We learn from a gentleman who has lately conversed with the chief engineer of the New England road that the plan of shortening the route between Manchester and Andover is still under active consideration.

Land owners in Manchester and East Hartford who have been compelled to give up land to the New York and New England railroad company are wondering when they will get their pay for the confiscated land.

The free illustrated lecture by Olin R. Wood assisted by C. H. Rose, preliminary to a course of six lectures on subjects of European travel will be given in Bissell's hall next Wednesday evening. Subject, "Souvenirs of Erin and the Continent." Miss Fannie Wright will introduce the entertainment with a musical selection.

The voting list of the town of Manchester this year does not tell a very flattering story of the progress of the town. Eighty-five voters have been crossed from the list on account of removal, death and other causes, and only eighty-five, appear on the list to be made voters. These figures indicate that the population of the town has barely held its own.

About nine o'clock Thursday forenoon, a horse driven by Cornelius Sullivan took fright at the cars and sheering suddenly, crossed the three railroad tracks adjoining the Center street crossing. The bounding of the wagon over the rails broke the wagon in several parts, and the horse, becoming more terrified, ran up on the piazza of Horace White's residence. The wagon struck a piazza post and knocked it down. The horse was stopped after running up the hill. Mr. Sullivan was thrown out and dragged a short distance, but was not seriously injured.

WAR ON SWINDLERS.

Commissioner Dudley's Crusade Against Pension Swindlers.

Determined to Prevent Veterans From Falling Into their Clutches he Takes Very Vigorous Measures to Suppress them.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Pension Commissioner Dudley's fight against the swindling pension claim agents, begun by the suspension of fifteen firms, has created a stir among the whole thieving body of these grasping scoundrels. That they will be more alarmed is probable, for the fight has only begun. It will be continued, the commissioner says, until the nest is broken and the practices of the swindlers stopped. Mr. Dudley is aware that obstructions will be thrown in his way. The pension agent has always been strong in congress, and the dishonest ones appear to have been depended for success upon their influence with necessary members, while the honest agents have stuck to such business as they could properly do, and have left pension matters in congress to be taken care of by the members. Mr. Dudley says that while there are many of the thieving claim agents, there is a large proportion of them in this city and throughout the country who are not only honest, but conforming strictly to the laws and practice of the pension bureau, but are men who do not misrepresent or take extortionate fees, or fees for which they cannot or do not render service. It should be a gratifying thing to learn that this is the fact, for there are many of these honest agents who are doing the names of 16,000 pension claim agents who are practicing before it. The number of agents having places of business in this city has not yet been ascertained. The names of only thirty-seven persons or firms engaged in the collection of claims are known to the pension bureau, but that list is very incomplete. The pension bureau can furnish the list complete, and its appearance would probably be almost as annoying to the dishonest agents as the fact that they are thieves among them were to be no longer allowed to plunder soldiers or their families.

District Attorney Corhill is very anxious to be assisted in the fight against the robbers by every person who has suffered from the extortionate practices and misrepresentation of the agents. All soldiers who have received circulars from them, or paid them fees for services not rendered, or for promises of service which they can go before the pension bureau, and who are desirous of reporting to Mr. Corhill or Commissioner Dudley, including the demands made by the agents and the state what amounts they have from time to time paid to the men with whom they filed their claims. This course will furnish the authorities with the information upon which they can go before the grand jury to ask for the indictment of the men who have clearly exceeded the law.

Several additional names of agents have been sent by Commissioner Dudley to Secretary Teller, with the recommendation that they be suspended, and it is probable that another list will be sent out in a day or two. Two of these firms are among the most prominent ones in the country. They employ many persons, and are engaged in the collection of the claims, and are provided with evidence of the shameless manner in which they have duped their unfortunate clients, accompanying their demands for fees, and threats to leave the cases concerned pending or dropped, when the agent had no power to prevent the approval of a claim once filed. The evidence against some of the men recommended for suspension is believed to be conclusive.

