

INCANDESCENT SQUASH TWINKLES AND GLEAMS IN SILVER LANE FIELD

Beast, Bird or Oyster, What Is It That Stalks O'Nights?

MANCHESTER MYSTIFIED BY THE GHOSTLY LIGHT

Local Geologists, Astronomists, Reporters and Carpenters Advance
All Sorts of Explanations.

Ye who yearn for things mysterious, lead an ear. Do you believe in spooky or super-natural things? As you read this story in your well lighted apartments you say to yourself, "No, this guy is crazy." But just read this story at the witching
hour of midnight under a dim light.
And as a funny sensation creeps
around the roots of your hair you'll
admit that maybe the guy is right.
This is a true story. Absolutely.
It doesn't concern fairies, banshees
or will-o-the-wisps and it isn't imported despite the fact that the present administration favors free tariff. It concerns a mysterious ball of light, supernatural in its appearance
and antics. A veritable ball of flame
that dances here and there, goes
forward and backward, and changes
from a pure white to a fiery red.

News Dogs On Trail.

Rumors to the effect that a mysterious light, gullied by unseen
hands had been seen in the vicinity
of what is known as "Skunk's Misery" on the Silver Lane road reached
the ears of local newspapermen.
It was swallowed at first with some misgivings, but as one of the reporters argued that there might be something to it, the party decided to investigate.

Accompanied by a guide who had seen the light on a previous occasion, the party motored to a spot on Forbes street, East Hartford, about two miles east of the Manchester
town line. Lights were extinguished
and a site selected on a rising knoll. A resident of the vicinity hearing the hum of the motor stroled in the direction of the group, asking immediately if they had come to see the light.

Nothing New.

Receiving a reply in the affirmative he told the members of the party
that the light was visible practically every evening. He had seen the light on many times that it had become an ordinary occurrence with him. The light he said could be seen best during the winter months
between Christmas and Easter. Snow or rain storms did not prevent its appearance.

The members of the party were told of how a murder had been committed in the vicinity and how the light had hovered around there for forty years. Its antics had baffled scientists and naturalists. Parties armed with shot guns had shot at the dancing ball time and again, but with little result. In one particular instance an auto in attempting to reach the spot, encountered the mysterious object.

Does Queer Things.

The object paused in front of the car, suddenly arose and hung stationary in mid-air until the car had passed by. The party never returned.
Another time two farm hands
were making their way home in the ves small hours when the light appeared, hanging low, and passed between one of the men's legs. Only one man had ever got within a grasping distance and he came back muttering about an armless skeleton with a flashing eye.

"So far, so good." With this information, the imagination of the party
was stretched to a point where if the light had then appeared, the knoll
would have been undoubtedly been deserted in double time. Minutes, hours passed, but no light. So the party decided to return home thinking it a bluff. Information gleaned
however, from those who had really
seen the light convinced the newspaper men that there was something to it.

Wild Disorder in Assembly As Bauer Assails Ex-Kaiser

Berlin, July 29.—Premier Gustav Adolph Bauer, in addressing the National Assembly at Weimar yesterday, assailed the conservatives as the responsible parties for the continuation of the war.

"The Ex-Kaiser will certainly be brought to trial before a state tribunal," declared the Premier. "If he is proved guilty it will be a good deal for it will make the re-introduction of the monarchy impossible."

Premier Bauer, foreign minister Hermann Mueller, minister of Interior Eduard David and Finance Minister Mathias Erzberger all urged
the National Assembly to speed up the enactment of the bill providing for the creation of a state tribunal
for the trial of war offenders.

Wild Disorder.

There were wild shouts of "murderers," "traitors," and "political rascals," when Dr. Mueller attacked the fatherland party which was formed in 1917. Members leaped to their feet and there was tremendous uproar.

Dr. Mueller revealed that Count von Michaelis, then Chancellor, had sent letters of inquiry to Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff relative to the "Ger-manizing" of Belgium. The replies stated that it would require
several years occupation of Belgium
before there could be economic domination.

The Fatherland Party.

"Then the so-called fatherland
party was formed," declared Dr.
Mueller. "It supported annexations and drove the German people
to destruction."

Mueller read what he declared
was the text of the British note, sent to Germany through the Vatican in August, 1917, as a "peace feeler."
The note, Mueller explained, was delivered through Monsignor Pacelli.

Dr. Mueller charged Count von Michaelis with holding back from the political party leaders news of the "papal representations and the British peace offer."

CHICAGO RACE RIOTS SPREAD, 24 NOW DEAD, HUNDREDS HURT

Situation Beyond Control of Local Authorities—State Troops Awaiting Call—Mobs of Whites Seek Negroes in Their Homes—Police Take Blacks to Cells to Protect Them— Negro Troops on Scene—Negro Cuts Conductor's Throat.

Chicago, July 29.—Rioting spread to the down town business district
early today and threatened to create a situation that may result in all Chicago being placed under martial law before nightfall. The situation is admittedly getting beyond
the control of the authorities and it seemed practically certain this morning that the calling out of state
troops would be necessary.

24 Dead, Hundreds Injured.

One unidentified negro was pursued by a mob near a large skyscraper and shot and killed as he ran. His death brought the total number of riot victims in the past 24 hours to 24 and the injured now number hundreds. Six of the bodies taken to morgues are those of negroes and nine are whites. A throng of white men early today surrounded the federal building, where hundreds of negroes are employed. Twenty five special policemen attempted to disperse the mob and several persons were injured in the resultant fighting. The negro clerks were finally taken from the building under police protection.

Protecting Negroes.

The mob spirit became so intense
that policemen were ordered to
"pick up" all negroes found in the downtown district and hurry them
to police stations to prevent fresh assaults. Fighting was going on at many points in the loop district.

Before the sun was up this morning mobs of white men were gathering in the down town business district muttering: "Let's treat the negroes as they are treating white
folks on the South side."

Remove Clerks From P. O.

One of the first demonstrations occurred at the Federal Building,
where hundreds of negroes are employed. A mob gathered there and negroes who could hear the howling
crowd, appealed for protection.
25 special police were rushed to the federal building and attempted to disperse the mob. Many of the whites refused to move on and several clashes occurred. Fearing that violence and bloodshed would result
the department officials of the postoffice arranged to have colored clerks
removed from the building.

Under police guard the negroes
were taken from the building and sent to postoffice sub-stations in outlying sections. White clerks were hurriedly summoned to take their places.

Half a dozen encounters between
the police and rioting mobs occurred
in the "loop" district within half an hour.

Trouble in Restaurant.

William Hayes, a negro, encountered a mob of muttering white men
and when the police rescued him he was bleeding and badly beaten. Morris Butler, colored, employed in a downtown restaurant, was made the target of a barrage of sugar bowls,
plates and other crockery hurled by
a mob which sought to drive him
from the restaurant. He was badly cut and mauled.

Another mob encountered a negro at Franklin and Washington streets and chased him. The black man opened fire with a revolver and
the crowd fell back but a stray bullet struck and wounded Frank Leo,
who was driving past in his automobile.

Tim Bowman, negro, was rescued
from a mob in the heart of the downtown district after he had been kicked and beaten almost to unconsciousness.

Situation Now Serious.

The situation in the business district is so serious that Captain Edward Conroy, of the Central Police Station, prepared early today to appeal for troops unless more policemen become available for duty in the downtown streets.

Orders were issued to all patrolmen to "pick up" all negroes in the downtown section as it was feared
the presence of the black men would inflame the crowds.

At an early hour 25 negroes, some of them protesting against the detention, had been taken into custody
by the police and locked up in the central station as refugees.

SITUATION ALARMING.

Chicago, July 29.—Before 8
o'clock four new deaths and a score
of wounded had been added to the grim toll which the rioting of the past 48 hours has taken.

With the situation admittedly growing hourly more-alarming, Governor Lowden returned hurriedly to the city and offered the mayor and chief of police the services of four thousand militiamen for instant
military duty. Adjutant General, Frank
S. Dickson, after an inspection, reported the troops ready for immediate action.

To Call Out Militia.

Veterans of the police force declared the militia would have to be called out before nightfall, and that troops would have to be used to guard the downtown business
streets.

"Bring the militia into the loop," cried one of the officers. "If

INTERNATIONAL DEBATE TO FOLLOW OUR REPORT ON PALESTINE PROBLEM

Holy Land Does Not Want to be Separated from Syria.

