DEMOCRATIC RALLY TAME.

Small Audience Shivers While Speakers Hammer on Campaign Issues and Denounce Republicanism.

If last night's democratic rally in the Wall street Armory is to be regarded as a prophetic sign, the republicans, at least of this town, indeed have nothing to fear over next Tuesday's election. The democratic campaign fund must be low or party spirit lacking for there was no parade to the Armory and not even a stick of red was waved in an attempt to attract the idle curious. One lone placard was paraded by a Balaun follower about the streets of the south end and that was the extent of the advertising except what notices appeared in the press. Weak advertising brings weak results and the crowd at the Armory again proved the truth of the maxim. When the rally was formally called to order a liberal estimate conceded the total present at twenty-five. A few stragglers filed in later, but the temperature was low and enthusiasm flickered feebly.

The speakers occupied a row of chairs on the stage and included besides Augustine Lonergan, candidate for congressman in the First district and speaker of the evening, John R. Hayes and R. M. Reid, local representative candidates, Mayor "Danny" Dunn of Willimantic and James R. Graham of Hartford, candidate for sheriff. "Chris" McHale called the gathering to order and introduced John R. Hayes, who spoke briefly on the state issues and declared that the republicans had been false to their promises. Mayor Dunn came next and he got a hand when he referred to the days when Manchester and Willimantic fought it out on the baseball diamond. The mayor talked for a long time and told how to vote the democratic ticket. He concluded by predicting victory for the party and the election of Simeon E. Baldwin as governor.

Augustine Lonergan made the chief address and it was one worthy of a larger audience. He made it clear from the outset that in scoring his political opponents he was casting no reflections on their character or personal integrity. He confined himself entirely to national issues and for the most part spoke on the tariff question. It is an issue, he said, that has been in process of solution since the days of Alexander Hamilton and hasn't been solved yet. The unreasonable rates imposed by the Dingley tariff law caused the demand for revision downward which was promised by the republican party in the last national convention, but instead the Payne-Aldrich tariff law had been enacted. This tariff put a higher premium on necessities than did the Dingley bill. It is such a monstrous iniquity that the republicans chose to tear their own party to pieces with dissension rather than stand for it. I want it understood, said Mr. Lonergan, that I firmly believe in a tariff that will equalize the difference in labor cost between this country and Europe. I want to see the honest manufacturer protected. It is the unlawful combinations that labor in restraint of trade and which have fattened on the present system that need the curb of a lower tariff.

Turning to Connecticut's representatives in Congress the speaker scored them for knuckling to such men as Payne, Tawney and Dabell who stood for Cannon and Cannonism. Our present congressman, he said, supported Cannon and Cannonism. His record disclosed that whenever Mr. Cannon's ardent supporters voted for a measure he invariably voted with them. If Cannon and Cannonism are responsible for many of our existing evils, as some republican leaders and editors tell us, does it not follow that the congressman who supported Speaker Cannon should bear their share of the responsibility? This being so, how can the voters of the First district consistently reelect our present congressman? If they were present in Congress, they would have voted against most of the measures which he supported in the last session. When he voted, the electors of the First district voted through him and he thereby voted against their interests. Ask yourselves if you would have supported Cannon and Cannonism, the Payne-Aldrich Act with its unjust and oppressive tariff rates, increasing the cost of the necessities of life?

This is a campaign of protest and morality. If the men who control the republican party conduct the affairs of the government for the benefit of themselves and the privileged inter-

MAIN STREET LINE AGAIN.

Town Counsel Has Filed More Specific Statement as Requested by Appellants.

There is a possibility that the Main street boundary line case may be tried and a decision reached at the November term of the superior court if the attorney for the appellants is quick to respond to the latest move of the town by the court last May. The case has been in court just a year and the two sides and some of the legal machinery are brought into play it may remain there a long time. It hasn't progressed very far as yet, but while there is life there is hope. The specific statement in compliance with the court order, which is the latest phase of the matter, was filed by the town counsel with the clerk of the superior court last Thursday, is simple and brief.