One case that of a deceased soldier's mother, who writes to the commissioner of pension: "Something over a year ago I received a letter from N. W. Fitzgerald & Co., pension attorneys at Washington, stating that there were many who were entitled to pensions that were not aware of that fact. They offered me a black and white check for $1000, and I gave him a full statement of my husband, from in feeble and aged condition, and he sent me a check of property at the time of my son's decease; that my husband died in 1870, but that he had left me some means. Fitzgerald & Co. have since then had a good deal of money at various times afterward he called on me through the mails for money. I sent him $10, but having been informed by an attorney of this town that Fitzgerald was misleading me, I wrote to know whether I had any claim or not. The answer has been in the form of a check, and I have been informed that she has no claim, and that a plain case of swindling could not be conceived.

Another is that of a father whose claim was presented by E. H. Gelston & Co. and rejected by the office. Shortly afterward the same claim was filed in the name of the mother. This operation netted Gelston two fees, the second one being downright robbery, of course, as the rejection of the father's claim closed the case. Commissioner Dudley is determined to make a clean sweep, now that the work has begun. He has had a circular printed requiring of applicants for pensions the amount of fee paid to the attorney, and threatening to suspend them if they do not comply. A copy will be mailed to every applicant on the office list, and the replies will show the methods of practicing attorneys.

St. Louis Switchmen Indicted.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 25.—Sixty-three of the switchmen of the St. Clair county grand jury at Belleville, Ill. The charge is conspiracy, except as against the most prominent ones, against whom three or four indictments have been found. They are not only charged with conspiracy but with intimidation and threatening and assaulting the men who took the places of the strikers. Five arrests were made, two in East St. Louis and three in this city. Those arrested are William Wilson, Charles Joyce, Tony Ferringer, William McLaughlin, and Michael Bruzell. The last named is supposed to have been the chief organizer of the strike. The strikers acknowledge their strike a failure, and are applying for their old places, but none of them are being taken back. News reached the city that the switchmen at Kansas city had concluded to strike to-morrow. There are also rumors of a strike on the Iron Mountain road. If this proves true, railroad men say a general strike on all the roads leading out of here will likely follow.

Anniversary of Webster's Death.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 25.—The anniversary of Daniel Webster's death was celebrated by the Webster Historical society at the Old South Meeting house. Mr. A. G. Brewster delivered the eulogistic address. Gov. Rice presided, and the Temple quartet sang. Five hundred of the most distinguished citizens from all parts of the country and a thousand members of the society were present.

Oil in Rhode Island.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 25.—Lucius D. Davis, proprietor of The Newport News, had a well sunk at Coxsack Point for the benefit of the summer residents. There are indications of a profuse supply of oil. The discovery has created a sensation.

Jealousy the Cause.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 25.—Catharine Rittenhouse, proprietress of a house of ill repute, was shot by George Z. Sawyer, who has been living with her for two years. After firing three shots at the woman, which took effect in her side and back, Sawyer shot himself in the head, cut two gashes in his throat and thrust a knife into his breast with the intention of committing suicide. He was arrested and taken to a police station, where his wounds were dressed, which were all slight. He was locked up. The woman's wounds are of a fatal character. Jealousy is the supposed cause.

Forty Persons Injured.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 23.—An accident occurred this morning on the Louisville and Nashville Air Line, about six miles from East St. Louis. A passenger train struck a broken rail, and the engine, feeling the shock, put on the brakes. All the coaches passed over in safety, except the last two, which were both crowded. They tipped over and were dragged a short distance, the coaches being broken. The scene was terrible. Reports state that over forty persons were injured, but only one fatally.

THE MONEY IN THE COUNTRY.

Interesting Statement of the Director of the Mint.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The director of the mint has prepared tables showing the amount of specie and paper circulation of the United States in the treasury and in the banks and in general circulation on October 1. The conclusion from these tables is that, on the basis of the national bank statement, published some time in July, there was an actual net increase of money of all kinds in the hands of the people on October 1 last of $1,000,000,000, compared with a similar statement made on October 1, 1887. It is to be remembered that the effects upon the national bank circulation of the calls of three per cent bonds were not seen in the bank statement of July last. The calls had not then taken effect to operate. The controller of the currency has denominated the statement of the condition of the national banks, which will show the amount of contraction in national currency, and make an exact statement possible as to whether or not during the year there has been any actual net contraction of the currency.

SHOT FOR HER BETRAYER.

