GIANT TRANS-ATLANTIC DIRIGIBLE NEARLY LOST WHEN HEAT EXPANDS GAS; HAWERS HOLD HER

Airship Suddenly Shoots to Height of 300 Feet—Cover- ing of Big Balloon Rent —Getting Ready to Return to Scotland Tomorrow— To Sail Over N. Y. City.

Mineola, L. I., July 7.—A serious accident to the British trans-Atlantic dirigible R-34, which is preparing for her return flight to Scotland, was narrowly averted this forenoon when heat expanded the gas in the bag above normal and the air giant suddenly shot skyward.

It was feared she was about to suffer the same fate as the American dirigible C-5 which broke away at Newfoundland, drifted to sea and was lost. But at the height of 300 feet the eight steel hawsers attached to the R-34 got her under control and she was brought back to earth with a long rent in her covering, below the nose.

Mineola, L. I., July 7.—The Giant British dirigible R-34 first lighter-than-air craft to cross the Atlantic, was slightly damaged early today while she was being refilled with hydrogen gas at Roosevelt Field, preparatory to setting off on the return to Europe early tomorrow.

Sudden gusts of cold air, following last night's rain storm, caused the gas in the dirigible's balloons to contract. The rear of the monster airship began to settle and the hand rail of the rear gondola was smashed.

Men Rush to Ropes.

A large force of men rushed to the side of the R-34 as she rolled unsteadily in the breeze. Sixty men seized the rear gondola and steadied her until the ropes could be eased off. Then the stern of the ship was allowed to rise slowly until she was 100 feet above the surface of the ground. There she remained with great search lights playing upon her until daylight today, when the refilling of the gas bags was recommenced.

Fear Sudden Storm.

The sky was slightly overcast today and sharp winds blew across the flying field, causing the air giant to ride a bit roughly at her anchorage. The weather man at the flying field were receiving reports hourly and keeping a sharp lookout for any signs of bad weather, fearing that a sudden storm might tear the R-34 from her moorings or crush her against the earth. More than 100 men surrounded her at all times, and she was ready to cast off and climb to safety above the storm at a moment's notice.

Getting Ready for Trip.

The dirigible's balloons will have received their fresh supply of gas early this afternoon. Mechanics spent the forenoon replacing the smashed handrail on the rear gondola and making other repairs. Before nightfall the R-34 will be ready for the 3,000 mile flight back to Scotland.

Major Scott, commander of the R-34, anticipates little trouble on the return trip.

To Start Tuesday.

"We shall start just before day-break Tuesday, if the weather favors," he said. "We shall have westerly winds at our back most of the way and should make much better time than in crossing. We expect to be home again Friday night."

To Sail Over City.

The R-34 will sail down over New York City immediately after her start tomorrow, soaring over the Metropolis for a few minutes before heading home. Requests have come from Boston, Philadelphia and other eastern cities for flights but it is unlikely that the dirigible will pass over any of these places, excepting, possibly, Boston on the return trip.

It is possible that the British airship will pass over the heads of President Wilson and members of the Presidential party, returning home aboard the George Washington.

MOTHER SAYS SLAYER IS SON OF SENATOR

Is Speeding to Los Angeles to Aid Harry S. New Who Murdered Girl.

Chicago, July 7.—Stoutly maintaining that Harry S. New who is under arrest at Los Angeles, is the son of United States Senator Harry New of Indiana, Mrs. Lulu Burger, mother of the accused slayer, is speeding westward today to aid him. She passed through Chicago on her way from Indianapolis to Los Angeles late yesterday.

"Harry's father is United States Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana," the mother declared reiterating former statements.

To Aid Son.

Mrs. Burger declared all of her resources would be placed at the disposal of her son and that her object is to obtain the best possible legal counsel and lend him every assistance. Mrs. Burger said she knew very little of the slain girl and that her son had met her only two or three weeks ago. Senator New, Mrs. Burger declared, would come to her son despite reports to the contrary.

Young New, his mother declared, was educated at Culver Military Academy and at Notre Dame University and went to California four years ago for his health after he had been discharged from the army.

Hunnicke declares in his complaint that his wife alleged she did not want to live with a cripple.

Munden, of the Municipal Court, after hearing the case of Idelia Cofer against Will Bowers. Bowers was accused by Mrs. Cofer of using profane language during a telephone conversation with a roomer in her rooming house.

MOVIES OF BIG BOUT DRAWING BIG CROWDS

Ohio Board of Censors Call it "Human Butchery"—Authorities Will Not Interfere.

Cleveland, O., July 7.—Despite the fact that the only member of the Ohio state board of censors who viewed them declared "such human butchery" should not be shown in the state, the officials pictures of the Willard-Dempsey fight went on here and drew large crowds yesterday and today. Two other members of the Board of Censors will pass on the pictures today at Columbus.

It was learned today that the owners of the pictures anticipate little trouble in showing them all over the United States, inasmuch as the official permit for the Willard-Dempsey fight called it a "boxing contest." There is no federal ban on pictures of a boxing contest.

Exhibition of the pictures developed that Dempsey knocked Willard down seven times in the first round.

NO CEREMONY TO MARK PRESENTATION OF PACT

Allies Will Simply Hand Terms to Austrians—Fill 76 Pages.

Paris, July 7.—No formal ceremony will mark the presentation of remaining Austrian peace terms which were taken under final consideration by the council of five today. They will simply be handed over by the secretariat of the peace conference at St. Germain. At the same time the Austrians will be informed of the time limit, probably a fortnight, which the allied and associated powers will allow for perusal and observations before signing.

Proofs of the complete Austrian treaty, containing 306 separate articles, many of them closely following the lines of the German treaty, were turned over to the Council of Five after the printers had worked upon them feverishly all day Sunday. They covered 76 pages.

DOLLAR PRINCESSES.

London, July 7.—Under the heading: "Dollar Princesses" the Illustrated Sunday Herald prints the following: "Those American mothers at Newport, Rhode Island, who are looking forward with eager anticipation to a visit from the bachelor Prince of Wales in the Autumn are likely to be severely disappointed, for there is very high authority to state that the Prince has not the slightest intention of visiting Newport."

TO ADDRESS SENATE ONLY.

Washington, July 7.—President Wilson's address at the capitol on Thursday will be to the Senate only. Secretary Tumulty, at New York today advised the White House, The President will appear before the Upper House at 12.15 to lay before it the peace treaty, with the League of Nations covenant incorporated, and the proposed pact by which America, with Great Britain, would go to the assistance of France in the event of an unprovoked attack upon her by Germany.

ONLY GIRLS TAKE "EXAMS."

Burlington, Kan., July 7.—For the first time in the history of normal training examinations here not a single boy took the teachers' examinations. School students from five towns took the examinations.

SAYS SEVEN MEN RAN THE NATION DURING THE WAR

Rep. Graham Calls Them Secret Government of the U. S.

DESIGNED ALL WAR MEASURES IN SECRET

Did All the Work Weeks and Even Months Before War Was Declared On Germany, Says Representative.

Washington, July 7.—The secret government of the United States, was the term applied to the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense, by Representative William J. Graham, chairman of the select committee on expenditures in the War Department, as today's session of that committee. Chairman Graham, to whom the committee had delegated the task of examining the minutes of the council and reporting on these portions he considered pertinent to its work, read a report, in which he said:

The Board of Seven.

"An examination of these minutes discloses the fact that a commission of seven men chosen by the President seem to have devised the entire system of purchasing war supplies; planned a press censorship; designed a system of food control and selected Herbert Hoover as its director; determined on a daylight saving scheme; and—in a word—designed practically every war measure which the Congress subsequently enacted; and that it did all this behind closed doors, weeks and even months before the Congress of the United States declared war on Germany."

In several meetings long before the war was declared, the report stated, the advisory commission met with representatives of manufacturing industries and formed an organization for selling supplies to the government which organization was well perfected before the war was declared.

The Real Government.

"In almost every meeting before the declaration of war," the report continued, "the commission discussed and recommended to the council, (which consisted of the cabinet members), these plans for fixing prices and selling to the government. When war was declared on April 6, this machinery began to move, headed by the advisory commission of seven men who were in effect, as shown by these minutes, the active government of the United States, so far as the purchase of supplies was concerned. At times the activities of this advisory commission were such as greatly to embarrass the cabinet and it became necessary for the cabinet to protest against them."

WERE VIOLATING LAW.

