U. S. TO HOLD UP LOANS TO RUSSIA; GERMANS BEHIND LATEST UPRISING

LENINE IS PAID TOOL

Has Long Acted for Germany, It Is Said, Sub Rosa—Trotsky His Tool—Kerensky En Route to Front—Thought He May Swing Majority of Troops to His Cause.

London, Nov. 9.—Every London newspaper today takes the view that the counter revolution in Petrograd was the work of German agents and was engineered solely to get Russia out of the war if possible.

Kerensky Goes to Front. Hope that the new republic still will enter the war on the side of the Allies was held here today when it was definitely established that Premier Kerensky has made his escape from Petrograd.

Kerensky is believed to be on his way to the front. Close students of Russian affairs here believe he will be able to swing the majority of the troops to his side.

There is some ground for belief that Kerensky may effect a compromise with General Korniloff, deposed war minister, who is awaiting trial now because of his attempt to wrest the control of the army from Kerensky.

Kerensky Captured. Premier Kerensky is reported both captured by the Maximalists and having reached Moscow.

Russia's northern army, according to a report from a German source, has gone over to the Maximalists and is now withdrawing from the front.

Northern Armies Join Radicals. The Russian northern armies have joined the Maximalists, who overthrew Premier Kerensky, according to a dispatch received at London today from Stockholm.

TURKS MAY BE FORCED TO PEACE, SAYS LONDON

Unable to Remain in the War Much Longer After Late Defeats.

ARMY IS BADLY BEATEN

Both Divisions Yield Before British in Mesopotamia and Palestine.

London, Nov. 9.—The inability of the Turks to remain in the war as a unit of the Central Powers is being seriously considered by military experts here today.

Both divisions of the Turkish army have suffered stinging defeats recently. In Mesopotamia the British force which captured Bagdad has gone 90 miles up the Tigris river and taken Tekrit.

The British are fully determined to not only force Turkey out of the war, military experts believe, but also to bring about the collapse of the Turkish empire.

RETAIN ADVANCES AGAIN—BRITISH HEAR GERMANS PLAN TO RETAKE PASSCHENDAELE.

Rome, Nov. 9.—Franco-British troops have arrived at the Italian front. This welcome information was revealed today in the announcement that Premier Lloyd George and other British officials were at the front inspecting the allied reinforcements.

The arrival of the allied forces strengthens the belief that the crucial battle is to be fought along the Piave river.

Rome, Nov. 9.—General Cadorna's army today occupies the most naturally and best fortified region since the beginning of its retreat through the Friuli Plains.

The department made it plain that commissions will be issued to all who successfully pass the examinations. Those not called into service at once, however, will be placed on the reserve list.

STATE FOOD CARD CAMPAIGN MOVING FASTER.

Judging by today's mail the food pledge card campaign is approaching its zenith, and apparently every household in the state is now adorned with the membership card.

Marlborough, in Hartford county, is still uncredited with a single card, but it is known that this situation will be changed by tomorrow, when Marlborough will probably have its full quota of 50.

The Italian army is listening to take up excellent positions behind the upper Brenta. This line, military critics say, will connect with the center and right wings of the Italian forces to be massed along the Piave.

From the rear, British and French reinforcements in artillery and infantry are being rushed to the scene.

In the intervening space between the Piave and Livenza rivers extends a net work of numerous drains and canals, offering further menace to the advancing enemy.

Behind the Italian battle formation lies Venice, scarcely fifteen miles away from the extreme right wing.

Reports from the Friulian plains tell of stubborn resistance by Cadorna's rear-guards and aerial forces while the enemy was effecting a crossing of the Livenza yesterday.

Carnia Army Fights Stubbornly. Washington, Nov. 9.—The Carnia Army is valiantly and effectively delaying the advance of the enemy, according to official dispatches today from Rome.

The general impression in the Italian capital is that the coming war operations on the Italian front must be viewed with confidence.

The withdrawal of the army from the Tagliamento was protected by General Digornia, a distinguished military leader, and by some units of the Third Army.

NEW JOHNSON BLOCK MAIN STREET

"BEEF" NOW SECONDARY FACTOR IN FOOTBALL; MORE SCIENCE IN NEW GAME; LATEST WRINKLES

New York, Nov. 9.—Football used to be a game in which brute strength reigned supreme.

Beef was the prime requisite a few years ago, and the little fellows were passed up by the coaches because they did not have the avoirdupois that was thought necessary to the upbuilding of a winning team.

But the old-time caveman stuff has had to take a back seat, for the game of football as it is played today by all of the larger schools of the country has become a game where brains count as much as brute force.

Game Scientific.

Scientifically been elevated to a scientific level and for this reason the little fellows and the little schools have come into their own at last.

The intricate plays that are used by big university elevens today require strength, foot-sureness and speed, but they require quick-thinking players with sure memories as much as anything else. The introduction of the forward pass was a big step in building up football as a scientific game, and since it has been universally adopted and approved the coaching fraternity has found a wide latitude for the use of its brains.

In any season but one like the present autumn, with war interfering, the coaches have no trouble finding plenty of material. The new style game has extended the field and players of all sizes and weights can be used to advantage now.

The slow-footed, beefy team of old would be a joke in this day and age, for, with the exception of a fairly heavy line, the makeup of modern football elevens leans toward the lighter and faster men. Players like Elmer Oliphant, who is heavy and stockily built, may increase the weight of a football team, but they never get by unless, like Oliphant, they have lots of speed and natural football ability.

"Second String Men."

Another new phase of modern football is the amount of attention now being given to second string men. Coaches do not pay so much attention to individual stars as they used to. They have learned that a football team without a strong array of substitutes is often a failure, and for this reason the individual stars are getting less attention from a majority of grid mentors.

In the old days the defensive strength of a football team was more important than its offense. Today the offense of a team is what counts most heavily. It is not that the defensive side of football is being neglected, but with the open game in vogue, and the opportunities for scoring much greater, the offense

And Home Comforts Are So Closely Linked It's Almost Impossible To Separate Them

There is hardly any form of home comfort work that does not depend more or less on the kitchen range.

Properly prepared food maintains home comfort by keeping the family good natured, but the range must be just right to produce this result.

Tested by three generations of satisfied users and there is nothing better must be developed first. Kickers' Passe. The brightest stars of football in other days were kickers, terrific line plungers or players of great strength who possessed speed and who could throw off a half dozen tacklers after breaking through the line. They were individual stars and they depended more upon their own resources to cross the enemy's goal lines than upon the aid their team could give them.

Today every player on a football team is important. A modern eleven is built like a machine, with every man a cog and every cog dependent upon every other cog in the perfect running off of plays. This is why every player, be he a lineman, a backfield man or a player on either wing position, gets an equal amount of attention from the coaches.

New Era for Football. The new idea of "football for the many," rather than football for the few, is making itself felt strongly this year, where a lack of playing material in many schools has made it imperative. And some of the biggest men in football now are predicting today that the game has drifted into a new era; that there will be more football and better all-round players within two more years than ever before.

