President Summons 10 Steel Negotiators

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson summoned steel negotiators to a White House meeting today in an attempt to end what he called a stalemate and head off a strike.

The President dispatched his personal plane to Pittsburgh to bring the 10 principal spokesmen for unions and steel producers to the conference table at the White House. The chief negotiators are I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers Union, and R. Conrad Cooper, representing 10 major producers.

The plane is expected to get them to Washington in time for an afternoon session with Johnson, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor.

The strike deadline is Tuesday midnight.

Johnson's decision to take a personal hand in the steel dispute at this point followed a report from the fact-finding team he sent to Pittsburgh Saturday. The word from the two members, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Undrsecretary of Commerce LeRoy Collins was that the negotiators were getting no where and the negotiations were stalemated.

So Johnson decided, a White House statement said, "to request the principal negotiators of both parties to come to the White House immediately" for the meeting with himself and his two Cabinet members.

The White House said Johnson got a thorough, comprehensive report from Morse and Collins at the breakfast table, with Wirtz and Connor also present along with William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel mills across the nation, preparing for a strike threatened for midnight Tuesday, began shut-down operations today after a secret steel summit meeting failed to move stalemated contract talks.

The meeting, engineered by President Johnson's special mediation team of Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and LeRoy Collins, undersecretary of commerce, brought together I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers Union, and R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for the basic steel industry.

All companies ordered start of the shutdown process — an operation that takes the industry about 48 hours.

The most time-consuming task is taking the coke ovens out of operation. These are constructed of refractory material and operate at high temperatures. The cooling must be slow so there is no damage.

The second and largest time-consuming step is banking the blast furnaces. It takes an average of 10 hours to shut down one of the giant iron makers, and it

Casey Quits!

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, baseball's most popular figure since Babe Ruth, bowed out today as manager of the New York Mets.

Stengel's retirement as manager becomes effective at the end of the season. He will remain with the club as a vice president.

The 75-year-old sports phenomenon, who has been out of uniform since July 25 because of a broken hip, was present when the announcement was made at a press conference.

The Mets announced no successor to Stengel. Wes Westrum will remain as interim manager through the rest of the season, continuing in the job he has held since Stengel was hurt a month ago.

Stengel made this statement:

"After much consideration I have dicided to retire as manager of the New York Mets at the close of the 1965 season. This is due to my wish to be relieved of the arduous duties of active management, and on medical advice following my latest injury.

Cooper, Conrad Return To Cape Kennedy Base

Mission over Astronauts Cooper and Conrad Greet the World

Doctors Keep Sharp Eyes On Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. flew back today to this base from which they were launched on their epic, eight-day voyage in space.

Two Navy planes, bringing the spacemen off the deck of the aircraft carrier Lake Champain, landed on the Cape Kennedy "skid strip" at 11:42 a.m. EST.

Florida's Gov. Haydon Burns, joining with space officials in greeting the nation's newest heroes, said the return marked "a great day for Florida."

He said their flight brought advances both in science and humanity.

Burns presented each astronaut with a plaque engraved with the seal of the state of Florida for the epic journey that started here Aug. 21.

"It's great to be back on solid ground," Cooper said. "And we're glad to be getting back to work, writing a report on the flight — the good, the bad, the indifferent.

"We hope it will be a report that will improve the quality of later flights."

Refreshed by a 12-hour sleep on the carrier, Cooper and Conrad looked hale and hearty. Each said he "felt fine" and had suffered no ill effects at all from the marathon journey in space.

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Doctors began probing the physical condition of America's Gemini 5 space champs today while space officials already spoke enthusiastically of having qualified man for an eight-day round trip to the moon.

A sharp eye was kept on Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. to see whether disturbing symptoms might yet crop up in exhaustive medical examinations.

So far, in tests aboard the USS Lake Champlain, no such symptoms had been reported. Testing will continue for weeks.

Happy officials here expressed their confidence this way in a press briefing shortly after the astronauts were brought aboard the Champlain by helicopter Sunday:

Dr. Robert Gilruth, Manned Spacecraft Center director: "As you all know, we are driving forward to go to the moon during this decade, and someone

Vacation Seen Ahead; Congress Plans Little

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress may reach final agreement this week on a bill to create a new Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Otherwise the House and Senate planned to take up little of consequence, looking ahead instead to a long Labor Day weekend.

The slow week junks once and for all earlier hopes for adjournment by Labor Day. Although the Democratic leadership still speaks of possibly winding up the year's work by mid-September, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen says he expects Congress still to be here in October.

Only two bills were listed on the Senate's published "program ahead." One deals with a claims agreement with Canada and the other with public lands in Florida.

The House schedule listed nothing to stir up a major fuss. It includes bills dealing with federal aid for schools in disaster areas, the sale or loan of surplus naval vessels to friendly foreign nations, implementation of an agreement with Canada to drop tariffs on automotive products, and research in high-speed ground transportation.

Final action may be taken in both branches on the compromise bill to give the cities a place in the President's Cabinet.

Major House interest will center on a move to force a vote on a Senate-passed bill to provide a form of home rule for residents of the District of Columbia.

The drive started last week with filing of a petition which, if signed by 218 members, would pry the bill from the District Committee and bring it to the floor for a vote. The Petition has only 163 signatures so far.

On the committee level, the spotlight in the Senate is on a bill to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act — the provision which allows states to prohibit agreements that require employes to join a union.

The Senate Labor Committee has agreed to vote on the measure by Thursday, and it is expected to get overwhelming approval.

However, Dirksen said in an AP interview he is ready to go to the mat with President John-

Set to Ride

Despite a mild concussion suffered yesterday, Kathy Kennedy, 14, daughter of Sen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy is ready to go riding again — as soon as she's discharged from the hospital. She fell yesterday when her horse missed a jump at a horse show. Her brother, Robert Jr. 11, suffered a severe leg cut Friday in a fall from a garage roof.

2 Firemen Overcome At Windham

WINDHAM (AP)—Two Willimantic firemen were overcome by smoke today while fighting a blaze that destroyed a Windham home.

Firemen Charles Muller and Harold Martin were treated at Windham Memorial Hospital and released.

The fire broke out in the kitchen of the Quonset hut home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bugby on Rt. 32, officials said. The Bugby family was away on vacation.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Expects Petition

HARTFORD (AP) — A Connecticut transportation official predicted Sunday the trustees of the bankrupt New Haven Railroad would try to discontinue its money-losing passenger service Nov. 1.

Samuel Kanell, executive director of the Connecticut Transportation Authority, said he expected the trustees to submit a petition to that effect to the Interstate Commerce Commission Oct. 1.

Greeks Convene

HARTFORD (AP)—Some 2500 delegates to a conference of the Greek Orthodox Youth of America could take their choice of opinions on student activism at Sunday's program.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn. praised American youth who "in their overwhelming majority, repudiate the nihilism of our college beatniks."

And Archbishop James Iakovos, primate for the Greek Orthodox Church in the western hemisphere, urged the audience not to "permit your enthusiasm for a new social order to be perverted into shouting and violent acts."

Two Missing

NEW HAVEN (AP) — A search resumes today for two persons missing in the choppy water of Long Island Sound.

Ned Cipollini, 45, of East Haven disappeared yesterday after taking out his 16-foot boat to go fishing. Mary-Ellen Angenola, 18, of Milford, has not been seen since falling off of a capsized 18-foot runabout two miles from shore.

Negro Pupils Stay at Home; Delay School Integration

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)Five Negro pupils scheduled to attend newly desegregated Hayneville High School failed to appear for classes today but the county's force of special deputies showed up with four Negroes on it.

Apparently the Negro pupils decided to delay their entry into the school, following a pattern in other desegregation cases. They have already enrolled at the school in Lowndes County where two civil rights workers have been slain in racial violence this year.

Sheriff's deputies, reinforced by volunteer, unpaid special deputies including the four armed Negroes, stood guard near the entrance to the one-story, red brick school.

The Negro deputies, wearing pistols, hard hats and clubs are part of a 50-man voluntary auxiliary recruited in recent weeks to put down trouble if it breaks out.

In sharp contrast to the integration of other Alabama schools in the past three years, no state troopers were on duty at the school. Four FBI agents were at the school as observers.

The county schools superintendent, Hulda Coleman, said the Negroes scheduled to attend the high school classes — three in the 9th grade and one each in the 10th and 11th grades — were offered transportation on buses carrying the white pupils to school. Miss Coleman said she had expected the Negroes to delay their appearance because this has been the pattern in other counties.

B52s Renew Cong Attacks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. B52 bombers from the Strategic Air Command again hit suspected Viet Cong positions in two weekend raids in South Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman announced today.

Communist gunners shot down an American plane over North Viet Nam and Viet Cong guerrillas attacked a half-dozen outposts south of Saigon, overrunning three of them.

One of the B52 strikes was made Saturday in northern Quang Atin Province, 325 miles north of Saigon. The other, on Sunday, again hit Zone D, the 600-square-mile jungle area which starts 30 miles north of Saigon.

The strikes by the Guam-based eight-engine planes were the 13th and 14th reported in the war. Five of them were carried out in the last six days.

Under new security regulations, the spokesman did not give the number of planes taking part or the number of bombs dropped.

The spokesman said an F105 Thunderchief was downed by ground fire Sunday on a bombing mission 80 miles northwest of Hanoi. The pilot was reported to have ejected safely but could not be rescued because of darkness. He was listed as missing.

Another F105 was lost Sunday when it developed engine trouble over North Viet Nam. Its pilot was also reported to have ejected and was listed as missing.

A U.S. Air Force pilot was killed Sunday in the crash of two observation aircraft in Khanh Hoa Province, 190 miles north of Saigon, the spokesman announced. The pilot in the other aircraft survived.

The spokesman announced these developments in the ground war:

The Communists stepped up activity in the Mekong Delta and also attacked and briefly held a hamlet in the central highlands eight miles northeast of Kontum City.

Government regional force and popular force units were said to have suffered heavy casualties when Communist guerrillas overran two outposts 35 miles southwest of the capital in Kien Tuong Province. The positions were later reoccupied by the government. No Viet Cong casualties were reported.

An estimated two Viet Cong companies also overran an outpost 50 miles southeast of Saigon in Kien Hoa Province, inflicting moderate casualties on opular force troops. Seven guerrillas were reported killed, the spokesman said.

Hurricane Betsy Heading to Sea

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Hurricane Betsy slowed its pace and gathered strength today as it churned into the open Atlantic about 290 miles north of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Betsy was no threat to land.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the hurricane, second in the Atlantic this year, was expected to grow stronger as it continued whirling north-northwest at 8 miles an hour through the day.

At 11 a.m., Betsy was about

Hurt Skipper Rescued After Chase on Sound

NEW HAVEN (AP)—Robert Roark was in a predicament.

He was alone in a cabin cruiser that was making eight knots in the middle of Long Island Sound, while he lay on the deck with a broken leg, unable to reach the controls.

Roark was rescued Sunday after a helicopter dropped a tug boat captain and a doctor aboard. He was resting comfortably today in St. Raphael's Hospital.

Roark, 54, of Norwalk, was taking the boat to Norwalk for its owner, said Eugene G. Frechette Jr., the doctor who was dropped on the boat.

Frechette gave this account of the rescue today.

He was at his summer home on Andrew's Island off Stony Creek when a neighbor, Joe Stamler of Summit, N. J., who summers on nearby Treasure Island, told him he had heard a distress call.

Roark had been able to reach the boat's radio and call for help. He had been knocked on the deck by a wave in heavy seas.

Stamler, Frechette and two other doctors who were visiting Frechette set off in Stamler's boat. They headed for Falkner's Island, the position Roark had given.

They couldn't locate Roark's boat however, and then learned by radio that it was on automatic pilot and was running down the middle of the Sound.

They gave chase but one of the engines on Stamler's boat failed and they couldn't catch up.

Gemini Projects Almost Completed

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—The 17 experiments planned for the Gemini 5 space flight were completed to some degree, a spokesman said today.

The only experiment which wasn't accomplished was the rendezvous with the satellite put into orbit by the Gemini 5 early in the flight.

The experiment was attempted later in the flight as the spacecraft chased a phantom satellite — a computerized value — and came to within 17 miles of it.

Other experiments included:

Work Tolerance — The astronauts exercised with a cord which required a 60-pound pull to stretch it to its one-foot limit. Results will be evaluated after the flight.

Phonocardiogram — Indicated heart muscle deterioration in comparison with a simultaneous electrocardiogram. No results announced.

Bone Demineralization — Bone densitometry X-rays were taken before and after the flight to determine demineralization and possible loss of bone calcium. Results under study.

Cardiovascula Conditioning —

Plans Go Forward For Gemini 6 Flight

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—As space officials assess the flight of Gemini 5 they are pushing ahead with plans to launch Gemini 6 in October.

The only possible holdup is the radar system which astronauts Walter M. Shirra Jr., and Thomas P. Stafford will use in an attempt to rendezvous and link up with another satellite.

The radar was carried by Gemini 5 on a trial basis and caused some concern when, at times, it measured the angle but not the range.

Flight director Christopher C. Kraft Jr. said he did not believe the problems were serious.

"We feel that our flight data so far showa us we can rendezvous and we can go on with Gemini 6."

Gemini program director Charles Mathews said, however, the radar problems will bear looking into.

The spacecraft and Titan 2 rocket for the Gemini 6 launching already are at Cape Kennedy, being readied for an Oct. 25 firing.

The flight will last only two days, so other troubles which plagued Gemini 5 will not affect it. Batteries for example, will replace the troublesome fuel cell system for the shorter haul.

The 14-day Gemini 7 flight, scheduled in December, may require some evaluation.

During eight days in space, the Gemini 5 spacecraft had difficulty with the fuel cell system, control thrusters and 10 other parts that may have been affected by the long trip.

"We'll have to look into these areas, and we are hopeful of correcting them to keep Gemini 7 on schedule," Mathews reported.

Gemini 7 is the only long-duration flight remaining in the Gemini program. The last five will be rendezvous and docking flights to perfect techniques for later three-man Apollo moon flights.

WRECKAGE SIGHTED

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) —The wreckage of a plane has been sighted near Cali in southwest Colombia, destination of a U.S. Air Force C47 reported missing since Saturday with 14 persons aboard, a U.S. Embassy spokesman reported today. He said, however, it has not been determined if the wreckage is that of the C47. The twin-engine plane took off from Howard Air Force Base in the Panama Canal Zone on the 450-mile flight to Cali. Its last report was from a point over the Pacific Ocean, about 90 miles southeast of Taboga Island.

Summer Theaters

No less than three area summer theaters have scheduled their final productions of the 1965 season this week. But while the summer theaters are finishing the fall fair season is just beginning.

The "big daddy" of all area fairs, the Eastern States Exposition, is still three weeks away but has already announced several new features. One will be a schedule of nine parades featuring the Fenley String Band of Philadelphia, one of the annual hits in the Mummers' Parades, there.

The daily parade at 4 p.m. will also have a circus flair with elephants, zebras, jungle cats and other assorted participants in the Gene Holter Wild West Show.

Pretty girls, floats and other musical units will add to the festivities.

Wednesday, Sept. 22, Connecticut Day, the University of Connecticut marching band will perform. Two Connecticut drum and bugle corps, the Lexington Minute Men and many Springfield area groups are also listed to take part.

And if that's not enough, 4-H horsemen, teams of oxen and other last-minute starters will be included.

The Exposition opens Sept. 18 for nine days.

Oakdale

But getting back to the summer theaters . . . Oakdale in Wallingford closes this week with the wild, whacky and wonderful "This Was Burlesque," starring Ann Corio.

Comics, strippers and not-so-bright chorus girls are all included on what is officially called a "satire" on the good old days of Burleyque.

The show played four years in New York and has been setting box office records around the east during its summer tour.

Steve Mills, Dick Bernie, Harry Conley and Mac Dennison are among the comedians. The girls are led by tassel twirler Marilyn Marshall.

One old favorite won't be there. Straight man Paul West died suddenly last week after a performance at The Carousel in Framingham, Mass.

Storrowtown

One tent still in full swing is the Storrowtown Music Fair in West Springfield.

Statesman Julie Newmar is featured this week in the naughty comedy, "Irma La Douce." It's the comical story of a Parisian streetwalker who falls in love with a poor but honest law student and becomes involved in a freakish romantic triangle.

While it's not for the youngsters, adults will get more than one laugh from the show, all done in the spirit of fun.

Curtain Calls

Final curtains are scheduled this week at Mt. Tom Playhouse in Holyoke and The Oval in Farmington. Molly Berg is starring at Mt. Tom in "Dear Me, the Sky Is Falling." At The Oval, the season's final production is "Fanny" starring, among others, Connie Janssen, Zeke Feiserman and Rick Gentilcore.

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

by John Gruber

I recently spoke about the fact that a man who wants to be a conductor has to start early to learn the standard repertoire. And of course I got the inquiry, "What is the standard repertoire?"

The answer is that there are certain works that appear over and over again on symphony programs. This is true in Europe and in the United States. Modern composers tend to resent this preoccupation with the past and they have some justification for their complaints. Nevertheless it is a musical fact of life that well over 80% of the music heard at concerts is by composers who are long since dead. This is the standard repertoire, and it is immense.

Rarely do you hear music earlier than Bach and Handel, both of whom were born in 1685, and rarely do you hear music written in the last 25 years. So about three centuries of composition comprise most of our listening. There have been loads of composers during that period, but perhaps about 30 are to be met with frequently. Even so, they wrote a prodigious number of works. And the conductor should know most of them by memory.

