Home Reading. General Crook's Woe.

[New York Evening Post.] Now that Gen. Crook is so conspicuously before the public, it is with peculiar interest that a friend recalls the romantic circumstances which immediately preceded, if they did not actually prompt, the marriage of that gallant officer with his present wife, formerly Miss Mary Dalley, of Virginia. The preliminaries of this interesting occurrence during the last year of the war at Oakland, Maryland, a charming mountain resort, so many years ago, that was discovered by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in its exploration of a primeval forest track along the border line between Maryland and Virginia. As the railroad became, in course of time, a grand fact in the history of engineering, the company built hotels at various points of the route for the accommodation of their passengers. Oakland before the war consisted of the few cabins and cottages and a church and well-ordered houses, called the Glades hotel. The place was already famous as a deer-hunting and trout-fishing ground, and the hotel register became interesting as an autograph album filled with the signatures of more or less distinguished foreigners (notably Englishmen), whose love of sport had led them to cast their nets for a season in these pleasant places. Brownie, the famous blackwoodman and hunter, pursued for so many years his perilous calling; and then in a homely but vigorous language recorded in his successful career, he submitted to a publisher. Here, too, his brave daughter, an unflinching, roamed the forests and hills alone day after day with her trusty rifle, until, laden with spoils, she returned to her father's cabin. A Virginia family of the name of Dalley came to spend the summer at Oakland the year before last. The father was a genuine specimen of the Virginia country gentleman of that day—courteous, jovial, hospitable to a lady, devoted to her son and two daughters. The day came when the mother and her two daughters were in Oakland—the hotel there was to be a grand party. The mother and her two daughters were in Oakland—the hotel there was to be a grand party. The mother and her two daughters were in Oakland—the hotel there was to be a grand party.

SIGNS OF PROSPERITY.

[From the Chicago Herald.] White specks of light, and idle words grow dull! Where are they, and where turn are full! Who's church paths are with frequent foot-crowns? Law's yards woody, silent and forlorn; Who's victors foot, and where farmers' side? Whose age abounds, and youth is multiplied? Whose signs are, they closely indicate A happy people and well-governed state.

A PLAYED-OUT AMERICANISM.

[Chicago Herald.] The frequency with which violence is now done to young women in this country suggests the idea that one Americanism has been carried too far. Europeans who have made a study of our social customs have been impressed with and not a little astonished by the independence, fearlessness and self-reliance of the American girl. In the home, on the street, on cars or steamboats, in parks, at places of amusement, on lonely country roads, and, in short, in nearly every walk of life, day or night, she may be found, sometimes in company, but often without. When strangers have expressed their amazement at the freedom granted the young women, and their wonder that harm was not done them, or that they were not mistreated, the answer has usually been that the American girl was smart enough to take care of her self, and that there was no impropriety, and certainly no danger, in her enjoying the companionship of her friends of either sex unwatched.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF DICKENS.

[Cor. Ball Mall Gazette.] A week ago, being in Portsmouth, I happened to see the birthplace of Charles Dickens, and was surprised to find that the house was still in existence. It was known to be one of the old Mile-end terrace, which is on the corner of the Commercial road, and is now a part of the town railway station. I found four small rooms, with gardens in front and back, and a well-kept garden. I had been told that the first house of the family was No. 387, and I afterwards learned that some of the old inhabitants of the immediate neighborhood of the last house (No. 388) was considered to be the right one.

NEW SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

[Cor. Ball Mall Gazette.] The model town of Pullman, Ill., is a few miles distant from Chicago, and is the result of a series of experiments in its sewerage system, which are of interest to the whole country. The town is situated on a very difficult to drain, and is a model town, a good example of a sewerage system.

RELIGIOUS DISCIPLINE.

[London Daily Chronicle.] Religious discipline is certainly not in vogue of the view that there is any serious lack of discipline in the middle and elementary schools of the empire. To judge by the regulations, the grammar schools, for instance, is quite a model of strictness and propriety. The scholar is kept in order by the rules from the very outset of his educational career in one of these establishments. There are rules regulating his attendance at church on his holidays, and when he is to have holidays, and when to return from them; under what pretext he may forsake his school, and with what diligence he must make up for time lost during illness; rules fixing his behavior in the street, and out of school; and a variety of other rules in connection with politeness, honesty, truth, early rising, etc.

THE YOKOHAMA GAZETTE.

[Inter Ocean.] The Yokohama Gazette declares that all efforts to introduce Christianity into Japan have been pitiable failures, and that the people of that country regard foreign missionaries with jealous aversion.

VERY INSPIRING.

