Cooking Ranges

The Only Ranges With the Hods in the Base.

The left hod catches the ashes. The right hod holds the coal. To carry ashes in a hod is easier than in a square cornered shallow pan. The hod is easier to empty too; and so large that is never brimful and running over. Then there's the coal hod out of the way. We think you will want this stove when you see it. Wednesday, September 29th will be observed at our store as "CRAWFORD Cooking Range Day." Every lady calling will be presented with a souvenir.

VOTERS MUST DECIDE.

Selectmen Put the Question of Saloon Closing Time Up to the People.

As intimated in Friday's Herald, the selectmen, following the public hearing on the question of 10 or 11 o'clock closing of the saloons, answered with a decision to put the question up to the voters on election day. This decision was arrived at in executive session and while there can be no question that the board acted within its rights in so doing it is doubtful whether it pleased either the saloon men or the temperance advocates by shunting the responsibility to the voters. None of the saloon keepers expressed themselves as favoring a public decision on the matter, but rather inferred that they desired the board to settle the question. The temperance people seemed to feel much the same way about the matter. So that in deciding the way it did the board finds itself much in the predicament of the old man in the fable who sought to please everybody and succeeded in pleasing no one.

Chairman Cheney, however, maintained that the board was not shirking responsibility, but deeming the question one of the utmost public importance, believed it fitting that the voters should be given the opportunity to say when. The saloon keepers evidently felt that the board would have decided for the old closing hour and were not quite sure what the public would do in the matter.

At the town election next Monday a special ballot box will be provided in which ballots on the saloon closing question must be deposited. The selectmen have decided upon the following form of ballot:

Hour of Closing Saloons.

No person licensed to sell spirituous and intoxicating liquors in the town of Manchester, Connecticut, or the servant or agent of any such person, shall keep open any place, apartment, store or room where such liquors are sold, exchanged or given away, in said town, at any hour later than 10 o'clock at night.

Except when selling under a druggist's license. One half of the ballots printed will mention the hour of closing as above and the remainder will be named for 11 o'clock.

CADMAN PLACE SOLD.

H. G. & R. Cheney Acquire Considerable Property on Hackmatack Street.

A deal was closed last Saturday whereby Messrs. H. G. and R. Cheney and the Misses Anne W. and Louise Cheney became the owners of all the Cadman property on the south side of Hackmatack street. The purchase includes four dwellings owned by Messrs. John Cadman, Benjamin Cadman and Edward Cadman, the latter owning two houses. John Cadman has recently moved to Hartford, but Benjamin and Edward Cadman have leased their homes on the tract and will continue to reside there for the present. The property has a frontage of 500 feet on Hackmatack street and a depth of about 250 feet. It is reported that the new owners will use the property for greenhouse purposes.

TELEPHONE CO. GETTING BUSY

Work on Underground Conduits for Cables Will Begin Tomorrow.

Work on the new conduits, in which the telephone company will place its wires in the vicinity of the Center, will begin tomorrow morning when the company's construction gang will begin excavating. The conduit will extend from the present central office in the Trotter block to the new quarters in the Orange hall block and also from the Center about 200 feet north on Main street.

Between the Orange hall block and the Center a four multiple duct will be laid. From the Center west to the Trotter block and from the Center north on Main street a three multiple duct will be laid. These ducts will contain all the telephone cables now strung on poles in the vicinity of the Center, and their removal will relieve the poles of a large portion of their unsightly load. The conduits will be placed about three and a half feet underground.

The placing of the cables underground is the first step toward the removal of the telephone central office to new and improved quarters in the Orange hall block. The new equipment is not yet ready for installation but Manager Weatherhead expects that something will be doing at the new quarters very shortly.

William Arnott Injured.

William Arnott, father of Judge Arnott, met with an accident while at work in the silk mills yesterday forenoon. He slipped from a ladder on which he was standing and fell a distance of about fifteen feet. He landed on a platform and the ladder fell across one of his feet, breaking one of the small bones. He skinned his knee and also received bruises on his elbow and head. He will probably be laid up for four or five weeks.

Coming Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth McShean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McShean of Main street, to Joseph McGrath of Brooklyn, N. Y., will take place at St. Bridget's church on Wednesday morning, October 20. Mr. McGrath formerly lived in Rockville and is well known here. He is now a fireman in New York city.

Selectmen Make 142 New Voters.

The selectmen, with the registrars and town clerk, made 142 voters at the Hall of Records last Saturday. The session lasted from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. The list "To be made" contained 198 names but of this number several were not eligible. The number of new voters is unusually large for an off year.

Going to Chicopee.

Miss Elizabeth M. Shea, who has conducted a millinery parlor in the Patten & Brown block for the past three years, has accepted a responsible position with a millinery concern in Chicopee, Mass., and will begin her new duties there next Monday.

Miss E. M. Shea is closing out her stock of hats, summer and winter styles, for 25 and 50 cents each. Also feathers, ribbons, flowers, etc., for almost nothing. It will pay you to have a look at her goods.

Crawfords have a place for the coal hod inside the range,—great convenience. Watkins Bros. Buy the range with the Ash Hods; easier to handle than an ash pan. Watkins Bros.

Another Big Parade In Hudson-Fulton Fete.

FIFTY NOVEL FLOATS

15,000 Actors In Panorama of Old New York.

CROWDS MASSES EIGHT MILES.

New York, Sept. 28.—The second great parade in the Hudson-Fulton celebration, the historical pageant, fixed for today, was over a route eight miles long. Hours before the time for the start crowds were massed on both sides of Fifth avenue, Fifty-ninth street and Central Park West.

For months an army of men had labored to set before modern New York and its visiting millions the history of New York in its various periods. The drama of the city's history was unfolded by more than fifty magnificent floats, peopled by 15,000 costumed characters.

The floats carried the 1909 New Yorker back to the days of the Indians, of the Dutch of New Amsterdam, of the English period—back to the chief events of the two centuries that elapsed between Hudson and Fulton.

The pageant was divided into four main divisions, representing the Indian, the Dutch, the colonial and the modern periods.

Some of the principal floats in line represented the legend of Hiawatha, ing stages by living actors. The capture of Andre, Washington taking the oath of office, the legend of Rip Van Winkle and many more such things were illustrated.

AND "FULTON."

The modern period division was headed by a float showing Fulton's Clermont, followed by a reproduction in miniature of his ferry. The reception of Lafayette was reproduced, recalling his return to this country in 1824. A fire engine of that time and an Erie canal boat were shown as though in motion.

Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss were busy this forenoon at Governors Island preparing to make flights in their aeroplanes. The wind was blowing more than eight miles an hour, and the aviators said they would not make any flight until it fell to five or six miles an hour.

Mr. Wright intimated that it was unlikely he would fly today, but when he does he expects to make a high flight.

"I can sail 100 feet high," Mr. Wright said. Last year he won a prize for going less than 100 feet up, and the present record, made by his brother, is 750 feet.

SCHOOL CHILDREN IN PANIC.

Fourteen Injured In Wild Rush When Fireworks Are Set Off.

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 28.—Terrified by Black Hand stories, 1,000 children stampeded in St. Anthony's Parochial school here, when fireworks were set off in the street below, and in the mad rush for the doors fourteen were crushed, one so serious that death will probably result.

The fatally injured child is Mariana Zelackshky, seven years old. The others comprise five little girls and eight boys, all ranging from seven to ten years in age. All are in hospitals.

The schoolhouse is a stone's throw from an Italian church which obtained a permit to set off fireworks during a celebration. A rumor got out last week among the school children that threats had been made to blow up the schools with dynamite.

The children of St. Anthony's school have been particularly nervous about it, and when the bomb went off suddenly they ran shrieking from their recitation rooms into the halls. Cries of dynamite and the Black Hand rang through the building. The calls of the priest in charge had no effect.

The terrified children poured into the halls and rushed wildly down the stairways. There are two street doorways, but one of them was closed. A few passed safely out of the open door, but at the closed entrance there occurred a disastrous jam. Here several of the smaller children were trampled into unconsciousness, while others ran back into the building and sprang through open windows fifteen feet to an alleyway below.

MOORS RADIALLY DEFEATED.

Two of Their Strongholds Captured. War Said to Be Ended.

Madrid, Sept. 28.—The war office confirms the news of the complete success of the campaign in Morocco against the Moors, and it is said the war is practically over.

From Nador the Spanish artillery shelled Zeluan. The positions surrounding Nador are now occupied by 20,000 Spanish soldiers.

The occupation of Zeluan followed the effective shelling of the artillery. The actual storming of the town was accomplished by General Tovar's brigade, General Orozco effecting the enveloping movement. The casualties among the Moors were very great.

Religious services were held to celebrate the victory, after which General Marina, the Spanish commander in chief, congratulated the troops in person.

The entire coast line of Morocco is illuminated with the fires of burning villages. After the Spanish batteries had silenced the native artillery the infantry advanced and drove the Moors from their positions.

Following the satisfactory news of Spanish successes the cabinet has decided to restore the constitutional guarantees except in the provinces of Barcelona and Gerona and to summon the cortes on Oct. 15.

MELLEN REPORTS PROSPERITY.

New Haven Railroad's Earnings Show Marked Increase.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 28.—President C. S. Mellen in his annual report to the stockholders of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company says that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, the improvement in business became so marked that the company was able to earn all but $453,613 of the dividend requirement, or about 7 1/2 per cent on the $100,000,000 of maximum capital stock outstanding.

The present prospects of business, the president says, indicate for the ensuing year the largest gross business in the history of the company.

