

BRASS STRIKERS QUIET TODAY MACHINE GUNS GUARD STREETS

Many Cases in Waterbury Court Today — Ansonia Man Arrested Not Eitor— Skilled Workers to Plead With Unskilled Strikers.

Waterbury, June 20.—Quiet reigned in this city today following last night's riots in which half a dozen or more policemen were injured, one seriously and a number of rioters suffered injury. The reinforced police force, members of the city guard and the local companies of state guardsmen were still on duty to prevent disorder and keep the crowds moving. The Brooklyn district of the city where the riots originated, was practically under martial law this morning. Machine guns which were brought out last night to awe the rioters were still in position, ready for action and every precaution was taken by the authorities to prevent a repetition of last night's disturbance.

Policeman John Moore was the only member of the local force seriously hurt and at St. Mary's hospital this morning it was stated that his condition was uncertain. It is believed that he has a fractured skull, he having been struck on the head with a stone, while trying to aid in quelling the disturbances. Patrolman Rice and the other officers who were injured were all recovering from cuts and bruises this morning and none was in a serious condition.

In the police court today John Smiley, Charles Perrotto and John Lichincha, arrested on charges of assault with intent to kill Policeman Moore were arraigned before Judge McGrath. Their cases were continued under bonds of $5,000 each to await the outcome of the policeman's injuries.

John Didase, who was caught distributing I. W. W. literature was fined $25 and costs and when his counsel filed an appeal in the case bonds were fixed at $2,500. Nearly two score more persons, some of them women, were arraigned on various charges before the court and some of them had counsel who attempted to secure for them an immediate trial.

As a result of the disturbances of the night, crowds assembled in the center of the city this morning and in the neighborhood of last night's scene of trouble. The saloons, which were closed last night by order of the city authorities, remained closed today. The police and guardsmen who patrolled the streets had hard work to keep the crowds moving.

No further additions to the ranks of the strikers were reported early today. It is estimated that the strikers number now about 5,000 and practically all of them are unskilled labor. Attacks upon workers from the factories who are not on strike, returning to their homes in the Brooklyn district, caused the trouble which originated shortly after 6 o'clock. The police attempted to prevent interference with the workers and were set up on by the mobs with sticks, stones and firearms. Shots were fired from windows and the police were obliged to open fire in defense. The Brooklyn district where the trouble originated is a hot bed of radicalism and it was not until local guardsmen and machine guns were sent into the district that order was restored.

The city court room was crowded to the doors this morning, when the cases were opened. Judge John McGrath first intimated that he would not stand for any continuances, but later he granted permission for thirty-three of the cases to go over until next Tuesday. All were held under $5,000 bonds with the exception of Alex Gumas, who is charged with attempt to murder and whom it is thought delivered the blow which felled Patrolman Moore.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY IN ARREST OF ETTOR

Ansonia, June 20.—The man arrested here late yesterday, who was at first identified by the Waterbury,

New Haven and local police as Joseph Eitor, the I. W. W. agitator, and who bears a close resemblance to Eitor in many respects, including the fact that his left hand is crippled, was arraigned in court today as Fred Diedenkopp of New York City. While the police could get little information from him, he had a registration card which bore this name and other literature, including a letter from Elizabeth Curley Flinn, in which the name was mentioned, and a card naming this party as a member of the Socialist party in Queens county, N. Y. The accused was charged with breach of the peace and at the request of the city attorney his case was continued for one week under bonds of $500, pending further investigation of his case.

Shops Reopen Monday.

The attempt to open the local shops today for the return of the strikers was abandoned late last night following a conference with Mayor Mead and the manufacturers. It was decided to defer the opening until Monday owing to the fact that a large number of the English speaking workers, forced out of work by the strike, wished an opportunity to confer with the other strikers.

At a mass meeting attended by 2,000 workers mostly English speaking, near the city hall today, a committee of five was appointed to confer with the committee of 19 representing the strikers. This committee will meet the strikers committee later today and inform them that the English speaking workers are satisfied to go back to work Monday on the terms arranged by the mayor, an eight hour day with ten hours pay and time and a half for overtime. Later the committee of five will confer with the manufacturers to confirm the mayor's offer. The Farrell Foundry and Machine Company, where a number of moulder's helpers went on strike some days ago was working with 100 per cent of the force today, all the strikers having returned to work.

Liberty Bond for Dudenkopp.

Later this morning a man and woman from New York, whose names are unknown, called at police headquarters and furnished liberty bonds as surety for Diedenkopp, who was released. The trio then went to Derby. The letter found in Diedenkopp's possession was addressed to Elizabeth Curley Flinn, at Room 405, 7 East 15th Street, on January 30, by Fred H. Moore, attorney at 19 La Salle street, Chicago, and recommended that she inform Fred Diedenkopp that he best get into communication with George D. Smith, secretary of the labor federation in Arizona and a member of the I. W. W. who could undoubtedly recommend the name of a lawyer in Tucson, Arizona.

Gumas has been denied bail. Three women are being held also as agitators.

CROSBY ASKS EVIDENCE AGAINST ICE COMBINE

Will Welcome Facts to Strengthen Case of Government—Will Work With Alcorn.

Hartford, June 20.—States Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn said this forenoon that he had not had an opportunity to confer with United States District Attorney Crosby, but intended to do so sometime during the day in the matter of the possible prosecution of those concerned in an ice combine in this state or in New England. He expressed a keen desire to proceed with the investigation.

Mr. Crosby said that he was waiting to hear from Mr. Alcorn and had hopes that between them a plan of action would be devised if there was the slightest indication of violation of state or federal laws. He said he had not yet received the New Haven investigation committee's evidence, but he hoped it would reach him soon. He said if any one had knowledge of a violation of the law or any evidence tending to show a violation, it would be gladly received.

ORLANDO CABINET OUT; ITALIAN DEPUTIES ARE STRONGLY AGAINST HIM

Vote Lack of Confidence in Foreign Policy of Premier.

EXPECT KING TO ACCEPT Popular Demonstration Held in Favor of Orlando but Chamber Was 259-70 Against Him.

Rome, June 20.—King Victor Emmanuel is unlikely to retain the Orlando ministry in office, following the overwhelming vote against Orlando in the Chamber yesterday. Signor Ruzatti and Signor Tittoni are being mentioned as probable successors of Orlando.

A popular demonstration in favor of Orlando occurred in the streets of Rome last night, following the Chamber meeting. The crowds shouted: "Viva Fiume" and "Down with Giolitti and Nitti."

VOTED OUT.

Rome, June 20.—Following a vote by the Chamber of Deputies that overwhelmingly showed a lack of confidence in its foreign relations policy the Italian government resigned last night.

Premier Orlando asked that he might have an opportunity to explain his policy in secret session of the Chamber but this was denied him. The vote was decisive standing 259 to 70 against the Premier. Just prior to the vote the Premier had announced to the Chamber that the economic and financial questions concerning Italy either had been solved or soon would be.

Previous to the vote Premier Orlando in addressing the chamber said: "Italy's peace with Germany and Austria has been solved in a manner with which, on the whole, I feel satisfied."

Insisting on the necessity of a secret session, the premier declared that the government needed greater confidence and would treat his motion for a secret session as a question of confidence.

Socialists Oppose.

The socialists immediately opposed this. Signor Orlando in his address said Italy's position had been considerably aggravated by international events during the second fortnight of April. He referred to President Wilson's message regarding the Adriatic question.

The Italian delegation at the peace conference, the premier added, had followed this policy: "First—Maintain with firmness all the essential points of the Italian claims, without which Italy is convinced peace will be neither just nor adequate to the immense sacrifices suffered."

"Second—Remain faithful to your duties toward the allies.

"Third—Avoid any blind form of obstinate intransigence. Indeed, facilitate conciliatory suggestions capable of producing accord in the conference over the problems concerning Italian frontiers."

Signor Orlando urged Parliament to separate the discussion of foreign affairs from the internal policy of the country, the latter being virtually absorbed in the grave questions of the high cost of living. Past history showed, he said, that internal perturbations were transitory, and that equilibrium soon would be regained.

WILSON SAYS INVASION OF BELGIUM AWAKENED WORLD TO HUN DANGER

Speaks of National Friend- ship; Visits Mines Wreck- ed by Germans.

SAYS LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS CHILD OF WORLD WAR

Standing in the beautifully decorated Chamber of Deputies and facing the massed colors of all the Belgian regiments President Wilson today announced that it was the fate of Belgium that aroused the world to a realization of what would happen if Germany could extend her power. The President declared that the League of Nations had come about as a child of the great war and that it was in reality a league of rights.