"The minutes also show that this advisory commission were advised that they were violating the law in permitting committees of the Council of National Defense to direct purchases from their own companies, as will be apparent from a letter read by Mr. Baruch on June first, to the commissioners, which he had received from Mr. E. H. Gary, chairman of the committee on steel and steel production, of this advisory commission."

"NATIONAL POLICY."

"This letter was referred to the attorney general on the second of June and on the sixth of June the attorney general answered it, saying that matters referred to in Mr. Gary's letter as violations of the law were matters of 'national' policy rather than a legal question. Afterward when there was evidently a discussion in Congress as to the illegality of members of the committees on the council buying from themselves, the council discussed this general policy, and it was suggested that 'this embarrassment might be removed by the plan of the committee re-organization now under consideration.' Afterwards, the minutes show, that on account of this so called embarrassment, the War Industries Board was created."

Murderers of Edith Cavell And Other War Criminals Will be Brought to London

Rioters Pillage Milan Shops; Mobs Steal Food And Clothing

Milan, July 7.—Pillaging of shops continued in this city throughout Sunday, but only a few persons were injured in clashes between the looters and the police. Many arrests were made. Crowds seized stores of meats, cheeses, shoes and clothing. In an effort to allay the disorders the municipality ordered all prices of necessities reduced 50 per cent. The high cost of living riots, in the other parts of Italy, are apparently diminishing, according to reports received here.

HINDENBURG ASKS FOCH TO SPARE THE KAISER

Pleads With French Leader to Come to Emperor's Aid—Offers to Substitute for Him.

Berlin, July 7.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg has addressed an open letter to Marshal Foch, begging him to use his influence to have the ex-Kaiser freed from trial from the Allies. He repeats his offer to substitute himself for the former emperor for trial.

ASKS PERSHING TO HELP.

Berlin, July 5.—(Via London, July 7.)—Colonel Reinhard, commanding the Reinhard division of the German volunteer army, personally called upon Colonel Parker, head of the American commission at the Alden Hotel, requesting him to appeal to the United States government through a letter to General Pershing, to use its influence for the abolition of the clause in the peace treaty providing for the surrender of the ex-Kaiser for trial.

Colonel Reinhard argued that, if the entente insisted upon the "Honor and Kaiser" clauses, a majority of the German officers would resign from the army, which might result in the dissolution of the army, leaving the country at the mercy of chaos.

A German who had acted as interpreter at the meeting declared that Colonel Parker had promised to write a letter. When he entered the Alden Hotel, however, the American officer refused to confirm this statement, saying:

"I cannot be interviewed on this subject."

TO TEST DRY LAW.

New Haven, July 7.—Some time this afternoon Agent Grimes of the Department of Justice will arrest a saloonkeeper, whose name is not disclosed, who will submit himself for prosecution in the test case to decide upon the legality of the war time prohibition act. The accused will be brought before Judge Chatfield in the United States district court here tomorrow when counsel for the Retail Liquor Dealers will adopt a mode of legal procedure to secure a test of the law. It is deemed probable that they will file a demurrer and that arguments will then proceed on this document.

The case will be decided by the district court and later by higher court, eventually finding its way to the United States supreme court where decision will be final.

RIOTS IN BRESCIA.

London, July 7.—One person has been killed and several wounded in rioting in Brescia, said a news agency dispatch from Rome today. Order has now been restored at Florence. Looting continues in Milan. Socialists are disclaiming responsibility for disturbances.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

Norwalk, July 7.—Every Woman's Fashion Shop, 13 Main street, was burglarized Saturday night or Sunday. The thieves effected an entrance by using a ladder from the bed of the Norwalk River to a basement window which was forced as was also a trap door leading to the main floor. The burglary was discovered this morning. About $25 in change was discovered missing.

JULY 4TH CELEBRATED IN GERMANY'S CAPITAL

German Band Plays "Star Spangled Banner" and Crowds Cheer Yank Soldiers.

Copenhagen, July 7.—America's national holiday—the Fourth of July—was celebrated in Berlin, with Germans participating, for the first time in history, said a dispatch from Berlin to the Politiken.

Sixty American soldiers and men of the ranks made the trip to Potsdam on the launch Kaiser Wilhelm while Germans along the banks of the Spree River waved hats and handkerchiefs. A German band on board played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Later there was a baseball game on the Court of Sans Souci Palace, while a German "movie" operator recorded the event.

In the evening there was dancing with many Americans taking German girls for their partners. When the dance broke up there were numerous goodbye kisses and one German maid was so loath to be separated from her American escort that she had to be forced to comply.

WANTS TO MEET DEMPSEY.

London, July 7.—Joe Beckett, the new English heavyweight champion, is ready to meet Jack Dempsey "anywhere, anytime" after his match with George Carpentier, French champion, in September, his manager, Bernard Mortimer, declared today.

"I am glad Dempsey won," said Mortimer. "Willard did the game no good by retiring as soon as he had whipped Johnson. I only hope Dempsey will prove a worthy champion and give Beckett a chance to meet him."

SWAM EIGHT MILES.

Norwalk, July 7.—Arthur Stabel, of the Roton Point Life Saving Corps swam from the Huntington Light across Long Island Sound to the Roton Point Beach yesterday, making the distance, about eight land miles, in four hours and forty two minutes. He was accompanied in motor boats by some of his comrades. He was in good condition when he stepped from the water.

WEARS 'EM RIGHT OUT IN THE OPEN, BY HECK!

Even since the court granted him an injunction restraining the pastor and members of the Amish Mennonite church from "miting" him for wearing suspenders, he hasn't given a hang who sees them.

For years Gierich, who is rich, has been boycotted by members of the Amish sect because he insisted on wearing suspenders. Finally he sought the protection of the court and secured it. Members of the church wear only a cloth belt.

BATHERS USE INNER TUBES.

Martins Ferry, Ohio, July 7.—Small cars have scored another point. Young folks who cannot swim are using inflated inner tubes from small tires in place of swimming wings in local bathing places, placing the tubes about their bodies, where they act as life preservers. Except for those persons carrying excessive tonnage the inner tubes suffice.

London Express Says They Will be Lodged in London Tower Within Ten Days—To be Tried in August—Queen of Holland Says She'll Give Up Ex-Kaiser.

London, July 7.—Prominent German officials, alleged to have been implicated in the murders of nurse Edith Cavell and Captain Fryatt, in Belgium, probably will be brought to England within the next few days and lodged in the Tower of London, the Daily Express understands today.

Other prisoners intended for the Tower of London include Commandants of German prison camps, responsible for the deliberate murder of defenceless British soldiers, it was stated by the Daily Express.

Trials in August.

These trials are expected to open in August if the preliminary arrangements can be completed in that time.

In commenting upon the offers of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, former German chancellor; Field Marshal von Hindenburg, former chief of staff of the German army and Prince Eitel Frederick to stand trial for the ex-Kaiser, the Daily Express said:

"It is impossible to take these attempts at vicarious culpability seriously. If Germany had won the war would von Bethmann-Hollweg, Hindenburg and the sons of the ex-Kaiser have received much sympathy from the 'all highest' if they had sought to prove their responsibility for the war? That is an index to the amount they deserve now."

May Be Tried in London.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily News reports that the announcement that London will be the seat of the former Kaiser's trial came as a great surprise to the American peace delegates. Secretary of State Lansing and Henry White were entirely unaware that such an announcement was forthcoming, the correspondent said. They are reported to have sent word to President Wilson asking him if the information was in his possession.

Message Not Received.

The telegram from Prince Eitel Frederick pledging the willingness of himself and his three younger brothers to stand trial instead of their father—the former Kaiser—had not been received at Buckingham Palace today. Officials were unwilling to venture any opinion as to the procedure if the telegram were received.

Holland's Position.

The Berne correspondent of the Daily News telegraphed the following statement from the Prince Consort of Holland, (the husband of Queen Wilhelmina):

"Germany has signed an undertaking to deliver the ex-Kaiser for judgment. If Germany demands it we would be obliged to yield."

Prince Henry denied that he had seen either the ex-Kaiser or the former Crown Prince since they arrived in Holland.

List of Suspects.

Here is the list of the Germans, with the crimes charged against them, whom the British, French and Belgians wish to put on trial: Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria—Deportations from Lille, Roubaix, Turcoing and other places.

Field Marshal Von Mackensen—Thefts, incendiarism and executions in Rumania.

Gen. Von Below—Burning of Andern and 100 people shot.

Baron Von Der Lancky—Head of the German political department of Brussels, who was concerned in the murder of the English nurse, Edith Cavell and Capt. Fryatt.

CHAUTAUQUA WEEK OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY

Cool Clear Weather Promised—Opening Performance Today.

