BURLESON WILL RULE WIRE LINES

President Wants House Resolution Passed at Once—"Military Necessity", Say Baker, Daniels and Postmaster General, Part of Whose Department New Telegraph Administration will be

Washington, July 2.—Congress was today told by three cabinet members that it was a "military necessity" that President Wilson be empowered to take over the telegraph and telephone systems of the country at his discretion. The three officials, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Secretary of War Baker and Postmaster General Burleson, emphasized their belief that complete power should be given to the President without delay. They told the House interstate commerce committee that speedy action was imperative as a part of the general plan of governing the nation in such shape that the winning of the Boston, July 2.—New England's big textile strike, which is holding up millions of dollars worth of government war orders, may be settled before night. Harry J. Skeffington, Commissioner of Immigration and local conciliator for the Department of Labor, and J. ### Russia Wants Order; Diverse Anti-Bolshevist Factions Unite; Nihilist Hails Noble

Unanimity is evident among the various military factions that are endeavoring to overthrow the Russian Bolshevist regime. The political factions also are determined upon order as many signs indicate. The French newspaper Le Matin has received a telegram from Vladimir Bourtsseff, the noted revolutionary now in Stockholm, in which he says that all the anti-Bolshevist elements of the country will be rallied under an organization that is being formed. Bourtsseff is a Nihilist, but approves of the manifesto of Grand Duke Michael, who, he says, has stated the situation truly. Bourtsseff says in part: Bourtsseff's Telegram. "At the head of the Siberian armies is General Alexieff, a comrade, by his principles and activity, of Korniloff and Kaledin, those honest Generals, Democrats, and Russians whose names will always remain dear to the Russian people. Let our allies fully understand how much hope we put today in these Siberian troops. "This Provisional Government must be constituted from representatives of all parties and have an absolutely national character. It must be a collection of agitators and demagogic theorists, but must include all Russian politicians and, first of all, the members of the Constituent Assembly elected last November. If it does not include these men and shows the same weakness as the first Provisional Government, the Allies will regard the regeneration of Russia in the near future as impossible. "Such a Government must stick to nothing in order to restore order and root out Bolshevism in every form. The new Government must realize that the present war against the Germans is for Russia a question of foreign policy and home policy at the same time. Russia must resume her relations with the Allies and continue the defense of the common cause with all their mutual forces."

SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE CO. UNDER GOVT CONTROL, ALSO

New Haven, July 2.—If the government decides to take over the telephone exchange systems of the country as well as the long lines, the Southern New England Telephone Company, which is a Connecticut institution, will come under government control with the other subsidiary systems of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, according to the belief of persons well informed concerning the relations now existing in the telephone business. Officers of the Southern New England Company were loathe to discuss the situation today in view of the uncertainty as to the government's intentions. It is known, however, that in the event of the President's taking over the entire telephone business of the country they expect that the Connecticut Company will go in with the rest. A number of smaller local companies in the state are also in a similar position. Other Subsidiaries Exempt. It was explained here today that the through telephone lines of the country are under the supervision of what is known as the "long lines departments" of the A. T. & T. and this department is a district and separate one from the exchange systems or local lines of the company. The situation in this state is different from that in many western and southern states, where farmers' lines and mutual companies operating rural lines exist. The Southern New England Company has built or acquired and co-ordinated the rural lines almost completely in this state. So that government control of the through or "long lines" as distinct from the local exchanges would not affect the local lines in this state as would be the case in other parts of the country where many independent farmers or mutual lines would be left in much the same position as the short line railroads under the government control of railroads.

OUR MEN CAPTURE 38 OF FOE IN RAID IN CHATEAU JENLIS PARK

New Facts regarding Cantigny Victory Come Out—Whole Companies of Germans Wiped Out—Enemy Army Heads Fear U. S. Success.

With the American Army at the Marne, July 1.—(5 p. m.)—Thirty-three Germans, including one commissioned officer and five non-coms were captured by the Americans in a brilliant raiding excursion in a wooded strip of ground on the Picardy front known as the Chateau Jenlis Park. The raid was carried out at night and the Germans were surrounded by 85 of our men. The Germans were taken completely by surprise and sustained severe casualties, while our losses were trifling. The Americans were supported in the enterprise by a heavy bombardment. One of the prisoners—an officer—said that the Americans had captured Cantigny because all picked German troops had been warned to "beware of Americans."