The address was made in the presence of King Albert, Queen Elizabeth, high officials of the Belgian Senate, and numerous American officials including Herbert Hoover.

Previous to this occasion the President had accompanied the Belgian sovereign on a visit to the wrecked mines at Carleroi and had been received in the ruins of the great library at Louvain where the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on him.

The Address.

President Wilson's address in the Chamber of Deputies was in response to a speech by Foreign Minister Hymans expressing Belgium's gratitude to America. Mr. Wilson said: "Your majesties and gentlemen: It is with such profound emotion that I express my deepest appreciation of the generous welcome you have given me that I am not at all sure that I can find the words to say what it is in my heart to say."

"Mr. Hymans has repeated to you some of the things which America tried to do to show her profound friendship and sympathy with Belgium, but Mr. Hymans was not able to testify, as I am, to the heart of America that was back of her efforts. For America did not do these things merely because she conceived it her duty to do them, but because she rejoiced in this way to show her real humanity and her real knowledge of the needs of an old and faithful friend. And these things, I hope, will be the dearer in your memory because of the spirit which was behind them."

"They were small in themselves. We knew all the time we were not doing as much as we wanted to do. And it is this spirit, and not what was done, which deserves, I hope, to be remembered."

Praise For Noted Belgians.

"It is very delightful to find myself at last in Belgium. I have come at the first moment that I was relieved from imperative duty. I could not come for my own pleasure, and in neglect of duty, to a country, where I knew that I should meet men who had done their duty; where I knew I should meet a Sovereign who had constantly identified himself with the interests and the life of his people at every sacrifice to himself; where I should be greeted by a Burgomaster who never allowed the enemy to thrust aside, and always asserted the majority and authority of the municipality which he represented; where I should have the privilege of meeting a Cardinal who was the shepherd of his flock, the majesty of whose spiritual authority awed even the unscrupulous enemy himself, who knew that they did not dare lay hand upon this servant of God, and where I should have the privilege of grasping the hand of a General who never surrendered, and on every hand should meet men who had known their duty and had done it."

"I could not come to Belgium until I felt I was released from my duty. Belgium Awakened World."

"It was the violation of Belgium that awakened the world to the realization of the character of the struggle."

"A very interesting thing came out

Germans Preparing to Sign Cabinet Resigns at Late Hour Report Assembly Accepts

LONDON ALMOST HOPES ENEMY WILL NOT SIGN

Would Like Revenge for Nights of Terror—Air Preparations Com- plete.

London, June 20.—With the nights of terror when German Zeppelins and Gothas hurled bombs on their defenseless women and children fresh in their minds, Londoners read today with keen pleasure reports of allied aerial, naval and military preparations to carry the war into the heart of Germany if the Germans refuse to sign.

The maneuvers of the monster British dirigibles, R-33 and R-34, have particularly seized hold on the popular imagination, and many a Londoner today echoed the wish he expressed by a little cockney: "I 'ope they ride over and throw a few plums down on the Huns in Berlin."

There are evidences of an overpowering aerial mobilization on the Rhine. The R-33 is ready to start for Kiel and the R-34, which was made ready for the flight to America, has been describing great circles over the North Sea. When she flew along the coast of Denmark, Danish airmen flew out from Copenhagen to greet her.

Two British cruisers and nine destroyers have arrived at Copenhagen, enroute for the Baltic, and the Immingham and other naval vessels are reported enroute to lay the blockade against Germany if the decision taken at Weimar is unfavorable. The loading of vessels destined for Germany has been stopped. Mine layers are refitting with fresh cargoes of mines and the crews of trawlers and mine sweepers have been recalled to duty.

Foch to Be Supreme.

Marshal Foch, according to Paris reports, has received from the allies sole charge of all relations with Germany, beginning with the expiration of the ultimatum next Monday night. This is taken to indicate that no further concessions will be granted. It is believed that Foch's command extends to include the Czechoslovak, Roumanian and Polish armies.

BAY STATE TROLLEYMEN VOTING ON STRIKE

Boston, June 20.—William D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, arrived here from the American Federation of Labor Convention at Atlantic City today to make an effort to avert a general strike tomorrow of carmen on the 1,200 miles of lines of the eastern Massachusetts Railway Company, (formerly the Bay State line), the largest street railway in the country. Some 4,500 union carmen would be affected by a strike.

Thousands of street car riders in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire would miss trolley service.

The trouble started in Lowell this week when carmen in that city went out on strike as a protest against the use of a hand cash register on open cars, claiming that its use on the running boards endangered their lives. Carmen in Woburn joined the Lowell strikers and then the carmen in Lawrence went out. Today strike votes of 12 of the 17 locals from Nashua, N. H., to Newport, R. I., were being counted here. Early reports indicated that a vote to strike would be carried in locals in Lynn, Quincy, Brockton, Chelsea, Haverhill, Reading, Newport and some other smaller communities.

Although the principal grievance is the hand register the carmen also protest against what they term the illegal rule in 1918 which has superseded the old agreement of 1916 under which seniority and other rights were enjoyed in addition to a wage classification set by the National War Labor Board.

Scheidemann Ministry to Be Succeeded by Friends of Treaty —Centrists Favor Signing, Democrats Oppose—General Opinion End is Near—Foch Stands With Uplifted Sword

MAY ASK TIME TO PERMIT REFERENDUM

Officials Profess to Believe Allies Would Grant It.

Berlin, June 20.—Reports from Weimar today said it was quite likely that the government will ask the allies for a further extension of time to allow a referendum to be taken throughout Germany on the terms of peace.

These reports were not confirmed officially but the semi official Wolff news agency, evidently inspired by the government, distributed them to German newspapers and intimated that concessions are forthcoming.

The few government officials remaining in Berlin said they believed the allies would grant the request for more time for a plebiscite. Officials who favored signing the treaty said they had little doubt but that a popular vote would favor acceptance of the allied terms, and that acceptance by referendum of the whole German people would strengthen the allies' position in history.

PRESIDENT BACK IN PARIS THIS MORNING

Reads With Interest of Overthrow of Orlando Government.

Paris, June 20.—President Wilson returned to Paris this morning from his two day tour of devastated Belgium after receiving a cordial reception from the Belgian people.

The President read the news of the overthrow of the Orlando government in Italy on the train enroute here. Upon his arrival this morning he went direct to the White House, called for reports on the situation in Italy and Germany, and read them while eating breakfast.

Members of the United States peace delegation are withholding comment on the Italian situation and its probable effect upon the peace negotiations, including the settlement of the Fiume controversy, until the make up of the new Italian cabinet and the names of the new Italian peace commission is announced.

After breakfast the President studied his morning mail and then went to the headquarters of the American peace commission in the Hotel Crillon at 11 o'clock.

The President then took up with the commission the attitude the United States will take in the event that Germany asks further extension of time. President Wilson expressed forcibly his opposition to any further extension.

London, June 20 (3:30 p. m.)—The German National assembly, sitting at Weimar, is reported to have decided to sign the peace treaty, though the terms have been submitted to the peace committee of assembly for formal action.

This decision, it was reported, was taken following the resignation of the Scheidemann Cabinet which it announced its decision to quit office at one o'clock this morning following a lengthy session with the German peace delegation.

News of the downfall of the Scheidemann ministry reached London in dispatches from the Hague and later in reports from Paris. It is reported in peace conference circles at Paris that war minister Gustave Noske, an avowed advocate of signing the treaty, will head the new German cabinet. This report thus far is not officially confirmed.

The report that the national assembly has decided to sign came in an exchange telegraph dispatch from Paris, quoting advice from Weimar. The report was generally believed here, in view of the resignation of the Scheidemann ministry, though it lacked official confirmation.

Four fifths of the Centrum party, controlling 88 of the 421 votes in the National Assembly, voted in favor of signing the treaty. The Democrats voted 56 to 9 against acceptance.

The Scheidemann Ministry will continue to carry on the duties of the government until the new ministry is formed, said another exchange dispatch from Paris. Scheidemann and Foreign Minister von Brockdorff Rantzau had committed themselves too far against acceptance of the treaty to remain in office the dispatch said.

It is believed here that there is now sufficient time for a new German government to name a new peace delegation, which could proceed to Versailles and sign the treaty on Monday, before the expiration of the allied ultimatum Monday night. Dispatches from Paris have indicated that the allies would waive this formality if the German government gave assurance, before the expiration of the ultimatum of its intention to sign the treaty.

The New Cabinet.

A delayed dispatch from Weimar says that it is believed the new government will be headed by Erberberger or Richthofen with Mueller, Noske and David, members of the present cabinet, holding portfolios and the Independent socialists refusing to join, thus evading responsibilities for signing the treaty.

