CARDINAL DEFENDS THE POPE AGAINST PARTIALITY CHARGE

Vatican Courts Thorough Investigation, Declares Papal Secretary of State—Italy, France and Belgium Most Benefited by Holy See's Initiative—Did Not Want Seat at Conference.

Rome, June 5.—In an exclusive interview granted your correspondent today, Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, defended the Holy See against charges of partiality in favor of Germany and Austria during the war and offered to place the archives of the Holy See at the disposal of any one wishing to investigate the Vatican's war work and diplomacy.

Vatican Courts Probe.

From the very beginning of the war, Cardinal Gasparri said, the Pope was in the unpleasant position of a man walking a tight rope, with both groups of belligerents trying to push him off. Neither succeeded, he said, and now the Vatican courts a thorough investigation.

Facts prove that the Vatican actually expended a greater beneficent energy in favor of the entente than in behalf of the central powers, said Cardinal Gasparri. "This was natural because the entente countries were more easily accessible to us. Italy, France and Belgium were benefited mostly by the Vatican's initiative.

Clearing House of Woe.

A hundred rooms in the Vatican palaces were transformed into offices for the transmission of letters and parcels to prisoners, for answering daily thousands of letters anxious mothers, wives and sisters of all belligerent nations. I personally directed this clearing house of woes and horrors. Hardly a day passed but his Holiness sent autographed letters, requesting reprieves for condemned men and women. It is no exaggeration to say that hundreds were saved through the direct interposition of the Pope when their lives hung in the balance. Nevertheless the despite this monumental work for humanity, the accusation of partiality still persists."

Cardinal Gasparri, commenting upon the results of the negotiations at Paris, said that the peace conference had been a "fruitful source of surprises." He denied that the Vatican had attempted to obtain a seat in the conference, a report that was circulated following President Wilson's visit here.

As to Conference.

"In the early days of the war," he said, "the Holy See decided upon two lines of conduct with reference to peace. In the event that the belligerents believed in His Holiness to send a representative to a conference for peace by agreements, we would have accepted in the hope of acting for peace, of exercising power to smooth passions and of upholding the weak against the strong in accordance with our traditional policy. But if the conference, the form of dictation of the terms of victors to the vanquished, the Holy See never intended to participate, even if officially invited, as would undoubtedly have been the case had Germany been victorious.

"It has been repeatedly stated that the Holy See was making efforts to obtain a seat at the conference but the truth is, nothing was further from our thoughts. Mgr. Cerretti, who is now in Paris, was merely entrusted by the Holy Father with the task of trying to save flourishing German missions in Africa and Australia.

German Missions.

Several religious orders have been founded by Germany with the sole object of evangelizing and civilizing heathen populations. The results have been excellent and it would be a pity were such good seed sown in vain. We hope and believe that President Wilson and his colleagues

100 LOSE THEIR LIVES IN POWDER EXPLOSION

One Hundred Men in Tunnel When Two Cars Collide.

SPARKS IGNITE POWDER

Force of Blast Felt For Miles Around
Wilkesbarre Morgues Filled With Dead.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 5.—In one of the worst mine accidents in the anthracite coal fields in years probably 100 men lost their lives when a car of black powder exploded in the Baltimore No. 2 tunnel of the Delaware and Hudson Company here early today.

The latest official list shows 71 dead and 35 in hospitals severely injured. Officials say that this list is far from complete and the deaths of many injured is expected.

The accident happened shortly before 7 o'clock while the men were being taken to their places of employment. A trip of twenty cars was provided to convey them, drawn by an electric motor. John McGroarty was driving it.

Into these cars the one hundred workmen were crowded and near the rear of the train was a car of black powder.

Trolley Wires Fall.

When 200 feet in the tunnel the electric trolley wire fell. Sparks from it ignited the powder and the explosion that followed blew the men in all directions. More men died from flames and suffocation than from the force of the explosion.

The force of the explosion was terrific. It was felt in all parts of the city and was heard for miles around.

Dead Found Everywhere.

When rescuers got into the tunnel dead men were found everywhere. Some had been slightly burned and sought to get to safety, but were suffocated. Others were burned almost to a crisp. Here and there were others moaning and crying.

Calls For Doctors.

Within an hour and a half afterwards most of the injured had been removed. The dead were brought to the surface and placed in tiers along the green. Calls went out for ambulances, doctors and nurses, and because of the early hour it was difficult to get a big force at once. The morgues were filled.

Identification Difficult.

Identification of the dead is almost impossible. Many of the bodies that have been taken to the morgues, are so badly charred that the scores of relatives who wended their way among the rows of corpses were unable to identify fathers, husbands, brothers and sons.

Many of the injured died after being removed from the tunnel and the death list increases hourly. As the injured were taken from the mine to await ambulances they were placed near the great pile of dead bodies.

Fire Follows Blast.

The fire following the explosion lasted but a short time. But the men were caught in the full force of fire and explosion. Arms were blown from the bodies of men. Some had their heads blown off. The legs of others were found among the wreckage of human life and property. The fire was intense while it lasted. Sulphur fumes and the flames added to the misery and men dropped like flies along the tunnel.

There were terrible scenes at the various morgues. Hundreds of people went among the dead, trying to console the men, women and children who are in search of their relatives. Others endeavored to aid the identification.

More Than 60 Dead.

At 10.15 o'clock the morgues in the city reported that sixty bodies were being prepared for burial. This

Boston's 'Back Bay' District Terrorized By Bomb Threats

Boston, June 5.—The Back Bay district was terrorized by bomb threats early today. All morning the police guarded the apartment houses at Nos. 187 and 189 Huntington avenue.

While the police searchlights illuminated every approach to the buildings, which are said to be owned by the Christian Science Church, eighty or more of the occupants fled hurriedly from their apartments in fear of an explosion.

Spurred by the memory of the mysterious fire in the same buildings on May sixth last, women did not wait to dress completely, but rushed out to Huntington avenue in their dressing gowns and sought refuge in nearby hotels.

GERMAN FACTIONS PLAN REVOLUTION IF THEIR ENVOYS DON'T SIGN TREATY

"Give Us Work and Bread and End the War" the Cry—Critical Stage at Hand American Delegates Think

Paris, June 5.—Confidential advices reaching American sources today from Berlin indicate that the German factions desiring acceptance of the treaty are planning a revolution in the event the German envoys at Versailles do not sign the treaty as soon as the Allied reply to the Teutons' counter proposals is received.

"Give us work and bread and end the war," is said to be the cry that is resounding throughout Berlin as well as the German industrial centers.

Wants Reply Completed.

As a result of this information President Wilson is again urging his colleagues to complete the reply to the German counter proposals as quickly as possible.

The Big Four are continuing consideration of proposed economic modifications. It is generally agreed that the British, French and American experts are definitely fixing the amount of indemnity to be imposed.

Some American officials believe the most critical part of the negotiations has been reached.

The American delegates feel that the people of the United States approve the general terms of the treaty and there is absolutely no disposition to adopt an eleventh hour attitude of leniency.

One of the President's advisers declared that the Americans, prior to the presentation of the treaty pointed out that, in their opinion, certain clauses would not work out. However, they were over ruled. At the same time the Americans were subjected to the most severe criticism in the European press on the ground they were prolonging the negotiations because they did not want to be too severe to Germany. The facts were just the contrary. The Americans never considered "letting down" on Germany. It was not the amount of the German debt so much as the methods by which it could be collected that furnished ground for the Americans' contention.

Always Willing to Agree.

The American position throughout the conference has been one where by they were willing to agree to almost anything in reason that might be worked out along practical lines.

In the other early stages of the negotiations when it was suggested that $500,000,000,000 of $800,000,000,000 might be levied the Americans instead of opposing asked how it could be collected. They presented estimates of what they thought could be collected and how the collection could be made in a practical way. When this appeared to be leading to a deadlock the Americans said, in effect: "Very well, gentlemen, we agree to any amount which Germany can pay and will repay for the suffering and damages caused. If you are unable to agree to the amount of reparations that can be worked out practically at this time we will agree with you to leave it to a future commission acting under the League of Nations."

Thus America's position was clearly set forth and it has not been changed since. The Americans agreed that Germany should be made to pay for the war damages to the greatest extent of her ability, but at the same time the delegates entertained certain ideas, to how much Germany will be able to pay.

'Mystery Woman' Discharged By Police; Was Not Connected With Nation-Wide Bomb Plot

PHILADELPHIA POLICE KNEW DEAD ANARCHIST Believe They Have Identified Man Blown to Bits in Washington, D. C.

KNOWN AS BOMB THROWER

U. S. Secret Service Men Join City Sleuths in Building Up the Evidence—All Reds Being Watched.

Philadelphia, June 5.—The Philadelphia police believe they have identified the anarchist who was blown to bits Monday night, while planting a bomb at the home of Attorney General Palmer, in Washington. They expect to arrest one of his accomplices and perhaps learn the identity of more of the "Anarchist fighters" within 48 hours.

Have His Name.