Whole Foe Companies Die. Another prisoner admitted that the Germans had suffered heavily in the fighting at Cantigny, whole companies being wiped out. It was thus necessary to use replacement troops.

With the assistance of the French forces brigaded with them, the Americans swept forward last night between Bouresches and the Marne River, (immediately west of Chateau Thierry), gaining the village of Vaux, some nearby hilly ground and patches of woodland.

Vaux is one of a group of hamlets lying about a mile west of Chateau Thierry and its capture means that the Franco-American forces are now at Chateau Thierry's very threshold.

Where Blow Hit. The assault struck the German line on the Marne front where it bulges nearest to Paris. The Chateau Thierry salient on the German front has been crushed in and the Boches have been thrown back from strategic high ground.

The Americans fought with their proverbial gallantry, inflicting heavy losses upon the enemy and capturing many prisoners. (A cablegram from your correspondent with the American army at the Marne, filed from the battle front at 6 o'clock this morning, put the number of prisoners at 275, but it is possible that not all been counted when that dispatch was

While the interstate commerce committee was hearing Postmaster General Burleson, the Aswell resolution was taken from its hands by the House and given to the military affairs committee.

The re-reference of the resolution was made without objection, no member of the interstate commerce committee being on the floor to make a fight against it, when the matter was brought up by Representative Gordon of Ohio.

That was the general attitude of the three members of the President's official family. It was their belief that the President should be given complete authority to take over and run for the benefit of the nation the great network of electrical communication that spreads throughout the country. And it was generally accepted that Congress will vote the authority demanded at a very early date.

It was told that he had not the power, and the introduction of the Aswell resolution immediately followed. It was made plain today that the President will oppose any recess of Congress until the Aswell resolution has been passed. Aswell claims to have 100 signatures of representatives to his petition to Majority Leader Kitchin, asking him to give up the recess plan. A sharp fight in both houses may be the result of the present conflicting desires.

President Wilson will take over all telephone and telegraph lines as soon as the authority to do so is conferred upon him by Congress, it was learned on high authority today. The President, Congressional leaders say, plans to name Postmaster General Burleson to administer the communication system in connection with the Post Office Department.

Administration officials, all of whom are solidly behind the Aswell resolution, believe private operation of telephone and telegraph lines will have ended for all time in this country when the lines are taken over, even though Congress should decide to limit the duration of federal control to six months after the war.

The President asked the Department of Justice seven weeks ago to investigate and inform him whether he possessed authority to take over the communication lines under the war powers vested in him by the constitution or any Congressional enactment.

John S. Davis, state labor commissioner for New Hampshire, was to confer today with agents Herman B. Stray and Lewis Dexter, of the Amoskeag and Woonsocket, R. I., it was agreed to ask the government to intervene in what the employers called an "unpatriotic strike."

Union Head "Amused." "It amuses me." In tone of bitter irony, President John Golden, of the United Textile Workers of America, voiced his opinion today of the issue of "unpatriotic" raised by employers in the great New England textile strike.

Mr. Golden said today: "We expected that the issue of 'unpatriotic' would be raised. It amuses me. It isn't unpatriotic, of course, to take big profits. That's good Americanism. But the minute the textile worker wants a little more wages on account of the high cost of living, he is unpatriotic. "The members of the United Textile Workers of America take their hats off to no one so far as patriotism is concerned."

BETTER WAR PROTECTION FOR CHESAPEAKE BAY

New Lines of Defensive Sea Area Established to Guard Bay and Hampton Roads.

Washington, July 2.—New lines of defensive sea area, designed to afford greater protection to the Chesapeake entrance and Hampton Roads, were today established in an executive order by President Wilson. Former limits are abolished and a new area of greater extent created as follows:

Lower Chesapeake, outer limit, line parallel to that joining Cape Henry Light and Cape Charles Light and four nautical miles eastward thereof, and the lines from Cape Charles Light and Cape Henry Light perpendicular to this line; inner limits—line tangent to end of wharf on west side of Old Point Comfort and Fort Wool, and a line running from Black River Light through the Light vessel marking the southern end of the 35 foot cut known as the Baltimore Channel, and thence running to the eastern shore of Virginia. All traffic regulations for defense are binding on all shipping entering this section and especial points of entrance and egress are named.

