TEAMS ARE APPOINTED FOR Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN

Sixty-Five Men Will Canvass Town During Three Day Drive.

RALLY TOMORROW NIGHT

Prominent Speakers, Parade, Liberty Chorus, Band Music—No Collection or Admission at Rally.

The machinery set in motion by the executive committee in charge of the Y. M. C. A. War Fund campaign to raise at least $20,000 in Manchester is whirring along smoothly today. Steadily it will move, perfecting every detail until tomorrow evening when it will begin to speed up until Tuesday morning of next week when it will travel with throbbing open for three days.

Campaign Teams Chosen.

The work of the executive committee yesterday was to appoint teams to do the canvassing next week. There will be sixty-five men composing these teams, including the members of the executive committee. Today letters were sent out to every member of the teams telling them to gather in front of the Center Church tomorrow evening.

They will be met by the members of the Home Guard, the Boy Scouts and led by the Salvation Army band, they will march down Main street to the High school assembly hall where the monster mass meeting will be held. Each team will carry a banner inscribed with its slogan.

Rehearsal of Chorus.

Fred Bendall, in charge of the Liberty Chorus, which will sing at the mass meeting, announced today that there will be a rehearsal tonight at the Barnard school of all those chosen to sing in the chorus. There will be fifty male voices, sixty female voices and the members of the High school chorus, making in all over 150 voices.

FOOD CARD CAMPAIGN

WARMING UP NOW FAST

Hartford Reaches 21,046 and

New Haven Starts After Rival.

GRAND TOTAL RISES.

Official Count by Counties Gives Hartford 39,245—Other Results—Figures to Date.

Hartford has passed its quota of 20,000 food pledge cards and a keen rivalry is developing between it and New Haven.

Mrs. Winchester Bennett, the New Haven chairman, who is out to secure a quota of 24,000, wired state headquarters that Monday's returns of 2,378 made her grand total 20,278. "May beat Hartford yet" wired Mrs. Bennett, which prompted Robert Scoville, the federal food commissioner, who as a citizen of Salisbury is absolutely neutral between cities, to wire Mrs. Bennett congratulations on New Haven returns. Hope New Haven may yet be the banner city.

Republicans Win in Fourth Congressional District of State and in Bridgeport—"Votes for Women" in New York by Sizeable Plurality—Hylan and Rest of Democratic Ticket Sweep the Metropolis.

Clifford B. Wilson won the majority of Bridgeport for the fourth successive term, beating his opponent, W. P. Kirk, by 2,287. License was carried by 2,500.

Schuyler Merritt of Stamford was elected Congressman to succeed Ebenezer J. Hill in the Fourth Connecticut District by a plurality of 5,216 over his Democratic opponent, Lynn Wilson. His plurality in the city of Bridgeport was 2,580. Norwalk and Stamford also gave him substantial pluralities.

Clifford B. Wilson won the majority of Bridgeport for the fourth successive term, beating his opponent, W. P. Kirk, by 2,287. License was carried by 2,500.

New York, Nov. 7.—The great state of New York awoke today to find nearly 2,000,000 new voters within its borders.

Woman suffrage has won in New York, and latest indications are that it will carry by more than 80,000 votes.

The first woman suffrage convention was held in the United States.

New York is the first of the great eastern states to grant women the ballot, and having won their fight the suffragists of the Empire state now will turn their attention to a federal amendment to enfranchise women throughout the United States.

Mrs. Norman D. R. Whitehouse, chairman of the New York state woman suffrage party said today:

Leaders' Statements.

"The state woman suffrage party has leased its headquarters for another year and will join with the National Suffrage party to fight for a federal amendment which will enfranchise all of the women in the United States."

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the National Suffrage party, predicted that every woman in the country will be given the ballot within two more years.

The first effort on the part of New York women in behalf of the suffrage was made in 1853 by Susan B. Anthony and a little handful of women who invaded Albany to urge "women's rights."

In 1892 the suffragists saw a bill through the legislature which gave the women the vote for county school commissioners.

35 Counties Carried.

It was estimated from latest returns that suffrage carried between 35 and 40 counties in the state. Albany county dealt the amendment a severe blow, going against it by 2 to 1. The cities, as a whole, did better for suffrage than the country districts. Buffalo, the largest city up-state, gave the cause 6,000, though Erie county broke about even on the question.

Greater New York put the suffrage amendment over with a heavy majority. The boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx gave suffrage a majority of around 60,000, with many districts unheard from.

Hylan Wins By 148,000.

New York, Nov. 7.—Democracy's candidate, Judge John F. Hylan, today stood elected to the majority of Greater New York by the biggest plurality ever given to any man in the city's history. With only 27 election districts out of 2,068 missing, the Democratic candidate's plurality over Mayor John P. Mitchell, his nearest opponent, was 147,975. The final figures, however, will not be known until the soldier vote is counted. Previously the largest Seventy Dwellings Are To Be Completed Next Spring.

HEAD OF LYNCH COMPANY TELLS HOW IT IS DONE

New System of Building Does Not Compete With Local Contractors Or House Owners—New Families As Tenants.

An important step in the solution of the housing problem is being taken by Cheney Brothers with the cooperation of the W. G. Lynch Construction Company. This company came here with a gang of over 200 workmen about six weeks ago and now has nearly finished a boarding house for men, with 100 rooms and has under construction seventy dwelling houses all of which will be finished next spring. It is needless to say that this is quick work. It is only made possible by the comparatively recent innovation known as the industrial housing system.

Large corporations are beginning to realize that it devolves upon them not only to supply mills and machinery for their employees to work with but that they must also take the responsibility of seeing that their employees are properly housed. The rapid expansion of many of the large industrial plants since the war began has resulted in the working out of a new system of home construction which has been successful that it will in the future be permanent.

Instead of the building of a point 300 yards beyond the general site, the job is done in a large well organized construction company which turns out with great rapidity and at about thirty per cent less cost than they could be built under the old plan. Then the dwellings built in this economical way are rented to employees at a fair interest on the money invested and without any thought of speculative gain. The employee thus gets a comfortable

CHARGE OHIO MAYORS WITH COAL "ROBBERIES"

Fuel Administration Confers With State Administrator of Ohio.

R. R. TRACKS TORN UP.

Angry City Officials Act in Scores of Ohio Cities—"Wholesale Robbery."

Washington, Nov. 7.—Mayors and other municipal officials of cities and towns throughout Ohio were charged with "wholesale robbery" of coal by the fuel administration today.

Discovery of the "thefts" involving the unlawful confiscation of thousands of loaded coal cars was officially announced by Fuel Administrator Garfield, following a conference with Homer Johnson, newly appointed fuel administrator for Ohio. Attorney General Gregory will be asked to institute prosecutions against officials whose practices are believed to have been flagrant violations of federal statutes. State administrator Johnson declared that evidence he has unearthed indicates that not less than 200 cities and towns, under the direction of their leading officials, have engaged in the holding up and robbery of coal trains destined to points on the lakes and far west.

Trucks Torn Up.

Evidence laid before Administrator Garfield today showed that in scores of cities railroad tracks had been torn up, through freights had been stopped and loaded cars seized by irate officials and citizens. In

ITALIANS FIGHTING INCH BY INCH IN RETREAT; HAIG'S MEN PUSH ON

NEXT BRITISH OBJECTIVE ROULERS

Bombardment of Latter Said To Have Begun—Gains of Yesterday Being Consolidated—Fall of Passchendaele Leaves Germans Exposed to New Attack.

London, Nov. 7.—The Germans stand today with their backs to Roulers, evidently determined to make their stand at that important base until the last.

With the fall of Passchendaele there remains little or nothing to stop the Haig rush to Roulers, but five miles away.

In the opinion of British military authorities Haig now entertains Roulers as his next objective. The city is most important to the enemy as its capture would later mean a loss to the Kaiser of his chief bases for submarine operations, Ostend and Zeebrugge.

Again has the Canadian contingent covered itself with glory. Overcoming the stubborn enemy resistance these valiant troops have captured Passchendaele a point 300 yards beyond the general site of the battle.

The civic evacuation of Passchendaele took place several weeks ago. Reports from the Flanders front relating to Haig's victory include the capture of hundreds of Germans who continued through today to arrive at the prison cages.

Other Towns Captured.

With the fall of Passchendaele, the hamlets of Mosselmarkt and Goeburg also were taken from the enemy. The British official statement, after making mention of the fact that "the enemy had been ordered to hold this important position on the main ridge at all costs" adds:

"Before mid-day all our objectives had been gained and a number of prisoners taken."

Dispatches from the front today said that British long range guns already have begun the bombardment of Roulers.

WINNING OF WAR WILL DEPEND UPON WORKMEN

Howard E. Coffin, Aircraft Board Chairman, Says So—Appeals to Labor.

Washington, Nov. 7.—American workmen must protect American industries. "This is the patriotic appeal which is being made today by government officials to all American industrial workers.

Officials declare that there is no evidence of a concerted effort to hinder war work, but reports that the movement seems to be entirely the work of individuals. They declare that it is evidently the work of disloyal workmen, who are piqued either because of wages or labor conditions or because of their anti-war views. In some cases the sabotage has been linked with the activities of the I. W. W., but generally there have been no evidences of organized wrecking plans.

"There is but one solution," said Howard E. Coffin, chairman of the aircraft production board today.

"The American workmen must protect the American industries. One loyal workman can check the efforts of a disloyal workman. Every workman knows what is going on about him. No truly American industrial worker can afford to protect a friend, who has some imaginary grievance. It is up to the working man to stop this sort of thing. Once again it is forced home that the workingman is a real and vital factor in this war—we must have his loyal support to win."

K. of C. War Fund Today Is OVER THE TOP

FULL AMOUNT RAISED FOR K. OF C. WAR FUND

Maximum of $2,000 Is More Than Reached and the Campaign Closed.

