WHEREAS—Death has entered our ranks and removed from us Brother Edward C. Naylor, therefore Resolved, That we, the members of Manchester Division, No. 38, S. of T., desire to publicly bear testimony to the faithfulness and efficiency with which he performed the duties which were laid upon him in the work of this division. In the offices of Financial Scribe and Conductor, in the general work of the division and in his daily life he manifested his deep interest in the cause of temperance and his loyalty to this organization. By his manly conduct and his Christian character, he had won a large place in our hearts, and while we mourn his loss, we rejoice in the memory and the record he has left us.

Resolved, That we express our sympathy to his family in their deep affliction and pray that the God of all grace may comfort their hearts. Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family in their deep affliction, spread upon the record books of this division, and also printed in the Pass Word and Manchester Saturday Herald and that our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days.

KILLED BY THE TRAIN.

The sad Death of Edward C. Naylor. One of the saddest accidents that it has fallen to the lot of the Herald to report, was that of last Monday evening in Hartford, when Edward C. Naylor lost his life. Mr. Naylor with his brother, William, and Robert Crooks, was returning from work at the National Machine Co., and being a little late, they had taken the railroad track as the shortest cut to the depot. William Naylor and Crooks were walking on the stone wall at the side of the track while Edward was in the middle of the track nearest the wall. Their attention was attracted to a New England train just pulling into the station, when William glanced around and to his horror saw the approaching locomotive of a N. Y., N. H. & H. express almost upon his brother. He shouted to him, but too late. Before Edward could get off the track the train struck him, knocking him down, and the steps of each car struck him in turn as it passed.

EDWARD C. NAYLOR.

The train was brought to a standstill just as the last car passed him and he was picked up bruised and bleeding. The ambulance was called and he was taken to the hospital where it was found that both legs were broken and his skull was fractured besides numerous other wounds about the head and face. He died about 8.30 without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Naylor was twenty years old and was well known in both Manchester and South Manchester.

Funeral services were held at the National Machine Co. The funeral took place from his home on Oakland street at two o'clock Thursday afternoon and was attended by a great number of friends of the family. A number of Mr. Naylor's Hartford shopmates were also present. Rev. C. H. Barber conducted the service. A large delegation from Manchester Division, S. of T. was present and conducted a simple but touching service at the grave. The bearers were Thomas Rice, Robert Crooks, William McGonigal, Thomas Ferguson, Thomas Wright, and E. H. Crosby.

The floral offerings were very beautiful. An elegant pillow of flowers with the inscription, "His Shopmates," came from the employees at the National Machine Co. From Pratt & Whitney's came another pillow and a beautiful wreath Manchester Division, S. of T. sent the emblematic triangle of the order with the letters signifying "Love, Purity and Fidelity," on the sides and the word, "Brother," in the center. Hawley Division of Hartford also sent a triangle of slightly different design. Another pillow of flowers bore the name, "Eddie."

Death of Mrs. Lewis Bissell. Mrs. Lewis Bissell died at her home in East Hartford last Tuesday morning, after a long illness, at the age of 68. Mrs. Bissell lived with her husband in Manchester for 22 years. About six years ago they moved to East Hartford. Mrs. Bissell's health has never been good since she left here. From a large portly woman she has steadily wasted away until a few months before her death her friends here would hardly have recognized her. She was afflicted with a disease which she knew would be fatal, yet she kept in good spirits and always entertained her friends pleasantly when they called on her. She was a woman of unusual intelligence and warm sympathies. Her only child was R. P. Bissell of the Manchester firm of Bissell & Brough.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon. About twenty-five friends were present from Manchester. The bearers were H. A. Griswold, Dwight Spencer, C. W. Keeney and J. A. Fitch. A male quartet from Hartford furnished the music.

If you need medicine call on Taylor & Co., 211 South Main Street.

AFFAIRS ABOUT TOWN.

The public carriages lately put on between Manchester and South Manchester are well patronized.

H. O. Bowers and C. C. Rentis of this place will issue a handsome "Camp Souvenir" at Camp White next week.

Frank L. Hale, the photographer, has bought of Norman Loomis the lot on the south side of Hilliard street next east of the South Manchester railroad track and will erect on it a commodious building which will combine a dwelling for himself, a commodious studio and a store for the sale of art goods.

WOODLAND PARK MATINEE.

Lovers of horse flesh were out in force at Woodland Park Saturday afternoon. The weather was all that could be desired and the trotters provided good entertainment.

The New York Central railway, in its exhibit at the World's Fair, will strikingly illustrate the wonderful improvements that have been made in railway transportation by showing a magnificent, complete vestibule train and along side of it a reproduction of the first train of cars used in this country.

A special race was made up between Allan Risk's three-year-old Augusta and George Worden's Black Billy. The little chestnut mare kept down to business and won two successive heats handily in 2.51 and 2.52.

Tommy S. and Kinney trotted a heat. Tommy was in too fat company and tried to keep up by running. He lost by the operation, however, and though he worked hard on the last half was unable to close up the gap.

A novelty was a contest between half a dozen local drivers to see who could make the mile nearest to four minutes. In this class were J. J. Strickland, with Bob Palmer's Jerry, W. W. Cowles, J. F. Jones, R. N. Strong, G. H. Allen, Robert Mercer and Johnny Carter with his father's mare Per.

