About Town

The Parent-Teacher Group of the Oak Hill School will feature the education of the deaf-blind in a talk entitled "Children of the Silent Night," by Edward J. Waterhouse, director of the Perkins Institute for the Blind, Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Connecticut Institute for the Blind, 120 Holcomb St., Hartford.

The Thomas Spencer Circle of the South Methodist WSCS will meet Monday at 1 p.m. in the ladies parlor of the church. The speaker will be Mrs. Russell MacKendrick, whose subject will be "Prominent Women of Today." Hostesses will be Mrs. John Suhie and Mrs. Howard E. Keeney.

The DeMolay Mothers Circle will meet at 7:30 Monday night in the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple.

At the Sunday School session of Zion Lutheran Church Sunday at 9 a.m., Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lang, missionaries, will present a film on India Missions.

Gospel services will be held in Orange Hall Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. These non-denominational services will be conducted by Miss Mary Clarke and Miss Janette Graves.

Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, will hold its auction Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the K of C Home, postponed from the Jan. 21 date because of the weather. Miss Helen Thomas will act as auctioneer and Mrs. Edgar Carpenter and Mrs. Salvatore Filloramo will serve as co-chairmen of the committee. Members are requested to bring articles to the meeting.

David A. Chagnot, 22, 1680 Manchester Rd., Glastonbury, is at Fort Dix, N. J., and been assigned to B Co. 2 Training Regiment of the U.S. Army Training Center, Infantry, for eight weeks of basic training. He attended Manchester High School and was employed by the Town Highway Department before entering the Army.

Sgt. 1.C. Armond A. Nodden, son of Basil T. Nodden Sr., 221 Hackmatack St., is a member of the 8th Infantry Division at Fort Carson, Colo. He entered the Army in 1946 and was last stationed at Fort Knox, Ky.

John O'Hara, professional landscaper, will address the Green Thumb Group of the Manchester YWCA at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Community Y. The title of his talk will be "Foundation Plantings and General Landscaping." A special invitation is extended to interested men of the community. Refreshments will be served.

The Auxiliary to Anderson-Shea Post, No. 2046, VFW, will hold its usual setback party tonight at 8:30 at the post home. Proceeds will go to the March of Dimes. The public is invited.

Aaron Cook Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Cook, 562 E. Middle Tpke., has been named to the winter term dean's list at Babson Institute of Business Administration, Babson Park, Mass. A member of the freshman class, he graduated from the Loomis School, Windsor, in 1957.

Driverless Cars In Mishap Here

Two driverless cars were involved in an accident on Cooper St. last night about 8:30.

Patrolman Walter Casaella Jr. said that a car owned by Francis Gibeault of 122 Walnut St. rolled backwards out of a private driveway, traveled across the street and struck a parked car belonging to Robert J. Clifford, 33, of 7 Piano Pl.

Clement Gibeault, who had parked the car in the driveway, told Casaella that he had set the handbrake and the officer reported that it apparently had slipped back into an unset position. The vehicle was not damaged and the fender of the Clifford car received a small dent.

No arrest was made.

Open House Plans Made by Museum

The Lutz Junior Museum, located at Waddell School, will hold open house each Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. for the benefit of personnel, students and families of the schools of Manchester.

Members of the Junior Museum League will serve as hostesses for their respective schools. The first open house is planned for Wednesday, with Bucklind and South Schools being invited to attend. The Bowers School is scheduled to visit the Museum on Feb. 12.

CAP Record Hop Slated Tomorrow

A "Record Hop," sponsored by the Manchester Sen dron of the Civil Air Patrol USAF, will be held tomorrow at the American Legion Home from 7 to 11 p.m.

Arthur Bouffard is chairman and Gerard Adam co-chairman, with Rene Blanchette, Kenneth Cotton, David Spear and Daniel Tofeldt assisting.

1st Lt. Thomas F. Walsh, commander of the local unit, and his staff of senior members will act as chaperons for the dance. Prizes will be given for dance contests scheduled on the program.

The public is invited to attend. Tickets may be purchased from the members of the squadron or at the door.

U.S. Satellite Circling Earth

Army Ready to Launch Second Jupiter-C

Free Nations Laud Explorer's Success

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—The launching of the American artifical earth satellite Explorer lifted spirits in Western Europe today. The Russians extended congratulations—in a dispatch delayed three hours by censorship in Moscow.

The Soviet congratulations came from a spokesman for the state committee on cultural relations with foreign countries.

The only disappointment expressed over the U.S. satellite launching from Cape Canaveral, Fla., was good natured. Europeans were sorry the orbit might not carry the baby moon over their heads for a look.

Th satellite's orbit extends about 35 degrees of latitude on either side of the equator, taking the 30.8-pound Explorer over Southern Asia and Australia, most of Africa and Latin America, and the Southern United States.

Most Europeans got the news on breakfast-time radio newscasts since it came too late for morning papers. Moscow radio carried the report in overseas broadcasts but made no immediate mention of it in early broadcasts to home listeners.

Tass Report Launching

The Soviet News Agency Tass reported from New York that the satellite had been sent aloft but did not immediately say whether it went into orbit. Word that the Explorer had settled into an orbit spread through the western community in Moscow after it was received on foreign broadcasts.

Communist East Germany's radio station said the first U.S. satellite was launched "17 weeks after the start of the Soviet Union's first sputnik." Sputnik 1 was launched last Oct. 3.

One of the first British scientists to get the news was Dr. Martin Ryle, director of the Cambridge Radio Observatory that tracked the Soviet satellites.

"It's a fine show they have got it up at last, a very good thing," Ryle commented.

Prof. Takeo Hatanaka of Tokyo University, one of Japan's top authorities on solar physics, said in Tokyo he was "certainly glad to

Explorer Lifts U.S. Prestige

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—The United States regained today with its orbiting Explorer some of the prestige it lost to Russia last October. But top officials acknowledged the nation still has a long way to go.

These officials said it would be foolish to underestimate the lead Russia holds as the result of its achievement in getting two sputniks aloft months before the United States got its Explorer into orbit.

One of the early diplomatic results of last night's achievement may be a new U.S. move to press President Eisenhower's proposal to Soviet Premier Bulganin for an agreement pledging outer space to peaceful uses.

A new initiative on this proposal in the United Nations is possible, though no specific action has been decided on yet.

Secretary of State Dulles has suggested that a U.N. agency might be created by East-West agreement to police a pledge to limit space missiles and space exploration to peaceful purposes.

Grim Period Ahead

Unless some such system is worked out officials here foresee a long period of increasingly grim, costly and dangerous competition by the world's great powers for control of the skies.

As officials presently see the situation, the launching should strengthen this country's hand in negotiating with Russia for a summit conference.

There is no doubt that state department leaders were reluctant to approach a top level meet-

'Moon' Orbits At 18,000 mph

By BEN FUNK

Cape Canaveral, Fla., Feb. 1 (AP)—The United States' first man-made satellite whirled around the Earth today and the Army disclosed that it is preparing to hurl another one into orbit.

It was the Army's Jupiter-C missile that fired a 30.8-pound "moon" aloft last night and recovered some of the U.S. prestige lost when Russia boosted her two sputniks into space last fall.

With a huge burst of flame and a thunderous roar that could be heard for miles along Florida's East Coast, the Jupiter-C blasted off from this top-secret firing base at 10:48 p.m. last night.

About an hour and three-quarters later, its satellite had completed its first journey around the world and tracking stations were receiving its radio signals.

It was so well established in orbit, said Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, head of the Army's missile test program, that it will remain aloft from 2 to 10 years.

It is unlikely the Army's satellite will be visible to the naked eye. In an announcement the Army said: "It will appear in its orbit with about the brilliance of a one-fifth to one-sixth magnitude star, and a star of this brightness can barely be seen without some magnification."

There are no living organisms in the satellite, the Army said. The Navy plans to put yeast cells in one or more of its satellites in an experiment to provide data on the reaction of living matter to conditions outside the Earth's atmosphere.

There was confusion in early reports about the altitude of the satellite. Medaris said the distance from the Earth in its elliptical orbit would range between 185 and 1,230 miles. Dr. Werhen von Braun, designer of the rocket, said it would swing as high as 2,000 miles and as low as 250.

Von Braun said the 6-foot-long metal tube is circling the Earth once every 113 minutes. Medaris said the time was 106 minutes.

They disagreed also on the baby moon's speed. Van Braun figured it at 19,400 m.p.h.; Medaris said almost exactly 18,000.

The satellite — christened the Explorer by its Army sponsors — has the only radio voice coming to Earth from out in space. Sputnik I has disintegrated and the radio batteries of the dog-carrying Sputnik II have long been dead.

Two hours after the firing, Medaris told a news conference here that the Army "has been directed to fire one more (satellite) at the present time."

The date has been set, he said, but will be kept secret.

The Army received a go-ahead to launch its little space traveler after the Russians had fired their two sputniks. Previously, the space program had been assigned exclusively to the Navy.

Efforts to get the Navy's Vanguard rocket off the ground have failed. The first van-

Egypt, Syria Merge Into One Arab State

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 1 (AP)—Egypt, Syria merged into one Arab state today.

A joint proclamation signed by President Nasser of Egypt and President Shukri Kuwatly of Syria made the merger official.

The two presidents affixed their signatures to the historic document amid wild cheering from an Egyptian crowd assembled outside the old presidential palace.

The new state will have one flag, one cabinet, one parliament and one army. Nasser is expected to become president and Cairo the capital.

It unites about 28 million Arabs in one state. Its land areas separated by 150 miles of territory in which lie the states of Israel and Jordan. Egypt's population is more than 23 million and its land mass far greater than that of Syria.

Leaders of both countries already are urging other Arab countries to join the union in one great Arab-speaking nation covering the Mid-East. Countries which would be eligible for membership are Jordan, Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Sudan, Libya, Tunisia, Morocco, Alberia and the sheikdoms of the Arabian Peninsula.

These countries—some of them tongue-tied with Egypt and Syria—are standing on the sidelines, giving no hint they even want to join. For more than a year Egypt and Syria have been feuding with Jordan, Iraq and Lebanon. Their relations with King Saud of Saudi Arabia are none too cordial. The Sudanese government has often made it clear it wants nothing to do with the union. Tunisia and Morocco have never been close to Middle East countries. Yemen may want to join.

Until now Egyptians have appeared cool toward union. The fervor for it came from the Leftist Syrian government. Nasser and his government had good reasons for reluctance. He has been sensitive to western charges that he is trying to dominate the Arab world.

Syrians themselves originated the idea of union with Egypt in 1955. What prompted Nasser finally to consent can only be

Ike in Georgia Tags Explorer As 'Wonderful'

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 1 (AP)—"That's wonderful." That was President Eisenhower's stated opinion early today to word that an Army Jupiter-C rocket had rammed the United States' first satellite into orbit around the Earth.

Then, after waiting up for that word until nearly 1 a.m. the happy President put out the first official announcement that Explorer, the baby "moon," was racing around the globe.

Eisenhower, here for a weekend of golf and hobbies, got the orbiting information by telephone from Washington about two hours after the satellite-carrying rocket was launched at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Then, at a dramatic news conference, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty put out this statement by the President:

"Dr. J. Wallace Joyce, head of the International Geophysical Office of the National Science Foundation, has just informed me that the United States has successfully placed a scientific Earth satellite in orbit around the Earth.

"The satellite was orbited by a modified Jupiter-C rocket.

Girl Willing Companion, Starkweather Charges

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 1 (AP)—Pint-sized killer Charles Starkweather and Carol Fugate, his 14-year-old girl companion, languished in separate institutions today while authorities weighed their respective roles in a shocking series of 11 killings.

Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp said Starkweather, 19, has admitted killing all 11 deaths, but now claims Carol was his willing companion on the murder tour that cost nine lives in Nebraska and one in Wyoming. The 11th killing was two months ago.

Earlier, both Starkweather and the girl had insisted she was a hostage.