Local detectives learned the dead anarchist's name while efforts were being made to identify him through a hat band showing he had purchased his hat in Philadelphia. He was one of a gang of Reds with a reputation for bomb throwing. To make sure that they have made no mistake the police are sending telegrams to the police of several other cities, where the man suspected often visited to learn whether he is still alive.

Twelve Reds Watched.

Nearly a dozen radical anarchists are in the group of suspects now under surveillance here. The movements of every one of them are being closely watched on the theory that they may attempt to get into communication with bomb plotters in other cities.

Other United States Secret Service agents have joined the men who began the search for headquarters of the bomb conspirators here yesterday. They brought with them articles of clothing of the anarchist killed at Washington.

Suspect Discharged.

Paul E. Fritsche, young naval yard employee, who was taken into custody as a suspect yesterday, was later released, having convinced the police he possessed explosives only because he was experimenting in ordnance work.

Washington Officials Thought They Had First Important Clue—Net Drawn About Dozen Other Prominent Persons in Capital—Clues Plentiful But Not Productive—Radical Group in New York Now Suspected.

Washington, June 5.—What officials had hoped would be a valuable development in clearing up the bomb plot went a-glimmering today when a woman of mystery, who had been held by the police since last night, was exonerated from any connection with the red terrorist campaign. She was to be released immediately, they said. Her identity was not revealed.

"WOMAN OF MYSTERY."

Washington, June 5.—With a "woman of mystery" whose name the authorities refuse to divulge being held in Washington in connection with the red plots, Department of Justice investigators today were hopeful of developments that would go a long way toward rounding up those guilty of the terrorist campaign that sought the lives of Attorney General Palmer and other prominent men throughout the country.

Grilled By Flynn.

The woman, whose identity was being carefully guarded, was taken from one of Washington's leading hotels not many hours after William J. Flynn, former chief of the United States secret service had been placed in charge of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice. It was understood today that no formal charge was pressed against her although she is detained while certain chemical products found among her effects were being analyzed by explosive experts from the bureau of mines. The woman is said to have come here from Canada and claims to be of Scotch descent, although those who have seen her say she has the facial characteristics of an Italian. Only in the event that she is unquestionably connected with the bomb plot will her identity be made public, officials said. If her innocence is established she will be released immediately, they added.

Other Arrests Expected.

The detention of the woman was said to foreshadow several arrests in the national capital. The metropolitan police are reported to have drawn a net around at least a dozen persons—several of them women—known to be of anarchistic proclivities and suspected of having some knowledge of Monday night's plot.

Clues Not Productive.

New York detectives working with Washington authorities today in an effort to establish the identity of the man who was blown to pieces by the bomb with which he had hoped to claim the life of Attorney General Palmer. Clues seemed to be plentiful, but not productive. The latest theory, although indications pointed to the man having boarded a train at Philadelphia, was that he belonged to a radical group in New York and authorities have expressed the opinion today that his identification ultimately would be made in that city. All of the scraps of clothing he wore have been assembled and practically all of the body reconstructed, but it was known that this tedious process up to the present time had produced nothing tangible in the way of clues to establish the man's identity.

Officials Won't Talk.

The local authorities as well as the Department of Justice agents continued reticent today. They insisted they were making progress, but aside from that they refused to discuss any actual developments resulting from their investigations. It was known that Chief Flynn planned today to question the "woman of mystery," very closely. She is said to have explained her presence in Washington as a sales woman for rare laces. However, she had failed to convince officials that this was her calling, and could not explain, it was said, the presence of chemicals in her effects.

THREE NEW YORK FIRMS HAVE A COPY OF TREATY

J. P. Morgan, Kuhn, Loeb and Co. and the National City Bank.

ROOT ALSO HAS TEXT

Copies Also Being Hawked About Berlin Streets at 15 Cents Apiece, Republican Senators Say.

Republican Senators declared today that complete copies of the peace treaty as submitted to Germany were in the possession in New York City of J. P. Morgan & Company, Kuhn, Loeb & Company, The National City Bank, Elihu Root, former Secretary of State and former Senator, author of the widely discussed proposed amendments to the original League of Nations covenant.

Washington, June 5.—Copies of the peace treaty, which Senator New, Republican, of Indiana, alleged were being hawked in the streets of Berlin for 15 cents a copy, were expected to reach Republican Senators today via Germany and the Scandinavian countries, it was stated by Republican leaders of the Senate.

Senator Borah, Progressive Republican, of Idaho, who first charged in the Senate that the peace treaty had been secured from Paris by powerful financial interests of New York City, served notice that if the peace treaty reached him today from that city, as he expected, he would have it read in the Senate and into the Congressional Record before the end of the day.

Receive Copy Today.

"I am not absolutely certain that I will receive the copy I have been promised today," Borah said, "but if I do I shall certainly present it to the Senate and the country without a moment's delay. The American people are just as much entitled to know what it contains as the German people."

Big Business Worried.

It was declared by Republican Senators that the "Big business" interests which they claimed possessed the treaty were now seeking to prevent the copies from reaching the Senate.

It was expected that action would be taken in the Senate today on the resolution sponsored by Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, which provided for an investigation of the charges of Borah and of Senator Lodge, that New York financial interests had the treaty while the Senate was still denied access to the text of it, possessed by the State Department.

BORAH'S RESOLUTION BLOCKED

Washington, June 5.—An attempt to secure immediate action on Senator Borah's resolution asking the American peace commission to secure a hearing before the peace conference for representatives of Ireland was blocked today by Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi.

"The resolution is ill-timed and ill-advised and it is really none of our business," said Senator Williams, in objecting to immediate consideration of the resolution.

HARTFORD WOMAN HURT IN RAILROAD ACCIDENT

John Spargo, Noted Writer, Also Among 28 Who Were Hurt—Spreading Rails the Cause.

Royalton, Vermont, June 5.—Railroad officials said today that intense heat caused a spreading of the rails and was responsible for the wreck late yesterday of the New England States Limited, the fastest train over the Central Vermont Railroad between Boston and Montreal. Twenty eight passengers were injured when the rear coach of the limited left the rails and plunged down a forty foot embankment onto the bank of White River, Edward Muzzy, the three year old grandson of Mrs. Muzzy, of Hartford, Conn., who was herself injured, was thrown through the car window but escaped uninjured. Among the injured were:

Miss A. C. Bjork and Miss Joe Muzzy and Versa Russell, all of Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Warren, of Springfield, Mass., and John Spargo of Bennington, Vt., internationally known as a writer on Socialistic topics.

How a single passenger in the derailed car escaped death is miraculous. Men, women and children were thrown head first when the car landed on its side with one end hanging about a foot above the water and the other at an angle of 30 degrees, supported only by the trees and stumps on the bank.

PRINCE OF WALES PAYS HONOR TO U. S. FLIERS

Attends Luncheon in London Given to Commander Read and Crew of N. C-4.

London, June 5.—Royalty paid honors to America's airmen today when the Prince of Wales, attended a luncheon given in honor of Lieutenant Commander A. C. Read, skipper of the American Naval seaplane N. C-4 and his fellow flyers on the trans-Atlantic flight.

In addition to Lieutenant Commander Read and his crew commander J. H. Towers, leader of the Atlantic flight enterprise and Lieutenant Commander P. N. Bellinger, commander of the N. C-1 and their crews were present.

The host was Major General E. B. Sweeney, former Secretary of state for war.

A Brilliant Gathering.

The luncheon was held in Parliament building and there was a brilliant gathering of notables to pay homage to the intrepid Yankee flyers. The guests included members of the cabinet and the aero club, aircraft manufacturers, the American Ambassador John W. Davis, Lord French, who made an unsuccessful attempt to fly over the Atlantic in a land plane; Colonel Winston Churchill; Sir William Robertson; Admiral Sir Roselyn Wemyss, First Lord of the Admiralty; Lieutenant MacKenzie Grieve, who accompanied Hawker; T. P. O'Connor; Lord Desborough, Lord Sydenham, E. M. Montague, Walter Long, General Maitland, and practically all of the London newspaper proprietors.

PITTSBURGH POLICE BAFFLED

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 5.—The police today admitted they were baffled in their efforts to run down the perpetrators of Monday night's bomb outrages. The information given by John Johnson, I. W. W. organizer, they claim, has been of little value.

The machinist for whom the police were searching yesterday as the supposed bomber was still missing from his usual haunts today and the city was being scoured for him. Two other important suspects are being hunted.

Hearings were started today to determine on deportation of the prisoners.

FAUROT IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, June 5.—Inspector Faurot and Commander Lahey of the New York police department arrived here today to take a hand in the third degree examination of John Johnson, the I. W. W. prisoner. Johnson is regarded as the most important witness the police have so far rounded up. They will also go to the scene of the bomb explosions here. It is now believed that the actual bombers in Pittsburgh were recent arrivals because of their mistakes in exploding the bombs at the wrong houses.

Emergency flights to distant cities, like Springfield, Hartford, and New Haven may be contracted for in life or death cases.

understand the advisability of not wrecking this work of Christian love and sacrifice.

"Cereiti was selected because he represented the Holy See in the United States, where he was not only acquainted with President Wilson but was a distinguished diplomat."