The net income applicable to dividends rose from $5,206,569 in 1908 to $7,430,228 in 1909. The net earnings over operation of Connecticut company's trolleys show the large increase from $2,745,758 to $3,644,314, while the net income of the Rhode Island company rose from $178,420 to $469,208.

Brooklyn Democracy For Gaynor. New York, Sept. 28.—The Democratic executive committee of Brooklyn has voted to support Justice Gaynor in the Democratic city convention. Senator McCarren characterized Justice Gaynor as "the Tammany candidate."

New York, Sept. 28.—A post series of games between the Boston Americans and the New York Nationals will be held directly after the close of the season on Oct. 7. The first two games will be played here on Oct. 8 and the next two in Boston on Oct. 11 and 12. The date and place of the fifth game, if one is necessary, will be decided later.

Mathewson, the star of the local Nationals, will probably pitch in three of the games.

CHILDREN'S SLAYER CONFESSES.

Says He Shot Little Ones When They Threatened to Tell Parents.

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The mystery which for many days has surrounded the kidnaping of three little Italian children and the murder of two of them in the Eagle street culvert has been solved, the police say, by a full confession from Theodore Rizzo, who has been held as a suspect.

A volume of circumstances, evidence which the police had been gathering for days pointed to Rizzo as the murderer, but for more than a week he denied all connection with the crime. For thirty-six hours the police had been endeavoring to secure an admission from him, and finally he told the story in all its harrowing details.

Rizzo says that his original purpose was to attack the two little girls, but when they threatened to tell their fathers he shot them and the little boy as well, leaving all three for dead.

Following the confession Chief of Police Brophy made a formal charge of murder in the first degree against Rizzo. When arraigned before City Judge O'Connor Rizzo collapsed. Examination was then waived, and he was remanded to jail.

TWELVE LOST IN WRECK.

Norwegian Steamship Founders In Storm Off the Delaware Capes.

Baltimore, Sept. 28.—The Norwegian steamship Gere, from Philadelphia for Cuban ports, foundered off the Delaware capes after being battered and tossed by wind and wave in a terrific northeaster.

Twelve members of the crew went down with the vessel. Six others were saved after a desperate battle with the waves in a small open lifeboat. They are now marooned aboard the winter quarter lightship off Cape Henlopen. News of this tragedy was brought to Baltimore by the steamship Porto Rico, which dropped anchor here after having made a rough trip down the coast from New York.

Captain Delano was told briefly about the affair as his ship passed the lightship. Owing to the rough weather and the choppy sea he was unable to make the transfer of the men from the lightship to his ship, and they could not be brought to Baltimore.

PROFESSOR ON TRIAL FOR LIFE.

High School Principal Says He Killed Editor In Self Defense.

Warrenton, Va., Sept. 28.—With public interest at fever heat, Professor J. D. Harris, principal of the Warrenton high school, was placed on trial here today for shooting and killing William A. Thompson, editor of the Warrenton Virginian. Self defense is the plea entered.

Thompson was half owner of the Warrenton Virginian, which opposed Harris' candidacy for the office of supervisor of schools. In this and other matters a bitter feeling existed between the two men, and some time before the tragedy they became involved in a fist fight.

The immediate cause of the shooting, according to eyewitnesses, was an attack on Harris by Thompson following the making of threats by Thompson earlier in the day. Harris opened fire upon Thompson as the latter approached him on the main street.

HIT FAST PACE.

"Laughing" Dan Murphy said to have Squandered $200 For Booze in the Last Two Months.

Two hundred dollars for booze in less than two months is a pretty fast pace, but that is the record of "Laughing" Dan Murphy, who was in court Saturday morning. Dan was arrested Friday evening by Officer Madden on complaint of F. B. Hale of Wells street. According to Mr. Hale's story Murphy had been rooming at his place for nearly two years and had been drunk from one-half to two-thirds of the time. He was not quarrelsome or ugly, but had the habit of talking to himself, or "preaching" as Mr. Hale called it. Friday evening he came home very drunk and as usual began his preaching. He refused to stop his noise so Mr. Hale sent for the officer and had him arrested.

Officer Madden said that Murphy had been on the streets in an intoxicated condition practically all summer, but was always able to navigate, and Prosecuting Attorney Burke said that he had seen him under the influence of liquor time and again. Mr. Burke also said that he had been informed that Murphy had three hundred dollars in the bank on August 9th and at the present time has only about a hundred dollars, and added, "all of it has gone for booze."

Murphy was in bad shape Saturday morning and Judge Arnott thought it best for the community and also for the man himself to have him spend some time in confinement, where he could not get any liquor, and sentenced Murphy to fifteen days in jail, with the costs.

DOWN IN OKLAHOMA.
There is a petition before the Oklahoma Railroad commissioners asking for an order forbidding railroad employes from blowing smoke in the faces of patrons of the road. Well, well! And in the free and very equal state of Oklahoma can not the employes of a railroad enjoy themselves a little, have their innocent fun as it were, without an order from the state commissioners stopping it? Where are the rights for which our fathers fought? "Patrons" will object to having employes spit on them next.—Bridgeport Standard.

- Waltz, "Scuse Me Today," Morse
- Two Step, "Finnegans Irish Band," Coban
- Waltz, "The Yankee Prince," Schwartz
- Two Step, "Meet Me in Rose Time, Rosie," Anderson
- Waltz, "Goodnight Dear,"

FOREST FIRES IN CANADA.
With timber growing more scarce and more valuable there should be a special effort made to prevent a repetition of last year's record in forest fires. An effective policy may entail the maintenance of a larger force by the provinces, and also by the dominion where valuable timber is under federal authority. According to a report by the forestry branch of the interior department there were 835 forest fires of serious proportions in the dominion during 1908. British Columbia was the chief sufferer, the total loss through the 835 fires in that province being $25,000,000. This was the value of the 40,000,000 feet of timber and of mills, improvements, and other property destroyed. The loss in that province was about 90 per cent. of the entire loss to the dominion.—Toronto Globe.

THE PARSONS THEATER.

"The Man Who Stood Still."

Playgoers in Hartford who care for play that has an interesting story to tell will enjoy "The Man Who Stood Still," in which Louis Mann is to be seen at the Parsons Theater this evening and also Wednesday evening and Wednesday afternoon. The play is one that tells of what a Swiss watchmaker, John Krauss, encounters in his desire to remain different from the others about him. In his doing that he has given the play its name. So far does he carry his idea of standing still that before he is aware he is left without business, friends and home and it is only by the most severe means that he is saved from losing his daughter, who has disobeyed him in seeking love away from him.

While the play is of the present and the spirit in which it is written is the same, there is something about it that makes it different from any of the plays of New York life that have been seen on the stage. Its effects are gained by depicting scenes that are of everyday life and are such as one would naturally expect in a household managed as John Krauss's was. Mr. Mann is surrounded by a company that includes Mathilde Cottrelly, the famous character actress and Louis Hendricks.

THE REGISTER'S OPINION.
This question as to whether the application for a vote on the license matter must be signed by 25 voters or by ten per cent of the voters, that is under the old or the new law, would not be a question if the legislature had adjourned at the usual time. The acts of the legislature are usually printed before the October elections, and anyone who desires can read what the law says. As it is, the question should be easily answered from Hartford. If the new law doesn't say plainly when it goes into effect, it isn't much of a law.—New Haven Register.

SOMETHING EXTRAORDINARY.
The Alaska-Yukon Pacific exposition at Seattle is a financial marvel. It has paid off all its floating indebtedness and retired nearly all its bonds. There's likely to be a surplus in the treasury before the gates are finally closed. No exposition, we believe, ever matched this record.—Hartford Times.

Women's $50 Russian poney coats for $29. A clear saving of $21 at Wise, Smith & Co.'s great sale.

POLICE COURT.

Harry Bowers of Wetherell street, who was put on probation September 15, was in court again yesterday morning charged with the same offense, intoxication and breach of the peace. Harry kept his probation terms all right until last Wednesday when he began hitting the booze again. Thursday and Friday nights he went home about midnight in an intoxicated condition and proceeded to make things lively for his wife. She entered a complaint to Probation Officer Goslee and he in turn told Chief Sheridan who went after Bowers and locked him up Saturday afternoon.

Bowers pleaded for another chance, saying that he would cut drink out altogether, and J. B. Spencer of Hartford Road said he would keep an eye on Bowers for the next month and give him steady work. Under these conditions Judge Arnott decided to give the offender another chance but left a heavy penalty hanging over him. He found Bowers guilty as he pleaded and sentenced him to thirty days in jail on each count, with the costs, but suspended execution of judgment on the jail sentences and put him on probation for one year. When Bowers was in court on the 15th he was fined three dollars on each count but execution of judgment was suspended on the fines and he was ordered to pay the costs. The costs have been paid but on account of breaking his probation terms, he will now have to pay the fines and also the costs of the court yesterday morning and if he breaks his terms again will have to serve the 60 days in jail.

After Kite—Broke Both Wrists.
Raymond Riedel, son of Arthur Riedel, a music teacher of Hartford, met with a serious accident while visiting friends in this place last Saturday afternoon. A kite which he was flying lodged in a tree on Hackmatack street and in attempting to get the kite he fell from the tree, breaking both wrists. Dr. Gillam was summoned and after reducing the fractures had the lad taken to his home in Hartford.

St. Mary's Episcopal.
The Sunday school teachers will hold a social in the parish house Thursday evening. A musical and literary program will be given and light refreshments will be served. Several trees about the church have been cut down during the past week and the other trees have been trimmed.

MANCHESTER'S NEW GOVERNMENT.

Bristol Press Representative Investigated It and Found Much to Approve.

DISCOVERED NONE OPPOSED.

Town Run On a Business Basis—Expense Cut Down—A Word for the Charity and Road Departments—Views Divided On the Primary Questions—The Press Invites Comment.

