surface as soon as the State Highway Department gets the money, a State spokesman said.

'38A Class Plans Reunion in April

April 12 has been set as the tentative date of the 20th reunion of the Class of 1938A of Manchester High School. Committee members are trying to locate all members of the class by announcing definite plans, Mrs. Jeanette Paton Beechler, committee chairman, said.

The present addresses of Margaret Gewald and Omelan Wilkes are unknown to committee members. They have asked that anyone who may have this information contact a committee member.

Robert Brannick is treasurer of the group; Marjorie McCormack, Broderick, secretary; Bedzel Peterson Clarke, decorations; Arthur Pongratz, guests; Louise Heller, gifts; Gladys Addy Vennart and Robert Holman, entertainment; Russell Alicci is also serving on the committee.

Legionnaires Set To Meet Tonight

Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post, No. 102, American Legion, will meet tonight at 8:15 at the Legion Home.

Commander Eugene Freeman and Past Commander Ralph Casaini, co-chairmen, will discuss publicity and sale of tickets for the upcoming production of the Community Players, sponsored by the post. Proceeds from the event will go into the post's community fund to underwrite its local service projects.

Past Commander Pesaini and William Davis are expected to report on the final plans for the Valentine dance.

Car Hits Truck At Intersection

A 2-car accident at the intersection of Main and Haynes Sts. yesterday led to the arrest of Ray Haberern, 42, of 5 Avon St., charged with passing in a "no passing" zone.

Patrolman William Pearson said that a truck driven by Paul Ouellette, 31, by Robert C. Thompson, 22, of Andover, slowed down to make a left turn into Haynes St. when it was hit by Haberern's car which was attempting to pass on the left.

Damage to the truck, owned by Andrew Anaidi of 123 W. Center St., was estimated at $150. The accused car received damages amounting to about $50. No one was hurt, Pearson said. Haberern was summoned to appear in Town Court Saturday.

Bus Firm Figures Hint Price On Sale of Hartford Division

Hartford, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Connecticut Bus Co. has drafted figures indicating what Hartford might have to pay if it took over the region's bus lines.

A partial breakdown of items was in records submitted yesterday as the company went before the Public Utilities Commission to continue its bid for a fare rise.

Hartford likely would be the original cost of its 559 buses at $7,961,150—94 which it has depreciated to $1,601,948.66 for the whole system in the state. It has taken an original cost of $3,028,220.38 for structures and depreciated it to $2,548,980.89.

In all, the company finds its physical plant has a cost value of $11,490,963.82 but this has been depreciated to show a present value of $4,326,907.66.

Hartford, if it bought its bus division, would pay its share of structures and shop value and bus value.

It would get 259 buses, 102 of them built before 1944. However, it would add to the New Haven railroad for administrative salaries and expenses it shared with the parent company.

Following introduction of the detailed financial listings, the hearing was continued to Feb. 24 at which time the company will be cross-examined on its testimony.

Two Sailors Held On Check Counts

Two New London-based sailors were arrested here yesterday and charged with the fraudulent issue of checks. John W. Moseley, 19, and Richard R. Conlon, 21, a boiler tender, were being held in jail without bond for Town Court arraignment tomorrow.

They were arrested by Patrolmen Allan Smith and Ronald Roberts when a local jeweler notified police that he became suspicious when they tried to cash a check for $47. After being questioned at Police Headquarters, Moseley and Conlon admitted cashing bad checks in Manchester, Rockville and Hazardville, police said.

Moseley made out the checks and Conlon cashed them, police added. Naval authorities today were informed of the arrest. Police Chief Herman O. Schendel said, but the cases will be handled in civilian court. Conlon's home is in Thompsonville and Moseley comes from Red Bank, N. J. They were to leave from the New London base when arrested.

TOT CHOKES TO DEATH

Hartford, Jan. 28 (AP)—Police said that 15-months-old Joyce Ann Kaplan choked to death on a small plastic rattle. The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Kaplan, 153 Edgewood St., was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Court Stays On Schedule, Says Judge

Judge Wesley C. Gryk said today that if an appropriate budget revision can be made, the Town Court of Manchester will take over, from the Police Department, the collection of parking violation fines. The announcement followed the Judge's decision to leave the present court schedule unchanged.

Police Chief Herman G. Schendel requested that court be held more than twice weekly after several of his officers were involved in long trials a week ago Saturday in a session that began at 9 a.m. and didn't end until after 4 p.m.

Until last spring, court sessions were held during the winter on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. In the spring, the summer schedule of Monday and Friday sessions was put into effect. In September, when the schedule was to revert back to the winter setup, the court decided to continue the twice a week system year round, on Mondays and Saturdays.

Two Sessions Held

Because of several disqualification rulings, two court sessions were held simultaneously last Saturday, resulting in all business being finished by 11 a.m. This is further proof that more court sessions per week are necessary, Schendel said.

Judge Gryk, however, said that Saturday's arrangement was just that day only, and would not be continued unless a similar need arises. He also said that he feels that policemen could work out their scheduling of cases so they would not spend much time in court when off duty. In one week last month, policemen scheduled 41 cases for Saturday and only 4 for Monday's session.

While some out-of-town police departments give extra pay for off-duty hours spent in court, Schendel said that he will not recommend any such system here.

Favors Request

On the matter of parking fines, Judge Gryk said that he is in favor of Schendel's request "but only if a budget revision could be made. Such a collection by the court would mean the hiring of a full-time worker. It would take the job away from the officer who mans the Police Headquarters desk. Gryk also said that if there was a change, a new type parking ticket would have to be made.

In addition to requesting the court to take over the fine collecting duties, Schendel is investigating a system whereby it would be more convenient for motorists to pay fines. The plan, Schendel said, calls for the ticket to be in the form of an envelope, permitting the violator to place a check in the mail rather than make a trip to the police station.

BOY SCOUT Notes and News

Troop 47 of the South Methodist Church presented a Charter Award night program Jan. 21 at South Methodist Church, attended by parents and friends of the boys.

The ceremony was opened by Bruce McElroy, Scouting representative for Blackledge District, who described the history of scouting, and presented the troop charter and committeemen registrations. Also participating in the presentation were Harold Porcheron of the Methodist Men's Club, Doug Heisler, institutional representative for South Methodist Church, and Tom Cordner, Troop Committee Expirer chairman.

Scoutmaster Bob Von Deck presented the registration cards to the members of the troop. Following this, a Tenderfoot investiture ceremony was conducted by the scoutmaster. The following boys were awarded their Tenderfoot badges, with the assistance of their parents: Woody Clark, Larry Maney, William Staley, William Johnson, and Joseph Della Fera.

Stanley Olander, Philip Morrissette, David Morrissette, Angelo Pontillo, Irving Perry, Bernard Noble, Carl McAllister, Nicholas Kiddey, Clifford Hutson and Gregory Bradshaw were given 1-year pins; Richard Korney and Richard Trotter, 2-year pins; Louis Barber, Dave Kelsey, Donald Cordner, Dwight McQuade, Edward Diehl and Charles Perkins, 3-year pins and Joe Schibenpflug, 4-year pin.

In the Christmas wreath selling contest first prize went to Dave Kelsey, who received a Camp Pioneer camp registration; second, James Armstrong, a Scout axe and third, Steve Chapin a Scout compass.

Announcements were made of coming Troop activities including a Camp Pioneer camping trip Feb. 1st and 2nd. Movies were shown of "Forestry and Conservation." Refreshments were served by Troop Committee during the social period following the scout program.

Cub Scout Pack 112 held its January meeting at the West Side Rec on Jan. 23. Cubmaster Wayne Carter opened the meeting with a flag ceremony led by the boys in Webelos.

A new Den was welcomed into the Pack: Den 5 with Mrs. Norma Wiese as Den Mother.

The following advancements were awarded: Bruce Dougherty, James Krause, Milton Coelit, Roy Wiese and Thomas Walker, Bobcat pins; Joseph Curtis, Joseph Amato, Robert Bingham, David Regini, Gregory Woodruff, Gordon Palmer and George Clarke, Wolf badges; John Cassinelli, Lion badge and gold arrow; Gene Farrell, Peter Kuzmickas, Michael Kiddy, and Thomas Muldoon, Lion badges and gold and silver arrows; John Maloney, Lion badge and gold and two silver arrows. Denner's stripe went to Gregory Woodruff and Assistant Denner's stripe to Joseph Amato.

Announcement was made that the blue and gold Banquet will be held in the Mess Hall at the Nike Base on Feb. 20 at 7 p.m.

The meeting was closed with the singing of "Taps" by Den 4.

Pack 143 held its meeting at Nathan Hale School on Jan. 24. After the roll call, Mrs. John Ruff's den 3 boys gave the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Cubmaster Staley held inspection and drill and also gave instructions on how to properly receive awards. The following awards were then presented: Joseph Loney, gold and silver arrows for bear badge; Daniel Burnette, gold and silver arrows for wolf badge; Robert Pelletier, gold arrow for wolf badge; Thomas Ruff, bear badge; Michael Staley and Michael O'Brien, bear badges.

Mrs. Ernest Larson's den 1 boys closed the meeting with "The More We Get Together" and everyone joined the boys in singing "Good Night Cub Scouts."

ing for a billion and a half dollars, spread over five years, for school construction.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) would grant 1,000 four-year college scholarships a year to the nation's brightest high school students, and scholarships for summer courses to 116,000 school teachers.

Sens. Monroney and Kerr (D-Okla) and McNamara (D-Mich) are sponsoring a bill that would provide $10 million annually to further scientific education along the same pattern as vocational education is now taught. Monroney said this would be faster and easier than the President's program.

Sen. Hill (D-Ala) and Rep. Elliott (D-Ala) would provide 40,000 science scholarships a year to promising high school students.

The powerful National Education Assn. (NEA) says the President's program puts the emphasis in the wrong place. It is asking direct federal aid to the states, with the states using part of the money for school construction and the rest to raise teachers' salaries. The NEA represents some 750,000 school teachers, from college down to kindergarten.

Finally, there is the Association of American Colleges representing most of the nation's liberal arts schools. Without directly opposing the President's plan, the AAC in convention earlier this month suggested that tax credits to individuals and corporations which support the nation's colleges and universities would be a better way to accomplish its aims.

Many of the nation's leading educators are opposed to any form of federal control.

Eisenhower emphasized in his legislative message that his program was an emergency stop-gap. He told Congress "this is a temporary program and should not be considered as a permanent federal responsibility."

an aged Turkish man and woman yesterday. Both were by military vehicles trying to push through stone-throwing mobs.

The British previously had held their fire but today opened up on a crowd of young Turks trying to enter the walled Turkish quarter of Nicosia to attend the funerals. A number of Turks were wounded.

The killings occurred when a car carrying some of the wounded tried to plunge through a roadblock in defiance of soldiers' orders to halt. The troops opened fire killing two of the car's occupants. A third got a bullet in his throat and was not expected to live.

British military headquarters said two men were killed in disturbances in the Port of Famagusta this morning.

British forces also were reported battling angry crowds of Turks inside the walled sector.

The British imposed a curfew in Famagusta's walled city, and Turkish dock workers, the bulk of the port's labor force, went on strike.

Turkish flags flew at half staff throughout the island in mourning for those killed yesterday.

Osman Orek, secretary of the Island's Turkish Party, told newsmen he would not control his enraged people. He warned that authorities should keep the sector under curfew during the funeral.

The British ordered a curfew on the area yesterday afternoon after two days of pitched battles between British forces and Turkish mobs shouting for partition of this British-ruled Mediterranean island. But thousands of Turkish residents defied the curfew to stage new demonstrations last night.

Regional District No. 8 Board Probes Possibility Of Early State Aid Payment

Major problem before the Regional District 8 Board of Education last night was whether the new school building construction contract can be "wound up" in time to receive an estimated $25,000 in school grant monies during this fiscal year.

Chairman John H. Vreeland said the application for a state grant would have to be submitted to the Department of Education by March 1 for processing by April 1 in order to expect aid in this fiscal term. The application can be filed only after the buildings have been completed and certification presented that all bills are paid.

Yeomans has asked architect Louis J. Drakos to expedite the building completion by J. S. Nash, Inc., of Willimantic, general contractor. Unfinished sections include the auditorium; cafeteria; gymnasium; science and home economics areas.

Upon acceptance of the building, Nash will receive the final payment of five per cent of the total contract in accordance with usual contract procedures. The total contract approximates $1,529,774.

Manager-Cook Hired

The Cafeteria sub-committee announced last night that Mrs. Dorothy Towne of Colchester has been hired as the manager-cook of the regional school cafeteria . . . Mrs. Towne will come to the school on Feb. 17 to work with the sub-committee on purchasing equipment and supplies.

She will also assist in the hiring of additional workers for the cafeteria which is tentatively scheduled to open March 3.

Response to a student questionnaire to determine the number that will participate in the program has been very poor. Consequently, the sub-committee and Mrs. Towne are considering an operation which would serve half of the nearly 500 students enrolled.

Mrs. Towne has been manager of the lunch program at the Central School in Colchester for three years. She has attended summer courses in the field which are conducted by the State Department of Education.

Name Policies Committee

H. Clay Osborn III of Hebron was named chairman of a subcommittee which makes recommendations and presents outlines for policies to be adopted for the board. Other members who volunteered to serve on the committee are John Yeomans and Clifton B. Horne of Andover and William Caffyn Sr. of Marlborough.

It was stated last night that a set of personnel policies had not been established before because the board had been operating in the dual capacity of a school building committee and a board of education.

One of the first policies to be outlined will govern the use of the building by community and or commercial groups.

The Regional District 8 PTSA had requested permission to have dancing classes for high school students held at the new school constructed by Mrs. Stanley Nygren of Hebron. The program is being sponsored by the PTSA although all proceeds will go to the instructor to cover her expenses for records and additional training.

It was decided to inform the PTSA that space is not available for such a program as yet and the matter will be reconsidered at a later date.

Science Teacher Needed

The Board authorized Dr. W. Christof Heisler, superintendent, to hire a science teacher on a two-thirds time basis. This action was recommended by a sub-committee which had found science classes crowded and teacher schedules overloaded.

Dr. Heisler reported that a meeting will be held in approximately two weeks by representatives of the Southern New England Telephone Co. to report to the district on the requests for toll-free service within the three towns.

Salary committee members from the three local boards of education and the regional school board will meet in the regional school at 7:30 o'clock tonight to discuss plans for salary schedules for the coming school year.

The Regional Board will meet again Monday at 8 p.m. in the regional school.

Penn-Texas Set To Sell Holdings In Fairbanks Co.

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—A spokesman for Leopold Silberstein said today that Penn-Texas Corp. "expects to dispose very shortly" of its 46 per cent stock interest in Fairbanks Morse & Co.

Silberstein is board chairman and president of Penn-Texas, big holding company, which hopes to acquire control of Fairbanks, Morse, a heavy machinery manufacturer. The attempt brought about a bitter fight between the two companies.

Penn-Texas directors meet late today. The Silberstein spokesman said the Fairbanks, Morse situation was not scheduled for consideration.

It was understood from other sources that directors would take action on a proposal to sell another Penn-Texas subsidiary. Negotiations were close to complete, it was reported, on sale of the Crescent Co., purchased by Penn-Texas in 1953. The buyer was reported to be John M. Kennedy, president of Crescent in 1953.

$60,000 BRANFORD FIRE

Branford, Jan. 28 (AP) — A stubborn, smoky fire yesterday did an estimated $60,000 damage to a 2-story Main St. building occupied by a hardware store and a shoe repair shop. More than 100 volunteer firemen kept the blaze from spreading to adjacent buildings in the center of this shore line community.

1c Milk Price Boost Labeled Serious Error

He, and dairy officials, said federal regulation of milk prices in this state is the only answer to the problem. A federal market order would regulate the price of out-of-state milk brought into Connecticut, added Merritt. The present state order regulates only milk produced in the state.

