SENATOR NORRIS SAYS ALLIES ACTED AS TRAITORS TO CHINA

Nebraska Senator Speaks in Opposition to League of Nations — Reads Secret
Correspondence Between England and Japan — Accuses All Allies of Duplicity — Will Not Vote for Treaty.

Washington, July 15.—“England, France, Italy and Russia, before the United States entered the war, were in secret agreement with Japan to divide the spoils of victory, rob China and leave her to the tender mercies of the Japanese.” This is a declaration made by Senator Norris of Nebraska, speaking in the Senate against the League of Nations this afternoon.

The Senator has read into Congressional Record certain portions of the diplomatic correspondence which he asserted had passed between Great Britain and Japan and the other allied nations prior to our entry into the war.

“It is clearly disclosed,” declared Senator Norris, “that while the leading powers were inducing China to join them in the great struggle they were secretly plotting her destruction and aiming to get the German ships that were in her harbors for themselves.”

“In all the annals of history,” continued the Senator, “this is the most disgraceful instance of international intrigue to carve up the territory, not of an enemy, but of an allied friend.”

Senator Norris next took up the Shantung clause in the treaty of peace and declared it to be “so indefensible, so unjust and so wicked that it alone would be sufficient to reject the treaty.”

The Senator declared that he would vote against the treaty if it was presented for ratification in its present form.

LONDON GIVES PERSHING A TREMENDOUS OVATION

Arrives at Dover in Destroyer
Orpheus Warships Boom Earsplitting Salute.

London, July 15.—General John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Force, arrived in London from France shortly after noon today and was given a tremendous ovation.

General Pershing had arrived at Dover on the destroyer Orpheus and as the warship moved through the harbor the British men of war and shore batteries fired an ear-splitting salute of welcome.

At Dover General Pershing was met by General Sir H. H. Horne, of the British army and a guard of honor. A special salon car was provided for the trip to London and the train arrived at the Victoria Station at 12.35 o'clock.

Colonel Winston S. Churchill, secretary of state for war, representatives of Field Marshal Haig, the British commander in chief and a guard of honor officially welcomed the American commander at the station.

TO PROBE CHARGES.

Washington, July 15.—Charges that W. B. Colver of the Federal Trade Commission has exerted efforts to discourage export trading will be investigated by the Senate. The Senate today adopted a resolution calling upon the Federal Trade Commission to give the Senate all of its correspondence with British firms and individuals concerning the export of meat from the United States to Great Britain. The resolution was introduced by Senator Sherman and reported out by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

NINTH DISTRICT VOTES TO BUILD $150,000 SCHOOL ON COTTAGE ST.

Mary Cheney Makes Gift to Town of Valuable
Site.

MORE LAND PURCHASED AT A COST OF $16,000

Old Teachers' Hall to Be Maintained by District as Teachers' Home Required by Law.

The presentation of a valuable and well developed tract of land to the Ninth District School by Miss Mary Cheney; the appropriation of $150,000 for the erection of a 16 room school building and an additional appropriation of $16,000 for additional land which is on the north and south sides of the newly acquired gift, were principal transactions of the meeting of the Ninth District School held at High School hall last evening.

At the opening of the meeting called to order by Howell Cheney, a motion was made to appoint Emil L. G. Hohenthal moderator. The meeting proceeded to business which was finished in record breaking time, the eighty five voters present demonstrating their confidence in the Ninth District School committee by approving the 12 clauses of the call without a dissenting vote. Committee members and officers were also re-elected for their respective offices and terms.

On a vote taken to elect two members of the School Committee for terms of three years each, Miss Mary Cheney and Robert J. Smith were elected to succeed themselves. The same procedure applied to a vote to elect a clerk, treasurer, collector and two auditors. Charles R. Hathaway was re-elected clerk and treasurer, George Davidson succeeded himself as collector, R. V. Treat and Earl G. Seaman were again appointed as auditors. The efficient work of George Davidson as collector was demonstrated by the praise bestowed upon him during the course of his ballot.

A motion made on the second clause relative to the election of a member of the Recreation Committee for a term of three years was tabled for further consideration. William C. Cheney was named to succeed himself as a Recreation member, but upon his statement that he had only taken the place made vacant by Captain Phillip Cheney when the latter resigned to enter military service two years ago, the motion in favor of the former was withdrawn. When this business was taken up at a later time Captain Cheney was elected a member of the Recreation Committee for a term of three years.

Treasurer Charles R. Hathaway's report which appears elsewhere was read and approved. The balance in the district treasury at the present time amounts to $23,380. This together with moneys due and payable makes a grand total of $25,000 in the treasury. As the report of the district committee had not yet been prepared it was voted to have it printed and included in the town reports.

An appropriation of $12,000 for the Recreation Committee to develop many important recreation features now under consideration was made. A like sum was also appropriated to meet maturing obligations and the expenses of the district.

A unanimous vote followed the motion made to accept a deed of the tract of land situated on the west side of Spruce street, and known as the east side playgrounds, which had been offered to the district by Miss Mary C. Cheney. A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Che-

About 100 persons attended the meeting for the organization of the hospital board held at the assembly hall of the High School last evening. Something like 3,000 contributors to the hospital fund were entitled to attend and vote, and all had received notice of the meeting by mail. But they evidently thought that the body of men and women who have been steering the project since its inception could be trusted to carry it through.

W. S. Hyde was chosen chairman of the meeting and C. Elmore Watkins secretary. After the charter granted by the General Assembly, and already accepted by the original incorporators, had been approved by the meeting the consideration of the by-laws was undertaken. The original incorporators had already framed a set of by-laws subject to the approval of the meeting. There was no opposition to any of them except the first, which provided that the property and affairs of the corporation should be under the care and management of twelve trustees. Motions to amend this section by increasing the number of trustees to 15, and to 18 were both voted down.

A nominating committee appointed by the original incorporators had prepared a list of 14 nominees and had provided printed ballots with blank spaces for further nominations which might be made at the meeting. Some of those present thought that there should be more nominations and a committee of five was appointed to retire and select a list of 25 nominees. The report of the committee included the original nominees and eleven others. As a result of the balloting 12 of the original nominees were chosen by large majorities, the others counting into the scattering. The result was doubtless due to the fact that the original list of nominees had been selected with care, having in mind the executive ability of the candidates and their record for efficient public service in the past.

Fund Now $190,993.40.
C. Elmore Watkins, who was chairman of the hospital drive, announced that the fund now amounted to $190,993.40. Of this amount the general public contributed $127,328.93. The remaining $63,664.47 was contributed by Cheney Brothers in accordance with their offer to add 50 per cent to all other subscriptions.

Pledges Now Due.
Mr. Watkins announced that subscription pledges were now due and that payment should be made to the Manchester Trust Company.

By Laws Adopted.
1. The property and affairs of this Corporation shall be under the care and management of twelve (12) trustees.
2. It shall be the duty of the President to preside at all meetings

SEN. UNDERWOOD FOR LEAGUE; “FUTURE PEACE OF THE WORLD DEPENDS ON IT”, HE DECLARES

Boston's Shipping At Standstill; Coal and Food Supplies Cut Off

Boston, July 15.—All Boston seaport shipping was today practically at a standstill as the result of a strike by members of the International Seamen's Union, who have rejected the offer of the United States Shipping Board to mediate their dispute over demands for substantial increase in pay.

The crew of two score American owned vessels in the harbor left the ships.

The cutting off of foodstuff supplies from the city and the curtailing of its source of coal supply was viewed with alarm.

Of the companies in Boston who were not affected by the strike action was the Eastern Steamship Company, Inc., and the Nantasket and Provincetown Excursion lines. They have made tentative arrangements for meeting the demands of the Marine Workers.

PRESIDENT TO FIGHT TO LAST DITCH AGAINST CHANGES IN PEACE TREATY

18 YEAR OLD BOY TELLS HOW HE KILLED HIS BOSS

He and a Companion Struck G. C.
Hull On Head With Hammer and Stole Cash.

New York, July 15.—Without the slightest trace of emotion, eighteen year old Edward O'Brien told the police of Avon, N. J., early today how he and Edward Early Paige, 20, planned and executed the robbery and murder of Gardner C. Hull, wholesale stationer, the Avon authorities telephoned the New York police.