The Bristol Press, as a progressive newspaper, sees much of an objectionable character in the old fashioned and unbusinesslike combination of city or borough government and town government. To be more specific it finds fault with the so-called dual form of government which prevails to a large extent in Connecticut among towns which have grown to such a size as to make it desirable to incorporate the most populous portion into a city or borough. Where this is done two forms of government are usually carried on in the same town. There is the old fashioned town government with its selectmen and other officers and a town tax is levied. The city government with its common council, various municipal commissions or boards and other salaried officials must also be maintained, or in the case of a borough, such as Bristol, a board of wardens and burgesses and various other officers. A city or borough tax must likewise be levied to meet the expenses of these forms of government. The result is that the resident and taxpayer of the incorporated district is compelled to pay double taxes to support both forms of government. Besides this he is forced to endure many other hardships as a result of the unwieldy combination.

In the larger cities of the state the evils of the dual form of government have been escaped by means of consolidation. New Britain was one of the last cities to do away with the old fashioned system by the consolidation method. For the past three years the city has been governed most successfully by the city council and various boards or commissions appointed by the mayor. The Press of Bristol as above remarked feels that some better system than the dual form should be adopted there and has many influential sympathizers in this respect among the residents of the town.

The new form of town government adopted by Manchester last year greatly interested The Press and the editor has been a keen observer of its successful working out during the past twelve months. In order to obtain a greater insight and more detailed knowledge of the system in vogue here a representative of The Press came here a few days ago and interviewed a number of the town officers and officials together with several private individuals. He succeeded in obtaining some interesting information and his findings were published in last Thursday's edition of The Press. With the belief that the story will prove interesting to residents of Manchester The Herald gives it full space below:

Business Man Interviewed.

The bustling, growing and attractive town of Manchester in our own state is the first community in Connecticut to make use of the commission plan. Few people have recognized it as such because of the retention of the term "selectmen" to designate its board of seven. The new government has been in use just a year, long enough to give a fair idea of its possibilities and its results in practice. With a view to finding out what the people of that town thought of their experiment, a Press representative spent a day there last week and talked with many people. Everyone questioned regarded the system as a success. Opinion was divided as to the value of the primary feature, but the government system in use was heartily commended.

One of the leaders in the new idea, who is a business man of large experience said:—"Our plan was to secure a simple form of government without complicated machinery but with sufficient power to conduct the affairs of the town in a modern way. We wanted to run the town on a business basis as we would our own individual enterprises. We believed we could do this with the least friction and expense by adopting the commission plan to our needs. This we did and secured a special charter. The government has been in operation one year. Despite the fact that it was new and took some time to become familiar with and made to run smoothly we have, for the first time in some years, a balance on the right side of the ledger, (the accounts showing a saving of $11,700. But that is only a part of the advantage. The figures make no account of the gain in efficiency of the several departments, especially the roads and charities or poor."

"Under this plan we have only one government, and its powers are sufficient to run a town like Plainville or Manchester or the city of Hartford. In a word it is the practical application of business principles to town government."

The Manchester plan is embodied in a board of seven selectmen, who are not elected by districts, a fact that eliminates the locality trouble. The charter says: "The selectmen of Manchester shall hereafter exercise all the powers granted to the common council of cities under Sec. 2610 of the General Statutes." These officials are paid $100 each per year subject to deductions for absence from meetings. This makes it an honorary position, but one that the leading men of the town regard as a privilege to occupy.

Charities and Roads.

This board has placed the town poor affairs in the hands of a superintendent of charities who gives all his time to the work and is responsible to the board. He has made substantial savings and secured better service than under the old loose system into which crept the usual weakness that every town is all too familiar with. A store is one of the features. Town orders issued to indigent people are honored there with the goods required, making a saving to the town and to the individual. The almshouse is conducted in a humane and business-like manner.

The roads are in charge of a superintendent appointed by the board, Mr. Ulrich, a capable and energetic young engineer, who knows how to build good roads, and is doing it. The Press representative spent an hour with him and came away with the idea that Manchester was showing good judgment and was in a fair way to give her sister towns an object lesson of value in how to solve the perplexing road puzzle. She is getting good roads and having them built correctly and apparently is saving money in doing it. At any rate she is getting real value for the money expended.

Next year the board proposes to buy town supplies such as coal, wood, etc., in the open market, buying enough at one time for the year and getting the benefit of the lower prices incident to large buying.

As stated, every person interviewed believed the system was a success. It does away with all the complications, clumsiness and expense of dual governments and enables the board comprising the one government to deal in the simplest manner with affairs, and has ample powers to meet all requirements of the present or future.

Based on the experience of one year Manchester appears to have worked out in a most encouraging way a system that saves money and gives better results and more for the money expended, than under the old system. It is an experiment that is being watched closely by other towns, who are proud by it if it continues to give as good an account of itself in the future as it has in the difficult first year. It is noteworthy that the theoretical difficulties and disadvantages argued by doubters seem not to have materialized at all.

Primary Feature.

ter scheme of government does not receive unanimous approval. Those who were left outside the breastworks by its operation do not like it. But the faults they allege occur under the caucus system, and result wholly from apathy on the part of the voter. No method has yet devised that will make amends for neglect or indifference of the citizen. To an unprejudiced person the Manchester primary plan seems mighty good. It is hard to see how the political machines can control the nominations under it. Any person who wishes to run for office and who has a few friends to sign his name for nomination can file it with the town clerk and be forthwith become a candidate in the primary and his name goes on the ticket. The names of all aspirants are voted for by secret ballot. Each party has its own box and "republicans who vote for prohibitionists, for instance, simply have their votes rejected. The legal number of candidates who receive the most votes win places on the regular ticket. The polls for voting in the primary are open all day. It all appears very simple and satisfactory. All that is required to make it an effective agent of the popular will is for the citizens to do their duty and actually vote. At any rate the primary places the power of nomination in the hands of the people where it belongs. If they neglect to use it, it is their error, not the fault of the primary.

The Press invites comments on this vital subject of local government.

Funeral of Mrs. Sophronia E. Hills.

The funeral of Mrs. Sophronia E. Hills, who died last Friday afternoon at the home of her son, Howard Hills, of Hillstown, was held at the house at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, with burial in the West cemetery. Rev. F. P. Bacher of Talcottville conducted the services.

Mrs. Hills was the widow of the late William H. Hills who died about two years ago. She was seventy-three years old. She was born in Windsor March 23, 1836 and attended the public schools in that place. In 1861 she married William Hills. Three children were born to them, all of whom are now living in Hillstown. They are Arthur Hills, Howard Hills and Mrs. Arthur Manning. Mrs. Hills is also survived by five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Center Congregational.

The Ladies' Benevolent society will meet in the church parlor Thursday afternoon. The ladies are planning to hold a rummage sale in the town hall Thursday and Friday, October seventh and eighth.

A NEW DISEASE.

The new disease, "pellagra," manifested in the skin, and very deadly, is reported spreading in North Carolina and in several States at the West. It was supposed, for a time, that it was caused by impure Indian meal, but that has been discarded. The Department of Agriculture is making an exhaustive inquiry into the cause of the strange disease.—Putnam Patriot.

COMPANY G TEAM WITHDREW.

Darkness Prevented Riflemen from Competing at 300 and 500 Yard Ranges for Barbour Medal.

The Barbour medal shoot, held on the Keeney street range last Saturday, was not as successful an event as it has been in past years. The contest was scheduled to begin at eight o'clock but the Field and Staff team, the first to shoot, did not begin operations until 9.45. Members of some of the other teams were tardy in arriving at the range and, as a result, darkness came before the match was over.

Companies B and F did not shoot at the 500 yards range and Company G did not get a chance at either the 300 or 500 range. These teams were called off the range by their captains. They contend that as they did not complete their scores, they did not compete for the medal and do not admit being beaten by the teams that shot at all the ranges.

The Field and Staff team won the medal with a total score of 668. Company A was second with a total of 647 and Company I third with a total of 633.

Musician E. G. Reising of Company A made the highest individual score, making a total of 129.

The total scores of each team were as follows:

Team	200	300	500	Total
Field and Staff	215	225	227	668
Company A	232	207	208	647
Company I	217	213	198	633
Company K	215	211	195	621
Company E	187	196	210	593
Company H	142	149	115	406
Company G	207	—	—	—
Company F	225	223	—	—
Company B	183	198	—	—

Company A won the Barbour medal last year, having a total score of 695. The Field and Staff team won second place, with a score of 683 and Company G was third, with a score of 649. The Field and Staff won the medal two years ago, with Company G second and three years ago the medal was won by Company G.

AN EMOTIONAL ACTRESS.

Miss Enid Mayo Coming Here in "The Girl Outcast."

A great deal of enthusiasm is being shown by the play-goers of Manchester over Miss Enid Mayo's engagement at the Armory opera house on October 1st and the advance sale of tickets which is now in progress has already reached quite a large figure. Miss Enid Mayo is an emotional actress of rare ability in this particular line of work. During her stage career she has assumed more than two hundred leading parts, and this will mark her seventh season as a star.

As "Ruth Holt" in "The Girl Outcast" she gives a beautiful portrayal of a nature in which nobility, buried under evil environment, arises, and overcoming all obstacles, stands triumphant in the end. The scenic and mechanical effects of "The Girl Outcast" are novel and unique. Particularly striking is the camp scenes in the first act, with its military atmosphere. The autumn scene in the second act, with its many colored leaves and sunset, is one of the most realistic ever set on a local stage. The cast has been selected by Miss Mayo with great care, and comprises many of the players who have won favor in the same parts during last season. Prices 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents. Tickets now on sale at Watkins Brothers.

