Dupuis-Plummer

MRS. ALBERT ALFRED DUPUIS

Miss Marilyn Gladys Plummer became the bride of Albert Alfred Dupuis, both of Manchester, on Saturday, April 24, at St. Bridget's Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Margery Plummer of 40 Olcott St., Apt. 12, and the late Charles M. Plummer. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dupuis, 506 Tolland Tpke.

The Rev. Dennis R. Hussey of St. Bridget's Church performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Raymond Murphy was the organist and soloist. Bouquets of white snapdragons and gladioli were on the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Arthur Irish of Cranston, R. I., wore a full-length gown of figured organza over taffeta, designed with scooped neckline, long tapered sleeves, A-line skirt and a back panel extending to a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil of illusion was arranged from a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Elaine Dupuis of Manchester, a sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. Miss Kathleen Young and Miss Mary Ann Zematitis, both of Manchester, were the bridesmaids.

The maid of honor wore a full-length gown of pale yellow organza, designed with lace bodice, scooped neckline and A-line skirt. She wore a matching flower headpiece with a shoulder veil and carried a cascade bouquet of blue carnations. The bridesmaids were dressed in blue organza gowns styled to match the honor attendant's and carried cascade bouquets of yellow carnations.

Robert Martin of Manchester served as best man. Ushers were William Schick of Manchester and Norman Letendre of Ellington.

Mrs. Plummer wore a pale blue lace dress with matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore an orchid and white print silk dress with orchid accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

A reception was held at Piano's Restaurant, Bolton. For a motor trip to the World's Fair, N.Y., Mrs. Dupuis wore an off-white three-piece suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. The couple will live at Apt. 12, 40 Olcott St.

Mr. Dupuis, a 1962 graduate of Howell Cheney Technical School, is employed by Paragon Tool Co. Mrs. Dupuis is a senior at Manchester High School.

Police in Groton have identified Frank Provencher Jr. of 33 Brooklyn St. as the driver of a truck that struck a three-year-old girl yesterday in Groton. The girl died of head injuries early this morning at Lawrence Memorial Hospital in New London.

The accident is still under investigation, according to Groton police.

Patrolman Thomas Lawyer said the girl, Landrith Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Walker of 43 Depot Rd., Groton, apparently darted out in front of a truck. The accident took place near her home.

Assembly Urged by State To Accredit Town College

The State Board of Education recommended the accreditation of Manchester Community College to the General Assembly at its meeting yesterday.

And the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools notified the college yesterday that it had been recognized as a candidate for accreditation.

Community College Dean Frederick Lowe, said yesterday that the significance of candidacy status is that the college can continue to participate in federal programs.

The significance of the state board's action is that the college had been virtually assured state accreditation and will be able to award degrees to its first graduating class this June.

The final step will be for the Legislature to pass a bill granting accreditation to the college.

After that the college will be re-evaluated every three years for a period of twelve years; then it will be granted continuing accreditation, said Dean Lowe.

Twisters Strike Minnesota, Toll of Dead Mounts to 12

Events In State

U.S. Agencies Control Fate Of Commuters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The fate of the New Haven Railroad's commuter service is riding with two federal agencies today.

The first is the Interstate Commerce Commission which came to the end Thursday of 12 days of hearings on the bankrupt line's application to curtail the service.

The second is the Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA), which must approve federal participation in a Connecticut-New York State compact to keep the commuter trains rolling for an additional 18 months.

A New Haven spokesman told the ICC Thursday that the line would withdraw its application to curtail service if action is completed on the Connecticut-New York agreement by July 29.

Joseph Auerbach, counsel for the New Haven trustees, said the April 20 agreement between the two states "is substantial evidence of a recognition by the states that a bankrupt carrier can no longer support the burden of this service."

But, the lawyer said, there is no assurance that the bi-state agreement will go through.

The New Haven seeks to discontinue service at Mount Vernon, Columbus Avenue, Pelham and New Rochelle stations and outback on service at the Larchmont, Mamaroneck, Harrison, Rye, Port Chester, Greenwich, Cos Cob, Riverside, Old Greenwich and Stamford stations.

An Unidentified Minneapolis Housewife Surveys Tornado Damage

300 Injured, Damage Seen In Millions

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—The death toll rose to at least 12 today from a string of tornadoes that spewed death and destruction over this heavily populated area, injuring more than 300 and causing millions of dollars in damage.

Police said two more bodies were found in the suburb of Minnetonka Thursday night as they began searching the rubble where dozens of homes stood before Thursday night's twisters hit. Several of the dead remained unidentified.

More than two dozen suburbs lay in the path of the winds that skipped to the ground and lifted, only to come down again over southwestern, western and northern suburbs during the supper hour.

Heavy rain and two-inch hailstones preceded the twisters.

Utility lines were downed, many crossing highways lined with homeward-bound workers. Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., which sent six mobile units out for emergency use by residents today, estimated 27,000 telephones were out of service.

Hundreds of homes were damaged and many were destroyed.

Gov. Karl Rolvaag appealed to President Johnson to expand flood disaster designation already in effect for the area to include tornadoes.

The governor, who made an inspection tour after the storm, called the situation "utter, sheer, total disaster."

He said the National Guard units to help police and Civil Defense volunteers maintain order.

Tornado sightings were reported over at least 25 small towns.

The heaviest damage was reported in communities around Lake Minnetonka, some 35 miles west of Minneapolis and Lake Pearl, near Maple Grove, 15 miles north of the city.

Four persons died at Mound, a residential community on Lake Minnetonka's west shore,

3,000 Marines Arrive O.K. In Huge Viet Nam Landing

CHU LAI, South Viet Nam (AP) — Three thousand more U.S. Marines and 3,000 Seabees landed on a desolate coastal plain in South Viet Nam today and immediately began building a 4,000-foot airstrip.

Not a shot was fired. Six Vietnamese battalions scoured the landing area for 48 hours earlier and killed eight Viet Cong and captured 18. Two of the government troops were killed and six wounded.

The Seabees — the U.S. Navy's construction and engineering specialists — estimated they would have the airstrip completed within 72 hours after all equipment had been unloaded from the ships anchored off the beach 82 miles south of the big Da Nang airbase.

The landing brought the total number of U.S. servicemen in South Viet Nam to about 48,000.

The leading 8th grad tadi, 82.

The landing was described by the commander of the task group, Rear Adm. Donald Wulzen of Hamilton, Ohio, as "the largest amphibious landing in the Far East since the Inchon, Korea, landing in 1950."

The Marines began moving at 8 a.m. and the first wave was on the beach at 8:13 a.m.

There was no contact with the Viet Cong in the initial stages of the landing. But six battalions of Vietnamese troops had been operating in the area for the past two days to prepare the way for the landing.

The landing increased the number of Marines in the northern part of South Viet Nam to approximately 12,000. The others are stationed in the Da Nang-Phu Bai-Hue area.

Some 60 Vietnamese schoolgirls were on the beach with local authorities to greet the arriving Marines with garlands of flowers.

"I could learn to love this country," said one flower-decked Marine as he moved inland with a backward look at the girls.

The landing was made in perfect weather, and there was almost a picnic atmosphere on the

Wilkins Jury Asks Added Information

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A jury trying to reach a verdict in the murder trial of a Ku Klux Klansman interrupted its deliberations today to get an explanation of the law on accomplices and degrees of homicide.

Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, is on trial for the highway slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, Detroit mother of five and a participant in civil rights activities.

The jury only wanted more information from white-haired T. Werth Thagard, the trial judge. The judge explained the difference between first and second-degree murder and manslaughter.

You went a little further in your original charge," said juror Clifford McMurphy, spoken man and apparently the foreman of the white jury which spent four hours and 20 minutes Thursday trying to decide the case.

"You mean about accomplices?" Thagard asked.

"Yes, that's it," replied McMurphy.

"The law in Alabama," the judge said, "makes no distinction between the principal and an accomplice." He said under the law an accomplice is equally guilty with the killer himself.

Thagard said that if the evidence convinced the jury that the key state witness, FBI informer Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., was an accomplice, then he was equally guilty and the law prohibits a conviction from his testimony without corroborating evidence.

But, the judge said, it was up to the jury to determine if there was such evidence.

Rowe had testified he was with Wilkins and two other Klansmen the night of March 25 and held a loaded gun while Wilkins fired the fatal shot. Rowe said he had suggested they abandon their pursuit of Mrs. Liuzzo and did not know beforehand that the shooting would occur.

Wilkins showed no strain from the trial, now in its fifth day. Before the jury arrived, he walked casually around the courtroom, talking with his slender, gray-haired father and chewing gum.

Thagard handed the first degree murder case to the jury at 3:40 p.m. Thursday and 75 minutes later a rap on the door of the high ceiling jury room appeared to herald a verdict.

But the jurors only wanted further instructions from the court. They asked whether they could convict the paunchy crewcut defendant of a lesser offense than first degree murder.

The judge, repeating his earlier charge, explained they had a choice of first degree murder, second degree murder, manslaughter, or acquital.

Two hours later, Thagard called the jurors back to the courtroom and gave them the choice of taking time out for dinner then or — if they still hadn't agreed on the fate of the accused — to wait and get a steak when you get to Montgomery."

Each night since the trial began, the jury has been taken 25 miles to Montgomery where quarters were made available in the modern air conditioned court house.

The jury in a murder trial must be kept together day and night and neither the 135-year-old Lowndes County Courthouse nor the small town of the Haynesville has the facilities to house the 12 men.

At 8 p.m., the judge summoned the jurors again and inquired, "What do you say now?"

Viet War Finance Measure Passed, Signed in 3 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a special $700-million appropriation to finance the war in Viet Nam and said it was a message of American determination to resist aggression in Southeast Asia.

Johnson signed the bill in the East Room of the White House just three days after he asked Congress for the funds.

"It is not the money but the message that matters. And that message is simple — that message is clear," he said.

"We will do whatever must be done to ensure the safety of South Viet Nam from aggression. We will use our power with restraint and with all the wisdom we can command. But we will use it."

Johnson said that "once this message is clearly understood by all there will be greater hope for peace."

The President said the meaning of the legislation is this: So far as the people of South Viet Nam are concerned:

"We will keep our promises. And we will back up those promises with all the resources we need."

The money bill sped through the Senate Thursday, completing congressional action in almost unprecedented time, but some thunderbolts were hurled at the White House.

Congress should "resent being treated like a dog on a leash" and given 48 hours to pass bills which the administration asks to gird up its shaky policies," stormed Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, one of three senators who voted against the appropriation.

And Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., mirrored the concern of several who voted for the bill when he said:

"I hope the President will not let this vote go to his head. We are voting to uphold the President in this particular action, but we are not voting for the President to do everything in violation of our consciences and full consent."

Still, the President got the swift and overwhelming approval he sought, and he plans to sign the appropriation into law today.

Thursday's 88-3 Senate vote was nearly as lopsided as Wednesday's 408-7 vote in the House.

The President had told Congress in a special message Tuesday that the $700 million is needed to meet mounting military requirements in Viet Nam. He said, in effect, congressional approval would mean endorsement of the administration's policy.

Troops May Leave Domingo Soon
U.S. Death Toll Mounts, Four More Marines Dead

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Another wrong turn into rebel territory was blamed today for the deaths of four U.S. Marines, bringing the U.S. death toll in the Dominican fighting to at least 13.

U.S. sources said three Marines were killed Thursday after a patrol wandered accidentally into the insurgent-held sector of downtown Santo Domingo. Two others were wounded and one died after he was taken to the aircraft carrier Boxer.

A rebel spokesman said one insurgent was killed and two wounded in the encounter. The rebels at first accused the United States of violating the cease-fire arranged Wednesday by a peace commission of the Organization of American States. Later they said they believed the Marine patrol had taken a wrong turn.

Two U.S. newsmen who had been observing the clash from a taxi were caught in the crossfire and wounded slightly. They were Al Brut and photographer Doug Kennedy, both of the Miami (Fla.) Herald.

A U.S. military source said the newsmen had passed through a rebel checkpoint and were approaching the U.S. lines when the insurgents opened fire on the Marines and the Marines fired back. The source said it was probable that U.S. gunfire wounded the newsmen.

Another marine patrol took a wrong turn Wednesday into rebel territory. After sharp firing the rebels captured two of the Marines but released them Thursday to the OAS Peace Commission. The commission returned them to American authorities.

In other incidents Thursday, snipers wounded two U.S. paratroopers and hit a helicopter, wounding the pilot in the legs. A flurry of sniping activity broke out near the U.S. Embassy during the afternoon, but it died down quickly.

Otherwise Santo Domingo was quiet Thursday, and more stores reopened for the first time since the revolution broke out April 24.

Youth Unemployment Seen Double Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO warned today that the soaring youth unemployment problem is a major threat, not only to the economy but to the democratic structure of the nation.

In the wake of discouraging new government figures on jobless youths, the labor federation said: "It was the jobless, disillusioned youths who grasped at the 'solutions' offered by Hitler. . . . America can ill afford to have this sort of discontent among large segments of its population."

Federal antipoverty and school-aid programs are not enough to solve the problem, said an article in the labor organization's magazine, The American Federalist.

The article coincided with the Labor Department's monthly employment report, showing that an early surge of schoolage youths seeking jobs had boosted the nation's jobless rate from 4.9 to 5.5 per cent of the labor force in April.

Youth unemployment is expected to hit a peak of 4 million in June as high schools and colleges pour out a flood of young job hunters.

The AFL-CIO said only federal and state policies geared to create new jobs rapidly will ultimately solve the problem.

Higher wages and social security benefits, shorter hours to spread employment, and more federal spending for roads, hospitals, education and housing are urgently needed, it said.

"The challenge confronting the country is tremendous," it added.

Without new jobs, government training and education programs will fail, it said. Adding: "They can lead only to a better-trained, better-educated body of unemployed."

The federation said 1.5 million of the 4 million unemployed last year were under age 25.

Although these young workers made up less than 20 per cent of the civilian work force, they accounted for more than 40 per cent of the nation's unemployed."

British Control Of Steel Plants May Be Modified

LONDON (AP) — Hints that the Labor government may modify plans for outright nationalization of major British steel plants knocked millions of dollars off the value of shares on the London Stock Exchange today.

Many investors suspected the first formula may prove to be that the government will buy 51 per cent — instead of all — of the shares of the selected plants, leaving the remainder in private hands. These investors rushed to unload their holdings.

"Such a formula could be a disaster," commented one stockbroker. "Who would want to be in a minority position as a holder of steel shares with this government in control?"

The confusion arose at the end of Thursday's parliamentary debate on the nationalization

Princess' Friend 'Amazed'
Beatrix' Engagement Expected, Dutch Say

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—A spokesman for the Dutch Government Information Service indicated today that Crown Princess Beatrix is expected to become engaged to a West German commoner, Klaus von Amsberg.

The spokesman said Von Amsberg, an official of the West German foreign ministry in Bonn, was a "very good friend" of the heir to the Dutch throne and would be referred to as such "until an eventual engagement announcement."

He added, however, that he could not say whether a definite engagement decision had been taken.

Von Amsberg, 38, told the London Daily Mirror he was "amazed" that he had been named as Beatrix's future fiance.

"We have never discussed marriage," he said, "but I hope to see the princess again soon. She is a charming person."

British and Dutch newspapers today identified Von Amsberg as the man with whom the princess was photographed walking hand in hand in the woods around her palace 20 miles from Amsterdam. Von Amsberg said he had visited there last weekend.

Beatrix returned to Amsterdam from London without saying a word. In London, she had acted as godmother at the christening of Birgitta, Louise Julianna's 3-week-old daughter of Princess Margaretha of Sweden and her British husband, John Ambler.

After the photograph of the princess and Von Amsberg reached the newspapers, Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard issued a statement asking the Dutch people to give their eldest daughter time to make a well considered decision.

The Dutch Government Information Service Thursday night reported that Beatrix had said this week of her engagement: "I must be sure myself before I can announce it to the nation."

A wedding of the heir to the Dutch throne must be approved by the government and Parliament.

Beatrix and Von Amsberg have known each other for about six months, friends said.

Dutch newspapers reported they have met six times and last February spent a skiing vacation in Switzerland.

They also reportedly met at official functions, including the wedding of Princess Tatiana and Prince Maurice of Hessen last June in Germany.

Von Amsberg was said to deal at the West German foreign ministry with Dutch relations with Africa."

Hitler's Germany — Part 4

1942 Saw Peak for Nazis, But Tide Turned Quickly

BERLIN (AP) — The fall of France in June 1940 left Hitler free to choose another victim.

At first he set his sights on Britain and made elaborate plans for "Operation Sea Lion," the German invasion of England. But an essential condition was air superiority, a goal that Hermann Goering's Luftwaffe was never able to establish over Britain.

The Battle of Britain raged in the skies throughout the second half of 1940. The British pilots overcame Goering's numerical advantage of air losses in their favor, were the first force to check Hitler's advance.

But the Nazi dictator by this time had set his sights on the Soviet Union with whom he had signed a 10-year nonaggression pact only 22 months before. It was to be a land campaign of unprecedented dimensions and fired the imagination of the Fuehrer.

To prepare for the campaign, Hitler secured his Balkan flank by taking Yugoslavia in April of 1941 and then Greece, which had succeeded in repulsing an Italian invasion six months earlier.

On June 22, 1941, Hitler unleashed his 3½ million men in a three-pronged attack on Russia. At first all went as smoothly that an elated Hitler was counting on victory in a matter of weeks.

But while Hitler declared the Soviet Union had been "broken down, never to rise again," the Russians were putting up increasingly strong resistance.

Hitler's dream that the "whole rotten structure" of the Soviet Union would collapse proved unfounded. His mobile armies bogged down in mud and the harsh winter slowed their blitzkrieg to a crawl.

The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 194, brought the United States into the war against the Axis. And while the United States kept up its fight in the Pacific, it agreed with its British and Russian allies that the defeat of Nazi Germany had priority.

The year of 1942 saw Nazi dominion reach its peak. The summer campaign into southern Russia added new territory and in North Africa, Gen. Erwin Rommel, whose Afrika Korps had come to the aid of the Italians in early 1941, threatened the British at El Alamein.

But these last thrusts were deceptive. They tested the limits of Nazi strength and it proved to be the end. Rommel was forced into retreat by the British in October and the campaign in southern Russia brought bitter defeat at Stalingrad. The tide was turned.

In November 1942, the Americans and British landed in North Africa and by the following spring had wiped out the Axis forces there. The Nazis launched another summer offensive in Russia in 1943, but the Soviets blocked them.

The Allies stepped up massive bombings of German cities throughout 1943. In July the American, British and Canadians invaded Sicily and in September, Italy proper.

The approaching defeat only seemed to spur Hitler and his more warped aides in their fiendish projects to kill off all Jews and enemies of the Reich.

In 1944, when the Western Allies had landed in France and Russia was rolling back the eastern front, the SS was burning 6,000 or more bodies a day at Auschwitz alone. In June of that year, the month of the Allied landing in Normandy, more than a quarter of a million Hungarian Jews alone were put to death at Auschwitz.

Nazi fury reached a peak on July 20, 1944, when a small group of officers, hoping to save Germany from destruction by getting rid of Hitler, attempted to assassinate the Fuehrer at his headquarters, the "Wolf's Lair," at Rastenburg in East Prussia. The attempt failed and hundreds of persons, including 21 officers of high rank died in the purge that followed.

