The Manchester Chamber of Commerce selected the first pleasant day in a succession of ten for its annual holiday yesterday. Savin Rock was the advertised objective of the holiday trip and about 100 journeyed thither in automobiles. The rest of the members enjoyed the holiday at other places according to their individual desires. The caravan started for Savin Rock about 7.30. Each car was decorated with pennants bearing the words "Manchester Chamber of Commerce" and as the procession swept through the towns and cities en route it excited mild curiosity among the spectators. It was about 9.30 when the tourists encountered the coatless and white-shirted traffic cops of New Haven and received from them the grand hall sign which passed them on to the Rock.

The hotel and restaurant men and concessionaries at the shore resort brightened up when they saw the Manchester party approaching. They were well nigh discouraged by the long spell of rainy weather and by the effect of prohibition upon their receipts. Even yesterday's pleasant weather failed to bring the customary crowds and the Manchester delegation rattled around in the big resort like a handful of peas in a peck measure. The orchestrons at the merry-go-rounds bravely blared the popular airs but the flying horses were for the most part riderless. The bath house proprietors sat dejected in their dens. The tide was out, and only a few children paddled around in the shallow and not too clean water.

The Manchester visitors after giving the once over to the deserted village, adjourned to the ball ground where they proceeded to make a little fun for themselves. The men were divided into two athletic teams, captained respectively by "Bob" Treat and Dr. Dolan. Then followed a series of contests in jumping and running which tested muscles long inactive and gave some of the middle aged men a chance to show the youngsters that they still had some pep left. Maybe they were a little stiff this morning, but that didn't matter. The classes were divided into those under 35 and those over 35 and the latter class took their full share of the honors. N. B. Richards was in charge of the athletic events.

The prize winners were A. Knoffa, 1st, running broad jump, 1st 75 yd. dash and 1st on total points; James Burdick, 1st standing broad jump (over 35) 2d, running broad jump and 2d on total points; W. F. Elliott, 1st standing broad jump, 1st 50 yd. dash, 3d total points; Ben Phillips, 1st hop, skip and jump, 3d total points.

There was time before dinner for a three inning ball game in which such veterans as D. Moore and A. E. Bowers distinguished themselves. The batteries were Raymond Johnson and Dr. Dolan and Chris Glenney and N. B. Richards. The score was a tie, 3 to 3.

The dinner at Bishop's Colonnade was the crowning feature of the day. It included such shore delicacies as fish, clams and lobsters as well as broiled chicken and watermelon. Some of the tables tried to make merry on 2.75 but found it hard work. The old familiar battle songs of the C. of C. were sung between courses and the sound temporarily diverted the somnolent stragglers who were vainly seeking some real diversion amid the deserted mazes of the White City. At the close of

RAINY SPELL RUINS THE VEGETABLE CROPS.

Bridgeport, July 25.—Reports brought in by farmers from this vicinity are to the effect that the recent long rainy season completely ruined several kinds of vegetable crops and injured others. Tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers rotted on the plants and vines, early corn went to vegetation of ears, and cabbage failed to head. Blackberries are said to have fallen from the vines. It is believed that warm, dry weather will save the tuberos, crops, which were in great danger from the wet soil, potatoes especially being liable to rot in the ground.

BOY PROSTRATED BY HEAT AS BUSINESS MEN PLAY

What Do Good Clothes Amount to
With All One's Friends Away at Savin Rock?

All day long yesterday a little boy stood in the window of the C. E. House store. Immaculately clad in his Sunday school clothes, he stood stiffly erect hour after hour while the particular business man whose boy he was spent the passing hours in merry-making at Savin Rock.

A chunk of wood, a hunk of wax and a hunk of hair when it is fashioned in the mold of a little boy may become dreadfully tired. Imagine for yourself having to stand in one spot without a movement of a muscle or the quiver of an eyelash all day long.

And this little boy did become tired. He wanted to go over in a corner and sit down, if only for a second. He would have felt better if he could have shifted to one foot for awhile and rest on one leg like a stork.

Other days it hadn't been so bad. There had been all kinds of people to watch. He could stare back at the funny looking people who stared at him; wonder where automobiles come from and where they go. And the envious eyes of other little boys amused him. He had all sorts of games to while away the hours.

But yesterday the only ones who passed were some kids on their way to the swimmin' hole where he wanted to be—and Chief Gordon, who glared at him, which didn't help matters a bit.

But the real torture came when the torrid sun swung around until the rays began to come into the window. The boy, tired, lonely, and altogether wretched tried to edge away from the fatal heat. That is, he wanted to. But actually he did not budge.

Soon the sun was shining mercilessly into his face. Let it be said to this boy's everlasting honor that he never flinched. The blinding light blurred his eyes. His new clothes became hot and irritating. Yet there he stood meeting the glare of the sun with a look of youthful resignation. No Spartan with a fox gnawing at his vitals was made of sterner stuff. On his forehead appeared beads of waxy sweat and down his ruddy, waxy cheeks they rolled.

BRIDE BACKS OUT.

Now Pete Meehan is Suing for Breach of Promise.

New York, July 25.—The wedding plans of a 60 year old policeman to a 40 year old playmate of his boyhood days went on the rocks when her seventy year old mother discovered Bridget Hangley, the bride-to-be, putting pink trimmings on a pair of quilts.

This is the story Policeman Pete Meehan, traffic cop, tells in his $25,000 breach of promise suit. Meehan says the bride to be backed out when her mother threatened to disinherit her if she married. He thinks she should pay him something for wounded feelings, a $192 diamond, a $4 wedding ring and several hundred dollars worth of furniture he bought in anticipation of the wedding.

WILL DIE RATHER THAN SURRENDER THE EX-KAISER

German Officers Will Never Give Allies the Chance to Try Him.

GEN. PLESSEN SPEAKS

Says Idea of Placing Wilhelm On Trial is Not Just—Is Meant for Theatrical Spectacle.

Berlin, July 25.—If the ex-Kaiser returns to Germany from Holland many German army officers will "fight to their death" to prevent the entente powers from securing him for trial, according to General von Plessen, who served the former Emperor for many years as personal aide de camp.

General von Plessen is regarded as one of the most intimate friends of the exile and admitted that he had been in constant correspondence with William. These letters, however, did not touch on political subjects, von Plessen insisted, but were friendly epistles and were sent unsealed.

Marshal Morally Responsible.

Regarding the offers of Field Marshal von Hindenburg and former Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg to stand trial for the ex-Kaiser, von Plessen declared that Hindenburg was only morally responsible for the one-time emperor's military orders. "According to the German constitution every governmental act of the chancellor in order to be valid," said von Plessen.

"The Chancellor therefore assumed sole legal responsibility on the chief of staff of the armies in the field, but von Hindenburg was morally responsible for all military acts after taking charge of operations in August, 1918.

"Former Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's offer was meant literally and was a frank acknowledgment of responsibility, thereby taking a stand based on both truth and justice, but the offer in no wise recognized the authority of the enemy tribunal.

Trial, Theatrical Spectacle.

"Our former enemies know as well as we do that there was war blame on their side, but they would forget their responsibility in their caricature of a tribunal in which they are the prosecutor and judge and which the British press with cynical frankness admits is to give the masses a theatrical spectacle.

"The idea of placing the former Kaiser on trial before a tribunal is utterly devoid of justification. It is a wild, reckless contemptible notion unworthy of any decent, thinking nation and is morally insulting to our national pride. It is built on the foundation of unjust passionate revenge mania to cover up proven falsehoods."

Asked what German officers would do in the event the former Kaiser returned to Germany and the Entente insisted upon his traditions General von Plessen answered.

Never Give Up Wilhelm.

"You know the revolution destroyed our splendid Germany, German officers cannot tear out their love and loyalty to their hereditary ruler and supreme war lord. Our hearts are true to our military oath. Everyone of us from Field Marshal to the youngest lieutenant would let himself be cut to pieces rather than surrender the imperial master."

General von Plessen declared the former Kaiser never mentioned extradition in his letters, hence he did not know whether or not the erstwhile war lord was considering the advisability of offering to appear voluntarily before an international tribunal. He thought this improbable, however.

Ex-Kaiser Not Happy.

Nor did the ex-Kaiser mention plans for the future such as buying a Dutch castle in which to live. Von Plessen denied that William is ill or broken down, but naturally, he explained, "his majesty is far from joyous."

The general admitted that the ex-Kaiser's sons were legally not en-

PROFESSORS AT HARVARD TO GET WAGE INCREASE.

Cambridge, July 25.—Salaries at Harvard University are to be increased in all departments next fall, or at the latest by January first. President Lowell is said to be in favor of an increase of 15 per cent, if not more, and to make the minimum scale possible, $6,000,000 will be necessary to serve as a fund, the income from which will yield between $250,000 and $300,000.

The pay given assistants now and in some cases instructors is poorer than that recently granted the elevated carmen. Some of the men got as low as $500 a year.

MOTHER IS ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF BABY

Mrs. Dunn Shot Three Year
Old Son in Fit of Jealousy.

COURT ROOM IS CROWDED

Prisoner Says She Never Heard of Ten Commandments—Husband a Novelist.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 25.—A defense of temporary and emotional insanity will be set up by counsel for Mrs. Gladys C. Dunn, on trial here for the murder of her three year old baby boy, it was indicated today shortly after court opened on the third day of the trial.

Detective Thomas Bligh, the state's strongest witness, resumed the stand under sharp cross examination by counsel for the young mother. On direct examination Bligh testified that Mrs. Dunn told him that she shot her small son as he sat in his little wicker chair and that she hoped he would die.

"I asked her if she ever heard of the ten commandments," said Bligh. "She responded 'No, what are they?' I told her one of them was 'Thou shalt not kill' and she said, 'Well if God had any children he would have thought differently.'" She said, "I came from California and we are a very hot blooded race in California."

Bligh steadfastly maintained that his interest in the case solely that of an officer in the discharge of his duty.

Court Room Crowded.

The court room was crowded today. Women from the fashionable summer resorts in this section braved the heat, attracted by the unusual spectacle of a woman on trial charged with killing her own baby in a fit of jealousy. The charge is second degree murder, the penalty for which is life imprisonment.

Besides Mrs. Dunn in the court room sat J. Allan Dunn, novelist and magazine writer, father of the little victim. The state charges that passionate jealousy prompted the pretty young woman so to submerge her natural mother love and kill her baby in order that she might have the undivided affection and love of its father.

COUPLE KILLED.

Man and Woman Trapped by Flames
in Manchester, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., July 25.—A man and a woman trapped by flames on the top piazza, when two tenement blocks here were burning today lost their lives as the structure collapsed and they fell in the flames. Scores of occupants of the tenements most of them mill workers, were rescued by firemen. For a time the fire threatened to wipe out the Lake Street tenement district near the Amoskeag Mills. Police estimated the fire loss at $100,000.

4 PER CENT IN RHODY.

Providence, R. I., July 25.—Rhode Island beer containing four per cent alcohol, as authorized by the general assembly, went on sale here today. Saloons did a big business this forenoon. Licenses issued by the police commissioners stipulated that there was no guarantee against federal interference.

CHINA MAY HAVE TO SIGN A SEPARATE PEACE PACT

Japs Perpetually Desire to Expand
Says Westminster Gazette in Leading Article.