Both are charged with first degree murder.

Prison gates closed on the bandy-legged, bespectacled killer last night after a 24-mile auto trip from Douglas, Wyo.

As he passed through an improvised gauntlet of troops, the penitentiary he sullenly ignored the battery of news cameras.

Guy Starkweather, father of Charles, talked with his son by telephone after the youthful slayer was taken to the penitentiary.

"He just said, 'Hello, Dad.' He talked to me just like he used to," the elder Starkweather said.

"His voice was gentle it just didn't seem possible he could talk like that in view of all that's happened.

"He was pleasant. I don't think he felt too good, though."

Charles' 14-year-old girl friend waited in a patrol car outside the prison gates while Starkweather was being settled in the state prison. She smiled at photographers and might even have talked to them had she not been restrained. But by the time she reached the county jail her smile was gone and she refused to talk to a reporter.

She was taken to the Lincoln State Mental Hospital because Nebraska law prevents detention of a juvenile girl in the county jail.

Another facet of the investigation developed when two Lincoln persons reported they had given authorities descriptions following the Dec. 1 slaying of Robert G. Colvert, which tended to link Starkweather with the case.

Map locates first four projected passes over the earth by the Army's Jupiter-C missile. It was launched to orbit at about a 20-degree angle to the equator. This orbit is between the 35th degree latitudes North and South. This is based on map issued early today by the Army. (AP-Photofax Map).

Explorer Tracked At 10 U.S. Centers

By FRANK CAREY

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Ten U.S. Minitrack tracking stations extending from the state of Georgia to South Africa and from San Diego, Calif., to Chile were following the first U.S. Earth satellite today.

Its radio signal, one scientist says, is "like a mixture of musical tones, varying not a beep like the Russian satellite."

Another project official described it as a high pitched "e-e-e-e-e."

Whatever its sound, this radio voice is one of the prime means of tracking the 18,000-mile-an-hour vehicle not to mention its value in relaying scientific information from the satellite to the Earth.

The radio signal provided a fine well song as the great Jupiter-C rocket zoomed from its launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla. and then the minitrack stations went into action in various parts of the world.

The successful launching, lagging though it did behind Russia's two previous successful sputniks, brought praise from official Washington.

First Check from Antigua

The first official report from the tracking system came from Antigua, in the British West Indies, but at that time project scientists did not yet know that the Explorer had successfully been launched into an Earth-circling orbit.

It wasn't until the satellite passed over the American West Coast—after having gone almost once around the world—that project officials were pretty certain an orbit had been established.

It was an amateur radio club in Earthquake Valley near San Diego that first reported the West Coast passage to International Geophysical Year (IGY) officials.

That was about 11:50 p.m. last night, just about an hour after the launching.

Ten minutes later, the satellite zoomed over Florida again—and Explorer was surely in business.

Amateur radio operators all around the world should be able to pick up the signals from the high-power of the two radio transmitters. That one operates at 108.03 megacycles and is expected to be operating for two or three weeks.

But signals from the lower-powered transmitter—sending at 108 megacycles—probably can be heard only by very sensitive ground receivers. This transmitter is expected to keep going for two or three months.

The Army is operating six of the Minitrack stations—located at Fort Stuart, Ga., Havana, Quito, Ecuador, Lima, Peru, Antofagasta, Chile and Santiago, Chile.

The Air Force and the Navy are operating the other four—at Antigua; San Diego, Calif.; Woomera,

Ousted Missile Chief Silent on Satellite News

Panama, Feb. 1 (AP)—Col. John C. Nickerson, banished champion of the Army's Jupiter-C missile, heard about the U.S. Satellite early today in officially imposed silence.

His wife, not inhibited by an Army court martial, fairly screamed with excitement at the news. "I think it's wonderful," she exclaimed.

But neither word of the Army's success in launching an America-can moon with a Jupiter-C nor his wife's elation could persuade the missile engineer to comment.

When his telephone range at 1:30 a.m. Mrs. Nickerson answered. She told a reporter she colonel was asleep but that she had been awake reading.

Told about the satellite launching, she exclaimed excitedly: "Did

St. Louis Digging Free From Record Snowfall

St. Louis, Feb. 1 (AP) — Snow-struck St. Louis recovered slowly today from a 11-hour surprise storm that paralyzed traffic and marooned hundreds in factories and schools.

Limited air travel resumed this morning at Lambert-St. Louis airport but 10 inches of snow still clogged two of three runways. There were no arrivals or departures in about 21 hours.

The Public Service Co. reported buses and streetcars were running "pretty good." Stranded hundreds began to go home after a night of residence in factories, hotels and schools.

Freezing temperatures were a factor in the slow recovery.

The snowfall was measured officially at 7 to 11 inches in various parts of the metropolitan area. It was the city's greatest since November 1951, when a 12-inch fall set a 56-year record.

The storm began at 8:10 a.m., less than half an hour after the weather bureau forecast light, possibly mixed with snow. By nightfall streets and highways were clogged.

Since the storm wasn't forecast, thousands went to work or school unprepared.

The McDonnell Aircraft Corp. dismissed 1,500 employes at its plant northwest of St. Louis early yesterday afternoon, but most had been unable to leave the plant last night. The company supplied coffee, doughnuts and movies.

Several top executives were among more than 30 persons stranded overnight at Monsanto Chemical Co. headquarters in St. Louis County.

Some 40 girl students had to spend the night at Villa Duchesne, a private Catholic school in suburban Frontenac.

Many retail stores, including the department stores, closed early—some by as much as five hours. Most public schools also closed early.

At least two persons collapsed and died while shoveling snow.

The 11-inch measurement was at the municipal airport, 10 miles west of the city. The depth in the business district was measured at 8 inches. Unofficial readings of 12 inches were reported in suburbs.

Meanwhile, the storm lost much of its punch as it moved eastward today. After bringing severe thunderstorms and tornado warnings to the southeast during the night, storm activity diminished to mostly rain and scattered showers from Virginia to Georgia and westward through Tennessee and Southern Kentucky.

Snowfall was mostly light in a narrow band from the southern Pennsylvania border southwestward through northern Kentucky, southern portions of Indiana and Illinois and northern Arkansas.

The storm also brought widespread temperature changes. Early morning readings from Virginia to Florida and westward to Alabama ranged from the 40s to the 60s, a rise of nearly 18 degrees in the last 24 hours.

However, behind the warming area northerly winds lowered temperatures from the Central plains and middle Mississippi Valley southward through the Southern plains and lower Mississippi valley. Readings across that area were mostly in the 70s and 30s with some temperatures around 10 degrees in Iowa.

Ike in Georgia Tags Explorer As 'Wonderful'

"This launching is part of our country's participation in the International Geophysical Year. All information received from this satellite promptly will be made available to the scientific community of the world."

The phone message from Washington that the satellite was on its bit was given to the President at the Augusta National Golf Club by Hagerty.

"He had just two words," Hagerty reported. And then he quoted Eisenhower as having told him:

"That's wonderful!"

For old soldier Eisenhower, who spent 40 years in the Army, there was no doubt the successful launching and the orbiting amounted to a special thrill.

The Army, once just about ruled out of the missile development field, had stepped in to bolster U.S. prestige after Russia's launching of two sputniks.

But at the Eisenhower vacation headquarters there was not even a hint of any criticism of the Navy and its unsuccessful efforts to launch a Vanguard test satellite. The Navy's first attempt Dec. 6 failed, and it had to give up temporarily again last weekend.

That cleared the stage for the Army.

Eisenhower flew from Washington to Augusta yesterday afternoon, and the word when he arrived was that weather conditions for an Army launching attempt at Cape Canaveral probably would not be right before early next week.

For the first time since he suffered a minor stroke Nov. 25, the President got in a regular round of golf. He played 15 holes and reported he enjoyed himself very much. He cut three holes from the usual round of 18 holes because a stiff wind started to whip the course in the last afternoon hour. It looked for a while as if it might storm.

The President had just come off the course and was setting down to a few rubbers of bridge with friends when Hagerty received the first of several phone calls from Washington. They all came from Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, White House staff secretary and Eisenhower's liaison man with the Pentagon.

Goodpaster reported the weather was clearing at Cape Canaveral and said it was beginning to look as if the Jupiter-C could be launched during the night. The firing time target at that point was 10:34 p.m.

Hagerty, headquartered at a hotel a few miles from the President's cottage at the edge of the golf course, promptly relayed that message to Eisenhower.

At 8:50 p.m. Goodpaster called Hagerty again. The weather at Canaveral was even better. The big rocket was being fueled.

Shortly after that Hagerty went from his hotel to Eisenhower's cottage. He called the President away from friends at the dinner table and gave him the latest information from Goodpaster.

At 9:50 p.m. there was another call from Goodpaster to Hagerty. It then seemed virtually certain the rocket would be launched. Goodpaster left his Washington home and went to the White House to cut into a special telephone circuit linking him to Pentagon officials who—across the Potomac River—were getting phone reports from Cape Canaveral. Goodpaster opened another line to Hagerty.

At 10:25 p.m. and again a few minutes before the launching at 10:48 Goodpaster again was on the phone to Hagerty. And as the moment of launching approached, Goodpaster repeated the Cape Canaveral preparatory countdown to Hagerty—"x minus seven, x minus six . . ." and so on.

Then at 10:48 the fire command echoed and 16 seconds later the Jupiter-C was on its way into space.

At that point the President got on the phone to Washington and for several minutes listened to Goodpaster relay from Cape Canaveral a word picture of the rocket's flight.

Almost two hours later Goodpaster received word from the National Science Foundation that the satellite was in orbit around the Earth. Goodpaster phoned Hagerty a last time. Hagerty phoned Eisenhower, and the President exclaimed:

"That's wonderful."

Explorer Tracked At 10 U.S. Centers

Australia; and Hiossom Point, Md.

An 11th station, being built at Olifantsfontein, Union of South Africa, is not yet in operation.

A minitrack station operates this way:

Each station is equipped with nice to 15 antennas having a special design that enables the system to detect signals in a fan-like space directly over the station.

Each station has a highly developed radio receiver, extremely sensitive to signals in the 108 megacycle area. A special instrument allows timing of the receipt of signals down to 1/1000th of a second. There's also an instrument for determining the angular position of the satellite with respect to the station.

Data from the various stations is transmitted immediately to the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, then fed into a "mechanical brain" computer.

The latter is designed to predict precise orbits of the satellite 24 hours in advance for the benefit of official and unofficial observers around the world.

Woman Charged With Speeding Twice in Night

Miss Lila Topolif, 32, of 91 Park St., Newton, Mass., apparently has a short memory.

State Policeman Walter Schmiegel stopped her on Rt. 15 in Willington at 8 p.m. yesterday and charged her with speeding. She said she was on her wa; to Hartford. Schmiegel said he clocked her at speeds up to 80 m.p.h.

At Stafford Springs barracks she posted a $50 bond and was released.

At 11:30 p.m. State Policeman John Ferach was cruising on Rt. 15 in Vernon when he said a car passed him. He took up the chase, he said, at speeds up to 80 m.p.h. and stopped the car. The driver was Miss Topolif on her way home.

She posted another $30 cash bond at Stafford Barracks and was released. She is scheduled to appear Feb. 18 at Stafford and Rockville City Court, which handles cases for Vernon.

Verplanck PTA Sets Feb. 11 Show

The Verplanck School PTA will hold a gala show "Club Verplanck," on Feb. 11 at the school.

Final plans for the affair were discussed at a meeting of the executive board last evening.

Mrs. Paul Faridoni, chairman, announced many entertainers were rehearsing and that the floor show promised to be varied and interesting. Many parents have offered their talents and services, but others can be used. Others interested in helping are asked to contact her. In addition to two floor shows and refreshments, "Club Verplanck" will offer dancing to "The Name! ! !" band on a floor larger than "postage stamp" size, she said.

President Leonard Rackowski led an executive board discussion on ways and means of raising the school's share of money for the Lutz Museum in order to retain its present part time director on a full time basis next year.