Members at the meeting voted unanimously to petition for a federal order for Connecticut. They also voted to contribute to Connecticut Milk for Health, Inc. newly-formed advertising and promotion agency, for the coming year, unless rescinded Merritt is president.

Oppose Cuts in Support

In Albany, N. Y., yesterday, dairy farmers represented, claiming to represent 20,000 dairymen, moved to form a northeastern dairy bloc to fight cuts in federal milk price supports.

In Utica, a speaker told a group of dairymen last night that government subsidies "must go if American agriculture is to remain a free and independent industry, says Agriculture Benson's proposal to lower dairy price supports is a logical part of that program," he said.

Benson has proposed cutting the price supports from the present 90 per cent to 75 per cent. Flexible Parity is a legal standard for determining farm prices as it stands in terms of farmers' expenses.

Groups from nine states agreed in Albany to act as a unit on legislation affecting farmers.

Paul C. Tyler, executive secretary of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, said the Benson proposal would cost northeastern dairymen nearly $100 million a year.

The Albany meeting was called by Eastern, which claims 10,000 members in New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

Tyler said there were the United Milk Producers of New Jersey, which claims 2,000 members, and the Milk Producers Assn. of Fall River, Mass.

William Smith, manager of the New Jersey Cooperative, said he also spoke for dairy cooperatives in Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Eastern Massachusetts and groups had a total membership of about 8,000.

Overproduction Chief Problem

In Utica, George W. Lamb of Westfield, chief executive officer of the National Grape Cooperative Assn., said the chief problem in all phases of agriculture was overproduction.

Government subsidies and government control programs must go if we are to maintain American agriculture as a free and independent industry, and if American farmers are to have a standard of living and a way of life comparable to that of their urban friends," he declared.

Lamb said it was not necessary to cut off all farm subsidies, since that it could be done "here a little, there a little." Benson's proposal is a logical part of that program," he added.

Schoolboy Set To Appear in Musical Show

Paul D. Shea

Paul D. Shea of Sunset Lane, 8-year-old accordionist, will appear in a musical variety show tomorrow night at Talcott Junior High School in West Hartford.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Shea, the fourth grade student at the local elementary school, has been playing the accordion since he was four years old.

The West Hartford show is an annual affair staged by the organization of St. Bridget's Church in West Hartford. Paul has previously played at veterans hospitals with the church youth group.

He was also a member of the troupe in the first minstrel show presented by the Manchester Division of the Southern New England Telephone Co. At that time he was only five years old and his father reports the accordion was bigger than he was.

Warned on Bus Behavior

The Board of Education issued a warning yesterday to high school students and their parents concerning behavior on school buses.

The warning stated the Board is determined that all students shall maintain a satisfactory standard of conduct while on the buses. Students are expected to observe carefully the rules regarding bus behavior. Failure to do so, after notice continued, can only lead to denial of transportation.

More Polio Contributions

'Smoking' Class Set

The Bolton Homemakers will meet tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Community Hall. Mrs. Marie Fava will give instructions in the craft known as "smoking." She will also have a display of hooked articles to show to the members.

Seyvern, as hostess for the meeting are Mrs. Richard Mather and Mrs. Alfred Jones.

Meetings Scheduled

The Board of Finance will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Town Hall.

Mrs. Kenneth Perrett, president of the Women's Society for Christian Service of United Methodist Church, has called a special meeting of the executive committee on Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the church.

The Official Board of United Methodist Church will hold an important meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the church to hear the report of the redecoration committee.

Workshop to Resume

Bolton Workshop will resume its classes in rug braiding at United Methodist Church Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. John Schillinger of South Rd. is instructor for the group.

Car Kills Woman, 74

East Hartford, Jan. 28 (AP)—A 74-year-old woman was killed last night when she was struck by an automobile while on her way to church.

She was Mrs. Mary A. Kennedy, 64 Prospect St.

Police said the woman was struck by a car driven by Valentino Viera, 33, East Hartford.

Authorities said Mrs. Kennedy was crossing the street near her home on her way to St. Mary's Church when she was struck.

Teachers Get Salary Raise

Ellington's teachers will get a salary raise as the result of a School Board vote at a special meeting last week.

The board approved new salary scale from $4,000 to $6,200 with 11 steps. A $200 increase separates the steps.

Teachers had proposed a schedule similar to the one approved. They asked, however, for increments varying from $150 to $250 between steps.

The schedule provides for an added $520 for a teacher with a masters' degree and another $250 for a teacher with a certificate indicating a year's work beyond a master's degree.

Dr. Howard Mason, superintendent of schools, will receive a $1,000 increase in salary, $500 of it retroactive to last July and the other $500 voted at last Thursday's board meeting.

Hospital Patient

Marjorie Jean Thompson, one of the triplets of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson of Maple St. is a patient at Hartford Hospital.

4-H Offered Chicks

Baby chicks are being offered again this year to 4-H Club members through the Sears Roebuck Foundation. 4-H Poultry project leaders are planning to have new 4-H members get started in poultry work and girls who have taken part in this project in previous years or who are well grounded in 4-H poultry work are not eligible.

Boys and girls may apply for 50 or 100 straight run sex-link baby chicks. They would be expected to furnish suitable housing and have the equipment with which to raise them.

The chicks for this year's project have been ordered for April 5.

Any further information concerning the project may be obtained by calling Albert B. Gray, county club Agent.

Aborn Transferred

Dale Aborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Empson Aborn of Maple St., a student at the International Silver Co. has been transferred to Wright, Tenn.

Mrs. Aborn and two children left Bradley Field Sunday while Aborn was driving his car to that city.

Tomorrow's Questions

Four propositions come before the voters of Manchester tomorrow. There is some need and justification for each one of them; otherwise they would not be before us. There is not, however, the same degree of urgency about all of them.

The clearest urgency of all, it seems to us, applies to the proposed addition to Mary Cheney Library, for which a bond issue of $230,000 is being asked. This institution is now seriously crowded, from every point of view, with rooms for its books and no room for its users. There is no make-shift arrangement which can curtail the attention or postpone the emergency. The library is as important to the educational process in Manchester as any school itself; we have answered the need for expansion of our schools again and again; we are being asked to do this one relatively modest thing for the library and we should do it, by voting yes on Question 2.

Next in equal in degree of urgency is the proposed $300,000 addition to Washington School, basically to provide eight additional classrooms. Here we are still concerned with what has by this time become the routine post-war demand for more school space. We cannot escape the need; hitherto we have met it; we should keep on with the job by voting yes on Question 1.

The proposed bond issue of $150,000 for the construction of a swimming pool at Globe Hollow should also, in our opinion, be approved. Present swimming conditions at Globe Hollow are far below the ideal; if we don't build the pool we shall undoubtedly continue swimming there. But the risk could be that of some human life. The pool should be delayed, but the gamble involved recommends that we vote yes on Question 4.

Question 3, which proposes a bond issue of $405,000 for a filter plant for the town's water supply, should properly be left to a decision of those who get their water from the town system. Although the town as a whole assumes financial obligation for the bonds involved, it will be the people who buy the town's water who pay for them and for the improvement itself. The question, for them, is whether they want to have such an improvement in the quality of their water badly enough to pay this amount for it. If they vote for it, they will pay for it, and it is their business. Conversely, those of us who do not get the water and who will not foot the bills for it should neither force this improvement upon them, nor deny it to them.

The Tractor Stations

Those who make rigid predictions about the course of Communism, whether they be prophets within the movement or outside it, are subject to continual error. Marx and Lenin and Stalin all sleep in whirling graves. But outside experts on the course of the experiment in Russia enjoy little comfort either. The fact is that the most rigid social, political and economic experiment in human history is continually betraying both its own prophets and outside analysts.

Stalin whirled a few more times the other day, and outside analysts found themselves searching for alibis, when Khrushchev announced the impending liquidation of the machine tractor stations, which have hitherto dispensed the services of state-owned tractors and equipment to the collective and individual farmers of Russia.

In this role, they held the fate of crops and the welfare of individual farmers within the power of the state. In this role, they served as political eyes for the central government. In this role, they kept the farmers of Russia away from the capitalistic experience of owning their own equipment.

For these reasons, they have been retained through the years, although agricultural economists inside and outside Russia, could see that greater Russian farm production might be achieved if control of these machine services was decentralized.

The ideological peril was that farmers might feel more economic and political freedom. That was why Stalin insisted on retaining the stations. Most outside analysts of Communism, on the other hand, have consistently held that the inevitable course of Communism would be toward the tightening and multiplication of such controls rather than toward their abandonment or relaxation.

What happens, instead, is that Khrushchev, still valiantly proclaiming that he is following the party line, upsets both the line and the outside experts by departing from the supposedly inevitable direction of Communist power, and decreeing a relaxation of a control. The party line would decree he shouldn't. The outside experts say he couldn't.

Khrushchev does, and where does that leave us?

It should leave us with a healthy awareness that neither the rigidity its own founders prescribed for Communism, nor the rigidity with which outside experts analyze it, is in harmony with some still more fundamental laws of human behavior.

Neither the dogma of Communism, nor the dogma about Communism, has any final, reliable answer about how Communism will develop and behave. Each puts life and policy inside Russia into a rigid mold, and proclaims that things can develop and go only one way. But humanity refuses to be cast. That, we suspect, is the only real inevitability that can safely be stated.

The Task Of Being Popular

The first of the exiled political leaders returning to Venezuela—returning, as it happened, from a free and comfortable exile spent in the United States—made it a point to open his new political career by delivering an attack on the United States, for our alleged support of Latin American dictators.

Whether or not he believed his own charge, he believed it would be a popular thing to say.

In Guatemala's three man presidential race, the equal in degree of urgency is the proposed $300,000 addition to Washington School, basically to provide eight additional classrooms. Here we are still concerned with what has by this time become the routine post-war demand for more school space. We cannot escape the need; hitherto we have met it; we should keep on with the job by voting yes on Question 1.

Pro and Con

To the Editor:

The Manchester Taxpayer League's position in regards to the forthcoming Capital Improvement Referendum is as follows:

Washington School Addition—

The League is in favor of this project on the basis that this addition will bring the school closer to a "first class" elementary school classification. The architectural design is basicly sound and the cost per square foot is in line with the state average of $17.17 per square foot.

Porter-Howard Filter Plant—

The League is in favor of this project. The implementing of this Filter Plant will not directly affect the present tax structure, as the cost of the project will be amortized by Water Dept. revenue. People who pay close to fifty dollars a year for water have the right to expect that it be odorless and "bug" free.

Mary Cheney Library Addition—

A. The Library Board has failed to make full use of its existing facilities, namely the Whiton Library. At present the Whiton Library is being used at 50% of its capacity. Said Library also has a $175,000 building fund available. With a more progressive approach to their planning, the Library Board could incorporate the Whiton facilities so as to eliminate the overcrowding at the Cheney Library. Said planning would induce more people to use the Whiton Library, would in turn help to eliminate the "North End," "South End" barrier which is a deterrent to the future development of Manchester.

B. A detailed study of the plans for the new addition revealed that absolutely no thought has been given to the taxpayer's dollar in regard to cost. The plans include the complete redecorating of the main library (including the replacing of the front doors). The new addition is luxuriously appointed throughout, said appointments include rubber based cork flooring, a meeting room (150 capacity), a completely equipped kitchenette which will be used to supply refreshments to the select groups which will have the use of the meeting room. Said meeting room is wasteful duplication as the Whiton Library has a 250 person capacity auditorium available.

It was noted that the Civic Minded supporters of the library addition left as soon as the library public hearing was over, apparently their civic responsibility did not include the remaining items on the agenda.

Globe Hollow Swimming Pool—

The League is not opposed to swimming pools in general but is opposed to the location and cost of the Globe Hollow Swimming Pool. The League's position is that two pools could be built, located in regard to density of population, for the cost of the Globe Hollow Pool. Cost would be controlled by locating the pools so as to take advantage of present school facilities. These locations would be within reasonable walking distance of the majority of Manchester children and would eliminate the 20,000 dollar cost contemplated for parking, grading and landscaping at the Globe Hollow Pool.

For Library Expansion

To the Editor:

Last month the Junior Chamber of Commerce were conducted on a personal tour through the Mary Cheney Library. Miss Anna French and her staff pointed out to the visiting group the existing facilities and the desperate need for expanding facilities. Our town must keep up with the growing cultural and recreational interests of its adults and school children. The increased demand for a new emphasis on learning and information by President Eisenhower necessitates enlarged library services.

The Manchester Junior Chamber of Commerce urge all Manchester citizens to vote favorable for the library expansion program at the town referendum, Wednesday, Jan. 29.

A Thought for Today

Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

In an old family scrapbook I found this selection which impressed me as a good code for young people to follow this week, celebrated nationally in the Christian church as Youth Week. Wise the youth of Manchester, sometimes forget that little gestures can mean a great deal.

"SEVEN THINGS YOU NEVER REGRET:

Showing kindness to an aged person.

Destroying the letter written in anger.

Offering the apology that saves a friendship.

Stopping a scandal that was wrecking a reputation.

Helping a young person to find himself.

Taking time to show your mother consideration.

DISEASES INCREASE

Hartford, Jan. 28 (AP)—All communicable diseases showed increases in Connecticut last week, the State Health Department says. Mumps jumped to 172 from 126 for the week before, and measles cases rose from 97 to 137. Up also were german measles, influenza, scarlet fever, whooping cough, syphilis and gonorrhea.

Youngstown, Ohio, is known as the "Rubber Valley of America," because of its steel mills.

By A. R. O.

Our standards for measuring people in politics are relatively simple. If we never catch them with a knife in somebody's back, if we never catch them pushing somebody else, if we never find them indulging in plots and cabals or even in thought or word which reflects enmity to somebody else, then we proceed to give them just about our highest mark.

We are not forced to give this mark very often. And it would be very rare to find ourselves giving this mark to two people at once.

But the announcement of Mrs. Mildred Allen that she will not be a candidate for renomination as secretary of state on the Republican ticket is the signal for such a rare occasion.

We have never heard, or heard of, Mildred Allen taking anybody apart, questioning anybody's work or intelligence, plotting against anybody, questioning anybody's right to win success and favor in the game, showing an edge against any individual.

If our reporting is by any chance a little too generous for any human being, if there have been temporary lapses we may have missed, we still move that they be stricken out.

The general top impression has been one of complete decency, and of a strong sense of the dignity of human lapses, if there have been any.

And, what is indeed very rare in politics, she leaves public work essentially the same person she was when she entered it, as quiet, as modest, as unpoised and unmangled as she was at the beginning.

And she has never been interested in the downward path of anybody. To the contrary, she has lived very well by letting live.

As we thus give her our highest mark, it seems fitting to recall that similar credit has been bestowed in the same household.

Twelve years ago the decency, the same good tolerance of others, the same refusal to demand for self, the same good inability to become involved in that brand of politics which seeks to find political fortune in the misfortune of others, has also distinguished the public career of Edward N. Allen, her husband.

He too maintained an interior health, sanity, decency and kindness of outlook which kept him from ever playing the political game as most others play it. And Ned Allen's success story, in ferraining Ned Allen, was the more remarkable because he did indeed have human ambition, which might have tempted him into swapping in character for a better chance at becoming governor. But he managed to be in the game, and get out of it, without creating an enemy, or deserving one. He was, in fact, even kind to those who didn't deserve it from him.

So here are two who have gone through the fires of politics untouched, purely and simply, it seems to us, because they are the kind of people they are. It is very nice indeed that they are husband and wife.

At midyear 15,605 aliens were working in Norway, including 6,919 Danes and 3,970 Swedes.

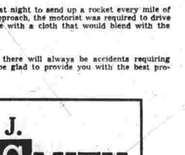
THE PERSECUTED MOTORISTS - - - -



The introduction of the horseless carriage at the turn of the century brought a rash of regulations to control this new form of transportation.

One state required motorists driving at night to send up a rocket every mile of the way. If a team of horses should approach, the motorist was required to drive off the road and cover his automobile with a cloth that would blend with the countryside.