The judges were C. H. Strant, Dr. T. E. Waldon and C. W. Allen.

So many Manchester residents are now at Crescent Beach that someone has wisely suggested that the name of the settlement be changed to Manchester-by-the-Sea. Last Saturday night the cottagers gathered at the tabernacle to celebrate the opening of the new depot.

Rev. Dr. Herr, of Norwich, then took the platform and presented to Mr. Chapman, in behalf of the cottagers, a basket of elegant cut flowers, in token of their appreciation of his services.

The remainder of the evening was spent listening to a musical and literary entertainment by volunteers. Nearly 1,000 people were present.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

A reunion and jubilee was held at the Tabernacle, Crescent Beach, Saturday evening, in honor of the new depot. Speeches were made by W. Bronson and others of Hartford. There were also recitations and readings by Mrs. Herr of Norwich and Miss Luce of Niantic.

A large part of the quarrymen at Millstone granite quarries have gone back to work after being out since May 1, regardless of branch and union, and the remainder will do so as soon as operations open places for them. It is thought the granite cutters will soon follow suit.

William Judson, a hardware merchant and a prominent business man of Torrington, attempted suicide Thursday night. He took sixty grains of morphine, but his wife found it out and three doctors and a stomach pump saved his life.

WONDERS OF THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Fully 100,000 men, it is believed, will participate in the parade on the occasion of the dedication of the World's Fair buildings in October.

Rhode Island will present its World's Fair building to Chicago after the exposition closes. The structure will be very picturesque in appearance, being a reproduction in part of the famous "Old Stone Mill" at Newport.

A "model of the figure of Lot's wife in salt" will appear in the Kansas World's Fair exhibit to represent or illustrate the salt industry of the state.

The German exhibit at the World's Fair will contain an architectural display including drawings illustrating 200 or more of the most notable buildings in the empire.

The South Kensington Museum, London, recently paid $50 ($400 for some lace manufactured in the south of Ireland. It is said that this is the highest price on record and that the lace is of the most exquisite workmanship.

The Fine Arts building at the World's Fair will have a mosaic floor, the contract for which has been let at $16,989.

An Indiana stone quarry company is having a life-size figure of an elephant chiseled out of a solid block of stone. It will be 11 feet high and weigh 30 tons. It will be exhibited at the World's Fair.

Harvard University, wants 7,000 square feet for its intended exhibit at the World's Fair.

The New York Central railway, in its exhibit at the World's Fair, will strikingly illustrate the wonderful improvements that have been made in railway transportation by showing a magnificent, complete vestibule train and along side of it a reproduction of the first train of cars used in this country.

Space has been applied for at the World's Fair for a miniature model of Galveston, Texas, showing its advantages and facilities as a shipping point, and port of entry, its docks, piers, public buildings, etc.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, President of the Board of Lady Managers, and Archbishop Ireland have agreed upon a plan for securing for the World's Fair an exhibit of the work of the catholic women of the world. This project has the special approval of Pope Leo XIII, as indicated by the letter recently sent from the Vatican in reply to one by Mrs. Palmer, and also by assurance of Archbishop Ireland who has just returned from Rome.

THE STATE PRESS.

It is believed that the collection of a very notable exhibit will be the result.

Our faithful reporter for Colchester writes that he has been having a carbuncle some smaller than an Egyptian pyramid exactly between the eyes, which rendered him totally blind for a time, and this accounts for the absence of news from that place this week.

REMINDS US OF HOBSEBREAD. (Mystic Press.) The pelting of steamer Annie L. BICYCLING IN SWITZERLAND.

A Manchester Man, Mr. Allen Hammond, of Rockport, has spent several years with the Master of this place in making a tour through Europe with his wheel.

Today we find ourselves on our ride from Geneva, all the way to Chamounix, and feeling that the party left it looked rainy and the roads were muddy from previous rains.

From there seven or eight miles from the train for Cluses, ten miles from Cluses to Annecy, and ten miles from Annecy to Chamounix. The rest of us went on wheels. It rained all the way and we had a very trying time, especially when we were all the way to Chamounix, and feeling that the party left it looked rainy and the roads were muddy from previous rains.

INTERNAL.

From Aigle six of us had a half mile climb in the rain to Chamounix after dinner we had a fire started in a smoking room and warmed ourselves the best we could.

THE DANGER OF SWIMMING.

Perhaps the most ordinary danger on the sea-shore is what are known as the three waves. The breakers, as they come in a series of three. Sometimes the three are small, and sometimes are very heavy, but, as a rule, the second comes run about the same size.

Our faithful reporter for Colchester writes that he has been having a carbuncle some smaller than an Egyptian pyramid exactly between the eyes, which rendered him totally blind for a time, and this accounts for the absence of news from that place this week.

Electricity Beams Beneath the Old Maples - Buckland Shares the Boon Too - So Does Highland Park - South Manchester Not In It.

It was not so very many years ago that Manchester Green was the stopping place for the stage coaches that preceded the railroad trains as means of conveyance between Hartford and Providence.

It was not generally known that the lights were to be turned on for the first time Tuesday night. A Herald representative got wind of the fact however and took a bicycle run over to the Green to see what effect the illumination should produce.