PARIS NEWSPAPER PRINTS MILD ATTACK ON BRITISH

English Agents, It Says, Are Doing
Their Utmost to Clear the French
Out of Levant.

Paris, July 29.—The first international dispute resulting from the mandatory system of colonial administration incorporated in the covenant of the League of Nations is threatened as a result of the report
about to be issued by the American commission appointed to determine the mandatory ward in the Levant.

The report is not yet officially in hand, but the semi-official newspaper
Temps asserts that it will recommend that the French claim to a mandate in Syria not be allowed.

Does Not Want Separation.

It is said that the American commission's report will say that Palestine does not want to be separated from Syria and that, in any case, a mandate for both countries should be granted to the United States; or,
in the event the American Senate
declines it, to Great Britain.

This would be a shattering blow to important French interests in the Levant, where France has held cultural sway for centuries, in addition to building up important business interests.

Attacks the British.

This explains why the Temps, ordinarily a strong supporter of British policy, comes out with a mild attack on the activity of British agents
in the Near East.

"It is beyond doubt that the policy
pursued by British agents in the Levant is causing profound uneasiness
in France," says the Temps. "But no
well informed man can in-criminate the British government.
Premier Lloyd George has flatly declared that Great Britain would not accept a Syrian mandate and no one has a right to doubt that he was sincere. Nevertheless British agents are pursuing a different policy and
are doing their utmost to clear the French out of the Levant."

The Temps asserts that if Syria is actually hostile towards the French
this change is due solely to British propaganda.

In addition the Temps prints a column-long protest by Robert de Caix, a French authority on levantine affairs, specifically charging British agents with acting in a hostile manner towards France and encouraging Pan-Germanism.

A Secret Agreement.

De Caix says that at the end of 1915 they, (the British) concluded a secret agreement with King Ferdinand, (King of the Hedjaz, in Arabia?)
confering on him rights in Syria.
Then, in May, 1916, an agreement
was made with France whereby an international regime was to be established.

British agents, according to M. de Caix, are encouraging the Arabs to prevent all forms of French activity
in Syria. While British merchants are going freely into the country the French are said by the writer to be held up in Egypt with passport delay.

At the same time the British at the last moment find they are unable to accommodate the French officers booked for passage into Syria,
says M. DeCaix.

BRITTON WINS FIGHT.

Jersey City, N. J., July 29.—
Jack Britton's welterweight crown
is sitting safely on his brow today.

Ted (Kid) Lewis attempted to un-
crown the champion in an eight round bout at the outdoor arena of the Armory A. A. last night, but failed completely, Britton winning
a popular decision on points.

Lewis rushed the champion in the first round and had him worried, but Britton rallied before the round was over and was the aggressor in the remaining seven rounds. Seven thousand fans saw the fight.

Wilson Presents French Treaty to Senate—Says it Will Come Under League

ENGLAND'S KING PLEADS FOR SUPREMACY OF SEA

Also Asks That People Practice
Thrift and Increase Industrial Production.

London, July 29.—Appearing in uniform as admiral of the British Navy, King George told an audience
in Guild Hall today that one of the most important tasks ahead of Great Britain is the restoration of her supremacy on the seas. He urged that the development of the merchant navy and of the ports be pursued with the utmost energy.

"A new era is opening," said the King. "The qualities that carried
us to victory are needed for reconstruction if we are to reap the full
benefits of peace."
King George pleaded for national thrift and for increased industrial
production.

Without these," he said, "we shall face depression and poverty and cannot hope to maintain our pre-war commercial position. I am confident the virtues of the people will not fall us."

CALL HARBOILED SMITH TO CONGRESSIONAL PROBE

Lieutenant Charged With Cruelty to Soldier Prisoners in France to be Grilled.

New York, July 29.—The congressional investigation into alleged cruelties in army prison camps was
to open at Governor's Island today.
A sub-committee from the House
of Representatives summoned as witnesses Lieutenant "Harboiled"
Smith and Sergeant Clarence E.
Ball prisoners on the island, against whom charges of cruelty to soldier
prisoners in France, have been made. Another witness will be Joseph C. Ryssewski, winner of a French Croix de Guerre, who is to testify, regarding beatings he is said
to have received in prison camps.

BABY TORNADO WRECKS 5 PLANES AT MINEOLA

Three of Largest in America Destroyed—Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Damage.

Mineola, L. I., July 29.—Aviation fans said today that the damage done by the tornado that struck Hazelhurst Flying Field last night
will total hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Five airplanes, including three of the largest in America, were destroyed, forty temporary buildings were wrecked and a camp city of 300
tents wiped out. The big Martin bomber, in which Captain Roy N.
Francis was scheduled to begin a
one-stop flight across the continent
this week; a giant Caproni tri-plane
and a Handley-Page, weighing eleven tons were demolished. Thirty men attempted to hold the Handley-Page to the ground, but it was swept several feet into the air by the torna-
do, carrying a number of men aloft
before it crashed.

KILBANE WINS OUT.

Philadelphia, July 29.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion of the world, today holds a popular decision over Joey Fox, of England.
Kilbane and Fox boxed six rounds
at the Phillies' ball park last night before a crowd of 15,000. Fox was conceded one round, the fourth, in which Kilbane slipped to the floor
when caught off his balance by Fox.
He was not hurt and was up in an instant.

Mrs. E. H. Crosby and two daughters are spending the week at the Hale cottage, Lake Waugambaug.
They have as their guests Misses Eleanor and Olive Park of Glastonbury.

15,000 CARMEN STRIKE; CITY FORCED TO WALK

All of Chicago's Electrical Transportation Tied Up Today.

COMES AS A SURPRISE

Yesterday it Was Thought That Trouble Had Been Averted—Men
Demand Wage Increase.

Chicago, July 29.—Fifteen thousand Chicago street and elevated railway employees are on strike today
and the city's electrical transportation is tied up. Since 4 o'clock not a wheel has turned and all elevated
and surface cars are locked up in their barns.

Came Suddenly.

The strike came like a lightning
bolt to Chicago. Reports late yesterday indicated that negotiations
which had been in progress several weeks, would be successful and the strike averted. Thousands of Chicagoans awoke this morning, expecting cars to be running as usual and found themselves unable to reach their places of employment or business.

So confident were many that the strike had been averted that Governor Frank O. Lowden, after a day of conferences with employers and employees, left the city thinking a basis of adjustment had been reached.

Offers Turned Down.

But the break came when an attempt was made to bring the compromise proposition to which union
leaders and heads of the street railway companies had agreed before
the union men. In a veritable avalanche of hisses and jeers the carmen turned down the offers made them and by acclamation, voted to go on strike at 4 o'clock. The meeting turned into bedlam and before more than the first few sections of the compromise agreement had been read to them they howled down the speaker, shoved their own spokesman forward and voted to strike.
Eight thousand men attended the meeting.

The compromise agreement which
the men rejected would have given
the men a wage increase to sixty cents an hour, an eight hour day
with time and a half for overtime
and other adjustments affecting hours and conditions of labor. The original demands of the men were
for 85 cents an hour; an eight hour
day; a six hour Sunday and a six
day week.

Want 85 Cents an Hour.

Except for the matter of salary
increases it is probable that an agreement would have been reached but
the men stood firm in their demand for the 85 cents an hour wage. The present wage is 47 cents an hour.
No attempt has been made by the companies to operate cars, and, so far as is known, no such attempt is contemplated. Officials of the companies, however, have made no
statements regarding their plans or policies.

THREE MONTHS' SENTENCE.

Boston Man Who Impersonated Officer On Trial.

New York, July 29.—Robert Vincent, of Boston, the young militia
man, who impersonated an officer
and secured a couple of revolvers
from the commandant at Camp Mills
and who pleaded guilty when arraigned in the federal court, Brooklyn, last Saturday, was today sentenced to three months in the penitentiary by Federal Judge Chatfield in Brooklyn. He was a member of the 23rd Regiment and said he took the revolvers because he had to have them in order to get a commission
and did not have money to buy them.

President Makes No State- ment Regarding Delay in Handing Treaty to Senate

—Says League of Nations May Someday Cancel It— Declares U. S. Can Never Pay Debt to France.

