BRITISH DIRIGIBLE 700 MILES FROM LONDON AT NOON TODAY

R-34 Will Land at Paulham, Norfolk, Instead of Going to Scotland—One of Her Motors Disabled—Big Air- ship Has Been in the Air 50 Hours.

London, July 12.—A wireless message from the R-34 received by the Air Ministry shortly after noon today stated the big dirigible will land at Paulham, Norfolk, not far from London, instead of going to East Fortune, Scotland, as intended.

Changes in Plans.

The change in Major Scott's plans was evidently made suddenly as at 6.30 o'clock this morning he had wirelessed that he was heading north for East Fortune, from whence he had made the start to America.

700 Miles From London.

The R-34 at noon was approximately 700 miles from London, and unless some mishap occurs it is believed that she will land tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Air ministry officials advised Major Scott early this morning that weather conditions in Scotland were bad. A southwest gale is sweeping the coast, making landing conditions difficult and dangerous.

Difficult to Land.

Landing conditions in Scotland will be difficult unless the weather moderates considerably, according to the air ministry's reports. A southwest gale is sweeping over the Scottish coast. Moderate winds prevail over England today.

The air ministry's last direct word from Major Scott, the dirigible commander, was at 6.30 o'clock this morning, (Greenwich Mean Time). At that hour Major Scott wirelessed that his position was 52.15 north, 23.00 west and that his course was north 70, east 2. A speed of 35 knots an hour was being made at that time.

1,000 Miles to Go.

The dirigible's position shows she has completed over 2,300 miles of her homeward journey, leaving approximately one thousand miles yet to go.

When she last wirelessed she was some 600 miles west of the Irish coast, but Major Scott's course indicated he was heading steadily northward for East Fortune, from whence the R-34 started her memorable journey. It is doubtful, if the present course is maintained, whether Ireland will more than glimpse the ship.

The R-34, at 6.30 a. m., (G. M. T.) had been in the air fifty and one half hours.

MAKING GOOD TIME.

London, July 12.—Making good time despite the complete disabling of one of her motors the R-34 is several hundred miles off the Irish coast and heading northward for East Fortune, Scotland. Unless further mishaps occur it is expected the big dirigible will land at East Fortune late tonight or early tomorrow morning.

To Arrive at 9 P. M.

Officials of the Air Ministry figured today that the R-34 probably will land about 9 o'clock tonight. Several officials had started for East Fortune before Major Scott wirelessed his change of plans which will bring him to Paulham.

Bad weather threatens to mar the spectacle of the R-34's arrival. Low clouds hung over London today and rain descended in torrents.

RED PLOT FRUSTRATED.

Helsinki, July 11.—(Via London, July 12).—A plot to assassinate General Mannerheim, commander of the White Guard army, and known as the "strong man of Finland," has been frustrated by the arrest of the Bolshevik conspirators today. The Reds were planning a coup d'etat to blow up the ammunition depots of the White Guard forces.

A company has recently been organized in Kaiuan, Manchuria, with a capital of $50,000 for the manufacture of bricks.

COUNTRY WIDE STRIKE OF STEELWORKERS NEAR

Union Wants Industry to Rec- ognize the "Closed Shop."

"COLLECTIVE BARGAINING"

Steel Corporations Will Not Confer With Men Concerning Improve- ment of Working Conditions.

Washington, July 12.—A nation wide strike of steel workers loomed nearer today.

Labor leaders here predicted that the recommendation that a strike vote be taken, made at a meeting of representatives of 24 affiliated international unions here yesterday, would be formally adopted on July 20, when a conference of the Union President's will be held in Pittsburgh for the purpose of taking final action.

Representatives of the Union's said the object of the strike, if voted, would be to enforce recognition of the Union's by the steel industry, which always has operated on an "open shop" basis.

The resolution recommending the strike vote stated that:
"Working conditions in the steel industry are so intolerable and the unrest arising therefrom so intense that they can be remedied only by the application of the principles of collective bargaining," and that "all efforts have failed to bring about a conference between the heads of the great steel corporations and the trade unions representing many thousands of organized steel workers for the purpose of establishing trade union conditions in the steel industry."

TWO HUNDRED VESSELS TIED UP BY THE STRIKE

Sailors Want Closed Shop, Higher Wages and Shorter Hours—Con- ferences Being Held.

New York, July 12.—With approximately 200 ships already tied up in New York, Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other Atlantic ports, representatives of sailors' unions and United States shipping board officials were endeavoring to reach an agreement here today which will avert the complete paralysis of the coastwise and trans-Atlantic shipping.

The sailors are standing firm on their demands for a closed shop, higher wages and shorter hours. Practically all privately owned ships are idle today, although the majority of the shipping board's vessels are allowed to operate. The government already has agreed to a closed shop. No conferences have been arranged with private owners.

TO CURB REDS.

Council of Five to Adopt Measures at Session Today.

Paris, July 12.—Measures that may be adopted against the Hungarian Reds are before the council of five today following a meeting at which the allied peace delegates heard testimony from Serbian, Roumanian and Czech experts.

The new German delegation at Versailles is discussing the Rhineland convention with the allies.

Secretary of State Lansing is scheduled to leave for home this evening.

EDUARD DE BILLY DEAD.

Washington, July 12.—Eduard De Billy, formerly head of the French high commission to this country, died in Paris as the result of injuries received in a fall from his horse, the French embassy was advised this afternoon. No further details were given.

ARMY AND NAVY HEADS AGREE TO STAND TRIAL

Von Tirpitz and Ludendorff to Give Themselves Up to Allies.

U-BOAT COMMANDERS FLEE

Taking Refuge in Russia—Brisk Business in Germany in Fake Passports.

Berlin, July 11.—(Via London, July 12).—There is a report in circulation here that Admiral von Tirpitz, originator of Germany's submarine frightfulness, and General Ludendorff, formerly known as the "brains of the German army," may soon come forward and voluntarily offer to give themselves up to the allies to stand trial on charge of war crimes.

Many former submarine commanders are said to be fleeing the country, taking refuge in Russia or neutral nations.

Fraudulent Passports.

A brisk business is being carried on in fraudulent passports and identification papers in Weimerstrasse. The papers sell all the way from 100 to 500 marks. Occasionally a customer wears a monocle and attaches a "von" to his name but all of the names that are given are false.

When the allies make formal demand the German government probably will issue a summons, but it is doing nothing now to find the former U-boat commanders because it does not know the names on the Entente's list.

STEAMER BRINGS YANKS WHO FOUGHT IN RUSSIA

214 Officers, 5,200 Enlisted Men and 54 Civilians On Board the Presi- dent Grant.

Boston, July 12.—Bringing 214 officers, 5,299 enlisted men and 54 civilians, including the first complete unit of soldiers who fought on the frozen soil of Russia to arrive here, the transport President Grant docked today amid a noisy welcome.

At the dock was Ross Schram, secretary to the mayor of Detroit, and a delegation of over twenty-five friends and relatives of the Michigan unit aboard. The unit has seen hard fighting in the Archangel area.

Among the distinguished passengers were Brigadier General William P. Jackson and Major John C. Phillips, brother in law of Mayor Peters of Boston and brother of assistant secretary of state William Phillips.

Among the units aboard were the 339th infantry Field and Staff, 1st and second battalion, headquarters and supply companies, medical and casualty companies B, C, D, F, G, and K companies.

There were 2,500 wounded soldiers from New England who were sent to Camp Devens.

DEVENS CAPTAIN STOLE COAL FOR HIS OWN USE

Had Army Trucks Carry Twenty Tons to His Residence in Brook- line.

Camp Devens, July 12.—Captain Harry J. Harris, quartermaster's corps, charged with having had army motor trucks carry 20 tons of stolen government coal to his residence in Brookline and with causing enlisted men to perform labor for his own personal benefit at his home was publicly reprimanded today.

The sentence of dismissal from the service imposed by a general court martial was approved by President Wilson in a telegram to Major General McCain, commander here. But the President commuted part of the sentence directing that Captain Harris be confined to the limits of this camp for six months and forfeiture of $50 of his pay per month unless he shall be discharged prior to the expiration of that period in which case so much of the sentence as provides for such restriction and forfeiture as remains unexecuted shall stand unremitted.

EVACUATING SCHLESWIG.

London, July 12.—Germany is preparing to evacuate Schleswig-Holstein, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today. Spartacists' activity there is said to be the reason for the exodus.

PLATINUM WORTH $1000 STOLEN FROM A DRAWER IN CHENEY LABORATORY

Valuable Metal Was Used in Making Chemical Tests.

TAKEN WHEN MILLS WERE SHUT DOWN FOR FOURTH

Indications Are That Theft Was Made by Someone Familiar With Laboratory—State Police Hunt- ing Clue.

State policemen are working in conjunction with the local police force on a theft which occurred in the Cheney Mills during the Fourth of July vacation. Sometime after Thursday night, the 3rd of July, the laboratory of the Cheney Mills, located in the Old Mill above the dye-house, was entered. About a dozen pieces of platinum, consisting of crucibles, dishes and covers were removed. The estimated value of this platinum is between $800 and $1,000.

Platinum brings about $3.75 a gram. A small dish made of platinum which could easily be placed in a pocket is worth about $300. The largest dishes stolen from the laboratory weighed 63 grams. The other articles varied in weight down to 25 grams. The theft was not discovered until Monday morning after the Fourth when the chemist opened the drawer in which the platinum was stored. This made access easy for those intending to steal the metal.

Workers were in the plant Saturday doing overtime work. The theft seems to have been made by one familiar with the laboratory for none of the other drawers or valuable articles were molested in any way.

The laboratory is located on the second floor of the Old Mill and in order to gain entrance to it one must walk through a large part of the mill. None of the watchmen knew anything about the theft nor had seen strangers in the mill. The news has been widely spread to those places where one is likely to dispose of the platinum and state authorities are on their guard.

SEVEN KILLED, 11 HURT WHEN TRUCK OVERTURNS

Two Captains in Crowd of Soldiers —Officials Refuse to Give Out De- tails of Accident.