A great deal has been made of the fact that Toscanini conducted without a score, but practically all the conductors know the scores from memory. The score is on the stand in case of emergency or as an "aide memoire" rather than as something being read note for note during the performance.

Let's see what a conductor should have memorized, even though he may be a little hazy about some of the numbers at a given moment, but will be able to recall them completely from memory by the time of performance.

Beginning with Bach, he should know the Brandenburg Concertos of which there are a half dozen. Since he knows them from memory he realizes of course that he has to have an exceptional trumpeter in his group properly to perform the second one, and that if he wants to do the sixth he'll have to dig up players for viole da braccio and viola da gamba. Thus he may only program three or four of the six works, yet he must know all six.

He must also know the four Orchestra Suites, as they are now known through Bach himself labeled these works "Overtures" and he must know about seven Bach concerti for piano or harpsichord. He must also know off-hand approximately how long these works take to play since length is important in choosing a program.

Bach wrote an immense amount of music, but the works listed above will suffice for most occasions. Since Bach's orchestral works are relatively short, the total performing time of the works listed is about seven hours, but since his works are quite complex it will be far more difficult to memorize seven hours of Bach than fourteen hours of Mozart, for example.

The conductor will need to know somewhat less of Handel and a few scattered works by Vivaldi, Couperin, and Rameau will round out his memorized "standards" of the Baroque era. Perhaps there will be a couple of numbers by Purcell as well.

Mozart wrote over forty symphonies but ten of them will suffice. The last three, however, the conductor must know in his sleep. They are perhaps the most perfect examples of symphonies ever written, and nothing short of perfection in performance will suit the critics who also know these works from memory, from repetition if from nothing else.

Nothing gives a conductor so many worries as Mozart, whose every part is so exposed that the slightest imperfection sounds monstrous. In addition to about ten Mozart symphonies, the conductor must know at least half a dozen of the piano concerti and all four of the violen concerti. Then there are numerous overtures and shorter works by the composer that audiences always delight in hearing.

While Mozart is not hard to memorize so far as the notes of the score go, he is extremely difficult to interpret beautifully. In fact he is the most difficult of all the composers. So memorizing the score will not be nearly enough. Twenty years after the score have been memorized the conductor may have digested them sufficiently to give a truly great performance of these works. Then again he may not.

Haydn sounds much like Mozart to the uninitiated, but he's much easier to perform. He wrote well over 100 symphonies but only a dozen or so need to be memorized, perhaps fifteen on the outside. These symphonies are not long and about seven hours of Haydn should suffice, at least for a starter.

Of course there's Beethoven all nine of whose symphonies must be memorized. His symphonies are much larger than those of his predecessors, and there are numerous smaller works such as the overture to Egmont, and so on that will be needed. There will be ten or twelve hours of Beethoven to be memorized for a starter. These symphonies too, must be known in the conductor's sleep, for at least five of them will be known by heart to about a quarter of his audience.

And so it goes. There are three Overtures by Carl Maria von Weber that are still standard, although little else of his is heard outside Germany. Berlios must be represented by a couple of involved symphonies and three or four overtures.

There are of course four symphonies by Brahms, together with some smaller works, the two piano concerti and the violin concerti, all to be committed to memory. Ten hours of music. He'll have to learn at least two symphonies by Mendelssohn together with the incidental music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" as well as two or three overtures. Six or seven hours of Mendelssohn. About three of Schumann's symphonies will suffice and to this must be added the Schumann piano concerto.

And on, and on. The conductor of a major symphony orchestra will give at least twenty different programs a year, each of about two hours duration. This amounts to forty hours of music and he should not repeat within five years at a bare minimum. This means 200 hours of music that he must know, practically by heart at a moment's notice, or at a week's notice at the very most.

Thus it works out that with about thirty composers classified as "standard" he must average about seven hours of each of their compositions, from memory. He needs to know them from memory because with limited rehearsal time there is no time at all for the composer to learn the works, there is scarcely time for the musicians.

Now you know why a conductor has to start early to learn his trade, and why some never learn it.

Injuries Minor In Car Mishaps

A Cooper St. driver was arrested late Saturday after he struck a fire hydrant on Main St.

Police said Dennis Humphrey, 23, of 54 Cooper St. was turning left into Main St. from Lilley St. when he cornered too wide and hit the hydrant. The car's front fender and right door were damaged. Humphrey suffered a minor cut on his back.

Police charged him with failure to change address and failure to carry registration. He was also issued a warning for driving after drinking. Humphrey is to appear in Circuit Court on Sept. 13.

Helen W. Oleksiak of East Hartford was arrested Saturday when her car collided with another on Exit 84 of the Wilbur Cross Highway.

Police said the woman turned into the ramp, driving in its left lane. Another car, driven by Richard Willard, 37, of East Hartford, tried to pass on the right, police said, when the woman pulled into the right lane. Police said she struck the left rear of Willard's car and came to rest on a bank on the left side.

She was charged with improper lane changing and operating without a license. She is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court Sept. 13.

A three-car crash took place on Main St. at the Center last night after a passenger in the third car dropped a cigarette. No one was injured.

Police reported that the driver of the third car, Peter D. Korper, 20, of Glastonbury, turned to look in the back seat when a passenger dropped a cigarette and the car struck another waiting at a red light. The second car was driven by Dennis M. Roggi, 18, of East Hartford.

Police said the second car was pushed into another car waiting at the light, driven by Kathleen Campbell of 191 McKee St. Damage to the cars was restricted to bumpers and was light.

A car driven by Anne B. Grout of 281 Center St. struck another waiting at a traffic light on E. Middle Tpke yesterday afternoon.

Police said the woman turned to check children sitting in the seat beside her and hit the rear of a car driven by Paul S. Norman, 35, of 233 Ludlow Rd.

There were no injuries and damage was light.

Area Weather

WINDSOR LOCKS (AP) — Record low temperatures for the date were reached early today, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

"It was a very cold night for this time of year," the forecaster said.

Litchfield reported 34 degrees at 3:30 a.m. and at the bureau itself the 5 a.m. reading was 40.

The old record for Aug. 30 at the bureau was 47, set in 1924. The reading of 40 is just two degrees above the all-time low for the month of August.

A very cold, dry mass of Canadian air will move across Southern New England today, the bureau said. As a result the sky will be mostly sunny but temperatures will remain on the cool side with the high about 70.

The center of the mass of cold air is associated with a large high pressure system in western Pennsylvania that is moving eastward and is expected to be off the coast by tomorrow morning, the bureau said. This will bring a return flow of warmer southerly air back into the three-state area.

Skies will be clear most of tonight but some cloudiness will work its way into the area by morning. The combination of a southerly breeze and cloudiness will keep the mercury from reaching very low readings. Lowest temperatures will average in the 50s for most sections just a few 40s expected in the hills.

Five-day forecast:

Temperatures in Connecticut Tuesday through Saturday are expected to average near normal. Warmest temperatures the first half of the period and coolest the later half.

Some normal high and low temperatures for this time of year are Hartford, 79 and 56; New Haven, 76 and 55; and Bridgeport, 77 and 59.

Precipitation may total up to ½ inch, occurring at the beginning and end of the period.

AGAINST MUSEUM

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The Providence Redevelopment Agency has come out against having a museum in the proposed Roger Williams National Memorial because of the traffic it would draw.

Agency members say they would rather forego a possible $692,000 in federal money for the memorial if the National Park Service insists on a museum.

Events In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spotlight on the steel situation, a bobtailed week on Capitol Hill, a pair of top-level job shifts.

President Johnson was involved, directly or indirectly, in all three.

Steel: President Johnson gets a first-hand report on the steel situation from aides who have been trying to work out an agreement before the nation-wide strike deadline set for midnight Tuesday.

Johnson told a news conference at his Texas ranch Sunday that a strike "would be very damaging," and "I'm going to do everything I can" to avert one.

Short week: Congress, which once hoped for adjournment by Labor Day, now will be happy with a short week and a long Labor Day weekend.

The agenda for both House and Senate is light with the possibility of only one major vote during the week.

That could come on a bill to create an 11th Cabinet post, that of the Department of Housing and Urban Affairs.

Both chambers already have okayed the plan, but their bills differed and a joint committee has been ironing out the differences.

Job shifts: President Johnson is making another Cabinet change, this time in the postmaster general's slot.

Up to the top job goes Lawrence F. O'Brien, 48, a Massachusetts politico who has served as special legislative assistant to both Johnson and President John F. Kennedy.

Out, but on his way to Poland as U.S. ambassador is onetime college professor John A. Gronouski, 45, grandson of a Polish immigrant.

Capitol Quotes

Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla.: "Communist influence is still paying a role in delaying political settlement in the Dominican Republic."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill.: "If the federal government pre-empts the power of the states to act in this field (of union shop ban), the states will never regain their right to deal with union matters."

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa.: Republican governors have become "the greatest single source of strength and vitality" in the party.

Capital Footnotes

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will make a luncheon speech Oct. 1 at the annual meeting of The Associated Press managing editors in Buffalo, N.Y. The First Lady plans to discuss the national beautification project she is spearheading . . . The Federal Bureau of Investigation has reported that serious crimes in the first half of 1965 increased by 5 per cent over the same period last year . . . A $41-million program to help 5.5 million elderly poor has been launched by the federal government. They'll be hired for such things as care of the elderly sick and neglected or handicapped children . . . President Johnson has signed two bills authorizing $4 billion for highway work, three-fourths of it on the interstate system.

Police Arrests

Raymond Healy, 25, of 87 Niles Dr. was arrested and charged with allowing his dog to roam. A resident of Keeney St. reported to police on Aug. 21 that a dog had broken into his chicken coop and taken a Rhode Island Red chicken.

Dog Warden Lebero Fracchia set a trap and caught Healy's dog on Saturday morning, police report. Court appearance is set for Sept. 13 in the Manchester Session of Circuit Court 12.

Robert L. kinner, 18, Glastonbury, was arrested on Main St. at 10 last night, and charged with failure to obey a red light. He is scheduled to appear in court on Sept. 13.

Engagement

Duren - Gill

Mr. and Mrs. Augustine M. Duran of Sacramento, Calif., announce the engagement of their daughter, Theresa, to Airman Bryan Charles Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Gill of 18 Margaret Rd., Manchester.

Miss Duran is attending Sacramento City College and is enrolled in the licensed vocational nursing program. She is a graduate of C. K. McClatchy Senior High School, Sacramento.

Airman Gill is a graduate of Manchester High School. He is stationed at McClellan AFB, Calif.

The wedding is planned for Nov. 6.

FRATERNITY SAVINGS

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — Savings from 10 to 20 per cent on annual gross expenses may be realized by each of the 15 fraternities at the University of Rhode Island under a new purchasing system being installed at Kingston.

The Fraternity Managers Association, a nonprofit corporation, has been formed to purchase food, supplies, fuel and other necessities.

Killing Blamed On Despondency

Police in Pleasant Hills, Pa. believe the killing of a Manchester native by his father-in-law resulted from despondency.

Leonard F. Phil, 28, was shot and killed at his Pleasant Hills home on Aug. 21 by James L. Schaffer, 67, of nearby Eighty-four. Schaffer killed himself shortly afterwards.

Police said Schaffer was despondent over the death of his wife several months before and apparently went berserk.

10,000 DOGS RETURNED

PROVIDENCE, R.I (AP) — City dog officer William H. Garvin, who says in the last 28 years he has returned at least 10,000 missing dogs to their owners, issued an appeal ... to help himself.

Garvin said his blond poodle was upset because of a thunderstorm and ran away.

MOST PLAYERS BID MORE, MAKE LESS THAN EXPERT

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It's very pleasant to put your friends to the test. Ask them to bid the Southhand and then to play the North-South hands at four hearts. You'll find that the average player bids more and makes less than the expert.

Opening lead—King of spades.

After bidding two spades, which is forcing to game, South can afford to bid a mere three hearts at his next turn. North must respond, no matter how weak his hand, and South will have a better idea of the best final contract.

South must not do a jig on the tabletop when his partner raises hearts. If North had anything of real value he would bid a new suit or raise the hearts to five instead of just four. North's raise to four hearts is the weakest response he can make with a hand that included three or more hearts.

South should refuse the first spade trick to make sure that East cannot gain the lead with something like the ten of spades. South wins the second spade and must make a key play in trumps. He must lead the jack of hearts.

Keep East Out

The idea is to give up a trump trick without allowing East to get in and return a club through the ace-queen. West wins the queen of hearts and returns a spade to make South ruff.

Once again South must make a key play. He must lead a low trump without first taking the ace or king of trumps.

West wins and cannot return a spade since dummy still has trumps and can therefore ruff. It is for this reason that South led low trump he wanted to give up two trump tricks while dummy still had a trump.

No matter what West returns, South can draw the last two trumps, cash the top diamonds and overtake the jack of diamonds, making the game contract.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: Spades, A-8; Hearts, A-J-4-2; Diamonds, A-K-J; Clubs, A-Q-5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts (forcing to game). Make a forcing bid when you have more quick tricks than losers. You have 6½ Quick Tricks and about 4 or 5 losers.

Stop & Shop Bradlees Foods

"would you rather have your husband get a 4.34 raise in pay or get stamps worth $1.04" actual test demonstration:

in 4 actual supermarket comparisons, MINI-PRICING saved our test shoppers
3.80 to 5.30 on orders totalling 21.20 to 35.29 . . . an average of 4.34 x52
$225.68
TOTAL MINI-PRICE SAVINGS ON 52 SHOPPING TRIPS,
(an approximation of a year's shopping)

No question about this! Our test shoppers proved it again and again: regular "mini-price" shopping at Stop & Shop and Bradlees Food Stores adds up to greater total cash-savings than any other kind of shopping. Again, last week, they shopped (using identical lists) to buy a typical week's food for an average family. The cost of these items with "mini-pricing" at Stop & Shop and Bradlees Foods was 21.20 to 35.29 according to the size of each list (approximating the needs of various sizes of families). This proved 3.30 to 5.30 lower . . . for they saved an average of 4.34 in sold cash . . . good as an actual raise-in-pay! Even with the double-stamps others were offering, the 338 stamps on the same average order of 26.93 were worth only 1.04 in redemption value. Remember, all of our prices throughout the store have been reduced, not just a few specials. Every day-of-the-week, every week-of-the-year, "mini-pricing" means big cash savings. You can buy more food with "mini-pricing" . . . you can buy more of anything with the money you save!

W. Luddecke Leaves Post Of Treasurer

Town treasurer William Luddecke has submitted his resignation, effective immediately.

Mayor Thomas J. McCusker has disclosed that he will name a successor to the office at a regular meeting of the town board of representatives on Sept. 7.

Luddecke's resignation, submitted this weekend, lists health as his reason for the move.

He wrote that, "I have been advised by my doctor to withdraw as soon as possible from all activities outside the scope of my regular appointment.

"The extra time and effort involved in ... outside activities apparently has had a detrimental effect on my health."

Luddecke is also a member of the town's permanent building committee, serving as secretary, and other organizations. He indicated he will also leave these organizations.

Mayor McCusker said, in acknowledging the resignation, that "Bill Luddecke was the right man for this position and the loss of his services is a real loss to the town."

Luddecke is an accountant with a Hartford insurance company. He has served as town treasurer since consolidation was initiated on July 1.

He has been city tax collector and was chairman of the last Rockville charter revision committee, which was dissolved when consolidation eliminated the city government. He is a veteran member of the Vernon board of finance, also dissolved July 1 and was chairman when the town switched to the uniform fiscal year. He has served on the board of education and on several school building committees.

The mayor has observed that he has discussed the appointment of a new town treasurer with the chairman of the Republican town committee, Thomas C. Carruthers. Carruthers is a member of the board of representatives, and has, in the past, demanded a voice in appointments.

Bankruptcy

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eugene Tourtellotte, Overbrook Dr., Vernon, have filed husband-and-wife bankruptcy claims in federal bankruptcy court, Hartford.

Tourtellotte lists liabilities of $22,062.12; assets: $757.

The only local secured creditor is the Vernon National Bank, attachment on real estate, $2,434.08.

Unsecured local creditors are Dr. Dr. D. M. Caldwell, $10; Covey's Restaurant, $65.30; Flaherty and Vaughn, $204.50; Household Finance, 1912; Dr. R. J Kerr, $10; M & M Oil Service, Bolton, $202.85; Manchester Memorial Hospital, $10; Dr. James Piccene, $17; Sanitary Refuse Co., $9; W. H. Preuss Sons, $450.

Mrs. Tourtellotte lists total liabilities of $21,781.32, and assets of $764.

Daddario, Burns, Eddy and Sitt, of Hartford, are representing the Tourtellottes.

Police Reports

Mitchell Remkiewic, 43, of 39 Village St., was arrested yesterday after a domestic disturbance and charged with intoxication. He posted $25 bond for appearance at the Rockville Circuit Court 12 session on Sept. 14. Sgt. Walter Smiegel made the arrest.

A two car accident yesterday resulted in a written warning being issued to Ellen B. Thomas, of 146 Union St. She was charged with illegal backing, after she struck a car while backing from her driveway into the street, police report. The other vehicle was operated by Ronald H. Barbero, of 9 Stanley St. His car was towed from the scene.

Neil J. Panciera, 24, of Stafford Springs, was arrested Saturday noon after a two-car accident on Toland Ave. He was charged with failure to drive a reasonable distance apart.