A plan to encourage parents of pre-school children to prepare the youngsters for school life was tabled pending further information on the need for such a plan.

It was decided that the committee in charge of choosing the recipient of the Verplanck teaching scholarship for high school seniors planning to enter the teaching profession, should begin considering their choice at an earlier date this year.

Miss Catherine E. Shea, principal, and President Rackowski gave a report on the PTA Council meeting. Mrs. Daniel Shilien and Mrs. R. A. Lussier reported on the Lutz Museum.

India's Ambassador to the United States, Mr. G. L. Mehta, says that American investments in India now amount to about 110 million dollars.

Australian Visits Aircraft

Sen. Shane D. Paltridge, minister for civil aviation in Australia, watches through a test cell periscope, the flame of the afterburner on a Pratt & Whitney aircraft jet engine. With him in test cell operator Elmer Johnson. The senator, on an inspection tour of aviation plants and facilities in this country, was in the Hartford area Thursday to visit the Hamilton Standard plant, the Pratt & Whitney East Hartford plant and the United Aircraft Willgoos laboratory, where this picture was taken. He said that a leading Australian airline has recently ordered several jet transport planes with Pratt & Whitney-manufactured engines of the type he is shown watching. He is a member of the upper house of the Australian Parliament.

EVEN HARMLESS REVOKE PAYS USUAL PENALTY

By Alfred Sheinwold

"Does a revoke cost two tricks," I am often asked, "even when the revoke is quite harmless?" Yes, it does. One of the reasons is that in many hands it is very difficult to tell how much damage was caused by the revoke. When the penalty of two tricks is automatic, you have no problem. You pay the penalty and save your brains for the next hand.

When this hand was played in last year's world championship, West opened the deuce of hearts, and South won with the ten.

South stroked his rabbit's-foot for having prevented a spade opening lead. He then proceeded to run the five diamonds and the four clubs. He was sure to win 10 tricks, but only 10.

As it happened, however, West discarded a heart on the first round of clubs instead of following suit. This revoke was meaningless, of course, but it still cost two of the three tricks that the defenders took at the end of the hand.

South was therefore credited with 12 tricks. He scored 690 points, just as though he had won his contract and three extra tricks.

Phoney Short Lived

The American team felt pleased at this little accident, but the pleasure was short lived. They soon discovered what had happened when this hand was played at the other table. (In a team match, each hand is played at two tables. At one table, North-South; at the other, East-West.)

At the other table the American team held the East cards opened with a psychic bid of one heart. His partner raised to three hearts, and South ended the auction for a ride of 1,100 points!

So the revoke turned out to be unimportant after all. And the next time you're sorry that you lost, you can point out that the same thing happens in world championship!

Daily Question

With both sides vulnerable, dealer at your right bids one heart. You hold: Spades J, 10, 7; Hearts K, 10, 8, 5; Diamonds A, K, 7; Clubs A, 9, 8. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. This is usually the wisest course when your hand suit is opened by an opponent. (This page led to the 1,100-point last year, described above.)

Zulu Native Will Talk on South Africa

Abelson Vilakazi, a native Zulu from Natal, South Africa, will speak on Africa at the meeting of the Junior Fellowship of the Congregational Church tomorrow at 5:30 p.m.

At present Vilakazi is an assistant professor of anthropology and the African department of the Kennedy School of Missions.

Adults who wish to attend the meeting are cordially invited.

"The Lord's Prayer; A Pattern" is the title of the sermon the Rev. Theodore Chandler will use tomorrow at the 11 a.m. worship at the Congregational Church. Installation of all officers and committee members elected at the annual meeting will be held during the service.

The church school and adult Bible class will meet at 9:30 a.m. The adult class will begin a new course of study entitled, "The Gospel of Mark."

The Junior Choir of the Congregational Church will meet on Monday at 3 p.m. in the CD room of the church.

The Executive Board of the Congregational Women's Guild will meet on Monday at 8 p.m. in the parish room of the church.

Mass Schedule

Masses will be celebrated at St. Maurice Church on Sunday at 8:30 and 10 a.m.

St. Patrick's Day Plans

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Daley, general chairmen of the St. Patrick's Day Ball to be held March 17 in St. Maurice Church hall, have announced their committees.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robbins will be in charge of decorations and Mr. and Mrs. George Mangeja are acting as ticket chairmen.

A bake sale, which will be served at 6 p.m., is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Paul Anthony Armentano, Mr. and Mrs. John McCabe and Mr. and Mrs. George Banks.

"Explorer"

"Explorer" is in orbit.

The Army said, many months ago, that it could do it.

Last night it was given its first chance to try, and that first attempt was a brilliant success.

This is fairly good evidence that we actually had the scientific capacity to launch a satellite all along.

Now we have balanced sputnik perhaps we can also balance some of our thinking and policy, and face the real problems of the space age.

These real problems are not problems of rivalry between individual nations. They concern the larger question of whether mankind as a whole can match the scientific progress with progress in the field of human and national relations skills, whether we can master our science so that it is for the good of man, or must be slaves to its capacity for destruction.

We shall perhaps have clearer heads for such problems, now that the Army has blasted our scientific inferiority complex out of the way.

The Sputnik School Bill

During the years when the question of federal aid to education has been a pressing issue, one basic feeling of principle has played a key role in the defeat of every proposition advanced. Thus was the fear that federal support of education might lead to federal control of education. And the spectre of the federal government exhibiting influence or authority over the content and direction of American education has been enough to frighten off every effort of those educators who are sharply aware of the continuing national emergency in education.

It was in an effort to find a way in which the federal government could give aid to education without achieving any direct contact with the content or method of education that, in the last session, the chief federal aid bill concentrated on school buildings alone. Let the federal government help provide the brick and mortar, it was thought, and great good could be done, and that would be that. Let the government help provide the buildings, and let the local communities and the states continue sovereign over what went on inside the buildings.

In spite of this presumed safeguard, the fear of any federal entry into the field of education remained strong enough, in alliance with those who objected to having the tax revenue from one state spent in another on any basis or for any purpose, to defeat the bill. That defeat was helped along when civil rights liberals tried to tie the rights ideology into the proposed federal gift of brick and portar by stipulating that both federal aid to and mortar could house only integrated schools.

If that was the story of last session's proposal, what can realistically be expected for this year's administration proposal for federal aid to education?

The proposal now sent to Congress abandons the brick and mortar angle entirely, and says, in effect, we don't even provide for aid to school building, which might be the least controversial form of federal help. Instead, the new proposals plunge directly into the business of influencing what goes on inside America's schools, what subjects get greatest emphasis, what teachers get highest pay, and what children shall be given special advantages in their quest for higher education.

The excuse for this direct entry into that influence of the content of our education which has hitherto been considered so fundamentally dangerous in principle is sputnik. A Russian moon, up in space a few months before our own, is being labeled an emergency which suddenly justifies letting the federal government into every American classroom for the express purpose of influencing what shall be taught and emphasized there. What we have fought against so long, we now propose to embrace on the emergency spur of the moment, and our fear of even such indirect federal influence is now supposedly turned into a welcome for the most extreme kind of direct federal influence.

It deserves the cool welcome it is getting in Congress. The record is that having the administration itself go off on this berserk sputnik tangent lessens what might have been fairly good chances for a building aid bill in this session.

Another Shortage

We note, in the news, the first emergency warning to the effect that this nation is facing a shortage of clergymen.

We didn't need the reasons for this are somewhat similar to the reasons for our much more publicized lack of scientists. The pay is relatively poor. We are not sure that we extend to the profession all the respect it should properly have. We may admit that scientists or clergymen are all right for their particular field, but distrust them when it comes to the world of practical affairs. There seems to be a deplorable lack of emphasis, in the usual school curriculum, on those subjects and values which might prepare young people for the ministerial profession. We have no doubt that some potential good ministers would find themselves unable to afford the cost of a college education.

Since the diagnosis seems so similar, perhaps it can be assumed that the remedy should be already been charted. We should expect, then, a gigantic national drive to encourage more young people to enter the ministry and we hope that there is higher pay and more public respect for those who enter it, and, as part of that respect, a greater willingness to concede that, since our security and happiness also depend upon our having them, the members of the clergy can be trusted in our world of practical affairs.

Our platform for recommending all this is simple. We think that religion has at least as much to do with our future survival as a nation as has science.

We shall perhaps have clearer heads for such problems, now that the Army has blasted our scientific inferiority complex out of the way.

From John To Felix

It has been a long time since there has been testimony which did as much to reaffirm and exalt the finer potentialities of human nature as that given in the Senate the other day, when a gentleman who has been most of his life a favorite and despised target of our liberals rose to pay another gentleman who has been, most of his career, a favorite and despised target of our conservatives.

The presumed reactionary was Senator John Bricker of Ohio. The unexpected target of his praise was Felix Frankfurter, who has often been labeled a dangerous radical.

The occasion which Senator Bricker selected was the opening of Justice Frankfurter's 20th year on the nation's highest bench.

In that year, Senator Bricker did not seek to disguise the fact that there was a difference in political philosophy between Justice Frankfurter and himself.

But, Senator Bricker went on, "perhaps it is this difference in political philosophy which has made me aware of his profound understanding of the judicial function.

"No member of the Supreme Court in my memory has been more successful in keeping purely personal preferences from shaping his constitutional and statutory interpretations.

"I think I have read enough of the cases to say with some authority that no one on the bench in recent years has a better understanding of the need for judicial self-restraint than Mr. Justice Frankfurter.

"This understanding is reflected in scores of opinions showing an honest search for Congressional intent, a great sensitivity to the legislatures and state judiciaries, and an aversion to the adjudication of issues which are peripherally related, basically trivial, or essentially political in character."

This speech in the Senate told us something about two men. It showed both of them reaching through and beyond their own personal political philosophies, and beyond what may be some of their individual human prejudices, toward a place of things on which opposites may still meet and respect one another.

That the presumed radical should leave his radicalism out of his judicial work, that the notorious reactionary should notice this and be big enough to praise it, does honor to them both, and says, in welcome fashion, that we mortals do have our moments.

Connecticut Yankee

By A. H. O.

There is, in politics, no situation which does not, sooner or later, produce its next reversal of fortune, and we are now heading into a somewhat amusing test of the strange ideologies which have lately flickered so surprisingly during last summer and fall when the plight of the Connecticut farmers was on the state's political agenda.

The crisis of the farmers was one which was promoted by the Republicans, primarily because they thought they saw in it an opportunity to reproach ex-Democratic Governor Ribicoff, the last Democrat to hold a state office, for the misfortunes of one group of Connecticut voters.

In the special session of the General Assembly which the Republicans crusading started, there was the most curious temporary reversal of normal ideological outlook. The Republicans sounded, suddenly, like rabid New Dealers, and the Democrats became reactionary die-hards. The Republicans proclaimed the responsibility of the state to aid those who had suffered economic misfortune through no fault of their own, and the Democrats questioned the wisdom of state subsidy to any particular section of the state economy.

This merry twist of normal ideological outlooks, in which the Republicans became the party of the heart, and the Democrats that of the purse, was achieved with more when the poor victim farmers, ironically enough, had to stretch out their hands very convincingly.

Now the potential reversal of this political play on the part of the Republicans, in their current effort to corner Ribicoff, has appeared in the offing, with Democrats turn setting the trap for the Republicans.

He is now the one who is talking special session for the rescue of a particular economic group in trouble through no fault of its own. He has picked for his group in need of help, not the relatively limited number of farmers, but the much larger group of the state's unemployed. He is constituting himself the head of the Democrats as the party of the heart again. And, as the Republicans invited him into the problem they had rejected last summer, he now invites the Republicans to share in the problem he has selected.

Without disputing the Governor's sincerity of interest in the welfare of the unemployed, one can suspect that he is interested in discovering whether the Republicans will be made to seem to hang back in solution of this particular problem, in contrast to the way they pressed hard for generosity to the farmers.