WHAT'S WHAT AND WHO'S WHO IN MANCHESTER MOVIE HOUSES

AT THE PARK.

Cash distribution is a small part of the bill tonight at the Popular Playhouse. John F. Sullivan not alone pays the government tax from his own pocket to accommodate his patrons but he gives them back from time to time a share of the prosperity that they make possible for him by their attendance. Tonight this will take the shape of $20 divided into ten two dollar prizes.

A big bill has been arranged for tonight at the Park. This stirring five reel picture, "The Debt," a powerful story.

Weekly this gives you all the news of the world in moving pictures and a Cub comedy that will make you forget the horrors of the war. "The Debt" is the story of an honor debt contracted in Europe through the ill-advice to his followers of a count who sought to recoup his fortune by investing in a mine. When he kills himself after the failure of the mine, his daughter, the countess, is left to face the obligation. How she marries one of the chief sufferers in the poor investment but because she loves him, and how they go to America and struggle to pay off the obligation; how the baron, who loved the countess before her fortune was taken away from her, follows her and against her wishes forces his attention thereby causing her husband to drive her from the house and leave the child, and how the child finally saves the situation, makes "The Debt" a powerful story.

On next Wednesday and Thursday, the only Charlie Chaplin will be shown in his latest picture, "The Adventurer". There is little need to describe this picture. Every movie fan in Manchester will see him if they have to beg the price of admission.

AT THE CIRCLE.

"The Honor System", which was presented at the Circle theater last evening and which will be presented for the last time tonight, is without a doubt the best production that has ever been shown in this vicinity. From an entertaining standpoint the picture is excellent in every respect and its pathos and human appeal are ever present. It is a powerfully acted and well maintained story which at the moment the story is being shown in Manchester, is the most important of the appearance of Governor Hunter of Arizona who takes a prominent part in this production. At the first, one might be led to think that his is a make-up, but as the story progresses, he is recognized as Governor Hunter himself, the man who instigated the Honor System in that state. The picture will be shown for the last time this evening and it is sincerely hoped that the movie fans will all see it.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening, James Morrison will be seen in a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, "The Alibi". The sixth episode of the melodramatic marvel, "The Fighting Trail" will also be shown and a Big V. comedy and the "Hearst-Pathé" are included in the program. Sunday evening, Harold Lockwood comes to the Circle in his latest Metro production, "The Hidden Spring." An O. Henry story has also been booked for the Sunday evening program.

NEW BASEBALL LEAGUE MAY FOLLOW MEETING

Minor Leagues' Gathering To Be Attended By Big League Magnates.

New York, Nov. 9.—With major league club owners and managers of nearly all the eastern clubs preparing to head for the annual meeting of the minor leagues at Louisville next week, it became evident today that important developments will ensue.

President John K. Tener of the National League, President Hempstead and Manager McGraw of the Giants, President Jacob Ruppert and Business Manager Sparrow of the Yankees, will make the trip.

President Edward G. Barrow of the International League, who has been named as head of the proposed new "Union League," is expected to attend the Louisville meetings.

PROBE CHAPIN DEATH.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 9.—General orders to all police went out today to arrest a man known to have been in Cleveland yesterday afternoon at the time Dr. Harry L. Chapin, physician, author and world wide traveler, was murdered at the Colonial Hotel. Chapin lated yesterday afternoon was called to the room of a man who registered at the hotel in the morning. At five o'clock last evening a maid discovered Dr. Chapin in a pool of blood on the floor of the room the stranger occupied. He died in a few minutes, his lips moving as if he wished to explain, but his efforts ill-fated.

SCARCITY OF PENNIES.

There is a scarcity of pennies in Manchester. With an extra cent for car fare and an extra cent on tobacco there is a great call for pennies at the bank. The bank, however, is holding much small change for the merchants who need it during the holiday rush. The government, it was announced recently, will make no new coins this year. It is said that copper is being used by the government for munitions.

INTENSE HEAT MADE

LABRADOR SUMMERS. Intense heat characterizes the brief summers in the untracked wilds of the interior of Labrador, according to W. H. Clyde Todd, curator of ornithology of the Carnegie Museum here. Mr. Todd headed the expedition sent out by the museum and which recently returned.

"In July, when we were approximately at 53 degrees north latitude, the heat increased until the thermometer in our tent registered 110 degrees," said Mr. Todd.

The streams of the country are apparently a paradise for the trout fisher. Mr. Todd said that one of the party caught trout measuring from 23 to 25 inches in length and weighing five pounds. They were caught with a fly.

The explorers brought back a comprehensive collection of gryfalcons and other hawks, all of them rare specimens. The expedition crossed territory never before explored, and maps and charts of the country were made.

With Mr. Todd were O. J. Murie, the museum's curator of mammals, and Alfred Marshall of Chicago. The men left Pittsburgh on May 23 and started their long trail northward from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Fort Chimo on Ungava Bay as soon as the ice floes went out. They arrived at Fort Chimo August 22 and returned by steamer to St. Johns, N. S., October 18.

On the return trip on the steamer from Fort Chimo a gunner was on duty constantly watching for submarines. "While there have been no recent evidences of submarines in this district," Mr. Todd said, "the strictest watch is kept. The gunner aboard our ship had considerable experience with the ways of the submarine in these waters. He sank three submarines last winter."

J. D. CRIMMINS DEAD.

New York, Nov. 9.—John Daniel Crimmins, 73, one of the most prominent Americans of Irish descent in the United States, died at his home here today.

He amassed a fortune while in the contracting business and for many years was prominent in local democratic politics. He was a great admirer of the late Mayor William Gaynor, whom he attempted to have nominated Democratic candidate for President of the United States in 1912.

Among the several children surviving, four sons are now in Federal service as soldiers.

A NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP FOOTBALL SERIES
LIKELY THIS FALL—THE BIG GAMES TOMORROW

New York, Nov. 9.—Through the medium of inter-sectional games and comparative series, football experts believe today that it will be possible for the team finishing the season with the best record to lay claim to the national title this year.

Ordinarily this would be impossible, as the outstanding teams of the East and West seldom meet representative elevens of these two sections on the gridiron. This year, with Yale, Harvard and Princeton out of it, several inter-sectional games of importance have paved the way.

Consensus of opinion points to Michigan and Pittsburgh as the best teams of the year. Michigan has swept everything before her, and though the Wolverines will not meet the stronger teams of the Big Ten, comparisons may be made.

Georgia Tech, said to be the greatest team ever developed in the South, may meet Pitt in New York in a post season game for the benefit of the Red Cross or may play some other representative eastern team which has met Pitt.

Georgetown, Williams and Stevens, though unbeaten, are not classed with Pittsburgh and Michigan, and the same applies to several other undefeated teams in the South, the mid-west and the Far West.

Games Tomorrow.
Four eastern football elevens, which have escaped defeat to date, will have their metal tested in tomorrow's games. The four teams are Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson, Dartmouth and Georgetown.