The outcome of the war could no longer be denied. But Hitler refused to give up. In December 1944, he launched a final offensive against the Western Allies, calling up boys and old men to strengthen his forces in defense of the Reich. It proved only a temporary halt on the road to final defeat.

On May 1 the official German radio announced that Hitler had died "fighting to the last breath against Bolshevism." It is now generally accepted that he had committed suicide on April 30 in his Berlin bunker with his longtime mistress and bride of one day, Eva Braun, at his side. Their bodies were carried to the garden and burned, the uncicling Russian troops were only a block away.

On May 7, Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of operation for the armed forces high command, signed the unconditional surrender of Germany at the instruction of Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, Hitler's designated successor.

In a little over 12 years the thousand-year Riech had come to an end. The Allies were to write another chapter to its history in the war crimes trials held at Nuernberg the following year.

Joseph Goebbels, the minister of propaganda, escaped Allied hands by committing suicide the day after Hitler did. Heinrich Himmler, head of the SS, managed to commit suicide after his arrest by the British.

But the Allies tried and condemned to death Hermann Goering, No. 2 man under Hitler; Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop; Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel; Dr. Ernst Kaltenbrunner, last chief of the SS security service; Alfred Rosenberg, the Nazi party "philosopher;" Hans Frank, governor of occupied Poland; Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Nazi minister of interior; Julius Streicher, Nazi publicist and Jew-baiter; Arthur Seyss-Inquart, the Austrian quisling and Nazi governor of Holland; Fritz Sauckel, head of the slave labor program, and Gen. Jodl.

All were hanged except Goering who took poison two hours before he was to mount the gallows.

The international tribunal at Nuernberg was only the start of the course of justice trying to catch up with the criminal Nazi regime.

Liberated countries in both Eastern and Western Europe caught and condemned their own collaborators and German tormentors.

The Allied occupation authorities separately tried and convicted thousands more. And Germany itself, 20 years after the war, still was conducting war crimes trials.

Sheinwold on Bridge

MASTER OF MAKE-BELIEVE FLIMFLAMS TRUSTING FOE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Moving - picture people know so much about make - believe that it carries over into their bridge game. For example, a couple of weeks ago, Joe Cohen, for many years a top executive at MGM, slipped me a Mickey on a very simple bridge hand.

The defenders took two heart tricks and made me ruff the third heart. I then led a low trump to dummy's king.

Normally, East takes the ace of trumps and returns a club. Declarer then leads the low trump from dummy and wonders whether to play the queen or the nine from the South hand.

If he plays the ten of spades on the first trump trick he means that he started with a singleton trump, declarer can win a finesse with the nine of spades on the second trump trick. The trouble is that this move does no great good. East would still have J-7 of spades left, and would eventually win a trump trick.

Percentage Play

South's percentage play, therefore, is to play the queen of spades in the hope that West's ten of spades was played from the doubleton J-10. Since this is a rather remote chance that I have known for more than twenty years, I was going to make the winning play on the trump suit.

Fortunately for me, Joe Cohen held the East cards. When I led the first round of trumps he came up with a surprising card. I won the ace of trump from dummy, Cohen innocently played the queen of trumps.

It was "obvious" to me that West had the ace of trumps. My only hope was that West had started with the doubleton A-10, so I finessed with the nine of trumps and lost my game contract. It's getting so you can't trust anybody in Hollywood anymore.

Daily Question

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player overcalls two hearts. You hold: Spades, Q-9-8-6-4; Hearts, 5-3; Diamonds, K-6-5; Clubs, 7-4.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades. Since you save only 5 points, the combined count is only 21 to 23 points, which is not enough for game. If partner can raise two spades, showing 18 points and a good spade fit, you can go on; otherwise you will be satisfied to play the hand at a safe part-score contract.

A Friendly NOTE

By: Steve Cavagnaro

If you are a worrier, whether it be over health, money matters, or the world situation, you might take some encouragement from the following bit of whimsicality:

You have two chances — one of getting the germ and one of not. And if you get the germ — you have two chances, one of getting the disease and one of not. And if you get the disease, you have two chances. One of dying and one of not. And if you die, you still have two chances.

And you have two chances again . . . one of thoroughly enjoying your evening out starting with a wonderful meal . . . and one of having a routine, dull night. If you choose the first, let it begin graciously at CAVEY'S RESTAURANT, 45 E. Center St., Manchester. Eddie Reed at the piano nightly. Phone 643-1415. Closed Sunday.

Bay State Youth Charged In Young Couple's Deaths

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — A 19-year-old Berkley youth has been charged with two counts of murder in the shooting Sunday of a young New Bedford couple in a car parked on a back road in Freetown.

Bristol County Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis announced the arrest and private arraignment Thursday night of Robert Garron, accused of the killings of Judith Szatek and Raymond G. Frenette, both 21, of New Bedford.

The couple had planned to be married in August.

Dinis said that at the arraignment in his office before Judge Ernest C. Horrocks Jr. of the Third District Court, Garron was ordered to the Bridgewater State Hospital for 35 days of observation.

No plea was entered at the arraignment.

Dinis said the arraignment was in his office "because of the condition of the defendant, being violent, it was determined by me that this was in the best interests of the defendant."

He said Garron's arrest was based on information given to the Taunton Police Department by a Taunton resident whom he did not identify.

Authorities earlier said Miss Szatek was first struck in the chest from a distance by a bullet from a 22-caliber gun that went through the windshield.

Frenette, they said, was shot three times in the head and chest as he started to get out of the car. Then, the killer fired two more shots into Miss Szatek.

Referring to the death weapon, Dinis said, "A search warrant has been obtained from the clerk of the Taunton District Court and a search has been made, the result of which will not be known until ballistics tests have been made."

The slayings occurred on a lane off secluded Bullock Road in Freetown on the outskirts of New Bedford.

Libya Still Welcomes Soldiers from U.S.

Nobody's yelling "Yankee go home" these days. The heat is off. It could be turned on again, as it was last year by neighboring Egypt's powerful President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

But for the time being, Libya is one of those countries where they seem to like the Americans.

King Idris I, the remote and patriarchal 75-year-old founder and ruler of modern Libya, keeps in frequent friendly touch with U.S. Ambassador D. Allen Lightner Jr. The queen often phones Mrs. Lightner. The ambassador's royal couple recently invited them to a picnic in the desert.

Sheelus, the last major American military installation in Africa, has other attractions for the Libyans.

It is training Libya's fledgling air force. Together with British bases here, it provides a degree of internal support for the king's regime. It employs more than 1,000 Libyans and operates the only television station in this country and the size of Western Europe.

The women of Libya live in strict purdah and venture out in public wrapped in shroud-like burnooses. Many spend much of their time indoors watching Wheelus television.

The 5,000 U.S. Air Force men at Wheelus live in a sort of self-contained Jordan of their own. The 3,000-acre base, set in a fertile olive and date oasis five miles from Tripoli, has nearly everything they need, from movies and curio shops to schools, a block-long commissary and an 18-hole golf course.

Many of the men almost never venture into town. When they do, unless they're on duty, they go in civvies in order not to tread on the Libyan's new-won national sensibilities.

The United States pays $10 million a year in rent for Wheelus but this is peanuts compared to the oil royalties that started pouring into the national treasury three years ago.

Wheelus and the British bases in Libya contributed half the national budget before oil was discovered. The Libyan government expects to collect $250 million in oil revenue this year.

The first American contact with Libya — memorialized in the U.S. Marine hymn, "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli" — dates back 160 years when it was known as the Barbary Coast, a lair of pirates. In those days the United States paid out $2 million as tribute to buy safe conduct for its ships from the rulers of the Barbary states.

Five unidentified American sailors lie buried in a small Tripoli cemetery, possibly the first Americans to die in a foreign war. According to Libyan archives, they were killed when their ship, the Intrepid, blew up in Tripoli harbor in 1804 while trying to destroy the pirate fleet of Yusef Pasha, ruler of the Barbary Coast.

Today's oil boom has turned Tripoli into a magnet for its neighbors. It also has increased the pressures on King Idris' regime — Nasser kicked off a political storm last year when he recognized U.S. and British bases in Libya were a threat to the Arab world and called for their removal.

Libya's then Premier Mahmoud Muntasir took up the cry, and Washington and London finally agreed to negotiate their treaties.

Washington acted reluctantly. Under pressure from the British, with increasing commitments in Malaysia and other parts of the world, indicated they would happily reduce their 1,500-man garrison in Libya.

The campaign from Cairo did finally spread to the Libyan government, increasingly wary of growing Egyptian influence, apparently had second thoughts.

The U.S. treaty runs out in 1971. The British treaty, covering Britain's smaller bases at Tobruk, Tripoli, Benghazi and El Adem, runs till 1973. The British treaty also promises defense in the event of attack.

Troop Flags Lost in Fire Replaced

To replace flags burned in church fire, Andrew Gibson, left, scoutmaster for Boy Scout Troop 103 in Vernon, accepts the American flag from Forrest Hull, commander of the Rockville Legion Post and the troop's flag from Leonard Lucia, exalted ruler of the Rockville Elks. At right is Lenwood Hill, assistant scoutmaster. The troop, which has met at the First Congregational Church, lost the flags in the January fire. The presentation was last night. Coventry

Historical Society May Form Local Fife and Drum Corps

The possibilities of forming a local fife and drum corps will be discussed at an open meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Coventry High School of the Coventry Historical Society.

Plans are for forming an ancient-type corps rather than a modern brass band, and of the order used during the American Revolutionary time.

John Hetzel, president of the society, will show slides of musters of the ancient fife and drum corps of some 50 units held in Deep River last year, and will play recordings of their music. He has contacted several local groups which show interest in such a program. All ages are invited to participate.

Voter Session Set

A voter-making session from 10 a.m. to noon May 15 in the registrars' office in the town office building will be the last session for those wishing to vote in the state election June 15 on the constitutional convention.

The recent session had 21 new voters made with 12 registering with the Democrats, three with Republicans and six remaining unaffiliated. In the First District there were nine Democrats, three Republicans and five unaffiliated, and in the Second District, three Democrats and one unaffiliated.

No Office Hours

Rep. Walter L. Thorp reports he will be unable to have office hours tomorrow morning as he will be one of the auctioneers at the Men's Club auction at Kingsbury House.

Fund Gets $50

Coventry Grammar School PTA executive board turned over to school principal, Clarence Edmondson, a check for $50 for the student activity fund to buy recreation equipment. This money was originally given the PTA by the Whirlaway's Square Dance Club for this purpose.

Mrs. James Zuccardy, Mrs. Harold J. Crane and Mrs. William E. Glenney have been named to represent the PTA to meet with Leo Vigneault, Coventry High School director of pupil personnel, and three Robertson School PTA members to form a communittee concerning the proposed student loan fund program. The group is to make a study of policy and set up bylaws for the loan fund program.

A committee to study the report card program at the school with Principal Edmondson reports the most interest was centered on promotion and marking policies. Edmondson plans to issue a booklet next school year explaining these policies of the school.

The school's recent art show realized $17 which has been turned over to the proposed student loan fund.

A food sale is being planned for the PTA 8 p.m. meeting May 18 when officers will be installed and a report by Ronald Arimson given on the progress of the advisory group to the board of education.

Building Plans Announced by U. of Hartford

The University of Hartford yesterday announced a gift of $300,000 from businessman E. Clayton Gengras and revealed plans for five new buildings.

The gift will be used toward a student center that will house cafeterias, recreation and meeting rooms and a bookstore. Groundbreaking for the center, which will be called the Gengras Campus Center, is set for May 18.

Gengras is a regent of the university and chairman of the board of the Security Insurance Group.

Chancellor Vincent B. Coffin said the government is providing a $1.6 million loan for the project, which he called self-liquidating.

Dr. Coffin said plans are also being completed for $3 million science building; a $300,000 expansion of the Alfred C. Fuller Music Center where the Hartt College of Music is located; a $1.3 million School of Business Administration Building, and a 400-student dormitory.

The university now has three major buildings operating on the West Hartford campus.

Etlinger Subject Of Journal Story

"Milford's Human Dynamo" is the capsule description given Jay M. Etlinger, Manchester's former controller, in this month's Connecticut State Journal.

Etlinger, who has been Milford's director of finance since he left Manchester in 1963, is the subject of a feature story in the current issue of the Journal.

The article, singles out his efforts to foster a better relationship between the state's municipal officers and the state government and traces his progress from a stock room clerk to his present post.

Etlinger was controller here from August 1959 through Feb. 16, 1963, when he left for Milford. He came here from Norwich, where he had served as town manager until he became involved in a pay dispute with the town council.

During his 3½ years here Etlinger instituted major changes in the town's purchasing methods; his annual reports won the town a number of prizes.

Etlinger is featured in the recently initiated Municipalities section in the Journal, a monthly publication of state and local politics and government.

Tuscarora Sniper Terrorizing Area

SHADE GAP, Pa. (AP) — Like a chill spring mist, fear has settled over an area in the Tuscarora Mountains of south-central Pennsylvania.

Night finds the 300 residents of Shade Gap and those of neighboring villages behind locked doors, with drawn shades. Within easy reach are rifles or shotguns.

Source of the terror which has gripped the hamlet for more than a year is a bizarre, mysterious rifleman. Residents call him "The Sniper" or "The Mountain Man."

His victims describe him as tall, about six feet, and say he wears a trench coat, combat boots, a baseball cap and a Halloween mask.

Armed with a high-powered rifle, the sniper strikes only at night. All but one of his targets have been women.

No one has been killed, so far.

But residents of the area are carrying weapons nearly everywhere they go, and Police Chief Wimbert Potts of Neptune Township said he "would hate very much to be stranded out there are night."

The first attack occurred in Orbisonia. Viola Jackson was sitting in her living room the night of April 11, 1964, when someone smashed a window and fired several shots that narrowly missed her.

The second attack came June 1, 1964. When Ruth E. Arnold stepped outside her trailer home into the cool night air, the sniper struck her over the head with his rifle.

Later that summer Martha L. Yohn of Blairs Mills was driving along Pennsylvania 641 between Spring Run and Shade Gap when she was forced to stop by a roadblock of logs. As she got out of her car, the sniper jumped from behind the barricade and loosed a fusillade of shots. The bullets struck the car, and one barely missed her infant son.

This attack convinced police the sniper was someone thoroughly familiar with the area and its back roads.

"It's somebody who lives here now or lived here in the past," said Chief Potts. "I've lived here all my life, and I can still get lost on some of these dirt roads pretty easily."

Last Aug. 30 the sniper crept into the home of Mrs. Christian Devinney of Shade Gap. Mrs. Devinney grabbed a rifle, but the attacker overpowered her and fired several shots from his own gun. One bullet struck Mrs. Devinney.

For more than seven months all was quiet. Then, on Good Friday, Med Austin Price, 53, a railroad conductor, took a brakeman's lantern and stepped into the backyard of his home outside Shade Gap to dig fishing worms.

Suddenly a man jumped from behind some trees and began shooting. Price was hit in a leg. Doctors had to amputate.

The next morning state police began a house-to-house canvass from Shade Gap to Burnt Cabin, a distance of 10 miles.

"It doesn't seem possible that something like this can go on that long," Potts said, "but we're no closer to a solution than we've ever been."

Baby Test Bill Passes Over Religious Objection

HARTFORD (AP) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to require hospitals to test new born babies for a condition that can cause mental retardation.

Before passing the bill Thursday, the House defeated an amendment backed by the Christian Science Church that would exempt persons with religious objections from the terms of the bill.

The bill requires hospitals to take either a blood or urine sample from infants for laboratory tests for phenylketonuria, or PKU, a metabolic imbalance which can rapidly lead to brain damage. If detected in time, it can be completely halted by a special diet.

Sen. Lowell R. Weicker, R-Greenwich, led the fight for the amendment, which was submitted at the request of the Christian Science Church.

Weicker said he was in full sympathy with the PKU testing program, but added. "On the other side of the coin is the fact that there are those possessed of certain religious beliefs that are in conflict with this act."

He said the freedom of religious groups to differ with the bulk of society must be guaranteed.

The Christian Science Committee on Publication for Connecticut, in a letter to legislators, said:

"We do not oppose the purpose of this bill for those who subscribe to medical care and treatment, but we would like to insure that the bill would not inadvertently restrict the rights of our people who rely on Christian Science care and treatment in the practice of their religion."

Legislators who opposed the amendment said it would be inconsistent with existing legislation which requires pre-marital blood tests and smallpox vaccinations without any exceptions.

Others said that a blood or urine test takes only an instant, and asked how this could be an invasion of the religious rights of any group.

The State Health Department said that PKU tests are already made on 95 per cent of babies born in the state. The present program, however, relies on the cooperation of the hospitals instead of being compulsory.

Of 77,000 babies tested since the voluntary program was started in 1963, 10 have had PKU. The Health Department estimates that the state saves $200,000 on each case of mental retardation prevented by the PKU program.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate Monday bills that would:

—Insure that persons who hold provisional drivers licenses receive regular licenses at age 21, instead of 23, as now.

— Instruct the Legislative Council to study problems caused by automobile junk yards, "particularly with reference to the unsightliness caused thereby," and report any proposals for legislation to the 1967 General Assembly.

—Ban use of words such as "discount" or "cut-rate" by pharmacists in advertising their professional services.

—Extend to municipalities the same exemption from the state tax on motor vehicle diesel fuel that federal government vehicles have.

Other Bills

HARTFORD (AP)—A bill intended to help curb attacks on police officers was passed by the state Senate Thursday and sent to the House.

The bill would stiffen the penalty for resisting an officer. It would increase the jail term from three to six months and the fine from $100 to $250.

Also sent to the House were bills that would appropriate $83,000 for the control of gypsy moth and that would spell out the governor's authority to close the hunting and fishing seasons when necessary.

The State Board of Pesticide Control will get $75,000 and $8,000 will go to the State Park and Forest Commission for spraying gypsy moth-infested state-owned land.

The money is for the remainder of the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Towns can be reimbursed for one-half the cost of spraying areas recommended by the state entomologist and the pesticide board, under the act. The bill also gives towns the right to assess the owners of sprayed land on an acreage basis.

In concurrence with the House, the Senate passed and sent to the governor bills that would:

Allow towns to collect personal property taxes on automobiles in one installment of they so chose.

Require that all fire extinguishers sold in the state be rated satisfactory by a nationally recognized fire protection testing laboratory acceptable to the state fire marshal.

Increase the fee for external examinations by medical examiners from $15 to $25.

Asks Briefing

HARTFORD (AP) — Rep. J. Tyler Patterson of Old Lyme, speaker of the House, has asked for a briefing for Republican legislative leaders on the New Haven Railroad situation.

Patterson complained in a letter to Gov. John Dempsey Thursday that GOP leaders must get their information from newspapers because the Connecticut the governor's staff have kept them in the dark.

"I think you will agree it is unfair to expect us to support a last minute request for substantial sums of money to aid the railroad unless we are given an opportunity to analyse such a request and be briefed as to the reasons for it, Patterson said.

Offer to Meet

HARTFORD (AP) — An offer to seek agreement with Democrats on a bill to eliminate the personal property tax on manufacturers inventories has been made by Republican legislative leaders.