POLICE COURT.

Thomas Monihan, a stone cutter from East Glastonbury, was arrested last evening by Officer Glenney near Blyth's store on South Main street. He was lying on the ground very drunk and had two full quart bottles of liquor with him. In court this morning Monihan said he spent Sunday in Hartford and came out here yesterday and got full. He was creating no disturbance so Judge Arnott let him off with the nominal fine of one dollar, with the costs, amounting to $7.32.

When told what the fine and costs were Monihan asked for his knife which the officer had taken from him in the night before as he wanted to rip open his shirt where he had concealed a large roll of bills. He paid this bill and left the court room saying that he guessed he would go back to work in East Glastonbury and stay there, as it was rather expensive coming up here.

Moving Pictures at the Armory.

Each succeeding Tuesday evening sees a larger attendance at the Enterprise Picture Company's display of moving pictures at the Armory. The feature picture this evening is "Measure for Measure" and an entirely new bill of moving pictures and illustrated songs by Jack Conlon, making a program two and a half hours long. There will be no moving pictures on Tuesday evening of next week on account of the Armory being occupied by the A. O. H. fair.

THE CAMERA.

Some of the Wonderful Things of Which It is Capable.

The camera, which divides time into hundredths of a second and records the impressions of each, makes permanent pictures of events which pass too quickly for the dull human retina to recognize. It is only through the camera that the motions of the wings of flying birds and of the legs of swift running animals have been analyzed. To the camera the fuzzy drivers of the swiftly speeding locomotives stand out clear cut and stationary, while each flying drop of rain in the driven storm is distinct and seems frozen in its place. The tarpon fisherman, familiar with the first wild leap of the frenzied fish as it casts hook and bait fifty feet in the air, sees first in the finished picture the outstretched gills, the convulsive opening and closing of which had escaped his eye, however closely he may have looked for it.

Often the eye of the camera will decipher documents of which the writing had been substantially obliterated by age, and I have successfully copied with the camera the utterly faded photograph of a classmate of forty years previous and thereby been enabled to present to a grizzled veteran a likeness of his curly haired youth. Changes in the pigment of the skin undetectable by the eye appear with distinctness on the sensitive plate, and it is said that ample warning of approaching disease has been thereby given.

By means of the invisible rays lying beyond the violet of the spectrum objects may be photographed in the darkness and, with the aid of the so called X rays, through substances otherwise opaque. When from the darkness of night and storm the forked lightning flashes, the camera makes a vivid and permanent picture of each fiery trail. Creatures that travel by night can be "caught" in the brief blaze of a magnesium charged pistol, the flash of which is of too short duration for the creature to move or the dull human eye to recognize the subject.—A. W. Dimock in Van Norden's.

JAPAN A LAND OF COLOR.

Farms of Two or Three Acres Divided Into Many Tiny Fields.

Land is so scarce in Japan and the people so numerous that a farm rarely consists of more than an acre or two. These little farms are divided up into tiny fields. During the season of the year in which we made our journey out of these fields were filled with sprouting barley, light green in color; another field, perhaps the next, with vetch, a lavender colored, cloverlike fodder; a neighboring field with a dark green grass from the seed of which a lump oil is manufactured; another with the pale yellow flowers of the mustard, and scattered here and there fields filled with what looked like a variety of lily, some white, some red, some yellow, but all equally brilliant.

Then to get the complete picture you must imagine patches of flowering grasses dotting the roadside; towering, round topped camellia trees breaking the sky line with frequent splashes of bright green; usually in the shade of these trees houses with white plastered walls and red tiled roofs; about the more pretentious of these houses white plastered walls, above which appeared a profusion of palms, roses and strange native flowers, and in the doorways of the garden walls kimono clad Japanese girls, the kimonos as many and as gayly colored as the garden that framed them.

I have traveled in but one other country that is so gayly colored, and that was some few years ago, when, in the company of a number of other youngsters and an evil smelling magic lantern, I used to make frequent visits to the Land of Primary Colors.—George MacAdam in Outing Magazine.

Good Kitchen Company.

One housewife in this town doesn't know anything about the servant problem, at least so much of it as has to do with the keeping of a maid of all work, the quality of such service not being counted. This is because her servants always become devoted to her because of her brightness and magnanimous treatment of them. Having only the one servant of doubtful skill and accomplishments, this housewife has to spend a good deal of time in her own kitchen. The other day Julia expressed her appreciation this way: "Miss Fanny, yo' cert'ly is good kitchen comp'ny."—Louisville Times.

Two Hamlets.

Sir Beerbohm Tree and Wilson Barrett gave London their production of "Hamlet" almost contemporaneously. A well known wit who was asked his opinion of the dual Hamlets nonchalantly made answer: "Tree's Hamlet is funny without being vulgar, but Barrett's is vulgar without being funny."

Her Doings.

"His wife made a fool of him."
"What reason have you for saying that?"
"I have his own word for it."
"Get out!"
"I have. He says that all he is he owes to his wife."—Houston Post.

The Old Mistake.

"De man dat answers a gold brick circular," said Uncle Eben, "makes de old mistake. Instead o' tellin' Satan to git behind 'im, he thinks he kin git ahead o' Satan."—Washington Star.

On Oath.

The Court—You will swear that the prisoner stole your umbrella?
The Plaintiff—Your honor, I will swear that he stole the umbrella I was carrying.—Cleveland Leader.

TAFT DOWN A MINE

President Descends 1,200 Feet In an Iron Cage.

SEES MEN WORK GIANT DRILL

After Half an Hour Underground, Says He Would Not Have Missed It For the World.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 28.—Attired in a linen duster, an old black slouch hat and swinging an electric lantern at his side, President Taft was locked in a narrow iron cage and dropped 1,200 feet through darkness into the depths of the famous old Leonard copper mine at Butte. He had the rare experience of seeing miners at work with a giant drill in a vein of high grade ore that sparkled green with its wealth of mineral.

When the president disappeared down the shaft of the mine he won the presidential record for the farthest under ground. President Roosevelt entered some of the Butte mines during his term, but did not get down to the 1,200 foot level.

Postmaster General Hitchcock and Secretary Rullinger accompanied the president in the picturesque trip down the dark chute and through the crosscuts and drifts of the deep level.

The opening of the 1,200 foot level had been decorated with bunting, and along the gallery the ordinary incandescent bulbs lighting the passage had given place to more bulbs of red, white and blue. The walk through the crosscut to the ore vein was about a quarter of a mile. Through the darker places the president helped to light the way with his electric lantern, while the other members of the party carried candles.

Past the powerful pumps, where he shook hands with the men in charge, the president was taken at last into a drift where a drill was at work. The whole method of copper mining was explained to the president.

After half an hour underground the president was brought to the surface, blinking in the glare of the noonday sun. He was cheered to the echo by the crowd of curious people gathered at the hoist. He declared enthusiastically:

"I would not have missed it for the world."

It was the president's first visit to the Montana copper region, and before the smelters at Anaconda and Butte he had a series of conferences. Not the least of these was a turning automobile over the mountain from Butte to the mouth of the Leonard mine. The grades were steep and winding, but the chauffeurs were experienced men, and while there was apparently no threat of danger at any stage of the trip, there was a sigh of relief when Mr. Taft had once more been placed safely aboard the Mayflower for the run to Helena.

Arriving at Helena, he went directly to the state fair grounds, where, after viewing a portion of the exhibits, he made an open air address and witnessed a race of cowboys. Returning to the city, Mr. Taft reviewed a parade of school children.

Leaving Helena he came to Spokane, where he spoke on the conservation of the natural resources and the reclamation of arid lands.

President Taft walked with a limp when he got off the train, the result of a sprained tendon in his right foot. The sprain occurred at Beverly, but he suffered little inconvenience from it until today, when his foot was considerably swollen. There is nothing serious about the sprain, and Mr. Taft did not let it interfere in any way with his plans.

The president made a flying trip through the Washoe smelter of the Amalgamated Copper company at Anaconda, then proceeded into the city, and the crowds which greeted him on the streets were the largest he had seen since leaving Chicago. Speaking at the courthouse, the president looked out upon a mass of humanity that blocked the square and spread far down the converging streets. He made a decided hit with the great throng when he told of the wonderful impression the country was making upon him and ended by saying:

"I am like the old Dutchman who said, 'The more you live the more you find, by golly, out.'"

WINDOW GLASS STRIKE ENDS.

Company Agrees to Pay an Eight Per Cent Advance in Wages.

Pittsburg, Sept. 28.—The American Window Glass company has signed a wage scale with the Window Glass Cutters and Flatteners Protective Association of America. By this scale the company agrees to pay an 8 per cent advance in wages, making the wages the same as those paid in the hand blowing factories.

These wages are the same as offered by the company to the old cutters and flatteners association three weeks ago and which they refused to accept, demanding 12 1/2 per cent more than the cutters and flatteners employed in the hand blowing factories are working for.

Under this settlement practically all the old men returned to work today, ending the strike which has lasted three weeks.

SHOT FROM PEARY

Commander Gives Part of His Case Against Rival.

QUESTIONS DISTANCE TRAVELED

Says No Other Explorer Ever Claimed to Have Covered 25 Degrees. His Sledge Not Fit For Long Travel.

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 28.—After consulting for more than six hours with General Thomas Hubbard, president of the Peary Arctic club, as to his forthcoming attack upon the claim of Dr. Frederick A. Cook to be the discoverer of the north pole, Commander Peary let drive some of his heavy artillery against his rival.

