The funds of the association are loaned on bonds, mortgages, notes, real estate, etc., and such securities as the board of directors may accept. The past year has been a very prosperous one for the association and the directors predict an even more prosperous one for the coming year.

The burial will be in the Wapping cemetery.

Mrs. Rockwell was 37 years old and the eldest daughter of Orrin G. Hollister, of this town. She was born on the Hollister farm on Avery street, and lived there until her marriage to Mr. Rockwell. She was a woman of pure Christian character and beloved by all who knew her. She was an energetic church worker and was a member of the Wapping Congregational church. She was a devoted mother and a helpful neighbor. Her death is a great loss to her husband and her children.

BANK MEETING.

Stockholders Hear Report of Canvassing Committee.

Unless some unexpected snag arises, a bank for Manchester will be forthcoming within a very few weeks. The project has advanced much farther than any of the previous attempts in this direction and the successful culmination of years of effort seems now in sight. At the meeting of subscribers called at the Orford hall last Wednesday evening about 35 were present. All seemed confident of the success of the enterprise and the meeting was harmonious. The subscription paper was presented for examination. It bore the names of 73 subscribers, including a majority of the south end merchants, a few from the north end, several doctors, a clergyman, contractors, farmers, mechanics and manufacturers.

Dr. W. R. Tinker was elected chairman of the meeting and E. L. G. Hohenthal clerk. O. M. Nilson, who has been conducting the canvass for subscribers with the aid of the local committee, said that he had hoped to have the list closed so that the meeting might elect directors; but for unavoidable causes he had been unable to complete negotiations with several men who would make desirable stockholders. The amount subscribed up to that time was $45,000. The balance, he said, was easily in sight, but it was best to place it where it would do the most good. The attitude of Hartford banks toward the project had changed and they were more friendly than at first. Mr. Nilson said he had the assurance that a friendly banking man with experience from either one of three or four strong Hartford banks could now be secured as a member of the board of directors should the stockholders care to have such a man on the board. Several of the leading stockholders, he said, had expressed themselves in favor of this plan as a Hartford director would give the bank the benefit of his experience and would aid in the periodical revision of the books. This would be a master for the bank and the plan followed.

He made the point that the managers of the bank and in this case outside stockholders would be absolutely at the mercy of the local directors. He said this to refute stories which had come to him that he was endeavoring to secure control of the bank. He said he did not wish the control. It would be suicidal for him to get it and any such purpose was farthest from his mind. Mr. Nilson explained the various safeguards which could be employed to protect the interests of stockholders and depositors. He said that in the list of subscribers to the stock were men fully competent to officiate as directors—men of integrity and of brain.

In regard to the relation of directors to depositors he said it was not customary for directors to have access to the individual accounts of depositors. This would defeat the purposes of the bank, for many depositors feel business about having competitors in business know their financial affairs. Knowledge of personal accounts would be confined to the cashier, who, with his bondsman, would be responsible for a faithful report of their total. A further check might be placed upon the cashier by electing to the presidency a neutral man, acceptable to all, who should have access to the cashier's books and send out monthly statements to depositors himself with a request that he personally be notified of any errors.

Mr. Nilson, and Mr. Blieh, who has been associated with him in the canvass, both asked for criticisms. They said that hostile rumors had reached their ears and if there was any dissatisfaction with what they had done now was the time to express it. Mr. Nilson said that this bank was nothing more than a big partnership and all the partners should thoroughly understand each other before embarking on the enterprise. As for himself, he had nothing to conceal and if any misunderstandings existed they should be talked out face to face. The stockholders present seemed entirely satisfied and no criticisms were forthcoming.

A committee of five was elected to receive offers of sites either temporary or permanent and to receive bids for the burglar-proof work and for stationery.

The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the committee. The committee will have no difficulty in placing the remaining stock but are anxious to enlist the cooperation of three or four desirable men and therefore will reserve the stock until their answer is received. As soon as the list is completed they will call a meeting for the election of directors.