London, July 5 (by mail).—The Paris correspondent of the Westminster Gazette, commenting upon "Japan's perpetual desire for expansion," says:

"Not only are we in peril of eastern troubles but the Americans are vigilant. Sooner or later, if China does not consent to sign the present treaty of Versailles, she will have to make a separate peace with Germany. Certainly the attitude of Germany towards China will be that of a wolf towards a lamb, but the fact that China, in self defense may be compelled to conclude a bargain with Germany cannot be viewed with equanimity. It could at the expense not only of China, but of the world in general.

"Again the certainty that Japan's readiness to accept Kolchak as the Russian dictator was based on material grounds does not bode well for the allied interests—in Russia and Siberia. It seems to me that the allies might well have paused before giving their blessing to a man from whom certainly Japan expects valuable concessions."

ALLIES TO SEEK LOAN IN U. S. IN THE AUTUMN

To Be Big Enough to Cover French,
British, Belgian and Italian
Credits for Years.

Paris, July 25.—A gigantic loan will be sought in the United States next autumn sufficient to cover French, British, Belgian and Italian credits for 30 years, or until they do not need any further outside help, according to an interview with F. A. Filene, of Boston, printed in the Matin today.

Mr. Filene, who is a delegate from the American Chamber of Commerce has just left from London in connection with the scheme to supply Europe before he departed he told the Matin that delegates from Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium would gather here in September, sailing for New York on the fifteenth of that month to attempt to secure the loan. Mr. Filene believes the issuance of such a loan is the only way to save Europe from collapse.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE CLASH IN FIERCE BATTLE

Chinamen Fight With the Bolsheviks in Siberia—First Time the Two Nations Meet.

London, July 25.—Chinese troops fighting with the Russian Bolsheviks in Siberia, have clashed in battle with the Japanese forces in Amur Province, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today. This was the first engagement between the Chinese reinforcements and the Japanese, it was said.

The Bolshevik troops are reported to have advanced within seventy miles of Blagovieshtchenkis. (Blagovieshtchenkis on the Amur river and capital of Amur Province.)

HUNGARIAN REDS BREAK ROUMANIAN BATTLE LINE

Latter Returning Rapidly—Much
Mystery Surrounds News from Budapest These Days.

London, July 25.—The Hungarian Red forces have broken the Rumanian battle front, between Szegedin and Lzograd, on the Theiss river, and the Rumanians are retreating rapidly, according to a Central News dispatch from Rome today, quoting a report received there from Fiume.

Considerable mystery surrounds the real situation at Budapest, but all the indications point to the overturn of the Bela Kun regime. The latest report from Budapest is that Bela Kun has asked the allied mission to secure passports to enable him to go to the Argentine Republic, South America.

WILSON WILL NOT SUBMIT DEFENSE TREATY TO SENATE

MAJORITY OF SALOONS IN STATE KEEP OPEN

U. S. District Attorney Drops Eight
Cases Because of Lack of Evidence.

New Haven, July 25.—Eight cases which were brought against saloon keepers in this city for violation of the war time prohibition act, were nolle by the United States District Attorney today because of lack of evidence. The action was at first interpreted to mean that the enforcement of the law was being relaxed. But this was stated to be untrue by the prosecuting authorities. It was stated that the cases were dropped because of the fact that while there was no doubt that liquor was passed over the bars in the various places where evidence of a sale was sought, that the government could not prove that money had been passed in payment for the liquors, thereby making it unlikely that the government would be able to establish a sale.

A majority of the saloons of this city continued open for the sale of 2.75 eber today despite the adverse decision of Judge Chatfield. The liquor men will meet in this city Sunday from all over the state for a conference with Colonel A. A. Alling and W. A. King, their counsel.

TO HIRE 30,000 COOLIES TO REBUILD BELGIUM

Germany Do Not Want to Labor in Allied Countries—Government
Too Weak to Make Men Work.

Berlin, July 25.—At a mass meeting of idle workmen in Leipzig it was decided that the Germans guilty of the war shall help rebuild Northern France and Belgium as common laborers, otherwise the Leipzigers will leave the country as their answer to the government's plea for workers.

There is general opposition among the workmen against working in the allied countries and it is even rumored that the government is negotiating with China to hire 30,000 coolies for the work.

The government has not yet solved the problem and is hesitating to proclaim industrial conscription for fear it would prove unsuccessful. The government is believed to be too weak to enforce conscription and opposition on the Right and Left (two political factions opposed to the government), is increasing in strength.

COLOMBIA TREATY WILL SOON COME TO SENATE

Foreign Relations Committee Will Comply With Requests of Sec.
Lansing.

Washington, July 25.—At the request of Secretary Lansing, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today agreed to take up the pending Colombian treaty as soon as the reading of the treaty of Versailles to the remainder of the committees by Senator Lodge, Massachusetts, had been completed. Lodge's reading is expected to be concluded on Monday next, in which event the committee will begin consideration of the Colombian treaty on Tuesday.

This will delay consideration by the committee of the treaty of Versailles, but Republicans and Democratic senators composing the committee were unanimous in deciding that Lansing's request be complied with.

The Colombian pact provides for payment by the United States of $25,000,000 to Colombia for the territorial rights the United States took over in connection with the Panama Canal. The pact is a virtual official recognition of the independence of the Republic of Panama and is expected to end the long controversy between the United States and the Colombian governments over the Panama Canal.

Will Hand Over Text of Amer- ican-British-Franco Pact After He Returns from Speaking Tour—Will Start in Two Weeks—No An- swer to Ex-President Taft's Statement.

Washington, July 25.—President Wilson will not submit the text of the American-British-France pact to the Senate until after his return from his speaking tour.

This was definitely announced at the White House today and was construed as an answer to Senator Lodge, who, in a resolution introduced in the Senate yesterday, called upon the President to submit the text of the pact under which the United States would, with Great Britain, go to the assistance of France in the event of an unprovoked attack upon her by Germany.

Details Not Ready.

Details of the president's trip have not yet been arranged. White House officials said, but indications now are that he will start in about two weeks. The matter of an itinerary was still under consideration, and the only definite arrangement was that he would visit the Pacific Fleet on the coast, it was stated. It was believed that the tour would keep the President away from Washington for at least a month and thus the text of the pact over which the Senate storm broke, will not be in the hands of the Upper House until along in September.

To Meet All Senators.

The President had no engagements with Senators today and it was indicated that he will not carry out his plan of meeting all of the opponents of the League of Nations and those who are opposing ratification of the peace treaty without reservations. In circles close to the White House it was stated the President has come to the conclusion that it would "be a waste of time" to discuss the situation with the few Senators who he believes have decided to fight to the very last. It was indicated, however, that among his out and out opponents, he might invite Senator Lodge, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, to the White House for a conference.

No Answer to Taft.

No statement bearing upon the situation resulting from former President Taft's espousal of six "reservations" or "interpretations" to the peace treaty would be forthcoming from the White House, it was made plain.

The President has made tentative arrangements for another week end cruise of the Mayflower.

line, Mass., July 25.—T. Roosevelt

The match between these two celebrated New York players aroused high interest among the large gallery which was on hand. Pell put up a whirlwind style of play.

In the fourth round of the New England Doubles Bealls C. Wright and Irving C. Wright won over Dr. F. Goodridge and G. P. Patterson by 6-2, 6-0, 6-3.

PLAN CHAIN OF BANKS TO HELP OUT EUROPE

Senator Edge, of New Jersey, His Novel Scheme—Plan Highly Endorsed.

Washington, July 25.—Extent to which American business will be permitted to aid in industrial rehabilitation of Europe was to be considered today by the banking and currency committee of the Senate.

The committee had before it the Edge bill which would permit the incorporation of organizations to finance foreign purchasers of American goods. Senator McLean, chairman of the committee, hoped to complete work on the bill today and to take a vote on reporting it favorably to the Senate.

Explaining the bill, Senator Edge, of New Jersey, stated today that it permits the formation, under supervision of the federal reserve board, of corporations of not less than $2,000,000 capital, each, thus providing a potentially unlimited fund for the financing of foreign purchasers. On the sale of goods to such purchasers, Senator Edge said, obligations satisfactory to the federal reserve board could be accepted by the vendors and against these would be issued debentures to be sold to the American investing public. The bill would even provide for the acceptance of mortgages on the plants of purchasing concerns.

Senator Gronna, of North Dakota, himself a banker, is skeptical of the wisdom of the bill, and declared today that he was certain that it would meet with opposition on the floor of the Senate on grounds that it would give big business an opportunity to secure a monopoly in foreign industry.

The Federal Reserve Board has endorsed the bill.

Fourteen girls attended the "Little Mothers" class held at the Health Center yesterday afternoon. "Little Mothers" league buttons will be given to those children who have completed the course. The Health Center is open every afternoon with the exception of Saturday and Sunday, between the hours of 1 and 4 a. m.

HAD FLOGGING SYSTEM IN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Governor Told by Inmate How He Received 40 Blows From Whip.

Manchester, N. H., July 25.—Charges of flogging of boys in the New Hampshire industrial school came to light today following a personal investigation by Governor Bartlett. Interest centers particularly about the case of a 14 year old boy, who described beatings he had received by being struck on one occasion as many as 40 blows. Governor Bartlett listened to his story from John's own lips and questioned other boys.

According to Rosa he was stripped and a wet cloth laid across his body from thigh to thigh. He was then ordered to touch his toes with his fingers and, while in this position was flogged with an instrument.

"I found that they had been conducting a flogging system," said the Governor, and it was admitted by Superintendent Vernon Backus. The superintendent then displayed the instrument. It consisted of a wooden handle a foot and a half long and on the end was attached a foot and a half of rubber. It was graded on the basis of severity.

The governor ordered the superintendent to stop the flogging and immediately took up the matter with the trustees who voted to put an end of the system. The governor next brought the matter before his council which sustained the action of the trustees.

The measure was amended so that the controlling interest in the corporations must be owned by American citizens.

HOME GARDENERS HERE LAUGH AT HIGH PRICES

At Least They Do So Far as Vegetables Are Concerned.

GARDENS DOING WELL

Twilight Hours Find Many Manchester Men and Women Hunting Weeds or Potato Bugs.

Manchester's home gardeners are not worrying a great deal over New York reports that the price of vegetables has advanced over 5 per cent this season. The advance in prices according to York State gardeners is due to the increased cost of fertilizers, seed and help. Vegetables of all kinds are a much desired and relished dish especially during the summer months. But, in the large population centers where even an inch of land is worth its weight in gold, it will be a case, at least in the vegetable line, of only the rich obtaining the fare.

Here in Manchester we find the humblest families enjoying vegetables that are commanding fancy prices in restaurants and hotels. But what came they what New Yorkers pay. The housewife can step from her back door out into the garden and in ten minutes pick enough string beans or peas for the noon-day meal. All because of the fact that the home garden campaign, arranged by the local committee, was diligently carried out. Profiting by experience gained last year, local home gardeners have had wonderful success.

A few years ago, during the summer months, the side streets throughout the town rang with the incessant cry of the hucksters. Last year there was a noticeable absence of vegetable men. This year the appearance of a huckster is looked upon as a novelty. Only those having early sweet corn and potatoes for sale have dared to invade the town.

They Know the Game.

East side, west side, all around the town. Anywhere you go in Manchester you will see home gardeners. If it happens to be in the evening you will find the gardener with his wife and children toiling away with the hoe, clearing out the weeds from among the plants. Or you may see them with the squirt gun, exterminating the much dreaded potato bug. These people will surprise you with their information on agriculture and here you will find no opponents of the Daylight Saving Law.