Whatever regulations there may be, there will always be accidents requiring reliable Automobile insurance. We'd be glad to provide you with the best protection and service.

Saglio Gives CMPA Report

Romolo Saglio of Gilead, president of District 10 of the Connecticut Milk Producers Assn. gave his first annual report to members meeting in an all day session in Yeomans Hall yesterday.

As president, he is also the district representative on the CMPA board of directors and as such, he was appointed to the state transportation committee this year. His report gave basis for questions put to a panel of experts in the milk field. On this panel were Joseph Gill, state commissioner of agriculture; Cal Cobb from the state milk administration office; Joseph Dudley, vice president of CMPA, Ken Guyer, its manager; and John Berimet, assistant manager.

Covered quite thoroughly was the federal order now in operating of milk which has been drawn up and was filed last week for public hearing.

If passed, Guyer said, it is possible the order might go into effect next August. This order, as outlined, would govern all milk dealers in Connecticut, except those who produce their own milk, and is intended as protection for local milk producers against milk being brought in from other states at a lesser price than can be purchased for in Connecticut.

Members were told that CMPA leaders have given much thought in response to a question, Guyer said, it could be defeated by 51 per cent of the dealers. There are 104 of them in the state.

The possibility that the federal order might eliminate the need for the milk administrator was also discussed. If the order goes into effect, there will be a great deal of the work of that office taken over by another department, Guyer speaking for the administrator's office, said that of the 176 dealers in Connecticut, 10 of them do over 4,000 quarts a day, which is 17 per cent of total sales, and only five of these buy outside the state, forty-four dealers handle one other 83 per cent of daily sales. He said if the milk administrator controlled the smaller dealers, less the five who buy outside, it would still give them plenty to do, from the financial responsibility and fair trade law work to handle. Some discussion followed about the wisdom of trying out the federal order proposals before eliminating the Milk Administrators office. However, all these things are yet to be decided.

Members were told that sales in November and December were lowest in years, and that the interfat content last June was the greatest ever known in the east.

Steady production brought Seremit suggested that a year round price in milk production would make for a better price in milk. At present there is always a period in the year when production is low and anticipation of how much and when makes a great deal of difference in the disposal of milk and the price it brings. What to do with surplus milk was discussed and in addition to the present cheese business, which is a large one for the CMPA, it was suggested that ice cream would make a profitable side-line. Guyer told of the pros and cons in this suggestion, which would be a completely new line for the association were it undertaken.

Price of Milk

Winthrop Porter of Hebron asked about the 15 cents a quart price farmers are quoted in papers as getting for their milk. He asked: "Am I the only one who isn't getting it?"

Guyer responded by saying how "hard it is to get newspaper reporters to report the facts as they are given and that once in a while on the back pages one might find the true statement, after the false one has made half inch headlines on the front page. For a fact," he said, "farmer does not get fifteen cents a quart for his milk, except a very small portion of his shipment which may go directly into the bottle. Mostly, the milk, put in a pool, is graded into various prices, including the very low priced milk which is separated and used for cheese. In a production period, the skim milk is a total loss."

Gill said his office would like to see Manchester participate in dairy herds instituted such as has been carried out on Burcolola. He reminded farmers that they should not purchase an animal without a clean health chart.

Members Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Maranik of Utley Hill, and Boris Lenefsky of Hebron were honored as 25-year members of the Assn. and were presented with 25-year pins by Joseph Dudley, vice president.

Twenty-year certificates were presented to Max Kasuman of Post Hill, which was accepted by his son Barney; Mary Jurovaty and Stanley Gasper of Andover and Paul Baron of Hebron. Others elected for the coming year were: Vice president, Clarence Rathbun of Hebron, secretary-treasurer, Edward Smith, Hebron; delegates: Paul Kralovich of Andover, Joseph Gill, Columbia, Milton Lord, Marlborough, Winthrop Porter and Harry Kisner, Hebron.

Edward Smith was elected as delegate to the annual meeting; Alternate prize, electric sauce pans, were won by Paul Kralovich and Homer Hills of Hebron.

Byington Confirmed

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—Homer M. Byington Jr. of Darien, Conn., is the new United States Ambassador to Malaya, following Senate confirmation of his nomination by President Eisenhower.

This is the first ambassadorship for Byington during his 13 years as a member of the United States diplomatic service. His most recent assignment was as consular and deputy chief of the United States diplomatic mission in Madrid, Spain.

Byington's father was in the diplomatic service for 47 years, ending his career as consul general in Montreal. Byington, a Yale graduate, has a wife and one son, Homer M. Byington III.

Hebron
Many Attend Church Sing

Weather conditions Sunday evening did not prevent a good sized congregation from attending the Choral service at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, sponsored by the Church Young People's Fellowship.

It was Theological Education Sunday, and at the morning service the Rev. Douglas F. Pimm spoke on the vocation offered young men for the ministry, and the need of support from the church people.

Additional news of the church is that there will be a basketball game played tonight. The team will leave Phelps Hall at 6:15.

The confirmation class will meet at 3:15 p.m. tomorrow in Phelps Hall, and on Thursday at 2 p.m. the Fleur de Lis will meet at the same place.

There will also be a Youth Week service at 3:15 in the church and Albert Taylor Jr., will deliver the address.

Congregational Church News

Congregational Church news is that the pastor, the Rev. Herbert W. Dickerson, gave the first of a series of talks on the Bible at the Junior Pilgrim Fellowship meeting Sunday evening.

The Rev. Mr. Dickerson announces that there will be a teachers' training class this evening, to be led by him. This will be open to the teacher staffs of Hebron and Gilead and to anyone else interested.

The minister also desires to have the names of young people or older ones who wish to attend a training class for church membership during the week after school hours during Lent. New members will be received into the church on Palm Sunday.

The Senior YPS's attended a Tolland County Assn. Winter Rally in Rockville Sunday afternoon. Members met at the Hebron church at 2:15 p.m., each carrying a box lunch.

An advance notice is that the Connecticut Laymen's Fellowship, Tolland Association, will meet here Feb. 18 at 7 p.m. All men are welcome by the Women's Fellowship. Dinner will be served. Members are asked to bring others with them.

The Congregational Sunday School classes have voted to send a ton of food to meet the need of foreign lands. This can be done by each Sunday school youngster giving 25 cents.

Group Changes Name

Another pure Congregational news is that the Gilead Ladies Aid Society is now going out of existence. That is to say the society has now become The Gilead Women's Fellowship. That seems to be the accepted term nowadays, and everybody must keep up with the times, we suppose.

Some may rather miss the older and more familiar term. It has been "Ladies' Aid" for so long it will take some time to get used to the other title.

Where Did It Go?

It must be the proverbial January Thaw that is in force just now. That 18-inch snow with which we were delegated a short time ago is disappearing rapidly and green grass is taking its place. We wouldn't be surprised to see dandelions popping up before long if this keeps on.

Tickets Available

Mrs. Richard M. Grant has tickets on hand for the Lincoln Day Dinner sponsored by the Tolland County Republican Women's Club. The dinner will be held Feb. 15 in the Italian Benefit Society Hall at Stafford Springs at 7 p.m.

Polio Drive Started

Mrs. Frederick J. Wythe, who is again chairman of the local polio drive, announces that folders for contributions are being sent this week to all townspeople. Mrs. Wythe went through all the suffering and uncertainty of polio herself about two years ago. She now shows only slight traces of the effects of the disease, and has been able to take up the teaching of art at the local regional school.

73 SEEK STATE JOB

Hartford, Jan. 28 (AP)—There have been 73 applications for the job of state personnel director, the State Civil Service reports. Saturday was the deadline for such applications. The post was made vacant by the retirement last Dec. 30 of Glendon A. Scoboria of Cromwell.

Going Steady Early Can Hurt Girl's Chance for Marriage

By JOHN BECKLER

Los Angeles, Jan. 28 (AP)—Going steady at too early an age can hurt a girl's chances of getting married, warns an expert on the problem of the unwed woman.

"It stunts her intellectual and social growth," says Dr. Richard H. Klemer, 39, associate general director of the American Institute of Family Relations.

"Suppose she doesn't marry this boy she's going with since grammar school. She is then far less intellectually and socially equipped for marriage than girls who have been dating lots of boys.

"And women shouldn't be angry or upset about other girl friends their sweethearts or husbands may have had. They're the ones who polished that diamond in the rough the woman now loves."

Dr. Klemer, interviewed yesterday at the institute, added that after a girl passes her early 20s, going steady is desirable if she wants to get married.

"After that age, if she is still flitting from one casual acquaintance to another it could indicate she is unable to develop the deep emotional relationship needed for marriage."

Dr. Klemer, who is married and the father of a 17-month-old daughter, said his studies have convinced him that the technique of acquiring a mate is not instinctive with human beings but has to be learned.

His conclusions are based on a wartime career as a sergeant who recruited WACs, a 3-year study of noble, or marriageable, women for his doctor of philosophy degree, and a 4-year stint as a teacher at a girls' college—where he studied as he taught.

Parental conditioning is an important factor in determining whether a girl wants to get married, he said, but the decisive factor is an actual trip to the altar is whether the girl wants to make the effort to meet and make a favorable impression on a man.

"The way to make a man fall in love with you is not by your beauty and wit," Dr. Klemer advises women. "It is by meeting his emotional needs. Perhaps he wants someone to encourage him—or just to listen to him.

"What it comes down to is that you win by letting someone else win."

Trinity Hikes Tuition

Hartford, Jan. 28 (AP)—President Albert C. Jacobs said today that the annual tuition rate at Trinity College has been increased by $250 to $1,050, effective in September.

A $100 increase became effective at the start of the current college year.

The increase, Jacobs explained, was prompted by a desire to improve faculty salaries and to meet increased costs of goods and services. He added that it is the establishment of college fees on a more realistic basis and that further increases are inevitable.

Trinity has an all-male enrollment of 970 students.

Town Votes Tomorrow On Bond Issue Items

The voter who pays will decide tomorrow whether he wants any or all of four town building projects estimated to cost a total of $1,085,000 in bonds.

He will go to his district polling place between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. to answer "yes" or "no" to the following questions:

1. Shall the town construct, furnish, and equip an addition to and major alteration of the Washington School, the estimated cost of which is $350,000?

2. Shall the town construct, furnish and equip an addition to and major alteration to the Mary Cheney Library, the estimated cost of which to the town is $230,000?

3. Shall the town construct and equip a filter plant for the Porter and Howard public water supply reservoirs, the estimated cost of which is approximately $465,000?

4. Shall the town construct and equip a new swimming pool at Globe Hollow, the estimated cost of which is approximately $150,000?

Actually, the estimated cost of all of the projects except the filter plant is higher than the figures on the voting machine.

The questions the voter will be answering are on the part of the estimated costs to be paid off with bonds. Some other payments for the projects have already been made or money is available to make them.

Polling Places

To the bond costs, interest payments will be added after the bonds are sold if the majority of those who go to the polls answer "yes" to the questions.

District polling places in different sections of town will be:

District 4—Community Y on N. Main St.

In this election, voters will be not only registered electors of the town, but also unregistered owners of property assessed at $1,000 or more in the last grand list. Unregistered property owners will vote at the East Side recreation building.

Bonds plus interest would be paid off by the general taxpayer for the school, library, and pool.

According to the controller's figures, the town debt chargeable to the general taxpayer now stands at $9,384,000. If bonds for the school, library, and pool are added, the increase would be $680,000 and the total would be $10,064,000, not including any interest charges.

About 17½ per cent of the total income of the town for general operations is now going into debt principal and interest payments. They are amounting to about $958,000 this year. In terms of the tax dollar, which does not cover all of the total income, this is a little less than 7 2-5 mills out of the estimated income from the 31-mill general town tax.

Martin's Figures

According to General Manager Richard Martin's figures, town debt payments with the new construction would amount to an estimated $991,000 next year. This would be 1/5-mill more in payments for debts than this year.

The manager's estimates are based on the assumption that bonds would be issued for 15 years at interest of 3 per cent and that the State would pay about $6,000 a year in reimbursements for the school construction costs.

No one knows, however, what the term of the bonds would be or what the interest charge would be.

As for the Water Department, the present debt is $1,254,000, according to the controller's figures. Addition of $465,000 for the filter plant would bring the total to $1,659,000, not including interest.

According to the Water Department budget as adopted, income is supposed to be $393,650 for the current fiscal year and debt principal and interest payments, $102,750.

According to the manager, income would be sufficient to pay off the filter plant bonds and interest although "other things that may happen" might make it necessary to change water rates, "possibly in the near future."

Since a recent report from a Hartford auditing firm indicated that income may not be sufficient to pay off present indebtedness if capital improvements are continued at the present rate, the Water Department picture is not clear.

Total Costs

Actual total costs of all projects according to present estimates would be:

Washington School, $327,585.
Mary Cheney Library, $285,446.
Filter Plant, $465,000.
Globe Hollow swimming pool, $152,740.

Some money has come or will come from the town's municipal reserve fund and $40,000 for the library is to come from the Drake trust fund.

Tax Tempus Fugits

Local taxpayers have five more days to pay their 1956 taxes at the collector of revenue's office before interest is charged.

They still owe $766,468.92.

The collector's office will be open Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon. Interest will be charged if taxes are not paid by midnight on Saturday.

Payments made through the mail must be postmarked before midnight on Saturday or interest will be charged.

Obituary

Mrs. Fannie K. Ward

Mrs. Fannie K. Ward died at her home yesterday in Southfield, Mass. She was the mother of Mrs. Sedrick Straughan, 46 School St.

Born June 15, 1877 in Troy, N. Y., she was the daughter of John and Jane Shepard Kellogg. Besides her daughter, she is survived by her husband, Wesley Ward; a son, Harold J. of Springfield, Mass.; five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Southfield Congregational Church. Burial will be in the Lee Cemetery in Southfield. Friends may call at the Newkirk Funeral Home in Canaan Wednesday afternoon and evening.

George L. Hooey

George Lincoln Hooey, 59, of 24 Orchard St., died last night at his home after a short illness. He was a paperhanger and painter by trade and had been a resident of Manchester for 38 years.

He was born in Plattsburg, N. Y., on Feb. 12, 1898, the son of the late Alonzo and Harriett Goodspeed Hooey. He was a veteran of World War I, serving in the U.S. Navy, and was a member of the Army and Navy Club.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Fannie Dydall Hooey; a son, David L. Hooey of this town; two daughters, Mrs. William Hensel of Manchester and Mrs. William Smith of Tolland; two brothers, Thomas Hooey of Manchester and Robert Hooey of Stratford; a sister, Miss Hazel Hooey of Manchester; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Episcopal Church Thursday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Veterans' Field, East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., tomorrow from 3 to 5:30 and 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Mrs. Susanna B. Anderson

Mrs. Susanna Blumgren Anderson, of 30 Spruce St., East Hartford, widow of Charles G. Anderson, died last night at a Hartford convalescent home. She was the mother of Gustaf Anderson of this town.

Born in Sweden May 10, 1869, she has been a resident of East Hartford for 70 years. In addition to her son here, she leaves two other sons, Albert Anderson of South Windsor and Carl Anderson of East Hartford; five daughters, Mrs. Hilma Hagos of New Haven, Mrs. Esther Hruby of Rockville, Mrs. Edith Russell and Mrs. Elsie Cirigliano, both of Hartford, and Mrs. Ethel Wennerberg of East Hartford; 19 grandchildren, 22 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p.m. from the Newkirk and Whitney Funeral Home, 318 Burnside Ave. Burial will be in Center Cemetery, East Hartford.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. today.

Funerals

Wolfred P. Caisse

Funeral services for Wolfred P. Caisse, 198 Porter St., were held this morning at 8:30 from the John B. Burke Funeral Home. A solemn requiem Mass was celebrated at St. James Church at 9 a.m. The Rev. John F. Hannon was the celebrant, the Rev. John P. Blanchfield the deacon and the Rev. Joseph H. McCann, sub-deacon.