Little of public interest has developed during the past week in the Eastern war. In fact that event has dropped so far away from public notice that the daily papers have ceased to give it scarce heads on the front page.

Winter is taking backward steps before the advance of spring. Now and then it pauses stubbornly but it is slowly and surely driven back. For the last three days a thaw has been on and the streets have been flooded.

A NEGLECTED INDUSTRY. Probably there is no better market for fresh eggs in the state of Connecticut than South Manchester. Eggs bring a higher price here than in any place we know of and the demand for first quality hen fruit is almost always greater than the supply.

Experiment Value of poultry as food is demonstrated and the fact is brought out in Connecticut poultry and eggs should be cheaper. The report says: Of course in order to make poultry raising on a large scale successful the breeder must be near enough to a railroad and a market to be able to ship his birds quickly and cheaply.

The market also demands good looking, clean-picked birds, and the successful raiser must be careful that the birds are kept clean and free from disease, are properly killed, neatly plucked and carefully packed. He must also study the demands of the dealers at different seasons and know whether he can do better to save his birds for one season's breeding (and in the case of common fowl for eggs), or fatten and market their young as "broilers," ducklings and green geese.

Mexico is going to send a model of her largest penitentiary as an exhibit at the St. Louis fair. There are some people at St. Louis who will see a hidden meaning in it.

The crookedest railway in the world is said to be the line from Borewell to Friedens, Pennsylvania. The airline distance between those two points is five miles, but the road doubles four times, and at one point, after making a loop of several miles, the line comes back within 800 feet of itself on a grade fifty feet lower.

An Osage Indian recently trapped into a small town in Indian territory and saw a gas stove hanging gaily. He did not seem to pay much attention to it, but on his way home bought a few yards of pipe, and then spent a week in trying to light them.

The Buffalo Express is wallowing over the fact that trains have been from 1 to 16 hours late in arriving in that city all winter. It is understood that Buffalo is also on the line of the New York Central.

THE MISSOURI GIRL.

A Comedy Success to Be Seen at the Armory Next Week. "The Missouri Girl," which comes here March 9, is one of the greatest money-makers in the show business. The profits on a single season are so large that the business done by the company is current gossip among theatrical managers.

Important engagements are announced for the week at hand by Proprietor H. C. Parsons, of Parsons's theater. Saturday afternoon and evening Charles Froberman is to present William Collier in a new farce comedy "The Dictator," which is said by the Boston critics to be one of the best things that Mr. Collier has appeared in during recent seasons.

Monday evening at Parsons's marks the second return visit of Al. Leach and the Three Rosebuds in that delightful musical comedy "Girls Will Be Girls," presented by William A. Brady. The work proved such a genuine delight when seen in Hartford previously and was so well received, that indications are that it will again be enjoyed. The scenes are laid in an old time school house and the fun is unobscured and continuous.

Wendell at the head of his minstrel company will be seen at Parsons's theater on Thursday evening, presenting minstrelsy up to date. The old time first part with clever singers and new jokes, and an olio of fine vaudeville turns will be offered. It is to be doubted if a more pleasing program could be arranged. Given his choice of two evening or a matinee and evening performances, Manager Parsons thought of the great number of people living out of Hartford who would enjoy an opportunity to see Mand Adams in "The Pretty Sister of Jose" and he accepted, therefore, Friday evening and Saturday matinee. There will be no Saturday night performance, since Miss Adams's health does not permit her appearance for more than one performance each day. The play that she will present is the same that attracted an advance sale of $5,000 in two days when Miss Adams was to appear at Parsons's but a few weeks ago, and which money had to be returned because of her indisposition. The sale of seats for both performances will begin on Wednesday morning.

THE COON'S HARD LUCK.

