PEACE COMMISSIONERS RESPONSIBLE BY PRECEDENT ONLY TO PRESIDENT

Washington, Nov. 14.—The peace commissioners of the United States when appointed, will be responsible only to President Wilson. They will be appointed by the President without consulting the Senate. The first the Senate will hear of the negotiations officially is when it is called upon by the President either to ratify or reject the treaty his commissioners have signed.

Examination of the precedents established in the past peace negotiations in which the United States has been involved showed today that the then President always has appointed his own commissioners, has had charge of all peace negotiations and has not been responsible to the Senate except in submitting the final treaty to the body for ratification.

Colonel House Being Reached. In view of these precedents, it was believed today that Republican resentment against Colonel E. M. House, will result in violent speeches on the floor of the Senate when he is named on the peace commission, always provided the President names him. No attempt to cancel his commission from the President will be possible, even if certain Senators desired.

The commissioners appointed by President Madison in 1814 to conclude peace, following the second war with Great Britain were not subject to ratification by the Senate, and in conducting their negotiations they communicated only with the President and the Secretary of State. The commissioners were John Quincy Adams, J. A. Bayard, Henry Clay and Johnathan Russell. Many documents bearing their signatures are in the possession of the Senate.

Civil War Precedents. Several attempts to open negotiations between the United States and the Confederacy were made during the civil war. In each instance the President Lincoln without the advice and consent of the Senate. President Lincoln, himself, with Secretary of State Seward, acted as commissioner in one instance to hear proposals from the Confederacy. The war ended with the unconditional surrender of Lee's armies to General Grant and there was no peace conference at its conclusion. This struggle, of course, was a family affair.

McKinley's Way. President McKinley, during the Spanish-American war, appointed William R. Day, Secretary of State, who at once resigned, and United States Senators Cushman K. Davis, William P. Frye and George Gray and Whitlaw Reid as commissioners to conclude peace with Spain on the basis of a protocol previously signed. McKinley's commissioners were not confirmed by the Senate and they held themselves responsible only to him.

In his message to Congress in December, 1898, President McKinley showed he had taken entire charge of negotiations for peace when he used this language: "Their negotiations have made hopeful progress so that I trust soon to be able to lay a definite treaty of peace before the Senate, with a review of the steps leading to its signature."

In view of the action of former Presidents appointing members of the Senate among their delegates to peace conferences, there was speculation at the capitol today over whether President Wilson will follow the example. Possible selections from among the Senate membership might be Senators Lodge or Knox, Republicans, Williams and Thomas, Democrats. The only member of the House mentioned as a possible member of the commission is Swager Sherry of Kentucky, recently defeated in his contest for re-election and he may be eliminated through appointment as Solicitor General of the United States.

FALKENHAYN YIELDS TO SOLDIERS' DEMANDS

Telegrams should be distributed to the front recalling all soldiers to Germany.

No military order should be given without the consent of the soldiers' committees. All units from a battalion to a division shall select two or three soldiers to form a committee.

There was an unconfirmed report in circulation today that von Hindenburg had sent a message to the German paper Belgische Courrier of Brussels approving the revolutionary movement and adding:

"Let us have immediate peace. I beg all officers and soldiers to obey every order given by the soldiers' committees."

It is said that many officers, particularly those of lower ranks, willingly gave up their epaulets and swords and associated with the soldiers. On Sunday night some Belgians in Brussels burned kiosks where German papers were being sold. German soldiers fired blank cartridges on the crowd, but the Belgians were undaunted. The soldiers then fired real cartridges and 12 Belgians were killed. This action was sanctioned by the soldiers' committee on the ground it was necessary for the preservation of order.

Falkenhayn Speaks. General von Falkenhayn made a speech announcing the surrender of his command. It was translated from German into French and printed in the Brussels papers so that the Belgians could read it.

According to H. C. Ives, J. W. Demaree and Mr. Van Swinderen, delegates of the Spanish and Dutch food Commissions, who arrived today from Ghent, Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, commander of the German armies in the Flanders front, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning went to the Dutch legation at Brussels in a closed car, accompanied by an aide and asked for refuge. Minister von Vollenhagen, representing Holland, refused and then Rupprecht went to the Spanish legation, where the Spanish minister took him in.

