MOVE TO END STRIKE BY ANSONIA COMPANIES MAY BREAK DEADLOCK

Representatives of Strikers Say American Brass Co. Stands in Way.

8,000 ARE NOW OUT

No Disorder in City—Allow Office Help of Seymour Co. to Go to Work.

Ansonia, June 13.—The Schneller, Osmun and Cheeseman Company and the Ansonia Manufacturing Company, whose employees are on strike, issued notices today that their mills will re-open Monday morning as usual. The notice is practically an invitation to their employees to return to work and a promise that the company stands ready to treat with them. It is expected that other shops will follow their lead. The American Brass Company officials declared that they had reached no decision regarding the reopening of their mills.

The committee of 19, representing the 8,000 strikers here, issued a statement in which they charged that the American Brass Company is the stumbling block in the way of a settlement of the difficulties with the employees. They state that all other mills of the city are taking the position that they will make whatever settlement with their men as is agreed upon by the Brass Company.

No Disorder. There was no disorder in the city today and the strike situation showed little change. County Sheriff Reddy today took a dozen deputies to Seymour where employees of the Seymour Manufacturing Company, who are on strike, had threatened to interfere with the office and other employees remaining at work. The sheriff affected an agreement between the company and the strikers whereby the office help and other men necessary are to be permitted to continue at work and the deputies and all guards were withdrawn.

REDS MAY PLANT BOMBS ON INDEPENDENCE DAY

Department of Justice All Over Nation Are Taking All Precautions.

Washington, June 13.—Department of Justice agents throughout the country have been instructed to take every precaution against possible bomb outrages on July fourth, it was learned today.

While officials of the department claimed to have no evidence to show that plans have been made by radicals to renew their campaign of terrorism on that date, they admitted that there have been frequent, although vague rumors, that Independence Day might be selected for an attempt to carry out further bomb plots.

Whether the rumors that have reached the department came from sources that could be characterized as reliable could not be learned. Officials merely took the attitude that July Fourth might be the psychological time for attempted bomb outrages, and for that reason they were taking every precaution against allowing them to be carried out. This phase of the department's work, it was stated, is entirely in the hands of William J. Flynn, former chief of the United States secret service and recently appointed head of the bureau of investigation of the department. Any statement would have come from him, they added. Chief Flynn was expected to arrive in Washington from New York late this afternoon.

NO "HOP" TODAY.

St. Johns, N. E., June 13.—The crew of the Vickers-Vimy airplane left this afternoon announced the postponement of their attempt to cross the Atlantic until tomorrow. An hour before the start was to have been made it was stated that wheels of the plane were more seriously damaged in landing yesterday than was at first believed.

British Warships Are Bombarding The Chief Defence of Petrograd

Stockholm, June 13.—British warships are bombarding the Russian fortress of Kronstadt, (formerly one of the chief defenses of Petrograd on the seaside), according to press dispatches received here today from Helsinki. There are indications that the Bolshevik forces are preparing to evacuate the place, the reports said.

OLD TIME GRAND DUKES OF RUSSIA MUST LIVE IN SECLUSION IN PARIS

Grand Duke Boris Already Expelled from French Soil —Romanoff Family Under Ban in France.

Paris, June 13.—The Romanoffs, former reigning family of Russia, are under the darkest clouds in France. The republic has decreed that none of the old time grand dukes of Russia, who used to lead the pre-war gayeties of Montmartre may return to France except to live in the strictest seclusion. Those who want to live in Paris, or at Deauville, or on the Riviera must first satisfy the French authorities that they intend to lead quiet lives.

Duke Boris Expelled. Already one of their number, Grand Duke Boris, son of Grand Duke Vladimir and nephew of the ex-Czar has been expelled from French soil. Disregarding the French ban, he came to Paris with forged passports accompanied by a woman. Had he been content to hide himself incognito in some quiet corner of the country, the complaint authorities probably would have left him in peace. But Boris could not forget that in 1911 he was lion of the "Grand Salon," at Deauville and that during the winter he was prince of all the Montmartre fetes.

Classed as Undesirable. He became intoxicated at a poker party at a financier's house near Paris and insulted his host and hostess as well as the other guests. The next day he was given 48 hours to leave France. He thereupon made for Spain to enjoy the amenities of the St. Sebastian season but before he could cross the frontier King Alfonso sent word that he was "undesirable" and with his companion he was held up at the frontier station of Hendaye.

Unless the Romanoffs return to favor with the Republican government American hostesses in Paris will deplore the loss of some of their liveliest guests.

Dukes in Great Demand. Before the war broke out the grand dukes were in great demand here for all afternoon and evening functions. Prominent among their entertainers were Mrs. W. B. Leeds, Mrs. William Ellis Corey, Mrs. Van Valkenburgh, (now Duchess of Oporto), Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mrs. William Moore, Princess Albert Ranziwill, formerly Dorothy Deacon, of Boston, Duchess de La Rochefoucauld and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lehr.

Their guests included the grand dukes Vladimir, Boris, Cyril, Paul and Dmitri, and a prominent figure in the same coterie was the Grand Duchess Anastasia, of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, also a Romanoff and the mother of the former crown princess of Germany. She had been banned from the German court by the ex-Kaiser who thought her a flighty woman. The grand duchess and the grand dukes quickly gained the reputation of being the biggest tango "fans" of Paris and they were in great demand among the American society women here. Mostly they showed a marked predilection for the festivities staged by Mrs. Leeds and Mrs. Corey, especially for the latter's poetic dances at Chateau de Villegnis, near Versailles.

TREATY NOT READY.

Paris, June 13.—Secretary of State Lansing, at the direction of President Wilson has notified the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he is at present unable to comply with the Senate demands for a presentation of the peace treaty with Germany, inasmuch as the document is not yet signed. He added that the treaty has not been placed before any legislative body and will not, until it is signed.

EIGHTH DISTRICT VOTES $5,500 FOR FIRE TRUCK; WILL BUILD HOSE HOUSE

Annual Meeting Provides for Fire Protection at Once.

REPORTS SHOW FINANCES ARE IN SOUND CONDITION

Officers of District Re-elected—No Votes in Opposition to Plan for Hose House and Chemical Truck.

The voters in the Eighth School and Utilities District at the annual meeting last night decided to buy a chemical fire truck and made an appropriation for the same of $5,500. They also named a committee with power to secure plans for a suitable hose house to be built on the District's lot at the corner of Main and Hilliard streets. This committee is to report to a special meeting to be held not later than September 15.

To Lay Five Mill Tax.

The meeting voted to lay a five mill tax that will become due on October 1. The firemen of the North End, many of whom were at the meeting, were very much pleased at the prospect of getting some real up to date fire fighting apparatus. They have waited patiently for years, laboring with what meager apparatus the District could afford and fighting fires with a will.

The meeting was held in the school assembly hall and was attended by about seventy voters. Edward F. Dwyer was chosen moderator. The meeting voted to take up the business as outlined in the call. This included the reading of the reports of the officers and the acceptance of the same. The fact that the reports were printed in the Herald before the night of the meeting gave the property owners an opportunity to peruse the figures and see just where the money is spent, thus facilitating business at the meeting.

In his report of the year's work President Sweet said that there had not been any great amount of new work undertaken. The most important transaction was the purchase of the Tooby lot for the fire department. The report showed expenses for the year amounting to $3,858.59.

Reduced District Debt.

The treasurer's report which gives the expenses of the entire district showed total expenses of $37,868.84. According to the report there is now $1,511.90 in the treasury. The total indebtedness of the district is about $12,000. Last year it was $18,500. Beside paying the running expenses of the district and the purchase of the Tooby lot for a fire house the district has cut down its debt over $4,000.

Good Work of Collector.

The report of the collector showed that the entire amount collectable had been turned in to the treasurer. The amount collected this year totaled $11,650.62. This amount was more than the book called for because the collector had cleaned up two liens that had been filed last year. Only one lien will be filed this year and that is on a building lot assessed for $2.20. The owner of this lot is now in a hospital. When Collector Ferguson had finished the reading of his report he was given a round of applause.

The chief of the fire department reported that there had been eight calls for the department during the last year. There had been no serious fires in the district, the worst being the barn on the Griswold estate on Edward street. The district owns about 900 feet of good hose. The chief, John F. Limerick, said that he thought that the hose carts needed some attention.

PRINCE MAX DECLARES U. S. MURDERED CHILDREN

Writing a Series of Articles in Berlin Newspaper in Which He Scores Americans.

Berlin, June 12.—(Via London, June 13.)—Prince Max, of Baden, former Chancellor of Germany, has begun a series of articles in the Tageblatt endeavoring to prove that President Wilson's 14 points were broken in framing the treaty. The points were taken up one by one, accompanied with comments.

Discussing the blockade of Germany the former Chancellor accused America of "murdering German children after the war of troops had ceased."

Labor Situation Serious In Both France and Italy; French Troops Mobilize

Allies to Back Omsk Government; Pledge Aid to Admiral Kolchak

Paris, June 13.—The reply sent by the Council of Four today to the note of Admiral Kolchak extends to him and his associates in the All-Russian Government at Omsk what is interpreted here as de facto recognition. The note reads:

The Allied and Associated Powers acknowledge the receipt of Admiral Kolchak's note of May 26. They welcome the terms of that reply, which seem to them to be in substantial agreement with the propositions they had made and to contain satisfactory assurances for the freedom, self-government and peace of the Russian people and their neighbors.

They are therefore willing to extend to Admiral Kolchak and his associates the support set forth in their original letter.

LLOYD GEORGE,
WILSON,
CLEMENCEAU, MAKINO.

It is understood that the support referred to involves the furnishing of munitions and supplies for Admiral Kolchak's campaign.

Washington Officials Alarm- ed—Say Conditions Are Worse Than Revealed in Dispatches — Germany May Ignore Ultimatum to Await Outcome of Strug- gle — Governments Well Prepared.