KNIGHTS HIGHLY PLEASED

Thankful to All Contributors and Enthusiastic in Praise of Y. M. C. A. Cooperation.

The Knights of Columbus war fund campaign is over. The general amount of $2,000 was raised.

As a result of the $2,000 maximum which the Knights were endeavoring to raise in town with Y. M. C. A. cooperation has been raised, with some to spare. At a meeting of the joint committee in charge of the campaign Tuesday evening the returns were checked, and the amount on hand, combined with the contributions made to Treasurer P. J. O'Leary today, makes the total for the fund $2,025.00.

The list published in The Evening Herald today is the last which will be printed in connection with the K. of C. fund, as this campaign has been closed. However, it is probable that some donations will be received tomorrow or later and they will of course be added to the fund but the acknowledgment will be made by letter from the committee direct to the contributor.

Over 500 Contributors.

The cordial reception given by the public to the plan to raise this fund for army recreation work for the American soldiers at the various national encampments and abroad was apparent from the beginning. Over 500 contributors took part in subscribing the total. Among the

COAL SHORTAGE DUE CHIEFLY TO HOARDING

Agents of Fuel Administration Tell Garfield So—Probe by Latter Likely.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Hoarding of coal by industrial concerns and big manufacturing plants is the chief cause of the existing fuel shortage in hundreds of cities and towns, field agents of the fuel administration reported today. As a remedy for this condition, Fuel Administrator Garfield discussed with his associates the question of suspending coal shipments to such plants as have stored away abnormal amounts, in order to clear the way for the small consumer.

Administrator Garfield declared his investigation would be pursued vigorously in all localities to determine the amounts of coal stored beyond the immediate needs of the purchasers. Re-distribution of excessive stores of coal has been considered by Administrator Garfield as a possibility, but today he felt that this would not have to be resorted to if both shippers and large consumers co-operate loyally with the government in its effort to meet the problem.

CADORNA NOW AT THE LIVENZA

Territory Between Tagliamento and Piave Rivers Is Being Stubbornly Contested By Retreating Armies—Italians Expected to Make Another Stand Soon.

Rome, Nov. 7.—General Cadorna's retreating Italian army is stubbornly contesting every foot of ground as it nears the Piave river, where the crucial battle with the German forces is believed inevitable.

The Italian cavalry covering the rear of the retreat is marshalling its skill and experience against overwhelming odds. The cavalry is succeeding in the Italian plan—a play for time.

The war office announced today that the Italian line had withdrawn to the Livensa river in good order. The statement adds that enemy bridges over the Tagliamento river were bombed.

The Livensa river is between the Tagliamento and Piave rivers, practically paralleling both streams from the source to the sea.

It is at this point where military experts predict that General Cadorna plans another stand before making his most powerful resistance at the Piave. He will do this, experts say, to play for time in which to fully fortify himself at the Piave.

The intervening space between the Tagliamento and the Livensa rivers is referred to as "the Holland of Italy." The country is a network of drains and canals, causing slow progress by ponderous armies.

SUBMARINE WARFARE IS INTENSIFYING

Vice Admiral Sims Reports On Sinking of Patrol Boat Alcedo.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The sinking of the American patrol boat Alcedo by a German submarine early Monday morning with the loss of one officer and 20 enlisted men was received by the Navy Department with deep regret, but not with surprise. The daily reports sent to the department by Vice Admiral Sims have led officials here to believe that German submarine warfare was more intensive than ever before.

Full information has been laid before the department by Vice Admiral Sims, with the result that every war vessel, suitable to battle with the submarine, is being added to the American over-seas forces as speedily as they can be done. Sims has also reported to the department on the action of the American sea fighters and their general conduct, which has been viewed with admiration by the British and French.

Lieutenant Melvin.

Lieutenant John T. Melvin, executive officer of the Alcedo, son of Bishop Melvin, of Alabama, was a graduate of the United States naval academy, in the class of 1911. He served in the navy until 1915 when he resigned to enter the employ of the Lake Torpedo Boat Company, Bridgeport, Conn. He re-enlisted in the navy February 15, 1917, and was commissioned a Lieutenant, Junior grade, which rank he held when he resigned.

The war has undoubtedly brought some comparisons, but they all have been set at naught by the deluge of "war poetry" that has swamped the newspaper waste-baskets.—Greenwich News and Graphic.

CAT HELPS FIND THE LEAK.

Ingenious Plumber Demonstrates Fe-line, With Aid of Catnip, Is Worth Having Around.

"There are more ways than one to kill a cat," says an old proverb, and "There are more ways than one to use a cat," is the new reading. Here is an illustration:

A plumber was called upon to locate a supposed leak in a ten-story tenement house. After a day's cogitation and sundry profitless soundings and sniffings, he finally hit upon a plan. He went to a drug store and bought 10 cents' worth of fluid extract of valerian, commonly called catnip. Then he took the elevator to the top floor and poured the valerian diluted with water down the drain. Half an hour later he took a cat and visited each floor in turn. The cat exhibited no interest until a room in the seventh story was reached. Then, with a bound, it sprang from the plumber's arms and began to paw the wall, meowing loudly. A hole was made in the wall, and there, sure enough, was the leak.

That plumber deserves to make a fortune from his ingenuity.

FOLLY OF WORRYING.

Business Man Offers Some Good Advice.

A retired business man now living in a soldier's home writes the following letter to a friend in the dry goods market, and its homely philosophy and confidence will be found refreshing:

"Since I saw you I have entered my 77th year. My experience has taught me the folly of worrying over events I cannot control. I have been allowed to live long. My lines are cast in pleasant places, and that is more than many a multi-millionaire can truly say. I have little sympathy for people who mourn their former prosperity, just making themselves miserable and their hearers uncomfortable.

"My five months' captivity in a rebel prison showed me how little, after all, a person requires to be perfectly happy and contented. One good square meal to the prisoners would have converted the prison yard into a picnic grove. . . . Even if you must meet with ingratitude, your kind deed is recorded somewhere and will be remembered. I must stop prosing. Perhaps you will think I am getting into my dotage."

First Moving Pictures.

Moving pictures of a kind have been known for a long time, as far back, in fact, as the beginning of the eighteenth century, but the prototype of the modern picture was the electrically controlled camera with which Edward Muybridge took photographs of the horse Occident owned by Leland Stanford, at that time governor of California. He went to England and there perfected a snapshot machine that worked automatically. Then, in 1893 Thomas A. Edison perfected his kinoscope and the advance along these lines has been continuous ever since.

OUTLAW BOWLING LEAGUE.

Good Scores and Poor Ones Make Games Interesting Last Night.

Good scores and poor ones balanced so evenly at the weekly session of the Outlaw league bowlers at the Center alleys last evening that they made the games most interesting. The star bowlers rolled like amateurs and the average bowlers made topnotch scores. The Eagles took three straight from the Parrots and the Robins defeated the Owls two out of three. Among the individual bowlers Clarence Wilson carried off both single and three string honors with scores of 105 and 288 respectively.

50,000 Licenses Sent Out to Dealers In All Parts of the Country.

Washington, Nov. 7.—More than 50,000 food handlers who come under the license system inaugurated under a proclamation of the President on November 1 have failed to apply to the food administration for licenses and many find themselves in trading difficulties.

Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover today announced that stern measures will be invoked against dealers who try to evade the license system. He issued a warning to his field agents in all states that unless those who are amenable to the provisions of the food control act file their applications at once, such concerns will be "blacklisted."

All state food administrators were reminded of the regulation which stipulates that:

WHAT'S WHAT AND WHO'S WHO IN MANCHESTER MOVIE HOUSES

AT THE PARK.

The cold stretches of the Yukon trail form much of the background of "The Great White Trail" which opens a two days' engagement at the Park theater tonight. The story is that of a man and wife and baby separated for years through misunderstanding, finally to be reunited in the Arctic through the agency of a pair of baby shoes.

But to tell that story thousands of feet of celluloid must pass over the sprocket wheel of the projector. Sensational action galore punctuates the scenes. Doris Kenyon, the youthful star who came into prominence when "The Empress" was shown, plays the leading role in the feature tonight. She is supported by an all star cast of Broadway favorites.

When one talks about the old you that there was no rush at all. There was mighty slow progress made towards the field of wealth. Every man must carry his own burden—and there was only one way to get this over the mountains. That was to carry as much as possible up a steep incline, slide down the incline, get another load and continue this until his whole outfit had been taken to the summit of the pass. And in the portrayal of this, the characters take on the appearance of great schoolboys as they slide down the long passes toward the bottom and the upward trudge again.

The play will be shown again tomorrow, and on Friday, besides a big bill, the management will distribute twenty dollars in gold as a prosperity bonus.

The Italian army seems to have gone roaming too far from Rome.—Springfield Daily News.

AT THE CIRCLE.

The screen production of Winston Churchill's well known novel, "The Crisis," which was shown at the Circle yesterday and will be repeated today, was one of the notable events of the season. Of absorbing interest as a portrayal of Civil War days, it had a further appeal in the close resemblance of the scenes attending that crisis to those of the present day. The same heart throbs at parting, the same sufferings in battle-field and hospital, the same romances attend this war that were associated with the Civil War. In last night's production the parts were taken by actors of remarkable capability and the scenes were skillfully staged. The unfolding of the story occupied three solid hours but it held the absorbed interest of large houses at both performances. Those who saw the production yesterday are commending it to their friends and there is sure to be another capacity house tonight.

Tomorrow "The Honor System", the marvel of the twentieth century and considered one of the greatest screen attractions ever produced, comes to the Circle for a two day engagement direct from its New York run. The production is in ten reels and after seeing it one finds himself wishing that it were twenty. "The Honor System" is basically the picturization of the grief of millions—a great throbbing drama of a thousand thrills. It is a profoundly impressive classic that rises peak high above any play that has ever been put on the screen. The big treatment in the big theme, has made it the play of the people and, the greatest human story ever told.