Decorously Wounded by Her Father in War, she Saved a Fatherless Soldier.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 24.—Within seven miles of St. Mary's, Pleasant county, this state, on French creek, resides Jean Heister, a well-to-do farmer. Several months ago his daughter, Miss Nannie J. Wells, became a mother, and Alexander Brown, one of her suitors, left for Ohio. Late last week he returned. He had refused to marry the girl, and she had fled to escape the law. About a week ago she was seen by her father and brother John and sister out on the yard to talk over the affair. Henderson told her to call his daughters in and have the boys leave. Mrs. Henderson did so. A colloquy ensued, and Henderson, becoming impatient, went outside and ordered the Browns to leave. Quarrel arose, and Henderson poured a rifle and returned to the yard and informed the Browns that if they did not get out of the yard by five o'clock, he would shoot them. Bob immediately left, but Alexander remained. The time of Henderson's leaving was about five o'clock. He was seen by his mother and sister had breathlessly watched the scene, and rushed forward to turn the woman aside, just as Henderson fired. He struck the point of her shoulder, following the blade and entered the body, making a dangerous wound. She fell, and Henderson, seeing this, clubbed his rifle and rushing on Brown struck him. Brown wrenched the gun away, and after a tussle used it over. Henderson's head in a tussle, and he was seen to understand, now says that if the girl recovers from her wound he will marry her.

THE DEATH OF CAPT. CRAIG.

From a Captaincy in an English Regiment to a Juniorship.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—At the coroner's inquest on the body of Zimian Craig, once captain in an English foot regiment and at last junior of the young men's democratic club, at No. 5 Merrick street, a verdict was returned of death by fire. Capt. Craig was descended from a good Scotch family, and was sixty-three years of age at the time of his death. He was commissioned as ensign in the First regiment of foot or "Red-bays" (the name under which the regiment was originally raised), during the reign of King William the Third. His first service was in Canada during the rebellion of 1758, when he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant for expedition in carrying dispatches to New York from the base of operations. He exchanged into the First West India regiment, and while in his regiment he distinguished himself by his bravery, and his next promotion was to that of captain. He was presented with an address upon leaving the Nassau station, and his next posting was to the coast. He held out his commission nearly twenty years ago, expecting to live upon the proceeds. A bad cold, however, and a careless riding overpowered him, and compelled him to accept the position of junior, which he occupied for the last few years of his life, and died in Philadelphia, Oct. 19, 1888, at the age of 63.

That Tilden-Hendricks Interview.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23.—A despatch to the Cincinnati Gazette accredits Mr. Hendricks with giving the following account of his interview with Mr. Tilden last September. They were out carriage riding, Mr. Hendricks says, when Mr. Tilden said: "I think the great fault of our party is that we are not united, and that the democracy of the country ought to elect that ticket."

A Boy Murderer.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 23.—Francis J. Kelly, who was arrested in Illinois for murder, reached here last night, and made a confession that, having been threatened with punishment by R. T. Arnett, the owner of a little trading boat, for whom he was working, he determined, on the night of Sept. 29, after Arnett had gone to bed, to shoot him. Remembering Arnett's threat to follow and kill him, he went back, and shot Arnett in the head as he lay asleep. He took out his money, set fire to the boat, and escaped with a skill. Kelly is but seventeen years old.

Two Persons Burned to Death.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 23.—A fire broke out here this morning at the store of C. Clayton's grocery store. He kept a coal oil lamp burning, and it is supposed to have exploded. Another cause was the explosion of powder that woke the neighborhood and shook houses two squares away. The naval academy steam fire engine, managed by soldiers under Chief J. M. Boyd, rendered effective service. Ten houses and nine stores were destroyed. Two persons were killed, Charles Legg and his agent, Miss Lizzie Watkins, whom Legg, after he was out of the house, went back to save.

The "World" on Gould.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The World says: "There is, as the Sun says, 'nothing mysterious about Gould's success.' The mysterious part of the legend is that the man who has so long succeeded patiently to a system which makes such success possible; to the election of purchasable men to legislative and judicial positions; to almost unobscured bribery; to the escape of those who are detected in the crime, and to the growing, insidious, secret power of corporations and money kings over almost every department of the government."