CHICAGO HOTEL FIRE

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 14.—More than 100 guests and girl employees of the Hotel Majestic groped their way through choking smoke to reach the stairways and elevators early today during a spectacular fire of unknown origin in the grill on the 17th floor of the sky scraper. The loss was estimated at $35,000 and an investigation is to be made of the cause of the fire.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE REGAINS BUOYANCY

Stock Common in Demand Again—Various Bills Rise, Too, Under Bidding Movement.

New York, Nov. 14.—There was a brisk demand for stocks at the opening of the stock market today reflecting the disappearance of uneasiness over the money situation and a more confident feeling in the maintenance of industrial activity in many quarters with the establishment of peace.

The trading also indicated that a large part of yesterday's pressure came from bear plungers, making the short interest the largest that it has been for months.

Southern Pacific was the strongest of the railway issues, advancing one point to 106 3-8. Reading gained 3-4 to 90.

Marine Preferred moved up 17-8 points to 122 1-4 and many other stocks made gains ranging from fractions to over one point.

Settle Policy Soon. It is expected that a definite decision on policy will be announced shortly. So far as the army overseas is concerned, it will be held there probably throughout the winter at least. A part of it must remain on duty there indefinitely. All problems with the Expeditionary Forces, however, will be worked out by General Pershing. He and his aides are working on plans that cover every contingency that may arise. With Bolshevik sentiment spreading to neutral nations the necessity of guarding the victorious American army from the danger of having its morale weakened by insidious propaganda is apparent, but General Pershing already has taken steps to meet this.

FAKE OVERSEAS VET IS ARRESTED.

Stamford, Nov. 14.—John Mahan, 18 years old, of 189 Bushnell street, New Brunswick, N. J., is under arrest here for posing as an overseas veteran. He applied at the Red Cross headquarters here for financial aid, claiming that he had been robbed of $65 and was penniless. He claimed he was stationed at Camp Devens. Investigation proved that he was a faker.

TWO FLYERS KILLED.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 14.—Cadet Aviators John McCune and J. C. Wristline, both of Pittsburg, are dead today as the result of an accident at the local Marine corps aviation field. During a practice flight their airplane caught fire and crashed to the ground.

DEMobilIZATION TIME IS BONE OF ARGUMENT

Industry Will Suffer, if Men in Camps Are Held Long.

PEACE NOT SIGNED

War Department Waiting Until Then—Universal Military Training Question Comes to Fore.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Insistent demand that draft troops in army cantonments be discharged at once is being voiced here. The men are very badly needed in industry. Many of them were brought in through recent calls and their old jobs are being held open for them. But whether they can be discharged or held for many months to come is a problem that is bringing considerable worry to officials responsible.

The men now in the army, excepting those who regularly enlisted in the old regular army, are by law compelled to serve "during the period of the emergency." Secretary of War Baker and his assistants hold that under this regulation these men must remain in the service until the peace treaty has been signed. Then all will be mustered out at the same time. Congressional leaders are disposed to question this construction. However, they say that anything the War Department decides to have done to expedite demobilization will be done by Congress.

Demobilization Legislation. The general staff has before it the draft of legislation designed to cover the demobilization and its accompanying problems. It also has its views on what the country should do to adopt a system of universal military training completed. It has plans for creating a new army of the United States to replace the old regular army around which the present wonderful fighting force of the United States was constructed. All of these plans have been put in the hands of the War Department.

Secretary of War Baker, will be sent to Congress with the request that it be enacted into law. If the bills are separate, then it is almost a certainty that the War Department will be given authority to muster out of the service all of the army units in such a manner as it thinks best. This will permit the mustering out of the men held in this country within a very reasonable time. However should the mustering out authorization be accompanied by the other bills, especially that which calls for compulsory military service, adoption of the legislation cannot be secured. There are enough men in both houses of Congress who are unalterably opposed to compulsory military service to hold up any legislation covering it for an indefinite period.

Settle Policy Soon. It is expected that a definite decision on policy will be announced shortly. So far as the army overseas is concerned, it will be held there probably throughout the winter at least. A part of it must remain on duty there indefinitely. All problems with the Expeditionary Forces, however, will be worked out by General Pershing. He and his aides are working on plans that cover every contingency that may arise. With Bolshevik sentiment spreading to neutral nations the necessity of guarding the victorious American army from the danger of having its morale weakened by insidious propaganda is apparent, but General Pershing already has taken steps to meet this.