Viewpoint of Undergraduate.

I find that there is a cause for the lack of individuality in undergraduate themes, a cause other than the mere absence of ideas in undergraduates. It may be traced even to the door of classrooms and to the chairs of college professors. For, in college, literature is not a thing of the spirit, but of the mind and you will encounter above the door of the English department the scholar's first and last commandment: "Beware of your emotions." There is no escape for those who enter, so have done with your adolescence, which has given you to understand beauty and freshness of phrase. You are face to face now with form, with technique and with the history of literature.—Atlantic.

TWICE PROVEN

If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, tired, dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's South Manchester evidence—doubly proven.

Alex Aitken, 49 Madison St., says: "I had such severe pains through my loins I could hardly get around. My back tired easily and at night I was restless. I found no relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me at once and finally rid me of the attack." (Statement given Jan. 15, 1906.)

STILL PRAISES DOAN'S

On May 2, 1916, Mr. Aitken said: "I am still as great a friend to Doan's Kidney Pills as when I first recommended them some years ago. Since then I have told many people about them."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Aitken had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo N. Y.

Whale Made Waves Quiet.

The use of oil to calm troubled seas was illustrated in an unusual way to a skipper who recently arrived from a southern port. Every morning he has dripped oil from his plunging bows in stormy weather to smooth down invading crests knows how effective the trick is when done properly.

This particular skipper sighted a dead whale, which at first glance seemed to be a schooner bottom up, when he was about 250 miles east of the Virginia coast. There was a stiff wind from north-northwest which kicked up a crested sea, but there was no disturbance within a mile to the northward of the whale. The skipper said in his report to the local hydrographic office that this mile was "smooth as glass," or "like a ballroom floor," due to the effect of the oil oozing from the carcass of the whale and borne on a half-knot current setting to the northwest.

EULOGIZES THE WRONG DOG.

Eloquence of Tactful Attorney Credited to Newspaper Story and He Loses His Case.

An old man was arrested for beating his wife. Application was made to have him put under a peace bond. Thinking the case too small for him to bother with, relates Case and Comment, the county attorney asked Judge Albert D. Norton, then a young lawyer, to appear for the state at the trial. An attorney from Macon—a man who had quite a reputation as a "pelader"—went over to defend the old man. Curled in front of the defendant was a yellow dog. Vest's "Eulogy of the Dog" had recently appeared in some paper. It was not nearly so familiar then as it has since become. When the orator from Macon saw the yellow dog at the old man's feet he recalled Senator Vest's speech, and was alive to the opportunity for an effective appeal to the jury.

"Gentlemen," and he indicated the mongrel, "when all other friends desert the dog remains. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and when death takes the master in his embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death!"

So well was it delivered some of the jurymen cried. All looked toward the aged defendant sympathetically. It is said that even the dog's eyes were moist. It was pretty clear the defendant's lawyer had things coming his way; but Norton had the windup, and during the noon recess he hunted up a paper which had the dog speech in it. This he produced and read to the jury in the afternoon, word for word as opposing counsel recited, and which the jury thought was original. "You see, gentlemen of the jury," said Norton, "Senator Vest was talking about another dog altogether. He never heard of this yellow cur!" The jury found the defendant guilty.

ARCTIC RELICS ARE FOUND.

Records Left by Explorers More Than Fifty Years Ago Brought Back by Crocker Land Expedition.

Records left by various explorers in the frozen North, some of them more than half a century old, brought back by Donald B. MacMillan, head of the Crocker Land expedition, who recently returned, are on exhibition in the American Museum of Natural History in New York. Among the records is a silk lining of a cap worn by Dr. Elisha Kent Kane, the American explorer, left by him at Rensselaer Harbor in 1853. It is marked with a leaden bullet "O. K." There is also a paper containing a record of Dr. Kane's life in the North, cut with a knife, owing to a scarcity of writing materials.

There are also records left by Rear Admiral Peary, including a bit of an American flag, left in 1906 at the top of the Thomas Hubbard. A packet of letters left in a cache at Cape Isabella in 1876 by Capt. Allan Young for Sir George Nares' expedition was also found by MacMillan. The Nares party left its mark only 20 feet from the cache where the letters were found, but departed without discovering them.

TOOMBS UTTERS ONE ERROR.

Noted for Accuracy, Famous Publicist Makes Mistake in Georgia Constitutional Convention.

In the Georgia constitutional convention of 1877 so usually accurate a publicist as General Robert Toombs uttered a singular error. He was contending in a speech for enough courts in Georgia to assure speedy justice and at one point in the debate he said:

"I only desire to say one word. Six hundred and fifty years ago our rude ancestors met upon a plain at Runnede and established a great system of judiciary in one line of bad Latin. They made King John say, 'We will sell to none, we will deny to none, we will delay to none, right and justice, and we must make as many courts as are necessary to carry out those grand utterances.'"

Actually there is no "plain" at Runnede, as those who have visited the historic locality know. Anciently there was a running-mede, or meadow, on the Middlesex shore of the Thames, where races were pulled off. Possibly the mighty barons meadow, but history holds fast that the Magna Charta was signed on an island off shore, nearer the Surrey bank, and which has ever since been known as Charter Island. In London in 1909 there was a sale of the island and the wonder was voiced in the public press why the government did not purchase it and erect upon it some suitable memorial.

RATS AND MICE.

Rats and mice are among the worst animal pests in the world, according to biologists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

From their home among filth they visit dwellings and storerooms to pollute and destroy human food.

The rat carries bubonic plague and many other diseases fatal to man and has no doubt been responsible for more untimely deaths among human beings than all wars of history.

In the United States rats and mice destroy each year in homes, in factories, stores and warehouses, in cars and on ships, crops, poultry and other property valued at more than $200,000,000—an amount equivalent to the gross earnings of an army of 200,000 men.

Grain, eaten and wasted by rats and mice on many farms, would pay all the farmer's taxes.

Rats and mice breed from 6 to 10 times a year, producing their destructive kind at an alarming rate.

They are parasites without a single redeeming characteristic.

Many Great Men Die Young.

The question is often asked, why is it difficult to say, people differ so much. Most great men have died comparatively young. Alexander the Great died at thirty-two, having conquered practically the whole world of his day; Julius Caesar was dead at fifty-five. Napoleon died at fifty-two. Oliver Cromwell at fifty-nine. Shakespeare at fifty-two. Charles Dickens at fifty-eight. Nearly all the men who made the French Revolution were dead before they were fifty; many of them before they were forty. Robespierre was only thirty-six when he died, Desmoulin's thirty-four. Danton thirty-five, and Mirabeau forty-two.

THE VIGILANTES

The following articles are written by the Vigilantes. Who are the Vigilantes? The Vigilantes is an organization of America's brainiest men and women, who receive fabulous prices for their contributions to magazines. When war was declared with Germany they banded together and decided to use their pens, absolutely free to the publishers, "to help make the world safe for democracy."

WHERE ARE THE SOCIALISTS?

By John Erskine, of The Vigilantes.

Why have so many of the socialists in the United States deserted their socialistic ideas? For years they have preached the doctrine of a collective society, not always with success, but always, as we thought, with sincerity. Now that the war has brought home even to conservative minds the advantages of their theories, loyal citizens everywhere see that the country must act as a state, not as a collection of individuals; they see also—that what may prove a more important vision—that even aging these symptoms while still remaining in the socialist party. But the socialist of whom we hear most now-a-days is primarily opposed to a war with Germany, and in order to make his opposition effective he is sacrificing even his socialism—he is behaving frankly as an anarchist. He knows that if war must be waged, it is most effectively waged under the system of universal service; but since he could not prevent this war, he seems to be doing what he can to see that we do not wage it effectively. He knows that co-operation between labor and capital, between railroads and the government, between producers and food consumers is a sign of increased intelligence and increased efficiency in the state; therefore he refuses his aid to any such social-minded progress.

If he no longer is loyal to his own ideals, to what or to whom is he loyal?

THE ELECTIONS.
 The elections in the north-eastern corner of the Union provide few surprises. The victory of the Republican ticket and the constitutional amendments in the Bay State; the election of the Tammany candidates in New York City; and Schuyler Merritt's conquest as congressman in the fourth district to succeed Ebenezer J. Hill were all anticipated. Mr. Merritt's candidacy was without divided backing, and Mr. Roosevelt's stumping for him at the 11th hour undoubtedly helped. His plurality over Lynn Wilson was 5,216.

The suffragists seem to have it in New York State at this writing, although the result may possibly be so close as not to be ascertained for a few days. A prediction of a 40,000 plurality was made as the morning newspapers were going to press, on the basis of the returns already in. Tammany has always opposed suffrage, although Judge Hylan, the mayoralty candidate, was for it like all three of his opponents, as a wise compromise and vote-getter. This suffrage victory, if it materializes, is the chief surprise of the elections in the north-east.

Prohibition led in Ohio for a time, but at latest reports the "wets" were slowly overcoming the "dry" plurality. A referendum on the Presidential suffrage bill was also voted upon. Suffrage probably was beaten.

The carrying of all of the constitutional amendments in Massachusetts, including the anti-aid by about 70,000 and the town trading by about 200,000, were important and interesting features of the election in the neighboring state. The latter amendment is a radical departure from the Bay State's staid custom in the past, and means practically a measure of town socialism. Like the amendment in legislation it is an outgrowth very largely of war conditions. The same may be said of the great strength of Hillquit in New York City, who ran only 10,000 behind Mitchell, the fusion candidate, who in turn was vanquished by Judge Hylan, the Tammany candidate, by about 143,000. The statement of the Tammany leader, Charles F. Murphy, that "it is refreshing to all of us to know that in the candidacy of Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Hylan and Mr. Bennett, every voter had the pleasant opportunity of voting for a loyal American citizen" is significant in its omission of Hillquit's name. The Socialist gain in the metropolis was not surprising in view of the pronounced pro-German sentiment of the great East Side, the most thickly settled part of the city, a sentiment which actually drove a paper like the pro-allies Socialist Wahrheit out of business.