Police report that the car driven by Panciera ran into the rear of a panel truck operated by Linda Ann Kology, of Ellington. The Panciera car was towed from the scene, and Panciers is slated to appear in court Sept. 14.

Merla A. Play, 56, of 29 Pleasant St., was charged with failure to drive the available lane after a one-car accident Saturday in which a sign post was hit on Windsor Ave. The car had to be towed from the scene, and Play was summoned to court on Sept. 14.

Gillis M. Haggerty, 71, of Holyoke, Mass., was issued a warning for failure to grant the right-of-way Sunday afternoon after a two-car accident on Rt. 83 at the Pine Restaurant.

According to police, Haggerty ran into an on-coming car, driven by Howard A. Smith, 29, of 24 Grove St., Rockville, as he was pulling from the restaurant's parking lot.

Smith was given first aid by Vernon police, and treated at Rockville General Hospital, for minor injuries suffered in the accident. The front ends of both cars were substantially damaged in the crash.

A break into Barry's Atlantic Service Station was reported to police this morning, discovered by an employe who was opening up.

Police say that a watch and some change from a cigarette machine, were stolen. Entry was gained through a rear window. Patrolman Jack Reichenbach is investigating.

Frederick J. Rocher, 32, of 26 Burke Rd., was summoned to court after a traffic violation at about 7:30 this morning.

Police charged Rocher with illegal passing. He was arrested by Patrolman Thomas Sheehan and summoned to court in Rockville on Sept. 14.

Person To Person

An acquaintance remarked that it is a pity that today the percentage of working people who give any credence at all to Communism is so small as to be almost nonexistent. At the same time it is inconceivable how any so-called intellectuals can subscribe to a philosophy which has so thoroughly discredited. If Communism were such a success, as they say, they'd put up a plate glass window instead of an iron curtain and wall, wouldn't they? Is there any greater evidence of their failure? # Town to Pick Fire Alarm Aide

The town will conduct a closed - promotional examination among applicants who are now town firemen for the post of assistant fire alarm superintendent, to be paid $350 annually.

The superintendent, Deputy Fire Chief Thomas McKinney, has had no official assistant since Frank Robinson retired several years ago, and has been recruiting assistance from among fire department personnel.

Applications, which must be on file in the general manager's office by Sept. 13, specify that the appointment will be based 100 per cent on experience, which includes at least four years in the operation and maintenance of a municipal fire alarm system, plus a reasonable time in radio work.

Growth of Schools Subject for Review

The board of education will hear a description of future school needs at its meeting tonight. Philip Liguori, superintendent of schools, will give the presentation, aided by principals from the two Bolton schools and the guidance counselor.

Walter Waddell, chairman of the school board, said today that the presentation will attempt to look a little bit further into the future, anticipating growth, than previous studies of school building needs have done.

The board will review educational specifications for a proposed new elementary school. Copies of these specifications have been in the board's hands for some months, but apparently have been too crowded for study during meetings. Waddell said he thought the board might release the specs (which would go to the school building committee) tonight.

The board will also hear a report from Waddell concerning the balancing of the school budget, for the current fiscal year. Waddell and Liguori met with the board of finance Thursday night. The finance board agreed to allow the school board to shift, by balancing, and took into account some transfers that have been turned to the general fund.

At its meeting tonight the board will adopt bus routes for the new school year and open bids on milk and on fire safety guard and programming controls for the elementary school furnace. Both of these items were let out to bid again since the board's meeting Aug. 9. At that meeting the board opened bids on air conditioning units, and on French horns. These will be reviewed tonight and contracts may be awarded, Waddell said.

Waddell said he will also inform the board that he has received a report from the insurance advisory board on its recommendation of an insurance carrier for the new school staff group life and major medical insurance. The school board's choice was questioned recently by a local insurance man.

Baseball Banquet

The winning teams of Bolton's three baseball leagues were awarded plaques yesterday at the annual baseball banquet in Rosemount Grove. About 100 attended.

Trophies were given to sponsors of the winning teams. They are: Andrew Ansaldi Co., pony league, managed by Dave Heyward; M & M Oil Co., junior league, managed by Milton Jenney and the Crockett Agency, minor league, managed by Richard Danielson.

Baseball Commissioner Francis Mannise announced that next year the Bolton Lake Hotel will sponsor a team in the Pony League.

Midget Football

A midget football team may be organized if enough interest is shown. Boys interested in playing football call the baseball league managers.

Bulletin Board

There will be a meeting of the public building commission tonight in the town office conference room.

'Inexcusable Hazards' Mar Streets, Democrats Claim

Thomas Manning and Stuart Danforth, Democratic candidates for first selectman and selectman, in a statement released today, accused Republican First Selectman Carmelo Zanghi of "neglect of duty and failure to fulfill the responsibilities of his office, by allowing deplorable, inescapable hazards to exist on Tolland roads."

The particularly singled out road safety signs (such as stop and slow signs and speed limits), saying that, in a recent survey they conducted on a town-wide basis, they discovered many "obscured from the driver's vision until it is too late."

"Many of these signs are obscured by objects such as telephone poles or trees, or are overgrown with weeds, bush, and low branches," they said.

They invited residents to make their own evaluation of these conditions as they drive around town, and added that they have more than twenty photographs to illustrate some of the more dangerous situations.

The two candidates said that, if elected to the board of selectmen, the road supervisor working under them would "have to do a better job or he would be replaced." The Democratic platform calls for the hiring of a full-time road supervisor, freeing the first selectman for administrative duties.

According to the candidates, "These signs obviously have a purpose or they should not have been erected in the first place. They cannot accomplish that purpose, however, if drivers cannot see them or overlook them because they are partially obscured or hidden completely."

"On some of the signs," they say, "the paint is so faded it is almost invisible."

Manning, Danforth and Tolland Rds. can be improved by the placing of more signs to alert drivers to the presence of small children who might run into the road, to alert the driver to the presence of a bad curve, and to warn of hazards.

They also suggested that "painting a white line in the middle of the road on a bad curve would help to keep cars on their own side."

"What we propose is not an expensive proposition, and the added protection and safety to those using town roads would be worth the relatively low cost involved."

They concluded, "We hope it will not be necessary to have a series of tragic accidents before action is taken by Mr. Zanghi. We urge him to get going on this project, and promise that, if we are elected, this situation will not be allowed to recur."

Calf Premiers At 4-H'rs Fair

Nobody planned it that way, but one more animal went home from the Tolland County 4-H fair in Vernon this weekend than was registered.

On Saturday, a Holstein entered by Keith Way, of Ellington, gave birth to a calf, just after the cow and its owner had won third place in a showmanship contest.

An unconfirmed report has it that fair officials are considering a special award for showmanship above and beyond the call of duty.

The birth caused spectators to gather round, and a veterinarian was summoned to serve as midwife. Mother and child are reported doing just fine.

A list of top prize winners at the fair from the Manchester area will be carried in The Herald Rds. can be improved by tomorrow.

B52s Strike Cong Again

tions were mortared by the Communists with light and heavy fire from the defenders. Viet Cong losses were not known.

In the central highlands an estimated 100 guerrillas penetrated Kon Rom Loh hamlet 265 miles north of Saigon in Kontum Province.

A platoon-sized popular force unit defending the hamlet withdrew to a nearby outpost but was struck again in the retreat. The hamlet was later taken over by government troops.

The spokesman also announced that U.S. aircraft damaged the Yen Bay arsenal 80 miles northwest of Hanoi Sunday, destroyed an antiaircraft site 135 miles south of the North Vietnamese capital and damaged the Xom Trung barracks and ammunition depot 12 miles northwest of Vinh.

Other U.S. and Vietnamese war planes flew more than 300 sorties in South Viet Nam in the 24-hour period ending Monday. U.S. Marine pilots claimed 34 Viet Cong were killed but the figure was not confirmed by body count.

The spokesman said search operations ended Sunday for a U.S. Navy pilot shot down last Thursday 15 miles inside North Viet Nam. He was listed as missing.

U.S. Marines killed an estimated 10 Viet Cong in a clash near the giant U.S.-South Vietnamese air base at Da Nang Sunday and wounded eight others, spokesman said.

Marines also strafed five Viet Cong with artillery fire 10 miles southwest of Da Nang when a guerrilla was confirmed killed and two others were also believed dead. The others were reportedly wounded.

Fifty-five U.S. planes flew 18 missions over North Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman said.

Thirteen Navy aircraft from the carrier Oriskany took part in four of the raids and 42 Air Force planes made the other flights.

A variety of targets, including military barracks areas and railroad and highway bridges were hit. Pilots in the heaviest raids said several buildings were destroyed at a warehouse 120 miles south of Hanoi and at the Ban Lang Moi barracks, 66 miles northwest of Vinh.

All of the planes returned safely, the spokesman said.

Danforth Denied Minutes; Request Called Political

First Selectman Carmelo Zanghi, a Republican has turned down the request of Stuart Danforth, Democratic candidate for selectman, to see the minutes of past meetings of the board, on the grounds that they would only be used in an effort to obtain political ammunition for the forthcoming town election.

"I personally will not be a party to furnishing Mr. Danforth or any other political candidate with copies of town records for partisan political purposes," Zanghi says.

"Mr. Danforth's request nothing more than a fishing expedition, is a desperate attempt to find something to talk about in his campaign," according to Zanghi.

Zanghi says he received a request for copies of the minutes by registered mail and adds that Danforth cited Public Act 261, passed by the 1963 General Assembly, as authorization to back his request. The act requires the selectmen to keep accurate minutes of all meetings and to make them available for public inspection at reasonable times.

But, Zanghi says, "If Mr. Danforth had read this act thoroughly, he would know that it does not become effective until July 1 and does not require the board of selectmen to make copies of its minutes available for political purposes."

The board of selectmen is willing to discuss matters affecting the residents, he says, and adds that many persons come to the selectmen's meetings to discuss problems or offered suggestions. Residents sometimes attend the meetings to seek help and Zanghi says that he feels "it is the board's responsibility to protect the privacy of these people."

Zanghi concludes that all residents are welcome to attend regular meetings of the board, and that he is willing to make information on any phase of town business available to the candidates or any interested person.

Registration

Thirty-two new voters registered at Saturday's voter-making session. Seven registered as Democrat, nine as Republican, and seven remained unaffiliated.

Seven transfers were accepted, four from parties to remained unaffiliated, two became Republicans, and one a Democrat. One unregistered voter enrolled with the Democrats.

The next voter making session will be Sept. 11, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. This will be the last opportunity for voters to register before the Oct. 4 elections.

School News

Tolland Schools will open Sept. 8, with half-day sessions in the elementary schools on Sept. 8, 9, and 10. Classes will be dismissed at 1 p.m. on these days.

Superintendent of Schools Vincent Nevins has announced that lunches will be served at the Meadowbrook School beginning the first day. Lunches will cost 30 cents, and 5c for additional milk. Lunches for adults will be 35 cents, and 5 cents for milk. No lunches will be served at the Hicks Memorial School this year. Milk will be available to pupils after a date to be announced.

An orientation meeting for all new teachers will be held at the Meadowbrook School tomorrow at 10 a.m. There will be a general staff meeting at the Meadowbrook School Sept. 7 at 10 a.m.

Freshmen and sophomores classes will attend Rockville High School, and junior and senior classes will attend Ellington High. Students having any questions about the schools they will attend may call the town board of education office.

The Age To Live In

A number of things have been proved by Gemini 5, the most important of them being about the oldest and most complicated instrument involved in the flight experiment, namely the human being.

It will be 11 days of testing and observation back on earth before it can be pronounced with fairly strong authority that the two experimental human bodies and spirits and minds—those of Lieutenant Colonel L. Gordon Cooper, Jr., and Lieutenant Commander Charles Conrad, Jr.—made reliable instruments for use in the exploration of space.

But the quick, on-the-safe-return answer is that, yes, the well-trained, the specially-trained human being can do eight days in the cramped weightlessness of a space vehicle. And if the human being can do eight, it can do more.

The additional proof of other requirements for extending travel in space—the mechanical and scientific side and involving the equipment to carry and to be used by the human being—did not, in this instance, represent a spectacular a leap forward as that involved in the human performance.

But, once again, there was demonstration of the minute in which an unbelievably complicated operation could be carried off without serious hitch, and with capacity to be adjusted to minor hitches when they did develop.

The eight day time element involved in this space flight becomes the more significant when it is related to another time factor, which was mentioned by President Johnson at his press conference yesterday.

"Only seven years ago," the President reminded us, "we were neither first nor second in space. We just weren't in space at all."

And it was only a little over four years ago that the first human being, the Russian Gagarin, made the first flight—a one orbit affair which lasted an hour and 48 minutes.

The progression to 120 orbits and 190 hours in four years is not, of course, quite as sensational as the mere arithmetic might indicate. But it is sensational enough.

Let us refer, for a moment, for purposes of comparison, to our rough and informal ideas of how long it took the art of sailing a ship on the seas to achieve a similar amount of progress, or how swift was the advance of the wheel for transportation, the use of the train, the use of the automobile, or the development of the winged crate that managed to bump itself off the earth for a few seconds down at Kitty Hawk at the beginning of the century.

What we gain from such comparisons is a dizzying sense of the acceleration with which things are moving in our own particular time. Advances of a kind which used to take centuries are now being completed inside a decade.

One doesn't know which it is going to have to be—for our minds and perceptions and our intelligences to adjust to the rate of our performance. Do we need to speed up our thinking and our perceiving, in the effort to adjust to what we can do in our universe? Or do we need to slow our minds down and think thoughts out a little before we try to decide just what it all means? Can we think as fast as we can go? Will we know what to do when we get there?

It we are to judge by previous human experience and behavior, the urge to get there will be the main thing, and we will be asking ourselves why long after we have done it.

But even that uncertainty of aim and purpose seems to add to the thrill and excitement of it all. The space age is a great one to be alive in.

Outside Saigon

One day's report of military events in Vietnam recently had the Vietcong guerrillas striking four times in that day at government positions located within 12 miles of the capital city of Saigon. There was another action that same day at a point 15 miles from the capital.

On that same day, our B-52 bombers, flying all the way from Guam, were given jungle targets located 30 miles from Saigon.

These actions were accompanied by a message on the Vietcong radio, urging the guerrillas to get about the business of encircling and starving out Saigon by a process of cutting off its food supplies.

What with our capacity to supply Saigon from the sea, there seems little danger of actual starvation. On the other hand, it has, in the past, been one of the standard oddities of the war that the Vietcong out in the countryside have permitted supplies to government-held cities to proceed normally, undoubtedly so the villages can get money for their crops. So the possible new Vietcong strategy may indicate a new decision to fight for keeps, no matter what rumors about pending negotiations diplomatic channels may furnish.

The main importance of this day's military news may, however, be merely its sudden illumination of the whole state of the war in Vietnam. If there is any one point all the South Vietnamese and American effort has to keep secure, it would be Saigon. And Saigon is secure, one supposes, from any such thing as frontal guerrilla attack or capture. But there can't be much peace of mind, or any real sense of security, for anybody, when the guerrillas seem to operate at will just outside the city limits. If the guerrillas can really keep encircling and harassing our coastal enclaves, shutting off food and supply even while they drive more refugees into them, they can certainly raise the price and the difficulty of our effort just to stay there.

In other words, the more we put into Vietnam, the more we seem to learn about the odds we face.

The Cantle Piece

If anyone were to go out of his way to find what might seem to be the strangest case for that standardization of military equipment which Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and his bright young men have been trying to promote for our armed services, one would probably take the case for the raincoat.

At the moment, our armed services buy four kinds of raincoats.

The simplest is that purchased for the Air Force. It has a closed back. The most complicated, and expensive, is the raincoat purchased for the Navy, which has slit rear vents which cost 27.9 cents extra per coat.

The most expensive raincoat is the one bought for the Marines. It has a rear vent, with a triangular piece of cloth called a "cantle piece" sewn inside it.

Now comes the piece of illogical information which should win the battle for standardization and economy for McNamara and his band of experts. The distinguishing feature of the Marine raincoat was originally designed into a raincoat for the benefit of the cavalry. The "cantle piece" draped over the saddle to keep it from getting wet while the cavalry man was riding in wet weather.

Marines don't have horses.

The Army used to have this special raincoat, too, until the experts noticed that the Army doesn't ride many horses any more, either. The Army then modified its raincoat down to simple pleats, but the experts say it can save 33 cents more a coat if it goes all the way to the Air Force closed back version. That might mean nearly $300,000 a year.

The raincoat the Marines somehow inherited from the cavalry costs 50 cents more than the Air Force design.

One supposes the victory for economy and standardization is inevitable, perhaps even desirable.

Yet we notice, with uncontrollable approval, that the Marine Corps is putting up a fight for its cantle piece, claiming it makes for drier marching and sitting, and ought to be kept.

A democracy rightly has to live in continual fear and apprehension that somebody will make its fighting forces so efficiently standardized no service or human being can be told from another. That is usually the point at which democracies suddenly start to be losers. A cantle piece may be something more than an expensive triangle of cloth.

Battling Mosquitoes

The less humans in general have to do with mosquitoes the better it is for both of them. What we don't know about mosquitoes doesn't bother us. What they know about us, especially when and where to bite, does.

We side with that school which holds the best way to treat the blood-thirsty pests is to hate 'em, swat 'em and bomb 'em. They are no respectors of person or place. They are likewise invaders of privacy and pick on innocent babes and small children.