Will the Republicans now cease being the party of the great big heart, and become the party of the purse strings, thus completing the reversal of roles which the two parties held in the special session of farm relief?

The hook sticks out through the bait so obviously that the Republicans can't be in doubt that the bait was thrown. Therefore, we suspect that the motives of the state are about to make the place at direction that both political parties have the great big heart for them.

A Thought for Today

Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

I Wonder Why?

My Daddy thinks it's nice for me
To go to Sunday School,
To bring the helpful lessons and
To learn the Golden Rule.
And on Sunday morning
I'd like to do,
My Dad looks very stern and says,
"I'm surprised at you!"

Sense and Nonsense

Sheldahl, Iowa (population 200), is the town three counties—Story, Polk, and Boone.

Two chorus girls were doing their Christmas shopping.

One (referring to one of their sisters of the stage)—I sure don't know what to get Mamie this year.

Other—Why don't you get her a book?

First—Naw, she's got a book.

Farmer (showing friend over the farm) — How many sheep would you guess were in that flock?

Visitor (considers a moment and ventures) — About five hundred.

Farmer — Absolutely correct! How did you guess it?

Visitor — Wait. I just counted the legs, and divided the number by four.

"A submarine," wrote the Navy draftee on his first trip, "is a ship with water on all four sides of it."

Young Tommy, aged eight, had been asked to explain the difference between prose and poetry. He pondered awhile and then said,

Tommy—There was a young man named Reen, who went into a pond up to his ankle. That's prose, but if the water had been a few inches higher, it would have been poetry.

A man wanted to buy a riding horse for his wife, and the stable owner was showing him what he had. He finally brought out a rather spirited animal, and the man noticed that this horse required a firm hand and constant watching.

Prospective Buyer (doubtfully) —Do you think this is a suitable horse for a woman?

Owner—Well, I think a woman could handle the horse, but I'd hate to be married to the woman who could.

Life is 10 per cent what you make it and 90 per cent how you take it.

An executive is a man who can take two hours for lunch without hindering production.

Near Friend — I heard you had a terrible time with your new jalopy.

Man—Yeah!

Friend—What happened?

Man—Well, I bought a carburetor that saved 30 per cent on gas; a timer that saved 50 per cent on gas; and spark plugs that saved 20 per cent on gas. After I drove 10 miles the gas tank overflowed.

A Chamber of Commerce Executive is a man who will never admit that he has seen better days.

Contentment is attained not so much from great wealth as from limited wants.

According to columnist Irv Kupcinet: "A woman will look in a mirror every chance she gets — except when pulling out of a parking space."

Beneath a "Temporarily Out of Service" sign placed on an elevator in a Los Angeles building, some unknown hopeful scrawled: "See You Later, Elevator."

Italian Food 'To Go' Featured at Vic's

Company coming in tonight and you're wondering what to serve them for a late evening snack? Very simple. Just order a pizza from Vic's Pizza Shop, 153 W. Middle Turnpike and you are sure to please everyone.

You have never eaten a finer pizza; crisp, crunchy crust with spicy, savory sauce, covered with mushrooms, anchovies, sausage, hamburg, cheese, anything you desire. There is a real knack in making pizza. No two people make it the same but you'll agree you've never eaten a better pizza than those turned out by Victor Dubaldo, proprietor of Vic's Pizza Shop.

The shop is open daily from 7:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. and from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Sundays Just call in your order 20 to 30 minutes before you want to pick it up and your pizza will be all ready for you.

How about treating the family to a low cost meal that will delight them, real Italian style spaghetti cooked to just the right consistency, not mushy but firm-textured, covered with a mouth watering sauce. You may choose spaghetti with meat balls, spaghetti with meat sauce or spaghetti with sausage. Call MI 9-3700 and place your order. In 20 to 30 minutes it will be ready to take home to provide the family with a hearty, mouth watering meal at an extremely reasonable price.

In fact, you could not make this delicious dish as reasonable as you can buy it at Vic's and it would be impossible to duplicate the rich, tangy sauce, slowly simmered with its spices to tempt the most jaded appetite. You can also purchase meat sauce alone to take home if you wish.

Ravioli is another favorite at Vic's Pizza Shop, filled with meat or cheese. This is another family treat when it comes from Vic's. Just call in half an hour ahead and enjoy perfect ravioli.

Next to pizza, grinders are the most popular item and Vic's make these to order. Regular grinders are always high on the list but grinders with meat balls are fast gaining in favor and sausage is a close second. Whether you want grinders "with the works" or just the ordinary kind, Vic's make them to please.

Stop in at Vic's for a snack or for food to take home. You will not find a better place for spaghetti, pizza, ravioli or grinders and they also carry magazines and greeting cards for customer convenience. For the utmost in eating pleasure make Vic's Pizza Shop your choice.

Discussion Slated On Race Relations

Plans are well underway for a panel discussion on the problem of race relations to take place on Feb. 17, at 8 p.m., in Woodruff hall of Center Congregational Church.

Moderator of the panel will be Gilbert Grant; participants will be Mrs. Jay Rubinov, Theodore Powell, and the Rev. Simon Peter Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives and pastor of a Methodist Church in Rockville.

All interested adults and high school young people are invited to attend and to participate in the discussion from the floor.

Snow Removal a Specialty at Turnpike Auto

Fortunate indeed are those people who have engaged the services o. Turnpike Auto Service to remove snow this winter for they have not had a care in the world when it comes to their driveways. It is not too late for you to take advantage of this extremely welcome service. We suggest you make arrangements right away so the next snowstorm will not find you out shoveling your driveway.

Just drive down to Turnpike Auto Service, 164 W. Middle Turnpike and talk with Bob Kiernan the proprietor, or phone MI 9-4100. He will be happy to put your name on the list of those people whose driveways are cleared in short order. You will be pleased with the reasonable price charged for this service.

The work of clearing snow from driveways starts as soon as the snow stops whether it be in the middle of the night or early afternoon. Business and professional men whose work demands leaving at a certain time can count on a clear driveway soon after the snow stops. Just think how nice it would have been to have your driveway cleared of that heavy snow in early January without any work on your part. Call MI 9-4100 today and have your name put on the list of those desiring snow removal service Turnpike Auto Service.

Turnpike Auto Service also will clear business sidewalks and parking lots. Why not enjoy dependable snow removal at reasonable prices?

Turnpike Auto Service maintains 24-hour towing service and if you require a tow job, just call MI-9-4100 any hour of the day or night and an immediate response is yours. There have been more calls for towing service this winter than any other in a long time. Even if you do require help, it is nice to know that Turnpike Auto Service is ready to serve you any hour of the day or night.

Chains and snow treads are carried for your car at Turnpike Auto Service. These are a must in winter driving. Turnpike Auto is also your neighborhood Shell dealer. Kiernan serving on the local Shell Dealer Panel for the East Coast representing 750 Shell stations in this area. Turnpike Auto Service is also the AAA and ALA representative.

For all around expert car repairing, Bob Kiernan and his trained mechanics are tops. Let them take care of your car and see why so many drive "over the tracks to better service" at Turnpike Auto Service.

2 Classes Start At Y on Monday

The first sessions of the spring courses in stencilling for adults and modern dancing for both women and children, offered by the Manchester YWCA, will begin Monday.

The stencilling class will meet every other Monday from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Decoration of furniture, trays, glass and linware will be featured in the course. The instructor will be Mrs. D. J. Cooney, a teacher of the Brazier method, who has an extensive collection of patterns including early American, for use.

The modern dance classes will be continued for another 8-week session. Classes for women will be held on Mondays from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. and Thursdays from 8 to 9 p.m. Classes for children, age 3 to 11, will be held on Mondays at different hours for various age groups. A prerequisite for children's courses is at least a half year of modern dance. Mrs. Patricia Gronbach will instruct both groups.

Registrations for any of these courses may be made at the YWCA office.

Meticulous Care Assured by Weldon Studio

When it comes to investing money, we are always looking for a safe investment. But when it comes to permanents, some women are misled by bargain prices.

When you get a permanent wave, it is very important to invest your money in a good wave for you not only risk a poor investment in the money spent but your hair can suffer considerable harm. That is why so many wise women go to the Weldon Beauty Studio for their permanents. They know any money spent here is a wise investment in satisfaction and beauty.

It is only reasonable to assume that a little extra care, a little better lotion, go into a slightly higher priced permanent. Proper shaping is a must before you start a permanent. If your hair is in poor condition, either Bernice Juul or her assistant, Miss Rachel, will recommend a few treatments to restore it before the permanent.

This is not to prolong the procedure but simply insurance against a poor permanent. If your hair is in poor shape it will not take a good permanent, no matter how much you pay for one, so don't blame the permanent. At the Weldon, you may be sure of your permanent and its ultimate beauty and manageability.

Test curls are a "must" every time you have a permanent. At the Weldon Beauty Studio, test curls are always taken, although they have your record on hand. Hair changes in the amount of time needed to give the right amount of spring and bounce and only by having test curls taken can you be sure of a perfect permanent.

This is time consuming, but Bernice Juul is meticulous about such matters and it shows in the end result—hair that is soft and lustrous — easy to manage and above all, natural looking. If you are tired of permanents that somehow are not just right, call the Weldon Beauty Studio, MI 3-5009 and make an appointment. See for yourself what a difference a good permanent can make.

You are always welcome to stop in at the Weldon Beauty Studio, 99 E. Center St. and talk with Miss Juul. She will advise you on any beauty problem you might have and there is no obligation.

For that well-groomed look, for hair that is shaped and styled to suit your own personality and bring out your best features, let Weldon Beauty Studio care for your beauty requirements. Expert shaping and styling of hair is a must for the well-groomed woman and that is why so many of them make the Weldon their regular choice for beauty and style.

Cheney 56-48 Winner over Cromwell

Gripping Details

Jockey R. J. Moran, left, pays close attention as Claude Hooper shows him a trick for holding his horse. He should, for Hooper is 52—the oldest jockey on the track at Hialeah—and Moran is youngest at 17.

Team Work Big Factor In Triumph

Exceptional team play and control of the backboards paved the way for Cheney Tech's much-needed 56-48 triumph over Cromwell yesterday afternoon in the Cromwell. The victory, the fifth in 11 starts for Coach Tony D'Angona's club, snapped the Techmen's four-game losing streak and the victory set an opportunity to climb back to the .500 mark Tuesday afternoon when the same Cromwell quintet visits the East Side Rec for a 2 o'clock contest.

Actually, the locals, who went all the way with just five players, picked up the win in the opening quarter, outscoring their hosts by a 20-10 margin. Both teams tallied 11 points in the second period which left Cheney holding a 31-21 bulge at the intermission.

Cromwell won the second half by a slim 27-25 edge, outshooting the Silk Towners 11-9 in the third quarter and playing even the reserves (each team scored 16 points) in the final eight minutes.

Bissell High Man

Center Dick Bissell was the big point-getter for the Cheney quintet, 21 tallies. Captain Hank Jaslowski added 16 points while setting up several beautiful scoring plays and Eddie Shaw added 11 markers. Bissell coded four answers after netting 14 points in the opening half but the fast-stepping Jaslowski took up the slack with 12 second half tallies.

Bissell, Shaw and Roger Liebman were mainly responsible for Cheney's rebounding chores. Playing one of their finest games, the Techmen committed only three personal fouls over the first 30 minutes before time in the last two minutes and picking up four additional personals.

Forward Ray Moure hooped 14 points for the losers who had trouble penetrating Cheney's tight 2-1-2 zone defense, and time and again Cromwell lost the ball on costly steals, with Exlaus Parker the local leader with several vital thefts.

Cheney also captured the JV preliminary by a 71-50 score.

Chicago Sox Stronger Due to Trades—Ted

Boston, Feb. 1 (AP)—Ted Williams is talking enthusiastically about all phases of baseball except the fat contract he is expected to receive for the coming season. The 39-year-old Boston Red Sox outfielder will get as much as $125,000 on the strength of his remarkable .388 average in 1957 but he hasn't talked money yet with the front office.

