

NORTH MANCHESTER.

CHURCH DIRECTORY. NORTH M. E. CHURCH, Rev. H. H. Martin, pastor.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, Rev. H. W. Pope, pastor. Preaching, 11 A. M. Sunday.

McFarlane has received this week a nice line of pants patterns.

A crowd of uniformed almanac peddlers for a patent medicine firm did the town Thursday.

F. A. LeCount, a gentleman of leisure, has moved from Niantic to C. O. Wolcott's place in Buckland.

The 6.13 train out from Hartford goes no farther than Manchester now.

The engine goes around the train here and back into Hartford with it.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. Union will meet with Mrs. G. S. Parkhurst Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

Rev. Mr. Leader, formerly pastor of the Methodist church, died last week of Bright's disease of the kidneys.

Mr. and Mrs. James Burns, formerly of this village and now of New Haven, suffered the loss by fire of nearly all their furniture last week.

At the American laundry, North Manchester, all articles are washed with the purest soap; therefore everything will be cleaned more carefully than if done at home.

The printers in the HERALD office were taken sick with a blunder malaria last week, and gave us a paper in which we could hardly recognize our own productions.

Prosecuting Agent Wood is making a determined effort to cut off the illegal sale of liquor in this town by peddlers.

Any time to testify as to the receipt of such liquors.

Wm. H. Post & Co., the Hartford furriers are well known in Manchester and vicinity.

Constable Snow and Deputy Sheriff Moore, of East Hartford, raided Charles Andrus's saloon last Thursday afternoon.

Their search for intoxicating liquors resulted in the discovery of two pitchers, each of which contained a very little spirit.

The need of the fixtures of the bar was accounted for by the presence of bottles of ginger ale and tonic.

Regarding the improvements at the Union mill last week we wrote: "This new step will not require the employment of extra hands at once but it is hoped that eventually it will increase the business that new hands will be necessary."

The printer printed: "This new step will require the employment of extra hands at once but it is hoped that eventually it will increase the business that new hands will not be necessary."

The transposition of the word not made a world of difference in the meaning of the sentence.

John Furphy was tried before Justice Jennie last Monday, for wife beating.

The wife's story was that he was chastising their boy severely when she interfered and told him he was a brute, whereupon he turned on her and knocked her down.

Furphy pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to jail for 30 days.

He thought the sentence too hard and appealed the case to the Superior court.

If the facts have been stated to us correctly, thirty lashes at a whipping post added to the thirty days in jail would not be too severe a penalty for this offense.

There is a probability that there will be a cone of illustrated lectures in Bissell's hall this winter by Olin R. Wood, assisted by C. H. Ross.

The lectures will be on various places and tours of interest in Europe and the British Islands.

Mr. Wood has traveled extensively and has secured to illustrate each of his

LECTURES FROM FIFTY TO SIXTY EXCELLENT VIEWS THAT ARE PRESENTED TO THE AUDIENCE BY THE USE OF A CALCULUM LIGHT.

It is proposed to give the first lecture early in November, the subject being sights of interest from New York to Jerusalem.

This lecture will be understood to be free and will be followed by a series of five lectures on the following subjects: London and Edinburgh; Paris and Versailles; Florence, Milan and Venice; the Imperial City; Egypt and the Holy Land.

Tickets for this course will cost one dollar. All persons who would favor this series of lectures and buy one or more tickets for the same can leave their names at the HERALD office or at C. H. Rose's drug store.

EVERYTHING HAS BEEN VERY QUIET IN OUR LITTLE VILLAGE OF LATE.

There was a meeting called last evening to see if there could be a C. L. S. C. started. I understand there were some ten or a dozen came together but what the results were (if any were reached) I have not learned.

In a village containing so many young people it seems to me there might, and should be a class of at least thirty to engage in just that kind of study. From what little I have read in regard to its working, I think no one who enters it with a desire to receive such benefits as may accrue to them thereby will ever regret it.

Our esteemed friend the doctor came near getting left yesterday. In company with one of his boys he went out to the hills of Bolton in search of nuts I am told, and hitching his horse to a sapling near the roadside, he made the circuit of the woods.

Upon returning to the place from which they started, they found that they were minus a conveyance home. Instituting a hurried search he failed to discover its whereabouts, so the doctor dispatched the boy home by rail to ascertain whether the horse had taken the home track.