Among the torments inflicted upon us by mosquitoes is their infernal buzzing around our ears in the darkness and still of the night.

A researcher into the ways of mosquitoes now informs us that a man standing in a closed room is more likely to be ignored by a mosquito than the same man lying down. This has something to do with convective heat currents in relation to horizontal and supine positions.

We were better off not knowing this. Taking a pole at a mosquito is frustrating enough. Trying to sleep standing up on the chance of escaping one strikes us as the height of absurdity.

Good advice on mosquito control is to eliminate all sources of stagnant water around house and yard. If they don't breed they won't bite! — NEW HAVEN REGISTER.

Company I Revisited

CHU LAI — The helicopter flight from the big base at Da Nang to Chu Lai where the Americans live in the sand takes 40 minutes. The ship follows a long unbroken strip of white sand with the blue water of the South China Sea coming onto it in easy waves that have white darts on top. The place was meant to be pretty but it is ugly now.

It is a beach that you can get killed on. There was a boy of 11, dressed only in wrinkled shorts, who walked up to a Marine who was in a fox hole at the top of the beach. The boy showed his teeth. The Marine smiled back. The Marine turned his head, the boy reached into his shorts and took out a hand grenade and dropped it into the fox hole and the Marine lost both his legs.

The ship followed this ugly beach staying high over it and the machine gunner on the right side sat in the open doorway and slept with his hands in his lap and his legs dangling in the wind along the side of the ship.

A few yards from the landing pad the sand hardened into a road which had been cut by earth-movers. They had I Company, 3rd Battalion in this area. A week before I Company had come onto the red sand 16 miles to the south. They came as 143 young faces. They were trained to fight but they had never fought before. They came through the water and onto the sand and everything went wrong and 15 were killed and 54 were wounded. The ones who are left have had their lives changed forever.

A captain named King from another company stopped his jeep and said that he was going past I Company. He said they were out on the perimeter around the air strip. "We did some running around last night," he said while he drove. "The VC sent a dog with a satchel charge on it running through us. They had no fuse on the charge. They were hoping a Marine would shoot the dog and set off the charge and take a lot of us. We were chasing the dog all over. Somebody down the line finally caught him. Isn't this some way to fight? A dog can kill five of us."

A mile down the road, off into the deep sand, there was a sandbag pillbox. King stopped in front of it.

"I Company?" he called out. A Marine stuck his head out. "This is it, sir," he said.

"Who's the C. O.?"

"Lt. Bernell is acting" the Marine said. "Capt. Ramsey will be out new C. O. He takes over tomorrow."

"Really? What happened to your old C. O.?" King said.

"He was killed last Wednesday," the Marine said.

I Company's acting commander, the Marine said, was right up the walk behind him. The walk was made out of sandbags nearly covered with sand. They went up a dune and then down the other side to a bowl with sand dunes on all sides of it. The floor of the bowl was a patch of dirt with sparse grass and a few bushes coming out of it.

Bernell, the lieutenant, was sitting in the little bit of shade given by the scrub bushes. His gray T-shirt was dark with sweat, tarnished dog tags hung down the front. A fatigue cap was pulled down over a slightly freckled face. He said his first name was John and that he was 24 and from Ocean City, Md.

"How is your outfit now?" he was asked.

"Waiting," he said, "waiting to get some replacements. Then we'll go back and do it all over again."

Another lieutenant, John Kelly, walked over. He was shirtless and his boots were unlaced. He is 25 and comes from Haven Avenue in New York City.

"I never saw any hesitation," Bernell said, "not once." He looked up at Kelly. "Did you see anybody hesitating?"

"Never," Kelly said.

"There never was an instance where you had to kick 'em to get 'em going," Bernell said. "You'd think you would see some of that after the way they were standing there watching their friends getting mangled so badly. There were a lot of horrible wounds but they never hesitated."

A recoilless rifle and mortars hit an armored carrier I Company troops were on. Ten of them fell into the sand right away dead or with their bodies split open.

"I didn't stop the rest of them," Bernell said. "Return fire and attack that's all they know how to do. Corp. Hunt, Marvin Hunt, men in his squad were killed. He helped carry the bodies out, then he took the rest of the squad, three men, and went right on. At night he waits in the rear and here come five VC's dragging a wounded man. They come right by Hunt in the darkness. He cut 'em all down with an automatic rifle. So we did all right. That's six we got right there. They'll go out right now."

Kelly said it wouldnt mean a thing to them as long as they get a can of cold beer. They don't complain about a thing. "Warm beer, that's all they squawk about," Bernell said.

"They pay for the beer," Kelly said. "Twenty cents a can. Japanese beer. But we don't get ice delivered with it and the beer is warm and they bitch about it. They're paying for it. They're entitled to yell."

"They ought to get it free," Bernell said.

"They won't get it free," Kelly said. "People don't think it's a real war yet."

"The people," Bernell said, "the hell with the people. I remember this television program I saw. It was on before we came over here. They were interviewing some student and he said he didn't want to come here and fight because he had six years of college education and if he got killed it all would go to waste."

"That's a kid talking, not a man," Kelly said.

"Yeah, but they put him on television," Bernell said. "Why don't they put some of these kids out here on the television. Maybe people will listen to somebody like that."

"I can't remember any other wars," Bernell said, "and I know the guy on television can't either. All I can remember is V-J Day and I remember it because they had a big party at my house and I was slowed down to stay up late. I was six years old. I don't even remember much about Korea."

Kelly said:

"What the hell, I was 12 years old when it was going on. It didn't sink in."

EDUCATORS BATTLE

ANSONIA (AP)—The Ansonia Board of Education may face a legal battle over its refusal to seat a member appointed by the Board of Alderman.

Thomas F. Walsh, the appointee, has threatened to contest the action.

The School Board maintains city statutes give it authority to fill vacancies. The Board of Alderman say they have the authority, under state statutes.

Inside Report

by

Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — Inside the White House the other day, Arthur J. Goldberg, the new U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, put forth an eloquent argument: After two years of dramatic changes at home, it is time to take the Great Society abroad."

What makes Ambassador Goldberg's thesis particularly significant is the way it was received by his audience: President Johnson.

Mr. Johnson was impressed as Goldberg, fresh off the U.S. Supreme Court, outlined his views of U.S. foreign policy and President Johnson's image and reputation abroad.

At home, said Goldberg, the President has written a masterful record in domestic legislation — breaking stalemates in half a dozen areas with enough momentum to carry through the rest of his first term.

But abroad, continued Goldberg in carefully - chosen words, there have been no such breakthroughs.

Accordingly, the essential first step — mainly psychological — would be to carry the symbol of the Great Society overseas and portray the U.S. as committed to building a "Great Society" in countries that want our help.

Goldberg's second step: Funnel the Johnson administration's largest energies into the foreign field next year.

A few days later, in the White House, Mr. Johnson declared publicly that the Peace Corps stands for patience, godliness, kindliness and love. He added: "That is what the Great Society is all about. That is what the foreign policy of the United States is."

This shows how the former lawyer for the steel-workers union is fast becoming the inspiration for foreign policy ideas in the Johnson administration.

No one who knows him doubts that Goldberg intends to build high on the foundation he has laid down with the President in one month at the United Nations. Far more important, there is solid evidence that the President expects and wants Goldberg to keep building.

"Johnson has given Goldberg what amounts to a carte blanche commission to set up a center of U.S. foreign policy in New York," one U.S. diplomat told us.

Thus, in the months ahead it is absolutely predictable that Goldberg will scurry out of New York on sudden trips to world capitals, (Moscow not excluded) as the President's voice and ears. He already has been in private contact with Vietnamese business sources in order to promote Mr. Johnson's big peace campaign.

But beyond this, the test of Goldberg's success lies in his intimate knowledge of the Washington bureaucracy. Where the power centers lie in the White House, the State Department and Congress and in the vital non-government centers of influence, the press, big labor and big business.

Once seized with an idea, Goldberg knows which buttons to press to get support and outflank opponents. He knows Washington in a professional way as his predecessor, the late Adlai Stevenson, never knew it. Moreover, he has access to Mr. Johnson that Stevenson wanted but did not possess.

Accordingly, Goldberg will spend more time in Washington than any previous U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. He is more aware of the importance of wooing Congress than Stevenson was. This was a main factor behind the appointment of Rep. James Roosevelt, an old hand in Congress, to the U.N.'s Economic and Social Council (a job at one time slated for brother Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.).

All this spells trouble for Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the State Department. Although State Department experts concede the Goldberg - for - Stevenson switch has changed things a bit, they refuse to be alarmed. Outside the State Department, however, realists believe Goldberg's increasing use by the President will mean an inevitable erosion of influence in the State Department (where influence began declining long ago as a result of competition from Robert S. McNamara's Defense Department).

Goldberg is now regarded as the odds-on choice to become Secretary of State when Rusk finally steps down. Even before that far-off, fuzzy day, however, Arthur Goldberg will have taken over many of Dean Rusk's functions.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Aug. 30, the 242nd day of 1965. There are 123 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History

On this date in 1814, pirate leader Jean Lafitte, in Louisiana, refused Sir William Percy's request to aid the British in the War of 1812.

SEVEN DAYS AND NIGHTS of continuous concrete pour, from Tuesday, Aug. 17 to Monday midnight, Aug. 23, built the new silo complex at the Central Connecticut Farmers Cooperative Association on Apel Place. Construction was by the slip-form method, common in the midwest, but employed only once before in Connecticut. The entire form for the seven-inch thick walls rose slowly (about 10 inches an hour) on 40 jacks kept level by water manifold control. The forms and workmen seemed to be suspended on a tower of curing concrete during their round-the-clock performance. The new silos, 130 feet high, with a capacity of 200,400 bushels, and now Manchester's tallest and most unusual structures, were built by Horlon, Inc. of Hutchinson, Kan., specialist in slip-forming, from an estimated 1,213 yards of concrete kept in continuous flow by Manchester Sand & Gravel.

Temple Cantor

Cantor Morris B. Bobick of Vernon has been retained by Temple Beth Sholom to fill the post vacated on Aug. 1 by Cantor George Wald, who left for a similar position with the Mosaic Law Congregation, Sacramento, Calif.

Cantor Bobick, a Hartford native, attended Hartford schools and was then graduated from Yeshiva University of New York City. While in college, and after graduation, he studied liturgical music with Cantor Israel Sherman of New York City.

For several years he chanted the High Holiday services at Temple Emanuel in Buffalo, N.Y., and has conducted services at Temple Beth Israel in Winsted and at several synagogues in the Hartford area.

Cantor Bobick, in addition to chanting Friday and Sabbath Eve services, will teach two Sunday School classes at Temple Beth Sholom and will assist in instructions for bar mitzvah candidates.

He is married to the former Adrienne Moses of Vernon.

Knofskie Named Chief Operator

Walter F. Knofskie of 43 Flower St. has been promoted to the post of chief operator of the town's sewage treatment plant. He fills the post which had been vacant since April, when Harrison Pratt died.

In announcing the promotion today, General Manager Richard Martin said that Knofskie was raised from his position of assistant upon completion of a promotional examination, conducted by the State Personnel Office.

MISS HOOKER DIES

NEW HAVEN (AP)—Miss Elizabeth Russell Hooker, a direct descendant of the Rev. Thomas Hooker and one of the persons who helped purchase Sleeping Giant Mountain for a state park, died Sunday at her home at the age of 90.

She was a ninth-generation descendant of the man who led a group of Puritans from Plymouth to settle Hartford.

A memorial service will be held in her home Wednesday.

Events In World

MOSCOW (AP) — The head of the Young Communist League has accused Soviet writers of "encouraging skepticism toward all that is fine and progressive in Soviet society."

Sergei Pavlov, writing in the Communist party paper Pravda said Sunday books and magazines in the Soviet Union are showing signs of "petty fault finding."

The Communist party must correct those who stray from the correct path and express "self-willed denial of authority," Pavlov said.

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (AP) — James Roosevelt said Sunday night the situation in the Middle East could develop into something far more serious than what is happening now in southeast Asia.

The newly-appointed U.S. delegate to the U.N. Economic and Social Council said this could happen if the area problems are not solved.

The son of the late U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke at a dinner sponsored by the Saint John Israel bond committee. He presented the Eleanor Roosevelt humanities award to Canadian industrialist K.C. Irving and Mrs. Irving.

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korean police have arrested 50 students accused of organizing recent demonstrations against the amity treaty with Japan.

Riot squads posted at Seoul National University campus took students into custody as they attempted to enter the school.

The state-run university is one of the 14 universities and colleges in the capital which have been closed to prevent student disturbances.

Thousands of students clashed with troops and police last week demanding nullification of the Japan-Korea treaty.

SINGAPORE (AP) — British Gurkha troops are reported to have killed 18 Indonesian invaders in a clash Sunday in Malaysia's Borneo state of Sarawak.

Two Gurkha troopers were reported killed in the action which lasted for several hours.

A British spokesman said a large party of Indonesians was spotted by a Gurkha patrol and 18 Indonesians were seen to fall.

LONDON (AP) — A Soviet sailor who jumped ship in Gibraltar is seeking political asylum in Britain, the Home Office reported today.

He was identified as Juri Ribov, aged about 21, from the Soviet training ship Sadov.

President Johnson phoned his congratulations to the space twins almost by the time they had removed their silver space suits.

"We're glad you're back," Johnson said from his Texas ranch. "God bless you both. We shall be excitingly proud of you."

Cooper, 38, veteran of two space trips, and the tattooed, Ivy Leaguer Conrad, 35, ended their record-shattering space voyage at 7:55 a.m. Sunday after circling the globe 120 times in 7 days, 22 hours and 55 minutes.

Immediately the world began to react.

Pope Paul, speaking to several thousand tourists at his summer palace, Castel Gandolfo, in Italy said:

"We express the wish that all this great work will result not as a damage but as an added perfection for mankind."

The Soviet people heard praise of the astronauts as Soviet television and Tass made the Gemini 5 space mission the lead item on the evening news.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Great Britain called the flight "a quite remarkable feat which is a triumph of technology and human courage."

Dr. Charles A. Berry, flight surgeon, said on significant preliminary finding showed the two spacemen's hearts adapted to weightlessness by slowing down.

He said it was the first time such a pattern definitely had showed up during space voyages.

Charles Mathews, Gemini program manager, said none of the numerous malfunctions during the flight would keep the United States from going ahead with plans for a two-day flight in October.

He said work already had started to correct fuel cell troubles that threatened to "drown out" the flight as a result of too much water production for the craft's storage capacity.

Conrad said the flight put the United States on schedule with its timetable of launching three rendezvous and docks before 1970.

Gemini 5 was a make-believe trip to the moon, in a sense. The eight days equal the estimated time needed to go to the moon, stay a day, and come back to earth.

The final equipment failure came after the spacecraft had landed 103 miles from its target, an error caused by wrong information fed from a ground-based computer to the spacecraft's computer. The communications system quit.

The first frogman to reach the spacecraft, Lt. John P. Hunt of Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass., said he was a bit anxious because of the failure.

After he had plugged a special telephone into the spacecraft, Hunt said: "How are you?"

"Oh, good. How are you," an astronaut shouted back.

Hunt asked again: "Are you all right?"

"Oh, great!" came the reply. "From the tone of their voices I knew they were all right," Hunt said.

With word of a thumbs-up signal to a hovering helicopter, indicating the two men were all right, Kraft broke out a traditional box of cigars in the Gemini control room in Houston. The space scientists puffed away happily, another successful mission shot under their belts — the ninth.

In the carriers' sick bay, the space twins shucked their space suits and talked to President Johnson.

He told them he wanted them to be space public relations men as soon as the 11-day debriefing was over.

"Are you ready to see some of the world at ground level?" he asked. He said he wanted them and other astronauts to accept invitations "to share your achievements with the peoples of other lands."

In going 3,338,200 miles, Cooper and Conrad broke every space record for endurance.

Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Conrad talked to their husbands on a special telephone hookup between the carrier and Gemini control.

"It was a private conversation," Trudy Cooper said. Sunday was the 18th anniversary of her marriage. "I will wait until Gordon comes home for a celebration," she said.

Mrs. Conrad remembered what she said to her Princeton University graduate husband:

"Pete said, 'I'll see you in three days,' and I said, 'That's what you think.' I told him it will be 11 days. But I keep hoping they will change their minds and let us see them before 11 days'."

The strict isolation plans announced by space officials included a ruling that the men would live in dormitories and not be allowed to see their families until the lengthy debriefing is finished.

The last time either man saw his family was Aug. 2. A demanding training schedule had let them come home an average of only three days a month since their selection in February as Gemini 5 crewmen.

Injured Boatman Saved on Sound

New York, appeared overhead. The helicopter radioed to the tugboat Evening Star in the vicinity, and its captain, Lee Getzler, agreed to be picked up in a basket to be transferred to the cabin cruiser to cut the engines.

Then the helicopter asked if any of the doctors on Stamler's boat would volunteer to go to Roark's aid.

Frechette, 44, an orthopedic surgeon, said he would. He put a splint on Roark's leg as Getzler piloted the boat into New Haven.

Frechette said Roark must have traveled some 20 miles before help came, from near Falkner's Island past New Haven and half-way to Bridgeport.

The search for the East Haven man began when his boat was found off the middle ground by members of the Haven Harbor, its motor running and still in gear.