Nature seems to have set the stage for Chautauqua week in Manchester. After a series of the hottest days on record the drought was broken by heavy showers yesterday and this morning dawned clear and cool. The dust has been washed from the foliage and the streets are clean. The weather bureau predicts a pleasant and comfortable week, just the sort to make tent productions enjoyable. The big tent was placed in position on the Main street base ball lot early this morning and everything was in readiness for the opening performance this afternoon. The advance men who are here say that the program this year is better than ever. About $250 more has been paid to the week's performers than last year and the grade of entertainments has been raised correspondingly.

The program this afternoon was by the Zimmer-Carter Company, three attractive and gifted young ladies who specialize with harps, and give readings and song stories. They will repeat their program this evening. In addition to the concert Carolyn E. Geisel, M. D., will lecture on "How to Live 100 Years."

Tomorrow afternoon's program will include a piano recital by Gabriel L. Hines, who carries his own Steinway Grand piano with him, and a lecture by Jesse H. Holmes, Ph.D. entitled "The Golden Egg." Tomorrow evening the Corella Bonelli company, including some of the leading soloists in last year's production of Robin Hood and other skilled performers will give a full evening's program.

Americanization Committee Will Help All Who Wish to Attend Lectures.

The Americanization committee announces that it will pay the carfare of any person who wishes to attend the special summer course, which opens at the New Britain Normal school tomorrow and continues for six weeks. It isn't necessary to take in the whole course, but if any one would like to go for part of the time or for certain of the lectures, the committee will pay the carfare of such a person. Any one interested in the matter should communicate with Mrs. Florence E. Hillsburg, director of Americanization in Manchester.

East Side Companies Called Out at 1:30 A. M.—Confine Blaze to Upper Tenement.

The east side companies of the South Manchester fire department were called out, at 1:30 this morning for a fire in a four-tenement house near the upper end of Oak street. Just how the fire started is a mystery, but it was well underway when the firemen arrived. It was confined to the upper tenement occupied by Orazio Scarlato, the Maple street barber, who had his furniture all packed up, as he was planning to move today. The kitchen was badly burned and considerable damage was done in the dining room. The veranda also was burned. Some of the water soaked through into the lower rooms. It is estimated by Fire Chief Burke that it will cost at least $500 to repair the damage.

ton, tomorrow forenoon. The George Washington will be approaching New York harbor as the R-34 sails out. The Curious Arrive. Shortly after daybreak today a great stream of spectators began pouring into Mineola to catch a glimpse of the R-34. Thousands made their way to the flying field in the early forenoon. The crew of the R-34 after a good night's sleep in "regular beds" as they expressed it, at Garden City, roached the field at 9 o'clock. Automobiles were waiting for them and it was planned to drive to New York. Most of them had never seen Broadway and they were anxious to get a look at the town.

The R-34 was pulled back to earth shortly after nine o'clock this morning, each of the eight cables being gradually shortened by a winch. Major Scott removed the seals placed on the dirigible after her arrival yesterday morning and the hundred United States army and navy aviation men began overhauling her for the return trip.

CONDUCTS 1,462 FUNERALS. Cleveland, Ohio, July 7.—As chief chaplain of the Paris district, Chaplain John Stuart Banks, now rector of All Saints' Church here, officiated at 1,462 burial services for American soldiers and nurses during his stay of a year in France.

ONLY HALF A MAN, BUT HE DOES HIS WORK WELL.

Winchester, Kan., July 7.—People here are wondering what the City Marshal, M. A. Guynn, could do if he were whole and not suffering from paralysis. Mr. Guynn, who has a palsied arm, and has lost one leg, in addition to being City Marshal, is Street Commissioner, City Clerk and Township Clerk. He performs all of his duties well, and has but little difficulty in looking after them as well as any one. So far no fugitive has escaped from his clutches after being arrested.

BLIGHTED WAR ROMANCES.

Springfield, Ill., July 7.—One year ago, just before Edward and Ben Van Der Pluyt, twin brothers, entered the army, they married. It was a double ceremony and all beautiful as such things go. But when they returned from service they found their war brides attentive to other men and as a result applied for divorces.

CEMETERY DUTY EXCITING.

Dayton, Ohio, July 7.—In order to get away from the excitement attendant to his duties J. C. Cline is taking a vacation. For fifty years Cline has been superintendent of Woodlawn Cemetery and before that was gatetender, starting at the age of twelve. During that time he has attended 38,778 burials.

To Pursue Bandits.

Washington, July 7.—The Mexican foreign office has advised the American Embassy at Mexico City that strict orders have been issued to the military authorities at Tampico to pursue and capture the bandits who attacked and killed John W. Correll, an American citizen, near Colonia, 27 miles north of Tampico, on June 16, it was announced by Acting Secretary of State Phillips today.

WITH SHATTERED SKULL WALTZ BOY STILL LIVES

Youth Injured By Exploding Cannon is Operated On at Hartford Hospital.

Erwin Waltz of Rockville, his skull shattered by a steel ramrod which was driven through it by the explosion of a Fourth of July cannon, still lives at the Hartford Hospital. As told in Thursday's Herald, young Waltz was ramming powder into a cannon which he had made at the Trade School here when it exploded and sent the ramrod into his head just over his right eye. The rod went through to the back of his skull and it was thought that death was only a matter of minutes. Yesterday the hospital officials offered little hope for him, but today an operation was performed and it is reported that he is somewhat better. His recovery, however, is extremely doubtful.

STOCK MARKET

New York, July 7.—With the resumption of business after the triple holiday there were further advances at the opening of the stock market today, and more new high records were reached in many issues with the strength concentrated to a great extent in the steel industrials and half a dozen specialties.

Crucible Steel was a most prominent feature, advancing 4 1-2 points to 119 1-2 and then two points. Steel Common opened up 3-4 at 114 and then reacted to 113 5-8. Tobacco Products rose 2 1-2 to 107 1-2 and United Cigars to 191 1-2.

Circle Theater Park Theater

A gripping photoplay will be shown at the Circle theater tonight for the first time. It is called "The Forbidden Room," and has Gladys Brockwell as its star. This talented William Fox luminary has an intensely dramatic story which holds one's acute interest because of the unique way in which it is developed. It is a story of corruption in official circles, so familiar in most cities. It shows the lengths to which ambitious but unscrupulous men will go to gain power and fill their pockets with the money of the taxpayers—dragging the reputation of others in the mire without a qualm. It by this means they can benefit themselves.

Such men met their match in the character that Miss Brockwell portrays. They separate her from her sweetheart and blacken the reputations of both. She makes herself seem even worse than she is painted, in her endeavor to clear the man whom she loves and who has scorned her because of plotters' tales; but in the end she wins back his love and confounds the enemy. Miss Brockwell's work is worthy of her enviable reputation as an actress of great emotional strength.

On the same bill will be the last chapters of "The Man of Might" and the first episodes of the greatest thriller of all times, "The Perils of Thunder Mountain."

CHICAGO-NEW YORK MAIL

Cleveland, Ohio, July 7.—Uncle Sam has figured out a new plan to save eighteen hours in the transmission of mail between Chicago and New York. By changing the schedule of the serial mail service between here and the Windy City, letters mailed there at 2:30 in the afternoon will be placed aboard the twentieth Century Limited as it passes through here. According to postal officials, from sixteen to fifteen hours will be saved.

What became of the highly important letter which Lucille Vale wrote to Paul Arden just before her marriage to Allen Granat? Lucille had come to love her husband very dearly, although she was in love with Arden at the time of her marriage. Arden, too, had fallen in love with another girl and he wanted to return the letter to Lucille. But the missive got away from him. What had become of it? It sure is a surprising series of events that centers around this letter before it finally gets back into Lucille's hands again. You'll be astonished and delighted, time and again when you see "Three Green Eyes," the new World Picture, with an all-star cast, which is scheduled for showing tonight at the Park Theatre. You'll be mighty well pleased with this production, it is so different and so thoroughly likable.

Carlisle Blackwell, Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Evelyn Greeley and Johnny Hines are the stars who interpret this picture. Think of all these stars appearing in a single picture! This is one of the most notable all-star casts ever assembled for a motion picture. It is interesting to know that each of these stars has a role that fits like a glove—a role in which their many friends will be mighty well pleased with their work. "Three Green Eyes," is a picture you mustn't miss if you are looking for the very best in screen entertainment. See it by all means.