[Chicago News.] Lord Coleridge has been visiting with the historic spot, "Its beauty," says he, "has not the stupendous grandeur of Niagara, nor the awful grandeur of Chicago's mayor, but with all its hallowed memories and with its dead leaves and rusty iron, I found it very inspiring."

IDENTIFYING A KING.

[Chicago Tribune.] The following incident is reported by the Belgian newspapers as having occurred at the recent Oostend races. King Leopold, who was present at the races, was talking to some gentleman of his suits, when an English gentleman and lady passed by. The lady, pulling her husband's sleeve, whispered, "The king," and the Englishman calmly produced a number of coins from his pocket, from which he selected a Belgian franc piece for the purpose of verifying the truth of his wife's statement. After a long and minute comparison between the impression on the coin and the original, the Briton called out, with the evident conviction, "Oh, yes, it is the king!" King Leopold, who had watched the scene, was highly amused at the process of identification.

NORTH MANCHESTER.

The town clock will give the time of the 75th meridian.

Set your watches and clocks back four minutes tomorrow.

A few school reports for this year may be found at the Herald office.

North Manchester leads South in the support given entertainments this winter.

Wm. Farmer comes to the front with an onion weighing two pounds and ten ounces.

The Spanish Students, with an entire change of program, will be at Bissell's hall, Dec. 4th.

G. S. Parkhurst announces that he got out the split ticket that elected Cowles and Soot representatives.

The next regular meeting of the "Ours" will be held at the residence of Mrs. E. E. Hibbard next Monday evening.

Senator Eaton and his wife and his brother-in-law, Mr. Wood and wife were the guests of W. W. Cowles, Thursday.

McFarlane has struck a snag in his ready-made clothing department. He has a big demand for overcoats and suits these cold days.

A. E. Bowers has been elected secretary of the Rockville base ball association. The Rockvilles intend to present a strong nine next season.

The Catholic fair opened at Bissell's hall Thursday evening, with a good attendance. It will continue during next week. Coates's orchestra furnishes music for dancing every evening.

Capt. Smith, whose loss is noticed elsewhere, commanded the Lettie, in which a number of Manchester young men cruised around the Sound summer before last. The cruise of the Lettie was described in the Herald.

The Hartford Times thinks the Pennsylvania railroad will soon take the New England road in charge and make it a first class road.

The Hartford Telegraph complains of the same gross carelessness in the distribution of the newspapers through the mails in this section of the state that the Herald has suffered from. The Herald had no trouble in tracing the delays to the Hartford post office.

The marriage of Miss Sarah L. Doton to Mr. Frank P. Fisher, of Waltham, Mass., will take place at the Congregational church, Monday evening, Nov. 26th, at 7.30 o'clock.

Her many friends are cordially invited to be present at the ceremony. Calls will be received during the evening at the residence of Mr. A. E. Harrington. No cards.

Mrs. Lewis Bissell has a large and handsome scrap-book which she has devoted to scraps from the Herald. In it she has pasted the most interesting news items from every edition of the Herald since its first issue. The book therefore furnishes a complete record of the progress of the town for the last two years. It will be an interesting collection for the perusal of future generations.

One of J. D. Henderson's little boys was shot in the shoulder Saturday by his five-year-old brother. The pistol was carelessly left where the children could get hold of it. A report was printed in the Hartford papers that Mr. Henderson himself was perhaps fatally shot while out hunting and caused anxiety among his friends. The wounded boy is recovering.

A correspondent in Buffalo, N. Y., writes the Herald a three page letter to prove that the evil of intemperance comes mainly from the unrestricted sale of sweet cider.

He writes "Where do nine out of ten of all the drinkers begin; with a glass of whiskey or gin? No, but rather with a glass of tonic or sweet cider." We had the impression that even a greater proportion than nine out of ten of all drinkers begin on milk, either from a bottle or from nature's fount.

Mr. Stone says he is prepared to meet the wonderful demand in Nazareth, not for everybody's coffee-pot or notion of things, but for the movable ice-cake shoeing, by engaging a full team of first-class workmen and a heavy stock and variety of shoeing goods. There are one thousand horses pledged in his territory. Everybody says they will use the invention on the score of business and financial economy and preventing much cruelty to the horse by the old method of sharpening in the slippery season.

A new time table on the New England road goes into effect Monday.

Passenger trains will leave going east at 7.12, 9.45 a. m.; 12.55, 2.44, 5.12 and 8.13 p. m.; going west at 6.18, 7.43, 10.03 a. m., and 1.47, 3.05, 5.03, 6.55 and 8.05 p. m.