Survived Hard Winter, to Be Run Down by a Man With a Club. (East Hampton Cor. Middletown Penny Press) It's rather the irony of fate for a coon to get so far through a most strenuous winter, after having been chased by hounds and nearly starved to death, and go to his death, just as spring is about awakening, all through the sprinting qualities of man and the ability to wield a club. It seems that two of our citizens were over east not long ago, enjoying a ride along the country roads. Suddenly the elder espied a large animal near the roadside and about the same time the coon, for such it proved, saw him. Off started the coon and out of the sleight and in close pursuit ran the man. Now a coon is no mean opponent when it comes to a matter of a foot race, and the pace soon became quite hot. Through the deep snow, over rocks, fences, brooks and ditches they dashed, with first Sir Oon ahead and then almost a neck-and-neck race. Down into the ditch goes the pursuer as he slipped on a nicely snow-covered patch of ice, and on goes the coon having gained several yards by the accident. But he is rethinking not with his feet; neither does he know the running power of his pursuer, who is once more up and away, the bruises urging him on to greater efforts. Again he is hindered, but only for a second as he gets tangled up in a barbed wire fence on the way. Had the coon known that his pursuer was a professional sprinter—the winner of a 100-yard dash at a country fair—it is safe guessing that he would have given up the race sooner. Both panting and tired, the space between them narrows down until now pursuer is within striking distance. "Bif! Bif!" and in a twinkling a 30-pound coon is triumphantly legged back by the crack sprinter to his companion awaiting in the woods.

TALCOTTVILLE.

Death of Edgar W. Smith—News Notes. Edgar W. Smith, whose serious illness was mentioned in our last issue, died Wednesday morning at ten o'clock at his home in Hartford. The immediate cause of his death was inflammatory rheumatism, from which he had suffered for some weeks. Previous to his last illness he had an attack of grip which left him in a weak condition and he was unable to stand the siege of rheumatism. Mr. Smith was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, of this place. He was 39 years old and was born here and up to the time of his marriage three years ago, had always lived in Talcottville. He was graduated from the Rockville high school in the class of 1893. Afterwards he worked for Talcott Brothers and later entered the employ of the Wm. H. Post Carpet Company, of Hartford, where he remained until his death. He was a valued employee of the company. Besides his wife he leaves a daughter not yet two years old, his father and mother and two brothers, Ernest and Frank Smith. The deceased was a young man of excellent character who made friends wherever he went and his many friends will be grieved to learn of his untimely death.

The funeral was held this afternoon. Rev. H. H. Kelsey, of the Fourth church, Hartford, officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. Yale. Prayers were said at one o'clock and the body was brought out to Talcottville by special trolley car, arriving here at three. The service was held in the lecture room of the church. Singers from the Fourth church assisted in the service. The burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

John L. Sandy, who has been employed by Talcott Brothers on the farm for the past two years, will leave the company this month. He has been engaged to work for Oomstock, who runs the Maple Hill farm on Avery street.

A party of Talcottville people have engaged Appel's opera house for a private dance Saturday night. About 40 couples will attend. The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be observed at the Talcottville church next Sunday morning. Jimmie Ferguson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ferguson, is at the Hartford hospital, where he is recovering from a severe cold.

ANIMALS BECOME INSANE.

Insanity in the human subject is supposed by some to have no analogue in the lower animals. Yet many cases, according to Dr. Snelson, will lead to the permanent loss of self control. Cattle driven from the country through a crowded town will often work themselves into a frenzy. Horses have gone mad on the battlefield. At Balaclava an Arabian horse turned on its attendant, threw him down and, kneeling on him, attacked him like an infuriated dog. An instance is related of a docile horse suddenly going mad on a hot day. Everything that came in its way it seized in its teeth and shook as a terrier does a rat. A scientist of authority even goes so far as to prove by what appears to be incontestable evidence that cats, dogs and monkeys have been observed to have delusions very similar to those of insane people.—London Globe.