O'Brien denied that he took any part in the actual murder. He said he and Paige, who were employed as messenger boys by Hull, planned to rob the stationer several months ago. “Last Friday Paige pretended to be ill,” said O'Brien. “I stayed behind with him in the stockroom until the stenographer went home. Paige put a hammer under his coat and then asked the old man for his salary. As Mr. Hull opened the cash drawer Paige hit him twice over the head with the hammer. Paige grabbed the silver and I grabbed the bills as the old man sank in his chair.”

The two boys were suspected when they failed to reappear for work Monday morning. O'Brien was caught visiting his mother in Avon and Paige was arrested in Philadelphia, where he was found working in a hotel.

CORONER MIX PROBING CAUSE OF R. R. WRECK

Two Laborers Crushed to Death and Six Injured—Misunderstanding of Orders.

New Haven, July 15.—Coroner Ell Mix began this forenoon a hearing to determine responsibility for the wreck on the New Haven road at Montwese late yesterday in which two laborers were crushed to death and six injured, two seriously, when part of a work train backed into an open siding piling a caobose on top of a work car in which were 59 laborers, most of them Italians, John Ferrucci and James Santes, of this city were killed and Carmine Comforte and Manuel Gomes are in the hospital in a serious condition. One of the injured was discharged from the hospital last night and three others were reported in good condition today.

Engineer Thomas Berrigan, of Westfield, Mass., and Conductor Daniel F. Sullivan, of the work train, who were held by the coroner in $15,000 bail in connection with the wreck, were the members of the crew examined by the coroner today. It is stated that Derrigan pulled his train out on the main track and backed up, supposing the switch to the siding was closed, his train going into the work car. A misunderstanding of orders between Conductor Sullivan and Derrigan is said to have caused the wreck.

Wilson Anxious to Explain Shantung Agreement — Japan and China Had Secret Agreement in This Matter.

Washington, July 15.—President Wilson will fight to the last ditch against reservations by the United States to the German peace treaty. This was again emphasized by administration leaders today.

Predictions that the President would agree to “inconsequential changes” through reservations to “save the faces” of certain Senators were said to be utterly without foundation by administration leaders. They insisted that the President has thoroughly canvassed the general situation and that he is convinced that the opposition cannot muster enough Senate votes for any single reservation in order to incorporate it in the treaty.

Met Senators Personally.
Since his arrival in Washington the President has dealt personally with certain Democratic Senators who were reported to be wavering in their support of the treaty. As a result of these conferences Mr. Wilson was said, by the men closest to him, to be certain that there will not be more than one Democratic Senator—Reed, of Missouri—recorded in favor of any modifications of the treaty. The President also believes, that, so far as the Shantung agreement is concerned, he will be able to explain his action in this connection so that certain Republican votes which are lined up in opposition to the treaty largely because of this one provision will be available for ratification.

Anxious to Explain.
The President is very anxious, his advisers say, to explain the Shantung situation to the Senate. He has discovered that many of the facts concerning these negotiations have not been made plain, even to administration lieutenants, in the upper branch of the Congress. When the President appears before the Foreign Relations Committee to tell of these negotiations he will make the following revelations:

“First, that Great Britain, France and Italy had bound themselves in the most explicit terms, by a secret treaty entered into with Japan at the commencement of the war, to confer in perpetuity on Japan all rights and benefits enjoyed by Germany under its ‘term’ treaty with China extorted from the latter country.

Another Secret Pact.
Second, that the Chinese government also had entered into a secret agreement with Tokio—Chinese diplomats say it was extorted—whereby Japan was given concessions along the lines of the so-called 22 demands originally insisted on by Japan and later reluctantly with-

7 KILLED BY EXPLOSION ON BOARD MINE SWEEPER

Vessel Sunk Within Seven Minutes
—18 Members of Crew Saved.

Washington, July 15.—Lieutenant Commander Frank R. King and six members of the crew of the U. S. S. Trawler Richard Buckley were killed while mine-sweeping in the North Sea July 12, Vice Admiral Knapp today informed the Navy Department. The fatality was caused by the explosion of a mine the men had just removed from the water.

The trawler was sunk by the force of the explosion, going down in six or seven minutes, the position being latitude 59.32 north and longitude 0.32 minutes and 30 seconds east. Two officers and sixteen men of the crew were saved and Lieutenant Frederick G. Keyes and Lieutenant Junior Grade Walter J. Shaon were slightly injured.

Of the men who lost their lives, only one body has been recovered, that of Antonio Perfidio, a cook, first class, Brooklyn, N. Y., whose body is now being prepared for shipment to the United States.

The Dead.
The other dead are:

Floyd Harman, engineman, Roanoke, Ind.; John V. Mallon, seaman, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Homer Purdue, seaman, Washington Court House, Ohio; George P. Rezab, fireman, Waterman, Minn.; George N. Sowers, fireman, Knoblick, Ky.; King's home was in Bremerton, Washington.

UNDERWOOD MEN STRIKE WHEN DENIED INCREASE

Want Eighty Cents An Hour For Eight Hour Day—200 In Walk-Out—Company Firm.

About 200 polishers, platers and grinders of the Underwood Typewriter company went on strike this morning when the company refused their demands for higher wages. The men are holding a meeting in Central Labor Union Hall this afternoon to discuss the situation. The demands are for 80 cents an hour, time and a half for overtime, with eight hours constituting a day's work. These demands were made Thursday and the company was given until this morning to answer. At a conference yesterday afternoon it was made known that the company would not give in to the demands and as a result the strike notice was served.

President A. P. Krone of the Central Labor Union, one of the strikers in charge of the walkout, assisted by W. F. Cronin, Miss Elizabeth Colbert, Miss Larson, Joseph Duffy and Michale Kelly. The present rate of wages is 44 1-2 cents an hour with a 10 per cent monthly bonus. There is also a profit sharing plan whereby an employee after five years can get common stock, the bonus going toward the payment. Because of the strike many of the men may lose the money that is coming to them next April under the profit sharing plan.

AMBASSADOR TO U. S.

London, July 15.—The Marquis of Salisbury may succeed Lord Reading as British Ambassador to the United States, according to a report current in political circles today. The Marquis, who is 58 years old, was under Secretary for Foreign Affairs from 1900 to 1903.

Washington, July 15.—Characterizing the League of Nations as “the starting on the highway of peace”, Senator Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, who heretofore had been regarded as a doubtful supporter of the League, announced in a speech in the Senate this afternoon that he would support the League without amendment or reservation.

Conditions, Not a Theory.
“We face a condition, not a theory,” said Senator Underwood. “Dangers to our people and our republic that were not dreamed of a century ago confront us today at our very doors, a threatening menace to our lives, our civilization and our institutions. Shall we continue to dream of the ideals of the past, or meet as practical men the dangers of the future?”

Future Peace of World.
“The foremost question in the mind of America today is the future preservation of the peace of the world, and well may this be so. There may have been many causes of war in the past, but the dominating causes of war among the great nations of the world have been the desire for the possession of lands and colonies.

“I am not prepared to say that the adoption of the present treaty carries within itself the elimination of these causes of war, or that in the end there will be no more wars; but I do say that, within the folds of this treaty, we find an agreement between the great nations of the world that will probably in the future carry the questions of nation dispute to a court of final arbitration and in many if not most instances, avoid the horrors and injustices of war.

Let me say that I don't regard the organization of the league as a super government. No super-government could exist without power to maintain itself.

No Cause for Worry.
“The announcement of withdrawal from the compact by either France, the United States or Great Britain, would at once destroy the binding force and moral power of the League in the world's affairs. So, with the right to withdraw, I feel that there is no need to fear the dangerous surrender of any of the fundamental principles and rights of the American people.

Therefore, I am willing to take it and try it and hope that from the seed that is planted today, in its fruition, the final peace of the world may be found.

World to Disarm.
“This is not a strong or definite agreement, but-out of its terms I am hopeful that there will come a gradual disarmament of the world, the lifting of the burden of the preparation for war from the shoulders of striving humanity, and the greater inducement to settle disputes through the high court of arbitration, rather than the decision of brutal force.”

PRESIDENT WILL FIGHT AGAINST TREATY CHANGE

drawn following a vigorous protest by the State Department. Produced the Proof.