Centrum Party Led Way.

The Centrum party, comprising 88 of the 421 members of the National Assembly, decided by majority vote to favor signing the treaty.

The Centrum party, also called the Christian people's party, and formerly the Catholic party, is the strongest party in the National Assembly next to the Majority Socialists who have 169 of the 421 votes.

It represents chiefly the Rhine districts, the Catholic districts of Prussia and the southern provinces, likely to be the first to feel the effects of allied military occupation, and its constituency is made up of industrial workers and small farmers. Its leaders are Dr. Matthias Erberberger, chairman of the German armistice commission and a member of the present cabinet, Dr. Peter Spahn and Baron George von Hertling, who held office as Chancellor of the Empire for a brief period.

Bolshevism in India.

Copenhagen, June 20.—A dispatch from Moscow reports that Lenin, the Bolshevik leader, has issued a statement prophesying "sensational events shortly in Asia and East India." It is assumed here that Lenin has received word of Bolshevik uprisings.

delivered before a packed house. The diplomatic tribune was crowded. Among those present were Thomas Nelson Page, the American ambassador, and Senor Bustamante, Cuban delegate to the peace conference, who was accompanied by the Cuban minister to Italy, Don Antonio Martin Rivero.

In summing up the situation, Premier Orlando said: "The deep unrest throughout the world leads to pessimism such as was never experienced during the war. After the armistice was signed, the peoples in general, Italy in particular, never went through such dark days as now. This is the most acute phase of the immense crisis arising from the war. Nevertheless, I am not discouraged, believing as I do that the situation gradually will ameliorate."

ACCIDENT PROOF CARS FOR MANCHESTER LINE

New Style Trolleys Arrive—Largest Cars in Use—Seat Sixty—High Speed Motors.

Two of the new Brill semi-convertible type of cars arrived at the local barns of the Connecticut Company last evening. Superintendent Nettleton stated that six more would arrive today with the possibility of two more in the near future. It is expected that there will be about ten of these cars and just as soon as the employees have been given instructions in regard to their operation they will be placed in service on the Manchester to Hartford and Hartford to Rockville lines. The first class for instruction was held today and daily classes will be held until the men have sufficiently learned the methods of control.

The new cars combine all the latest achievements in comfort and safety. They are of steel construction. Have a seating capacity of sixty. Are well ventilated and can be converted into an open or closed car at a moment's notice. The interior color design is cherry stain and white. The seats are constructed of rattan. Push buttons are to be found near every seat and instead of signalling the conductor all one does is push the button. A thermostat control automatically controls the heating apparatus maintaining an even temperature under any weather conditions. The cars have powerful motors and are capable of higher speed than any now in use.

Accident Proof. The outstanding feature of the new cars is that they are absolutely accident proof. The doors at the entrances are controlled from within by the conductor or motorman. When these doors are open the circuit controlling the car is closed and it is impossible for the motorman to start his car while any door is open. Should a passenger attempt to open a door the motorman is immediately notified by a signal light which illuminates the sign "no power". A bell system has been arranged whereby the conductor may signal the man at the head end.

The cars are of the pay as you enter type and are six feet longer than the cars used on the New Britain lines which are considered the largest and most up to date in the state. Superintendent Nettleton announces that the first fare for a trip between Hartford and Manchester in either direction, will be collected on the pay as you enter plan and all passengers will enter at the rear of the car. But at all other points in the run, that is between the six cent limits from Hartford or from Manchester, the fares will be collected by the conductor in the usual way and persons boarding the car will do so at the front end. All passengers will leave the new cars from the front end.

of that struggle, which seems almost like an illogical consequence. One of the first things that the representatives of Belgium said to me after the war began was that they did not want their neutrality guaranteed. They did not want any neutrality. They wanted equality, not because, as I understood them, their neutrality was insecure, but because their neutrality put them upon a different basis of action from other peoples. In their natural and proper pride they desired to occupy a place that was not exceptional, but in the ranks of free peoples under all governments.

"I honored this instinct in them, and it was for that reason that the first time I had occasion to speak of what the war might accomplish for Belgium I spoke of her winning a place of equality among the nations. So Belgium has, so to say, once more come into her own through this deep valley of suffering through which she has gone.

A League of Rights.
 "Not only that, but her cause has linked the governments of the civilized world together. They have realized their common duty. They have drawn together as if instinctively into a league of right. They have put the whole power of organized manhood behind this conception of justice, which is common to mankind.

"That is the significance, gentlemen, of the league of nations. The league of nations was an inevitable consequence of this war. It was a league of rights, and no thoughtful statesman who let this thought run into the future could wish for a moment to slacken those bonds. His first thought would be to strengthen them and to perpetuate this combination of the great governments of the world for the maintenance of justice.

"The league of nations is the child of this great war, for it is the expression of those permanent resolutions which grew out of the temporary necessities of this great struggle, and any nation which declines to adhere to this covenant deliberately turns away from the most telling appeal that has ever been made to its conscience and to its manhood.

Hopes Selfish Days Are Gone.
 "The nation that wishes to use the league of nations for its convenience and not for the service of the rest of the world deliberately chooses to turn back to those bad days of selfish contest, when every nation thought first and always of itself, and not of its neighbors; thought of its rights and forgot its duties, thought of its power and overlooked its responsibility.

 "Those bad days, I hope, are gone, and the great moral powers, backed, if need be, by the great physical powers of the civilized nations of the world, will now stand firm for the maintenance of the fine partnership which we have thus inaugurated.

"It cannot be otherwise. Perhaps the conscience of some chancelleries was asleep, and the outrage of Germany awakened it. You cannot see one great nation violate every principle of right without beginning to know what the principles of right are and to love them, to dispise those who violate them and to form the firm resolve that such a violation shall now be punished, and in the future be prevented.

Wary of Mere Sentiment.
 "Friendship, gentlemen, is a very practical matter. One thing that I think I have grown weary of is sentiment that does not express itself in action. How real the world has been made by this war. How actual all its facts seem. How terrible the circumstances of its life. And if we be friends we must think of each other not only, but we must act for each other; we must not only have a sentimental regard, but we must put that regard into actual deeds.

"There is an old proverb which has no literary beauty, but it has a great deal of significance—the proof of the pudding is the eating thereof. It is by that maxim that all friendships are to be judged. It is when a friendship is put to the proof that its quality is found.
 "So, our business now is not to talk, but to act. It is not so much to debate, as to resolve. It is not so much to hesitate upon the plan as to perfect the details of the plan, and at every turn to be sure that we think not only of ourselves, but of humanity. For, gentlemen, the realities of this world are not discussed around dinner tables.

For Those Who Work.
 "Some men can take holidays; some men can relieve themselves from the burden of work. But most men cannot; most women cannot and the children wait upon the men and women who work, work every day, work from dawn until evening.
 "These are people we must think about. They constitute the rank and file of mankind. They are the constituents of statesmen, and statesmen must see to it that policies are not now run along the lines of national pride, but along the lines of humanity, along the lines of service, along those lines which we have been taught are the real lines by the deep suffering of this war.

Think of It, Gentlemen!

STURDY SONS OF YALE AND HARVARD AWAIT THE BATTLE OF SWEEPS WHICH IS TO BE FOUGHT IN WATERS OF THAMES LATE TODAY

RECORDS OF YALE AND HARVARD EIGHT-OARED CREW RACES OVER FOUR MILE COURSE

Yale and Harvard eights have rowed fifty races, beginning in the year 1852 at the two-mile distance. In 1876 the distance was changed to four miles, and of the races at this distance Yale has won twenty-two and Harvard sixteen. Of the fifty races at two, three and four-mile distances Yale has won a total of twenty-five, against twenty-four for Harvard.

The winners at four miles follows:

1876—Yale	1895—Yale
1877—Harvard	1896—Harvard
1878—Harvard	1900—Yale
1879—Harvard	1901—Yale
1880—Yale	1902—Yale
1881—Yale	1903—Yale
1882—Harvard	1904—Yale
1883—Harvard	1905—Yale
1884—Yale	1906—Harvard
1885—Harvard	1907—Yale
1886—Yale	1908—Harvard
1887—Yale	1909—Harvard
1888—Yale	1910—Harvard
1889—Yale	1911—Harvard
1890—Harvard	1912—Harvard

1892—Yale	1914—Yale
1893—Yale	1915—Yale
1894—Yale	1916—Harvard

New London, Conn., June 20.—Sturdy sons of Yale and Harvard will renew their time-honored battle of the sweeps here today, when the first and second varsity and freshman crews of the two universities will match brawn and skill on the waters of the Thames.