Washington, July 29.—President
Wilson today submitted to the Senate the text of the Franco-British-American pact and in an accompan-
ing message urged its early ratification for the reason that "America's debt to France has not yet been fully repaid."

Referring to the assistance rendered America by France in the days
of the revolution, the President declared that "nothing can repay such
a debt."

"It is one of the fine reversals of history," he added, "that the other nation should be the very power
from whom France fought to set us
free."

In submitting the pact, the President explained that its object is to provide for immediate military assistance to France by the United States in case of any unprovoked
movement of aggression against her
by Germany without waiting for the advice of the council of the League
of Nations that such action be taken.
"It is to be an arrangement, not independent of the League of Nations,
but under it," said he.

The Message.

Washington, July 29.—The President's message follows:
"Gentlemen of the Senate:

"I take pleasure in laying before you a treaty with the Republic of France, the object of which is to assure that republic of the immediate aid of the United States of America in case of any unprovoked movement of aggression against her on the part of Germany. I earnestly hope that this treaty will meet with your cordial approval and will receive an early ratification at your hands, along with the treaty of peace with Germany. Now that you have had an opportunity to examine the great document I presented to you
two weeks ago, it seems opportune
to lay before you this treaty which
is meant to be in effect a part of it.
"It was signed on the same day
with the treaty of peace and is intended as a temporary supplement to
it. It is believed that the treaty of peace with Germany itself provides adequate protection to France
against aggression from her recent enemy on the east; but the years
immediately ahead of us contain many incalculable possibilities. The covenant of the League of Nations
provides for military action for the protection of its members only upon
advice of the council of the League—
advice given, it is to be presumed,
only upon deliberation and acted upon by each of the Governments of the member states only if its own judgment justifies such action. The object of the special treaty with France
which I now submit to you is to provide for immediate military assistance to France by the United States
in case of any unprovoked movement
of aggression against her by Germany without waiting for the advice
of the council of the League of Nations.

It is to be an arrangement, not independent of the league of nations but under it.

League May Revoke It.

"It is, therefore, expressly provided that this treaty shall be made
the subject of consideration at the same time with the treaty of peace
with Germany; that this special arrangement shall receive the approval of the council of the League; and that this special provision for the safety of France shall remain in force only until, upon the application
of one of the parties to it, the council of the League, acting, if necessary,
by a majority vote, shall agree that
the special provision is no longer needed."

CHICAGO RACE RIOTS ARE SPREADING TODAY

they don't there will be a massacre on State street.

At this time a mob of 1,500 men, some of them soldiers and sailors in uniform, had been rioting for more than three hours in the downtown section. As a result one white man and one negro had been shot to death and a dozen beaten, mauled and stabbed. From the south side, where residents underwent a night of flaming terror, reports of fresh fighting between the races had been received.

Cuts Man's Throat. A negro cut the throat of Joseph Powers, a street car conductor early today and Powers died as a policeman arrived. William Henderson, negro, was arrested for the crime.

An unidentified white man, was found stabbed to death at Vincennes Avenue and East 43rd Street. There were five knife wounds in his head and chest.

An unidentified negro was shot and killed by the mob at Adams and Wabash streets in the heart of the downtown district.

James Crawford, a negro who was shot in the South side rioting Sunday died early today of his wounds. Colored Soldiers on Scene. Members of the old eight, (colored) regiment, which served in France during the war, mounted automobiles today and drove through the South side, section calling upon members of their race to disperse and keep the peace. Later a platoon of them came into the business section of a similar mission.

Leaders among the Chicago negroes today declared the shooting was being done by negroes recently come to Chicago from the South. Three of these were arrested and one of them carried a shotgun and fifty rounds of ammunition.

Throughout the negro section today colored men, women and children could be seen on the streets and porches, peering through windows. Many of them had not slept at all during the night and were watching warily for approaching mobs.

White men in the residential districts fringing the black belt, were also on watch for the approach of any colored men.

Soldiers Await Call. Militiamen awaiting any call to service are equipped with 100 rounds of ammunition to the man and are at their armories with rifles ready and bayonets fixed. Machine guns also are a part of their equipment.

Early today snipers fired upon Adjutant General Dickson and two high police officers as they made a motor trip to inspection through the South side.

COWS, NO BULL, EAT BERRY PICKERS' GRUB

Two Local Men Spend Hours in Apple Tree While a Silly Old Cow Devours Lunch.

Huckleberries don't grow in apple trees. Not every cow is a bull. Cows like to vary their diets occasionally with chocolate cake and ham sandwiches. Those are three facts that George Ruddell and Fred Warner, employees of the Carlyle-Johnson company learned on a huckleberrying expedition in Vernon Sunday.

The story is anything but a joke. Ruddell left his warm bed on Russell street at 4.30 in the morning and Warner left his roost on Williams street about the same time. The night before they had collected everything that had a hole in it and might be used for carrying berries. And they had made up a lunch of choice sandwiches and excellent cake—a lunch substantial enough to last a week. And they carried flasks of water with 2.75 per cent. lemon juice and bottles of coffee.

They took the 5.20 train for Vernon and in a little while they had selected a promising looking field. They hid away the lunch and lined up their dozen or more three quart pails.

Picking had scarcely begun when there was a noise to the rear. George looked at Fred and Fred looked at George and then they both looked for a tree. An apple tree nearby beckoned them with hospitable, safe looking branches. The men accepted the invitation with alacrity. Fred got there first but there was too much of him to haul up into safety, so George gave him a boost.

For hours, it is said, the two men concealed themselves in the leafy protection of the apple tree. Finally Ruddell decided to reconnoiter. So he climbed to the top of the tree and he got there just in time to see a very stupid looking cow swallowing a bag of sandwiches.

"It's not a bull," yelled George as he slid past Fred on his way to the ground, "it's only a bull's wife." Every bit of food had been eaten by the cows and there were marks on the corks of the bottles where bovine teeth had been struggling to get at the drink.

In the late afternoon and into the gloaming hours of twilight two hunched figures could be seen on the field. Not a word was spoken. But empty pails were being filled with huckleberries.

One of the members of the Congress has introduced a bill "to prevent a President of the United States from ever again leaving his own country." Don't worry. It will not keep many of us from going abroad.

WILSON HANDS FRENCH TREATY OVER TO SENATE

the provisions of the covenant of the League afford her sufficient protection.

Our Debt to France. "I was moved to sign this treaty by considerations which will, I hope, seem as persuasive and as irresistible to you as they seemed to me. We are bound to France by ties of friendship which we have always regarded, and shall always regard, as peculiarly sacred. She assisted us to win our freedom as a nation. It is seriously to be doubted whether we could have won it without her gallant and timely aid. We have recently had the privilege of assisting in driving enemies, who were also enemies of the world, from her soil; but that doesn't pay our debt to her. Nothing can pay such a debt. She now desires that we should promise to lend our great force to keep her safe against the power she has had most reason to fear. Another great nation volunteers the same promise. It is one of the fine reversals of history, that the other nation should be the very power from whom France fought to set us free. A new day has dawned. Old antagonisms are forgotten. The common cause of freedom and enlightenment has created new comradeships and a new perception of what it is wise and necessary for great nations to do to free the world of intolerable fear. Two governments who wish to be members of the League of Nations ask leave of this council of the League to be permitted to go to the assistance of a friend whose situation has been found to be one of peculiar peril, without awaiting the advice of the League to act.

"It is by taking such pledges as this that we prove ourselves faithful to the utmost to the high obligations of gratitude and tested friendship. Such an act as this seems to me one of the proofs that we are a people that sees the true heart of duty and prefers honor to its own separate course of peace.

(Signed)

JOHN MURPHY SCALDED IN VAT OF HOT WATER

Fireman at William Foulds Paper Co. Seriously Injured—Immersed in Boiling Water to Waist.

John Murphy of North School street was severely burned last night at the William Foulds Paper Co., where he is a fireman, when he fell into a vat of boiling water.

Mr. Murphy was crossing a plank over the seething mass of water when he fell and was immersed to his waist in the scalding fluid. He was quickly pulled out by other workmen, but not before he was terribly burned about the thighs and legs. He was at once taken to St. Francis Hospital where he is now receiving every possible care. A special preparation developed during the war is being used to treat his burns and it is thought will prove so efficacious as to prevent permanent injury.

The physicians stated today that the burns were not as serious as was at first thought.