AMERICANIZATION WORK GIVEN GOOD START HERE

Twenty-two women pledged themselves to teach home classes, and a most interesting discussion of methods and materials took place. It is hoped that active work will begin next week.

WHY VERSAILLES IS BEST FOR CONFERENCE

Holland and Switzerland Have Been Not Altogether Friendly.

ALLIES FOR VERSAILLES

France from Sentiment, Britain for Practical Reasons—Italy Has No Preference—Versailles' Advantages.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Plans for the coming peace conference will be prepared at a special session of the Inter-Allied Council at Versailles early next week. At that time the council will take up the time and place for the conference and the representation to be accorded the various nations.

As stated in these dispatches last Monday there is very strong sentiment in favor of holding the conference at Versailles. France wants it there for sentimental reasons. Great Britain believes it would be much wiser for it to go there than to either Holland or Switzerland, neither of which countries was any neutral country. Because of this, too friendly while the issues of the war hung in the balance. Italy has no particular preference, while the United States is willing that the time and place suit the other nations.

Privacy Possible. At Versailles absolute privacy could be secured. The French government would be able to surround the meeting place with guards through whom no one could pass. And absolute protection could be afforded to all participants, something which cannot be assured in any neutral country. Because of this unless some unexpected hitch shall take place, it is very probable Versailles will be the place chosen.

The President has so far failed to give any indication regarding the men he has under consideration to represent the United States. Neither has he expressed an opinion one way or the other as to whether he personally attended the peace conference. It is expected, however, that some word on both subjects will soon be available.

Park Theater

Jack Abbe, the Japanese juvenile star, will appear at the Park theater in "Mystic Faces," a drama of Frisco Oriental life which portrays the longing of a home Japanese delivery boy for romance and wealth.

As Yano, the employee of Goro, the Japanese curio-shop keeper of Frisco, Abbe experiences an intense longing to perform deeds which will make him as illustrious as his great Sammuri ancestors. In his eyes the most beautiful girl in the world is a Japanese maiden, Tama, whose name, interpreted, means "a precious jewel." How to obtain this precious jewel was one of Yano's unsolvable problems.

To obtain riches he gambles with the few pennies in his possession, giving vent to his Oriental instincts for gaming, and wins a sum which, to him, is considerable. To this gambling house is brought Letty Stanford, an American Red Cross girl, abducted by German agents.

Escaping from a raid made on the gambling house by the police, Yano learns of Letty Stanford's plight and goes to her aid disguised in feminine apparel, for she has saved his beloved dog, Gow, from the hands of the dog catchers.

How Yano assists Letty to escape and is involved in a thrilling battle with her abductors, and how he ultimately wins Tama, the "Precious Jewel," is one of the most beautiful stories which have been told on the screen.

Circle Theater

A novelty presenting William S. Hart, the famous Thomas H. Ince Aircraft star, in a role wherein he exhibits extreme egotism, is in itself original and yet in the end, the selfishness of this man is overcome by love of a good pure woman. It is in the role of "Selfish Yates," in the picture of the same name just released, in which Mr. Hart doubtless will again score a decisive hit with his host of admirers.

The locale of "Selfish Yates" is, as in all of Mr. Hart's pictures, a mining town with the inevitable saloon, gambling den, and madame's den. A regeneration of "Selfish Yates," through his love for Mary Adams, a young, innocent, trusting girl, is so different from the theme of any other story in which Mr. Hart has been seen heretofore as to make it a distinct creation and he gets out of it all that was written into the part of "Selfish Yates" by C. Gardner Sullivan, the talented author, and more.

Mr. Hart makes of this role an artistic characterization dissimilar in every respect from any of his previous portrayals. There are numerous dramatic situations and all the scenes are absorbingly interesting and thrilling. The picture was directed by Mr. Hart under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. The photography by Joe August is of the highest artistic standard, while the support is wholly adequate and satisfying.

Geer's new Hartford directory has just reached Manchester. It is even more complete than last year's when it was thought that the last step in directory perfection had been reached.

The directory pays a tribute to the memory of Everett Selden Geer who was head of the concern for 30 years and who died on October 24, 1917. He made the directory his life work. The present volume is the 81st and includes all of the town of West Hartford and a directory of East Hartford.