On the same program will be a comedy and another chapter of the Craig Kennedy serial. This has already made a great hit at the Popular Playhouse. For tomorrow and Wednesday John F. Sullivan has procured "Wives of Men," a wonderful absorbing seven-part feature, heralded as the strongest photo-drama ever filmed.

PLANS HIKE TO FRISCO FROM GERMANTOWN, PA.

San Francisco, July 7.—How long does it take to walk from Germantown, Pa., to San Francisco? A. Duval, of Germantown, intends to find out. He has written to the San Francisco Y. M. C. A. that he is nearly ready to begin his little walking trip and will bring it to a conclusion at the local "Y." Duval states that he is to make this "foot-a-tour," as he calls it, to demonstrate the value of vegetarianism and the power of endurance of a vegetarian. He is also anxious to establish a record for the walk, he says.

BEATS PRIZE FIGHT.

It is significant that on July 4, 1919, at two big events staged in the United States of America, the Methodist Centenary celebration at Columbus and the prize fight at Toledo, the Centenary Celebration had an attendance almost twice as large as the prize fight, showing the preference of the American people for the constructive rather than the destructive in American life. And while thousands of seats at the prize fight were unoccupied there were fifteen-hundred in line at 7 o'clock in the morning to buy pageant tickets at the church celebration.

THERE ARE STILL A FEW OF THE VETERAN SLUGGERS FACING BIG LEAGUE PITCHERS

One by one the great sluggers who have blazed a trail of hits across the baseball horizon for the last ten or fifteen years are passing along. Hitters like Hans Wagner and Sam Crawford, for instance, are few and far between these days, but there are still a few of the veteran sluggers facing major league pitchers today, and one of the most picturesque of the lot is "Cactus" Cravath.

The "Old Cactus" has been playing ball actively for sixteen years, and the ravages of time have long since begun to show, for Cravath's legs today refuse to carry him around the gardens as they once did, and there are a few sprinkles of silver on his temples. Cravath 37 Years Old.

But although Cravath is thirty-seven years of age—having celebrated his thirty-seventh birthday last March—he still ranks as a demon at the bat. Taking a toe hold and swinging from the hip is just as natural to Cravath as it ever was. And National League pitchers tell you that his eye has not been dimmed to any extent by the suns of 16 summers. Making four hits out of five times at bat is a feat often accomplished in

A Hatless Lover

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

Mary was a common name, but as Roger Mantell traced the letters that framed the word he decided that there was none sweeter or more appealing in all the world. "My Dear Miss Mary" was the most ardent advance he had yet attempted. It was the mere outline of a letter, crudely describing his emotions, the framework, in fact, of a more polished missive to be transcribed on the typewriter later.

He tore the blue sheet from the tab guiltily as there was a tap at the office door, folded it hastily and thrust it under the lining of his derby hat, which lay on the desk by his side. Enter Victor Wade, his close friend, also derby hatted.

"Just dropped in on an errand from Mr. Parsons," explained Victor. "Wants to know if you have any word concerning the negotiations for that farm he intends to buy."

"Tell him not yet," replied Roger, and then the two friends drifted into a cursory conversation. Victor finally arose, reached out for the nearest hat, put it on his head and went his way.

His way was past the Parsons' home, and he was glad of an excuse to stop there. It was the home of Mary Parsons, and Victor would cheerfully undertake any mission that might bring him in sight of her lovely face. She had interested him for six months. He had loved her the six succeeding, but had not yet reached the point of confidence and courage to tell her so.

Victor was thirty, the object of his affections only three years his junior. Both were sensible and practical, hence not inclined to rush into the dominion of love like giddy young things in their teens. It had rained all the morning and a high, blustering wind surged over. Victor had to hold his hat on as he turned sharp corners. He reached the residence of Mr. Parsons to find that gentleman mowing the lawn in front of it, delivered his message and flushed considerably as the straightforward, simple-minded old man remarked:

"I'd ask you in, only Mary isn't at home just now."

Victor fluttered delightedly and experienced a certain sense of encouragement and hope, for the words seemed to indicate that the father of his inamorata guessed his particular interest in the daughter of the household. Just as Victor left the place a high gust of wind pounced down upon him. Up and off went his hat, over a hedge, across a pool of water and was lost among some bushes.

"Hey! we'll get it, Mr. Wade," sang out Mary's brother Ned, aged ten. "Yes, we'll get it, sure!" chorused Bob Parsons, four years his junior, and soon Ned returned with the truant headpiece. Victor bestowed a dime upon him, resumed the hat and starting to clean the mud from it uttered the startled exclamation:

"Why, here's the secret of it not fitting right—It isn't my hat at all! It belongs to Mantell, for there are his initials inside."

When he took it back to the lawyer's office and recovered his own hat he was somewhat puzzled at the glad way in which Roger received it. The latter turned the inside band, looked sober and troubled, and asked:

"You didn't—didn't notice a slip of paper inside, did you?" "Why, no," replied Victor. "Was it anything of importance?" "Oh, no—decidedly no!" flustered Mantell. "Just a little memoranda," and thought of his Mary Liscombe just as Victor was thinking of his Mary Parsons.

Victor called upon his Mary two evenings later. There was a shy, yet warm greeting that gratified Victor while it perplexed him. Mary was palpably nervous. She wore an air of expectancy as they sat in the porch hammock. Ned Parsons appeared.

"Did you tell Mr. Wade, sister," babbled the little fellow, "about the paper, you know? Say, Mr. Wade, after I gave you back your hat Bob found a folded sheet of paper—blue paper, with pencil writing on it. He thought maybe it fell out of your hat. You've got it, sister?"

Mary's face was red as a rose—she acted as though too embarrassed to speak. But finally she recovered a certain degree of natural calmness. She took from a pocket a folded sheet of blue paper, which, of course, Victor knew belonged to Roger Mantell. He opened it carelessly.

"Oh, yes," he said lightly, "a memorandum Mantell told me about. You see, I wore away his hat by mistake. Why?" There he paused, the confused one now. In a flash he construed the situation. "Well, what do you think of that?" he aspirated. "It expresses some very beautiful sentiments," murmured Mary, shrinking within herself. "But I didn't write to Miss Parsons. I wouldn't venture. It would be presumptuous, you know, and if I did, what would you think of me?" "I thought—I thought—" quavered Mary. "That it was from me? Suppose it was? See here," and he drew forth a pencil and scrawled his name under the unfinished address. "Expressing my sentiments—what do you say?" Mary took the pencil and wrote her own name under his and Victor Wade was answered.

STAY IN WASHINGTON.

Washington advices indicate that President Wilson intends to stomp the country in the interests of the League of Nations.

He will, so the reports declare, visit those states whose Senators have been most outspoken in their opposition to the League and by thus carrying the war into hostile country attempt to win such overwhelming popular support for the League as to shake the Senators change front.

We hope the President will embark on no such enterprise. Most of the hostility toward the League is bounded by the walls of the Capitol in Washington. Much of it is political. Some of it springs only from a sense of neglect and injury on the part of Senators who feel that they have not been sufficiently consulted regarding the foreign policies of the nation. Considerable opposition comes from Senators who are perplexed as to the possible consequences of the covenant, who do not understand the import of many of its provisions and who wish further light on the interpretation which is to be put on them by the foreign countries with whose leaders Mr. Wilson has been in conference.

All of this hostility, except the partisan residuum, the President can best meet right in Washington where he can hold counsel with the Senators and personally answer their questions or refute their criticisms.

The people recognize the importance of the League but have had various misgivings aroused by the opposition Senators. By frank statements before the Senate itself and by frequent conferences with individual members Mr. Wilson could best present his case.

Once he launches his "swing around the circle" he will be sharply accused of making a 1920 political gesture and he will necessarily be absent from Washington, the source of the opposition.

The country as a whole does not need conversion to the League idea and it would only be suspicious of anything which might have the characteristics of a campaign tour. Let Mr. Wilson stick to his job, hear the Senate's side of the case fully, discuss the problems freely and there will be no question of the ultimate passage of the League of Nations without serious alteration or amendment.

SYMPATHY FOR THE KAISER.

Londoners are debating over the particular building in which to hold the trial of the ex-Kaiser but before getting much aroused over that it would seem well to first capture him. Just where he is held before the court is of little consequence, but there is one most fitting place for his incarceration and that is the Tower of London. He can plead no indignity if confined in that historic prison. Men with as royal blood as his have looked out through the Tower's barred windows. Men with guilt far less than his have waited there the judgment of an English court.