Rep. J. Tyler Patterson of Old Lyme, speaker of the house, noted the deadline for bills involving money is May 15.

"I ask you therefore," he said in a letter to Gov. John Dempsey, "whether or not you are prepared to accept my invitation to discuss this matter seriously in an attempt to arrive at a bipartisan solution which will be beneficial to all concerned."

Debate Scheduled

HARTFORD (AP) — Debate has been scheduled in the house for Tuesday on two controversial issues—a state lottery and legalized horse race betting. The General Law Committee has recommended that both bills be rejected.

The lottery bill to be discussed would provide for a referendum to determine how the public feels about a state lottery. The results would not bind the legislature to any specific action.

Teacher Vote Set, MFT Will Shun It

A teacher referendum has been tentatively scheduled for May 18. The Manchester Education Association (MEA) says it will participate and calls it a "victory." The Manchester Federation of Teachers (MFT) refuses to take part and calls it a "sham."

The announcement of the rules and regulation for the referendum was made at meetings of the two teacher groups yesterday. The architect of the plan, School Supt. William Curtis, has emphasized its preliminary status.

However, since the board of education authorized Curtis to conduct a referendum and determine its procedures and ground rules, the final decision will be his.

The MFT will shun election as it calls pointless. None of the major concepts it had wanted written into the referendum were included in Curtis' plan.

Curtis declared in the plan that the referendum's specific purpose is "to determine which organization the majority of the staff desires the board of education to recognize for purposes of negotiating the primary agreement to be binding upon members of that organization relative to terms and conditions of professional employment for 1965-66."

This is the wording of the MEA petition signed by 358 teachers and administrators and presented to the board March 29.

That same night the board took the first definite step toward a referendum, but a final decision did not come until April 26.

In the interim the board's personnel committee had met twice with both groups and had met with no success in finding a common ground.

Since no accommodation could be made, the board turned the decision over to one man, the superintendent of schools.

The MFT has called the referendum senseless since it readily concedes, as does everyone, that the MEA is the majority organization.

Beyond that, in meetings it has differed with the MEA on three main points. On all of these, Curtis' plan went against the MFT.

They are:

1. The MFT wants collective bargaining concluding in a written agreement legally binding on the board and teachers. Thus far, the language of discussion has used the MEA phrase "primary negotiation." This term awaits clarification, but the MEA takes it as weighing decisions in favor of the majority group.

There has been no decision yet on what type of negotiations will take place between the board and the majority group after the referendum.

On this question both groups have taken opposite stands: The MEA saying the procedure should be set up after the referendum; the MFT maintaining it should come before. The MEA, as the likely referendum winner, has said it wants to share in making a procedure.

2. The MFT has also maintained that full-time administrators and full-time supervisors should not vote in the referendum. The proposed referendum rules permit all full-time members of the professional staff below the rank of superintendent of schools to vote.

The MFT contends that those administrators responsible for "hiring, firing, withholding increments, recommending tenure, class assignment, class loads, teacher duties, etc." should not take part.

3. The MFT wants a "nonpartisan agency" to conduct the election. It also says that "voting should be by secret ballot in neutral voting places outside of the educational establishment so as not to bring any undue pressure, however subtle, on the voting rights of the individual teacher."

According to the plan, voting will take place by secret ballot in a place in the school where the voter can be "assured of absolute privacy."

But the MFT has questioned the impartiality of a member of one of the groups determining the procedures and principles of the referendum. Curtis is a member of the MEA.

Robert Vater, president-elect of the MFT, said last night, "Now that the rules for the referendum have been published, our feelings have been borne out."

The Curtis plan calls for monitors from both organizations to supervise the ballot casting and a Referendum Validation Committee, comprising two members from each group participating and one impartial moderator to count the ballots.

Vater, deploring the referendum as a "mock election," said "There has never been a serious discussion of real education issues this year because of the emphasis on this jurisdictional issue."

The MEA has pressed for the referendum because of the official recognition it will bring them. Seven other affiliates of the Connecticut Education Association have won referendums the past two years.

Its most recent victory was in New Haven Monday—an election in which the union local of the American Federation of Teachers did not participate.

The Hartford board of education has refused to hold a referendum because of a ruling by its Corporation Counsel that no school board can recognize one group as the exclusive bargaining agents for all teachers.

A similar ruling was made by Manchester's Town Counsel, Irving Aronson. The board, the MEA, and the MFT have all agreed to abide by it until state legislation is passed defining more concretely this controversial area.

Although, the MFT will not participate in the election, Vater said that it will continue to negotiate for its members.

MEA leaders appeared jubilant yesterday in calling for an overwhelming majority in the election. About 60 members were present.

The results of the referendum are to be binding through the 1965-66 school year, according to Curtis. He noted in his plan the possibility of state legislation invalidating the length of this period.

Renewal Unit Opening Office For Relocation

The Manchester Redevelopment Agency plans to open a relocation office at 148 N. Main St.—within the North End renewal area—as soon as plans for the project are approved by the Federal Urban Renewal Administration.

Robert Hayden, the agency's relocation director, will be available there to talk with families and businesses within the relocation area.

The opening of the office, which will be located in a former package store, will be announced in The Herald.

The agency's plan to open the new office was announced to renewal area businessmen and residents in a newsletter today. The letter also details new relocation adjustment payments that have been authorized by Congress to help underwrite the cost of moving from renewal areas.

The relocation adjustment payments vary with the income of the family or store which must be moved. Families are eligible for as much as $5000? businesses up to $1,500.

The New Tax Rate

Manchester has lost another battle to keep itself on a sensible, reasonable basis of town spending and town taxing, and the pity of it is that the battle need not have been lost.

It would have been enough to spend $500,000 more to operate the town government and its services during the next fiscal year.

If the increase in town spending could have been held to that figure, there might even have been a fractional decrease in the tax rate.

But nobody has been asking for a cut in our tax rate—welcome as such a thing might be.

The plea has been made for a simple, consistent policy in which we hold our tax rate frozen where it is, and adjust our increased spending, each year, to whatever increase growth in the grand list and decline in the obligations of interest and debt would permit.

This could have been done this year.

It could have been done easily.

It could have been done, if, instead of secret caucus selectivity among appropriation accounts, the Board of Directors majority had come out in the open with an honest, straightforward application of common sense restraint to all accounts and departments.

But it was not done, as perhaps it could never be done by the secret caucus method of setting a tax rate in a non-election year.

And, as a result, all the people of Manchester are going to pay.

They are going to pay, first, for immediate increase of six-tenths of a mill in the town's basic tax rate.

And they are going to pay, second, for the new acceptance, by the party now in control, of the theory that there need be no upward limit for the Manchester tax rate.

Once again it has been proclaimed, by appropriation and levy and vote, that the process of increase is perpetual—that there is no level or figure at which it must stop.

Any Board of Directors, or, perhaps to put it more specifically and justly, any political regime which can do this to present day Manchester has thereby done more to Manchester than all the other policies it would rather talk about will ever do for Manchester.

There has to be a tax rate ceiling, or there will never be a halt. Some day—perhaps, as usual, too late, the taxpayers of Manchester are going to wake up and wonder why they let this happen to them.

A Preference In Interventions

It is just as surprising to find Governor Nelson Rockefeller questioning our Dominican intervention as it was to find Columnist Walter Lippmann approving it.

Lippmann's reason for approving intervention in the Caribbean when he questions intervention in Vietnam proved to be mainly geographical. He thinks the Dominican Republic is in our sphere of influence, and the corollary to that is that Vietnam would have to lie in a Chinese sphere of influence.

For our part, we reject the idea that power politics geography can be relied upon to constitute a workable law of existence and survival for this modern world. We think Lippmann should be in favor of both interventions, or question both.

Governor Rockefeller is, if we may hurry past one of Lippmann's weaker moments, a more interesting case. Here is a political leader who has based a great deal of his career on strong and challenging anti-Communism. He used to taunt both Eisenhower and Kennedy with not being tough enough in prosecuting the cold war, and the assumption is that he has been delighted by President Johnson's tactics in Vietnam.

But when the situation in Dominica was put to him the other day, Governor Rockefeller had a shadow of a regret.

"I would have wished myself," he said, "that it had been possible to take joint Inter-American action and to send a joint inter-American force. But I must also say that I am not in a position to know whether this was possible."

The explanation, is Governor Rockefellers case, was not quite power politics or spheres of influence geography. Rockefeller happens to have laboured, officially and personally, in the vineyard of hemispheric understanding and mutual respect. This particular piece of Johnson toughness, then, happened to concern an area in which Rockefeller himself felt a personal and paternal interest.

Again, for our part, we suggest that American conduct in Southeast Asia and the Caribbean ought possibly to be the same—that we show either thoughtful consideration or necessary disdain, whichever it is going to be, for the feelings of other nations in both areas.

We are already having trouble keeping track of who is most in favor of which intervention.

Expediency And Tolls

The usual immorality concerning public transportation projects built as toll roads or toll bridges develops when, after the motorists using the bridge or road have already paid for its construction through their tolls, the tolls are nevertheless continued perpetually, with the income being used for other projects.

An honest toll is one which pays for its own project, and then disappears. But revenue-hungry public administrations find it very difficult to abandon what is usually a fat and painless source of revenue.

There is now in the news, from the state of Michigan, an example of something that, in our book, would be equally immoral and dishonest, even though it represents the exact and complete opposite of the perpetual toll.

This would be the lifting of a toll, before it had paid for its project, and the shifting of the burden involved to the general taxpayers of a state.

This is being discussed, in Michigan, with reference to the giant five-mile Mackinac Bridge, which was built in 1957 to give easier access to Michigan's north country, and which was supposed to bring new and increased prosperity to that north country while paying for itself.

The bridge hasn't paid off from the prosperity angle, and one theory is that the $3.75 toll a motorist must pay to cross it one way is so high it discourages the travel the bridge was supposed to promote. So the proposal is being made, by no less distinguished a Michigan citizen than George Romney, Governor, that the toll on the bridge be abolished before it is paid for, and that the money necessary to retire the $99,000,000 bond issue originally floated for the bridge be raised by increasing the license plate fee for each Michigan car about 75 cents a car a year, to bring in a total of $7,300,000 a year.

Instead of making the users of a particular project pay for all kinds of other projects, which is the usual unfair practice with regard to toll roads and bridges, the Michigan proposal would tap all the state's motorists and make them pay for a particular facility which was built on the pledge it would be paid for by those particular motorists who used it.

As so often happens in public affairs, expediency is more influential than theoretical ideas of justice. But in New Jersey, last year, all the voters of the state came to the rescue of the particular motorists who used one Turnpike and voted down Governor Hughes' proposal to take tolls from them forever to pay the state's general budget costs, for education, health, and other departments.

It will be interesting to see whether, out in Michigan, the state's motorists as a whole will be able to band together to keep the tolls going on "Big Mac" until it is paid for by the particular people who use it.

Educational Junkets

One of the more spectacular facets of modern education is the class junket. Based on the sound principle that no one knows as much as the man who has been there, classes are piled into a bus and hauled around the country to see things for themselves.

Museums are a prime favorite. The U.N. building is a must for students in this area. Theater trips are provided for students in some of our more lush systems. The Shakespeare Theater in Stratford is too near for school teachers to pass up.

Much good and much harm can come from this junketing. If the pupil is carefully prepared over a long period of time for the junket and if the results of the on the spot observation is thoroughly gone over after returning from the trip, it can be a tremendously rewarding experience. If the trip is looked upon as an outing for the teacher or if the preparation is incomplete, the trip can be an educational disaster.

Children with preparation can learn more about nature in a few hours at a museum of natural history than in weeks of study.

The theater junket, especially Shakespeare, is the most difficult. Some time ago, a group of high school children went to see Romeo and Juliet. They were unprepared for what they were going to see and the result was an outrage.

The plot of this play is not easy for modern youth to understand. The fellow who took his steady to a drive-in movie the night before finds it hard to recognize Juliet as a swinging kid. As a member of a gang Romeo uses some pretty far out language. There was a time when children who were bored suffered in silence. Today some think it is smart to be ill mannered. In fact they are trained to express themselves. Through their own ignorance they spoiled a performance for those who understood and were prepared for the play.

There is nothing wrong with educational junkets. They can add to learning, but only if they are part of a program not a program in themselves as some incidents suggest that they are.

Klan Trial To Jury

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. — The judge had a bottle of Coke in his hand. He stood up and told the jury, "All right now, you go inside there and when you reach a verdict just knock on the door and bailiff will let you come out."

It was 3:40 p.m. and the case of murder against Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., now was in the hands of these 12 sunburned men who live in Lowndes County, Ala. They stood up, reaching for cigarettes in their shirt pockets, and H. H. Gates, the bailiff, tieless, in a white short-sleeved shirt, gun in his belt, stood up and started to open the green wooden door alongside the chairs where the jurors were sitting.

The door wouldn't open. "Door's locked," he said.

"Let me get over heah and see that thing." J. H. Jackson, the Deputy Sheriff, said. He put his hand on the doorknob and twisted it. "Damned if we ain't all locked out," he said.

"Ah'll go downstairs and get "keys," Gates said. He went out of the courtroom. And the jury stood in a crowd by the door and smoked cigarettes and reporters pushed through them to get up and talk to the judge, T. Werth Thagard, and in the back of the courtroom a little boy in bare feet ran to the window, and the defendant, Wilkins, went and played with some kids who were sitting in the front row and, finally, four minutes later, Gates came back into the room, shaking his head and smiling, and he opened the door with the key and jury filed in.

On the fourth day of the trial of Collie Leroy Wilkins for the murder of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo, when the whole of the defense case and summation took less than three and a half hours, it now was up to the jury. They received the case in an atmosphere of country-store informality that has held here from the moment court opened Monday morning. And this was a case which had been carefully constructed, mainly by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Thomas Gary Rowe Jr., an eye-witness, one of the strongest eye-witness testimonies in a murder case that anybody can remember, said, that Wilkins had shot Mrs. Liuzzo. The ballistics and many small, but dangerous corroborating facts seemed to back him up.

The only serious question asked about the murder gun came from a juror. Clifford McMurphee, a farmer, before any of the defense witnesses were called in the morning.

"I want to know," he asked the judge just after the prosecutor rested, if there were any fingerprints on the shell cases and whether there were any fingerprints on the gun." A question from a juror is unusual anywhere. Nobody called by the prosecution had mentioned fingerprints on the .38 revolver or the empty shells found near the murder scene on Route 80.

Even though the state already had rested its case, FBI Agents Edward Lahey and Marion Williams came on to testify that they did not make any fingerprint tests. Nobody said why.

The defense was non-existent. The defense opened its case yesterday, and lawyer Matt Murphy Jr. took exactly 21 minutes. He called six witnesses. The defendant, Wilkins, did not take the stand. Then, from nowhere, at 11:28 a.m., Murphy said he was resting his case.

But in the afternoon the jury listened to Matt Murphy. And in Lowndes County, Ala., the words that Murphy said in his summation seemed to have more meaning in them than all the facts and figures and testimony that the jurors had heard come down from the witness stand.

"I'm up here to throw you a straight ball," Murphy told the jurors. "Right down the line. One white man to another white man. What kind of a man is this Rowe? What kind of a man is this that come into a fraternal organization by hook or by crook? What kind of a man is this who took an oath and joined the Ku-Klux Klan of America, took the oath with his hand raised to his Almighty God? And then sold out like Judas Iscariot. And ah say, gentlemen, he betrayed himself, his God, his own oath. He is a liar; perjuror. He'll do anything.

"He'll accept money from the Communist Party.

"He'll accept money from the NAACP.

"He'll accept money from this Martin Luther King organization.

"Yes! He sold his soul for a little gold. Pouring himself out to be a white man. He's worse than a white nigger.

"And the FBI expert. A great man in the laboratory and the Federal government of the United States for 26 years. He lives in Washington. No, I'm sorry he doesn't. He moved to Virginia. He moved out of Washington because he got children and he didn't want them to go to school in Washington, D. C. He moved to Virginia, where they will fight the battle against integration and mongrelizing the race.

"The white Confederacy," Murphy was screaming.

"And this other FBI agent, the one who told you that Gary Rowe wasn't drunk when he informed the FBI of the murder. Yes, he said. 'Shaken and I said, 'Are you shaky Irish? Are you a Catholic? You heard me and him that. Well, I'm not Catholic. But I know how to deal with these shanty Irish.

"And this woman, this white woman who got killed. White woman? Wait a minute." He turned around. "Where's that NAACP card?" A Klu Klux Klansman at the defense table brought Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo's NAACP membership card over to Murphy. He held it in front of the jury and spoke softly. "Ah never thought ah'd see the day," he said. "Ah never thought ah'd see the day when Communists and niggers and white niggers and Jews was flyin' around under the banner of the United Nations, not the American flag we fought for, not the flag of the country which we are in and I'm proud to be white and I stand here as a white man and I say we're never gonna mongrelize the race with nigger blood and the Martin Luther Kings, the white niggers, the Jews, the Zionists who run that bunch of niggers, the white peoples are not gonna run before them. Jim Clark says 'Never!' I say 'Never!' myself. You know that she was in the car with three black niggers? One white woman and three niggers sittin' back there! Black nigger Communists talkin' us over. White niggers! Some of 'em infiltrated this courtroom."

"Never!" he yelled. "We shall die before we lay down. Niggers are against every law God ever wrote. Noah's son was Ham and he committed sin and was banished and his sons were Hamites and God damned them and they went to Africa and the only thing they ever built was grass huts. Black men in a straw hut covered with mud. No white lady can ever marry a descendant of Ham. If you do, you shall be destroyed. That's God's law. You cannot overcome God.

"Do what the people with God said. White woman, nigger man. You shall be destroyed.

Murphy was screaming. His arms were spread wide. His mouth was locked open and the words bellowed out of him so loudly that they could barely be heard. And now he just began screaming words in a stream. "Rabbi, with a nigger...white woman,nigger man, nigger woman, foet to foet..."

Then he stopped. And knees bent, he crouched forward at the jury. "You notice his ahyes," he said. He meant the witness, LeRoy Molon, who was in the car when Miss Liuzzo was shot. "You see him sittin' up there? You look at his ahyes. Oh, Ah did. Ahyes di-ated. You see

Reflections

A Passing Past

By Phineas Fiske

Modernity is laying siege to Manchester's past.

Since this column last reflected upon the opportunity confronting this community to preserve a piece of its past, concrete battlements have sprung up on either side of one of the oldest homes in Manchester—the white Colonial at 175 E. Center St.

The battlements, in this case, appear to be the foundations of a pair of apartment buildings which will be constructed flanking the old house.

And, unless somebody comes to the rescue, those battlements will soon be repeated where the house now stands, where more apartments will be built, and the house will fall.

* * *

After The Herald published its thumbnail sketch two weeks ago of the history of the house at 175 E. Center St., and spoke of the building's probable fate in its news columns, the writer found that the paper's readers had evolved three kinds of responses.

The practical respondent saw the cost of moving the house as too great to undertake.

The historical respondent saw the value of the house as an artifact as inadequate to justify the moving cost.

The vast majority of those people with whom the writer spoke, however, believed that the house—even with the defects that assault the eye of the historian—ought to be rescued.