Burial was in St. James' Cemetery. The Rev. James T. O'Connell read the committal service.

Police Sergeant Takes Own Life

Bridgeport, Jan. 28 (AP)—A medical examiner has ruled as suicide the death of Police Sgt. George R. Pohlman, 43, who was found shot to death in his parked car last night.

Dr. George Molner, the medical examiner, said Pohlman died of a single shot in the temple from the policeman's service revolver. The weapon was found on the front seat of the vehicle, parked in a public park.

Pohlman had planned a visit to a physician yesterday morning, according to Police Supt. John A. Lydon. Lyddy said he was unaware of the nature of the consultation.

Policemen making a routine check of the park grounds discovered the body shortly after 9 p.m. The man had been dead about five hours, the medical examiner said.

On the front seat with the weapon was a note to Pohlman's wife. Its contents were not disclosed.

Pohlman had been a member of the city police force since 1939 and a sergeant since 1954. In addition to his widow, he leaves an 18-year-old son and a daughter, 14.

With Zeller now formally in the picture, party observers feel that the next move is up to Bradley as the two are politically close and have indicated that they would not contest one another for the nomination.

Two other avowed candidates in the race are Congressman-at-Large Antoni N. Sadlak of Rockville and State Sen. Benjamin L. Barringer of New Milford.

In announcing his candidacy, Zeller said that for some time his friends "Republican, independents and, yes, Democrats, have urged me to seek the gubernatorial nomination.

"I have hesitated to enter the field, waiting to see what personalities would emerge who could perhaps better lead our party to victory; but still, the pressure continues for me to announce my candidacy for this important office."

He said that with his background of nearly 15 years of dealing with the "heavy and complex responsibilities of state government, I believe I know Connecticut's financial problem as well as the problem concerned with our economy in relation to probable declining revenues and increased costs of government."

As the state enters an election year, the 59-year-old State Comptroller said that "many Republicans are infected with a defeatist attitude and others are perhaps too easily influenced by some of the newspapers who say we can't beat our Democratic opponent."

"Well," he added, "they said the same thing in 1954 when we really faced a formidable opponent." (In that year, Republican Raymond E. Baldwin beat the late Gov. Wilbur L. Cross.)

Assailing Governor Ribicoff's record, he said that the Democratic governor "has made known his views on many state matters but the necessary action is found lacking."

In contrast, Zeller said, the 1957 session of the General Assembly passed more good legislation than any Assembly in the preceding 10 years.

He said that the public should be grateful for a Republican-approved program that last year brought $25 million in state grants-in-aid towns and municipalities with their everrising school costs.

"I believe that we can win, and we shall win if we get the Republican story, the Republican record, across to the people; and" we shall behind the Republican candidates who are nominated at the June convention," he concluded.

Library Lines

The "Congressional Quarterly Almanac" is a unique guide to the complex activities of Congress. The latest volume, covering the first session of the 85th Congress, has recently arrived in the Mary Cheney Library. It's an impressive 1,000 pages of information on every aspect of the House and Senate.

Here are the recent presidential messages, voting records, detailed statistics of the 1956 campaign finances, information on all bills introduced and their fate, major legislation arranged by subject, listing of lobbyists and their employers and a section on congressional investigations.

One section is particularly interesting. It involves money. First there is a list of all those who gave $5,000 or more in the 1956 election and then a much longer list by states and party of all those who gave $500 or more. Included also in this section are the 1956 campaign receipts and spending of all major national groups and all candidates.

The final section of this invaluable guide is devoted to a statistical discussion of questions arising out of recent events. Analysis of farm and labor votes, changes in congressional apportionment, differences within the parties, and the combinations of congressional block.

Lawyer Speaks To Women's Club

Atty. Irving L. Aronson was introduced by Mrs. E. H. Phillips as guest speaker at the January meeting of the Women's Club last evening. He took for his subject, "Should the Lawyer Take the Case?" and used examples of recent cases to show his audience how a lawyer has to make decisions "which are often highly criticized by the public.

A business meeting preceded Atty. Aronson's message, at which nine new members were welcomed by Mrs. Delmont Ballard. They were Mrs. Omer Gingras, Mrs. Glenn Mirth, Mrs. William Zimmerman, Mrs. John Nelson, Mrs. Arthur Miller, Mrs. Russell Wilson, Mrs. Chester Ferris, Mrs. Benjamin Koulaxi and Mrs. William F. Smith.

Party sandwiches, tea and coffee were served on decorated tables. Co-chairmen of hostesses were Mrs. Howard Lockward and Mrs. Pierre Teets. Mrs. Robert C. Barnes, Mrs. Leroy M. Beckett and Mrs. John Chamberlain poured.

JUNTA WINS SUPPORT

Caracas, Venezuela, Jan. 28 (AP)—Venezuela's ruling junta, won the support today of the civilian group that sparked the overthrow of dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez. The civilian patriotic junta issued a new manifesto declaring it had confidence in the national unity and was fully backing the new regime.

Parker St. Area Residents Oppose Relocation of Street

Property owners in the Parker St. area left little doubt at a Town Planning Commission public hearing last night as to how they felt about a proposal to relocate the street.

The hearing was held to discuss changes which would affect several streets in the town and a requested zoning change, but more than half of the 2-hour meeting was devoted to persons speaking against the proposed relocation which would begin at Mather St. and run in a northerly direction about 5,200 feet east of the present highway before rejoining it 2,100 feet south of Tolland Tpke.

The Commission, seeking to relocate the street as part of its "master plan" for town highways, said it wished to do so in order "to better traffic circulation" and to aid in opening the area for development. The present Parker St. would not be abandoned, Chairman Martin Alvord said.

Lead Opposition

The opposition, led by William Kilpatrick, proprietor of a steel-yard on Mitchell Dr.; William Ostrinsky, waste materials dealer on Parker St. and Atty. Carlo Rottner, "took it from there, with objections to just about everything dealing with the proposed relocation.

Rottner appeared for Norman Rauch, owner of the "old Cushman farm."

Ostrinsky objected to having the entrance on the proposed road at Mather St., because it would "add to an already existing traffic hazard" and "would create a speedway."

He also pointed out that the proposed street would cross the railroad tracks and necessitate the construction of either an overpass or underpass. The former "would cost a fortune," he said, and an underpass wasn't feasible because of the swamp nature of the ground in the area.

If a simple railway crossing were constructed, he said, objections would probably be raised by the railway company which wouldn't want to maintain both it and the present crossing.

Another objection to the proposal was that it "only one to profit if the change went through would be Green Manor Estates."

Rottner opposed the highway on the grounds that his client's proposed sub division would suffer and that it was "tantamount to land-taking without due process of law."

Hits Mill St. Plan

Kilpatrick spent considerable time speaking against the project and also a proposal to extend Mill St. east to Parker St. The new entrance would be north of Mitchell Dr.

Kilpatrick said only a 6-inch water main now runs along Oakland St. and services homes on Mill St., and that it wouldn't be adequate to service more homes in the area. He also claimed it would be "of little benefit" to residents of the street because of the traffic flow.

"Who wants to go to Oakland St.?" he asked.

Switching his verbal gunnery toward the Parker St. proposal, Kilpatrick said he "didn't understand" why the Commission had the street "come out where it does." He wanted to know who would pay for an overpass at the railroad tracks and asked "for whose benefit is the proposed road location being made for?"

He also wanted to know "What are you going to gain going across the railroad tracks?"

Other objections registered by opponents were that they didn't want an "industrial road" going through residential properties and that it would create a new traffic hazard.

Rottner, again speaking for Rauch, said the proposed road would "depreciate the value of my client's proposed subdivision before they were even built."

Another opponent, Russell Hughes, a Parker St. resident, agreed with the others that the relocation would create a large traffic hazard and said that the value of rural property would be affected adversely by the proposed road.

Use as Guide

Several times during the discussion, Alvord reassured the assembly that the town was not going to do anything in the immediate future regarding the proposed road changes, but that the proposed relocation was being considered merely be used "as a guide" to the Commission in planning for future development on their master plan.

"This is a preliminary hearing," he said. "When and if such changes are to be made, a detailed plan for each section will be presented and all property owners affected will be notified so they can attend a public hearing at that time."

Robert Fuller, representing the Lodall & Foulds Paper Co. with mills on Parker St., went on record as "not being opposed to the relocation."

"My company will go in for anything to relieve traffic hazards near the mills," he said.

The only other real opposition expressed at the hearing was to the proposal to straighten out and extend Love Lane to Wethersfield Ave.

The Commission with an avowed "eye to the future," proposed the extension and also the relocation of Bidwell St. in two places to aid the flow of traffic.

The Commission felt the proposals would create a "better traffic pattern" as related to the relocation of Rt. 6 proposed by the State.

Roger Olcott, 403 W. Center St., said he was not in favor of the location of the proposed Love Lane extension as presented because it would cut through a tract of land near the Verplanck School which he felt would be needed for expanded recreation facilities. Placing a road across it would "impair its usefulness," he said.

He also suggested the proposed location be moved to the west side of Hop Brook to save expense to the town.

Sees More Expensive

Most opposition to the proposed extension of Love Lane was voiced by Atty. John D. Labelle, appearing on behalf of Alexander Jarvis.

He wanted to know what the proposed extension would do to land change on Rt. 6 indicated would accomplish, and said he could see no advantage to the plan. He warned that it "would be expensive" and wouldn't take any amount of traffic.

LaBelle further contended the extension would have "all kinds of bridges" if it was going to cross the brook which "meanders."

In defending the proposal, the Commission said it felt it was good planning to anticipate development before the cost of building a road was prohibitive and that the members thought the proposed extension would be a very important "link in the town's traffic system."

The commission contended that the area in question would develop in the next few years with the construction of the Rt. 6 relocation.

Relocation of extension of several other streets were also explained by the Commission.

The proposed extension of Spruce St. would go through Charter Oak and Mt. Nebo fields to Spring St.

The State proposes to "take down" Mt. Nebo in its Rt. 6 relocation project, it was explained, and the earth could be used as fill and for the construction of an ice skating rink in the park "at consequent savings" to the town.

The proposed extension of Jordan St. would allow a free flow of traffic off Rt. 6 and through town without the expense of land taking, the Commission said.

The extension of N. Elm St. 500-feet to Middle Tpke., not a new proposal, would give access to the high school and to the proposed junior high school, allowing "ample room for a good street."

Irish Mannequin Moira Boynan. One fascinated American fashion writer grabbed it and measured it with four generous arm spans while the towering auburn-haired model, from Dublin, stood, smiling good-naturedly. The unbelieving whisper, "Four yards long!" went round the salon.

The dress with the bow nearly went unnoticed. It was a brown chiffon polka-dotted tube with train.

Other Balmain show pieces were two formals—one long and one short—with embroidery of bugs pink roses in high relief. Several birthday cake dresses had tiered sugar-icing skirts of organdy in three pastel shades. Others were pure costume museum pieces with wedgewood-type medallion embroidery on painter smock tops, others were like Dresden figurines, with tiny tight bodices and full frilled skirts.

For summer afternoons there were lots of printed silks or chiffons with full skirts and short, sleeved jackets ending at the waist and buttoned up the back. A favorite neckline is one the French call "cut-throat" or "guillotine," from shoulder to shoulder. Some blouses had a cowl neck.

One short dance number in blue chiffon, "cha cha cha," had a wide hem of ostrich feathers. A floor-trailing gold satin dress had edge of the terms of the labor contracts' expiration were not negotiating, and to ask questions, he said, was to risk a beating.

Officials of the Healy company, described by Kennedy as one of the nation's biggest construction firms, have been subpoenaed.

Maloney has sent word he is too ill to testify.

Theodore McCarty Jr., of Clementon, N. J., a husky former union member, confronted two men seated in the hearing room yesterday, and accused them of having trapped him in a hotel elevator and beat him with brass knuckles and fists. He said this was in 1953, when with Hunter Harton as the union's business agent.

His finger only a foot from their noses, he pointed to Frank Lentino and Joseph Alamuro, both of whom already had been convicted of contempt. McCarty displayed colored photographs showing the cuts on his face. He said they were inflicted because he demanded that a fellow unionist should be allowed to speak out at their union meeting.

Lentino, his tone derisive, tried to brush off the picture, telling the committee "It's just a case of mercurochrome." He insisted it was all "just an innocent brawl."

Another unionist, bantamweight Norman Gale of Philadelphia, backed McCarty's story. "They've promised to get me, too," he said.

Chairman McClellan, (D-Ark) promptly announced that "I order and direct" all witnesses to report any threats or attacks, and declared:

"If they want to challenge the United States government, this is a good opportunity for them to do it."

San Francisco, Jan. 28 (AP)—The three top officers of the Teamsters union that was investigated by a Senate committee, resigned under fire last night.

They also asked and received leaves of absence as business agents for local 3 of the Operating Engineers Union.

The union's executive board accepted the resignations of Patrick Clancy as president, Porter F. Vandeveart as treasurer and Clarance F. Matthews as secretary.

The board removed Russell S. Swanson, son of deposed union boss Victor Swanson, as financial secretary but left him on as business agent.

The action followed testimony before the Senate Rackets Investigating committee in Washington, D. C., north and south charges embezzling of thousands of dollars in union funds by local 3 leaders under Victor Swanson was its business manager.

Union Heads Deny Worker Pay Grab

Witnesses told of bloody beatings inflicted, they said, by hired goons to keep Fay in power as the elected president, appointed boss of Philadelphia Local 542. They said Fay's reign ended only when he went to prison in 1948 after he had been convicted of a $368,000 shakedown from contractors on a New York City water project. By that time Fay was also an international vice president of the union.

Roy Underwood of Drexel Hill, Pa., the local's only elected president testified that "someone" had pocketed millions of dollars of union funds under Fay's reign. He blamed some gory beatings on Fay's underlings, and said Maloney did "nothing whatsoever" to stop the beatings.

Underwood said he was ousted as president in 1953 by gun toting thugs sent by Maloney from Fay's Newark Local 825. Underwood said he was fired for defying orders from Maloney to exempt the S. A. Healy Construction Co. from terms of collective bargaining contracts.

He said Maloney then placed the union back under the same kind of "trusteeship" Fay had held—with appointed bosses picked by Maloney running its affairs. The members were denied any access to the funds or even the knowledge of the terms of the labor contracts the bosses were negotiating, and to ask questions, he said, was to risk a beating.

Lacrosse, Little John—and related electronic equipment."

The Secretary also spelled out some details on the new top-level Advanced Research Projects Agency (ARPA) he set up in the Defense Department.

"Initially, the new agency will be given full responsibility for research and development in the lunar-missile missile and for outer space projects," McElroy explained.

"Other projects of this kind which are not clearly the responsibility of a single military department or which may be more appropriately performed by this agency may also be assigned to the agency.

McElroy asked the Senate to approve creation of 25 new top-pay places for scientists and technicians who will work for ARPA. The House approved this.

The secretary mentioned that more than half of $135 million of emergency funds voted last year had been used in pushing missile projects. He asked authority to use unobligated money which "will enable us to exploit promising new break-throughs or unanticipated technological developments."

This request also was approved by the House.

McElroy said in an interview he will support a move to provide funds for purchase of additional long-range bombers, while missiles are being perfected.

"We have got to step up our strategic Air Command to increase our strength in being," Russell said. "Despite the development of missiles, the manned bomber is not obsolete. It is going to be with us a long, long time."

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee has heard testimony that the Soviets are the leaders of U.S. retaliatory power against any attack on this country. One of the subcommittee's 17 recommendations was to "modernize and strengthen the Strategic Air Force."

While Eisenhower's new budget contains some funds for the supersonic B58, which still is in the experimental stage, no money is provided for continued production of the supersonic B52 beyond the previous authorization for purchase of 601 of the latter craft.