Washington, July 12.—Seven soldiers, two of them reported to be captains, were killed and injured when the army truck in which they were riding plunged over an embankment near Alexandria early today. The truck, on its way to Camp Humphreys and carrying 18 men, had turned out for a military police patrol wagon when it swerved off the caseway, falling some fifteen feet to the rocks of the bed of the great hunting creek. The injured men were taken by the military police to Camp Humphreys and the bodies of the dead were removed temporarily to Alexandria Hospital.

The military police refused to make public the names of the dead or injured until authorized by the camp authorities.

The dead are:
Captain Charles C. Jadureck, U. S. Infantry.
Captain C. H. Heltman, engineer corps.

Corporal Albert P. Eby, engineer corps.

Private Voorhees Batiste, colored, engineer corps.

One unidentified musician and one unidentified field clerk.

The unidentified field clerk is thought to be either Charles Movoney or I. S. Supple. A visiting card bearing the former name was found in his pocket.

WILSON VETOES BILL.

Washington, July 12.—Because of the rider repealing the daylight saving law, President Wilson today vetoed the agriculture appropriation bill. At the same time it was announced that he also had vetoed the sundry civil appropriation bill.

No Need to Consult Wilson In Respect to Peace Treaty, Assert Opposition Senators

Tittoni Tells Italy's Deputies Fiume Problem Will Be Solved

London, July 12.—Tomasso Tittoni, Italian foreign minister addressing the Chamber of Deputies, told the members that "the peace delegates in Paris are talking loudly and are clearly upholding Italy's rights," according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome today. Signor Tittoni expressed the belief, however, that the road to a solution will be found next week.

He urged calmness by all. The Asia Minor question is awaiting a decision by President Wilson, Signor Tittoni believes.

The Asia Minor question arose from the concentration of Italian troops in Western Turkey without a mandate from the peace conference. The Italians were alleged to be siding with the Turks against the Greeks in the Vilayet of Smyrna.

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF PROHIBITION IS ON TRIAL TODAY IN WASHINGTON

DECISION IN "DRY" TEST IS NOT GIVEN BY COURT

Ruling Will Not Be Made Public Until the Fourth Thursday in September.

New Haven, July 12.—After hearing arguments on a demurrer as to the merits of the government's prosecution of a local bartender for the sale of beer, Judge T. L. Chatfield, of Brooklyn, in the United States District Court here today deferred decision on the question of the legality of the sale of beer, as raised in the demurrer, to the fourth Thursday in September in order to permit Attorney C. S. Hamilton, who appeared for the defendant, Martin Schmander, a bartender of this city to file additional papers in the case.

The Arguments.

The argument on the constitutionality question raised by Attorneys W. A. King, and A. A. Alling, in the case of Stephen A. Minery, a Meriden saloonkeeper, charged with violation of the war time prohibition act, by the sale of a quart of whiskey was then opened, after Mr. King had filed a lengthy brief in support of the contention of the liquor interests.

Court opened at 11 o'clock with the calling of Schmander, who was arraigned in place of Bruno Schuber, a saloon keeper of State St., this city, who was originally arrested for selling beer, but who proved that he was ill and not in his saloon when the sale was made by Schmander.

Filles Demurrer.

Attorney Hamilton filed a demurrer in which he contended that inasmuch as the government, represented by District Attorney John F. Crosby, had failed to set up in the complaint against Schmander, that the beer sold was intoxicating, that there was no ground for prosecution.

After an hour's argument by Mr. Hamilton and District Attorney Crosby, Mr. Hamilton expressed a desire to file additional objections to the government's complaint went over as stated.

Hamilton's Contentions.

Mr. Hamilton contended in chief that the words "and other intoxicating malt and vinous liquors" in the war time act made it appear that Congress intended to prohibit the sale only of intoxicating beer.

Mr. Crosby argued that if Congress had merely wished to prohibit intoxicating liquors, they would not have specifically defined the various kinds of liquor and their content which they wished to include within the act. The primary purpose of the act, he said was the conservation of food during war time and the prevention of the use of grains and cereals in the manufacture of beverage products.

WILSON VETOES BILL.

Washington, July 12.—Because of the rider repealing the daylight saving law, President Wilson today vetoed the agriculture appropriation bill. At the same time it was announced that he also had vetoed the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Some of the Best Lawyers in Country to Attack "Dry" Laws Before Senate Com- mittee.

Washington, July 12.—Constitu- tionality of prohibition was on trial today, with some of the most emi- nent lawyers of the country pre- pared to attack it.

Samuel Untermyer, attorney, was to appear before the prohibition subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee and argue against the constitutionality of prohibition enforcement laws now proposed in the Senate. It was probable that Elihu Root, former Senator from New York and William D. Guthrie also would appear, although Senator Overman, a member of the committee, stated that they had not yet given definite notice.

Further delay in action on prohibition enforcement measures in the Senate was anticipated as a result of the arguments which were to be made today. The committee has been in session almost continuously for several days and has made little progress. It was said that differences of opinion as to the constitutionality of the proposed law have prolonged the conferences. One of the stumbling blocks is whether Congress has the power to define a beverage, containing one half of one per cent. of alcohol, as intoxicating.

Among the members of the subcommittee are some of the Senate's best constitutional lawyers, including Senator Walsh, of Montana.

Foreigners Interested.

Pressure is being brought to bear upon members of the Senate by foreign interests with large investments in distilleries and breweries in this country, but it was stated that this pressure would not bear much weight at this late date.

While the House today continued debate on prohibition enforcement legislation, there was considerable conjecture as to the probable date when the bill will become law. Few were optimistic enough to hope for completion on the legislation before September 1, inasmuch as the League of Nations debate is likely to have precedence for the next few weeks in the Senate.

Fight Starts Monday.

The real fight in the House will open next Monday. Debate on prohibition as a general proposition was to close this afternoon, the bill going over until Monday to be taken up for consideration by sections and be thrown open to amendments.

Under rules of the House five minutes are allowed members in discussing amendments proposed, and as many proposed changes are expected, final action will be delayed for a number of days. Chairman Volstead, of the Judiciary Committee, who is in charge of the bill, hopes to bring it to a vote next Thursday or Friday. Opponents of the measure, however, believe its passage will be delayed until the following week.

Republicans in Minority.

As the seven Democratic members of the committee, all administration supporters, with Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, its one Republican proponent of the League of Nations were also in favor of the President being asked to appear before the committee, it was predicted that Senators Lodge and Knox would find themselves in a minority if they persisted in backing up Senator Lodge's declaration that the President "will not be invited."

It was pointed out that if Senators Lodge and Knox were outvoted, their position would be the reverse of what it was when they voted recently with the Democrats on the committee to defer action on the Fall resolution declaring the state of war between the United States and Germany at an end. On that occasion Senators Borah, Fall, Johnson of California, and Moses

"President Has Ceased to Function as Part of Treaty- Making Power of the U. S. Government," They De- clare—Other Senators Say Chief Executive Will be In- vited.

Washington, July 12.—It was regarded as highly probable by both Republican and Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that President Wilson would be invited to appear before the committee after it began consideration of the treaty of Versailles on Monday next.

Lodge's Opinion.

The opinion of Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee and of Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, that the President, having "ceased to function as part of the treaty-making power of the United States Government," there was no necessity for the committee consulting him with respect to the treaty, was not shared by Senators Borah, of Idaho; Moses of New Hampshire, and others of the Republicans on it.

To Invite President.

It was predicted that a motion inviting the President to attend some of the committee sessions, as he volunteered to do in opening his address to the Senate on Thursday last—a motion which Senator Moses stated he would probably offer at Monday's meeting of the committee—would be carried despite any opposition Senators Lodge and Knox might offer.

Senator Fall, of New Mexico, was among the Republicans on the committee who said today he would support such a motion.

Sen. Fall's Views.

"The appearance of the President before the committee would be most satisfactory to me," Fall said. "While a majority of the committee would more likely be swayed by its own views rather than by any suggestions or explanations the President might make, it would be interesting to hear what the President might have to say about the Shantung provision of the treaty, for instance, or as to how much foundation there was for the information that reached the Senate while he was still participating in the peace conference that, after Orlando and his associates quit over Fiume, the Japanese agreed to go along with the Big Three on condition that Shantung be handed over to them."

Senator Borah was equally insistent with Senator Moses that the committee avail itself of the President's offer to place at the disposal of the committee informally or otherwise his services as well as all the information he possessed regarding the treaty and events leading up to the making and signing of it.

As the seven Democratic members of the committee, all administration supporters, with Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, its one Republican proponent of the League of Nations were also in favor of the President being asked to appear before the committee, it was predicted that Senators Lodge and Knox would find themselves in a minority if they persisted in backing up Senator Lodge's declaration that the President "will not be invited."

It was pointed out that if Senators Lodge and Knox were outvoted, their position would be the reverse of what it was when they voted recently with the Democrats on the committee to defer action on the Fall resolution declaring the state of war between the United States and Germany at an end. On that occasion Senators Borah, Fall, Johnson of California, and Moses

Sunday Services AT THE CHURCHES

VESPERS AT CHAUTAUQUA.
A union vesper service will be held in the Chautauqua tent at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon at which Rev. Dr. George Lawrence Parker will give the address and the Berkeley Sextette will provide the music. Dr. Parker lectured this afternoon on "Russia's Death and Resurrection." He was formerly minister of the British-American Congregational church at Petrograd and was an eye-witness of the Russian revolution. He is an eloquent speaker. The Berkeley Sextette gave the concert yesterday afternoon and formed the orchestra for the Pinafore production last night. Local pastors will take part in the opening exercises. There will be no admission charge.

CENTER CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.
Rev. Dr. Charles E. Hesselgrave, Pastor.

Rev. Francis A. Fate of Glastonbury will preach the sermon at the Center church tomorrow.

The Wednesday evening services, during July and August, will be led by various members of the congregation who have volunteered for this duty. Mr. Benson of the prayer meeting committee will furnish anyone with the Congregational Handbook, in which will be found the topics for these meetings.

Samuel Stevenson will lead the meeting July 16. The services begin at 7.30 o'clock.