Laugh at Maine Prices. Some of these gardens are small, but never-the-less this owners takes a great deal of pride in the tract and will tell you that the string beans they had for dinner were the best ever tasted. Others have gone into the business on a larger scale and there are many instances, where the families have "gone partners."

These are the people who in the winter time, scoff at the market price of Maine potatoes. Take a walk around the town some evening and see them for yourselves. And you will admit that the gardens are a credit to the gardeners, and that the gardeners are a credit to the town.

titled to substitute for their father before an international court, but at the same time he argued that an enemy court would not be legal. "Can you offer proof that the ex-Kaiser was not responsible for the outbreak of the war?" I asked General von Plessen.

He replied:

Was Not for War.
"For 25 years I have been in his majesty's immediate service as adjutant general. Before God and the world I can truthfully testify his most ardent endeavor has been to preserve the peace of his people and the world. He was convinced that even the most successful war meant disaster owing to the sacrifice entailed and the sacrifice he wished to spare Germany. If William had not absolutely desired to avert war many favorable opportunities were offered us to strike. The most favorable was in 1905 when Russia was defeated by Japan. That this opportunity was not seized was due primarily to William's love of peace. During the critical days at the end of July in 1914 the emperor was very active in every way to maintain peace, but his efforts at mediation were frustrated by Russian mobilization. Our adversaries' allegations were purely designed to blame Germany in order to justify unprecedented peace terms which are irreconcilable with the armistice and President Wilson's 14 points. General von Plessen is probably one of the most intimate friends of the ex-Kaiser living in Germany and his views may be said to reflect those held by the former war lord himself. At the present time the general is living in a modest apartment in Potsdam.

BELA-KUN OVERTHROWN.

Milan, July 25.—A telegram from Vienna today again asserts that the Red Government at Budapest, headed by Bela Kun, has been overthrown by a more radical group.

C. OF C. MEMBERS TAKE THEIR OWN SUNSHINE WITH THEM TO ROCK

the dinner the athletic prizes were awarded.

The afternoon was well spent when the diners left the Colonnade. Some of them started out to cheer up the disconsolate concessionaries by spreading a little sunshine and coin among them. They shot at the targets, bowled at the ten pins and threw various things at dolls, canes and other prizes. Howard Murphy proved a star marksman and nearly broke the bank at two places. Some of the party went to Lighthouse Point and other nearby resorts. Some remained at the Rock through the evening in the hope of seeing things liven up a bit—which they did. But all hands reached home safely and in good condition.

TO SELL SAINT'S CROWN.

Milan, July 25.—St. Stephen's crown, the most sacred historical treasure of Hungary, has been offered by the Red commissary at Budapest to a Munich art dealer for 100,000 francs. The Hungarian Reds insist that payment shall be made in French and Swiss notes.

St. Stephen was the first king of Hungary. He was crowned in the year of 1,000.)

GIANTS FOR DOUGLAS.

Cincinnati, O., July 25.—"The old, old story of strengthening the Giants whenever danger threatens is seen in the trade yesterday whereby the Giants get Pitcher Phil Douglas from the Cubs in exchange for outfielder Dave Robertson," says the Times Star today.

"But there is consolation for Red Rans in the deal; evidently McGraw fears the Reds more than he does the Cubs, for he refused to consider any kind of a trade that would bring Robertson to the Reds."

TO GUARD WILHELM WELL.

London, July 25.—Ample measures have been taken to protect the ex-Kaiser during his trial here says the Pall Mall Gazette. He will be conveyed each day between the court and his place of detention, and in view of the world wide expectation of which he is the object, the most elaborate precautions will have to be taken to insure his personal safety.

CLEVELAND ROUTE O. K.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 25.—Superintendent Jordan, of the aerial mail service, announced this morning that the strike of mail aviators at New York, as yet has had no effect on the Cleveland-Chicago service.

"The Chicago mail will go out as usual at 9:30," he declared.

COTTER AND SMITH ROB MACHINE SHOP OF PUNCH

Of Course We Mean the Kind of Punch That Wins Ball Games.

Minus "Bill" Cotter and Smith, the Machine Shop fell before the Ribbon Mill team at the West Side playgrounds yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 4. "Dodger" Dowd tried to fill Cotter's shoes on the mound, but the Pine Street stickers seemed to be able to push out the hits when they were most needed.

It took "Dodger" a full inning to get acquainted with his new job and before he got acclimated three runs had been piled up against him. Johnny Vitner was greeted in the same frame with four lusty bingles and the score was tied. After this poor start Vitner was effective throughout the game, the Machine Shop's tally in the fourth inning being the result of an error.

With two gone in the sixth, Vitner got a "life" on Bliss' error. Following this came three singles in succession off the bats of Russell, Brennan and Jenney. The game was put on ice and the Ribboners walked off the field the victors. Incidentally the Machinists lose all chances of finishing next to the Weaving Mill. The box scores follow:

TOMBSTONE CUTTERS ARE NEEDED UP IN VERMONT

Ralph Cone Reports That Quarries There Need More Men—Monument Business Booming.

Ralph Cone, the monument dealer who returned recently from a business trip to the Bodwell quarries in Barre, Vermont, states that there is an enormous shortage of labor at the present time in the "Granite State." The above quarry, which is the largest in New England, reports a shortage of more than two hundred men and is overbooked with orders because of the fact that it is impossible to find cutters. The enormous demand for headstones, caused by the influenza epidemic coupled with the fact that people were not in a buying mood during the war, has resulted in the monument men being swamped with orders. A wage increase of sixty cents per day has gone into effect, but even this has not resulted in attracting the cutters.

He was off at 100 miles an hour and expected to drop at Mineola about 2 p. m. eastern time. After several days there, he will start his one stop trans-continental flight.

MOVES FIFTY TONS OF COAL

TWICE TO RECOVER DIME.

St. Louis, Mo., July 25.—Wilford Stolberg, of Belleville, Ill., a miner, amused his friends for several hours by twice moving fifty tons of coal in an effort to recover ten cents lost while loading a coal car.

Discovery that he had lost the dime was made after the car had been loaded to capacity. Stolberg with a companion worked diligently and found the lost coin in almost the last shovelful.

TAKE IT TO THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Taft's six suggestions seem to have united the friends and foes of the league in one respect at least. They are both agreed that they will have nothing to do with Mr. Taft's six suggestions. Senator Borah is among the first to declare that they fail to meet the situation, as he sees it. On the other side we have trustworthy reports from the White House that the President is anything but pleased with the plan of compromise advanced by the man he succeeded.

These opposing attitudes can mean but one thing—that the contest is to go on for some time to come. Mr. Taft has failed to break the jam. Neither side feels confident of final success and yet both are too cautious to feel the necessity of yielding a jot.

The President has been holding a series of confidential talks with opposition Senators. He has educated them without convincing them and conviction is the only thing that will give him the needed votes when the final test comes. Almost without exception Mr. Wilson's visitors from the upper house have come away thinking hard and not quite so sure that he, Lloyd George and Clemenceau are the simple minded muddlers that they have been pictured by some of our Far Western statesmen. But these visitors have not been entirely won over. They seem to be planning to hamstring the treaty with a This-hurts-me-more-than-it-does-you.

But the President has not time to educate the entire Senate opposition even could he carry the process to the point of conviction. He has, however, another method of attack. His plan of campaign has long been formulated but held in reserve for a crisis. It is an appeal to the people.

A few weeks ago it did not seem that such a resort would be necessary. That the Senate would storm and threaten no one doubted. It has traditions of political history which would make such a course almost inevitable. No one expected the Senate to throw over politics altogether and devote itself to the issue in hand with a mind intent only on the welfare of the country and the world. No, that was not expected. But that the bitterness would die so hard was considered equally unlikely.

How the opposition has been driven back from its first proud stand against having anything whatsoever to do with this pact to the last ditch where it now clings and bickers over 'reservations' or 'interpretations'!

One could regard the hostility to the treaty with something of the equanimity with which one looked on early attempts to deprive automobile owners of the use of public highways, or other headstrong efforts to stay the clock of progress, were it not that the whole world is waiting for the United States to take her rightful place on this issue.

We fought the war nobly and we proclaimed our principles with a pride which was only surpassed by the valor with which we fought for them. The time to crown the work is at hand and now, for the first time, we seem to hesitate.

The league is consistent with our position ever since the declaration of war. And, to give the devil his due, a few of the league opponents are consistent too. They opposed arming the ships, they opposed the war and now they oppose the treaty. But what of the others? What of the majority of the Senate opposition? Where was their love of isolation then when the war was upon us? Where were their fears of "entangling alliances"? Where were their heated bursts of oratory?

The time is ripe for an appeal to the people on this question. The country has heard the arguments from the Senators. Their objections from Shantung to Article Ten have been given the fullest publicity. Let us now hear from the President himself.

If the price of lumber keeps on soaring, Connecticut builders will soon be forced to resort to brick. Already it is said to be about as cheap to build of brick as of wood, and the cost of maintaining a brick building is much lower than a wooden building. Connecticut has at hand the material for making brick, good clay and cheap firewood. The cost of brick could be materially reduced by manufacturing in larger quantities at single plants. Up to the present Connecticut brick have been produced in comparatively small plants and the output of each unit has not been large enough to permit the most economical production.

Seashore hotels along the New England coast are doing a rushing business this year. All the first class houses are booked full until after Labor Day and report a long waiting list. The general prosperity of the country and the absence of facilities for traveling abroad are assigned as reasons for the unprecedented rush to the seashore.

WAR BUREAU'S APPEAL MEETS QUICK RESPONSE

Letters Bring In $1,285 During First Day of Campaign for $11,000.

Although but a few of the personal letters to be sent out by the War Bureau in its appeal for an $11,000 fund to meet bills directly contracted for soldiers and sailors, have been mailed, it was announced last evening that more than $1,200 had already been received. This would seem to demonstrate that the appeal will be generously responded to and that the final touches to Manchester's war work activities will wind up in a blaze of glory.

Those to whom the letters are addressed are reminded that a cash payment is not imperative. Pledges may be made according to the donor's option and these will not be collected until October. Liberty bonds or other securities will be accepted at their face value. Those who have not received letters may also contribute by calling up the War Bureau or mailing a check payable to the latter. The list of subscribers to the War Bureau Fund together with the amounts follow.

WIVES LIVE TOGETHER.
Frederick, Okla., July 25.—In spite of the fact that he already had a wife and two children living here, W. B. Davis, a soldier, brought back a second wife, an English girl, when he returned.

Davis registered at a hotel, left his second wife, and then went to call on his family. Later the two women learned of the other's existence. When they remonstrated Davis declared he had not married the English girl, who thereupon produced a marriage certificate to prove otherwise. Then he took her to his home and left. He was arrested at Mangum and brought here to face a charge of bigamy.

Meanwhile the two women are living together. The second wife is about to become a mother.

COMPLAIN OF AIRPLANES; SAY OIL RUINS WASHINGTON.
Cleveland, Ohio, July 25.—Every innovation must run the gauntlet of criticism. First the livestock owners along the route of the Cleveland-Chicago aerial mail route complained that the whirr of the planes made their stock nervous. Now housewives along the route say the passing mail planes are showering their weekly wash with a spray of oil.

DRY LAWS DELAYED.
Washington, July 24.—Apathy in the Senate concerning prohibition enforcement legislation became apparent today, when, for the second time in two days the sub-committee in charge of prohibition enforcement legislation was enforced to delay consideration of the measure because of failure to secure a quorum.