The principal change is in the express into Hartford, which leaves two hours later than before.

The accommodation from Hartford to the afternoon leaves ahead of the express out, which does not stop at Manchester except for passengers east of Putnam.

Alluding to the advance in New York and New England Railroad stock, the Transcript says: "The spasmodic movements in this stock give evidence that there is something in the report which comes to us that the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, has entered into a secret agreement to purchase the control of the New York and New England Railroad at a fixed price; that is, that it will not take any risk in the matter or pay for anything less than a controlling interest. It has been hinted for weeks past that the Boston and Albany Company was really at the bottom of the New York and New England movement."

Mrs. L. H. Washington met about 250 children at Bissell's hall, Sunday afternoon, and organized a Band of Hope. The following pledge was used: "I hereby promise by the help of God to abstain from the use of all intoxicating liquors, including wine, beer and cider, as a beverage; from the use of tobacco in any form, and profanity."

One hundred and sixteen signatures were obtained, those over 18 years of age being considered honorary members. The following officers were elected: Miss Clara Sweet, president; Miss Lottie Hall, vice-president; Anna May Buckland, secretary; Mary Palmer, treasurer.

The next meeting of the band will be held Sunday, Nov. 25, at 4.30 o'clock at Bissell's hall.

THE TOWN CLOCK.

IT PACE BEGINS TO BRIGHTEN.

The amount of money subscribed for repairing the Methodist church clock was so near the fifty dollars required last Monday that Mr. Tiffany began work in the tower Monday night.

Mr. Morrill, who is in the wholesale jewelry business in Boston, learned that Mr. Tiffany was about to undertake the repairs and telegraphed that he would devote Monday night to assisting Mr. Tiffany.

His business, which just now is increased by holiday trade, would not allow him to take a day off. Accordingly Mr. Tiffany met Mr. Morrill at the depot Monday night and the two proceeded at once to the church tower where they worked with one assistant until six o'clock Tuesday morning.

Mr. Morrill took the first train for Hartford Tuesday. Mr. Tiffany cannot complete his work until next week as the increased business of the 15th and the days immediately following will require his presence in the store.

He expects, however, soon to have the clock in first class repair and ready to furnish the inhabitants of this village and the adjacent country with standard time.

The following are the contributors to the repair fund: N. T. Palfrey, $5.00; Clinton W. Cowles, 5.00; E. C. Hilliard, 5.00; Elwood S. Bell, 3.00; Olin R. Wood, 2.00; G. S. Parkhurst, 1.00; Nathan F. ELECTRIC LIGHTS IN BUCKLAND.

Arrangements are in progress which will result in the early introduction of the electric light in P. Adams & Son's Waverly paper mill at Buckland. This mill is one of the best in the best paper mill in the state and is among the first to adopt every well tried improvement.

The plant will consist of 80 incandescent electric lights, the Edison lamps being used. It is expected that the lights will be in position at an early date. These lamps enclose the light in an air tight glass bulb so the danger of ignition is entirely obviated.

NO GAS, NO LECTURE.

A good-sized audience assembled in Bissell's hall last Wednesday to hear the third illustrated lecture in the Rosewood series. The subject was "Paris and Versailles" and the lecture promised to be one of the most interesting of the series. Much to the mortification of the lecturer and the artist, the gas in one of the tanks supplying the oxy-hydrogen light, expired after a few views had been shown.

The audience was disappointed, those desiring it receiving their money back. Precautions will be taken to prevent the recurrence of the accident. For an amateur Mr. Rose has succeeded remarkably with his light. The lecture on Paris and Versailles will be given Nov. 28th.

Buckland.—A large number of cattle have been bought by Mr. Ewing, assisted by Walter W. Cowles. They will be shipped to Kentucky in a few days.—John Malony, who has been in the employ of H. I. Case & Co. of Hartford, for a long time, was made a freeman this fall, and cast his first ballot on the first Tuesday of the present month.—The schools were closed Wednesday noon, by order of the acting school visitors, so that the teachers could attend a meeting at South Manchester, to receive instructions in the best method of teaching drawing.—The public schools will close their fall term on Friday, Nov. 25d.—Mrs. Loomis, who received so serious an injury, we are sorry to say, does not improve very much.

MASONIC FESTIVITIES.

Manchester Lodge of masons had one of the most enjoyable fraternal gatherings of the year last Tuesday evening. Grand Secretary J. K. Wheeler of Hartford, Deputy Grand Master I. Baker, of Hartford, a dozen brethren from Glastonbury and other visitors from neighboring lodges were present.