The Philadelphia Record is concerned lest the former German Emperor, confined within the Tower, should inspire a wave of popular sympathy and thus lessen the sternness of the final decree. The Record is reminded that a tradition of British injustice toward Napoleon long caused complications in European affairs and still constitutes a reproach which foes of Great Britain are quick to recall.

It seems to us that the Record leaves out of its reckoning the important fact that Napoleon and the former Kaiser are about as far apart in those qualities which inspire popular admiration or sympathy as the keeper of Andersonville Prison and Robert E. Lee.

There is a tremendous distinction between the War Lord and the Little Corporal, between the man who claimed divine right to rule his fellowmen and the man who prided himself on the fact that he was one of the common people, between the German who sent his picture to the sorrowing mother of five sons killed in his service and the Corsican who repeatedly risked his life beside his men on the battlefield.

There will be no popular outbursts of compassion for William of Hohenzollern in England, or in Germany, except on the part of the Junkers of both countries. Autocrats and militarists everywhere will at least secretly mourn his fall, for in the defeat of Kaiserism they see the impending ruin which is certainly bearing down on all who stand opposed to democracy, in whatever nation. With the plain people of no land has William Hohenzollern anything in common. The people demand justice; he fears it.

PROHIBITION NOT SO BAD.

Prohibition has passed through its most severe test and has come out surprisingly well. A triple holiday with the hottest, most thirst-inducing weather, formed a combination which could not have been harder on the man who was accustomed to slake his thirst with foaming lager, the gin fizz or the Scotch high ball. But it seems that most of the men of this class have more or less cheerfully turned their attention, to milk shakes, soda water, ginger ale and other soft drinks. The harvest of drunks which would usually have been expected under these weather and holiday conditions has been absent during the last few days. Even Hartford had no arrest for drunkenness over the Fourth, an unheard occurrence. From other cities and large towns comes the same testimony; the main source of business for the police courts has been cut off by the closing of the saloons.

It was to be expected, that the country would get a heavy jolt when the habits of a lifetime were suddenly interrupted and it is therefore surprising that we have passed through the first and hardest stage of the ordeal with so little apparent friction. Before long, people will be accustomed to the harmless substitutes for the drinks which gave business to our police courts and undermined the physical health of those who habitually indulged in them.

It is noticeable, too, that with the suspending of the sale of intoxicants there has been an enormous increase in the demand for soft drinks. Owing to this fact the fear which has been expressed that thousands of men connected with the saloon industry would be thrown out of work has greatly abated. The drivers of beer trucks can find employment, if they want it, distributing soft drinks and ice cream. Bar tenders can get jobs serving it; and as for the bottle makers, it is safe to say that it will take twice as many bottles to hold the temperance liquids needed to quench the thirst as it took for the alcoholic beverages needed for the same purpose.

MR. MOSQUITO HARMLESS.

Mr. Mosquito does not bite; his bill is so blunt that he could not be a blood-sucker if he wished. It is Mrs. Mosquito who does all the deadly work of fever propagation. She is most active around dawn and after sunset. She avoids strong light and prefers dark colors. She is essentially a domestic creature, staying around houses by preference.

In the autumn the males die, and the females seek winter quarters. They hibernate in dark corners of cellar and garret, and on the first warm day of spring are out laying their eggs. Save when extended by the arrival of this hibernating period, the life of the female is one or two months; the male, on the other hand, lives but a few days. The food of the mosquito is the juice and nectar of plants; and, of course, blood though not necessarily that of man; animals, reptiles and even caterpillars are bitten with the same freedom.

The female mosquito lays from fifty to one hundred eggs at a time, on any quiet bit of water. In about three days they hatch, and though at first the larva is very small, it grows rapidly and attains full development in a few days. We have then the familiar wrigglers of the old-time rain barrel and the uncovered cistern.

During the larval stage, which lasts from seven to fourteen days, the malarial variety can be distinguished from all others by the curiously inclined by virtue of the fact that it lies with its body parallel to the surface of the water, while the other species hang with their heads downward.—Scientific American.

Bill of Rights for Labor Was Presented to Peace Conference

On this page The Herald is printing a series of letters touching every angle of the plan for a League of Nations proposed by the Paris Covenant, now awaiting ratification by the United States Senate. In accordance with the authors' wishes the individual letters are not identified with any one writer.

They are written by:
William H. Taft, Ex-President of the United States.

George W. Wickersham, formerly United States Attorney General.
A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University.
Henry W. Taft, of the New York Bar.

The Commission on International Labor Legislation besides preparing and submitting to the Peace Conference the convention or treaty described in the preceding letter (published in the Herald Saturday) also recommended for the consideration of the members of the League of Nations an extensive program for insertion in the treaty of peace separate and apart from the convention.

"Bill of Rights."

This program consists in the following declaration of principles which has been characterized as the Labor Bill of Rights, viz.:

"1. In right and in fact the labor of a human being should not be treated as merchandise or an article of commerce.

"2. Employers and workers should be allowed the right of association for all lawful purposes.

"3. No child should be permitted to be employed in industry or commerce before the age of fourteen years. In order that every child may be insured reasonable opportunities for mental and physical education between the years of fourteen and eighteen, young persons of either sex may only be employed on work which is not harmful to their physical development and on condition that the continuance of their technical or general education is insured.

"4. Every worker has a right to a wage adequate to maintain a reasonable standard of life, having regard to the civilization of his time and country.

"5. Equal pay should be given to women and to men for work of equal value in quantity and quality.

"6. A weekly rest, including Sunday, or its equivalent, for all workers.

"7. Limitation of the hours of work in industry on the basis of eight hours a day or forty-eight hours a week, subject to an exception for countries in which climatic conditions, the imperfect development of industrial organization or other special circumstances render the industrial efficiency of the workers substantially different. The International Labor Conference will recommend a basis approximately equivalent to the above for adoption in such countries.

"8. In all matters concerning their status as workers and social insurance, foreign workmen lawfully admitted to any country, and their families, should be insured the same treatment as the nationals of that country.

"9. All states should institute a system of inspection, in which women should take part, in order to insure the enforcement of the laws and regulations for the protection of the workers."

Seeks Wide Powers.

Whether or not this general declaration shall be adopted by the powers signatory to the peace treaty, its formulation and recommendations by the International Commission indicates the extent of the programme which the civilized powers of the earth are invited to adopt. The Commission also adopted a resolution expressing the hope that as soon as possible an agreement should be arrived at between the high contracting parties with a view to endorsing the "International Labor Conference, under the auspices of the League of Nations, with power to take, under conditions to be determined, resolutions possessing the force of international law."

This proposal embodies the recommendation of the Interallied Labor and Socialist Conferences held in London in August, 1917, and February, 1918. It is at variance with the general plan of the Covenant of the League of Nations, which carefully avoids any effort to erect a super-sovereignty over the nations, and confines itself to international agreements and their enforcement as the principal basis for the preservation of international peace.

Standardization of Labor.

Many of these recommendations for the improvement of labor will appeal at once to the favorable judgment of the world. How far the present unequal condition of development of the different countries composing the League of Nations will warrant the standardization of labor conditions proposed by this convention is a matter calling for careful examination. The project involves a novel effort of far-reaching consequence. In view of that novelty, it is to be regretted that the proposed convention should be made so extraordinarily difficult of amendment as is proposed. By its terms, any amendment must first be adopted by the conference by two-thirds of the votes cast by the delegates present, then ratified by the states whose representatives compose the Executive Council of the League of Nations and finally by three-fourths of the states whose representatives compose the Body of Delegates of the League. The plan as a whole undoubtedly will appeal to a large number of people. It will have the endorsement of organized labor in the United States, and cannot fail to exercise a great influence upon the ratification of the peace covenant itself.

HIGH LIGHTS IN CRUISE OF THE BIG DIRIGIBLE

Exciting Moments and Weird Experiences of the Officers and Crew of the R-34.

Here are the high lights of the cruise of the R-34:

In mid-ocean, a tall iceberg suddenly appeared in the R-34's path. Fearing the effect of its chilliness on the sun-heated gas bag, the R-34 tilted her nose upward and hurdled the ice mountain like a jumper leaping a fence. In the same manner she hurdled fog banks.

At one period in her flight, the R-34 sped through clear atmosphere with a cloud layer above her and another below.

In Saturday night's battle with the storm over the Bay of Fundy, the airship was suddenly tossed aloft 500 feet by an unexpected windblow. Her skeleton framework creaked and it was feared she might break in two.

On one occasion rainbows completely circled the airship. White fogs cast strange reflections. Lieutenant Shotter looked from his cabin and thought he saw another man staring at him. It was his own reflection on the fog.