After all, it is one of the few structures left that could adequately represent the town's past in a not-too-stable present.

Subsequently the Lutz Junior Museum has similarly recommended that the house be saved —and has asked the town to be its savior, and urged an historical society be formed to oversee its salvation.

* * *

There is yet, however, no historical society. And until there is, or until some other legitimate organization is formed, to take up the cudgel in defense of the house, the building's fate will remain sealed.

The problem is not alone in the moving of the building. After it is moved, there must be some use to which it can be put. Without some use to give it life, it might just as well be destroyed.

Since it is a sound building, and suitable for living in, there is an alternative: if the new owner, Atty. Herman Yules is willing, it might be bought and moved and eventually be used as a home, in some locale more conducive to private homes than E. Center St. seems to have become.

In a new location it might be identified, with the permission of its occupants, as an historical building, so that it might at least be seen.

* * *

It would be best, of course, if the structure were to be open to the public, for whatever the reason.

But whether this is possible will depend almost entirely upon the public.

Without the support of an organized association of persons with a genuine and lasting concern for the town's past—to complement the present official concern for the town's future —there seems little hope that such a fine tangible symbol of the past can survive.

A Thought for Today

"For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life . . ." Romans 6:24

How can we explain the presence in this world of death, disease, suffering and pain? "What is the cause of death?" The Bible gives the only answer: "The wages of sin is death." People have rebelled against death, have tried to argue it away, but to no avail. The only question really important is, what can be done about it? God has provided a way through the Lord Jesus Christ whereby we can be saved. In this way we are delivered from the penalty of sin, which involves spiritual death, and ultimately physical death.

We are reminded of an old Negro mammy who was in an auto wreck, and an "ambulance-chasing-lawyer" came and said "Auntie, you should be able to collect plenty of damages." To which Auntie replied, "Damages? Damages? Man, I've had enough damages; what I need is repairs, not more damages!"

You need repairs, not more damages; act today!

Advisory Group Holds Meeting On Town Budget

The local citizens' advisory group met Tuesday to discuss the budget which is to be presented at the town budget hearing this evening.

The group has urged townspeople to attend the hearing in order to become better informed on items listed in the proposed budget, so Mrs. Douglas Porter, spokesman for the group said, adding that the questions and opinions of the townspeople help the board of finance to put into shape a town budget suited to needs of the town.

Several new people attended the discussion this week. Monthly meetings have been tentatively set for the second Monday evening. For information about joining the group, the following members may be called: Mrs. Douglas Porter, Mrs. Warren Smith, 228-3742, or Mrs. Donald Robinson.

Red Cross Meeting

Important to be remembered is that the annual meeting of the Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross will take place at Yeomans Hall, Columbia at 7 p.m. The chapter includes Hebron and Andover besides the town of Columbia.

Reptile Talk Given

The lecture by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Babbitt, nationally known researchers on reptiles and amphibians, given at Douglas Library Tuesday evening, was a huge success, an unusually large number in attendance. Such live specimens as rattlesnakes, copperheads, turtles, frogs, lizards and such were shown. The specimens are sent to many foreign countries, to aid in research work.

The Babbit lecture was also presented Tuesday afternoon at the elementary school, greatly to the delight of pupils and teachers.

Sunday Services

Church services this coming Sunday in the local area will be: Hebron First Congregational, 10 a.m.; Gilead, 11:15; Sunday school at the usual hours. Mothers' Day will be observed. The subject chosen by the Rev. John N. Cross for his sermon, in both pulpits, will be Isaac and Rebekah.

Anyone wishing to donate flowers for the day should contact Alberta Wallen or another member of the flower committee.

The missions committee is still selling church plates. They make an attractive gift for some one far away.

St. Peter's Episcopal Church will begin with Holy Communion, at 8 a.m.; Morning Prayer and sermon, 10 a.m., and church school, the Rev. Fr. Weeman officiating.

Scouts Clean Up Town Tomorrow

Dr. Charles E. Jacobson Jr., chairman of the Chamber of Commerce City Beautiful Committee, announces that 200 Boy Scouts from 11 Manchester Troops will participate tomorrow in the Chamber's annual townwide cleanup campaign.

The scouts will meet at the town parking lot at Main and Forest Sts. and then be given their assignments.

Dr. Jacobson, in listing the people and agencies which are cooperating in the program, said, "The Jaycees have made a survey of the entire town, pinpointing the various areas that the Boy Scouts will clean up. Trucks have been donated by Leaseway Sanitation, Anthony Botticello, and by the town to carry the trash to the disposal area, and bags for the cleanup program are being furnished by Central Connecticut Cooperative.

"We feel that this is a substantial program of actually doing something worthwhile to help make Manchester 'A City of Village Charm.'"

The troops and their leaders which will participate are: Troop 3, Lewis Banning; Troop 20, Harry Maidment; Troop 27, Stanley Cross; Troop 47, Robert Von Deck; Troop 91, Oscar Moberg.

them? You see them starin'? Pupils dilated. You see him talkin' under the hypnotic spell of narcotics? You din't? Well, Ah did. And Ah tell you as one white man to another that this card-carrying member of the Communist Party..."

This was the defense of Collie Leroy Wilkins for killing Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo on the night of March 25 while she rode in a car on Highway 80 with a Negro who had taken part in a civil rights march that day from Selma to Montgomery. Murphy used this, and only this, as a defense. He stood there, a lawyer for the Ku Klux Klan, and gave the saddest performance that we ever have seen a human being give. And the jury looked at him, and they took his words, and the testimony of the case with them into a small room off the courtroom and sat down and decided to weigh the words and questions of a twenty-mindedness against the facts.

One hour after they were in the room, the jury came out.

They wanted further instruction. Clifford McMurphie, the farmer from Burkville, stood up. He was in a light plaid sports shirt with blue tie. "We want to know if we're restricted to voting for murder in the first degree or second?" he asked. It was, for a conviction.

It was, at 5:10 p.m., Alabama time, yesterday, the closest that a case involving a civil rights murder ever had to come to producing a conviction.

And for the first time, Collie Leroy Wilkins, the fat-bellied, sunken-eyed, cocky Ku Klux Klan man, realized that he could be in trouble. His hands reached for a cigarette and his fat fingers fumbled with trying to pull one out of the pack.

One of Klan leader Robert Shelton's aides, one of the watery-eyed people who have been assisting Mat Murphy, ran up to a State Trooper who was leaning against the door.

"What does that mean?" the Klansman asked.

"It means that somebody could be in trouble around here," the trooper said.

Victory Anniversary

Ike Asks Rededication To Humanity Advancement

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, on the 20th anniversary of World War II victory in Europe, called upon mankind today to rededicate itself to the advancement of humanity rather than its destruction.

The five-star general who led the invasion that brought an end to European hostilities, and later served his country as president through eight years of relative peace, issued an anniversary statement from his farm home near Gettysberg.

Eisenhower's comments came on the eve of the actual cessation of hostilities in 1945.

The former president's statement said:

"May 8, 1945, saw the end in Europe of the devastating war that had begun in the late summer of 1939, and involved practically the whole of the European area.

"With Hitler and his cruel practices swept away, the victory on V-E Day inspired new hopes in weary and terror-stricken populations for some assurance that governments would find a way to eliminate the possibility of future war.

"In an effort to give realization to these hopes, a number of governments cooperated in the founding of the United Nations organization and for a time there was some strong and flourish a promise of an enduring and just peace.

"But soon disappointments ensued; mankind again began to experience the uneasiness and tensions that always accompany every threat to general peace.

"On this 20th anniversary of V-E Day, it would seem that all of us — every private citizen and governmental official throughout the world — should unite in renewing our faith and reenforcing our determination that the intellect of man will concern itself more with humanity's advancement than its destruction.

"If all the powerful nations of the world could, with real confidence in each other, forego the production and maintenance of the frightful weapons of war, and devote their attention to betterment of their respective populations, then happiness would soon supplant poverty and misery; confidence would replace fear and tension everywhere.

"Though such idealistic purposes will not soon be realized, it is certain that V-E Day is a fitting occasion on which to resolve, anew, that these goals will never be lost to our sight."

Tornadoes Hit Minnesota, Death Toll 12; 300 Hurt

where dozens of homes were hard hit, and many destroyed. Grand Park and Navarre also on the lake's west side, received heavy property damage and reported many injured.

Four persons died at Spring Lake Park, one at Mounds View and one at Norwood.

The injured in twisters that hit Fridley, Spring Lake Park and Mounds View were brought to Mercy Hospital at Coon Rapids in a continuous stream. After two hours, the hospital's administrator, Robert Van Hauser, pleaded with ambulance drivers and motorists to take their injured to other nearby hospitals.

Van Hauser estimated that upward of 100 persons had been treated at Mercy Hospital. Nearly 30 of those treated were in serious condition.

The storm hit Norwood, a town of about 1,000 persons, some 38 miles southwest of Minneapolis. After demolishing about 15 residences and between 30 and 40 farm buildings, the twister moved northeast, striking with devastating force at the exclusive sections of Shorewood-Excelsior. About a dozen homes were damaged and several persons injured.

Then it circled around Lake Minnetonka's west side and moved over the lake to the east side. Dozens of lakeside cabins and residences were smashed and scores of residents were injured.

The tornado then traveled northeastward hitting Fridley, Spring Lake Park and Mounds View before it left the area.

The Minneapolis Weather Bureau had alerted Twin Cities residents around 6:30 p.m. Minutes later, a heavy rain and hail hit.

A series of twisters hit the northestern portion of the state Wednesday, and another series struck the southeastern portion of the state. About 20 persons were injured, but property damage was heavy.

Tornadoes also skipped across parts of Oklahoma, striking in small towns and rural areas. One woman suffered injuries in a twister which hit Oakwood, about 60 miles southwest of Oklahoma City. Other tornadoes were reported in rural areas near Managum, Seiling and Hollis and at Ron, near Hollis. Several homes and farm buildings were damaged.

Thunderstorms continued during the night in Oklahoma and Kansas. With gusts of more than 80 m.p.h. were reported at Wichita, Kan. Showers fell from the eastern Great Lakes to the central Appalachians.

In western sections, heavy snow — up to 15 inches — blanketed the Bozeman area of southcentral Montana. Strong winds caused drifting of snow on Lost Trail and Chief Joseph passes in the mountains of western Montana. Snow fell in the northern and central Rockies and freezing weather was reported in areas in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Nevada, Utah and Idaho.

Hearings Set By 2 Boards

The zoning board of appeals and the town planning commission have scheduled public hearings the week of May 17 on a variety of requests for zone changes, variances and special exceptions.

The appeals board will consider these applications at a public hearing set for 8 p.m. May 17 at the Municipal Building hearing room:

Iona Manufacturing Co., to use land at the rear of 136 Woodland St., in Residence Zone B, for parking.

The Glazon Corp., to continue to use land at 260 Tolland Tpke., in Rural Residence Zone, for the manufacture of pre-cast concrete building parts.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., for a new car dealer's license (to sell motorcycles) for 290 Broad St., in Industrial Zone.

Peter Bezzini, for a new auto service station at the southwest corner of Adams and Hilliard Sts., in Industrial Zone.

Carl Mikolowski, to put up an office building at 357 E. Center St., in Residence Zone C, for a dentist's practice.

Lawrence Donahue, to divide one lot at 96-98 Pine St., in Residence Zone B, into two, one without the minimum area required in the regulations. The undersized lot would have 8,212 square feet, where 9,000 are required.

Russell Broderick, to have a detached garage at Vernon and Taylor Sts., in Rural Residence Zone, that would not be in the furtherest corner of the building lot.

Henry H. Peck, to erect a two-car garage and breezeway at 53 Harlan St., in Residence Zone A, that would be seven feet from the building line where ten foot sideyards are required.

Edward Copeland, to roof a patio at 265 W. Center St., in Residence Zone B, that is four feet from the building sideline where eight feet are required.

Charles E. Ricks, to convert a one-family house at 42 Elm Ter. Ext., in Industrial Zone to a two-family home.

Frank D. Clifford Sr., to temporarily install a trailer at 50 Woodside St., in Rural Residence Zone — the site of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Later Day Saints.

The planning commission will take up the following requests two days later, meeting at 8 p.m. May 19 at the hearing room:

From Golf Associates Inc., to rezone from residence to business Zone II an area of about 80 acres across W. Middle Tpke. from Wickham Park, including the former Treat property recently sold to a Hartford firm, and the Arnold Palmer golf course.

From Robert Meek, to rezone from Rural Residence to Industrial Zone about one acre at 206 Windsor St. Meek operates Meek Express, a trucking company, and stores trucks on the property.

From Fogarty Bros. to rezone from Residence Zone A to Residence Zone B lots on the west side of Hawthorne St. that were formerly a coal unloading area.

From Dolph Ericson, to rezone from Residence Zone A to Residence Zone B about three acres with frontage on both Olcott St. and Love Lane.

From Mervin C. Thresher, to rezone from Rural Residence to Business Zone II about five acres on Tolland Tpke. near Adams St., boardered on the west by the Buckland Cemetery.

From Sam Lombardo, for an earth excavation permit for about 10 acres on the east side of Hilstown Rd., in Rural Residence Zone.

And from Chester F. Langtry, the town's former deputy director of public works, to resubdivide a tract extending from French Rd. to W. Middle Tpke. to create a new lot on W. Middle Tpke.

Place paper-wrapped candies in your refrigerator a few minutes before serving and you can unwrap them more easily.

Andover

Garden Club Names Slate Of Officers

The Andover Garden Club has elected new officers for the coming year and made further plans for its landscaping project of the town office building grounds.

Officers named were Miss Doris Chamberlain, president; Mrs. George Munson, vice president; Mrs. J. Russell Thompson, secretary, and Mrs. Theodore Moberg, treasurer.

Mrs. George Guay and Mrs. Lawrence Jillson were named to serve on the executive committee.

A committee of seven ladies was formed to expediate the landscaping of the town office building grounds. Members are Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Munson, Mrs. Jillson, Mrs. John H. Yeomans, Mrs. Winston Abbot, Mrs. Raymond Storer and Miss Dorothea Raymond. People from this committee will confer with Selectman Cook to coordinate the planting schedule and other work to be done with the parking area work, curbing, and such.

Mrs. John H. Yeomans will be in charge of receiving contributions from townspeople who wish to make a donation for the project. She has already made arrangements for the plantings in the front of the building. Much interest is being shown in the landscaping as the office building is adjacent to the Elementary school grounds and in a grove of attractively landscaped homes.

Host Family Picnic

The Host Family program, carried on by the University People to People group in Storrs and the sisters of Delta Pi, are inviting all Andover families with an "adopted" student to attend a picnic on Saturday, May 15, from 2 to 6 p.m. at Mashamoquet State Park in Pomfret.

The families are to invite their student and provide food and eating utensils. Soft drinks will be supplied and recreational games played.

Auxiliary to Meet

The May meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Fire Department will be held at the firehouse Monday at 8 p.m. The program will be a work night to prepare articles to be sold at the Carnibar late in July. All members are urged to attend this important meeting. Refreshments will be served by that committee, Mrs. Norman Bonneau, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Jack Fisher, Mrs. Alfred Gill, and Mrs. William Goss.

Rummage Sale Set

A rummage sale will be held from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday, May 22, by the Andover Congregational Church to raise funds for renovating the church social room. Contributions of saleable items such as clothing, books, or white elephants in general, are needed. People wishing to contribute items should call Mrs. Raymond Bradley or Mrs. Gordon MacDonald, in charge of the sale in Mrs. Martin Baker, Chairman of the ways and means committee.

Appeal Granted

The Zoning Board of Appeals has granted an appeal of Charles Thompson, 107 Lakeside Dr., for a variance to permit the building of an addition to the present dwelling. The side yard requirements of a 20-foot minimum could not be met. But as a 20-foot right of way to the lake adjoins the side yard in question and the needs of the family for the addition were clear, the request was granted, with a May 15 effective date. No objections by neighbors or others were presented.

Manchester Evening Herald Andover correspondent, Lawrence Moe, telephone 742-6786.

This was the third time American planes had attacked the bridge.

The spokesman said that at the end of the raid, the bridge was still standing, although its approaches had been badly damaged. He said the bridge would be impossible to cross and the approaches would be difficult to reconstruct.

Enemy flak and machine-gun fire was described as heavy and accurate.

Later, 16 other F105s, escorted by the same 40 fighters, staged an armed reconnaissance raid along North Vietnamese routes 1, 8, 12, 15 and 82 about 90 miles south of Hanoi.

Pilots reported seeing no traffic over the roads. Instead, they attacked two small bridges and three barracks, all of which were reported damaged. All planes on the second raid returned safely despite enemy groundfire.

No enemy aircraft were sighted.

Wilkins Jury Asks Added Information

"We don't appear to be near a verdict," replied Clifford Mc-Murphee, a Burkville, Ala., farmer who apparently was chosen jury foreman.

Thagard then called off deliberations for the night.

The jurors retired with the case after listening to the militant plea for white supremacy from klan attorney Matt H. Murphy Jr., the defense lawyer, and a warning against prejudice from three states' attorneys.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Eighty-two U.S. Air Force jets attacked bridges and barracks in North Viet Nam today. One F105 fighter-bomber was downed in the sea by enemy guns, but the pilot was rescued by an Air Force amphibious plane.

This was the first time a U.S. plane has been downed on a mission over North Viet Nam since April 20, and the first Air Force plane to go down since April 17.

The downed pilot narrowly missed falling into Communist hands. A U.S. spokesman said a North Vietnamese patrol boat came within 1,000 yards of the pilot, but was neutralized by another F105 that swept in, its rockets blazing.

The downed F105 was one of 25 bombers and 40 supporting fighters that attacked the Thanh president, hotly denied a charge by a U.S. official that he had agreed to give Communists posts in his rebel government.

"It's a lie," Caamano told newsmen.

Caamano also denied a U.S. claim that Fidelio Despradel, identified as a prominent Communist, was one of his aides.

"I don't even know who Despradel is," Caamano declared.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said today the United States hopes to begin withdrawing some of its 20,000 troops from the Dominican Republic within a few days as contingents from other American nations move in.

Final decisions on the timing and number of withdrawals are yet to be made by President Johnson. Officials indicated they would be shaped in considerable degree by the speed and size of forces contributed by other countries to the peace-keeping operations of the Organization of American States.

The OAS voted early Thursday to set up an inter-American military force in the Dominican Republic. Two countries, Paraguay and Venezuela, announced they were ready to contribute military units. The Costa Rican security ministry said later Thursday that country would send 10 to 20 men from its police organization, since it has no regular army. Brazil and Argentina were reported considering contributing military units.

Record Low

WINDSOR LOCKS (AP) —Temperatures dipped to a chilling 37 degrees shortly after 5.30 a.m. today— a new record low for the date.

The previous low for May was 40, in 1917.

Debators Argue Weapons Issue

Manchester High School will send a debating team to the University of Connecticut tomorrow for the 16th annual High School Debate Tournament.

Speaking for the affirmative will be Alan MacDonald and Steven Penny; speaking for the negative, William Hunt and James MacPherson; going as an alternate, Kenneth Boenberger.

The topic that these and 78 other high school students will argue is: "Resolved that Nuclear Weapons Be Controlled by an International Organization."