Cardinal Gasparri would not comment upon the general results of the peace conference, but discussing the question of the Holy Land, he said: "Does Not Favor Zionism."

"Zionism does not meet with the approval of the Holy See. From the Catholic viewpoint after the crusades preached by the Pontiffs to rescue the Sepulchre from the Turks, the church today could not assent to handing it over to Jews. Whether it is desirable to grant France a protectorate over the Catholic in the East depends solely upon what the conference decides with reference to the capitulations by the Ottoman Empire. If this is abolished then France will have no further rights to the protectorate which would revert by law to the Holy See."

Bolshevism Will Fail.

Cardinal Gasparri does not believe that Bolshevism will last. It is a passing phenomenon resulting from a great upheaval he said. It is unmistakable serious but sometimes transitory in its nature. The church is making every effort to circumscribe the inroads of Bolshevism and re-establish society on a firm, Christian basis. It can never gain a firm foothold in Germany because the people in Southern Germany were deeply religious and will soon rally to the cross which is the foundation of all law and order. The trip of Mgr. Paccelli, papal nuncio, from Munich, must not be interpreted as a breach of diplomatic relations between Bavaria and the Holy See. The Holy father authorized him to go to Switzerland and consult a specialist on stomach trouble, from which he has suffered for a long time. It was advisable that he stay in Munich during the recent trouble because of the violence to which he might have been exposed.

COLVER SCORES PACKERS AT GROCERS' CONVENTION

President of Federal Trade Commission Says It is "Ruthless Invasion Into Unrelated Fields."

Gleedsmat, Ohio, June 5.—"Ruthless invasion into unrelated fields," by the packing industry of the country, was denounced here today by William B. Colver, president of the Federal Trade Commission, in an address before the National Wholesale Grocers' Association.

"This invasion," Colver asserted, "is excused on the grounds of efficiency. It is not true or it would be reflected in lower prices instead of constantly increasing prices. Shall we, the people who have just poured out our blood treasure in France to end the 'worthless efficiency' of the Hun sit silent while the same commercial culture comes to its perfect flower in this country?"

Has Powerful Enemies. In speaking along these lines Chairman Colver said that he was 'tempting the fates, for we have powerful enemies who keep up a ceaseless propaganda against the commission."

Declaring that business in the United States now is in the midst of a boom, Colver continued: "There is a reason. During the war domestic stocks were depleted and we are now filling our shelves. But when this sudden demand is satisfied, this temporary good business will come to a lull. Then we must turn to the foreign markets, and there can be no foreign markets until Europe has convalesced. We can hasten that day or delay it, according as we throw our united strength, our patience, our understanding, on the side of a sane Europe. Continued industrial and commercial paralysis there will mean 'Red' revolution from the British Islands to the Dardanelles. And revolution there will spread to America as certainly as the dawn comes across the Atlantic."

'GOBS' THREATEN POLICE.

Fall River, Mass., June 5.—Angered at the arrest of two of their comrades for street fighting early today, 150 bluejackets from the battleship Texas followed the police and their prisoners to the central station, crowded in and demanded their release. The sailors became so threatening that the station reserves were called out as well as men from outside stations, before the crowd was dispersed. One of the men was fined $50 for disturbing the peace and Deputy Chief Parker was directed to report the circumstances to the Commanding Officer of the Texas.

GETS GIFT OF $500.

Meriden, June 5.—The fourth and concluding day's sessions of the annual convention of the Connecticut Federation of Labor in this city was featured this morning by a vote making a gift of $500 to Attorney C. J. Danaher of this city, representative of the federation's legal department and "father" of the compensation law in Connecticut, who was described to the convention by President O'Meara as "the only lawyer in the state who ever came to the assistance of wage earners."

His Theory. "How do you suppose Henry VIII looked on the marrying habit?" "That a man could stand it, but it made a woman lose her head."

EXPLAINED.

"I tell every girl I meet she is the only girl I ever loved." "How can you do it?" "Well, why not? They're only girls."

Sure Enough. The butcher in the slaughter house put on his apron white. And chuckled to his fellow men: "I'm dressed to kill, all right."

Self-Evident. "Does the patient snore in his sleep?" "Well, I've never noticed him snoring at any other time."

Hard Case. "Yonder man leads a hard life." "In what way?" "He is always itching for office and has to scratch for a living."

100 LOST THEIR LIVES

IN POWDER EXPLOSION

does not make up the death list because the bodies of others have been taken to their homes.

The Baltimore Mine accident was in direct violation of the law, it is said. Men are permitted to ride to their work in trains, but it is a direct violation to transport men and powder at the same time. On the train today were ten kegs of black powder and it is definitely established that this powder exploded from sparks from a broken trolley wire.

State officials are on the scene. They have not attempted an investigation, devoting all their time to the work of rescue.

Burned Alive.

Employees at the tunnel state that there are 188,000 cubic feet of air per minute pulled into the tunnel. When the powder was ignited the air pulled drew the flames into the tunnel directly over the heads of the men, burning them alive. Along the sides of the tunnel ran small creeks. Into these some of the men fell and saved their lives by rolling over and over in the water. This shows according to company officials, that there were more than one hundred men in the train and that others walked alongside.

Thomas Dougherty, a minor, who was thrown from the car escaped and said:

"There were about 100 of us in the trip. There were about ten kegs of powder in a car. This was in violation of the law but it had been done before and we were not alarmed. I was suddenly thrown from the car. I saw the water and buried my face in it. I rolled over and over. The flames were all about me. It was just a living hell. Men were all about me. Some were dead. The cries of others were heard. The fire lasted hours, it seemed. Then the rescuers came and carried us out."

Buy Your Home Now!

Prices will not drop. A great wave of prosperity is sweeping the country. Stocks may be good investments but old Mother Earth is the safest place to put your money. Everybody is buying and selling, get in with the crowd. Nearly $100,000 worth of Manchester property has been sold and changed hands through my office within the last 30 days. Why? Because there is no safer investment than Manchester property and W. S. Bonds and stamps. I have a nice list of bungalows, singles, doubles, flats, three and four family houses, farms and I need several more to supply new customers that are calling every day. As values go up more fire insurance is needed. I represent 14 reliable stock and mutual companies and am prepared to handle anything in the insurance line. Lowest rates and prompt service. ## LUDENDORFF BEHIND MILITARY PROGRAM

Responsible for Measures Being Taken for Armed Resistance in the East.

Berlin, June 3.—(Via London.) June 5.—General Ludendorff, former chief of staff to von Hindenburg, is believed to be responsible for the military measures that are being taken for armed resistance in the east. There is evidence that troops are being transported daily into the eastern province to combat the Poles, and belief is certain that a conflict is certain to arise.
Rifle drill is being held at Lichtenfelde, a suburb, where civilians and schoolboys are being trained under the cloak of "securing the success of the revolution."
The volunteers are getting the best of food while the mothers, the sick and the aged go hungry.

TOLEDO, O., QUIET TODAY; 10,000 STILL ON STRIKE

Heavily Armed Guards Patrol the Streets—No State Troops Necessary.

Toledo, Ohio, June 5.—"All was quiet today about the Overland plant where 10,000 men are on strike. Guards heavily armed continued to patrol the neighborhood. Officials here received word from Governor Cox that the state executive will not have troops sent here until he is certain that the riots have been caused by an anarchistic group seeking to control the city government.
Coroner Hartung continued his probe of the riots which resulted in two deaths and injury to 25. Much of the investigation is being held secretly to render impossible "framing of witness" stories.
Conflict has arisen between county and city authorities. Sheriff Mathias today denounced the use of the ex-soldier-politicians by Mayor Schreiber and expressed the belief that this was at the bottom of the trouble.

BOMB VICTIM BURIED.

New York, June 5.—Just before funeral services were held today over the body of William Boehrer, night watchman killed by the bomb explosion at the home of Judge Nott Monday night, the Boehrer family received a letter, signed "John Roe", warning them not to be deceived "by the capitalistic press. The writer charged that the bombs exploded throughout the country were set off by 'the capitalists'. The letter was turned over to the police.

BOLTON

Miss Emily Mack, daughter of Mrs. Thomas D. Daly, and Peter Calhoun of Manchester were married in St. James church at 8 o'clock. A wedding breakfast and reception were held at the Daly home, where music was provided for dancing.

Miss Lillian Deer of Hoboken, N. J., a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Miss Mack was married in white satin with lace overdress. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun left in Mr. Calhoun's automobile for a wedding trip. On their return they will live in Manchester.
Miss Helen Northam of East Hartford is spending a fortnight with her cousin, Charles N. Loomis.

Bolton friends were grieved to learn of the illness of Miss Teresa Hannon of Hartford, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.
Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Carpenter of Westfield, Mass., were recent guests of the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Loomis.

Keeney Hutchinson, who is working in Hoboken, N. J., and his fiancée came to Bolton to attend the wedding of Miss Mack and Mr. Calhoun.

RED FLAG ELEMENT WARNED

BY K. C. POLICE HEAD.
Kansas City, Mo., June 5.—"Bolsheviks, I. W. W.'s, Anarchists and Radical Socialists, beware! Keep away from Kansas City. Hold your meetings in Kansas City at your peril!"
This is the warning of Chief of Police Scott A. Godley, and he means it, too. The statement was made following the report of a recent meeting of the radical elements of Kansas City here.