Honored by Emperor William.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—In recognition of the services in behalf of the imperial treasury and national library in Strasbourg, which was destroyed during the Franco-German war, rendered for a series of years by Col. M. Richard's Muckle, of the Legation, Emperor William, of Germany, has conferred upon him the order of the Red Eagle, accompanied with the decoration and ribbon.

Capt. Dreyer Again Released.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Capt. Dreyer, who left Dover on Monday in a miniature post-boat to attempt to cross the channel, and whose boat, it was thought, had been swamped during a heavy storm, was rescued by a passing vessel. This is the second time that Capt. Dreyer has been rescued under similar circumstances.

The Prince and Miss Chamberlain.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Prince of Wales is cultivating the society of the American beauty, Miss Jennie Chamberlain. He has caused Miss to paint a life-size portrait of her, and has offered the Chamberlain family the use of the royal yacht Albatross for a cruise.

The Question of Holman's Beauty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The Sun says: "We will bet five dollars that there is not a handsomer man than the Hon. William N. Holman either in the office of the New York Times or in the establishment of the Philadelphia Press."

KNOW-NOTHINGISM.

A Revival of Religious Intolerance and Intolerance.

The New Famous Crucifix.

Lakeville Once More the Public Place of a Religious Revival.

Servants to be Hired.

LAKEVILLE, Conn., Oct. 25.—The following notice has been posted in prominent places about the village: "The Ladies of Lakeville are especially invited to the residence of Mrs. George Harrison, Wednesday, October 24, at 8 o'clock P. M. All persons are requested to bring with them for many hours after the appearance of these apparently innocent posters few were anxious to inquire into the matter, and as to what could be their purpose, they leaked out. The notice was the work of another skirmish in the religious warfare which has been in progress here for some days, and which originated in the erection of a life-size crucifix in front of the Catholic church. The Catholics boycotted all the storekeepers whose signatures were attached to the petition. The Protestants refused soon after by refusing the use of Lakeville stores. Several names were dropped on the occasion of the opening and dedication of the crucifix. Then at the October 20th elections, after the closest count, many years, protesting indignantly in the streets. Those who were candidates for office were chosen by a small plurality.

BURNINGS.

Malaria seems to have a peculiar affinity for school teachers, of late.

Mr. Pease was suffering from an attack the first part of last week, and Miss Little closed her school for the week, Thursday.

Mr. Alfred Williams of 45 Pratt street, Hartford, Conn., has commenced the fur season with all the requisites for doing a large and successful business, viz: a large stock of choice Alaska seal skins of the very best English dyes, Martin's, the most celebrated London dyes and his new dyes of this season are the hand somest, yet, although his previous colors were good, and his stock of other goods comprises all the finest from seal, beaver and other down to the cones, from which he is prepared to make anything from a seal skin sacque to a yard of trimming. He has a large corps of skilled employees all working in different departments turning out work that Mr. Williams with his many years experience is able to do without fear of competition as a furrier. As his advertisement reads, his is the only store in the state devoted entirely to furs. A call will convince those needing anything in his line that he has a fine stock to select from.

Mr. J. C. Thompson and family moved last Wednesday to Hartford. Miss Maggie Thompson will remain here in the family of Albert Barnes. Mr. Thompson was a good citizen and an active member of the Knights of Honor. His removal with his family will be a loss to the community.

There is little said about nominees for representatives to be elected next month. The only names we have heard mentioned are Olin R. Wood, B. F. T. Jenney and Frank W. Clark for the republicans, and C. W. Cowles and Julius Pinney for the democrats. Mr. Cowles assures us that he will not accept the nomination unless his mind changes very much from its present state. The caucuses will probably be held next week. The democrats will leave their caucus the night following the republican caucus, but the republican committee have, as usual, failed to give us any information regarding the date of their caucus.

An express on the Consolidated road Monday struck an ox-cart loaded with wool at Newington, and knocked it into splinters, injuring the driver and breaking one of his legs.

About 50 Hartford business men have asked the railroad company to put an end to the New England road's stopping trains across Asylum street, in the heart of the city, and many more protest against the whistling nuisance.

They tried to punish a lot of Newtown violators of the liquor law the other day by means of detectives. When the nature of the evidence got out the key to the town hall was hidden and the court was held on the steps. Not a hotel in town would take the prosecuting officers or witnesses to dinner, and the witnesses were made away with and have not yet been found.