How The Taft-Hays Letters Impress Other Newspapers

Editorial Comment on the Ex-President's Suggestions to the Republican National Chairman—Mr. Hays Says He Has Not Seen the Letters.

TAFT'S TURN.
(Hartford Courant.)
Mr. Taft sends out a list of changes that he says would, in his opinion, make enough senators approve the treaty to get it two-thirds. Mr. Wilson is firmly of the modest opinion that any change from his draft would be wrong and none should be permitted.

To us it seems as if the Taft changes practically eviscerated that original compact. If this is the case, they do make the treaty more acceptable, for the chief argument for it is that it means nothing, is perfectly harmless, and should be ratified as an evidence of our desire to get rid of war, whether this would rid us of it or not. If Mr. Taft, to chance the metaphor, draws all its teeth, the situation changes into one that raises the question whether we should sign a paper that may be nothing more than a blank, if it comes to be wanted.

So now it becomes a question whether Wilson shall get off his high horse and bow down to Mr. Taft, who has just been exposing his unfair methods. It is that or demonstrate to the Europeans that, when he said he spoke the voice of America, it was the voice of Woodrow Wilson—and that the two are not the same.

MR. TAFT'S INTERPRETATIONS

(Springfield Republican.)
Mr. Taft's letter to the chairman of the republican national committee on treaty reservations, or interpretations, supplies considerable evidence that, as a people, we are still unfit to play a leading part in world affairs. One could imagine a Borah using this letter to enforce an argument for a quick return to the old policy of isolation. Are our public men parochially minded? Are they incapable of thinking in terms of international relations when the exigency requires it? Read Mr. Taft's letter to Mr. Hays for the answer.

The former republican president criticizes the democratic president for having been partisan in waging the war and in winding it up; and we should not quarrel with him on that account. But, having accused Mr. Wilson of being influenced by party considerations in his course, Mr. Taft, with an unconscious naïvete that seems sublime under the circumstances, closes his correspondence with his own party's chairman by referring to "our common object" as, in part, "a freeing of the republican party from the burden of defeating the treaty and the removal of the issues from the next political campaign." So Mr. Taft himself, in his present recommendations concerning the Senate's action on treaty ratification, is influenced if not controlled, by party interests.

POLITICS AND THE TREATY

(N. Y. Evening Post.)
We fear that Mr. Taft's benevolent effort to help the Republican Senators out of their scrape will not be relished by all of them. This is not so much because of what he urges as because of the way in which he does it. His suggested reservations may not be objected to, but his covering letters to Chairman Hays are sure to give offense. The ex-President was never noted for finesse. And his present kindly offer will irresistibly recall that of the good-natured elephant to sit on the

NATIONAL SUICIDE IN ENGLAND, DECLARES LONDON BANKER.

London, July 25.—Sir Auckland Geddes' grave warning to the nation in his speech at Crewe is the one topic in prominent financial circles.

City banking experts are unanimously behind Sir Auckland in his description of the nation as "a poor one living as if it were wealthy."

"Sir Auckland Geddes has struck the right note," said a famous banker. "It should have been struck before."

"I am not a pessimist, but it is my solemn opinion, after forty-five years spent in financial circles of the city, that the nation is begging itself by a perfect orgy of extravagance and laziness which has no justification whatever. "A client of mine the other day eggs of the worried hen and hatch them out for her.

For Mr. Taft's letters start out by denying both the justice and the expediency of the position taken by the leading Republican Senators. Their attacks on the Treaty he considers wholly unwarranted. They ought to ratify it as it stands. Mr. Taft declares that if he were a member of the Senate he would vote to ratify without hesitation. Not even would he insist upon any reservations in the art of ratifying. Still, as there is danger that the Republican party may incur the odium of defeating the Treaty, and go into the Presidential campaign of next year under the fatal handicap; and as there may be a sufficient number of Republican Senators who could be won over by some form of words, Mr. Taft is willing to try to draft this political face-saver. Yet at the outset he tells Chairman Hays that the effect of the reservations he proposes would be "exactly the same" as if the Treaty were ratified without any interpretive declaration whatever. This may be magnificent, but it certainly is not devilish sly.

HAYS HAS NOT SEEN LETTERS.

The following statement has been issued by Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, regarding the letters written to him by William Howard Taft on the question of ratification of the peace treaty.

"I have never seen the letters from Mr. Taft, mentioned in the Washington dispatches. "They had not been received when I left for the West Tuesday, but I understand were received Wednesday afternoon and have been forwarded to me. They have not reached me. Neither the originals nor any copy thereof have been given to nor shown to any one by any one connected in any way with the committee. I know nothing whatever about their publication. I have been in touch by correspondence and otherwise with Mr. Taft on this matter, of course, as well as with others in the effort to help develop a solution of this matter in the right way, but these particular letters I have never seen."

MR. TAFT'S SUGGESTIONS.

(N. Y. Times.)

In desiring to bring about the ratification of the Treaty and the League covenant, Mr. Taft and Mr. Hays are at one with the President and the Democratic Senators. In respect to the proposed reservations, they are at odds with Mr. Wilson and his Democratic supporters. The reservations must be the subject of two independent acts of judgment. It is for the Republicans to determine what annexes to the act of ratification are necessary to save their faces and permit their escape from present difficulties without too much humiliation and sacrifice of dignity. It is for the President to determine whether he will accept the additions to the act which they propose, or any additions at all. The line between amendments, which would be destructive of the Treaty, and mere interpretations he must draw, and he will draw it sharply. Mr. Taft is opposed to amendments, for he knows they would defeat the Treaty altogether. Accordingly, he says, "I venture to think that my suggestions are not amendments but only interpretations of action authorized by the League itself."

The country would gladly learn what sudden dearth of clerks, stenographers or department workers specially serving Senatorial convenience has caused the Senatorial eye to roll at last in the direction of the profiteer.

BRITISH GOLFER LEADS.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 25.—James Barnes, the tall Britisher, wearing the colors of the Sunset Hills Club, St. Louis, today seemed certain to retain his present honors as western open golf champion.

The fields of 134 was today reduced to 65. Thirty six holes will be played today and low man for the 62 holes will win the championship. Barnes' total for the first 36 holes is 139. His closest opponent is Walter Hagen, National champion, who holds second place with a score of 143.

Porch Concerts For Summer Evenings

THE versatility of your Cheney is among its greatest charms. Always ready for every occasion,—a dance for the young folks, entertainment for your friends, or an out-of-doors evening at Grand Opera on the porch,—it is one of the most popular members of the household.

You will find it a distinction to own a Cheney. Its unmatched beauty of cabinet marks it immediately as a superior instrument.

But its greatest delight lies in the unexampled richness of its tones. This total supremacy is achieved by employment of an entirely new principle of tone reproduction, covered by basic patents and found only in the Cheney.

Hear the Cheney if you would fully appreciate it.

IS IT NEWS TO THEM?
(N. Y. Evening World.)

It has somehow been forced upon the attention of the United States Senate that the cost of living in the District of Columbia is so excessive as to lead Government employees to quit their jobs. We are not informed how the unique phenomenon of profiteering in Washington first impressed itself upon the Senatorial mind. Maybe Senators began to find themselves personally inconvenienced through defections in department service caused by the withdrawal of workers who found it impossible to meet present prices with Government pay.

At all events, the Senate begins to entertain a suspicion that the Nation's capital harbors persons who habitually charge other persons too much for the bare necessities of life, and a Senatorial committee is going to look into the matter.

A situation of extraordinary interest thus arises. At any moment its investigation of prices as they affect the cost of living in Washington may reveal to an amazed Senate the considerable difficulty with which 100,000,000 people or thereabouts outside the District of Columbia are finding the wherewithal to pay for their food and clothing at the prices now demanded.

What will happen when this truth bursts upon the Senate no man can say. But at least the knowledge will be there.

RUBBER BATHING SUIT!
Revere Beach, Mass., July 25.—A young woman wearing a bathing suit entirely of rubber created quite a stir on the beach here. Friends attempted to find a reason for a waterproof costume, but even the merchant who sold the chic affair was unable to offer a logical excuse. The wearer said she bought the rubber bathing suit because of its attractive design and coloring.

Kirkville, Mo., July 25.—A returned doughboy stepped into a local restaurant here and said: "Fix me up twelve wheat cakes, in rapid succession, and a cup of coffee." "You'll bust, sure, if you get on the outside of a dozen flapjacks," the proprietor replied, but the soldier cleaned up his dozen cakes, paid his bill and went on his way.

OBJECTS TO HAVING HIS OBITUARY PRINTED AGAIN.
Pittsburg, Pa., July 24.—"Please don't print my obituary again tomorrow," said a voice over the phone, talking to the city editor of a local paper.

When the newspaper man had regained his composure he learned that the speaker was A. J. Holman and that he was in an accident twenty-one years ago. It was believed he had been killed and his obituary was printed. Last year the same paper under the heading "Happenings of Twenty Years Ago," reprinted the obituary. On the eve of the twenty-first anniversary of the accident Holman took the precaution to see that he wasn't killed for a third time.

GRAPES A-PLENTY; NO WINE.

Penn Yan, N. Y., July 25.—With the exit of the wine industry Lake Keuka grape growers are trying to solve the problem of what is to be substituted in order to consume the very good crop of grapes that is indicated for this season. Of course, there will be unfermented wine, grape jelly and other non-alcoholic products, but the possibility of the grape becoming a drug on the market confronts the grower.

FRENCH GIRL'S DOUGHBOY LOVER SHOT AS BANDIT.

London, July 10 (by mail).—Over 5,000 French girls have been married to American officers and men belonging to the American Expeditionary Force in France, writes the Paris correspondent of the Daily Chronicle. "Many of them are typists, stenographers and dressmakers, while a number are farmers' daughters, at whose places the American soldiers were housed.

There has not been one case of a married American soldier abandoning his French wife.

"There have not been, of course, many breaches of promise and sad love stories. The story is told of a poor French girl in the country who had fallen in love with an American soldier. She failed to hear from him for a few weeks, and her father wrote to the colonel of the regiment asking for particulars, and mentioning that his daughter was engaged to him. The father received a laconic note saying: "The soldier you have been inquiring about has been executed. He was a bandit, whom our police were seeking for."

Women are invited.

ENGLISH UNIVERSITIES ARE TO BE LIBERALIZED.

London, July 24.—Since Oxford University has asked for State assistance, it is predicted that it will not be long before sons and daughters of the working classes will be seen on the campus of the famous university, as in the Middle Ages. For generations the university has been beyond the reach of aspiring youth with limited financial means.

The Pall Mall Gazette comments that if Oxford and Cambridge do not themselves do some reconstructing along Democratic lines the step will be taken "over their heads."

TO FLY AROUND U. S.

Washington, July 24.—Lieutenant Colonel R. S. Hartz took the air at just 10 o'clock today on the first leg of his flight around the boundaries of the United States. The start was made from Bolling Field, under perfect weather conditions, and Augusta, Me., 560 miles distant, was scheduled as the first stopping place. Tomorrow Colonel Hartz will attempt to fly from Augusta to Cleveland, Ohio, a distance of 630 miles.

Before heading for Augusta Colonel Hartz circled over the capitol and the White House.

POWERFUL PILE REMEDY DISCOVERED

Has Never Failed to End Most Obnoxious Case of Piles in Few Days.