Area Weather

WINDSOR LOCKS (AP)—Except for a chance of a few showers late today, fair and mild weather will continue in Connecticut into the weekend.

High pressure is providing fair weather over the eastern third of the nation except for an area of cloudiness and showers over the eastern portion of the Great Lakes region. This area of unsettled weather associated with a weak frontal zone is drifting slow southeastward. The Connecticut area will come under its influence during the day as cloudiness increases and scattered showers threaten by evening.

The main body of unsettled weather will pass off to the southeast, and chances of scattered showers working into southern New England are slight although sunshine today is restricted.

Temperatures this morning will rise rapidly from the chilly daybreak readings. Increasing southeasterly winds from the Atlantic will hold down afternoon temperatures, especially in southern and coastal sections.

With the area of cloudiness and precipitation moving up to the east, fair and mild weather will return Saturday as high pressure takes a stronger hold over the northeast.

WINDSOR LOCKS (AP)—Five day forecast:

Temperatures in Connecticut Saturday through Wednesday are expected to average 3 to 6 degrees above normal. Generally warm through most of the period, becoming cooler about mid week. Some normal high and low temperatures are Hartford 70 and 46, and New Haven 68 and 48.

Precipitation may total ¼ to ½ inch, occurring as showers about Sunday night and again around Tuesday.

Horse Destroyed To Save Nine On Cargo Plane

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I hated to do it, but it was either him or the nine of us on board."

This is how flight engineer George Ropcean explained Thursday the killing with a fire ax of a valuable New Zealand race horse aboard a cargo plane over the Pacific.

The horse, 6-year-old Vanderford, broke out of its stall Wednesday night on a Pacific Western Airlines plane flying 30 miles off California's coast.

The horse's flailing hoofs backed the flight engineer and Don McNutt, its trainer, against the plane's cockpit door. After a 30-minute struggle, the flight captain, Art Bell, gave the order to destroy the horse.

Ropcean said the only weapon available was the fire ax.

The plane, on a flight from New Zealand to Montreal, Canada, put down at San Francisco International Airport. Five other New Zealand horses on the cargo plane remained in their stalls.

Representatives of United International Stables of Toronto, Canada, who had purchased the horses in New Zealand, valued Vanderford at $70,000.

Law, Not Bureaucrat's Whim Dictates Granting of Visas

WASHINGTON (AP) — You don't have to be a Julie Andrews or a Rex Harrison — or even a Beatle — to win a special visa to entertain in the United States.

You may get one if you can stand on your forefinger on a spinning globe at the end of a swaying, 100-footpole. Unless, that is, the Labor Department can find some unemployed Yank who can do the same act.

But the Immigration and Naturalization Service — which somehow has found itself involved in an international dispute between the musicians' unions of Britain and the United States — emphatically points out that it's the law, and not some bureaucrat's personal taste, that decides who shall have the temporary visas.

"The impression seems to be getting around," said Mario T. Noto, associate commissioner of education, "that we are just deciding out-of-hand that certain British singers and musicians aren't good enough to perform here. And that isn't the case at all."

The key to the whole affair is a section of Immigration Act — Sec. 101 (A) (15) (H) (I and II) — that was aimed specifically at entertainers when it was enacted in 1952.

Designed to protect American performers from being bumped from the working rolls by foreigners, it provides that noncitizens may have temporary visas to work in the United States:

1. If they have "distinguished merit and ability" and plan "to perform temporary services of an exceptional nature requiring such merit or ability," or

2. If they can gain Labor Department clearance after the department ascertains that "unemployed persons capable of performing such service or labor cannot be found in this country."

Performers like Miss Andrews and Harrison and Sir Laurence Olivier, and now the Beatles have gained such reputations that immigration officials automatically approve petitions for their entry under the "merit and ability" provision.

But even the Beatles, when they first applied several years ago, couldn't prove "distinguished merit and ability," Noto recalled.

He said that "they got in because the Labor Department couldn't find any group here with that kind of haircut, that guitar style and that particular kind of rhythm."

"Now they've become a byword and a pattern setter, and teen-agers go crazy for them like no one else. And some other groups have gotten in under the merit clause — like Freddy and the Dreamers and the Dave Clarke Five."

And so, he added, did a circus performer named Unas, who stood on his finger on the globe.

The Labor Department cleared the way Thursday for a U.S. tour by a British group called Kenny Ball's Jazmen. Clearance came after an American hint that the Jazmen didn't appear to have sufficient distinguished merit and ability.

How are "distinguished merit and ability" determined?

It's up to the attorney general, Noto said. It is eventually delegated, however, to district Immigration Service directors.

When they are petitioned for temporary visas for entertainers, "they look at the record, strictly impersonally," Noto said.

A director will determine what kind of reputation the performer has. He reads clippings and reviews, and checks to see how much he will be paid. If some one's going to get $1,500 a week, he's probably got more to offer than a $100 performer. He checks to see if the guy's going to play Madison Square Garden or the Coliseum, or some honky-tonk on 54th Street. And then he decides."

At this point, if the decision goes against the entertainer, he may try the Labor Department route.

"But we try to be open minded about this," Noto said.

MFT President

Robert C. Vater was elected president of the Manchester Federation of Teachers yesterday. He is head of the music department at Manchester High School.

His present post, personnel policies committee chairman, will be taken over by Donald Brooks. Others elected to MFT posts are Michael Gates, vice president; William Paradis, executive secretary; Donna Lilley, recording secretary; Richard Rudolph, treasurer; Jay Stager, editor.

Also, Doris Johnson, social; John Garopollo, political action, and Walter Kilar, membership.

"After all, a great percentage of our population consists of teen-agers. The adults thought we were nuts when we went wild over Tommy Dorsey."

Police Uncover 3 Leads In Circus Clown's Murder

NEW YORK (AP) — Questioning of some 1,500 persons, including prostitutes, thieves and badger game operators, has given police three definite leads in the mystery slaying of famed circus clown Paul Jung.

"We are optimistic that we will eventually break the case," chief of detectives Philip J. Walsh told newsmen Thursday. He described the leads as "quite substantial."

Walsh said detectives are trying to track down a person who "is running" and also are attempting to contact a second person here who is not running. He declined to say even whether they are men or women.

The third lead, he said, concerned "physical evidence that will help in the solution."

Walsh again refused to describe the blunt instrument that was found near the bludgeoned body of Jung, chief clown of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus. He disclosed, however, that it was hotel property.

Jung, 64, who delighted circus fans for three decades, was found slain April 21 in his mid-town hotel room. His face and head were beaten, and his hands were tied behind his back.

Among those questioned, Walsh said, were 293 permanent and transient guests at the hotel, including longshoremen who stay there. This led in turn to the waterfront, where dockworkers and seafarers, who sometimes work for the circus, were quizzed.

Also questioned were 264 persons with the circus, from top executives to roustabouts.

The investigation thus far has taken detectives to 125 hotels and rooming houses in New York and to five major cities along the East Coast from Florida to New England.

A bell captain came upon Jung's body after he failed to appear at the circus, one block away at Madison Square Garden. Only 45 minutes before the discovery, an Easter week morning performance of the circus had begun.

About the time the body was discovered, an audience of more than 18,000 was roaring approval of a Jung production, "The Fire House." A substitute had taken Jung's place inside the "burning house."

Group Says Regional Board Answer to Area Problems

Citizens from all corners of the Capitol Region resolved last night to form a regional advisory committee to promote regional solutions to the common problems of their 30 area communities.

And they decided that the new committee would seek the formation of a regional council of elective town officials, and would work to arouse public interest in the need for regional action.

Legislation authorizing the formation of regional councils throughout the state already has been introduced in the General Assembly.

The advisory committee last night voted to delay action on a proposed statement of goals, prepared by a temporary executive committee, in order to give the full membership an opportunity to review the proposals.

Originally, the executive committee had planned to present the proposed goals for ratification last night. Some of its members — including Manchesters Mrs. Dorothy Jacobson — suggested that action be delayed in order that the final vote might be more representative of the full membership' thinking.

The group also heard progress reports from chairman of three existing regional groups—including the Northeast Refuse Disposal District, a four-town organization seeking to establish a joint refuse disposal facility for Manchester, South Windsor, Vernon and Bolton. The other two organizations represented were the Capitol Region Planning Agency and the three-town organization which plans to buy Talcott Mountain for a park site.

The regional advisory committee is a product of the Town Meeting for Tomorrow, a conference on metropolitan affairs last November sponsored by the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce. Delegates to the conference proposed the committee's formation, and authorized 26 of its members as a steering committee.

The steering committee in turn named 134 delegates from the capitol region to serve on the advisory committee, and named temporary committees to serve until the full membership met. Last night's was the first meeting of the full group.

The regional council, which the newly formed committee has dedicated itself to fostering, would be composed of the chief elective officials of towns that choose to join, or an alternate or member of the town council. Any town could join or withdraw by local ordinance.

According to the proposed legislation, the council would "promote cooperative arrangements and coordinate action among the members."

The members of the advisory committee agreed last night that, although the council would "have no power at all," it would offer town legislators an opportunity to see what common solutions they might seek to their problems. The chief elective officers would each be in a position to seek binding action from their own communities.

Whether the council should have "no power at all" was the subject of some debate, however.

West Hartford Rep. Nicholas Lynge, who has introduced a bill into the General Assembly giving the proposed councils the authority to oversee all efforts at regional cooperation, asserted last night that the bill sought to invest the council with some authority—if only to stir up discussion at the Assembly.

The problems of regional cooperation are "not a bleeding issue in the Legislature at this time," Rep. Lynge said.

In the bill, he said, giving the council "teeth" would force towns with any interest in regional cooperation to join.

Rep. Lynge said he would work for the amended bill as proposed by committee and approved by the House State Development Committee, although he does not fully support it in its "toothless" form.

Most of the regional group's executive committee seemed to agree with Atty. F. Timothy McNamara of East Hartford, also a state representative, that towns will fear any effort to overcome their "entrenched power" and vote down any bill that allots the regional councils substantial powers.

Green Globe Gets Wooding Award

"Green Globe" co-editors, Patricia Taylor and Joseph Cohen, stand by their faculty advisor, Mrs. Patricia Guay, as they receive top honors in the 28th annual School Press Project last night at the annual meeting of the Connecticut Tuberculosis and Health Association at the Yankee Silversmith Inn, Wallingford. The Grade 8 student newspaper at the Green School not only took the best newspaper award — the Francis A. Wooding Memorial Award and $25—but also won the award for the best article on smoking and health, also $25. This is the second year the Wooding Award has been presented by the tuberculosis association and the second year that the "Green Globe" has won it. The award commemorates Francis A. Wooding of Manchester, a CTHA information director who died in 1963. Mrs. M. Gilbert Burford of Middletown, a past CTHA president, makes the award.

Award at UConn Named for Call

In announcing a scholarship in the name of David M. Call of Manchester, the University of Connecticut continues a naval scholarship program — one honoring a top ranking UConn senior.

The scholarship, about $300, will go to a student from Call's Alma Mater, Manchester High School, later this spring. Similar scholarships honored UConn seniors from North Haven and Wilton.

Call, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur V. Call of 17 Leland Dr., is majoring in history.

The program in its second year, is designed to encourage outstanding high school students to enroll at UConn.

Budgets Set for Funds Financed by Own Sources

The board of directors, on Wednesday night, in addition to adopting budgets and setting the tax rates for the 1965-66 General Fund and Town Fire District Fund, also set the 1965-66 budgets for the Town Water Department, Town Sewer Department, Downtown Taxing District and Dog License Funds, all self-sustaining.

In all instances, the board appropriated the sums requested by the department heads and accepted by General Manager Richard Martin as his recommendations as well.

The Town Water Department Fund was set at $416,000 with $217,000 allocated for operating expenses, $60,000 for debt service and $130,000 for Capital Improvements.

The revenue is estimated as $386,749 from sale of water and various other services, plus a $29,251 surplus from current operations.

The appropriation for the current year was $378,470.

A sum of $263,360 has been appropriated for the 1965-66 operations of the Town Sewer Department, with $133,148 allocated to operating expenses, $97,835 to Debt Service, $10,000 to Capital Improvements and $22,377 to the Sewer Department's Reserve Fund.

The $263,360 revenue estimate will come from sewer service and sewer connection charges.

The appropriation to the Sewer Department for the current year was $266,560.

The 1965-66 appropriation for the Downtown Parking District is $24,542, the same amount appropriated for the current year.

All of the revenue will be raised from a six-mill levy against property within the boundaries of the District. The levy is the same as for the current year.

The estimated expenditures for 1965-66 are: $12,900 for leasing parking space, $1,627 for utilities, $1,200 for maintenance of buildings and grounds, $1,100 for service contracts, $1,000 for miscellaneous expenses, $500 for rentals, $410 for supplies, and $5,745 for transfer to the District Reserve Fund.

The Dog License Fund appropriation was set at $8,785, with $2,640 allocated for salaries and fees and $6,125 for other expenses.

An estimated revenue of $11,500 is divided, $7,000 from dog license registrations, $3,000 from special services and $1,500 from license refunds from the state.

The $2,735 difference between revenue and expenditures will be placed in the Dog License Reserve Fund and will be used for expansion of the Town Dog Pound.

The Dog License Fund had been allocated $8,465 for current operations.

Paul Maneggia Is Named Chief of Fire Department

Peter Masselini, chief of the Bolton Fire Department, was voted out of office at the annual meeting this week. He has served for 21 years.

Paul Maneggia, a long-time member of the department, was elected chief. The vote by secret ballot was 17 to 15.

Mortimer Harlow was re-elected assistant chief. The new chief will appoint his own officers, to be announced at the June meeting of the department.

Julius Birong sent a letter asking not to be re-elected as president of the firemen's association. He was elected honorary president. Norman Preuss was elected president, moving up from the vice presidency. James Rich was elected vice president.

William Clifford was re-elected secretary, and William Androlevich, treasurer.

Ronald Morra was elected to the board of trustees, replacing William Hand whose term expired. The department met Wednesday.

Subdivision Plans Okayed

The planning commission approved the preliminary plans of the Plano Heights subdivision on Birch Mt. and turned down a request for a radio tower on a lot on an unaccepted road on Box Mt.

The subdivision will contain 67 lots between Volpi Rd. and Birch Mt. Rd. A proposed subdivision road, to be known as Plano Rd., will run between the two existing roads.

Three interior roads are planned: Elizabeth Rd. will end permanently in a cul-de-sac; and Rocco and Anthony Rds. will end in cul-de-sacs at the property line for the time being, but can be extended when more land is developed.

Lawrence Plano appeared at the planning meeting, with his engineer. The Plano family is doing the developing, he said. With Lawrence in charge, he said that he intends to start developing the lots along the two existing roads first.

The area, right on top of Birch Mt., varies from 750 to 790 feet above sea level.

The request to build a radio tower on a parcel of land on an unaccepted road on Box Mt. was turned down because it was on an unaccepted road. The planning board did not feel that it would fit in with the best use of the land in terms of future growth.

The land is owned by the W. G. Glenney Co., but would be purchased by Henry Zacha, owner of the Message Center in Hartford, if its use for a radio tower were approved.

Zacha presently has a tower and shack for his radio answering service business on a nearby lot in Vernon, and he must move his tower.

The Vernon section of the area is residential, with an accepted road. The only access to the parcel of land in question, just over the Bolton line, is by way of Vernon.

Zacha was represented at the meeting last night by Atty. Philip Bayer, who argued that a hardship had been created, and that Bolton was condemning the land to "eternal damnation" because only the neighbors would ever develop the piece of land, if the commission turned down the request.

A zoning regulation states that no house can be built on a road not accepted by the town. There is a hardship clause, but the commission did not see a hardship, except a personal one for Zachs.

The commission also felt that if a radio tower was allowed, a residence could also be allowed. Furthermore, the area in Bolton is also zoned residential, and there are no provisions in zoning regulations for radio towers.

It was suggested that regulations for radio towers be adopted, however, because the town is high up, and other requests can be expected.

Members of the zoning commission took part in the discussion prior to the vote to deny the request by the planning commission. The vote was unanimous.

Shelf Established

Friends and relatives of Mrs. William Allison have established the Maxine L. Fish Shelf in the Bolton Public Library in memory of Mrs. Allison's mother.

The collection will feature books pertaining especially to home life. Subscriptions to the periodicals, Ideals and Vermont Life, were purchased, as well as the following books published by Ideals: Christmas Around the World, Easter Memory Lane, Friendship and The Ideal Scrapbook.

Other books added to the shelf to date are Ginsger, A Treasury of Golden Memories (poetry), Adamson, Grandmother's Household Hints: As Good Today as Yesterday, and Pearson, Country Flavor Cook Book.

Mrs. Allison is assistant librarian at the library.

Crusade Over Top

Bolton is listed among those towns going "over the top" in the Cancer Crusade which has just been completed. Final results show donations of $837.16. The house to house canvass brought in $711; the independent businesses, $142, and the coin boxes $4.16. The quota for this year was $465.

Mrs. Harold F. Laws, general chairman, has expressed her appreciation and thanks to the captains, volunteer workers, news media and to all members of the community for their assistance in making this crusade a success.

The results achieved by the town indicated a public awareness of the excellent work of the American Cancer Society, Mrs. Laws added.

Students Honored

One sophomore and six freshmen received certificates of merit attaining scores in the top decile of the National Educational Development Tests. They are Arthur W. Clarke, Dana Dimock, Philip G. Dooley, Brian A. Edgerton, Beth A. Gorton, Coralie E. Gram and Mary L. Klar.

Thirteen freshmen and five sophomores took the test. Results have been received and individual profiles are being interpreted to the students who will receive a handbook with their scores. Parents are asked to examine these and confer with the guidance counselor, Stanley suZel, if desired.

ZuZel has urged parents and students to make greater use of the guidance service in educational, vocational and social information.

Brochures are available for the parents of eight and ninth grade students who have taken the Differential Aptitude Tests. These can be interpreted at a parent-counselor conference in school.

An employment opportunity survey has been completed and students are being appraised of the results this week by homeroom teachers.

Homeowners or other employers interested in securing student workers for farm, lawn or housework are asked to make their desires known to the guidance office at the high school. Contact with available help will be established.

Paperback Fair Set

A paperback book fair will be held in the high school library May 12 and 13. The fair will also be available to parents attending the high school open house May 11.

Confirmation Class Meets

The confirmation class of United Methodist Church will meet tomorrow morning at 8:15 to go on a church-tour field trip.

The MYF will hold a parents' night tomorrow at 6:30. The evening will begin with a pot-luck supper. The film, "The Restless Sea," will be shown. The evening will end with progressive score games. John Rothwell Sr. will be master of ceremonies.

A children's day program will be held Sunday at 9:15 a.m. in the church sanctuary. The service will describe the work of the church school in religion to the home, the community and the world.

Parkade Assessment Reduced by Court

Judgments reducing the assessments of properties belonging to four associated town corporations—including the town's second largest taxpayer—have been handed down by Court of Common Pleas Judge Samuel Googel.

The reductions will result in smaller tax bills for the owners of the Manchester Parkade mall and buildings, and two other properties.

They will also result in a retroactive tax reduction going as far back as 1963—although this four firms will probably waive any rebate and seek credit on future tax bills for what it is owed them from previous overpayments.