Some interesting statistics of Hartford is included in the work. Hartford's population is given at 158,806, an increase for the year of 3,806. The number of names on Hartford's honor roll is 6,500. All war activities are listed. The grand total of names in the book is 31,250. The magnitude of the business and

The Open Forum

To All Red Cross Chapters:

I have been requested to send you the following communication by order of the War Council of the American Red Cross.

"Will you please call immediate attention, by telegraph if necessary, of all chapters to the fact that the Red Cross while urging the most cordial support and cooperation on the part of all members, does not participate in the United War Fund campaign this week. It is quite evident that there has been a misunderstanding in many places on this point. The Red Cross is amply supplied with which to take care of its needs until the late spring of next year, at which time a campaign for funds for its relief work may be necessary. It is but fair to the organizations in the United War Fund that the public should understand that contributions this week are exclusively for their work. It is also but fair to the public that the people should know that provision for the needs of the Red Cross during the coming year is not taken care of during this campaign. The Red Cross does not authorize anyone to carry on a campaign for funds in its name or for its work, but it does urge the utmost possible generosity toward the United War Work campaign for the seven recreational organizations whose budgets have been approved by the National government.

In addition to communicating this message to your chapters, will you please request that they give it the utmost local publicity and that they call it to the attention of all local managers of the United War Work campaign with the suggestion that they too assist us in removing any public confusion on the point involved."

Very truly yours,
 Ethan Allen
 Manager, Atlantic Division.

GERMAN ANARCHY OVER.

Whether the German empire holds together or not, anarchy is practically ended, according to the latest dispatches.

When it is recalled that the claim was repeatedly made that the court clique and militarists embarked upon the war in order to save the throne, the present assertion of certain Social Democrats that democracy would have come whether the Kaiser had abdicated or not seems fully borne out.

It is a great mistake, therefore, to talk about Bolshevism in Germany, despite the councils of soldiers and workmen similar to the Russian soviets.

Furthermore, these Social Democrats are of high intellectual calibre and their leaders have had many years' experience in governmental ways, if only because of their membership in the Reichstag.

It will be interesting to watch and see whether they have the common sense and patriotism to sacrifice factional wishes and personal ambitions in the interest of national unity.

When a man like John Spargo, the prominent American Socialist, comes out and declares that the capitalist system necessarily makes for the spread of education among the masses, German Socialists, in a sense, of course, the German social philosophy of the supremacy of the state and complete subordination of the individual, a fundamental enforced by autocracy, comes as a convenient mold for the Socialists.

The Social Democrats are a national party, not confined to Prussia or Bavaria or Saxony or any other single province or group of provinces.

THE PROHIBITION AMENDMENT

It would be a blow at prohibition, if the Supreme Court decided, as a Washington dispatch of yesterday suggested was possible, that the resolution submitting the question to state legislatures was invalid because passed by less than a quorum of Congress.

Whether, however, even with the war over, the amending of the federal constitution could be blocked for more than a few years is questionable.

On top of this, as this week's Press Bulletin of the Connecticut Temperance Union reminds us, the number of actual "dry" states has been increased to 33 by the recent elections, and only 36 legislatures need ratify the amendment to make it good.

The most interesting fact, however, in connection with the expected action by additional state legislatures is the expectation, voiced by the Bulletin, that the Connecticut General Assembly will ratify the amendment. A "dry" majority has been elected in both Senate and House, according to a canvass of the members-elect, says the Bulletin.

PEACE AND CONNECTICUT.

It will be interesting to watch the effect of the war's ending upon cities like Bridgeport, which owe so much of their increased population to it.

Of course the Allied armies still may have much work before them, and that might mean further supplies and munitions, but the war industries generally are bound to be hit.

It seems unnecessary that any such cities should go back to where they were before. Surely it should be no more difficult to change an industrial plant from a war to a peace status, than vice versa.

The reorganization of the chief manufacturing plants is a matter of public interest to the state and not merely one of private concern to the capital and labor involved.

The editor of The Evening Herald visited Camp Devens yesterday for the first time. One of the strongest impressions he brought home was of the work the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus and the Salvation Army are doing for the health and morality of our soldiers.