The third degree was conferred upon A. S. Haynes. At its completion the assembly adjourned to the ante-room where a banquet was spread. The festivities lasted until a late hour.

DEFECTS IN THE LIQUOR LAW.

As Shown by Two Years of Prohibition in Manchester—Good and Bad Phases of the Druggist's License Law.

"These prohibition laws are being carried a little too far," said one South Manchester man to another at a social gathering the other evening. "According to Lawyer Wood's proclamation," he continued, "I cannot get a drop of brandy for cooking purposes or evening a gill of alcohol for me hancial use at a drug store, without a physician's prescription."

"For which you have to pay more than for the liquor," added his listener.

"Yes; and I tell you if this thing continues it will eventually legislate the better class of temperance workers."

These remarks, falling by chance upon the ear of a Herald reporter led him to inquire whether or not these strictures upon the existing liquor laws were well grounded.

Manchester has for more than two years been without an open bar. The only places, therefore, where liquor can be legally bought in town are the drug stores. The law prescribes that a doctor's prescription for liquor, wine, lager or alcohol, except upon a doctor's prescription, is void. The physicians, therefore, have their hands, the responsible handling judiciously the liquor for in Manchester. To them, to fore, the writer went for information.

"Are you called upon often to write prescriptions for liquor by those who do not need it?" was the first question put to Dr. F. H. Whitton, the physician living near a drug store in North Manchester.

"No, I am not because I don't write them for such persons. I suppose I haven't had more than half a dozen such applications since the notice law went into effect."

"Do you allow your prescription for liquor to be used more than once?"

"I have no volition in the matter. The druggist here does not regard such a prescription. In rare cases where a patient will need liquor or alcohol for some time I order it to be one prescription to be supplied, the liquor to be used as needed."

"Would you prescribe liquor for alcohol for mechanical purposes?"

"At present it seems possible to obtain alcohol for such purposes only upon a doctor's prescription. If I was satisfied a man wanted alcohol to use for mechanical purposes only I would not hesitate to prescribe it, although I think that business men are in the hands of the druggist."

He said that a druggist might be allowed to use his discretion in the sale of alcohol. He should retain positively the purpose for which it was wanted and should record the name of the purchaser.

"How could a man obtain wine or liquor for cooking?"

"I have little doubt that any physician would be willing to write a prescription for a man who he knew wanted the liquor for cooking purposes and would use it for cooking. Certainly a man would not be refused if he applied to his regular family physician for such a prescription."

"Do you charge a fee for writing a prescription for liquor?"

"Never."

Substantially the same questions were put to Dr. R. M. Griswold. He said, "I am not called upon to write prescriptions for people who want liquor to drink, for I long ago declared I would not do it. My order doesn't allow druggists to fill a liquor prescription more than once. I don't know as there is a law to prevent it, but a druggist ought really never to repeat any prescription without a doctor's order. Suppose I prescribe for a fever and ague patient; the remedy cures. Then that patient hands the bottle to his neighbor who may be suffering the same trouble and he gets it filled by the number on the bottle. An unlimited number of fever and ague patients might thus use my prescription and I would get only one fee for it."

"How about prescribing liquor for household or mechanical purposes?"

"I would not hesitate to make such a prescription for a party whom I knew to be reliable. My chief objection to the present druggist's license law is its requirement of a prescription for the sale of alcohol. We cannot charge for such prescriptions and the druggists who sell the alcohol as well as the physician should be at liberty to furnish it. An instance of the inconvenience of the present law is this: I ordered alcohol for a patient in Bolton the other day. In my haste I forgot to leave a prescription for it. The parties came to North Manchester and were refused the alcohol because they had no prescription. They came to my office, but found I was away. They went to Dr. Whitton and he was out. Finally they drove to South Manchester where they found a physician who wrote the prescription and after a forenoon's work they were able to get the alcohol."

TALCOTVILLE.

The second annual meeting of the Tolland County Ladies' Home Missionary societies was held in the Congregational church here on Wednesday of last week. Services commemorative of the four hundred anniversary of Martin Luther's birth were held in the lecture room of the church last Sunday evening and although the weather was unpropitious the room was filled. The services throughout were highly interesting and instructive. A quartet consisting of Mrs. Henry Gardner, Mr. Geo. W. Smith, Mrs. C. D. Talcott and Mrs. Seymour sang Luther's "Sung Song" and other pieces appropriate for the occasion.

Several of our citizens have placed street lamps in front of their residences to light the weary traveler on his way at night. This is a move in the right direction. We hope they will continue to let their light so shine that others seeing their good works may go and do likewise.

Several of our young men are talking of getting bicycles in the spring. We expect to have a free circus then with some first class tumbling.