Miss Phyllis Newcomb will be the pianist for this meeting.

SALVATION ARMY.
Commandant Fred Bartlett.

Adjutant Starbard and son of Springfield, Mass., will have charge of the afternoon and evening services tomorrow. The afternoon meeting in the Center park will be held at 2.30 instead of three o'clock, as the band is to play at the Pentecostal church at 3.30. The evening service will be in the form of a welcome home to Lieutenant Charlie J. Hall and his bride, Lieutenant Hall having returned this week from overseas service. This service will be held at 7.30 and will be preceded by the usual open air meeting on Main street at seven o'clock.

The Sunday school will convene as usual at 9.30 and will be followed by the holiness meeting at eleven o'clock.

ST. MARY'S EPISCOPAL.
Rev. J. S. Neill, Rector.

Dr. Arthur Adams of Trinity College, Hartford, will have charge of the service at 10.45 tomorrow morning, as Rev. J. S. Neill is away on his vacation. This will be the only service tomorrow, as the Sunday school sessions and evening service have been discontinued for the months of July and August.

Organist John Cockerham has arranged the following musical program for tomorrow morning's service:

PENTECOSTAL.
Rev. A. C. Goldberg, Pastor.

Of chief interest in local church circles tomorrow will be the rededication and the burning of the mortgage of the Pentecostal church. Repairs to the amount of about $1,000 have been made on the church recently, but, by doing most of the work themselves, the church members cut the expenses practically in half. The mortgage, which is to be burned, amounts to $800.

The rededication service and the burning of the mortgage will take place at 3.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The meeting was announced previously for three o'clock, but it has been set for 3.30 in order to have special music by the Salvation Army band. The Salvation Army will hold its Center park meeting at 2.30 instead of 3.00, to permit the band to go to the Pentecostal church service.

Rev. A. K. Bryant of Everett, Mass., will be the chief speaker at the rededication service. He also will speak at special meetings to be held in the Pentecostal church at 7.30 this evening, at 10.30 tomorrow morning and at seven o'clock tomorrow evening.

SOUTH METHODIST.
Rev. G. G. Scrivener, Pastor.

"A Message for Today" will be the subject of Rev. G. G. Scrivener's sermon at eleven o'clock tomorrow morning. The Sunday school session will be held as usual at 10 o'clock, but the evening service will be omitted because of the Chautauqua. JOHNSON-KJELLSON.
The marriage of Miss Sophia Kjellson of Ridge street to Mr. Fred A. Johnson of Hackmatack street was performed by Rev. J. Hulteen of Hartford at the bride's home at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Miss Isabel Kjellson, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Paul Engstrom of Bridgeport as best man. Only the immediate families were present.

Miss Kjellson is a graduate of the Hartford Hospital Training School for Nurses, class of 1917.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., class of 1917.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will reside at 218 Quaker Lane, West Hartford.

RUMOR OF B. B. TRADE.
Chicago, July 12.—Rumors, which cannot be verified of a three cornered trade between the Cubs, Giants and Boston Braves, are current in baseball circles here today.

The reported deal involves the transfer of "Buck" Herzog and Outfielder Dave Robertson to Chicago in exchange for Outfielders Mann and Paskert and a pitcher, possibly Claude Hendrix, the Cubs' big spitball hurler. Hendrix, it is believed would go to the Giants, while the Braves would get Mann and Paskert.

Hi Johnson says that "Roosevelt could kill the League if he were alive." So could Johnson and Borah and Lodge, if they were.

MISS ANDERSON PLANNED TO TAKE FATAL TRAIN

High School Teacher Probably Owes Life to Fact That She Changed Her Mind.

Word received from Miss Mildred Anderson, who left town a week ago to visit her parents in the middle west, tells of a real stroke of good fortune of her part. Miss Anderson, who is a teacher in the High School, left town the last day in June. She planned to leave New York, also on that day. Upon arriving there her plans were changed and she decided to wait another day and leave New York on Tuesday. The train on which Miss Anderson had intended to ride west was wrecked and eleven persons were killed. The wreck occurred on the New York Central lines and was reported at the time in the Herald. Miss Anderson said in her letters back to Manchester that she considered herself fortunate in not boarding the train. She is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Anderson formerly pastor of the Swedish church in this town.

PINAFORE PLEASURES.
CHAUTAUQUA CLOSSES.
Pinafore was produced at the Chautauqua tent last night with excellent principals and a small, but effective chorus. An orchestra of young ladies provided a well balanced accompaniment. A large audience enjoyed the catchy music and the sprightly comedy. The opera went with a snap and the company needed only a theater stage and accessories to place the production on a par with the best.

Tonight the public entertainments come to a close with a program arranged especially for the children. A sketch will be given by the children of the Junior Chautauqua, who have been under training all the week, and will be followed by an exhibition of trained birds and animals.

FIRST ELECTROCUTION IS HELD IN VERMONT

Man Who Killed Wife's Parents Five Years Ago Dies in the Electric Chair.

Windsor, Vt., July 12.—George E. Warner, of Hanover, N. H., was electrocuted in the Windsor prison at 2.58 this morning for the murder of his wife's father and mother nearly five years ago.

He was the first man to go to the electric chair in the history of the state.

Only one shock was required to take his life and three minutes and twelve seconds after the first current of electricity had been applied he was pronounced dead by Jail Physician S. H. McKewen.

Affirmed Innocence.
The execution took place in the presence of the jail chaplain, Warden and a deputy, and newspaper representatives. He bore up well until the last and just before he was strapped into the chair affirmed his innocence.

When asked if he had any statement to make before dying, Warner said that he had nothing to say other than he was innocent. He said that he knew nothing of the murder of his wife's parents until informed by a friend the day following the discovery of the bodies.

WANT TO FIX PRICES.
Washington, July 12.—The Federal Trade Commission, in a special report to Congress, today renewed its recommendation made last December that manufacturers be permitted by law to fix and maintain resale prices, subject to review by a disinterested agency.

The commission says that such a law would remove present complexity in the business world, promote the efficiency of manufacturing and commercial institutions and serve the interest of the consuming public.

SEC. LANSING TO SAIL.
Paris, July 12.—The Council of Five met this afternoon in an attempt to agree upon a commercial policy towards Russia. This was the last meeting that Secretary Lansing will attend, as he is sailing for home.

ITALY HELPS CHINA.
Paris, July 12.—Italy is now demanding that the Austrian concessions in Tien Tsin, China, be turned over to her, it was learned here today.

A clause already drafted and in the treaty provides that this concession reverts to China.

Our inhospitable climate drove the R-34 home.

BRILLIANT DOUBLE PLAY

Ross Young, playing right field for the Giants, pulled off a brilliant double play in a recent game against the Phillies. Hogg was on first and Cady on third, when Whitted hit a fly to Young. Hogg thought Cady would try to score and that Young would throw home, so he lit out for second. Cady held his base, Young threw to second ahead of Hogg, and the latter was caught between first and second. He turned back to first. Doyle threw over Chase's head at first. Young raced in, got the ball and tagged Hogg as he came into the base.

HEINIE ZIMMERMAN IS GOING STRONG

Veteran Has Stood Strain of Eleven Seasons With Majors.

Prediction of Various Scribes That He Would Be Displaced at Third Base Not Yet Fulfilled—Slow in Rounding Into Form.

After a player has stood the gaff in the major leagues for eleven years he is labeled "all in" the first time he shows a sign of slipping.

This was the sort of a "rawberry" handed to Heinie Zim in 1917, even before he got himself into the limelight in the world's series by chasing Eddie Collins home in that now famous Marathon of 60 feet, which was promptly pointed out as a one-reel thriller and given the title "I'm a Faster Man Than You Are, Heinie Zim."

Last fall, after the Giants had closed their curtailed season, various scribes predicted that 1919 would find someone else filling the shoes of the great Zim at third base for the Giants.

New York scribes led the gang who expertly pointed out that the great one was on the skids; that his legs were growing stiff and his throwing arm turning to glass. Then they started picking out a soft spot for Heinie to light. Some chose first base for him, and the ones who were less hopeful relegated him to right field, just as though John McGraw would think for half a second of displacing a crack young player like Ross Young.

Heinie kept his pace through all the long winter of 1918-19, hibernating in the Bronx and saying nothing. But when the time rolled around for contracts to be signed Zim visited the offices of the Giants, accepted terms without a whimper, and calmly told McGraw that if he had ordered a new third baseman he'd better cancel the order.

When the Giants entrained for Gainsville to start spring training the veteran Zim was very much in evidence. He got into a uniform and started sawing wood in his own way, taking his time and working hard to get into shape. Eight hours' work a day in a Jersey shipyard during part of the winter had not done Zimmerman any noticeable harm, but like most of the veterans, Zim rounds into shape slowly, and, like most athletes of an aggressive nature who have a touch or two of temperament, Zim didn't give a tinker's rap what anybody thought about it. "Lettem try displacing me at third base and there'll be a funeral for somebody," was the way Zim looked at it.

BESPECTACLED HURLER HILL

Carmen Hill of Pittsburgh Pirates Finds Glasses Are No Handicap While Playing.

Carmen Hill, bespectacled hurler of the Pittsburgh Pirates, like Lee Meadows who wears 'em when in action for the Cards, finds the glasses are no handicap whatever. Incidentally Carmen promises to be one of the best young right-handers in the National league and Hugo Bezdek the Pirate chief is nursing him with infinite care in the hope he will be able to take his regular turn on the mound later in the year. Hill and Meadows are the only two players in the majors today who wear glasses while pastiming. Both have worn them since boyhood, having weak eyes, but neither has ever been handicapped by the specs when fielding hard-hit balls.

Park Theater

Our reformers would do well to drop in at the Park theater tonight. John F. Sullivan is presenting Miss Fannie Ward's latest emotional vehicle—"The Cry of the Weak"—one of Pathe's famous Extra Selected Star Photoplays.

Without any "preaching or propaganda" this splendid motion picture will do an enormous amount of missionary work. It will open the eyes of the uncharitable who, like District Attorney Dexter in the play, think that "Once a crook, always a crook;" it will bring tears to the eyes of tender-hearted womanhood; it will hopefully suffuse the hearts of wrongdoers with a glow of feeling that here at last is a play of real life, true to life, an actual page from life itself.