The union of the remnant of the Progressive party in Massachusetts with the Democrats availed little or not at all, judging by the pluralities of McCall and Coolidge over Mansfield and Hale, the latter a Progressive. Coolidge's plurality ran about 12,000 ahead of that of McCall.

THE TREATY WITH JAPAN.
 The treaty concluded with Japan regarding China, the official terms of which the Evening Herald published yesterday, may be nine-tenths United States and Nippon and one-tenth China, but generally speaking it is a wise convention. It does almost as much to affirm and promote cordial relations between the two countries on opposite sides of the Pacific as it does to establish, so far as the act of two of the six great powers can, the vexed, changing status of China. China's territorial integrity and the "open door" policy of foreign trade with it in themselves cover most of what could be desired concerning the new republic's place among nations.

It ought to be observed here that China's situation has been altered a good deal by events pertaining to the war. Beyond question it was America's declaration of a state of war against Germany that led China to a similar declaration, her friendship for the United States over the boxer indemnity exemption outweighing her remaining resentment against Great Britain over the opium traffic, and inexpediency also dictating alignment with the stronger Allies and their allies. But China's declaration subtracted at one fell swoop Germany's share in the Boxer indemnity, amounting to perhaps $110,000,000 and gave her a seat at the council board of nations. Japan, it is true, obtained Kiaochow, the port which Germany fortified as the center of her encroachments upon Chinese territory, but Japan herself is now checked from unreasonable aggrandizement.

The treaty recognizes the special interests of Japan in China, which all must admit. We quote from Secretary of State Lansing's statement, affirmed by Viscount Ishii: "The governments . . . recognize that territorial proximity creates special relations between countries, and, consequently, the . . . United States recognizes that Japan has special interests in China."

"The territorial sovereignty of China, nevertheless, remains unimpaired, and the United States has every confidence . . . the Japanese government . . . has no desire to discriminate against the trade of other nations or to disregard the commercial rights heretofore granted by China in treaties with other powers."

"The governments . . . deny they have any purpose to infringe in any way upon the independence or territorial integrity of China, and they declare they always will adhere to the principle of the 'open door.'"

"They mutually declare they are opposed to the acquisition by any government of any special rights or privileges that would affect the independence or territorial integrity of China."

The stock market offers a lot of glib edged bargains these days, but few persons have any ready money to invest. In fact, the scarcity of buyers is the reason for the low prices.

The principality of Monaco, the republic of Santo Domingo, and Liberia are among the countries which have not yet sent missions to the United States. But give them time; they'll get the fashion yet.

Mr. Murphy's present private secretary talks very well, judging by the Tammany head's latest statement.

Clifford B. Wilson, Republican mayor of Bridgeport, has such a mayoralty habit that he can't break it. The electorate of the munitions city seem to have a habit which chimes well with that of the candidate. His Democratic opponent, W. P. Kirk, didn't carry a district. Some elections are such a waste of time!

Now that the ladies of New York seem to have the vote, the elections in the Empire state will proceed as they always have done. Anticipation is so much more delightful than realization. Ask Colorado.

Could anybody imagine "Chin-chinnati," Cleveland, and the rest of Ohio "dry"? We apprehend that such a person would be incorrect in his surmise, as Mr. Dickens would say.

What Roosevelt Said.
 In touching on the coming Y. M. C. A. campaign, Theodore Roosevelt in his speech in Hartford on November 2, said:
 "Then back up the Red Cross; back up the Y. M. C. A. Those organizations, the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross, they are not only going to care for the wounded men, but they care for the souls and the bodies of the fighting men. You put men in camp and train them dreading in the work from month to month. They must have some recreation; they must have some time for enjoyment and rest. If you do not give them healthy amusement, you are, yourselves, to blame if they take amusement that is not healthy. Back up the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross. Back them up with money. Back them up with personal service."
 "Now, gentlemen, do not let anyone misunderstand me and I think I have made it so clear that the misunderstanding must be willful—I cannot bear too emphatic testimony to the admirable work done by the Y. M. C. A. and by the Red Cross. It will be a criminal thing if we do not back them up, both of them, to the very limit of their needs and opportunities and of our capacities."

Routine Matters.
 A few of these bills were not signed until the evening meeting. There were a few corrections which were necessary. The building inspector's report was read and accepted. It is found in another part of the paper. The improvement of conditions along the newly built sidewalk on Main street between Birch and Bissell streets caused a great deal of discussion. An agreement was drawn up by the town council, was read and it was not decided to accept the agreement. It was the general opinion of the board that the plan which was suggested at a previous meeting should be carried out. A bill will be made on the town property and then the embankment will be graded back onto the lands of the property owners. The hedge will be planted along the sidewalk to protect pedestrians. This will not affect the question of damages which will follow later.

W. S. Hyde, lawyer for the property owners wished to end the controversy but the selectmen will hold off for a time. The placing of poles in the sidewalk gave the board something to talk about. No action was taken however.

The bonds of Constables Gordon, Campbell and Glenney were accepted. John Stone again applied for the job of fire warden and special constable. The matter was tabled. The Connecticut company communicated with the board and promised to patch up the sidewalk in front of Hibbard's store on North Main street which was torn up when a pole was removed.

The trees on Spruce street were discussed. It was the opinion of the board to let the tree warden have his way although no vote was taken and it was not decided to carry the matter further.

Necessary repairs were reported on North Elm street. The need of lights on Arch and Cedar streets between Ridge and Walnut was reported by the lighting committee. This matter was tabled. Necessary lights were reported on Spring street. The eastern end of the street has no lights and a number of people use the street going to work. This was tabled until further information can be obtained.

It was decided to borrow $30,000. The state and C. N. G. tax is due and this calls for $26,000. It was necessary to borrow money in order to pay the tax.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.
 Mostly Routine Matters Took Up the Evening Session.

There was but one man to be heard at the public meeting of the selectmen last night. That was Thomas Hunter. He appeared to ask the board to look over Edgerton street and see if a stone gutter might not be built on the lower end of the street. The rain washes the sidewalk out in front of his house and a stone gutter is necessary. The selectmen promised to go down and investigate.

There are three hydrants at the north end which are troublesome. They are on Main street near Pine Hill street, on Woodbridge street east of the Beef Box and on Oakland street near Edward street. The first one is in the middle of the walk and the other two are so low that they can be hardly seen and are dangerous to the pedestrians. The Manchester Water company was ordered to have these hydrants removed.

It seems that the Center Spring woods will at last be transformed into a park. James Johnston, Aaron Johnson and A. E. Bowers were named a committee to act with the superintendent of parks, H. O. Bowers, to get things started.

Property owners on Homestead Park want water and the water company refuses to put in the pipes until a grade has been established. This was referred to the highway committee. The East Cemetery Committee recommended the names of Joseph Albiston and Ralph Cone for Superintendent and Sexton of the East cemetery respectively. This matter was tabled. The highway committee was instructed to confer with the East Cemetery committee regarding these appointments. The repairing of walks on Spruce street in front of E. E. Scranton's store was referred to the highway committee with power. Henry Pennery, who is now being cared for by Mrs. Dunn of Woodbridge street, is to be taken to the State Tuberculosis Hospital at Norwich. Pennery's father has deserted him and his mother is dead. The selectmen are on the lookout for the father and he will be forced to pay the bill if he can be found.

REV. R. S. MOORE SPEAKS ON INTERESTING SUBJECT

"In Christ's Stead" was both the text and the subject of the sermon by Rev. R. S. Moore at the revival meetings in the South Methodist church last night. In developing his sermon, Mr. Moore said:
 "It makes a difference who you are and whom you represent. A painting represents a Scottish regiment moving toward the battle of Waterloo. Inevitably it is written on the face of every soldier and the statement on the bottom of the picture is 'Scotland forever.' They were nerved with a great determination because they were that day representing Scotland. It is a great thing for a man to feel that he is the visible representative of the British Empire. In France today there are three dead men who represent us. When a man feels that back of him stands his country he will not flinch before death.

"The Christian man is the world in place of Jesus Christ. As he lives, so to a degree Christ lives in the place of his imitation. As he stands or falls, Christ stands or falls. As he fails or succeeds, Christ fails or succeeds. He has been touched with the cross which is the knitting rod of Christ. When this is true, what place can there be for cowardice, meanness, selfishness in life? What excuse is there for anything else than a life filled with the joy of a supreme purpose to take its way across the field of life with the Lord who conquers and must forever conquer? What place for contempt, hate, envy can there be in the heart of him who has rested his head on the breast of the Lord?"

"When a courtier of Spain spat in the face of an ambassador from Great Britain, the Englishman with quiet dignity wiped his face and said, 'England will make answer to this.' When a man feels back of him is the kingdom and splendor of God, the night and the majesty of the Eternal, nothing can daunt him.

"As a boy, you put on the coat of a large boy. Something of the spirit of that bigger boy came to you. We are called to put on Christ. Putting on Christ means a new spirit so that where a man speaks Christ speaks; where a man acts, Christ acts. We are not called to our godliness, to small notions, to carping criticism, but to stand as Christ before men, to walk up Calvary for Him. That is not easy, but the world goes upward only as men go up Calvary.

"Men whine about their lack of opportunities. But if a man is not living in the place of Christ where he is, he would not do it anywhere. If you are not true in the place where you live, you would be false anywhere."

At 12.40 today a meeting at Cheney Brothers' mills was addressed by District Superintendent George G. Scrivener. This afternoon Mr. Moore spoke to a large company of children in the church vestry. To-night Mr. Moore will preach. The noon meeting will be addressed by Mr. Moore tomorrow and by Mr. Withee on Friday.

Another look at the Barnard Lincoln convinces us of the hopelessness of that proposition. Not since the fall of Troy could a man have moved with feet like those, and it is of a president of the United States who looked like a scare-crow at prayer.—New London Day.