Washington, June 13.—The growing seriousness of the labor situation in France and Italy is causing even more alarm in peace conference circles than is revealed in press dispatches from Paris, according to information reaching here today. If violent disorders accompany the threatened general strike in France next Monday and the government is unable to put down the trouble at once, it is believed possible here that Germany may ignore the allied ultimatum and await the outcome of the labor struggle before signing the peace treaty.

LITTLE CHANGE IN THE WIRE STRIKE; BROKERS' OPERATORS MAY QUIT WORK

U. S. MAY SEND DIVISION TO THE MEXICAN BORDER

Troops Now Coming From France May Be Shipped—Devens Lieutenants to Leave For Scene of Trouble.

Camp Devens, Mass., June 13.—From an authoritative source today it was learned that twenty-five first and second lieutenants will shortly leave for the Mexican border for active service. It was learned that preference will be given in some cases to Lieutenants who assisted in the demobilization of the 12th and 26th divisions, and who did not get a chance to see service in France.

Army officers here declare that the situation in Mexico is becoming acute and point to the fact that plans have been made by the government for the transfer to points along the border of an army division now on its way to this country from France. They also hint that the 36th Infantry quartered here may receive an order from Washington to move to a camp in Texas.

MONDAY, MAYBE.

Another Date for Allies Reply to Counter Proposals.

Paris, June 13.—The allied reply to the German counter peace proposals will be presented on Monday and a reply must be given within seven days, according to the Central News today. The text will be published on Tuesday.

(According to advices the reply will be accompanied by an ultimatum demanding that the Germans sign the treaty or "accept the consequences.")

No discussion of the reply will be permitted.

RUSSIA GIVES WARNING.

Say Detectives Have No Right to Subpoena Suspects.

New York, June 13.—Attaches of the Russian Soviet mission of the United States gave warning today that Americans in Russia might be endangered by the action of members of the New York state constabulary and private detectives who raided the mission's offices here yesterday. The state troopers were armed with a search warrant from a city magistrate and also with subpoenas duces tecum from the New York state legislative committee meeting to investigate revolutionary activities within the state. They summoned L. A. Martens, head of the mission, and A. A. Kellogg, director of the commercial department who were examined by the committee behind closed doors.

The Independent Order of Ladies of the Forest will meet at Foresters hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

Facing Serious Trouble.

The exact situation in Italy, where a general strike is being threatened in conjunction with the French movement, is not made clear in advices received here. But there is no doubt but that France now faces the most serious labor disturbances in many years with certain radical elements attempting not only the overthrow of the Clemenceau government, but a revolution.

Troops Mobilizing.

Considerable bodies of French troops are reported to have been assembled near Paris, Lyons and other great industrial centers where the Socialists are strongest and the government is prepared to deal harshly with any revolutionary attempts. It is pointed out at the same time that among the men threatening to go on strike are thousands of demobilized soldiers, who may make trouble in a clash with the military.

A large per cent of the French army has been demobilized, leaving only the army of occupation in Germany, the forces on duty in France to prevent internal troubles and the usual fort garrisons.

Germans Encouraged.

The Germans are reported to be hoping that the strike disturbances will become so serious as to cause the withdrawal of some of the French troops of occupation to cope with the situation, enabling Germany to adopt a more independent attitude in negotiating with the Allies.

EARLY REPORTS.

Chicago, June 13.—Calling out of broker operators in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and other large cities in sympathy with the general strike of telegraphers called against the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies was regarded as certain today. Strike votes have been taken or will have been taken within the next few hours, and, according to F. A. Davis, president of the Western Brokerage Division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, it is practically certain that the men will vote to strike.

New Factors.

S. J. Koenekamp, president of the telegraphers union, declared today that the broker men will undoubtedly be called out if it was deemed necessary to win the strike. The contemplated action of the broker men and the almost certain prospect of a strike of the international brotherhood of electrical workers on Monday are factors counted on strongly by the telegraphers in their fight against the telegraph companies.

Men Are Returning.

Meanwhile reports sent out by officials of the Western Union and Postal Companies declare that many men who went out when the strike began three days ago are returning and that few additional employees have gone out since the beginning of the strike. Both companies claim to be operating very nearly on a normal basis.

PRACTICALLY COMPLETE.

Paris, June 13.—The Allied reply to the German counter peace proposals has been completed, it was learned today. The only questions which remain to be settled refer to minor matters in verbiage, corrections in the League of Nations constitution and the size of the armies of occupation.

President Wilson probably will leave for Brussels on Sunday night, returning to Paris on Wednesday. He is much gratified over General Pershing's announcement that 387,000 American troops will sail for home this month, breaking all records.

Fear Floating Mines.

The proposal was made that the President sail for home from Antwerp but this was vetoed by high naval authorities who pointed out that there are still many floating mines in the line which any steamers putting from out that port would traverse.

It is now regarded as most likely that the President will sail from Brest the latter part of next week.

It is generally accepted as a fact now that the Germans must accept the treaty terms without further quibbling. It has been made plain to them that refusal would result in far more drastic terms in the future.

GOOD SCORES ARE MADE AT CO. F RIFLE SHOOT

Team Headed by Chas. Norris Leads —Ralph A. Cone Makes 47 Out of Possible 50.

Three rifle teams of Company F, Connecticut Guard, held a shoot at the company's indoor range in the Barnard school building last evening. The teams were captained by Ralph A. Cone, Charles Norris and R. O. Cheney Jr. In the first match, Captain Norris' team made a score of 220 against 214 by Cap. Cone's team. In the second match, Captain Cone's team made 216 against 214 by Captain Cheney's team. Ralph A. Cone made high score of 47 out of a possible 50 while Charles Norris and Arthur Shorts tied for second honors, with a score of 46 out of 50. Some of the men who shot in a match for the first time last night, made an especially good showing.

IRISH SITUATION "SICK"

London, June 13.—A federal solution for the whole of the United Kingdom was advocated by Lord Dunraven in the London Times today. He described the Irish situation as "very sick." It is impossible to continue without action and to attempt to repeat home rule would be intolerable, Lord Dunraven argued.

YALE VARSITY BEATEN.

Gales Ferry, June 13.—The Yale varsity crew were defeated in a half mile brush with the second varsity crew this forenoon, the second crew breaking the record for the same distance made by the 1904 crew in 2:18. The second crew's time today was 2:17 2-5, the varsity covering the distance in 2:23, being about a length behind the second crew. The second eight led all the way. The freshman crew went out for a paddle of several miles during the forenoon.

MOOSE CONVENTION.

Meriden, June 13.—The Connecticut Field Day Association of the Loyal Order of Moose held its annual convention in the rooms of Meriden Lodge this afternoon with George R. Hubbard of this city, state dictator, presiding. Tonight a ball will be held in city hall auditorium with Mayor H. T. King leading the grand march. More than a thousand Moose are expected here tomorrow when a parade will be held and there will be field events at terrace garden.

BIG RUN OF FISH.

Sydney, N. S., June 13.—An unprecedented run of fish is reported off the southern shores of Nova Scotia. One fishing boat that put into port today reported catching 12,000 pounds of mackerel on Tuesday.

STOCK MARKET

New York, June 13.—The selling movement which developed yesterday, resumed shortly after the opening of the stock market today, with the market operations generally ruled by the money outlook.

Steel Common advanced 1/4 to 108 but quickly reacted one point. Baldwin Locomotive ranged from 104 1/4 to 102 1/4 and then declined to 101 1/4, and Bethlehem Steel B, after selling at 92 1/4 yielded to 91 1/4.

Marine Common rose 3/4 to 52 1/2 and then reacted to 51 1/2. Electric Storage Battery was strong, advancing 1 1/2 to 88 1/2. U. S. Rubber advanced 1/2 to 115 1/2. United Cigars rose 1/2 to 155 1/2. Crucible Steel, after selling at 92 1/4 rose to 94 1/2. Studebaker dropped 1 1/4 to 104 1/2.

NEW YORK AUTO BANDITS.

New York, June 13. Before the eyes of hundreds of pedestrians six automobile bandits attempted to rob James Ryan, bank messenger, of a satchel containing $100,000 in securities as he emerged from the colonial bank at Columbus avenue and Eighty-First street this noon. Ryan engaged in a pistol battle with the bandits, wounding one of them. The robbers dragged the wounded man into their automobile and escaped.

BOSTON'S ELECTION PROBE TO COMMENCE IN JULY

Peter F. Tague Tries to Start Investigation in House But is Not Successful.

Washington, June 13.—Despite vigorous efforts by Peter F. Tague of Boston, to get started his contest for the seat of Representative John F. Fitzgerald, it was unlikely that House Elections Committee No. 2, Representative Goodale, of Maine, chairman, will begin the investigation until July.

The committee is waiting for the printed testimony in the case. The Tague testimony, tending to prove fraud in the elections and on which he hopes to unseat Fitzgerald has been sent to the public printer for printing but the Fitzgerald testimony will not be received by the clerk of the House until some time next week.

Tague appeared yesterday with his testimony before the clerk of the House, and urged that action be speeded up. Fitzgerald asked for time in which to get his testimony in shape and promised to have it ready within a week. Following the printing of the testimony the House Elections Committee will hold a meeting for organization and determine its plan for procedure.

HIS RIVAL

By JACK LAWTON.

Young Doctor Millard was a severe man. But while his patients stood in awe of him, still he enjoyed their confidence. This may have been particularly due to the fact the mantle of the father had fallen upon his son's shoulders.

Old Doctor Millard had long been a power in the township. But whatever hope old Doctor Millard's friends had of continuing their friendship with his son, the hope was shattered by Doctor Harry's aloofness as he took up the work which his father was forced to lay aside.

The town's one millionaire, a gruff factory owner, had succumbed to his reputation for skill. John Storm needed a doctor and he called Harry Millard; but it was a case of steel meeting steel; in no phase of treatment could physician and patient agree.