It specifically names the fourteen appellants as being the grantees of lands mentioned in paragraph 8 of the original answer together with the names of some owners of adjoining property and referring to the alleged encroachments on the highway described that they were made from time to time during the periods the grantees and other persons occupied the lands. The original paragraph says that parts of said highway were occupied by the while occupying the land-adjacent highway, which lands were used to them severally on the following dates:

Thomas F. ... in January 4, 1887, March 21, 1888, Michael J. Moriarty November 11, 1905, Minnie Pohlman March 23, 1888, Wealthy A. White and Emma F. Hutchinson July 15, 1884, Helen M. Comstock, November 18, 1907, Winnie A. Reid and Henry L. Stacey, July 8, 1907, Minnie McCarthy, February 26, 1888, Thomas Sheridan and John Strickland, April 10, 1888, John E. Gleason, September 17, 1908, Peter Adams, April 15, 1884, Henry L. Vibberts, October 29, 1890, Leonora M. Carter, November 4, 1892, Julius Strickland, April 8, 1882.

The Main street line case bids fair to have a history that will prove memorable. A year ago last summer the selectmen received a signed petition to reestablish the street lines, which under section 2088 of the general statutes is their plain duty. The selectmen proceeded to have a survey made and maps showing the lines as established were prepared. In the fall a hearing on the matter was given by the board at the Hall of Records. A number of property owners appeared and some objected to the lines as shown in the map. The selectmen adopted the lines and ordered them recorded in the town clerk's office as the correct bounds of the street. The property owners were notified of the action taken and under the law had ten days in which to appeal from the action of the town. Fourteen proprietors took an appeal and Judge H. O. Bowers, acting as counsel, filed his appeal to the Court October 22. The town's answer was filed December 17. There was nothing further doing until spring when Judge Bowers moved to expunge paragraphs 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 of the town's answer as being evidential. Arguments were heard by Judge Lucien F. Burpee April 26 and the motion to expunge was denied. Judge Bowers then came back with a request for a more specific statement and the arguments were heard May 20. The result was that Judge Burpee granted the motion. It was too late then to do anything with the case before court adjourned for the summer and the matter has since lain dormant. Under the law Judge Bowers is given fifteen days in which to file his reply.

WON'T PAY WATER BILL: LAST CALL FOR AMATEURS.

Eight District Taxpayers Discuss Old Subject—Committee Appointed to Consult With Water Co.

The water question in the Eighth district is like the proverbial cat. It always comes back. And that is more than Jim Jeffries and a lot of others can say. The water question in this district won't down. The voters who assembled at the school house last Friday evening to take a turn at the subject had a lot of fun. Some of them came to the meeting expecting to hear things that would tend to make them smile and they did. Dr. F. H. Whiton was chosen chairman. The meeting was called for the purpose of determining whether the voters were willing to pay the Manchester Water Company a year's rent at the old rate of $1275 for the use of the hydrants from August 1, 1909, to August 1, 1910. It will be remembered that the Water company's twenty year contract with the Eighth district expired on August 31, 1909. Last February when the district committee received a bill from the Water company for the use of the hydrants a special meeting of the voters was called for the purpose of hearing the bill rendered was at the same rate as the district had been paying for the past twenty years. The voters refused to pay that amount and voted to pay the Water company $600 per annum for the use of the hydrants. This was a cut of a little more than half what had been paid.

LAST CALL FOR AMATEURS.

G Team Manager Says No Cup Will Be Offered Unless League is Formed at Once.

Manager John Curry of the G basketball team announcing somewhat ago that he would put up a silver cup to be competed for in the preliminary game at the Armory this season provided a three team league of local players were organized. He made the announcement that interested in the project should communicate with him, but he has thus far received no communications. Manager Curry informed a Herald representative Saturday night that unless he heard from the other managers within the next week he would do nothing more about the matter, and the Pierce team would be allowed to play each week and arrange their own games as they have done in past seasons. The G team began practice in the Ninth district gymnasium last Wednesday evening and beginning this week will practice every Tuesday evening in the same place. They will also practice a few times in the Armory before the opening game, which comes the last Friday evening of the month. A few games have already been scheduled for the coming season. It is expected that the first game will be with the Company F team of Hartford. The 'Signas of New Britain, who made things so interesting for the local team last year and has been considerably strengthened for this season, will play here December 2, and the strong Winsted team will be the local opponent on December 16. December 31 is still open. Other strong teams which Manager Curry still bring here this season are the Rivers of Yale, the F. H. of Trinity, the Wesleyan team and the Critteries, Matawans and Alhambra of Hartford. The last named team won the state championship for the local last year, winning three games out of a series of five.