Right Time

AROATH, THE USS LAKE CHAMPLAIN (AP) — Chief Pipefitter Stephen Kotelec of Bridgeport, Conn., picked an auspicious time to re-enlist.

The veteran sailor was sworn in for another hitch in the Navy Sunday by Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., who had just returned to earth after eight days in orbit in Gemini 5.

Kotelec's home is at 125 Harrison Ave., Bridgeport.

BURGLARIES INCREASE

BOSTON (AP) — Burglaries, breaking and enterings have increased markedly in Hartford, but crime rates in most categories have dropped in New Haven and Waterbury, the FBI reported Sunday.

According to FBI crime statistics for New England cities of more than 100,000 population, New Haven was down in all categories but forcible rape and larceny. Waterbury was down in everything but aggravated assault.

But burglaries in Hartford jumped from 728 for the first half of 1964 to 1,080 for the first half of 1965.

PROTESTS 'SUZZLING' HAUNTINGS

ROCKVILLE (AP)—An opponent of the state constitutional convention proposal to outlaw the called muzzling of witnesses at convention hearings.

Joseph A. Planner, chairman of the "Committee of 1,000," a group formed to take the convention proposal to the people, charged that all witnesses at convention hearings should have time to "speak their minds" instead of "a little from the subject."

Water Purifier To Cost $1,650

Wallace and Tiernan of Belleville, N.J., with a price of $1,650, is the apparent low bidder for furnishing the town water department with a water purification machine. The purifier, called a gas-chlorinating machine, will be equipped with a differential converter, for adjusting the chlorinator in accordance with water flow.

Others who bid on the machine today are the Fischer and Porter Co. of Clifton, N.J., $1,785; and the B.I.F. Division of the N.Y. Brake Co. of Providence, R.I., $1,924.

The new machine will replace the one at Globe Hollow Reservoir, which will then be utilized as a replacement at the town's Buckingham installation in Glastonbury.

When the contract is awarded, the supplier will be required to furnish a man to supervise the installation and to be present when it is placed in operation.

Plans Progress For Gemini 6

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to complete the Gemini program late next year. Consideration is being given to using one of the last flights to send a Gemini capsule around the moon.

Early in 1967, the first Apollo team will be hurled into earth orbit to practice for lunar landings.

"We're driving forward to go to the moon in this decade," said Dr. Robert Gilruth, head of the Manned Spacecraft Center, after the Gemini 5 recovery.

The target for the first moon trip is 1969, but continued success, especially in the development of the huge Saturn 5 booster rocket, could advance the date to 1968, some officials believe.

The Air Force last week received $1.5 billion to develop a series of five manned orbiting laboratories which will orbit the earth as long as 30 days, starting in 1967. The two-man crews will determine if man can play a useful military role in space.

Brrr...!

BOSTON (AP) — A blast of cold Canadian air gave New Englanders a preview of winter early today with touches of snow and record low temperatures.

Record lows were reported throughout the six-state area.

Atop Mt. Washington, the temperature early today dropped to 22, a record for the date. Snow fell on the 6,288 foot peak. Winds up to 74 miles per hour were reported there this morning.

Light snow also fell at Rangeley, Maine but it melted as soon as it hit the ground.

At Concord, N.H., the temperature dropped to a record low of 33 this morning. Hartford reported 39.

12th Circuit Court Cases

MANCHESTER SESSION

For shoplifting in the Grand-Way store in the Parkade, two young married women received 20-day suspended sentences and were placed on probation six months.

Mrs. Sally Ann Morin and Mrs. Jeannine Boyle, both of East Hartford, were accused by a security guard of stuffing two pairs of stretch pants worth $12 apiece on Aug. 17.

Robert DiTarando, 18, of 104 Pine St., charged with breach of peace in connection with the theft of articles from the Bean and Rodman Store in the Parkade, was fined $20.

Three youths faced charges of breach of peace in connection with a fight at Center and Main Sts. on Aug. 11. William Zdanis, 20, East Hartford, and Gregg Hopkins, 18, of Rockville, pleaded guilty and were fined $20 each. James Lee, 18, RFD 3, of Hazel St. pleaded not guilty and his case was continued to Sept. 14 in East Hartford for jury trial.

Robert Buffington, 25, of 82 Union St., Vernon, was fined $35 on a charge of reckless arrest. A charge of breach of peace was nolled. Buffington was arrested Saturday in Vernon and held in Tolland State Jail in lieu of $250 bond. The charged stemmed from a domestic dispute.

The cases against Neno Pagani, 42, of 92 Spruce St. and Edward Schildge, 18, of 433 Center St., arising from their with pool selling, were continued until Sept. 14 for jury trial in East Hartford. They were arrested after allegedly betting on horses on Aug. 16 on Main St.

store in the western part of the county where one Negro boy was scheduled to get aboard. But the pupil failed to show up.

A small crowd of white spectators stood on the court house lawn near the entrance to the school and watched quietly.

A tense atmosphere was still evident 10 days after the killing of a white seminary student who had come to Selma recently as a civil rights worker.

The high school is located just off the town square and only a short distance from the property store where Jonathan Daniels, was slain 10 days ago.

Daniels, 27, an Episcopal seminary student from Keene, N.H., was killed by a shotgun blast and a Catholic priest, Father Richard Morrisroe of Chicago, was seriously wounded shortly after their release from the county jail Aug. 20.

Part-time deputy sheriff, Thomas L. Coleman, was charged with murder and assault with intent to murder and released on $15,000 bond.

Daniels was the second civil rights worker slain in Lowndes County since the right-to-vote campaign was started in Alabama's roll-rich black belt last January by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

A white Detroit, Mich., housewife, Viola Liuzzo, was ambushed while driving her car through the county after the Selma-to- Montgomery march last March 25.

Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, of near Birmingham, one of three Ku Klux Klan members charged with the Liuzzo killing, was tried three months ago in the white, two-county, century- old courthouse at Hayneville.

The jury of 12 white men was unable to agree on a verdict and young Wilkins faces trial again Sept. 27. The other two accused Klansmen, Eugene Thomas and William O. Eaton, also are awaiting trial.

Gemini Duo's Families Relieved Trip's Ended

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) —The families of the two men who made the Gemini 5 astronauts were happy and relieved at their homes.

"If he wants to ... he's ready for the trip to the moon," said near-teens Halie Cooper said at Cocoa Beach, Fla., where the 8-year-old son, Air Force Lt. Col. L. Gordon Cooper II lives.

Mrs. husband Charles Conrad Sr., said from his Sarasota, Fla., home that he hoped his son, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., 35, would be aboard a Apollo mission to the moon.

Mrs. J. Weir Sargent, Conrad's mother, lives in the Philadelphia suburb of Haverford, and she was relieved that the mission was over.

"I was glad when they pulled the boys up the helicopter," she said.

"This is the happiest day of my life," pretty and brunette Jane Conrad said. "I don't remember my moments of anxiety now. I am really surprised at myself because I didn't worry.

"We're so happy," said Trudy Cooper, who spent her 18th wedding anniversary without her husband. She saw her husband's picture on television and commented: "He looks just great."

The wives sat at the flight director's console in Gemini control and talked with their husbands aboard the recovery ship Lake Champlain.

"It was a private conversation," Mrs. Cooper said.

Jane Conrad remembered one thing she and Pete talked about.

She said, "I'll see you in three days'. And I said, 'That's what you think.' I told him it will be 11 days. But I keep hoping they will change their minds and let us see them before 11 days."

Beatles 'Escape' In Armored Car

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — An armored car took the Beatles to and from their appearance Sunday night at the Hollywood Bowl.

The armored car and elaborate police security measures worked. There were no riotous incidents as despite the huge throng in and outside the bowl. About 100 youngsters were arrested as they tried to crash the show.

A sellout crowd of 17,600 watched the show. Thousands of others milled around outside, held away from the box office by a force of 100 police and 200 private security guards.

Quiet was something no one succeeded in imposing, however. The throng shrieked from the moment the Beatles appeared until they finished their numbers half an hour later.

People In the News

Karl Wallenda

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Karl Wallenda, 60, leader of the world-famous family of highwire acrobats, said his performance Saturday night at a race track was his last regular show.

He said he was going into semi-retirement and doubted that the Wallenda family ever again would perform the seven-man pyramid that he created. The collapse of such a pyramid in Detroit three years ago killed two members of the family and crippled his son, Mario.

Stan Kenton

DETROIT (AP) — Concert-goers got the silent treatment at the University of Detroit Sunday night.

Stan Kenton, acting on the spur of the moment, held his band and the musicians in his orchestra: "No music."

"The title of that selection was 'Nothing.'" Kenton told the audience after a trombone player stood up to "play" an unheard "solo."

Some 1,500 persons listened — at least perked their ears to no avail.

Mme. Chiang

NEW YORK (AP) — Mme. Chiang Kai-shek says possession of the atom bomb by Communist China "jeopardizes the position of Chiang's nation in the world."

The wife of the president of Nationalist China also called Sunday for the destruction of Red China's nuclear installations before they further expand. She made the comments in an airport interview.

Jackie Kennedy

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her son, John F. Jr., 4½, attended a party Sunday night given by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., for 225 guests at a pool and government internship program.

Mrs. Kennedy and her son arrived at the Pell home and mingled with the guests for a few minutes. Pell is sitting on the farm of her mother and stepfather.

Sybil Christopher

NEW YORK (AP) — Two weeks ago Sybil Christopher's East Side discotheque "Arthur" late Sunday and waltzed away with $3,000.

Police said the manager and a magazine photographer were discussing a picture layout at the club owned by the former wife of actor Richard Burton when the two robbers entered.

Queen Anne-Marie

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Queen Anne-Marie of Greece, the world's youngest queen, is 19 today. She is a bride of 11 months and a mother for six weeks.

Marring the happy family occasion is the Greek political crisis, which has occupied the attention of her husband, King Constantine, ever since the birth of their daughter, Crown Princess Alexia.

The queen is spending the summer on the island of Corfu.

South Windsor

P&W to Lease New Building In Rt. 5 Industrial Park

The Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp. plans a third building in South Windsor, a $70,000 facility to be built in the J. E. Shepard Industrial Park.

A building permit for the $4,200 square foot building has been issued to George Pola, according to Assistant Building Inspector William Burkhart, and construction is scheduled to begin immediately. The building will be located behind a recently completed structure already leased to Pratt & Whitney, and will be the second plant to be built in the new industrial area.

The two existing P & W facilities, the one adjacent to the planned new building and another not far away, contain about 62,000 square feet of floor area.

The entire three-building complex is to be known as Pratt and Whitney's South Windsor engineering division. The firm leases all the buildings for the development, and manufacture of fuel cell power plants for the government space program.

The new Connecticut Production Co. of Manchester will construct the new, one-story steel and masonry building.

Construction will also begin immediately on a building to be leased to Barkley and Henry Inc., wholesale distributors of Bolens lawn and garden maintenance equipment.

The new square-foot building will be erected by Carlo Petrillo of Ashford. The building permit was issued to Charles B. Shepard, representing the J. E. Shepard Co.

Robert V. Baxley, president of Baxley and Henry Inc., said he learned the firm's name from the boys: "If you don't quit chasing that cat, you're going to get an axe."

Shortly before the braking rocket was fired Friday, Scott Carpenter, the youngest of the Gemini astronauts, cut off the tension and fired his water pistol point blank at two newsmen. He scored two bulls eyes.

What was most exciting?

"The flame down. When my daddy came down," 6-year-old Andy Conrad said.

U.S. Flour Use Dips

CHICAGO — In 1910 the average American consumed 210 pounds of flour. Yearly flour use now has dropped to 116 pounds per person, largely because of rising living standards.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at the wrong time. Now, you can live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

MRS. PETER DAVID ZAGLIO

Emanuel Lutheran Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Carol Elizabeth Johnson to Peter David Zaglio, both of Manchester, Saturday at 4:30 p.m.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Johnson of 307 Spring St. The bridegroom is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Zaglio of 63 Lakewood Circle.

The Rev. C. Henry Anderson, pastor of Emanuel Church, performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of silk peau de soie, designed with long sleeves and modified empire styling. She wore a circular heirloom veil of Brussels lace and carried an Edwardian bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Nancy Evelyn Johnson of Manchester, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Laura Jane Zaglio of Manchester, sister of the bridegroom; and Miss Esther Rosenthal of Watertown, N.Y.

The bridal attendants were dressed alike in full - length gowns of pale pink moire, fashioned with modified empire waistlines trimmed with deep pink and taupe velvet bandt, and they wore matching pink headbows with circular veils. The honor attendant carried a colonial bouquet of white and lavender asters. The bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of pastel shades of asters.

Edmond Zaglio of Manchester served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Christopher Zaglio of Manchester, brother of the bridegroom; Robert Ernest Johnson of Manchester, brother of the bride; Michael Conlon of Manchester and Arthur Ammonn of New York City.

Mrs. Johnson wore a dusty rose linen dress and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a willow green peau de soie and lace jacket dress and matching accessories. Both wore single white phalaenopsis orchid corsages.

After a reception in the church parlors the couple left for a plane trip to Bermuda. They will live in Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Zaglio is a 1964 graduate of Bates College, Lewiston, Maine, and during her junior year she studied at the University of Exeter, Devonshire, England. She is a writer at educational television station WHYY-TV, Philadelphia. Mr. Zaglio is a graduate of Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., where he majored in economics. He is a candidate for an M.B.A. degree at Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

MRS. DAVID EARL HUNT

Miss Janet Elizabeth Chessman of Manchester and David Earl Hunt of Osterville, Mass., were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at Calvary Temple, Hartford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Innes Chessman of 53 Campfield Rd. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Earl B. Hunt of Osterville.

The Rev. Mr. Hunt, father of the bridegroom and pastor of Osterville Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony. Carl I. Gough of Hartford was organist. Mrs. Wayne Snell of Manchester was soloist. Bouquets of white gladioli and dahlias decorated the altar.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white silk shantung, designed with empire bodice accented with daisy appliques. A-line skirt and chapel train. Her bouffant veil of imported illusion was arranged from a rose and lilies - of - the - valley headpiece, and she carried a crescent bouquet of white roses, pink feather carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Margaret Ayton of Ivyland, Pa., was maid of honor. She wore a full-length gown of rose pink satin peau de soie, fashioned with fitted bodice and A-line skirt. She wore a matching headbow, and carried a crescent bouquet of pale pink Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Taylor of Hartford and Miss Barbara Meloy of West Hartford. Their pale pink gowns and headbows matched the honor attendant's and they carried crescent bouquet of rose pink feathered carnations.

John Frykenburg of Gardner, Mass., served as best man. Ushers were Lt. Arthur Chessman of Aberdeen, Md., and Ronald Chessman of Manchester, brothers of the bride; and William Chessman of West Hartford and Douglas Carlson of Rocky Hill, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Chessman wore a sea blue brocade sheath with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore an emerald green brocade dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of pale yellow tea roses.

A reception for 100 was held at the Davis Memorial Building at the Church of the Nazarene, Manchester. For a motor trip to the Maine coast Mrs. Hunt wore a ming cherry hopsacking suit with navy blue accessories. The couple will live at 10 Roffe St., Barrington, R.I., after Sept. 4.

Mrs. Hunt is a junior at Barrington (R.I.) College. Mr. Hunt is a teacher of Grade 6 in the Johnson (R.I.) school system.

LOBSTER PRICE CHANGE

PARIS (AP) — For a time there were different French customs tax rates for incoming shellfish: higher for cooked, lower for raw. But scalded lobster wrecked the system.

Importers said their scalded lobsters were cooked, but if they looked cooked. The customs men now let all shellfish in at the lower rate.

Vacation Seen Ahead; Congress Plans Little

ion on the issue. Republicans put up "a spirited and sustained fight" to prevent the bill's passage, the GOP leader said.

Speaking of the President, he said: "I told him there is going to be a fight — a spirited and sustained fight — to prevent passage of this bill."

Asked how Johnson reacted, Ford replied: "He said he had a commitment. I told him he have we."

Three other major House-passed bills are before Senate committees and may move a step toward a vote during the week. They deal with revision of the immigration laws, agricultural problems and programs and federal aid to higher education.

The education and immigration measures passed the House last week.

The House Agriculture Committee hopes to clear a sugar bill this week. It would prescribe quotas for sugar imports and domestic sugar production. A bill to finance the foreign aid program is scheduled for approval by the House Appropriations Committee Thursday and for a House vote next week.

A new military construction bill will be drafted during the week by the House Armed Services Committee. It replaces a measure vetoed by Johnson because it would have limited the administration's freedom to close military bases.

Stalled in the House Rules Committee are bills to increase the federal minimum wage from $1.25 an hour to $1.75 and extend its coverage, and to raise the pay of federal civilian employees. Both are on the leadership list of bills to be voted on before adjournment.

The House also is expected to take up a spirited and sustained fight over the proposed repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley law, which permits the states to outlaw compulsory union membership. Repeal is sought by Democratic leaders who have been struck, reached agreement Aug. 17 with a third union, the Marine Engineer Beneficial Association.

The President told a news conference at his Texas ranch that "normal operation of the Merchant Marine will now be resumed."

He added in a statement: "A firm basis has been laid . . . for resolving manning disputes resulting from automation, without interruption of operations."

The agreement provides for a four-year, no-strike contract. It includes a 3.2 per cent increase in economic benefits, eliminates contract inequities between various seagoing unions, according to a union spokesman, and establishes greater job security in addition to providing pension guarantees.