Compelling the intense interest and concentration of the beholder from start to finish, full to the brim with suspense and swift action, "The Cry of the Weak" forms a great hour's entertainment of the best constructive type. Not only does this drama entertain in an enthralling manner, but it grips the heart strings, and forces an echo of pity for the submerged tenth. We begin to realize just what a battle is ever in progress in the breasts of those who have "gone wrong" but eagerly wish to "go right" for the future.

Fannie Ward as the wife of the District Attorney, does some of the best emotional acting of her career. She says so herself. In fact, Miss Ward goes further and states that her "Mary Dexter" in "The Cry of the Weak" is her screen masterpiece, her chef d'oeuvre of the cinema. Surely a play well worth the viewing!

On the same bill will be a comedy and another episode of "The Red Glove" that thrilling serial. Tomorrow evening Mr. Sullivan will show a big special feature.

Circle Theater

Jess Willard drew big at the Circle last evening and a monster crowd saw the former champion The strenuous work of "Doc" Sullivan in getting the film here brought good results and proved to his patrons that he had made every effort to give them as good a show as he promised.

For tonight Harry T. Morey will appear in a Vitagraph feature called "Fighting Destiny." On the same bill will be a comedy the Pathe News and another episode of "The Tiger's Trail."

Musical comedy lost a favorite when Betty Blythe turned to photography, but Vitagraph gained a beautiful and talented singing woman, who is seen in one of her most effective roles in "Fighting Destiny."

Miss Blythe is a daughter of southern California and was educated in Westlake Seminary, Los Angeles, and in the University of Southern California. She studied music in Paris and had appeared in several Broadway musical comedies when she turned to photoplay.

She played in support of Mr. Morey and Alice Joyce, and then Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, gave her the important role of Mme. Arnot in "Over the Top", where she registered most effectively.

Tomorrow evening's feature will be "False Evidence" starring Viola Dana. It is a pine-scented romance of the redwoods.

RUMORS OF NEW THEATER SEEM TO BE BASELESS

Small Chance of Orford Hotel Property Becoming Site of Playhouse Says E. J. Holl.

It was rumored about town yesterday that Manchester would soon boast of a beautiful up-to-date playhouse. The site was to be the Orford Hotel building which was recently purchased by Edward J. Holl. In addition it was said that the building had been purchased by out-of-town parties and that a portion of the property would be utilized for the construction of a playhouse.

A counter-rumor was circulated to the effect that Edward J. Holl had denied that the building had been sold and that he would at once proceed with the plans which he had formulated for a combination theater and movie house.

Mr. Holl, last evening, said that the news was a surprise to him and that the rumors apparently had no foundation. He had not sold the property, nor had he any intention of building a theater. "Both the building and land are too valuable," said he, "and will be worth a great deal more, a year from now."

Mr. Holl admitted that out-of-town parties had been looking over the hotel and grounds and that a number of these persons represented theatrical interests. None of them however had approached him as yet in regard to purchasing the site.

FEELING TOWARD FRENCH IS HOSTILE IN BERLIN

Soldiers and Civilians in Street Fight—Ringleader of German Troublemakers Arrested.

Berlin, July 11.—(Via London, July 12).—Feeling here is becoming more hostile towards the French following the recent encounter between soldiers attached to the French mission and a party of Germans. The soldiers deny the version given out by the Berlin authorities that they called the German "swine." One French officer said:

Officer's Statement.

"For six months our soldiers have been here and there was not a single encounter. But the people of Berlin are nervous and their condition was aggravated by short rations and the lack of transportation. The incident consisted only of this: A German pedestrian collided with two of our men who were unarmed, as usual. The German struck one of them with a stick whereupon the Frenchman defended himself with a chair."

Ringleader Arrested.

Lieutenant von Simmons, ringleader of a gang of German soldiers and students who recently burned French flags, has been arrested charged with attempting to murder Karl Radek, emissary of the Russian Bolsheviks in Germany. The officer tried to bribe the prison guard to admit him and 12 soldiers into Radek's cell. The guard asked von Simmons to return in the afternoon and when he did so he was thrown into a cell himself. When searched false passports were found on him.

Von Simmons readily confessed that he had burned the French flags.

NO NEED TO CONSULT WILSON, SAY SENATORS

were the only members of the committee who voted to report the resolution to the Senate. A vote on the proposed Moses motion, it was stated, might find the same four Senators lined up in opposition again to Senators Lodge and Knox, although those Republican Senators in favor of the President being invited to appear before the committee expressed the hope that Senators Lodge and Knox would agree with them by Monday next and another split in the Republican Majority controlling the committee would thereby be avoided.

Japan's trade with the Philippines is increasing rapidly. The total amount of Japanese exports to the islands in 1918 is said to have been $30,000,000.

WELCOME VALERA.

Thousands of Chicagoans Greet "President of Irish Republic."

Chicago, July 12.—Thousands of Chicagoans gave Eamon De Valera, president of the "Irish Republic" an enthusiastic welcome when he arrived here today for a three day visit. The features of his stay here will be a monster mass meeting to be held at the National League baseball park tomorrow where De Valera, Mayor Thompson, Frank P. Walsh, former Governor Dunne, and Congressman William E. Mason will be the speakers.

While here De Valera will discuss with Chicago bankers plans for floating a $5,000,000 bond issue for the "Irish Republic." He also will be honored with the degree of Doctor of Laws by De Paul University. De Valera will leave Monday night for San Francisco.

STOCK MARKET

New York, July 12.—Although there were many regular changes at the opening of the stock market today the tone as a whole was strong. Shortly after the start United Cigars rose three points to a new high record of 200. Marine Common continued in demand selling up to 61-8 while the preferred advanced over a point to 123 1-4. Steel Common rose 1-2 to 112 3-8 and dealings in the other steel stocks were quiet. The copper stocks were strong, Utah advancing 1-4 to 94 3-4, while American Smelting rose 5-8 to 87 3-8.

ELKS GOOD SPENDERS.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 12.—The past 24 hours have been getaway day for the Elks, who have been attending their annual convention here. That the members of the B. P. O. E., are good spenders was shown by the estimate that they are leaving $2,000,000 behind. Everything benefited but the saloons, for it was strictly a dry convention. The Elks will meet in Chicago next year and Los Angeles will likely be selected for 1921. Officers of the lodge deny that General Pershing will be boomed by them for president.

ARMY'S BIGGEST AIRSHIP.

Washington, July 12.—The A-4 the army's largest dirigible, which left Akron, Ohio, at 10 o'clock last night, passed over the capitol at 9.45 today. After circling the city it proceeded to Langley Field, Va., where it will be permanently stationed.

MARSHALS GET RAISE.

Paris, July 12.—In order to help them meet the high cost of living the government has increased the monthly pay of Marshal Foch, Marshal Joffre and Marshal Petain from $480 to $600.

Chorus—"Gosh!--Wish I could get into the Big Show--" By Morris

Unmasked

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

Rather pettishly Mrs. Abner Gill flounced into the kitchen where her husband was mending a leaky pan. She naturally had a spicy, fault-finding vein, and just now it was accentuated.

"Humph! Another whim of that precious old relative of yours," she snapped out.

"What now?" questioned Abner. "Your Uncle Silas has brought home a stranger to dinner deaf as a post, like himself."

"That so? Well, Martha, you know what we have at stake. We've managed to get the old curmudgeon right into our clutches away from all the other relatives, and we mustn't lose our grip now. He can't last forever, and when he does kick the bucket we're pretty sure to get the bulk of his fortune."

Suddenly Martha Gill proceeded to prepare the meal, but she and her husband were all smiles when the quartet sat down at the table. Their policy was to coddle, entertain and delude their aged relative. Uncle Silas had about $10,000 government bonds. The Gills believed they were his chosen beneficiaries and had played their cards so cleverly that Silas had come to them with the statement:

"I need a home and am willing to pay for it. If you say so, I'll camp down here with you people, turn up $300 a year for my keep, and as to what I leave behind we'll see in due time."

"Oh! dear Uncle Silas, don't talk about money. All we care for is to make you comfortable," asserted Mrs. Gill.

It was by accident that Silas had happened upon a brother in affliction passing through the town. Per sate and gesture they had quite a comfortable conversation. When they adjourned to the next room the stranger sat watching Abner and his wife clearing off the table.

He seemed immensely interested in studying their faces. Finally he wrote on the slate:

"Friends of yours?"

"Oh, yes," nodded Uncle Silas.

"Not very good ones," came in reply, but the stranger, who understood lip movements, language, declined to express more than an opinion. He, however, showed Silas a little book published by a prominent jurist in the city to whom he said he was going for treatment.

After he was gone Uncle Silas thought a good deal about the city expert and one day told Abner and Martha that he was going away on a visit to his deaf acquaintance. The announcement disquieted those fond relatives, but they dared not cross his will. Abner grew anxious and Martha fumed and fretted constantly, as a month passed before Uncle Silas wrote them that he intended to be back home in a day or two.

When he did come he found the folk absent. He lay down on the seat of a little latticed summer house in the garden. He awoke at the sound of voices.

"Yes, it's him," he heard the voice of Martha—"heard," for the jurist expert had cured his deafness.

"We'll have to begin the old process of humoring him," replied Abner. "And he looks as if his trip had done him good. The old nuisance! Better than he ever did."

"Say, Martha, you go through his things when you have time and see if you can get any inkling of his purpose in visiting the city."

"A good idea. Maybe he has been making arrangements about his will! A fine thing it would be if, after all our scheming to get his fortune, he should cheat us!"

"Oh, we've pulled the wool over old Unk's eyes too slick for that!" declared Abner.

Uncle Silas was hurt, astounded—horried. He had greeted the restoration of his hearing with ardent delight and thankfulness. The shock that now accompanied its possession benumbed him.