Georgetown will tackle the Navy at Annapolis, and indications point toward a victory for Coach Dobbie's great scoring machine. Dartmouth will meet Pennsylvania at Boston and these two elevens are said to be evenly matched, with the choice a toss-up.

At Pittsburgh Pop Warner's undefeated Panthers will meet the strongest foe of the season in Washington and Jefferson. The Washington, Pa., eleven has pointed all season toward the playing of this game and is expected to put up a great battle.

On past performances Carlisle should not give the Army much trouble at West Point tomorrow and West Virginia is expected to defeat Virginia Poly. Syracuse will play Bucknell and should win.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

BOOSTS Y. M. C. A. CAUSE

the campaign committee, presided and in his opening remarks explained the plan of the campaign in some detail. It was Manchester's duty to raise $20,000 for the cause and it was evident that the people of the town would see that this was accomplished. The people of the United States, he said, had done comparatively little along this line in comparison with what our neighbors to the north had been called upon to do. He then told the gathering what the people of Montreal had accomplished since the war broke out. Every dollar contributed for the Y. M. C. A. by the people of Manchester will be spent in the cause. The money reserved for the workers dur-its purpose.

Mr. Butler is one of the best speakers heard at the High school hall in a long time. He has made a study of the Prussian idea of government and held the close attention of the big audience for an hour or more. He wound up his spirited address by an appeal for the cause of the Y. M. C. A. and the good work this organization was doing among the soldier boys in this country and on foreign battlefields.

Paul Nilson Speaks.

Mr. Anderson introduced Paul Nilson, an enthusiastic Y. M. C. A. worker who spoke for a half hour on the work of the association among the soldiers of the various armies in all parts of the world. He told the audience of the great destruction wrought by the Turkish army, how the Turks had slaughtered the Armenians and the Assyrians. The speaker had been in Turkey and had witnessed some terrible scenes. He said that the German army was now in full control of the Turkish army and had been preparing for this great conflict by sending her generals and soldiers into Turkey long before the war started. All along the Bagdad railway the Germans had established huts where the soldiers could gather in home-like fashion and talk about home. They were imitating the Y. M. C. A. in this work. The Y. M. C. A. is furnishing the army with homes and is doing a great work among the soldiers.

At Camp Devens the association had eleven buildings all in use. The soldiers are made welcome in these places. Mr. Nilson was confident that the United States would raise the amount asked for by the Y. M. C. A.

Robert Butler's Remarks.

Robert Butler of Hartford was introduced as a man who was doing his super bit in this war. He is a member of the State Council of Defense and has been speaking to various gatherings on the great necessity of the people of the United States in going into this war not in a half-hearted way but with all their might. He quoted some of the great German philosophers and told of their prophecies and the aims of the German people to dominate the world. As a sample of what had been done he pictured Belgium, Serbia, Roumania and northern France. The Germans for the last year had been asking for peace because they had accomplished their territorial aims and wanted to hold them if possible. Such men as Bernhardt had told fifteen years before the war started what the German nation would do. The whole purpose of the war was territorial expansion for the German people and world domination. It was the aim of the Prussian rulers to crush France so that she could never again hinder the German nation from accomplishing through a heavy steel door with oxy-acetylene burners to protect the stores, and their work, combined with that of firemen in rowboats, who trained hose on the underpinning, where the fire started, saved valuable supplies.

An ambulance surgeon riding by the waterfront shortly before the fire was discovered heard several shots, and saw a motorboat speeding to midstream in the East river.

The police have started a thorough investigation.

JAPAN TO ENTER FIGHT AGAINST SUBMARINE.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Japan will throw her merchant marine into the fight against the submarine within a short time it was learned today. Negotiations are going on between the United States shipping board and Japan for a part of Japan's merchant shipping to enter trans-Atlantic service.

Japan has some 400,000 tons of shipping which she is willing to give to the needs of the Allies. This transfer of shipping is part of an arrangement reached with the United States government, whereby Japan will receive steel plate from this nation.

Japan's merchant marine is remarkably well adapted for traversing the war zone. It is pointed out by officials of the shipping board here that the Japanese merchant fleet is comparatively new. All of the vessels are well built and are speedy. They are vessels of the exact type needed to elude the submarine.

The Socialist candidate for mayor of New York has taken the trouble to explain that he will support the President of the United States conditionally, but in his advocacy of a German peace Mr. Hillquit does not qualify his support of the kaiser.—New York World.

NEW YORK FOOD SHORTAGE BEING RELIEVED.

New York, Nov. 9.—Temporary relief from the sugar famine, a record breaking crop of Manchurian beans and an abundant supply of salt helped to brighten the food outlook in New York today.

The sugar relief is in the release of 12,000 tons, which is approximately ten days' supply.

The Manchurian beans have been imported in large quantities, and the federal food commissioners are insisting that New York housewives try them.

The announcement regarding salt is made to offset pro-German propaganda, inferring an alarming shortage.

Flour is now selling for $12 a barrel and sugar at 10 cents a pound.

In the past year a large number of new electric washing machines have been designed.

RUSSIA'S NEW "GOVERNMENT."

Russia is again practically without a government. If dispatches of yesterday are to be credited, the Provisional government, headed by Kerensky, has been broken up and the central committee of the soldiers' and workmen's delegates in Petrograd has itself taken up the reins. The one hopeful sign appears to be the measures taken to avoid bloodshed. The best democratic brains of Russia—for Kerensky's socialism was at least sane—have been eliminated from the ship of state, and the extreme radical element, the anarchistic Maximalists, are in control. Whether Moscow will tamely submit to the action which the soldiers' and workmen's representatives of the capital have taken remains to be seen.

For it should be remembered that Moscow is still not only the chief city of the Russias, but the center and market of most of the country's agriculture. Moscow did not precisely follow the lead of Petrograd before, but that of Kerensky, organizer of the peasants' unions, and "workmen" officially means rather factory workers than peasants.

Nikolai Lenin, leader of the latest coup d'état—for it is nothing else—includes among the three chief problems of the Russian democracy "The handing over of the land to the peasants." That might have been expected, for the land problem is always to the fore, but whether Lenin, the sincerity of whose motives has been suspected before this, will be able to hold the ear of the peasants, is still to be shown.

The other "problems" which Lenin names are: "First—Immediate conclusion of the war, for which purpose the new government must propose an armistice." "Second—An economic crisis."

It will be easy to conclude the war. Germany has been working insidiously for that for many months past. Indeed, it might well be asked whether the Teutonic operations along Riga have not been influenced strongly by the success of the subterranean plotting in Petrograd. But the economic crisis is a horse of another color. Granted that the revolutionary committee possesses some unknown economic genius who will be able to end the "disjointedness" of Russia's industry and finance, it is very doubtful whether the committee or the man could command the confidence of powers like America, able and inclined to make loans. And if Russia withdraws from the war, the Allies and powers siding with them will advance no more funds; and Germany and Austria-Hungary will hardly be able to do so.