The renewal of the Harvard-Yale boat race marks the first meeting of the two schools on the water since 1916, when the Crimson varsity flashed past the finish the victors. The races were called off during the war, when rowing activities were set aside and athletes socked to the colors.

New London was awake bright and early this morning, ablaze with the pennants and flags of crimson and blue, and ready for the first of the three races, that between the Freshman crews scheduled to start about 10:30 o'clock. The freshmen were slated to row up stream, starting at the Navy Yard and finishing opposite the Harvard quarters at Red Top, a distance of two miles.

The second varsity eights were to row their race about an hour later, starting at the same point and covering exactly the same course. This is a different arrangement than that followed in former years, when the freshman race was started at the beginning of the four-mile course and the second varsity crews started where the freshmen left off and fought out their battle over the remaining two miles of the course.

The crews which were to row this morning had the benefit of a strong tide. The tides turns about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and the varsity eights will have the advantage of a firm tide and the river current for their four-mile event. If the wind is favorable the varsity eights will row about 4:30 o'clock, but if weather conditions are adverse the race may not be started before 6 p.m.

Observation trains were made ready early this morning to carry hundreds of rooters and spectators along each side of the Thames, following all three of the races. The respective crews were quartered at their usual camps—Harvard at Red Top and Yale at Gale's Ferry—and reports available at an early hour were to the effect that all of the regulars are in prime condition, ready to row the hearts out of their rivals.

whose enlistments were only for duration of the war. The number of men to be recruited are:

Infantry, 3,000 white and 4,000 colored; cavalry, 10,000 white and 3,000 colored; field artillery, 1,000 engineers, 200 medical corps, 1,000 ordnance, 100 signal corps, 100 service 100 and quartermaster corps, 1,000.

MORE AMERICAN FOOD GOING INTO GERMANY.

Mystery as to Hold Up of American Food Ships in British Ports.

London, June 20.—Resumption of unloading of American food ships in German ports is now under way, according to information reaching here today. This is understood to be under the direct order of President Wilson.

There is now some mystery as to who issued the orders here which prematurely reinstated a stricter blockade of Germany. Several American food ships, which were ordered into British ports ostensibly by the British blockade authorities, have been released. Some were held for a day or more. In one instance the American captain vigorously protested to the American Consulate about being ordered into a British port.

During the progress of an investigation the port authorities were notified by the British Foreign Office to release the vessel forthwith.

News from Deal is that voyages to Germany have been resumed by eight ships from the United States with food for Germany.

GIRL DROPS 1,000 FEET IN PARACHUTE FROM PLANE.

Atlantic City, June 20.—Major Orde Lees, expert parachute demonstrator for the British Air Forces, and Sylvia Boyden, English girl expert, dived 1,000 feet yesterday from the airplane of Eddie Stinson, in different parachutes. The opening of the parachutes punctuated their descent with hardly any shock and they landed lightly at the air port, a few hundred feet from where they had made their dive.

The test was witnessed by representatives of various countries and aeronautic authorities, including Glenn H. Curtiss, Henry Woodhouse, President of the Aerial League of America, and Lieut. G. W. Shaw, U. S. N.

SPECIAL ARMY RECRUITED FOR MEXICAN BORDER.

Washington, June 20.—Recruiting of 20,000 men for special service on the Mexican border was authorized by Secretary of War Baker today. The men will be assigned to units now on border service. It was explained to permit the release of men

American First Division Ready.

TO THE BELGIANS.

When President Wilson wrote his little plea for neutrality "in thought as well as in action" on the 18th day of August, 1914, he put his hand to one of the most misrepresentative documents ever issued. He made a strong plea for impartiality but there was a voice of greater eloquence, of more moving power, speaking to us from the other side of the ocean. It was the voice of ravaged Belgium, proudly asserting her rights, steadfastly refusing to ask for mercy where she knew there was no mercy, bravely demanding justice from those who proved that justice was to them unknown.

The voice of Belgium prevailed over the voice of Wilson and there are indications that in his unofficial conscience this voice filled the President with the same overwhelming compassion that it did the hearts of his countrymen.

In fact, we suspect that the President felt a great load slip from him as he stood yesterday before the sacred banners of the Belgian regiments and, in the presence of their sovereign, told the people of Brussels that great as were the offenses of Germany "the initial outrage was the fundamental outrage of all" and that the friendship of the United States for Belgium was one that would only be content when it had worked itself out in deeds.

Mr. Wilson has made earlier efforts to show the tremendous influence which this unhappy nation has exerted on the mind of America. In the fall of 1917 he cabled King Albert that the people were never more determined to prosecute the war against the "barbaric force of a dis-appointed Prussian autocracy" and that they were filled with a "deep sympathy for the sufferings which Belgium has endured" under that "willful and cruel" power. In his address on the conditions of peace delivered before both houses of Congress, in January last year, the President made the cause of Belgium one of the famous fourteen points. The restoration of Belgium and the re-establishment of her sovereignty without any attempt to limit it was imperative. Said the President, "Without this healing act the whole structure and validity of international law is forever impaired."

Not even around the sinking of the Lusitania do the thoughts and spirits of America cluster when the horrors of the Great War are brought to mind as they do about the spoliated cities, the ruined homes and the desecrated churches of Belgium. If President Wilson succeeded in making the citizens of Brussels feel that though the help of America came late, it came with all the ardor with all the eagerness, with all the high resolve of a hundred million friends of Belgium, then he has done his countrymen a special service.

TWO SIDES TO THE QUESTION.

It is no small task to upset the racial and natural divisions of the world and to divert them from the channels which they have formed and in which they have been moving for countless generations. The League of Nations has in some instances, under the right of self-determination, brought about some questionable situations. For instance some of the German provinces under a plebiscite would vote to join Denmark and others would choose Switzerland. But neither Denmark nor Switzerland wants any considerable number of Germans added to its population. They both have enough now.

It appears right at the start that there are two sides to this question. If alien peoples have the right to elect the country to which they would attach themselves it is equally fair that those countries should be permitted to say whether they would welcome such additions. It is easily conceivable that a country with established traditions and customs might object to the influences upon its national life that would result from incorporating into its body a foreign element. The internationalizing of the world is yet a long way off.

It is gratifying to learn that the first building on the Main street tract at the corner of Pearl street is not to be a cheap wooden structure, as was at first threatened. A wooden building on that plot would lessen the value of all other business sites adjoining which have recently been bought for business purposes.

TO PARADE AND HOLD BIG OPEN AIR RALLY

Salvation Army Will Stage Big Event Tomorrow—World War Veterans to March.

A public mass meeting arranged for by the Salvation Army Drive committee of the Manchester War Bureau will be held in Center Park tomorrow night at 8 p. m.

Preceding this meeting a parade will be held composed of the Center Flute Band, the Salvation Army drive committee of the Manchester War Bureau, the veteran soldiers and sailors of the great war, the Salvation Army Band, and the members of the Salvation Army.

Form at 7.30. The parade will form at Center Park at 7.30 p. m. and march down Main street to the Army and Navy Club, then countermarch up Main street to Center Park. Through the kindness of Miss Mary Cheney a large platform will be erected in the park for the accommodation of speakers and band. Mr. Charles Bartlett of the Y. M. C. A. at Hartford, formerly song leader at Camp McClellan, will lead the community singing. Mr. Bartlett has a splendid collection of the songs that never grow old and also many parodies as sung by the soldiers when in camp. One simply can not help but sing when Mr. Bartlett is leading, as he puts the "punch" and "pep" into the songs. Mr. Bartlett will bring the paraphernalia which he uses when carrying on his song-fests at the various factories in Hartford, including a stereopticon lantern by means of which the words of each song will be shown on a screen in full view of all.

Lt. Col. Atkinson to Speak. The speaker of the evening will be Lt. Col. Atkinson of Boston, who is known as one of the most brilliant and forceful speakers of the Salvation Army. This open-air meeting will be a genuine, old-time, get-together rally. Come out and enjoy the fresh evening air, and hear several hundreds of voices singing your favorite songs. The benefit game to be played between the Athletics and Eagles of Hartford for the Salvation Army drive will be played Saturday, June 28th. The local corps will hold a "Doughnut Day" on Tuesday, June 24th.

ANTI-TOBACCO IDEA GETS A SETBACK.

Pittsburgh Judge Refuses to Grant Charter to Corporation to Wage Fight on Smokes.

Pittsburgh, June 20.—Plans for a nation-wide anti-tobacco campaign, intended to follow the actual promulgation of Prohibition were given a setback here when Judge James McF. Carpenter handed down an opinion in Common Pleas Court, refusing to grant a charter to the No. Tobacco Corporation. The petition was signed by prominent church people and ministers of this and other cities of the country.