A PRESENTATION AT BUCKLAND.

Wm. F. Pickles, night foreman at the Waverly mills, is about to leave for Peppercorn, Mass., where in company with one partner he has bought a one-machine paper mill. His friends among the employees seconded by his employers presented him, Saturday evening, with a gold watch, a spirit level and a sum of money. Mr. Pickles's successor has not yet been appointed.

SOUTH MANCHESTER.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

ST. MARY'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH. Rev. Devereux E. Warner, Rector. Sunday—Morning service at 10:30. Evening service at 7:30. Sunday school at 12:15. Holy Communion on the first Sunday of every month.

One week from next Thursday will be Thanksgiving day.

George Robbins and Charles E. House are selling bill and letter files in Pennsylvania.

W. H. Cheney & Co. are making unusually extensive preparation for the holiday trade.

A rain heavy enough to cause a moderate flood is very much needed to flush out the mill streams.

ON EXHIBITION.—Prang's Christmas cards are now open, showing a choice selection of his latest and best designs. We respectfully invite early examination. W. H. CHENEY & Co.

The hearing of the case of the Hartford Manilla Co. and J. B. Olcott and others has been continued to the 27th. The evidence is almost all in.

The monthly meeting of the South Manchester Temperance Union will be held in the Methodist church tomorrow evening.

It will be remembered that one of Alexander Atkin's boys broke a limb while playing two or three weeks ago. Another of his boys fractured his shoulder by a fall while running last Saturday.

The Mt. Nelo ball association is arranging for a grand holiday entertainment Thanksgiving night. A play will probably be given, also a band concert, the whole to wind up with a ball.

S. M. Cheney, out hunting last Saturday, shot into what appeared to be a squirrel's nest in the top of a tree. Something moved, and he fired. Twenty charges of No. 9 shot brought to the ground two coons weighing together 36 pounds.

The hour of evening service at St. Mary's church has been changed to the former time of 5 o'clock. Tomorrow will be the first Sunday of Atration. The Rev. J. B. Goodrich, rector of Grace church, Windsor, will preach both morning and evening.

A new time table goes into effect on the South Manchester railroad next Monday. The 7:30 a. m. train will be unchanged; 9:40 train leaves at 9:35. There will be no train north from 9:35 until 12:45, the 11:35 train being discontinued. The 1:35 train will remain unchanged; the 2:50 train will be back to 2:30 and the 5 o'clock train to 4:55. The last evening train will not leave until 7:55, twenty-five minutes later. After today all trains will be run on the 75th meridian time, which is four minutes slower than New York time. The timetable complete appear in another column.

Twenty-five years ago it was as hard to buy a drink of gin in Manchester as it is now. Then the town agent did the bulk of the liquor selling. To show the expediency to which people resort who are thirsty for liquor, the old town agent used to tell a story of a man who came to him with two bottles exactly alike. One of these, which was filled with water, he kept concealed while the agent was filling the other with gin. As soon as the liquor was delivered him, he pleaded poverty as an excuse for not paying for it, whereupon the agent demanded the return of the liquor. After objecting a little, the man handed over the bottle of water and the agent poured its contents into the can. The toper then went on his way rejoicing with his gin snugly stowed away in his pocket.

THE WEEK'S AMUSEMENTS.

The Free Show the Only One well attended.

The week's amusements have been patronized by surprisingly small audiences. The bean bake of Co. G Tuesday evening to which tickets of admission were given away called out the only assembly of any size.

Stuart Rogers drew a large house Monday night—hardly large enough to pay his expenses. His entertainment was made up, in part, of selections he has given here before. He divided his program (the audience had none) into two parts. The first consisted of dramatic recitations. Of these the best was from "The Gilded Age," a conversation between Col. Sellers and Washington Lawrence. In the second part, consisting of impersonations, the imitation of Henry Irving was an apparent failure. It Mr. Irving had used no more dramatic force nor better elocution than shown in Stuart Rogers' imitation, he would not today be considered the leading English actor.

An imitation of an English duke was his most acceptable impersonation. The program closed at exactly the right point. The audience went home fairly pleased, but not tirred.

OLD FOLK'S CONCERT.