For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and at the best can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations also do not remove the cause, but simply the formation.

This wonderful prescription, known as "Miro Pile Remedy," is so efficient in the treatment of piles, that even chronic cases of from 20 to 30 years standing with profuse bleeding have been completely cured in from three to ten days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of piles is absorbed, never to return.

Just read what Henry J. Stone of the Lorain, Ohio, Fire Department says: "I had bleeding and protruding piles for three years and tried all kinds of remedies, without result, but was thoroughly cured after taking one bottle of Miro."

Frank J. Phillips of Bird Island, Minnesota, says: "I used half a bottle of Miro. It worked like a charm. I no longer suffered with bleeding and protruding piles. I never regretted the money for such blessing as I am now enjoying. I would have used the whole bottle, but it was not necessary." All pharmacists dispense Miro or can get it for you on short notice. Suffer! It's worth the little trouble to obtain it to be rid of piles forever.

AERIAL MAILMEN STRIKE; WANT TWO REINSTATED

Also Want Lighter Machine—No Mail for Chicago Goes Out This Morning.

New York, July 24.—The first strike of aviators in the history of the government was on today. Twenty aerial mail men failed to show up at Belmont Park, L. I., today because of the refusal of the Post Office Department to reinstate two aviators who had been discharged. The mail plane which was due to leave at five a. m., with the Chicago mail did not leave the ground.

The aviators sent a communication to Second Assistant Postmaster General Otto Prager in Washington, yesterday, telling him that unless E. Hamilton Lee and Leon Smith were reinstated they would strike. They alleged that Lee and Smith were discharged because they refused to fly in the bad weather of last Tuesday. The aviators declared that it was unsafe to make the attempt in the machines the government has furnished.

A reply was received from Prager yesterday, stating that the two aviators would not be reinstated.

The aviators who struck today claim the men stationed at Bellefontaine, Cleveland and Chicago will join them in the strike and that the Chicago-New York aerial mail service will be completely tied up.

Vigorous protest was made by the striking flyers against the type of machine used by the government in the mail service. They claim it is not suitable for such a service. They want a lighter machine which can be operated at a slower speed.

BABE RUTH A SWATTER; HITTING OVER 300 MARK

After New Home Run Record—Already Has Fifteen Homers Hung Up to His Credit.

New York, July 25.—Babe Ruth, star pitcher-fielder-slugger of the Boston Red Sox, bids fair to establish a new home run record for the American League this season.

Ruth has already hammered the offerings of pitchers in the junior major for fifteen homers, and today has but two more to go to beat the record established by Socks Seybold, of the Athletics in 1902, who registered sixteen circuit swats.

Unless the "big freight train" suddenly loses his battling eye, and that is altogether unlikely, he may pile up a string of home runs that will stand in the American League for some time to come, for he has a little more than two months remaining to hang up a new high mark.

Ruth will probably be unable to endanger the major league record for homers, however. Gavy Cravath set the record in 1915 when the Phillies won the national league championship, swatting out a total of 24 homers.

The last batch of batting averages showed Ruth hitting at a 328 clip. He has delivered consistently for the Red Sox all season as a combination pitcher and outfielder and has won better than .500 per cent. of the games he has pitched for Ed Barrow.

LIPTON CONFIDENT.

Believes He Will Lift America's Cup Next Year—Learns New Trick.

London, July 25.—Sir Thomas Lipton is confident he will lift America's cup next year through a new principle of sailing that was discovered while his old yacht Erin was in government commission during the war, he told the Daily Express today.

The attempt will be made with the Shamrock IV. Sir Thomas explained that the new tactics were worked out while British wounded were being carried from Salonika to Marseilles and that the Shamrock IV will adopt them.

GIRL MIDDIE MARCHES IN YANKEES' PARADE.

London, July 25.—A sensational discovery was made during a parade of American troops at Knotty Ash Camp, Liverpool, says a London paper. A girl wearing an American naval uniform was found in the ranks.

The girl was Elsie Warner, aged nineteen, of Birmingham (England) and she had disappeared from a home a month ago.

The incident was robbed of its romance yesterday, when she was sentenced to three months' imprisonment at Liverpool for stealing articles belonging to the woman superintendent of a home of which she was an inmate.

WOODED AND WON WITHIN 2 WEEKS THROUGH WANT AD
Syracuse, N. Y., July 25.—Wooded and won in a fortnight through the medium of a matrimonial "ad" is the experience of pretty Miss Elizabeth Goettel, of Central Square, near this city. Miss Goettel, "Just for fun" answered an "ad", a "wife wanted", issued by one Bruce Weed, of Lyndon, Wyo., who styled himself a prosperous oil speculator. The customary correspondence was hastened back and forth, photographs were exchanged and the effect on young Weed was so impressive that, without announcing his coming, he hurried eastward to Central Square. There he met the unsuspecting young woman in an ice cream parlor, where she recognized him. Nuptials followed.

SIBERIA THE GREATEST UNDEVELOPED PORTION OF THE GLOBE," SAYS COLONEL J. S. DENNIS

"Siberia is the greatest undeveloped portion of the globe in respect to unoccupied agricultural areas and undeveloped timber and mineral resources. There will be all kinds of openings for industrial and transportation enterprises all over Russia when any stable form of government is established," says Col. J. S. Dennis, Chairman of the Canadian Trade Commission, who has just returned from Siberia. Colonel Dennis went to Vladivostok with the Canadian Military Expedition as Director of Transportation and Intelligence as well as Chairman of the Trade Commission. He says: "Although the Canadian Trade Commission has made no formal report as yet, I can say that conditions in Siberia are much better than in Eastern Russia, but there is little opportunity for American or Canadian trade over there at the present time. Financial conditions are chaotic, transportation conditions completely upset and the ruble almost valueless. "Politics is always a delicate subject, particularly there now, but I would like to call attention to the time it took the French to settle down after their revolution and how many years were required for the American nation to become a compact and harmonious mass. People here do not realize the size of Russia, its population, nor the sudden shift from deepest despotism to personal license. "Some day the mighty, slumbering peasantry of Russia will arise in wrath. Then will come some sort of constitutional government adapted to their temperament, ideals and national destiny. Already one can feel the first tremors of their awakening. The next three months are full of possibilities." Colonel Dennis is returning to take up his duties as Chief Commissioner of Colonization and Development of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Park Theater

An example of the high order of literary talent entering into the production of a de luxe motion picture is found in Geraldine Farrar's newest Goldwyn, which comes to the Park theater tonight. The title is "Shadows" and it is a virile drama of modern life in which the star has a role replete with mental crises and powerful action.

The motive of the play is found in the first caption which comes upon the screen. "At the radiant highnoon of life the shadows form—sombre and lowering—scudding from the past like darkening, angry clouds to overwhelm and engulf." And the lines which introduce Geraldine Farrar are equally expressive—"Muriel Barnes, in the bright mid-day of her popularity and charm."

When a stranger confers with her husband with the hope of enlisting his financial aid in a mining proposition the real drama of the day is set in motion with this paragraph: "The vague disquiet that starts him searching his brain for a memory of the haunting, midnight eyes of his hostess."

Later we come to this graphic description of the part played in "Shadows," by the popular Tom Santschi. "Jack McGoff, the promoter's partner, who provides the technical wares without having the savvy to present them." He is further described as "A world's wastrel, bronzed by the sun and winds of many frontiers." No one could have expressed so briefly the pictorial presentment of the actor as he is seen in this play.

Ten o'clock at the dance hall where the windows, like evil blazing eyes stab their shafts of light into the grim outdoors, punctuates the Alaskan scenes where part of the play is laid. It is doubtful if Rex Beach himself could have created more atmosphere in a single line.

On the same bill will be the Screen Telegram and a new release comedy.

LAST OF OLD GUARD IS ABOUT THROUGH

"Cotton Top" Turner Not Playing This Season.

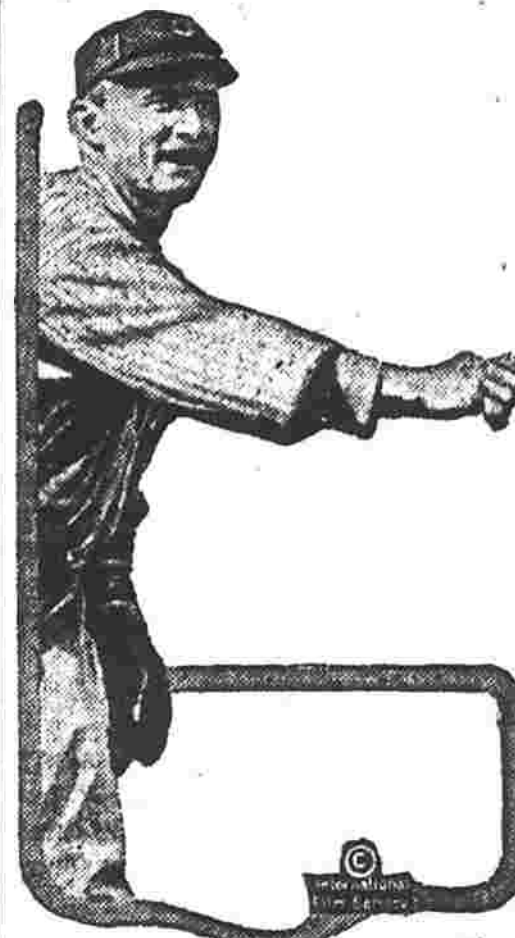

Terry Was Considered Fixture on Cleveland Team for Fifteen Years—Has Had Brilliant Career With the Indians.

Another familiar old face has passed from the big league. Or should we say an old familiar shock of cotton hued hair? For we refer to old Terry "Cotton Top" Turner, who for 15 years was a fixture on the Cleveland American league team. No more famous crop of hair was worn in the big leagues than the crop that adorned Terry as he dug them up in deep short or raced up the third base line to gobble up slow-hit grounders.

Turner, who has been given his unconditional release, really is the last of the old guard to go. The last few years have seen the passage of the entire group of stars who shone so brilliantly in the late '90's and the early years of the present century—Wagner, Lajoie, Wallace, Leach, Crawford, Plank, Evers, Bender, and now Turner.

It is true that Turner was a considerably younger man than the other men referred to. Turner is only thirty-seven. Lajoie had been playing big league ball seven years before Terry won a regular berth with the old Cleveland Naps in 1904. But in the average fan's mind Turner is associated with these older fellows, and fans got to such a stage that last year they were calling Terry "Old Grandpop."

It seemed as though Turner had been with the Cleveland team for a century. As a matter of fact, Terry originally started his big league career with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1901. But the Pirates were champions in those days, and Turner, then only nineteen, had little chance to break into the game. Turner, at the time, was a first baseman, as he played first base for Greenville in the Interstate league in 1900.

In 1902 the Pirates released the little fellow to Columbus in the American association. He played there two years and won fame as a third baseman. Cleveland needed no third baseman, as Bill Bradley, then in his prime, was guarding third base for the team. However, a place was found for Terry at short between the famous stars, Bradley and Lajoie, and it wasn't long before Terry's fielding was on a par with that of this illustrious pair.

Turner played shortstop for Cleveland until 1910 when he was shifted over to third base, where he continued to play fine ball. In recent years Turner has not been considered a Cleveland regular, yet he got in 74 games last year and hit 249.