In his opinion, Judge Carpenter said the law creating organizations with judicial sanction in the form of granting charters was not intended to provide for incorporation of associations for the promulgation and propagation of theories as to effects and consequences of personal habits and immemorial customs, especially concerning consequences of which laymen of equal intelligence differ radically with doctors.

Judge Carpenter declared the organization was political in its aims, and its petition stated its object was "to secure by law, prohibition of culture, sale and use of tobacco."

Professor Herbert Finnegan, teacher of languages at the Hill School in Pottstown, Pa., arrived at his home on Ford street last evening for a short vacation. He will attend the reunion of his class at Wesleyan University tomorrow and on July 8 will go to Wolfeboro, N. H., where he will spend the remainder of the summer as an instructor at a boys' camp.

The Hebrew Ladies' Old People's Home of Hartford is giving a picnic at Laurel Park, Sunday, June 22nd from 2 to 10 p. m. Concert, Dancing, Moving Pictures and Refreshments. The proceeds of this affair to be used to provide a home for the OLD and HOMELESS. All are invited to come.

Famous Article Ten Is Discussed In Today's Letter on Covenant

On this page The Herald is printing a series of letters touching every angle of the plan for a League of Nations proposed by the Paris Covenant, now awaiting ratification by the United States Senate. In accordance with the authors' wishes the individual letters are not identified with any one writer.

They are written by: William H. Taft, Ex-President of the United States. George W. Wickersham, formerly United States Attorney General. A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University. Henry W. Taft, of the New York Bar.

The Principle We Fought For.

Article X of the League Constitution provides as follows: "The members of the League undertake to respect and preserve against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all the members of the League in case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the Council shall advise upon the means by which the obligation shall be fulfilled."

The law of the League with the sanction of the power of the League thus forbids the violation of the international commandment, "Thou shalt not steal by force." It is the embodiment of the principle that we entered and fought this war to maintain. It is the answer to the German doctrine announced through its philosophers, its military writers and its avowed policies, that "Might makes right." It is the denial of the principle which Germany set forth in the summing up of her whole Imperial purpose, that conquest by force was essential to the progress of God's world, and that she was His instrument in such conquest.

Objections Answered.

We are met by the objection that the United States should not bind itself not to extend its beneficent influence in the work of civilization through conquest. Such objectors argue that in this way the United States has extended its useful dominion to the present borders of Mexico and to the Pacific Ocean. If this argument is sound; then the United States should certainly not enter the League. If we yield to it, we ought never have entered upon the war against Germany. The argument is not in the slightest degree to be distinguished from that of the German philosophers and military men whose purpose Germany was carrying out in this war. If the improvement in civilization and its spread are dependent on war for its present form involving for the future what is practically world suicide, then surely mankind is in a bad situation. Those who support the League may well leave to the people of the United States and the people of the world the decision whether they prefer a slower method of improving Christian civilization than by one which involves the cruel destruction of one half the world in order to enable the other half to get on.

The second and the more persuasive objection which is urged to Article X is that it is likely to involve us in wars all over the world, and to require our soldiers to undergo suffering and hardships and to give up their lives in battles waged for remote countries in whose welfare we have but little interest. It is said it will prove to be a heavy burden, both in life and treasure, for our people.

How Obligation is Limited. In answering this objection, it is to be noted that the operation of Article X to increase the other obligations of the League is comparatively small. Under Articles XI to XVII inclusive, provision is made for the peaceful settlement of all threatening disputes between nations safeguarding action of the League, by arbitration, by mediation and recommendation of settlement, and by enforcement of covenants restraining war until three months after such machinery for peaceful settlement has failed. By Articles XVI and XVII a breach of such covenants is to be penalized by an immediate and universal boycott of the covenant-breaking nation and then, by such military expeditions as the members of the League shall determine necessary on the recommendation of the Council. Unless, therefore, the external aggression in violation of Article X occurs three months after attempts at peaceful settlement under Articles XII to XV have failed so that the covenants of those articles are not broken by it, the penalizing provisions of Articles XVI and XVII would apply to the aggression, whether for the purpose forbidden in Article X or not. In other words, Article X only increases the obligations of the members of the League beyond those of Article XVI in respect of wars which do not violate the covenants of Articles XII, XIII or XV. Article X becomes practically important, therefore, only after the purpose of the war has been clearly disclosed. A war only for punitive purposes without taking territory or overthrowing a government would not violate Article X.

We have seen this exemplified in our construction of our own Monroe Doctrine. The Monroe Doctrine, as originally declared by Monroe, was Article X limited to the aggression of non-American nations against countries of the Western Hemisphere. When Spain attacked Chili during Mr. Seward's incumbency as Secretary of State and Chili called on the United States to defend her, Mr. Seward replied that our policy did not look to our defending an American state against any punitive war by a non-American power, but only against one intended to take territory or to destroy independence. Mr. Roosevelt laid down the same limitation of the Doctrine in the Venezuela case as to wars begun merely to collect financial obligations when they did not speak appropriation of territory or deprivation of independence.

Modified By Other Articles.

The intervention of the League under Article X is, therefore, likely to be invoked only in cases where the victor in a war "legal" under Articles XII, XIII and XV, seeks to impose terms on its enemy contrary to the undertaking of Article X. In all other cases, resort to Article X will be unnecessary because action under it will have been anticipated under other articles. Article X, therefore, enlarges the scope of the obligations of the League much less than has been generally assumed.

Second, should a violation of Article X occur, and the Council advise a plan for fulfilling its obligation by the members of the League, this plan will have to be unanimously agreed upon by the Council. We have constantly one representative in the Council, who must thus join in advising the plan. We can reasonably assume, therefore, that the plan recommended will not involve us in military expeditions unreasonably remote or inconvenient, and that it will address our action in that part of the world where we can most promptly furnish aid and in respect to wars in which by reason of proximity we naturally have a direct interest.

The discussion of this article will be continued in the next letter.

HOW THE NEWSPAPERS FEEL ABOUT THE S. A.

American Journals Vie With One Another in Expressions of Praise for the "Army."

Below we gladly print a few extracts from newspapers of the country telling in what esteem the Salvation Army is held by the American press.