Doctor Millard knowing that to operate would be the only sure way, decidedly ordered an operation—which John Storm as determinedly refused. The ambition of Doctor Millard was limitless, and he yearned for more than an inherited name in his profession. The old doctor had not been known as a surgeon, and while Harry's dreams led him victoriously onward, a farmer halted him.

"How do, Doc," he called, "goin' to have help in the village I hear."

"Help?" Harry queried.
The man nodded.
"Don't mean to say you ain't heered of the new doctor that's taken the Pilkins' place? I carted the office furniture out yesterday; all sorts of electric fixin's too, seems pretty sure of making a go here. Reckon they's room for two of you though."

He frowningly continued his way, when a girl signalled to him farther down the dusty road. Harry bowed with his usual dignity, when something strangely appealing in the wide violet eye, and upraised face, caused his firm mouth to curve in a reassuring smile.

"You beckoned me?" he asked.

"Yes, thank you," the girl replied, her tone also had a timid, musical quality.

"I am a stranger, and I wonder if it would be asking a great deal—"

"Yes!" he encouraged.
"To ask you—" the girl repeated, "to let me ride with you up the hill?" Instantly Doctor Harry alighted, assisting her in uncustomed civility to the seat beside him.

"I am on my way to John Storm's residence," she explained, "perhaps you may be able to direct me."
"I will take you there," the doctor quickly agreed; across his mind flashed the thought that here might be a valuable ally.

"You are going to visit the Storms?"
"For the night only," the girl replied. "I have to go to the city in the morning."
"You have doubtless heard," the doctor continued, "of Mr. Storm's critical condition. I am his physician."

"I have heard," the girl answered quietly, "also that his physician demands an operation which Mr. Storm refused."
"He can't refuse it much longer," said Dr. Millard.
"As serious as that?" the girl questioned sympathetically.

He nodded.
"John Storm is obstinate willed is he not?" she asked, "when compulsion failed, did you try—persuasion?"
"I'm not adept at that sort of thing," the doctor grimly admitted.

Suddenly the girl smiled at him. She stood before the entrance of the great house, and looked back and smiled again.
"I am," she said briefly, and passed inside the door.

The doctor was strangely haunted by that elfish smile, by the memory of soft violet eyes.
"An unusual girl," he muttered—"a really wonderful girl!"
Certain annoying events which followed failed to obliterate her pleasing memory. He was awakened to the fact that this new doctor was stealing his desirable patients.

"The children are not afraid of Doctor Gilmore," parents exclaimed. Then came the crushing blow—John Storm had agreed to the very operation which he himself had ordered—but at the suggestion of the new invincible Doctor Gilmore.

When Doctor Harry sat bitterly viewing the wreckage of his promising career, a girl's figure appeared in his office doorway—the figure of the girl of his haunting dreams.
"You remember me?" she began softly.

"No, thank you, I can't sit down; I am in a hurry and shall need you— with me. You may recall our conversation concerning Mr. Storm? Well, he has decided to follow your advice concerning the operation."

"Mine?" Harry burst out, "I understood that it was Doctor Gilmore who had persuaded him."
"It was." Again the girl smiled into his perplexed face. "I told you that I was good at persuading. I am Doctor Gilmore! But when it comes to real work—"

Impulsively she held out her hands. "You are the one to do that," she said. Her eyes besought him.
"I know that we are going to do great work together," said small Doctor Gilmore.
And Harry, while champing the professed hands, smiled his new and faint smile.

THE THIRD ATTEMPT.

The iniquitous assault of the Senate on the peace treaty as drawn up by the responsible heads of Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States may be said to be in the opening stages of its third phase. The Senate first made an unjustifiable attempt to secure a copy of the treaty. In this effort they lacked the sanction of United States diplomatic custom, they had not a shred of constitutional authority, they could not justify themselves with even the shadow of a precedent. They succeeded in that they have a document which represents the treaty so far as it has gone but they necessarily failed in their main purpose for the treaty is still under consideration and subject to change; change which the United States Senate can neither prescribe or prevent.

As a kind of secondary campaign to this, and yet a distinct drive in themselves, were the hot charges offered by Senator Borah that there were certain "interests" in the country who were in such confidential relationship with our representatives in Paris that they were able to obtain copies of the treaty, and even circulate them in New York City while the Senate of the United States was denied the document. This charge was important and would have been of consequence but for one thing—it was not true. Here the Senate met flat failure unless we grant them the success that comes to those who inject a saving touch of the ridiculous into this weary world of ours. Only by frankly donning cap and bells and openly declaring itself for what it has seemed to be can the Senate justify its solemn buffoonery of the past week. The attempt to show that there was collusion between the diplomatic table in Paris and the counting rooms of New York is best described by that familiar noise produced when a hot iron is immersed in cold water.

But if the first attempt of the Senate to wreck the world's hopes of an early and lasting peace was but a partial success and the second attempt, which included the besmirching of character as well, was an out and out fizzle there is no assurance that such good fortune will befall the public in the third, and let us pray final, raid of the treaty-wreckers in Washington. This is the mischief making resolution introduced by Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, reported out of the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday and coolly designed to tear up the work of the Paris council, frustrate the nation's desire for an immediate return to a peace basis, estrange many European powers and shatter every trace of idealism which has been so painstakingly wrought into the fabric of the treaty.

There was a clause at the tail of the resolution stating that this nation would gravely regard another European war and implying that we would take military action if matters became serious enough. This was a hypocritical paragraph and fortunately it has been clipped from the resolution. Now that document stands clear and stark, a menace to our present international integrity, a cloud on our future. It is better so. In its true character let it appear and be debated by the Senate. It ought to fall of passage there and if it lingers for a few days, until the treaty is signed, it will fall anyway for the Senate will then have to go back to the place where it made its false start a week ago and take up the true treaty and consider it as though all this bickering and humbug of the past few days had never been.

Not such a bad day, even if it is Friday, the 13th.

Congratulations, Eighth District, may your new truck make your first fire as harmless as a safety-match in the bottom of a well.

The baptism ceremony will be held at the Center Congregational church Sunday morning for all infants who were not able to attend last Sunday.

The League of Nations Covenant Frankly Discussed by Public Men

On this page The Herald will print a series of letters touching every angle of the plan for a League of Nations proposed by the Paris Covenant, now awaiting ratification by the United States Senate. In accordance with the authors' wishes the individual letters are not identified with any one writer.

They are written by: William H. Taft, Ex-President of the United States. George W. Wickersham, formerly United States Attorney General. A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University. Henry W. Taft, of the New York Bar.

Members of the League.

The original members of the League are those who are admitted without a vote of the Assembly, and therefore without giving guarantees of their sincerity and without regulations in regard to their military and naval forces. These countries are enumerated in the Annex to the Covenant and they are divided into two classes. The first list comprises all the countries, except Russia, that declared war, or were deemed to have taken part in the war against Germany. They are thirty-two in number including as distinct members India and the four largest self-governing colonies of England. The second list contains the names of thirteen states, being all those neutrals during the late war which have free and stable governments. The chief nations not in these lists are Germany, with Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey, her allies in the war; and Russia, whose political future is as yet wholly uncertain.

Need of Preponderance.

Assuming that the countries named in the Annex to the Covenant will, with few and not very important exceptions, join the League, it is interesting to compare the relative populations included within it and those which are at present left out; for on the preponderance of the League may well depend the question whether it will prove an irresistible force for peace and justice in the world, or merely an alliance that may be opposed by a counter alliance on the discredited system of balance of power.

Russia, after the loss of Poland, Finland and the Baltic provinces, has still some hundred millions of people of Slavic race; but at present they are in such a chaotic condition and are so distracted by civil war that their future cannot be foreseen. If Russia remains permanently divided parts of it will certainly drift into the League. If it becomes reunited it is more likely to cast its lot with the League than to ally itself with Germany or remain isolated.

Germany, Austria, Bulgaria.

Apart from Russia, and the former Turkish dominions which will be largely absorbed by other states, there will remain outside of the League Germany, a part of Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria. After the

ATTRACTIVE CLUB HOUSE FOR ALL SERVICE MEN

Building Now Ready for Opening Tonight—Piano and Pool Tables Installed.

It required the efforts of men of various trades and professions right up to the last minute to get the Manchester Army and Navy club ready for its formal opening this evening. Painters were at work during the day, putting the finishing touches on both the interior and exterior of the building and other men were busily engaged in setting up the pool tables. While this work was going on, Fred Walters, window decorator for Watkins Brothers, was decorating the interior of the main room, while Superintendent L. N. Heebner and a number of other electricians were stringing up wires and Japanese lanterns for illumination on the veranda and in the front yard. But the men succeeded in finishing their work and it is a fine home that awaits the inspection of the Manchester soldiers and sailors tonight.

The reading room at the north end of the building is particularly inviting. It is finished in mission stain and furnished with mission furniture. The large fireplace gives it a cozy, home-like appearance. There are four small writing desks in the room, with a telephone on one. Other furnishings include a Victrola, two large reading tables, several easy rockers and a number of arm chairs. And there are two large window seats on the north side of the room.

At the opposite end of the building, is the pool room, also in mission finish. Here are found two pool tables, half a dozen card tables and a generous supply of arm chairs.

The large middle room is finished in the natural wood. A piano has been installed there and also a show case for tobacco, cigars and cigars.

losses of territory these have sustained they will have a population of a little more than one hundred millions, all in Europe. The members of the League, on the other hand, will have in Europe a population of over two hundred millions, and elsewhere a population of European stock of about one hundred and fifty millions. To these, people of non-European or mixed race in independent countries with stable governments will add some hundred millions more, besides India, China and all the rest of the world with over seven hundred millions of people. In men and money, in commerce and natural resources, in all that gives ultimate power, the potential force of the League should be supreme, if its members keep faith and abide by their principles of maintaining peace and justice on the earth.