"Joe Cronin (general manager) was too busy on this trip," Williams said under questioning at the Sportsman's Show here shortly after he returned from Minneapolis. "We didn't discuss any personal business." Ted added: "We'll probably get to that next week."

Williams says the ankle he hurt on a fishing trip last October "is just a little stiff." Ted added: "It still bothers me just enough so that I am aware of it." Williams expects diathermy treatments during the next 10 days to clear up the condition.

Here's what the amazing left-hander bat king has to say on other subjects:

Lost Some Punch

Winter trades — "I'm inclined to think Chicago got the best of the trading in the American League. The White Sox have lost some punch but they have added more all-around strength in pitching and reserves."

Milwaukee's World Series victory — "I wasn't surprised but I didn't think the Braves would win if the Yankees were 100 percent healthy. After all, the series went the full seven games despite the Yankees' handicap. I do think it was a good thing for baseball that the Braves won."

Franchise moves — "All I know is I'm glad I'm not in the other league with all that traveling.

I think Minneapolis will be the next city to get a big league team."

Red Sox outlook — "Right now I see Frank Baumann (lefthander) as the key to our pitching staff. If he can do well the staff can be 50 per cent better. Pete Runnels (infielder acquired from Washington) can handle the job. I'm sure he can hit better than last year. And I don't think we gave up too much (Norm Zauchin, Albie Pearson).

Pitcher Heman Sent by WSox To Baltimore

Chicago, Feb. 1 (AP)—Russ Heman, the pitcher the Chicago White Sox thought Baltimore wanted in the first place, was assigned to the Orioles yesterday completing a seven-player deal made Dec. 3.

Heman, a 24-year-old righthander who had an 11-12 record at Chatanooga last season, was a compromise player in the deal following Commissioner Ford Frick's ruling Jan. 19.

The Orioles complained pitcher Jack Harshman was found to be suffering from an apparent slipped disc and brought the matter before Frick. Frick presided at a huddle between Sox and Orioles officials and the Sox agreed to provide a suitable player or a reported $20,000 in cash.

Harshman, outfielder Larry Doby and first baseman Jim Marshall were traded by the Sox to the Orioles for pitcher Ray Moore, infielder Billy Goodman and outfielder Tito Francona.

When the Sox and Orioles first talked, trade, Baltimore Manager Paul Richards wrote down the name "H'Man." The Sox quickly agreed thinking Richards wanted Harshman. However, it turned out that he wanted Harshman instead and the deal went through. Now Richards has both.

WHEN NEEDED

Cincinnati (NEA) — Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Reds calls Catcher Smoky Burgess one of baseball's best pinch-hitters since Johnny Mize.

Merry Scramble Starts Again For Top Ratings in Basketball

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—With nary an undefeated team in the major ranks, the merry scramble for top ratings in college basketball started all over today.

Five of the majors show only one defeat—West Virginia, Kansas State, San Francisco, St. John's of Brooklyn and Dartmouth.

West Virginia, which tasted its first loss last Monday, jumped right back in the winning column last night by rolling over Florida State, 103-51.

So now the Mountaineers, who have been riding atop the Associated Press poll the last few weeks, show a 15-1 record, percentage-wise the best in the country.

Play Temple Tonight

They don't play again until Thursday when they meet St. John's in New York. The Brooklyn Redmen also went down to their first defeat the other day and tonight play Temple in Philadelphia. The Owls, rated perhaps the strongest team in the East, are favored.

San Francisco is right behind West Virginia in the won-lost column with a 14-1 mark, including a 52-38 triumph over Loyola of Los Angeles that was Frisco's 10th straight. The Dons can pull even with West Virginia tonight if they get past Pepperdine.

Then there is Kansas State with a 15-1 record. The Wildcats play Colorado tonight in a Big Eight game, and there's no doubt about it. they consider this one strictly a warmup, because Monday they meet Kansas (12-2). That one could knock either Kansas or Kansas State right out of the running for the title.

Pretty Much Overlooked

The other major team that has been whipped only once is Dartmouth of the Ivy League with a 13-1 record. The Indians play Brown tonight. Perhaps because the Ivies are supposed to be pretty weaker schedules, Dartmouth has been pretty much overlooked. Yet the Hanover Indians earlier in the season polished off Houston—the same team that clubbed Oklahoma State last week. OS is the sixth ranked outfit in the country.

In addition to the five once-beatens there are other teams that could come up. Cincinnati, ranked No. 3 shows a 14-2 record and can make it 15 victories tonight against Duquesne.

North Carolina, last year's national champion, still is not out of it despite three defeats. Frank McGuire's Tarers meet South Carolina today. Nor is Kentucky, which last night strengthened its grip on first place in the southeastern Conference with a 76-56 verdict over Florida.

In other major games last night, Washington trounced Stanford 69-58 and Oregon State vanquished Oregon 82-62 in Pacific Coast Conference games; Syracuse downed Georgetown (DC) 62-46; Seattle downed Portland 84-80 and UCLA beat Santa Clara 77-56.

Elgin Baylor scored 43 points for Seattle, making his season average 32.4. That tied him with Kansas' Wilt Chamberlain for second place behind Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati who has a 32.7 average.

Goalie Upended and Gives V Sign

Goalie Harry Lumley of the Boston Bruins gives a V with his legs but he doesn't mean it. Actually, his notion on the situation was a bit different for Larry Popein of the New York Rangers just beat him with a goal.

Warriors Snap Celtic Streak

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Philadelphia Warriors, who today held third place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn., would like nothing better than play the St. Louis Hawks and the Boston Celtics every night in the week. The results tell why.

Against the Hawks, Western Division leaders, they hold a 5-2 margin. And last night they went one up on the Celtics as they defeated the Eastern Division pacesetters 110-101 for a 5-4 margin over the season.

The victory was the Warriors' second victory over the Celts in as many nights and snapped Boston's home court winning streak at 17 games. Coupled with Detroit's 119-105 conquest of New York in the first game of the doubleheader at Boston, the victory gave the Warriors a half game margin over the Knicks in their duel for the third playoff spot in the division.

St. Louis Lead Cut

Cincinnati trimmed St. Louis' lead in the Western section to six games by virtue of its 121-100-92 win.

A 10-point splurge, six by Paul Arizin, in the third period broke the Warriors-Celtics game open. Arizin then combined with Jack George and Neil Johnston for 14 points early in the fourth period to boost their margin to 16. That proved too much for the Celtics to overcome.

Arizin topped the Warriors with 25 points but yielded scoring honors to Boston's Bill Russell, who tallied 32, 21 in the first half. Russell also gathered in 34 rebounds.

George Yardley, the league's leading scorer, played with a sore ankle but still dropped in 36 points in leading the Pistons to their triumph over the Knicks. Two ex-Knicks, Harry Gallatin and Gene Shue, came up with 28 and 23 points, respectively. Willie Naulls and Carl Braun were high for New York with 26 each.

Clyde Lovellette was the big gun in Cincinnati's attack with 25 points while the Hawks' Bob Pettit was limited to 10 in the first three quarters he played. Cliff Hagan was St. Louis' chief point-getter with 23.

Hebert Leads Phoenix Open By One Stroke

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 1 (AP)—Jay Hebert, a soft-spoken Southerner from Lafayette, La., carried a one stroke lead today into the third round of the $15,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Hebert, the sixth leading money winner of the winter tour now playing out of Sanford, Fla., posted a 67 yesterday to go with a first round 68 and came from three strokes back to the top of the heap. His 135 is six under par for the 6,583-yard Phoenix Country Club course.

One stroke back is Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., who slipped in with a 69-66—137.

Picks Up Strokes

Maxwell, a native of Abilene, Tex., has not played sensational golf nor has he attracted the big galleries. But he continues to pick up strokes on the par 35 back nine, the undoing of several of the top pros during the past two days. He carded 33s there on both rounds.

Grouped at 138 were Julius Boros, Ken Venturi, Paul Harney, Al Balding and Shelley Mayfield.

Yesterday's co-leaders, Don Fitzgerald of Tequesta, Fla., and Stan Wood of Essex Falls, N. J., both soared to 73s yesterday and were back at 139.

Joining them were Jerry Barber, Wee Willie Hoch, Henry Williams Jr., Jimmy Demaret and Young John McMullin.

The field was trimmed to the top 64 professionals and eight amateurs today for today's final round. The cutoff point was 146.

Dartmouth Choice In Winter Carnival

Hanover, N.H., Feb. 1 (AP)—Dartmouth was the overwhelming favorite to win its own Winter Carnival ski meet today for the seventh straight year.

The Indians took the lead yesterday by captturing three of the first four places in both the slalom and cross country races. They scored 197.4 points.

Runnerup St. Lawrence had 182.1 followed by Williams with 180.6, Norwich 178.5, New Hampshire 174.0, Vermont 173.4, Harvard 150.7 and Yale 129.9.

Dick Taylor won the cross country for the Indians. He was timed in one hour, nine minutes and 27 seconds for the 8½ mile course. Joe Pete Wilson of St. Lawrence was eight seconds behind him.

Leonard Ayers of Norwich took the two-run 50-gate slalom test in 1:35.7.

a Dog's Life

DOG TALK

Such expressions as soft as a kitten, sly as a fox, brave as a lion and strong as an ox must have slipped into the English language when a dog's back was turned, for he's made good and sure that most of our idioms have GONE TO THE DOGS.

Why, hardly a day goes by without our referring to canines in some conversation or other.

You wake up on one of those hot August DOG DAYS with one of those DOGGONE colds feeling SICK AS A DOG. Just as you've finished up with the housework and settled down with a DOG-EARRED book, your young son comes DOGTROTTING into the house. He wants a sandwich. Once he's fed and dashes back to play, the mailman arrives with a letter from your older son, who's been indicted into the army. He writes that he's just gotten his DOG TAGS, he's spent the night in a PUP TENT, he's stuck with the DOG WATCH and that a pile of his engaged in a mock DOG FIGHT.

When your husband, all decked out in his HOUNDSTOOTH-checked jacket come home from his golf tournament DOG TIRED, wearing that HANG DOG look, you know that he's had another of those DOG EAT DOG games and that he probably got stuck again on the eighth hole DOG LEG. You advise him that he's in the DOG HOUSE for not fixing the sink, but knowing YOUR BARK IS WORSE THAN YOUR BITE he simply switches the subject by repeating a SHAGGY DOG TALE he heard at the club.

Allen Quits Grid Post at Bulkeley

Hartford, Feb. 1 (AP)—Arthur (Babe) Allen, veteran football coach at Bulkeley High School, has served his last season at the helm of Maroon gridiron teams. Physical Education Director Joseph Gargan announced yesterday that Allen, at his own request, is being relieved of his football duties, but will remain at the school as coach of baseball and as a physical education instructor.

Allen, who coached all three major sports until 1953, has been at Bulkeley since 1926, with several of his teams posting fine records, tops of which was the 1950 club which went unbeaten in eight games. Several of his basketball teams took imposing marks into the State Tournament, but none of them could capture a state title.

Campanella Shows More Improvement

Glen Cove, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP)—Roy Campanella showed a little feeling in his body as far down as his knee on his left side but the 36-year-old Dodgers' catcher still is on the critical list.

The paralysis from the hospital last night said the condition of the 36-year old catcher continued to show improvement with the injection in his lower leg, temperature less elevated and feeling reaching further down his body. He was paralyzed from the neck down day night to relieve a lung infection.

"The paralysis, however, is unchanged," the report said.

Campanella suffered a broken neck last Tuesday when his car skidded and crashed into a pole.

Something New

In past winters they all usually waited on Casey Stengel. But in this banquet season the Yankee manager frequently found himself sitting it out until Milwaukee's Fred Haney finished a speech.