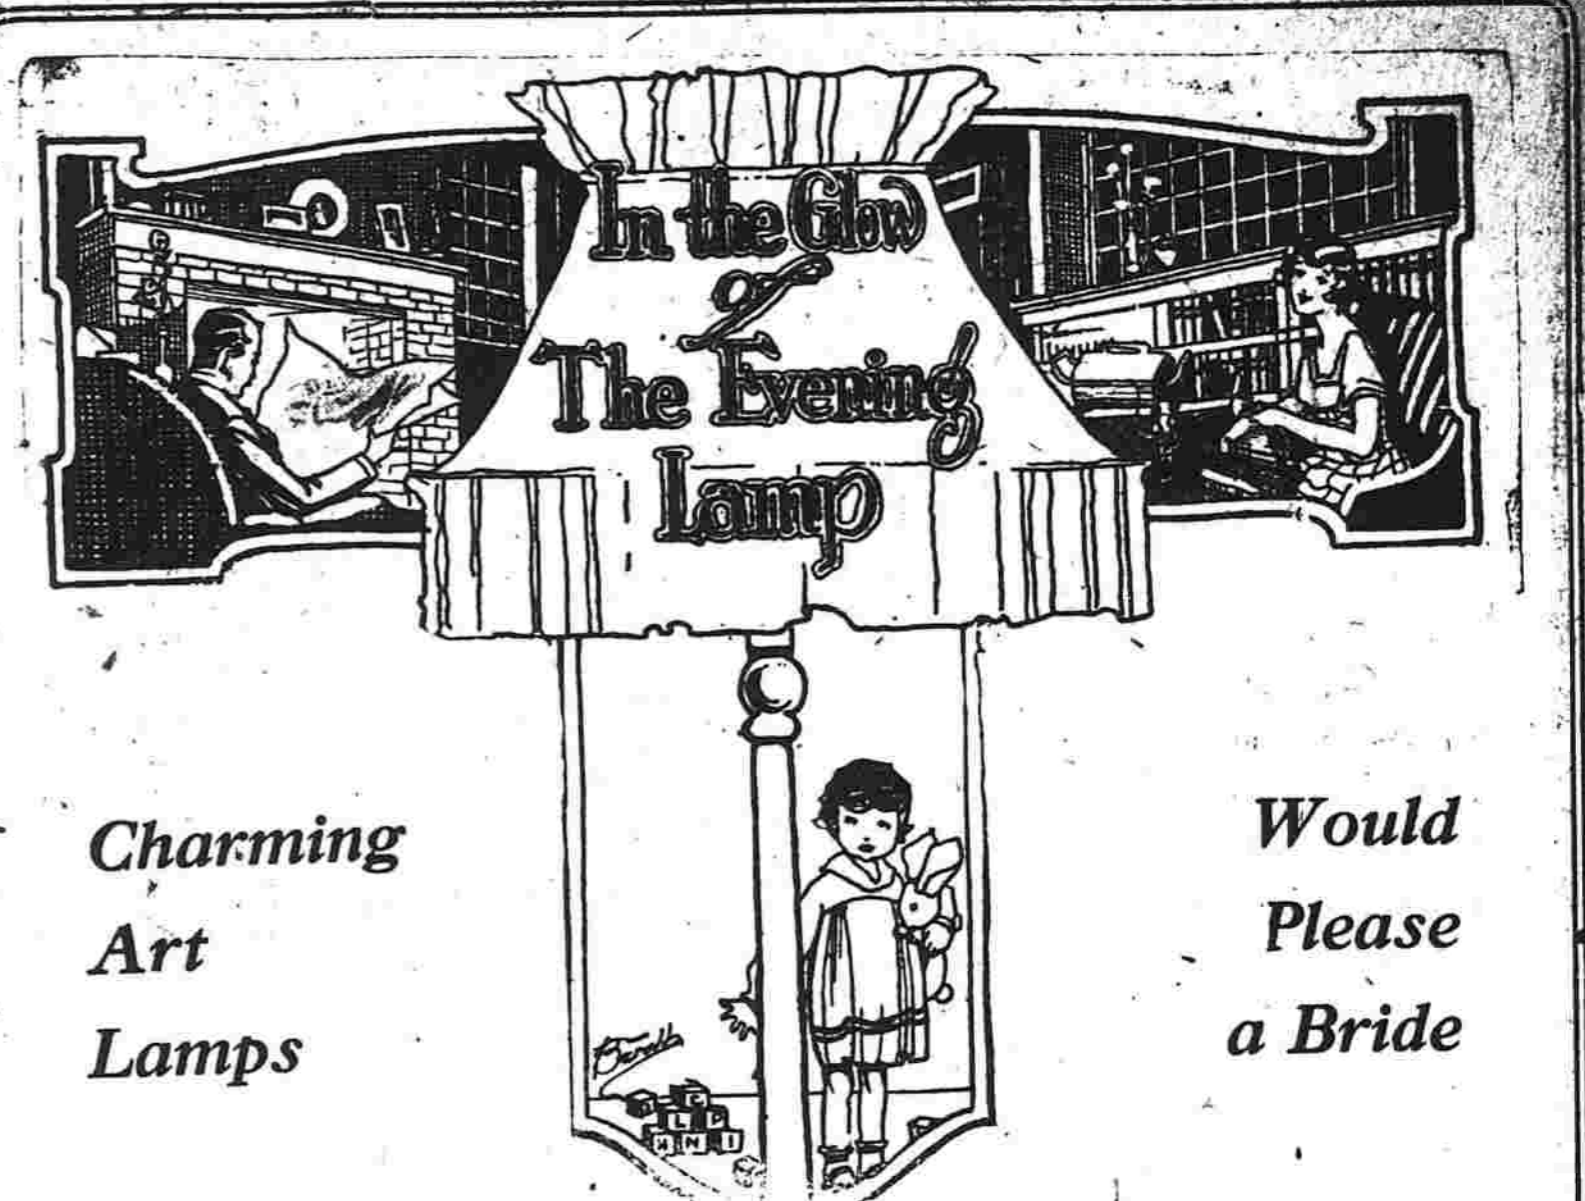

"The war record of the Salvation Army is about as nearly perfect as that of an organization composed of mere human beings ever was, or is likely ever to be. It is no wonder, therefore, that besides the unanimous praises of the men in uniform, this body of brave and devoted workers is getting cordial commendation of ecclesiastics of all denominations and of men of all degrees of eminence."—New York Times.

"Many doubt the usefulness of its picturesque evangelistic campaigns, but no one has a doubt that the organization is on the side of the common man when he is in need. There is nothing scientific or special about its charity, and it proceeds on no program or theory except to offer help. In a word where responsibility is hard to distribute and suffering always exists, it is something to know that there are those who go into the firing line, both in war and poverty, to feed the hungry."—New York Post.

"A man may be down but he's never out," is the slogan of the Salvation Army—and if ever an organization lived up to its slogan, this one does."—Boston Traveller.

"The Salvation Army knew human nature because it had always been close to it. It made its service practical, just as it makes the service it renders to needy human beings in time of peace."—Chicago Herald Examiner.

"The Salvation Army made good over there and in doing so it emptied its treasury. Now it empties funds to promote its philanthropic work in this country among the poor and down-trodden, and it ought to get it."—Washington, D. C., Post.

TO HAVE SUMMER SCHOOL AT NEW BRITAIN NORMAL

Special Course, July 8 to August 7 for Teachers of Foreign-born.

Beginning July 8 and continuing to August 7, a summer school will be conducted at the New Britain normal school for the purpose of teaching those who desire to assist the teaching of foreigners in Americanization work next fall. This is a special course, similar to the one conducted at Danbury last summer and will be taught by Samuel J. Brown of Hartford, who gave such helpful demonstrations of teaching foreigners during the Americanization work in Manchester last winter. Mr. Brown formerly lived in New York city, where he had considerable experience in work among the foreigners.

Course is Free.

The course to be taught at the New Britain normal school is free, there being no tuition fees. Those going from here will have to pay their carfare, but all who possibly can be urged to attend at least part of the course, as New Britain will be the nearest place to Manchester where such a course will be conducted.

Mrs. Florence Hillsburg, director of Americanization in Manchester, reports that the home classes are to be of chief importance next fall. This form of teaching seems to appeal strongly to the foreigners and all who are planning to assist in this work next fall are especially urged to attend the summer school in New Britain. Any one desiring further information about the school may obtain it from Mrs. Hillsburg.

COMMITTEE NOW READY TO PRESENT ICE FACTS TO MANCHESTER PUBLIC

Rogers Says Data Shows Price Could Be Lower Here.

$10 A TON IN BOSTON

Possible to Purchase Ice at That Rate Says Herbert McCormick—Cost to Consumer Here About 70 Cents Hundred.

That the ice investigations which are now being conducted in many cities and towns throughout the state will eventually affect local conditions, is evidenced by a statement made by Representative Willard B. Rogers to the effect that the investigating committee appointed by the selectmen to look into the ice conditions and prevailing prices in Manchester had secured sufficient data and evidence to justify the holding of a public hearing to act upon and effect, if possible, an arrangement whereby Manchester people may be able to procure ice at lower prices.

If an arrangement with local ice dealers in regard to a lower price schedule cannot be arranged it is very probable that the town may procure ice from out-of-the-state and sell it at prices lower than those charged by the local ice men. Mr. Rogers further stated that he had attended the hearings at New Haven and had obtained an interview with Harry W. Walker, the ice king. He also has received some valuable information from Attorney Crawford, the negro lawyer who is conducting the Elm City investigation. Mr. Rogers will present this evidence at the hearing and will try to convince local residents that it is possible to secure ice for Manchester at a lower price.

The statements of Mr. Rogers are substantiated by Herbert McCormick, a newspaper man from this town who at the present time is working on the Hartford end of the ice question. Mr. McCormick in an interview with a Herald man last evening stated that there is no reason why Manchester could not establish at least two municipal ice stations and sell ice from these stations at 50 cents per hundred or deliver the same at about 65 to 70 cents per hundred.

Ice From Boston at $10 a Ton.

To strengthen his argument Mr. McCormick exhibited figures received from an out of town ice company which show that ice can be purchased in Boston for $6.50 per ton. The freight at the maximum would not exceed $1.70 per ton. The shrinkage allowance is set at $1.20 per ton and the carting and handling from the freight depot to the municipal stations would not exceed 50 cents per ton. The total cost to the town for a ton of ice purchased in Boston and delivered to the ice station would average about $10 per ton.

"This means," said McCormick, "that Manchester people could purchase ice at a station for about 50 cents per hundred and could have the same delivered to their homes by the town teams for at least 65 to 70 cents per hundred pounds. "Sixty homes in Manchester would consume about a ton of ice in two days," continued Mr. McCormick. "An ice man could buy ice at a municipal stand, deliver it for seventy cents per hundred pounds and could make a profit of $5 for sixty stops."