Judge Googel's judgments affect properties of the First Hartford Realty Co., the second largest taxpayer; and Farmland Exchange, which between them own the Manchester Parkade and the Parkade Apartments.

And properties of Green Manor Construction Co. at 685 Parker St. and Minterburn Realty Co. at Pine and Pleasant Sts.

The reduction in the assessment of the Parkade buildings, owned by First Hartford, approved by Judge Googel, amounts to $475,750 on the Grand list of 1963 and $477,366 on the Grand List of 1964.

The total 1963 assessment was $3,523,753, and was reduced to 3,048,053. The 1964 assessment was $3,536,044 and was reduced to $3,058, 678.

The reduction in the assessment of the Parkade land, owned by Farmlands Exchange, was $219,560, on the Grand Lists of 1963 and 1964.

The assessment was increased from $529, 207 to $848,773 on the 1963 Grand List by the town's Board of Tax Review. The increase remained on the books for 1964 as well.

Judge Googel ruled against the increase, however, and restored the assessment to $529,207 that it had been before.

Green Manor Construction Co. won a reduction of $23,660 in the assessment on the buildings at 685 Parker St., headquarters for Green Manor and the various firms which share its top management.

The court action drops the assessment on the Grand Lists of 1962 through 1964 from $175,270 to $151,610.

The reduction granted Minterburn Realty totals $28,122, for an old Cheney Mill building at Pine and Pleasant St. that houses Manchester Model, a women's clothing manufacturer.

The cut decreases the assessment on the building from $208,330 to $180,208, on the Grand Lists of 1962 through 1964.

Taxes on all the properties will be computed on 72 per cent of the court-ordered valuation in the future, as is town practice. Taxes on any year's Grand List are collected the following fiscal year; the 1964 Grand List is the basis for the 42.6 mill tax rate that has been set for the 1965-66 fiscal period.

Town Council to Consider General Budget Tonight

—South Windsor news items this week should be directed to Anne Lyons, 36 Palmer Dr., telephone 644-8582.

The town council will meet tonight at 8 in the high school cafeteria to consider the general government budget. The budget, in the amount of $1,226,735.34, represents a cut of $58,064.70 from the original amount requested.

It was noted by Town Manager Terry Sprenkel that a decrease of more than one-half mill on the estimated grand list total was made in original departmental requests.

The budget as originally recommended for adoption was $775,637.36 — more than the amount appropriated for the 1964-65 fiscal year. However, the total budget amount represents $160,483 which is a "built-in" or prior committed funds.

These prior committed funds include bond principal, bond interest and fire apparatus equipment which were either approved by public referendum or council action prior to the beginning of the 1965-66 fiscal year.

The major increase of principal and interest payments represent first year payments on the new Eli Terry School and the Pleasant Valley School addition.

Indirect revenue to finance the 1965-66 general government budget is estimated at $159,100.27.

Cuts recommended by the town council from the original requested budget of the town manager include:

A $1,500 salary for the assessor; $500, town clerk salary, and $1,900 equipment for registrar of voters. This item was for purchase of one additional voting machine to be used in District 2.

Also, $8,169 for a Public Building Commission administrator. In making this request, Sprenkel said the position was recommended in order to coordinate the various town agencies and commissions and "to assume responsibility for making day to day decisions and implementing policy in the public commission."

Other cuts include: $400 from the commission's supplies and expenses and $400 from regular constables. Also, $4,500 personal services for highway department; $30,000 contractual services for highway department, and $10,000, contingency fund. A total of $1,000 was cut from the Spring Pond recreation budget.

The council increased the requested salary for the deputy tax collector from $5,795 to $6,960. This represents an increase of $200.

A new classification for supervisory personnel was included in the budget in the amount of $4,000. Persons select and trained for this classification will provide coverage of police department during when full-time officers are on vacation or sick leave.

A request for $1,800 was made for the salary of a recreational arts guide. It is recommended that this classification be instituted so that the town may retain the services of an older and more mature individual who would be assigned to limited police duty at Spring Pond.

According to Manager Sprenkel this would result in an economy to the town since this salary amount would represent less than that which would have to be paid for a full-time police officer.

April Building Permits

Building permits for April totaled 24 dwellings in the amount of $402,000, 7 garages in the amount of $9,650; 2 gas stations in the amount of $38,000.

A permit to the Dura-Foam manufacturing plant to be built on the Mascola property located off John Fitch Blvd. was granted for the amount of $60,000.

Eight additions and alterations totaling $10,125 were recorded for a total of $529,775.00. This represents revenue to the building department of $3,043.

This compares with the total of April, 1964, when 33 dwellings were granted permits for a total of $645,204. A total of nine less dwellings were given permits this April than the previous year.

Wedding

Bidwell - Wilsinski

The marriage of Miss Sandra Rose Wilsinski to Gerald Leonard Bidwell, both of Manchester, was solemnized last Saturday morning at St. Bridget's Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Wilsinski, 58 Homestead St. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bidwell, 33 Tanner St.

The Rev. Stanley T. Hastillo of St. Bridget's Church performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Raymond Murphy was the organist and soloist. Bouquets of mixed flowers were on the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of chantilly lace designed with sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves and a bouffant skirt extending to a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil of illusion was attached to a lace coronet. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses and stephanotis.

Miss Gail Calder of Manchester, a sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Deborah Calder and Miss Jeanette Bidwell, sisters of the bridegroom; and Miss Janice Dabate, all of Manchester. Miss Margaret Grigalis of Manchester was the junior bridesmaid.

Coast Guard Searching

Wealthy Heiress Gone From Honeymoon Yacht

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Coast Guard planned to widen its search today for Eileen Jeffers Yager, wealthy bride of a Los Angeles judge. She is believed to have fallen overboard Thursday from the couple's chartered honeymoon yacht.

Superior Court Judge Thomas C. Yager, 47, said his wife vanished while he was below deck.

"It was my recollection," he said, "that she was behind the wheel."

He called her disappearance "the most tragic thing that has ever happened to me."

MRS. THOMAS YAGER

Mrs. Yager, 61, heiress to a railroad fortune, married the jurist last Monday in the private chapel of James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Catholic archbishop of Los Angeles. Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight was best man.

It was the first marriage for each.

The couple was returning from Santa Catalina Island aboard the yacht "Cara Free" when Mrs. Yager presumably fell overboard. The 36-foot cabin cruiser, headed for Newport Beach was about midway in the 22-mile channel at the time.

Yager said he searched the area for an hour — circling repeatedly — and tried unsuccessfully to use the boat's radio. It wouldn't work.

Finally he returned to the mainland for help.

He told officials he didn't think his wife was wearing a life jacket.

A massive air and sea search was conducted until nightfall. Two cutters, two helicopters and two amphibian planes found nothing. Additional planes were assigned to today's expanded hunt, the Coast Guard said.

Mrs. Yager, the adopted daughter of the late William M. Jeffers, retired president of the Union Pacific Railroad, was his chief beneficiary when he died in 1963.

She made her home in a private cottage on the grounds of the Beaumont Huntington-Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena.

The Yagers had planned a lengthy honeymoon that was to include a trip to Hawaii and a visit to the East Coast.

The judge's clerk, Frances Church, said Yager had been an amateur sailor for about two years. But Joe Scovil, harbor master at Avalon, on Catalina Island, said he talked to the jurist Wednesday and "it was apparent he had never been out of anything about a boat, and shouldn't have been on one."

37 Brush Fires Fought in April

The month of April again seems to have proven that it is the busiest period for brush fires locally. The 37 brush or grass fires reported last month by the Town Fire Department were the highest for any month since April 1963, when 66 such blazes were recorded. April of last year takes third place in the span of time with 21 such fires reported.

Town firefighters last month answered 61 alarms, including seven box alarms. Of these, only one was a false alarm. Eight building fires and 44 vehicle fires were included in a total of 53 fires attended.

LWV Hears Tape Of Ward Address

The League of Women Voters will hold two unit meetings next week to hear British Broadcaster Barbara Ward's speech, "Economic Policy for A Free World," taped at the League of Women Voters National Convention in 1964.

Tuesday evening, the meeting will be held at 8 at the home of Mrs. Ralph Belluardo, 360 Ferguson Rd., and the Wednesday morning meeting is scheduled for 9:30 at the home of Mrs. Douglas Roberts Jr., 25 Raymond Rd. Mrs. Douglas Smith and Mrs. Roberts are chairmen for the discussion following the taped speech, which gives background information on the Foreign Aid Bill now before Congress.

Members are urged to bring a guest, and may attend either one of the unit meetings for this month.

THE HIGH SCHOOL WORLD

VOL. XXIX, No. 29 Friday, May 7 Compiled by Students of Manchester High School Mrs. Joyce Don, Faculty Advisor

Arlene LaPenta Will Go to Peru

Peru, the land of beautiful mountains, Inca ruins and bullfights. Does it sound like home? It will be for Arlene LaPenta, '66, who has been chosen to represent MHS as a Foreign Exchange Student in South America.

In the fall, Arlene was one of the 30 juniors who were interviewed and was chosen one of the two finalists. She remembers filling out endless forms in quadruplicate which were sent to the AFS office in New York. In February Arlene heard that she had been accepted. Now the most important task was left; a family had to be found for her. Last Saturday she heard the good news.

Arlene will leave the last week of June to spend ten weeks with the Montoya family in Limk. Her host father is the assistant manager of the Enrique Ferreyros Co. She will have three new sisters. Cunsuela, 16, Lucia, 13, Luz, 4 and a three-month old baby.

The teen-agers in Lima are not much different from those in the U.S. Arlene will have no trouble adjusting to new surroundings. They like to go to parties, movies, dancing, going for drives and watching TV in the evening after their homework is done. Since it is winter in Peru, Arlene will be going to school part of the time. During the July vacation her "mother" and "father" plan to take her to several towns on the northern coast.

There is much to do before she leaves. She must brush up on knowledge of her own country so that she will be prepared to answer questions about the United States on everything from the race problem to the price of loaf of bread. She must also take many pictures of her family and friends and town to bring with her.

As Arlene is a "member in good standing of a school which has an AFS student attending the current academic year," and has an excellent academic record, she fills perfectly the qualifications of an AFS student. During the present school year, Arlene has been taking an impressive collection of courses including Honors English, Honors U.S. History, Honors College Math IV, Honors Spanish III, Level One Chemistry and choir. Arlene is co-editor of Somanhis, literary editor of Aridian and representative to All-Connecticut Chorus, and she enjoys membership in National Honor Society, Junior Round Table and Student Council. Outside of school she is very artistic in the North Methodist Church, being in the choir, rhythm choir and church secretary of the area-wide Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Arlene is looking forward to staying with this warm and affectionate family, and most of all she will enjoy having sisters which she has always wanted since she has two younger brothers. While she is there, Arlene hopes that she will get to see the mountains and Inca ruins of Peru and a bullfight (her "father" is an enthusiastic bullfight and soccer fan).

Jayvees Win But Varsity Strikes Out

After winning their first outing 6-4 against the Wethersfield Jayvees, the Papooses proceeded to drop a 7-1 game to bring their second consecutive Bristol Eastern by the same score. Tom Mitney ('67) pitched four and one-third strong innings before being relieved by Doug Philp ('67), but the Eastern bats could not be silenced. The Jayvees have anxiously been pointing toward their Friday, May 7 away game with Hall.

Steven Cone

Wanted: One batter who hits consistently with men on base and can swing for the distance when no runners occupy the basepaths. Apply: Manchester High School, E. Middle Tpk., Manchester, Conn.

Again it was lack of defense that cost the MHS nine to its third consecutive defeat at the hands of Eastern Conference whitewashed the Indians, 3-0, last Friday in Bristol. The Indians have dented home plate only once in 27 innings and did not see the scoring bag as they suffered the loss. The Manchester pitchers had hurled well enough to win but have not received the runs to be victors.

In the initial frame Bristol tallied once as the second batter drove a triple to left field, and the next batter, pitcher Dave Cichon, stroked a sacrifice fly to deep center scoring his teammate to coast home. The second inning saw another run on the Lancer ledger as a walk, error, and a single accounted for the score. The last Bristol run was scored in the seventh on a walk, stolen base, and single. Dave Cichon in addition to retiring 15 Indians on strikeouts displayed his hitting prowess as he was the Lancer's leading batsman with two singles and two rbi's.

The Indians threatened to score twice in the ballgame. In the fifth with one out, catcher Willie Warren, '66, tripled to right center but died there, as the next two batters were handily retired. In the ninth Dave Brady, '66, hit a leadoff double to left center which fell as the two Bristol outfielders had difficulty in determining who would make the catch. He advanced to third on a wild pitch, but did not go farther as the Eastern hurler struck out the next two batters and got the last man on a fly ball.

Seven Pages Cast Shadows On Librarians

Seven library pages participated in the annual Shadow Library Program on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of last week. Sharon Gingras and Deborah Grondin, both '66, shadowed at the Whitton Library on Wednesday from 11-4, while Aviva Bruiner, Annabelle Dodge, Carol Edwards, and Pollyann Swanson, all '66, visited the Mary Cheney Library either on Thursday or Friday from 10-3.

The girls were kept busy in many different departments, some working with the children's librarian or book librarian, cataloguing books, or helping in the reference room. They all enjoyed a tour of the library and a conference with their librarian regarding the work involved in running a library. Most of the girls were particularly impressed by the amount of paper work which is necessary in a library. The staff of the Whitton or Mary Cheney, "What impressed me the most," remarked Carol Edwards, "was all the work that goes into running a library. The number of records and reports that are kept was really a surprise to me."

The librarians took their respective shadows out to lunch following which all were put to work slipping books with their cards, cataloguing new books, filing pictures, records, and magazines, or running errands.

All the girls thoroughly enjoyed their experiences and were grateful for the opportunity to meet and talk with the various department heads. Some of the girls became interested in working at the library as a result of their visit.

Chosen by the Scholastic Magazine, she has received a scholarship to study at the Louisville Art Center School. She is shown with her prize, Blue Ribbon award, "Still Life in Blue," done in crayon. Other awards which she has received include a Blue Ribbon from the Manchester Fine Arts Council, and awards for a charcoal drawing, two block prints and an opaque watercolor.

Netmen Show Good Spirit Against Tough Opponents

It appeared that Coach Hyde's "long uphill climb" with the MHS tennis team was making fast progress, as the Indian netmen won a 5-2 victory over Maloney High School at home on Friday, April 30. However, the moment of exultation was a fleeting one and the "uphill climb" slid backwards when the team bowed to E. O. Smith on Monday, May 3.

The story of the present season's record of one win and two losses begins on the fast courts of Hall High in West Hartford where the Manchester tennis team met a total defeat of 0-5 on Thursday, April 29. Tennis meets consist of three singles matches and two doubles matches with each match counting as one point. It was generally agreed by players with much more experience who prevented the MHS team from capturing a single point. Number one man for Manchester, Jim LeSure of '65, managed to bring Hall's number one man Stramienski within striking distance; however, victory was evaded as Stramienski's racket proved too hot to handle. It was Bill Carney, '65, with unfailing determination and hustle due to fresh memories of the rout from the previous day, who pulled out a narrow 7-5, 11-9 victory over Ken Carter of Maloney. This singles victory proved to be the decisive factor, when added to an easy Carney win and a LeSure-Carney doubles triumph, to tip the balance in favor of Manchester at 3-2.

E. O. Smith posed as another problem to the team for Jim LeSure as he blundered many shots and lost to Joel Taylor 2-6 and 6-8. The meet dragged on, but when E. O. Smith ended it with a win in a doubles match over Juris Pulzinskis '65 and Les Williamson '65, it was called leaving LeSure and Carney stranded at 14-4 in a doubles match.

So stands the MHS tennis team. It has had to rely on Jim and Bill for the bulk of its offensive. It is hoped however, that the return of senior Mark Alexander, who has been ill, will add new effectiveness to the squad in future meets.

Jack Katz, '66

The Art Department is proud to call your attention to the exhibit of paintings and drawings by Linda Anderson now on display in the library.

Members Inducted by National Honor Society

Seventy active members and inductees of the National Honor Society filed into Bailey Auditorium, accompanied by organ music on Monday evening, May 3rd, when the annual MHS Induction Ceremony was held. Fifty-four students were inducted, and 17 probationary juniors became full fledged members.

After the processional, the Reverend Philip J. Hussey of St. Bartholomew's Church, gave the invocation. MHS principal A. Raymond Rogers welcomed members, inductees, and guests. Following this the four officers of the Chapter spoke on the four qualifications for membership in the National Honor Society—scholarship, character, service, and leadership. President Paul A. Pilkonis gave his views on the meaning of scholarship and its importance to MHS. Elizabeth A. House, vice president, commented on the character of an individual, which, paradoxically, he determines, and which also determines him. Treasurer Jurie Pulzinski spoke on the public service as a prerequisite for membership. In her speech on leadership, Judith E. Frithsen, secretary, described a leader with faith.

The main event of the evening, the presentation of the candidates, was conducted by Betsy House, Juris Pulzinskis, and Judy Frithsen. Betsy introduced the class of '65, and they received their membership. The class of '66, introduced by Juris Pulzinskis, came next, and the class of '67, presented by Judy Frithsen, followed. Students inducted as sophomores are probationary members until the induction held the succeeding year. Paul Pilkonis presented the probationary juniors. Then, the entire group stood and recited the National Honor Society pledge.

The main speaker, Mr. F. Gardiner Bridge, director of student affairs, Trinity College, followed. He also gave several ideas concerning the meaning of scholarship, character, leadership, and service. He left a great many thoughts on which members and guests could reflect.

The singing of the Alma Mater and the recessional concluded the ceremony. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria. Paul Pilkonis, who acted as master of ceremonies, thanked the people involved in the arrangements of the induction, namely, the chairman of stage decorations; Sally Chapin, organist; Pam Bunnington, in charge of refreshments; Dale MacLean and Dick Bomberger, juniors, drivers; and Mr. George A. Potterton, Faculty Advisor.

The class of 1966 included Theodore Blakeslee, Sharon Borrello, Beverly Burke, Deborah Karp, Helene Klecolt, Alan MacDonald, Stephen Penny, Deborah Pond, Linda Trombly, Jane Wilson and Ernest Woollett.

Various Acts Accent Year's Talent Show

"The foolish man wishes to die in a good cause, the wise man to live well for one." Society is filled with good causes to which one can dedicate his life, but it is not possible for everyone to become Peace Corps volunteers or social workers, or even members of IOH. There are, however, ways in which each person can help, ways which are far from inconvenient or distasteful. One of them is to attend the Talent Show, to be held Friday and Saturday nights, May 14 and 15. This annual occasion is presented for the benefit of the Manchester Association for the Help of Retarded Children, and the Daniel Manchuck Fund.

This year's show includes 18 acts. If variety is any indication of quality, it promises to be a good one. Presentations include such things as compositions on the Irish bagpipes, and the Hawaiian guitar, a combo called the Surf Riders, big dancing, an organ solo, ballet, folksinging, and a double octet. On hand as emcees will be a veteran of last year's program, Jerry Cambria, '66, and Dave Hindle, '66. In the director's chair is Mr. Robert Vater of the music department, ably assisted by Mr. Higginbottom, who will conduct the band.