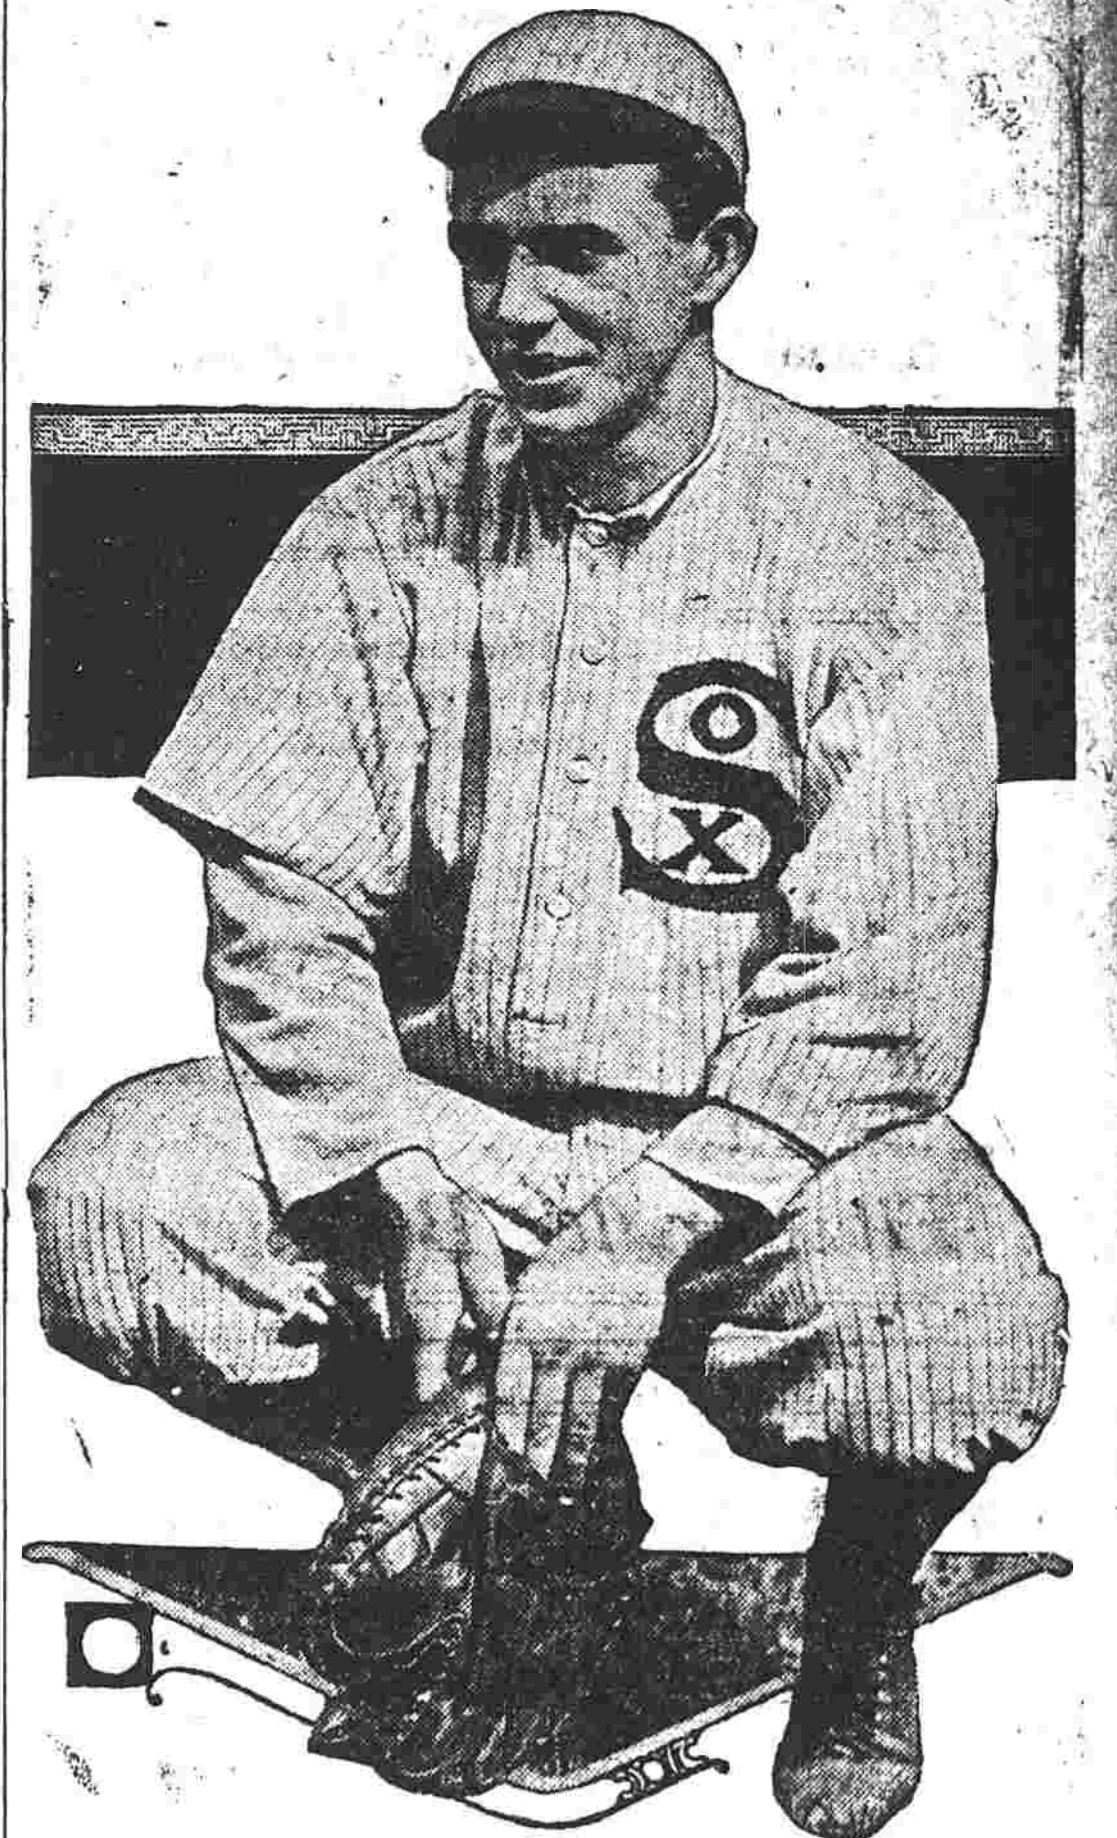

WHY JOHN PAUL JONES WON'T USE FAST BALL

Lew McCarty tells an interesting story of John Paul Jones, the Giant youngster now with the Toronto club, who is expected to develop into a major league hurler of first rank with a little more experience. "This spring," says McCarty, "I tried to get Jones to cut loose with all the speed he had, for I could see he was holding back, but he wouldn't do it. One day I asked him why he persisted in keeping under wraps and he told me. "Once I was pitching against the best ball I have," he said "and I cut loose with a fast ball. My control wasn't good and the ball hit him in the hip. The injury laid him up for three months and marked the end of his baseball career. Since then I've never put all my speed on a ball."

Charity a Real Catcher.

Charity this season is a vastly improved catcher. He holds the hurlers up in good style and is throwing like an Archer or a King. Eddie doesn't seem to hit the ball as hard or often playing regularly, however.

CATCHER RAY SCHALK IS GIVEN LOT OF CREDIT FOR EXCELLENT SHOWING OF SOX

Chicago baseball commentators are giving a lot of the credit for the present fine showing of the White Sox to Ray Schalk. Naturally, being used to a high-class brand of backstopping from Ray, one doesn't hear so much about him as when he was breaking in as a new sensation, but George Hobbs, in Chicago News, declares he is catching at the "top of his career," and results seem to indicate it.

The White Sox pitchers are going grandly, and every one knows the secret of a pitcher's success lies in good handling from the receiving end. Schalk is catching practically every game his team plays, hitting well over .300 and seems to have lost none of his speed and dash.

BASEBALL NOTES

Sam Rice is the leading swat-smith of the Washington club.

The St. Louis Cardinals are beginning to win back the fans.

Some baseball teams seem to think there is plenty of room in the cellar.

Pat Moran surely has his Redland brigade going like real champions.

Fred Thomas is playing a bang-up fielding game for Connie Mack at third base.

There is no getting away from the fact that Dode Paskert has lost some of his speed.

Duffy Lewis is beginning to play the kind of ball that was to be expected of him.

Jimmy Austin has more pep than many a recruit, in spite of his long service in the leagues.

New York is making a real threat for the pennant now and there is a reason for the Yankees' success.

Babe Ruth is among the aristocrats of the batting business, but as a left fielder he's down among the proletariat.

Memphis finally disposed of Joe Slattery by selling him to Tulsa, where he hopes to find the pitching more to his liking.

Percy Houghton, late president of the Boston Braves, is to return to Harvard university in the fall as football coach.

President Martin of the Southern league has dismissed Umpire Schaefer and taken on the veteran Ed Lauzon in his place.

The Memphis club returned Jimmy Corney to the Chicago White Sox with thanks after Jimmy had played a couple of games.

The Yankees are going in for the hit-and-run pretty heavy, and as a result they are scoring more of those they used to leave on the bases.

Cincinnati fans mobbed Umpire Charley Moran the other day. Since it happened after Cincinnati went dry they can't lay it to booze selling at the Cincinnati ball park.

Kid Gleason is quoted as saying that Eddie Cleotis has everything that a pitcher should have. Other clubs will agree and add that he also has something that no pitcher should be allowed to have.

MEYERS QUILTS AS MANAGER

Former New York Giant Catcher Resigns as Leader of New Haven Club in Eastern League.

John "Chief" Meyers, former New York and Boston National catcher, has resigned as manager of the New Haven club of the Eastern league, which post he has held since the opening of the present season. It was announced last night that Danny Murphy, formerly of the Philadelphia Americans, and more recently manager of the New Haven and the Hartford teams, has been appointed manager of the local team. Business interests prevented Meyers' from devoting all his time to the team. It was stated.

PLAY TWENTY-THREE INNINGS

Chattanooga and Atlanta Indulge in Long-Drawn-Out Game—Merkle Play Was Cause.

Chattanooga and Atlanta went 23 innings to a tie in the Southern. It took a Merkle play to make the game go the long distance, as the needed walk-off arrived in the nineteenth with two down. The sacks were full and Merkle of Chattanooga singled, but Marshall, who was on first, repeated Merkle's famous play and omitted to touch second, making the third out.

PRESIDENT'S WIFE ENDS ARMY PRISON CRUELITIES.

Returning doughboys are responsible for the story that the wife of President Wilson was instrumental in putting a stop to the brutal treatment accorded American soldier prisoners by American guards. A New York city doughboy says that when Mrs. Wilson was visiting a base hospital in Paris she was informed by one of the inmates that his condition was due to the treatment he had received at the hands of Americans while in prison. The boy's body was covered with welts. According to the story related by the New York City Yankee, Mrs. Wilson appealed to her husband, with the result that the major and the entire guard staff were brought up on charges and removed.

U. S. POST TOO EXPENSIVE.

London July 24.—Most of the British statesmen who have been asked by Premier Lloyd George to accept the post of Ambassador to the United States have refused, not because they do not want it, but because they cannot afford the cost, says the Daily Express.

"Washington is expensive, and the Ambassador's wife who has to get through on 8,000 or 10,000 pounds, $40,000 or $50,000 a year would soon find herself woefully mistaken," the Express adds.