"There will be wholesale arrests the next time a 'Red' gathering is held here", the chief continued. "We'll keep Kansas City clean if we have to comb every building. Bolsheviks, I. W. W.'s, Anarchists and others should learn that the welcome sign is not and never has been hung out for them in Kansas City."

The chief issued an order to all patrolmen to keep a strict watch on all known radicals and for "Red" meetings.

STRIKE MAY SPREAD.

Washington, June 5.—"If the Atlanta trouble is not settled very quickly, it is going to involve the entire United States and Canada," declared S. J. Koenekamp, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union today. "Every section of the country is clamoring now for an immediate sanction of a strike and it will be impossible to keep them at work much longer," he added.

The Mission of Swift & Company

Swift & Company has become one of the large businesses of the world through continuing to meet the growing needs of a nation and a world.

Society has a right to ask how the increasing responsibilities and opportunities for usefulness which go with such growth are being used by the men who direct its affairs—and the men have the right to answer:

To promote the production of live stock and perishables and increase the food supply;

To reach more people with more and better meat;

To make a fair competitive profit, in order to reimburse the 25,000 shareholders for the use of their capital, and to provide for the future development of the business;

To reduce to a minimum the costs of preparing and distributing meat and to divide the benefits of efficiency with producer and consumer;

To live and let live, winning greater business only through greater usefulness, with injury to nothing but incompetency, inefficiency and waste; to deal justly, fairly, and frankly with all mankind.

These are the purposes and motives of the men who direct the policies and practices of Swift & Company.

Swift & Company, U. S. A.

NORFOLK'S MUSIC FESTIVAL

Norfolk, a little town up in the Litchfield hills, is the musical Oberammergau of the United States. This week sees the gathering in that place of a metropolitan orchestra of 75 picked musicians, half a dozen of the most noted vocal soloists in this country and a trained chorus of over 400 voices.

All this has been brought about through the generosity of two Norfolk music lovers of wealth and the cooperation of groups of singers in several neighboring towns in Litchfield county.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stoeckel of Norfolk are the backers of this enterprise. They pay the bills and provide a great music shed in which the concerts are given.

YES OR NO.

It was too hot for enthusiasm in Washington yesterday and the passage of the woman suffrage amendment, marking the most significant chapter in the history of democratic government since political justice was rendered the negro, took place with as little demonstration as follows the final curtain of a popular matinee.

The half century of endeavor has brought success and the amendment as adopted yesterday is identical with that written by Susan B. Anthony in 1878.

But if women are to have a part in the selection of our next President it will be necessary for several states to call special sessions of their legislatures and act on the amendment.

SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT WINS SENATE 56-25; NOW GOES TO PEOPLE

Contest of 40 Years Won by Two Votes More Than Necessary Two-thirds.

THIRTY-SIX STATES MUST AFFIRM TO MAKE IT LAW

Amendment Now Goes to Legislatures of States for Final Test—Most Republicans Favor Measure.

Washington, June 5.—Action by Congress on equal suffrage—subject of a fight of 40-years' duration—ended last yesterday in adoption by the Senate, by a vote of 56-25, of the historic Susan B. Anthony constitutional amendment resolution.

The roll-call today showed two votes more than the necessary two-thirds for the resolution, which was drafted by Susan B. Anthony in 1875, and introduced by Senator Sargent of California in 1878.

Immediately after the Senate's action, the resolution was taken to Speaker Gillett's office and signed. It was rushed back to the Senate for its presiding officer's signature, but arrived after the Senate had adjourned and will be approved today.

How the Amendment Reads. The amendment as it will be added to the constitution is ratified by the states reads:

"Article —, section 1.—The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex.

"Section 2.—Congress shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to enforce the provisions of this article."

The Party Vote. In terms of party affiliations the vote of the two houses may be summarized thus:

Table with 2 columns: For the Resolution, Against the Resolution. Rows for House and Senate, with Republican and Democrat counts.

Thus it appears that in the two houses 237 Republicans supported the resolution and only 27 opposed it; while in the two houses 121 Democrats supported and 87 opposed it.

How They Voted. The roll-call in the Senate, which passed the suffrage amendment yesterday by a vote of 56 to 25, follows:

For Adoption. Republicans—Capper of Kansas, Cummins of Iowa, Curtis of Kansas, Edge of New Jersey, Elkins of West Virginia, Fall of New Mexico, Fernald of Maine, France of Maryland, Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, Grona of North Dakota, Hale of Maine, Harding of Ohio, Johnson of California, Jones of Washington, Kellogg of Minnesota, Kenyon of Iowa, Keyes of New Hampshire, La Follette and Lenroot of Wisconsin, McCormick of Illinois, McCumber of North Dakota, McNary of Oregon, Nelson of Minnesota, New of Indiana, Newberry of Michigan, Norris of Nebraska, Page of Vermont, Phipps of Colorado, Poindexter of Washington, Sherman of Illinois, Smoot of Utah, Spencer of Missouri, Sterling of South Dakota, Sutherland of West Virginia, Warren of Wyoming and Watson of Indiana. Total, 36.

Democrats—Ashurst of Arizona, Chamberlain of Oregon, Culberson of Texas, Harris of Georgia, Henderson of Nevada, Jones of New Mexico, Kendrick of Wyoming, Kirby of Arkansas, McKellar of Tennessee, Myers of Montana, Nugent of Idaho, Phelan of California, Pittman of Nevada, Ramsdell of Louisiana, Shepard of Texas, Smith of Arizona, Stanley of Kentucky, Thomas of Colorado, Walsh of Massachusetts and Walsh of Montana. Total, 20. Total for adoption, 56.

Against Adoption. Republicans—Borah of Idaho, Brandegee of Connecticut, Dillingham of Vermont, Knox of Pennsylvania, Lodge of Massachusetts, McLean of Connecticut, Moses of New Hampshire and Wadsworth of New York. Total, eight.

Democrats—Bankhead of Alabama, Beckham of Kentucky, Dial of South Carolina, Fletcher of Florida, Gay of Louisiana, Harrison of Mississippi, Hitchcock of Nebraska, Overman of North Carolina, Reed of Missouri, Simmons of North Carolina, Smith of Maryland, Smith of South Carolina, Swanson of Virginia, Trammell of Florida, Underwood of Alabama, Williams of Mississippi and Wolcott of Delaware. Total, 17. Total against, 25.

Paired. Paired—Senators Ball of Delaware and King of Utah, with Shields of Tennessee against; Calder of New York and Townsend of Michigan for, with Penrose of Pennsylvania against; Gerry of Rhode Island and Johnson of South Dakota for, with Martin of Virginia against; Gore of Oklahoma and Colt of Rhode Island for, with Pomeroy of Ohio against.

MANCHESTER SUFFRAGISTS DELIGHTED AT THE NEWS

Think Connecticut Will Be Against Anthony Amendment When Legislature Takes Vote.

"Of course we are delighted," said Mrs. F. T. Blish when asked how she regarded the passage of the Susan B. Anthony amendment.

Connecticut, in the opinion of some of the suffragists will not return a favorable answer on the amendment when she speaks through her legislature.

Mrs. John T. Hood, another of the more prominent suffragists expressed her gratification at the action of the Senate.

TORRINGTON DEFEATED BY HIGH SCHOOL NINE

Game at Mt. Nebo Grounds Goes 8-5 in Favor of S. M. H. S.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT ON

Dougherty and Bowers Have Tie to Lay Off--Baseball Team and Sommanis Have Picture Taken.

The High School baseball team defeated Torrington High School baseball team 8-5 yesterday afternoon at Mt. Nebo.

The visitors made a run in the first inning on an error by Fox. In the second frame S. M. H. S. chalked up five runs and put themselves out of danger.

The visitors made four runs in the eighth on errors but the local nine pelted the ball all over the diamond in their half of the inning and scored three more runs.

Wright is There. Ballsieper did the twirling for the high school and had the visitors at his mercy. He held them down to five hits. Wright did the receiving and had his arm with him for he threw men out at second.

The team will have Rosary High, Holyoke as their opponents next Saturday afternoon. This team defeated the High School once this year but the school players were handicapped at that time, having four men on the sick list.

Tennis Tournament. A tennis tournament is being held this week at the high school courts. Tuesday afternoon Quinn defeated Browning, Gustavson defeated Burr Wednesday afternoon, Johnson defeated O'Gorman. Dougherty and Bowers each won a set. This tie will be played off soon.

Pictures Taken. The baseball team had their pictures taken Monday afternoon and the Sommanis basketball team had theirs taken this afternoon.

W. C. T. U STARTS DRIVE TO RAISE $300 HERE

Ambition of National Society is to Get $1,000,000 and 1,000,000 New Members.

The National W. C. T. U., which has done much in the past to create sentiment that has brought about national prohibition, does not consider its work finished. It plans to cooperate with city, state and national authorities in the interest of a campaign to raise one million dollars and to secure one million members.