Gen. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified that the B58 is potentially a great plane but the Air Force doesn't know yet just what it wants to do with it. Much faster than the B52, it has a shorter range.

Russell said he doesn't want to get in the position of telling the Air Force what kind of planes it ought to have.

"But the Strategic Air Command still has too many of the slow planes," he said. "It must have more B52s or B58s to keep it at top strength."

McElroy told the subcommittee in censored testimony released yesterday that the new budget calls for a "fairly limited" number of B58s.

Reuther Bids Industry Justify Hikes in Price

In the auto industry, this would mean that General Motors and Chrysler would be covered and Chrysler, third ranking producer, probably would be included.

A corporation convicted by the law would have to give notice of its intention to raise prices, Reuther said, and "thereupon he required to present detailed justification, based upon its records, of the need for the proposed price increase."

Sees Restraining Effect

After a hearing, the government agency would publish its findings of fact as to the justification for the price increases, he said.

The corporation then would be "entirely free to raise the price if it so chose" regardless of what the government agency found, Reuther explained.

He said, however, that he was sure the plan would have a restraining effect on most management and unions in that "the public would have the means to determine for itself whether or not the price increase was justified."

Could Hike 10,000

In Detroit, meanwhile, assembly operations at Dodge Main, one of Chrysler Corp's major plants were shut down today while company and United Auto Workers officials debated when to renew negotiations in hopes of averting a threatened strike that could idle 70,000 Detroit Chrysler workers.

Two other Detroit area Chrysler plants closed yesterday, reopened today.

Both sides reported no progress in negotiations yesterday on a production standards dispute in which the UAW has threatened to strike Dodge Main, a key supplier to all others and headquarters for the company's shuttle trucking fleet.

The union charges the company has "speeded up" workers by laying off employes and demanding more work from those remaining on the job. The company said the shutdown was "due to scheduling difficulties resulting from the failure of some employes to maintain uniform production operations."

The international UAW and Dodge Local 3 have authorized a strike of 17,500 workers at Dodge Main plants anything after midnight tonight if negotiations fail. There was no word from the UAW on when the walkout would be called.

While no new bargaining sessions were scheduled, both the union and company agreed to get together later, possibly today, on subsequent meeting.

Plants which reopened without incident today were East Jefferson and Kercheval.

Democrats Pick Rossi For Platform Group

Coventry

Albert A. Rossi, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee, has been appointed one of 14 members of the State Democratic Platform Committee for this town.

Rossi was informed of his appointment over the weekend by Mrs. Ella T. Grasso of Windsor Locks, committee chairman.

In the communication, Mrs. Grasso stated the committee will hold its first session and the date of hearings to make it easier for Connecticut Democrats to voice their opinions.

"The people's right to be heard is as important as the people's right to know," Mrs. Grasso said in outlining the procedure to be voted by the platform committee.

"At least eight and possibly more hearings will be scheduled beginning in March. In addition to the publication of notice of such meetings in local newspapers, schedules will also be sent to public service groups which are concerned with legislative matters.

"Correspondence for the consideration of committee members in their deliberation will, of course, be welcome. Such communications may be addressed to the Platform Committee, in care of Democratic Headquarters, 525 Main St., Hartford, Conn.," Mrs. Grasso continued.

The communication stated that following public hearing, the committee will prepare a preliminary platform for consideration by the resolutions committee of the Democratic convention June 27. Action on the report of the platform committee will be taken June 28 by the full convention.

Rossi to Be MC

Rossi will be master of ceremonies at the March of Dimes benefit dance and entertainment at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Cove Restaurant. The Auxiliary to the Green-Chobot Post is sponsoring the program for its second year. Mrs. Ernest Marsh is general chairman.

Music for dancing will be by the Cove Melody Kings orchestra. The entertainment will include an instrumental and song duet by Bradley Perkins and Lee Miclette, a dance by Richard Risley and a vocal duet by Harold Guyer and Anita Rice.

Selectmen to Meet

The Board of Selectmen will hold its bi-monthly business meeting at 10 a.m. Friday at its office in the Town Office Building.

Three Weddings

Three more women have enrolled in the educational forum concerning the role of "The Public Schools in America" to be held from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Friday in Centinel Hill Hall, Main St., Hartford. They are Mrs. Russell Karker, Mrs. John L. MacQueen and Mrs. Robert Mullen, all of whom are PTA members. To date a total of 13 local women have enrolled.

The mid-winter forum is sponsored by the Hartford County Women's Organizations.

Rossi Elected

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Rose were elected co-presidents of the First Congregational Church Couples' Club at its annual dinner meeting over the week-end. Mrs. Kenneth S. Lyon is secretary and Mrs. Gordon Hunt, treasurer. The club has no office of vice president.

The program committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold E. Carlsen and Mr. and Mrs. Rose will meet soon to plan the year's program.

The club voted to sponsor Girl Scout Troop 218 which meets each Monday evening in the church vestry.

Girls List Schedule

The Coventry Willamettes Girls' Basketball team of which William R. McArthur of the Robertson School faculty is coach, has listed its schedule for the season. All games will be played out of town.

The schedule follows: Feb. 5, at Phillips St., Plainfield, abandoning a car, 16; and David F. Mangee, 18, of Forest Rd., town, failure to keep to the right, fined.

Tomorrow's Events

Schendel, Stratton 'Graduate' Today

Police Chief Herman O. Schendel and Lt. Milton Stratton are in Berlin today attending the first "graduation" at the Training Institute for Police Safety Officers. They are among the 137 Connecticut law officers receiving certificates from Gov. Abraham Ribicoff for successful completion of the 3-week course, sponsored jointly by the Connecticut Safety Commission and the Connecticut Chiefs of Police Assn.

Today's final session combines the two institutes conducted in West Hartford and New Haven once a week for the past three weeks. The objectives of the institute are to offer a refresher course to police safety officers who play important roles in community safety programs, and to develop a closer working relationship between the Safety Commission and the local police departments.

President over today's session is Robert I. Catlin, Commission chairman. The guest speaker is Dr. Herbert J. Stack, retired director of the Center for Safety Education, New York University.

Sense and Nonsense

"It shall be unlawful for any person to exhibit in a public way within the State of Kansas, any sort of an exhibition that consists of the eating or pretending to eat of snakes, lizards, scorpions, centipedes, tarantulas, or other reptiles."

The landlady brought in a plateful of very thinly sliced bread and placed it in front of her hungry men boarders.

Boarder—Did you cut these, Mrs. Brown?

Mrs. Brown (sternly)—Yes, I cut them.

Boarder—O.K. I'll deal them.

Perhaps we have two ears and only one tongue so we can hear twice as much as we say.

Father (as he stood at a bar with his son)—Now is as good a time as any to teach you a few facts of life. Remember, a man who drinks beyond his capacity is no gentleman. To enjoy life you must observe the happy medium. Have a drink occasionally, but never, never get drunk.

Doleful Son—Yes, sir, but how am I to know when I am drunk?

Father—Well, you see those two men sitting in the corner. If you were to see four, you'd know you were drunk.

Young Man (grinning)—I can see only one there now, father.

One of the greatest mistakes a man can make is to think he isn't going to make any.

Emily Arky, of Los Angeles, has lived in the same hotel for 50 years and for 40 years in the same room.

—Mrs. Ellen Saunders, Long Beach, Calif.

Bluette—I advertised for a husband.

Friend—Get any replies?

Bluette—Hundreds. They all said the same thing: "You can have mine."

Little Irene marched into the room breathless.

"Oh mother," she said, "don't scold me for being late for supper, because I've had such an awful disappointment. A horse fell down and they said they were going to send for a horse doctor, so I waited and waited, and what do you think? It wasn't a horse doctor at all. It was a man."

Bitter indeed must be the cup that a smile will not sweeten.

There's a Choice on Deductions: Try Both Methods to Find Best

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seventh in an eight-part series on your income tax, this article tells how to get the greatest possible mileage from deductions. Keep it handy for use when you prepare your return.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In the fifth article of this series we discussed the possible exclusion of "sick pay" from your gross income. In the sixth article we discussed job-connected expenses that may be deducted.

With those figures in hand, you can now determine whether you will be better off to take the standard 10 per cent deduction allowed for certain personal expenses, or whether you should itemize them on page 2 of form 1040. (You can't itemize your deductions on form 1040A, but you are automatically given credit for the standard 10 per cent off.

The basic figure you have to work with is your adjusted gross income, which means your total taxable income minus your "sick pay" and job-connected expenses.

On line 5 of the first page of the form 1040 you list your gross wages and compensations. On line 6(a) you can list your business expenses and on line 6(b) your sick pay exclusion. Add the figures on lines 5(a) and 6(b), and subtract the total from line 5. The remainder is your adjusted gross income if you have no income from other sources such as interest, dividends, etc. If you list no sick pay exclusion or job-connected expenses, the amount on line 5 would be your adjusted gross income.

The standard deduction allowed to all is 10 per cent of this adjusted gross income, but with certain dollar limits. If you are single the standard deduction can't total more than $1,000. The limit is also $1,000 if you are married and file a joint return. If husband and wife file separate returns, the limit that may claim under the standard deduction is $500 each.

If you itemize your deductions you can forget both the 10 per cent and the dollar limits. Thus it may be to your advantage to work it out both ways and see whether you would save money by itemizing.

Husbands and wives filing separate returns should remember that if one takes the standard deduction, the other must do the same. Likewise, if one itemizes his or her deductions, so must the other.

Pages 8, 9 and 10 of the instruction booklet that comes with form 1040 go into great detail on the itemized deductions you may claim.

Some of the more important categories are:

CONTRIBUTIONS — This includes gifts to religious, charitable, educational, scientific or literary groups. However, you can't deduct gifts to friends or relatives, political candidates or organizations, social clubs, labor unions, chambers of commerce or propaganda organizations. Generally, these contributions may not exceed 20 per cent of your adjusted gross income. However, you may deduct up to 30 per cent if one-third of what you claim is for contributions to churches and tax-exempt hospitals and educational institutions.

INTEREST—This includes interest on your home mortgage or on a bank loan or other personal debt. The "service charge" or "carrying charge" on many installment purchases are not strictly interest but you can still deduct a part of this. Just add up the balance still due at the end of every month and divide the total by 12 to find the average unpaid balance. You may then deduct 6 per cent of that figure as interest.

Medical and dental expenses—This one can be a bit tricky, but it may be a means of saving you considerable money. First, find 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income. You can include in medical expenses the cost of medicine that exceeds that amount. Next, find 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income. You can deduct medical expenses that exceed that amount.

Persons 65 or older may ignore the 3 per cent rule on their own medical bills, but not the 1 per cent limitation on drugs and medicines. However, persons of any age whose medical bills during the year have been extremely high should refer to page 10 of the instruction booklet for the dollar limitations that the law places on medical deductions. These limitations start at $2,500.

Taxes—In general you can deduct most of the non-federal taxes you paid during 1957. This would include state, county or city retail sales taxes, personal property taxes, state or city income taxes, state gasoline taxes, poll taxes, auto license fees, etc. However, you can't deduct federal excise taxes on your personal expenditures, water taxes, hunting licenses, dog licenses, federal social security payments, auto inspection fees or taxes paid by you for another person.

CASUALTY LOSSES AND THEFTS—The law allows you to deduct any loss not covered by insurance, from the destruction of your property in a fire, storm, automobile accident, shipwreck, hurricane, flood or other natural forces. You can deduct your losses from theft in the year of discovery, but not losses from misplacing articles of value. Damage to your car by collision or other accident can be deducted if due merely to faulty driving, but not if due to your wilful act or negligence.

CARE OF CHILDREN AND DISABLE DEPENDENTS—A deduction of up to $600 may be claimed by employed women and men who are widowed, legally separated or divorced, for the care of certain dependents. The basic rules are that the care must be necessary to allow the taxpayer to work or seek work and that the dependent be under 12 or physically and mentally unable to care for himself.

A married woman can claim this deduction only if she files a joint return with her husband. Furthermore, the deduction must be reduced by the amount the combined adjusted gross income exceeds $4,500. Thus, if the combined adjusted gross income is $5,000, the deduction must be reduced by $500. And you do not get a flat deduction of $600—only the amount you actually spent up to that figure. The child care payments cannot be made to a person whom you claim as a dependent.

MISCELLANEOUS—This is a catch-all category where you may be able to find some tax savings. It includes most of your job-connected expenses which you have not claimed on page 1 of the form 1040.

For instance, if you work for salary or wages and your job requires the use of small tools, this is the place to deduct the cost of those tools. The same applies to special uniforms which you have to buy yourself, safety equipment, etc.

You can deduct dues to a union or professional society, fees to employment agencies, the cost of entertaining customers—where your firm did not reimburse you—alimony or separate maintenance payments.

You cannot deduct the cost of traveling to and from work, no matter how far and how expensive it might be. You can't deduct educational expenses. And you can't deduct the cost of entertaining friends.

After you have itemized all the personal deductions permitted by law, compare the total with 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income. Then either take the standard 10 per cent deduction, or itemize your deductions, whichever gives you the biggest saving.

The next, and last, article in this series will point up some common mistakes made by taxpayers in filing their returns and some tips that may keep you out of trouble with the tax collector.

Ike Will Attend Brother's Rites

Kansas City, Jan. 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower will fly to Kansas City Wednesday for funeral services for his eldest brother, Arthur.

The funeral was set for 1 p.m. Wednesday at Stine and McClure Chapel. There will be services later in New York and the body will be entombed there. These arrangements are not yet complete.

Arthur Eisenhower, a banker in Kansas City for 50 years before his retirement in 1956, died at his home of a heart attack Sunday night. He was 71.

All four of his brothers will be here for the funeral. Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of John Hopkins University in Baltimore, is expected to accompany the President from Washington. Earl Eisenhower, a publisher at La-Grange, Ill., and Edgar Eisenhower, who lives at Tacoma, Wash., are due in Kansas City today.

Republicans Win Waterford Vote

Democrats won six and one went to an Independent in yesterday's special election, in which 2,400 of the town's 6,490 registered voters cast ballots.

The RTM members meet with the board of selectmen to decide policy and approve expenditures. Waterford voters favored this system in last September's general election. The system is comparatively new in Connecticut.

Republicans have controlled the local government here for several years. First Selectman William L. Darrow, a Republican, was elected to his first term in September.

Girl Scout Notes

Troops working on sewing, interior decoration and service projects in particular, and all troops, are welcome to visit the Singer Sewing Machine Center at 832 Main St. during the week.

Beginning today, the center, in conjunction with all the 1,800 sewing centers across the country, will have an American Girl-Girl Scout window. The window will include a poster showing the January cover of the American Girl, the magazine and some of its articles, and also samples of clothing, home furnishings and other articles made by girls in troops working on sewing, interior decoration and service projects.

The Singer Sewing Center extends an open invitation to all Girl Scout troops to come in and see how decorative stitching is done, and the girls will receive a complimentary bookmark with similar stitching.

Any troops wishing to take advantage of this offer are asked to call the local center in advance and make arrangements with the person in charge for their visit.

Roy Campanella Critical Following Auto Accident

Emergency Operation Performed

Glen Cove, N. Y., Jan. 28 (AP) — Veteran catcher Roy Campanella, a mainstay of the Los Angeles Dodgers, received a fractured neck early today when his car skidded, overturned and crashed into a pole. He was pinned in the wreckage for half an hour after the accident at 2:30 a.m., and was pronounced in critical condition following his removal to Glen Cove Community Hospital. At 7:30 a.m. he was still in the operating room.

The exact nature of the operation was not immediately disclosed at the hospital but in Los Angeles Dodger Vice President Buzzy Bavasi said he was informed the neck fracture pinched a nerve and the operation was to relieve this pressure.

Often Injured

The 36-year-old Campanella, who had been beset by injuries of one kind or another during his long baseball career, was returning alone to his home here following a New York television appearance when the mishap occurred.

The crash made noise so great that a number of persons rushed from their homes in the vicinity to investigate. Among them was a physician, Dr. W. S. Gurnee.