Capt. Lloyd W. Sheldon, president of the Masters Union, and William R. Steinberg, president of the Radio Association, said their unions had "won a good contract."

The strike had a crippling effect on other maritime employes, in addition to disrupting cruise vacations of passengers.

A port agent for the National Maritime Union, which represents 7,500 unlicensed seamen, said in Savannah, Ga.: "The strike hurt us badly."

The agent, Ralph Turchiano, noted that seamen faced six months without pay this year, including an earlier longshoremen's strike.

A shipping lines official estimated it would take three to four months to straighten out shipping schedules.

The companies struck were the United States Lines, Grace Line, Farrell Lines, Lykes Bros. Steamship Co., Moore-McCormack Lines, the Gulf and South American Steamship Co., Prudential Lines, and the Bloomfield Steamship Co.

Average monthly base pay for radio officers under the old contract had been $900. Fringe benefits brought the total labor cost to about $1,500 a month and the new increase will be based on that figure.

The average base pay for masters, mates and pilots had been about $900 a month. With premium pay fo r overtime and other benefits, wages often range up to $1,500 a month.

Serve halibut steaks with a sauce made with sauteed onion, green pepper and tomatoes. The tomatoes may be fresh or canned; if the latter, you may want to thicken the sauce lightly. For seasoning, you may add salt, freshly ground pepper and basil.

Union Seeks Vote to End Ship Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of two maritime unions say they will recommend speedy ratification of the agreement ending the costly 15-day shipping strike in East and Gulf Coast ports.

The two unions are the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, and the American Radio Association, both AFL-CIO.

Ratification could come by Wednesday, with ships sailing the following day.

President Johnson, who announced the settlement, hailed it as a step "toward a new and responsible maritime policy in this country."

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and union and management negotiators had held continuous bargaining sessions in Washington.

Nearly 100 ships have been tied by the strike that began June 15. President Johnson said strike losses, which have been estimated unofficially at about $150 million, "cannot ever be recovered."

The American Merchant Marine Institute, which represents eight shipping lines that have been struck, reached agreement Aug. 17 with a third union, the Marine Engineer Beneficial Association.

must be done one furnace at a time.

The third step involves the open hearth, basic oxygen furnaces and Bessemer converters. Then the primary rolling mills and merchant mills that roll the final ingots. Rollers and machinery are greased and put in order for the startup signal.

During the down-period, constant checks must be made for gas leakages and gas pressure in thousands of lines, and mains must be watched. Supervisory personnel handle these tasks.

It takes about 10 days to get the mills back in full operation after being shut down, pointing up a fact that makes the steel industry different from most others — a strike can cost it billions in lost production hours before it starts.

That's why the shutdown was put off until the last possible minute.

YOUTHS ARRESTED

CROMWELL (AP) — Three youths were charged with two drugstore burglaries today and state police said more arrests are expected in connection with a string of similar breaks.

Lt. Frank Shay said there have been 25 recent drug store burglaries in Connecticut in which narcotics and cash have been stolen.

There have been 13 arrests this month, Shay said, in connection with the breaks.

Stocks in Brief

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged lower irregularly early this afternoon as dealers locked labor negotiations threatened a possible steel strike by Wednesday morning.

Gains and losses of key stocks ranged from fractions to a point or so.

The leading steel shares were lower but their losses were small. Some were trimmed or erased later.

Wall Street was undergoing considerable uncertainty and exerting caution in view of the chance that 450,000 steelworkers, who turn out 80 per cent of the nation's steel, might walk out. The nation's biggest steel producer, U.S. Steel, said it is in the process of shutting down some of its facilities to prepare for a possible strike.

Cigarette stocks resumed their advance of last week. Motors turned mixed after rising at the start.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1 at 333.0 with industrials off 7, rails up .1 and utilities up .5.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .94 at 885.02.

Some of the gold-mining issues perked up. A 2-point loss by Eastman Kodak dampened the industrial average.

U.S. Steel halved an early 1-point loss.

The cigarettes, helped last week by Wall Street recommendations, gained modestly.

Owens - Corning - Fiberglas dipped ¼ to 55¾ on a block of 32,800 shares.

Prices were higher on balance in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged in light trading.

Four Examined After Collision

Five persons were taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital by ambulance after a two-car collision at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, police report. But hospital spokesmen report, only four needed examination and only one needed treatment for abrasions. No one had to be admitted.

According to police the accident took place this way—

A car driven by John Adamy, 58, of 197 Eldridge St. entered Harrison St. from Pearl St. to head north. The car driven by Mrs. Bertha Sweet of 940 E. Middle Tpke. was heading north on Harrison St. and ran into the side of the Adamy car. Both cars had to be towed from the scene.

Mrs. Sweet and her three passengers, Frances Trombly, Donna Trombly, and Ronald Trombley, three weeks old, all of 156 Birch St. were all taken to the hospital with John W. Adamy, 80, a passenger in the Adamy car. Only the child needed treatment. Police are still investigating.

Carpenter Enthusiastic Over Sealab Experiments

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Ten squanauts finish setting up housekeeping today for their 45-day endurance test in Sealab 2, 205 feet below the Pacific Ocean surface.

Then they'll swim out to help hook up a communications and data- gathering unit on the side of their undersea trailer.

"Our views of marine life are tremendously exciting," team leader M. Scott Carpenter reported to the surface Sunday.

"Visibility down here is much greater than we had hoped for," he said. "We should be extremely successful with our marine biology experiments."

Unusually clear water now surrounds the undersea craft, giving the aquanauts 60 to 70 feet visibility, a Navy spokesman said.

"During preliminary dives, the water was murky, they could see only about 20 feet," he said.

The divers descended Saturday to their 12 x 58-foot steel cylinder on the ocean floor 1,000 yards from this Southern California resort. They were skip-diving gear.

Using underwater breathing apparatus, they later swam to a rocket-shaped personnel transfer capsule 90 feet away to inspect its workings. The capsule, clearly visible from Sealab 2, will be used to bring the aquanauts to the surface in emergencies or for final decompression on ascending at the end of their tours.

Four men who had electrodes attached to their heads prior to descent plugged them into black boxes to record their brain waves Sunday.

The test was the first of a series scientists will conduct to see whether wave patterns vary due to living and working at pressure six time that of sea level.

Saturday night Carpenter talked by radiophone with astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. in the then-orbiting Gemini 5 spacecraft.

Carpenter wished safe re-entry to Cooper and his partner, Charles Conrad Jr., adding, "looks like our mission will be a success." Carpenter, a Navy commander, is a veteran of both space and deep sea probes.

Only one significant change has been made in the Sealab experiment: Lowering the temperature inside 15 degrees cooler than planned—from 90 degrees Fahrenheit to 75.

The four divers who spent 11 days in Sealab 1 at 193 feet off Bermuda last year kept temperatures at 90 degrees for comfort.

RETURNING DISCHARGE

GUILFORD (AP)—Robert M. Cook, assistant professor at Yale University and organizer of a "teach-out" on Viet Nam on the Town Green, told some 400 persons at the program Saturday he was sending back his honorable discharge from the U.S. Marine Corps.

Cook said he was ashamed of what the Marines were doing in Viet Nam.

Great to Be Back at Desk

It's great to be back to 13 Bissell St. and behind the desk in the corner of the editorial room that has been my workshop for near 21 years. Following a week's vacation, one is looking forward to a relaxing and recuperating period. While officially the past week was a vacation, like the bus driver who enjoys riding the bus on his day off, I enjoyed being in company of some of the greats in the sports world during the vacation period.

First there was the pro football exhibition between National League entries New York and Pittsburgh at Yale Bowl, with the final round of the Caring Golf Open on the second day schedule and then a luncheon date with Eddie Shore, hockey's all-time great defenseman, now owner of the Springfield Indians in the American League.

Time was also found to spruce up the household, plus several hours of tennis, my favorite summer sport, as well as a little par three golf.

Vacations and periods of absence from the regular routine are always good, but on the other hand, I have never found a chore to get back into the swing of things. In fact, I enjoy immensely my everyday assignments. Rarely are there two days alike in months, which makes for an interesting profession.

Off the Cuff

Oftentimes baseball trades that are contemplated, but never executed, turn out best. For example, take the case of the Minnesota Twins, currently setting a red-hot pace en route to the American League pennant. During the Hot Stove League season—the span of time between the end of the 1964 campaign and the start of the 1965 play—the Twins front office and New York Met officials spent considerable time, and money, discussing what would have been a major deal for both clubs. The Twins, anxious to regain some status after falling in the stretch drive a year ago, offered the Mets catcher Earl Battey, centerfielder Jimmie Hall, pitcher Jim Perry and either second baseman Bernie Allen or third baseman Rich Rollins. In return, the Twins would receive the battery of Al Jackson, the Mets' No. 1 pitcher, and catcher Chris Cannizzaro, plus Ron Hunt, the National League's All-Star second baseman. After two days of trade talks, the Mets, through spokesman George Weiss, turned thumbs down on the proposed transaction. What a break it was for the Twins that the New York general manager said no. Hall has been one of the top hitters and run producers in the loop. Battey has staged a great comeback and now ranks as the top receiver in the A.L. Perry has regained his touch and is one of the unsung heroes in the Twin cast, winning again as a starter, and boasts a great low earned run mark. As for the three Mets, still wearing New York uniforms, Jackson has been hot and cold, mostly cold. Cannizzaro is perhaps the poorest all around catcher in the N.L. and Hunt, out with injuries most of the campaign, only recently rejoined the forces. It's hardly likely the Twins would be riding as high now as they are if the trade had materialized.

Here 'n There

Notching win No. 13 this season didn't come easy for Manchester's Tom Kelley with Portland in the Pacific Coast League. However, after several attempts, the fireballing right-hander gained the so-called "unlucky" win total and last Friday night, 24 hours after being notified by the parent Cleveland Indians that he would relieve the club shortly, recorded victory No. 14. The latest triumph was another masterpiece, just as the 13th was, a shutout. Kelley scattered four hits, fanned 13 in turning back Seattle, 7-0. The Silk Towner last two decisions of late have withstanding for a season log of 14-3. Owners of the Glastonbury Hills Country Club, the course now under construction on the former Villa Maria property, include Alexander Penny of Manchester as well as former Connecticut congressman, Ed May. The 36-36—72 course will cover 6,520 yards. Roger Barrett, greenskeeper at the Manchester Country Club, has signed to serve in a like capacity at the Glastonbury club. Stock car race driver Gene White was injured in competition last Friday night at Stafford Springs. White is the dean of Manchester pilots, having started years ago at the Cherry Park Speedway. Don Berger of Rockville, district Little League baseball commissioner, was among the happiest fans in Williamsport, Pa., last Saturday afternoon when Windsor Locks won the 1965 Little League World's Championship.

End of the Line

Following three unimpressive pre-season exhibition games, it looms as another long season for the Hartford Chargers of the Eastern Conference standings last season... Jeff Nelson motored to Williamsport last Saturday for the Little League World Series finale.

Laskau Grooms Son for Walk Title

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—2.6 seconds slower than the Games' record he set in 1953.

"Next time my son Howard who is 14 and a runner, will come over to compete instead of me," said the three-time Olympian. "I came out of retirement to compete here again because my heart is in Israel."

Gopher Ball Plagues Braves In Bid for National Pennant

NEW YORK (AP) — This gopher ball is putting the Milwaukee Braves in a hole.

The Chicago Cubs orbited five homers Sunday for a 10-2 victory over the fourth-place Braves that dropped them 2½ games off the National League lead with their sixth consecutive defeat.

And the gopher ball has proved the Braves' undoing in 61 six games. During that stretch the opposition has scored 31 runs — 23 coming on 12 homers.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, held on to their 1½-game lead despite a 13-3 clubbing by Philadelphia as the chasers continued to hop up and down the standings.

Willie Mays hit a league record 17th homer in one month as San Francisco belted the New York Mets 8-3 and moved into second place. Cincinnati dropped to third, one percentage point behind the Giants and 3½ games back of the Dodgers, after a 17-4 loss to St. Louis.

The streaking Pittsburgh Pirates climbed back to within 4½ of the top by downing Houston 4-2 for their eighth victory in nine games.

CUBS-BRAVES—Billy Williams started the Cubs' homer assault in the third inning, hitting a 3-run shot in the sixth and Banks followed with his first. Santo hit a three-run homer in the eighth — No. 399 of his career — before Santo wrapped it up with a ninth inning solo. With that support, Bill Faul had it easy as he brought his record to 4-3 by scattering seven Milwaukee hits.

PHILS-DODGERS—The Phillies blasted five Dodger pitchers starting with Claude Osteen, 11-13, for four homers and three triples as Richie Allen collected one of each. Alex Johnson, who wound up with four hits, Pat Corrales and Bobby Wine also homered while Dick Stuart and Tony Taylor joined the triple hitters. Ray Culp, 9-9, checked the Dodgers on five hits.

GIANTS-METS—Mays broke Ralph Kiner's record for most homers in one month, and moved to within one of Rudy York's major league mark, when he hit a three-run shot that climaxed the Giants' five-run outburst in the third inning. The homer also was Mays' 41st of the season and No. 406 of his career, moving him ahead of Lou Gehrig into fifth place on the all time list.

CARDS-REDS—The Cardinals got the job done against the Reds with two surges. Dick Groat keyed a five-run outburst against Sammy Ellis, 17-8, with a two-run single in the second inning and Julian Javier stroked a two-run single in a four-run fifth. Ray Sadecki, a 20-game winner for St. Louis last season, won his fourth against 11 losses.

PIRATES-ASTROS—Willie Stargell drove in the Pirates' first two runs with a triple and a single before Bill Mazeroski singled and Jim Pagliaroni doubled in the sixth inning and broke a 2-2 tie. Wilbur Wood, working in relief of Bob Veale, won his first while Don Nottebart, 4-12, lost it.

Busy Day Afield for Ron Hansen

WSox on the Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Hansen had chances. The Chicago White Sox will settle for one.

Hansen, Chicago's busy shortstop, set a major league record with his chances while helping the White Sox improve theirs in the American League pennant race.

The White Sox swept a pair of 3-2 games from Boston Sunday and moved to within 6½ games of league-leading Minnesota, which lost to Cleveland 3-1.

Hansen had a total of 18 assists and putouts in the 14-inning opener and 10 in the second game, erasing the old record for a shortstop in a doubleheader of 26 established by Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh in 1940.

His first-game total also tied the AL mark for an extra-inning game shared by four other players.

The double victory certainly enhanced whatever chance the White Sox may have for overpowering Minnesota. They, or anyone else, were given virtually no chance two weeks ago.

But since Aug. 13 Chicago has won 18 games and lost only four while the Twins have been 9-8. As a result the White Sox have stormed from fifth place, 11½ games out, to second, 6½ out.

In other games Sunday Detroit edged Los Angeles 2-1, Washington rapped Baltimore 5-2 in 12 innings and New York whipped Kansas City 5-four-run outburst in the third inning. The homer also was Mays' 41st of the season and No. 406 of his career, moving him ahead of Lou Gehrig into fifth place on the all time list.

CARDS-REDS—The Cardinals got the job done against the Reds with two surges. Dick Groat keyed a five-run outburst against Sammy Ellis, 17-8, with a two-run single in the second inning and Julian Javier stroked a two-run single in a four-run fifth. Ray Sadecki, a 20-game winner for St. Louis last season, won his fourth against 11 losses.

PIRATES-ASTROS—Willie Stargell drove in the Pirates' first two runs with a triple and a single before Bill Mazeroski singled and Jim Pagliaroni doubled in the sixth inning and broke a 2-2 tie. Wilbur Wood, working in relief of Bob Veale, won his first while Don Nottebart, 4-12, lost it.

Single, Walk and Three Wild Pitches In Same Inning but RSox Can't Score

CHICAGO (AP)—Mix a single, a walk and three wild pitches in the same inning. The result? Nothing.

The Red Sox added this rather remarkable exercise in futility to their long list of this season's lost opportunities as they dropped a pair of 3-2 games Sunday to the Chicago White Sox.

It came at the end of a long day. The Red Sox hung on for 14 innings in the opener before watching the winning run come in on a sacrifice fly.

Then, in the eighth inning of the nightcap, trailing 3-2, Frank Malzone singled and went to second on a wild pitch. Tony Conigliaro walked and both men advanced on another wild pitch. Still no outs.

Felix Mantilla hit a grounder to Don Buford and cut Malzone down at the plate. Conigliaro was held at second, but he and Mantilla advanced on the third wild pitch.

Lee Thomas licked a grounder to Tom McCraw, who scooped it up and got Conigliaro trying to score. Carl Yastrzemski ended the agony by grounding out.

The Red Sox made only one error all day, in the first game and it allowed for the margin of victory. In the third inning, with Ken Berry on third base, McCraw headed down for second on the steal.

Russ Nixon threw wild into centerfield and Berry scored.

Tony Conigliaro boomed a triple to right center in the sixth inning of the opener to score Malzone.

In the second inning of the nightcap, Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli lofted solo home runs Horton for his fourth and Petrocelli for his 19th of the season.

Al Geiberger Gains First Major Event

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Al Geiberger didn't need any peanut butter and jelly sandwiches to capture the $100,000 American Golf Classic Sunday. But he took them along and ate, anyway.

Geiberger took a five-stroke lead into the final round and although he shot a two-over-par 35-37—72 no one offered a challenge as the thin man won his first major tournament and pocketed the top prize of $20,000.