BIG SILK EXPOSITION.

Hundredth Anniversary of the Industry in America to Be Celebrated at Paterson, N. J.

The hundredth anniversary of the manufacture of power machinery in this country of silk fabrics will be celebrated in Paterson by an industrial exhibition beginning on November 1 and lasting ten days. Its chief feature will be an exhibit in the Fifth regiment Armory of the evolution of silk from the cocoon. The process will be shown publicly as it has never been shown before in this country. Native Italian girls, who learned the art in their own country, have been engaged to demonstrate the initial process of spinning the minute threads from the cocoon upon spindles. This is one of the most interesting processes connected with the manufacture of the fabric. The building in which silk was first manufactured by power in this country a hundred years ago will be reproduced. It was in 1810 that Rodney Hanks constructed a frame building, 15x20 feet in dimensions, on the banks of a swift running river in the hamlet of Mansfield, Conn., to manufacture silk. This small plant, which still stands, is in great contrast to some of the gigantic silk factories in Paterson, with their modern machinery and methods. More than thirty years passed before Paterson became interested in the industry that was to earn for it the title 'silk city of America.' The first factory was opened by John Ryle, an Englishman who was attracted to Paterson by the textile mills that were already in operation. Depending upon the Passaic River and Falls for power he started operations in the old gun factory, made historic by the fact that the first Goetz silkworms here and the women employees being twice as many as the men. One Paterson mill has an area of 150,000 square feet. The value of the annual product of the silk mills was $30,000,000 last year.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the South Methodist church at 2:30 Thursday afternoon, and in the Wesleyan at 8:00 Saturday afternoon and evening. Admission 10 cents. Skates free afternoons, evenings 15 cents. 901

FOR COMMERCE COURT.
President Mellon Again Writes to Editorial Association on this Phase of Utilities Question.

President Mellon of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, who since his opinion on the subject of a public utilities bill was first sought by the officers of the Connecticut Editorial Association, has contributed a great deal of matter to the press of an interesting character, has written another letter outlining his plan of a court of commerce. The letter is printed in full below:

New Haven, Conn., October 31, 1910.
Messrs. Everett G. Hill, President, Arthur S. Barnes, Secretary, Connecticut Editorial Association, New Haven, Connecticut:
Dear Sirs:—

I have received requests from some of the members of your Association to make my letter clearer. I shall accordingly not undertake to write to do more than answer some of your questions regarding a Court of Commerce.

I suggest for consideration the following definite plan. Let the Legislature provide three additional Judges of the Superior Court. Let the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court from time to time assign a Judge or Judges of the Superior Court to conduct the sessions of the Court of Commerce.

This Court should have legislative authority to act under its own simple rules of procedure and of evidence, which should be so framed as both to prevent delays in the settlement of controversies and also to give the freedom of inquiry necessary for the effective investigation of cases and the determination of their difficult and complex commercial questions.

It is my belief that such a Court would be better adapted to deal with a good many important commercial controversies than the ordinary Court of Justice with its technical and rigid procedure. But I now propose such a Court only for the determination of controversies as to the reasonableness and fairness of charges made and services afforded by those who serve the general public, including particularly the so-called Public Service Corporations.

It is my belief that such a Court would be better adapted to deal with a good many important commercial controversies than the ordinary Court of Justice with its technical and rigid procedure.

HALLOWEEN WHIST.
Over One Hundred Guests Enjoyed Social Given by Temple Chapter at Masonic Hall.

The Halloween whist social, given in Masonic hall last evening by Temple Chapter, O. E. S., was attended by about one hundred guests and all had a very enjoyable time. There were twenty-four tables filled with players, but as the men were in the minority some of the ladies took the gentlemen's parts, and one of them was a gentleman's partner. The card playing was enjoyed for about two hours, after which time was called and the prizes were awarded.

The lady's first prize, a cut glass dish, went to Mrs. Joseph Mallin; lady's second prize, a muslin dress, to Mrs. N. A. Burr; gentleman's first prize, two Cheney silk neckties, to Robert V. Treat; gentleman's second prize, an ash tray, to Henry Markley; and Mr. Treat and Mrs. Mara were tied for first prize they cut cards and drew the lucky card.