Dr. Gurnee gave Campanella an injection but said later the baseball player felt no sensation from the needle and that "it doesn't look good for his baseball career."

Only yesterday the Dodgers had signed reserve catcher Rube Walker. For the position they also have John Roseboro and some youngsters.

The 213-pound Campanella, a Negro, had undergone thumb surgery in November 1956 to remove calcium deposits. Among other troubles he has had a split finger, suffered last June. Later in the season he still had difficulty gripping a ball.

Signed Contract

He had batted .242 in 103 games. His 80 hits included 13 home runs, nine doubles and 62 runs batted in.

There has been much speculation among baseball people as to his future. He had not been able to shake recurring injuries that have plagued him throughout his career with the Dodgers and the possibility of his being traded or sold had often been discussed.

His weight had also been a problem though Campanella insisted that he always was in shape.

Campanella was preparing to leave for Los Angeles, where he had taken a tentative lease on a new home.

He is owner of a flourishing Harlem liquor store, and a $38,000 yacht which has been put up for sale.

The rotund Dodger catcher was due to report to spring training at the Los Angeles camp in Vero Beach, Fla., on March 1, the official opening date for drills.

Gene Sarazen Wins Second Seniors' Title

"It's nice to win a tournament," said the chunky man in the tradional knickers who started out five strokes off the pace and finished three shots ahead of the field.

When Sarazen teed off he was in a tie for fourth place, five strokes behind Mortie Dutra of Calexico, Calif., who had led all the way. And he was three shots behind Ed Burke of New Haven, Conn., and two behind Charles Sheppard of West Newton, Mass.

But while Sarazen was firing his two-under-par 70, Sheppard was taking a 75 for 291, Burke a 78 for 293 and Dutra an 82 for 295.

Dutra —Tied for Sixth

Bill Black, of Ludington, Mich., shot a 69 to finish in third place and Jules Blanton of West Palm Beach slipped in with a 72 for 294 and fifth place, dropping Dutra into a tie for sixth with defending champion Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich., and three others. Par for the 6,548-yard PGA national course is 35-37—72.

While Dutra, Sheppard and Burke were scrambling for each taking a double bogey in the ninth —Sarazen played steadily. He sank more than enough birdie putts to offset the few ice and approach shots that strayed a little.

"I'm tickled to death I won," the Germantown, N. Y., shot-maker reported. "I want to go to England again."

The name Sarazen was synonomous with championship golf a generation ago. Gene won the U.S. Open and PGA titles in 1922, the PGA again the next year in 1923, and the U.S. and British Opens in 1932. His first victory in the Seniors' came in 1954 when it was a 54-hole event.

Had a Hunch

"I had a hunch I would be done," Sarazen said with a smile when asked if he thought he could make up his five-stroke deficit. "It just so happens that I started the last round five strokes back when I won the Open in 1922."

Sarazen caught the faltering Dutra on the fifth hole with a five foot birdie putt but still was a stroke behind Sheppard.

He pulled even with Sheppard on No. 9 when Dutra caught traps. Sheppard took a bogey but Sarazen got a par with a neat blast shot inches from the cup. Sarazen moved ahead on the next hole with a tap-in birdie putt and padded his margin on the back nine.

Williams Spry as a Colt

RSox Star Feels Good As He Did 20 Years Ago

Needham, Mass., Jan. 28 (AP)—Ted Williams says he feels as good as he did 20 years ago but it will take luck to duplicate last year's .388 batting average. The 39-year-old Boston Red Sox outfielder, king of the active hitters, is here demonstrating fishing tackle for his business at a dealer's display.

"I feel fine," Ted who captured his fifth American League hitting title in '57 said. "My weight is normal, just about 220 pounds. I can do everything as well as I did 20 years ago. I don't feel any different from the way I did 20 years ago.

"But you have to be lucky to have a year such as I did last year.

"I can do it again if I have another spring like last year. But you never know what may crop up. The ankle may bother me, I can't be sure.

"Last spring was ideal. It was the first time in five years I didn't have an injury or have something else bothering me during spring training.

"This year I may sprain a wrist or something. You never know. Of course, I know I'll hit. Even with a bad ankle I can hit. But injuries can be a drawback in other ways.

Williams said he expected heat treatment to clear up the ankle injury he sustained shortly after last season on a fishing trip to Labrador.

DARGATI PACES WIN

Williamantic, Jan. 28 (AP)—George Dargati, 5-10 one-hand push shooter, dropped in 23 points to lead Williamantic State Teachers to a lopsided 81-39 basketball victory over Danbury Teachers last night. It was Willimantic's seventh win in 11 starts. Danbury has 3-8 record.

Lakers Prove Cage 'Cousin' For New York

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Minneapolis and New York have little in common geographically but when it comes to professional basketball the Minneapolis Lakers seem to be the New York Knickerbockers best friend.

The Knicks beat the Lakers for the third straight time 113-102 in the opener of a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader at Detroit last night. The hometown Pistons defeated the Philadelphia Warriors 115-93 in the nightcap.

New York knocked off the Lakers in a nationally televised game in the big town's 60th Regiment Armory Saturday, flew out to Minneapolis and beat them Sunday afternoon and then found it no harder in Detroit.

Continue Streak

The game marked the 21st consecutive contest in which the Knicks have scored more than 100 points, as Richie Guerin's 22 points and Willie Naulls 19 paced them to an easy victory.

The Pistons got hot right away and finished the first half with a 47 per cent field goal accuracy and a 53-39 lead. Gene Shue scored 25 points and Nat Clifton and league scoring leader George Yardley each added 19.

Nutmeg Scribes Honor Trio At 17th Gold Key Dinner

Vital Information

"As we read the front page today, we are reminded that we live in a world of severe tension. We need to be reminded in order to be fully prepared to meet the grave problems that face us.

"But we need also to be relieved from time to time from that tension under which we live. This is where the sports writer does an outstanding job. He makes it possible for us to think about just only Bulganin but basketball, not only ballistic missiles but baseball, not only the cold war but the hot stove league."

Basketball Results

POLICE & FIRE

In a single game in the Police and Firemens Midget League at the East Side Rec last night, the pace-setting Cruisers defeated the Engines 34-20.

Grabbing a lead at the starting whistle, the winning policemen scrambled to a 14-9 edge at the end of the first half. In the second half they kept picking away and increasing the margin en route to romping home with their seventh consecutive win after dropping their first two starts of the season.

For the winners, Jeff Gentilcore and George Bycholski teamed to score nine points each. For the losers, scrappy John McNicol was the top point-getter with six points and Pete Kasavage and Milt Plouf each added five.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE

The following change in tonight's schedule has been made in the Intermediate League at the East Side Rec. The opening contest pairs East Sides and Nassiff Arms while the second game between Millers and the Ferndale has been postponed until a later date. The third between the West Sides and Imperials will get underway at 7:30 following the opener game at 6:30.

BUSINESSMEN'S LEAGUE

Action in the Businessmen's League at the East Side Rec last night found the league-leading North End Wrecks winning a squeaker from the Lettovers 45-42.

Trailing throughout the contest, the Lettovers battled to get back into the game only to have their rally fall short in the final period. Behind by one point at the end of the first quarter, they dropped behind 27-17 at the intermission.

WEST SIDE JUNIORS

Standings

	W	L	Pct.
House and Hale	6	3	.667
Personalized Floors	6	3	.667
West Side	3	5	.375
Herm's	3	6	.333

Personalized Floors won its game closer to first place by defeating league-leading House and Hale by a 37-31 score. For the Floormen, Dick Avery with 15 points and Phil McGehee with eight were high men. House and Hale was led in the scoring department by Bill Belkevicz with 12 tallies and Greg Manchuck had nine.

In the second game Herm's Camera, with Ronnie Porkett scoring 31 points, shellacked the West Side 91 points to 37. Herm's led at the sides by a 51-29 margin. Little Joe Camposeo chipped in with 10 markers for the winners. Jim Curry with 12 points stood out in a losing cause.

Y MIDGET LEAGUE

In a twinbill at the Y last night the Manchester Jaycees fired hot Keith's 31-16 and the Cyclists notched their second win by defeating Wyman Furs 23-15.

After a close first half the Partamen pulled away from the Keith quintet and coasted to victory. Jim Smith and Ken Sale accounted for 23 of the winner's points while Bruce Pigott and Gary Abrahamson grabbed a big share of rebounds and passed well. Constantine, Daley, Doucette and Oliver all scored for Keith's but couldn't cope with the Auto Parts' fine rebounding and good passing attack.

The second contest was close most of the way and except for a scoreless third quarter by Wyman's might have been even closer. Four members of the winning club got in the scoring column with Mark Sheptoff leading the way with five baskets. The Cyclists displayed a good passing game and were a better balanced club as they gained their second win. Mal Rhinez, Wyman center, was high man for the night with 13 points. Chris Wollenberg was a demon on defense for the Furriers, and along with Bill Whiteseil, got most of the rebounds.

EAST SIDE JUNIORS

With Bill Viot and Bob Hamill leading the way, but Vincent Sciarallo lengthened its hold on first place as defeating its closest rival. The victors won their sixth contest against six losses.

Viot cut the nets for 12 points and Hamill followed with 10 for the league-leaders. For the Parkade, lanky Mike Khiers found the range for 16 points.

REC SENIOR LEAGUE

The Stars outscored their rivals by a 15-10 margin in the third period after trailing by one at half-time. John Blardi hooped 15 points and newcomer Warren Clay had 14 for the winners who moved into undisputed possession of first place. Bill Mozzer caged 18 tallies for the losers.

With Vinnie Kohen scoring the first seven points the Truse quintet was never headed. Hitting on every one shot, Kohen wound up with 28 points while teammates Charlie Bunce and Ken Foster hooped for 25 tallies while controlling the boards. Hustling Tommy Roche chalked up 18 markers and the Farrell brothers, Dick and Bob, scored for 25 for the outclassed Appliance.

Gene Baseball Heroes Clean Up On Rubber Chicken Circuit

New York (NEA)—"I wonder," said Leo Burdette, "just how many of of these invitations would have been tossed my way if I didn't wind the three games in the Series."

There was tremendous excitement, of course, when Eddie Mathews grabbed a liner off Moose Skowron's bat at Yankee Stadium early last October for the force-out that ended a story-book World Series. Throughout it all, in New York and Milwaukee, Burdette was only faintly amused. The most ecstatic celebration on the Rubber Chicken Circuit, the sardonic mountaineer of Nitro, W. Va., is going through a winter of discontent the same way. "Who do they think they're kidding?"

Burdette will have attended 24 shindigs when he closes his protracted run in Milwaukee. Jan. 30, the last 12 in 18 days. The itinerary for the closing series took Leo from Baltimore to Alberta Canada, and back to New York before visiting Toronto and Omaha.

Burdette's fee runs from $200 at places where he is more or less obligated to go to $1,000. The average is $500, so the gangling guy who handcuffed the Yankees will collect $12,000 for his contribution to banquet oratory.

There were conflicting dates that Burdette couldn't fill, and with the welfare of his fellow hired hands in mind, he arranged a chart, and makes a good suggestion, it is that a Rubber Chicken Circuit for Ruptured Heroes be established. Their services would be easier to obtain and the novel league not only would give them something to do but also something new and more to talk about. Building a guy up and tearing him down is, after all, the formula for fiction.

The Rubber Chicken Circuit becomes something of a problem to superior athletes, most of whom are too appreciative not to show up for the occasion. Hence, a trophy a Ted Williams.

In this respect, Mickey Mantle was the Burdette of last winter. While «The Switcher» was the American League's most valuable player, he forsook the Rubber Chicken Circuit this trip because of his physical condition and the fact that he doesn't like it. Also he has a motel in Joplin and is building bowling alleys in Dallas.

McDougald Takes Over

With Mantle benched as an attention-grabbing speaker, the bulk of the Yankee burden in that department fell on Gil McDougald. Gil wasn't excited about anything but he had so many dinner dates that the poor guy had to keep a calendar to know where the shortstop was saying his lines.

Numerous players have complained that the Rubber Chicken Circuit knocked them out of the box the next year. Stan Musial had his only bad year—for him—after galloping around the country flattering people celebrate his second batting championship and the Cardinals winning the world championship in 1946.

"But that's unusual so far as totally lean athlete like Musial and Burdette," testifies Frank Scott, who books the speakers. "Banquets are bad for only guys inclined to be fat like Spec Shea. Remember when Spec had the big freshman year with the Yankees and won two games and saved another in the World Series of 1947? Well, he sailed right into the banquet circuit and came back all swelled up like a poisoned pup."

Don Larsen, the deflated World Series hero of 1956, could have used Burdette's Rubber Chicken Circuit for Ruptured Heroes this winter, but Scott doubts that it would have been for long.

a Dog's Life

YOUR DOG AND FLEAS

By Dr. E. M. Gildow, D.V.M.

Fleas' chief purpose in life seems to be to annoy dogs—and this they do with a zest and efficiency unmatched by any other insect. They also have a sideline—that is, they are the intermediate host of the dog tapeworm. Consequently, when a dog actually catches a flea and swallows it, he may be infecting himself with tapeworms.

Fortunately for dogs, though, fleas aren't too hard to get rid of. There are a number of excellent preparations on the market that come in both powder and liquid form. The new pyrethroids such as D.D.T., chlordane and Lindane are preferred. For fleas they're usually mixed with other ingredients in powder or liquid form and act as a residual flea-control agent. Be sure to prevent the development of fleas around the house and yard by using these same parasiticides in the nest box dog house or yard.

If the dog is allowed to sleep with other dogs or to have the run of the neighborhood, he will probably pick up a new supply of fleas. So defies the pooch any time he needs it. Flea eggs develop into fleas more rapidly during warm weather. This accounts for the greater flea problem during summertime. If you have any doubt about the right flea-control approach, call your veterinarian.

Feeding Tip

A puppy's food requirements increase rapidly. Be sure to increase the food supply as he grows. For the greater flea problem during summertime. If you have any doubt about the right flea-control approach, call your veterinarian.

Archer Gets Nod In Spirited Scrap

New York, Jan. 28 (AP) — The loser thought he won and the fans thought it was a close one. So Matchmaker Teddy Brenner said today he will match New York welterweights Jimmy Archer and Danny Russo for a return bout at St. Nicholas arena, Feb. 24.

The two staged a spirited scrap at St. Nick's last night with Archer, a former longshoreman from the Bronx, gaining a split decision in 10 rounds.

Referee Mark Conn and Judge Artie Schwartz each had Archer, the 9-2 favorite, in front by 6-4 scores. Judge Tony Castellano gave it to Russo on points, 6-3, after he had scored it even on rounds, 5-5. The AP card had Archer ahead, 6-4.

Archer, 22, appeared to have earned the edge on his thumping body punches and stiff left hooks to the head. Russo, who had a winning streak snapped at four, was the better man at long range.

There were no knockdowns but the two had the 1,597 fans, who paid $3,747 for the telecast bout, cheering with their frequent attacks. Archer seemed to have the better of most of the trades.

Archer's record now is 16-2. Russo, 20, has a 13-4 record.

The white stern light, required at all, starboards up to 65 feet, may be mounted off the centerline on powerboats under 26 feet. The ruling has been approved by the U.S. Coast Guard.

Floyd May Have 'Tuneup' Here Before London Title Defense

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, it turns out today, may have a tuneup title fight in the U.S. before going to London to risk his crown in June against Joe Erskine or maybe someone else.

This was the latest development in the mysterious maneuverings of secretive Cus D'Amato, manager of the 23-year-old boxing ruler. This may come as a bit of a shock to old Londontown which thought yesterday it had the champ's next title defense all wrapped up.

Fussed Sabotage

D'Amato, asserting that he feared "sabotage" from the International Boxing Club with which he is feuding, declined to say who, when or where in regards to the title fight in the U.S.