Manchester's quota of the million dollars is $300 and the members of the local union are asking their friends to help Manchester meet its appointment. Letters are being sent out to friends of the organization. Money from any who would like to have a part in this work will be received with thanks.

Mrs. John A. Hood of 114 Chestnut street has been named as treasurer of the special fund and contributions may be sent to her.

Toledo, O., June 5.--"Wanted a few fall guys."

The only requirement is a great capacity for punishment. To date big Jess has flogged both his training partners. Jack Lavin was the first victim. Walter Monahan, the pride of the Navy and Willard's trainer in both his prior big battles, was the latest to take the count.

WILL SOMEONE PLEASE OPEN THE WINDOW--IT SEEMS RATHER WARM

But What's the Use of Telling Us--We Know It.

BUT WHAT WOULD WE DO WITHOUT SUMMER FURS

Everybody But the Small Boy at the Swimmim' Hole Knew It Was Mighty Hot.

Reference to the sizzling temperature was taboo on Main street yesterday. Everybody knew it and nobody wanted to be reminded of it.

The mercury at Quinn's Drug store started to soar from the early morning hours and the sufferers thought that it was going to shoot through the top of the tube. But it stopped at a hundred around noon and then slowly settled around ninety two for the rest of the day.

In the meanwhile everybody sweltered. In the mill, where the nature of their work prohibited the opening of windows, the girls suffered and several fainted. Mail men walked listless along the street in their new summer blouses, thankful that Uncle Sam had allowed them to dispense with their outer coat. But the policemen in their tightly buttoned coats, sought shady nooks under friendly awnings.

The small boy however with the two fingered wave which is the high sign to all youngsters that swimming is in order, sped quickly to the outskirts of the town and cooled himself in the various "swimmin' holes" that still remain in Manchester.

The ice men chortled in glee as he pushed the ten cent piece of ice through the keyhole, while the mahogany railbirds called for cool drinks and long glasses.

Very few coats were noted among the male pedestrians on Main street until late last night. Sport shirts with semi-sleeveless effects were more the rule than the exception and hats were dispensed with. One or two girls had the temerity to appear with summer furs and caused much comment on Main street. Center park was crowded for here, at least, life was bearable. Taken in all, yesterday was the hottest June 4th in many, many years.

Heat Stops Work.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the heat at Hackett Brothers tobacco plantation became so intense that the forty or more employees there had to quit work for the day. This is the first time in the history of the company that work has had to be halted in June because of the heat.

Showers Are Popular.

Globe Hollow and the Recreation Center shower baths have been two of the most popular places in town during the hot spell of the past few days. The Pleasant street bath house, conducted by Cheney Brothers, also has been well patronized.

F. B. L. MEMORIAL DAY.

Graves to Be Decorated Sunday--Appropriate Exercises June 12.

South Manchester Council, F. B. L., will decorate the graves of deceased members next Sunday. Thursday evening, June 12, memorial exercises will be held in Tinker hall.

The following committee has been appointed to decorate the graves: Alexander Hanna, chairman; Mrs. Anna Wade, president of the council; Charles Wade, Miss Carrie Freerickson and J. W. Golesse. There are 24 graves to be decorated.

Hon. W. B. Rogers, who is the supreme president of the F. B. L., will deliver the opening address at the memorial exercises in Tinker hall and Hon. Hugh Gibbs of New Haven, supreme past president, will deliver the eulogy. Vocal solos will be given by John Conlon, accompanied on the piano by Edward Rogers. Members of the Hartford and Rockville councils have been invited. All members of the local council are urged to attend.

R-34 TO START.

London, June 5.--The great British dirigible balloon R-34 is expected to leave on her trans-Atlantic flight next week, arriving in Atlantic City, on or about June 14, the Star stated today. Final preparations are being made for the flight at North Berwick, Scotland.

WAR'S GREATEST HERO TO WED OLD SWEETHEART

Sergeant York Killed 25 Germans Single Handed and Captured 122 More in France.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 5.--Sergeant Alvin C. York, credited with being the war's greatest hero, is going to marry the girl he left behind when he went to France at his home in Pall Mall on Saturday.

The girl is 17 years old, Grace Williams. She said "yes" when York returned to Pall Mall after receiving ovations in New York, Washington and other eastern cities because of his feat of killing 25 Germans single handed and capturing 122 more.

The tall mountaineer said today he had declined a big offer from a vaudeville firm to appear in a song and dance act with 35 girls because he guessed he would "be a scream in lights." After his marriage he will settle down on the farm residents of Tennessee are preparing to buy for him.

Circle Theater

"And the Children Pay" a seven reel screen sensation which has startled movie fans in all the big cities in the east, comes to the Circle theater tonight for a two days' engagement.

As the title suggests it is an old theme but handled in a new way. There is tragedy and comedy and a pretty love story throughout that will please you. It is a high class production with an all star cast and put out by one of the best film companies in this country.

On the same bill will be a comedy and as an extra added attraction P. J. McGill, the noted vocalist, will sing popular selections.

BRIEF BUT TRUTHFUL

Springfield, Ill., June 5.--A postmistress in one of the small cities of the Eighth Federal District of Illinois, replying to inquiries from Collector of Internal Revenue Pickering regarding industrial enterprises in cities subject to the new special tax, wrote:

Park Theater

Geraldine Farrar second Goldwyn Picture, "The Hell Cat", which comes to the Park theater tonight, is not alone a powerful story. It provides the star with a colorful, highly dramatic role as well.

She is Pancha O'Brien, half-Spanish and half-Irish, with all the contradictions this mixture implies. Her father is a Wyoming sheep raiser and Pancha is loved by Jack Webb, the sheriff. Jim Dike, a well-to-do cattleman, covets the girl, but she will have none of him. When he sees Pancha favoring the sheriff he determines to conquer her. To show that he has the upper hand, Dike, a squaw-man, orders his Mexicans to cut the throats of O'Brien's sheep. The animals are slain, but Pancha surprises the men before they can escape.

Dike, announces to Pancha that he has come to take her away. She puts up a furious fight, scratching, biting and kicking and living up to her sobriquet of "The Hell Cat". But Dike overpowers her, binds her and carries her away on his horse. Then his men set fire to the ranch.

Powerless to resist her captor, Pancha is the victim of his advances. At this point Dike's squaw returns and discovers the white girl. Intent on revenge, the Indian is about to plunge a dagger into Pancha's heart when Pancha awakes and explains the situation. The squaw realizes that it is Dike who must be punished. She is induced by Pancha to ride across the mountains and alarm the sheriff.

Dike finds Pancha inert--almost lifeless. She will not respond to his rough caresses and in a desperate effort to rouse her Dike offers to take her East--to marry her, even. They set out in a buckboard for Cheyenne. Suddenly the sheriff and his posse spring from behind rocks and cover Dike with their guns. He sits, motionless. The sheriff comes closer and Dike lurches over, dead. A dagger has been plunged into his heart. It is the same dagger wrested by Pancha from the squaw.

Pancha remains apart after admitting she killed her betrayer. She feels that she is unworthy of the man who loves her, but he begs her to believe that all is as before and Pancha consents to make her new beginning with him.

FRED LUDERUS AND GEORGE WHITTED GET BONUSES AS CAPTAIN OF THE PHILLIES

Captains of Philadelphia Team.

Fred Luderus, first baseman for the Phillies, lost his job as field captain of the Phillies this season, but it was not because Manager Jack Coombs thought any the less of him.

Whitted irrevocable to be an ir-reconcilable Baker compromised with himself by offering him the job of field captain, which carries a standard $500 bonus.

that he intended to pay Luderus a certain lump sum, anyhow, and Luderus will get that sum. Thus Luderus receives a captain's pay without a captain's responsibilities.

BASEBALL STORIES

Gooch is an odd name, but there are two of them in the Southern league.

The story that Memphis would let out Joe Slattery seems to have been a mistake.

Art Phelan is one of the Galveston veterans who seems to have come back strong.

Hellman is making the Tiger fans sit up and take notice by his great work at the initial bag.

The Vernon club has turned infielder Tex Westerville over to Portland, which can use most anything.

Hod Eller, Cincinnati pitcher, is credited with the first no-hit game of the major league season.

Fred Smith, formerly of the St. Paul club, has returned from overseas and expects to play in the association this season.

Fred Toney's return to the New York club will make a vast difference in that team's power as soon as he gets in condition.

At Bloomington, Joe Dunn has a pitcher named Newkirk, who won 18 straight games for Oakland in the Pacific Coast league.

John Henry, former Washington catcher, is not expected to remain with the Boston Braves after Hank Gowdy gets into shape.

The Seattle club let Grover Land go. However Bill Clymer got the idea the old soldier would be his first-string catcher is a mystery.

Hank Severeld, who has just returned from army service, probably is the most feared batsman among the catchers of the major leagues.

Dan Howley, aggressive coach of the Tigers, says a pitcher should be kept out of uniform 24 hours before being worked in a championship game.

Allen Russell may become the leading pitcher of the New York Yankees. His recent slash achievement against Boston was a boost for the Yanks.