At the old folk's concert by the South Windsor choir Thursday evening, there was a small audience. After the performance, the prevailing exclamation was, "They deserved a better house." Not the least taking part of the entertainment was the catering procession of the old folks who passed up the main aisle in single file. Seated on the stage their appearance was as near an approach to a body of ancient singers as could well be imagined. The costumes were not only of early design, but were in many instances elegant and decidedly becoming to the wearers. Dr. William Wood the veteran leader of the choir ably impersonated the old time chorister. The weak accompaniment gave rise to the same difficulty that was noticeable in this company's concert last year—the singers and the musicians were too often disagreeing in time. As in last year's concert the solos and duets were the most finished renditions of the evening. Mrs. Roswell Grant was evidently suffering from a severe cold but she sang the opening solo remarkably well and sustained her part in duets and concerted pieces in a creditable manner. Mrs. L. Speri in her duet with Mrs. R. Burnham displayed a voice of rare purity. Mrs. Burnham did her best work in the choruses where her powerful voice aided in holding the company together. Mrs. F. O. Newberry's solo was encored. She possesses a clear ringing voice and handles it better than she did a year ago. In the "Pro Plundo Basso" the basso would have been more profound, had one of the bass singers assumed the part instead of one of the tenors. During the recess, the singers circulated freely among their friends in the audience, where their costumes attracted much admiration.

GLASTONBURY.

W. H. CHENEY & Co., Local Editor and Business Agent.

Mr. Jacob Bantle's vote for representative was 340 instead of 349 as your types erroneously stated it last week. It is suspected that some good friend of Mr. Goodrich's in making the returns to the papers on the night of election, returned Mr. Strickland as chosen first representative, when in fact Mr. Goodrich was not only chosen to that position but received some twenty votes more than any one else.

The brothers of Daskam Lodge, No. 86, accompanied by their wives and lady friends together with members of adjoining lodges, made a call upon Dr. 83 in Stocking at his residence in East Glastonbury, Thursday evening. More than one hundred were present. After a short time spent in conversation, the brethren surrounded the doctor who retreated into a convenient corner, and W. S. Goslee by the direction and in behalf of the fraternity, presented him with an elegant gold-headed cane properly inscribed, accompanied with a few words of heartfelt eulogy, to which the doctor modestly replied, in an address full of appreciative feeling. It was well that the brothers did not make their call on the doctor and his excellent wife the week before, as their ample domicile was taxed to its full capacity on each occasion. Among the many present were Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Brainard of your town and their two daughters, who assisted in the musical department. J. L. Kellam and his wife and many brothers of Columbia Lodge, South Glastonbury, including Mr. Jasper Buck a brother of Mrs. Stocking—a doctor of almost sixty years. The doctor himself has been a member of the organization some thirty-five years, and had the pleasure of meeting Messrs. Frederick Cooley and Roswell Hodge who were among the earliest Masters of Daskam Lodge. A. A. Bogue, Esq., the present Master of the Lodge, had, with the assistance of the ladies, made arrangements for a good spread, comprising oysters and the appropriate accompaniments, and three tables were successively filled, and also the occupants thereof. The company after wishing the good doctor and his wife many happy returns of their marriage anniversary, separated about eleven o'clock. The musical part of the entertainment furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Cornish and the Messrs. Brainard, Ainly, Richmond and others, left nothing to be desired in that respect.

Rev. D. C. Peabody with his wife and family have been in town at the Welles Homestead for some days past. Mr. Peabody is the rector of a church in Pittsburgh, Penn., having been absent from here about three years. He officiated at St. James' Episcopal church, morning and evening, and had a large attendance, being a former rector and very highly and deservedly esteemed by all who met and knew him while in charge here some years since.

Rev. Dr. Scudder preached an eloquent sermon on the life and work of Martin Luther at the Congregational church Sunday forenoon. The audience was large and highly attentive, and the only regret expressed was that the discourse was not longer, so interesting it was both in manner and matter.

FAREWELL TO A MISSIONARY.

The parsonage was visited on Tuesday evening of this week by a large assembly of young and old, a portion of the troops of friends of Miss Mary Kate Scudder, the eldest daughter of Dr. Scudder, who is about to leave as a missionary for India. Miss Scudder was presented with a testimonial in the court room of the realm in behalf of some of her many friends, in an eloquent and fitting speech by Prof. J. W. Bixler, and remarks were also made by W. S. Williams, Esq., and Wm. S. Goslee. All seemed to regret the necessity of parting with one so highly esteemed and so much beloved. For some ten years she has acted as one of the instructors in our Academy, with universal acceptance and approval. Nor is this but a small part of what she has done here, but in every good word and work she has been unobtrusively, first and foremost. We all feel grateful that we have been permitted to have had her among us for these years, not only for the good she has actively performed but as an example for young and old, of duty faithfully done, with an evidently conscious responsibility therefor. Her motto seems to have been the words of an eminent female educator, "There is nothing in this world I so much fear as that I shall not know all my duty, or, knowing it, fail to perform it." She goes to join that company who first and last have made the name of American women the synonym for all that is noble, true and self-sacrificing, in the honorable labor of enlightening the minds and renewing the hearts of those who sit in darkness. Success and prosperity to her, for she can not fail to act well her part anywhere. Miss Scudder sails on Saturday morning by the Farnessia of the Anchor Line for Glasgow. She will probably remain in England over one or two steamers, and will then sail for Bombay, so as to be able to commence her new work at or near the commencement of the year. Dr. Scudder will accompany his daughter to New York, and be absent over the Sabbath.