The light was a surprise to most of the villagers. When the blaze came, feminine screams of delight smote the evening air, followed by the hum of voices.

At the Center the scene changed. East and North the highway was illuminated. But in South Manchester the only lights that pierced the inky darkness were from a smoky lantern left by the workmen who had been repairing the road below the soldiers' monument.

The agitation for the extension of the electric lights to Manchester Green began last February. The lights had then been extended from Manchester south on Main street to the Center and east on Woodbridge street nearly half way to the Green.

Meaning the residents of Buckland concluded they didn't want to left at the dark, and made up their minds to extend the wires circuit through Hilliardville and back to the electric factory through Woodland street.

The lights added to the Manchester lighting plant by these extensions number 120. The Manchester Green extension adds about 75 and the Buckland extension the balance.

The enterprising residents of Highland Park have an electric light plant of their own and have been running it nearly a year without as yet asking any help from the town.

Tommy's Letter from the Country to His Father in Town.

The man who told the wonderful story about finding his lost money on the tire of a wagon wheel, and again, last week described a sea serpent which he had seen off Roton Point.

"Some time ago," he went on to say, when a woman had purchased a can of corn and gone out, "my wife expected company and she sent me out to the barn to kill a fowl. We always have hen and taters at our house when company comes.

NEW SALVATION ARMY BARRACKS. A NIGHT OF REJOICING. The new barracks of the local corps of the Salvation Army were dedicated last Monday night. Commandant Booth came up from New York on the occasion.

enough to contain chairs for 600 persons. Its dimensions are 35x75. A platform rising in tiers across the rear of the room has 120 chairs which are occupied by the members of the corps and the band.

Gen. Ballington Booth is a very tall, slim man with a pale face, black hair and a drooping moustache, and a little round shouldered. He wore the ordinary dark blue uniform of the Salvation Army.

Perhaps I am better qualified to speak for the Salvation Army than anyone else here, for two reasons, first because I have had a long experience with the movement, and second because I am the longest man present in the Salvation Army.

Six years ago the entire Salvation Army would assemble in the fifteen-foot square parlor in my father's house. Now this God-inspired organization stretches a scarlet chain about the globe, with divisions in 37 nations, countries and provinces.

An Irishman went into a telephone office and asked to be connected with the house where his wife was employed. "Is that you Bridget?" "No answer." "Is that you Bridget?"

Some persons are just as ready to attribute a wrong character to the Salvation Army as Patrick was to give Bridget a reputation she did not deserve. The Salvation Army has proved itself a blessing to the city, a boon to the state and a safeguard to the nation.

Too many think we do our work in a half-hearted, slipshod style. Last night I heard a young sister of 17 in a heavy meeting make a strong appeal for the Salvation Army.

The speaker closed with a brief but fervent exhortation to sinners. Prior to the dedication service Capt. Longland gave a statement of the condition of the building fund.

F. M. Huggins, Mansfield, O., writes: "Last May (1891), I purchased a Victor Cushion Tire Bicycle to be used on the Elwell tour. Now, I have ridden over a thousand miles on it and wish to say a word for the cushion. Your tire is the best. Although I have ridden over the worst roads in the Alps, and some bad ones in England, the tire is not even scratched. Everybody over here (England) who has tried my Victor is enthusiastic." GLASTONBURY.

Mr. Easton returned from his vacation this week. He is to preach in Westford tomorrow. S. G. W. Rankin has bought a fine driving horse this week from Capen & Kenyon, of Hartford. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Carter of New York are visiting at Henry Wright's. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor are spending a few days at Noank. S. P. Turner and family and Willard Simpson and family are at Niantic. John Bunce is home from Rochester, N. Y., on a vacation. Mrs. John Q. Goodrich and her daughter, Miss Addie, have gone to Northford for a week after which they will spend two weeks in the Catskills. Mr. Holmes, of Hadlyme, is visiting his son-in-law, W. E. Gates. E. B. Treat, of New York, is visiting his cousin, Henry S. Goslee. Mr. Broadhead has resigned the executorship of the estate of Mrs. Frances Hale. The estate has been turned over to the Hartford Security Co., for settlement. Butter is getting scarce. It has gone up three cents a pound within a few days. The Glastonbury creamery finds it impossible to fill orders. A hound belonging to Capt. Charles Talcott was run over and killed by the electric cars Thursday morning. Both cars passed over his body, killing him instantly. It is said to have been a valuable animal. The motorman stopped the car the other day to let one of the meanest dogs in town get off the track—but perhaps he didn't know the dog. William Watson House, a native of Glastonbury died at his home in Hartford Sunday, aged 79. He went to Hartford in early life and made money in the subscription book business. In 1823 he was appointed internal revenue collector for Hartford and held the position for 23 years. Running Water for Glastonbury. The East Hartford Water Co. has almost completed its plans and will begin the work of laying the water mains at once. A part of the pipe has arrived at East Hartford and the men will soon be on the ground. About 150 Italians will be employed and they will work in two gangs, one gang working south from East Hartford and the other working north from Glastonbury. F. W. Dean is to build barracks to accommodate 60 men on the road running east from Goodale's shop. Satisfactory arrangements have been made with all the mill owners along the stream with the exception of Howe Brothers and the company now proposes to take water from below their saw mill. Howe Brothers want $4,000 for their privilege, but the company cannot see more than $2,500 in it. No reservoir will be built at present. A fourteen inch main will convey the water from the stream to Welles corner, whence a six inch main will carry it as far as the reservoir. Above that point the company intends to have the job completed before winter sets in. Our hopes in regard to the macadamized road are being rapidly realized. Contractor Lane and his gang of men are on the ground with road scrapers, steam roller and watering cart and they are at work with a will. The work was commenced at Turner's store and is being pushed south to Welles corner as rapidly as possible. As soon as this piece is completed the road can be closed above Turner's and the traffic turned into the back road. Some horses become frightened at the steam roller and occasionally a driver has to blindfold his horse to get it by the machine. The short piece of road that has been completed is firm as a rock and people are enthusiastic over the idea of being able to travel over such a road as that. The crushed stone is brought to Naubuc dock in barges and a number of teams are kept busy drawing it to the road. Wednesday morning a barge loaded with 70 tons of stone sprung a leak at the dock and tipped over, depositing the load in the bottom of the river. The barge was righted and towed part way across the river, out of the channel where she lies full of water.