Third, that when he (President

Wilson) after a conference with Wellington Koo, one of the Chinese peace commissioners, protested against Japan retaining any rights whatever at Shantung, the representative of Great Britain, Mr. Lloyd George; of France, M. Clemenceau, and Premier Orlando of Italy, produced the secret treaty and announced that its terms were in every way binding upon them and they were prepared to insist that Japan should have all concessions promised. This left the United States absolutely alone in opposition. Fourth, that for more than ten days he (the President) fought the Japanese claims with the result that he secured the following modifications which were agreed to by the Japanese peace delegates and ratified by the British, French and Italian premiers:

Japan's Concessions. That Japan will surrender to China all territorial rights within the Shantung Peninsula, including the fortified area of Tsing-Tau; agree to withdraw all Japanese troops from the area of the peninsula, reserving only the right to create four settlements thereon, but outside of the fortified districts; that Japan will substitute Chinese police for Japanese railway guards; reserving the right, however, first to train them with Japanese officers; that Japan will retain the ownership and operation rights of the railway lines on the peninsula but will accept jurisdiction by the League of Nations council when formed regarding the term that such ownership and operation shall continue.

Found Cards Stacked. How far this explanation will go towards satisfying the Senators who have opposed the Shantung settlement in every way cannot be forecast at the present time. However, administration leaders believe that it will win votes inasmuch as it is conceded that the President found the cards stacked on this question and Japan and her claims solidly supported by her original allies in the war.

So far as the opposition to section ten of the League of Nations constitution is concerned the President, his advisors say, will call the attention of the Senators to the fact that in order that any action under that section should be binding upon the United States that action must be approved by the United States itself through its representative on the council. And it will be argued that approval would certainly be withheld until the attitude of the American people towards the problem under discussion could be ascertained.

CROWDS FIND THRILLS AT O'BRIEN'S SHOWS

Plenty of Amusement and Excitement in the Many Tents and Side-Shows on Old Ball Lot.

O'Brien's Exposition Shows have taken possession of the ball grounds on Main street and every night this week their bands will blare, Ferris wheel spin, merry-go-round, whirl and dare-devil motor cyclists defy every known law of gravity, equilibrium and, one might almost say, common sense. Mingling with music and the explosions of the high powered cycles, the shouts of "barkers" vie with one another in their enticing oratory.

In the side-shows may be found feasts for the eyes and stimuli for the imagination. There are games that require skill of the hand, steadiness of the nerve, and strength of the arm. And then there are games of big chance and small chance. Last night the shows were well patronized and tonight even larger crowds are expected. The carnival manages to combine many of the features of the old time circus together with some stunts that are entirely new.

MRS. LILLIAN C. BALL. Mrs. Lillian Caverly Ball, 45 years old, wife of John M. Ball of Windsor Locks died suddenly Saturday morning at the home of John Ball Sr., Burnside. She leaves two sons, Irvin D. Ball and Richard M. Ball, also two brothers, Latting Caverly of William street and Henry Caverly of Burnside. The funeral was held Monday afternoon with burial at the Center cemetery, East Hartford. Rev. William Duncock of the Methodist church officiating. A quartette sang two selections, "The Homeland" and "Good Night."

With the addition of the new concern the colony of paper manufacturing mills in the town will be the largest in this section of the state. The incorporators of the concern which is to start business with a capital of $100,000 are: William Liebman of Boston, David E. Greenberg of Hartford, F. Bert Oldham of Hartford, P. E. Haskevitch of Melrose and Francis E. Jones of Hartford.

POLICE CLOSE GAMBLING GAME. Two of the booths stationed on the midway of the carnival grounds were closed by the police last evening because of illegal operations. Both of these contained what is known as a percentage wheel. They were camouflaged by an assortment of empty cigar boxes. A member of the police force, however, has been schooled in the well worn art of "graft," and he detected the concessionists operating the wheels. These booths will remain closed for the rest of the week.

ABOUT TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Symington and son Clifford are visiting friends at Westerly, R. I.

The employees in the broadgoods warehouse of Cheney Brothers' plant enjoyed a dog roast at Sunset Hill last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stevenson and daughter of Paterson, N. J., formerly of this town have been visiting here for the past two weeks. Fred Barbeau, trap drummer at the Park theatre, is enjoying his annual vacation. Barbeau and a party of friends are camping in Coventry.

Morton and Ray Chapnick of Birch street were taken to the Hartford Hospital this morning. Both will undergo operations.

The newly organized Junior Soccer Football team of Manchester will hold a meeting at the Recreation Center on Thursday evening at 7.30. The scarcity of rooms is again noticeable in Manchester. The Herald's office is sought daily with applications and inquiries for rooms. It is said that the carnival people had a hard time obtaining accommodations.

Word has been received in town that Thomas Weldon, son of Dr. T. H. Weldon, who is summering at the Weldon cottage at Crescent Beach, is improving rapidly. "Tommy" is now able to walk around and enjoy short dips in the briny.

The members of the class of '18 of the South Manchester High School will hold a reunion and "dog roast" at the Strickland farm in Gilread tomorrow. It was previously announced that the event was to take place at Sunset Hill, but it was later decided to hold it at the Strickland farm.

Diogenes must have passed up Manchester when he went on his famous search with a lantern for an honest man. Yesterday afternoon J. W. Phelps of Bolton found a pocket-book on Main street which he left at the south end office for identification. No, it wasn't empty. It was full of bills—green ones.

FIELD DAY TO SOUND ASSEMBLY FOR 102ND

All Present and Former Members Invited to Meet at Event for Permanent Organization.

Tentative plans which are now being made for the formation of the 102nd Infantry Association will assume definite shape, in all probability, in time for the 102nd's Field Day, which will be held at "Swift's" Momauglin Beach, on Saturday, August 23. This is open to all former members of this organization and the final arrangements for the formation of an association will be announced at that time.

Local ex-service men desiring information on this subject may obtain it from Major M. A. Connor Major Emerson G. Taylor or Major Clarence M. Thompson of Hartford. These officers are co-operating with other military men in planning arrangements for the day.

Major James A. Haggerty, Major Charles W. Comfort and Captain C. E. Lookhart are taking care of the New Haven division, while Lieutenant James Hurley and Captain J. B. Fullerton are looking out for the Waterbury and Willimantic ends, respectively.

BELLOPS MOURN DEMISE OF OLE JOHN BARLEYCORN.

New York, July 15.—The grand old days when visitors to New York came to see the white lights and left behind them a trail of $1 to $10 tips to all who served them are no more. Those days, it is now agreed among hotel and cafe men, went out with the demise of J. Barleycorn.

"From now on the best we can figure on is a dime, a quarter and occasionally a half dollar," said one of the leading bellhops in New York, who, incidentally, has his own country place out on Long Island, with a garage, touring car and other twentieth century "necessities." "The average bell boy in one of the big hotels has in the past knocked off from $25 to $50 a day on good days, but we'll be lucky now if we make $10 or $15. On June 30 I collected $42 in tips; on July 1 my day shrunk to $15, and I'm afraid that it is going to be considered a good day in the future."

"WETS" ARE DEFEATED IN VOTE AFTER VOTE BY "DRYS" IN HOUSE

Prohibition Forces Display Overwhelming Strength in Congress

2.75 PER CENT BEER IS VOTED DOWN 151-90

Galleries Filled With Anti-Liquor Enthusiasts—Disturbances Greatest of Session—"Wets" Never Have Chance.

Washington, July 15.—A great demonstration of power was made by the "dry" forces in Congress yesterday. Though they resorted to every known parliamentary strategy in an attempt to introduce legislation that would relax the prohibition laws the "wet" element of the House was repeatedly voted to defeat.

A motion to repeal the war time prohibition act was not even allowed to come to a vote. An amendment providing for the sale of 2 3-4 per cent beer was rejected 151 to 90 and every effort to alter the general enforcement measure was met with solid and triumphant opposition.

Private Stock. Before the House had disposed of the first section of the first part of the three-part bill there was more disorder on the floor than at any time this session. The disturbance started first during an attempt by Representative Blanton, Democrat, of Texas to speak a second time against an amendment, which would have given to a jury the right to define intoxicants, and was increased during the address by Representative Gallivan, Democrat, of Massachusetts, who declared that members voting "dry" should print in the Congressional Record exactly how much liquor they had stored in their homes and offices.

The Big Fight. The real battle of the day, however, was over the amendment to define an intoxicant as a beverage containing more than 2 3-4 per cent of alcohol, instead of more than one-half of 1 per cent as written in the bill.