Greenwich has an underground saloon known as "Pig-eye," which claims to be part of Connecticut and part in New York. The proprietor was recently up for violating the Connecticut laws, the case has been appealed and before it is ended the location of the state line must be settled. "Pig-eye" has been used since 1840 to evade the laws of both states.

The 5.40 train from New York on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, Monday evening, struck and killed an unknown man while he was crossing the track near the New Rochelle station. He was thrown some distance and so much disfigured that even his nationality could not be determined.

SOUTH WINDSOR.

The recent rains have caused a sufficient rise in the river to bring down the Conn. River Lumber Co.'s logs in great numbers, but the rise has not been sufficient to cover the government piers and the sand flats on which many of them lodged. Another heavy rain will hurry them on. When we consider the great tracts of land cleared up every year by the felling of the forests, does it appear at all strange that our rain fall should be proportionately diminishing as is evidenced by the comparative reports of the weather bureau for the past few years.

The board of selectmen and the town clerk met at Smith's hotel on Wednesday, to perfect the registry list. There are at present 410 names of legal voters on the lists and the names of 41 "to be made," making a total of 450.

The work on the parsonage is progressing rapidly, although hindered somewhat by the rain. The frame is raised and covered.

Rev. Samuel Wolcott, D. D., of Cleveland, O., occupied Mr. Snow's pulpit last Sabbath, preaching from Heb. 11: 13. Mr. Wolcott is a native of this town and was a member of this church, joining it in 1825, when a lad of 15, under the pastorate of Rev. Thomas Robbins. He was born in the house now occupied by Mr. H. L. Pinney. After completing his college course he went as missionary to Syria, and upon his return he was installed pastor of the church in Longwood, Mass. His last pastorate was at Cleveland, O. He has recently purchased a place in Longwood, and proposes to make it his home.

The weekly neighborhood prayer-meetings which were discontinued soon after the First church was without a settled pastor, have been revived under Mr. Snow's ministry, and are held every Friday evening as formerly. Sabbath school teachers' meetings are held on Wednesday evening of each week.

Mrs. Willis Stoughton is again confined to her bed by illness. Her advancing age with its attendant infirmities, renders her recovery very uncertain.

The Misses Douglas have returned from New York.

Mr. Horace Vibert, who has been west since April, returned home on Monday last. He has been located on a cattle-ranch about sixty miles from Dodge City in the western part of the Indian territory. The phase of western life with which Mr. Vibert has been intimately associated for the past several months, has not tended to dissipate his affections from his native town. He does not intend to return west.

TWO PAIRS.

WILLIAMS-COOK.

The marriage of Mr. John M. Williams and Miss Mary Cook, daughter of Aaron Cook Esq., took place last Thursday afternoon at four o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents. Rev. S. W. Robbins officiated. Only members of the families of bride and groom witnessed the ceremony which was simply performed. The happy pair departed on an evening train to New York, where they will remain until the first of next week. On their return they will occupy the house on Hudson street that Mr. Williams has lately bought and furnished.

Both of the participating parties in this wedding are among our most popular young people. Their lives have been such that we are safe in predicting that they will be prominent in this community as the worthy representatives of two of our most valued families.

Rev. Mr. Warner, who has passed this week at the Episcopal convention at Philadelphia, will be back to occupy his desk to-morrow. In the evening he will briefly review the progress of the church in this country, and note some of the work of the convention.

PETTIBONE-HIBBARD.

The wedding of Mr. Hawley Pettibone, superintendent in the Union mills, and Miss Philena Hibbard, attracted a large assembly to the Methodist church last Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed at 6:30, by Rev. H. H. Martin, Mr. J. C. Carter and Mr. A. L. Brown acted as ushers and Miss Flora Pettibone and Mr. William Hibbard as bridesmaid and groomsmen. Dr. Clinton H. Weaver officiating at the organ. The bride wore a dress of white cashmere, trimmed with broad satin with tulle veil. The bridesmaid was similarly attired and the groom and his attendant were in full dress. Following the wedding was held a reception at the home of the bride, at which among other guests were present Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Hawley, uncle and aunt of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Pettibone left on the Washington express. They will pass a fortnight traveling in New York State.