ADDISON.

Addison post office is now a money order office. The mills shut down today for two weeks giving the employees a chance to visit the seaside and the various summer resorts. Misses Lizzie Sellew, Mary Little, Emma March, Fannie Robinson and Kattie Sampson are going to Westbrook to spend their vacation. W. J. Robinson is home from Philadelphia on a vacation. Miss Bessie Woodworth, of Hartford, is visiting at Thomas Outtrims. BUCKINGHAM. Mrs. Pease's mother and brother are at the parsonage. William C. Hill is in Northfield. Miss Mary Hill is visiting at the Rev. A. Gardner's in Warren. Mrs. Chas. Loomer, a former resident, is visiting old friends here. Mrs. Jilson, who was visiting at Mrs. Loomis's, has returned home. E. J. Stanton and family are spending a couple of days with Mrs. Thurston, who returned home Wednesday. Mrs. Milton Brainard and son, Howard, of South Manchester are visiting their father, Ira Loveland, spending a few weeks at their old home.

FLAG RAISING AT ADDISON.

Enthusiasm for Harrison and Reid. Last Saturday was a gala day for the people of Addison and the afternoon sun shone down on such a scene as that little village has not known in many a long day. It was the occasion of the unfurling of a new flag bearing the inscription Harrison & Reid. A large delegation from the South Manchester Republican club, accompanied by the South Manchester band, came down in three four-horse busses. A number of Manchester citizens also drove down in single teams. The members of the South Manchester delegation could be easily distinguished by the silk flags with which their hats were ornamented. These were furnished in large numbers by Mr. J. W. Cheney. No better spot could have been chosen for the exercises than the high mill bank in front of the upper mill. The top of the bank as well as the piazza of the house which stands there were covered with chairs for the accommodation of the musicians and the speakers, while on the grassy sides of the bank were seated the spectators who also filled the street in front. From a lofty perch in the mill-tower opposite, the Herald representative viewed the scene. The band and the Crosby drum corps of twelve pieces played a number of selections as the company assembled. It was a few minutes after four when carriages containing the speakers of the day, accompanied by a number of prominent Glastonbury republicans arrived. At just 4.20 the flag, 15 by 28 feet in size, was unfurled and Rev. S. G. W. Rankin stepped forward and proposed three hearty cheers for Old Glory and three for Harrison & Reid. They were given with a will. The band struck up Star Spangled Banner which was followed by Rally Round the Flag by the drum corps. S. C. Hardin then introduced ex-Mayor H. C. Dwight as the first speaker. Mr. Dwight remarked on the beautiful country and the prosperity of the town. With all this prosperity, said he, what's the use of going back to the old administration. The present administration commends itself to every man, woman and child as the best administration in the present century because it has perfected the American cities. Those who came here from foreign lands have found no place where there are so many things to enjoy as here. Some persons present have seen the old flag come up through the smoke of battle and have come back to enjoy their prosperity under it. I congratulate you on having for a president Benjamin Harrison, who has himself fought under it. Touching on the subject of state banks he spoke of the old days of state banks when the bills issued in one state were at a discount in another, while with our national currency a dollar is worth a dollar from Atlantic to Pacific. As for the force bill the people of Glastonbury are not the ones to suffer. Every man should vote and vote as he pleases. The black man should have the same right to cast his vote as his white brother. We see the benefits of protection right here at home. If you want free trade commerce here on tobacco. Foreign traders want free trade with America, but we can see the advantages of protection. Our tariff is to benefit our own people not the people of another country. Therefore why change the administration when we have for our leader a man who has fought for the country with sword and pen. After a selection by the band Rev. S. G. W. Rankin spoke in substance as follows: I am here to congratulate the people of Addison on the uproar they can create when they set out to do so. I have seen happy days in my life and I have seen sad days. There were three sad days when at the Minneapolis convention some of the delegates tried to thwart the plans of those who wished to nominate Benjamin Harrison for president. One of the happiest days for 20 years was when I heard that Harrison was nominated a second time. I knew President Harrison when he was a small boy in his home in Illinois and I have known him ever since and have always had the greatest respect for him. In talking with a New York alderman a short time ago he expressed his sorrow that Hill did not head their ticket. But Harrison is a good man too. "Yes," said he, "but he is too clean, you can never elect so clean a man." I am satisfied with what he has done and want to live to vote for a clean man. How Rowland Swift, of Hartford was the next speaker. He remarked on rising that there was little left to be said but, nevertheless he kept the closest attention of the audience for the next 20 minutes. He spoke of the days when the boys marched off to the beat of the drum in answer to Lincoln's call and said that we antagonize the same class of men now that we did then. There are some things we want and there are some things we don't want. We don't want so much gerrymandering business. We want here this legislature stealing or fraudulent canvas and recounts. It is a matter of congratulation to us that the supreme court declared against it. We want here election day shot-guns. We don't want this juggling with the tariff. He thought tariff a good thing for the tobacco—well suited to the soil and would recommend a little more. We have the tariff and have for a president Benjamin Harrison. We defy any man to compare his administration unfavorably with that of any previous one. Mr. Swift said much more and his remarks were greeted with hearty applause. Mr. Hardin then introduced John M. Shewry, of Manchester, who gave a short but stirring address. The line, then formed, headed by the band and marched to Austin Bidwell's where a bountiful collation of sandwiches, doughnuts and cake was spread on tables in the shade of the great trees in front of the house. All alighted in with a good will, each one bent on doing his share toward clearing the board, but they don't do things by halves in Addison, and after all had enough there still remained quite a supply. It didn't take long though, to drain that great tub of lemonade. After lunch an hour was passed socially, getting acquainted, chatting and singing. The whole company gathered round the band and sang America and Rally Round the Flag after which three cheers were given for the people of Addison, three for the Addison girls and three for Mr. Bidwell. With this the company separated, well pleased with the afternoon's entertainment.