Representative Dyer, Republican, of Missouri, author of the amendment, did not ask for this definition in the constitutional prohibition amendment, but simply the wartime law. In pleading for its adoption he declared it was what President Wilson had recommended to Congress and would permit during the remaining period of wartime prohibition, the sale of light wines and beer, and might delay issuance of a proclamation by the President which would restore the sale of "hard" liquors.

There was a round of speech-making on this motion, with the "drys" assailing it as an entering wedge, and the "wets" asserting that it would merely permit the very thing that the President had said was best for the country for the next six months.

After the 2 3-4 per cent beer had been beaten by a vote of 151 to 90, the prohibitionists killed another amendment by Representative Igoe, Democrat, of Missouri, which would have stricken out all definition of intoxicants. The vote was 128 to 83.

Drys in Galleries.

There was the utmost confusion at times, despite the vigorous waacks of the speaker's gavel. Some prohibition leaders applauded every move in their favor. The galleries, filled largely with women and officers of anti-liquor organizations, broke into applause when the House roared its disapproval of 2 3-4 per cent beer.

Adults attending the picnic will be expected to contribute 50 cents.

Park Theater Circle Theater

One of the largest sets ever built in a motion picture studio is that of the Palm Garden cabaret in Elsie Ferguson's latest Artercraft picture "Eyes of the Soul," which will be shown at the Park theater tonight and tomorrow. It is a full sized cabaret, a flight of steps leading up to the stage from the restaurant floor and a length of restaurant which takes in perhaps twenty-five tables within the camera's range.

The story deals with a little cabaret dancer who is loved by an elderly man, a judge and a member of one of the South's finest families. He is first attracted to her by her beauty and grace, and after making her acquaintance, he realizes that not only is she possessed of a curious code of her own by which she lives, but she has many excellent qualities.

Miss Ferguson portrays the stellar part, wearing a costume resembling that of a pigeon. A dancing instructor was engaged to give Miss Ferguson a few lessons in a bird dance and walk, which she does admirably. She is accompanied by twenty girls all chosen for their grace and beauty from Broadway shows.

When the carrier pigeon makes her way slowly down the steps from the cabaret stage in time with the music, the Judge ties a note on her wrist. The pigeon takes the note back to the dressing room, and after reading it, well—things begin to look different in her life, and it wouldn't be fair to tell the story. The picture is based upon George Weston's story, "The Salt of the Earth" which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post.

Remember Elsie has a large following in Manchester. In fact, outside of Charlie Chaplin, she draws the biggest houses, so it would be wise for local movie fans to be around to the Popular Playhouse early tonight.

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.—Sir Philip Sidney.

HALE'S ANNIVERSARY SALE.

Features Exceptionally Low Prices in the Face of an Advancing Market.

Hale's 22nd Anniversary Sale, which opened with a rush last Friday morning, is offering a feast of bargains for thrifty buyers this week. People who realize that stocks are advancing sharply are stocking up for future needs.

In cotton goods especially the wholesale prices are going up week by week and housekeepers in need of sheets, pillow cases, towels and the like will do well to anticipate their needs for at least a year. Goods of this kind are being offered at this sale at prices which in many instances it would be impossible to duplicate at wholesale today.

Hosiery and underwear will be subject to stiff advances in price in the near future and the prices at which they are offered during the sale represent big savings over what one will have to pay a little later.

Especially attractive are the showings in silk and cotton waists and the offerings of crepe and Georgette waists at $2.98 and $3.98 will be hard to duplicate. The millinery department, too, offers a host of most attractive bargains.

The drug department, recently enlarged, offers a large assortment of household remedies and toilet articles at prices that compare favorably with those of the city department stores.

Every department in the big store has exceptional bargains to offer during the sale, which will continue through this week. It is a real money saving sale.

A sample of the type of bicycle saddles offered for sale in Denmark by German manufacturers has been received by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce from Commercial Attache Erwin W. Thompson of Copenhagen. This saddle may be examined at the New York district office of the Bureau upon referring to File No. 20638.

TO THE MASTERS OF THE POST.

We have a problem in arithmetic which we are willing to take north to Postmaster Fred Wall or south to Postmaster Thomas Quish or way south to Postmaster Burleson. These gentlemen have ruled the multiplication table out of date. Time was when 2 x 3 was exactly and irrevocably equal to 3 x 2 but that was in the good old days before the country got all confused with mathematical problems like the 14 points, and a beverage having something to do with 2.75 per cent.

Anyhow it is now true that when you come to the post office window two threes are not equal to three twos. Stamps can not be redeemed on that basis—so have ruled the mighty ones at Washington and so rule the P. M.'s throughout the length and breadth of this great land which has been made so safe for Democratic post masters.

Paste two three cent stamps on a package and it will be carried as cheerfully as though it had three two's attached. Present three-cent stamped envelopes at the window and you will receive their equivalent in two-cent ones. But lay down some of those three-cent stamps you purchased a few weeks ago, even as late as June 30, and you will be told that they have no equivalent in their red faced, two-cent brothers.

The sign "Goods Purchased Here Can Not Be Exchanged" has some reason in it when hung over the counter where teething rings and hair brushes are sold but we can not grasp the logic of it over the stamp window of a U. S. P. O.

ENGLAND'S FATE.

The fall of the British Empire has been long a subject for historical and political speculation but with the coming of de Valera "President of the Irish Republic" that subject passes from the realm of academic consideration to that of possible fact.

If the Empire is to fall apart there is no doubt that its most recalcitrant portion will be the first to break away. The question which de Valera really presents to us is whether we wish to aid in the process of dissolution. The Irish leader is confident that the Empire is going to pieces so far as his country is concerned. What he actually asks us to do is to deal one of the shattering blows.

No man can be for the particular brand of Irish patriotism which de Valera represents and not be against the British Empire. Is the fate of that Empire a matter which the American people desire to decide and can they range themselves against that Empire and not precipitate a breach between this nation and Great Britain? In these questions is the real significance of the Irish liberty movement that is now sweeping this country.

We do not believe that Irish liberalism of the de Valera brand will gain the support of the American people to any considerable extent. The reason is not because it is anti-English but because it is anti-American. Friends of England are few and far between in certain sections of this country but the United States of America still holds a sacred place in the hearts of most of its citizens. Mr. de Valera has addressed tremendous meetings here and at two of the largest—New York and Chicago—the President of the United States was hissed, the League of Nations was booed and men who have been notorious for their pro-Germanism during the war were roundly cheered. Such demonstrations are contrary to the sober judgment of American citizens and they are against the best interests of this country. If the Irish hot heads could only see they are against the best interests of Ireland.

Meanwhile, the British government seems to be hopelessly floundering in its effort to meet the situation. Sinn Fein has struck when the strength of England is at low ebb and the government, so far, has shown a sort of blind confusion from the blow. If Lloyd George falls to act or acts unwisely he is lost yet the time when action of some sort must be taken is fast approaching.

GERMANS TO USE ZEPS TO BRING FOOD HOME

To Be Twice the Size of R-34 and Capable of Carrying 360 Tons—To Start in October.

New York, July 15.—That Zeppelins several times the size of the R-34 and capable of carrying 360 tons of freight, will begin making regular trips between German and American ports within a year, was the positive declaration today of Hans Kahrs, of the Monopol Export and Import Union, who caused the following advertisement to be inserted in the German language papers here:

"Advance note: Commencing October 18: 'Over-ocean-sea' passenger and freight service between Dusseldorf-Berlin-Hamburg-New York-Boston-Chicago.

"Booking on and after September 8."

American Banker Interested.
Kahrs said he had arranged for the advertising at the request of an American banker whose name he was not privileged to make public. The banker, he said, is agent for a trans-Atlantic freight and passenger service to be financed by German, American and British capital. He said he had few details about the new air service, but that the first flight would be made very soon and that Dusseldorf and Berlin, in Germany and Boston and Chicago in this country were to be the principal air ports. A tentative price of $91 a ton for freight, about $30 more than the present steamship rate, has been set, according to Kahrs.

Won't Violate Treaty.
Kahrs said he was informed that a German commission which will shortly arrive here to purchase food will arrange for the flights and that on the initial trips Zeppelins will carry back to Germany large quantities of foodstuffs. He said he believed this commission would be in a position to give guarantees that would make it possible to carry on the service without violating the terms of the treaty of peace by which Germany surrenders all dirigibles.

TO ASK LLOYD GEORGE ABOUT CARSON'S SPEECH

Food Controller Clynes Wants to Know if Parliament Will Take Any Action.