While newspaper readers will miss the war news which has formed the most important part of the world's happenings its place will be well taken by reports of past occurrences of great interest which have been suppressed by the censor or by lack of communication with points behind the enemy's lines.

We never could see, and we don't see now, the wisdom of ending permanently the teaching of the German language and literature in the public schools and the colleges.

The big question what part of the Allied forces is going to Russia to help end the anarchy there by supporting a genuine Russian government remains unanswered.

The Hartford Times answers the observation of the Providence Journal, that Bismarck hardly would be able to believe his handiwork was undone if he returned to earth, by remarking that he might find some compensation in seeing the finish of the ex-Kaiser who deposed him.

It is a mistake to suppose that social class distinctions, so rampant in Germany that, according to Mr. Gerard, it was almost impossible to find two Germans on the same plane, will be ended overnight.

"Whoever opposes me, I will crush," said the Kaiser several years ago. In the light of actual achievement, Wilhelm will be known as the most swelled-headed monarch that has sat on an important throne in centuries.

THE LIVING MONUMENT.

By George Barr McCutcheon of the Vigilantes.

In the little Connecticut town of Norfolk there is a triangular piece of ground belonging to the people. For years it stood useless, almost abandoned, and to a certain extent unnoticed.

A few months after the first contingent marched out of the town on its way to the training camp and thence to the line of battle, Norfolk began to receive its share of tidings from the front.

One flag day in the year that the war made heroes of these lads from Norfolk the people of that place dedicated the point of this triangle to the memory of those who were not to come back from France.

Another day in an attack he borrowed a rifle from an enlisted man and knocked a couple of Beches over.

The present Adjutant, Captain Dillard is a former Marine, Regular army man and quite an efficient soldier. He gives me many responsible jobs here and has already tried to make me a sergeant but the tables of organization don't warrant it.

Today was pay day and I received some 105 francs. Was interrupted by "lights out" on account of aeroplane activity but will make this short and sweet and retire for a night's rest.

Love to all and keep the home fires burning; and the mail active. Sincerely and lovingly, John.

FOR WOMEN WORKERS.

Hartford, Nov. 15.—For the further carrying out of the policy expressed by President Wilson in his proclamation of June 17, 1918, that a centralized agency must have sole direction of all recruiting of civilian workers, the United States Employment Service, from and after November, will take under its exclusive control and direction the recruitment of women workers.

It is a mistake to suppose that social class distinctions, so rampant in Germany that, according to Mr. Gerard, it was almost impossible to find two Germans on the same plane, will be ended overnight.

"Whoever opposes me, I will crush," said the Kaiser several years ago. In the light of actual achievement, Wilhelm will be known as the most swelled-headed monarch that has sat on an important throne in centuries.

WAR CORNER

Although the war is practically over, letters keep arriving from our boys "over there." The following was received by the parents of J. A. Benson:

Dear Mother, Dad and all: Your letters of good cheer were just received and find me quite well and happy. Have moved back away out of the noise and am in less danger than before, although the danger there was slight as I lived and worked in a concrete dugout and at meal times they used to put some shell over occasionally which made the walk of 500 yards or so uncomfortable and hurried at times.

Our chaplains have changed recently and the one with us is a fat Father from Boston. He's jolly and every inch a man and is always among the boys doing everything he can. When at the front he looks after the sick, wounded and killed and every time he returns from a trip in the rear we are always sure to receive cigarettes, chocolate and writing paper.

Another day in an attack he borrowed a rifle from an enlisted man and knocked a couple of Beches over.

The present Adjutant, Captain Dillard is a former Marine, Regular army man and quite an efficient soldier. He gives me many responsible jobs here and has already tried to make me a sergeant but the tables of organization don't warrant it.

The War Is Over But Your Boy Is Still Over There

He wants a place to rest, a place to get warm, a place to smoke and get a hot drink and hear somebody talk United States.

He sees a light ahead. • It's a hut!

Do you think he cares whether that hut is run by the Knights of Columbus or the Y. M. C. A., Jewish Welfare Board or the Salvation Army? Not much! He knows what he wants and he knows that he'll get it—whatever uniform the folks inside happen to be wearing.

Your boy knows what real democracy means.

Till the Boys Come Home

Keep the hut fires burning!

A hut is your fighter's home over there. It is his store, his theatre, his church, his school and his club.