The Seattle club has shelled Bert Niehoff. After making the trip all the way from New York Niehoff was unable to get going because of his bad ankle.

Tearing ribs loose seems to be a bad habit with Salt Lake pitchers. Adolph Shinkle is the latest to suffer the ailment that is almost chronic with Bee flingers.

Clyde Milan may be lost to the Washington club for a month or more. Milan had to leave a game recently due to terrific pains in his side. He was operated on for appendicitis.

WINNING HURLER IS PENNANT CONTENDER

So Declares John McGraw, Manager of New York Giants.

Hugo Bezdek, Leader of Pirates, Declares Club Must Have More Than One Winning Pitcher—Problem Open for Discussion.

Baseball managers do not lamp the possibilities of a ball club in the same manner. At the January pow-wow in New York, some of the major league pilots were discussing pennants and pennant chances.

McGraw pointed to the success of the Giants when he had none other than Matthewson to depend upon for mound duty. He also recalled the John McGraw.

Washington club's success each season for the last few years with only Walter Johnson to star on the rubber. These cases, according to McGraw, are good grounds for his argument.

Bezdek declared a ball club must have something more than good pitching from one pitcher, and he backs his argument with the story of Wilbur Cooper's work for the Pirates last season. Cooper lost nearly all of his games by one run simply because the Pirates did not have the necessary punch to add him with a run or two, says Bezdek, and the speech sounds reasonable, too.

The argument was not ended in the one session, but there is much evidence on both sides that is deserving of serious consideration. McGraw's

PRICES TO REMAIN HIGH ON LIFE NECESSITIES

Julius Rosenwald, Chicago Mail Order House President, Expects Them to Remain So.

Price problems have been under investigation by the Department of Labor of late. The Bureau of Labor Statistics has found that retail prices for food reached their peak in December, 1918, and that there were slight declines in January and February, but advances in the two succeeding months.

"It is my belief that the range of prices for the necessities of life will average little, if any, lower than at the present time," says Julius Rosenwald, head of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, in discussing price tendencies.

Further expressions of opinion on price tendencies have been collected by the Information and Education Service of the Department of Labor, and may be obtained on application to that service.

SPEAKER STRONG FOR FLYING

When Season Is Over Cleveland Center Fielder Is Going Into Service as Aviator.

Tris Speaker is so strong for flying that he says when the present baseball season is over he is going back into the service as a naval aviator and bid good-by to baseball. He was assured when released from the service following the armistice, he says, that he can take up his work as a navy flyer where he left off.

RUEL IS PROMISING CATCHER

Young Backstop of New York Americans Is Quick Both Behind Bat and on the Bases.

Harold Ruel of the New York Americans appears to be one of the most promising young catchers who has come into the game since Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox. He is very quick both behind the bat and on the bases and is by no means a weak batter.

Proposed order establishing Veranda lines on North side of Park Street from 125 feet West of Main Street on the East to Church Street on the West, with time and place of public hearing on said proposed order.

The Selectmen of Manchester, Conn., at a meeting held May 28th, 1919, acting under and pursuant to Section 452 (707) Spec. Laws Conn. 1917, Approved May 16, 1917, having deemed it for the public good that Veranda lines should be established on Park Street, a highway in the Town of Manchester, Conn., from 125 feet West of Main Street on the East to Church Street on the West, passed the following proposed order, viz:

Ordered: Subject to the provisions of said Section 452 that the following lines on the North side of Park Street, a highway in said Town of Manchester, be and they are hereby established, viz:

NORTH SIDE. The Veranda line on the North side of Park Street is to be Nineteen (19) feet North of and parallel to the North line of Park Street, from 125 feet West of Main Street on the East to Church Street on the West.

And it is hereby ordered: That said proposed order of the Selectmen of Manchester, Conn., be heard and determined at the Hall of Records in said Town of Manchester, on June 9th, 1919, at 8 o'clock in the afternoon, and that the Secretary of this Board cause a copy of the proposed order designating and establishing the building line upon said proposal of Selectmen, together with a notice of the time and place of hearing thereon, to be filed in the Town Clerk's office in said Town of Manchester, and published at least twice in a newspaper printed in said Town at least five days before the day of hearing, and a copy of said proposed order and notice to be deposited in a Post Office in said Manchester, postage paid, directed to each person or persons interested at his or their last known address at least five days before the day of said hearing and return make to this board.

Dated at said Manchester, June 2nd, 1919.

W. B. ROGERS, Secretary. For and by order of the Board of Selectmen of the Town of Manchester

GIRL LOSTS HER LOCKS BECAUSE OF SUPERSTITION. Ambler, Pa., June 5.—Pretty Sarah Paladine, nineteen, is minus her flowing black hair as the result, the police believe, of an old Italian love superstition.

A masked man wearing white gloves forced his way into her bedroom at midnight, made the girl get out of bed and cut off part of her hair. He then bound her with a rope, gagged her with the hair she had shorn and scratched both her arms with a needle. He then cut off the remainder of her hair, searched all the drawers of the bureau in the room, but took nothing and escaped when he heard a noise in another part of the house.

Members of the household say it is an Italian belief that if a lover can secure a portion of the hair of the girl he loves and can scratch her until the blood comes he will have her in his power.

MONITOR HERO DIES. St. Louis, Mo., June 5.—The funeral of Lawrence F. Fay was an engineer on the Monitor. The battle between the two ships took place in the early days of the Civil War.

MAYOR SEES NO BARS

"Barring any unforeseen outside interference by the federal government the Willard-Dempsey boxing match positively will be held in Toledo July 4."

This statement was made by Mayor Cornell Schreiber of Toledo.

"I can see no objection whatever to this boxing exhibition," the mayor said. "It will be a scientific boxing match of limited duration. Each round will be three minutes, followed by one minute of rest."

"The United States government, through its encouragement of boxing at army camps and cantonments, has given its absolute indorsement of this form of sport."

MEMBERS OF YANKEE DIVISION END THEIR PART OF WAR IN PATHETIC SCENE INTO WHICH COMEDY CREEPS

American Embarkation Area, Ecomoy, France, (by mail).—We at the front heard varied and lurid descriptions of how the armistice was celebrated in Europe and at home. We heard from cowboy soldiers that in Montana ranch towns the folks danced all night in the streets and bought up all available fireworks.

We heard how employees in department stores, shops and factories all over the United States quit work and joined the street throngs in floods of paraders that resembled gigantic snake dances. We heard of the confetti blizzards and the bell-ringing and speeches and feasting and heart-felt rejoicing.

We heard from the special correspondents and visitors that Paris simply went mad with joy and that London, too, was fittingly exultant. We heard of the swarmed cafes in France where emotions ran riot, where girls danced on tables and embraced and kissed soldiers strolling the boulevards—an occasion when all were friends.

Merry scenes to be sure and most appropriate, but we who were fortunate enough to have been among the fighting men in the front lines on that historic occasion would not swap a whit of our impressions for all the delirium of rejoicings that occurred elsewhere.

The contrast was great. For the most part the fighting men were too mystified, too exhausted, too overcome by emotions to do much celebrating right off. They cheered some and had impromptu flag raisings, such as I have described in the camp of the Rhode Island artillerymen, but the predominant desire was to sleep—to sleep in comfort without fear of gas or bombs or bursting shells—to sleep as they hadn't been able to in months and months—to sleep a sleep well earned.

They did not require any rocking or coaxing or powders. I saw them flop right down where they finished, without ceremony, and—sleep like the slumber of death, in mud in dusty dug-outs, in tumble down buildings, in ruined churches, wherever they could crawl and coil themselves in damp blankets.

And when they awoke refreshed they told of the strange dreams they had and they rubbed their eyes and expected to return to the grind, and then they rubbed their eyes some more and squinted and asked questions and pinched themselves to make sure that it was really true. And, my, the expressions of relief, of gratitude! I heard rough fellows who never did much praying look upward with hands folded and fairly shout:

"God, I thank you from all my heart!"

There was no orchestra in any gilt-edged cafe that produced in the armistice celebrations any sweeter music than these rough thanksgivings. Out there is where you felt the real feelings, the real joys.

It was not until darkness settled down that the celebrations began in the front lines. Then the heavens reflected the American Doughboy's exuberance in the glow of countless bonfires and the flare of signal rockets for which there would be no further use.

Every unit and squad had its own celebration and its own allotment of army fireworks. The hills bristled with them. Imagine expanding Boston Common or Franklin Park on the night of July 4, during a fireworks display so that the rocket area extended miles and miles, far beyond vision. Motoring over the heights north of Verdun and sweeping the valleys and lower hills unfolded a picture that will never fade from the memories of those of us who witnessed it.

The rockets were so numerous and so recklessly aimed that it was almost as dangerous on the shell-pitted roads as during a battle. Camp fires dotted the landscape every few yards and each was ringed by young hunkies in olive drab, whose bronzed faces formed a striking circle.

They were swapping experiences, telling all about it, spinning yarns that will be spun in homes and colleges and schools and barbershops and factories and village groceries for years to come. With American promptness the Doughboy has already christened the war tales "G. A. R. chatter."