London, July 15.—Former Food Controller John Robert Clynes, on behalf of the labor party, plans to ask Prime Minister Lloyd George this afternoon what action the government proposes to take "to show equality before the law of those who threaten violent measures and if the law will be carried out," according to the Parliamentary lobby correspondent of the Times.

Mr. Clynes' interpellation refers to the Orange Day speech of Sir Edward Carson in Belfast when he demanded the repeal of the home rule bill and threatened the use of Ulster volunteers, an anti-home rule force that was mustered and trained in the north of Ireland.

The Morning Post in an editorial welcomes Sir Edward's declarations. "They afford an immense relief," says this newspaper. "Sir Edward has once more rendered a great public service. Americans would not consent to waive the Monroe Doctrine for the purchase of any one's good will. They will respect the determination to assert British sovereignty within the British frontiers. "There is a strong current of opinion in the United States opposed to interference in British internal politics which is strengthened rather than enfeebled by Sir Edward Carson's uncompromising words."

NO MORE SPEED TRAPS.

Connecticut's new automobile law abolishes "speed traps" and penalizes reckless driving regardless of the actual speed. That is common sense and brings the question of motor regulation down to the real point. It is not the speed but the way of driving the vehicle that menaces.

POLK GOING TO PARIS.

Washington, July 15.—Frank L. Polk, under secretary of state, who is soon to go to Paris to succeed Secretary of State Lansing as head of the American peace mission, is being prominently mentioned for appointment as the United States Ambassador to Berlin, when the Senate ratifies the peace treaty. Polk's work as actual head of the State Department, while President Wilson and Secretary Lansing were in Paris, won him the respect of the President and it is believed he can have the Berlin post if he wants it.

A WORLD WIDE OPEN

The English Speaking Nations Shall Lead the World If They Co-operate—Jealousy Between the U. S. and England Fatal—Our Common Advantages.

BY WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE. (In The New Europe).

The English-speaking people have arrived at that place in their economic evolution where war no longer pays. They fight well—the German knows that—but they can trade better than they can fight their way into domination.

A frontier no longer bothers them. From the point of view of gaining economic influence inside any border or of securing political advantage for the English-speaking races today, with their equipment of ships and machines and their trading instinct, it is vastly better to trade than to fight.

We have the raw materials, we have the genius for mass production, we have ships, we have our own ports in every quarter of the globe, we have facilities for making the short haul from these ports, of either assembly or manufacture, to any land that needs the things we have for sale, and then, best of all, we have the league of nations. For the league of nations, whatever else it does or fails to do, does afford to the trader of the world a sure protection in his international trade—such a protection as never surrounded commerce before.

Under the league of nations "the whole world loves" a trader, and we, the English-speaking nations, by ancient breeding, by reason of our vast natural resources, all carefully tucked away in absolutely undisputed boundaries, by our far and yet even advance in economic, industrial, social and political evolution, are the world's traders.

To restate this: We English-speaking people, bred of the Old strain, all mixed and set—the Saxons, the Celts and the Northmen—face no danger of our stock degenerating through a native cross in any new colony, for we are firmly planted near every people who are rising in the economic scale whether in Africa, Asia, South America, Eastern Europe or the islands of the sea.

And thus we are planted near these natural markets for the wares of an advanced civilization while, as a people who have gone through the infantile diseases of a race, we all of us—Britons, Americans, Australians, Irish, New Zealanders, South Africans, Canadians—have solved or are peacefully solving through evolutionary processes, our problems of the economic distribution of wealth, of the political distribution of power, of social adjustment and of industrial organization. We shall not have to waste our strength on these things.

This is true of no other race, except, perhaps, of the Germans, and their taste for war has given them plenty of handicaps and distractions to last them through the next two or three decades. Even our good friends the French will have problems of colonizations, transportation, home, finance and European continental politics to keep them too busy to dominate the world's commercial highways for a generation. The field is wide open to the English-speaking people—

II!
If they co-operate, share the same ideals, the same habits, the same opportunity—they must hunt in a pack.

That does not mean close political union; for, in the plane of civilization upon which the English-speaking people are moving, political forms have ceased to be of great consequence. They concern interior national development, not exterior relations. America, for instance, which is quite outside the political union binding the other English-speaking peoples, is quite as much a part of the Union to all intents as South Africa or Australia. But co-operation in aims, in ideals, in peaceful competition for the world's business, is necessary.

Jealously is fatal.

The United States and the United Kingdom and the British Empire have each learned the great necessary lesson of internal national co-operation. It is their great secret—this genius for huge combination. They must now learn that lesson in inter-nation co-operation. By its strength it will save for humanity the ideals we fought for in the great war. For the example of this co-operation of the English-speaking peoples will prove what may be done by all mankind.

If we can make an English-speaking group function automatically without force, without intrigue, without pacts, treaties or covenants—make it work merely because it should work in the interest of intelligent self-interest, then we can make the same idea function for the salvation of the world in the league of nations. If we fail, the league fails.

REDS MAY CRUMPLE UP MR. MCGRAW'S AMBITION

Giants Holding the Lead Now But Any Moment Their Infield May Crack.

New York, July 15.—The Cincinnati Reds loom up as a dangerous obstacle in the way of John McGraw's ambition to annex his sixth National League pennant.

Rejuvenated by Pat Moran, the Reds are making a nip and tuck race of it with New York for the honor of leading the league, and though the Giants are enjoying the advantage of playing at home this month, they are fighting against the stiffest kind of opposition from every quarter.

Since the National League season got under way and the Giants found their stride, hard hitting by the team as a whole has been mainly responsible for keeping it in the race and enabling it to show rival teams the way.

McGraw's Men Leading.
McGraw's men are leading their league in hitting, the last averages showing the Giants batting at a .277 clip as a team. The stick work of Burns, Kauff and Young has featured the Giant attack at all times. This trio of outfielders is the class of the National League in all-around ability. They are all hitting better than 300 now.

The batting of Chase, Fletcher, Zimmerman and Doyle, while not as sensational, has been timely. The veteran infielders have been driving home runs consistently all season in addition to holding up under the strain of a hot race and the hottest kind of opposition.

Pitching Staff Weak.
McGraw's pitching staff is weak and should the team lose its batting punch or the veteran infield suddenly crack, New York pennant hopes would fade away. Barnes, Causey and Benton have been the only dependable pitchers on the team so far this season. This trio of pitchers has worked in more than forty games and chalked up thirty of New York's 46 victories.

Today the Giants are leading their league once again, but they are only a nose ahead of the Reds and unless they establish a more comfortable lead before they take to the road again it is considered doubtful here that they will be able to win the pennant. The month of July, in fact, may see a break in at least one of the three leading teams—New York, Cincinnati and Chicago.

Beware that thou never tell thy dreams in company; for notwithstanding thou mayest take a pleasure in telling thy dreams, the company will take no pleasure in hearing them.—Epictetus.

MAY A BUSY MONTH FOR HOME Y. M. C. A.

Various Huts Entertain Millions of Visitors With Thousands of Entertainments, Movie Shows and Athletic Games.

Boston, Mass., July 15.—Despite demobilization, attendance approximated 9,000,000 men in uniform at the Y. M. C. A. Huts in the United States, during May, according to a report on the home war work of the Y for that month, just issued by the National War Council, Northeastern Department.

These visitors, the exact number being 8,909,251, wrote 4,452,736 letters on Y. M. C. A. stationery, and obtained through Y secretaries money orders aggregating $392,416.78, $24,018.40 in New England. For their pleasure, 2,764 entertainments were given to audiences totalling $32,734, while 1,851,829 of them saw the 5,993 motion picture shows during the month, 520 of which were given in New England.

Athletic activities were carried on at all points where soldiers, sailors and marines were stationed. Participants in these sports, equipment for which was provided by the Y, totalled 1,351,817, 117,355 in New England camps. Spectators at the various games and contests reached a total of 265,744 in this department and 2,087,695 in the United States.

Y huts were also centers of educational and religious work for enlisted men. More than 10,000 educational classes for the study of subjects of practical value in civilian life were held, with 86,498 students in attendance. The number of lectures recorded for the month is 2,116 and the attendance at these $35,074, 34,380 of whom studied in the Northeastern Department. The hut libraries lent the men 140,897 books, a total for the country and 9,394 in New England alone.