Rams Scare Leaders Before Bowing, 46-44

By DON BERGER

An underdog Rockville High quintet came within a whisker of pulling the biggest upset of the season last night. Undertered by the fact that they were playing the best team in the Valley League, the Rams fought back with determination, refused to quit and forced Woodrow Wilson to battle right to the wire. Hustling Sal DiMaure of the Wildcats decided the issue as he grabbed a stray rebound and punted in a soft one-hander from the left side with exactly three seconds remaining on the clock. The thrilling climax gave Wilson a 46-44 victory and its 11th win in 12 starts.

Bid for Glory

Trailing by 12 points going into the final quarter, the Rams, paced by senior Ron Janton, made their bid for glory. A rebound hoop and a free throw by steady Don Thibault, followed by a foul toss by Janton, cut the deficit to eight points, 42-34. After reserve Bob Stocks connected on a short one-hander from the side, Janton converted two from the foul line and the possibility of an upset began to envelop the spacious new gym.

Wilson returned the ball up the court, playing very deliberately, but Stocks made an interception and he "was scared down the court. With 2:30 remaining, Stocks tossed in a long one-hander that bounced off the backboard and in for the tie score at 42-42.

After a Rockville time out, the Wildcats gained the ball on a disputed violation and Dave Patenaude rammed one in from the foul line for a 44-42 lead. With less than a minute left, Janton outraced his man coming down the court and took an over the shoulder pass from Thibault to knot the score again at 44-44. This set the stage for DiMaure's thrilling buzzer-beater winning final hoop.

Captain Among Missing

Rockville's overall task was made more difficult by the absence from the lineup of the leading scorer, Captain Bob Grous who failed to make the trip. He was late reporting for the bus.

Rockville journeys to Middletown this evening, meeting the Middletown Tigers. The game must be one of the last six games to qualify for the Class B tourney.

Delany to Attempt New Indoor Record

Boston, Feb. 1 (AP)—The mile—featuring Ron Delany's vowed effort to break the four-minute mark—is one of three events with strong record possibilities tonight at the Boston A.A. track meet.

The great Irish star, world champion from Ireland and Villanova, may well be pushed to goal by fast pacesetter Phil Coleman and sprint finishing George King.

Ira Murchison's time of 6.2 seconds for the 60 yard dash in last night's Michigan AAU meet, a tenth of a second off the indoor standard, indicated he might be ready to tie the mark tonight as Dn. Bahr, defender.

The meet two mile standard of 8:53 (Horace Ahrenfelter, 1953) could be in danger with the late entry of Doug Kyle of Hamilton, Ontario, holder of the American six miles AAU title. The introduction of the fleet Canadian assures a rapid race by himself. Charles (Deacon) Jones of Iowa or Velas Mugosa of Yugoslavia.

UConn Plays Pitt Tuesday

Storrs, Feb. 1. One of the key basketball games in the East next week will be the Connecticut-Pitt game which will be played at Storrs on Tuesday (Feb. 4). Game time is 8 o.clock. No preliminary will be played.

In a similar recent outing, the Panthers soundly trounced nationally-ranked and previously unbeaten St. John's, 86-73. Prior to that game (last Thursday) Coach Dick Ware had cited the major unbeaten quintets.

Overall, Pitt has a 10-5 record and is in line for a post-season bid. Before the Connecticut game, Pitt meets Holy Cross at Worcester on Monday.

What makes the Connecticut-Pitt game more interesting is that in the last two meetings between these two teams, Connecticut was the victor. In December, 1956, Connecticut defeated Pitt 64-60 in overtime to win the Orange Bowl Championship. Last December the Huskies beat (Pitt, 68-60 in the consolation finals of the Holiday Festival.

Leading the Panthers is diminutive Don Hennon, 5-8 junior guard, who has practically clinched an All-conference berth. Hennon is ranking fourth in the nation in scoring with a 26.6 average.

Besides averaging of the last two games, Hennon will have a personal reason to defeat Connecticut. In the Holiday Festival he was held to but 14 points by Cosgrove.

With classes in recess, between semesters, some 1000 general admission tickets will go on sale at the door beginning at 7:15 on the night of the game. A limited number of reserved seats are also available.

Patterson Will Meet Anyone Except Ranking Challengers

New York (NEA)If Floyd Patterson is as good as they claim, he will fight any challenger.

And he won't let Cus D'Amato's one-man crusade against the international boxing rule or anything else stand in his way.

Patterson is the first heavyweight champion willing to settle for any thing but the most formidable challenger.

There are five attractive matches open to Patterson with Eddie Machen, Roy Harris, Pat McMurtry, Zora Folley and Willie Pastrano. Machen is the best qualified. Ringside pews for a Patterson-Machen battle in Madison Square Garden would sell for $100. Patterson would draw a buck-and-a-half apiece in the Northwest.

Yet D'Amato speaks of boxing Joe Erskine in London in the spring, and Sam Silverman, Patterson's opponent on the other side, perhaps Pete Rademacher again or someone else. Tomas Valdes or Bob Baker.

Wind Up Dizzy

Talking fights with D'Amato, you wind up dizzy. McMurtry would be OK, for example, but he lost out for Jack Hurley, with whom the Irish lad's father, Clarence, will have nothing to do. There's always a stumbling block. D'Amato claims Machen turned down the chance once. Lou Viscusi, who manager Harris, has plans for fights with the IBC, etc.

The public couldn't care, less about who promotes or manages the combatants. And Patterson, as champion, should fulfill the major obligation by tackling the ranking pretenders. Ducking into the Rademacher bout was a shameful sham. Going ahead for a seventh opposition is a disgrace.

Go back only one champion — and one champion's manager. There was a day in Madison Square Garden when Joe Marciano, his tanned, powerful body stretched out on a rubbing table, talked of Dan Bucceroni.

"He's a greatly improved fighter," Rocky said.

"Bucceroni knocks fellas out. You can't discourage him," Charley Goldman, the trainer, said.

The two were, quite obviously, trying to get some steam into what was then a reported inferior match between Marciano and Bucceroni. It fell apart when Al Weill, the manager, sniffed the air and announced that he was going to put Bucceroni match. The people won't stand for it so why should I take a match where they're gonna start laughin' at us and I don't get the kind of a fighter you should laugh at."

Took the Best

Weill took the best he could find. Rocky Marciano demolished him.

"An international match, but the beatin' we took on it I guess we deserved it," Al mused.

If Pete Rademacher had ever been a contender, he would have dismissed it with a shrug.

Sure, Joe Louis fought stiffs in his last years and he was champion. But the Bomber did it to keep busy. They were worth challengers in sight. The moment one appeared, Joe took him on.

Joe's prime — Joe Louis' fine example being kicked all over the place.

Man of the Year in sports is the latest honor to come the way of Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves, hero of the 1957 World Series. The husky right handed pitcher who recorded three of the four Milwaukee victories in the seven game set against the New York Yankees was tabbed Man of the Year by Sport magazine. Burdette, it seems, has been the recipient of just about every major honor on the chicken and spaghetti circuit since his triumphs over the Yanks last October except the Woman of the Year honor.

Editors of Sport named the following as the best in their field for 1957: Ted Williams—baseball; Jimmy Brown—pro football; John Crow—college football; Bob Pettit—pro basketball; Wilt Chamberlain—college basketball; Gordie Howe—hockey; But Gutowski—track and field; Murray Rose—swimming; Carmen Basilio—boxing; Althea Gibson—tennis; Dick Mayer—golf; and Willie Hartack—horse racing.

Bald-pated George Yardley of Detroit and Dolph Schayes of Syracuse have each tried more than 100 free throws than any other player in the NBA this season. At last count, Yardley was credited with 431 and Schayes with 427. Yardley has a 90 percentage best in the league. Schayes, former New York Univ. star, has sunned 346 foul shots and made more free throws than any other player in NBA history. And he's never concluded a season with fewer more field goals than free throws.

Playing Coach Ed Rosmarin Paces Triumph

By PAT BOLDUC

Coach Eddie Rosmarin, towering Burr Carlson, stylish Worthy Patterson, newcomer Fred Dupin and sturdy Art Quimby sparked the impressive Green Manor Pros to a much-needed 93-68 Connecticut Basketball Assn. victory over a rattled and disorganized Hamilton Standard quintet last night before a little over 100 fans at the Verplanck School.

The top-sided win, No. 5 in nine league starts, condensed the Pros hold on fourth place in the CBA while the Standards dropped from fourth into a tie with Bridgeport for sixth place. Coach Wally Widenhorn's Windsor Locks combine has now lost four times in six outings.

Although scoring only six points and all in the first half, the diminutive Rosmarin played a vital role in the Green Manor triumph. Rosmarin and the Silk Town coach set up his taller teammates with numerous scoring opportunities and his sparkling playmaking and ball-handling tactics baffled the losers throughout the first three periods. Rosmarin, a former star at New Britain Teachers College, directed the Green Manor attack in masterful fashion.

Excellent Job Off Boards

Carlson topped all scorers with 27 points, followed by Patterson and Quimby, did an excellent job off the boards. Patterson, who also performs with Scranton in the Eastern Pennsylvania Professional Basketball League, in with 21 markers after going approximately three months without a game.

Dupin, who was given a tryout with the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Assn., hooped 18 tallies and gave a sterling exhibition of outstanding defensive play in his second start with the Pros. The former St. Bonaventure star showed promise of being a valuable addition to the Pros' roster in her forthcoming weeks. Quimby, Green Manor's leading scorer, would up with 17 points, getting 13 in the second half.

A repeat performance would certainly help the locals gain revenge Sunday afternoon when they journey in a 3:15 engagement at Verplanck. The third place Merchants defeated Green Manor by a 81-70 margin the first time around in the Hat City.

Victory tomorrow would go a long ways in assuring the Pros a berth in the upcoming CBA playoffs.

Ignited Green Manor Rally

Green Manor jumped off to a 6-0 first quarter lead before hosting Yogi Yogadhar, the visitors' best scorer with 16 points, sparked an offensive attack which enabled the losers to gain a 9-9 tie before Carlson ignited a Green Manor rally which shot the host club into a 19-13 margin at the buzzer.

With Dante Salvatore and Patterson combining for 22 tallies, the Pros outscored Hamilton by a 26-20 margin in the second period to meet a sore 45-33 advantage at halftime. The losers, led by reserve Charlie Mazurek who caged 10 of his 14 points in the quarter, outscored only behind 31-25 midway in the third period but Carlson's effort enabled the club to its 12-point bulge at the intermission.

The game could have ended after the first 20 minutes insofar as Hamilton was concerned. Nine straight points by the Pros gave them a one-sided 54-35 lead at 6:26 left in the third quarter and the visitors trailed from 21 to 25 markers during the remainder of the period. Hitting on 10 of 19 shots from the field, the host quintet boasted a whopping 68-45 tulip at the three-quarter mark.

Trailed by 31 Tallies

Hamilton never got within more than 17 points of the lead in the final 19 minutes and trailed by as many as 31 tallies at Carlson and Quimby combined for 17 of the Pros' 25 points in the fourth period.

While the visitors displayed little in the way of an offensive pattern, Green Manor, thanks to Rosmarin and Carlson, worked the ball with fine precision which resulted in numerous easy baskets. And while the victors hooped 38 of 93 field goal attempts, the losers, with Hamilton caged 27 baskets in 84 shots at .322 per cent, the Pros held the edge from the foul line, converting 17 of 27 free throws attempted to the losers' 12 of 20.

Following Sunday's skirmish with Hamilton, Green Manor is expected to meet Hamilton again Wednesday night in Windsor Locks before battling the Marco Polo Explorers Friday in East Hartford.

Heard Along Main Street

And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

Truer Words . . .

A young mother, with three small children clinging to her was shopping this week in a Main St. department store. Every time the youngsters spotted something they fancied, they latched onto it, much to the mother's displeasure.