It is true that Leon Trotsky, President of the Petrograd Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates, has said that the Bolsheviks want an immediate, but not a separate peace. But he is merely one man, he only represents Petrograd at most, and a peace both immediate and not separate is impossible.

The committee in its proclamation says: "We have deposed the government of Kerensky, which rose against the revolution and the people. The change, was accomplished without bloodshed." Such a pronouncement was to be expected of course. Infidelity to the revolution is the worst of crimes at this time and the one crime unforgivable. One is reminded of the crimonations with which the leaders of the French Reign of Terror gradually killed off one another.

This proclamation is addressed "To the Army Committees of the Active Army, and to All Councils of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates, and to the Garrison and Proletariat of Petrograd." To what extent the new controlling committee can win and keep the allegiance of the army generally is very uncertain. The zemstvo organization is far more ramifying and dependable, a more settled system, than this impromptu committee of soldiers and workmen. The permanence of the new "government" is extremely doubtful.

U. S. PROHIBITION NEARER. The news that Ohio has gone prohibition—though the amendment to the state constitution will not take effect until February 6, 1919—is true is cheering to reformers, who have been working so long to bring about the change. It is important, not only because Ohio is one of the great states, but on account of the effect upon national prohibition. Only pressing emergency legislation, says our correspondence from Washington, can now sidetrack the Shepard resolution in the House, calling for submission of a constitutional amendment to all the states.

It is needless to observe that the forces of common sense are almost at one now for national prohibition. American fondness for fair play, tolerance, a live and let live policy has been one of the things that has halted the onward march of the reform. But capital as well as labor long have seen the wisdom of the change. Southern capital realized years ago that drink was ruining the efficiency of colored labor; the railways everywhere are standing for sober road employees; criminologists have shown the influence of drink in spreading crime; physicians have proved alcohol was not a food—Dr. Jacob's taken up the contrary—and is the cause of more physical and mental deterioration than any other agency; economists, with Russia, Kansas and Seattle to point to, have pricked the fallacy that the liquor traffic pays; and the Prohibition party, though a tiny minority, has been a leaven which has been communicated to the two great parties, both of which at times have been glad to put a prohibition or at least local option plank into their platforms. When one remembers that Prohibitionists were regarded, like the early abolitionists, as merely fanatics only two decades ago, their public status now is a marvel.

Reformers in Connecticut may well be cheered by the state's steady tendency year after year toward prohibition. If it is merely majority sentiment that has expressed itself in the 100 no-license towns with their population of very roughly 200,000, the same is true of the 68 license towns with their loosely approximate population of 900,000, comprising the larger cities, so that 200,000 vs. 900,000 does not by any means represent the true feeling of Connecticut on the question. "Nothing lies like statistics." We know where we're going and we're on our way.

King George, Premier Lloyd George, Lord Kitchener, Lord Roberts, Lord Curzon, Bonar Law and Admiral Jellicoe, not to mention Marshal Joffre in France, all have come out flatfootedly and unqualifiedly against the drink evil, and Lloyd George has declared that drink is a worse war evil to Britain than the German submarines. Only in the British isles does the evil persist strongly, so far as Great Britain is concerned, for the dependencies, especially Canada and Australia, are firm against the traffic. Canada is practically as strong for prohibition as is America.

The days of liquor are numbered. United States currency has depreciated greatly in neutral countries. Which means that the dividend of gold reserves, large as they are, is getting smaller in relation to the divisor of its money generally. Is this necessary? Or, if it is, must the prices of common commodities of living continue high or even soa higher? Americans' incomes—the incomes of the 9,400,000 of them more or less, who are paying for the $3,808,766,150 which is the total of the accepted subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan only—must be conserved if they are to give their money. The millions of subscribers to the first loan deserve only little less consideration. The country is beginning to wonder whether all these government commissions—the Christian Science Monitor of Boston says, and all this publicity concerning what is going to be done are arriving anywhere. Perhaps it isn't the demand for food by the Allies, but the corners, big and little, in America that are boosting food and fuel prices. Who knows?

With the cards all on the table, the election show down has proved what most patriotic Americans already knew, that the Socialists' internationalism has seriously undermined their strength as a party in America. Chicago's repudiation of their anti-war policy was emphatic. Milwaukee also is protesting its patriotism vehemently. Hillquit's showing in New York need discourage nobody who believes that political and economic individuality is as much a fact as is human individuality.

The appointment of 15 inspectors to help the state automobile commissioner enforce the law regarding motor vehicles will be welcomed by the great majority of automobile owners. The announcement that special effort will be made to enforce the headlight law is timely, for with the advent of short days and long evenings night accidents are increasing. Most of them are due to dazzling headlights. The headlight law has never been fully understood and it will take a few prosecutions and court rulings to define its requirements exactly.

The Red Cross campaign was to raise money for the physical well being of our soldiers. The Y. M. C. A. fund will be used mainly for their moral and social advantage. One is just as important as the other.

The Y. M. C. A. campaign begins here next Tuesday. Have your "tickets ready", Manchester.

The Denver mint is turning out thousands of pennies daily. It is well to let the far west realize there is such a coin.

Good afternoon. Have you bought your paint yet?

HOTELS TO KEEP OPEN FOR A TIME AT LEAST

Both Waranoke and Orford to See If It Will Pay Them to Conduct Business.

It has always been argued that if Manchester went "dry" the hotels would have to close but Henderson Chambers, proprietor of the Waranoke and William Walsh, proprietor of the Orford, have decided to keep their houses open, for a time at least. They feel that without the bar business they will have to run at a loss, but they are going to try it out.

Mr. Walsh is not very optimistic as to the outcome. He thinks it only a question of time when he will have to close, but he says he is willing to give it a fair trial. It is not only the loss of the bar business, but supplies are high and it is about impossible to get help. Such high wages are being paid in other lines of work that hotel help are following suit in their demands. A cook wants $30 a month and up, with board, of course; a dish washer demands $30 a month and his keep and it is impossible to get girls for the dining room. Of late, Mrs. Walsh has been acting as cook and also serving in the dining room. A girl, who has been working at the hotel for a couple of weeks, just to accommodate Mr. Walsh, is going to leave Saturday night. All things considered, Mr. Walsh does not believe he will be able to continue in the business very long. But he and his wife are getting tired out from overwork. He says he has made no definite plans for the future, but the first thing, if he does have to close up, will be for him and his wife to take a good rest. He has had two different propositions put up to him, but he has made no decision as to what he will do.

FREDERICK BIEBER'S FUNERAL. The funeral of Frederick Bieber, who died at St. Francis hospital Tuesday evening, was held from his late home on Birch street at two o'clock this afternoon and from the Center Congregational church at 2:30. Rev. Dr. George W. Reynolds of West Hartford, former pastor of the Center church, conducted the services. Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men, of which Mr. Bieber was a member, was represented. The burial was in the East cemetery. It was an automobile procession.