In the religious field 4,465 meetings were held, and these were attended by 410,340 men. There were also 2,955 Bible class meetings, which 53,761 attended. Bibles and testaments totalling 105,032 were distributed. Religious workers held personal interviews with 48,473 men, and Christian decisions were made by 4,052.

Lands On Diamond in Time to Yell "Batter Up"—Astounds Spectators.

Treves, Germany, July 15.—Tommy O'Mara, former Connecticut League baseball player, flew from Colombey-les-Belles, France, to Treves, 120 miles, to umpire a game between two teams of the 7th Division, American army of occupation. O'Mara is athletic director of the Knights of Columbus in Germany. Lieutenant R. C. Williams, of Winchendon, Mass., was pilot of the airplane.

To the astonishment of the spectators, just before the game started, Williams swooped his plane right into the diamond, and O'Mara, wearing chest protector and mask, stepped out of the machine and called "Batter up!"

TRANSPORT NEEDS AID.

New York, July 15.—The United States steamer Ossipee, of the coast guard service, is today enroute to the aid of the naval transport Edward Luckenbach, which sent out a wireless message late yesterday, reporting that she was disabled at sea with her main shaft broken. ney for the gift of this valuable tract.

The question of authorizing the committee to construct, lease or maintain a home for teachers in accordance with the provisions of section 1014 of the General Statutes of the state was taken up. Howell B. Cheney representing Cheney Brothers, owners of the present Teachers' Hall, offered this building to the district for the rental of one dollar a year. The taxes, insurance and interior repairs were to be kept up by the district, while Cheney Brothers would look after the exterior.

With an appropriation of $26,000 to cover the yearly expenses Mr. Cheney stated that this building under the direct management of the district committee would be of no additional expense. The appropriation would cover all items and there would be no deficit. It was voted to accept the proposition and an appropriation was made for $26,000.

A map was displayed by the committee showing three properties on the West side of Spruce street upon which options had been secured for additions to the Cottage street grounds. The properties included are owned by Frank Gatti, Henry Black and Joseph Ferguson and are on the North and South sides of the Spruce street entrance. The options totaled $16,000. Mr. Gatti to receive $6,000; Mr. Black $5,500 and Mr. Ferguson $4,500 for their properties.

This business came under the head of section 10 of the call to authorize the committee to procure by purchase, or otherwise, land upon which to erect a new schoolhouse.

LANSING WON'T RESIGN.

Washington, July 15.—There is absolutely no truth in Paris dispatches stating that Secretary of State Lansing is to resign his cabinet position because he is dissatisfied with the peace treaty.

This was emphatically stated by State Department officials today, when their attention was called to the rumor.

"I am in a position to say that there is absolutely nothing to it," declared one of the highest officials of the department.

THINK INSPECTOR MET DEATH IN SHIPYARDS

Friends Fear Foul Play—Autopsy Shows Downey Was Struck Blow On Head.

New York, July 15.—Startling developments were expected today by friends of Frederick A. Downey, special investigator for the United States shipping board at the opening of the inquest in Seattle, Wash., following the mysterious death of Downey in a Seattle hotel.

Before Downey left for Seattle to investigate alleged inactivity in certain Pacific coast shipyards he told friends that his life had been threatened in several letters and that he believed certain men who feared exposure as the result of his investigations were conspiring to bring about his death.

On May 2 his brother, James Downey, a lawyer, was notified that Downey had died in Seattle of apoplexy and that his body was shipped here.

It was learned today that a secret autopsy was held after the body was received here. This autopsy is said to have revealed that Downey had been struck on the head, that the blood clot which resulted had been removed by an expert surgeon.

Downey's relatives demanded a thorough investigation. Coroner Tiffin, of Seattle subpoenaed a number of men high in shipbuilding circles to give testimony at the inquest today.

Class War, Bogey Man of Europe As World Goes Back to Peace

London, July 15.—Contemporaneous with the first year of transatlantic air voyages the step toward the first mile post in the world's adventure in the new peace era, and the beginning of the first year's work of the League of Nations, is a situation in Europe fraught with grave anxiety.

So far as world peace is concerned, the situation will in no way be limited by the treaty of Versailles.

To sum up the situation in a few words, which sound ragged and worn the situation which menaces nearly every government in Europe today is a class war.

To the politician, statesman, banker, large employer and "upper crust" citizen generally, the words "class war" have come to rob them of sleep. And unless very favorable winds blow—winds that they control in some measure—the situation may rob them of their security, and, perhaps, set the world back no little degree farther than it was by the world war.

Already the countries formerly doing business under the title "empire"—the Russian Empire, the German Empire, the Austro-Hungarian Empire—have tasted class war, and have found it something more than a trite phrase. And symptoms of this new situation have already appeared in Italy, France and England.

Surely the peoples of Entente countries are beginning to think if world peace is to be a promise of a better world order then there is desperate need of intense and thoughtful efforts to bring it into realization. If not, that part of civilization in Europe which salvaged from the Hohenzollern name may perish in the new struggle that needs but little goading to cause disaster in lands hitherto spared and presumed to be basking in the joys of peace.

To define the situation in a paragraph:

Working men and women, long held down to a subsistence wage level want a greater share of production, less work, more social and intellectual advantages, better homes, no oppression, although they have been used to much, and they want it all very quickly. Therein lies the possible danger. No country in Europe today can provide all of these things quickly, even though those in power had a mind to do it. And unless such changes are effected very quickly and in a satisfactory manner, dire things may result.

An additional danger, and this is a very potential one, is that while the workingmen and women of these European countries are beginning to realize they have power and can get things done if they are determined enough, they themselves are without sufficient education, breadth of view and have such little administrative capacity that even though they may force capitulation by the "capitalists" or by the government, these workers are incapable of themselves carrying out the programme they want. They have few broad-minded or able leaders. They realize their own incapacity is colossal. And they dumbly resent that it is so, and feel that not they but the social and economic system which they want changed is responsible.

There is, perhaps, no sadder, more patient or less emotional workman than the British laborer, skilled or unskilled. But when a majority of his class begin to stand up and tell the government if conscription is not forthwith abolished and the troops recalled from Russia, he may take things into his own hands, one may get an idea of the way the wind is blowing. The miners, for instance, have practically forced the country to accept nationalization of the coal mines.

Similar conditions may be observed in other European countries. The nations which are wise have begun a progressive system of co-op### eration and consultation with the labor representatives.

Europe, for centuries accustomed to look up to and reverence the strongest class and for a similar period bettering the conditions of the mass of people, only begrudgingly has far to travel. America, without such a heritage, may view more complacently the social upheaval designed to remedy irritating sores of unrest and to remove traditional barnacles of inequality of opportunity in Europe.

The more extreme the oppression of the working classes have been the more bitter the reaction is likely to be. Witness Bolshevism in Russia. And hence the British Government's policy of unemployment pay, housing programme and land resettlement scheme. The spirit of compromise actuates British policy.

Some observers have commented upon how the sons of the rich have fought and died alongside the sons of the poor in the world war. They partly missed the point. What happened was that the poor men's sons found they could shoot and fight just as well as the best of them. And this fact has a new significance when considered together with the determination of the lower classes, ex-soldiers included, to get a new and squarer deal.

To give America not the socialistic or communistic, but liberal viewpoint as expressed in British newspapers, the following from the Manchester Guardian may be enlightening:

"The League of Nations is found to bear a singular resemblance to that of the Holy Alliance which one hundred years ago was too reactionary for our reactionary statesmen. Meanwhile, the centers of democracy and reaction have shifted. The beaten nations have become democratic and socialistic. The winners have become pillars of established order. Though the war is over, we can write of nothing as settled. By the defeat of Germany, Europe has certainly averted a great disaster, but it has done nothing positive to secure its future. On the contrary, the main and most dangerous struggle has only entered on a new phase. The class question has emerged everywhere, and has taken the most violent forms. It is a kind of situation in which former civilizations have gone down. The problem before us is harder than that which we have solved, and the war upon our hands more deadly because more insidious and penetrating than the war that is over."

The writer of the above gave it as his belief the "cool good sense in the mass of people here and in France" would prevent civil war and bloodshed and finally restore social peace. A somewhat similar article by "A. G. O." editorial contributor of the London Daily News, a Liberal newspaper says:

"Associated with this disquieting phenomenon (lavish governmental expenditure) is the shadow of a new and perilous class war, fomented as we have seen in Parliament by attempts to create prejudice against trades unionism and labor generally by reckless charges of Bolshevism, and by the disclosure of provocative circulars from the military authorities in regard to use of troops in case of riots.