Not finding it the family became quite fearful lest some tramp had helped himself to a ride, but happily their fears were premature as a more thorough search discovered the whereabouts of the team, which had got unhitched and wandered away into the woods of its own accord.

At an adjourned town meeting held yesterday there was a committee appointed to act in connection with the selectmen to ascertain what is the best course to pursue in regard to our main roads, whether we shall nichol pave, macadamize or what in their judgement, after a careful survey of the whole, shall be for the best.

So we hope our neighbors on either side of us will not despair of occupying the privilege of traveling over a good solid bed in going to or from our neighboring city. Although there seems to be, just at this time, an effort to do most of the transportation by rail, it will be a long time, undoubtedly, before all the heavy teams will be taken off, if ever they are.

One who has been on the road for many years, remarked in my hearing, not long since that of sixteen paper mills that used to send their paper to and receive their stock from the steamboat daily, his was the only one that did so today.

It is said straw tell which way the wind blows, but most people prefer some weather vane.

BUCKLAND.—THE BOYS OF BUCKLAND, BELONGING TO THE BASE BALL CLUB, TOOK OUR ADVICE AND WENT AHEAD AND DID GOOD WORK LAST SATURDAY IN THEIR GAME WITH THE WAPPING CLUB, FOR AT THE END OF THE 8th inning, the score stood 4 for the Wapping boys, 49 for the home club. Darkness prevented the game being finished.

DIVORCE IN HEBRON.

Which Makes Trouble in the Congregational Church.

The Pastor Said for $3000 by One of Church Members.

Sometimes we have to go a long way from home to hear home news. The following account of a ruction in the Congregational Church at Hebron, we find in the Philadelphia Evening Press, of Thursday, Oct. 4th. We do not recollect having seen the news in any paper published in this vicinity.

The Rev. G. B. Cutler has for many years been pastor of the Congregational Church of Hebron, Conn. He is a plain, outspoken Yankee, too outspoken some of his friends think, as his plain speaking has got him into trouble. A special despatch says:—Mr. J. B. Fillmore, the rich man of Hebron and a member of Mr. Cutler's church, is suing his pastor for $5,000 damages, asserting that he has been injured to that extent by one of Pastor Cutler's sermons. A week or two ago Mr. Cutler preached on a polygamist in Hebron, and although Mr. Fillmore's name was not mentioned, yet everybody recognized the picture presented by him. The preacher spoke of the Mormons as having a plurality of wives, but they, he added, are compelled to take care of them. The Hebron polygamist, however, instead of supporting all his wives adopted the more economical plan of taking care of one at a time. A vile and smooth spoken man and oily tongued. The sin of the Hebron church member was the breaking of the seventh commandment. Then the speaker went on and described this member's coming to Hebron; told how he looked upon one of the fair daughters of the village and wanted her, and how he estranged himself from and divorced himself from his wife. Then he looked upon the daughter of Hebron again and she looked upon him with favor and they were married, and his lawful wife sat on one side of the church while his unlawful wife, sat with him on the other. Continuing, Mr. Cutler spoke of the member as a man of talent, and one who took a more prominent part in the meetings than the worthy deacons of the church themselves. He was a man, the pastor thought, who ought to be excommunicated, for the church itself was not safe while he the breaker of the Seventh Commandment was in it.

The sermon made many firm friends and some bitter enemies for the clergyman. A person who is familiar with the ways of this pretty hamlet says that this irrevocable was called out by the fact that there are a large number of divorced persons here, some of whom are active in the church and some are not so positively so. He has had four wives, two of whom have attended church here for some time past. Mr. Fillmore came here several years ago, bought a small farm, and settled upon it with his wife, which at that time was No. 3, and her son. The first two wives are not known of here. He had not been here long before he met Mrs. Gates, a woman who unfortunately perhaps, had a husband, and not long after that she was divorced from her husband, and not long after that she became Mrs. Fillmore No. 3. The couple went to Lockport, N. Y., and remained there a year or more, and then returned to the Hebron farm again. Mr. Fillmore and his wife No. 4 were welcomed gladly, unmindful of the fact that she was dropped from the membership years ago, and also unmindful of the alacrity the man had displayed in getting rid of No. 3 and marrying No. 4.

Some time last summer Mrs. Fillmore No. 3 came back to Hebron. It may have been owing to the fact of his having two wives present at the evening meetings that disheartened Mr. Fillmore, and made him preserve silence for a time. Calls upon Brother Fillmore to speak he talked of the canon and the needle's eye. Wife No. 3 sat ahead of him. She swung around and gazed contemptively upon the speaker during his remarks. The tableau made more of an impression than anything that was said.