It is the place where he writes your letters.

It is the place where he reads his books and magazines, where he and his friends get around a piano and sing or listen to a phonograph.

It is the place where all the movies are given, and the concerts and the minstrel shows and vaudeville. Often it is the only place within reach that is dry and light and warm and clean.

A hut may be a shed or tent or a fine old chateau or a hotel. Sometimes, at the front, it's just a battered little shack—the only building left standing in town.

On the fighting line, it's just a board laid across two boxes with a sign nailed to a tree.

The sign doesn't matter—it's what the hut gives your fighter.

Back up these seven organizations without thought of race or creed, because your boy knows that he is always welcome everywhere, and he needs them all.

Why you should give twice as much as you ever gave before!

The need is for a sum 70% greater than any gift ever asked for since the world began. The Government has fixed this sum at $170,500,000.

By giving to these seven organizations all at once, the cost and effort of six additional campaigns is saved.

Unless Americans do give twice as much as ever before, our soldiers and sailors may not enjoy during 1919 their:

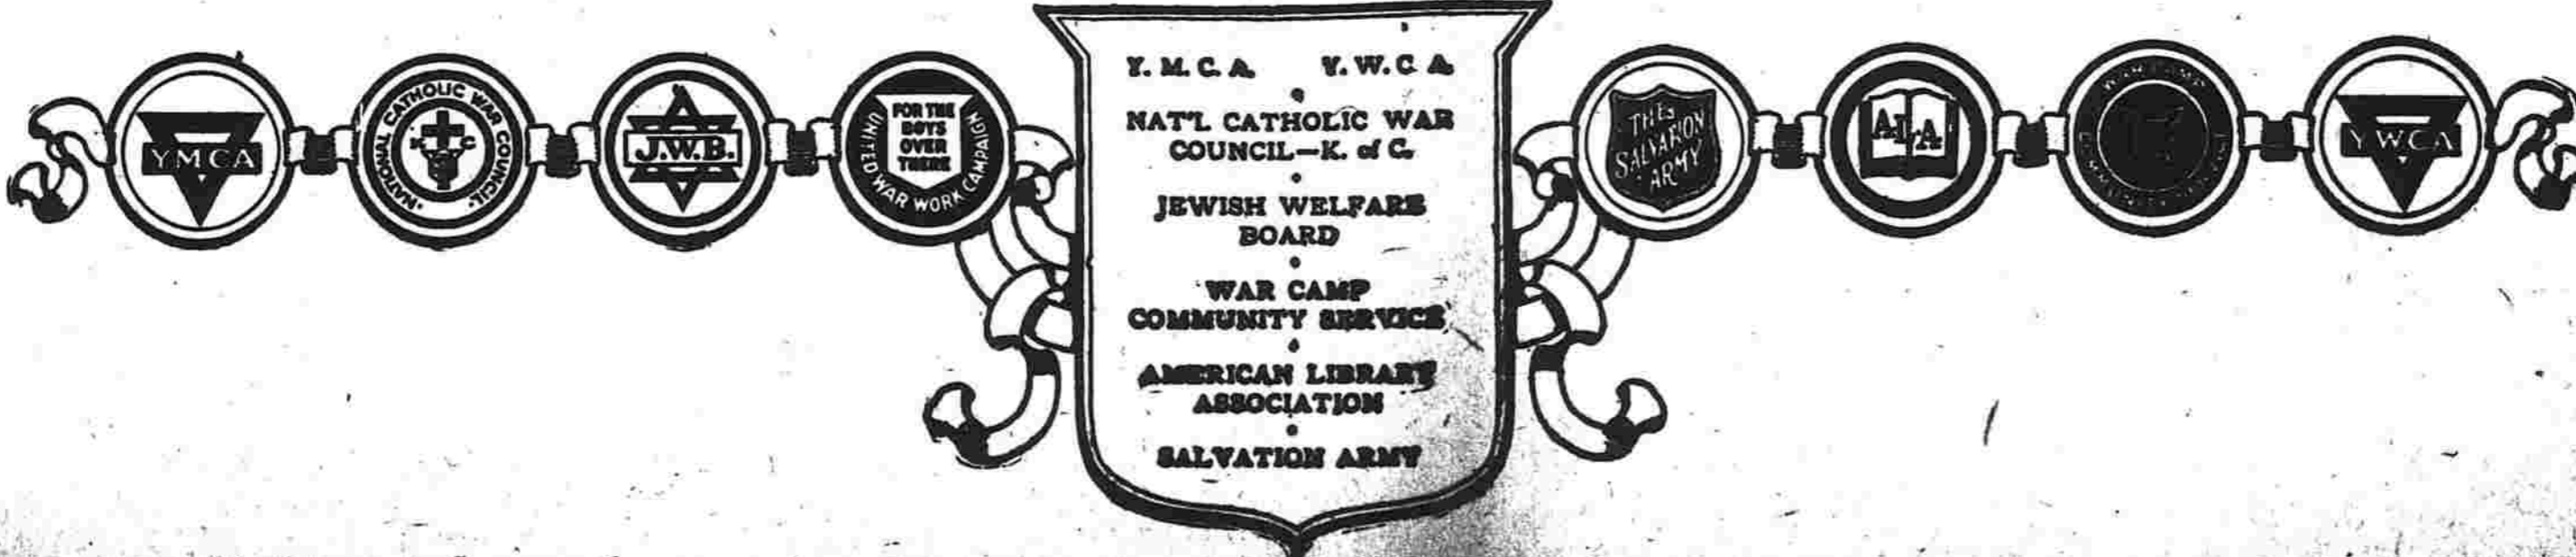

- 3600 Recreation Buildings
- 1000 Miles of Movie Film
- 100 Leading Stage Stars
- 2000 Athletic Directors
- 2500 Libraries supplying 5,000,000 books
- 85 Hostess Houses
- 15,000 Big-brother "secretaries"
- Millions of dollars of home comforts

When you give double, you make sure that every fighter has the cheer and comforts of these seven organizations every step of the way from home to the front and back again. You provide him with a church, a theatre, a cheerful home, a store, a school, a club and an athletic field—and a knowledge that the folks back home are with him, heart and soul!

You have loaned your money to supply their physical needs.

Now give to maintain the Morale that is winning the war!

fighters from the moment of their induction into the service up to the time when they march to the battlefield and then go into the trenches with them. The Red Triangle's workers welcome the rookie when he arrives in camp and they stand in the front line trenches with the veterans under fire, serving them hot drinks, cigarettes, chocolate and cookies when the boys are unable to stop for a full meal. Beginning with the few "Y" secretaries who waited in France the arrival of General Pershing's vanguard the force has grown to 5,739 men and 852 women workers overseas and 3,882 in home camps.