GLASTONBURY.

WM. S. GOSLEE,

Local Editor and Business Agent. Samuel C. Hardin returned from his western trip arriving Saturday morning. He has been as far west as St. Cloud, Minn., and has visited many of the western cities and places of interest. Clinton O. Talcott remains for a while longer and may go as much farther west as Fargo, Dakota.

Rev. Dr. Scudder has returned from his visit to Chicago, after an absence of nearly three weeks. Miss Sibley Carter addressed the congregation at the First Church in the forenoon, and at Buckingham later in the day last Sunday. Miss Carter travels under the auspices of the New West Missionary Commission and delivered a very interesting lecture on the work of the society among the Mormons in Utah and the adjacent territories. The work is undoubtedly a very valuable one, but is a feeble substitute for the law of civilized communities thoroughly enforced by all the power of the United States Government against those who are rebels, not only against its laws, but against the rights of decent society. The other twin-rid of barbarism "must go" but rose-water appliances, and an occasional school, Sunday, or other, will not cure the vile leprosy of polygamy. It is a serious question whether it is not better to stand by our law, and see that it is enforced without fear or favor, than to treat its violators or their belongings as worthy of attention or undesired as well as unappreciated charity.

Messrs. A. A. Bogue & Son are just now unloading a cargo of 250 tons of coal for the Glastonbury Knitting Company at Eagle mills. Gabriel Flad came in with quite a load of the Eagle mills people to attend church last Sunday. The omnibus shines in all the thorough repairs and new paint, and will be a greatly prized convenience for the many who will make use of it. The furnishing of such advantages is greatly to the credit of the Glastonbury Knitting Company.

Leverett T. Hollister has purchased the Hastings place on Colchester avenue, and has moved there; Leroy Nobles taking the tenement vacated by him on the Gibbon Welles place.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING.

The adjourned annual town-meeting was held on Tuesday last, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. George P. Curtis was chosen moderator. The several minor offices of pound keepers and sextons were filled, and the meeting proceeded to the other town business. The reports of the selectmen and treasurer, as certified by the auditors, were accepted unanimously. The school visitors report (a very excellent one, by the way) was accepted. The matter of dividing the sixth or Merrick school district, so as to form a new district comprising the mill property and dwellings belonging to Messrs. Becker and Mayer, was acted upon unfavorably. The sentiment seemed to be prevalent that the sixth district should take some measures to accommodate the confessedly large number who attend no school, which will undoubtedly be done by furnishing an additional school-room either in the Factory village or the Center. Without objection, a tax of fifteen mills was voted, in order to continue the work, so well begun, of paying off a part of the town debt during the current year. Five thousand and ninety-five dollars ($5,095) was appropriated for school purposes. The matter of the protection of sidewalks was referred to the selectmen to draft and report for adoption at a future meeting proper by-laws for that purpose. Fifty dollars was appropriated for Memorial day. The selectmen presented the report of Messrs. Jno. W. Hubbard, Thomas H. L. Talcott and George C. Andrews, in regard to the claim of Isaac N. Hollister for working highways, which was read. It gave rise to considerable discussion. Some of it was rather personal, but it was mainly conducted with good temper, albeit it was a little sharp at times. Finally it was voted to accept the report, and to authorize the selectmen to draw an order in favor of Mr. Hollister for the amount named therein as being due him. Mr. John E. Tryon then resigned the position of commissioner of highways which office he has held for the last seven years to very general acceptance, leaving the selectmen to fill his place until the next annual town meeting. The meeting, or town parliament as it may well be called, adjourned about 3 u. m.

Bernard T. Williams has just returned from a tour to California and between, after an absence of some four months. He reports an excellent time, but that old New England is the country to live in, after all.

The great exposition at Boston has drawn quite a number of citizens

there during the past few weeks. Among others, Messrs. Isaac Boardman, N. A. Hardin, Dr. H. C. Bance, Lewis Skinner, Jason F. Stevens, A. W. Moseley and T. H. L. Talcott, Jr., of this village, and George D. Bartlett and wife, of James P. Cornish and wife of Newbury, have made pilgrimages to the "Hub," Ben. Butler's capital, (for so long, as we hope.)