THE CUBAN WORKMAN.

The Cuban workman is a kind husband and a fond father of a family usually of patriarchal size. He lives simply. At the bedside he buys his tasajo (jerked beef), rice, vegetables and cheap wine, and very savory are the stews his meek little wife prepares at the one hearty meal of the day, about 5:30 p. m. The Cuban eats but twice daily. He is underfed and overstimulated. He has coffee at 7 a. m. and a light breakfast at 11 a. m. and eats his chief meal at twilight.—Southern Workman.

OUR BATTLE PLACES.

Battles have been fought in many curious places ranging from mountain peaks to swamps, from ice fields to desert sands. At the battle of Monterey, in the Mexican war, the Americans were able to defeat the city with difficulty in spite of the fact that the Mexicans from the houses and blocks of houses, the Yankees were driven through the walls from one house to another, fighting and driving out of doors. In one of the battles of the war of 1812, William Miller, a Dutchman, was captured by the Spanish ships were taken to the Zuyder Zee. The Dutch came on horseback over the ice and attacked them. This is probably the only battle in which cavalry was used directly against ships. Several of the ice in these wars, and on one occasion the infantry is said to have fought on the ice.

ANGRY TREE.

Curious antics of this sort are of plant life. There is in the wilds of northwestern Idaho a species of the acacia tree which is classed as one of the woody plant life. It grows to a height of about 100 feet and when full of seed it loses its leaves and when full of seed it loses its leaves and when full of seed it loses its leaves.

MONKEY MOTHERS.

They Display More Pure Affection Than Any Other Animal. A well known tamer of long experience tells some interesting things of the affection of animals for their young. He had an elephant once, he says, who did all in her power to spoil her young one. She fused over it and cuddled it up so that when the time came for it to leave the cage it was simply unmanageable. When one of the men tried to hold more toward the baby he was promptly butted in the stomach and bowled over in a peculiar way which the youngster had of expressing his feelings toward those whom he disliked. At last by a ruse the mother and son were separated. But there was no such thing as keeping them apart. The baby rubbed the skin of its forehead and trunk trying to get through the bars, and both walked back and forth incessantly together again.

THE LASY KOREANS.

It is hardly an exaggeration to say that the Koreans are the laziest people on earth. All day long they lie about the streets smoking their gigantic pipes. A native pipe is a six foot length of bamboo, with a metal bowl, and is carried tucked into the neckband and down the trousers leg. All work of very nearly every kind is done by the women, who occupy perhaps the most degraded position held by the sex of any nation. The unfortunate female population is collectively a beast of burden and denied even the most elementary recognition as human beings. A Korean girl has no name. She is merely known as "daughter of so-and-so," her father says.

SLEEP FOR THE YOUNG AND AGED.

A four-year-old requires 12 hours; one of 7 years, 11 hours; of 12 years, 10 hours, and of 16 or 18, 9 hours. After that 7 or 8 hours is sufficient until after 30 then the hours should be increased gradually with each decade, as the man or woman of 80 requires as much sleep as a child of 10. And it should be remembered that the most health giving beauty making time is early.

THE REAL TASPANYERS.

The real Taspanyers are only those who own properties, aren't they? "N, my son. The real Taspanyers are the people who rent the properties."—Philadelphia Ledger.

BLUE GRASS.

It is a Native of the Wabash Valley in Indiana. "A great many people contend that blue grass was first found in Kentucky," said an eminent Indiana geologist, "but this is not so. Blue grass is a native of the Wabash valley, in Indiana. It was found by William Henry Harrison's troops during that heroic march to Tippecanoe in 1811. Harrison gathered a small army at Ohio Falls and started north. At Vincennes the gallant heroes realized that they could not go 200 miles up the Wabash without feed for their horses. General Harrison had two cribs of corn at Terre Haute and persuaded the men to go on. As they came on with hungry horses and scant feed they found the ground covered with blue grass.