What will be the effect of Mr. Cutler's sermon nobody presumes to guess. Mr. Zymes, another divorced man, has been circulating a paper for signatures which requests the pastor to resign. Mr. Fillmore is an active Republican, and has his followers. Mr. Cutler has many warm friends. The church is in an unpleasant predicament, as it needs the support of Mr. Fillmore and his friends badly, and probably he has never behaved better in his life than now.

WANT OF FAITH.

If Cheeny & Co. and C. H. Rose, the Druggist, do not succeed it is not for the want of faith. They have such faith in Dr. Bosanok's Cough and Croup Syrup as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and Lung affections that they will give a bottle free to each and every one who is in need of a medicine of this kind.

SOUTH MANCHESTER.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

ST. MARY'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH, Rev. Beverly M. Warner, Rector. Sunday morning service at 10:45. Evening service at 7:30. Sunday school at 12:15. Holy Communion on the first Sunday of every month.

The second dance of the Mt. Nobb ball association will be held in Cheney's hall next Tuesday evening. F. W. Havens, for the last year the South Manchester correspondent of the Sunday Globe has resigned his position.

A young man named Philbrook, who lived at Willard Bidwell's last summer, shot himself at Springfield this week.

Captain Tremble, of Mystic, will know to all who are accustomed to attend the Willimantic camp meeting, is dead.

The South Manchester drum and fife corps will contest for the prize in the drum corps tournament at Rockville next Tuesday.

Watkins Bros. will continue the sale of chamber suites for another week, at astonishingly low prices. See prices quoted in another column.

Under the head "Pulpit and Pew" the department formerly captioned "The Religious World" is resumed in the HERALD this week. Our readers will find it one of the most interesting departments of the paper.

There is little said about the coming election of representatives. There is no election of governor or senator this year, and the November election is likely to be quiet. The registrars give notice elsewhere of their days of meeting for making voters.

Mrs. Wm. Hanniford was badly poisoned last Tuesday by a wasp's sting in the palm of her hand. A physician was called and under his care she is improving. Wasps and hornets are unusually voracious this fall.

The following is a list of the marksmen of Co. G who will compete in the regimental shoot at Hartford next Wednesday: Lieuts. G. P. Hurd; Sergeants P. Madden, E. B. Hale and J. B. Vail; Privates A. J. Loveland, T. Joyce, W. H. Outtrim, J. McCann, T. Quish, and W. Seigle; Corpse S. M. Cheney and H. Freitag.

One of those family reunions which are of such interest to all who choose their fathers' anniversary as the date of the assembly at the homestead. Among them were George B. Gibbs, two daughters and adopted son, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Gibbs and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Stillman, of East Hartford. Of the family of nine children six were present with their families or parts thereof. The entire company feasted at a table spread in a large tent which was followed by social intercourse during the evening. The party did not separate until next day when the graves of the deceased mother and sister were decorated with flowers.

A number of individuals and families who have been receiving lager regularly from out of town teams were disappointed by the failure to receive the supply last Saturday. Bottling firms in Hartford and other places that have been delivering lager and spirituous liquors in Manchester have been notified by the prosecuting agent that if they continue such delivery they will not only be prosecuted but application will also be made to the county commissioners to revoke their licenses. In some families where lager is needed as a medicine the peddlers have been depended upon for the supply. They failed to remember that although the beer teams were a convenience, they were running in direct violation of law and now they are compelled to do as they should have done in the first place, buy their beer in Hartford.

The Whatsover Society, composed by some of the young ladies of St. Mary's parish will hold a "Book Sociable" in Cheney's Hall, next Thursday evening. There will be no admittance fee, save that every one who comes must bring a book, new or second-hand, whichever they may have. The object is to secure an addition to the parish library. The ladies will furnish a light collation free to every one who comes to the hall with a book. There will be a "pound" table for the sale of articles done up in pound parcels, the contents of which will be unseen until purchased. A fortune-teller, a post-office, and possibly other attractions will be offered. Those who intend to patronize this effort of the Whatsovers are requested to remember that no money is expected at the door, and that a book, either new or second-hand will be the only entrance fee.

GLASTONBURY.

Wm. S. Gosnell, Local Editor and Business Agent.