TALCOTTVILLE.

The Drum Corps' New Suits—Their Trip to South Glastonbury—Other Items of Interest. Miss Mary Robinson, of Addison, is visiting with Miss Jane Covil. A large delegation from this place will attend the Sons of Temperance excursion to Providence and Rocky Point, next Wednesday. The extra train will stop at this place and is due here at 7.25. Tickets can be had of the members of the order. Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Talcott and daughter are at Block Island. Mrs. Edwin Risley and daughter have returned home from Newington where they have been visiting for some time. Miss Maggie Gilchrist, of South Manchester, is visiting with friends here. Rev. Mr. Redfield occupied the pulpit last Sunday in the absence of our pastor. The little two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Woods, died of whooping cough last Monday, after only a few days' sickness. The funeral was largely attended Wednesday. The burial was at Buckland and Rev. Mr. Redfield officiated. About half a dozen from this place went on the New England excursion to Boston Wednesday. Mrs. John Templeton and her two children, of Paterson, N. J., are visiting with relatives here. Allie Piny and Rob Douglas met with an accident while driving home from Glastonbury last Saturday night. Their horse became frightened at an electric car and got beyond control. They were both thrown from the carriage without injury.

The Monday night as there was a dearth in the village they did not parade until Wednesday evening. They called at several of the houses and were well treated. At H. G. Talcott's several tunes were played and he gave them a few words of encouragement, complimenting them for their good looks and their playing. The next place called at was the Boarding house where lemonade was served. The last place visited was Mr. Andrew Dexter's. Here they were also used well and your correspondent can testify as to Mr. Dexter's ability as a lemonade maker. The members of the corps feel proud of the success they have made and wish through the columns of the Herald, to thank those who have taken so deep an interest in them and for their help in securing the suits they wore with pride Wednesday night. The drum corps' trip to South Glastonbury last Saturday afternoon was an occasion long to be remembered by every one in the corps. Hale & Day's bus was chartered and every member was present, with one exception. The weather was all that could be desired and the trip was made in about three hours. Shortly after their arrival at the house of Mr. Ledyard they had a short parade, and on their return to the house four tables were loaded down with all sorts of eatables. Ice cream and temperance drinks were also served and the boys showed the Glastonbury people that they could do more than play a life or drum. After supper they were well entertained and no doubt they will go back again.

A LITTLE GIRL'S EXPERIENCE IN A LIGHT HOUSE. Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you can get a trial bottle free at the drug stores of C. H. Rose and W. B. Cheney.

OWN A HOME

Of course you expect to some day, but why not make a start now? The first thing you will need is a building lot. There are no pleasanter building lots to be had in South Manchester than the SOUTH SIDE LOTS on the Foster Farm. The land requires no grading, slopes gently to the south and commands a fine view. Our terms are easy and prices are within your reach. Chart may be seen and information obtained at Herald Office, Manchester, or at Child's grain store South Manchester.