Representative Rogers is Chairman of the Committee appointed by the selectmen at a recent meeting to investigate the ice question. The other members are Selectmen Aaron Johnson and T. H. Weldon.

While going for a drink of water, he tripped over a tree stump, striking the ground with such force as to render him unconscious. He was carried to the school building at the Center where an examination by the nurse in charge disclosed a badly bruised arm but no more serious injuries.

Reorganized Spinners to Make Strong Bid for Championship—Machine Shop Defeats Ribbon Mill.

Captain McCann of the Spinning mill team of the Industrial League is reorganizing his team and, beginning next week, he expects to make a strong bid for the league championship. Howard Matchett, the old Athletic catcher who recently returned from France, expects to be discharged from Camp Devens this week and will do the receiving for the Spinners. Captain McCann, a southpaw, will do the twirling. Ed Titus, another veteran of the World War and a former Trump player, will be found in the right garden.

Other members of the team are Herman Montie, first base; Leo Schendel, second base; Peterson, shortstop; Lang, third base; C. Sadowski, left field and Ritchie, center field.

With this line-up in good trim, the other teams in the league will have to step lively to beat them. The Spinners will hold a practice in the mill lot after working hours this evening.

Next Week's Schedule.

The schedule for the Industrial League next week follows:

Monday, Weaving Mill vs. Machine Shop.

Wednesday, Spinning Mill vs. Ribbon Mill.

Thursday, Main Office vs. Velvet Mill.

Machine Shop Wins.

The Ribbon Mill baseball team received a beating last night from the Machine Shop team knocking Oregon the first pitcher, out in the second inning. Joe Wright who pitched the remaining five innings pitched better ball but received poor support. Cotter pitched a good game for the Machine Shop until the seventh when he walked two men forcing in two runs, half of the Ribbon Mill's total. The members of the White Weaving team who meet the Machine Shop team next week attended the game in a body to look them over, one member being so interested as to take notes from the score book. The remaining members coached the Ribbon Mill batters on how to hit Cotter's curve.

ATHLETICS FACE STRONG AMERICAN CHAIN TEAM

Sunday's Game at Nebo Grounds. Will Draw Big Crowd—Fans Must Come Across.

On Sunday afternoon at the Mount Nebo grounds, Manchester baseball fans will have an opportunity to see what is perhaps the strongest semi-professional team in this state, when the American Chain Company's team of Bridgeport takes the field against the Athletics. The line-up of the visiting aggregation includes some of New England's best known stars and among the following names local fans will recognize many Eastern leaguers.

This team is composed of such men as: Stanley, second base; Briggs, center field; O'Connell, catcher; Ivers, first base; Sherwood, shortstop; Moshier, left field; Sank, third base; Frey, right field, and Townsend, pitcher. "Kid" Sherwood formerly played with the New Haven Club of the Eastern league and Briggs was with Bridgeport. Townsend was one of the leading twirlers of this league for many seasons. O'Connell, Ivers and Sank come from York state leaguers.

The locals will use the following men: Scheildge, left field; Massey, second base; Kotch, right field; Fay, first base; Wilson, third base; Slipplis, short stop; Phillips, center field; Lamprecht, catcher, and either O'Connell or Warnock on the mound.

That the Athletic management spares no expense in giving local fans the best there is in baseball, will be appreciated when it is known that it will cost the local club nearly $100 to bring this team to town! It is expected that $15 or $20 will be lost on this game and unless the team receives better financial support. It is reported that the money from subscriptions collected the first of the season is about exhausted. Sam Robinson will umpire Sunday's game from behind the bat. The rest of the benches will also be erected for Sunday.

WHAT FORD DID, NOT WHAT HE THOUGHT IS SUBJECT BEFORE COURT SAYS JUDGE

Court Rules Preparedness is Not An Issue Unless Tribune Can Show That Ford Tried to Embarrass Government.

Mount Clemens, Mich., June 20.—Judge Tucker made a formal ruling Tuesday morning upon the latitude which will be allowed for testimony relating to military preparedness at it pertains to the libel suit brought by Henry Ford against the Chicago Tribune. He said:

"It is the opinion of the court that how much or how little preparedness was really necessary for the adequate preservation of the lives and property of citizens on the border, or how much or how little preparedness Henry Ford believed in, are not relevant matters."

"Whether Henry Ford sought to interfere with or nullify the efforts of the Government to prepare to the extent it conceived to be necessary, whether that preparedness was much or little, adequate or inadequate, is, in my opinion, irrelevant."

"Whether what he did or said justified the criticism aimed at him in the editorial question, will, of course, be the main question in the case."

F. Eugene Ackerman, formerly with the United Press and later with the New York Herald, and now editor of Export American Industries, which is the official organ of the National Association of Manufacturers, was the principal Tribune witness of the day and testified to an interview which he had with Henry Ford on April 2, 1915.

Alfred Lacking, chief counsel for Henry Ford objected to the interview stated that Mr. Ford spoke disrespectfully of one of the President's messages.

The Court: "Maybe all of us have done that at times."

Reading from the interview, Mr. Ackerman quoted Mr. Ford as saying: "I was asked what I thought when the Lusitania was sunk. I said to my questions, 'You must wait until I can talk to some small boys about it,' and I questioned five. They all said, 'What did they go on there for?' That is my opinion. This thing of sending that message to Germany was—"

Here the interviewer represented Mr. Ford as turning to another person for an expression to fit the gap. The expression "political bunk" was suggested, so it was put in.

The interview continued: "Do you think we need an army?" Mr. Ford was asked.

"Why, yes," he replied.

"How big?"
"Oh, well, I cannot say. What would we do with it after we had it?"
"250,000 men?"
"Well yes—but what do we want an army or navy for when we have between two thousand and three thousand miles of insulation between us and the rest of the world?"

It was suggested to Mr. Ford that water could be bridged with fast steam transports.

"We want a fleet of small coast-guarding submarines which will be able to sink the dreadnoughts and transports which come to attack us. But, of course, they do not appeal to the forces behind the preparedness crusade. Who are they? Why does not someone find out that? You can count on the fingers of your hand the people who want war; they number one per cent of the whole country. If we started a propaganda for peace with the same strength that we are inciting preparedness, we would get somewhere," replied Mr. Ford.

The occasion of Mr. Ford's trip to New York, as acknowledged by Mr. Ackerman, was not to talk about international affairs with newspapermen, but to investigate the report that a substitute for gasoline had been invented.

Cross-question by Attorney Alfred Lacking as to the art of interviewing, Mr. Ackerman was asked:

Q. "It depends a good deal on the animus of the reporter, doesn't it?"

A. "A reporter never permits animus in an ordinary news story."

Q. "Oh, a reporter never does, doesn't he? Your article was filled with jibes at Mr. Ford, wasn't it?"

A. "It was, sir."

Q. "Dirty jibes?"

A. "No, sir."

Q. "This article showed your animus toward him, didn't it?"

A. "I never had the slightest animus toward Mr. Ford. Quite the contrary. I had the greatest admiration for him."

Q. "You showed it in your article, did you?"

A. "I reflected exactly the spirit in which I thought that article should be treated."

Q. "Did it reflect your admiration for Mr. Ford?"

A. "It reflected my contempt for his opinions that he uttered."

Q. "It did, then, reflect your contempt for his opinions?"

A. "On these particular subjects."

Q. "You had your own opinions on some of these subjects?"

A. "My ideas of patriotism were different from his."

Q. "Will you now qualify your admiration of Mr. Ford in any way you wish?"

A. "I thought he had been one of the greatest factors in the economic division of earnings. As an exponent of international politics, I regarded Mr. Ford as a man totally unprepared, who was doing a great deal of harm, possibly not through ignorance of the subject, but that he was talking so very glibly about."

Q. "So, for reasons, you had great admiration for Mr. Ford?"

Admiral Labor Policy.
A. "Oh, yes, his attitude toward his workmen. I was always an admirer."

Q. "Your paper, the New York Herald, was very vigorous at that time in favor of war with Germany, was it not?"

A. "I believe it was."

Q. "You know that on those questions the country was divided, do you not—on all those questions at that time?"

A. "Oh, yes."

Q. "A great diversity of opinion and nobody was an anarchist because he held the side or the other of those questions, was he?"

A. "Oh, no."

Q. "Did you put this question to Mr. Ford—'Do you believe an adequate army is necessary?'"

A. "As I recollect it."

Q. "Did he say, 'Yes?'"

A. "As I recollect it, he began with a definite affirmative, and then countered it with a negative."

Q. "Did he say, 'Why, yes' in answer to your question, 'How big?'"

A. "Well, I cannot say. Did he say that?"

A. "As I recollect it."

The earlier part of the session was occupied with the finale of Floyd Gibbons' recital of his experiences and the reading of various excerpts from the Tribune.