After walking up one aisle and down another, the mother noticed something at one of the counters and stopped to investigate. What she was looking at was a new-type plate with a built-in space for hot water underneath it. Its purpose was to keep the food warm for dawdling children.

The store clerk approached the woman and suggested, "Why don't you take three of them, one for each child?"

"Look, mister," the mother said, "They get their food while it's hot! This is for me!"

Customers Always Write

Dear "Heard Along"

Since my unhappy experience of the plastic pan melting on the furnace pipe with my bread dough in it, I've heard about a few other cooking boo-boo's. Misery loves company, and it cheered me to know there are others who've had their little mishaps. These new-fangled plastic and glass cooking utensils should be used with the utmost respect, and I feel it my American duty (I guess I'm an American, I was born in Brooklyn) to tell of these pitfalls in cooking. You know, "forewarned is forearmed."

Case No. 1 used a plastic spoon to stir boiled icing. When the icing was finished, she was flabbergasted to find she was only holding the handle of the spoon—the bowl of the spoon had melted into the icing.

Case No. 2 poured hot bacon grease into a plastic container. She described what it looked like a short time later but I simply cannot put it into words.

Case No. 3 poured hot spaghetti sauce for her freezer into waxed containers—all the wax melted into the sauce.

Case No. 4 happened on a television show, to someone who was showing us how to cook. She melted butter in a glass saucepan, then added some cold milk and the saucepan exploded all over the place.

I have not mentioned names, to protect the innocent, but all of these Case Histories are Living.

I've not tried the bread again and won't for a long time, someone told me the only way to get it to rise good is to wrap an old red sweater around the bowl—and you see, I don't own one.

I resented somewhat your caption on my letter last week, "Can't boil water?"—I'll have you know that everyone west of Main St. says the water I boil is really "hot stuff."

364-Day Year

Somewhere there is a calendar manufacturer who, for reasons best known to himself, apparently hates Jan. 27.

When the calendar in Town Clerk Edward J. Tomkiel's office was "flipped" Monday at the start of the day, Jan. 27 wasn't there.

A quick check revealed it hadn't inadvertently been discarded either, for in place of the missing 27th was a blank sheet of paper—denoting a "lost Monday perhaps?"

Rubbing Elbows with Brass

A Herald reporter stopped in at Police Headquarters Tuesday morning to chat with Chief Schendel.

"What's going on today, chief?" the reporter asked.

"Well, I'm going down to Berlin for the safety meeting." was his reply.

"Say, isn't that the meeting that the governor's going to speak at?" the staffer queried.

"That's right . . . and, by the way, the governor asked me to stop and see him after. He said he wanted my advice on a couple of important state matters," the chief said jokingly.

"So what?" the reporter returned. "I had dinner with the governor last night."

And he did, at the Gold Key banquet.

Guilt or Fear

When we were young we would have acted differently but this, after all, is the day of the juvenile delinquent.

A motorist was driving down Autumn St. one morning last week when, from the corner of his eye, he spotted a youngster standing on top of a pile of snow.

The boy, a smug look on his face, had his hands hidden behind his back.

Knowing a snowball was to be tossed his way, the motorist drove slowly past.

"Thump."

The driver, feigning anger, jammed on his brakes and peered at the boy, expecting him to run.

He did. Not away from the car, but toward it.

"Mister, mister!" he shouted. The driver rolled down his window.

"I'm sorry," said the youngster sincerely.

Indecision

A knock on the door the other night and in walked our canal Herald carrier. He took off his gloves, put his papers down and asked us the familiar question (that we've heard every collection night since he started), "What number Main St. is this?"

While the women of the house went after some change, the boy straightened out his papers.

"What are you going to do with all your money?" we inquired. "I'm going to college when I'm old enough," said the freckle-faced youth.

This interested us, for with the many nearby colleges, we wondered which one he had in mind. So we asked him.

"Oh I don't know yet," he replied. "My father hasn't told me."

We All Got 'Em

A friend of Postmaster Bill Bailey's called on him at the Post Office one day last week.

"Bill, I've just received a threatening letter and I want something done about it," the friend said excitedly.

"Do you have any idea who sent it? You know that's a federal offense," the serious postmaster said.

As the sober look on his face changed to a wide grin, the friend replied, "Yes, it came from the income tax people."

With or Without?

The line at the meat counter in a local market last week was getting heavy and one of the butcher clerks was called upon to help out.

In the line was a middle-aged man, obviously doing the wife's shopping.

Doing the wife's shopping can be a little harassing, particularly on a busy day in the stores.

For that reason, we can appreciate the shopper's answer, "I don't know, the usual, I guess," when asked by the clerk, if he wanted the boneless frankfurters.

From the Old Guard

Several old-timers were talking to one another in the Post Office lobby the day after this week's referendum. Each one of the men were telling the others what they thought of the outcome. After several had made known their views, one of the men turned to another and said, "Well Harry, what have you got to say about it?"

Harry's reply, "Well, I voted a straight ticket, but I lost out on one."

Pronto!

A Waddell School teacher last week was asking her pupils about their responsibilities at home.

Said one tot, a tow-headed little boy, "My responsibility is to get out and stay out."

Yale Radio Board Selects Toomey

David C. Toomey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Toomey of 23 Lyndale St., a student at Yale University, has been elected to the Board of WYBC, Yale's undergraduate radio station.

The station is an extra-curricular function at the New Haven school and maintains 18 hours a day of news, features and music broadcasts.

Members of the board are elected under a strict competitive point system.

Toomey is a graduate of Manchester High School and is a member of the class of 1960 at Ale. He was substitutorian of his high school class and was active in sports. He was also sports editor of the High School World.

Tularosa Basin, which was once the hunting grounds of fierce Apache Indian warriors in southern New Mexico, is today a center of U.S. Army rocket testing.

MEA Starts Speaker Pool

Is there some particular phase of education which interests your civic or fraternal group? And would you like to be able to get a hold of someone who could explain that phase in a lively and entertaining way?

The Manchester Education Assn. (MEA) has organized a teacher-speaker pool of some 12 members representing all of the levels and special services in Manchester's public schools.

Charles Beattie, president of the MEA, said the purpose of the newly formed group is to "let different civic and fraternal organizations know that there will be teachers available to speak on the educational organizations."

"There will be a panel of four or five teachers. Each will talk for about five minutes on his area. Then the panel will be thrown open to questions.

"The teachers are pretty proud of the educational program," said Beattie. The teacher-speaker group is "something we feel it is a privilege to do."

Available Now

The group is available immediately. Beattie requested that a week's notice be given by organizations that would like to have the teachers speak to them.

Participating in the program are Gilbert Hunt, whose subjects will be English, travel, and extra-curricular activities; Mrs. Gertrude Hitchcock, guidance; Hyatt Sutliffe, administration; Miss Martha White, music in the elementary schools, and special areas of instruction; Mrs. Florence Woods, teaching principal; Miss Ethel Robb, elementary education; Mrs. L. William VanZander, elementary education; Richard Young, the interim period for science and math; Lewis Piper, social studies; Miss Jean Lowe, languages; Laurence Perry, high school science, and Beattie, Mathematics and the MEA.

FCC Aide Calls for Fair Play

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—House investigators today began detailing allegations of misconduct against five members of the Federal Communications Commission. FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer complained that "ordinary rules of fair play have been absolutely disregarded."

When the special House subcommittee recessed for lunch, Doerfer told newsmen "This is not an attempt to get out the facts at all."

He said Leonard Schwartz, subcommittee counsel, was using "most unusual procedure" in which he said witnesses were asked for opinions "instead of what was actually said."

When the hearing opened, six allegations against Doerfer were read. The FCC chairman said then he was being subjected to "the innuendo."

Similar allegations also have been made by a special House subcommittee against four of the other six FCC members.

Chairman Moulder (D-Mo) read the allegations to Doerfer in a jammed hearing room. The FCC boss was accused, among other things, of accepting favors from the industry which the commission regulates and of collecting expenses for a convention trip from both industry and the government.

The subcommittee, which is looking into federal regulatory agencies, gave written copies of the allegations to the affected FCC members last week. Two of the accused commissioners, Robert T. Bartley and Rosel H. Hyde, distributed statements to the press in the hearing room denying the complaints.

Doerfer asked that in "American fair play" he be permitted to make a statement.

Moulder said not at this time—"you will sit in the hearing room if

Plane Collision Brings Cry for Air Lane Law

Los Angeles, Feb. 3 (AP)—Collision of two military planes over suburban Norwalk, killing 48 persons, brought a demand today for immediate action on the part of the Secretary of Defense.

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, noting that the Norwalk disaster was one of three aerial collisions over southern California in as many days, said:

"I am sending a telegram to the Secretary of Defense, asking that he appoint a special investigating court not merely to fix the blame for the crash but to study the increasing problems of air traffic in metropolitan areas.

"The court should be empowered to make new rules, if necessary, to protect the lives and property of our residents. . . .

"With the great number of military planes in our area and with the heavy volume of civilian and commercial aircraft, we have a most critical air traffic problem."

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight earlier called for a full-scale Congressional investigation of airway traffic controls. Knight, in Sacramento, commented that:

"Such an investigation is long overdue. The people of this nation are entitled to some positive action."

The tragic series — which took a total of 55 lives — began Friday. Two Air Force B28 medium bombers smashed together over the desert east of Daggett, killing the two-man crew on one of them.

Saturday night over Norwalk a C118 Military Air Transport service plane and a Navy Neptune patrol bomber rammed together.

And yesterday, while investigators still were poking through charred wreckage at Norwalk, two civilian planes collided 30 miles east of here. All five occupants of the two craft died.

The Norwalk collision came on a cloudless night at 2,500 feet with a fiery explosion witnessed by hundreds.

The 4-engine MATS transport, carrying service personnel and reservists, had taken off from nearby Long Beach Municipal Air-

Battle Endangers Parties' Fund Plan

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP) — A squabble between national party chairmen Republican today in a tentative plan to raise more political campaign funds from rank and file voters.

Without disclosing details, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said yesterday that "an important development" in putting the financing would be announced by outside sources in two or three weeks. He said it would involve "grass roots" support of the two parties.

Republican Chairman Meade Alcorn promptly accused Butler of a "shocking breach of faith" in mentioning the plan during a TV-radio interview (CBS—Face the Nation).

"It may well result in the col-

Navy Appears Set To Fire Vanguard

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Navy, beaten into space by the Army's Explorer satellite, was pushing preparations today for another try at getting its Vanguard vehicle aloft.

The 72-foot Vanguard rocket was visible at its launching tower at Cape Canaveral, Fla., pointing to a possible early firing attempt. But he Navy kept mum on its plans.

And there was renewed talk of sending a rocket to the moon as the Explorer whirred through space on its mission of collecting and radioing back scientific information. The Explorer went into orbit Friday night.

It was widely and reliably reported that an early launching of a basketball-size satellite will be tried with the vanguard missile.

The Navy had planned to launch at least two more experimental miniature satellites before moving up to the larger, fully instrumented sphere.

But recently the impression has solidified among persons in touch with Vanguard personnel that the forthcoming launch will be the last with the small size satellites.

These reports say that particularly if the upcoming small-moon launch is successful, the next Vanguard try—probably some time in March—will carry a 21½-pound, full-size satellite.

Meanwhile, free world statesmen welcomed America's entry through which some of them said should have a "tremendous influence" on finding a formula for East-West peace.

Vice President Nixon said the American achievement "should have the effect of developing unusual support in world opinion" for President Eisenhower's proposal to dedicate outer space to peaceful uses.

Eisenhower made that proposal in a Jan. 12 letter to Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin. A reply to that letter was delivered here yesterday.

Although there have been some congratulatory comments from Russian sources, one Soviet scientist noted that the 30-pound Explorer is much smaller than either of the Russian satellites.

However, the scientist, Kiril Stanyukovich, voiced the hope in a Moscow broadcast that the friendly competition of satellites in the two countries will lead to enrichment of the world's scientific knowledge.