The prescribed course of medical instruction in the Mexican National university is seven years. The Chinese, Japanese, Malays, Siamese, New Zealanders and North American Indians are all but beardless. The best road, according to Parisian experts, for hardness and unwearability is made of volcanic scoria. Both oranges and lemons are packed unripe—the latter when quite green and the former when just turning from green to yellow. There are only two congregations of Armenians in this country—one at Worcester, Mass., and the other at Hoken, N. J. The little island of Jamaica sells annually to the United States bananas exceeding in value the entire apple, peach and cherry crop of this country. The largest university in the world is in Cairo, Egypt, and has 11,000 students, who come from every part of the Mohammedan world to study Muslim law. American colleges draw their students from all quarters of the globe. In the University of Pennsylvania alone there are students from twenty-eight foreign countries. The prefix "O" before so many names of our Irish leaders is an abbreviation of O'Rourke, meaning grandchild. Therefore, O'Rourke means grandchild of O'Rourke. The manufacture of carriages is used to take one man thirty-five days to make a carriage. It is now made by the aid of machinery with the work of one man in twelve days.

There is a story of George William Curran, a man never to have been published, who was lecturing on a Buffalo stage, when suddenly a heavy rope broke loose from his mounting, and he fell and broke his spine. The rope was fastened to the roof behind the speaker. Mr. Curran looked around and was surprised to see what had happened. He turned to the audience and said, "I am glad to see that the rope is so strong." TURF TOPICS. Nancy Lee, dam of Nancy Hanks, 800, has a filly by Stamboul, Jr. Sunol trotted an exhibition mile in 2:16 1/2 at Meadville, Pa., recently. A hippometer, invented by a French officer, will measure the pace and ground covered by a horse. Jennie Wren, the pacer, broke the track record at Springfield, O., recently, pacing a second heat in 2:18. Jewett, 2:14, has won more heats in 3:30 and better than any other pacer. Over 180 winning heats are credited to him. With Arion and Sunol at its head the string of trotters now in Marvin's charge may be set down as one of the most remarkable ever gathered. Jimmy Rowe says he is willing to match His Highness for $20,000 to $25,000 against any horse at up to mile and a quarter, and will bet he can run a mile in 1:38 at Sheepshead Bay with weight up.

ASSOCIATE DENTISTS, Opposite Brown, Thompson & Co.'s. Josh Billings says when a man takes a good umbrella and leaves a poor one he simply makes a mistake, but when he takes a poor one and leaves a good one he makes a blunder. Dr. Dills says when the Associate Dentists charged only half price for extracting a tooth with or without gas they may have made a mistake, but when the "management" in his absence doubled these prices they made a blunder. This is now rectified by a return to old prices for extracting and artificial teeth, while charging much less than usual prices for the finer operations of modern dentistry. Dr. Dills insists that his original idea of fair prices shall now continue with the Associate Dentists during his lease of the office—which he considers as perpetual, having just exchanged his fifty years' lease for a still more permanent one, that the public may know we are working for permanency and are reliable. Associate Dentists, 405 Main street, opposite Brown & Thomson's.

THE ABOVE EXPLAINED. Fifteen years ago I organized the Associate Dentists and in seven years had a practice that justified two dentists in paying me $3,000 a year net for it. Changes have occurred in the office until now, when I resume charge of it, and with one of the original associates we will adopt the methods and prices that secured our first practice. We will charge but half usual rates for extracting teeth with or without gas, because at this price our extracting amounted to $3,000 a year and we are not getting better these times. We will be glad to see our old patients and make any concessions possible in renewing their work. J. C. Dills, D. D. S., of the Associate Dentists, opposite Brown & Thomson's.

SOME ODD EXHIBITS. THINGS WHICH WILL ATTRACT ATTENTION AT THE WORLD'S FAIR. A Miniature Volcano in Eruption—A Female Blacksmith from California—The Famous Old Whaling Bark Progress.

THE VOLCANO OF KILAUEA. The original thinkers of every civilized country in the world have been racking their brains for some time past to devise ingenious exhibits for the World's fair.

There will be one entertainment at the fair which, in boldness of conception and elaborateness of execution, will probably not be surpassed by anything in that great aggregation of curiosities. It will be nothing less than an ambitious effort to reproduce on a comparatively large scale the great volcano of Kilauea.

Walter Burridge, the Chicago scene painter, is to do the principal part of the work, and for the purpose of having the picture true to life he visited Hawaii, saw the volcano in eruption, took photographs and made sketches of the scene and then returned home to go to work on his immense undertaking.

At the World's fair the crew of the Progress will give exhibitions of whale catching, in which everything will be true to life, except of course the whale. The cabin of the old vessel will be converted into a museum, wherein will be shown relics of the old whaling days before the monsters of the deep were blown up by bombs.