OHIO "DRYS" SEEM TO HAVE IT.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 9.—The official vote on prohibition from 43 counties complete was in the Secretary of State's office this morning. With the unofficial vote from the remaining 45 counties the "drys" were leading by 2,474 votes. This count did not include the 1,832 votes given the "wets" in Cincinnati. Neither did it include a new error favoring the "drys," amounting to 5,000 Cuyahoga county votes.

graphing and telephoning the jobbers and mine owners every day and they are pleading with the government fuel administrators to help them out. About the only reply they get is, "We are sorry, but we are doing the very best we can do for you." One wholesaler held out the hope that after navigation on the great lakes is closed next month the shipments of coal to the Northwest will stop and then more coal will come to New England. Another said that coal trains were coming to New England at regular intervals but that Manchester was off the main line and therefore was at a disadvantage. Such excuses as these are not very satisfying.

Prices Not Exorbitant.
As for the price of coal, the rate of $9.50 to $10 a ton which prevails in Manchester is about as low as can be expected, considering the government price at the mines, the profits allowed to the middlemen and the freight and delivery charges. The best thing that can be said about the price is that it is not likely to go any higher. Consumers have more reason to be worried about the supply than about the price.

High School Notes

Miss Elizabeth Craig, instructor in English, has called a meeting of the high school pupils at the close of the music period Monday afternoon, when preliminary steps will be taken toward organizing a debating club. At this meeting, a committee to nominate officers and a committee to draft a constitution and by laws will be appointed to report at a later meeting. It is planned at first simply to have inter-class debates, but it is expected that later inter-school debates will be held. The Juniors and seniors are planning to give an informal dance in honor of the class of 1917. The dance will be held some time next month, the date to be announced later.

Manchester just will not allow to fail a campaign for a worthy cause. The campaign started by the local chapter of the Red Cross to buy Christmas kits for the soldiers started off poorly but now that the end of the campaign is near, the residents are beginning to contribute and there remains but a trifle over $200 still to be collected. Yesterday contributions totaled $85 and were by the following: R. O. Cheney, Jr., A. Willard Case, A. L. Crowell, Temple Chapter, O. E. S., Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Lutheran church and Mrs. Francis Bowen.

Manchester had to supply 850 kits valued at $1.50 each. This came to $1,275. Of this $1,045 has already been collected.

Mrs. Pelton had been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. William Paxson of Springfield and came to visit her son in Wapping about two weeks ago. After her arrival there she was taken ill and pneumonia developed, causing her death yesterday. She was 60 years old. Besides the daughter and son mentioned above, she is survived by another son, F. W. Newcomb of Springfield. The funeral will be held from the son's home in Wapping at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. G. W. Hamilton of the Wapping Congregational church will conduct the service. The burial will be in the East cemetery.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE WARNED BY SPIES.

New York, Nov. 9.—Developments today in connection with the seizure of records and documents in the offices of the Hamburg-American line here by government agents are said to leave little doubt that a German spy, in a position to learn important government plans in advance, gave officials of the steamship company a "tip" in advance of the raid.

Secret service agents are examining books and papers today in hope of finding whence came the "tip," and it was said they expect to find evidence which will lead to the internment of several employees of the company.

Several cabinets were removed from the offices shortly before the raid was made.

ODD AUTO ACCIDENT.

A car owned by Thomas Alexander of Newport, R. I., in which he and his wife were seated and which also carried a load of potatoes, was wrecked late yesterday afternoon on McLean hill. The car was going toward Hartford when the driver tried to pass another machine going in the same direction. Something went wrong with the steering gear. The auto struck a telegraph pole and then ran up a steep embankment where it buried its nose in the earth and smashed the right front wheel. The occupants were not injured but the front of the auto was badly damaged.

HONORED CAIN MAHONEY, JR.

Third Brother to Serve Given Surprise Party By Friends.

About 50 of the friends of Cain Mahoney, Jr., who is among Manchester's next quota of men soon to leave for Camp Devens, gave him a pleasant surprise party at his home on Walnut street last evening. In behalf of the young man's fellow workers in the ribbon mills weave room, Hamilton Metcalf, Jr., presented to him a wrist watch and James W. Foley, in behalf of the other friends in the party, gave him a set of military brushes and a safety razor. A week ago, another party of friends gave Mr. Mahoney a fountain pen.

The friends at the party last night spent a most enjoyable time with games, music and singing and during the evening refreshments were served.

Young Mahoney will be the third brother in his family to enter Uncle Sam's service. One brother, Walter, is "somewhere in France" and another brother, Paul, is at Fort Slocum, N. Y. An uncle of these boys, Dennis Mahoney, was killed during the Civil War in the Battle of Deep Run in Virginia.

Alaska Sealing Industry Is Now Coming Back Again

"Tisn't what money you pay that makes value. It is what you get, GET, for the money you pay! That's what counts!"

It was a thrifty, old-time country banker speaking, and he clinched the argument home with a thrust of his closed fist into the palm of the other hand. "It's what you get—that's what counts!" he repeated again and again.

When the United States bought Alaska from Russia for the then huge sum of $7,000,000 there was adverse comment aplenty throughout this country. What a sum to squander for a barren waste of rock and snowland, far up in the Arctic zone, undeveloped, unvegetable, and of no possible use or interest to a nation whose chief wealth was agricultural, they said.

A Good Bargain.

We Americans have a world-wide reputation for making a good bargain. And assuredly Uncle Sam made the best kind of a good bargain when he paid over the same $7,000,000 for what is proving a veritable storehouse of treasure. The gold rushes of the Klondike and the Yukon are still recent memories; while silver, copper, platinum and the rarer minerals whose uses are most scientific contribute a pretty large total to the estimates of national wealth.

The other day Dr. H. M. Smith, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, estimated that in fine furs alone Alaska has already more than paid for itself. The Alaska seals, which, with the blue foxes of the Pribilof Islands, are the property of the United States, are his especial hobby. When the Alaska sealskins were put on sale at the Funsten Fur Auction at St. Louis recently—the exchange where buyers from all over the country come to fill their fur needs—he represented the United States government in that transaction.

Alaska and the Seals.

Just get Dr. Smith talking on Alaska and seals, and the enthusiasm of the true scientist shines forth. For many years private individuals bought the Alaska sealing rights on long lease. They made no efforts to preserve the valuable property; killings were enormous, and the entire herd was almost exterminated. Females, baby pups, sealings, were sacrificed ruthlessly to the greed of the lessees.

Then Uncle Sam took the whole matter into his own hands. Seal killings were declared unlawful; poachers arrested and prosecuted. Russia, Japan, Great Britain and the United States signed the Pelagis Treaty, which conserved sealing interests in common. The United States engaged a staff of scientists to make close investigation. When the five years closed season on seals expired in August, 1917, the Alaska seal herd—the most valuable in the world—had multiplied many times in number, scientific care had produced a finer pelt, valuable blue foxes were induced to herd on the islands, and the financial returns to the United States treasury began to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

Only Prime Pelts Taken.