Peary pointed out that Dr. Cook alleged that in one sledging season he (Cook) had covered 25 degrees, or 1,700 miles, of arctic ice, when no previous explorer, notwithstanding vastly better equipment, had ever covered more than 11 degrees of that most difficult going on the universe.

"It is well known," said Peary, "what my equipment was when I started north from Cape Columbia.

HARRY WHITNEY.

The world has read of my equipment, and the world knows what my experience was in the arctic field. Yet I did not make quite 14 degrees in my last and only successful dash to the pole."

Peary pointed out that Dr. Cook had taken one sledge on his 1,700 mile journey over arctic ice. This was the sledge that Cook left behind him at Etah.

"I examined that sledge," said the commander. "I looked over it very carefully. So did Henson. So did McMillan. They know sledges, I guess, and so do I. That sledge of Cook's was built along lines of no sledge I ever saw before. I don't believe that sledge would last one day over arctic ice with a standard load of 500 or 600 pounds."

"Was it such a sledge as you would use?"

"It was not. I would not trust myself with it for any length of journey. It would not have traveled one day on the ice with a standard load."

"Do you think Cook could have gone to the pole with it?"

"Absolutely no. Never at any time while I was in the north did I think there was a possibility of Cook having reached the pole, nor did I think so later."

"What is your strongest line of proof that Dr. Cook was not at the north pole?"

"One of my main points will be the strongest that has been advanced in arctic exploration ever since the great expedition was sent there—that is, the recognized custom of an explorer when reaching a point attained by an explorer previously to make a copy of the record in the cairn there, put it in place of the original and bring the original back with him. Dr. Cook did not do this."

"At Cape Thomas Hubbard I left a record in 1906. Dr. Cook declares after he left Annotok he went to Cape Thomas Hubbard with his large party of Eskimos. Although he had men enough to make a thorough search, he did not do so. He passed the cape twice to the pole, as he outlines it, but neither time did he say that he had looked for the cairn. My record is still there. If he can show that record I will accept it as positive proof he was at Cape Thomas Hubbard."

"You have read of what Dr. Cook's equipment was, and you know what mine was. Remember that he had to travel 214 miles more than I did. He claims to have gone from Annotok (about 75 degrees 30 minutes north latitude) to the pole (90), a distance of 11 1/2 degrees; from the pole to Jones sound (76), a distance of 14 degrees. In one single sledging season. That is 25 1/2 degrees, or more than 1,700 miles. In a single sledging season—that is, from the beginning of the return of daylight to the breaking up of the ice."

"Previous to Dr. Cook no other explorer has ever been able to cover more than 11 degrees of latitude in a single sledging season, even with a perfect equipment, sturdy men and a full complement of the best of dogs."

Getting down to the Whitney phase in his controversy with Cook, Peary asked a few questions that are vital points in his brief against his rival.

"I would like to know," he said, "why if Harry Whitney knew the value of the instruments and proofs that Cook trusted to his custody—to the custody of a man who was practically a stranger—he did not sail back to Etah on the Jennie last August for those things? Why did he come away from Smith's sound and leave those treasures to the mercy of another arctic winter?"

"When I saw Whitney on Aug. 17 he was on board the Jennie, one day" sail from Etah, with clear, free water before him.

"Did Whitney run back to Etah for those immensely valuable records and instruments of Dr. Cook? He did not. He sailed directly west, where the ice was packed against the western shore. He wanted a bear. He cared more about a bear than he did about Cook's property. He would not cut out two days of his hunting to go back for what he says now he knew was Cook's proof of the discovery of the pole."

RAM KATAHDIN DOOMED.

Instead of Sinking Battleships She Will Be Brought to a Target.

Washington, Sept. 28.—The ram Katahdin, from which so much was expected as a weapon of war, is about to come to an ignominious end. Instead of creeping up to monster battleships and sending them to the bottom of the sea, which work she was designed to perform, she will herself become the object of attack.

The Katahdin's doom was sealed when the acting secretary of the navy issued orders that she be towed from the League Island navy yard at Philadelphia to Hampton Roads, Virginia, and thence to Washington to be prepared for the sacrifice. While here all machinery and useful materials will be removed, and then the hull will again be towed to Hampton Roads to be used as a target for Uncle Sam's big battleships.

The Katahdin is a relic of the old days when the ram was seriously considered in naval warfare. The vessel did not fulfill the hopes of her designers and therefore never has been put to practical use.

BRYAN CENSURES DEMOCRATS.

Says Party Representatives in Congress Lost Great Opportunity.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 28.—William J. Bryan in a public address here explained his position in the controversy with Senator Bailey over the tax on raw materials.

Mr. Bryan censured the Democratic members of congress for their position in the tariff debate and declared they had lost to the Democratic party the greatest opportunity for a signal victory that it had in years.

Mr. Bryan attacked protection on wool. He declared the doctrine of a tax on raw materials to be a sectional problem that would disrupt the Democratic party.

Ten Killed in Train Wreck.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Ten men were killed and six were probably fatally injured early today when a train for Cincinnati on the Pennsylvania railroad crashed into a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul cattle train near here.

RODE ACROSS CONTINENT.

Robert Grantham, Cowboy and Plainsman, Comes All the Way From Nevada on a Mustang.

Robert Grantham, a native of North Lincolnshire, England, but a man who has had a quarter of a century of life in the far West, arrived in town last Thursday for a visit with his old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hastings of Strickland Place. He came all the way from Austin, Nevada, astride his faithful mustang, "Jack". Journeying at ease, he took a year and a half to make the trip and enjoyed the experience immensely. Mr. Grantham has not been East since 1897 when he spent some time visiting here. In appearance he is the typical ranchman, tall, broad chested, a bit angular, perhaps, but withal strong and rangy as the open life in the West makes them. His manner is frank and open, another characteristic of the region from which he comes. He impresses one as modest and unassuming, but nevertheless, has the confident and easy bearing of the man of the plains, who is forced to face conditions and obstacles of an unusual character in the course of daily life.

Mr. Grantham's father was a great lover of horseflesh and, as a boy, Robert was brought much in contact with horses and horsemen. He grew up with a love for the equine race and a strong desire for adventure. It was this spirit that led him to America in the early eighties. He went West immediately and for a decade followed the life of a plainsman. He worked for numerous outfits as a cowpuncher and gained fame as a horseman and broncho buster. He found the life hard and much of the work would be termed plain drudgery by many people, but there was a fascination about it which he could not shake off, try as he would. In the early nineties he got a chance to go back "home" when "Buffalo Bill" took his outfit of cowboys and redskins abroad for a European tour, but another year saw him back in the States and at his old job once more. There isn't a state in the west or southwest that he hasn't traveled through or worked in and they all look alike to him. Following the grazing herds, he has traveled mountain and valley, plain and desert, but the life is not what it used to be and the days of the cowboy are fast passing.

In the old days before the railroad lines cobwebbed the West the cowboy was considerable of a figure. Driving herds to the shipping points then meant journeys on horseback of from one to two and three hundred miles. The "round-up" was a big thing then and a horseman had a chance to show his metal. Broncho busting was a side issue and was more play than work. The towns were few and far apart and the Indians had not all been corralled and shut up in the reservations.

In the early days Mr. Grantham carried a six-shooter like all the other white men in that country, but as civilization advanced the need for this became less and he finally discarded his weapon altogether. Today, he says, the West is quite as safe as the East and if anything a little more so. If a man goes hunting trouble he's liable to find it anywhere and this is still true of the West, but unless a man proves himself "bad" he stands the same show and is as highly regarded out there as anywhere in the world. The most serious mixup he ever had with the Indians was one evening several years ago when he accidentally ran into a camp of drunken bucks. The redmen picked up their weapons and let fly a few missiles. The bullets hummed about his head in merry fashion, but he escaped by turning off the trail and seeking cover in the chaparral.

Another reason for the disappearance of the cowboys is due to the influx of farmers and sheep men. The old time ranges, covering hundreds of square miles, have been gradually fenced in until the cattle men have been forced to narrow quarters. They also fence now and as a consequence have less need of men to tend the herds. The only territory that Mr. Grantham recalls today that resembles the old time grassy ranges is to be found up in Idaho in the "Jackson Hole" country. He was up there five years ago, but thinks that things may have changed since.

Two years ago this fall he was in California and at that time he made up his mind that he would work east. The spring of 1908 found him in Nevada and in April of that year he left Austin, Nevada, on his long eastward journey. His outfit consisted of small personal belongings and his good mustang, "Jack". He has had "Jack" for ten years and would about as soon part with life as his horse. Austin is located in central Nevada and from this point he headed north-east towards northern Utah. He rode up around the northern end of the great American desert and then skirted the north shore of Great Salt Lake and came down to Ogden. He covered a distance of 500 miles in three weeks. From Ogden eastward he followed a straight line as nearly as possible. His next important stop was at Cheyenne in southeastern Wyoming. This was 1000 miles from his starting point. He never forced his horse, but took traveling conditions into consideration. Some days when the going was good he covered from 60 to 65 miles. But this was not the rule and there were days when he covered but a few miles. At Greeley, Colorado, he stopped for a rest of ten days. In going to Greeley he turned slightly to the southward, but after leaving that place and striking into Nebraska, he followed the course of the Platte river and eventually arrived at Omaha, about 1600 miles from the starting point. He figures that he covered 200 extra miles through losing the trail at times. Iowa was the next state encountered and as it was getting late in the season and his mustang began to show signs of lameness, Mr. Grantham decided to put up for the winter at Oxford in eastern Iowa.