Rural Lines. New Haven, July 2.—If the government decides to take over the telephone exchange systems of the country as well as the long lines, the Southern New England Telephone Company, which is a Connecticut institution, will come under government control with the other subsidiary systems of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, according to the belief of persons well informed concerning the relations now existing in the telephone business. He had been dependent, on account of ill health. He was unmarried and leaves two sisters in this city.

French Official Press. "While French troops occupied Bois de Croissant, south of Hautevesnes, the American allies on their right prepared a local operation to widen the gains made by them in the strip of ground west of the Bois de Belleau. The operation was executed on the afternoon of June 25 in a masterful manner and enabled our allies to advance their lines on a front of two kilometers, (nearly one fourth of a mile) south of the villages of Toroy and Belleau. At present the Americans hold positions that render untenable for the enemy the vast plateau traversed from the west to the east by the Bussatres-Chateau Thierry road. It dominates the valley of Cignon, also, to the south of the conquered positions. Fear U. S. Success. "The enemy resisted furiously and it is known that the German command places great importance on the orders that the Americans shall not be allowed to boast of any great success. "The Americans proved once more they are able to whip the German infantry by wrenching those positions from the enemy, meanwhile inflicting heavy losses upon the enemy and capturing 300 prisoners, seven of them officers, as well as ten heavy and many light machine guns in six hours of hand to hand fighting. This praise was timely owing to the growing plan of the Americans to act on their own resources. The Yankee soldiers are making a frantic hunt for flags and fire crackers for a fourth of July celebration in the rear of the lines. It is likely that army rockets will be used. The Paris program of celebration is elaborate.

RAILROADS' NET REVENUES DECREASE $100,000,000.

Washington, July 2.—Net revenues of the railroads for the first five months under federal control show a decrease of $110,364,263, compared with the similar period last year, the Interstate Commerce Commission announced today.

For the five months ending with May of this year, the net revenue was $171,437,977, as against $281,802,240 for the first five months of 1917. Total operative revenues for the month of May, 1918, were $313,790,181 and operating expenses $236,688,368.

There have been no other big operations elsewhere on the western front. On the extreme northern end of the Picardy field the Germans tried to recapture ground that had been wrested from them by the British, but failed.

Paris, July 2.—French and American troops advanced their positions in a night attack on the Marne front, capturing the village of Vaux, (west of Chateau Thierry), and nearby high ground, the French war office reported today.

Many prisoners, including some officers, were captured by the Allies. Pershing's Report. Washington, July 2.—Marked patrol activities and the success of American aviators are described in General Pershing's communique unbroken date of July 1 and made public by the War Department today. The Americans, the communique points out, continue to hold the upper hand in patrol encounters, one instance being cited when a patrol penetrated the enemy lines and returned with thirty prisoners.

The communique follows: "Section A—The day has passed quietly at points occupied by our troops. Yesterday one of our aviators shot down a hostile machine in the Toul region. "Section B—In Picardy between noon June 27 and noon June 28 the enemy showed little aggressiveness. His artillery fire was much lighter. Italians Advance Again. Washington, July 2.—The few remaining defenses of the Austrians on the West Brenta have been regained by the Italians, a wireless dispatch to the Italian embassy stated today. In the large mass of prisoners that have been captured by the Italians during the last two days there is a large percentage of officers, the dispatch added.

The dispatch points out that although the Austrians employed four complete divisions, together with two more in reserve for the defense of a sector of 3,000 meters, Italy's success shows they have complete possession of the offensive. The victorious Italians, pushing on along the Asiago Plateau, have taken by storm two more peaks, the Col del Rosso and the Peak of Echele. The former is less than a mile southeast of Monte di Valbella, the capture of which was announced yesterday, and the latter is in the same region.