"Lord Reading, who is a rich man, found it rather expensive."

Yeast diluted with lukewarm water, according to a Paris physician is an effective remedy for burns.

HARVARD MAN FIRST LICENSED AUTO DRIVER.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., July 24.—Frederic Tudor, former Harvard athlete, now successful farmer, has the distinction of being the first person in the United States to receive an automobile license.

Tudor is known all over Cape Cod as the driver of No. 1 automobile. He was the first person in this state licensed to operate a car, and his machine was the first registered. From the very beginning, in 1902, to the present, Tudor has kept his No. 1 registration.

As Massachusetts was the first State in the Union to license motor vehicle drivers, Tudor believes he was the first person in the United States to receive a license.

Circle Theater

If you appreciate the better sort of pictures, the kind that both you and your children will be highly entertained with, you should make sure that the "family sees" "The Littlest Scout," one of Paula Blackton's country life pictures in which the two Blackton kiddies are featured. This made a big hit at the Circle last night and will be shown again this evening. A comedy will be on the same bill.

Tomorrow, Emmy Wehlen, Metro's fascinating young star, will be the feature in the clever comedy drama called "The Amateur Adventurers."

The story is that of a young girl, Norma Wood, who is tired of the humdrum existence of every-day life in an office. She determines to set out in search for adventure—in other words to see life. To accomplish this properly requires money and, most important of all, beautiful clothes. How to get them is the problem. But being a woman Norman accomplishes both and the only thing that remains is the adventure itself. How she gets this and the surprising manner in which Fate plays into her hand, is thrillingly shown in this picture which gives Miss Wehlen every opportunity to display her remarkable talent and—her clothes. An amazing series of incidents show how adventure follows adventure in rapid succession and how happiness and love is her ultimate reward. Miss Wehlen's dramatic powers and whimsical humor have never appeared to better advantage.

TAGGING THE BASES

The lowly Braves gave the Giants a scare when they cut down a six-run lead to one run. Benny Kauff's homer proved the deciding factor.

Babe Ruth larruped out a homer at Boston which enabled the Red Sox to tie the Yanks and also win the game. There was a runner on ahead of Ruth.

The Reds are clinging close to the trail of the Giants. Reuther's pitching and heavy hitting, including a home run by Bressler, gave Moran's men the decision at Pittsburgh.

Third baseman Jones, of the Tigers, while Boland held Cleveland to five hits.

The Athletics failed to link up six hits off Walter Johnson and were unable to score a run.

Felsch's single, scoring Liebold in the ninth, gave the White Sox a victory. Cleotis pitched against Sotherton.

EUROPE LOOKS TO US FOR FINANCIAL RELIEF

Allies and Enemies Alike Place Only Hope in This Country.

MORGAN MEETS BANKERS

French Financier Wants Long Term Credit for Exhausted Countries—Thinks President Will Favor.

Paris, July 24.—The stupendous plans being fostered in the United States for the financial and industrial relief of Europe extend not only to France, Great Britain and Italy but to Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Roumania and Greece; subsequently to Germany and Austria and perhaps ultimately to Bulgaria and Turkey.

J. P. Morgan in Paris. It is regarded as highly significant that J. P. Morgan, probably the foremost international banker of the day, has arrived in Europe coincident with the first joint meeting in London of the supreme economic council and the international shipping board. These two great organizations will meet for the first time jointly next week. The council will handle all of the economic and financial problems arising from the peace terms while the shipping board, which will sit in London permanently, will control all cargo space.

French Expert Explains. Much light has been thrown on the inside plans of the American finance group by Louis Aubert, famous French economic expert, in a lengthy article in the Figaro. M. Aubert was one of the chief aides of Andre Tardier, when he went to the United States as French High Commissioner. He possesses the confidence of Mr. Morgan and his article appeared in the Figaro just after a long conference with the American banker.

In view of this fact unusual significance was attached to it.

"Europe is Exhausted." "Europe is exhausted but Uncle Sam is richer than ever," says M. Aubert. "America holds the world's biggest gold reserve. American industries are intact. America is prepared to gather the most fruitful crop ever gathered. America possesses an abundance of cotton, wheat, meat, leather, oil, sugar and copper—everything that we lack and must obtain to keep us alive and our work shops going. But how can we pay for these commodities when we have already invested heavily in American dollars?"

Long Term Credits. The gist of the relief plan as outlined by M. Aubert is to arrange for long term credits from American exporters to European importers for the stabilization of International Exchange and to make it possible for Europeans to secure further credits in the United States. Nothing decisive can be done, however, until after the treaty is ratified and then American banking firms can undertake enterprises individually, he says.

M. Aubert looks for President Wilson to deliver a special message to the American congress upon the subject and he may issue a manifesto to the whole American nation.

Any further aid by the American government, M. Aubert points out, will not take the form of new appropriations, but an extension of facilities for the War Finance Corporation.

The Italian Minister of Finance is due to arrive here tonight and is expected to confer with Mr. Morgan before leaving for London.

L. W. NOYES DEAD.

Chicago, July 24.—Laverne W. Noyes, wealthy Chicago manufacturer and philanthropist, died early today of a complication of diseases. His most recent philanthropy was the creation of a $2,500,000 foundation to be used in the education of soldiers, sailors and marines of the great war and their descendants.

LABOR BOARD RESIGNS.

London, July 24.—The nine labor members of the new agricultural commission have resigned because of the government's attitude on the hours of labor, the parliamentary correspondence of the Daily Express stated today. The conservatives are threatening trouble in the commission unless nationalization of the land is barred from the law.

The commission was formed to foster increased agricultural production.

LIQUOR DEALERS WAITING.

New Haven, July 24.—The Connecticut Liquor Dealers' Association officials were still waiting to hear from their counsel, States Attorney A. A. Alling today, with reference to future action in the cases of Stephen A. Minery and Martin Schmauder, decided adversely to their contentions by Judge Chatfield. Mr. Alling is expected home some time today. It was generally believed that an appeal will be taken.

C. S. HAMILTON, COUNSEL FOR SCHMAUDER, STATED TODAY THAT HE WOULD MOST CERTAINLY TAKE AN APPEAL FROM THE DECISION.

KAROLYI IN EXILE IS COMING TO U. S.

Rome, July 24.—Count Michael Karolyi, former president of the Hungarian Republic, who recently arrived in Italy, is reported to be on his way to the United States. Several weeks ago the Count, who recently arrived in Italy, escaped to Austria, but was made prisoner by the Austrians and returned to Budapest. It is understood he obtained the assistance of the Italian military authorities and was later sent in charge of a guard to Italy. It is reported that Bela Kun, the Communist Foreign Ministry, permitted the Count to retain his available cash and securities.

Grand Duke "Nick" in Seclusion, Silently Watches Ebb And Flow of Russia's Battle Against Bolshevism

Paris, July 16 (by mail).—Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholavitch, the commander-in-chief of the ex-Caesar's armies, remains secluded in his retreat near Genoa, Italy. He refuses to make any statement of any kind on the plea that as soon as he opens his lips he will be accused of meddling in politics. He silently watches the great drama still unfolding itself in his country.

Statements are being issued from time to time by his entourage, and the latest is one by a prominent Russian who has just arrived in Genoa after spending three months with Denekin's army in the South.

"The Reds against whom Denekin is fighting," he says, "are still committing the most frightful atrocities. Their cruelty is beyond all belief. In the Kuban they first tortured and then burned alive ninety-six priests. Special treatment is meted out to all captured officers. In the three stars on their epaulettes—the mark of rank abolished by the Revolution—they drive three long nails clean through into the shoulder.

"All the young women of from seventeen to thirty years belonging to good families are treated as prisoners of war whenever the Reds march into a town. They are detained in 'open houses' and notices are posted in the camps that the troops may regard them as 'common property.' Women over thirty years old are made to work as nurses in fever hospitals; only women of the lower classes are allowed to work in ordinary surgical hospitals, where there is no risk of infection.

"Denekin is completely out of touch with Koltchak and the Finnish Eastonian army operating against Petrograd. A large percentage of the Caucasian army (Denekin's) is made up of former officers who volunteered to serve in the ranks. It gains accessions of strength every time an advance is made and Dolshiev prisoners, who never have any political convictions, readily offer their services. The remainder of Denekin's army are Cossacks of the Don, Astrakhan, Kuban and Terek.

"The army has some fine leaders in Pokrowsky, Wrangel and Chkrup, chiefs of the 'Wolves' Sotnia.' They have a black banner bearing a wolf's head. The streamers on the Cossacks' lances have the same device, with wolves' tails attached to the staves. The whole sotnia of one hundred Cossacks are dressed in wolves' skins, and when they ride into battle the effect on their enemies is terrifying.

"Before supplies reached him from the Allies Denekin had no war material or munitions of any kind, and for long he bluffed the Reds by posting dummy machine guns made of wood. All of his mounted troops were shoeless and rode with bare feet. Yet it was this tattered, rag-muffin army that destroyed a Red army of 150,000 in six weeks.

"Denekin's forces now hold the Don coalfields and are preparing to march on Czaritzin, where they will attempt to join up with Koltchak's Siberian army. Last December the Cossacks reached the government of Saratoff and Tamboff and held a front of nearly 200 miles. Then came Petliura's revolt in the Ukraine. Denekin's left flank was exposed completely, and he had to retire to the north of Novotcherkask, losing a lot of men during the operation. April and May were terrible months for weather, but now that the ground has improved Denekin has resumed the upper hand.

"The Red Army cannot be treated with contempt. Trotzky undoubtedly has the genius of organization and has stiffened his material with Chinese, Letts and sailors, who fight admirably. Aside from that, the Bolshevik troops are poor stuff, and they lack competent officers. They have only two good generals—Gutor and Klenbovsky. Now that the fine weather has set in for many months we expect to rout them completely.

"There is no such thing as politics in Denekin's army—monarchists, liberals and socialists all serve under the white, blue and red of the Slav flag, those of our volunteers who came in under the Czarist colors—black, yellow and white—having sacrificed them for the common emblem.

"Many of us are convinced that there is no such thing as a Bolshevik regime in Russia. A certain number of Bolsheviks got the upper hand of Kerensky; but Russia is really ruled by an autocrat more terrible than any since Ivan the Terrible—I mean Lenin. Lenin may be killed; but he will never give up office, because he is a self-elected despot. His Letts, his Chinese and his machine guns are capable of putting down all mutinies among his other troops and any peasant risings: His downfall can only be brought about by ceaseless pressure from the armies operating against the territory he dominates."

Durham, Mass., Women Plan Just How They Will Vote For Mayor

Durham, Mass., July 25.—Municipal problems, as they affect future women mayors and other city officials, were discussed at the school for future women voters at New Hampshire College, and—well listen.

Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker, of Connecticut, spoke with great gravity when she said: "Ladies, when we get to voting for a mayor, shall we vote for him as our brothers, the boys, have always voted for him? That is, shall we elect our mayor because he is awfully good looking? Shall we elect him for one of the worst reasons of all, because he is a Republican or Democrat? Or shall we elect him because he is awfully nice and speaks to us whenever we see him on the streets?"

Mrs. Schoonmaker's tones were of deepest religion. "Girls," she warned, "these are the reasons that prompt men to vote. Let us beware of them." Mrs. Schoonmaker then laid down a law. "Ladies, we don't get the best mayor when his election is mixed with politics. When we vote, let us leave politics out of the question."