The journey eastward was resumed in April of this year. He left Oxford about the 15th of the month and went straight across Illinois, passing through Kankakee to the south of Chicago. This place he figured to be about 500 miles from Omaha. Crossing through Indiana, he stopped three weeks at Auburn for a rest. From this place, which is located near the Ohio line, he found the traveling good and crossed Ohio into Pennsylvania, a distance of 300 miles, in eight days. The most unpleasant feature of his journey was experienced in Pennsylvania. He worked for a farmer who tried to embroil him in a quarrel with another man over a horse trade and failing in this refused to pay him anything for his work. The farmer threatened to use a shot gun on him when he asked for his money, but by putting up a stiff front he commanded the granger's admiration and succeeded in getting his wages. Mr. Grantham arrived in New York in July and spent some weeks visiting relatives in Brooklyn. The Brooklyn Daily Eagle of July 29 published a story of his journey together with a double column out of himself and the famous mustang, "Jack." Mr. Grantham thinks that he will make his permanent home in the East and may lease a small farm next spring.

RALLY AT ARMORY.

Large Audience Turns Out to Hear T. H. Raymond Talk on No License Question.

A large and representative audience turned out Sunday evening to hear T. H. Raymond of Cambridge, Mass., speak on no license in the Armory. Practically every seat in the hall was taken and Mr. Raymond held the close attention of his hearers all through his discourse. His address was one of the most earnest talks on the subject that has been heard in Manchester in a long time. He spoke largely for the moral standpoint and appealed to the people to vote for no license because it was for the good of the community and for the country at large. He gave many practical illustrations to prove his theory and used strong convincing arguments. The frequent applause showed that the audience appreciated the weight of his arguments and that they were listening closely to what he had to say.

Mr. Raymond said that no license was not a political question, not a religious question, not a temperance question, but a question of driving out the saloon because it was a detriment to our country. He cited numerous incentives for voting no license and urged the people to take as their ideal such men as Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and men of their type, who dared to do what was right for the good of their country and fellowmen. He then urged them to vote no license because it was right and for the good of our country and fellowmen.

Mr. Raymond came here as a business man, not a temperance orator, and received no compensation other than being entertained while here and having his car fare paid. He addressed a large crowd in the Center park at three o'clock Sunday afternoon and also spoke at the North Methodist church Sunday morning. At the close of his address in the Armory Sunday evening he was given a rising vote of thanks. R. N. Stanley of Highland Park presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker.

Previous to the Sunday night rally in the Armory, E. L. G. Hohenthal gave a short address at the Salvation Army open air meeting on Main street, after which the Army headed by the band, marched to the Armory. The band provided music for the both afternoon and evening rallies.

When You Take Cold

One way is to pay no attention to it; at least not until it develops into pneumonia, or bronchitis, or pleurisy. Another way is to ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. If he says, "The best thing for colds," then take it. Do as he says, anyway.

We publish our formulas

We banish alcohol from our medicines

We urge you to consult your doctor

When the bowels are constipated, poisonous substances are absorbed into the blood instead of being daily removed from the body as nature intended. Knowing this danger, doctors always inquire about the condition of the bowels. Ayer's Pills.

WHAT INSPIRED PEARY

Reading Dr. Kane's Arctic Explorations, Says Boyhood Chum.

FIRED HIS EARLY IMAGINATION

Judge E. C. Reynolds Pictures the Explorer Curled Up Before the Fireplace, Devouring the Old Volume. Natural Leader as a Boy.

Judge Edward C. Reynolds of South Portland, Me., who is one of Commander Peary's oldest and most intimate friends, having been his companion in boyhood, recently told about the arctic explorer's early life and what led him to seek the north pole. He said:

"I have at my house a copy of Dr. Kane's book on arctic exploration, published, I think, about 1855 or 1856, which, I believe, was the first inspiration Commander Robert E. Peary received for exploration in the arctic regions.

"It is even now, in the light of all we know and in these days of fine illustrations and good printing, an excellent volume. The old woodcut pictures of Eskimo huts and their sledges, of the dog teams and the vessels struck in the ice floes, are even now interesting to look upon, and I can just picture to myself Bert Peary, as I have always known him, curled up before the fireplace with this book in his lap and reading of these remarkable experiences of almost the first among the arctic explorers. I don't imagine that he has had any idea that he would be an explorer himself in those regions or that he would one day come home with the honor of having discovered the north pole, but because this volume once claimed the attention of Commander Peary and fixed his thoughts upon such things I prize it highly.

"Natural Leader as a Boy.
"I think I first remember Bert Peary when we were about six years old. He was then living with his mother at the home of Freeman T. Evans, in Pleasantdale. Mrs. Peary and Mrs. Evans, whom every one called 'Aunt Eliza,' were great friends, and when Mrs. Peary came to live at Cape Elizabeth after her husband's death she very soon made her home with Mrs. Evans.

"Bert Peary was at my home almost as much as he was at his own. In fact, as boys and young men our relations were almost as close as those of brothers, and I believe I know him as well as I would a brother.

"We went to school together for many years, played together, and led by him, for he was a natural leader, I learned about all of this country near our homes, always seeking the life in the open and the adventures which boys seek. I recall especially that he was very fond of skating. That was a sport which we both enjoyed, and we passed many hours together upon the ice in the winter time. He was always daring, courageous and energetic. From the earliest time it seemed that Peary had an inclination to seek those things pertaining to the sciences or natural history. He made collections of snakes, which he knew all about, and often I have seen him catch them and snap off their heads with a quick jerk of his arm, a trick none of the other boys cared to do.

"Had Mania For Birds' Eggs.
"He had a mania for the collection of birds' eggs when we were about ten or twelve years old, and he made as fine a collection as any I ever saw. I think he had about every kind of egg that could be obtained in these regions. That was before it was regarded as a crime for a boy to rob birds' nests. I made a collection, too, but mine was not as good as Peary's, for he had a natural aptitude for such things. He was very observing of birds and animals in the woods and made a study of them, which as a boy I have always thought was quite remarkable. It shows, if nothing more, that from the earliest time he had a decided inclination for the pursuit of the natural sciences, and since then he has shown the world how well developed this faculty was.

"I was at Washington in 1884 as clerk in the lighthouse department, and I remember very well the first time I called upon Peary there. He was then a civil engineer in the navy and had been for three years or more. I don't just recall where his room was at the time, but when I went to see him I found him on the floor at work upon something. I asked him what it was, and he said: 'I am making a sledge. I have studied those of arctic explorers, and I think I can make a much better sled than any of those they have used.'

"He then told me that he intended to go to the arctic regions and that he was saving up his leaves of absence for that purpose and intended to take three or four months and make an expedition to Greenland. I attempted to discourage him, but he said that he intended to make the trip and thought that there were great opportunities there for a man of determination.

"Peary Feared No Danger.
"Commander Peary some years later, when he had become more or less famous, always used to come to my home and call upon my father, of whom he was very fond. My father always argued with him about the dangers and uncertainties, the lack of financial return and the profligate work, as he regarded it, that Peary had undertaken.

"Why, Mr. Reynolds, Peary would say, there is no danger—absolutely no danger. I have never been afraid for a single moment in the arctic. If a man takes good care of himself and is not afraid, there is nothing to fear whatever. And the atmosphere there is inspiring. There is so much to learn that it drives you on to do almost anything."

Read Dr. Kane's Explorations.
"As I have said, I firmly believe that the book on Dr. Kane's explorations, which belonged to Mr. Evans, with whom he lived as a boy, fired his youthful imagination and has had as much as anything else to do with his persistency in this direction. This book is well thumbed and bears the evidence of having been read many times. How many winter evenings Bert Peary curled up before the fireplace with this book before him and followed the daring explorer in his dream through the regions of eternal ice and snow no one knows. Today he has learned much more than Dr. Kane ever knew about that region, but I am sure that he would read this book to-day with as much interest as he did as a boy."

Commander Peary's purchase of Eagle Isle, in Casco bay, where his summer home is now located, is characteristic of him. Judge Reynolds when asked about it said, that Commander Peary said he wanted Reynolds to do down to Harpswell and try to buy the island. "I want it because no one can land upon it. It is a difficult place to reach, and there is a mysterious charm about it that appeals to me strongly. Buy it if you can, and some time I'm going there to live."

Judge Reynolds purchased the island for him, and the man who sold it had a deed of it which had been in his family from the time the land was granted by the Georges to the earliest settlers.

MEETING OF PRESIDENTS.
Great Showing of Mexican Military When Taft and Diaz Meet.

The Mexican government proposes making an effective display of at least the numerical strength of its army upon the occasion of the meeting of Presidents Taft and Diaz at El Paso, Tex. The Mexican war department announces that the military demonstration will surpass anything of its kind in recent years and that between 8,000 and 16,000 soldiers will escort General Diaz to the border and remain there until his return from El Paso. Every branch of the army will be represented.

It is believed that the government has taken advantage of the occasion to make a military demonstration for the benefit of the revolutionists who are referred to as Reyes' agitators. The different detachments of the army will give exhibitions and participate in maneuvers en route from the capital northward.

General Trevino, the most highly regarded commander of Mexico, will be in charge of the troops. He is making great preparations to impress the discontented natives with the power of the service.

It is announced that the United States will be represented by about 3,000 soldiers, under command of General Meyer of the department of Texas. Accompanying President Taft's escort will be three military bands, one of which will be the mounted band of fifty musicians known as the White Troopers' band. Mexico's army will not furnish any band, but there will be four other bands with General Diaz's party on the journey to the Rio Grande.

According to the program for the entertainment and reception of Presidents Taft and Diaz, there will be three dinners for these distinguished officials on Oct. 16 in El Paso, Tex. This program is announced by Ignacio de la Barra, congressman from the City of Mexico and brother to the Mexican ambassador to the United States.

NORTHCLIFFE'S WARNING.
Believes Germany's Warlike Preparations Do Not Warrant Optimism.