Mr. Murphy has been employed at the Foulds Co. for a number of years. He is about 65 years old.

Children Are Well Cared For While Mothers Are At Work

A Happy, Healthy Bunch of Children at Day Nursery on Cedar Street—They Receive the Best of Care in Ideal Surroundings—Good Effects Apparent.

Each morning at seven o'clock some thirty or more mothers kiss forty-five of their little children and leave them at the Day Nursery on Cedar street. In the evening about five o'clock after a day in the mills these same mothers come back to have their tiredness cheered away by clean baby smiles and take their children back to their homes. During the interim the women in charge of the work at the Day Nursery provide these children with everything necessary to keep them happy, healthy and satisfied.

It is no easy task as some of you who have two or three or, perhaps, four tots can imagine, to keep forty-five of them clean, well-fed and out of mischief. But that is the daily task of Miss Helen Schait, who has charge of the nursery, and her four assistants. Just consider having to bathe, each morning, forty-five squirming youngsters who take more or less kindly to the operation. Contemplate the necessity of having to wash each day forty-five complete suits of clothing, rompers, overalls, bibs, aprons and the like. Imagine having to prepare ninety meals. Ponder on the necessity of having to examine, before each meal, ninety hands to see that they are clean and forty-five faces to make sure they are in the same condition. And of course they never are. Then there are damp noses that must be dried, bruises that must be cared for and forty-five kids can easily produce in a single day, fifty emergencies that require diplomacy and skill.

Pay Twenty-Five Cents a Day.
 The Day Nursery is supported by Cheney Brothers for the benefit of those mothers who must work in the mills and so cannot give their children the care that they need and should have. Only babies over the age of eighteen months and children below the age of seven years are admitted. A mother may leave her child at the nursery in the morning before she starts work and she can feel confident that while she is in the mill it is receiving the very best care that science can provide. When she is through with her work she calls at the nursery, gets her child and takes it home with her. For this she pays twenty-five cents a day for each child she has at the Nursery or a dollar and thirty-eight cents a week, which charge includes a half day on Saturday.

When a child is left at the Nursery, his own clothes are removed and he is given a bath. This finished he is clothed with a Nursery suit fresh from the laundry and at nine o'clock he is ready for his breakfast. This is served in a cheerful little dining room, attractively furnished and decorated with pictures and flowers. The breakfast consists of wholesome cereals and plenty of milk. In fact the children manage to consume sixteen quarts of milk a day.

After breakfast all the children are allowed to play, the larger ones in charge of a supervisor scatter over the Four Acre lot and amuse themselves with the various games that are provided for them at the playgrounds and the babies find plenty to do in the large airy playroom in the nursery where there is a profusion of rag dolls, blocks and toys of all kinds.

At eleven o'clock all of the children are called together for inspection to make certain that faces are clean and hands are unsoiled. By twelve, without exception they are ready for dinner. Down to the dining room they go again to find an abundance of well-prepared food. There is soup, meat, vegetables, and pudding. The sandman comes at pudding.

The Sandman Comes at Once.
 After dinner when full stomachs have made little eyes sleepy, all the children but four or five of the largest are put into their cribs and until three o'clock the women have a brief rest from the turmoil of keeping forty-five youngsters busy and interested. When three o'clock comes around all of the children are taken out for an airing in the playgrounds. At four they are changed into their own clothing and made ready for their mothers.

That is a sketchy plan of the activities for a day at the Nursery. All of the children are examined daily for any symptoms of illness and should a child be suspected of having a disease he is immediately isolated and the attention of Dr. Josephine Cable is called to the case.

The Nursery has two large cool airy wards one devoted to the other children and the other for the babies. Here are the rows of white enameled cribs where the children sleep during the rest periods. In another wing of the building is the large play room with small tables and little chairs and cupboards along the walls where the toys are kept. Down stairs the dining room and adjoining is the immaculate kitchen which, since yesterday, is presided over by Mrs. Dielenschneider of this town. It is her task to prepare all of the food for the children. In the basement there is a finely equipped laundry where all the clothes, bed linen and towels are washed and ironed. Most of the work is done by electricity.

Skilled Women in Charge.
 Miss Schait, a graduate nurse who has had considerable experience in hospitals and especially in the care of children in such institutions, is in direct charge of the nursery. She has put hospital system into the nursery and has successfully used the advanced theories in the care of the children in her charge. In Mrs. Isabel Mason, all of the little tots find a mother. It was she who was forced to admit that it was sometimes necessary to punish the children. It was sometimes necessary, in extreme cases, to put them to bed. But that is the worst that is done. Judging from Mrs. Mason the occasions of the extreme sentence must be very few and even then, it is safe to say the sentence is often commuted.

A Cure for the Blues.
 A visit to the Day Nursery is an excellent cure for a bad case of pessimism. A few minutes before three in the afternoon the children are just walking in their cribs. With chubby fists buried in eyes that refuse to open, they try to chase away sleep so that they can go for a walk with "mother", Mrs. Mason. Little feet kick in the air and arms were to show that shortly there will be plenty of life.

Pretty soon tousel heads appear above the railings of the cribs. There are black haired, dark eyed boys whose parents must have come from sunny Italy. There are round faces happy looking babes who have Irish smiles and red hair. And there are youngsters whose finely spun towie hair and sky colored eyes belie their Scandinavian origin.

They smile and jabber away in the lingo that babies understand. With browned skin and in clean, cool surroundings with plenty of playmates, happiness—the infant kind that is so contagious—is the predominating note. Everything that science can devise, that money can obtain, that a kindly paternal and maternal interest can suggest has been supplied them. Daily they are being given further opportunity of becoming healthy boys and girls.

A carpet sweeper or a vacuum cleaner should be used in the daily cleaning of the carpets and rugs. A vacuum cleaner operated by hand or electric power removes practically all the dust and dirt from carpets and rugs in dustless manner.

GREAT BALL EXPECTED WHEN LOCALS CLASH

White Sox to Meet Hudsons Sunday In First of Five Game Series—Both Teams Fast.

The chief topic of conversation around the mills and on street corners this week is the White Sox-Hudson five game series which starts next Sunday. Many are the heated arguments which have arisen over the discussions of the merits of individual players and it is very certain that the Pleasant street grounds will be taxed to their capacity when Umpire McCarthy calls "play," next Sunday afternoon.

The fact that the winning team will challenge the Athletics for the town championship adds more interest to the outcome. Both the Hudson and White Sox rooters claim that their teams could give Manager Dowd's bunch a close run for high honors, while the Athletic rooters claim that they haven't got a look in. The latter team has no doubt predominated in popularity this season because of the fact that it has been up against much faster clubs.

The Hudsons have established an almost perfect record this season with 21 games won and but four lost. Their victory over the fast Acorns of Kennington gives evidence that they are not out of the running by any means. The White Sox have also set up a good record this season and have defeated some fast teams. Sunday's victory over the crack Ben Hur of Hartford demonstrates that the Sox lineup is not to be scoffed at.

MEN LEAVE LUMBER CO. AFTER DEMANDING RAISE

Employees Say They Struck But Company Declares They Were Simply Discharged.

Sixteen employees of the Manchester Lumber Company claim that they walked out yesterday afternoon when the owners of the company refused to accede to their demands for a wage increase and shorter hours. The men stated that they had been receiving from 34 to 36 cents an hour and have been working ten hours a day. Their request was for a ten per cent increase and a nine hour working day. The proposition they said was put up to the company's manager and when told that it could not be considered the men walked out.

Says They Were Discharged.
 A representative of the lumber company stated that the men did walk out, and added, after they have been discharged. He said that the workers at the yards had been receiving from 32 to 43 cents per hour in addition to a bonus. The company was rushed with orders and, in consequence, was forced to operate on a ten hour basis. The first intimation of trouble came on last Friday evening when he was told that the men were looking for an increase. The representative promised to give the matter further consideration.

On Saturday however, the foreman came in with an ultimatum and asked whether or not any action had been taken on the wage question. He was informed that officials were considering the question and that the men would be informed of the company's decision within a few days.

The matter was discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting between several of the men and an official of the company. The upshot of this was that the men left the employ of the company.