CO. G'S BEAN BAKE.

A Thoroughly Enjoyable Assembly—Award of Prizes.

Co. G have never had a more enjoyable bean bake than that of last Tuesday evening. Not far from 200 were present. After the award of prizes detailed below, all sat down to a generous collation. The members of the company acted as waiters and were very attentive to the wants of their guests. Following the banquet came pipes and cigars and songs in which all joined heartily. The address were all made out of a possible 35.

Sergt. P. Malden, 29, 1/2 bottle flour from W. W. Cowles, and one bottle of wine from a friend; Sergt. C. L. Bissell, 27, castor from C. Tiffany & Co., and 1 doz. bottles of cider, from Ex-Capt. A. A Debate on Mormonism.
WILSON, Neb., Nov. 14.—Intense interest is shown in a debate on the modern phases of Mormonism, here by two able representatives, Rev. Clark Braden, author of "Ingersoll Unmasked," and Bishop Kelly, a Mormon champion. A large number of subscribers are present from abroad taking notes. The subject now under discussion is that of the book of Mormon as a revelation from God, and the respect and belief of all religious people. The debate will continue an entire week. Kelly is a forcible, plain speaker, and carries the audience with him, until Braden, who is a sound logician, shows up the absurd fallacies of his opponent's arguments.

CONVENTING.
The proof of the printing is not in chewing the string, but in having an opportunity to test the article direct. Cheney & Co. and H. H. Hale, 150 So. Main street, offer a free trial bottle of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup for each and every one who is afflicted with Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Consumption, or any Lung Affection.

THAT 'IDENTIFICATION' CASE.

The Times have been favored since the election with sundry communications from Glastonbury about a case of alleged intimidation on the part of Mr. Leon Backer, superintendent of the mills on Roaring Brook, South Glastonbury, in discharging the watchman, Dr. Thomas J. Robinson, since the election. We know nothing in relation to the facts, but our acquaintance with the parties is such, that we are certain that if Mr. Backer has obtained a cheaper man, he certainly can not have obtained one better or more trustworthy. Mr. Robinson is a most worthy man and an excellent citizen, favorably known here for many years. As for Mr. Backer, he is a young man of fine abilities, highly esteemed by many who have formed his acquaintance, and if he is a little impulsive at times, it is a fault that years and experience will be apt to mend. The republicans will be likely to move cautiously in any further proceedings in this matter suggested, as we understand, by outside parties, recognizing that it is very much easier to get up a threatening newspaper paragraph, or make "big talk" on the streets, than to bring statements so made, to the satisfaction of legal tribunals. It may be remarked, seeing that it is "after election" that it is well for us all to avoid the "appearance of evil" in this kindred matter.

About fifteen of the members of Daskam Lodge visited Manchester Lodge F. & M. on Tuesday evening. They report a royal good time, and the best of fraternal treatment. The Young People's Guild from St. Thomas church, Hartford, will give a dramatic entertainment at Covell Hall, next Wednesday evening, for the benefit of the Guild of St. James (Episcopal) church. It is said to be well worth witnessing, and to deserve a large attendance, which we hope it may receive.

The young men of the Congregational church propose to have a series of entertainments here during the winter, if sufficient encouragement can be obtained. The first lecture will be delivered by C. H. Fowler, D. D., I. L. D., at the Congregational church, Friday evening of this week. It is to be hoped that our community may improve the opportunity thus afforded, particularly in addition to the improvement naturally to be expected from such a course, the surplus is to be devoted to church purposes.

REPUBLICAN JOLLIFICATION.

Representatives-elect P. Henry Goodrich and Eugene S. Strickland received their friends at John B. Mosley's, and with the assistance of the republican ladies, gave them a fine supper at the town hall last Wednesday evening. About 300 were there and had a most enjoyable time. Sheriffs Spaulding and T. B. Chapman together with quite a number from the neighboring towns were present. E. S. Brainard, Rankin, president (by request) and made a speech of congratulation, followed by short addresses from other gentlemen. As a means of promoting better acquaintance and friendly feeling, such meetings properly conducted, are a great advantage to very particular.