Lord Northcliffe, who passed through Portland, Ore., recently on his way to San Francisco, said in an interview regarding the peace of Europe:

"We have the facts that Germany has refused to discuss her vast armaments, that the whole of her ship-building yards are engaged in naval construction, that scores of her leading writers make no secret of her intentions, that she has on previous occasions made unprovoked and sudden attacks on other nations and that the vessels she is building are designed for commerce destroying purposes and for fighting with an enemy that is near at hand.

"We know also that the kaiser has said in a public declaration that the future of Germany is on the water. In the face of these significant facts I fear that any foolish optimism is greatly to be deprecated."

Movement to Reforest Boston Harbor.
A new movement is being organized to support the plan to reclothe the Boston harbor islands with the sylvan beauty of which they were robbed centuries ago when the trees were cut down. The Metropolitan Improvement league is the moving factor, and several institutions, including Harvard college and the Institute of Technology, are represented in the renewed expression of interest.

Tests of Chain for Panama Canal.
In government tests at Washington samples of the chain to be used on the gear of the Panama canal locks withstood tensile tests of 153,000 pounds to the square inch before the metal parted.

MEDIUM FROM ITALY

Mme. Palladino's Wonder Claims to Be Tested in America.

TRIALS MUST BE SCIENTIFIC.

Exhibition Which Astonished Europe Will Be Given in New York—Medium to Prove That She Can Emit a Breeze From Her Temple.

Mme. Eusapia Palladino, an Italian medium, who has aroused interest in European scientific circles, will soon come to New York to submit to a series of tests under the direction of well known men identified with the work of the American Society For Psychical Research. Dr. James H. Hyslop, secretary of the society, and other scientists will attend the sances.

To Guard Against Fraud.
Every provision will be made to guard against fraud, and it is intended that the experiments shall be scientific. Under close restriction Mme. Palladino will be asked to produce the phenomena which have caused a sensation abroad—causing tables to rise in the air without apparent contact, chairs to dance jigs and drawing from the unknown void the hands and faces of dead persons warm and with the texture of flesh, but melting in your grasp if you attempt to seize them. At least that is what it is said she can do.

Mme. Palladino, who has excited the wonder and gained the faith of Cesare Lombroso, Sir Oliver Lodge, M. and Mme. Curie and other well known scientists, is being brought to the United States for a series of experiments by Hereward Carrington, author of several books on psychical phenomena, and other psychical researchers affiliated with the American society. She will hold fifteen or twenty sances, the attendance at each of which will be limited to eight or ten persons.

Mr. Carrington, who is a "professional medium exposé" and was formerly an assistant to Dr. Hyslop, was one of three men sent by the English Society of Psychical Research to investigate Mme. Palladino recently. The other two men were Everard Feilding, honorary secretary for the English society, and W. W. Baggally, a member of the society's council.

Mme. Palladino gave them ten sittings in Naples and convinced them she was genuine. Mr. Carrington said she was the first psychical medium of many he had investigated who he did not consider a fraud. One of her most remarkable performances, he said, was to emit a cold breeze from a scar above her left temple. Her nose and mouth were held shut while this occurred, and a tissue paper flag held in front of the scar fluttered violently.

Moved Objects at a Distance.
"Mme. Palladino also moved objects at a distance without contact," said Mr. Carrington, "causing a chair to follow her hands as if there were magnetic attractions, although we made sure that there was no possibility that a hair or thread or anything else was attached. The sittings were conducted in light good enough to read fine print in, except when she produced the hands and faces, when she required darkness.

"She is not a clairvoyant nor what we call an intellectual medium. She didn't speak at all during the sances except to make a few remarks about the phenomena. And the faces of the dead that she conjured up did not speak.

"Scientists explain her performance by saying that she 'externalizes her vitality.' That means that there is some peculiar emanation from her body. She has given remarkable demonstrations in Paris, London, St. Petersburg, Milan, Genoa, Turin, Rome and Naples. She is a Neapolitan and about fifty-five years old. She is being brought to the United States in the interest of science, and only scientists and psychical researchers will be permitted to attend her sances, admission to which will be by invitation."

Prizes For Railroad Men.
Prizes amounting to $5,400 were recently awarded by the Pennsylvania railroad to track supervisors and assistants who excelled in their work during the past year.

Uncle Sam's Own Row.
Of course if Lord Charles sez so, John, I reckon it be true. That England kinder bankers fer a union 'twixt us two. Or what he calls a "world's peace pact," our navies joining in. A common fleet to rid the airth of battle's barb'rous din.

I like the idee, too, John Bull, fust class, if only we. Can make that pact include all navies on the sea. I've got a soft spot in my heart fer Frenchy, who sent ships—Excuse me, John; I most fergot—jest one of my dern sills.

Well, Dutchy, he's a friend of mine. I'm harboring over here Some millions of his children whose ways I never fear. And Roosia, too, is sending me a likely lot of hands. My little apt with Spain's fergot—we're friends to beat the bands.

And Italy and Austria, and Belgium—why, taken, 'twould'nt youd jest like geography to mention each that makes The list of nations I call friends, who call me friend also! So, John, I guess 'd better keep on hooing my own row.

Edward W. Townsend in New York World.

OPENING OF HARVARD HOUSE

Ambassador Reid to Accept Historic Building For America.

The first public function which will be undertaken by Whitehall held on his return to England will be the opening of the Harvard House in Stratford-on-Avon. The date of the function has been fixed by the ambassador himself for Oct. 8, so that the ceremony may be coincident with the installation of Dr. Lowell as the new president of Harvard university. The Harvard House was the home of Katherine Rogers, the mother of John Harvard, and from its threshold she went out to be married to Robert Harvard of Southwark. From this union sprang the founder of Harvard university.

It is chiefly to Miss Marie Corelli, the novelist, that the gift of Harvard House to America is due. She long cherished the idea that the Stratford-on-Avon dwelling, where John Harvard's mother lived and where he himself often stayed in childhood, should belong to Harvard university.

Miss Corelli was strongly supported in her scheme by Edward Morris of Chicago, who bought the house and entrusted Miss Corelli with its repair and also its furnishing in the style of the Harvard period. The work concluded, Mr. Morris presented the house to Harvard university. It was accepted and is to be held in perpetuity under a body of trustees.

The house is perhaps the most beautiful sixteenth century building exist-

HARVARD HOUSE.
The house in Stratford-on-Avon, Miss Corelli bought for the Harvard House. The new material has been put into the building, but the old timbers have been fully disclosed and carefully preserved. It is a far more perfect specimen of a sixteenth century abode than Shakespeare's birthplace.

After the opening ceremony by Mr. Reid the house will be open to the public and will be available to traveling Americans for use as a resting place in Stratford. On the day of the opening Miss Corelli will entertain the ambassador and some hundred friends at luncheon at her residence, Mason Croft.

GOV. JOHNSON MEMORIAL

Thousands of School Children Will Have Chance to Give Cents.

Forty-five thousand school children of Minneapolis will have an opportunity to subscribe to the John Albert Johnson memorial fund. In the sixty-one schools of Minneapolis the 1,100 teachers will be directed to inform the children that no contribution is asked, but that if any child desires to participate in honoring a man who was not only a great man, but a friend of all the children, a few cents or more may be subscribed.

The plan to erect a memorial to John Albert Johnson, the late governor of Minnesota, that should be a remembrance to the people, the money for which should come from the people, has extended rapidly over the state. The announcement that the contributions would be limited to $1 met instant approval everywhere.

James J. Hill and Louis W. Hill have endorsed the plan, and the railroad officials of Minneapolis and St. Paul favor it.

The Lemon Cucumber.
After six years of experimenting and with knowledge gained at the agricultural college of the Wisconsin State university G. E. Brown, a young farmer of Spokane-Bridge, Wash., has succeeded in growing what he proudly terms the "lemon cucumber," almost spherical in shape, and which he guarantees free from the qualities of producing ill effects upon the stomach. About an acre of the new product has brought Mr. Brown about $300 this season. The entire supply is being shipped to Portland, where they are being used by fancy caterers.

Claims in Maine Waters.
An attempt is to be made to introduce the famous Massachusetts and Rhode Island clams to Maine waters, and two men from Massachusetts and others who are to be sent to Lewiston, Me., by Commissioner of Sea and Shore Fisheries James Donohue will soon begin the work. These clams are very large and have very white shells and command a much higher price in the market than the Maine product. At the last legislature people interested in the subject succeeded in getting an appropriation from the state. It will probably be two seasons before the results of the work can be known.

Poison Squad in Philadelphia Schools.
The "poison squad" idea as to children's food is to be adopted in Philadelphia schools. Special lunches will be supplied to some schools, while pupils in others will be allowed to eat what they please, and mental and physical comparisons will be made at the end of the term.

M'MILLAN'S NOTED DISCOVERY

Peary Party Member Found Tropic Fern on Rock Near North Pole.

Professor Donald McMillan, a member of the Peary north pole expedition, has made some important discoveries tending to prove that the frigid zone was once hotter than the equator is at present. He found large numbers of vegetable and marine fossils. In a huge rock split open by frost the perfect imprint of a great tropical fern was visible. The petrified stump of a tree eighteen inches in diameter was found, while there were other evidences of whole forests in a state of petrification. Some fine coal seams were also located. Near Black cape.

PROFESSOR DONALD M'MILLAN.
latitude 81 degrees 25 minutes, fossil remains of tropical animals were found.

A new species of seal was discovered by Professor McMillan, and the eggs, nest and a photograph of the knot, a rare arctic bird, never before collected, were secured.