You who have enjoyed home comforts and steam heat and open fireplaces and bathtubs cannot appreciate what it meant to the fagged Doughboys and officers to be able to stand up and light a pipe or cigarette facing the enemy line and not be snipped for doing it.

You cannot appreciate how good fire looked and how much better it felt. The Doughboys were simply famished for fire and warmth, for the dry warm "comfy" feeling it gave them clear to the bone. Little wonder that the wooden details were the first selected to scour the battlefield for fuel. Little wonder that every five or six had fires of their own in front of which they squatted. Turk fashion, and chinned until taps.

During hostilities the flame of a match meant enemy fire. Do you remember the darkness don scene in Sherlock Holmes when the lighted cigar, placed as a decoy on the window sill, loomed so conspicuously, only thing visible? Aviators say a tiny light at the front looked that way and served as a target for shells or bombs.

I remember one night before the First Division took Cantigny. The Gothas bombed Chépeis and all the towns to Beauvais and beyond nightly. Early in the air raids eleven Doughboys were shooting craps on an army blanket under an apple tree by candle light. They heard the tell-tale buzz of enemy motors overhead, but the game was close and stakes high, and they didn't follow the French custom to show no light. In consequence, a Hun fier swooped low as a night hawk and dropped a bomb and killed all but one.

I saw an Italian machine gunner near Rheims strike a match in a relieved unit one night and instantly a German aviator opened up on the column with a machine gun. Automobile lights were visible for miles. That was why we had to travel without them, and why long after the armistice when we enjoyed that luxury, sentries, through forces of habit, would bawl out: "Dowse those glimmers!" and then apologize, saying they had forgotten.

In conclusion, permit me to describe, ever so feebly, a scene which to me shall always serve as the final drop of the war curtain.

It was late in the afternoon of the day following the armistice. As if in mockery the weather man swifter ad on a run of crisp, dry, clear days that lasted more than a fortnight, after having compelled the troops to shiver in rain and languish in mud for weeks previously.

A more perfect winter afternoon could not be desired. We forged our way on a country once beautiful, but now blighted by the wrath of man.

The One Hundred and First Engineers were laboriously rebuilding what had been a road. There was the sign of fury everywhere. Shell after shell had partly disinterred the arms, legs or heads of Frenchmen who had fallen in earlier battles. Often just a mere dab of blue was visible where arm or hip or shoulder showed.

We followed a footpath through "Shrapnel Valley," a deep ravine pocked by shell craters and yawning with dugouts and abandoned. We met a Doughboy from Vermont. He pointed to a file of musicians, instruments under arms, coming, Indian fashion, over a neighboring hill.

"They're going to play at the funeral of the fellows who fell yesterday in the last hours. There is one large grave dug on this hill and two other big ones for fellows found on neighboring hills," explained the Doughboy tagging on behind.

We were then climbing the steep slopes of the Cote de Caures, which the Third Battalion of the One Hundred and Third Infantry of the Yankee Division had taken in a final charge in the face of violent machine gun fire. The price of that scant gain was the silent forms harvested in rows on the several hills surrounding.

In the center of a cleared space at the top was a grave thirty feet long and comrades of the dead, ranks thinned by the toll of the last engagements, were already flanking the hole in hollow square. The band took its position at a corner. Thrice that band had been nearly wiped out, serving as litter-bearers, and that day that remained were eighteen of an organization that numbered fifty or more.

You who have attended military funerals at home know how solemn they are, but add the ghastly setting of a battlefield with scars scarcely twenty-four hours old and the scene and ceremony become infinitely more impressive.

The bodies of Germans dotted the landscape. There had not been time to dispose of them. The Doughboys first received all the rites of army and church.

At the bottom of the big hole, shoulder to shoulder, as they had fought, lay seven dead, a lieutenant and ten Doughboys. A huge square of tarpaulin covered them and in the center of it was spread an American flag.

Chaplain A. G. Butzer, of Buffalo, N. Y., as young as a college senior, read the Scriptures and eulogized the dead patriots. Captain Cabot of Cambridge, who had led the Third Battalion as acting major, stepped forward and uncovered. He wore the muddy uniform of a Doughboy, without insignia, it having been the custom to take this precaution in fear of capturing and reacting indignation. Captain Cabot looked tired. There were dark circles under his eyes, but he met the occasion with splendid spirit.

"Men," he said, "this is a solemn occasion. This hill has become sacred ground. We are laying away the best among us. You all faced your duty, stern as it was, but it was ordained by a Higher Power that the sacrifices made by our comrades was greater than ours. They gave their all for the cause. It is your duty to go back and tell their relatives and friends how gallantly they died. They were brave fellows, true Americans, real men."

"As some of you may already know, First Lieutenant Herbert Peart was found sitting beside a tree, pencil in one hand, and holding in the other this unfinished note addressed to me:

"Capt. Cabot—7:19 a. m. Am held up by machine gun fire on left. Have located four of them. Also on my right—"

A machine gun bullet through the brain stopped further writing. Lieutenant Peart was a gallant leader and he met a soldier's death on the field of battle. The brave fellows beside him are Corporal Leon le Bonville and Privates Charles Worth, Frank Klavikowski, J. McGiven, John Elliott, F. E. Smedley, Albert O. Alshouse, Charles W. Bazzall, William Whitney and Moses W. Neptune."

As you may have observed, this grave holds a squad of men whose names are typical of the cosmopolitan make-up of the American Expeditionary Force.

The band played "Nearer My God to Thee," a tune always soul-gripping, but I had never heard it under sadder circumstances. It moistened the eyes of many of the boys who stood rigidly around the grave, and made them gulp.

The last strains had scarcely died away when there came grating on our ears the unwelcome sounds of German revelry just over the hill within fifty yards. The Boches sang and hooted and churned gas alarms, unconscious of what was transpiring above them.

The firing squad stepped forward and fired three volleys, a feature impossible during hostilities.

Ranks were broken and the men filed past for a last look and I noticed that eyes of all but a few were directed the other way. Then something happened which could not have been more melodramatic if Belasco had staged it as the scenic climax of a play.

Four horsemen trotted into view at the farther end of the hill, dismounted, and three soldiers stepped briskly forward into the clearing. To the amazement of all, they turned out to be a German major, a captain and an orderly, the latter a young giant from the Prussian guards bearing a flag of truce, the first one in actual use any of us had ever seen.

The German major was a snobbish young dandy with Iron Cross and faultlessly cut and silver spurs. Saluting stiffly and being saluted in return, he really surveyed Captain Cabot from head to foot. He said in good English that he wanted to see a major or somebody of rank.

"I think, sir, that I can deal with you if you kindly state your business," replied Cabot, head erect and proudly looking the enemy squarely in the eye.

The German major seemed confused. He studied Captain Cabot's Doughboy uniform and again seemed trying to impress and freeze everybody within range. But the Doughboys, who gathered close, refused to be impressed or frozen. Just as the situation became most embarrassing a buck private, just arrived from the outskirts of the crowd, piped shrilly:

"Who's the skinny Heinie, fellows?"

The German major blushed and bit his lip and the American and German officers adjourned to a dugout where the German with the flag of truce stood guard. It developed that the truce party had come with charts to explain the location of mines that would have been touched off by the Germans if the fighting had continued. There were several just ahead. They were compelled under the armistice terms to make these disclosures.

While the conference was in progress in the dugout we returned to the summit of the hill and watched the detail remove the flag and fill the cavernous grave.

In a valley on the left were the ruins of a French village looking in the distance like fragments of chalk. The face of the earth had been lashed like an ocean in a storm by the fury of artillery.

American soldiers unable to await dusk were already shooting rockets, as were equally impatient Germans on the other side of the line.

The sun, huge and red, was slipping behind a scarred hill and the trees, twisted, splintered and blackened, showed against it like charcoal scrawls.

An American sentry in steel helmet, rifle over right shoulder, bayonet fixed, was sharply silhouetted at an extreme outpost and he was facing west.

He was facing the way the gangplank points over which he and many thousands of his mates, including the Yankee Division, will soon eagerly pace—the long-awaited gateway—America—and home.

SOLDIER TO TEACH HIS DAD NEW FIDDLE AIRS.

Springfield, Ill., June 5.—Commenting on the return of Private Fred Skagge, One Hundred and Thirtieth Regiment from overseas, the Shelbyville correspondent of a local newspaper here says:

"Skagge is a fiddler and the son of a fiddler, and when he went to camp he took his faithful fiddle along. Reports reached here from time to time that he was giving his comrades much pleasure and comfort with his music, and some time since he wrote his father to get the old fiddle fixed up in good shape as he had learned some new tunes in France which he would teach to 'pa' when he got home."

Mayor of Portland, Ore., Gives His Views on the Own-Your-Own-Home Campaign.