Representatives are both of them from the "old families." Mr. Goodrich is a descendant of William Goodrich, who was a settler here in 1635, and of the Rev. Timothy Stevens, who was the first minister of the town. Mr. Strickland is a descendant of Thos. Strickland, who came here prior to 1670. Both families have always occupied good positions in this town, and as individuals have been deservedly respected from generation to generation.

The largest piano and organ store in Connecticut, will be found at 169 Asylum St. Messrs. Gallup & Metzger, have the finest stock of sheet music and musical goods in Hartford. For perfect satisfaction, and for getting your money's worth, we recommend you to go to Gallup & Metzger's.

E. T. Carrier will sell stoves from now to Jan. 1st, 1884 at greatly reduced prices. Don't fail to give him a call. He keeps in stock all the celebrated Magee ranges and the beautiful Ideal high art stove, the original of its class. He has also a large stock of other first class stoves and ranges.

SOUTH WINDSOR.

The Old Folks Concert at Verner Hall, on Monday evening had a very good audience considering the inclement night. At its close, the singers adjourned, a few of them were invited by Dr. Wood to a beautiful old fashioned supper at his house, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The 490 bushels of onions harvested by Mr. C. H. Pease, and mentioned in last week's Herald, was the product of a half acre and consisted of a new land.—And instead of Mrs. Henry King visiting her friends in Longmeadow, Mass., it should read: Mrs. Mary C. Reynolds has gone to spend the winter with her friends in Longmeadow, Mass.

Rev. H. A. Morgan began a series of sermons on the Parables of Christ, last Sunday evening, in the Baptist church. Each sermon is illustrated by three oil paintings, five feet by seven. The second sermon in the series will be given next Sunday evening. Subject, "The wise and foolish virgins."—Rev. C. N. Flanders has been in attendance upon the meetings of the annual state conference of Congregational churches at Norwich.—H. J. Gillette has moved his family to New Britain, where he is engaged as bible distributor for the American Bible Society. He seems well fitted for his work, and meets with much success. His farm is offered for sale.—C. C. Vinton & Son have bought a 16 horse-power engine to supplement their water power for doing work at the mill. The new engine lecturers are doing considerable work on the roads this fall. It would seem policy to do more of the work in the spring of the year.

We have received a little book entitled "The Coming King, His Man and His Universal King," by Rev. E. S. Stanley...

What with Bickersteth's noble poem "Yesterday, Today and Forever," Mrs. Oliphant's tender story of the "Little Pilgrim," and now Elizabeth Stuart Phelps' "Beyond the Gates," we are having a foretaste of a possible heavenly literature...

There is much to be said for the author's restatement of a very old theory that this earth will receive her children once again, in the resurrection...

Printers are notoriously of the world widely, but they should not take advantage of a yearning public to cut out the "religious column" in preference to all other columns...

The estimates put upon Swedenborg and his doctrines differ very widely from those, on the one extreme, who regard him as a fanatic and an impostor, and a teacher wholly visionary and sometimes immoral...

We gasp, and yet we find it easy to recover. If the Christian Union will say the truth in its teachings, instead of broadly "this teachings" we will admit the possibility of the somewhat startling statement...

To parishes on the lookout for a parson we recommend a careful and prayerful study of the following, which while old touches a chord that is immortal and even new...

The extension of the New Canada and Stamford road from New Canaan to Danbury is being surveyed...

Dr. James W. Sweet, of No. 299 Water Street, New Haven, who has perhaps the largest practice in the country in reducing Dislocations and Fractures...

What the Great Fish Culturist Says: Last winter I went to Florida, and while there contracted Malaria in a very severe form...

It is openly asserted that the government mean to secure the execution of O'Donnell, and Mr. Currie is charged with abusing his position as the monopolist of the Cape Town steamship line...

Excuses which are Suspicious. BERLIN, Nov. 8.—The North German Gazette, in an editorial article...

Consumption Cured. An old physician, retired from active practice, having had in his hands by an East India remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of all Chronic and Lung Affections...

Recalling War Memories. WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—An important question arose to-day in the Court of Commissioners of Alameda claims...

Another Mysterious Disappearance. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 7.—Great excitement is caused by the sudden and mysterious disappearance of Miss Irene Gower...

Will Secretary Folger Accept the Vacant Place on the Bench? WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Treasury officers give very little credence to the current report that Secretary Folger is to be ordered to vacate the position...

Seal Sacques and Dolmans A SPECIALTY. A large and fine stock of newly-imported Seal Sacques and Dolmans...