Our airplanes daringly participated in all phases of the fighting. The losses suffered by the enemy on Saturday and Sunday are accounted to have been exceptionally heavy. Eighty-five officers and 1,935 men were made prisoner. Our losses, thanks to the decisiveness of the attack and excellent cooperation of the artillery, were very slight. On the remainder of the front the fighting activity yesterday was normal. In the Doane Valley and in the region of Giudicaria we surprised small enemy posts, securing a few prisoners and machine guns. In the Morgna region an enemy attack was repulsed.

Italian Report. On the Asiago Plateau our troops yesterday morning opened action again. The formidable Col del Rosso was carried with spirit. Col. di Chelo (Echele?) was the theater of a bitter struggle throughout the whole day. In the end the bravery of our troops conquered the enemy's stubborn resistance, and the contested positions remained in our hands. About midday and in the afternoon the enemy launched two heavy attacks against Monte di Valbella, but the enemy masses, mowed down by our artillery fire, were completely arrested by our infantry and forced to retire. Our airplanes daringly participated in all phases of the fighting. The losses suffered by the enemy on Saturday and Sunday are accounted to have been exceptionally heavy. Eighty-five officers and 1,935 men were made prisoner. Our losses, thanks to the decisiveness of the attack and excellent cooperation of the artillery, were very slight. graceful in every movement, her shapely figure displayed in handsome gowns, is not the least of the picture's attractions. But in addition to this, her emotional ability is exerted to the utmost and there is not a moment when she fails to respond to the demands made upon her as the wife of a confirmed inebriate, who remains faithful to him to the end.

DEHYDRATION TO DATE.

No better comment on the way the country's new soldiers are fed can be given than that they have averaged nine pounds' gain in weight since entering the training camps. Some organizations, says the July number of a reliable periodical, have averaged as much as 20 pounds' increase.

Careful attention to Sammy's diet has been largely responsible, though of course the exercise, regular hours, outdoor or semi-outdoor living and so on also have counted.

The most marked advance in commissary arrangements has been the improvement and extension of dehydration methods. "Dehydration" is to justify the election of men inclined to be hostile to the president's program.

In such a case a writer must be exceedingly skillful or the confusion of his mind will peek through. Anybody who reads the platform will discover these desires, or trends of thought, in the work of the Republican platform makers.

They were very anxious to avoid making such an assault upon the government, as would enable the people to perceive they were assaulting Woodrow Wilson.

For this reason their praise of him is direct and open, and their dispraise veiled and furtive. The partisan side of the platform writers' mind got the best of him, and he wrote of "chronic incapacity to govern" a sentence so foreign to the other matter of the platform, that it was at once seized by Mr. Spellacy, for exhibition to the people of Connecticut.

In closing, the Times says that the writer of the "platform" "combines in his person about the right combination between partisanship and observation."

Perhaps. But the important thing is the nominees and not the nominators.

STATE POULTRY CENSUS.

Hartford county is the most fruitful of five—Tolland, Fairfield, Litchfield and New Haven being the others. So says an agricultural survey recently completed. The Press Bulletin of the Connecticut Agricultural College dated July 1 gives these figures:

The number of fowls in the five counties was 587,418, distributed as follows: Fairfield, 101,359; Hartford, 157,546; Litchfield, 123,813; New Haven, 131,187; Tolland, 73,563. Included in these figures were 784 turkeys, 1,806 ducks, 936 geese and 566 guineas, leaving a total of 583,346 hens.

It is estimated that the other three counties will average about the same number of poultry as those enumerated. In addition to these birds, as determined by the census, it will be fair to assume that there is about 10 per cent. additional poultry kept in towns and villages and small home places which were not enumerated in the census. Consequently a safe estimate of Connecticut's poultry would appear to be about a million birds on April 1, 1918.

In the counties enumerated there were a total of 587,418 birds on 13,372 farms which gives an average of 44 per farm. There were 2,702 farms in the five counties on which no poultry at all was kept. Rhode Island Reds is the favorite breed as shown by the census with Leghorns, Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Orpingtons and Asiatics in the order named.

Yet the state doesn't produce half the eggs necessary for its own use.

Ge!

D'ye know we're got a bunch of busters in this country? Not boosters, but busters which aint the same thing.

First they said we couldn't get our guys over to the other side 'cause we aint got no ships. Then they said we aint got no shoes or guns for 'em. Then they said we aint got no airplanes and next week they'll tell us something else we fell down on or aint got.