Portland, Ore., which is one of the cities that has led in building since the armistice, is supporting the "Own-your-own-home" campaign of the United States Department of Labor in a way that has proved most stimulating to the whole State. George L. Baker, mayor of the city, has written commending the campaign as follows:

"Building of homes during the present reconstruction period serves many important purposes. In the first instance it furnishes employment at a time when industry is undergoing its change from a war to a peace basis, the time of all times when there must be no unemployment. Secondly it instills in the minds of the people the importance of home owning, home building, and home upkeep at a time when they are particularly susceptible to suggestions. Further, it encourages home ownership and the attendant stability and the irresponsible element which is seeking at this vital period to undermine our Government, our peace, and our social system. It encourages thrift, economy, and interest in the home and home life. And last, but not least, it is the only way at our command of defeating the curse of rent profiteering."

ARGUMENT FOR ARMY.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 5.—A lieutenant in the army until last December, R. F. Johnson, of Knoxville, has re-enlisted in the army as a private and has been assigned to the recruiting station here. ABOUT TOWN

The members of Troop 6, Boy Scouts are requested to meet at 6.15 tonight instead of seven o'clock to go on a hike.

Mrs. Charles Behnfeld and family have gone to their summer cottage at Watch Hill, R. I. Mr. Behnfeld will go to the shore week ends.

Representative Willard B. Rogers was the principal speaker at the state convention of federated labor which opened in Meriden yesterday.

It was the Gus Schaller property on Olcott street instead of the Scheibepf property that was purchased by Alfred Maggs. He intends to occupy it at once.

Monroe Barlow, who returned recently from overseas service with the Y. D. Division, has secured work as a truck driver for the Manchester Dairy Company.

Cheney Brothers have had their road sprinkler at work on the streets on the west side during the last few days. The town road sprinkler has not been put in commission yet.

Director Whiting announces that he has secured the services of Frank D'Amico as life guard at the pond until the permanent guard arrives. Mr. D'Amico was recently discharged from the army.

The warm weather of the past few days has had the effect of ripening strawberries earlier than usual. If it continues a day or two longer native strawberries will be in the market by the end of the week.

Notwithstanding the spasm of activity in the real estate market in which so many Main street properties changed hands and much new building was foretold not a thing has been done on Main street in the way of new construction. No start has even been made to repair the Ferris block which was damaged by fire six weeks ago.

The Manchester public library from now on will go back to its old schedule of keeping open Saturday afternoon and evening instead of Friday. For some time the library has been open Friday afternoon and evening but the directors find that this arrangement has not given the satisfaction that the Saturday service has.

OIL STOVE EXPLODES IN FOSTER ST. HOME

Childs' Screen Warns Mother—Women Carry Flaming Stove Out Doors and Extinguished Blaze.

Prompt assistance on the part of a neighbor averted what might have turned out to be serious occurrence when an oil stove exploded in the home of Mrs. Norman Brace of Foster street yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Brace was preparing the evening meal after having filled the tank which connects with the stove. She had placed the coffee pot on to boil and gone upstairs for a few minutes. While on the upper floor she was startled by the screams of one of the children.

Carry Out Flaming Stove. She hurried down to the kitchen to ascertain the cause of the trouble and found the oil stove a mass of flames. Running to the window she called for help. Mrs. Sarah Pentland who lives near-by answered the summons. The two women carried the stove, still in flames, outside and the blaze was extinguished by the use of sand. Prompt work and coolness on the part of the women probably averted a fire and serious personal injury. Mrs. Brace has four children. Her husband, who is attached to a British regiment is still overseas.

GOOD JOBS IN CIVIL SERVICE.

Are you a discharged soldier, sailor, or marine, or other citizen looking for a job? Is so, see the secretary of the local board of civil service examiners at the post office.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that vacancies which must be filled are constantly occurring in the vast civilian force of the Government, and that at this time examinations of not less than 125 different kinds are open, most of them to women as well as to men. The positions cover all grades from mere routine work to the highest grades of professional, technical and scientific positions. Stenographers, typists, and bookkeepers are especially needed.

WAR BUREAU RETURNS TO ITS OLD QUARTERS

Now Situated With Herald Branch Office in North End of Ferris Block.

The Manchester War Bureau, which was obliged to move into temporary quarters in the Hale store at the time of the Ferris fire early in April, moved back into his old quarters in the north store of the Ferris block yesterday afternoon. It probably will remain there until it discontinues its business as it is now understood that the Ferris block will not be remodeled or moved back for at least another year. The Herald branch office also will continue to occupy part of the north store of the Ferris block.

When Watkins Brothers bought this block after the fire in April, they intended to either remodel or move it to the rear, face it on Oak street and build a new block in its place on the Main street side. J. H. Quinn's lease, however, had a year to run and the other tenants, who had not moved out, were given the privilege of remaining another year.

WEST SIDE PLAYGROUNDS TO HAVE TENNIS COURT

Work Well Under Way—Baseball Diamond Will Be Finished Soon.

Tennis enthusiasts residing on the west side are watching with interest the progress made in the construction of two new tennis courts on the playgrounds there. The courts are rapidly nearing completion and in a week or so will at the disposal of the racquet wielders.

The courts, which are located on the north side of the playground near Pleasant street, were first stripped of the heavy turf and an excavation of nearly two feet deep was made the entire length and breadth of the proposed areas. This will be filled in with a heavy layer of sand and gravel. The turf, which has a heavy base of clay, will then be inverted and laid over the foundation of gravel and sand which will act as a drain.

For the time being work has been shifted to the preparing of a baseball diamond, which will be located a short distance south of the tennis courts. A few days' work will complete the baseball field and from then on the tennis courts will be rushed to completion.

All activities on the courts will be supervised by the Recreation Center under Director, Whiting.

LIFE GUARD ON DUTY AT GLOBE HOLLOW POOL

Hot Weather Prompts Director to Advance Date of Opening Pool.

The hot spell has prompted Director Whiting of the Recreation Center to make arrangements for the supervision of the Globe Hollow Pool for the rest of the week in order that the pool may be used with a greater degree of safety. The pool was not to have been opened until Monday, but the hot spell prompted the local director to temporarily appoint a life guard to act in this capacity until the first of the week when the guard appointed for this season will arrive. There will be a guard at the Globe Hollow Pool today and tomorrow from the hours of 2 to 8 p. m. On Saturday and Sunday the guard will be on duty from 1 to 12 a. m. and from 2 to 8 p. m. The regular schedule for the summer season, which opens Monday, will be announced later.

C. OF C. STARTS PLANS FOR SUMMER OUTING

Clam Bake Considered at Preliminary Meeting.

DECIDE IT THIS MONTH

Donation of $500 to Hospital Fund Will Also Come Before June Meeting of Chamber.

The Manchester Chamber of Commerce will have an outing this summer. For the last two seasons the Chamber has omitted this event because of the war. Now that the war is over the directors, at a meeting held last night, decided to recommend to the June meeting that the Chamber have its usual summer gathering and the president, Robert V. Treat, was given power to name his own committee to make the necessary arrangements.

Last summer N. B. Richards invited a few of his friends to a clam-bake at Columbia Lake. As the plans for the little outing advanced the number increased and when the day of the event arrived it was found that Mr. Richards had to prepare a dinner for just 42 hungry men. The dinner was so attractive and the men had such a good time that it has been suggested that the Chamber of Commerce have such an outing. It is not a great distance from Manchester to Columbia Lake and it is argued that the men could get out there in automobiles without any great amount of trouble.

The greatest drawback to such an outing is the amount of work it entails upon the committee to get up the dinner. It requires time to cook a dinner for 150 to 200 men. But it was considered that such an event would prove an ideal outing. The matter will be decided at the June meeting of the Chamber.

Recommend Gift to Hospital.

The directors also voted to recommend to the June meeting that the Chamber give the sum of $500 to the hospital fund. The meeting last night was held at the headquarters of the Hebron Game club and the party very much enjoyed the shad supper prepared by the chef of the club, who happens to be Nate Richards.

While the supper was being prepared, E. T. Ferris started a contest in a standing jump and it was surprising to find that in the party were several good athletes. Chris Glenney carried off the honors barely defeating Austin Cheney and Nata Richards. Frank H. Anderson won the rock throwing contest although he had to go some to beat G. H. Waddell. The ringing of the dinner bell put a stop to the athletic performances and then it was anybody's race as far as the shad was concerned.

SINGLE TAXERS WANT TO FORM PARTY HERE

Meet Tonight to Discuss Ways and Means—Will Consider Party Platform.

There will be an important meeting of the local Single Tax Club at the Recreation Center this evening. Many important questions pertaining to the party platform will be discussed. The meeting has been called largely for the purpose of forming a Single Tax party in this state. John Cairns, the well known advocate of the single tax question, will preside at this evening's session.

KIPLING'S "MOWGLI" RECALLED IN FIND BY MISSIONARY.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 5.—Carried off by a she-wolf when very young, nurtured by a wolf pack, living with them in a cave, later captured by a missionary after a struggle, converted, and made a Methodist minister and a musician—this briefly, is the story of "Mowgli," the wolf-boy, so named because of the similarity to Kipling's character, who is the adopted son of Dr. Howard Musser, prominent missionary to India, who told the story of his remarkable discovery to the Centenary convention of Methodists for Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia here. He also showed a picture of his adopted son. When found, Dr. Musser said, the boy was climbing trees like a monkey; he used both hands and feet to walk with and performed like a monkey.