Geiberger, 6-foot-2½, said he has dropped to 155 pounds. The winds which buffeted the Firestone courses during the first three rounds failed to ruffle him as he finished the 72 holes at an even par 280.

Bobby Nichols, second to Geiberger as the final round opened, had a 36-40—76 and a 289 total to finish in a tie for place tie with Johnny Pott, Tony Lema and Jack Rule Jr.

Arnold Palmer opened the day one stroke behind Nichols. He shot a 36-34—70 and 284 and he birdied the final hole to finish second and add $12,000 to his bankroll.

U.S. and Australia In Doubles Finals

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle met Frank Froehling and Charley Pasarell today in the first U.S.-Australia Final for the National Doubles Tennis Championship in six years.

Australians Emerson and Stolle fought their way into the final Sunday by striking down the No. 1 seeded American team, Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., before more than 5,000 persons.

In the women's finals, defending champions Billie Jean Moffitt and Karen Hantze Susman today faced Nancy Richey and Carole Caldwell Graebner on the Longwood Cricket Club's grass courts.

Froehling, 23, of Miami, Fla., and Pasarell, 21, of Santurce, Puerto Rico, defeated Cliff Richey, Scott of St. James, N.Y., and Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., 13-11, 9-7, 6-4 to gain the final against Emerson and Stolle.

The Aussies stopped Graebner and Riessen and preserved their unbeaten record on American grass this season in a 6-4, 43-minute match, 6-4, 7-9, 6-4, 7-5.

Graebner and Stolle have won four straight doubles tournaments and 25 matches in a row.

The raw, windy day, with a driving rain during the last match, didn't seem to bother either team.

Davis Cuppers Riessen, 23, and Graebner, 21, played their best match together in three years.

The key play came in the 10th game of the fourth set when Riessen and Graebner had Emerson at set point. The 26-year-old Emerson came through with a brilliant volley on the first point and the Australians went on to win.

Froehling and Pasarell, after a tight opening set, made few mistakes from then on and won easily.

Ilie Nastase Moffitt, 21, of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Susman, 23, of St. Louis, defeated Virginia Wade, 19, and Neil Truman, 18, of Britain, 6-3, 6-4 in Wightman Cup winners, 6-4, 6-2. Neither winners lost her serve.

Froehling and his father, Frank Froehling Jr., 48, of the father and son title for the fourth time, beating Leslie Fitzgibon and his son Herbie, Garden City, N.Y., 6-4, 6-3.

The Senior Women's Doubles Championship went to Mrs. Charlotte Lee of Short Hills, N.J., and Kay Hubbell of Conway, N.H., who beat Mrs. Lucille Davidson of Lee's Summit, Mo., and Mrs. Doris Poppie of Des Moines, Iowa, 6-2, 6-3.

Mrs. Richey of Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Graebner, Clark Graebner's wife, entered the finals Saturday.

Paul Waner Succumbs at 62, Hall of Famer Longtime Star

WALTZ—Clete Boyer of the Yankees and outfielder Jose Cardenal appear ready for a dance but actually Clete tagged the speedy Cardenal on a force play at third base.

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Paul (Big Poison) Waner, member of baseball's Hall of Fame and pound for pound one of the greatest players in the history of the game, is dead at 62.

Waner, nicknamed Big Poison because at 153 he weighed three pounds more than his brother, Lloyd (Little Poison), died at his home here Sunday. He had been in failing health for several years and underwent surgery last March, but cause of death was not announced.

The Waner brothers played with the Pittsburgh Pirates for many years and formed one of the most famous brother combinations in baseball, starring both afield and at the plate.

"Pound for pound, Paul was the greatest," said his close friend, Heinie Manush, also a Hall of Famer. "I knew him since 1927. What a great guy he was!"

Waner was also an outstanding golfer and won the National Baseball Players' Golf Championship in 1953, beating Babe Ruth in the finals.

After he retired from baseball, Paul settled in Sarasota and his golfing partner was Manush, a former star with Washington and Cleveland.

Both Paul and Lloyd, who survives, stood 5-foot-8½; both had exceptional speed and fine coordination. They learned baseball on the farm at Harrah, Okla., where they grew up.

Paul often said he learned to follow the ball by using a homemade bat and a cornsob for a ball.

"I have never batted a curve ball thrown by any pitcher," he once said, "that was as hard to hit as the cobs the boys used to throw at me down on the farm. That was where I learned to follow the ball."

Both Paul and Lloyd were left-handers and played the outfield for 20 years before retiring from the majors in 1945.

Football Death Toll Hits Five

The death of a 17-year-old high school player in San Diego, Calif., has raised the toll of football fatalities to five in the past four days.

Cruz Medellin, who collapsed after a tackling drill last Friday at Lanier High School, died Sunday in a San Antonio hospital. A blood vessel had ruptured at the base of the youngster's brain.

A college sophomore and three schoolboys died during practice sessions Saturday and Friday.

The death of John C. Devlin, 19-year-old fullback at South Carolina State College, Orangeburg, S.C., was attributed to a stroke. Heat prostration also claimed David Tyrone, 15, of Atlanta, after a Forest Park High School scrimmage in 100-degree temperature.

Art Willis, 17, of Las Cruces, N.M., High School, got up after being tackled in a drill and started back to the huddle but collapsed and was dead on arrival at a Las Cruces hospital.

Edgar R. Foutz, 15, died at a Sioux City hospital from head injuries suffered in tackling practice at West Monona High School, Oonawa, Iowa.

Moriarty's Win, 2-0: Start Playoff Tonight

Tuning up for the start of the Hartford Twilight League playoff finals, starting tonight, Moriarty's continued their exhibition play last Saturday by edging the Rockville American Legion at Mt. Nebo, 2-0. Tonight's contest that gained the pool fund about $35.

Pitching dominated the chilly late afternoon contest, Paul Zaremba going the distance for the winners, allowing but three hits, fanning nine and walking three. Hard luck plagued Rockville starter Skip Olander, who was touched for only two hits during his stint, giving way to Jim Martello in the sixth inning.

The Gas Housers jumped on the DCoom Grahman hurler in the first inning, Hal Lewis leading off with a clean single to center. Olander got Bob Fago on a infield roller, but Bob Carlson picked one out and doubled down the leftfield line, bringing in Lewis. Moriarty's did not get another hit.

The locals took advantage of some loose defense and wildness to add some insurance in the third. Lewis walked and headed for second on the next pitch. Rockville catcher Curt Zahner overthrew the bag, Lewis taking third. He scored when Olander uncorked a wild pitch.

Joe Garbrous accounted for Rockville's longest hit, a double. Martello and Jim Needham were the other visitors hitting safely against Zaremba.

BASEBALL HEROES

BATTING—Ron Santo, Cubs, hammered two homers and added two singles for 4-for-4 performance, leading Chicago to 10-2 victory over Milwaukee that handed fourth-place Braves their sixth straight loss.

PITCHING—Ray Culp, Phillies, checked National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers on five hits in Philadelphia's 13-3 victory.

Pro Charts

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN

OFFENSE

RECEIVERS—Ron Sato. The Patriots have ever had. Besides old reliable Jim Colclough, who is the mover, if not the speed. Pats now show off fleet Art Graham, highly touted rookie Jim Whalen, Have worked Ron Burton as flanker, too. Whalen's so good, with fine size, there's speculation he'll play tight end. RATING — very good.

OFFENSIVE LINE — For some reason they can't find a tight tackle. Well satisfied with Don Oakes at left tackle, guards Charley Long and Billy Neighbors (who is the best set in AFL) and Jon Morris, who finds all-league as a rookie. But unless a rookie like Tom Neville or Justin Canale develops, they'll rely on holdovers Bob Yates or Bob Schmidt. RATING — good.

QUARTERBACKS — That coaching spot being grooved for Babe Parilli may not be far off. Eddie Wilson, secured from Chiefs, is first reliable replacement the Babe has had. But when it counts, you can bet the Babe, who matured late as a pro will be at controls. RATING — very good.

RUNNING BACKS — Fine until they got inside the 10-yard line. Then guys like Larry Garron, J.D. Garrett, maybe Burton don't have the heft to push it over. Jim Nance of Syracuse is a possibility, but Ellis Johnson has been more impressive rookie. They're toying with ex-Middle Joe Bellino as a spot threat. RATING — fair-to-good.

DEFENSE

DEFENSIVE LINE—Coach Mike Holovak frankly admits he needs another tackle to replace retired Jess Richardson. Houston Antwine needs no help at other tackle spot; Larry Eisenhauer, Bob Dee are good pass-rushers at the ends. If Jim Hunt caught fire, the fourth job would be his. Otherwise, look for a procession of rookies. RATING — fair.

LINEBACKERS—The guts of the Patriot defense. Besides ability, Nick Buoniconti in middle and Tommy Addison on left side provide inspired leadership. Nick's the best in the AFL. Jackie Rudolph made fine comeback in '64 to regain his post on the right side. Lonnie Farmer can relieve. RATING — very good.

DEFENSIVE BACKS—Could be a couple of changes. Ross O'Donoghue, 9-year fairly well set as the safeties, but Dick Felt is out as a corner back because of a bad knee. Don Webb, Chuck Shonta remain, but a revelation at camp contender has been a free agent named Tom Hennessey. Touch of class is needed here. RATING — fair.

SUMMARY — Patriots are still an enigma. Lose all their exhibitions but hang tough when the season starts. The key is a tenacious defense that's played together a long time. For the first time they're also beginning to accumulate some glamor rookies. If injuries don't mar their offense, watch out. PREDICTION — first place.

Hartford Loser In Providence

Charleston grabbed sole possession of first place in the western division of the Continental Football League in weekend action while Philadelphia and Toronto remained deadlocked for the top spot in the east.

Charleston boosted its record to 3-0 by defeating Richmond 33-17.

The east leaders also had 3-0 marks after Toronto downed Newark 35-35 and Philadelphia edged Fort Wayne 14-10.

In other games, Rhode Island defeated Hartford 19-7 and Norfolk downed Wheeling 13-7.

Quarterback Don Miller passed and ran Charleston to victory after Richmond, which has an 0-3 record, took a 14-0 lead in the first quarter.

Defensive halfback Sherman Ross ran 90 yards with an intercepted pass that gave Philadelphia its victory and dropped Fort Wayne, 2-1, into a second place tie with Hartford in the west.

Dan Henning threw well to give Norfolk, 1-2, a 13-0 lead that held up against Wheeling, 0-3, in an eastern division game.

Tom Kennedy completed 26 of 37 passes for 321 yards in leading Rhode Island, 1-2, to its upset over Hartford, 1-2.

Ivy League Grid Outlook Comparable to '50 Season

NEW YORK (AP) — When two-platoon football was at its peak about 15 years ago, Ivy League colleges enjoyed some of their greatest successes since the days when the Big Three deserved that name.

Current Ivy League coaches, seeing their players in uniform today for the first time since the end of the 1964 season, face the same sort of problems as their 1950 predecessors. They have to man two platoons without enough experienced players.

Several of them have been platooning, to the extent permitted by the rules and manpower, for a couple of years. They have some idea of their players' capabilities, even without the benefit of spring practice. Now they'll have to decide how to use those stars who could be top men on either platoon.

Harvard Coach John Yovicisin put it this way:

"In the last several seasons, we've attempted to make maximum use of the best players on our squad and tried to develop two units capable of playing both offense and defense. But we think most of the other teams will be playing platoon football and we want to do it too."

Harvard is one of four teams expected to make the race for the Ivy title. In their spring poll, the Ivy information directors picked Harvard and Dartmouth as co-champions with defending champion Princeton and Cornell close behind.

Princeton Coach Dick Colman, knowing he'll be a target after his unbeaten 1964 season, is understandably leary of making predictions. He'll only promise a team strong enough to give the others a good scrap.

HORN(UNG) OF PLENTY—The apparent return to form of the Green Bay Packers' Paul Hornung as an all-around player is the talk of professional football.

In capsule form, here's how the contenders shape up less than four weeks before the opening games:

Harvard — Offense: strong in the backfield with John McCluskey, Wally Grant and Bob by Leo. Only three lettermen in the tentative offensive line with some good prospects. Defense: solid except for cornerbacks. Linebacker Bob Barrett and safeties Dave Fox and John Dockery outstanding.

Princeton — Offense: Capt. Paul Savidge and Stas Maliszewski, two of the Ezats's top linemen, are equally able as offensive guards and as tackle and linebacker on defense. Ron Landeck, No. 1 single wing tailback, also is a defensive halfback standout. Colman's problems are first deployment, then development.

Dartmouth — Offense: Mickey Beard is top Ivy quarterback returned and Gene Rysewicz a sophomore with good potential. Halfback Bob O'Brien and end Bob McLeod Jr., other standouts. Interior line needs patching. Defense: Capt. Tom Clarke at end needs help. This probably is key to Indians' success.

Cornell—Offense: Coach Tom Harp switched to Wing-T formation last year and platooned extensively. Marty Sponaugle and Bill Wilson head an experienced backfield but jayvee grads must bolster line. Defense: All-Ivy Phil Rainer and Dave Hanlon top a good line but safety Jim Dougherty is only experienced defensive back. Cornell has to develop the depth it has at Princeton and Harvard in its first two Ivy games.

The others: Columbia has a good offensive line but will miss Andy Roberts sadly; Yale, with new coach Carmen Cozza, has a big job patching up a weakness throughout the team. Halfbacks and ends best.

Brown has a fine quarterback in Bob Hall and some good offensive support for him. Penn's new coach, Jerry Odell, switched from the traditional single wing to the T. Has 24 lettermen from a non-winning team, including Bruce Molloy and Harry Eli-Could make trouble but probably won't make much progress.

Hopes High, Low in Grid Camps

New England Squads Prepping for Season

BOSTON (AP)—Football activity on New England college football fields swings into high gear with teams launching pre-season practice in preparation for the 1965 campaign.

As usual, hopes are high in some camps, low in others. Some area colleges look to this fall as a rebuilding period. But there isn't one, naturally, who doesn't wish for an upset winner, such as a hard-hitting fullback, a fancy passing quarterback or an agile 200-pound tackle.

Vermont, Massachusetts and Northeastern got the jump on rivals by hitting the gridiron grind last week. They will be joined by all other New England colleges by this Wednesday.

Northeastern has been in training for a week. Vermont launched drills Thursday. Massachusetts, Yankee Conference champion the past two years, opened camp Friday and even got in a contact session during the weekend.

Many schools have scheduled meetings with football writers and photographers Tuesday before gear up for serious business the next day. Boston University Coach Warren Schmakel plans to greet his charges at Nickerson Field in Weston and then lead them to a training camp at Peterborough, N.H.

Training tables for other squads will be on the campus.

Hopes are high at Harvard, where Coach John Yovicsin, recovered from open heart surgery, will greet 16 lettermen among 100 candidates. Harvard, runnerup for the Ivy League title last year, is rated a good bet to improve its 6-3 record, but needs help in the line.

At Boston College, Coach Jim Miller has 20 returnees but faces a major task to fill holes left by the departure of six starters in the line. A plus factor for the Eagles is that they're loaded with outstanding quarterbacks.

In Worcester, Holy Cross will look a little different despite 26 lettermen back from a 1964 squad which had a 5-5 record. For the first time since World War II, Coach Eddie Anderson will be missing. Anderson retired and was succeeded by former Crusader star Mel Massucco.

Dartmouth will launch its 85th football season with Coach Bob Blackman disturbed about the Indians' inner defense. Blackman hopes he can build a sturdier defense to go with his all-out offense, one of the nation's top pass attacks.

Carmen Cozza inherited a few problems in his debut at coach at Yale. Named to succeed John Pont, who went to Indiana, Cozza has lettermen back, but needs to fill holes in the middle of the line and also is looking for a top quarterback.

At Brown, co-captain and quarterback Bob Hall leads 17 lettermen scheduled to check in with Coach John McLaughry. The Bruins immediate hunt is for help at center, the tackles and in the defensive backfield.

Hackney, Smith Defend Laurels

Back to defend their title, three Manchester Country Club teams of Pro Alex Hackney and amateur Ron (Red) Smith traveled to the Torrington Country Club today for the Connecticut PGA Stroke-Matter Championship.

The local duo won the title last year after a playoff with Stan Stanzowski and Howard Weaver, Green Woods.

Smith recently set a new record at Manchester, moving over the fairways in 63 strokes.

Parilli in Mid-Season Form

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP)—The Boston Patriots looked today to the season opener two weeks away with a key veteran already in midseason form.

Quarterback Babe Parilli led his teammates back to the practice field after completely outshining the costly New York Jets' signal-caller, Joe Namath, in Saturday's exhibition.

Despite losing 17-0 in the contest at Norfolk, Va., the Pats outplayed the Jets during the first half when Parilli was at helm and other Boston regulars saw action.

Parilli, who left after the half, completed 12 of 19 passes for 119 yards. Namath, the Jets' celebrated $400,000 rookie, his on only 2 out of 18 for 26 yards and had one toss intercepted.

Jim Nance, the Pats' rookie fullback from Syracuse, helped the ground game with 36 yards in 8 carries for a 4-yard average, to continue his good running.

Moriarty Spokesman

Constitutional Curb Asked On Spending Road Revenue

Manchester's Matt Moriarty, chairman of a group of 31 organizations concerned with highway uses, today appealed to Constitutional Convention delegates to support "a constitutional protection for all highway use revenues, to prohibit the spending of these special-purpose taxes and fees for non-highway and non-related purposes."