Excepting W. W. Ballantyne, the first aeronautical stowaway, who hid himself aboard the R-34 before she started, all of the members of her crew slept in hammocks, working four hour shifts. Cold meats, an occasional steak pudding cooked on the engine exhaust, cold boiled eggs, beef tea and coffee comprised the menu. The R-34's officers denied they had taken precautions against war-time prohibition in America, declaring they brought only one bottle of brandy for medicinal use and that it was not opened.

A phonograph entertained the crew with wild jazz music amid the clouds. Feminine selections, "to make us feel that a woman was around," were the favorites, the crew said.

Every man aboard had plenty of exercise, walking up and down the 685 foot shell. One man complained that he had walked his legs off. The greatest hardship was the fact that they could not smoke, because of the danger of exploding the hydrogen gas.

A tortoise-shell cat, the only live mascot aboard, enjoyed the trip immensely.

The greatest altitude reached by the R-34 was 4,000 feet. When she reached Mineola, after battling with the storm she had left less than half an hour's supply of gasoline.

Major Pritchard declared that England is now building dirigibles twice the size of the R-34 and that the R-34 may now be considered "obsolete."

ATHLETICS TAKE FALL OUT OF IVORYTON NINE

Win Over Comstock-Cheney Players by 7-3 Score—Easy Victory for Manchester Team.

Yesterday afternoon the baseball fans of Manchester witnessed a spectacular but loosely played baseball game at Mt. Nebo in which the Athletic baseball team of Manchester defeated the Comstock-Cheney baseball team of Ivoryton. The hitting of Shields and Massey for Manchester was the feature of the game. Shields made a home run and two singles in five trips to the plate while Massey the fast second baseman of the Athletics made four singles in five trips to the plate.

In only one inning were the Ivoryton nine able to hit the crafty pitching of "Freddie" Warnock the local moundsman. That was in the third when they registered their only runs of the game.

The first man up for Ivoryton walked and the second lined the ball into short right field but Dickey the Manchester right fielder made a running stab at the ball and caught it, threw it to first base completing a fast double play. The next man up hit a weak grounder to third and was out on the throw to first base.

The Athletics were out to win and they wanted to show the Ivoryton team that they could. Shields, the first Manchester man up, knocked a home run over the right fielder's head. Massey the next man up knocked a Texas leaguer over second and advanced to second base on a wild throw. O'Connell then struck out. Wilson hit over shortstop and Massey was cut off at the plate. Sipples finished the inning by flying out to the right fielder.

The Comstock-Cheney team was held scoreless in their half of the second inning but the Athletics came back for more in their half. Fay started off by hitting an easy grounder to third baseman who threw wild over first. Fay then went to second on the bad throw. Dickey then hit to the pitcher who threw to third and Fay was caught going back to second. Lamprecht grounded to the pitcher who threw him out at first and Dickey advanced to second. Warnock then singled over short and Dickey scored from second. Shields hit a weak grounder to the second baseman and was thrown out at first.

The first man up for Ivoryton struck out. The next hit to short right field and made second on a misplay. The next man was thrown out at first base and the man on second advanced to third. Warnock hit the next man and walked the man following. This made it two outs with three on bases. The Ivoryton team needed a hit so the next batter hit to right field scoring two men. The following man grounded to Wilson who fumbled the ball allowing the man on third to score. The next batter flied out. This finished Ivoryton's scoring for the rest of the game.

The Athletics came to bat with the score 3-2 and they were holding the small end. Massey started with a hit then O'Connell bunted and both men were safe. Wilson walked. About this time it was evident that the Ivoryton pitcher was in distress and another pitcher was warmed up. Sipples flied out to the catcher, and Fay hit to left field scoring two men. Dickey was out on a fly to shortstop. Then Lamprecht hit to left field scoring two more men. Shields then struck out ending the inning. In the fourth the Manchester team faced Peterson a new pitcher for Ivoryton and secured another run from his delivery. Massey hit to third and beat the throw to first. Then the Ivoryton shortstop fumbled O'Connell's grounder. Wilson then hit into a double play that advanced Massey to third base. Sipples then hit to short who threw the ball to first base but the first baseman, in his attempt to show Manchester how they make grand stand plays down in Ivoryton, dropped the ball and Sipples was safe and Massey scored. Fay walked but Dickey ended the inning by flying out to right field. From that time on the game was very close and neither team scored any more runs.

ATLAS A. C. TROUNCES TIGERS.

The Atlas A. C. baseball nine journeyed to Middletown Fourth of July and handed the Tigers of that place a 11-6 trimming. The Atlas willow leavers fell on King, the Tiger moundsman, for fourteen hits, six going for extra sacks. Cervini, Barrett and Robb led the onslaught for the Atlas. The Atlas A. C. has a fine record so far this season. They have won 15 out of their 16 games played. Also they have won eleven in a row. The Crescents of this town, who were the only team to defeat the Atlas nine was sent down to defeat by the Atlas 3-2 in eleven innings one week ago Saturday. Next Saturday the Atlas plays the Invincibles of Hartford and Sunday the Stags. The latter team has an equal record of 15 victories out of 16 games and a great game should result. Both games will be played at home.

YANKS READY TO WED; WEDDING BELLS TUNED UP.

Springfield, Ill., July 7.—"Get the trousseau ready and tell the sexton to tune up the wedding bells. We've been gone a long time, so be ready when we get back." This cryptic message was received by relatives of three soldier boys, members of the One Hundred and Twenty-third Field Artillery, who had just landed in America from France. No explanation was given. Recipients were mystified. But they took it for granted the boys are contemplating a matrimonial venture when they return to Springfield.

ORANGEMEN AT SPECIAL SERVICES IN ST. MARY'S

Rev. J. S. Neill Preaches Special Sermon to Lodge Members—Graves Are Decorated With Flowers.

Representatives of the four Manchester Orange organizations, Washington and Manchester lodges, the Royal Black Preceptory and the Daughters of Liberty, about 150 in all, attended a special service in St. Mary's Episcopal church at two o'clock yesterday afternoon as part of the observance of their annual memorial day.

The lodge members assembled at Orange Hall at 1:30 o'clock. Dressed in their regalia and carrying bouquets of flowers they marched in a body to the church and listened to an appropriate address by Rev. J. S. Neill. Special music was provided by the church choir and the altar was beautifully decorated with flowers. These flowers were afterward given to the members to take with them to the East cemetery where memorial exercises were held and the graves of 38 deceased members were decorated.

At the entrance to the church an arch had been erected in honor of the invited guests. On one side of the arch was the United States flag and on the other side, the Union Jack. In the middle, hung a large wreath of ox-eye daisies, roses and orange lilies and beneath the wreath was a banner bearing the words, "Derry Augh Boyne."

In connection with the decorating of the graves at the East cemetery, a memorial service was held at the Orangemen's lot. This lot is kept for burying Orangemen who have no relatives to care for them. Secretary James Cole of Washington lodge made a few remarks at the beginning of the exercises and then called on William Rogers, who gave a talk on flowers, comparing the usefulness of the flower to usefulness of a good life. The secretary then read the names of the deceased members and the services closed with prayer by the chaplain of Washington lodge, Archie Haugh.

DIED IN FLANDERS.

Among the names of deceased members was that of William H. Preston, who was killed in battle in Flanders. Besides the members of the four local Orange lodges, there were visitors present from Hartford, Glastonbury and Enfield, Mass.

Following the exercises at the cemetery, the lodge members returned to Orange Hall, where refreshments were served. No collection was taken at the church, but the Orangemen in appreciation of the way they had been welcomed at St. Mary's, passed around the hat after returning to the hall and $10.55 was raised. This money will be sent as a gift to St. Mary's choir.

TAGGING THE BASES

Mike Menoskey's homer with Rice on the bags ahead of him put the Senators on easy street in their Sunday game with the Yanks. Sallee and Reuther pitched invincible ball for the Reds, the latter winning his eighth straight game. May's wildness gave the Cubs a victory at Chicago. The Card pitcher forced in the tying run and wild pitched the winning run home for Mitchell's men. Burleigh Grimes of the Dodgers, thought he was a Blimp in the first inning against Boston. The Beantown aggregation got six runs before he settled down to earth long enough to be jerked off the mound. The White Sox are crowding the Yanks today as a result of William's airtight pitching in the pinches against Detroit.

METHOD IN HIS MADNESS.