Park Theater Circle Theater

William S. Hart's new Artercraft picture, "The Money Corral," which comes to the Park Theatre tonight is one of the best photoplays in which Mr. Hart has been seen in many a day. It is announced that in the making of the big rodeo scenes for this film, all the cowgirls, punchers, Indians and Mexicans within a hundred miles came to take part in the episodes that required fast riding, shooting, roping, etc.

Bill Hart is prominent in these scenes himself. Later the story takes the principal characters to Chicago and the western hero is introduced to the underworld crooks. He bests them, saves a trust company wins a charming girl for his wife and is presented with a ranch in Montana by his grateful employer, the president of a trust company.

Mr. Hart collaborated with Lambert Hillier in writing and directing this picture and this combination assures the acme of thrill and human interest for both men are famous for their capable work.

Mr. Hart declares that the production comes up to his expectations. "The rodeo scenes will only occupy a few hundred feet of the film," he observes, "but they are worth all the trouble, and time, for they mirror faithfully the real life of the West."

A lot of the wild horses brought in from the ranges were too much for even some of the crack riders and a few bad spills occurred. But the excitement is said to be intense as a result of this genuine replica of a frontier week in the open country.

"Smile," said Carrie Chapman Catt to the New Jersey Association for Woman Suffrage, "if you want the vote." All right, ladies, keep smiling—but don't wink.

Suppose you were being married and the minister said: "Do you take this man for your lawfully wedded husband?" Would you reply, "I certainly do not?" And then jump out of a window and make your escape with another man?

This is one of the big situations in the new Peggy Hyland photoplay, "The Rebellious Bride," which was shown at the Circle Theatre yesterday for the first time. It will be presented again tonight. Following this lively incident, Miss Peggy is compelled, under threats by her irate grandfather, to marry the first man she meets on a country road in the Ozark mountains.

Could such a marriage result happily? Peggy Hyland answers this question after various exciting adventures. The play has an abundance of situations both tense and full of laughter. "The Rebellious Bride" looks like a sure winner.

On the same bill will be "The Perils of Thunder Mountain," a comedy and the famous Pathe News. Tomorrow, a special, "Way of a Man With a Maid," will be the feature.

PROBE OIL SITUATION.

Washington, July 28.—Investigation of the fuel oil situation particularly on the Pacific coast, by Federal Trade Commission, was sought today by Senator Poindexter, of Washington, in a resolution introduced in the Senate.

The resolution calls for an inquiry into fuel oil costs, the activities of the Union Oil Company and the Federal Petroleum Company to determine whether there are combinations in restraints of trade in the oil.

DESTRUCTION ONLY.

Where would they read us, these Senators who are seeking to strangle the League of Nations at its birth? During war the word of the military leaders is law. They have but to ask and the public unhesitatingly grants their every request. No explanations are required, usually none are given. The public demands but one thing—victory, and in return all the customary mechanism of government is deliberately thrown out of gear. But now the war is over and we rightly look to our elected representatives for leadership, for guidance and for counsel. The helm is in their hands. The people name the port but the course is plotted and the ship directed from Washington.

At present we are simply drifting. The anti-leaguers have made a raid on the pilot house, they have snatched the wheel, which they try to turn in opposite directions, they have thrown the charts out of the window. To all intents and purposes they are going to scuttle the ship.

Assume that they triumph; that the League of Nations is forced to walk the plank and the treaty tied hand and foot in the hold of the vessel. What then? Assume that Borah is at the helm, that Smoot is first mate, that Sherman is astride the bowsprit and that Johnson stands on the bridge.

This is the situation which the anti-leaguers are trying to bring about. But this is as far as they have disclosed their plans. We know that they seek to destroy the league and oust those who would establish it as a buttress to international law. We know that they seek to reduce the treaty to a scrap of paper. But, this nefarious piece of piracy accomplished, we know not what they intend to do.

The reason why we do not know is plain. It is to be found in the very character of the anti-leaguers. They are not pilots, they are not navigators. They are a crew of wreckers, nothing else; these men who would destroy both the treaty and the league.

From them we have not had a solitary idea that would clear the situation. They have contributed nothing toward the solution of our international problems. Destruction is their only talent.

From a few men we have had counter proposals which at least merited thoughtful consideration and challenged honest debate but from the Senate opposition we have had only threats, denunciations, defamation and vain mouthings. Elihu Root has given us, a statement of reservations which he hoped would meet the contentions of these men. Former President Taft has written the Republican National Chairman a series of interpretations with which he sought to open the way for the beginning of constructive statesmanship. Charles Evans Hughes has contributed a document which he offers as a suggestion to smooth the way of the league. But from the bitter enders in the Senate we have had nothing.

Henry Ford has admitted his astounding ignorance, on many subjects but defended himself by declaring that he could hire someone to supplement his own lack of common information and provide him with any needed facts "in five minutes." The Senators have had expert advice thrust upon them. They do not need to "hire." They have it gratis from Taft, from Root, and from Hughes. Do they confess that they are not only void of statesmanship but can not recognize it when it is handed to them?

The trouble is that these men have been putting up a monstrous sham. They do not oppose the league because they feel a sincere solicitation for the future of this country. They do not seek to delay the treaty because they have an honest doubt as to the wisdom of its provisions. They find the counsel of Mr. Root, Mr. Taft and Mr. Hughes almost as unpalatable as the original document from the conference at Paris for all of these men advised that the league be ratified in the end. That is what sickens the last ditchers. They do not seek a clarified league, or a safe-guarded treaty. They would rip up the great

plan and steer the ship of state by dead reckoning.

No other conclusion is possible in the absence of all constructive statements on the part of the Senate opposition. The Senate received a treaty in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution for "advice and consent" but, so far, the Senate has produced nothing but denunciation and dissent.

If the anti leaguers have a better treaty than the allies could make, why do they not produce it? Let them stop chopping down and try to build something. The world has had enough of destruction, both physical and spiritual. The need of the hour is builders and not destroyers.

Since it will hardly be practicable in the future to christen ships with champagne the question arises as to what will be used in its place. At a launching at Hog Island Saturday when an oil king's daughter was sponsor a bottle of crude oil was used. This strikes us as poor stuff for a christening. By spattering it might have ruined the young lady's dress. It would seem more appropriate to use a bottle of salt water for a sea going ship and a bottle of fresh water for an inland lake vessel. The ship doesn't care what is used, but the indispensable pretty girl with a fetching costume should be protected from such an abomination as crude oil.

THE EX-SERVICE MAN MAKES GOOD IN TEST

Sixty-four Per Cent. Show Improvement in Mental and Physical Condition.

During the war it was usually expensive to be patriotic, and life was just one privation after another. But now, in the period of settlement and readjustment, there is one patriotic duty that does not mean sacrifice, and the man who performs it by hiring a soldier will find that patriotism is its own reward.

For the ex-service man, according to tests, is better fitted for the world's work, both mentally and physically, than he was when he went to war. Therefore, that patriotic employer who welcomes soldiers and sailors into his business organization, will not only be doing the man a good turn, but he will, by so doing, inject new energy into his office and thus raise the standard of efficiency. These tests have been made by the War Department as a key to the task of placing in civilian employment the four million men who are to be returned to the United States. Colonel Arthur Woods, Assistant to the Secretary of War, is in charge of the government's gigantic employment plan, and makes public the figures which have been obtained relative to the condition of returning soldiers and sailors.

The figures show that 64 per cent. of the men manifest actual and tangible improvement both in physical and mental vigor. Their perceptions have been quickened, their nerves have been disciplined, their backbone has been stiffened, and they are in general better stuff than they were when they went away. Of the remaining numbers, a large percentage have shown no actual retrogression, while a few have been shocked and wearied by the strain. These latter, however, are not discharged until everything possible has been done to restore them to normal, so that all the men who are sent out as applicants for work by the War Department and his assistants represent the finest type of labor that could be found anywhere in the country, men with sound bodies, keen minds, and a ready spirit.

MARRYING PARSON'S TIES MAY PROVE NOT LEGAL.

Charleston, W. Va., July 29.—Several hundred couples who were married by H. J. Hill, the "marrying parson," are wondering today just what their status is, for it is charged that Hill has been performing ceremonies without a legal right. Hill has carried on his trade for years and his personal solicitations finally made him obnoxious. An injunction was secured several months ago to break up his practice. Despite the injunction he continued the marriage business. It is now said that couples joined by him during the period of the injunction were not legally wed.