The group, called "The Committee to Permit a Public Vote on the Protection of Highway User Revenues," includes automobile clubs, automotive tradesmen, motel associations, farm organizations, petroleum associations, and others, all of which are directly involved in daily highway uses.

Moriarty, speaking at a public hearing at the State Capitol, told the convention delegates, "In all fairness, our committee believes there can be no valid objection to our State of Connecticut joining the distinguished company of the many other states which have seen fit to take this action."

He said that 28 states, including Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, have adopted "good road amendments" in their constitutions.

"Because these are special purpose monies which motor vehicle users pay solely as a consequence of motor vehicle ownership and operation," Moriarty continued, "it is the opinion of our committee that such revenues should be used only for highway purposes."

In emphasizing the need for the adoption of a constitutional amendment, Moriarty said, "Sad experience has taught highway users in this and other states that a provision in the state's constitution is the only way of assuring full protection of highway funds."

Four from Town Attend Institute

Frank Conti, inspector in the town's building department, is attending a four-day institute at the University of Connecticut, conducted for the municipal building officials of New England.

The institute, which will run from today through Thursday, will cover advanced programs, dealing with building materials and techniques; code administration, including building, housing, plumbing and electrical codes; zoning; and legal standards for enforcement of regulations.

Participating as Institute staff members are three local men: Chief Building Inspector Thomas C. Monahan, Deputy Building Inspector Bernard A. Dion, and Beldon H. Schaffer, director of UConn's Institute of Public Service, co-sponsor of the course.

Monahan will conduct a workshop on "Plan Examination"; Dion will preside at a seminar on "The Legal Basis of Building Regulation"; and Schaffer, in addition to delivering the opening remarks, will award completion certificates at Thursday's closing session.

Pressure Stays On For Steel Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, who won an eight-day postponement of the steel strike threat Monday night, kept up the pressure for a settlement today in his weekly meeting with Democratic congressional leaders.

The party chiefs from the Capitol came out of the breakfast session reporting that the steel situation was discussed extensively, and urging that the negotiators stay in session as long as necessary to reach agreement.

They made their remarks to newsmen shortly after representatives of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers Union and 10 major firms that produce 80 per cent of America's steel had gone back to the bargaining table just across a private street from the White House.

"Management and labor should stay in Washington until this matter is settled," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

And, echoing sentiments stated by House Speaker John McCormack, Mansfield expressed hope that steel mills will remain in operation even if a settlement is not reached before the expiration of the eight-day grace period.

Both at home and abroad, Mansfield said, "there is too much at stake which the country will have to pay for if there is one" — a strike.

Like Mansfield, McCormack said the negotiators, summoned to Washington by Johnson, "ought to remain in session until a settlement is reached."

He said members of Congress could compliment management and labor representatives for accepting Johnson's plea for continued talks, but a settlement is what Congress wants.

Mansfield said, "It is recognized that a steel strike at this time would deal a damaging blow to our prosperity and to the defense of the dollar."

Both McCormack and Mansfield said any strike would affect not only the domestic economy, but to some extent, the war in Viet Nam.

McCormack noted that steel industry profits in the first six months of 1965 exceeded 16 per cent the level recorded a year earlier.

In response to a question, McCormack said this was not a veiled suggestion that management increase its pay offer.

McCormack said a strike would amount to "admission of failure of leadership on both sides."

LBJ One-Man Gang

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson probably would flare up at the idea that his is a one-man administration. Yet perhaps as much as any man who has occupied the White House, he is the government.

It is Johnson who has the power. And it is Johnson who ultimately decides on all the major and many minor moves on the chessboard of domestic affairs and foreign policy.

Whatever he is, Johnson has come up with an amazing mass of legislation to build what he calls the Great Society. He says his one overriding goal is lasting peace.

How does he operate?

This is a man who puts in many a 16-hour day practicing persuasion and what he might call enlightenment. He bounces from one chore to another in seemingly tireless fashion. He helps, though, to do it in shifts — there's a midafternoon nap.

He consults. He seeks consensus. He requests and receives advice. He schedules conference after conference — with members of Congress, governors, mayors, leaders in all sorts of fields — civil rights, education, business, labor, the professions. The President of the United States has been known to converse with officials or guests behind a bathroom door, or in a shack on one of his more remote properties in the Texas hill country.

As for those tales about his arm twisting, he dismisses them as fantasy. But he does some effective wheedling and needling, preferably in face-to-face chats or on the telephone.

There's never been anything like the telephone consoles with their lights and push buttons spread all over the White House and the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

The President can be a delightful host too. He is a frequent one. Never before have so many people seen so much of the White House so often — even to the presidential bedroom. There are big parties and little ones, outside and inside, and on boat rides down the Potomac.

A photographer hovers nearby and guests get autographed pictures later of themselves and the President, often in color. Or they get pens used at bill signings, or cards showing Johnson and his dogs — with footprints at the bottom — to take to the kids.

Guests at the ranch are treated to a ride on the range in a high-powered convertible, with a special horn to call up the blooded herefords, or to a speedboat spin on nearly Lake LBJ. Incidentally, this, mainly, is Johnson's recreation — this and his work.

And if Johnson bestows favors, maybe he can ask favors. If he receives one, he never fails to follow up with a word of appreciation. "That," says a member of Congress, "I like."

Yet this President, at other times can be domineering and unforgiving; and he can react to language blistering enough and profane and earthy enough to make an artillery sergeant shudder.

A staff he drives with an iron hand gets the brunt of the Johnson anger at times and yet gives him unswerving loyalty.

Reports got around that the President once gave former press secretary George E. Reedy a verbal rawhiding; then gave him a station wagon for Christmas. Johnson is supposed to have explained:

"You never want to give a man a present when he's up—

Quick Marriages To Evade Draft Might Not Work

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The head of U.S. Selective Service says the young men who rushed to tie the knot last week hoping to escape the draft may, after all, end up doing a hitch.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey had some tough words Monday for all able-bodied men who are now deferred from the draft because they are married or in school.

Speaking to civic and business leaders at a luncheon, the chief of the draft since World War II said married but childless men will be called up as soon as the manpower pool of single 19-year-olds falls short of quotas. That could come as early as next spring, he said.

Addressing himself to the many men who plunged into matrimony to meet President Johnson's draft-deferment deadline last Thursday, 24 minutes, Hershey said: "I believe they'll discover they didn't beat any deadline."

"I was amused," he said, "We'll get most of them — in four or five months."

He warned that Selective Service officials plan "to take a good look at the fellow who marries some girl and forgets to stay around and provide a home. We're interested in him."

In addition, he said, draft boards might soon decide to conscript students by giving "special reports" or taking a "percentage of certain classes."

He indicated students most liable to draft were those taking less than 30 units per year and "those who get kicked out, one year and go back the next."

"If I were in school I'd look around and see if I was a student or someone just taking courses," Hershey said.

Regain Lost Weight

Astronauts Huddle With Medical Men

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr., their hearty appetites gradually regaining the weight the pair lost during an epic eight days in space, huddled today with technical and medical experts who sought to learn everything possible about the flight of Gemini 5.

Meanwhile, two other astronauts, Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford, were busy preparing for Gemini 6, less than two months away.

Cooper and Conrad flew to the Cape Monday from the aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain. They had been ferried to the carrier by helicopter after splashing into the Atlantic Ocean at the end of their record mission.

The astronauts immediately were hustled to a medical facility for exhaustive tests which did not disclose any adverse symptoms.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, Gemini flight surgeon, reported the pilots were in extremely good physical condition. He said examinations would continue for weeks in case something shows up later.

Berry said Cooper had gained back 6 of the 7½ pounds he lost during the flight and Conrad 4 of the 8½ he lost. Cooper weighed 152 and Conrad 154 just before launching. Berry attributed the loss to dehydration.

The pair in credited to ample Navy chow aboard the carrier and a trencherman's menu on

Prisoners Will Soon Seek Jobs

DANBURY (AP)—Certain inmates of the Danbury Federal Correctional Institution will soon be able to seek employment outside the prison.

Warden Frank P. Kenton said today the outside employment program and other changes are part of the Prisoner Rehabilitation Act of 1965.

Kenton said the new programs will be started at Danbury in the near future, after consultations with community leaders.

He said only a small percentage of inmates would be allowed to seek work in the community.

Certain prisoners will also be given furloughs under the new law.

11 Charges

CANAAN (AP)—Raymond J. Schooner, 18, of Amenia, N.Y., faces four motor vehicle charges from Connecticut state police, three from New York state police and four from the Dutchess County, N.Y., sheriff's office in the wake of an early morning chase back and forth across the state line.

Connecticut state police said Schooner fled into Connecticut Monday night when Dutchess County authorities tried to stop him.

A Connecticut state trooper picked up his trail near Cornwall and chased him back across the border. Schooner was finally

Beame Cites Fair's Poor Management

NEW YORK (AP)—A preliminary audit by City Comptroller Abraham D. Beame accused the New York World's Fair today of poor financial management in its first year.

The report, issued 10 months after Beame demanded an audit of the fair, said a switch in bookkeeping system turned a $12.7-million surplus reported a year ago into a $17.6-million deficit reported last Dec. 31.

Beame also cited examples of what he said were overcharges by Fair contractors.

Fair President Robert Moses replied that if anything was obstructing progress at the Fair, it was the work of Beame's auditors and not Fair officials.

Moses said the two-year Fair, which climbed over the 15 million mark in 1965 attendance Monday, "has done more for New York than any comparable event in three centuries."

Attendance in 1964 was 27.1 million. Before the Fair opened, officials estimated it would draw 40 million persons the first year and 30 million the second.

After it failed to reach the first year's goal, the attendance estimate for this year was placed at 37.5 million. The Fair closes Oct. 22.

Beame is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for mayor of New York and the audit has become a political issue. He was challenged to issue it last week by City Council President Paul Screvane, Beame's principal opponent for the nomination.

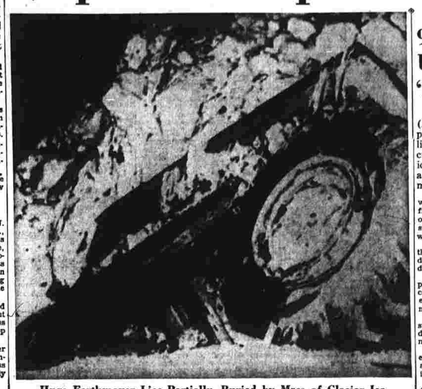
New Avalanche Threat Imperils Alps Rescue



Huge Earthmover Lies Partially Buried by Mass of Glacier Ice

Rescue Worker and Trained Dog Begin Digging

99 Trapped Under Ice; 'No Hope'

SAAS FEE, Switzerland (AP) — Helicopters dropped explosives on the Allalin Glacier today after rescuers, imperiled by a new ice fall, halted operations at the site of the Mattmark avalanche disaster.

Sirens wailed over the valley where one of the largest ice fields in the Alps tumbled down on a hydroelectric construction site Monday night, trapping 99 workers.

Rescuers feared the glacier threatened a new fall and decided to blast away its most dangerous parts.

According to the latest reports, six bodies have been recovered from under a thick layer of ice blocks. Missing are 93 more workers—mainly Italians.

"If they were not killed on the spot, they would have frozen to death during the night," a foreman told newsmen.

More than 1,000 rescue workers evacuated the disaster scene after the Glacier began crackling shortly after dawn.

The giant glacier split Monday and sent millions of tons of ice and rocks crashing down on the power project site.

With the threatened new ice-fall, rescue workers scurried from the danger zone. They had made little headway hacking at the icy debris despite an all night effort, during which they recovered only six bodies.

"There's no hope for the men under that mass," said one rescue worker. In some places, the rubble of ice and rocks lay more than 100 feet deep.

Ice continued to fall from the

Early Chill Sets Record Across East

NEW YORK (AP) — An early morning chill covered the East from Maine to Georgia today and records fell like autumn leaves.

Frost nipped several areas in New England.

The mercury sank to a freezing 29 in Concord N.H., and to 30 in Chicopee Falls, Mass.

Story weather hit the Midwest again while August—usually dry and hot—ended with another day of cool, wet weather.

Lows for August were marked down in Portland, Maine, with 33; Windsor Locks, Conn., with 36; and Philadelphia with 45.

Syracuse, N.Y., with 40, and Augusta, Ga., with 50, tied low records for August.

Records for Aug. 31 were written into the books in Boston with 47; Albany, N.Y., with 37; and Norfolk, Va., with 38.

The 34 at Caribou, Maine, equalled the low for so early in the cooling season.

Thunderstorms drenched an area that extended from eastern Kansas across Missouri to central Illinois.

Crop damage appeared to be extensive as hail, whipped along by high winds, cut into stands of ripe corn.

Springfield, Ill., was swamped by almost two inches of rain in 24 hours. Trees and transmission lines toppled. Water flooded underpasses.

Heavy fog covered an area from northern Minnesota eastward to Michigan and southward to central Illinois early in the day.

The mist delayed some flights from O'Hare International Airport on Chicago's Northwest Side in the early morning.

On the resort island of Nantucket, 30 miles off the Massachusetts shore, the mercury dipped to 39 to erase a 15-year-low of 50. Another resort town,

South Remains Calm

School Desegregation Continues to Spread

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—School desegregation, spreading rapidly across the South, became calm reality today in the heart of Alabama's soil-rich farm belt. The significant break in tradition occurred quietly at Hayneville High School.

Four Negro pupils entered the red brick school at Hayneville while a silent group of 25 white spectators watched from the courthouse lawn nearby. One of the Negro pupils rode a bus with white children.

The peaceful desegregation followed the pattern of other schools in Alabama and the South. Thousands of Negroes went to school Monday with white pupils.

In the north Alabama counties of Walker and Clay, 27 Negroes attended desegregated classes Monday without incident. Hayneville, about 20 miles southwest of Montgomery, was like any other desegregated school in the South despite recent racial troubles. Throughout the region Monday the story was the same.

There was no trace of the violent, bitter resistance of earlier years as the trend of quiet change, indicated last year, became a clear-cut pattern in rural and urban areas alike Monday. Few, if any, incidents were reported in the South, and it appeared the era of racial segregation in schools was coming to an end.

Indicative of the change was Mansfield, Tex., which became a Southern symbol of resistance to school integration less than a decade ago when whites staged mass protests to integration. All was quiet Monday as about 70 Negro junior and senior high school students attended desegregated classes.

"We did not have nor did we expect any trouble at all," said Supt. Willie Pigg.

Some schools already had begun classes. Many others opened Monday, and others will begin classes during the next two weeks.

Desegregation of South Carolina's schools spread to several urban areas with no incidents as about 900 Negroes were added

Planes Continue Assaults on Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Strategic Air Command B52 bombers from Guam hit two suspected Viet Cong concentrations tonight in South Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman said.

One strike by the huge eight-engine planes was made on Quang Tin province, 320 miles northeast of Saigon. The other was carried out in the Communist stronghold called Zone D, 30 miles north of the capital in Bien Hoa Province.

The raids were the 15th and 16th made by B52s in the Vietnamese war. The same areas were hit by B52 raids last weekend. It was disclosed Monday that the role of the B52s would be stepped up sharply.

In another development, a government unit clashed with Communist guerrillas 175 miles northeast of Saigon in Dar Lac Province, the spokesman said. Ten Viet Cong were killed and two captured in the action, 20 miles east of Ban Me Thuot. No Vietnamese casualties were reported.

Government forces retook an outpost 330 miles northeast of Saigon that had been overrun in the night and set ablaze by the Viet Cong.

Casualties to the regional force company defending the post were described as moderate. Viet Cong casualties were not known.

The outpost of An Hoa, about 10 miles west of the city of Quang Ngai, was reported by air observers to be burning shortly after it was hit and overrun. Vietnamese reports had said it was estimated that a battalion of Viet Cong had launched the attack, but this number was not confirmed.

Troops were lifted in by helicopter shortly after noon and reoccupied the post 320 miles

Manry Returns On Big Liner, With Company

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Manry, who sailed the Atlantic eastward in the smallest boat to make the crossing, returned today in one of the world's largest ships.

Manry brought the 13½-foot Tinkerbelle back with him aboard the Queen Mary.

The Cleveland, Ohio, newspaperman sailed alone from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England, in the Tinkerbelle in 78 days.

Asked how he liked returning on the superliner, Manry said "Big boats are very pleasant."

Manry, 47, said for his next voyage "I'd like to go down the Mississippi—that'd be in a houseboat."

The Tinkerbelle made its return voyage lashed down in the main square of the Queen Mary's promenade deck.

Manry said that sailing the small boat across the Atlantic

BALL, DEGAULLE MEET

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle met today with U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball for discussions which could lead to an active French role in efforts to settle the war in Viet Nam. Ball was accompanied to the meeting by U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen. Officially, the Americans say, Ball called on De Gaulle only to bring the French chief up to date on the Viet Nam situation.

NASSER RAISES VOICE

MOSCOW (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser declared today his people in the United Arab Republic "are raising their voices even louder in denunciation of the aggression against North Viet Nam. This may not be liked by some people in Washington," Nasser told an audience at a Soviet-U.A.R. friendship meeting. "Somebody's ears there are going to ache because of this."

KING SUGGESTS TOUR

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. suggested today that a tour of Northern Negro ghettos by President Johnson might help offset harm done to the civil rights movement by recent riots. Such a tour, he said, would be "a tremendous release for the alienation and frustration that most Negroes now feel."