Every time these buster guys made a back they was called. You'd think they'd wise up to quit the game, but no, they just go 'round 'round and cook up another one ever so often. I'd hate to feel like those guys.

Now look here. Suppose you was makin' a pair of shoes a day and one day a guy came in an' told you you had to make a thousand pairs a day right off the reel. D'ye think you could do that job without makin' a mistake? Then supposin' you was told to make fiddles instead of shoes and you never saw a fiddle made in

Well that's the game the U. S. is up against. While Ford was riggin' his tools to make gab chasers Europe could've turned out about twenty of 'em but now he turns that many out in five days an' it took him six months to get ready. And while he was gettin' ready a lot of buster guys was yellin' their heads off because no ships was bein' turned out.

That's about the same story all over the country. We're hearin' some of it here in town and it gives me a pain when I hear guys dopin' out how the government ought to do this or that and how we fell down on this or that job.

Any time you hear one of these ginks shovellin' the gloom ast him how he'd run the thing and you'll find out that runnin' a hand organ looks like higher mathematics to him.

is what causes the decay of potatoes, spinach, cabbage, meat for hash and soups, and many other articles of diet are dried similarly. The drying of milk and preserving of the food content in the form of a powder which will enable a reduction of milk from 14 cents to nine cents has been known.

Germany, which has availed herself of so many of America's war appliances, inventions, raises five times as big a potato crop as America, where the tuber is a native, and before 1914 shipped us $300,000 worth of potato flour—dehydrated potatoes—yearly. If there was any surplus, the pigs got it.

Now the project of dehydrating bananas and shipping north the powder, instead of mostly water, has been seriously broached.

Many of these articles are just as palatable after dehydration as before. Vegetables, after soaking in water and being boiled in the same water, can hardly be told, it is said, from the fresh articles, though we have our doubts. Meat is 70 per cent water, which gives an idea of the amount of ship tonnage sayable; milk, 88 per cent, and this is saying nothing about lessened refrigeration, freight charges, spoiling from the presence of some bacteria and delay in consumption and so on.

And the best thing of it is that dehydration has come to stay.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM AGAIN.

The Bridgeport Times says many unpleasant things about the Republican platform, meaning thereby the address of a certain editor which the convention endorsed as a platform. "Unskillful platform writing" is the subject of the Times editorial.

Please read these extracts: The man who wrote the Republican platform was not skillful. The man who listened and approved were not good listeners.

It was the desire of the men who managed the affair to present an appearance of unity in their statements. They were actually of two minds, and especially was this true of the man who did the actual writing.

He actually believes, that Woodrow Wilson is a great president, and that the administration at Washington has performed a great task. But as a politician, engaged on a political mission, he wanted to find a way to the government, in order

Women teachers all over the country are on a silent strike. A survey made in 37 states shows that they are giving up teaching by the hundreds and thousands to engage in something which pays better. The war has improved their opportunity. West Virginia during the present year had to close 150-200 schools; Montana and Wyoming about two dozen, while New Hampshire, North Carolina, Delaware, Mississippi, Alabama, New Mexico, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Indiana also report closings.

The Hartford Times, commenting upon an Evening Herald editorial, says the Republican convention "compromised," not "harmonized."

Yes, the Lieutenant Governor was renominated, to define by example. But was anything said or done against the Governor, the leader of the Republican party in the state? What various newspapers thought might be done is another matter.

SUFFERED FOR HIS COUNTRY.

Silas Deane, First American Diplomatic Agent, Received Harsh Treatment From Government.

Silas Deane, the first diplomatic agent of the United States, was born at Groton, Mass., close to 200 years ago. He became a merchant and was a delegate to the first Continental congress. In the spring of 1776 he was sent to France as a secret diplomatic agent. He posed as a merchant from Bermuda, and upon his arrival in Paris sought an interview with Count de Vergennes, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, who refused to receive him. Deane was reduced to the direst poverty and was ejected by his landlady. Subsequent American ambassadors have complained of the lack of suitable embassies, but Deane was reduced to a point where he had to accept poor lodgings from a sympathetic Frenchman. Eventually he was given an audience with Vergennes and began the diplomatic relations which eventually resulted in the French alliance. In 1777 Deane was recalled.