Wholesaler and Middleman To Blame For High Prices, Says Conan Doyle

London, July 29.—"Unless something is done quickly, and done thoroughly, to check rising prices in the necessities of life, there will be violence in this country. Man must live, and these wicked prices are making it a hard matter."

Such is the interesting statement of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in an interview appearing recently in the London Times. Mr. Doyle continues as follows:

"What are our rulers about, and why are they tacitly protecting a handful of profiteers to the danger of the nation? The men who are making fortunes out of the needs of the people are not very numerous, they are not difficult to find, a very little examination would establish their guilt, and if there is no law adequately to punish them, then it is a reproach to our lawmakers that such a law should not exist. Let it be passed and most rigorously enacted. A dozen cases of extreme punishment would work a wondrous change."

"I will take an illustration of the present monstrous condition of affairs. I have some first-class evidence of the condition of that market garden industry which supplies London with most of its vegetables. The cabbage or lettuce which is bought from the market gardener (who conveys it to Covent Garden) at two or three cents is sold in the shops at an average of eighteen to twenty-five cents. Occasionally it passes twenty-five cents, for there is no limit to the conscienceless greed. Now only two people have handled that vegetable since the grower received his very reasonable price, which would be lower were it not that every expense which he bears, from his labor to his petrol, has greatly increased. He is guiltless in the matter. The guilt lies between the wholesale dealer who buys the consignment at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning at Covent Garden or other market and the retailer who comes to buy it from the wholesale dealer at some later hour. Between them, although they do nothing but handle what others by the work and care have produced, they increase the price at least four—and often six or eight-fold.

"The worst case seems to be the wholesale dealer, because as he is handling very large quantities and only has them for a few hours one would expect that some very trifling charge upon each vegetable would still give him a considerable profit. Far, however, from his charge being trifling, he gets more and often much more on each cabbage or lettuce than the original grower who has taken all the risk and shown all the skill. What the wholesale dealer buys at two or three cents he passes on again at six or eight cents. That, as it seems to me, is the root of the evil. The shopkeeper may be, and often is, a criminal also in this matter, but at least he does take some risk with a perishable stock and an uncertain demand. But for these huge profits of the middleman, who must all be on the way to great wealth, there can be no excuse whatever. If they plead that their expenses at Covent Garden cause this inflation, then Covent Garden should itself be abolished and a Government market established. Government has many men available from the army supply service who are quite competent to handle large commercial matters. I suggest that by the use of such men the middlemen's absence in fall might be successfully tided over and a better system inaugurated. A few clean run British officers with plenary powers would very soon set things right.

"Meanwhile, three matters press. The first is to decree heavy punishment for any one who destroys food as is done in some cases in order to keep up prices. A second is to punish in the same way any one who sets up any impediment to the circulation of marketable goods. Attempts at reform have sometimes been discouraged by the complete disappearance of the goods concerned, and the public is tempted to say: "There is the consequence of interfering with supply and demand." It is much more likely to be the consequence of interference with illicit profits, and an attempt to bully the public into tamely submitting to extortion. The third and most important thing is to define what is a fair profit in the case both of middleman and of retailer, and to clap the offenders into jail. The recent fines of a few shillings are rather an incentive to crime than a deterrent."

SEPTEMBER MORN CAUGHT.

Atlanta, Ga., July 29.—Depicting an animated September Morn' Miss Pearl Sander, comely and sixteen, plunged and splashed in the sparkling waters of Maddox Park pool swathed only in the beautiful moonlight. Residents attracted to the scene by the loud applause called a policeman, who took the fair bather to the police station, but not until after she had again assumed her apparel.

"I wish I knew how to get into the game," He said in a voice with a sorrowful pitch. "A million or two is all I would claim, I have no desire at all to be rich."

ANOTHER GRAND OLD MAN OF BASEBALL IS DEAD

New York, July 29.—Baseball lost one of its grand old men in the passing of the late James A. Hart, once president of the Chicago Cubs.

Hart was among the pioneer owners whose efforts paved the way for modernized baseball and he did much to elevate its standard. Many of the rules now deemed indispensable were championed by him. One of the most important rules—the foul strike rule—was suggested by Hart and marked his last effort at rule making.

Hart retired as president of the Cubs in 1905 after twenty-five years of activity in the national game. For sixteen years he was closely identified with the National League, entering it in 1889 just prior to the Brotherhood war. He succeeded A. G. Spalding as president of the Chicago club.

Born at Girard, Pa., in 1855, Hart began his baseball career at a tender age, having been made secretary of his home town club at the age of fifteen. He finally became connected with professional baseball for the first time at Louisville, Ky., where he was attracted by the Eclipse team, which played Sunday ball with clubs like the Philadelphia Athletics and Comiskey's original St. Louis Browns. When the American Association was organized in 1882 he became vice-president and a member of the board of directors of the Louisville club, retiring from the mercantile line because of the demands made upon him by the baseball business.

McDONALD IS HONEST; NOT MAN OF MYSTERY

Has Engaged in Executing the Law Never in Break-

A COP BY PROFESSION

His Strange Disappearance Were
Only Quests for Better Work—
Has Ability and Clean Record.

Thomas McDonald, alias Smith and Baker is not the man of mystery who has been scaring the inhabitants of Wapping. Neither is he the elusive stranger of Charter Oak street or the man wanted for murder in Western New York. He is exactly what he claims himself to be—an ex-policeman of Springfield, Mass. Thus the man from the Bay state drops out of the limelight of mystery.

Because of McDonald's strange disappearance from the farm of Arthur Gallant in South Windsor, where he had been working, it was thought that he might have been connected in the affair which took place in Wapping some days ago. In the prevailing excitement it was also reported that his photo taken in the uniform of a policeman which corresponded with an official snapshot of a man wanted for murder.

But McDonald is not the man. No reward hangs over his head. Information obtained yesterday brings out the fact that he is a man of extraordinary ability and has had a streak of hard luck. He has an excellent military record and because of his advanced age did not enlist in the world war, but accepted a position on the Springfield police force. The personnel of this force at the time had been cut down by the selective draft.

While serving on the force he established an excellent record. Instances are known where he captured at various times, criminals of the most desperate type. He also figured in a running gun fight. But jealousy and the "inside stuff" got working it is said, and McDonald not being of the "piker" type quit. He came to Manchester looking for work and finally landed a job at the Gallant farm.

Those who knew McDonald speak well of him. He had a clean record in Wapping and was a good worker. His mysterious disappearing acts were nothing but jaunts to Manchester to look for work of a better nature. His whereabouts at the present time are unknown but Wapping and Manchester residents may rest assured that he is not of the calibre that picks on defenseless women and children to attack them.

SOLONS PLAN TO REMEDY

Suggestion Made That Food for Army Be Dumped On All Home Markets.

Washington, July 29.—The high cost of living was to be subjected to a drum fire of proposed remedies and sweeping criticisms in the house today, with profiteers and profiteering coming in for their share of the attack. A number of the representatives planned to make.

A flood of remedial legislation aimed particularly at soaring food prices, with several measures providing for regulation of the packing industry, was anticipated.

Action was expected on a resolution requesting Secretary Baker to unload immediately on the home markets patronized by the housewife the entire surplus of food products, estimated to be worth about $120,000,000 which the 'army no longer requires because of the cessation of war. House leaders predicted that the resolution would be passed at the end of the four hours debate fixed by the House Rules Committee making the measure a special order for immediate consideration.

Present to Direct Work.

The Eighth District playground is fast becoming a popular place with the children of the north end. Many adults, too, visit the grounds each day, and enjoy the cool, shady spot. It is an ideal place for the children, as it is well protected by many shade trees, and is always cool. There are swings, see-saws, sand boxes, benches, a croquet set, volley ball and net, basketball court, baseball and bats, bean bags, with which the children may amuse themselves. More equipment will be installed when it arrives. A small wading pool has been constructed, where the children have a delightful time paddling.

Miss Taylor, the instructor, is at the playground each day from ten to twelve a. m. and from one to five p. m.

Mothers are urged to send their children each day during those hours. Miss Moore, who is in charge of the child welfare work at the north end, is endeavoring to have her class of Little Mothers care for their small brothers and sisters at the playground, while their mothers are at work.

The support received however was not up to expectations and the Athletic management appealed to the Chamber of Commerce for support, in order to continue for the remainder of the season on the present playing basis.