He went from the garden wondering if all the rest of his kin were of the same heartless mold as the Gills. Mentally he went over the long list of relatives. Almost involuntarily he turned into the yard of an humble little cottage. It was the home of his brother's widow and of Alice Leigh, her daughter.

All of a sudden he realized that he had not treated them just right in allowing the Gills to poison his mind against them.

Through the open window floated the voice of his niece. "Yes, mamma, Orion is poor like ourselves, but we love one another, and he is going to the city to work and we will both save and wait till better times. I had an idea of going and seeing Uncle Silas about buying out for me the little millinery store offered for sale down town. He was always very kind to me until he got living with the Gills."

"I hope they are genuine in their interest in him," said Mrs. Leigh. "He is a good-souled old man and deserves care and affection for his many kind deeds."

Uncle Silas went to the door and knocked. There was a pathetic resolve in his wan face.

"I reckon I've found a nest of true hearts at last," he said to himself, "and I'll camp down here and make these two lovers happy."

PEACE AND MEAT.

The extensive interests and ramifications of the so called Beef Trust, as set forth in detail in yesterday's Herald, do not in themselves constitute a menace either to the farmer who produces live stock or to the consumer who likes a reasonable amount of beef steak on his table.

The rub comes in the way the great corporations use the power which is theirs simply because they are great.

In the long experience since the early days of the magazine expose, the 'muck raker,' the official investigation, the governmental trust busting suit and the Roosevelt campaigns against 'public malefactors of great wealth' the people have learned that it takes more than a successful and spectacular raid on a trust to remedy any of the evils which arise from industrial domination.

The report of the Federal Trade Commission pointed out a great danger but went only a short way toward suggesting means to avoid it. The 'full publicity of corporate ownership for all industries' which the report advocates is at best only a means to an end.

What the public wants is cheaper meat. That is the crux of the situation in plain words. Whether it buys from a 'trust' or from a co-operative society or from the government will make little difference to the people at large if they are getting good quality for a reasonable price. The trouble is that the public grows unmindful of the inter-relationship of business. In the long chain of economic processes that take place in the conversion of 'cattle on a thousand hills' to steak on the platter there must be no weak links.

So far as has been learned the man put a pot on to boil, making up four or five gallons at a time, enough for a day, if too much 'company' did not call. The principal ingredients were corn meal, raisins, sugar and a certain kind of acid purchased at the drug stores. This, boiled together, produced a concoction that would make Bacchus crazy.

Those who know any one drink would make one talk Chinese fluently; after a second one could shave a grasshopper with a buzz saw, and a third one could crack hickory nuts on the forehead.

CATS ALL RIGHT IN THEIR PLACE, WHICH ISN'T TABLE. Clinton, Mass., July 12.—Too many cats ruin any honeymoon, according to Harry Zealman in Clinton District Court. The Zealman were married on May 17. It was Mrs. Zealman's second marriage.

Zealman told Judge Jonathan Smith that he did not object to the twelve cats which his bride kept, but that they pawed and nosed over his food; also he grasped her by the arm in demanding that she put before him some fresh food unconserved by the cats.

Mrs. Zealman, on the other hand, said her second husband became jealous because he found her preparing a bouquet for her first husband's grave; also he hit her twice. Zealman paid $10 fine. Mrs. Zealman paid her husband's $5 counsel fee.

CURB ON BATHERS STOPS EPIDEMIC OF EYESTRAIN. Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—Fearing an epidemic of eyestrain, Park Director Waite has decreed that bathing suits of the Mack Sennet girl type would not be 'worn' on Cleveland beaches. Shoulders covered, and skirts not higher than four inches above the knee are the specifications for Cleveland misses. Stockings may be dispensed with, Waite says, just to show what a liberal guy he is.

SUNNY SIDE OF STREET BEST FOR HOLDUP MEN. New York, July 12.—The secret of day light holdups of stores is now explained.

Joseph Ryan, arrested here after his alleged holdup of a Ninth avenue grocer, declares that there is nothing particularly dangerous in the so-called daylight holdup. According to Ryan, you merely pick the sunny side of the street and work undisturbed, because all the shoppers are on the shady side of the street.

The Chautauqua idea fits best in rural communities which are without amusement facilities. Even when the programs are given in industrial places like Manchester, the patronage comes largely from the suburbs. Bolton, Wapping, East Glastonbury and the outlying districts of Manchester furnish the most appreciative attendants here. It is significant that the north end of the town turns out much better than the south end mill district.

The Chautauqua management requires a guaranty of $1,500 to come here. Besides this the local management has to assume other expenses such as ground rent, teaming, electric lighting and advertising and printing. To cover these extra expenses the local management is permitted to sell a limited number of season tickets, but not until after enough season tickets have been sold to cover the guaranty of $1,500. All single admissions sold during the week go to the Chautauqua management to cover the excess of their expenses over the original guaranty of $1,500. They say that their expense in putting on a week's program is something over $1,900.

This year the sale of season tickets amounted to $1,329.50, leaving $170.50 to be raised to meet the guaranty. Additional local expenses swell the deficit to about $400, to meet which it will be necessary to call upon each of the guarantors for approximately $3.

It is claimed with truth that this was an abnormal year, owing to the numerous drives to which Manchester has been responding so generously. But even in the best of years the raising of funds to meet the Chautauqua expenses has required persistent work by volunteers whose only motive is to bring a helpful influence to the community and whose only reward is the enjoyment which they and others get from the Chautauqua entertainments.

In behalf of the Chautauqua management it may be said that they always keep their promises, that they provide the best of talent and are pleasant persons to deal with. Their visits here are always enjoyed by hundreds of people. If there is a deficit it is divided among so many guarantors as not to be burdensome to any of them.

HOME-COINED BREW HAD TERRIBLE WALLOP. Carmi, Ill., July 12.—A local resident has a new drink of such potency that the police, while not sure that there was alcohol in it, knew it had a tremendous kick, anyway, so they arrested the inventor. So far as has been learned the man put a pot on to boil, making up four or five gallons at a time, enough for a day, if too much 'company' did not call. The principal ingredients were corn meal, raisins, sugar and a certain kind of acid purchased at the drug stores. This, boiled together, produced a concoction that would make Bacchus crazy. Those who know any one drink would make one talk Chinese fluently; after a second one could shave a grasshopper with a buzz saw, and a third one could crack hickory nuts on the forehead.

Of course, it is much too soon to even make a guess on the outcome to any presidential boom; but one thing is making decidedly for permanence and strength, so far as General Wood is concerned: this is the general's ability to keep his mouth shut, go about his regular business and in others sing his praises for him.

HOW 'ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN! (Philadelphia Record.) Never since the beginning of its baseball history, which means from the very birth of the national game, has Philadelphia been in such a down-cellar condition as it is at this moment. Here we have both the Phillies and the Athletics not only at the foot of their respective ladders, but reposing, absolutely reposing there; and one of the two is in such a state of demoralization as to be in danger of demise.

Old fans will have no difficulty in remembering the long period of years—something like twenty, as we recall it—when, under the management of the late John I. Rogers, the club always managed to keep from winning the pennant, yet never got very close to the basement. 'Wait till next year' was the slogan then, and the patient public fed upon hope and continued to make the turnstile click.

Then, too, when the Phillies fell down the Athletics were alive, and gave a fellow a chance occasionally to see a winning ball team. But now the present is passe and the future holds no hope. We are in the position of the puzzled spirit—every fan knows the story. 'Where am I?' he inquired as he stepped out of Charon's boat. 'Hell,' replied the acclimated one. 'But isn't that a ball-player over there?' 'Sure; the game's just about to start.' 'Why, this can't be Hell, then?' 'Yes, it's Hell all right; home-team loses every day.'

WOOD PRESIDENTIAL BOOM. (Detroit Free Press.) The basis of General Wood's popularity is easy to understand. His Rooseveltian antecedents and principles, his straight-forward common-sense, his identification with the Plattsburg idea; his fearless work for preparedness in the face of departmental opposition which should have been grateful to him and should have made much of him, all have brought him before the public in a peculiarly emphatic way.

His name has become a household word. Today he is infinitely more of a hero than General Pershing or any other officer who had a general command on the front lines. In the service he has grown singularly popular by reason of the way the men who passed through his divisional training camp have sung his praises to their fellows. Many a returning soldier who curses practically every other officer has a good word for Wood. And this, unquestionably, is because the general believes it possible to treat drafted men as fellow human beings and as fellow American citizens and patriots, even while he is engaged in whipping them into shape to be soldiers; it is because he recognizes the possibility of an underlying comradeship between the man in the ranks and the man with a commission, without detriment to any essential discipline.

It is noticeable that as the troops came home from abroad, the Wood boom grew. Evidently, the veterans are talking matters over with their families and friends. Equally, it is plain that the Democrats are worried over the situation; and they are particularly disturbed because they do not dare to undertake any attack upon Wood. The most they dare do is protest that a man should not be nominated for the presidency out of sympathy; and then this is ticklish business, since the very admission that there may be an element of sympathy in the sentiment of the people for Wood is a reflection on the treatment accorded him by the present Washington administration.

WE'VE BEEN THERE. (Nantucket Inquirer and Mirror.) The Inquirer and Mirror is being issued this week with the entire force sweltering with the heat and oozing from every pore. The temperature is a trifle over 87 in the press-room; we have been striving since day-break to coax gas through the pipes to melt the lead for our linotype machines; the rollers are melting while the press is turning; the members of the force have shed all the clothing that the law allows; the devil has thrown up the sponge and gone down to the creeks for a swim; eleven hundred and eleven inquisitive persons have bothered and delayed us by fringing upon the phone and telling us the joyful news that the paper is not yet out; the hotels are calling for increased menus for the morrow; while we have had nothing to eat since morning; the gas man offers sympathy thereby; the weather bureau rings up and tells us it is 92 degrees cool down there; we reply with deep concern and go the weather bureau at least five degrees below; bearing 'freezes up' and causes trouble; the morning passes and the afternoon passes; the shades of night are falling; we are still cheerful, though somewhat emaciated in flesh since morning; oh, joy! a plumber comes to our relief with his blow-torch; the wheels revolve for the last run; the folder gets cranky for a moment while the devil grabbed the fire extinguisher. The fellow saw what was coming to him and beat it. We are all going to church tomorrow to make up for what was said and ought to have been said today.