If these figures show the potential force of the League, they show also the need of such a League, the need of a close and honorable cooperation among the members, and not least the need of watchful attention to the developments in central and eastern Europe.

Independent Action Not Barred.

The second article of the Covenant provides that its action shall be effected through the instrumentality of an Assembly and a Council, with a permanent secretariat. This means that so far as the members of the League act through any common organ these are the ones through which they act. It does not mean that they are not to act directly without the intervention of any organ of the League whatever.

To hold such a view would nullify many of the obligations which, if one can use the expression, are personal and direct. For example, in Article X the members bind themselves individually to preserve and protect one another's independence and integrity against external aggression, the Council only giving advice on the best means of doing so. When under Article XIII two members go to arbitration they do it without regard to the Council or Assembly. Under Article XIII the boycott or blockade is to be set in operation immediately by the members without waiting for action by the Council which has no discretion to authorize or forbid it. This is true also of the obligation to furnish mutual economic support and allow the passage of troops. Again the agreements for humane treatment of labor, etc., impose obligations directly upon the members of the League.

How direct these obligations upon the members are, how much is left to their automatic action, and how restricted is the authority of the organs of the League will be seen more fully as we proceed to examine the several articles of the Covenant.

To meet criticisms in America, a clause was added to the first article permitting any member of the League to withdraw after two years' notice. Such a withdrawal ought not, of course, to be permitted, in order to avoid obligations already incurred; and it is therefore very properly subject to the proviso that these have all been fulfilled at the time of the withdrawal.

ettes which will be on sale. This room has a high ceiling from which has been draped the Star and Stripes in the center, flanked by the flags of the Allies. A large United States flag also hangs behind the temporary platform on the east wall and some of the Allied flags also have been draped over the windows at either end of the room.

HIGH HEELS—CAUSE BOW LEGS—EFFECT

Urbana Writer Tells About Our New Fashions—Scores the Modern Evening Gown.

Urbana, Ill., June 13.—Why should any woman desire to show her dress shields and underwear to the public?

These and a variety of kindred remarks are included in a circular on "fashions—its use and abuse," which has been out by the home economics department of the University of Illinois. The authoress is Leona Hope.

The circular also reveals why many girls are bowlegged when it says:

"Many girls appear bowlegged when the leg, which should be at right angles to foot, is obliged to assume a slant position because of the stilted heel."

"Evening dresses described in our fashion magazines as not showing much above the waist and very little below," the circular says, "are not rare. Skirts that are so tight they reveal rather than conceal the figures have been worn recently and are about to return."

The parting shot at fashion is taken in an indictment of injury caused to women's health by indolgent dress, but, it is asserted: "Fashion knows no pain."

CHAUTAUQUA BACKERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

May Decide to Move Tent to South End—Will Hear Speaker from National Association.

Guarantors of the Chautauqua, which is now an annual event in Manchester, will meet at the Recreation Center at 7.45 o'clock this evening for the purpose of mapping out the preliminary plans and appointing committees to make arrangements for the coming of the Chautauqua. The Manchester dates for this event are from July 3 to 13 inclusive. The advisability of bringing the "big top" to the South End this year will also be discussed at this evening's session. In previous years the tent has been situated at the Hollister lot on Main street, but as many performances were postponed because of the pools of water which formed after a heavy rain storm it was thought that a South End site would be more satisfactory and central. The principal speaker this evening will be Miss Caroline Redden, a representative of the Chautauqua Association. Miss Redden will tell her hearers of the plans of this association for the summer season.

MEMORIAL DAY IN FRENCH CEMETERY

Maude Tryon, Local "Y" Worker in Paris, Describes Impressive Services Among 6,000 Soldiers' Graves.

To the Editor of The Herald: This Memorial Day, the first since the war, will ever stand out to us all as a most impressive one. Many a time before coming to France I dreamed of the row after row of white crosses which mark the resting place of those brave boys of ours who have paid the supreme sacrifice and today, for the first time, I stood among 6,000 of those white crosses at Suresnes cemetery, while the cemetery and the hillside around were a khaki hue with the living who had come to pay tribute to their fallen comrades.

A pathway had been made with the French guard in their steel helmets on one side and the American guard on the other and the blue and khaki made a very pretty picture as they stood at attention while President Wilson, Marshal Foch, Ambassador Wall and American and French officers passed from the gate of the cemetery to the grandstand in the center which was draped with American flags. Mrs. Wilson had been on the scene early, decorating the stand with flags and helping in the arranging of the wreaths and flowers, but during the ceremonies she remained in her automobile close to the stand.

At two o'clock the ceremonies commenced, the American Ambassador, Mr. Hugh C. Wall, presiding. Dean Beekman, chaplain of the American church of Holy Trinity, offered the prayer, the American battle-hymn was sung by the audience and an American officer read a letter from M. Clemenceau. Then President Wilson in a clear tone, slowly but with sadness in his voice, delivered a stirring and touching address, in which he said that if the final battle for right had not been fought, there would have to be another one. In a sad tone of voice, he mentioned the fact that he felt he was responsible for these graves, for had he not sent these boys over here to die. Fortunately, I stood within ten feet of the President and was able to hear every word. As taps were sounded, there were very few dry eyes in that big audience, composed of soldiers and welfare workers of all organizations. After the ceremonies, President Wilson walked down among the graves and helped with the decorating.

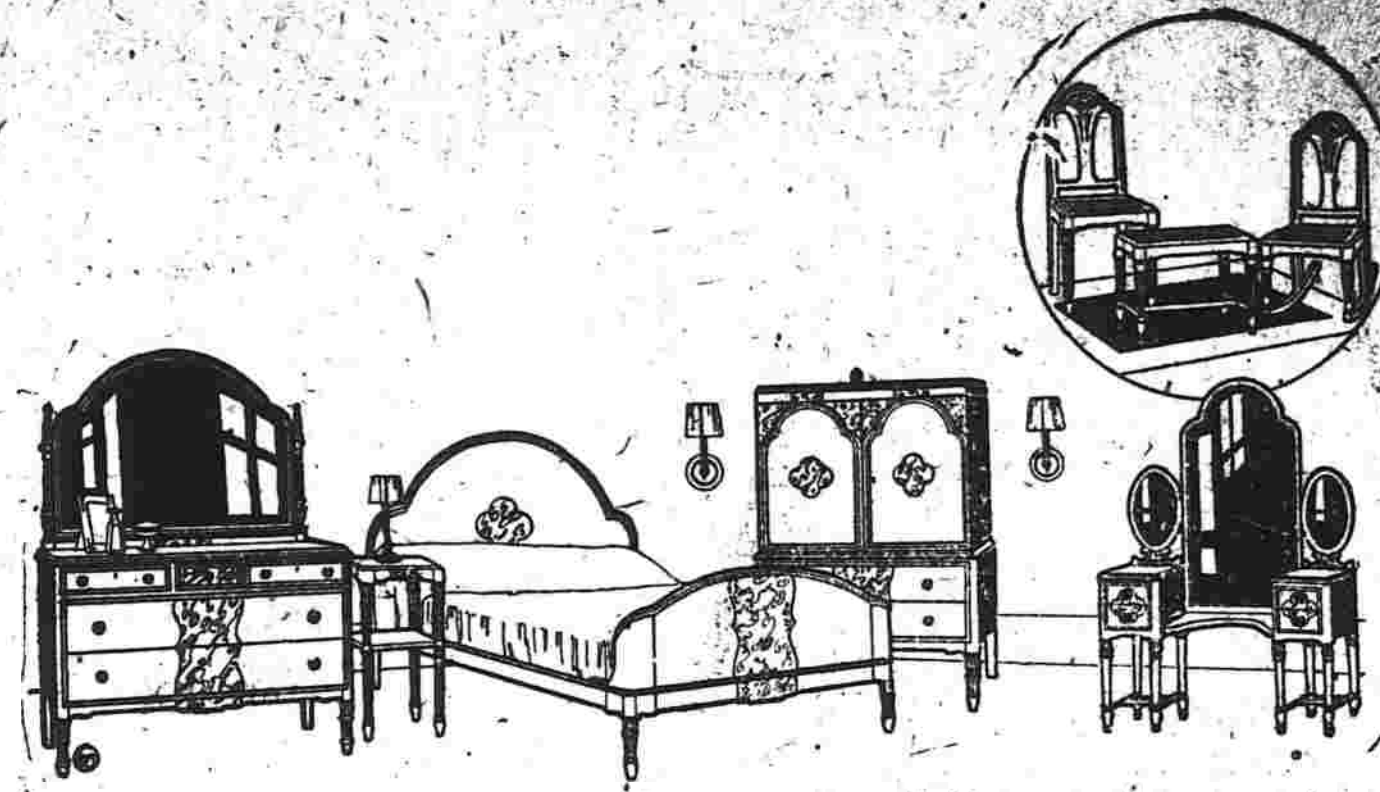

Special trains were run from Paris by the Y. M. C. A. for all uniformed members of the A. E. F., and the K. of C. ran trucks out for the uniformed members also. It was a gathering that will ever linger in my memory as a most beautiful and impressive one.

In closing, I hope the girls back home will understand and appreciate these boys going back, as we girls who have been privileged to work among have known, understood and loved them. They are a wonderful lot of lads and the respect and homage we have received as representatives of their American women has been both gratifying and touching.

With kindest regards to all South Manchester friends.

Maude E. Tryon.

"The Bedroom Beautiful"

No drawing can portray the elegance and dignified beauty of the San Domingo finish of the bedroom illustrated. It is a veritable painting in the handwork of nature, graduations of light and shade, and graceful curves. The surface resembles the shimmer of changeable silk, the dark shadows becoming light and vice versa, as viewed from different angles. The depth and richness and delicacy of the colorings and the fineness of the texture of the wood is beautiful. While faithfully following the Hepplewhite period, this magnificent suite is admirably fitted to the requirements of modern homes. The pieces in this suite are: bedstead, bureau with large mirror, chiffon, vanity dresser, bench, chair, rocker, and sewing cabinet. The price $1,000. By all means see this suite displayed in our middle window.