This photograph of Essad Pasha, ruler of Albania and leader of the Albanian troops, was made recently when he paid a visit to General Sarrafi, commander of the allied troops in the Balkans. Essad Pasha's army will probably join the Greek army for a grand drive into Bulgaria.

BRITISH CAVALRY FOLLOWING UP THE GERMANS AS THEY RETREAT THROUGH RUINED VILLAGES

Cavalry, which for the greater part of this war was little used, is now coming into its own. The British, who for the most part had dismounted their cavalry regiments and used the men as infantry to man the trenches, are once again using mounted men at the front. The retreat of the Germans before the advancing allied forces has given the cavalry its opportunity to prove its worth for pursuing troops in retreat. This British official photograph, taken on the western front in France, shows a body of British cavalry passing through a ruined village during the great British push against the Teuton lines.

AMERICA WEARS CROWN.

The Center of Fashion Has Shifted From Paris to New York.

When the news of the severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany came out in the newspapers on the streets of Paris, two designers of women's clothes were looting over their afternoon cups in a Paris restaurant. One was a Frenchman. He was a well-known "creator" of a famous dress-making house on the Rue de la Paix. The other was one of the foremost American designers, not well known or famous. They had paid a few francs for their tea and pasties and had given the waiter as much more for the privilege of sitting there, talking and watching the throng. The American sketched scratchily when some costume feature crossed his vision.

The waiter brought them a copy of the "extra" that was being shouted under the windows. The Frenchman read the news soberly and without comment. He handed it to the American and watched his face.

"That means war between the United States and Germany," said the American designer.

"War, maybe. But what else?" The Frenchman's tone was a little impatient. He narrowed his eyes searchingly. The afternoon's talk between the two had not been centered upon war, but upon progress in the fashion world, designing in particular. He continued:

"Wake up! For heaven's sake, don't you see what this means to you? The opportunity for America. Don't you see? It means war, perhaps, but it means money. Money and more money for you. You folks are blind. I know what this means for us. Couturiers down to the bottom. Market shot to pieces. Work twice as hard after the war to pick it up. Or, if you fellows see a yard ahead of your nose, find ourselves after the war—"

The Frenchmen were quick to realize the unprecedented situation that now exists in America with respect to the business of making women's clothes. America has been the great rival of France for this industrial prestige for years, and from New York the rival of Paris.—From "War, Women and Clothes," by Elizabeth Minor King, in the Scribner.

HELP HERBERT HOOVER

In Europe fines up to $500 are levied on persons who throw away stale bread.

Help Herbert Hoover!
The success of food conservation in American homes depends entirely upon voluntary action.

Help Herbert Hoover!
Our allies are dependent on us for food because the route to North America is the shortest and the safest.

Help Herbert Hoover!
Scarcity of ocean-going ships makes it important for us to export foods of concentrated value, such as meats, sugar, wheat, condensed milk and fats.

Help Herbert Hoover!
The success of the Allies will depend largely on winning the war against food waste in this country. It is now being waged in 22,000,000 American kitchens. Are you winning yours?

Help Herbert Hoover!
The people of the United States consume double the amount of fatty food needed for proper nutrition. Our European allies are suffering privations from lack of sufficient fat in their diet.

Help Herbert Hoover!
The war in Europe is a great cooperative effort of democracy to resist autocracy. Democracy must win, but it can win only if all the people help by conserving meat, wheat, sugar and fats.

Help Herbert Hoover!

Colorado Was Not Red.

It was William's first trip to Colorado. Everyone was marveling at the wonderful scenery but the little chap, who seemed troubled at it all. "What's the matter, don't you like the mountains?" asked his mother. "Oh, yes, replied the boy, "but on my map Colorado is red."

EVEN KIDDIES MAY HELP UNCLE SAM THESE DAYS

To Be Truly Patriotic They Should Eat Less Candy From Now On.

Hartford, Nov. 7.—Whether their elders realize it or not, the children of Connecticut, at least all those who are of school age, are fully aware that their country is at war. They have been told that if they want to be truly patriotic they must eat less candy, and have even been asked to prove their patriotism by doing without candy altogether until Christmas, a sacrifice as great for them as any their elders have yet been called upon to make. But reports made by teachers and others who are urging this conservation movement show that many children are displaying as loyal a spirit as the grown-ups in making sacrifices for the nation.

The "No Candy Till Christmas" campaign is being pushed by the committee on food supply of the Connecticut State Council of Defense with the cooperation of the Council's committee on woman's activities. A circular issued by the United States Food Administration and signed by Miss M. Estella Sprague, head of the home economics department of the woman's committee, is being posted in schools and read to classes of children. It says:

How Children Can Help.
Mr. Hoover has asked us to use less sugar or the French people will have to be entirely without it for two months.

The soldiers need sugar for it gives them strength to fight. It also helps keep them warm, for it is a fuel food, you know.

The children of France also need sugar as well as you do. You can get all you need from fruits, and from the cake and desserts which your mother makes, and you can save by going without extra sugar in the way of candy.

Eat honey, syrup, maple sugar and marmalades, and save sugar as your part of helping to win the war.

Don't pile sugar on cereal. You will be surprised how good it tastes with a little salt.

No candy till Christmas! Let us show what Connecticut boys and girls can do.

HYLAN IS NEW YORK MAYOR BY 148,000

plurality ever given a candidate was four years ago, when Mitchel carried the city by 121,209.

Judge Hylan swept the entire Democratic ticket into office with him.

The Democrats have complete control of the board of estimates and apportionment, in which the actual administration of the city government is invested.

Hillquit Strong.
The strong race made by Morris Hillquit, Socialist, who ran on an anti-war platform, was one of the big features of the election. With full count Hillquit polled 142,178 as against 149,307 for Mitchel, and 53,678 for William M. Bennett, the Republican candidate.

Hillquit carried 12 of the city's 62 assembly districts as against the eight which went for Mitchel and 42 for Hylan. Bennett did not carry any.

Hillquit was particularly strong in the lower East Side of Manhattan, some parts of the Bronx and the Williamsburg and Brownsville districts of Brooklyn.

CHARGES WHOLESALE COAL CONFISCATION

some cities loaded coal cars were taken from sidings.

Most of the stolen coal was on its way to Minnesota, the Peninsula of Michigan, northern Wisconsin and the Dakotas. The government recently authorized rush shipments to the northwest in order to provision those states for the winter before winter comes and ice shuts down lake traffic.

"The thefts have been directed by mayors and city officials of towns which have been allowed only enough coal to meet their immediate needs and where the people have become restive from seeing hundreds of coal trains going through the state headed for lake ports and the northwest," said the fuel administration's announcement.

Hartford 21,046.
At the counting of the state headquarters at noon today it was announced that Hartford was now credited with the very gratifying total of 21,046, the goal of 20,000 having been passed about three o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Although the cards in today's mail sacks have not yet been counted they were estimated to be about 8,000 which, added to the Monday night grand total of 131,755 approximates 140,000.

As has been wired to Washington for the last several days Connecticut is certain to pass the 150,000 mark and it is now merely a question of how close the final total will run to the goal of 200,000 cards. New Haven was today sent 2,500 cards in the Jewish language and 1,000 cards in the Hungarian. Bridgeport 2,000 Jewish and 1,000 Hungarian, Stamford 500 Jewish and another 100 Jewish were distributed around this city.

Official Count.
As of Tuesday evening the official count of cards by counties is as follows:
Hartford 39,245
New Haven 31,145
New London 6,438
Fairfield 36,297
Hitchfield 7,030
Windham 4,021
Middlesex 6,412
Tolland 1,067
Hartford in Litchfield county and Marlborough in Hartford county are not credited with a single card at headquarters and three Litchfield county towns, Goshen, Morris and Roxbury have one each.

WANT HIGHER FREIGHT RATE ON SUGAR.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Principal trunk line railroads operating east of the Mississippi river asked the Interstate commerce commission for a 20 per cent. increase in freight rates on sugar from New York and other eastern terminals and from New Orleans to the principal interior consuming points.

JAPAN'S TRADE VASTLY MULTIPLIES

Washington, Nov. 7.—As an example of what Japan has been doing to extend her trade, the statistics of the department of commerce are illuminating. In the period between 1913 and 1916 England's trade with Russia was multiplied fourfold. In that period American trade with Russia was multiplied sixfold. In the same period Japan's trade with Russia was multiplied seventy-fold.

The figures as to Russia are not unique. Japan has multiplied her trade with nearly every trading nation in the world. Her sales to the United States have become so great that this country is paying out gold—more than $50,000,000 since last January—in addition to the large quantity of goods shipped to Japan.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS CONVENE.

New Haven, Nov. 7.—Sunday school workers from all parts of the state gathered here today for the opening session of the state Sunday school convention. President Robert Darling presided at the morning session, which was featured by an address by W. C. Pearce, on "The Sunday School and the Nation." This afternoon's session opened with departmental institutes, followed by general meetings with addresses by Walter A. Snow, on "The Church School," Wallace I. Woodin, on "The Library, its interest in religious education" and by Rev. Henry Hallam Tweedy. The convention will continue through Friday.

JAMES POLITE BELIES NAME.

Bristol, Nov. 7.—James Polite, belied his name here early today. And in the Palace of Sweets, a candy emporium on Main street, too. James came from New Haven and very impolitely broke into the place and was engaged in extracting $10.50 from the cash registers when interrupted by the policeman. In the city court today he was held for trial on a burglary charge under $1,000 bonds.

The Redmond Mystery

By ETHEL HOLMES

During the last decade of the nineteenth century William Redmond, an eastern merchant, in business for himself, seeing that large corporations must eventually absorb his trade, decided to put his stock into money and go west with it where big business was still comparatively unknown. He cleaned up $30,000 and started westward to find a new field for investment.