The Chamber of Commerce voted to donate $300 toward the project and appointed a committee consisting of John Cairns, Christopher Glenney and N. B. Richards to raise the amount among the business men. On Sunday Mr. Cairns presented Manager Dowd with a check for $305. This amount was subscribed to by the following:

COMMITTEE WILL PLAN
STATE C. OF C. MEETING

Hartford and New Haven Are Favored By About Same Number as Place for Big Gathering.

Plans for the first annual meeting of the re-organized State Chamber of Commerce will be discussed at the meeting of the Executive Committee to be held at the offices of the Chamber at the Century Building 54 Church street, Hartford, on Friday.

Opinions and suggestions from the local Chamber of Commerce have been solicited by means of a questionnaire, so that all sections and interests in the State will have had a voice in framing the program. The replies, as received to date, show fifteen organizations to favor Hartford as a meeting place because it is centrally located, fourteen to favor New Haven because it has superior hotel and hall accommodations, two to favor Bridgeport and one vote each for New London and Waterbury. Preferences stand about five to one in favor of a two-day instead of a three-day conference and the proportion is the same in favor of ending the convention with a banquet. There will be speakers of nation-wide business prominence as well as the leaders of New England industrial interests, and a wide representation of Connecticut's large and small business organizations is counted upon. Such subjects as "The Future of Connecticut's Manufacturing," "The Railroad and Freight Situation in this State," "Business Reconstruction," and "Future Relations between Capital and Labor," were recommended in the questionnaire for discussion at the general meetings. The special lines of business will hold group meetings devoted to more technical subjects of wholesale and retail trade, manufacturers, banking and insurance, public utilities and agriculture. A special combined discussion for bankers and farmers is being considered to consider the problem of more liberal extension of credit to farmers.

Manchester, N. H., July 29.—Whether it be war-time prohibition or just plain State prohibition, Manchester manages to get its little taste of alcohol, even through the medium of the hot chocolate urn.

Police Inspector Gorey and Officer Pitman dropped into a confectionery store conducted by Arthur Vasil and found hard cider flowing freely through the chocolate urn. Upon investigating through the cellar the officers found two men "dead to the world" asleep in a coal bin. One of the men claimed that he had four drinks and it was enough.

Vasil was found guilty, but he appealed and was held in $400 bonds for the September term.

IMPROVED ROADS AND MOTORTRUCKS WILL CUT COST OF TRANSPORTATION

Collecting Milk at the Cross Roads to Be Delivered by Motortruck to City.

The man who never gets out of sight of the tall buildings, as well as the man who has yet to see a city scraper, should be a booster for better roads. Highways are used in transporting practically every article of food at some stage in its journey to the consumer's table.

From the time when farm products were first hauled in wagons to markets there has been an interest in better roads as a means of reducing the cost of transportation, but improved highways mean more now because of the extensive use of motortrucks in hauling products from the farm to the railroad station or direct to the city markets.

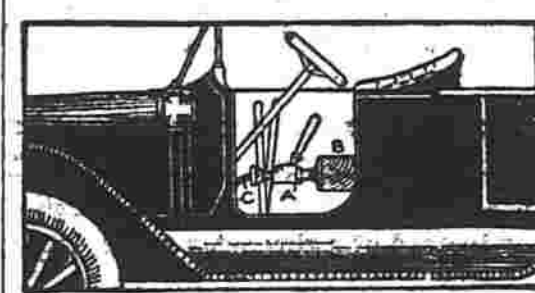

Maintenance of thousands of miles of roads so that the enormous government and commercial truck traffic of the past two years could move has taxed the abilities and called forth every energy and plan on the part of highway officials.

Only a few states were unaffected by the restrictions on the supply and transportation of materials which had to be brought from a distance. None escaped the difficulties which followed the great and rapid increase in traffic at this country's entrance into the war.

KEEPS FOOT BRAKE ADJUSTED

By the Use of This Device One Man May Easily and Successfully Do Work.

Many automobile owners neglect the close adjustment of foot brakes causing needless expense and possible danger. The principal reason for such neglect is that it usually takes two men to adjust the brakes successfully.

the other tests the wheels to insure even braking power. One may very easily and successfully adjust the brakes with the use of a jack, as shown in the illustration.

OIL AND TIRES

Oil and gasoline are deadly enemies to automobile tires. If you don't believe it, take a rubber band and immerse it in gasoline. Watch it swell-grow before your eyes.

Gasoline has a similar effect on automobile tires. "Gas" eats a weak spot into the tread or sidewall and starts deterioration. Oil and grease have the same effect.

Great care should be exercised in the use of oil around a garage. Oil or gasoline should not be allowed on the floors. Spare tires should always be protected by cover.

NEED NOT FIT NEW RINGS

Comparatively Easy Matter of Overcoming Spark Plug Fouling From Oil Which Leaks Through.

When an engine starts to pump oil and the spark plugs become fouled, it is not always the best and cheapest plan to fit new rings. A good method to overcome spark plug fouling from the oil which leaks through and one that does not require the fitting of new rings is given herewith.

The piston is taken out and centered up in the chuck of a lathe and a groove is cut in the skirt of the piston. Then eight or ten holes are drilled at equal spaces around the periphery of the piston. These holes are drilled at the top of the groove and at an angle so they point upward and inward.

VERY INGENIOUS TOOL RACK

May Be Made by Boring Number of Holes in a Board and Then Drilling in Closets.

A very ingenious tool rack for flat tools may be made by boring a number of holes in a board, each hole being just large enough to take the head of a clothespin. Clothespins are then driven into the holes and the cleft ends are used to receive the tools. The pins may be made secure by a small wire nail driven through their heads and into the board.

FACT WILL CAUSE WAR SAYS SENATOR THOMAS

Declares Certain Provisions Threaten to Destroy League Itself and Permanent Peace.

Washington, July 29.—The treaty of Versailles does not make for peace but for war, Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, declared in the Senate this afternoon, invoking his disappointment over the Shantung and other disputed provisions upon which Senatorial opposition to the ratification of the document without reservations is based.

While Thomas, who conferred with President Wilson at the White House yesterday, did not state whether he would hold out for reservations he expressed strong dissatisfaction with the treaty as it is now constituted. He asserted that "it contained provisions which threatened with destruction the League of Nations and permanent peace."

"Both cannot endure," he added.

INCANDESCENT SQUASH MYSTIFIES MANCHESTER

She Comes. So another attempt was made last night. The party reached the spot. The lights were extinguished. Ten minutes elapsed. "Guess it's a joke!" said one of the boys. "Great Scoff! Look!"—About three hundred yards away there hung in mid-air, ball of light about the size of an apple. Suddenly it darted to the left and changed to a fiery red, then disappeared. "Well, I'll be d—." This from the rear. The words had hardly left the lips of the speaker when the light re-appeared. This time in another direction.

Five times the light appeared, the fourth appearance being the demonstration. The light appeared at a high altitude, came dancing in the direction of the party, retired and disappeared. During an interval one of the members went down the road for a clearer vision and the light went out. "It's coming again boys," said he in hushed voice. A streak of light and then the ball, fiery, red appeared. The party departed convinced that the mystery was really a reality. If you are doubtful go down to "Skunk's Misery" and be convinced.

PRO-GERMAN LAWYER IS TO BE FREED ON BAIL

New Haven, Conn. Man Will Have Time to Prepare His Case for Coming Trial.

Hartford, July 29.—Maximilian von Hoegan, the young German lawyer of New Haven, whose actions when the United States first entered the war led to his being taken from his residence by a mob and forced to kiss the flag, and who later was held by the Federal authorities, on a charge of treason, without bond, may secure his freedom under bonds of $2,000. Word was received by United States District Attorney John F. Crosby from the Attorney General today that owing to the fact that the war is practically over and that there is little chance for von Hoegan to cause harm to himself or the government, the prisoner, now in the Hartford County Jail, may be released under reasonable bail in order that he may have opportunity to prepare his case with his attorney, Charles Recht, of New York. The amount which is considered reasonable is $2,000.

The bartenders are on a strike in Allentown, Pa., their purpose being to emphasize the "horror of bondery conditions." If they can get the soda counter clerks to engage in a sympathetic strike it is likely to be truly horrifying.