"At the army's request the Y. M. C. A. conducts the canteens abroad in units where there are no Quartermaster's stores. The "Y" huts are the soldiers' clubs, theaters, schools and churches. There were more than 650 of the huts over there on Sept. 1, with the number increasing. In its work of carrying the American home spirit to France the Y. M. C. A. finds time to supervise the soldiers' athletics, and to transmit money from America without charge.

How Women Help. "Never before in warfare have women played so active a part in reinforcing the fighting men and in relieving men from other work that they might fight. Thus, the field of the Young Women's Christian Association in war work has been a great one. In America the association's most striking welfare project has been the establishment of hostess houses in the camps where the men may receive visiting relatives. Army officers have asserted that these houses do much to elevate the plane of a training camp and to dispel the homesickness which causes desertions and lowers morale.

"In the war zone the Y. W. C. A. provides social workers, recreation leaders, physical directors, and cafeteria managers for the thousands of American women nurses, Signal Corps girls, telephone operators, and other English-speaking women employed with the American forces. The association also does welfare work for the girls employed in many plants in England and France. The Y. W. C. A. maintains centers and restaurants for these American women engaged in work in support of the government.

Knights of Columbus. "The National Catholic War Council was formed to co-ordinate, unify and put in operation all Catholic War activities and put Catholics in touch with ways of aiding the government to win the war. It designated the Knights of Columbus as the body representing the church in recreational welfare of our soldiers in camps. As elsewhere in this issue, the Center Congregational will hold its service on Sunday evening and the North Methodist church will hold its service this evening.

The local churches have made plans for Thanksgiving and praise services. As elsewhere in this issue, the Center Congregational will hold its service on Sunday evening and the North Methodist church will hold its service this evening. The North Congregational church will hold its service tonight. Rev. Richard Peters will deliver the first of a series of sermons on the general topic of "Peace." Tonight's subject will be "Faith and Life's Adventure." A short service of praise and Thanksgiving will follow.