The show begins at eight o'clock each evening. Tickets are 75c, and may be obtained at the door or from anyone participating. Seventy-five cents from each of 2500 people will make a big difference.

Judy Naschke, '66

The High School World sends its papers to and receives papers from some 30 other high schools both in and out of state.

MHS Spring Concert

The thirty-third annual Spring Concert will be held tonight at 8 in Bailey Auditorium. Tickets are 25c with SAA and 50c without. They will be sold at the door.

Before and after the concert and during intermission a member of the MHS Parent Council will be stationed in the auditorium lobby to receive contributions to the MHS Scholarship Fund. Funds collected will be awarded at the end of the year to a graduating senior.

Mayor Mahoney Found Guilty at Mock Trial

Atty. Jerome Walsh, defending his client, Mayor Francis J. Mahoney, charged with speeding, questions Captain George P. McCaughey at the mock trial held at an assembly Tuesday, for all Juniors. Captain McCaughey, under questioning by Atty. Paradine (at the far right, facing audience), testified that the Mayor was traveling at 55-65 m.p.h. on an unlimited access highway. Judge Francis Monchun presided. From the 12th Circuit Court were Patricia Wade, clerk, and William Sullivan, recorder. William Colins (not shown) introduced the participants and explained that this trial would be like any seen in a real court any day. The student-jury's decision of "guilty" was received by the audience with a rafter-shaking cheer. (Herald photo by Oliers.)

Elaine Sibrinsz Harold Case

Legion of Honor

A quiet, striking brunette with a charming smile is this week's female Legionnaire, Elaine Sibrinsz. She always seems very composed and has been successful in high school both because of her capability and because of her sincerity.

When not engaged in her varied schedule of English IV, Modern Problems, Earth Science, Stenography II and Transcription, or in her extra-curricular activities of Library Pages, the National Honor Society and the Future Secretaries Association, she may be found knitting, baby sitting or reading. She attributes her success in winning an NOMA spelling award at least in part to her love of reading.

She likes folkmusic, Russian salad dressing, and senior privileges; and dislikes tiring advertisements and the colors red and yellow when used together. If Elaine had a million dollars, she would buy a boat and sail around the world.

"There have been many memorable moments in Elaine's life. Under what seems like a placid exterior is a lively personality and several unusual experiences. On her first flying expedition she sought a fifteen-pound snapping turtle! And her first day at MHS when an upperclassman tried to sell her on elevator ticket (which she says she would have bought, but she was out of money).

After graduation Elaine will work at the Aetna Life Insurance Co., and until such time as she is able to set off on her fishing trip around the world, she will be found reading up on the subject at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Case on Foxcroft Dr.

Barry Gooding, '66

Chances are pretty great that you'll never find this week's male legionnaire daydreaming. Judging from his activities, it's clear that he doesn't waste any part of any day. An individual of his scholarship was his election to the National Honor Society in his junior year.

Next year he intends to put his knowledge to work in the first of a four-year program which will earn him a degree in engineering at the University of Connecticut. For the person influencing his life most of all, Harry gives credit to his brother John, who graduated from college with a degree in civil engineering.

If you don't see him playing in intramurals, he'll probably be playing baseball, tennis, or pocket billiards with some of his friends. During the summer Harry works on a farm but always finds spare time for either fishing or sharpening his ice skates. Above all, isn't fishing the best way to relax and ice skating the greatest sport in the world? There is nothing that he would rather do than skate, and especially at the new rink on the UConn campus.

Among his likes, Harry will probably always list spaghetti and girls who play guitars; among his dislikes, egotism, poor losers, and mushrooms.

If he had a million dollars, Harry would buy an airplane and equipment and become a professional sky-diver. The remainder would be distributed among worthy causes, but not until he purchased the Ulrick basketball team for his lucky parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Case on Foxcroft Dr.

Senior Wins Scholarship

Jo Anne Reynolds, '65, has received a scholarship from the Gulf Oil Co. The selection of Jo Anne as a scholarship winner was based on her performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test taken in March of 1964.

In the fall of that year she was named a semifinalist and in September substantiated her test scores by an equivalent performance on a second examination. She was then selected as a Merit finalist.

The amount of the scholarships, which range from $400 to $600 is determined on the basis of financial need of the individual and the cost of the college university he wishes to attend. The award was made at a Gulf Oil dinner at the Public House in Sturbridge, Mass., on May 4.

The Gulf Oil Co. awards 10 scholarships each year for children of U.S. citizen employes of the corporation. Scholarships may be used in any college or university. This was the tenth annual year for the scholarship awards.

Business Pupils Visit Phoenix

The Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Hartford was the host on April 12 to 30 MHS girls who are taking a business course and who are interested in the workings of a large business company. The girls, mostly juniors and seniors, who were under the supervision of Miss Avis Kellog, teacher in the Business Department, were given a tour which took them from the Observation Tower on the thirteenth floor down to the cafeteria.

Mr. Robert Raphael of the Personnel Division of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. spoke to the girls in the cafeteria concerning instructions on interviewing and appl

Ageless Roberts Subdues Minnesota

300 Career Wins Goal For Hurler

NEW YORK (AP) — How long can Robin Roberts go on?

"I hear Satchel Paige found some snake oil in Venezuela he rubs on his arm to keep it young," Roberts said recently. "If I can find some, I just might pitch 'till I'm 56."

With 18 years to go, Roberts should have little difficulty reaching the 300-victory circle.

The 38-year-old Baltimore right-hander stepped up to still another plateau Thursday when he posted the 275th victory of his 18-year career by subduing the Minnesota Twins 5-1 on four hits.

It was Roberts' fourth victory without a loss this season, lowered his earned-run average to a sparkling 2.37 and revived his questioning about his chances of joining the select group of 14 pitchers who have won 300 or more major league games.

"Getting 20 more doesn't seem so big right now," Roberts said after he had handcuffed the Twins. "The way I'm going, it should come. Right now I'm not thinking too much about it. I imagine it will mean most after I'm through playing."

Then the modest pitcher who started out as a White Kid with Philadelphia and eventually came to the Orioles in 1962 after getting his release from the New York Yankees had an after-thought about his climb up the victory ladder past some of the game's greats.

"I noticed it most when I went past Bob Feller and Red Ruffing on the all-time winners list.

"Some of those names mean something."

Only one other game was played in the AL, the Los Angeles Angels running their winning streak to four as Bobby Knoop drove in four runs with a triple and a homer in a 5-4 victory over Kansas City. The New York-Cleveland game was rained out.

• • •

ORIOLES-TWINS—

Roberts allowed the Twins' only run on Harmon Killebrew's fourth - inning homer that matched one by the Orioles' Brooks Robinson in the second inning off Jim Kaat.

So, with the score tied Roberts took things in his own hands in the fifth inning, driving in the lead run with a single following a walk to Johnny Orsino and Jerry Adair's single.

ANGELS-A's—

Knoop tripled home two runs for the Angels in the second inning and then built the lead to 1 with a two-run homer in the fourth inning. The decisive run, however, came across in the sixth inning on Jim Pregosi's triple and a single by Bob Rodgers.

Rookie Rudy May got the victory for a 2-1 record but needed relief help from Aubrey Gatewood and Bob Lee. Lee surrendered a homer to Ed Charles in the eighth but then shut the door. Orlando Pena, now 0-4, took the loss.

The Yankees will televise 47 of their American League road games back to New York this season.

NO-HITTERS GET TOGETHER—Sandy Koufax met University of Cincinnati's Neil Rubenstein at Crosley Field with Sandy showing his fast ball grip. Both hail from Brooklyn, N. Y., and both have hurled no-hitters. Koufax tossed one at the Mets in 1962, and at the Giants in 1963. Recently, Rubenstein blanked the Hanover, Ind., college nine in seven innings. Koufax pitched for UC one year. Rubenstein, unlike Koufax however, wants to finish college before trying for a pro baseball career. (AP Photofax.)

Knicks Take Chance, Draft Bill Bradley

NEW YORK (AP)—"If we hadn't picked him and he decided to play and wound up with another club, I don't see how we could have kept our franchise."

This was how Ned Irish, president of the New York Knickerbockers, explained his territorial pick of Princeton's Bill Bradley even though the brilliant basketball player had assured him he was by-passing a professional cage career for a Rhodes scholarship and an eventual law practice.

"I felt we had to take the gamble," Irish said at the conclusion of the National Basketball Association's annual draft of college seniors Thursday.

"If we didn't, I know for a fact that several other clubs were eager to draft him. I realize the chances are almost nil that he'll ever turn pro but we could not afford to pass him up."

The Knicks acquired the rights to several outstanding college stars, notably Dave Stallworth of Wichita and Dick Van Arsdale of Indiana, but they gladly would have given up all 13 of their selections for one affirmative nod from the Princeton pride.

It has been reported that Irish had offered Bradley $100,000 to sign a Knickerbocker contract.

"I made him no definite offer," Irish said. "However, I made it plain to him there was no ceiling on what we were prepared to pay him."

Bradley was one of the three territorial picks. The other clubs who exercised their territorial rights were Detroit, which picked Bill Buntin of Michigan, and Los Angeles, which selected Gail Goodrich of UCLA.

Stallworth was New York's first-round choice. San Francisco, which finished last in the Western Division, had two first-round picks and chose Fred Hetzel of Davidson and Rick Barry of Miami, Fla.

NHL All-Star Selections Dominated by Three Teams

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens, Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings placed two men each on the National Hockey League's All-Star team announced today.

Defenseman Jacques Laperriere and right wing Claude Provost were chosen from the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens. Defenseman Pierre Pilote and left wing Bobby Hull were the Black Hawks named and rookie goalie Roger Crozier and center Norm Ullman were picked from Detroit.

The voting by sports writers and sportscasters in the six league cities was held in two halves, the first coming at mid-season and the second as the regular season ended.

Crozier, the youngster who helped the Red Wings to their first regular season championship in eight years, polled a unanimous 90 points in the second half balloting to beat out Montreal's Charlie Hodge, who led at mid-season. Other first-team choices all retained leads they had held in the mid-season voting.

Freak Accident Kills Jim Krebs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Los Angeles Laker center Jim Krebs was killed Thursday night in a freak accident near his suburban Woodland Hills home.

Krebs, 30, was helping a neighbor cut down a tree when, according to the coroner, the tree fell and crushed him.

The 6-foot-8, 230-pound star began his National Basketball Association career with the Lakers in 1957 in Minneapolis. He retired to accept a bank position after the 1964 season. He was a graduate of Southern Methodist University.

Jackson Gets Win, $100 For Homer Against Bucs

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a flower fancier in Boise, Idaho, who had better start pretty up his pansies and tidying up his tulips. Larry Jackson is ready to collect on an 11-year-old promise.

Jackson, who won 24 games for the Chicago Cubs last season, was trotting out the first home run in his 11-year major league career Thursday when he thought about his friend back home in Boise.

"My good friend in Boise who promised me a $100 present if I ever hit a homer finally will have to pay off," Jackson mused after his two-run shot helped the Cubs to a 8-5 victory over Pittsburgh.

"He raises flowers, so I might take it out in a hundred bucs worth of roses."

The homer was one of three hits Jackson collected for a perfect day at the plate. It came off Pirate starter Don Cardwell.

"When I hit that Cardwell pitch, I knew it was gone," Jackson said. "It was quite a thrill."

In the only other National League game Thursday, Los Angeles won its sixth game in the last seven, beating Cincinnati 4-3.

CUBS-PIRATES—

Jackson, who evened his record at 2-2, yielded three home runs, two to Willie Stargell and one to Jim Pagliaroni. When he walked Bill Virdon with two out in the ninth, Bob Kennedy, the Cubs' head coach, brought in Ted Abernathy. The Pirates loaded the bases before Abernathy retired Manny Mota to end it.

DODGERS-REDS—

The Dodgers ran their string to four victories in five games since losing slugging left fielder Tommy Davis with a broken ankle.

Derrell Griffith called up from Spokane two days ago to replace the injured Davis, homered breaking a 2-2 tie in the fourth and Ron Fairly homered in the fifth. Frank Robinson connected for the Reds.

Johnny Podres started for the Dodgers and got credit for his second victory but needed help from Bob Miller when his arm stiffened in the sixth.

Looking Around the Corners

Johnson First Choice For Celtics in Draft

NEW YORK (AP)—The world champion Boston Celtics are looking around the corners more carefully since Tommy Heinsohn may retire before another season opens. The National Basketball Association draft proves it.

General manager-coach-part owner Red Auerbach grabbed 6-foot-8 Offis Johnson from the University of Wake Forest with the first round Thursday.

After that it was 6-8 Ronnie Retzlaff of Wake Forest, 6-8 All-New England Toby Kimball of Connecticut, 6-5 Little All-America Richie Tarrant of St. Michael's, 6-5 Don Davidson of Davidson, 6-10 Hack Tison of Duke and 6-8 George Deehan of Senior Rhyne.

"I'd say we did pretty well considering that we started with the 11th choice," said Auerbach who has led his team to seven straight NBA crowns, eight in the last nine years.

"I was pleasantly surprised to get Johnson," Red added. "I never thought we had a chance to get him."

The Celtics are especially conscious of building reserve strength at forward. Heinsohn likely will retire after nine years. Willie Naulls is considering quitting. Auerbach doesn't like to use 6-5 handyman John Havlicek as a starting forward opposite Tom Sanders because he's too valuable as a "sixth man" and rookie Mel Counts hasn't proved he can step into the spot.

"Johnson was a great rebounder in college and not a bad shooter," Auerbach said. "Kimball is also a good rebounder. They both (as does Walts) have to learn the moves going to forwards and shooting from the corners as they played the pivot. It's up to them."

"I'm really shocked," Johnson said. "I never thought it would be the Celtics. I have confidence that I can make the team even though they are the world champs."

Auerbach said Watts approached the Celtics before the draft and said he was very eager to have a chance to perform for the team.

Kimball, 22, a 230-pounder from Sudbury, Mass., was the nation's leading major college rebounder last season.

"I'm a little surprised but very happy," Kimball said. "Living only 40 miles from Boston, I've been a Celtics follower from way back. I sure would like to make the team."

UConn Star Third Celtic Pick

Kimball Leads State Trio Into Pro Basketball Ranks

STORRS (AP)—"I sure would like to make the team," commented a happy Toby Kimball after the University of Connecticut basketball star learned he had been drafted by the world champion Boston Celtics.

"The Celtics are the greatest without a doubt," the 6-foot-8 Kimball, whose home is in Sudbury, Mass., just 40 miles from Boston.

Boston claimed Kimball, the nation's top college rebounder last season, as its number three choice in the National Basketball Association draft Thursday.

Kimball was one of three Connecticut college players picked in the draft. Chosen in supplementary rounds were Larry Rafferty, captain of the 1963-64 Fairfield University team, and Bob Trupin, Yale's star.

Philadelphia picked Rafferty. The New York Knickerbockers selected Trupin.

A fourth Connecticut player, Dave Hicks, was a Baltimore supplementary choice. Hicks, a former Wilbur Cross high school player, did not play college ball. He did play for the Harlem Globetrotters.

Fred Shabel, Kimball's coach at Uconn, said Big Toby could not have been drafted by a better organization than Boston.

But, Shabel said, "It will make the challenge of making the NBA more difficult. It's tough enough to make it no matter where you go."

Shabel said Kimball has the tools to play big-time basketball and Boston Coach Red Auerbach is just the man to put them to the best use.

"Toby has good speed. He's as strong as any boy his size and he can rebound with anyone," Shabel said.

Basketball Marathon Game

Several times in recent weeks phone callers have asked the same question: What is the record for the longest basketball marathon game? An Associated Press dispatch out of Dover, N. H., says the record for basketball playing of 36 hours, nine minutes, non-stop, was set by 10 Dover High School students. With five players on each side, the two teams scored 4,107 points in a spree that started at 9:30 last Monday morning and continued until 9:39 Wednesday morning. The previous high was 27½ hours set by two teams of Marines from Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Off the Cuff

Young Terry Bongiovanni of Platt High in Meriden is a persistent chap. The sophomore righthanded pitcher just missed a no-hitter against Manchester High last week, being touched for a ninth inning, two-out single by Mark Pelletier. That was all the hit output the Indians collected in a 4-1 loss. Bongiovanni came back Tuesday with a gem, getting his no-hitter against Conrad High . . . Notes and Quotes

"Ralph Terry will be a winning pitcher," Til Pendergast, veteran New York baseball writer told me in Florida. "I never thought anything was wrong with Terry and that big ball park in Cleveland will help," he added. Terry has been doing great and he's one of the reasons Manchester's Tom Kelley is toiling in the minors, not watching for a chance to get back in the American League with the Indians . . . Bill Spiezio, the rookie hitting sensation with the St. Louis Cards in the Grapefruit League, has been farmed out to the minors where he will be given a chance to play every day. Liston-Clay Fight Off at Boston Garden

Bout Likely On Set Date At New Site

BOSTON (AP)—Counsel for promoters of the Cassius Clay - Sonny Liston heavyweight championship fight announced in court today the fight will not be held in Boston as scheduled May 25.

Attorney Paul T. Smith, counsel for Inter-Continental Promotions Inc., told Superior Court Judge Felix Forte, "this case has now become moot. The fight is not going to be held in Boston."

Smith's announcement came at the opening of a hearing on Suffolk County Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne's request for an injunction to bar the fight.

There was no indication where the fight will be held.

Prior to the start of the hearing counsel for both sides had conferred at length in the judge's chambers.

The hearing no sooner opened than John Cronin, counsel for Boston promoter Sam Silverman asked for a five-minute recess to confer with Smith.

A spokesman for the promoters said Thursday night "we'll hold this heavyweight title fight May 25 if we have to hold it on a barge in a Florida swamp."

Byrne had contended that Inter - Continental, based at Chester, Pa., was the actual promoter of the fight, not Silverman, who operates in Boston.

Byrne said that if Inter-Continental was the promoter state law requires that the firm be licensed in Massachusetts.

After two days of court hearings spokesmen for Inter-Continental had said that if the issue were not resolved today in their favor they would move the fight.

The fight originally was scheduled for last November 16, but was postponed when Clay underwent emergency hernia surgery.

Fred Brooks, head of Sportsvision which handles the closed circuit television, had said that moving the fight from the projecting the $4.5 million that closed circuit TV will bring in.

"We'll lose some money switching the site but once the paper work is ironed out, we'd have no trouble."

Although no one would publicly name possible alternate sites, the cities named in rumors included Cleveland, Houston and Las Vegas.

One night spokesman said Boston's chance to host the fight will be "Friday or never." He continued: "The fight is being forced out of Boston by one man. We don't know what direction he'll strike from next but apparently as we clear one hurdle he throws up another. It's a ridiculous delaying action. There isn't that much time left."

Harold Conrad of Intercontinental emphasized the fight would be held May 25 regardless of developments, while declining to name alternate site possibilities.

"The fight definitely will be held on May 25. If anybody thinks this fight is in the balance in the court proceedings here they're wrong. It may be in the balance in Boston but not as to the date."

A process server did appear at the Clay training camp in the Western Massachusetts city of Chicopee Thursday night but Clay had left after dinner. His manager, Angelo Dundee, said he did not know where Clay had gone.

"If the champ is served he will go to Boston," said Dundee.