"On the other side, labor is suspicious and distrustful. It has lost faith in Parliament, and, conscious of its power, is tempted to follow the perilous path of direct action. That path can only lead to anarchy and the end of government."

Commenting upon the situation in Europe, as peace finds it, the writer proceeds:

"Not since the Goths and Vandals broke up the empire that had been founded by the Caesars, has the continent presented such a spectacle of universal wreckage as it does today. The artificial structure of civilization, patiently elaborated through a thousand years of military strife and diplomatic cunning, has gone like a dream. Hardly a stone of it is left standing. The ones that seemed as enduring as the hills have fallen almost as unresistingly as leaves in Autumn; empires that have existed for centuries are broken up into fragments; everywhere there is famine, disruption, revolution, panic and an illimitable fear of the future. Humanity is like a city shaken by an enormous earthquake and has left it without a shelter and without a landmark of its former self. What humanity needs is not more bayonets to keep it in order, but a fire engine and a hose to put out the flames."

DEMPSEY DID NOT SEE BLOW THAT K. O.'D JESS

Felt Sorry For Willard, He Says, So Just Cocked Right, Closed His Eyes and Let Go.

By Herbert N. Berg.

New York, July 15.—"I had to hit him, for there, before me, stood the only person in the world between me and the heavyweight championship. So I cocked my right, took one look at that battered face, closed my eyes and then let go. I couldn't bear to see that blow land."

That is how Jack Dempsey brought to a dramatic conclusion his story of the fight in which he won the heavyweight championship at Toledo, Ohio, from Jess Willard. Jack was not bragging, neither was he playing for effect. He was merely telling how he won his laurels.

To the writer, who watched the challenger prove his superiority over Willard, the foregoing remarks prove a splendid and uncolored insight to the new champion. Dempsey not only has an exceptionally winning personality, but his every word carries the full weight of conviction. He is an entertaining chap, one who actually likes to play, but when it comes to fighting—Ye Gods! what a wallop!

"I was pretty nervous when I went into the ring," admitted the Salt Lake mauler, "and it seemed to me that my nervousness increased as the time dragged before the first round. As I stepped up to Willard I had in mind his reported ability to hit and hit hard. That is why I showed so much respect for his punches at the beginning.

"You remember that I ran away from Jess's first lead, a straight left. You may also recall how I stepped back when he led the second time. And then we mixed and Jess landed on me twice. Right then and there my confidence returned and my nervousness disappeared.

"I figured to myself that if he could not hit any harder than those two blows it was up to me to wade into him and swap punches. I didn't even have to swap, for Jess seemed to lose his steam, and all of the boxing ability when I landed that first one which upset him.

"As I looked down at that big man on the canvass I quickly made up my mind that this fight was all mine and all that I had to do was to go out and win it. From then on I just plastered him until, at the end of the first round, I was sure I had done enough. In fact, I started to leave the ring. But when they called me back there was nothing for me to do but to go in and finish the job.

"It was the toughest job I ever had in my life. I never felt so sorry for anyone in my life and that is why I closed my eyes when I let go with the final wallop that brought me the championship."

SLAYER SAYS VICTIM ASKED TO BE KILLED

Weird Story Told by London Youth—Had to Do What Man Told Him, He Declares.

London, July 15.—"Yes, I did that. I stabbed him three times. He asked me to do it."

This statement was made to a constable by William Nelson Adams, aged seventeen, of Stamford street, Blackfriars, who was charged at Sutton with being in custody in the murder of George Jones, aged fifty-six, a painter.

Police Constable Forde met Adams and took him in custody.

Detective Sergeant Payne stated that at the police station Adams expressed a wish to make a statement, which was as follows:

"I met Jones about eight days ago and he said that he was worried about his income tax, and he asked me if I would kill him. I said I would if I had the pluck.

"We met on the night of the 10th at Kennington by appointment, and proceeded to Tooting Junction on the tram. On the way Jones handed me a knife, saying: 'Are you going to do it?' and I replied that I would see."

"We walked about five miles to a field, close to which was a big house, and Jones said that he knew the spot well. All the way he was talking to me about killing him. When we arrived there he said: 'God help me—will you kill me?' and I replied: 'I will try.'"

They went into the field and another acquaintance who had followed them all the way, waited by the gate.

"Jones undressed himself," said Adams, "and said that the best way to do it was to stab him on the left side of the neck and the left side of the stomach. I hesitated for about a quarter of an hour and then the temptation came to me to do it. I believe I stabbed him three times."

The chairman asked Detective-Inspector Hedges if he had watched Adams and observed his mental capacity.

Inspector Hedges replied: "Yes, and I have not found anything wrong."

Other evidence was given showing that none of Jones' clothing was cut or bloodstained and his shirt was off and tied around him. It had not been possible to trace the man referred to by Adams as "Charlie Smith."

Adams was committed for trial at the Surrey Assizes.

DEWDROP STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

DOLLY MEETS THE BALD-HEADED FAIRY.

(Written for the United States School Garden Army.)

Dolly felt very cheerful and happy this morning. She was neatly dressed. Motherline had given her a loving pat as she ran through the hall. Maria was trotting at her heels.

"I wonder what Fairy I shall meet today," thought Dolly, as she went into the garden. It had become a very happy place for the little girl. She did not know how much she was learning, but she had grown to love her Fairy friends dearly.

She had walked quite a way into the garden before she saw a Dewdrop Fairy. She had learned how to look for them, and was not surprised when she saw one perched on the top of a very slim stalk or leaf. He looked as though he might tumble down any minute, because the top of the leaf was so small that it was almost a point. But he was very little. He wore a white coat and knee trousers and green stockings and shoes. He had a little light green cap.

"Good morning, Miss Dolly," said the Fairy.

He was the first who had called her "Miss." Dolly felt quite grown up.

"Good Morning, Mr. Fairy," she said, as polite as he.

"I suppose you were looking for me?" he said.

"I was looking for a Dewdrop Fairy. I am sure you are one."

"Oh, yes. I came to see you this morning because our Queen told me you were a young lady who liked to hear about all the vegetables in the garden. I don't think we have met before. But perhaps you have noticed me."

"How could I notice you if we have not met?" asked Dolly.

"Well—perhaps your nose—but never mind," said the Fairy. "It is very warm for this time of the year. Don't you think so?" And he took off his cap.

Dolly almost gasped. He was quite bald! Not a hair on his head! And his head was white—just as white as could be.

"Oh," thought Dolly. "He hasn't got a hair on his head—he hasn't any more hair than—than an onion. Oh, I believe he is an Onion!"

"Of course, I am," said the Fairy. Dolly had forgotten they could read her thoughts.

"I am sure it looks very nice and—and cool," she said.

"Oh, I am cool enough—to look at," said the onion. "But I am good and warm inside, as you will soon find out when you eat me."

"Eat you?" cried Dolly.

"Of course. That is what we are for isn't it? I am sure my plant is not very beautiful, although when it is in seed the tops are quite pretty. But we don't go in for looks as much as some plants—the peas for instance. But we are very useful."

"I like spring onions," said Dolly.

"Yes, in the spring we haven't any heads."

"How dreadful—no heads?"

"You know that. We are just straight like stems then. But after a while we get heads, and they are good ones."

"Oh, do some of you have red heads?"

"Yes. And those are the best kind to keep all winter. But any of us are pretty good for that."

Dolly had heard a great deal about onions because her brothers, Bob and Billie, were soldiers in the United States School Garden Army. Both boys were helping to raise a garden, and onions were among the first vegetables planted.

In Silk Attire My Lady Goes

It looks as if the time were not far away when women will discuss "underdresses" instead of "underminings," for silk has invaded the realm of cotton and is flourishing there astonishingly. Just as the silk stocking is not looked upon now as a luxury but as a necessity of good dressing, and its use enormously increased, so silk undergarments are making place for themselves. Women find them desirable because they are fine and they prove to be as dainty and as durable as fine batiste or other delicately woven cottons. And the sheen and "feel" of silk are insidious—it is the easiest thing in the world to cultivate the silk habit and next to impossible to break it.

The shops are showing silk underclothes that are moderately priced along with more silk undergarments that are high priced. But price means nothing to the girl of today—if she has it—to buy the thing she wants when she wants it. There is a popular and a growing demand for silk undergarments which means that the wanted garments will be supplied in increasing numbers and that the prices will not be likely to go higher.