In the bitter controversy which followed his recall Thomas Paine revealed the fact that supplies furnished the colonies had been furnished by the French government. This was considered a diplomatic indiscretion and it cost Paine his place as secretary of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. Deane, driven into poverty and exile, died in England in 1789. Half a century later his claim for his services abroad was adjusted by congress and a large sum was paid his heirs.

ALL MADE EQUAL BY DEATH

No Democracy Ever Conceived Is at All Comparable to That of the Tomb.

In the democracy of the dead all men at last are equal. There is neither rank nor station nor prerogative in the republic of the grave. At this fatal threshold the philosopher ceases to be wise, and the song of the poet is silent. Dives relinquishes his millions and Lazarus his rags. The poor man is as rich as the richest, and the rich man is as poor as the pauper. The creditor loses his usury and the debtor is acquitted of his obligation. There the proud man surrenders his dignities, the politician his honors, the wordling his pleasures; the invalid needs no physician, and the laborer rests from unrequited toil.

Here, at last, is nature's final decree in equity. The wrongs of time are redressed. Injustice is expiated, the irony of fate is refuted; the unequal distribution of wealth, honor, capacity, pleasure and opportunity which makes life such a cruel and inexplicable tragedy, ceases in the realm of death. The strongest there has no supremacy, and the weakest needs no

SCOUTMASTERS NEEDED FOR LOCAL BOY SCOUTS

There are Boys Enough But Not Enough Adult Leaders

BIG RALLY LAST NIGHT

Speakers Tell Youngsters to go After Men and Get Them Interested in Movement.

The Boy Scouts turned out about 100 per cent strong at the rally held at the Recreation Center last evening, but only a few men attended. The apparent indifference to the Boy Scout movement on the part of the people of Manchester was pointed out by R. LaMotte Russell, who spoke on "Boy Scout Work from a Local Point of View." Mr. Russell said the people had been indifferent and something had to be done to overcome that indifference. He thought their indifference was because they knew so little about Scouting. The work is worth a good deal to the boys and also to the people of a community, he said, and then he took occasion to speak of the good work the local Boy Scouts have done in the various war campaigns, telling how willingly and efficiently they took hold of the work during the last few days of the Third Liberty Loan campaign. He told the boys to go after the men, whom they wanted as scout master and invite them to their meetings and outings.

Value of Organization. Among the things which the boys get out of Scouting, Mr. Russell said, are that they recognize the value of organization, they become better and more useful citizens and get lots of fun out of their meetings and camps.

He said it is up to the older ones to push this Boy Scout movement, but the boys must do their share in stirring up interest.

A. A. Warren Presides.

Scout Commissioner A. A. Warren presided at the rally and gave a short talk before introducing the first speaker. He said Manchester now has three troops of Boy Scouts, with approximately 65 boys. Hartford has 50 odd troops and in comparison to its size Manchester should have no less than ten organized troops. Commissioner Warren said that was Manchester's aim. He told the Boys Scouts to do their Scout work well and they would be better fitted for whatever line of work they follow in life.

Dr. Munger Speaks.

At the conclusion of his remarks, Commissioner Warren introduced Dr. Edwin H. Munger of Hartford, who spoke on Boy Scout Work as a Patriotic Program. Dr. Munger has been connected with Boy Scout work in Hartford for several years and appeared in the Scout uniform. During the first part of his talk, he spoke directly to the boys, urging them to take all the scout tests they could and to work in the first aid, signaling and nature studies, which are taught the Boy Scouts. Touching on the Boy Scout work along patriotic lines, Dr. Munger spoke of the fine work the Scouts have done in selling Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps and in the various publicity campaigns. He said the Boy Scouts have made good, but they need men, who recognize the value of this work and are willing to sacrifice themselves and their time in the interest of the boys. He told the men they couldn't expect the boys to advance very far, unless they took the lead.

Plan in England.

In England, Dr. Munger said, the Boy Scouts are doing coast guard duty. In France, Italy and Greece and other European countries, the Scouts are doing similar work. He said the boys must be developed along broad lines if they are to take the places of the men who are called to war. In closing, Dr. Munger expressed the belief that there are men in Manchester who are willing to sacrifice themselves for the boys.