FIRE TREES FOR HEROES. Dwight, Ill., July 12.—With veterans of the Civil War placing them, five memorial trees were planted here in honor of five heroes of the great war for civilization, one of them a woman. The trees have been entered on the national honor roll of the American Forestry Association at Washington by the Dwight Women's Club.

CAN THE DEAD DIE? (From The Baltimore Sun.) Might it not be the part of strategy for the prohibitionists to agree to the 2.75 beer, upon the theory that once the arguing stops and the drinking begins, that sort of beer will die a natural death?

MOURNING IS HYPOCRISY. Shinnston, W. Va., July 12.—Wearing mourning for the dead is hypocrisy, Rev. Elias M. Sharp, who died here at the age of ninety, declared in his will. He was a pioneer Baptist minister. Referring to his widow in his will he says: 'My desire is that she enjoy all the comforts of life that come within her reach and not to clothe herself in the draperies of mourning, as the manner of some, which is a cover of hypocrisy.'

FORGOTTEN NAMES. (Philadelphia Record.) A Philadelphia motorist returning from a tour remarked the other day that there was a maze makes of trees on the market than he ever dreamed of; that on a stretch of 75 miles of road between Albany and Poughkeepsie he had counted bill-board advertisements of 22 different brands. Asked to enumerate some of them, he was able to name just eight, of which seven are advertised frequently in the daily newspapers. The only one he could recall which had not been impressed on his mind by newspaper advertising he remembered because it had a ludicrous name.

It is rather obvious that commodity the brand name of which meets the consumer's eye only occasionally, when he happens to be passing the place where it is displayed, will remain unfamiliar to him, while the commodity that is regularly brought to his attention through the columns of the newspaper that he reads every day becomes an old friend. He may not buy it merely because he knows of it; but to familiarize him with its name is the first step toward securing him as a customer, and the appeal to reason for which opportunity is offered in newspaper advertising makes the second step easy.

There are probably more than 22 varieties of automobile tires. The public—the big public whose patronage means big business—knows comparatively little about those that are not advertised in the newspapers.

OPEN EVENINGS BY APPOINTMENT

HOTELS MUST ADMIT JEWS.

London, July 12.—(By R-34 Air Route).—It's all settled by a wig-covered judge, so it's as definite as anything can be in England. A hotel must not refuse to give a room to a Jew, not even if said person is a pawnbroker.

In an action against the North British Railway Company Henry Rothfield, of Newcastle, asked an Edinburgh court to declare that he was entitled to be received as a guest in the company's station hotel on the same terms as other travelers, provided there was sufficient accommodation. Lord Anderson held the company's hotel was a common inn, could not refuse to admit Rothfield because he was a Jew nor because he was a money-lender, for that was a lawful occupation.

PREDICT COAL SHORTAGE.

New York, July 12.—New York coal dealers are anticipating a coal shortage this winter, due, they say, to the return to Europe of thousands of foreigners who have been working in the mines in this country. Coal cards similar to those used during the war may have to be resorted to next winter.

We are giving our employees an outing next Monday, July 11, and shall close the store all day for that purpose.

We feel that our employees who have worked hard and faithfully are entitled to an all-day outing together, for recreation and amusement, in addition to the two weeks vacation they receive and have therefore invited them to be our guests for a day at the shore.

We had planned to go on the first of the Friday half holidays, but owing to a government order, it is now impossible to get special trains on the last half of the week.

We trust our patrons will not be seriously inconvenienced by reason of having the store closed Monday.

After the rest of Monday doubtless our employees will be able to give a little better service.

We shall have some very interesting events next week, of which full details will be given later.

NEW A. AND N. CLUB MEMBERS TOTAL 102

Chairman Dewey Urges Teams to Final Effort—Team No. 7 Wins Honors for Day.

A record was established in yesterday's drive for new members on the Army and Navy club. When the returns of the competing teams were checked up last evening 38 new members had been secured in the fourth day of the drive. This added to the results of previous days brings the grand total up to 102.

Team No. 7 won high honors yesterday with a record of 9. Team No. 6 was a close second with 3 and Team No. 9 came in third with 7. Teams No. 2 and No. 7 are now tied for first place, each having turned in 16 applications. Team No. 4 is pushing the leaders hard with a total of 15. It is expected that at least 200 members will be secured before Sunday.

Chairman Albert Dewey's instruction to the team captains last evening were posted on the bulletin board at the hut and read as follows: "The drive for new members is on the last lap. Get after the members of your teams and urge them to put on more speed during the remaining time. Some of the teams are far behind, but they still have a chance for first place, as there is a big field of eligibles.

"Be sure to get all cards in before 7.30 Monday evening. Watch the lists at the club house for names of those who have not joined. All team members are requested to attend the meeting on Monday evening at the hut." Yesterday results are as follows:

RACE FOR THE PENNANT IS HITTING SWIFT PACE

National League Contenders Tightening Up as Season Grows—Giants and Reds Tied.

New York, July 12.—The race for the National League pennant, hotly contested as it is, promises to become even tighter during the next ten days.

The success of the Reds and Pirates on their present eastern invasion is largely responsible for tightening up the race so far, and if the Giants are to hold their ground they will have to saw wood during the eastern visits of their western rivals.

Giants and Reds Tied. The Giants and Reds stand tied for the league leadership today. The Reds forced their way into a tie by taking a double header from the Braves at Boston, and Pittsburgh climbed back into fourth place and the first division by lapping the Dodgers.

Hugo Bezdek's proteges crossed the Brooklyn Bridge today to meet the Giants in the first of a four-game series at the Polo grounds and McGraw's men, who have so far managed to take three out of five games from Pittsburgh, expected a battle. The Reds, meanwhile will be engaging the feeble Phillies in Quakertown and if they keep up the race they have been setting they are practically sure to nose New York out of the lead.

Big Game July 21. One of the greatest series of the local season is in prospect beginning July 21 at the Polo Grounds, when the Reds arrive here for three games.

In the American League western pennant, contenders, headed by the White Sox should strengthen their holds on first division berths as they will be playing on their home grounds. An indication of what the White Sox—League leaders—may do, is forecast by their success against the Athletics, who dropped four straight at Comiskey Park.

WAR ENDED TOO SOON SAYS WOMAN SOLDIER

Sergeant Ruth Farnum Tells Chautauqua Audience How Serbia Suffered—Urges Preparedness Here.

In the opinion of Sergeant Ruth Farnum the Chautauqua speaker who delivered a lecture on "Triumph of Serbia" at the association tent yesterday afternoon; the war with Germany ended too soon. The speaker was decorated three times for bravery under fire. She said that hatred for the allied peoples still exist among the Central Powers, and that Germany, if not watched closely, would in the future engage in another war for world supremacy.

Vengeance was the keynote of her discourse. "For," said she, "I have seen the terrible atrocities perpetrated by the German and Austro-Hungarian hordes, and we who have seen can never forgive and forget." She advocated preparedness and urged a military training for the boys, our future defenders, in order that the United States, should future troubles arise could say, "We are prepared". Her lecture on the trials of brave little Serbia before, during, and after the war, was thrillingly and vividly told. Many wet eyes were noticeable in the audience when she described a number of scenes of the horrors of warfare.

The Berkeley Sextette, composed of six talented young ladies presented an excellent program of instrumental and vocal numbers. Their entire presentation was highly artistic and well rendered.

HIS QUICK RETORT SECURES HIM A JOB AS A BRAKEMAN.

Topeka, Kan., July 12.—The Santa Fe Railroad has been advertising for brakemen in the Eastern newspapers. A big tall, raw-boned, homely chap, looking like a prize fighter, called on General Manager Fred C. Knox, who does all the hiring, and applied for a job. "I see you want some brakemen and I would like a job," said the man. "We don't need any," said Mr. Fox, after sizing up the man. "Then take that out of the Eastern papers and quit fooling us fellows," demanded the man. "I came all the from Philadelphia to get a job in reply to your ad."

"Well, we do need some brakemen," said Mr. Fox, "but we don't need you."

"Why?" queried the man. "I don't like your looks."

"So you hire a man on his looks?"

"Yes."

"Who in hell hired you?" demanded the job seeker.

"You'll do," said Mr. Fox. "Report this afternoon."

HARVEST HANDS SPEND NIGHTS IN REST ROOMS.

Ashland, Kan., July 12.—Not to be outdone by the city business men in making work comfortable for employees, Ashland has established a reading and rest room where the harvest hands are able to spend their evenings. The room has magazines and newspapers, writing material and plenty of chairs and places to rest.

The room was established by the county agent, and the city is financing the project. A committee supervises the work, while they have a man on duty all the time to furnish information regarding jobs.

"And shall I be able to play the piano when my hands heal?" asked the wounded soldier. "Certainly you will," said the doctor. "See, that's great! I never could before."

ADVANCE PARTY GOES TO BOY SCOUT CAMP

Boys Will Go Out Monday—Not Too Late to Sign Up for Second Week.

President L. P. Knapp, Secretary Raymond Johnson, Assistant Leader Russell Hathaway, and Scoutmaster W. H. Whiting of the Boy Scout Council and Chief Hughes, went to Coventry today to make final arrangements for the Boy Scout camp, which will open Monday and continue to July 28. Mr. Whiting will return Monday morning and will meet the Scouts at the Recreation Center promptly at nine o'clock, when the start for the lake will be made. The Scouts are to be there at that time, with their outfits, ready for the start, and will be taken to the lake in automobiles.

Twenty-five or more boys can be accommodated at the camp at a time. There is still room for more boys for the second week and they may go to the camp by making application at the Recreation Center office during the coming week.

Scoutmaster Whiting is to have full charge of the camp right through the two weeks. During the first week he will be assisted by Scoutmaster Ernest Kjellson of Troop 6 and during the second week by Assistant Leader Russell Hathaway. Members of the council also will help in looking after the interests of the boys.