Since he was uncertain just where he would locate he put his capital in thirty hills of $1,000 each. His wife made him a bag in which to keep them, and the bag he hung around his neck. His family consisted of two persons, his wife and a little daughter ten years old. These he led behind him, it being his intention to send for them when he found a setting place.

During his journey Redmond wrote home from different points through which he passed. When about to enter New Mexico he wrote that he would leave all regular conveyances, proceeding on horseback. Quite likely he might not have another opportunity to send another letter for some time, since he was about to pass through a rather wild country.

A fortnight passed and Mrs. Redmond was beginning to expect another letter from her husband, but was disappointed. Another two weeks went by and still no word from him. Then the weeks of his silence became months.

When half a year had passed without hearing anything from her husband the poor woman gave him up for lost. Friends of hers who had correspondents in the west wrote them, giving them such data as they possessed of where Redmond was when last heard from, and they investigated the matter. No trace was found of him after he left the place where he had written his last letter to his wife. When told that he had $30,000 on his person the investigators declared that he had doubtless been murdered for his money.

Mrs. Redmond did not assent to this theory. She knew her husband to be or have been a very secretive man and did not believe that he would permit any one he did not trust implicitly with a knowledge of the bills he carried on his person. She rather inclined to the theory that he had been robbed.

However, after several years had passed and nothing was learned of her husband's fate Mrs. Redmond gave up all hope of his ever returning to her. He had taken all her capital with him except enough to supply her wants till he should become permanently located. She made this amount last for a year and then was obliged to work to support herself.

Mrs. Redmond lived ten years after her husband's disappearance. He had left in the east a record of the numbers of the bank bills he took with him, and these numbers were sent to banks all over the United States hoping that some knowledge might come of the lost man through one or more of the bills. But none of the bills was ever presented at any bank. This added to the mystery and reflected on the theory that Redmond had been murdered. If he had not been murdered what had become of him?

When Mrs. Redmond died her daughter Flora was twenty years old. Her mother before her death told her that she was heirless to $30,000 and would some day come into possession of her fortune.

Flora formed an attachment for a young man named Trevor, but since Trevor had nothing except a small salary neither he nor Flora could bring themselves to accept the burdens of matrimony. One day a letter came addressed to Mrs. William Redmond from an official in New Mexico. It stated that in opening a road quicksand had been struck. While endeavoring to secure a foundation the body of a man on horseback was found some distance under the surface. From papers found on the body the man's identity as William Redmond had been learned. The body had been placed in a burial vault.

Flora read this letter with great interest.

Both Trevor and Flora had been saving money for some time, thinking that they might, after all, unite their lives and by this time had enough jointly to pay their expenses to the west.

After much deliberation the pair decided to be married, go to New Mexico, and if the fortune was not recovered they would settle where there was more opportunity to make a career than in the east.

On reaching New Mexico, without making themselves known, they learned where the body of John Redmond had been placed, and one night visited an acre of ground used for a cemetery. There was but one vault in it, and the fastenings to this were insecure. Trevor forced them by means of a file and an iron implement he had provided for the purpose. Then he went in and opened a rude box containing the only body there. Striking a light he began to feel for the bag under the clothing. About the shoulders he found tape, and the tape led to the bag.

The latter was difficult to get because it was between the shoulder blades. Trevor finally secured it and, opening it, found the bills. In a few moments he had examined and counted them. There were thirty $1,000 bills. Leaving the vault, he embraced his wife, assuring her that she had come into her inheritance.

The Trevors decided to remain in the west and are now among the wealthiest people of their state.

How One of These Creatures Caught a Prize That He Was Very Pleased to Get Rid Of—What Happens When the Clouds Pour Down Rain.

Well, said Uncle Ned to Little Ned and Polly Ann, I am going to tell you about WEBS IN THE GRASS.

This morning while I was walking in the field I saw in the grass the tents of a bold robber band.

I thought I heard Mrs. Fly say as she flew by me: "There are those spider webs stretched out on the grass. Well, the spiders won't catch me this time. It was very kind of Fairy Dewdrop to sprinkle the webs with drops of water so that we may see them and keep out of trouble."

But as it got warmer the drops were drunk up by the hot sun and went sailing up into the sky to make clouds. Then unless you had sharp eyes and looked closely you could not see the lacy tents, which were, after all, traps in which the sly spider hoped to catch dinner, breakfast and tea.

One spider caught a little brown skipper butterfly. As soon as he felt the web shake from the struggles of the insect up he darted through his funnel shaped stairway and pounced upon the butterfly.

Once a big brown wasp came buzzing across the garden and in flying too near the ground struck a spider's web.

The minute the spider saw what he had caught he was so frightened he was most ready to run downstairs again, but he feared for his precious web. It had taken a whole hour to spin it.

So the spider hurried to the edge of the web and began cutting away the threads that held the prisoner. In a minute the wasp was free and dropped to the grass. Soon he was able to fly away, and then the spider came out of his hole and mended the broken web.

But the little dewdrops that had gone up to the sky and joined the nice big clouds must have told tales, for after awhile the clouds rolled over the sky till the sun was hidden, and a host of big raindrops came pattering to the ground. They battered at the spider webs till they were torn to bits, and the spiders crawled away into holes under stones or in the ground, waiting for the rain to stop.

And, of course, there was no supper for the spiders and no breakfast the next day, for it kept right on raining.

But as tomorrow promises to be a sunny day perhaps you may notice whether they have set their traps again in the grass.

A Fine Sand Fort.

WATCHING THE ENEMY.

With the aid of a discarded life buoy the young soldier in the picture has constructed a fort in the sand. The enemy must be in front of him, as he is intently watching something in the line of his vision. No fear that the enemy can approach the fort without being seen. Keen eyes are guarding every approach. The fort cannot be surprised.

Queer Bodies.

Eyes have they, but they see not—potatoes.

Ears have they, but they hear not—crusts.

Arms have they, but they hug not—windmills.

Tongues have they, but they talk not—wagons.

Legs have they, but they walk not—tables.

Heads have they, but they think not—cabbages.

Noses have they, but they smell not—pitchers.

Lips have they, but they kiss not—tulips.

Teeth have they, but they chew not—saws.

Remember.

Have, when you cough or sneeze a sneeze. Your kerchief ready if you please.

Then turn your face and screen your nose Before the cough or sneeze goes.

PHILIPPINE EMBROIDERY.

It is Supplanting the French, Being Both Pretty and Cheap.

At last women are discovering the beauty of Philippine embroidery. That statement is hardly true, for they have known of the beauty of Philippine embroidery for years. But the Philippine women have been embroidering garments that could not possibly be transformed to suit American demands. There is some tale that the Philippine women, when they were taught to wear our clothes, asked for American patterns. That happened when the never-to-be-forgotten hero of the Philippine Islands was in the height of his power. Hence the Filipinos were given, it is said, a Mother Hubbard pattern. And that has remained the foundation pattern of their shapely costume ever since.

In the same way, when the Philippine women first began to do embroidery for the Americans must have been some time shortly after the close of the Spanish war—just when American women were wearing their first "fingered waists." They were white blouses in their least attractive form—with high, tight collars, and they fastened down the back. And so the Philippine women have since then been giving us "waist patterns," nicely embroidered, to be sure, but one and all cut on those old-fashioned lines—lines that could not be reconciled with the present mode.

Recently somebody with clothes sense must have gone down to the Philippine Islands and told somebody there that American women changed their mode of dress with the passing years. For recently there have been a few wearable garments, hand embroidered by the Philippine women, out on fashionable lines.

There is really very attractive underwear embroidered in the Philippines. It is cheaper than the French work, and it is equally attractive, although it is different. Let us all be grateful to the enterprising soul who changed the current of Philippine industry from those endless and useless blouses that came in just after American acquisition of the islands.

Delicious Salad Dressing.

Dainty and oriental in flavor is a salad dressing made with white wine vinegar, one-half cupful of vinegar, one-half cupful of vinegar, five drops of lemon juice, one-half cupful of olive oil. Beat it while mixing and continue until it assumes a creamy appearance. When done add a pinch of salt and a liberal supply of Hungarian paprika; no black pepper.

This sirup should be so finely blended that no flavor predominates. Do not have it too sweet. Use it on vegetables or fruit salads. Save the juice left over, provided you have served it from a large dish instead of individual dishes, and the flavor of fruit or vegetables makes richer the oil, which can be used in potato salad or deviled eggs.

Clean Mirrors.

If glass mirrors should become very dirty it is easy to wash them with warm white soapsuds and rinse immediately with warm ammonia water or water to which a little alcohol has been added. After this go over with a fine chamois skin.

MILLION LETTERS IN THE MAILED TODAY BEARING MAGIC WORDS "WITH THE COLORS"

Keynote of the Splendid Work the Y. M. C. A. Does Among Our Men in Uniform is Keeping Them in Touch With the Folks at Home

It was evening on the broad Hempstead Plain, Long Island, where the Rainbow division was spending its last night before embarking for France. It had been raining hard in the afternoon—a cold, steady autumnal downpour—and there was nothing to suggest the rainbow in the outward aspect of the camp. Lines and lines of sodden canvas housed 27,000 men, gathered from 27 different states. The ground was dotted with pools and quagmires. Under the wet canvas it was damp and cold, with a penetrating chill. Lit by flickering candles, the tents were far from cheerful shelter for a man's last night in his native land.

But there were seven big tents where electric lights, numbers and friendliness made the night pleasant.

Music, Games, Good Reading and Correspondence Facilities in Y. M. C. A. Building.

In each of these a soldier was strumming on a piano; others were reading books and magazines; hundreds were writing letters home. Behind the writing tables at one end three or four boys were passing out envelopes, selling stamps and weighing parcels, which the men were sending home. One of the soldiers said to me as I stood in the tent used chiefly by men from Iowa: "We came all the way here from Des Moines, and we were mighty lonely. Then we found this Y. M. C. A. on the job, and it's been a home and more than a home to us. It gave us what we wanted when we needed it most. We'll never forget it. The boys' best friend is the Y. M. C. A."