Under government regime only the prime fur pelts will be taken. There will be permitted no sacrifice of females, no killings of young, no young left to starve and perish. The dictates of common sense and compassion will rule.

An interesting point was made by Dr. Smith in the course of conversation. Formerly all Alaska sealskins were salted, shipped to London to be dressed and dyed. The American buyer had to travel to London, pay all expenses of the journey, and pay also a duty of 20 per cent. on the sealskins coming back to America. Hence their former high price. Now all this work is done in the United States. When the great war started the head of the big Funsten Fur Auctions—where government sealskins and other pelts are sold—just picked up the leading seal dressing and dyeing establishment of London and transferred it en bloc to St. Louis.

By agreement with Washington fifteen experts came over to establish the industry here. Now there are over 200 skilled workers in this formerly foreign trade, and Alaska sealskins are caught, cured, dressed, dyed and machined and sold right here at home.

Sealing Growing.

Next summer will see the resumption of sealing again on a large scale; and Dr. Smith believes that there will be a sufficiency of pelts for trade requirements. The few that have been sold recently brought such good prices that the commissioner is convinced that there will be solid support for them in the market. With the increased catch prices will be more reasonable; and he is of the opinion that within a short time a genuine Alaska seal-skin coat or wrap will be as indispensable to the well-dressed woman as ever before.

Furthermore, the good doctor remarked, the woman who wears a seal-skin will be fulfilling a patriotic duty, for she will thereby be adding dollars to the national treasury and adding Uncle Sam to prosecute the war for freedom.

layed arrival of the enemy.

The official announcement adds that the fighting line now extends over a front of less than 30 miles and that several bridges over the Livenza river have been blown up.

This announcement convinces military experts that the bulk of the German forces has not yet crossed the river.

On French Front.

Paris, Nov. 9.—Following an unusually heavy artillery bombardment the Germans last night launched a series of desperate attacks against the French forces in Chaume Wood, in Lorraine. The war office reported today that all of these attacks were repulsed by machine gun and infantry fire. The Germans, the war office statement said, suffered severely in dead and wounded. The French also took many prisoners.

The Germans also launched attacks, of a less violent character, in the Arracourt sector. These, too, were repulsed, it was announced, the Germans losing heavily there also.

General Petain's men carried out two successful raids. In the Argonne, on the left bank of the Meuse, French troops pierced the German lines and returned with prisoners. In upper Alsace, French raiding parties also were successful, bringing in prisoners.

On British Front.

London, Nov. 9.—British military authorities have learned that the Germans are planning a desperate counter attack to retake Passchendaele, the latest British success on the West Flanders front.

Orders found in the possession of captured German officers, following the capture of Passchendaele, were issued by Hindenburg to the effect that the town must be taken at all costs.

Military authorities here believe that Crown Prince Rupprecht will make the attempt, probably at the sacrifice of the crack Bavarian troops, as soon as he recovers from the decisive defeat at the hands of the Haig forces. Dispatches from the front said that so far the Germans have made no move towards attacking the town.

PARIS PAPERS FAVOR SINGLE ARMY HEAD

Want Reform in Division of Responsibility—What Le Matin Says.

Paris, Nov. 9.—Reform in the division of responsibility in the ministry, and agitation favoring a single command for the Allied armies, continues to be freely discussed by the press of France.

Abel Ferry, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, writing in Le Matin, says the premier must be relieved of the burden of administering any department. He declares that Premier Painleve has the double duties of the president of the council and the minister of war.

An article in La Victoire speculates as to what battle front would be held the most important by one in complete command, and adds that an inter-allied general command is imperative.

WOMEN HELPED ALIENS TO ESCAPE.

New York, Nov. 9.—Federal officers here instituted a search today for two women who are believed to have aided German interned prisoners to escape from Fort McPherson, Ga.

Following the capture of Lieutenants Berg and Loescher, near Laredo, Texas, government agents secured several valuable clues and it is said that one of the women sought is a daughter of the publisher of a German newspaper living in the east.

FIGHTING ENGLAND'S WAR.

By E. E. Harriman of The Vigilantes.

There are still a few men left in the United States, notably in our capital, who maintain that we have been inveigled into fighting a war for England. They make me remember a certain old sinner I knew back in the seventies, somewhere in Minnesota. He subscribed for the County Times and he carefully carried home from the Sunday school the thin paper that was handed to the members by the librarian at the end of the lesson hour. He owned a Bible, a hymn book, a copy of U. S. Agricultural Reports for 1869, and an almanac.

With this up-to-date library and the careful preparation which he was able to make through its aid on Sunday afternoons, between naps, he was ready to meet all comers in debate. And he swore that "any fool man that tried to make him believe that the air is round is wastin' time an' wind, y' gorry."

Come now, I am telling facts. He did, and I heard him. In fact I was working in his harvest field at the time he said it and he stopped three cradlers, three binders, and one raker of bundles, that's me, to listen. Then he bawled me out for whistling through my teeth to show my astonishment at his ignorance.

That man had a colossal intellect compared to that of the man who argues that we are in this war to do England's fighting. When I was a boy—here I go again on biography of the auto variety—I stood by and watched two other boys fight over a ball which both claimed. In the muck the ball rolled away from the contestants and as it came my way I picked it up and held it in my hand, waiting the decision by wager of battle. The boy that licked jumped to his feet, looked for the ball, saw me holding it out and examined me a hard one on the nose without asking a question as to my motive.

Did I refuse to scrap on the plea that I would be fighting Clint's battle for him? I did not. When that fist landed I knew that I had a war of my own and that I was the guy who had to fight it. I fought for my own hand, as the Scotch say, though in this case it was a nose. I squared up for certain crimson drops and blobs and gouts that fell on the spotless snow in Dakin's pasture where we played town ball. I was not fighting for Clint Gould, I was fighting for myself, but if Clint profited by my action that did not hurt my feelings any.

America is fighting her own war. She is not fighting that of England or France or Italy or Serbia or Poland or Belgium or Montenegro or Roumania or Russia. She is fighting the war of that big, easy-going, fat and slow-to-anger country that lies all across the western continent like a blanket on a mule. That is whose war she is fighting and her nose is still smarting from the wallop given it by Germany. She stood by and watched the scrap until Germany took a poke too much at her and convinced her that she had a war of her own.

The main trouble with Miss Columbia is that she did not clear for action when she got the first hard poke after issuing a warning. If I had wasted time with Jeff Burrell, instead of going into action instantly, I might have wound up alongside of Clint, watching the gory snow get more gory from my own veins. Columbia, or her business manager pro tem, argued the matter until some of us feared that our war would be our subjugation without any powder burned by us.

While the manager argued, the enemy kept on throwing in hooks and jabs and uppercuts, sneering and jeering all the time. Well, Columbia is awake now and there may be some lively hair pulling before long. The very fact that she waited and argued has made the arguments of the claimants that this is not our war stronger. Had I hesitated to act when Jeff pumped my nose that time on the ball field, the crowd would have felt sure that there was some justice on his side. When I sailed into him like a concentrated cyclone in trousers, working both hands with every ounce I had behind them, they concluded that I had been wronged and every kid on the field was on my side when I yanked him up to his feet by the hair and made him give me his kerchief to bleed on. He had to use snowballs to stanch his gore.