Our venerable friends, Dr. and Mrs. Sabin Stocking of East Glastonbury, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday, Oct. 31st, afternoon and evening. A general invitation is extended to their acquaintances and friends to be present, and those who are unable to do so and desire to send their regrets and good-wishes may send to the care of Thomas H. L. Talcott, Glastonbury, Conn.

You article on the Connecticut river at Glastonbury has called out from a prominent citizen of our town the following communication, which I here insert, premising that I do not have in future something more to say in regard to the navigation of the "Great River" of New England, and "God's highway."

"THE CONNECTICUT RIVER AT GLASTONBURY."—An article in the last Herald under the above title was evidently written by one who was but little informed about the subject matter. The "project" of the government engineers looks well on paper (as regards protecting our lands from the encroachments of the river) but our people who have lived here and watched the changes of the river for 50 years and more, have but little faith in the "project." We do not yet see wherein we are benefited by the building as a part of the project, of a jetty something like a mile in length crowding the river on to instead of protecting our meadows. As regards the value of our land, and the rapidity with which the river encroaches upon it, if the writer of that article thinks he can purchase an acre of our meadow for $100, he had better try it. A strip directly on the bank that will go under the river in 5 years may thus be bought, but the majority of our lands could not be bought for three times this figure. But how rapidly does the river encroach upon our lands! It will give a few figures and measurements.

A Dime Novel Story in Real Life and Full Blast.

A Secret Organization of Young Men who have Horrible Oaths and Secret Alphabets—Initiating a Neophyte.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The Journal has this special from Jamaica, Vermont: The arrest and confession of two young men for committing a heinous crime, and a most unusual story of organized crime. Acting under information obtained from Morton G. Clark, now in jail, officers of the United States marshal's office and the local authorities made an important discovery in a wild and lonely village. They found the headquarters of a criminal gang which for some time has been earning spurious dollars and committing depredations on the surrounding country. Complete counterfeit outfits were seized, including mounds, boxes, kettles, plaster of paris, lead, etc. The most interesting part of the story is the history of the gang, which had been organized in 1872. It is a secret society of the blood and thimble variety, and is organized according to its records, June 17 of the present year. Its members are young men, eighteen to twenty-one years of age, living in South Londonderry, Jamaica, West Townsend and Warburton, Vt., and Ashuelot and Winchester, N. H. The band consists of a president, first and second officers, secretary, judge of firearms and a board of directors. They styled themselves the United Birds and Brothers. They have a secret alphabet, and their members and secret alphabets, to which the officers now have the key. Their secret records were kept by the history of the gang, which had been organized in 1872. A Matutinal Episode.

(Larry Williams.)
As the sun lifted his big red face over the lake a lurid gleam from his lusty eye fell directly across the sleeping face of Mistress Bessie Mcintosh, aged 22, a bride of a year, resident of Lake View. Opening her eyes in a wild and startled manner, how she looked around her. Her face, framed by the ruff of delicate lace which encircled the tiny eye, expressed wonder, doubt, distress, and finally, confidence.

"Are you there, Fred? Oh, yes, it's all right; I know now. Oh, I have had such a dream! And I woke with the sun shining right in my face. I remember I was married to Cousin Chawly, and he bought me such a lovely white satin dress. Isn't that an awfully bad sign? What can be going to happen to me? He can't come home d-r-r-runk one night, and the next morning he had on a golden armor, and the visor was studded with diamonds, and he looked at me with a blue and how magnificent he looked! And I turned to admire him and tell him how much I loved him, when I saw lying at his feet a pair of bracelets, each with a dozen bagules, and each change a great, immense diamond. Why, those are for you, Bessie," he said, and I stopped to pick them up, each diamond seemed glowing with a radiant light, which was reaching up to embrace me. Then I woke, so frightened, I am going to get right up and dress, for I never, never can sleep again after such a dream."

So Mistress Bessie proceeded to put her words into execution. Two diamond white feet, which Cinderella's slippers might have envied, faced themselves upon the soft rug. A pretty white hand threw back the snowy convietie, and Undine emerged from the sea. Her hair being arranged and arranged to her entire satisfaction, though it must be said no great pains had been taken with it, she sat down in an armchair much too large for her, and, in a drowsy yawning, began to repent of her hasty conclusion to forego her accustomed morning nap.