McLEAN AND SCHUYLER FAVOR SUFF CAMPAIGN

Project to Raise $100,000 For Education of Women Meets Approval of Legislators at Washington.

Seconding United States Senator George P. McLean of Connecticut, who declared, in reference to the state-wide $100,000 fund campaign in Connecticut for citizenship work and other public services in connection with the coming of complete enfranchisement, "I must consistently favor any effort that will induce them (the women of America) to take an intelligent and active interest in politics and public questions." Congressman Schuyler Merritt of the Fourth Connecticut District, in a letter dated June 10 to Mrs. Samuel Russell, Jr., Chairman of the Campaign Committee, declared that he is thoroughly in favor of the plan to take measures for educating the women who expect to soon have the vote, so that they may vote intelligently.

JUSTICE JURY DECIDES AGAINST F. WOODHOUSE

Antonio Lamenzo Wins Case Involving Option on His Building Where Woodhouse Has Store.

A justice jury case, the first in Manchester in many years, came to an end yesterday afternoon when Justice Frederick Manning, who presided, rendered a decision in favor of the defendant. The case was that of Antonio Lamenzo of Pine street vs. Fred Woodhouse of the same section who occupies a store in a building owned by Mr. Lamenzo. The latter endeavored to secure possession of Mr. Woodhouse's establishment, contending that the grocer had not given him the proper notice that he wished to renew an optional lease for a period of five years.

At the beginning of this trial a few weeks ago, Judge H. O. Bowers, representing Mr. Woodhouse, the plaintiff, argued that his client was overseas at the time the lease expired and did not think it necessary to exercise his option on the day of the expiration of the original lease. Judge Tuttle of Hartford, a former Superior Court judge who appeared for the defendant, Mr. Lamenzo, entered a demurrer, contending that notice for a renewal should have been given by both parties, instead of one, as was the case.

Justice Manning took the demurrer under consideration and postponed the case until yesterday afternoon when the defendant's counsel presented additional evidence. The jury of six men who were out but a short time, returned with a verdict in favor of Mr. Woodhouse. Notice of an appeal was filed by the plaintiff.

HOSE CO. NO. 1 ELECTS ALL FORMER OFFICERS

Thomas Bennisson Named as Delegate to State Convention—Heebner Again Capt.

At the annual meeting of Hose & Ladder Company No. 1 of the South Manchester fire department last evening, the former officers were re-elected as follows:

- Captain, L. N. Heebner.
- Lieutenant, Thomas Bennisson.
- Ladder Foreman, Harry Schieldge.
- Assistant, James O. McCaw.
- Ladder Steward, Wilson Martin.
- Hose Foreman, Herman Montie.
- Assistant, Robert Thayer.
- Secretary, Charles B. Warren.
- Treasurer, Joseph Moore.
- Trustees, Frank Cheney, Jr., and Charles Cheney.

Lieutenant Thomas Bennisson was elected delegate to the state convention and Joseph Moore was chosen as his alternate.

The following committee was elected to make arrangements for the company's annual outing and report at a later meeting: Philip Cheney, Thomas Bennisson, Herman Montie, Harry Schieldge and James O. McCaw.

The appointive officers and officers for the auxiliary company will be announced later.

COTTER HAD VELVETS FANNING THE BREEZE

Machine Shop Walks Away With Score of 7-5—Make Five Runs in First.

The Velvet mill nine was defeated by the Machine Shop baseball team yesterday afternoon, 7-5. Markley, pitcher for the Velvet mill, settled down after the Machine Shop had gathered five runs in the first inning and pitched a fine game. Cotter, pitcher for the Machine Shop, built up a reputation, which he will never live down. Jerry Fay and King Phillips, star performers for the Velvet mill team, looked like amateurs when they stood up before Cotter and swung at the air.

There is much rejoicing at the Machine Shop today as this is the second time this season that they have trimmed the Velvet mill.

Dodger Dowd, who was looked to pitch last night's game, was unable to be present, owing to an engagement with the Holyoke Co.

Coville, the Machine Shop's dark horse, played a fine game at third base and at bat.

Washington Loyal Lodge Will Celebrate Famous Event but Not to Keep Its Memory Green.

As in past years, the members of Washington Loyal Orange lodge are planning for a celebration of the battle of the Boyne on July 12. The lodge appointed a committee some time ago to make the necessary arrangements. Last night, this committee held its final meeting and will make its report to the lodge this evening. It is understood that the committee will recommend going to Riverside park near Springfield. The trip will be made by trolley and the members of the lodge and their families will attend. More details as to the day's outing will be announced after tonight's meeting.

Of course this is all foolishness and nobody believes in it at all, at all but—

There was a ladder standing on lower Main street this morning and a reporter who was standing nearby noticed that not one person walked under it. Everybody carefully walked three paces out of his or her way to avoid the unlucky act.

Of course this is all foolishness and nobody believes in it at all, at all but—

DIAN ORGANIZING DEFENSES.
Paris, June 13.—General Dian, the Italian commander in chief, has left for Italy to organize Italian defenses against the Jugo-Slavs on the Carinthian frontier. (Recent reports stated that the Jugo-Slavs had invaded Carinthia, attacking the Austrians. Later it was said that an armistice had been signed and that hostilities had ceased.)

JACK CANT LAND KAYO SAYS FIGHT CHAMPION

"Dempsey Can't Hurt Me," Declares Jess — Ends of His Bout With Jack Johnson.

Toledo, Ohio, June 13.—Having outlined any plan of battle for use against Jack Dempsey on the fourth.

The question put to Jess Willard, elicited this reply:

"What's the use? I have never seen Dempsey fight and don't know his method of attack. Therefore I will go into that battle with the idea of spending a round or two in finding out what this fellow has. By that time I'll be ready to go out and get him."

"You are still supremely confident of victory?" he was asked.

"Never surer of anything in my whole life," smiled the champion in reply, "and I'll tell you the reasons for my confidence. I'm hitting harder today than ever before in my life. Dempsey is figuring that he can hurt me, perhaps even bring me down—with body punches. Well, let him try—to his sorrow. My stomach right now is as hard as concrete. I have been taking the hardest kind of wallops that Hemptle and Monahan have been shooting at me—and they have not even forced me to take a long breath. Dempsey is quite a hitter, I'm told—but so is Monahan. And don't let any one tell you otherwise. But that don't bother me."

Johnson Hits Hard.

"Jack Johnson hit me on the jaw—on every part of the jaw. But he never dropped me. And Jack hit hard. One wallop carried such rushing force that it broke my jawbone, but I did not go down. That ought to convince a few skeptics that I can take some beating, should it not?"

Willard's new left hook has been in evidence during the last week and he is improving it daily.

Is a Bit Clumsy.

"I think I'll flash more boxing skill against Dempsey than in any other fight in his career," Willard continued. "I never took a boxing lesson in my life. All I know I have picked up by experience or by watching other fellows. Constant boxing especially in the circus, caused me to try some new tricks both in defense and attack and I guess I'll spring a little surprise on the folks when I get under way against Dempsey."

MEXICANS ARE FIGHTING AT JUAREZ SAY COURIERS

Federal Outposts and Rebels Engaged—U. S. Troops Closely Watching the Border.

El Paso, Texas, June 13.—Federal outposts and rebels are fighting west of Juarez, Mexico, according to couriers riding in from the scenes of action early today.

East of Juarez Martin Lopez's men have occupied the Weber ranch in the suburbs and have succeeded in drawing away a troop of federal cavalry sent to dislodge them.

Rebel troops, under direction of General Felipe Angeles, are reported on three sides of Juarez today, preparing to close in.

A concerted attack on the federal forces holding the city is expected momentarily.

American military authorities along the border are watching the situation closely and are taking all necessary precautions. The garrison at Fort Bliss was reinforced today by the arrival of two battalions of the Twentyfourth Infantry from Columbus, N. M.

BLACK WATCH REFUSES TO GO INTO GERMANY.

Dover, June 13.—Three hundred members of the famous Black Watch regiment refused to embark for the occupied zone in Germany after being ordered to leave here. They were marched back to rest camp and their case is under consideration.

HOW SCOUTS HELP OTHERS.

"They serve as guides, watchmen and helpers at outdoor entertainments and conventions.

Take charge of community Christmas charity distributions. Assist civic authorities in cleaning up public health and other crusades.

Earn money to help some poor boy get clothing so he can go to school. Render first aid and do special messenger work in times of calamity.

Gather and saw and split wood for poor widows. Clean off their sidewalks in the winter.

Provide feeding places for birds in winter, and protect them from wanton destruction at all times.

Take turns wheeling injured soldiers, and invalids.

Assume definite tasks about the home to relieve older members of the family.

Give up their seats in crowded cars to women and the aged.

Provide and serve refreshing drinks to marchers in G. A. R. and similar conventions.

Organize search parties to find lost children and others.

Be constantly on the lookout for little acts of kindness that will bring happiness to anyone.

KISSES 11 MEMBERS OF HIS FAMILY AT EACH MEAL.

San Francisco, June 13.—Lucius Solomon and his relation to general Lucius contention was the subject of a symposia discussion before Superior Judge Shortall during the hearing of Mrs. Isabel Dugan's divorce action against Herbert F. Dugan, manufacturing chemist.

Miss Adele Dugan sister of the defendant, testified that her sister-in-law was extremely jealous of kisses bestowed on Miss Dugan by the latter's brother each evening when he came home.

"Isn't that a good way to treat a sister?" asked Judge Shortall.