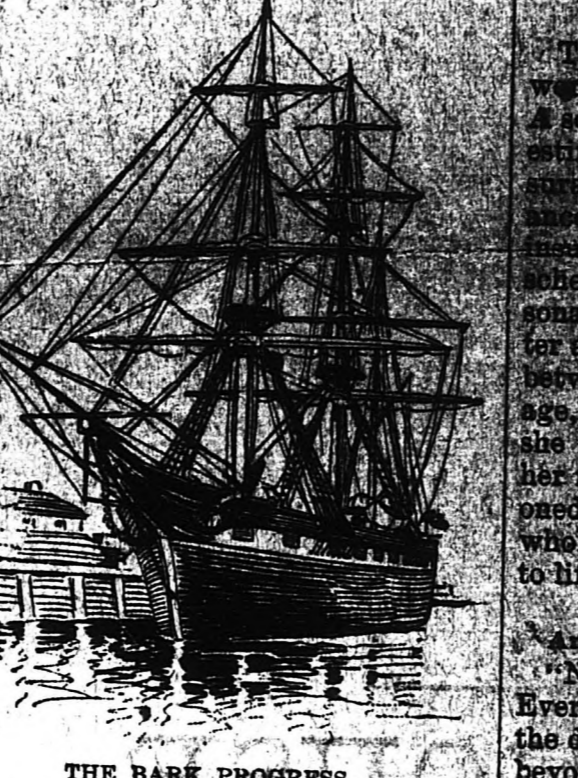

MISS BEVERIDGE AT WORK. ceived the idea that woman's superior taste in ornamentation could be put to good use in small ironworking for decorative purposes. Like the determined girl that she is, she set to work to perfect herself in this branch of the blacksmithing trade, and the rapid advancement she has already made warrants her in hoping some day to rise far above mediocrity.

exposing shapely arms that are brown and strong looking, but not sinewy, and a big leather apron protects her apparel from the danger of flying sparks. The only portion of her attire which seems out of place in a blacksmith shop is her footgear, which she insists upon wearing of the daintiest pattern.

Who is there in the United States who has not heard one or more stories of the famous old whaling bark Progress, which will be another of the queer, interesting and historic objects on exhibition at the World's fair?

The Progress was launched at West-erly, R. I., in 1843. She was then known as the Charles Phelps. She was 107 feet long, 27 feet beam, 19 feet depth of hold and registered 338 tons.

The New York Central and Hudson River railway will have an interesting exhibit at the World's fair. It will consist of an exact reproduction, down to the minutest details, of the first railway train run in America.

Another railroad exhibit which is certain to attract great attention is the General, the famous engine which was captured by the Andrews raiders during the war.

Perhaps the most grotesque exhibit at the World's fair will be the one presided over by Mr. Donald Burns, of New York. It will be as nearly as possible a representation of a jungle, and will be called the "Den of Snakes."

Every body knows that Mr. William O. W. is one of the secretaries of the great society leader in Washington, and that the administration of the president.

She had no claim to social rank even in her youth, beauty, wealth, brains and intellect. Her maiden name was Smith and her family was not distinguished.

Indiana behaved herself fairly well in the legislature of 1878. It decided to drive Dan Voorhees out of congress. It put its country of Vigo in a district which began fifty miles north northwest of Terre Haute and ran off southeast nearly to the Ohio—in shape somewhat like a lemniscate with a footrest.

South Carolina laid out to beat Mississippi, and did it the very first trial by making her famous Seventh district. Custom and county lines were disregarded, and "black townships" picked up here and there from northeast Sum-ter down to James island, then around a three-quarter circle almost to the place of beginning, the width of the district on the southeast being merely a strip of beach between high and low tide.

William S. Linton, mayor of the city of Saginaw, Mich., has been nominated for congress by the Republicans of the Eighth district of the Wolverine State.

THE GERRYMANDER. HOW A WELL KNOWN POLITICAL TERM WAS COINED.

It is Eighty Years Since the Word Was First Used, but the Practice It Describes is Still Young and Popular with the Various Parties.

Elbridge Gerry (G hard, as in Garry) was a patriot and a statesman, a signer of the immortal declaration and the inventor and sponsor of the "gerrymander." He was governor of Massachusetts in 1812, and his party majority was dangerously small in the legislature, so he cut Essex county into two districts in which the Federalists despised. A wit said it looked like a salamander. "Say rather a Gerrymander," said another, and the word was born.

Ohio presents a beautiful field for the manipulator. The curious way in which a line of counties ruled by one party runs across the state, while a line of opposite politics runs parallel or nearly so, makes it possible to cut one way and make two-thirds of the districts Democratic, or the other way and make two-thirds Republican—all on the same vote.

Efforts to keep the Thames clean. It is against all the rules of chivalry to kick a man when he is down. The River Thames has been down—very far down—on its luck for a long time now. Its clear waters, which formerly inspired the poet to high flights of song, having become in recent years a huge tide of moving mud. And yet Edwin Horlock deliberately sets about to make this state of things worse, to metaphorically jump on the river in its present deplorable and helpless condition by shoveling heaps of straw into it.

A river constable saw a quantity of this refuse floating on the tide, and following its track for about half a mile he came upon Mr. Horlock industriously shoveling the refuse flat of his barge into the water. "Hello!" cried the constable; "what are you doing that for? You are polluting the river." "Bless me," replied the shoveler, "is that possible? I couldn't have believed it." In fact, he went on to attempt to convince the policeman that the straw would rather improve the quality than otherwise; at any rate, that it was not possible to make the water any worse, just as it was a waste of time to grid refined gold or to paint the lily.

The faithful constable declined to argue any analogy not contained in the police handbook, but arranged an interview between Edwin Horlock and the magistrate at Greenwich, which resulted in the former leaving the courtroom a poorer man by twenty shillings, but with the fact impressed upon his memory that shoveling straw into a river does not conduce to its purity or transparency.—London News.