Importance of Work.

President N. H. Batchelder of the Loomis Institute was scheduled to speak on "An Appeal for Leaders in Boys' Work", but he chose to talk on the importance of the work and the qualities necessary for leadership. He considered the Boy Scout work as important or more so than the school, he said. To get along with boys, a man has got to be the real thing, President Batchelder said; he must be plain, square, just and honest and have a sense of humor; that is, he must be able to see things from the boys' point of view. President Batchelder told the boys to go out and pick the man if they didn't come and tell them they've got to be their leaders and then give the men a good time after they get them.

Musical Program.

Between the addresses, patriotic songs were sung under the leadership of Edward F. Taylor, with George E. Rogers accompanying on the piano. Just before the close, Rev. Eric I. Lindh announced that a follow-up meeting of pastors, Scout councilmen and scout leaders, would be held at the Recreation Center Friday evening. He also announced that it had been decided to have a camp this summer for the Boy Scouts, and this was received with loud cheers. The rally closed with the singing of one verse of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Sprouts After 1,000 Years.

At the Zensui Temple, Iwano village, Koga-gun, Shiga Prefecture, a very ancient wooden idol of Valsravanna was opened four years ago and some rice that had reposed therein fully ten centuries was removed and planted. The seeds germinated and the rice grown therefrom appears to be similar in all respects to that of the present day. The yield was large and the crop for next year from this seed is expected to be excellent. Valsravanna is the God of Treasure. When the statue was repaired a bag of coarse flaxen textile was exhumed containing rice seeds, with a piece of paper bearing the following inscription, in Chinese: "This image has been engraved for the peace of the world. If any one of later generations opens it, he should put in new seeds." The Tokyo Academy of Fine Art pronounces the image and its contents of great antiquity—at least 1,000 years old.

Origin of Blizzard.

Blizzard is undoubtedly a word of American origin, but it is much older than suggested. In Amersham (Eng.) churchyard today there is a tomb of the Blizzard family and people of that name still reside in the village of Chalfoot St. Giles. A man of this name accompanied William Penn to the new world. This Blizzard, it is said, developed very unsociable habits and settled far away from his fellows in the remote Northwest. Now a northwestern snowstorm is the most disagreeable thing there is about the whole climate, and Mr. Blizzard, being so unpleasant a person to his neighbors, his name was adopted to describe the objectionable type of weather which blew from his direction.

America's First Cartoon.

Benjamin Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette was the first American newspaper to print a cartoon. There were rumors of a possible war with the French, which resulted in a call for a meeting of the representatives of the British colonies. Franklin was one of the commissioners, and to increase the force of an appeal for united action, on May 8, 1764, printed a cartoon representing a snake cut into eight parts, the head representing New England and the other seven parts the various colonies outside of New England. The legend read: "Join or die."

Rev. Theodore Bachelor of North Madison preached a very able and eloquent sermon in the place of his father, Rev. Francis Bachelor in the local church last Sunday. He has been accepted as an army chaplain and will go into training and expects to be sent to France before many months. He has been endeavoring for a long time to enlist as a chaplain.

The War Savings Campaign in this community has come to a finish and the people have responded willingly and well. The town was canvassed by Wilbur Smith and John Monaghan and on Friday not a single person had to be registered at the school. The amount of stamps pledged will amount to $4,755 in 1923. This is certainly a fine showing for the community.

NEARLY $100,000 PLEDGED RESULT OF W. S. S. DRIVE

Returns Still Incomplete—Mill Figures to Be Added—7,568 Residents Sign Pledges.

Incomplete returns from the local W. S. S. campaign recently completed show that 7,568 Manchester residents have pledged $94,736.39 to aid the U. S. in making the world safe for democracy. Of these 127 residents pledged themselves to give to their best ability. The figures do not include the amounts pledged at the mills. These figures will not be ready for several days yet.

During the month of June Manchester residents saved W. S. S. to the amount of $27,802.83. Add to this $145,822.32 previously reported and up to July 1, this town has saved $173,725.15 through Thrift Stamps.

From the returns now in the per capita is $12.50 for the number of persons canvassed or $5.50 for the whole town. Since many persons include pledges made before the drive it is rather difficult at this time to state just what the per capita for the town is.