The silk most used for undergarments is crepe de chine in white and flesh pink. For ornament, hemstitching, French knots, simple embroidery and val or flit lace, especially in insertions, are all equally popular. Other wash silks, including taffeta, and wash satins find advocates who like them as well as crepe de chine. They all wash easily, the crepe looking especially well after it is tubbed. They should be wrung with wringer, not twisted in the hand, folded in a sheet and ironed while still a little damp with an iron that is only moderately hot.

An underslip of plain white taffeta appears in the picture, this particular model having a baby bodice and gathered skirt set on to a waistband. Many underslips are cut like a chemise, without a waistband. The most popular silk garment is the envelope chemise of crepe de chine. It is worn over the corset and without bloomers or drawers in warm weather.

But there is a final chapter to the story of silk underwear, short and sweet and not ever destined to be so important as that which is told in the foregoing paragraphs. It is written in georgette crepe. This very diaphanous and exquisite material makes corset covers and chemise that are the last word in daintiness—and extravagance, for it is sometimes used double, being otherwise too transparent.

Jade in Millinery.
Jade green is one of the new shades that is catching on well in the local millinery trade. Not only is it seen in various types of hats, including models in taffeta and split straw, but it is also taking well in the trimmings. Jade ostrich plumes are shown in steadily increasing numbers, and are used to trim models both of a similar shade and of black. A popular use is plumes laid flat on the upper brim.

Vests of Organdie.
Organdie vests are a noticeable feature of many suits. These suits are tailored models with plain skirt and 32-inch coats developed in serge, principally in blue, chamois, khaki and black.

RAISULI ON WARPATH

Madrid, July 15.—The bandit followers of Raisuli are again on the warpath in northern Morocco but have met with two sanguinary defeats at the hands of Spanish troops, it was officially announced today. The rebellious Moroccans heavily attacked the Spanish positions and cut communications to Tetuan and Larache (El Arish). Tetuan is but a short distance from the Mediterranean, lying 32 miles southeast of Tangier. Larache is forty miles southwest of Tangier.

ENDED IN THE THIRD.

New York, July 15.—The army and navy civilian board of boxing control today announced through Secretary Adam Emple that because of numerous requests for a ruling on the round in which the Willard-Dempsey fight ended the board has decided that the fight ended in the third round. Only 47 seconds of the interval between the third and fourth rounds elapsed before Willard's seconds tossed a towel into the ring, according to the records of the board.

TAGGING THE BASES

The Yanks are still slipping. Dutch Leonard blanked them at Detroit, allowing but four hits.

The Dodgers celebrated Bastille Day at Ebbets Field by trimming the Cards. Al Mammaux had but four hits to distribute among St. Louis hitters.

The Giants sneaked back into the National League lead by winning from Pittsburgh when they chased Miller to the showers in the third.

Errors by Thorpe and Jim Vaughn's good pitching gave the Cubs a victory at Boston.

Gene Packard's mound work, coupled with timely hitting of Luque and Mitchell, enabled the Phillies to win from the Reds.

Eddie Collins' homer in the fourth with two men on the bases decided the issue between Boston and Chicago in favor of the White Sox.

Herman Bronkie hammered out a timely double in the eighth with Carl Weiland on the bases and the Browns trimmed the Mackmen. It was Weiland's fifth straight victory.

HOMING PIGEONS RACE FROM STAMFORD HERE

Novice in the Game Wins Out Over Veteran—Junior Homing Club Waiting Return of Three Birds.

A $2.00 side bet between Herald newsmen was called off yesterday when a "dark horse" which figured in an homer pigeon race between Stamford and Manchester, dropped into the yards of the Manchester Junior Homing Pigeon Club, a winner.

Four pigeons, owned by Clarence Larson, Henry Larson and Edwin Johnston of Clinton street, members of the local club, were shipped to Stamford on Friday.

Three of the pigeons, one a leader and the other two novices in the cross-country game, were owned by the Larson boys. The fourth was the property of Johnston.

On Sunday morning, the lads went out to the club yards. The birds had not arrived. At nine thirty a tired pigeon dropped in. They picked the bird up eager to see who was the owner. It proved to be one of the novices. So all bets are called off.

EVERY GASOLINE DEALER MUST TAKE OUT LICENSE

New Law Provides Licensing Venders of Motor Fuel—Fee $2—Heavy Fine for Delinquents.

It is evidently not yet thoroughly understood by all retail dealers in gasoline and like products that they are required, under the new law, to make application to the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for license to sell such products.

The law in this regard, reads as follows: "No person shall sell or offer for sale any gasoline or other product intended as a fuel for motor boats or motor vehicles without having applied for and received from the commissioner of motor vehicles a license to sell such gasoline or product; and each person applying for such a license shall in his application state the location of each place where he intends to sell or offer for sale any such gasoline or other product.

The law also provides that anyone who shall violate any provision of this act or who shall make any false statement on application to said commissioner shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars, and for any subsequent offense shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than six months or both, and his license may, at the discretion of said commissioner be revoked.

The intention of this law is to enable the commissioner of motor vehicles to test at any time the fuel supplied to consumers, to detect adulteration and to protect vehicle owners from frauds practiced on them by manufacturers or dealers.

DRIVE ALMOST DOUBLES A. AND N. CLUB MEMBERS

Final Spurts of Various Teams Bring New Recruits Up to 240—Club Will Have Membership of 700.

A thrilling race for high honors marked the close of the drive for new members in the Army and Navy club. The drive virtually ended with a meeting of the leaders and members of the ten teams held at the hut last evening.

Team No. 1 wins high honors in the final sprint with a record of 25 members for the last day. Team No. 2 came in second with 16 and Team No. 9 third, with 11.

Chairman Dewey said that he was greatly pleased with the work of all teams. The captains and members, he said, worked hard and faithfully and despite the fact that it is a summer season, really exceeded expectations.

WILL NOT APPEAR. President Unwilling to Break Long Established Precedent.

Washington, July 15.—President Wilson will not appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, it was announced today to Administration Senators on the Committee.

While willing to place at the disposal of the committee his services and "all the information" he possesses with respect to the peace treaty, as he stated in his address to the Senate on Thursday last, he is unwilling to break a long established precedent, and attend any session of the committee, it was said authoritatively by the spokesman in both Senate and White House circles today.

DISGRACED NAME.

Brothers Deserted So Bergdoll Wants to Change Name. New York, July 15.—Because two of his brothers deserted from the United States army, thereby bringing disgrace to the name, Louis John Bergdoll, son of a wealthy Philadelphia brewer of the same name, applied for and received permission to change his name to Bergson in court here today.

"My brothers, Edwin R. and C. A. Bergdoll, deserted from the army and have been charged with such crime," Bergdoll told the court. They are fugitives from justice. My mother, being intensely pro-German, appears to have inspired their desertions."

ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES.

New Britain, July 15.—Frank Coture, 21, a former trolley conductor, Frank Wolfert, 20, and Harvey Carlson, 19, who were arrested in Warwick, Que., last Saturday by state policemen, charged with theft of an automobile from a Chestnut street garage in this city, were arraigned in the local police court here today and, after waiving examination, were bound over to the superior court under $1,000 bonds each. This is the first prosecution here for automobile theft under the new state law.

The Evolution of The Pattern

Just as every gorgeous butterfly has its chrysalis so does every beautiful dress have its pattern. The charm of color and form emerges from the drab cocoon and in much the same way all the grace of dress is developed from McCall Patterns.

Every woman owes it to herself to experience the pleasure and practice the economy of choosing the fabrics that appeal to her taste and satisfy her needs, and then making her own clothes, guided by the simple instructions with each McCall Pattern.

Ask for Patterns No. 9019 and No. 8964.

Our Dress Goods Department offers many suggestions for just the right material for either of the Dresses.

Especially

during the summer one needs several changes in corsets for general wear, besides the extra corsets for riding, golfing, tennis, swimming, etc. It is not a good plan to wear a corset uninterruptedly for any length of time. Change your corsets as you do your shoes. Let them go out on the line occasionally for sun and air, or if you wear a Warner's Rust Proof Model, give it a good tubbing before hanging it out. It won't rust, it is guaranteed not to.

Warner's Rust Proof Corsets wear well, wash well, keep their shape. Made laced in the back or laced in the front. These corsets are priced $1.00 up.