"Oh, dear," she yawned, "how awfully early it is. I believe there is a soul astray in the house. But that horrid dream. Don't you know, Fred, that dreams of white wedding robes and jewels are always followed by the death of one of those to be married or of some one near? And what if Cousin Chawly should die? He has had such bad luck always. Everything seems to go against him, and she tied and untied the kerchief around her neck as she talked. A long silence. "I think I hear Judith in the kitchen. Perhaps you had better rise, Fred. We can have an early breakfast if we wish, and then a ride through the park before you go into the city. But if anything is happening, I will call. Chawly perhaps we had better forego such pleasure," she added in a tearful voice. As there was no response from the bed she concluded to get up, and she fell asleep. Going to the window she parted the curtains and gave the shade an upward push, which sent it to the top with a smack, much to her astonishment, and there she sat in a flood of radiant sunshine. She looked very lovely as she stood there, her slender figure enveloped in the sunny glow. Her red hair had been coiled on the very top of her head, and the bangs had been deftly parted and brushed back at the sides—the whole lending a classic grace to the assembly. Well, indeed, she was not thinking of her personal appearance as she stood there, nor of the fine sunrise at which she seemed to be gazing.

NOTICE.

"To all PERSONS whom it MAY CONCERN.—Inasmuch as the town of Manchester has for three successive years adopted the policy of "No License," and has particularly by its expression this year pronounced against "Licensed druggists selling or delivering intoxicating liquor, without the prescription of a practicing physician," and also against the illegal delivery of Lager Beer or other intoxicating liquor within the limits of said town.—The attention of the inhabitants of the town is respectfully called to the following points, to wit:

I. "Licensed Druggists" in a no license town are only entitled to sell and deliver spirituous and intoxicating liquor upon the prescription of a practicing physician." Sec. 5, p. 215, Public Acts Conn., 1882.
"Whenever any town shall have voted against the granting of licenses for the sale of spirituous and intoxicating liquor, the delivery by the vendor or his agent, within the limits of said town of any spirituous and intoxicating liquors shall be deemed a sale of such liquors without a sale of such liquors within the limits of said town, although the contract for the sale of such liquors be made outside the limits of said town." Sec. 2, Part II, p. 178, Public Acts Conn., 1882.

II. That all spirituous and intoxicating liquors under the statute includes all spirituous and intoxicating liquors, all mixed liquors of which a part is spirituous and intoxicating, all distilled spirits, all wine, ale and porter, all beer manufactured from hops and malt or from hops and barley, and all beer on the receipt containing within the laws of the United States require a revenue stamp to be affixed, and all cider sold to be drawn or on the premises." Sec. 1, p. 177, Public Act, 1882.

III. That all persons assisting in the violation of said statutes by purchasing or receiving intoxicating liquors from a licensed druggist without a prescription, or by receiving lager beer or other intoxicating liquors delivered at their dwellings, on their premises or elsewhere within the town of Manchester, although such liquor may be for legitimate use, are competent witnesses to prove the fact of such sale or delivery.

ERISSON'S "DESTROYER"

The Destroyer is a marvel of compactness and power. She is 130 feet long, carries a gigantic gun that is thirty feet long, and yet has in her hold all the water line, the most powerful marine engine known. There are also special engines all within the hull, and none of them are near enough to the boiler to heat the water, to be rendered modern armament.

The Destroyer can travel at a rate of speed that would exceed that of any steam yacht. Her regular speed is seven or eight miles an hour through any waters; and when going at the rate of thirteen miles an hour can be tugged about within twice her own length.

"FANNY FERN'S FORTUNE"
Mr. J. C. Derby, the veteran publisher of the Hartford Post, in 1883, set up the publishing business under the firm name of Derby & Jackson, and later of Derby & Miller.

IV. That all persons so purchasing or receiving intoxicating liquors from such licensed druggists, or such prescription, or receiving Lager beer and other intoxicating liquors as aforesaid are hereby warned that they subject themselves to the liability of being called to testify in the prosecutions of the druggists so violating the law and such persons as shall be found making delivery of lager beer and other intoxicating liquor to them.