COMPANY F WILL HOLD RIFLE SHOOT TOMORROW

Co. F, State Guard, will hold a field day tomorrow their range on the Capt. Keeney property on South Main street. The Company will finish the rifle shoot started some time ago and tomorrow will shoot the rapid fire course.

RACE RIOTS.

One Black Killed and Four Whites Injured in Texas.

Dallas, Texas, July 12.—Longview, Texas, which was the scene of sharp fighting between white men and negroes yesterday, is quiet today, although troops of the Texas National Guard are patrolling the streets of the negro section of the city. The feeling against the negroes is still high, however, and the authorities are taking every precaution to prevent further outbreaks.

The riot yesterday, in which one black was killed and four white men seriously wounded, is said to have been caused by resentment of white men over an attack made in an article in a negro newspaper published in Chicago upon a young white woman.

THE FOOD TRUST.

London Papers Devoting Columns to Meat Packers Articles.

London, July 12.—London newspapers are devoting an unusual amount of space to the report of the Federal Trade Commission at Washington showing that a group of five Chicago meat packers may get a monopoly upon the food supply of the whole world.

The Pall Mall Gazette calls the packers agreement a "menace" in sensational first page headlines.

Another increase in the price of coal in Great Britain is hinted at by the Standard. The coal situation has reached a critical stage and it has been filling the editorial columns to the exclusion of comment on President Wilson's league of nations speech.

PRICE OF STAYS TO GO UP.

Bridgeport, July 12.—The employees of all of the big corset factories here have agreed on demands to be presented immediately to the companies that if agreed to, will cause a considerable increase in the price of that article of women's wear. The demands include a fifty per cent. increase in wages in all departments, 44 hours to constitute a working week instead of 48 hours at present; abolition of all charges for thread and other materials used by the employees, pay for piece workers on a time basis, when employed on day work.

DEWDROP STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

DOLLY MEETS THE IMP.
(Written for the United States School Garden Army.)

Dolly had never seen a cross Fairy. She didn't know that Fairies could be anything but pleasant until she came into the garden this morning. There stood a little man no taller than your littlest finger. My! but he looked cross.

Dolly waited a minute for him to speak, and then, as he did not say anything, she said:

"Good morning."

"Morning," said the Little Man, very humbly.

"Is—or—is anything the matter?" asked Dolly.

"The matter! Do you see THAT?" He pointed with a finger as long as the point of a lead pencil.

"THAT" was another little man who was sitting on a plant nearby carelessly swinging his legs. He looked very saucy and "don't-care-ish."

"Yes," said Dolly. "Who—what is he?"

"That is an Imp."

"An Imp. What is an Imp?"

"An Imp is a PEST," said the cross little man, in a cross little voice.

"I am not," said the Imp.

"You are. And you are worse. You are a tramp, and a thief."

"Oh, look here, old feller, don't call names."

"I will. I will call you a worse name than that. You are a murderer—if not yourself, some of your family are murderers."

"Oh, how awful!" said Dolly.

"I've got as much right in this garden as you have," said the Imp, very angry now.

"You have not. My family and my friends were brought to this garden and planted here. That old tramp, your Grandfather Wind, brought you here and scattered you about among us. And now that you are here, you steal the good food that was put into the ground for us. You crowd us out of our places. You even choke some of us to death."

"You ought to fight for your rights if you're so mad about it," said the Imp.

"We are made to work, to do good and feed people, not to fight. If our human friends did not protect us from you we could not grow at all," he said. Turning to Dolly, "Look in my dewdrop and see if I am not telling the truth."

Dolly looked. She saw a nice row of beans. They looked strong and well. All at once she saw some other plants growing up very fast all around the beans. These plants seemed stronger than the beans. They sent out shoots and leaves and stuck their roots into the ground as fast as they could. She could see that there were many Imps on these plants. The Imps worked hard. They pushed the beans out of their places. They dug down into the ground and stole the food there for their own plants. Some of them carried their arms and legs around the poor beans and squeezed them until they died.

"Oh, how dreadful!" said the little girl, almost crying. "What can the poor beans do?"

"They can't do anything unless somebody comes to help them. Oh, goody, here comes Bob and Billy now. You'll see what short work they make of the Weeds."

Sure enough, Bob and Billy came running into the garden. They got down on their knees and began to pull up some quite pretty plants that were growing among the radishes.

"Oh, Billy, are you sure those are Imps?" said Dolly. "They look all right."

"A weed is a weed, no matter how pretty it looks," said Billy, "and out they go, if we want to have a good garden."

Bob and Billy were both splendid soldiers of the United States School Garden Army, and they wore, very proudly, the insignia of the army of the young people of America. Dolly always listened eagerly when her brothers told of the United States School Garden Army, and although the little girl could not count quite as well as Bob and Billy, she understood how many, many children are in the School Garden Army—nearly 3,000,000 little soldiers.

Are you a soldier of the United States School Garden Army? If you are not, you should ask your teacher, and she will tell you all about it.

"Morning," said the Little Man, very humbly.

"Is—or—is anything the matter?" asked Dolly.

"The matter! Do you see THAT?" He pointed with a finger as long as the point of a lead pencil.

"THAT" was another little man who was sitting on a plant nearby carelessly swinging his legs. He looked very saucy and "don't-care-ish."

"Yes," said Dolly. "Who—what is he?"

"That is an Imp."

"An Imp. What is an Imp?"

"An Imp is a PEST," said the cross little man, in a cross little voice.

"I am not," said the Imp.

"You are. And you are worse. You are a tramp, and a thief."

"Oh, look here, old feller, don't call names."

"I will. I will call you a worse name than that. You are a murderer—if not yourself, some of your family are murderers."

"Oh, how awful!" said Dolly.

"I've got as much right in this garden as you have," said the Imp, very angry now.

"You have not. My family and my friends were brought to this garden and planted here. That old tramp, your Grandfather Wind, brought you here and scattered you about among us. And now that you are here, you steal the good food that was put into the ground for us. You crowd us out of our places. You even choke some of us to death."

"You ought to fight for your rights if you're so mad about it," said the Imp.

"We are made to work, to do good and feed people, not to fight. If our human friends did not protect us from you we could not grow at all," he said. Turning to Dolly, "Look in my dewdrop and see if I am not telling the truth."

Dolly looked. She saw a nice row of beans. They looked strong and well. All at once she saw some other plants growing up very fast all around the beans. These plants seemed stronger than the beans. They sent out shoots and leaves and stuck their roots into the ground as fast as they could. She could see that there were many Imps on these plants. The Imps worked hard. They pushed the beans out of their places. They dug down into the ground and stole the food there for their own plants. Some of them carried their arms and legs around the poor beans and squeezed them until they died.

"Oh, how dreadful!" said the little girl, almost crying. "What can the poor beans do?"

"They can't do anything unless somebody comes to help them. Oh, goody, here comes Bob and Billy now. You'll see what short work

Sure enough, Bob and Billy came running into the garden. They got down on their knees and began to pull up some quite pretty plants that were growing among the radishes.

"Oh, Billy, are you sure those are Imps?" said Dolly. "They look all right."

"A weed is a weed, no matter how pretty it looks," said Billy, "and out they go, if we want to have a good garden."

HARRY DAVIS HAS BEEN MADE ASSISTANT MANAGER OF PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

Assistant Manager of Philadelphia Athletics.

Veteran Harry Davis has been coaxed out of his retirement and has been made assistant manager of the Athletics. Though his title is that of assistant manager it is understood he really is in full charge of the team and that Connie Mack hereafter will devote most of his time to business affairs of the club.

BASEBALL STORIES

Bill Whitaker is having a great season with Fort Worth.

Buck Weaver is traveling with some speed this season.

The University of Virginia baseball team made a profit of $2,421.07 this year.

Bobby Roth is playing a great game for the Macks and is immensely popular with the fans.

Lefty Schorr, a pitcher who started the season with Salt Lake, has been taken on by Seattle.

Del Pratt, Yankee second baseman, is playing a greatly improved game since the Yanks returned home.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have not been hitting to brag about, but this feature of their play is improving steadily.

Pat Don Carlos Rigan, now a Giant, once was considered quite a Giant tamer. That was when he was with Brooklyn.

Pittsfield's heaviest loss is in the absence of Catcher Levine, who has been out of the game with an attack of appendicitis.

Honore Allen, an infielder who entered fame as a player at Georgia Tech, in Atlanta, has been signed by the Dodgers.

The playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner" in ball parks reveals the melancholy fact that Mr. Emslie has more hair than Mr. Klem.

Hooks Warner, back from overseas and out of the army, is practicing with the Pirates and hoping something will happen to permit him to stay on the team.

Lee Meadows of the Cardinals is still one of the best six or seven inning pitchers in the National league. He has been that for three or four years.

Providence used to think it had a corner on Brown University athletes but New Haven now claims two. One is Claude Davidson and the other Billy Murray.

Sam Lewis, claimed by Shreveport and thus rescued from exile to the Three-I league, has shown his appreciation by doing good work for Billy Smith's team.

Voluntary contributions to a fund to erect a memorial to Capt. Eddie Grant, will be received by John B. Foster, travelling secretary of the Giants. Grant was the only officer among ball players killed in France.

Ed Pfeffer, who has been going great guns for the Brooklyn club, attributes his fine condition to the ten-day boiling out period he put in at Hot Springs before he joined the Dodgers in training.

The New York American League Baseball club has secured Albert Wickland from the St. Paul club of the American association. St. Paul will receive a New York player in exchange. Wickland is an outfielder and went to St. Paul this spring from the Boston Nationals.

UNIFORM MAKES HIT The Southern league rule that managers must not appear in uniform unless listed as active players doesn't bother Carlton Molesworth. The fat manager of the Birmingham team dons a flannel shirt and a pair of overalls before each game, puts his team through its hitting and fielding practice as an "active" participant, then retires to the bench when the game begins. His workout rig is said to make a great hit with the fans.

JOE ENGLE TO JERSEY CITY Former Washington Twirler Added to Bill Donovan's List—Others Hook Up With Bears.