Eisenhower has said that all data collected by the Explorer will be shared freely with other nations, including Russia.

The Explorer, six feet long and shaped like a pointed tube, is sending back coded radio signals reporting on temperatures, cosmic rays and meteorites it is meeting in its 18,000-mile-an-hour journey.

Wire grids mounted here and there on the outside of the satellite proved very useful in small meteorite particles—literally star-

State Trooper Unharmed

Woman Shot Dead In Kidnaper Chase

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 3 (AP)—A woman was shot to death at a roadblock near here today as officers spread a new dragnet for an escaped gunman after his companion attempted suicide and a kidnaped Missouri state trooper escaped unharmed.

Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri officers joined in the new search for escaped gunman Carl W. Burton, 24, of Redwood City, Calif., after a tense 30-hour search for abducted trooper William Little ended with his voice coming over the radio of his stolen police cruiser.

Miss Jewell English, 24 of Paducah, was shot when a car in which she was riding speed through a roadblock.

Missouri trooper Vernon Hopkins reported she was shot by a civilian. Foren McAllister of Fulton, Ky., who was sitting in Hopkins' police cruiser.

Hopkins fired and hit a tire when the car driven by the victim's brother, Claude English, 27, ran the roadblock.

The officer said McAllister then picked up a rifle and fired. The bullet hit Miss English in the side.

No charge was placed against McAllister. Officers said he could learn of no connection between the car's occupants and Burton, who fled on foot last night.

A Paducah officer said McAllister apparently was just an overenthusiastic spectator.

Meanwhile, officers on foot and car, aided by helicopters above, continued the manhunt for Burton.

Little radioed for help after Burton had left a house in a remote part of McCracken County near here where he and Harold Davis, 33, held Little and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Sheldon for 24 hours.

Davis, an ex-convict and Burton's brother-in-law, shot himself in the chest and was in critical condition in a Paducah hospital. He had apparently become frightened over his television interview concerning the search in which stiff penalties for kidnaping were mentioned.

Little and the Sheltons were unharmed.

Burton left the house armed with Little's service revolver and his own .32-caliber pistol.

Little appeared calm and composed after his release and took part in the search for Burton until Lt. Col. Edmund Hockaday of the Missouri Highway Patrol ordered him brought in.

The trooper said he was afraid during the chase into the Paducah area Saturday night that he might

Court Gets Natural Gas Rate Boosts

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to review a decision the government said may deny natural gas rate increases totaling nearly a quarter of a billion dollars a year.

At issue is whether customers holding long-term contracts with pipe lin. companies must consent before the companies can put higher rates into effect automatically after six months.

A decision that such agreement is necessary was handed down by the U.S. Court of Appeals here. It was appealed to the Justice Department and the federal power commission.

The department said the decision, if allowed to stand, could result in grave injury to the natural gas industry. A commission spokesman said the decision could affect pending rate cases involving proposed increases totaling more than $200 million a year.

For many years it has been the practice of pipe line companies to file new rates with FPC, then begin collecting the higher rates six months later. Increases have been subject to refund if the FPC eventually rejected the new rates. The Court of Appeals said this practice could be followed only if the gas customers gave their consent to the tentative increases.

If the customers refuse to consent, the Court of Appeals said pipe line companies would have to ask the FPC for an increase, but withhold the new rates until commission approval is given.

But pipe line companies, the Justice Department contended, cannot wait that long in a time of rising prices. The department said pipe line companies "will not be able to secure the financing needed to expand their facilities to meet the widespread demand for gas among existing and potential customers."

The Court of Appeals ruled on an appeal by the City of Memphis and others. Memphis asked the FPC to begin refund proceedings on behalf of three customers of United Gas Pipe Lin. Co. FPC had granted United a rate increase effective April 1, 1956.

The three customers of United are Texas Gas Transmission Corp., Southern Natural Gas Co., and Mississippi Valley Gas Co.

Companion appeals also were filed with the Supreme Court by United Gas Pipe Line Co., Texas Gas Transmission Corp., and Southern Natural Gas Co. A joint appeal by Texas Gas and Southern Natural said the practice struck

Meany, Hoffa Set for Clash In Michigan

Miami Beach, Feb. 3 (AP)—The battle of the Teamsters Union for the expelled Teamsters Union will be joined here today by rival forces to regroup and leave Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa out in the cold.

The action is expected to spur retaliatory measures from Hoffa, who, after taking the Teamsters Union helm under a court monitorship, is holding a pow-wow with the Teamsters executive board here next week.

The Teamsters, who dried AFL-CIO corruption charges and were expelled after they elected Hoffa, have reserved a beach hostelry called "the castaways."

George Meany, AFL-CIO President, was due to cancel charters of the Hoffa-dominated AFL Michigan Federation of Labor and the Michigan Industrial Council controlled by one-time CIO Chief Walter Reuther.

The AFL-CIO executive council, in its opening winter session today, was expected to okay Meany's request and issue a new AFL-CIO charter calling a special convention Feb. 24 at Grand Rapids to establish the new Michigan labor organization.

Hoffa's scandal-rocked Teamsters union, prominent in the present Michigan AFL federation, will be denied any delegates or voice

Ottaviano to Seek Lt. Governor Post

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 3 (AP)—State Treasurer John Ottaviano announced today his candidacy for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

The post now is held by Charles Jewett, who has not announced whether he will seek renomination by the GOP.

Ottaviano, 40-year-old New Haven who has been treasurer for three years, made his announcement in a letter to Republican state Chairman Clarence F. Baldwin.

"As a result of repeated inquiries and urgings of many people from many sections of our state," Ottaviano said . . . his letter, "I have decided to advise you as chairman of the Republican

'Hot Minds' Not 'Hot Rodders'

Ike's Science Aide Suggests Stress on High-Level Skill

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE (AP Science Reporter)

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's science adviser today called on Americans "to deemphasize the hot rodders among our youth and to encourage the hot minds."

But also, Dr. James R. Killian Jr. said, we mustn't try to engage in a numbers race with Russia for scientists and engineers. Our emphasis should be on specialists who also have general education to fulfill democratic needs and goals.

Making his first major public address since being appointed Eisenhower's special assistant for science and technology shortly after Sputnik I was launched, Dr. Killian declared:

This nation must give more publicity to its "hot minds" or high-level talent, "which has a capacity to lead, to innovate, and to imagine—and thus advance our society."

Killian offered a 5-point program in an opening speech prepared for delivery at an unusual conference on America's resources to meet the scientific challenge.

Sponsored by the President's Committee on Scientists and Engineers, and the William Benton Foundation, and 2-day conference at Yale University brings together leaders in science, education, industry, labor, government and news media.

In a message to the conference, Eisenhower said the nation's security and survival "require all the ingenuity and energy the American people can muster."

To meet the Soviet challenge and to take full advantage of the promises of this scientific age, we need also a broader understanding and knowledge of the natural forces which man seeks to bring under benevolent control."

Killian said adequate pay for teachers, shortage of student aid and buildings had already been stressed as central and critical needs.

Then he outlined five less-recognized educational deficiencies which he said must be overcome to keep this country strong:

1. More stress on discovering and educating talented youngsters, especially in aptitude for mathematics.

2. "More rigor and more emphasis on excellence" in high "schools. America's strength requires that the American people attach a much higher value to the hard labor of rigorous thought."

Schools should try to meet the differing needs of all children, but science should be strengthened—not at expense of other fields—but because science was allowed "to fall below the normal standards."

College entrance requirements should be raised, especially in English and mathematics, he added.

3. Advantage should be taken of resources of liberal arts colleges to encourage scientific talent and post-graduate science study.

4. We need more graduate schools and graduate courses in engineering.

At this point Killian cautioned against a numbers race with Russia for engineers. For "the Russian educational system serves the state, ours the individual. Our objectives and our trends (in fundamental generalized education) are more likely to serve our nation well."

5. All Americans should gain "a high degree of scientific literacy." Some appreciation of the mental rewards, excitement and adventure and special vision of

Yemen Set to Cast Lot With New Arab Nation

Cairo, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Crown Prince of Yemen was expected here today to associate his little medieval kingdom on the Red Sea with the new United Arab Republic (U.A.R.) of Egypt and Syria.

Student celebrations in the oil-rich Sheikhdom of Kuwait which is under British protection, called for that tiny area on the Persian gulf to join the disconnected units also. The extent of Kuwait government support for the demonstration was not immediately apparent.

An Egyptian spokesman said Crown Prince Seif El Islam El Badr will announce that Yemen will adhere to the republic. Whether that means full membership or merely federation with the union proclaimed Saturday was not clear.

The Yemen legation said it knew nothing of the reports. Cairo Radio said the crown prince would arrive today.

Egyptian President Nasser of Egypt and Syrian President Shukri Kuwatly said in their proclamation: "Any Arab state desirous of joining them in the union" or in a federation would be welcome. The offer of federation was interpreted as a bid to the monarchs of Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Iraq, Libya and Morocco to join without giving up their thrones.

Cherishes Throne

Yemen's ailing, 62-year-old king, Ahmed Hamed, is reported to be willing to relinquish his iron grip on the throne. The nine-banded South Dakota-sized nation one of the world's few remaining monarchies. Some sort of Yemen association with the union has been expected, however, since the three countries already are united in a joint military command and pursue identical foreign policies.

Like both Egypt and Syria, Yemen gets its arms from the Soviets. The undeveloped country of mountains, deserts and 4½ million people also has industrial, agricultural and loan agreements with Red China, and other trade and aid pacts with Communist Yugoslavia, Poland and Romania.

Located in the southwest corner of the Arabian Peninsula, Yemen is connected with Egypt only by

Soviet Note Lists Points For Parley

Moscow, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Soviet government has notified President Eisenhower officially that it will discuss fully the control of atomic weapons as part of a package deal including the abolition of nuclear weapons and the reduction of armed forces.

Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, in a communication delivered yesterday in Washington, said the Soviet Union accepted the idea of preparing for a summit conference through normal diplomatic channels but ruled out any prior foreign ministers' conference because of Soviet opposition to Secretary of State Dulles.

Bulganin, replying to President Eisenhower's Jan. 12 letter, proposed a nine-point agenda for a summit meeting of East and West leaders.

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Leonid F. Ilyichev told a news conference today the Soviet government is ready to participate in a summit meeting based on either broad or restrict representation.

(Moscow Radio began broadcasting the text of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower just after the Moscow news conference.)

Here are the nine points Bulganin proposed for a conference:

1. Immediate suspension of atomic and hydrogen bomb tests.

2. Renunciation by the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain of the use of nuclear weapons.

3. Establishment of an atom-free zone in central Europe.

4. Conclusion of a nonaggression pact between the signatories of the Warsaw and NATO pacts.

5. Reduction of foreign troops in Germany and other European countries.

6. An agreement on the prevention of a sudden attack.

7. Discussion of measures to broaden international trade ties.

8. End the propaganda war.

9. Consider the problem of easing tension in the Near and Middle East.

Bulganin and his government rejected strongly President Eisenhower's proposal for restricting of the veto power in the United Nations Security Council.

"It is precisely the rule of unanimity," said the Soviet

STARKWEATHER IN COURT

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 3 (AP)—Bantam killer Charles Starkweather pleaded innocent today to a 2-count complaint charging the 19-year-old gunman with one of the 11 slayings he has admitted. Starkweather, looking a little bored, at first waived a preliminary hearing. But after Lancaster County Judge Herbert Ronin explained his constitutional rights, Starkweather said: "I'll take it. I guess." He set the preliminary hearing for 9:30 a.m. March 1.

WIND STALLS LAUNCHING

Cape Canaveral, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—Heavy winds whipped eastward across this area today for the third consecutive day, effectively preventing any possible new attempts to launch a satellite. Neither the Navy Vanguard nor the Jupiter-C satellite vehicles can be launched with any hope of success in ground winds as those which have been blowing steadily oceanward more than 15 or 20 miles an hour for the past 60 hours or more.