Chinese Twins. "The only Chinese twins ever born in this country" have been on exhibition for the last week in a restaurant on State street, near Randolph. The tots, for they are extremely small, are five years old. They were born in San Francisco of high caste parents and they bear the names of Rose and Sophie Lee. The Misses Lee have not had their youthful minds filled with stories of the several hundred thousand josses whom the Celestials delight to worship, but every Sunday afternoon they turn their turned up tops in the direction of the University Sunday school, at Robey street and Warren avenue. If indications are not belied by the work of time, Rose and Sophie will be accomplished speakers of the English language.

They have become adepts in the art of giving out Chinese toothpicks to curious patrons of the restaurant, and Sophie inside of twenty-four hours learned to bestow a betwixting Celestial smile with every pick. Despite a certain pink tinge in their cheeks they bear the distinctive facial marks of the Mongolian race. Their black hair is done up in a fashion that would baffle the efforts of an American hairdresser. The dresses they wear will hardly become fashionable in this country, but they are expensive, being of the finest silk, in spite of their peculiarity. The girls are taken to the restaurant every morning by their mother, the calling for them at night when the demand for toothpicks has ceased.—Chicago Tribune.

Foxes with Charmed Lives. More foxes flourish in eastern Pennsylvania than can probably be found in any other early settled state. There is no question but that as many are now roaming the hills and ridges near Reading as there were a century ago. Nine have been shot this season already by young sportsmen near the village of Rock, and thirteen more have been killed in the vicinity of Pikeville. The foxes have grown so bold that they give the farmers a great deal of annoyance by their depredations. Frank H. Werner, a farmer residing near Epler's church, discovered on Wednesday a large red fox in his barn.

Before he could get his gun the animal had disappeared, carrying two fat hens. Members of the Morgantown Fox Hunting club captured three foxes—a large male and two females—alive the other day at the base of the Welsh mountains, near Cornarvon, and are now keeping them confined until the next hunt. Three or four big foxes are seen almost every day in the neighborhood of Yellow House, but they all appear to bear charmed lives.—Reading Times.

Signs of Midsummer. In the fields the farmers are working over the hay. Along by the stone walls the raspberries are falling off the briars for want of picking. By the wet and marshy places snapdragons go off like bombshells at the touch of the summer winds. The apples that a month and a half ago were dying blossoms are green and swelling into ripeness. Corn in the field is spindling and the potato is blossoming. It is midsummer.—Bangor Commercial.

Will Be Cut with a Buzzsaw. The Fall River butchers and grocers have arranged for the making of an immense pie to be carried in their procession next month. It will weigh 2,000 pounds and be 8 feet long, 5 feet wide and 2 feet thick. It will contain 500 pounds of beef, 400 of mutton, 500 of fowl, 800 of potatoes, and a barrel of flour will be used in making the crust.—Boston Herald.

The prospectus of an Indian match factory has been issued in Calcutta. The promoters, who are all natives, have collected different kinds of wood suitable for matches from different parts of India, and have forwarded samples of them to experts in London and Hamburg.

One canning company of Salem, Or., has canned 50,000 cans of strawberries this season. Half a dozen other canneries at different points have been preserving nearly the same amount each.

A Philadelphia funeral team did service at a wedding a few days ago, and the dousing driver allowed the horse to carry the bridal couple into the cemetery.

Where Reciprocity is Needed. This is the season of the year. When down to Farmer Smith's there come his city cousins, the De Smiths.

There's old De Smythe and Mac. Their daughters May and Jane and Sue. And Tom and Dick and Ned and Jack.

They take the ancient house by storm. They own the farm from fence to fence. And lord the day De Smythes were.

The boys all sime the cows for hours. The girls the chickens drive away. Their parents like the old farm plan.

It was a handsome piece of work, but it was set in a corner with its face turned toward the wall, and other flowers took its place on the coffin.

Angler Carson and the Whale. William Carson was out on one of the tug one week ago Saturday, and with the crew of the tug was engaged in taking halibut on the bars about three miles west of the bar.

Judge of the surprise of Mr. Carson when a whale about forty feet long came to the surface and blew about 200 feet from the tug, with the line fastened to one of his flukes.

After Captain Nelson had struck him and lost his line, the tug steamed a couple of miles farther out to get away from him.

Why He Pays Duty on the "Bait." Some rather fine distinctions are drawn in the matter of customs decisions by the treasury department.

When he used the word "fancied" he gave his case away. Assistant Secretary Cronase informed him that the McKinley law admits free of duty articles of clothing which are a "necessity."

Claimed Millions, Got a Pauper's Grave. Mrs. Ann Dodge, who was mentioned in a New York paper recently as one of Montana's millionaires, is reported to have died in a pauper's grave.

The Voice of the Robin. No bird is better known to us than the robin. Its song is sweet and plaintive; it rises early and goes to bed late; it loves to dwell and nestle near to man, and has an air of sprightliness and confidence which endears it to us all.

Grow Anxious. The residents of Cassville, Mo., became somewhat alarmed and unusually pious, a few days ago, on discovering that the ore in a zinc mine, thereabouts, had a depth of eighty-five feet, proved to be that it would not be profitable to work that mine.

They thought the mine was of great value, and they had suddenly discovered that it was not. They had suddenly discovered that it was not.