"I would like to get Floyd a tuneup fight without risking the title but a heavyweight always has his title on the line," said D'Amato. "This statement was issued some 10 hours after he had announced agreement on the London June venture in a joint announcement with British Promoter Harry Levene.

"I would like Floyd to get the U.S. fight because Erskine is a very good fighter and I want Floyd fully prepared," said D'Amato. "Who wins? I don't want to say. But you know I've got at least five offers for fights in this country."

D'Amato indicated the fight—if made—would be held outside Boston because he has committed the champ to box a three-round exhibition in London's Empress Hall March 25 for Promoter Levene.

Erskine, 24-year-old British empire champion, is first in line for the London engagement. But he must beat Ingemar Johansson, Sweden's European titleholder, at Gothenburg, Sweden, Feb. 21.

If Erskine, who was flattened in one round by Cuba's Nino Valdes last year, should lose, then the London plum may go to an American. And he could be none other than Pete Rademacher, the 1956 Olympic champion. Pete was stopped in six rounds by Patterson at Seattle last August but the Washington husky had Floyd on the deck first.

"I'd love the chance," said Rademacher, who has been huddling with D'Amato and Levene in the last few days.

Plans European Tour

Erskine, a Welshman, is 5-11 and weighs 196. He has a 32-1 record with 10 knockouts. The Valdes debacle was his only loss.

If Patterson and Erskine should smash through the "if" barrier and get to meet on the banks of the Thames, it will be the first heavyweights title fight to be held outside the U.S. in 25 years. In 1933 Primo Carnera, the ambling ajo, outpointed Paulino Uzcudin, the Spanish woodchopper in Rome.

Old London hasn't had a world heavyweight title scrap in 50 years. Back in 1908 Tommy Burns knocked out Jack Palmer in four rounds.

MARILYN SETS PIN RECORD

Van Wert, Ohio (AP) — Marilyn Tobias set a women's record for the Olympic Recreational Games here with a brilliant 715 series. Miss Tobias scored 311, 235 and 268. She collected 23 strikes and 11 spares. Her only miss was in the seventh frame of the first game. She has been bowling 13 years.

Sam Bettio of Buffalo scored the 400th American Hockey League point on a game against Rochester. He's a left winger.

West Virginia Upset in Night of Surprises

Unrated Duke Tacks Initial Loss on Cagers

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Time finally ran out on West Virginia's Cinderellas in college basketball. Unranked Duke, only a 50-50 7-5 for the season, put the ax to West Virginia's unbeaten streak at 14 with a 72-68 upset last night that was the No. 1 shocker on a night of surprises.

While the Mountaineers — top-ranked again in today's Associated Press poll, which is based on games through last Saturday—were being outscored by Duke, longshot Houston clipped sixth-ranked Oklahoma State, which had won 12 straight, 70-64, and ambitious Georgia Tech walloped eighth-ranked Kentucky, 71-52.

St. John's All Alone

That left Temple, ranked No. 11 at 13-2, atop the winning streak (12) and untested St. John's of Brooklyn, ranked 20th, the only unbeaten (9-0) in major play. Both were idle last night.

There was some talk that it was a jinx that marred the Mountaineers' defeat by Duke. Coach Freddie Schaus had a better explanation.

"We didn't shoot or run enough. The pressure didn't beat us, Duke did. It wasn't anybody who has lost five of six games—with the Blue Devils since he took over at West Virginia in 1954.

"West Virginia had the edge from the field, hitting 27 field goals to Duke's 26. But Lee Blue Devils, Atlantic Coast Conference forty, connected on 20 of 25 free throws while West Virginia was showing eight of 22.

"Duke's 6-5 Paul Schmidt also helped get the job done, birddogging 6-10 Lloyd Sharrar, the big man of the Southern Conference champs. Sharrar, hero of two close calls for the Mountaineers against Villanova, 76-75, and Richmond, 76-74, scored only 14 rebounds and scored but nine points.

Schmidt scored only 12 points, but there was no need for more. All but two of Duke's seven players scored—and those five hit double figures. Jim Newcome was high with 20.

Led Only Briefly

Bob Smith scored 24 and Jerry West, for the Mountaineers, who got their first lead, 50-49, with nine minutes gone in the second half. But with little more than six minutes left, a jump shot by Bobby Joe Harris gave the lead to Duke for keeps at 60-59.

Nationally 6-8, handed Oklahoma State its first defeat since a season-opening setback by Kansas, with a tight zone defense and a brilliant 31-point performance from Russ Boone and Ed Erickson. They scored 40 points between them, 23 by Boone, who split 24 rebounds. Erickson also held high-scoring Arlen Clark to 13 points. Eddie Sutton was high with 24 for State.

Georgia Tech, winning six of its last seven, gained a share of the Southeastern Conference lead with Kentucky by smearing the Wildcats' unbeaten SEC record. Little guys Terry Randall, with 26, and Bud Blemker, with 21, led the Engineers, who trailed by two at the half.

Kentucky, now 12-4, scored only 19 points in the last 26 minutes and fell short of 55 points for only the second time in 123 games since the tailend of the 1951-52 season.

Temple, which now has the longest winning streak among the majors, and untested St. John's of Brooklyn, ranked 20th, were the unbeaten (9-0) in major play. Both were idle last night.

Giants to Offer John Antonelli In Bid to Strengthen Club

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—On the threshold of one trade, the San Francisco Giants today were looking ahead to the possibility of dealing away ace lefthander Johnny Antonelli. Right now, they are in the process of clearing waivers on first baseman Gail Harris and infielder Ossie Virgil in the fifth game they pair to Detroit for Jim Finigan.

Vice-President Chub Feeney admitted that the deal with the Tigers was just about wrapped up except that the waivers from the rest of the National League on Harris and Virgil have not been received.

But, he said, "I anticipate no difficulty. We should know later today or tomorrow if the other clubs waiver on the two players. When it goes through, we'll announce the deal in San Francisco."

Feeney, the last of the Giants' official family still in New York, admitted that the club had considered trading Antonelli.

"Naturally, a lot of teams want him," Feeney commented. "We talked with a couple last weekend about him."

Feds Make Offer

While no one was admitting it openly, the word was that Cincinnati had offered the Giants catcher Ed Bailey and infielder Alex Grammas for Antonelli, who already has sent back his contract unsigned. But the Giants would like more than Grammas.

"I wouldn't want to say that we won't make a deal with the Reds," Feeney commented. "But at the moment the chances are very remote. In fact, we have a much better chance of making a deal with two other clubs than we do with Cincinnati.

"Very definitely."

Manager Bill Rigney, contacted before he explained for Phoenix yesterday said he'd okay a trade for Antonelli "if we got enough."

Finigan, when and if he becomes a Giant, may not even be a regular. If Ray Jablonski holds up on third and Danny O'Connell on second, Finigan could wind up on the bench.

Winter Grid Meeting Opens

Commissioner Bert Bell banged the gavel for the 10-hour job of player selection at approximately 10 a.m. Coaches, general managers and owners from each of the 12 pro clubs were on hand for the latest.

The first four rounds of the annual 30-round draft were held Dec. 1. That left 26 rounds involving 312 players to be run through today. Commissioner Bell indicated there was a slim possibility the owners would vote to reduce the draft by five rounds.

The reason for this is that the NFL has a contract listing of 60 players with a regular season maximum of 35 men. Thus even if a team signed all its draftees it would have 65 players for one-second contract maximum. It takes a unanimous vote to make the change.

The teams will select in the order of their finishing in the 1957 standings from last to first with the championship club last. In the cases of teams that finished teams will toss a coin for first pick and second pick of the succeeding rounds.

After the draft, the owners meet in executive session to take up such matters as congressional recommendations for changes in the league's constitution and bylaws, playing rules, schedules, and expansion regulations. Although the meeting is scheduled for four days, Bell says he hopes the business can be wrapped up in three.

Bell said he will recommend the lowest team in the standings each year for 12 years automatically get the bonus pick. Each team would be entitled to win just once. This means the lowest eligible team after the first year would get the bonus.

The owners also will be faced with a request by the Players Assn. for a pension plan.

Mountaineers Remain on Top In Weekly College Cage Poll

New York, Jan. 28 (AP) West Virginia's Mountaineers no longer are unbeaten, but they still head the top-heavy choice atop today's Associated Press college basketball poll based on games through Saturday.

Duke's stunning 72-68 upset ended West Virginia's winning streak at 14 last night, but cost him no late to be reflected in the balloting by whose Brazil sports writers and broadcasters.

Five Other Upsets

The Mountaineers weren't alone in the upset ranks last night, however. Two other top teams — sixth-ranked Oklahoma State and eighth-ranked Kentucky — were in action, and both were knocked off.

Oklahoma State, which had climbed a notch by running its winning streak to 12 games, lost 70-64 by Houston. It was only the second defeat of the season for the Cowboys, who lost their opener to Kansas.

Kentucky was trimmed 71-52 by Georgia Tech. Kentucky now is 12-4.

Neither Duke, Houston nor Tech are ranked.

There's no doubt the upsets would have had an effect on the voting, although it's open to debate whether West Virginia would have blown all its support. The Mountaineers had totaled a whopping 1,008 points to 834 for runnerup Kansas.

Closest Third Group

Cincinnati, led by the nation's top scorer, Oscar Robertson, continued to amass. Jumping past Kansas State into third place by a narrow margin.

The rest of the top 10 lists San Francisco, Oklahoma State, North Carolina, Kansas, Maryland and North Carolina State.

Temple which now has the longest winning streak among the majors, and untested St. John's of Brooklyn, ranked 20th, the only unbeaten (9-0) in major play. Both were idle last night.

Sealed bids will be received by The Trustees of the Y.M.C.A. for improvement of the lights in the gym at the Y until Saturday, Feb. 8.

Present system is in pairs and wiring will not carry more than 1500 watts per pair. Only the fixtures are to be changed. Such change of fixtures shall be a type that will provide not less than 5 times the present light and wattage must be below 1500 watts per pair. If less are figured in any type of lighting fixture they must be of a type, that if broken, will disintegrate into small dull fragments and not large sharp pieces. Also (4) Floodlights are permanently installed in the four corners of the gym and one 300 watt spotlight to light the outside area in front of the entrance. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids. For further information call:

Sadlak Won't Buck Purtell For Senator

Waterbury, Jan. 27 (AP)—Rep. Antoni N. Sadlak said yesterday that he is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, but he ruled himself out of a senatorial race as long as U.S. Sen. William A. Purtell is interested in re-election.

Sadlak was asked to comment on reports that some Republicans were pushing him to seek the senatorial nomination.

Antoni Sadlak

In a telephone interview with station WBIY, Sadlak said from Washington:

"Bill Purtell is my friend and as long as he is senator and desires the position I will not hesitate to give him my support."

"Should Purtell decide to seek another nomination or not seek a nomination as a senatorial candidate," Sadlak added, "then I most certainly can be considered for the nomination."

"As of now," he continued, "Sadlak is a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and until such time as Purtell says he is not interested in the Senate seat, Sadlak is not interested in that nomination."

State Republican Chairman Clarence F. Baldwin, when asked to comment on the reports, told the radio station that he had heard that Sadlak has been approached to seek the nomination, but he did not comment further.

Richard Martin

As general manager of the town, Vermonter Martin prepares the budget, supervises all town departments, hires personnel, handles finances, and buys equipment.

Once a Republican Selectman and a Town Director himself, he now prepares the program for Board meetings, makes recommendations, and carries out the Board's decisions.

In his job as the town's top administrator, Martin appoints the chief of police, the fire chief, the town engineer, and Water and Sewer Department superintendent, and almost all other administrative officials.

Under the Town Charter he is given authority to remove officials and other employes he names.

Appointed for an indefinite term, he may be removed himself only by a majority vote of the Board of Directors "for improper performance of his duties."

Martin became general manager in 1952, five years after the adoption of the 1947 Charter he is credited with doing more than anyone else to create. Hired at a salary of $11,500, he now makes $14,250 a year.

Born in Burlington, Vt., he manager arrived at the job he now holds by a route that led through newspaper reporting, the Connecticut League of Municipalities, and the State Water Commission.

The son of an Essex Junction, Vt., lawyer, he studied civil engineering for two years at the State University and then decided to become a newspaper reporter.

After a brief period with a New York State weekly that went broke, he became a reporter for The Hartford Courant and started covering Manchester.

Two and one-half years later, he went back to Hartford to cover police and fire news, then left to report on the Vermont Legislature for six of his home-state newspapers.

Soon afterwards, Martin returned to Manchester to marry the former Ruth Smith and go to work for The Manchester Herald.

In 1957, he became executive secretary of the Connecticut League of Municipalities. In 1938, he was appointed by the late Gov. Wilbur Cross to study damage caused by the hurricane in that year. And, in 1939, he went to work for the Governmental Research Institute in Hartford.

There he stayed until 1943 when he was named deputy State water commissioner. Two years later, he was water commissioner, the position he held when he was appointed general manager of Manchester to succeed the late George Waddell.

In the meantime, as a Manchester resident, Martin had been a member of the Board of Selectman from 1936 to 1939 and of the Board of Directors from 1947 to 1948. He had also served on the Zoning Board, the Town Pension Committee, and the Ration Board, and had been active in the movement for a new charter.

Trotter to Fill St. Mary's Post For Third Time

The annual parish meeting of St. Mary's Episcopal Church last night elected John A. Trotter of 15 Bigelow St. to a 3-year term as a Vestryman for the third time.

Since a member of the Vestry is not eligible to succeed himself, this means that Trotter has been re-elected at 4-year intervals since 1946. New Vestrymen chosen last night were Edward H. Glenney, George A. Pelletier Jr. and Atty. W. David Keith.

Albert T. Dewey and Gordon G. Fogg were returned as wardens of the parish. The latter was first elected in 1957, having acted as general chairman of St. Mary's building program.

Others chosen at the annual meeting were Treasurer John H. Hyde, Clerk Wyville H. Peabody, key man (a new office requested by the diocesan department of Youth and Laymen's Work) Elmer Odell. The delegates to the 1958 Diocesan Convention will be Dewey and Robert S. Smith, and their alternates are to be W. Sidney Harrison and Peabody. The rector, Rev. George Torrance will represent St. Mary's in the Hartford Archdeanery, with Earle S. Rohan and Mrs. William Kloppenburg as alternate Archdeanery delegates.

Miss Ann T. Maison, Winslow Manchester and Harold P. Case were reelected as delegates to the Manchester Council of Churches. Alternate delegates to the Council were named for the first time this year. They are to be Mrs. Elroy Phelps, Edward H. Herrick and Mrs. Kloppenburg. Counters are Peabody, John J. Fox, George Torrance, Mrs. Winslow Manchester and Mrs. Fox, while the auditors will be Miss Jennie R. Wigg, Peabody and Randall J. Toop.

The outgoing vestrymen, ineligible to succeed themselves, were Edward Sauter, Frank P. Sheldon, Randall Toop and John L. Jenney.

The Vestry reported to the meeting a budget which they had adopted for the year totaling $69,700. This budget makes provision for a Directress of Christian Education. In his Rector's address to the gathering, the Rev. Alfred L. Williams said that St. Mary's hoped to procure a qualified person by July.

The total receipts shown in Hyde, treasurer's report for the year 1957 were $66,228, the highest in any department, those in which the extra payments for the building fund were being made.

Fog Slows Ike's Flight To Funeral

Olathe, Kan., Jan. 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower, forced to skip fog-bound Kansas City, landed at the Naval Air Station here today en route to his brother's funeral.

The President's plane, Columbine III, touched down in clear weather at 11:27 a.m. (CST) after circling for 27 minutes over fogbound Kansas City, Grandview, Mo., and Olathe.

An emergency motor caravan, composed largely of Navy automobiles, was assembled to drive Eisenhower into Kansas City where funeral services are to be held early this afternoon for his elder brother, Arthur.

The press plane, which normally lands an hour ahead of the President, was forced to circle the Kansas City area for an hour and 20 minutes while officials were deciding where the President would land.