The knot is a bird that does not come down from the ice regions. It has been rarely captured by arctic explorers. There is a mounted specimen in a museum in St. Petersburg, the only one in Europe.

Professor McMillan's loss in the recent raid on the steamer Roosevelt made by souvenir hunters is more than 100 books of all kinds, a camera, a notebook containing the names of 227 Eskimos of the Etah tribe and a photograph of a life above the snow.

Mr. Borup has a number of books and material relating to photography.

NEW ROOSEVELT HISTORY.

Ex-President Said to Plan to Tell All About Texas.

Theodore Roosevelt will write a history of Texas while in Texas next year, according to an announcement made by Colonel Cecil A. Lyon of Sherman, Republican leader in Texas and a personal friend of the former president.

Lyon declares that this information is authentic and that Mr. Roosevelt has planned to write the history of the Lone Star State for a long time and has collected a trunkful of data. Mr. Lyon says Mr. Roosevelt decided to write this history because of his great admiration for famous old Texas characters like Crockett, Houston and Austin.

Mr. Roosevelt will come to Texas next spring. He will go to Demastie, Lyon's ranch, where he will prepare his manuscripts for publication.

FIRST SCHOOL OF FLYING.

Boston Man Starts It With Two Experts as Teachers.

What is believed to be the first school of air flying in the United States has been started by Frank Palmer Spear of the Boston Y. M. C. A.

Spear has put in charge of the course H. Helm Clayton, whose work at the Blue Hill observatory has stamped him as a leading authority on air and air currents, and Albert A. Merrill of Brookline, whose work along the lines laid down by the pioneer aviator Chanute helped give impetus to the work of the Wright brothers.

NINTH DISTRICT NOTES.

District Committee Organizes—Benefit Entertainment for Athletic Association—Boethia Officers.

The Ninth district school committee met at the high school building last evening and organized for the coming year. Howell Cheney will retain his place as chairman of the committee for another term and Charles R. Hathaway was reelected secretary. The night school and supplies committees were also made up. Howell Cheney and Rev. George W. Reynolds will serve on the former and Howell Cheney, Rev. George W. Reynolds and Charles R. Hathaway are the members of the latter.

Plans are under discussion for holding an entertainment at the local high school some time early in the winter, the proceeds to go to the high school athletic association. At the present time the association, although not exactly in debt, has practically nothing in the treasury and it is necessary that money be raised to defray the expenses of the basketball team during the approaching season. The plans for the entertainment contemplate a program of a musical and literary nature, with a short cantata by the full strength of the high school chorus and selections by members of the alumni. The tickets will be sold by the members of the high school and all proceeds will go into the treasury of the athletic association.

At the meeting of the high school Boethia, held Friday afternoon, officers for the fall term were elected. Harold Bidwell '10, takes the presidency, Walter Rau '12, the vice presidency and Miss Hazel Gould '11, the secretary and treasurer. The executive committee was made up as follows: Evelyn Thompson '10, Max Bengs '11, Beatrice Packard '12 and Margaret Cadman '13.

The reports of the condition of Allen McLean, the member of the freshman class who was taken sick at school and operated upon for appendicitis at St. Francis hospital last week, are favorable and show a good chance for his recovery.

The first fire drill this term at the high school was held last week and resulted in the building being emptied of all occupants in less than three minutes.

Mrs. Maurice Moriarty Critically Ill.

Mrs. Maurice Moriarty of Yonkers, N. Y., is in a critical condition at the home of her son, Dr. E. C. Moriarty of Park street. Mrs. Moriarty was a resident of this place for many years but moved to Yonkers a short time ago. Early in the summer she came here with her husband to visit her son. She was taken ill while here and has been unable to return to her home. Last Thursday she suffered a shock. She is now very weak and it is feared she cannot recover. Her children, the Misses Nellie and Catherine Moriarty and Mrs. William Sadler of Yonkers and Eugene Moriarty of New York, have been called here on account of the seriousness of her condition.

Gave Band a Reception.

Over one hundred members of Washington Lodge of Orangemen attended the reception given to the Center Flute band in Orange hall Saturday night. The reception was limited to members of the order. The band met at the hall about 7.30 and had a short parade. On its return to the hall supper was ready in the banquet hall. Joseph Little acted as toastmaster and, after cigars had been lighted, called on the different members. Each one called upon either contributed a song or made remarks. George McCormick, as master of the lodge, said that the members were proud of the band and he took occasion to laud the band for its recent victory in carrying off the banner in the Thompsonville contest. The party broke up shortly before midnight.

Annual Town Meeting.

The call for the annual town meeting has been drafted by the selectmen and is printed in another column of this issue of The Herald. Besides the customary announcements of the call it contains several matters of a new and unusual character. One of these is section 3, which calls for a decision on the time of saloon closing. Several of the sections call for the approval of the voters on matters of appropriations of money for such purposes as roads and state macadam, town farm improvements and water supply, street lights, police, etc. Section 9 calls for the laying of a tax to provide for the new state and the county tax. The next section calls for the furnishing of a town house. The last section to be acted upon is the approval of several by-laws, the most important of which relates to the licensing of itinerant vendors and public exhibitions.

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Wadsworth Council No. 39, O. U. A. M. Celebrated the Event Last Night.

Wadsworth Council of American Mechanics had a poor night for their twentieth anniversary which they celebrated last night, but nevertheless there was a good percentage of the members present and a number of the state council officers braved the storm in order to attend. The state council officials present were: State Councilor Thomas H. Cook, National Representative Charles E. Crane and Deputy Ira J. Strong of Hartford, National Doorkeeper Dr. A. J. Cutting of Southington, and State Vice Councilor George W. Gammons of this town. Dr. Cutting gave a very interesting historical sketch of Wadsworth Council from its institution to the present time. There were other visitors from the neighboring councils. All of the state officials spoke encouragingly of the work of Wadsworth Council and of its influence among the Mechanics throughout the state.

Wadsworth Council was instituted Sept. 30, 1889, in the vestry of the North Methodist church. The council began with 61 charter members. From the church the council moved to the Morton hall and later to the Patten & Brown hall, the present home. During its existence the council has paid out something over $2,500 in sick and death benefits.

Over 150 members have been initiated and at the present time the Council has 102 active members. There are four charter members remaining in the council. The council meets every Monday night and is now in a very prosperous condition. At present the members are working hard to secure the state council banner given to the council that shows the largest increase in membership during the year. Wadsworth council has made the largest gain up to the present time. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

COMES QUICKLY.

Don't Have to Wait for Weeks. A Manchester Illustration.

Waiting is discouraging. Prompt action pleases everybody. A burden on the back is a heavy weight.

Hard to bear day after day. Harder still year after year. Lifting weight, removing the burden,

Brings appreciating responses. Manchester people tell of it. Tell how it can be done. Tell of relief that's quick and sure. Here is a case of it:

J. W. Treat, 14 William street, Manchester, Conn., says: "My first public statement in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills was given in 1897, after they had relieved me of a distressing pain across the small of my back which had annoyed me for a long time. During the twelve years that have since passed, I had occasional returns of the trouble when I have caught cold or have overworked. At such times however, a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have given me relief. I will always be glad to speak a good word for this remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents or the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

David Ferguson of North Elm street returned today to his studies at Harvard Law School.

William Reed of Belden, Mich., is visiting his mother, Mrs. George Reed of Chestnut street.

A CULINARY MASTERPIECE.

When You Go to Paris Don't Turn Up Your Nose at Mussels.

You will find in Paris a small restaurant just inside the street entrance presided over by a waiter who has apparently been forty years of age for the last twenty years. He has a friendly, alert air, and anything in the world that you want he will promptly provide.

You will naturally order some sort of potage or something that your fancy suggests; but, whatever else you do, be sure to call for mussels. In America who eats mussels except at rare times—perhaps some pickled mussels? They are with us in the same category as tripe.

Behold the genius of the French! When the waiter brings in an enormous silver bowl with a domelike silver cover and when he removes the cover, then you forget everything in the world except the delicious savory smell of the steam which rises from the myriad shells that open lovingly for you to extract from them the dainty sea flavored mussel that lurks within.

Mussel, did I say? No; these are not the ordinary mussels that Americans know. French gastronomic genius has transformed them into moules mariniere. In some deftly magical way the French chef has imparted a delicious suggestion to the moules, just that indefinable, evanescent memory of garlic-garlic which in the hands of the ordinary cook is an offensive and deadly weapon, but which in the hands of a cook of high degree—an artist in fact—is a means for achieving some of the supreme triumphs of his art.

After the moules you will have anything you care for—dainty slices of gelatine or sliced capon nestled amid watercresses and then perhaps some peaches in a little basket where the fruit is infolded in leaves from its own tree and ripened to precisely the right turn on some ancient wall in the sunshine of an old French garden, then perhaps some puffed bread and a bit of Camembert and a Cafe Managan in a long glass. No one remembers now the battle that gave its name to this particular preparation of coffee, which shows that men may come and empires may fall and armies may be dashed into fragments upon the battle field, but the genius of cookery remains triumphant and its achievements are never lost.—Bookman.

Great Sale of Fall Waists

The weather getting cooler, you'll want to dress accordingly. Fortunately the following lot of waists was offered to us by a leading manufacturer who kept his skilled help busy on them during the dull summer season. The manufacturer's price on the waists was about half their actual value. We could not resist the temptation, even though the quantity is a little larger than what we cared to buy at one time. And RIGHT NOW when you want them, we offer them to you at HALF PRICE, and give you the benefit of our fortunate purchase.

The waists are made of fine chambrays in tailor made effect, in BLUE, TAN, PINK, BROWN, GREEN and NAVY in plain, striped or plaid effect. COME AND GET YOUR SHARE.