World's Best Loved Trademark.
This war has made us think hard and fast. Your boy or your neighbor's boy or some boy you know and love has been called to do his share in the big job of poicing the world for democracy and human liberty. Is it any comfort to you to know that wherever his duty may call him your boy will have a friend that will serve him in body, mind and soul? Are you glad to know that this friend will place books and magazines at his disposal, organize classes to teach him what ever he wants to learn, give him a pocket testament and invite him to join religious meetings of the faith that he was brought up in? Did you realize that the association provides athletic equipment for his favorite games, teaches him games if he knows none and holds concerts, lectures, movies, Bible classes, dramatic entertainments and every kind of wholesome amusement to keep him interested? Are you glad to know that this friend will go with him overseas, help to shield him from a score of difficult and dangerous temptations and follow him right up to the front line trench and beyond it? The last contact the soldier has with this life he loves so well is a cup of tea given him by the Y. M. C. A. free just before he goes "over the top" to a hand to hand struggle with the enemy. And as he comes tottering back from No Man's Land, wounded, but strong enough and plucky enough to keep on his feet, even before his wounds are dressed the Y. M. C. A. is waiting for him with tea and sweet chocolate, the great comforts of the man in the trenches. Do you wonder that the Red Triangle is called "the best loved trademark in the world?" One soldier in France has called it "the last evidence that anybody cares."

Part of the World to Another than Statistics can Express. Statistics are pretty poor anyway when it comes to reckoning in terms of love and human tenderness. Let's put it this way: That the Y. M. C. A. is the biggest expression of love in the world has been seen, and the parcels it is handling are the loves and devotions of human beings.

Fine, Clean-Cut, Upstanding Fellows.
How close those benches were packed with men, bending over the long tables absorbed in their writing! What an appeal to the sympathies of those great groups of soldiers make! Fine, clean-cut, upstanding fellows, some of them mere boys, one thinks immediately of the sacrifice they have made for the rest of us and how precious they are to some one back home. Somewhere, in far off farm or village or city street, there are parents or brothers or wives who would give all they possess for one glimpse of those sunburned faces as you and I see them on their last night before going across. And it was with a throb of the heart that I watched them, bent over their letter paper. In one after another of those seven big tents.

These were the tents of the Y. M. C. A. On that last night in America the association was serving the soldiers in the best of all ways—giving them an opportunity to write home. On previous nights they had enjoyed boxing bouts, movies, concerts, dramatics and a score of healthy entertainments as well as religious meetings. But on this last night home ties were strong. And perhaps that is the keynote of the splendid work the Y. M. C. A. is doing among our men in uniform—keeping them in touch with home.

Magic Words, "With the Colors."
In these times there are some letters that mean more to us than any we have ever read before. They are written on sheets of paper stamped with the Stars and Stripes and the red triangle of the Y. M. C. A., and they bear the magic words, "With the Colors." There are many more than a million such letters in the mails now while you read this. Perhaps one at

Value of Language.
Language is the amber in which a thousand precious and subtle thoughts have been safely embedded and preserved. It has arrested ten thousand lightning flashes of genius, which, unless thus fixed and arrested, might have been as bright, but would have also been as quickly passing and perishing as the lightning. Far more and mightier in every way is a language than any one of the works which may have been composed in it. For that work, great as it may be, at best embodies what was in the heart and mind of a single man, but this of a nation. The "Iliad" is great, yet not so great in strength or power or beauty as the Greek language. "Paradise Lost" is a noble possession for a people to have inherited, but the English tongue is a nobler heritage yet.—Trench.

forego coveted possessions or even necessities. The work must go on, because there is no one thing that contributes so much to the spirit and efficiency of the troops. The Y. M. C. A. is working night and day to help the government win this war. And every penny that is given to aid the work is a direct assistance to the health, happiness and strength of your boy and mine.

Snapshots of Kaleidoscopic Work.
In all the big cities in France where our men pass through in large numbers, the Y. M. C. A. is operating hostels, where they can get beds and meals at a minimum cost. In London the American Y. M. C. A. has erected a large building for our soldiers and a clubhouse for American officers.

There are Y. M. C. A. dugouts right behind the front line trenches, where the soldiers can get hot drinks, crackers and other comforts at all hours.

Over 2,000 men who had been rejected on account of physical disability have been able to get into the British army by reason of the physical work of the British Y. M. C. A.

A fleet of motor cars leaves the big Y. M. C. A. headquarters in London at midnight every night to pick up soldiers who are wandering about the streets without any wholesome lodging in which to spend the night. These cars are operated by Englishwomen of position and refinement, who report that they never meet any discourtesy at the hands of the soldiers. The importance of this service can be estimated by the fact that at least 50,000 soldiers are on leave in London every week. Over half of these sleep in Y. M. C. A. beds every night.

Entertainment on Vast Scale.
The Y. M. C. A. has erected a big auditorium, seating 3,000, in each of the big draft camps, and huge chautauqua tents, seating 2,500 in the other encampments. The association is running a 22 week entertainment circuit among the camps and is paying 16 companies of entertainers, who are traveling to 30 camps performing before the men.

In each of the draft camps the Y. M. C. A. has ten secretaries engaged in educational work. The association is seeing to it that every man who cannot speak English is taught to do so. In many of the camps the association has a singing director, who is teaching the men to sing the popular and martial airs that do so much to keep up their spirits.

Of 64 Y. M. C. A. men at Camp Dix only three are being paid full salaries. In all the camps the majority of the Y. M. C. A. men have left lucrative positions to do this work simply because its appeal is irresistible to any red blooded man. Harry Lauder, the famous Scotch singer and comedian, now on his farewell concert tour in the United States, is giving all his spare time to the service of the association and is singing to the soldiers at all the camps he can reach.

In one of the draft camps the Y. M. C. A. is supervising athletics on 120 playing fields, providing full athletic equipment. The winners of the inter-regimental games will play the championships of the other camps.

One of the greatest services rendered by the association is the making of money orders by which the men can send their pay home to their families. In some of the big camps the Y. M. C. A. is providing banking facilities for the men as well.

Do Your Bit With a Tenner.
This month (November) the Y. M. C. A. must raise $35,000,000 to carry on its work among our soldiers and their allies until next July. Of this $35,000,000 about $24,000,000 will be spent on the work with our own troops or about $10 for every man in Uncle Sam's uniform. If everybody who has received letters from soldiers and sailors were to contribute $10 the task would be easy. Are your boy's health and happiness and clean soul worth $10 to you?

Your town mayor, your pastor, your school superintendent will know who is the treasurer of the campaign committee in your county or town. Otherwise send a check or money order to Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer, 124 East Twenty-eighth street, New York City.

Only sacrificial giving by millions of givers will make possible the continuation of this vast work for American soldiers and for those of our allies.

FATAL DESERT OF KARA-KUM. Heat Reaching 163 Degrees is Hurling Into One's Face Like Sheet of Fire.

When the caravans in olden days went up from Samarcand and Bokhara to Mery for silks and carpets, or carried spices for Europe to the Caspian ports, some of them occasionally wandered off into the desert of Kara-Kum, and few of those ever returned. This desert, which is smaller, but more terrible than Sahara, came to be known as "the tomb of caravans."

If you were to venture into the desert of Kara-Kum you would travel by camel. At first you would pass through a land of scrubby bushes and rest at noon near a well surrounded by a tiny native village at the bottom of a dimple in the desert. And here you would feel your first touch of the desert heat—a heat that reaches 163 degrees in the sun and is hurled into your face by the wind like a veritable sheet of flame.

In the comparative cool of evening you would push on into the desert proper. Presently from the top of a slight elevation you would see it reaching before you—a petrified storm at sea, an ocean of sand. There is nothing but sand, and it is tossed by a ceaseless wind into billows miles long that creep forward perhaps a foot a year, burying everything in their path. The wind tears banners of flying sand from their crests as you look, releasing cascades that go rumbling into the burning billows.

The path across this desert is marked only by bits of bone and stick, occasionally by a human skull. It is easily lost in the dark, and it is the thread which connects one shallow, muddy well with another. Many have lost it and they are still in the desert of Kara-Kum.

OVERSEAS FLYING NOT EASY. Many Difficulties Confront Those Who Would Cross the Atlantic in an Airplane.

In a paper read before the Institution of Engineers and Shipbuilders in Scotland L. Desbleds explains some of the advantages and difficulties of trans-Atlantic flying. With regard to the former, the carrying of the mails in a quarter of the time at present needed for the voyage between America and Britain would, in the author's opinion, be a tremendous benefit, as he considers that the correspondence of a country may be taken as a measure of its commerce with other nations, and the accelerated rate of exchange of correspondence would react upon commerce and shipping.

Coming to the problem of carrying mails across the Atlantic, Mr. Desbleds considers that existing knowledge of airplane construction and propelling machinery only allows of such flights by reducing the strength of the machines employed to far below that of the airplanes now in use; consequently those undertaking the passage would run grave risks of coming to grief on the way. Some particulars of an airplane for flying the Atlantic are given in the paper, the proposed machine having a weight by itself of about four tons, which is doubled by the addition of fuel and stores. While a crew of ten men account for another fifteen hundredweight.—Chambers' Journal.

So have the Maxwell builders fixed a price for their product—$745—which makes it possible for them to say:

"Below this figure there must be something lacking which we have put into the Maxwell—efficiency, durability, economy, comfort, beauty or standard equipment.

—and above this figure we could give you no greater practical utility—only larger size or richer and fancier furnishings."

This is the scientific fact—proved and demonstrated by one of the giants of the motor car industry in years of production on an immense scale.

And we stand firm on this finding of the Maxwell builders.

We believe the Maxwell to be the BEST MOTOR CAR INVESTMENT possible today.