The women voters were then given a few kindergarten first principles by Mrs. Schoonmaker. "For instance, when we women vote for a street cleaner, why not, for a change, vote for a man who knows a little bit about street cleaning. Though, for that matter, woman is the natural street cleaner by experience and heredity."

"Yes," allowed Mrs. Trueworthy White, of Boston, "and when we get elected to street cleaning bureaus we will invent a nice new vacuum street cleaner. It will scoop up the dirt easily. It will be a pleasure to run it over the street."

Here are some gems from the meeting about sundry political tricks "the boys" may be up to:

"The only reason for two political parties is that when one gets so bad you can't stand it any longer, why, then, you can put it out and put in the other.

"The man voter," Mrs. Schoonmaker said, "knows everything. It is awfully nice to be born knowing it all, so that you don't lose. However, the tables are turned. We don't know so much now as we will know when school closes here.

"But one thing we do know. We are not going to ask our husbands how we shall vote. To form our opinions, however, we can as poor, ignorant women ask questions. It is our privilege. It is also our privilege, as voting women, to change our minds. The oftener we change them perhaps, the more of a stir we shall make in little vicious Republican nests where gerrymandering is the golden text."

RAIN BOTHERS PHONES

New Haven, July 24.—It was made known by the Southern New England Telephone Company today that during the recent spell of St. Swithin weather fully 2,000 telephones in the state were out of commission due to the rain and extreme moisture. The company, it is stated, is making every effort to improve service conditions and with the return of fair weather the inconveniences which have annoyed phone users in the past week are expected to disappear.

YANK DOUGHBOYS' CASH PROLONGED MODELS' STRIKE

Paris, July 12.—(by mail)—The strike of the Midnettes in the fashionable costumers shops of the Rue de la Paix lasted until American soldiers' money ran out, according to some of the Parisian weeklies.

The doughboys gave all their sympathy to the strikers, whirled them about in taxis and took them to the races at Longchamps. When their supply of francs ran low the girls returned to work.

NO STOCKING FOR BROTHER; HE PLAYS THE WINNING GAME

LITTLE SISTER PUTS HER SPARE PENNIES IN HER STOCKING. BROTHER PUTS HIS MONEY AND FAITH IN W. S. S. BANKS TO BUY THRIFT STAMPS WITH.

These little people are enjoying the saving of pennies for Thrift and War Savings Stamps as if it were an absorbing game. The wee lassie has already discovered that there are safer places for money than the traditional stocking, and business is written legibly upon the face of her brother.

Such teaching of thrift is not lost upon children. If, as has been asserted, lessons in religion and morals learned in childhood are not easily forgotten, that is also the proper time to instill lessons of thrift. Many a person now mature regrets that some method of saving similar to Thrift and War Savings Stamps was not instituted during the years of their youth, by which they might have saved some of the hard knocks given by bitter experience.

Such thrift does not mean stinginess, but rather wise spending, that a margin may be reserved for future enjoyment or possible needs.

WHAT THRIFT WILL ACCOMPLISH.

Some Successful Men Who Began By Saving.

The immortal Abraham Lincoln was a notable exemplar of the value of thrift of time. We can picture him trudging forty miles to borrow a grammar. We can see him prone before the pine fire at night after a hard day's work log-cutting, reading and re-reading the statutes of Indiana, the only book he owned, or learning to write and figure with a piece of charcoal on the back of a wooden shovel, as he had no paper or ink.

Another example of what a boy can do who does not waste time is that of a Milwaukee man, Nels Anton Christensen, recently appointed by the United States government, through Secretary of the Navy Daniels, on the inventors' staff of the new United States Naval Board, which includes the greatest inventive minds in the nation. Born in Denmark, Nels Christensen's school days ended at 14 years. After that he worked in a machine shop days and attended a technical school in the evenings. From his savings he defrayed the expense of a course at the Copenhagen Technique Institute, from which he attained national prominence as an engineer, having designed, when 19 years old, the Danish lighthouse at Hanotholme, one of the largest in the world. During the three years he spent on an English steamer engaged in Mediterranean trade he learned enough English to secure a position with an English manufacturing concern. Since coming to the United States he has invented many compressed airbrake starters for railroads, aeroplanes and fire engines that have brought him worldwide fame.

Thomas Edison began to save before he began to invent. The successful magazine editor, Edward Bok, started saving on a salary of 50 cents a week. Grover Cleveland's wages for his first year of work totaled $50. Garfield could not have become president had he not saved early in life. Horace Greeley and Cooper founded their careers on saving.

Ex-Governor Ferris of Michigan, now a college president, a life-long advocate of thrift, tells of his own thrifty training: "In my youth if I had a cent, I made it, and made it not to suit myself alone but to suit my father as well. His examination of my work and his insistence that I should put the best there was in me even into my toys put into my back a spine and sufficient lime to last a lifetime."

"There is nothing more important in the life of a boy today than to get the habit of thrift. The waste of a nickel is as important as the waste of $10,000. When I was a boy, if I wanted a nickel I earned it. After I had earned the nickel I was not allowed to waste it. That was part of my bringing up."

Thrift was the keynote of success in the life of the late James J. Hill. He was one of the country's most consistent exponents of thrift, one of the greatest exemplars of what this virtue, combined with energy and high purpose, can do. He preached always that the man who cannot save money will be a failure; that though he may have education, talent and ability,

A SYRIAN'S APPRECIATION OF AMERICA.

Speaking on War Savings Stamps He Calls This the Americanization Period.

It takes the new-comer sometimes to appreciate America. The native-born is often too close to the situation to realize what this great country of the United States means to the world today. He is used to all that it offers, taking it as a matter of course, and frequently loses the vision in sordid detail; while the new-comer—had I lister to what one of them had to say. He is George E. Ribhany of the 1919 class of the Boston High School of Commerce and he came to this country from his native land, Syria, when he was 10 years old.

In a four-minute speech on the value of War Savings Stamps, given at the school recently, he said in closing: "Hate is not characteristic of the American people, but the Germans taught us unwillingly how to hate them. Now it is a sin not to hate the spirit they showed and not to abolish it from the face of the earth. Of the latter we are positively sure, because the American passion for justice is a hundred times stronger than was the German passion for conquest."

"I never entertained the idea of becoming an orator and I am sure that I lack oratorical ability, but such qualifications are unnecessary on an occasion like this, because the only and best inducement, to a true American are the calls of his duty and government, and not even the best oration of the greatest speaker of all time."

"Whether we all realize it or not, we are now in the midst of a period which will be known to all the oppressed peoples of the world as the Americanization period. Now is the time for every one of us to prove whether he is a sham American or a genuine American."

The practice of thrift and the purchase of War Savings Stamps are just now good indication of the genuine American.

without thrifty habits he cannot succeed. The great railroad builder began to save even before he had visions of the wonderful agricultural and industrial empire he was to create.

From the day he arrived in St. Paul from Canada, after working his way there, and received for his first day's pay $1.25, he began to save. He taught that the dollar that is worth more than any other dollar in the world to you is the first dollar you save, and that the earlier that start is made the sooner you will be able to meet the great opportunity that comes at some time to every man.

One of Mr. Hill's axioms was that prosperity not based on industry and thrift is transient, because one cannot be extravagant today, and expect to become a safe conservator of energy and wealth tomorrow.

He let it be known that he did not place a high value on the man who could not save, for he believed that to save means ability to deny and control one's self; when you are master of yourself, you will be able to master others, and with the money thus at hand, you will be able to seize opportunity when it comes along. One of his favorite sayings was: "Opportunity comes sometimes disguised and surrounded by hard work and adverse circumstances."

PARK BUILDING WILL BE MODERNIZED SOON

E. J. Holl Plans Extensive Alterations—Will Add a Third Story and Improve Entire Building.

The Park building, situated in the heart of Manchester's south end business district, and acquired recently by Edward J. Holl, will soon be changed over into a three story building and will assume the aspect of a modern business block, according to plans which are now being prepared by an architect for the wide awake promoter.

Tenants on the second floor of this building have been notified by Mr. Holl of his intentions, and have been given proper time in which to find suitable locations. Mr. Holl, however, will not alter the appearance of the main floor because of the leases held by the present tenants. These are the stores of Oliver Toop, Dewey and Richman, A. Egar and W. H. Gardner, the latter just having taken over Roger's shoe store.

When the proposed alterations and additions are completed, the Park building will have a stucco front with large plate glass windows on the second floor for the offices. A portion of the rear of this floor will be utilized for furnished apartments. The new addition, the third floor, will be used exclusively for living apartments containing all the latest conveniences.

The Park building is situated between the Orford and Purnell buildings and is a very valuable piece of property. The proposed alterations will not only beautify the structure, but will greatly enhance the appearance of the Main street as well.

ATHLETICS WILL MEET FAST BRIDGEPORT TEAM

Dowd Forced to Change Schedule at Last Minute But Gets Game Just the Same.

Manager Dowd of the Athletics received word last evening that the Elks team of Waterbury, scheduled to appear on the Mt. Nebo grounds on Sunday will be unable to appear because of a previous engagement which had been overlooked. This team however, signified its willingness to play Manchester on Sunday, August 3rd, and Manager Dowd has hooked them for this date. The Elks have one of the strongest teams in the state and their line-up is composed mostly of Eastern League players such as Farley a former team mate of Herman Brongie; Walter Ahearn, at one time premier backstop of the Eastern League; O'Neill, Lawler and Holden, the latter considered one of the best shortstops in the state.

The Athletic management has secured a fast team however for Sunday's game in the Lake Torpedo Boat Company's team of Bridgeport. This team is in the Bridgeport City League and is an exceptional fast team. "Darby" O'Connell or Sipples will toe the rubber for the locals, with Crockett or Matchett behind the plate.

IT'S DRY, DRIER, DRIEST AS 2.75 IS UNDER BAN

The Trouble Seems to Be in All These Decisions That the Judges are Making.

Although some of the saloons in Manchester are open today, there is no 2.75 on tap. Many of the local liquor men who had been closed since July 1st, decided yesterday that they would re-open as they had been notified by their agencies that beer would be released. At noon however, word was received from Hartford that these agencies had changed their decision and would not release the beer.

A number of saloon keepers refused to sell beer yesterday afternoon and when Judge Chatfield's decision was announced later in the evening they decided to discontinue the sale altogether rather than take any chances. Whether or not they will continue to remain open for the sale of near-beer and soft drinks, is a question.

SELECTMEN TO SET DATE FOR SPECIAL MEETING

Board Meets Tonight to Comply With Court's Order—Give Up Plan to Make Appeal.

The Board of Selectmen will meet in special session at the Hall of Records this evening for the purpose of discussing the decision handed down by Judge Edward L. Smith of the Court of Common Pleas, Hartford, in regard to the building line issue. As announced in yesterday's Herald, Judge Smith decided in favor of Holl and Sheridan and called the attention of the town fathers to the fact that the petition signed by 20 voters for a special town meeting must be granted.

A member of the board in discussing the situation last evening said that the selectmen would not take an appeal and that in all probability the date for a special town meeting would be set this evening. Previous to the announcement of the decision it was intimated that if Judge Smith decided against the board, an appeal would be taken.

The question of installing a surface-water drain to carry off the surplus water in the East Cemetery, between the old and new tracts will also be taken up. By the installation of this drain it is thought that about one hundred plots can be added to the tract.