We lost prestige and sympathy, but that is past and we are in OUR WAR! It was our blood wasted in the cold waters of the Atlantic by the U-boat's cowardly attack that made this our war. It was the parading of cruel, inhuman frightfulness before a nation that held the right to champion the oppressed, that made it our war. It was arrogant and strutting barbarism challenging civilization that made it our war. There are a thousand and one reasons why it is our war, our personal, private war, no matter if we have a hundred allies. It is ours, OURS!

MRS. STIASSNY KILLED HERSELF. New York, Nov. 9.—An autopsy held today on the body of Mrs. Sarah M. Stiassny, the wealthy widow who was found dead in her apartments with two bullet holes in her body Wednesday morning, proved conclusively to the examining physician that the woman had committed suicide.

The report that a pistol holding one loaded and one discharged shell was found in the hand of the dead woman led to the demand for an investigation.

Police investigation proved the pistol held two discharged shells. One bullet made a flesh wound beneath the left breast. The other one, which proved fatal, entered the brain.

Mrs. Stiassny left the bulk of her $250,000 fortune to her cousin, a young man who was in the apartment at the time of the shooting.

AMERICAN MISSION TO COME WITH BRITISH. London, Nov. 9.—Members of America's war mission, completing their work today, preparatory to the Allied war council at Paris, have arranged for a series of conferences with British officials.

British and American officials having similar work in charge will hold separate conferences, deciding on temporary plans of action before the meeting of the war council.

Members of the American mission are deeply interested in British shipyard activities, realizing that shipbuilding is now the all-important work to be executed by the Allies.

With preliminary work completed, several members of the American mission are planning an early visit to France.

COMMENDED FOR VALOR.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Five enlisted men in the United States navy were today commended for bravery by Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Three of these men, Alfred Allard, seaman, of New Bedford, Mass.; Stephen John Downey, seaman, of Utica, N. Y., and F. Kenneth Gunlach, naval volunteer of New York, were commended for loyalty to duty in beaching a ship that had been torpedoed.

The men were assigned to a British merchantman as signal men. On the afternoon of September 15, the vessel was torpedoed. All took to the boats with the exception of Allard and the master of the ship. When it was apparent that the ship might be saved, Downey and Gunlach left the boats and, with the officers of the vessel, stayed on board and succeeded in beaching the craft.

NEGRO ARMY RIOTERS WELL UNDER GUARD

Military Authorities Have Montgomery, Ala., Situation in Hand. Outbreak Over.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 9.—Seventy negro soldiers are under guard here today and will be interrogated by military authorities concerning another riot precipitated when colored soldiers became excited over a report that a negro soldier had been arrested and was about to be lynched.

Military authorities have the situation in hand and no further outbreak is expected. Those who took part in the disturbance will be punished, according to Major John C. Fulton, commanding the Tenth Training Battalion, colored.

The disturbance started after Jim Long, a negro chauffeur, had been arrested following a collision between his car and that of Mrs. C. Clark, a white woman. Long was booked at police headquarters, but later was released on bond.

REV. R. S. MOORE SPEAKS ON "WHAT GOD REQUIRES"

Last night at the revival meetings in the South Methodist church, Rev. R. S. Moore preached a sermon that bristled with pungent statements. The subject was "What God Requires." The sermon was based on one of the great texts of the Old Testament—"What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" Mr. Moore said:

"Christian people have put too many burdens on people. We have forgot the liberty, joy, peace our Lord came to give. We have made men say our shibboleth when it led them into bondage.

"Some things are not and never have been required. Some things are not Christ-like, are not Protestant. They are but the badges of slavery. My rights as a Christian have been bought by the life, suffering, death of Jesus Christ, and no man shall limit my freedom or circumscribe my career. We have let hands that have been dead for five hundred years point the way. To my own master I stand or fall. I would not go before the world with a two by four gospel, but one big enough for the biggest man. The real gospel is too big for words, too big for measurement, because in it is the spirit of the Eternal God.

"What does God require? Nothing you can bring in your hands or take out of your pockets is sufficient. The text says he requires justice, mercy, humility. The old Protestants found their liberty under the throne of God.

"The greatest battles in history are being fought to maintain this truth, that men not only can be just and ought to be just, but must be just in political life. The greatest war in history is being fought because man say, Rather than have injustice and unrighteousness we will lay down our possessions and our very life.

"The hardest thing in the world is to be just. Many men are not fair to themselves. They are not giving their own souls a chance. Be fair to yourself, to Christ, to the world in which you live. The energetic good man is a bad man to have in town—for some people. He stands between every man and the man who would hurt him. He is a brother to defend every woman, a father to protect every child. He is a partner of every man, woman and child because he is a blood-brother with Jesus Christ."

A solo by Mr. Delamater and a duet by Mr. Withee and Mr. Delamater added much to the impressiveness of the service. Tonight Mr. Moore will preach on "Jesus Knocking at the Door." Mr. Withee spoke at the noon meeting today. So much pleasure has been expressed over the men's meeting of last Sunday that a similar meeting will be held next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. Mr. Moore will speak on "Fighting the Good Fight."

SAYS NEW GOVERNMENT OF RUSSIA WILL FAIL.

New York, Nov. 9.—Leo Pasvol'sky, editor of a Russian daily published here, predicted today that the Bolshevik government in Russia will fail.

"The Bolshevik call this a revolution," writes Pasvol'sky. "It is a rebellion pure and simple and Russia and his companions as high treason. Russia will not follow the mad Petrograd. A handful of mad men will not be able to seize power over the whole country. It will fail."

Red Triangle Harbors No Slackers Among Its Secretaries.

WORK IN DANGER ZONE.

Rest Huts Are Directly Behind the First Line Trenches and Are Frequently Shelled.

"It is true that vigorous young men are sent to the battle line to represent the Young Men's Christian Association," said Harrison S. Elliott, one of the personal secretaries of the Y. M. C. A. War Work Council, "and it is necessary, for the work they are required to do calls for just as much good red blood as though they shouldered rifles. But it is not true that young men of draft age have secured work as Y. M. C. A. secretaries, either on the war front or at home, in order to evade the draft law. As a matter of fact Y. M. C. A. secretaries are not exempt from the draft.

No One of Draft Age Sent.
"No man of draft age has been sent to the war zone, except where exempt under the law, or in some cases, where excused temporarily by the draft boards until their numbers are reached. All have been warned that they could not secure exemption by engaging in Y. M. C. A. work, and, as in point of fact, the association here and abroad has been seriously hampered by the army of secretaries who have enlisted or have been drafted."