At St. Mary's, special services will be held at 8 o'clock tonight. Rev. J. S. Nellis, the rector, will make a short address on "Peace and Victory." At the South Methodist a special service will be held this evening at 7:45. Rev. W. H. Bath will speak on "The Victory that Overcomes the World."

At the Swedish Lutheran, a victory service will be held on Sunday morning.

For Homesickness. "A feature of the work of this organization is to check homesickness. This is done through inviting the men to visit homes where they have home cooked meals. Visitors to camps, especially in the early stages of the training, have found this to be one of the most important phases of civilian activity with regard to soldiers.

"The morale of the more than 100,000 Jewish boys fighting for America is taken care of by the Jewish Welfare Board, in addition to recreational and athletic work along the lines of the K. of C. and the Y. M. C. A., the board specializes on Americanizing the many young Jewish men who have not been in this country very long—though long enough to join the colors. Putting them in touch with American ideals and history, perfecting their English, teaching many to read and write the language, these are only a few of the ways in which the board makes the Jewish soldier more valuable to America and welds him firmly into the American fighting machine.

The organization also bridges divergences between the Jewish and Gentile soldiers, safeguarding the religious rights of the former while bringing them into better understanding with their Christian fellow-in-arms. There are now more than fifty huts in operation, and 100 additional units are planned. The workers in home camps number 200 while 100 men and the same number of women are being sent over seas.

The members of the Pentecostal church held a short Thanksgiving service last evening preceding a business session. Rev. A. C. Goldberg read a Thanksgiving psalm and spoke briefly.

A Thanksgiving and praise service will be held at the Lutheran Concordia church at 10:45 Sunday morning.

WHOSE DOG WAS KILLED?

It seems that on Saturday afternoon at 3:15 a black and white dog was run over and killed on Center street by an automobile. In The Herald mail this morning came a letter with the number of the automobile which killed the dog. So if the owner of the dog wishes this information he may obtain it by calling up this office.

RESOLUTIONS.

South Manchester, Conn.
Resolutions adopted by Linne Lodge, No. 72, Knights of Pythias.

Whereas it has seemed good to the Ruler of the Universe to remove from among us our beloved friend and fellow member, Brother John A. ...

Resolved, that we sincerely sympathize with relatives and friends of our beloved associate and that we respectfully commend them for consolation to Divine Providence; be it further

Resolved, that in memory of our departed brother our charter be draped in mourning for a period of 30 days, a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family; that these resolutions be spread upon the records of our lodge and published in the Manchester Evening Herald and the Fraternal News.

MORE CONFUSION.

Another Telegram Sent to Draft Board Which Reverses Yesterday's Message.

The local Selective Service Board received this morning a telegram from Governor Holcomb which reads:

"Registrants who have reached their 37th birthday and who have received their questionnaires need not fill out such questionnaires and should return them immediately to the local boards. Detailed instructions will follow."

Any explanation would probably confuse matters more as the above message contradicts the one received yesterday.

The contributions for the Manchester Overseas Smoke Fund jumped over the $900 mark which represents the total amount collected since last January 4th, when the original company G fund was started.

Since that time we have sent across to the boys in France over $1,000 worth of cigarettes, chewing tobacco, snuff, pipes and cigars.

There is still a deficit of about $275 on the last shipment of cigarettes.

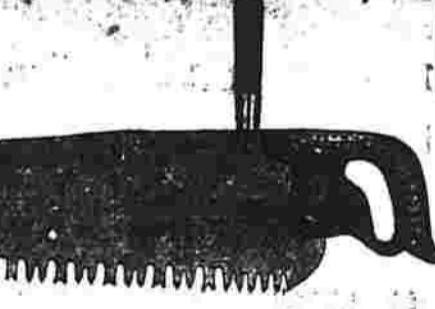

Let us clean this up quickly, send your subscriptions as mail them to either R. G. Rich or Thomas J. Quish, at the South Manchester post office. They will be acknowledged in these columns and proper credit will be given for the same.

The money is needed, it is not cause. The smokers are on the list and the boys over there with ed more cigarettes than they ever had in their lives in time before.