Probably before the end of the week, after the mills' figures are in, a more complete report will be available.

LOCAL MEN KNOW NOTHING OF ROCKVILLE'S MYSTERY

Chester Melvin and Ervin Yetta Discharged by Coroner at Inquest Over "Big Charlie's" Death.

Chester Melvin and Ervin Yetta, of Huntington street, this town, were discharged in Rockville yesterday by Coroner Fahy. The Rockville police believed the men knew something about the death of "Big Charlie" Nathan, whose body was found in a spring in Rockville several days ago.

Testimony brought out the fact that the men had been drinking and were fighting together over a small sum of money. They had gathered at the spring where the body of the men was found. This spring, it was explained, was a favorite hangout of the men. The officer who was called to the scene said that to all ap-

MINISTER'S SON KILLED ON THE WESTERN FRONT

Sergeant Adolph Cornell First Local Man Slain in Action

POPULAR IN MANCHESTER

Well Liked by All Who Knew Him—Had Been Promoted Only Recently.

Sergeant Adolph Cornell, son of Rev. and Mrs. P. J. O. Cornell, of this town, was killed on June 19 in France. This is Manchester's first soldier killed in action. The news came to town this morning at 8.40 when a telegram was received by the father of the boy.

But 22 Years Old.

"Micky", as Cornell was known among his many friends, was 22 years old. Had he lived he would have reached his twenty third birthday in September. He enlisted March 30, 1916 in Company G. He saw service with the company at the Mexican border. When in France Cornell was seriously ill and was in a hospital for some time.

Came From Brooklyn.

The young man came to Manchester six or seven years ago when his father accepted the pastorate of the local Swedish Lutheran church. He had lived in Brooklyn, N. Y., where he attended school. He was born in Wilcox, Pa.

Worked in Mills.

While in this town Cornell was employed by the Blish Hardware Company and later in the Cheney mills. Only last week a letter was received from him announcing that he had been promoted to a sergeant. The letter was printed in Saturday's Herald.

Besides his parents Cornell leaves a sister Miss Hildur Cornell and a brother, John Cornell.

"Micky" was popular in Manchester. He was a likeable fellow and gained a host of friends around town. No other Manchester soldier has

BUT TWELVE GROCERYMEN APPEAR AT THE MEETING

Local Food Dealers Apparently Not Enthusiastic Over Plan to Publish Prices.

Manchester's grocerymen and marketmen were scheduled to hold a meeting last night in the Recreation building for the purpose of organizing and discussing the publishing of prices in the local papers. When the time arrived for calling the meeting there were about twelve grocers present; so few that it was not deemed advisable to take any action. The meeting was postponed. It will be held next week, either Monday or Thursday night. In the meantime an effort will be made to get in touch with Food Administrator Scoville.

This idea of publishing the prices in the local papers was fully explained in The Evening Herald a short time ago in the report of Food Administrator Scoville's talk. It is planned to publish the prices on all commodities so that if there are any signs of profiteering it may be traced to the right party. Wholesale and retail prices will be published in parallel columns.

The food administrator does not wish to enforce this upon the grocerymen. He wishes them to see that it is a wise and just thing to do and to adopt the method upon their own initiative. If, on the other hand, they show unwillingness to comply, the administrator will take it into his own hands and force the grocers to comply with the rule.

Last night's meeting, in a way, showed an unwillingness on the part of the local grocerymen to comply with the order. All the grocers were notified of the meeting and it was hoped to complete the organization of the local dealers at last night's meeting.

After the organization was complete it was planned to discuss thoroughly the plan and then make their complaints, if any were brought out, to Food Administrator Scoville.

At the meeting which Administrator Scoville addressed a short time ago there were about fifty grocers present. Even then all the local dealers were not represented.

JULY 4 PLANS.

How Manchester will celebrate the Fourth will be decided at tonight's meeting of the committee and the selectmen. The plans already published in The Herald will be completed. The speaker's committee will report on the speaker for the evening. The speaker for the afternoon has already been secured, Rev. Joseph Murray of Hartford. He is well known in the state as a patriotic speaker. The meeting will be held in the selectmen's rooms in the Hall of Records.