Thomas Dozier attorney for Mrs. Dugan, said: "I myself prefer the kiss of my wife to wine before dinner."

This drew from Lucius Solomon, attorney for Dugan, the remark: "There are eleven females in my family. Before sitting down to the supper table I make the rounds. And the meal tastes better."

London Paper, Alarmed at Britain's Big Obligation of $20,000,000,000 to U.S., Would Pay the Debt in Goods

(By International News Service.) London (by mail).—Can we pay America? is the heading on a lengthy article in the Daily Mail, discussing how Great Britain can get out of debt to the United States, whom she owes some $20,000,000,000 in national and trade debts, including private trade obligations. This is not the net amount of England's indebtedness, for many millions of dollars' worth of mortgages on American farms, railroads and other commercial enterprises are held in this country.

England's debts so much, says the Daily Mail, that it would take eighty years to pay it off if every grown man contributed $5 a week on the installment plan.

"The strange thing, at first glance, is that America really wants to pay our debt with her own money," says the Mail. "Secretary Redfield, of the United States Department of Commerce, is conducting an official government propaganda to persuade Americans to buy British goods. Supported by bankers, journalists and chamber of commerce experts, he is telling the American people, and particularly the business man, that America must enable Britain to pay her debts in the easiest and simplest way in order to disturb international conditions as little as possible."

In other words, America must continue to back up British credit, which in turn must uphold the inflated financial and credit system of the rest of the world, especially Europe.

"So the way in which America can pay our debt for us is simply this," points out the Mail. "We must sell $20,000,000,000 worth of goods to the people of the United States, which they will pay for in dollars with their own money, and then, instead of bringing these dollars to Great Britain, we must leave them there, to be used in paying off the debt."

Putting it plainly, Great Britain would pay her debts in goods. There are only two other ways of paying it, namely, money or services. The chief service she has to render is ocean freight, but now that Uncle Samuel is acquiring a rather hefty mercantile marine herself services of that character will grow more and more superfluous, thank you!

"Our foreign banking and exchange system," confidentially remarks the Mail, "will make possible the fair and effective use of those dollars. The process can be spread out over as many years as is convenient, but the quicker it is applied the better."

It might be well to remark at this juncture that if there are millions of American bonds and mortgages still held by the British, who are in debt twenty billion dollars to America, it might be well as an initial transaction for these British held American bonds and mortgages to be applied first toward cancellation of the debt, thus stopping the stream of interest and dividends from flowing to London each year, keeping it at home to develop American resources or to expand American credit further.

"If British trades and British manufacturers act quickly the thing is done," says the Daily Mail. "Up to the present they have been far too timid, not showing a tenth of the energy in entering American markets that the Americans have shown in coming here. They have used many excuses—American currency, pressure of demand in other countries, and the fact that not really one British firm in a hundred has really tried, by studying the American market year after year and making sensible efforts. The few that have gone at it sensibly have succeeded—look at the way Lux is doing business in the United States. English china has done very well in the past. The Irish linen makers are uniting in a $450,000 American campaign."

"But think of the scores of other wasted opportunities. Why ever orange marmalade, a product that America has always thought as typically British, is being imported from the United States by an American firm.

"Now—next year—next year—but now while America is ready and eager to help is the time for British business men of all kinds to go ahead vigorously and intelligently in this campaign.

There is a genuine craze in nearly all parts of the United States today for British things. The man with London clothes, the woman with English or Scottish country walking suit, and every one with anything he can proudly point to as being British—they are all in the swim today, and they are going to stay there, and definitely if our manufacturers act vigorously and promptly.

"I want to know what they strike off $20,000,000,000 for us and leave the profits for Russia, China and India for the true enrichment and improvement of Great Britain."

The Mail remarks that if this American business is not developed and the Great Britain will remain impoverished, for the profits obtained from other foreign trade will have to go to America for paying off the debt. It remarks that taxes collected by the government will repay to America sums borrowed in the national interest, but that repayment of private debts will have to come out of profits.

"And this would slowly bleed out businesses to death," the Mail states.

Ancient British Regalia, Which Includes Fabulous Treasures, To be Object of Great Search

London, June 13.—The ancient regalia of England, including King Alfred's crown, lies buried some one hundred miles north of London, a few miles from the sea, and the London Daily Express wants the government or the Society of Antiquaries to go treasure-hunting and find it.

Along a six-mile stretch and not more than thirty-two feet down lies this priceless treasure, along with King John's own jewels as well as wonderful gold and silver vessels looted from innumerable abbeyes, all lost when King John's baggage train was swallowed up, like the Egyptians in the Red Sea, way back in 1216.

King John in the good old ancient days of castle-fighting and looting was going north to Lincoln, after pillaging half the castles and churches of England, and to save time forded the Wash, some tidal water from the crossed the dangerous sands and North Sea.

King John and his army had forded the River Nene before midnight. The baggage train of some 2,000 persons with the rough carts and spare fighting material, plus the booty, were to follow. At dusk the baggage train came up to the marshy road and started to follow in the tracks of their king, who had halted at Swineshead Abbey. Something went wrong, perhaps a wagon jammed, and high tide was due at 6 p. m. But the baggage column, then midway across, pressed on, though waters came around the horses' hoots. The high spring tides were due in two days. The horses bogged, wagons sunk axle deep, the sands became ooze and the baggage attendants fled for their lives. Not one reached the land.

Three days later King John died of grief and drink at Newark Castle.

And this is the important point. Today the wash where all the treasure was lost is dry land. The sea has retreated. Between Long Sutton and Cross Keys is the actual track taken by the ancient caravan. All the land near has been reclaimed. But there is no record of any of this treasure having been found. Some of it, possibly, was swept out to sea. But it is believed that the majority of the treasure, which certainly contained silver iron coffers filled with loot which barons brought back from the crusades, as well as old utensils of the sixteenth century, very rare today, is within reach.

Studio Days

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS (Copyright, 1915, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

West put a few lingering touches on his canvas before the setting sun told him that he must wait until another day before finalizing the delicate portrait's head. A riotous little air fell from time to time from his lips, but its measure became gradually subdued while the soft veil of twilight captured the artist's soul and bade him express his joy in a more quiet manner.

"A sunny smile lurked in West's eyes; the gold of his hair was rumpled and his smock shockingly dirty, but little did he care since the studio rent had been paid for the following month. Also the canvas on his easel would easily insure another six months' living."

And outside his door stood a girl whose eyes held all the wisdom of the world and whose heart was absorbing every note of that magic, happy lilt that fell from West's lips. Finally she knocked.

West was not prepared for a visitor, and such a one as he found on the landing was a challenge to the most sturdy of heartbeats.

"May I come in?" "A absurd waste of words," West said, and with the little courtly bow that was a part of the man he watched his visitor cross the threshold.

"The wistfulness vanished swiftly and a tremendous gladness that took the form of glistening tears stood in the girl's eyes. She fled to the small window that held the glow of the setting sun and stood silently for a moment. Then West saw her brush a hand across her eyes before she turned again to him.

"You are not to think me mad," she said tremulously. "For three long years I have hungered to be in this studio again, and now—now my heart's thumping like a bird gone mad—just because I am here."

He started to prepare tea on the tin that stood on a shelf beside his easel, but the girl slipped quickly over. "I want to make the tea," she insisted. "See! I have brought some cinnamon cakes from the same old corner bakery that was there three years ago. I somehow felt I would be allowed to stay for tea—if I came in."

Her eyes were so adorable with their new-found happiness that West said frankly, "I would have dragged you in had I known you were out on that landing—so make yourself perfectly at home."

The girl threw her great moleskin cape on the dusty armchair just as carelessly as in the old days she had tossed off her threadbare tweed coat. Her gown was a dream and her small toque a brilliant-lined affair with an absurd something wabbling uncertainly over the edge. Although she was as chic as any wonderful poster, she pulled off the toque and with a swift gesture rumpled the conventional, smooth coiffure into a bewildering head of burnished copper.

"You have utterly no regard for a poor bachelor's heart, have you?" West inquired. There was warm, boyish admiration in his glance. "But I will try to remember that you are just a little wealth that has blown into my Bohemia for a cup of tea."

"The little wealth would very much like a smock—if you have a second one," she laughed back at him. "It would take four of you to fill it up," he said after a successful rummage.

They both laughed like children at the result and for the first time in three years a happy lilt of song fell from Gretchen's lips.

"Oh, yes—my name is Gretchen Meeves," she told him by way of tardy introduction. "I saw yours on the door as I came up the creaky stairs. I used always to think those stairs would cave in. They are just as frail as ever, but I loved every creak they gave out for me."

She was exploring all the while she talked and it was not long before a dainty tea was ready and they sank on opposite sides of the quaint tart West had fashioned. They were both Bohemian enough to enjoy the rare unconventionality of the moment without any strain.

"How long have you been in this studio?" Gretchen asked between smatches of cinnamon cake. "I've managed to pay the rent here for three years," he told her. "Oh! You came in just as I left, then. I was here for the two happiest years I have ever had," Gretchen said, and the wistfulness clouded her eyes. "I used to think just as you were singing when I came up. Of course, I never expected to see the world on fire through my art, but somehow I made a scant living—scant as to money, but overflowing with joy. I did not always have enough money to buy cinnamon cakes," she laughed, but her lips were tremulous.

Police Sergeant Asks To Be Made Private.

Springfield, Mass., June 13.—Police Sergeant Edward Carey has earned a unique distinction in petitioning to the Police Commissioner to be demoted to the rank of patrolman. The request has been granted by the Police Commissioner.

Carey was appointed sergeant several months ago as a reward for his splendid record as a patrolman. This work was not as fascinating as he had bargained for, however, as a sergeant is shifted at monthly intervals between the three watches and must twice a week make the rounds of the city on foot with two days of a month to be preferred to a sergeant's chevrons, a half dollar more a day and the honor of working many hours over-

Changing Jobs.