Butler, Mo., July 7.—Frank Vance of this city; is the town's "Tom Sawyer." The other evening Frank had two lawn mowers out doing some repair work when along came Boone Brandon. The two got to discussing the merits of the respective machines, and to settle the argument, demonstrated the two machines. Boone cut more than half of Frank's lawn to demonstrate the machine he had was the best. Frank, it is said, will try the same stunt again to get the other half cut.

VISIT'S HOME IN PLANE.

Stonington, Ill., July 7.—Lieutenant Robert Midkiff, son of a minister here, surprised his parents by visiting them in an aeroplane from Decatur. He landed in a field nearby. With other aviators Lieutenant Midkiff was engaged in a cross-country air flight via Decatur. A brief stop at Decatur permitted the trip here.

The Ship Came In

By VICTOR ARNOLD

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

At a point on the river shore where a great bluff projected bright, careless youth splashed and laughed and shouted with joy. Alma Dunn had brought the four little children of a neighbor to play in the sand and, their shoes and stockings high and dry on the seat of an old rotting scow, they ventured ankle deep into the sparkling water.

At that same moment on the other side of the bluff, pensive, disheartened, young manhood in sombre mood, sat Marvin Rose, staring listlessly at the water. He had left the city that had held nothing for him of encouragement or hope, with high ambitions dashed and only husks for his portion.

He was so absorbed that the echo of a scream followed by the uproarious chatter of excited juvenile voices failed to arouse him. He was thinking sorrowfully of the ships of fame and fortune that had never come in. In a cynical way he laughed bitterly as there floated around the base of the bluff a battered old scow.

"About the only kind of a craft that will ever bring weal or woe to me!" soliloquized Marvin Rose. Then he observed on the gunwale of the scow five pairs of shoes and stockings. Four of them were of diminutive size. The other, dainty, graceful, told of girlish ownership. He went quite to his ankles in the water and rescued this queer flotam.

The episode rather interested him. Judging from the voices he had heard, Rose reasoned out that some party had lost their footwear through the treachery of the shifting scow. The bluff came sheer down to the water's edge with no path beyond it. He made an armful of the articles and proceeded inland. He crossed the bluff and came upon a wagon road, and a little farther on a man bearing a scythe. The latter looked curious as he made out the burden Rose carried.

"Where did you find them?" he inquired at once. "Alma Dunn and the little ones will be glad to get them back, for none of them probably have more than one pair," and as Rose explained he continued: "I met them going dolefully homeward barefooted. You'll get a welcome, mister."

"Where does Miss Dunn and the little ones live?" inquired Rose, and the man indicated a little group of houses about half a mile distant and Rose trudged on.

The first house painted slate color was his guide, and as he knocked at its door the unshod damsel of the brookside approached. She flushed and shrank aside to hide her feet. "They floated past me down the river," said Marvin.

"I am so glad! My little friends were quite forlorn over their loss. Father, a strange gentleman has brought home the lost shoes. Won't you thank him and entertain him while I restore them to the little ones?"

An old man supporting himself with a cane came hobbling to the door. When Alma returned she found her father and the stranger seated at a table discussing the meal she had prepared, familiar as two old friends.

"I reckon, just as the children declared, the fairies had something to do with your mishap, for it has drifted Mr. Rose right up against what both he and I have been looking for," said Mr. Dunn. "He wants work, and I've got it to give him. We have pretty near arranged that he is to take charge of my three teams and superintend the town work until I get on my feet again."

Mr. Dunn was the owner of the teams in question; in fact, outside of his humble little home they were about all he had of value—except Alma. Before Rose closed his eyes that night he decided that his ship had come in, for the homely old float had brought him into the company of the most winsome lass he had ever met. Before the week was out he was content to pass his life in the secluded little hamlet. The charge of the teams opened honorable employment and the evenings spent with Alma and her father were occasions of rare comfort and contentment.

Once he referred in mock dolefulness to the ship that had never come to him, but likewise to the river craft that had brought him peace and happiness. He touched a vital chord in the experience of the old man when he did so. Mr. Dunn had invested in behalf of an old sailor friend "who had never come back," he told Rose mournfully.

But Marvin forgot his past disappointments and Silas Dunn his investment loss when the former and shy, blushing Alma told the old man of their mutual love.

"You've got more than my blessing," he said. "You've got my confidence, and you'll be true as steel to Alma, I know, and what more do I wish in life?"

Just one day before the wedding there came wonderful news to the humble woodland home. It was to the effect that the Evening Star had arrived in port after strenuous wanderings in southern seas, with her rich cargo piloted safely to port.

"Which means luxury and prosperity for the three of us," proclaimed generous-hearted Silas Dunn. "That's all the Evening Star does bring, though, while that wreck of a scow brought me a loving son and a happy daughter in my declining years."

HIGH COST OF LIVING RAISES PRICE OF DEATH

Executioner at Sing Sing Now Gets $100 for Each Person He Puts to Death.

The price paid by the State for executing murderers in Sing Sing, attendants there disclosed yesterday, has gone up. State Executioner Hulbert's fee, it develops, has been made $100 per person electrocuted instead of $50, the price he heretofore was paid.

When Executioner Davis resigned four years ago, the State cut down the execution fee. He had been paid $250 per person electrocuted. For one morning's work he received $1,500 when he put to death six robbers who murdered Mrs. Mary Hall at Croton Lake, Westchester County.

When Hulbert was appointed the fee was reduced to $50, but recently he complained that as wages were going up generally the State should allow him more for his services, so the fee was increased.

SINN FEINERS TO OPEN A VICTORY DRIVE SOON

Finance Minister So Busy Avoiding Police His Work is Hampered.

Dublin, July 7.—The Sinn Feiners will open their "victory loan" drive within ten days, it was announced today. The leaders anticipate success and plans are being made for meetings and parades with plenty of brass band music. Some believe it will be over subscribed. The allotment of subscriptions are being made in proportion to the size of the Sinn Fein vote in the last Parliamentary election.

The bonds would have been issued sooner, it was explained, but Finance Minister Collins, of the Sinn Fein cabinet, has been too busy avoiding the police.

It is understood that the Sinn Feiners will issue a statement simultaneously with the issuance of the loan similar to the report of the Irish-American committee on conditions in Ireland.

Sinn Fein chieftains believe the only danger to the success of the loan is the introduction of a new home rule measure in the House of Commons in the meantime.

TOO MANY BATHS CAUSED BOY TO BE RUNAWAY.

Wichita, Kan., July 7.—Too many baths drove Richard Davis, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Davis from home. He went to the union station here, and slipping past the gateman, boarded a Santa Fe train for Oklahoma City. At Ponca City, Okla., the boy was found by the conductor to be alone. He could not tell who his parents were, or give their address. He was taken to Oklahoma City and later to his parents. "I dess slipped away 'cause I didn't want no bawth," lisped the little tot.

FARMER "NEEDED" LIQUOR BUT RAN INTO HOLDUP.

Atlanta, Ga., July 7.—R. C. Morris, a farmer living near Macon, dropped off in Atlanta on his way home from Chattanooga with a real thirst for corn liquor. He inquired of a bright-looking negro where the exuberant liquid could be procured, and the negro was most obliging. With two negroes, Morris went to a vacant house in Elliott street, where the dusky pilots, with a razor and a stick of wood, induced Morris to reluctantly part with a diamond ring and a watch he wore, together with $270 in cash.

THREE ROUND K. O.

Toledo, Ohio, July 7.—Ollie Pecord has come forward with a belated decision on the Willard-Dempsey fight. It was a three round knockout. At the request of Tex Rickard, who was deluged with telegrams from bettors all over the country, Pecord ruled that the fight ended at the close of the third round and that Dempsey be officially credited with a knockout in that round.

OUTWITS HUN CAPTORS AND SAVES HIS DIAMOND.

Braddock, Pa., July 7.—How he outwitted his German captors after being taken a prisoner and saved a diamond ring valued at $200 was told here by Sergeant Ray I. Limbacher. The sergeant was wearing the ring when captured but slipped it into a pocket. Later he tied a string taut across the neck of his undershirt and to this string he looped another piece, to the end of which the ring was attached. Limbacher was searched by two Boches and while they searched one side of his body he managed to shove the ring to the other and vice versa.

Percy Symonds of Ridgewood street and Raymond Hunniford of Center street are enjoying a two weeks' vacation with relatives in New York and New Jersey.

Captain Walter B. Spencer of West Hartford, a former Manchester man, arrived from overseas service Wednesday and is now at Camp Upton, awaiting his discharge.

The meeting of the Manchester Poultry club, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed and there will be no more meetings of the club until the first Monday evening in September.