This was the reply of the Eastern Department of the National War Work Council to the charge that it was sending husky young men to man the huts in the war zone who ought to be fighting. A great many of the men already there and enroute are young ministers and theological students who are exempt by law. Charles R. Towson, a member of the council, made this statement:

Some Exceptions.
"The National War Work Council has been careful to select as secretaries no men of military age except those who are exempt upon statutory grounds, or who had been granted leave of absence by the exemption boards. Those who were granted such leave of absence have gone into the service with the clear understanding that they are to be ready to report for duty when their numbers are called.

"Notwithstanding the great loss of secretaries which the association was called upon to bear because of the draft, the personnel bureau of the War Work Council has avoided giving any encouragement to men of military age to enter the association service."

When Mr. A. L. Crossett of Boston, one of the members of the War Work Council, saw General Sibert in one of the main camps of the American expeditionary forces in France last August, the general made the statement and authorized its quotation, that "the right kind of men can serve the country several times better in Y. M. C. A. work than by enlisting in the ranks."

Secretaries in Danger Zone.
Anyone who has seen the way in which the soldiers in the camps and cantonments here use the Y. M. C. A. facilities and the way in which they take to the secretaries, will seriously doubt whether there has been any criticism of the kind of secretaries sent to the front by the men whom they serve. Really, the secretaries are actually in more danger than the troops, much of the time. Here are some of the facts in the case.

The number of Y. M. C. A. secretaries from this country who have gone to the war zone is slightly less than 300. They have been men of varying ages, many of them much over 30, although vigorous health was a prime necessity. Some of them were of draft age, but these were made up of men rejected for defects of eyes or otherwise, or were men whose draft numbers would not be reached for three months or more, and such were engaged with the understanding that they were to be subject to call at a moment's notice. About 50 voluntarily left the Y. M. C. A. service to enlist without waiting to be called under the draft. Some of the other men were within the draft limits, but were ministers or theological students, and as such exempt. The inference that the men were slackers is not justified therefore.

Are Under Fire.
But if any man sought employment with the Y. M. C. A. in the war zone thinking to save his hide from the perils of warfare, he was a misguided individual. As a matter of fact only the soldiers in the front trenches are in greater danger than the secretaries—and most of the work is done where there is practically constant shell fire. One old English secretary for 170 days in succession was not for a minute free from danger. He was not alone in this, for the average casualties approximate nine per cent. Huts have been shot to pieces, dugouts shelled and destroyed, probably 50 of each at last reports to headquarters.

The work of the Y. M. C. A. cannot all be done back at the rest camps and in the villages beyond the zone of firing. The men work in the rest camps, and in the rest camps are always under fire, and in the trenches also. True they are not often in the front line trenches, but the last thing a soldier gets before "going over the top" from the hands of a Y. M. C. A. man, is a cup of hot chocolate or cocoa, a couple of biscuits and two cakes of chocolate, the latter as an emergency ration should the man fall wounded between the lines. The secretaries are always in the communication and second and third line trenches. The first friend the "walking wounded" man meets on the way back to a hospital is the Y. M. C. A. secretary, who binds up the wounds if need be, gives a cup of something hot and perhaps assists the fellow to the doctor. When these men are fixed up by the surgeons they are practically turned over to the Y. M. C. A., except so far as medical attention is concerned, though this part of the care is removed from the firing zone.

Wilson's Bit.
One worker who will go in a short time is Wilson, of Chicago, who will drive a supply auto for the Y. M. C. A. and look after the cars when out of order. Wilson tried three times to get into the army and was thrice rejected on account of his eyes. The next best way to do his "bit" was with the "Y" and ere long he will be entering the firing zone daily.

Charles Whitehair, who has just returned from an inspection of the war zone work, pays high tribute to the men and declares that the soldier who utters a complaint against the force in any way must be one of the fellows found in every regiment, chronic grumblers and always in bad odor with the officers, and even with their comrades.

Many Y. M. C. A. Heroes.
When the history of the battle is written it will be found that just as great heroism was shown by the non-combatant forces as by those who went over the top and the "Y" men will not be the least in the list for honorable mention.

No man who can get into the army in France with a year's contract; none are to be recalled, though the final draft call will bring some home according to the understanding when they went. No complaint as to the personnel has come from abroad; it is felt that if there were cause it would come from the army staff first of all.

SUGAR AND CANNED GOODS HARD TO BUY THESE DAYS

Turkeys Also Will Be Scarce—Local Grocers Cannot Get Their Orders Filled.

Sugar is getting about as scarce as hen's teeth. Inquiries at the local stores show that they have little or no sugar on hand and that they can't get their orders for more sugar filled. One dealer said the only way he could get sugar recently was in two and five pound packages and that now he has no sugar, neither white or brown. Another dealer said he had just a little of the sweet product on hand. He placed an order with a Hartford firm for some sugar Tuesday, to be delivered Wednesday, but up to yesterday afternoon he had seen nothing of it. He also ordered some from Boston a week ago last Monday and yesterday received word that efforts were being made to get some sugar, with which to fill the order.

The South Manchester Candy Kitchen, which makes a big part of its own candy, reports that it cannot get any sugar. It has two barrels on hand, enough to last about two weeks.

Grocers also report difficulty in getting canned goods. The fact that so many people had "home gardens" last summer, apparently hasn't helped matters much. Corn is especially hard to get, because the government bought up a big block of the corn harvest, to help feed the army and navy. One local grocer ordered ten cases of canned corn last August, but was able to get only six. Two of the cases were sold before the shipment arrived, leaving him with four cases to last until next fall. Canned tomatoes also are hard to get, the cheapest brand costing $2 a dozen wholesale.

Another problem the grocers and marketmen have confronting them is the securing of turkeys for Thanksgiving. Gobblers are unusually scarce this year and the price is going to be so high that local grocers do not plan to sell any, except on orders. Wholesale markets refuse to quote prices and the big produce firms that go out into the country, especially in western New York state, and buy up large flocks of turkeys, are wondering where they are going to get the birds, to say nothing of quoting prices.

Last year, turkeys were scarce, and fancy prices were charged, but there were enough of them to supply the demand of those who could pay the price. The cost of grain has increased greatly during the past eighteen months and farmers, who barely got their money back or even lost last year, have refused to raise turkeys this year.

Chickens are now offered for sale at the local markets at from 35 to 38 cents a pound.

FALSE RUMORS.

Information given out here today should dispel the uneasiness which has been caused by the wide circulation of a statement that fruits and vegetables canned by the cold pack method are liable to cause poisoning or other ill effects. Such rumors are absolutely untrue, says Dr. H. L. Lang, of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a statement issued today through the committee of food supply of the Connecticut State Council of Defense. The supposition of poisoning is based upon the action of the bacillus botulinus. This organism is not found in fruit canned according to directions, since it is killed by a temperature of less than boiling, while the directions for canning by the cold pack method call for the exposure of the material canned to a boiling temperature. Spoiled fruits and vegetables should not be eaten, but sound products are perfectly safe. In case any person is doubtful of the healthfulness of their canned products, they may doubly assure themselves of safety by boiling the contents for a few minutes after removal from the can.