An article in the Cottage Hearth for October, by Thomas S. Collier, entitled "A Famous Family," gives an interesting biography of the various members of the Smith family. Introducing the article, the author enumerates some of the peculiarities of the town of Glastonbury. He says: Along the main road or street, are scattered the dwellings of the old families, strong, roomy, and generally well-preserved structures, denoting profitable farms and prosperous days. Now and then a more modern building rises among these, its bay-windows and columned porches seeming strangely out of place in this society of hundred-year-old homes. Solid and extensive brick houses are common, and in fact there is a substantial appearance about the residences on Glastonbury street that makes one respect their owners. A peculiarity that holds good with all of the older homes is the great chimney, that huge pile of stone and brick, rising in the centre of the house, and seeming an anchor around which the building was erected, with a surety that no gale could move it from its place. Some of these chimney foundations are set square in the house, but others have a diamond or lozenge shape, and their immense walls are a perpetual wonder to the rising generation. I saw one foundation that measured fifteen feet one way and ten the other, and this was not the largest. Evidently the builders of these chimneys had a wholesome respect for the northwest gales that roar down the valley of the Connecticut.

The hills that bound the plateau on the east are wooded, giving the scenery a diversity that is very attractive; and altogether, the country is a notable section. Originally, the farms extended from the river, three miles directly east, and a few of them retain their first proportions, though the natural divisions brought about by death, have made many changes in the old lines. The old width of the farms on the road, ranged from one hundred to three hundred rods, and it will thus be seen that an estate in Glastonbury in the colonial and early national days, was something more than a name. The people belong to the old Puritan stock, that sturdy, liberty-loving race, whose hands were ever ready to deal hard blows in defence of their rights, and whose many independence and utter disregard of danger when tyranny sought to oppress them have left their impress, not only on their town, but their state, and the nation as well. The Hales, Turners, Welles, Stoneys, and Hollisters of Glastonbury, have ever been ready to donate blood and life in the defence of rights that they considered a heritage derived from God; and all of the town's people have ever been noted for their ready patriotism.

Speaking of Miss Julia Evalina Healy: During my first visit, she told me that she was once traveling by stage-coach, her destination being Hartford. It was before the higher education of woman had become a matter of thought. At a point, the sight of a collegiate institution, two gentlemen entered the coach, and seeing her, began a conversation in French. Miss Julia, recognizing that they wished their conversation to be private, said to them in French, "Gentlemen, pardon me, but I understand the French." They changed the language to German, and she told them in German that she knew what they said. Astonished, they tried first Latin, then Greek, and at last Hebrew, and were met by the same experience in each case; and then one of the gentlemen, who proved to be a professor, said, in amazement, "Madam, permit me to ask you who you are?" and Miss Julia replied, "Why, I'm Miss Julia Smith of Glastonbury."

The old stand at Hockanum for so many years occupied by H. U. Holmes, has been re-opened by Mr. Pierce who proposes to keep a grocery store with none of the adjuncts formerly kept there. It is an excellent position and will no doubt remember to Mr. Pierce be profitable to him and convenient for the community.

The citizens of the First school district (Nauvoo) under the direction of George R. Curtis, are now engaged in grading and planting trees in the grounds surrounding their schoolhouse, thereby showing a commendable degree of public spirit. Now if they will go a little further and erect a handsome cupola on the building and put therein a good bell, they will have the finest school building and surroundings in all this region.

The first nine at Colt's, Hartford, came down on Saturday afternoon last and played a scientific game of base ball with the Nauvoo nine on the Talcott grounds, and retired having scored 30 runs to 2 for the Nauvoo. So far as the latter were concerned, it was a good game—to gain from.

About one month ago, while Frederick R. Curtis, in company with a lady, was going up Broad street, Wethersfield, the carriage was upset nearly opposite Mr. Josiah G. Adams' residence. The accident, it is claimed, was caused by a defect in the road. The lady was considerably injured, and Mr. Curtis will look to the town for damages.

Rev. Mr. Wait of the Hockanum Union Congregational church, occupied the pulpit of Dr. Scudder last Sabbath morning. His discourse was able and interesting. Rev. Mr. Rankin preached in the evening on the needs of our Home Mission field, a very interesting sermon.

Rev. Dr. Scudder and family are not expected to return from their journey to Chicago to attend the meeting of the A. B. C. F. M., and visit his brother Rev. Dr. H. M. Scudder, for some two weeks longer. In his absence Rev. Mr. Rankin has the charge of the pulpit supply.