The president of an Indianapolis bank, who is far from being a Beau Brummel in his dress, was standing on the sidewalk in East Washington street near a tray of shoeshiners, and a stylishly dressed woman approached him.

"Here's a dime; let me have one of your longest pairs of black shoestrings."

The shoemaker gave the woman his cord and she laughed over the mistake.

"Thank you very much," she said and she walked away.

WATCHING AIRPLANE MAIL NEW HOOSIER PASTIME.

Kendallville, Ind., June 13.—Kendallville railroad station loaters have a new pastime and know when the east and west bound "flyers" are late. But the "flyers" are not on rails, but real flyers of the air.

Residents of this town are favored daily with splendid views of Uncle Sam's mail airplanes, as they follow their routes from Chicago, Ill., to Cleveland, Ohio. The east-bound plane passes over Kendallville at about 10:40 a. m. and the west-bound about 11:30 a. m. And the mail know when they are late.

HURLER JEAN DUBUC, FRENCH-CANADIAN, RESCUED FROM SALT LAKE BY J. MCGRAW

Jean Dubuc, French-Canadian pitcher, rescued by John McGraw from the Salt Lake club of the Pacific league, to which he had been released by the Boston Red Sox, is making a game fight to come back to the big league heights, and if Mons. Jean continues at his present pace he's sure to make good.

DIAMOND NOTES

Eddie Sicking put up a good game in Bancroft's shoes until injured.

The Brooklyn club has released Gene Sheridan, an infield rookie, to Charley Dootin's Reading team.

"Dugan to Shannon to Burns" is getting to be an often mentioned combination on the Athletics.

Manager Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals is not giving up because of a poor start.

The reason for Ernle Shore's poor start is explained. He caught the mumps from Ping Bodde.

Red Faber will have his banner season in the American league if he keeps up his work of recent combats.

Wallace, the youngster who was trying for an infield job with the Phillies, has been released to Hartford of the Eastern league.

Josh Devore is surprising the fans by his work for the Indians. Devore has been fielding in fine fashion and is hitting the ball hard.

George H. Lawson, recently discharged from the Canadian army, is planning an "outlaw" league, to be known as the Allied league.

The New York Yankees charged Carl Mays was using an emery ball, but now having beaten him they may conclude they were mistaken.

Manager Lee Fohl of Cleveland is well pleased at what George Uhle has shown him and declares the young semi-pro is going to be a real star.

Joe Whitout, a star in the Coast league three or four years ago and for a moment, looking like a star in the big show, seems to have fizzled out with Seattle.

Hugo Bezdek has benched Southworth and played Lee in right field. The former, who hit for .341 in 84 games last season, has been doing under .100 this season.

Shortstop Jimmy Cooney, who did not join the Detroit Tigers and who thus is technically a member of the Boston Red Sox, is finally out of the army and no place to go.

A left-hander can't hit a southpaw. Not at all. Casey Stengel only got four hits, one of them a triple, against the mightiest boy in the National loop, Jim Vaughn, the other day.

An all-star association football team will go to Sweden this summer under direction of Secretary Thomas Cahill of the United States Football association, the governing council of the sport.

Manager Miller Huggins assigned Duffy Lewis to center field to start the season, but soon changed his mind and switched Duffy to left. Ping Bodde went to center. Ping will keep on going if he doesn't watch out.

George Runge, infielder, who was released by Clarence Rowland of the Brewers, has signed to play with the Nash Motor company team of Kenosha. Artie Bues, Art Kores and Rip Engerman, former A. A. players, are also with the club.

QUIT TELEGRAPHING

Kid Gleason says George Uhle, the semi-pro star who is trying to win a berth with the Cleveland Indians, may make a great pitcher—when he quits telegraphing to the batter what he is going to throw.

"You throw your fast one with a side arm motion, your curve with an overhead throw," Gleason said to Kerr. "You can't get by that way."

"I got by all right in the Southern and American Association," replied Kerr. "That may be so but you will never get by in this league if you don't stop telegraphing," retorted Gleason and he set out to show Kerr how to turn the trick.

BACK ON FARM FOR OLDTRING

Former Captain of Philadelphia Athletics to Play Ball in New Jersey Village.

It's "back to the farm" again for "Rube" H. Oldring, captain of the Philadelphia Athletics in the American league last season, with which club he also starred as an outfielder in those days when Connie Mack was pushing down pennants.

Having now secured his release from the Athletics, "Rube" intends to take up his residence at Quinton, a rural village in Salem County, N. J., where he helped to organize a nine that two years ago would wallop nearly all rivals in seven townships.

WHITE SOX SHOWING SPEED

Manager Gleason Has His Men Batting Well and Running Bases Better Than Usual.

Manager Gleason of the White Sox not only appears to have his team batting in fine shape, but they are showing more speed on the bases than has usually been the case with Chicago American teams of past years. Stealing seven bases in one game is something new for the White Sox, especially with Ainsmith doing the catching for the opposing team.

SOMETHING MUST GIVE

Moon Ducote, former college football star and now outfielder for Mobile, has two touchdowns to his credit since he entered the Southern league. Writes Barney Shestain in the Mobile Register. "One he gained at the expense of Frank Kitchens, New Orleans catcher, and the other over Bill Webb, Birmingham third baseman in the smashup with 'Moon.'"

TRIS SPEAKER BIDS FOR BIGGEST YEAR

Is Hitting Ball Hard and Showing Unusual Amount of Pep.

Playing Shorter Center Field Than Year Ago, Racing Back for Occasional Ones That Go Deep—Strong for Aviation.

Tris Speaker will be more of a star this year than he was a year ago. That is indicated by the form shown by the Indian captain to date. He is hitting the ball harder than a year ago and, if such a thing is possible, is displaying more pep.

Spoke, as he is universally known in baseball circles, revolutionized center fielding when he adopted a system of playing in close to second base and racing back for the occasional ones hit to deep center.

"A Perfect Lady" comes to the Park theater tonight.

Tomorrow Frank Keenan who made such a hit here in "Todd of the Times" will be seen in "The Silver Girl", a clean cut story of the west.

deeper center than usual, and it was said it was because he was slowing up.

Speaker says that when the season is over he will complete the naval aviator course he started last fall.

"I am sorry I quit," Spoke said. "I want to be a full-fledged naval aviator, and I understand those of us who did not complete our course will be given a chance to do so next fall."

And that is not all Spoke intends to do in the aviation game. The first chance he gets Spoke wants to arrange for a flight with Glenn Martin from Cleveland to some town where Cleveland, is to play the next day, like Detroit, Chicago or Washington.

CURB DOBBS AND ELBERFELD

Managers Must Not Appear on Field in Uniform Unless Classed as Active Players.

A ruling has been sent out by President Martin of the Southern league that hereafter managers of teams must not appear in uniform on the field unless they class themselves as active players. Included inside the player limit. The ruling will bar John Dobbs of the New Orleans team from the lines and also Kid Elberfeld of the Little Rock team unless they include themselves as players on their respective clubs.

TOD MILLER IS DISCOVERED

Great Lakes Middleweight Boxing Champion Located With Bloomington Three-F team.

Tod Miller, Great Lakes middleweight boxing champion, has been discovered. He is playing first base for the Bloomington team of the Three-F league. Some players on an opposing team sensed Tod, the other day, and wanted to fight, without knowing the class of the party he was challenging.

Park Theater

Madge Kennedy achieves dramatic heights in several scenes of her latest Goldwyn Picture, "A Perfect Lady", by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf, in which Rose Stahl scored a triumph on the stage. Miss Kennedy's skill in evoking tears from her audiences only to have them smiling again in a flash was never more forcibly exemplified than in a scene where a clergyman comes to scold her and remains to make her his wife.

This incident brings a stirring climax to a series of pathetic situations confronting a young girl in a strange town who fights bravely against overwhelming odds and finally triumphs. Lucille Le Jambon (Madge Kennedy) gives up her burlesque career after the authorities in Sycamore stop the show, of which she was premier performer. The morals committee responsible for the closing of the show also seeks to have Lucille barred from town after she opens an ice cream cabaret and dancing school.

The person accompanies the committee members to her cabaret, with Deacon John Griswold as spokesman. Lucille has planned a little surprise for the party of purifiers. She astounds them with a motion picture showing Griswold disporting with chorus girls while on a visit to Chicago. Enraged at the deacon's duplicity, the minister furnishes a further surprise to the committee members by asking Lucille to become his wife.

Circle Theater

The exponents of the strenuous life and admirers of the man who succeeds against almost overwhelming odds will appreciate the screen version of Larry Evans' red-blooded and fighting story "Once to Every Man", which will be shown at the Circle theater again this evening.

This production vividly portrays the story of the almost brutal opposition of the residents of a small town to a boy whose parents established a bad reputation for drinking. The lad struggles to fight off the inherited craving and all but falls a victim to the taint. Chief among his tormentors is a big burly brute of a lumber jack who, without provocation, unmercifully beats the boy.

Even the lad's sweetheart loses faith in him and he sojourns to the big city there to fight his battles alone and struggles through many vicissitudes.

He finally overcomes tremendous opposition and mounts the ladder of success.

To detail the story with greater accuracy would be to deprive those who will see this picture of surprise and suspense.

Jack Sherrill, who plays the part of the struggling youth, has already established a favorable reputation as a screen actor, and his many admirers will flock to see his latest performance.

His co-star, Mable Withee, is perhaps more popularly known in New York because of her shining as one of the stars at the famous Winter Garden in New York.

"Once to Every Man", has been pronounced by the New York press as one of the most virile and intense screen dramas ever produced, and its clean and wholesome atmosphere will do much toward popularizing these two young artists.

The Frohman Amusement Company has spared no expense in the staging of the production and in order to secure the proper local atmosphere, actually hired for two weeks the entire force of a lumber camp at Saranac Lake, New York.