Contributions for Christmas kits for the soldiers came in very slowly yesterday to the local chapter of the Red Cross. George Ferris contributed $5 and Rebekah Lodge contributed an additional $8.25. There is still $400 odd dollars to collect before Manchester's quota is filled.

The demand for booze through the local drug stores is not at all what some people predicted it would be when the town voted no license. Up to this morning at least three druggists had not been called upon to fill a prescription for liquor. One of them did say, however, that he had several requests for liquor without a prescription.

Corporal Michael Horan who is with the Field Hospital No. 304 Sanitary train at Ayer has become a favorite with the Manchester boys and he is coming here next Sunday to see Manchester. He has been in the regular army for ten years and by his experience has been a great help to the Manchester boys.

The local order of Moose has re-organized McEnnelly's singing orchestra. This orchestra made a hit when it was here a short time ago. It will be here on Tuesday evening, December 11. The dance will be held in Cheney hall if the hall can be obtained for that night. If it is impossible to hold the dance in Cheney hall some other place will be secured.

The horse-drawn hacks which are occasionally seen on the streets are beginning to look strange. Their use is confined almost entirely to funerals. Even at funerals automobiles and motor hearses are displacing carriages. It will not be long before the shiny hacks will cease to pay for the room which they occupy and then they will disappear entirely.

Robert Lamont, who has been employed in Cheney Brothers' efficiency force in the weaving mills, will leave their employ the latter part of the month, to accept a position in St. Louis. H. L. Preston, who has been working with the efficiency force in the spinning mills, is to be transferred to Lamont's place in the weaving mills.

The convention of the Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees wound up its session here last night with an open meeting held in the Spencer hall, at which there was a goodly attendance. The convention was a success in every way and the hundred or more delegates that attended the convention were well pleased with the appearance of Manchester. At the meeting in the afternoon five new members were initiated.

Temple Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will observe Past Masters' Night in Odd Fellows' hall at eight o'clock this evening. The grand officers will be present and the local chapter will confer the degree on one candidate. At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments will be served. It was planned originally to have a supper but as this was considered against the present drive for the conservation of food it was decided to have only refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taggart of Paterson, N. J., have been visiting friends in town.

Miss Ellen Hadden of High street is ill with bronchitis and is under the care of Dr. Sharpe.

The Daughters of Liberty, L. L. O. L., No. 125, will hold a second degree meeting Monday evening at Orange hall. A large class of candidates is to be initiated at this time.

The Ulster Women's Club held their monthly meeting Monday evening in Orange hall. An interesting letter was read from Rev. Canon Moeran of Portadown, Ireland, acknowledging the money sent by the club to the Ulster Volunteer Force Fund. The sum of $50 was voted from the treasury to be sent for Christmas. After the business meeting a social hour was spent in games and singing, which were followed by refreshments.

If you have not received your allotment of those turkey, goose and pig tickets sent out by Hose and Ladder Co. No. 1, of the South Manchester fire department, then someone has blundered. These tickets are sold in connection with the annual Thanksgiving dance which this company has given for years. It contains a list of awards, any one of which would pay for two dozen of the tickets. Then besides everybody knows that the money raised in this way goes for a good cause, that of helping to maintain the company. This year the firemen have pledged $200 of the receipts for the Red Cross.

EXTRA! TWO MEN HERE SAY THEY CAN'T GET WORK

Put Off Train at Manchester Station They Tell Police Officials They Seek Employment.

The court officials were a bit surprised this morning when two men appeared in court and declared they were looking for work and couldn't find any. They applied to Officer Schendel for a night's lodging and it was later found out that they had been put off the express for Boston when it arrived here last evening. They were riding blind baggage and were discovered just before the train reached Manchester but as there was no policeman at the station when the train pulled in the baggage master allowed them to get off the train and beat it.

In court they said that they belonged in Boston and had come to Bristol to work but could not get it. They were anxious to get back to Boston and boarded the train at Bristol. They succeeded in going through New Britain and Hartford without being discovered but were found by the trainmen before Manchester was reached.

Poster, the younger of the pair, pleaded guilty to trespassing on railroad property. Canning, the older one, had pleaded not guilty but when he heard his partner make a clean breast of the story he decided to plead guilty also. The latter said he was anxious to get work and the judge told him where he could get it.

The judge suspended judgment and the fellows started down town promising to go to work if they could find any.

John P. Sullivan who lives in Vernon Center and works in Burnside took a day off yesterday and got so drunk that he mistook a South Manchester car for a Rockville car. He was found wandering around the Center last night by Officer Schendel who placed him under arrest. It cost him about $9.50 for the spree.

HOUSES RISE BY MAGIC ON WEST STREET TRACT

home at an exceptionally low rental and this, in connection with good working conditions and fair wages, makes him a satisfied and permanent workman.

A Big Concern.

The W. G. Lynch Construction Company carries on its payroll from 1200 to 1500 men including all grades and all trades, from architects down to shovellers. It has its own masons, carpenters, plumbers, painters, electricians. By moving the men from one job to another and from one part to another of the same job they can push the work ahead without delay. As an example of the speed at which they work, it was on a Thursday that Cheney Brothers asked them to prepare plans for the hotel and the seventy dwellings and Saturday noon, two days later, they had the plans ready and submitted them.

Local Job a "Small" One.

Mr. W. G. Lynch, president of the company, was in town yesterday and kindly gave a couple of hours to a Herald representative, showing him over the local job, which he said was a small one, and explaining the system under which his firm has built something like two million dollars' worth of houses for industrial corporations in the last three years.

"Our mission is to give the working man the best possible home at the lowest possible price," he said. "We do not compete with local contractors. While we pay our employees a little more than the local scale, it must be remembered that our men have to live away from their homes, sleep in rough barracks and eat where they can. They work under pressure and their jobs are more or less temporary."

Mr. Lynch said the local job was progressing satisfactorily as the fall weather conditions had been very favorable. Strenuous efforts have been made to complete all the concrete foundation work before cold weather. These have been successful and within another ten days practically all the outside work laid out for this fall will be finished. It will then be necessary to make a reduction in the force of mechanics and laborers.

Houses Rise by Magic.

The transformation of the West street section, where the new houses are under construction, proceeds like magic. The houses are to be one-family, two-family, three-family and four-family. They are to be of varying architectural design and of attractive appearance and are to be so located as to avoid stilted uniformity. The foundations, of concrete, are all finished and now the builders are sweeping ahead. First come the framers, who after framing one house, pass on to the next and are followed closely by the sheathers. Then come the floor layers and so on. Each gang has its speciality. By the end of next week every house on the tract will be framed and raised and the area which six weeks ago was growing potatoes and cabbages will be covered with dwelling houses in various stages of completion.

Substantially Built.

"Our houses are not cheaply built," said Mr. Lynch, yesterday. "On the contrary they are constructed according to a fixed standard of quality and are better than the houses built by the average real estate developer. They stand up under use and at the end of ten years it will be found that the repair bills on them have been very small. They are all thoroughly modern, with furnace heat, baths and toilets and electric lights. We buy our materials at first hand for cash and in large quantities and therefore, being the best kind of customers, we get good service and rock bottom prices."

In some places the construction company is authorized by its employer to sell houses to workmen. In that case it gives the purchaser the benefit of the low price of construction and if desired arranges for payment on the installment plan.

When asked about the time of completion of the houses on the West street tract, Mr. Lynch said that should the material come forward satisfactorily, much of the rough carpentry would be completed this winter, but the finish work would necessarily have to be delayed until spring. It is impossible to get early deliveries of sewer and water pipe.

New Families Coming.

Asked whether the renting of these houses at the low rates would not draw tenants away from other real estate owners, Mr. Lynch said it would not. "I understand," he said, "that every house in town is already occupied, and that the Cheney's have additional families coming to town who will occupy every one of the new houses."

The contract of the Lynch company calls for the entire completion of the development, including the laying of water and sewer pipes and the grading of the land and the laying of walks around the houses.

generous donations received today was one of $250 from Cheney Brothers.

As a result of the generosity of local citizens, no council of the Knights of Columbus in Connecticut will be able to forward to the national headquarters a better report than will be forwarded by the Manchester council, based upon population. The Manchester council's proportion of the $4,000,000 fund which the national organization is raising was $1,000 minimum and $2,000 maximum; to more than double the minimum sum is a record which speaks for itself.

Knights Are Appreciative.

The Knights of Columbus and their friends are deeply grateful to all who contributed and assisted in other ways in the success of the campaign just closed. They are particularly gratified over the aid extended by the local Y. M. C. A. workers and fully appreciate the far-reaching importance of their cooperation and counsel in the commendable work which has been brought to so satisfactory a termination.

PLUMBERS' STRIKE ENDED MEN GET INCREASED WAGE

Builders Could Not Finish Work Without Plumbers So Master Mechanics Granted Demands.

The plumbers and steamfitters strike has ended and the men are back at work, having received their demands for an increase of $3 a week. They were getting $21 for 44 hours, and now they are getting $24 a week.

Ferris Brothers, who employ the most men in town in this line of work, held a meeting last night and decided to grant the men's demands. They refused at first, because only a two weeks' notice was given, and this did not allow time for cleaning up contracts figured on the old basis. They tried to get their men to agree to finish the contracts in the old way and then have the matter of an increase adjusted after that, but the men refused to agree to this. Several jobs were left in the works and the owners and builders were crying to get the work done, because lathing and plastering could not be done until after the plumbers and pipers had put in their rough work. To satisfy their customers, Ferris Brothers decided to give in to the men, and they all went to work this morning.

F. T. Blish, of the Manchester Plumbing & Supply company, said this morning that one of his tinners had been working since the afternoon of the day on which the men first struck, and he would give this man the new scale of wages. As far as his plumbers were concerned, he said he planned to cut out that line of work as soon as he could clean up what work he now had on hand.

The game will be called at three o'clock. A record crowd is expected.