Rev. Mr. Ransom formerly in charge of the Methodist church at Hockanum, but now of West Dennis, Mass., on the shores of the Cape, is spending his vacation here with his wife, making his stay with Mr. James H. Strong.

DROWNED IN A SPRING.

Last Wednesday afternoon, James Ramsdell, sixty-five years old was drowned in two feet of water. For the last year he had lived at the old Bunce place next east of Roger's east paper mill. For several months he had been so infirm that he walked with difficulty. Wednesday afternoon about four o'clock he went to a spring a short distance to the rear of his house to get some water. An hour later he was found lying with his head and shoulders under water, dead. It is supposed that he fell foremost into the spring and had not strength enough to rise. Dr. Parker was called but all efforts to resuscitate the drowned man were unsuccessful.

Mr. Ramsdell was an old and well-known resident of this town. He was a mason and was buried with masonic honors on Friday.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS AT CASE BROS.

The enterprising firm of Case Bros. are always pushing things. A few weeks ago, the HERALD described improvements they had just completed at an expense of over $10,000. Now they are further enlarging the capacity of their east mill by the erection of a two story brick building 42 by 72. To this building all the finishing machinery will be transferred and a new engine will be put in to run it. The increased capacity of the new mill will call for the addition of from six to ten men to their working force.

The stock of the New England road is down to $20 a share. At one time it was as low as $8 a share but it has since been up to $56. Lately it has been steadily declining. There has recently been a change in the attitude of the Consolidated road toward the New York and New England. The hostility of these two roads heretofore has been well known. Now the Consolidated road has bent its timetable to conform to that of the New England road, has agreed to wait its trains at connecting points for New England trains not over fifteen minutes late and has forbidden all its employees to speak disparagingly of the New York and New England road on penalty of discharge. Some prophecy from this change of heart that the Consolidated road is planning to add the New England road to its system.

people in this vicinity than the old. We formerly had no train west between 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. Now we have trains at 1:40, 6:25 and 7:35 p. m. We also have a new train east at 3:15 p. m. There is one thing more we would like,—that is a ticket office or some one to sell tickets here, so we could avoid getting the conductor's ten cent checks cashed.

One of the most interesting missionary concerts we have ever had was held in the lecture room Sunday night. It was different from any we have had. The usual way has been to have two or three fields reported from in one evening. This one was a concert exercise on the work in India. It began with responsive readings. Then the pastor read the questions, and the answers were read by different ones in the room from slips that had been given out previously, going back to 1812 when the American Board first began its work there and following it down to the present time. These readings were interspersed with prayers and singing. Our pastor also explained the different religions of the people there, Buddhism, Brahmanism and the other 'isms. The general comment was that it was the best missionary concert we ever had. We hope we shall have more like it.

The Mission Band met Tuesday evening with Miss Alice Dexter, at the residence of Mrs. E. Talcott. Mrs. Emmons has opened the dressmaking rooms in Talcott Brothers' store.

The Ladies' Missionary Society met in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon, and in the evening at the residence of Mrs. H. W. Talcott. It was a very pleasant time and all seemed to enjoy themselves. The singing by the male quartette and the solo by Mrs. Pratt, were very fine.

DEATH OF SIDNEY OLCOTT.

Sidney Olcott died at his residence yesterday (Friday) at seven o'clock. His funeral will be held at his late residence at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, and will probably be conducted by Rev. Mr. Robbins of the Center Congregational church.

Mr. Olcott was born in 1795, the son of Rev. Allen Olcott, of Manchester and Farmington. He was always a farmer, living upon his estate originally settled by his ancestor Thomas, the son of one of the first party of Hartford settlers. In his younger days Mr. Olcott was a breeder of fine woolled sheep, Saxony and Merino. He took an earnest interest in the growth of our anti-slavery man and kept open house for runaway slaves, and the itinerant preachers of that reform. He voted the old "Liberty party" ticket for years, either alone or in company with Mr. Joseph Case. In middle life he was an active member of the committee building the (old) Congregational church, and was struck down, and invalided for five years or more, by a board falling from the roof of the new building. He afterwards recovered and was among our most active and well-known citizens. Before the days of railways, he walked to Pennsylvania and bought a farm, returning in two hours less than fourteen days. For several years he has not been strong, enough for outdoor labor, but has enjoyed the health and cheerfulness possible to advanced age until stricken with chills and fever during the past summer. Since then he has visibly weakened and failed.