For tomorrow Acting Manager "Doc" Sullivan will present a 13,000 foot film show. Baby Osborne will be the feature, there will be a two reel comedy, the Pathe News, the last episode of "The Lightning Raiders" and the first episode of "The Tiger's Trail" with Ruth Roland playing the star part.

HOOSIER COPS FIRE ON "THEY"—IT WAS RAT.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 13.—A pedestrian passing the Gayety Theater heard a noise in the basement and called the police. Two "rats" were sent to the theater "toot sweet." Stealthily entering the dark cellar of the playhouse the two policemen waited. Then came a rasping noise like that made by a rat. Both policemen fired. There was a shriek, then silence. Throwing their flashlights on their quarry they found the burglar was a rat.

LABORING THE BASES

Bob Shawkey not only chalked up his sixth straight victory, but pitched the Yankees into first place.

In the three defeats of the Tigers at the hands of the Yanks, Cobb has amassed three infield hits.

"I'm a faster man than you are," Zimmerman executed an unassisted double play which checked a Red rally, (no joke), and helped the Giants to stop Cincinatti's winning streak.

While the Cubs were winning their sixth straight, Alexander refused to permit the Phillies to score. McHenry's home run, with Heathcote ahead of him, cinched the game for the Cardinals against the Braves. Gallia, (sounds rather Latin, doesn't it?) blanked the Athletics while the Browns were winning.

WELCOMES TROOPS

Rhode Island Governor Heads Big Reception Committee.

Boston, June 13.—Governor Beekman, of Rhode Island, headed a delegation of 500 persons of that state which came here today and gave the 301st Engineers, a Providence outfit and other units aboard the transport Calamares a big down-the-harbor welcome. Each of the four reception boats had a band and all were playing lively airs as the Calamares came up the harbor in the sunlight.

The transport brought home the remainder of the 76th, (New England) Division, the 301st Engineers and the 301st Sanitary Train, also the 162nd Infantry. They went to Camp Devens for demobilization.

SEEKING THIEF NERVOUS, VICTIM TALKS WAY OUT.

Baxter Springs, Kan., June 13.—Jack Welch, of Picher, Okla., a prominent business man, says the next time he comes here he will come in the daytime and will walk down the middle of the street. The other evening he came here on business and while walking under a large tree near the Methodist church a man stopped out, and pointing a revolver at him said: "Stick 'em up, or I'll kill you."

Noticing the hand holding the revolver was shaking, Mr. Welch said: "You wouldn't kill a man for a dollar or two, would you?" After a short conversation the robber fled without searching his victim.

UNINJURED IN ARGONNE, BUT KILLED BY TRAIN.

Junction City, Kan., June 13.—To go through the Argonne fighting last September without a scratch, only to be killed a few days later in a railroad accident, was the fate of three Junction City soldiers, according to comrades returning here. The three, Edwin Hewitt, C. R. Snell and L. W. Chase, started to the rear after the battle. They got into a box car standing on the track which they took to be a side track. It was a main line, however, and a train crashed into the car, killing the three.

HEN ADOPTS KITTENS.

Mercer, Pa., June 12.—A hen owned by George McMinnemy, State Inspector of Fertilizers, has adopted a family of three kittens. The mother cat doesn't mind and lies in the nest with the old hen when she covers the kittens each night.

Semi-annually, we offer our patrons choice of our complete lines of beautiful hand embroidered linens, very much under their regular retail prices. In anticipation of this summer event we have kept a close watch on the market, and have been successful in picking up some extraordinary bargains. So despite the fact that Madeira linens have materially advanced in the past few months, you will find some better values than we have been able to offer for some years.

Look at Lot Number One which comprises round D'oyles as well as oval ones handsomely hand embroidered in round ones, 4 inch for 10c each; 5 inch for 12 1-2c each; 6 inch for 17c each; Oval Bread Tray size 21c each.

You'll find in Lot Two just think of it hand embroidered all Linen Scarfs in different sizes to match. 18x36 inch, 18x45, 18x54 inch, 18x72 inch worth $3.50, $4, $4.50 and $5.50 priced for this sale at $2.00, $2.39, $2.75 and $3.50 each. A choice gift chosen from this lot of scarfs.

Now for Lot Three which also gives choice of Scarfs sized 18x36 inch, 18x45 inch, 18x54 inch, 18x72 inch worth $4.50, $5, $6 and $7.50, sale prices $2.75, $3.25, $4 and $5 each.

Lot Four consists of wonderfully fine Italian Cut work and embroidered Fliet insert D'oyles. 6 inch size worth $1.50 for 85c. The 10 inch size worth $2.50 for $1.85.

Here is Lot Five with a showing of handsome odd Scarfs in all sizes 18x36 inch, 18x54 inch, 18x63 inch, 18x72 inch, priced for this sale at just about half present day prices.

Don't Pass Lot Six which is composed of about 50 thirteen piece Lunch Sets, hand embroidered on pure linen. Their real worth is $5.50, our June sale price $3.95 set.

Lot Seven comes last, but by no means least with six 45 inch round lunch cloths, one pattern only (rose and bouquet) guaranteed all linen, and hand embroidered worth $15 for only $10.

Take particular notice that every piece of Madeira Worked Linens in our immense stock will be reduced in price for this big June sale. Do not let this opportunity get by you.

ABOUT TOWN

James H. Quinn and son, Walter, of Park street have returned from a trip to Boston.

A wild deer dashed through the plate glass show window of a Rockville store Wednesday and made a safe getaway.

Miss Mary Quinn of Park street who is studying at Simmons College in Boston, returned to her home in town yesterday for the summer vacation.

Earle Goslee will attend the annual dinner of the Army and Navy Club at the Griswold Eastern Point, tonight. He will be the guest of E. M. Dunbar of Torrington.

If everything has gone wrong with any of our readers today, just look at the calendar and you'll find an answer to the cause of all your troubles. Today is Friday, the thirteenth.

Because of conflicting dates, the lawn festival of the Girls' Friendly society, scheduled to be held on St. Mary's church lawn Thursday evening, June 26, has been changed to Tuesday evening, June 24.

A committee appointed by the local Lodge of Moose to arrange for the big Moose outing which will take place some time this month will meet at the lodge headquarters this evening to complete arrangements.

Deputy Sheriff John F. Sheridan has charge of the jury that is to try Mrs. Gilligan at Middletown. Yesterday nine jurors were chosen and Mr. Sheridan thought that the remaining three would be secured before noon today.

The work of oiling streets in town is now in progress and it will be advisable for motorists to protect their eyes until the oil is well absorbed. The oil is poisonous to the eyes, and flecks of flying sand thrown up by automobile tires from freshly oiled roads have been known to cause serious trouble.

Sunday will be observed as Children's day at the Pentecostal church. At the 10.30 service in the morning, Rev. A. C. Goldberg will preach a special sermon to the children and any parents having babies they wish baptized may bring the children to that service. The Children's day concert will be held at seven o'clock in the evening.

The members of the North Congregational Sunday school are requested to meet in the Sunday school room Sunday morning at 10.30 and enter the auditorium by classes. The Pageant "The Rights of the Child" is to be one of the features of the Children's Day program. Quite a number of babies are to be baptized at that time.

All the teachers in the Eighth District school have been given the opportunity to return to the school next fall. As far as can be learned most of them intend to continue their work here. One new teacher has been engaged to teach the extra sixth grade that is to be formed next year. She is Miss Erdine Morgan, who has been teaching in Maine.

John and Mary McCay, brother and sister, known as the blind musical artists, will entertain at High School assembly hall next Thursday evening. Both are pianists and singers of merit. Mr. McCay's impersonations, humorous songs and Irish wit are true to life and mirth provoking. His cleverness as an impersonator is to be wondered at, since he has never been able to look upon the facial expressions and acts of others.

Automobilists are quick to notice broken glass in the highway. They run across it so often that one wonders if some of it is not thrown there maliciously. Few men, however, take the trouble to brush the glass out of the road, thus doing a good turn to the fellow who might get his tires cut by running over it. C. A. Sweet does not belong in this class. It is not too much trouble for him to stop and sweep up broken glass whenever he finds it in the road. In fact he carries a brush and dustpan in his car for that purpose.

Business College Notes. Students of the Connecticut Business College had their pictures taken on Friday.

Ruth Barnard and Agnes Ogden have received their certificate from the Underwood Company for writing over forty net words per minute for ten minutes.

Henry Hill of Rockville has been placed in a bookkeeping position at Hartford.

Beatrice Clulow, Naomi Wilson, Grace Hunniford, Ruth Barnard, Ellen Harrison and Agnes Ogden are taking their final examinations.

ARMY AND NAVY CLUB WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Entertainment, Smokes and Refreshments Whiting for Service Men at New Club House.

All service men are invited to the formal opening of the Army and Navy club this evening. An entertainment will be given at eight o'clock, under the direction of Captain William E. Newman and at 9.30 smokes and refreshments will be handed out by Sergeant Walter Tedford. Taps will sound at midnight. The interior of the club house has been tastefully decorated with the flags of the Allies. Secretary Ward J. Atwood and a score of assistants will be on hand this evening for the purpose of enrolling charter members in the Army and Navy club.

ATLAS VS. CARDINALS.

The Atlas A. C. will meet the Cardinals of Hartford at Colt's Park in that city Sunday afternoon. This game promises to be of interest inasmuch as the Capitol City club holds the junior championship of Hartford. The local team won the first game of a series recently by defeating the Cardinals by an 8 to 1 score, but the junior champs have strengthened their line-up since that time and expect to hang a defeat on the local boys. Both teams hold a 2 to 1 victory over the Campfields of Hartford. Cervini, star moundsman of the Atlas, will be pitted against Nagel who twirled the Cardinals to the championship last year. The locals will leave the center at 12.30 Sunday noon. There will be no game Saturday.