Original plans called for Eisenhower to land at Kansas City's municipal airport at 11:30 a.m. However, he made faster time west than expected and reached the area about 11 a.m.

Conditions at Richards-Gebaur, 20 miles south of here, were reported about the same while Olathe, 25 miles southwest, was reported clear.

The temperature in Kansas City was 25 degrees and there was a 2-mile wind from the east-northeast.

Proxy Struggle Indicated for NHRR Meeting

New Haven, Jan. 29 (AP)—The threat of a proxy battle loomed for the annual meeting of New Haven Railroad stockholders in April.

Harold C. V. Kagan, a lawyer for the New York City investment firm that filed the claim, said he understood the firm planned a proxy fight.

The company, A. C. Allyn & Co., said in its claim that it sought the lists to prepare for the election of directors at the railroad's spring meeting. No specific mention of a proxy fight was made in the claim.

Kagan did not indicate what support, if any, the company has for a possible proxy war.

Holds 16,667 Shares

Allyn & Co. says it holds 16,667 shares of the railroad's 5 per cent convertible stock. About 400,000 shares of this stock are outstanding.

The firm said in its claim that it tried without success to examine the stock records of the R. Allyn & Co. asked the court to issue a writ of mandamus forcing John F. Larkin, railroad secretary, to make the stockholder lists accessible.

Permission to see the lists was denied. Allyn & Co., the railroad spokesman said, because the firm

All Not Lost: Sacks to Have Frills and Stuff

Paris, Jan. 29 (AP) — Sacks with a puff of drapery on the skirt front ran away with the Guy Laroche and Jean Desses collections this morning.

Laroche's second favorite is a long, loose-bodied dress with a very frilly or puffy skirt gathered at mid-hip. Now that the designers are playing around with the plain old sack, it's often in danger for changes no doubt will drapes, frills or fron-fron.

Dessès declared: "The sack had to be made attractive. It was despised by every man."

It was also, some suspect, too easy to copy. The new fancied up versions would drive a home dressmaker to despair.

There is one sort of penguin fronted sack, shown by both Dessès and Laroche. It has a wide "V" or horseshoe shaped cutout to just below the waist, and the bodice is filled up with what the French call a "modesty," or sort of elongated bib, often in white.

Others might be called sacks on the half-shell. A false coat is utilizing the

High Winds Delay Jupiter-C Blastoff

Cape Canaveral, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Hurricane-force winds in upper altitudes made uncertain today the time when the Army will fire its Jupiter-C satellite launching vehicle.

The Air Force Weather Central reported high-level winds of 140 miles an hour. Winds of such velocity could topple the rocket.

On the ground, winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour were forecast this afternoon and there was a chance of even higher winds in squalls along this portion of the Florida Coast.

Strict secrecy has been maintained in official circles about the Army's firing plans but it has been generally expected that the attempt would be made this week. In earlier speculation, today's date reportedly had been set as probable dates for the blastoff.

Although there was no official word, the attempt undoubtedly would be delayed until weather conditions are more favorable.

Rain Another Hazard

Although the high-level wind in itself would be enough to bring about a postponement, rain would be still another hazard because it would interfere with rocket's ground power system.

Rains which flooded underground conduits forced a delay in an attempt last Friday to fire a Thor intermediate range ballistic missile.

The Thor shoot finally came off yesterday.

The new siege of bad weather, after several pleasant days, hit Florida at a time when the Army was believed to be approaching the zero hour for its effort to hurl a 30-pound "moon" into orbit.

Attention shifted momentarily away from the Jupiter-C yesterday when the Air Force took live aim with a successful firing of its Thor intermediate range ballistic missile.

Thousands See Thor

The spectacular shot on a sunshiny day was witnessed by thousands of persons in this area. The fiery Thor, with which the Air Force plans to put a satellite into orbit and to hit the moon, was visible for four minutes after its blastoff.

In standard language used to report a successful shot, the Air Force said the Thor "flew its prescribed course and landed in the pre-selected impact area." Five of the nine Thors flown from here have performed well.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, told a Senate Committee recently the Thor will be used as the first stage of a 3-stage rocket to send a lunar probe on its way.

The temperature in Kansas City was 25 degrees and there was a 2-mile wind from the east-northeast.

Disabled President Procedure Outlined

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—House leaders were reported today they have agreed upon a bill to permit a vice president to act as president in case of a chief executive's disability.

A special subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee was currently called into session after the draft of the bill was prepared. It has been the subject of high level, closed-door conferences for about two weeks, following a 2-year study by the subcommittee.

The bill would provide that the vice president "shall discharge the powers and duties (of the office of president) as acting president" under either of these circumstances:

1. If the president himself certifies in writing to Congress and the vice president that he is unable to discharge the power and duties of office.

2. If a commission on presidential inability determines that he is unable to discharge those powers and duties.

The commission would create this commission of eight members, six of whom would have to agree in any determination for it to be effective.

Members of the commission would be the vice president as now voting chairman, the speaker of the House of Representatives, the president pro tempore of the Senate, the secretary of state, the leaders of the two major parties in the House of Representatives, and the corresponding Senate leaders.

The chairman, or a majority of the members of the commission, could convene the commission if it was thought there was cause for it to act.

In the event there was no vice president, the official next in line of presidential succession would replace him on the commission and as temporary successor to the president in case of need.

A finding that a disabled president had become fit to resume office would be made by the president or the commission under the same procedures as a finding of disability.

The proposed legislation was undertaken to have the backing of House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.), who for a long time opposed any changes in the existing legal situation.

Informed sources said one of the factors behind Rayburn's acceptance was the argument of backers that the Constitution allows no contemplation temporary succession of a vice president in case of need.

Unlike a presidential succession proposal put forward last year by President Eisenhower, the bill now suggested would not involve amending the Constitution. It would, instead, be presented as a means of implementing the basic law.

The legislation also was understood to have been approved by Republican and Democratic House leaders.

Atty. Gen. Rogers was invited to the subcommittee meeting today and was expected to ask for

Zarubin Asks Stassen Push For Arms Pact

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Georgi Zarubin, Russian departing ambassador is reported to have urged Harold Stassen to continue working for a disarmament agreement.

The meeting between the two men — a secret until yesterday — took place Jan. 15 at the State Department, and was said to have been requested by Zarubin on envoy.

Informed sources said Zarubin's discussion with Stassen apparently reflected continued Soviet interest in some sort of limited arms reduction agreement.

Stassen is said to have pressed the Russian for a favorable reply to President Eisenhower's Jan. 12 letter to Soviet Premier Bulganin.

The President indicated in that message a willingness to attend an East-West summit conference if preparatory talks on a lower level resulted in real progress on major issues.

Zarubin's visit with Stassen—reportedly approved by Secretary of State Dulles—came as Stassen was making a behind the scenes

Bradley to Try For Governor Despite Zeller

Bridgeport, Jan. 29 (AP)—J. Kenneth Bradley, of Westport, former Republican state chairman, indicated today he is prepared to seek the party's nomination for gubernatorial nomination in the face of State Comptroller Fred R. Zeller's announcement of his candidacy yesterday.

In his first comment on Zeller's bid for the nomination, Bradley said:

"Mr. Zeller's announcement of his candidacy does not change my position in any way. I believe that a tough, hard-hitting campaign can be fought by the party this fall. As I have said before, this goal can be achieved and I were chosen to lead that kind of a campaign, I would definitely be interested. It is up to the party and the Republican state convention to decide."

Bradley's statement was, in effect, a reiteration of a previous declaration that he is "interested in the nomination if it is strong and right." He has indicated that by this phrase he means a situation under which the party wants him to run and is pledged to a vigorous and harmonious campaign.

Bradley refrained from any formal announcement of candidacy but a Bradley-for-Governor Committee is working on his behalf in Westport.

In addition to having served in both houses of the Legislature and as state chairman, Bradley, a 54-year-old Bridgeport lawyer, has served as national committeeman from Connecticut, national chairman of Young Republicans and as Fairfield County chairman of the party.

Police Check Leads To $1.8 Million Loot

Montreal, Jan. 29 (AP)—Police today followed a "number of promising leads" in the unsolved theft of $1,800,000 in negotiable bonds from a downtown trust company.

Using explosives and acetylene torches, the burglars took an estimated 12 hours to bore holes in two steel and concrete vaults of La Societe Nationale de Diffusion, a trust company, and its banking subsidiary, La Caisse Nationale Economie.

"It was a neat, efficient operation," said one police official. "It was like trying to blast their way into an air raid shelter. Some

The Future in Schools

Sputnik's Stimulus On U.S. Education

(NOTE — Like the weather, everybody talks about education. But unlike the weather, things are being done about it. Thoughtful questioners are asking: Has the U.S. system failed in the face of Russian scientific achievement? If so, what can we do? This first of three articles explores the future.

BY CHARLES L. STAUFORD
AP Newspaper Features Writer

Why did the Russians beat us slot? Why, if we were beaten, couldn't we match them when we do?

Everyone has an answer. And in most cases, from the expert and the ordinary citizen, it boils down to one thing: Something is at fault in our education system.

Whether this is true, the public clamor for changes no doubt will bring science to more youngsters and someday probably will produce more and better scientists.

How will it be done? The Associated Press, with 50 numerous state bureaus in all parts of the country, to try to assess the science education picture in secondary schools, in colleges and universities and the pace of change deliberate.

Developments, Trends

The survey indicated these prospective developments and trends:

1. Science and mathematics teachers will be required to have more education in their fields as its to keep up to date. But they also will be given better tools with which to work.

2. The gifted student, allowed to accelerate in most schools while his slower brethren bog the school's attention, will be offered special courses to challenge his intelligence. He will be allowed to progress at his own speed.

3. Science curricula will be made more attractive, but tougher. And schoolchildren will get a much earlier introduction to science, in many cases beginning in kindergarten.

But education denies that the Russian moon alone spawned new educational ideas. Plans for improving science studies were already long under way when the Russians launched their sputniks, educators say.

The role played by the sputniks has been to create changes in public opinion to make it easier to do things we have long wanted to do," said Dr. Giles Tuvimann, director of instruction in Topeka, Kan.

"The sputniks have made many people willing to spend some money and do some things."

National Pride Hurt

The successful Russian launching in early October wounded the national pride, exploding a confidence that American science would launch one first.

The American people demanded to know what was wrong, particularly in the dark days of Dec. 6 as technicians combed the beach at Cape Canaveral, Fla., for answers to the failure of the first U.S. satellite try.

"With sputniks orbiting the Earth, our education system sits back and smugly views its lavishly furnished home economics departments while biology, chemistry and physics departments are operating in rooms in most schools while his brother's home economics department will be offered special courses to challenge his intelligence. He will be allowed to progress at his own speed.

Local Paid $100,000 to Ex-Convict

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Labor racketeer Joey Fay acknowledged today he and his wife have received more than $100,000 from his Newark union local since the day he went to prison as an extortionist in 1947.

The precise amount was not immediately pinned down in hearings by the Senate Rackets Investigating committee. Real estate deals Fay had with the union were involved as well as direct payments.

In indignant tones, Fay rejected a suggestion that the money he received from the union seemed an unusual reward for a man who had gone to prison denounced as a betrayer of unionists and a "ruthless grasping thief."

That description came from committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy, questioning Fay in the Senate Committee's investigation of the International Operating Engineers Union.

Fay had risen to power and wealth in the union when convicted of shaking down contractors on a New York City water project for some $360,000.

In response to questions, Fay told the Senators his wife received $67,800 in salary and Christmas bonuses of $500 a year from the Newark Local 825 while he was in prison. She also was given an automobile the committee valued at $3,272.

Fay denied this was because, as Kennedy suggested, members of the union would have feared "for their lives and livelihood" if they had tried to protest. Kennedy said those were the words used by New York District Attorney Frank Hogan in the trial in which Fay was convicted of extortion.

Since getting out of prison, Fay said he shared in the proceeds of the sale to Local 825 of the headquarters building it occupies in Newark. His story was that the sale was for $75,000, compared with a $77,000 valuation placed on the structure by appraisers.

Killer Youth Sought For Murdering Six

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 29 (AP)—Lincoln police reported this afternoon that more persons have been found slain, bringing to nine the total killings uncovered in this area since Monday. Police said the slayings of the three occurred at a residence in the south part of Lincoln. They identified the dead as Mr. and Mrs. C. Lauer Ward, and their maid.

Bennet, Neb., Jan. 29 (AP)—Wary, heavily-armed officers pressed their search today for a young man described as a kill-crazy teenager who is being sought in connection with six grisly killings.

Lancaster County Attorney Elmer Scheele prepared a first degree murder charge against 210-pound red-haired Charles Starkweather, 19, who has a reputation as a sharp-shooting hunter.

Traveling in pairs through the night officers made a house-by-house check of farms in the Bennet area without finding a trace of either of the hunted Lincoln teenagers.

Bennet, 16 miles southeast of Lincoln is only about 50 miles from the Kansas, Iowa and Missouri state lines. Officers in those states were on the alert to watch for Starkweather and the girl.

In Mount Vernon, Iowa, two truckers involved in an accident reported flagging down a car whose occupants fitted the description of the hunted pair.

The truckers reported the driver of the car, which bore Oregon license plates, was saying, "I want nothing to do with the law. How do I get to Chicago?"

Four of the victims died with rifle bullets in their heads. Another was shot in the head with a shotgun. The other, a 2-year-old, apparently died of a fractured skull.

That report led Capt. Dan Casey of the State Safety Patrol to speculate whether Starkweather might have been trying to prove to Carol "something could have happened to Carol."

William Fugate, father of Carol, said he hoped officers would "get" Starkweather, even at the risk of his daughter's life. Grimly, he said, "I sure hope they get him, even if they have to get Carol Ann to get Chuck (Starkweather)."

He said he didn't think his daughter was dead but would "come home as soon as she can make a break."

Dulles Hinting More Aid for Baghdad Pact

Ankara, Turkey, Jan. 29 (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dulles reported to the Baghdad Pact Allies today the United States will give sympathetic consideration to new financial aid for projects to raise Middle East living standards when present development funds are exhausted.

Senior diplomats attending the conference of Baghdad Pact premiers and foreign ministers emphasized, however, that Dulles gave no firm commitment to make any specific grant.

He took this attitude, they said, despite considerable pressure from the four Moslem member nations of the alliance Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, the pact's fifth member and other source of aid—was said to have advised the Middle East, western countries similarly that Britain will examine with understanding the financial needs of the region when the ground work for a series of specific development projects has been prepared.

Like Dulles, Lloyd also stressed the worldwide nature of his country's commitments which impose strict limits on Britain's capacity to dole out aid.

The United States is not a full member of the pact but belongs to its military, economic and counterinsurgency committees. Dulles is attending the conference—which ends tomorrow—as an observer.

The American and British ministers outlined their governmental positions at a plenary session in which the council approved the report of its economic committee.

Pupils Asked to Boycott Crime-Riddled Schools

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Another young girl was reported raped last night in a Brooklyn school as authorities strove to curb violence and disorders that have broken out around school premises.

New York, Jan. 29 (AP) — The foreman of a special grand jury investigating crime in Brooklyn public schools has suggested that parents have their children boycott schools where crime is prevalent.

County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz promised to study Golden's proposal, which was made in the form of a question.

"Is there anything in the law that could prevent thousands of mothers and fathers from having their young children boycott the schools until something is done?," Golden asked.

Leibowitz said he will confer with Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Edward S. Silver and report back to the grand jury.

When notified of Goldfarb's death, Golden said the jurors will call in Board of Education officials to find out whether the principal had been under pressure or had been threatened with disciplinary action for reportedly calling the jurors last Thursday that he would like to have a policeman stationed inside his school.

The grand jury and Leibowitz favor stationing a policeman in every school in the city. This suggestion has been turned down by the Board of Education, School Supt. William Jansen and Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy.

It was disclosed last night that