The Manchester public library will be closed Tuesday and Thursday afternoons during July and August but will be open on Saturday afternoon. This is the usual summer schedule.

Walter R. Hobby and family of Henry street returned this morning from the shore where they spent the Fourth.

Francis Murray, who has been working in New York since last January, is visiting his grandfather, Michael Murray of Park street.

Gordon Thornton of Spring street is a substitute letter carrier at the South Manchester post office. He will resume his studies at the Pratt Institute in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Strickland returned to their home in Brooklyn, N. Y., this morning after spending the Fourth with Mr. Strickland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Strickland of Main street. The trip was made by automobile.

The seats and the tent for the Chautauqua arrived Saturday. A small work tent was first put up and the large tent was raised this morning. In previous years record breaking crowds have attended these entertainments and this year promises to be no exception.

Miss Annie Vennard, who is training as a nurse at New Haven, was at her home on Lilac street yesterday. She was graduated from a three years' course last month, but will not complete her final training until October.

The special meeting of the voters of the Eighth School and Utilities district will be held this evening in the new school building. It is called for eight o'clock. The voters will be asked to make an appropriation for the playground for the months of July and August.

The sale of season tickets for Chautauqua has been extended to the opening of this evening's performance. This concession was made by the management to make up for the holidays last week during which the ticket sale was practically suspended. Season tickets may be obtained at the door prior to this evening's entertainment.

HARD WORK AND NO BAD HABITS HIS SECRET—102.

Jeannette, Pa., July 7.—Rev. Albert Vogel, 102, has never smoked or chewed tobacco or drank intoxicating liquor. Hard work, lots of walking with an occasional fishing trip, is the formula he gave on his birthday recently for a long life. Rev. Vogel is the oldest active minister of the gospel in the United States, it is believed. He still preaches occasionally.

MEN'S FRIENDSHIP CLUB AT SAVIN ROCK OUTING

Go in Auto Truck—Enjoy Sport and Shore Dinner—Voted Best Outing Ever.

Thirty members of the Men's Friendship club attended the club's annual outing at Savin Rock Saturday. They left the Center about 7 o'clock in an auto truck and arrived at the Rock before eleven. Upon their arrival, sides were chosen for a ball game and six innings of this sport were enjoyed. Then came the feature of the day's outing, a shore dinner at Wilcox's pavilion out over the water. Special tables were reserved for the Manchester party and a fine dinner was served.

After dinner, the club members betook themselves to the bowling alleys and knocked down the pins at a lively clip. W. L. Rogers made high score of 132, while Clarence Taylor was second, with 122. From the bowling alleys, the party took the boat to Lighthouse Point and many enjoyed a swim. Then they returned to the Rock and after taking in some of the amusements there and having supper started for home about 8.30. They saw two auto accidents on the way back. A Ford had turned turtle near New Haven and a big touring car lost a wheel just before reaching Hartford. They stopped to investigate and as a result did not get home until about one o'clock in the morning. All voted the outing the best the club has ever held.

S. P. D. CLUB RETURNS FROM CRYSTAL LAKE

Had Pleasant Outing of Three Days—Big Time Saturday Night.

Twenty-four members of the S. P. D. club returned last evening from a three days' outing at Crystal Lake. All report they had one of the best times of their lives. It was so hot Friday and Saturday that the club members spent practically the whole day in the water. Both evenings, however, they went to a dance. After the dance, Saturday evening, they had a "dog", potato and marshmallow roast on the shore of the lake. The girls also made punch and a big "feed" was served about midnight. Sunday, trips around the lake in the motor boat were enjoyed. The party left their camp about four o'clock yesterday afternoon, rowed across the lake and came home in Fitzgerald Brothers' big auto truck.

HEAT DRIVES HUNDREDS INTO SWIMMING POOLS

Only Signs of Activity Are in Water and On Children's Playgrounds.

The intense heat of the past few days drove the people of Manchester to cover. The Globe Hollow swimming pool at the Recreation Building, is the choice of the older people. The drug stores report a record breaking sale of ice cream and soda yesterday. The majority of the people stayed at home under the trees away from the hot streets and high ways were practically deserted during the afternoon. Many of the smaller children flocked to the playgrounds where they enjoyed themselves and still were away from the blistering rays of the hot sun.

MAN AND WIFE HURT AS AUTO TURNS OVER

Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCaughey Injured While Returning From Savin Rock Outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCaughey of Laurel place were injured Saturday night when a jitney in which they were returning from Savin Rock turned turtle as one of the wheels caught in a rut in the West Hartford road. Mr. McCaughey was pinned under the car while Mrs. McCaughey was thrown in the opposite direction and badly bruised. Both were taken to the New Haven Hospital where it was found that Mr. McCaughey was the more seriously injured of the two. It is thought that Mr. McCaughey is suffering from a fractured skull. An X-ray was taken today to determine the extent of his injuries. Mrs. McCaughey was found to be suffering from minor injuries and it was possible for her to leave the hospital but she chose to remain at her husband's bedside until all danger is passed.

$3,500 NOW CONTRIBUTED FOR PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

Father McGurk Announces Success Which is Attending Work—Harry Burke Gives $1,000.

The Rev. Father McGurk, at St. James' church, announced at the masses yesterday that practically $3,500 was collected during the week for the parochial school building that is being erected on Park street. He announced that the annual collection netted $2,100 and a gift of $1,000 from Harry Burke with other various gifts brought the total up to this amount.

The men of the parish continued on the cellar Saturday and considerable work has been accomplished. Father McGurk asked that all men who have been working on the cellar, and some who have not been working, to report this evening at 6 o'clock. There are a number of dump carts taking away the dirt as fast as the men are able to dig it out.

The summer schedule was started yesterday at St. James' church. There will be no Sunday school or Saturday class for the rest of the summer. The masses on Sunday will be at 7 o'clock instead of 7.30 as has been the case. The second mass will be at 8.30, as usual, and there will be a low mass at 10.30, instead of a high mass. There will be no vesper services during the summer.

The $1,000 gift of Harry Burke was made in memory of his mother and it is probable that one of the windows in the new school will be dedicated to her in appreciation of the generosity of her son.

LARGE FAMILY PARTY.

Sixty-five Gather at Home of Marathon Keeney to Celebrate the Fourth.

Sixty-five relatives and friends gathered at the home of Marathon Keeney on Keeney street on the Fourth to celebrate the holiday. A large table was set under an elm tree in front of the house and a clam chowder dinner with all the fixings was enjoyed. The day was spent in games and other pastimes. Mr. Keeney is a Civil War veteran, being one of three brothers to serve in that war. One of the brothers was killed. Mr. Keeney's two sons, Jesse and Warren, veterans of the World War, were among the guests present. Guests were present from Brookfield, Mass., Hartford, Berlin and Hebron.

SEVEN COME ELEVEN.

A good ball game had been scheduled between the Athletics and Colored Giants of New Haven, to take place at Mt. Nebo at ten o'clock Fourth of July morning, but, according to a report, the Giants got interested in another kind of game and were delayed in starting. As a result, they did not reach Manchester until 12 o'clock and no game was played.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

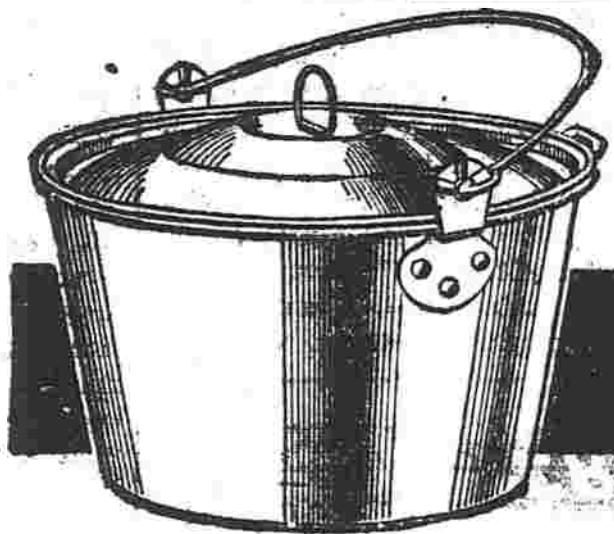

The religious organization, which conducts meetings in Gospel Hall on Spruce street, has pitched a tent on Summer street, where evangelistic services will be held until further notice. These services will be conducted by J. T. Dickson, late of Belfast, every night in the week, except Saturday night, and also on Sunday evening. The week night meetings will begin at eight o'clock and the Sunday night meetings at seven. The public is invited to all the meetings.