Victory Escapes Two Indian Clubs

Golf and tennis teams representing Manchester High came away losers yesterday afternoon in CCIL play. The golfers lost a pair, to Maloney High of Meriden and Hall High of West Hartford while the racquet men were blanked by Platt High of Meriden, 5-0.

The double golf setback marked the fourth straight loss in as many matches and it was the first time in 12 years that a Manchester High squad has lost as many as four matches in any one season.

Conference Games Up for Schoolboys

With the high school baseball season at the halfway mark, pennant races are fitting into shape. Four area teams take on conference opponents this afternoon in games that loom large in the standings. Two other teams active today, Cheney Tech, and Bolton High, play independent foes.

Yet to lose, East Catholic High (7-0) is home against Hartford County Conference foe Pulaski High of New Britain. The Eagles won their first HCC game last Tuesday, 6-0, over South Catholic on a shutout by lefty Frank Kinel. Ray LaGace is expected to get the nod from Coach Don Burns this afternoon.

Rockville (5-2) has bounced back from two defeats with as many victories in a row. The Rams are now 4-2 in Central Valley Conference play. Coach Ron Kozuch has relied on the arm of Jim Martello and the hitting of Larry Silver and Al Putz.

Cheney Tech (0-2) takes to the road in search of a victory at Lebanon and Lyman Memorial High. Coach Tony DeAngona's club has met defeat in both outings so far and the Ranger bats have been unusually silent. Andy Tomko is expected to pitch. Lyman will be trying to shake a loss Wednesday to Coventry.

North Central Conference competition finds Ellington High (3-2) hosting East Windsor High and Suffield High traveling to South Windsor (2-1). The Knights will be trying to return to winning ways after Suffield beat them Tuesday in Suffield. Coach Bob Healy is expected to go with Bob Gurnon, who has fashioned a potent hitter and one-hitter this season.

Bobcats of Charlie Sharos must contend with Suffield, the early season pick for honors in the conference. The Bobcats come off a victory over East Windsor on Jim Baker's one-hitter.

Bolton (2-2) entertains East Granby High.

Seven Run Third Inning Paces Coventry Victory

Every coach likes a big inning and Coach John Kelley of Coventry High's successful squad saw his club tally seven runs in a third inning outburst that was necessary to carry it to a 10-5 decision over Tonkin High in a Charter Oak Conference meeting.

After gaining a 9-3 lead after three, Coventry had to hold on to gain its sixth victory in eight meetings.

Five of Coventry's eight hits were produced in the third inning with the big blow being a two-run double by Ron Hudak and a two-run single by Rick Young, who went the distance on the mound.

Tom Kolodziej homered for the winners and Bob McCullough of Rocky Hill matched the feat.

Hospital Wing Featured At Sunday's Open House

The new wing at Rockville General Hospital will be featured Sunday during an open house from 2 to 6 p.m. The event is being held in conjunction with National Hospital Week.

The wing, opened last year, is a three-story structure and has been equipped with the latest technical devices and furnishings, according to Lebbeus F. Bissell, president of the hospital's board of trustees.

The wing was designed by professional hospital architects working with the medical staff and trustees. The cost was more than $800,000.

The wing contains many special service departments, including X-ray, laboratory, physical therapy, a new accident room complete with observation room, and a reception area. The building also accomodates 16 patient beds.

In the newly renovated and expanded operating suite, special suites, there is an electronic cardiac monitoring device which is used for monitoring heart beats during surgical operations.

Bicycle Fall Brings Suit Against Town

The Town of Manchester is being sued for $11,000 by Frank Sanzo Sr. of 9 Lilley St. on behalf of himself and his minor son, Frank Jr., in an action, stemming from a fall from a bicycle on May 10, 1964, on Edgerton St., near Lodge Dr.

In a writ filed today in the town clerk's office, Mr. Sanzo claims that his son, while riding his bicycle on Edgerton St., swerved to avoid a pothole in the road and, in so doing, the front wheel of his bicycle dropped into another pothole, causing the boy to lose control of the vehicle and to fall to the pavement.

He lists resulting injuries to the boy's face, mouth, teeth, elbows and shoulders, and is seeking $10,000 damages for the boy and $1,000 for himself, for medical, surgical and dental care, X rays, medicines and supplies.

He charges the town with improper care and maintenance of the street.

The civil suit is returnable in June in Tolland County Court of Common Pleas, Rockville.

Cong Targets Struck Again

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—More than 160 U.S. Air Force and Navy planes staged five raids against military targets and road communications in North Viet Nam today, raining more than 230 tons of bombs against a variety of targets.

The largest raid was carried out by 46 U.S. Navy A4 Skyhawks from the carriers Coral Sea and Midway. The planes dropped about 100 tons of bombs on the Vinh military air field, 160 miles south of Hanoi.

This was the second strike against an airfield in the three-month air war against the Communist north. Earlier Vietnamese air force Skyraiders hit the air base at Dong Hoi air field near the frontier. A spokesman did not say whether any Communist aircraft were on the ground.

A U.S. Marine was killed when Viet Cong guerrillas fired on a group of leathernecks touring hamlets just outside Da Nang air base, handing out chewing gum, candy and school books.

In two separate incidents in central Viet Nam, Communist land mines killed a U.S. Army Special Forces man and seriously wounded two other American soldiers.

A Marine spokesman said an eight-man group headed by a lieutenant colonel went to the Le My village complex with five Vietnamese, including the regional and village chiefs and interpreters.

The Marines had no trouble in the first hamlet, but as they entered the second, they drew heavy fire from a house, where

Cong Hold American Searching for Brother

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Donald Dawson, an American civilian searching the jungles for his lost pilot brother, is a prisoner of the Viet Cong deep in Communist territory, according to a message reaching Saigon.

Dawson, 25, went into the jungles about two weeks ago with a Vietnamese girl interpreter after receiving word that the body of his brother, U.S. Army Lt. Daniel L. Dawson, 27, had been found. Daniel was shot down in a spotter plane several months ago and has never been heard from.

Donald vowed to search for him until he found him, dead or alive.

Three weeks ago Donald, a merchant marine officer from Costa Mesa, Calif., received word that the remains of his brother had been found deep in Viet Cong territory.

A Roman Catholic priest friend, a Father Doan, then told Dawson he had arranged for him to meet the Communists to discuss returning the brother's body.

Dawson told The Associated Press then:

"It sounds pretty dangerous and I don't know what to think. But I'm here to get Dan back and I'm not going to leave until I succeed."

Dawson said the priest had agreed to go with him part of the way to the rendezvous in the jungle. The priest had told the Viet Cong insisted Dawson bring

Indians See Red Over Liquor Ad

NEW YORK (AP)—Some irate American Indian organizations went on the warpath against the Calvert Distillers Co. Calvert retreated. The only casualty was an ad.

Protests from the Indian organizations led Calvert to announce Friday cancellation of a nationwide advertising campaign depicting a warbonneted Sioux brave raising a glass of whisky.

The caption on most of the advertisements read: "If the Sioux had had soft whisky, they never would have called it firewater. The Indians didn't call whisky firewater for nothing. Why do you think they were yelping all the time? But soft whisky isn't for old squaws."

A spokesman for Calvert said the cancellation had cost about $30,000 for scrapping printing plates and mats bearing the portrait, plus "hidden costs."

Large numbers of advertising cards and posters depicting the tippling Sioux have been removed from the New York subway cars and stations, the Transit Authority said.

William Byler, president of the Association on American Indian Affairs, had lodged a protest in telegrams to Calvert, the New York City Commission on Human Rights, the advertising agency involved and many of the outlets for the advertisement.

Byler said: "These ads further mock what was and is today a profound human tragedy begun generations ago through the use of whisky. Derogatory advertisements such as these impede the efforts of the most impoverished groups of Americans to help themselves build a better life."

In a telegram signed by its vice president, Arthur F. Murphy, Calvert said: "Nowhere at any time have we attempted to disparage any group. We can only say that we are sorry."

The association said it represented 40,000 Sioux in North and South Dakota, as well as 540,000 other Indian citizens.

Calvert also had received protests from the National Congress of American Indians in Washington; the Tribal Indian Land Rights Association of Tulelk, Calif.; and Kato Valandra, chairman of the United Sioux Tribes of South Dakota of Rosebud, S.D.

White Poodle Is 'Top Dog' Around Justice Department

WASHINGTON (AP) A poodle named "Belton's White Knight" — or "King," if you prefer — has succeeded Robert F. Kennedy's Brumin as top dog at the Justice Department.

The 8-year-old poodle — still bearing claw marks from an ill-fated venture into a bear's cage at the zoo — was led into the office of Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach Friday by Katzenbach's wife, Lydia.

Katzenbach does not bring the dog to work with him, as Kennedy often did Brumin — and still does as a New York senator. A small controversy arose once when it was pointed out that government regulations ban all but Seeing-Eye dogs from government buildings.

Kennedy settled that by continuing to bring Brumin, a huge, black Newfoundland, to work in his official limousine. There was nobody to say him nay, for he was after all, attorney general.

King Katzenbach, who has tussled with Brumin in days past, was laid up for two days recently after getting caught in the bars of the bear's cage at the National Zoo. His goal: An inviting chunk of meat.

It was the bear's property, however, and the bear bested Belton's White Knight for a loop.

A friendly sort who stakes hands on command and recognizes the attorney general of the United States by the name "Daddy," King has a stand-in as Justice Department canine. She is "Jete" — short for "Jete d'Eau" — a black female standard poodle.

Apparently Katzenbach and his family will have little difficulty smuggling King or Jete or perhaps both — into the austere Department of Justice.

Two husky government guards — who later acknowledged that they are quite familiar with regulations — were standing outside Katzenbach's office on other business when Mrs. Katzenbach showed up.

They tipped their caps — and one opened the door for her — without comment.

Fair Exhibitors Blame Troubles On Price Boost

NEW YORK (AP) — International exhibitors at the New York World's Fair are having difficulty protecting their image, and they blame it on a boost in fair admission prices.

"How can a foreign exhibitor project an image when there is only a handful of people to project it to?" asked Col. Nils-Magnus von Arbin, commissioner general of the Swedish Pavilion.

"If the fair admission prices were lowered as we have asked," he said, "millions of more people would come to the fair and give us the chance to show them what we came here to show them."

Von Arbin is chairman of the International Exhibitors Association which earlier this week asked fair President Robert Moses to drop the admission prices from $2.50 to $2 for adults during the daytime and to $1 in the evening.

Moses said no. He raised the price in the hope of helping to make up the fair's $17 million deficit of last year.

The fair admission price, which Moses raised from $1.50 last season's $2, have been blamed in some quarters for a drop in attendance under last year when the fair fell 13 million short of its expected total attendance of 40 million.

"If the admissions were lowered, millions of residents of the area would be able to come three and four and five times to see the fair," Von Arbin said.

"Instead, if they come at all now, they come once and they have to run from one pavilion to the other to get into as many as they can in one day.

"So, you find people running through a foreign pavilion so fast that the people we brought here from our homelands can't even hold them long enough to explain the exhibit."

Tiger in Gas O.K. But Not Boa in Dash

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A tiger in your tank may give added power, but a snake under your dashboard — especially a seven foot boa constrictor—presents a major mechanical problem.

Four mechanics had to do over three hours of such charming Friday when a Boston man drove into Thibault Bros. garage with a boa entangled in wires beneath the dash.

The driver said he was transporting the snake for a friend and said it had gotten loose and slithered under the dash.

The garagemen tried to lure it out with heat lamps, but the reluctant reptile snuggled around the wires as though they were jungle vines.

Finally they pried off the dashboard. The driver pulled out his snake, stuffed it back into its container and drove off.

5-Man Board Installed As Dominican Leaders

Rebels Asked To Aid Unit Restore Peace

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A five-man military-civilian ruling body installed in a surprise move by the Dominican's military junta has called on Col. Francisco Caamano's leftist rebels to help restore peace and national unity.

Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrerra Friday night was named president of the new group, which called itself a "government of national reconstruction." Imbert described Caamano as "a good personal friend" with whom he was ready to talk at any time.

Caamano, on the other hand, claims that his forces speak for the Dominican Republic as its legitimate government. He has said that his rebels will accept no coalition government formula involving the military junta.

"We could not do this, not after defending the constitution at the cost of nearly a thousand lives," Caamano said.

Other members of the new junta are Julio Postigo, 61, a lawyer, book publisher and mayor of Santo Domingo in the regime of exiled ex-President Juan Bosch; Carlos Grisolia Polonoy, 51, a provincial governor under the deposed government of Donald Reid Cabral; Alejandro Zeller Coco, 41, an engineer; and Col. Pedro B. Benoit, air force officer and holdover from the three-man junta which resigned Friday.

Imbert, 44, did not explain why the military junta resigned, but said the new group was appointed and sworn in by Supreme Court President Julio Aculio.

Called "Tony," Imbert is one of two survivors of the band of killers who ambushed and killed Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo in 1961. His stature as a result of the Trujillo assassination is regarded as significant in the loyalist move to broaden the area for a possible agreement with the rebels.

Imbert, a longtime friend of Bosch, was instrumental in Bosch's overthrow. He ascribed to the complaint of Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin and other military chiefs that Bosch had surrounded himself with a Communist-dominated staff.

Reds Parade For V-E Day

BERLIN (AP)—Thousands of East German and Soviet troops joined forces for the first time to stage a joint military parade today through downtown East Berlin's Marx-Engels Square.

The five-mile-long parade, held in conjunction with celebrations commemorating the 20th anniversary of the defeat of the Nazis, displayed no new pieces of military hardware.

Top ranking world Communist leaders on hand to review the march included Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Polish Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, East German Communist party leader Walter Ulbricht plus Red army Marshals Vassily Chuikov and Vassily Sokolovsky, both of whom participated in the World War II capture of Berlin.

The parade, featuring jack-booted, goose-stepping East German soldiers led by a 250-pound drum major and Russian soldiers riding in trucks and tanks, started with a 21-gun salute fired by howitzers.

While the parade was in progress, U.S. Army helicopters flew high over West Berlin territory, sufficiently near the border to observe the proceedings.

The Western Allies are expected to lodge a protest with the Soviets against the parade. The United States, Britain and France consider all of Berlin, East and West, an occupied city and therefore out of bounds for East German troops.

Kosygin, who shared the spotlight with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz of Poland and Deputy Premier Li Teng-yu of Communist China, used the occasion Friday to blast the United States for its military activities in Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic.

"They (the United States) want to make capital out of the difficulties which have arisen in the world Socialist (Communist) movement and it would be wrong to underestimate these devious plans," Kosygin said.

He apparently was referring to the ideological differences between the Soviet Union and Communist China. He rejected

Reed Quits Job With GOP Group

GREENWICH (AP) — Gordon W. Reed has resigned as chairman of the state Republican Finance Committee in protest over the party's disavowal of the Connecticut Republican Citizens Committee.

Reed, who is chairman of the CRCC, called the GOP State Central Committee's recent action "a stunning disservice to the party."

The wealthy Greenwich resident was closely identified with the pro-Goldwater wing of the Connecticut GOP.

He told Republican State chairman A. Searle Pinney Friday that he was resigning from the finance committee chairmanship because "I can not condone your action in driving

Wilkins Jury Deadlocked, State Will Try Case Again

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers says a Ku Klux Klansman whose murder trial ended in a deadlocked jury will be tried again.

And, he said, "when people realize that this is not going to be swept under the rug as just another civil rights incident, that this is a murder trial, we may get a conviction next time."

Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr. 21, of Fairfield, Ala., was free under bonds totaling $60,000 after a jury trying him in State Court for the killing of a white woman civil rights demonstrator failed Friday to agree on a verdict.

Ten of the 12 male jurors had voted for conviction. The other two held out for acquittal. Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard ordered a mistrial 24 hours and 20 minutes after he had put the life of Wilkins in the jury's hands.

The first-degree murder charge could have brought the death penalty.

Flowers, the state's chief legal officer, said he expects the district attorney of Dallas County to call a grand jury in the fall term of court in September.

Two other Klan members also charged with slaying Viola Liuzzo of Detroit, Mich., are awaiting trial. The charges against them also have been carried over to the September term. Those defendants are Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Besemer, Ala.

The three Klansmen also are under federal indictment on civil rights charges. They are free on $50,000 bond each on the federal indictments and $10,000 on the third-degree murder counts in State Court. No trial date has been set on the federal charges.

Flowers expressed belief that even though the jury went home without a verdict in Wilkins' trial, it may serve as a deterrent to Klan members bent on racial violence.

"They know now that there was one FBI undercover agent in their ranks," the attorney general continued, "and there may be others. They're really going to have to reconnoiter and take inventory. They won't know who might be an FBI informer and who isn't."

He referred to the disclosure that the state's key witness against the chain-smoking Wilkins was an admitted FBI plant inside the Klan.

The witness, Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., identified Wilkins as the one whose bullets killed the Detroit mother of five children as she shuttled civil rights marchers back to Selma the night of March 25 following the "freedom march" to Montgomery. She had taken part in the march herself.

Rowe said he, Wilkins, Thomas and Eaton were in the car from which the volley of pistol shots was fired almost at point-blank range. But although he, too, had a gun, he said he didn't use it.

The two jurors who insisted on acquittal were Dan Lee, a Fort Deposit mechanic, and Billy R. Cheatham, office manager for a large lumber fabricator. Cheatham also lives at Fort Deposit.

Both men disavowed any affiliation with the Klan, but said they had joined the pro-segregation White Citizens Council. Cheatham said he is still a member; Lee, an ex-member.

"I didn't accept his (Rowe's) testimony," explained Cheatham, "not when he swore before God and broke his oath." He referred to the KKK oath of secrecy administered to the FBI informer when he became a member of the hooded order.

Lee agreed with Cheatham.

In the Legislature

Pensions at Age 55 Asked for Lawmakers

HARTFORD (AP)—A liberalized version of a controversial bill to provide pensions for state legislators has been recommended by the Public Personnel Committee.

The bill, which would provide $100 a month pensions for legislators at age 55 instead of 60 as recommended by the Rules Committee, came as a surprise when it was unearthed Friday.

The Rules Committee bill was made public several weeks ago.

Both bills have the same provisions, differing only in the age the legislator must be to receive the pension. They will go to the Appropriations Committee, which must pass on all matters requiring funds.

Under both bills, legislators must have eight years service and must not be receiving other state pensions to qualify. Starting in 1967, members of the General Assembly will contribute five per cent of their salary toward the pension fund.

Therefore, legislators serving this year could collect pensions without contributing to the fund if they do not return in 1967.

In the current General Assembly there are 62 members who could qualify in 1967 if the age limit is set at 60. If it were 55, 35 members would meet the requirements in 1967.

Fluorides

HARTFORD (AP) —Legislative attempts to kill a regulation to fluoridate most of Connecticut's public water supplies are seemingly dead.

The House Public Health and Safety Committee, the last official legislative hold-out, gave up Friday.

The Committee's position had been that the issue should be decided by the General Assembly, not by a State Health Department regulation.

The regulation provides that water companies serving 50,000 or more persons begin fluoridating by Jan. 1, 1967, and that those serving 20,000 or more persons begin by Oct. 1, 1967.

Under the regulation, 60 to 70 per cent of Connecticut's population would have fluoridated