Washington, June 20.—I walked into the men's furnishing store where I get my Palm Beach suit every summer. They have the kind I like, and I like one particular clerk in there.

This morning as I walked in a new man came up and asked me what I would have. I replied rather testily, because everybody in that store knows that I always want Bill.

"I want Bill to wait on me" said I. "Where's Bill?"

The clerk looked at me as if he thought me shell shocked, and retreating behind the counter remarked that they had no Bill in the store, Charlie, Jack, Bob maybe, but no Bill.

"Young man" I said, "I have been trading in this store ever since Palm Beach suits came into vogue, and I have always been waited on by Bill until last year when he was with Pershing. I understand that he is back now and I want to see him."

The fellow simply looked at me and smiled.

"Shall I ask the manager?" he said.

"By all means", I replied, "And ask him when the store got so large that the clerks didn't know each other." I winked my forehead. I always get peevish when I get hot, and how could I fail to get hot today.

By this time the manager arrived looking like an advertisement of the very latest ready-to-wear model, and rubbing his hands.

"You are asking for a clerk named Bill," he began.

"Of course I am. Don't tell me you don't remember the young fellow with black hair who looked like a football player and worked in your store as clerk here for years?"

"Oh, yes, Charlie," he said turning to the new clerk with a wink, "he means the buyer. Call him down."

"Here he is now", said the boy, and there sure enough was Bill, leaning on a cane and holding out his hand.

"Come in for another Palm Beach?"

"Yes", I said, "but I got so upset trying to find you that I forgot what I came for."

"Oh, Well, you see I am the buyer now for the establishment. When I was in France I was wounded in the hip by a shell and I find it pretty hard to stand long or walk. The manager here was mighty nice about offering me my place back, but I knew I couldn't hold it down. Too much on your feet, you know. So I went to the Federal Board for Vocational Education which is the Government Board for retraining the disabled men. They advised me to take a course at a textile school in the training in knowledge of textiles in order to qualify for a position as buyer. I took their advice, and here I am, making about four times as much as I did."

"Bill, old man", I said, "this is great. And I bet there is more to come in bigger jobs later on. But it doesn't mean that you don't have to pick me out a Palm Beach every year just as you have always done. So lead me to it."

HOOSIER, 60, FIGURES HE WILL DIE IN AUGUST.

Frankfort, Ind., June 20.—E. H. Staley, ninety years old, said to be the oldest newspaper writer in the state of Indiana, came to his former home in this city from the Odd Fellows Home at Greensburg, Ind., to make final preparations for his funeral. He has been advised by physicians that his death may come suddenly and he says he believes it will occur in August. Staley, who established a newspaper here in 1881, still contributes editorials to state papers.

Park Theater Circle Theater

"He is made of the right stuff—but there's too much of it!" Many and many a fat man has felt this way about himself and many a man of too generous girth has heard others say it about him. It is the tragedy of being too fat. Usually the man burdened with overweight is a good fellow and the only thing against him is his excess of flesh. And so it was with Norman Dalrymple; hero of Rex Beach's newest photoplay, "Too Fat to Fight", which is the headline attraction at the Park theater this evening. Other extra added attractions will of course, be shown in addition. There include the Ford Weekly and an animated pictorial.

The star of the feature attraction is Frank McIntyre, known the world over as a comedian of extraordinary ability. His characterizations in "The Travelling Salesman" and "Snobs" kept Broadway roaring for years and years. Chosen by Rex Beach because of his avoirdupois and his fun making abilities, Mr. McIntyre is admirably suited to depict the woes of a man too fat to enter any branch of the service. He is literally too fat to fight.

But the author had no intention of making him merely a comic figure balked in his efforts to serve his country. Rex Beach knows with the rest of us that many a man who is physically a joke is at heart a hero. And so he made Norman Dalrymple the most human and lovable of all his masculine characters. His physical amplitude is only a detail. His spirit is that of a dashing, daring hero. He is a Cyrano de Bergerac in khaki. And when the time comes Norman Dalrymple is not to fat to win a war cross. It's a picture worth going miles to see. The feature play will be screened at 8.20.

Tomorrow comes another one of those famous Park Saturday bills. A Pathe Blue Ribbon special entitled "Fair Enough" heads the bill. An episode of "The Red Glove" that stupendous melodramatic marvel will also be shown on the same program. A typical Western raid, with plenty of "atmosphere" is one of the many features of this installment. And then there is another one of those Big V. comedies and a pictorial. Next week comes Mary Pickford in Arcraft's version of that Conan success, "Captain Kidd, Jr."

Once in a great while there is presented a production one hundred per cent. A production that has something new and original and gets away from that "canned atmosphere" which characterizes many screen plays. Such a one is the Bacon-Backer masterpiece, "Men" which was presented at the Circle last evening and which will also be shown for the last time this evening. Heart throbbing situations, coupled with masterly direction, acting and settings stamp this picture as being one of the very best offered this season by the Circle management to its patrons.

The picture has a moral, a powerful moral. And the climax leaves an impression on the memory of all who see it, that is indelible and cannot be easily erased. A synopsis of the story would mar the entertaining qualities of this picture. Those who were fortunate enough to patronize the Circle last evening, say that "Man" introduces a new type of motion picture production and presentation. "Men" will be shown for the last time this evening and motion picture lovers will find that a trip to the Circle will be well worth while. Others high class attractions are to be presented in addition.

A ten reel program is the management's inducement for patrons tomorrow afternoon and evening. It isn't a case of quantity, it's quality. For where in New England could you see on one program a brilliant Metro comedy, "The Parisian Tigress" with charming Viola Dana; the latest two reel Big V. Comedy; the up-to-the minute Pathe News; and an episode of that stupendous thriller, "The Tiger's Trail". This is the program which the management offers tomorrow and guarantees that local fans will surely get their money's worth.

The Parisian Tigress is a story of smiles and tears. The plot is laid in wicked Parée. Miss Dana assumes the role of Jeanne, the little Parisian gristle. The Big V. Comedy abounds in laughter and thrills and is staged as only Vitaphone can stage it. World wide news of important interest is depicted in animated form in the Pathe News. And there is an abundance of thrills of the hair raising variety in the episode of "The Tiger's Trail."

DEBS IN PRISON STILL CONSIDERING PRESIDENCY.

Has Not Made Up His Mind—Doesn't Like the I. W. W. Methods.

Moundsville, W. Va., June 20.—Eugene V. Debs, confined in the Federal prison here for violation of the Espionage law, in an interview said he had not yet made up his mind whether he should accept the nomination for the Presidency again on the Socialist ticket. The Socialist newspapers have selected him as the choice for 1920.

The Socialist leader declared he was opposed to violence in any form and that he had no use for bomb planters or the I. W. W. method of gaining an end. Instead he advocated free education, free speech and a free press.

Debs had a good word to say of the Moundsville prison. "It is one of the best in the United States, and the warden is a man in every sense of the word," he said.

USE AUTO HEADLIGHTS FOR BURIAL AT NIGHT.

Smith Center, Kan., June 20.—For the first time in the history of the local cemetery automobiles were used at a night funeral when the body of J. C. Rider, one of the old settlers here but who died in Topeka, was brought here for burial. The height of the new styles requires some development for the service.

BARE BACK PHOTOGRAPHS ALL THE RAGE IN LONDON.

London, June 20.—This "undressing craze"—bare backs and all that—which fashion is decreeing, and which is referred to by some as merely a return to the Greek ideal, is reviving interest in "one, two, three," physical culture exercises among the women.

Fashion writers are giving many suggestions, among the chief of which is the very pertinent one that corset-encased women cannot do away with their casing overnight and jump into a bare backed gown. Wearing of the new styles requires some development of little-used muscles. Hence, take a course of training. It is necessary for comfort, and in addition softly rippling muscles make the back and arms more attractive. The craze has given noted actresses a chance to "break into" print with entirely new sets of pictures. They are all—all, that is, who can stand the "revelation"—appearing "backward" in various states of undress.

"TWO WEEKLY DANCES TOO MUCH FOR GIRL OF 19." New Bedford, Mass., June 20.—"Two dances a week are too much for a girl of nineteen," said Judge Frank E. Miliken in the District Court, passing a sentence to probation in the case of Miss Theresa Luccardi. Judge Miliken stated that two dances a week for a girl of nineteen warranted her being haled into court as a stubborn child. The young woman was placed on probation until July, with the injunction to mind her mother.