Bill Donovan has added a few seasoned players to his Jersey City Cubs, who may help the Hudson county nine get on its feet. Eddie Collins, the Brooklyn lad who played the outfield for several seasons with Pittsburgh and the Braves, has signed with the Jersey outfit. Then Joe Engle, a right-handed pitcher, formerly with Washington, has been added to the Jersey City pitching staff. Engle recently was released by the Cleveland club. Paddy Banman, a former Yank, joined the Skeeters on their trip to the north. Old Cy Fleh, a team mate of Banman's on the Yankees, has hooked up again with the Newark Bears.

WALLY SCHANG IS FAVORED Placed in Fifth Position in Batting Order of Boston Red Sox—Unusual for Catcher.

It is seldom indeed, that a catcher is placed as high as fifth in the batting order of a major league team, as is the case with W. H. Schang of the Boston Red Sox. Schang is not only a fine batter, batting from either side of the plate, but he is a fast base runner, something unusual in a catcher.

Most Wonderful Thing in Her 100 Years of Very Happy Life Is Her Son-in-Law! She Calls Him Ideal

Bloomfield, N. J., July 11.—Mrs. Irene Abbott Cokofair, who recently observed the one hundredth anniversary of her birth—she was born in the same year as Walt Whitman, Julia Ward Howe, Charles A. Dana, Thomas Dunn English, James Russell Lowell, Isaac Thomas Hecker, Elias Howe, who invented the sewing machine, and William Thomas Green Morton, discoverer of the use of ether as an anesthetic—says the most wonderful thing in all her long life is a son-in-law!

Dr. William Ellery Channing, preaching at Baltimore, gave what was called the Unitarian Declaration of Independence and became the leader of his church. Mrs. Cokofair never took up the newfangled way of sewing invented by young Howe, and only two years ago, when a Bloomfield dentist, about to extract one of her teeth, suggested an anesthetic, the little woman remembered young Dr. Green of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and said: "No, I never was much of a hand for these new contraptions, you just go ahead and pull it; I'll be all right."

Mother Cokofair is spry and active as a woman half her age. She is never without her daily newspaper. She eats three meals. She is an attendant at church. Since Uncle Sam went at war she has knitted 100 articles for the Red Cross.

Bloomfield's centenarian, as sweet as that Grandma in the poem called "The Minuet": "Grandma told me all about it. Told me so I could not doubt it. How she danced—my grandma—long ago; How she held her pretty head, How her dainty skirts she spread, How she turned her little toes, Smiling little human rose!"

At twenty-two Irene Abbott became the wife of Samuel Cokofair, who, she says, was the son of a Massachusetts neighbor, but who undoubtedly was related to that Cokofair family which had been prominent in the history of Bloomfield and nearby Jersey from the beginning. The name was originally Coquefair. One-fourth of the inhabitants of New Amsterdam under Governor Stuyvesant, some historians say, were French.

Bloomfield in 1842, when Samuel Cokofair arrived with his young wife, was already a famous little manufacturing village with grist mills, cotton mills, copper rolling mills, paper mills, cotton print works, woolen factories and seventeen merchants. Cokofair became boss dyer in the woolen mill David Oakes had established twelve years before. The mills are still in existence and owned by the same family.

PHONE OPERATORS STRIKE. Cleveland, O., July 12.—Cleveland telephone operators and electrical workers went on strike at six o'clock this morning. ### Kavalla, Tiny Historic Macedonian City, Again Lifts Head After Four Years of Bulgarian Persecution

Kavalla, Macedonia, (by mail).—Few Americans, except perhaps those in the tobacco industry, have ever heard of this little port on the Aegean Sea. Yet it has many features and activities to commend it to the interest of the people of the United States. Here the finest tobacco in the world—the bulk of which is consumed in America—is grown. Here the great American tobacco companies have export headquarters. Here the biggest oil company of the United States and America's greatest relief organization, the American Red Cross, have distributing centers. Indeed, Kavalla has come to have some of the aspects of a real American city. There are so many Americans here that one feels himself only a few hundred miles from home, instead of in the heart of a remote region whose beginnings antedate the birth of Christ.

For years Bulgaria has looked upon Kavalla with a covetous eye. Although defeated and subdued, she looked hopefully to the Peace Congress at Paris to give her Kavalla as a port. Yet Kavalla is not a harbor. It is merely a roadstead affording good anchorage for coastwise steamers. Millions of dollars and endless development would be required to convert the city into a first-class port. But Bulgaria, which now has only the shallow port of Devesgatch at the mouth of the Gulf of Egeus, was and is anxious to get any outlet through Macedonia and the sea for her large output of tobacco, wheat, livestock, silk and attar of roses, and would be quite ready to spend any sum in developing and deepening the harbor.

Kavalla is situated on a rocky peninsula and is dominated by the ruins of an old Venetian fort. It is protected from the south by the Greek island of Thasos. Back from the seacoast is a mountainous district known in Macedonia as the Pangaion. The Pangaion range rises directly from the low-lying Macedonian plain to a height of nearly ten thousand feet and commands an unsurpassed panorama of Kavalla and the historic Aegean. By Americans it is considered the most beautiful range of mountains in Greece. Coursing through the valley, on Pangaion's eastern slope, is the placid Anghista River, which some historical writers believe to be the stream where Paul baptized Lydia. On all sides of the mountains in this region is rich arable land peculiarly adapted to the growth of tobacco. The best leaf in the world is grown here, and so valuable are the fields for tobacco culture that very little else is cultivated.

During the war the Bulgarians adopted in Kavalla the same ruthless practices they followed in all occupied territory. They pillaged and destroyed. They made every effort to make the land uninhabitable. They cut down the trees and carried off furniture and everything made of wood. They sacked the homes and drove the Greek inhabitants out. As a result of all this, when the Greek Commission of the American Red Cross established relief posts here, a few days after the armistice, their representatives found living conditions almost unsupportable. There were no stoves or fuel of any kind, and they shivered even in their heaviest clothing. Later they burned lignite, which they mined themselves in the Pangaion Mountains.

Kavalla was the first city in Macedonia to become a base for Red Cross operations. It was here that, soon after the signing of the armistice, Lieutenant-Colonel Edward Capps, who in peace times is professor of Greek at Princeton University, came with a trainload of supplies and a squad of Red Cross workers and began immediately the task of feeding and clothing the destitute population and the immense number of refugees who had started back from their places of internment to their native country, even before the cessation of hostilities. This work doubtless resulted in saving thousands of persons who might otherwise have succumbed to starvation and exposure.

The natives speak with unbounded gratitude of the help given them by the Americans. They say the food furnished by the American Red Cross was the first substantial nourishment they had in four years. The Bulgarians had carried off everything and left them utterly destitute. Their own government was unable to help them, for the blockade had left Greece short of everything.

No section of the Balkans ever presented a more depressing picture of misery and squalor. When the Americans came in they found the inhabitants dying by the dozen from famine, exposure and typhus. They immediately established soup kitchens and dispensaries and gave out tens of thousands of American-made garments. They sent in doctors, nurses and medical supplies. They distributed hundreds of thousands of loaves of bread made of American flour. They established shelters for the homeless women and children. They cared for the hordes of broken and dispirited Greek and Serbian soldiers who had been released from vile prison camps in Bulgaria. In their devotion to the task of rescuing the typhus-stricken population two of their number lost their lives and three nurses contracted the dread disease.

Pamahaska's Pets

Battle Scene From World War AT CHAUTAUQUA

Shown above is a cut which gives one phase of the famous battle scene from the World War which will be presented on the last night at Chautauqua. This battle scene is a part of the remarkable exhibition of animal and bird intelligence which will be given by the troupe of trained animals and birds known as Pamahasika's Pets.

This battle scene represents an attack upon a German fort. During the engagement the birds fire cannon, set the fort on fire, extinguish the blaze, lower the German flag and run up the national colors in its stead.

Other amazing tricks, the result of the careful training of Professor Pamahasika, will go to make up a program which will delight young and old alike. The program is planned especially as a fitting climax to "Children's Night." Preceding it will come the Junior Play or Pageant, "The Wop." This has a strange name, but it is a play worth while. The children will like to give it and the grown-ups will like to see it given, especially those who have children in the Junior Chautauqua.

The last night at Chautauqua—Children's Night—children, plan to be there with your parents. Parents, plan to take your "kiddies."

EVEN RAT CATCHING GOES HIGHER; NOW COSTS $1,250.

London, July 12.—There seems to be no limit to the increased cost of things in London these hectic days of peace.

The latest rise is in rat catching. The salary of $1,250 a year offered by the Kent County Council for an official rat catcher makes a distinct record, as the same official was only $1,000 by the London City Council the year before the war for $240.

The latest figure, however, compared unfavorably with the $500 a year paid in the eighteenth century to the "Rat Catcher to His Majesty," who was also provided with a scarlet uniform embroidered with yellow "gures o' rats destroying wheat sheaves.

Anger is momentary madness, so control your passion or it will control you.—Horace.

BENNIE HASKELL BUYS HOTEL LIVERY STABLES

Cowles' Property Goes to Well Known Junk Dealer—May Convert Buildings into Tenements.

Bennie Haskell, the well known junk dealer of the south end, has bought the Cowles hotel livery stables and the store building next to the hotel. The deal was closed yesterday afternoon. G. H. Allen, who has owned this property for a long time, traded the property for a two-tenement house that Haskell owned at the corner of Oak and Clinton street. Mr. Haskell is planning to make a small tenement out of the office, in which he will live, and will perhaps turn the large barn connected with the stables into tenement houses. The barn is well built and is not over twelve years old. The sale practically closes up the livery business at the north end.

In the Old Days. At one time the hotel livery stables were among the most popular in the town. That was before the advent of the automobile. Then it was next to impossible to hire a horse and carriage on a pleasant Sunday. On holidays a person who wished to hire a horse and carriage would have to engage it weeks ahead of time in order not to be disappointed. Since the automobile came into general use the livery business has greatly declined.

Mr. Allen, who sold the property, is one of the largest property owners at the north end. Mr. Haskell intends to stay in the junk business and is confident that the business will continue to grow. He has been very successful since coming to Manchester and has built two houses on Clinton street.