THE POACHER

By MILDRED WHITE

Della brought her car to a stop, and sat up with a gasp of surprise. There before her at the bend of the road was the original of her favorite picture. She had not fancied, as she often admiringly gazed at the beautiful water color of a quaint old house, that the house could possibly be real. More was it like an idealization of an artist.

The picture had drawn her from its first hanging on the walls of the art store. Since then, it occupied the best wall space in Della's own room. She had ridden far, lost in her disappointed thought, far beyond the well-kept state road into the rough one of the outskirts. Its unevenness had passed by unnoticed, as she wondered for the hundredth time, why her latest story had failed to please.

Della had counted much upon that story. Heretofore she had been fortunate in selling, what did this story lack? If she might go over it again, wholly concentrating her thoughts. Della smiled cynically; where in the hubbub of her society home might she find concentration? Now she knew what had caused her failure, the constant call to other things. And as if in answer to her conclusion before her suggestively loomed the isolated house.

She was out of the car in a bound, a shrewd old Scotsman coming to open the deep set door, waited to learn Della's errand. "It is so restful here," she explained breathlessly, "I wonder if you might be persuaded to take me for a few weeks as a boarder?"

The neat Scotsman considered. "Well now," she said, "I'll ask Sandy." Sandy, her kindly old husband, was quickly agreeable. "What harm," he asked, "when we are alone?"

So arrangements were made for Della to come upon the following day. Installed in her hammock back along the hollyhocks, the Scotsman left the girl with one injunction: "If you see any trespassers," she cautioned, "whistle for Sandy. There's been many lately, coming to flich our fruit or to fish in our stream. The stream mustn't be disturbed."

"I'll whistle," Della promised, and she left her hammock to examine the stream. The water color had given no promise of this stream. It went rippling merrily on beyond the furthest trees. It looked invitingly cool on this hot summer day. Della was possessed of an unruly desire herself to dangle a line and to flich the fine trout. She sat still instead, watching a "prize catch" which came nearer and nearer. And just as it came very near, a man's voice whispered roughly: "Don't startle him, I'm going to throw a line."

The man himself immediately came into view; his khaki trousers were covered with mud, an old felt hat shaded his bold, dark eyes. "Don't you dare!" cried Della; she clapped her hands to frighten the fish. The man turned on her impatiently, then seeing her flushed cheeks and indignantly glowing eyes, he smiled. "Well—" he began, "what do you mean by that?"

"I mean," Della answered steadily, "that you are trespassing and that you must have read the forbidding signs outside the wall." "I did," the man admitted. "And yet you deliberately came to fish." She decided to whistle for Sandy.

"Did you intend," she added sarcastically, "to also help yourself to the fruit?" "To a few of those choice plums perhaps," the man replied. He calmly suited the action to the word. "What right have you to object?" the poacher questioned, he was smiling. "I live here," Della answered briefly.

It was the man's turn to stare. He did so unreservedly, while the perplexity of his gaze gave way to frank admiration. "Live here?" he repeated. Sandy's burly figure came crashing through the brambles. "Girl!" he muttered, "what a scare ye gave me; I thought ye needed help. But if master's here—"

"Hello Sandy," pleasantly greeted the man, "who may I ask, is this young lady who informs me that my house is her place of residence?" Sandy flushed. "She's just a bit of a boarder," he said, "the wife and I thought it no harm to take her in for a while sir, you not being expected home so soon an' all."

"All right," the man answered with a brusque gesture of dismissal. Della came close to him, raising to his, her lovely, embarrassed face. "You called it your house?" she questioned. The man bowed, his smile was strangely reassuring. "I'm an artist," he explained. The old place took my fancy and I thought it so that I might come out sometimes to paint. Sandy and his wife are my faithful caretakers."

"May I tell you," Della asked, "how I happened to come here? It is really quite wonderful!" And later when the two went sauntering up the garden path together, the sunflowers nodding their golden heads at each other, seemed to smile. (Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

HAPPY THOUGHT.

Envy. "If I had my life to live over," remarked Mr. Dustin Stax, "I'd be a moving picture star." "But you have amassed wealth." "Yes. But a moving picture star can make a million dollars a minute without having the finger of scorn pointed at him as a profiteer."

WHY HIS HEAD IS BANDAGED. Why? Henry, if some bold bad man were to kidnap me would you offer a reward. Certainly, I always reward those who do me a favor.

Such is Fame. "Did you see the house where the great poet lived?" "Uh, huh." "And the landlord, did he have no reminiscences of the great poet?" "None beyond the fact that the great poet moved away owing him rent."

A Fateful Series. "I started out to have a little run over in my new motor." "Well, what happened?" "I ran up against the speed laws, a motor cop ran me down and then ran me in."

Does So. "This actress says women should be pretty and men should be stalwart, even if artificial means be used." "Well?" "Looks like a strong boost for lip rouge and padded shoulders."

Apprehensive. She—I tell you, the time is coming when men will no more dictate to women. He—Good heavens! Are the stenographers going to strike?

Preparedness. "Pa, when a man doubles his fists has he four hands?" "Why, no, my son; though the action is generally a forehanded one."

The Trouble. "Is this son of yours you are having trouble with, adolescent?" "My, my, sir! He's just a little queer in the head."

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

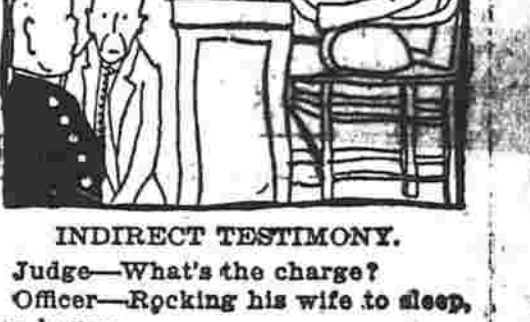

Capital and Labor. "What's the difference between capital and labor?" "If I had to work and turn three-fourths of my wages over to you, that would be labor." "Yes?" "On the other hand, if you had to work and turn three-fourths of your wages over to me, that would be capital."—Life.

Cheap at the Price. First Business Man—I declare. That more Boreum persists in calling on me at the office and staying for hours during my busiest time. I should like to be rid of him and yet I don't want to offend him. Second Business Ditto—Why not try loaning him five dollars?

Afraid to Tackle It. "Dear," he murmured, holding his lips very close to her shell-like ear. "Don't you think you could learn to care for me?" "Oh, I suppose I could George," she responded, "but I am afraid you would be an awful care."

She Knew. "I thought you said you knew something about cooking," said the mistress. "I did say so," admitted Mary Jane. "Well, how do you make hash?" "You don't make it. It simply accumulates."

In the Court. Prosecutor—Here is a man who made it a specialty to victimize country ministers. Judge—I see; a regular shepherd's crook.

INDIRECT TESTIMONY. Judge—What's the charge? Officer—Ripping his wife to sleep, yer honor. "That's no case. Oh, but yer honor, yer should have seen the soles of the rock."

Soft for Knocker. The knocker has it pretty soft. For almost any slammer Can land his blows both hard and soft. And never use the hammer.

A Luxury. "Thanks," said the judge; "a sweet draught from fairer hand—" "Yes," interrupted Maud Muller, fixing him with a cold look; "but before you ride away remember there's a one-cent war tax on that drink."

Different Then. "F. T. Barnum said the public liked to be humbugged." "Quite true," admitted the man who was doing sums in arithmetic. "But it cost so much less to be humbugged when Barnum was alive."

The Usual Way. "Hello, kids, where are the mother and Mabel?" "Ma's in the kitchen making up her bread and Mabel's upstairs making up her face."

Cheerful News. Editor—That dog of mine is something of a literary critic. Author—How is that? Editor—He can tell a poet as far as he can see him.

Off Duty. The Civilian—I'm surprised that you, a police officer, should allow yourself to be held up and robbed. The Cop—But you see, sir, we were on strike when it happened.

Still as Foolish as Ever. "I see a dispatch which says the ex-kaiser has left Holland and gone back to Germany." "That bird seems to have a mental for not knowing when he is well off."

Impossible. "Mr. Griggs, before I begin to paint this portrait, I would like to make a study of your wife's face in repose." "Then, my dear sir, you will never get a speaking likeness."

Kind Conjectures. Belle—All Maudie's family are blondes. Where did she get such black eyes? Nell—I guess her husband gave them to her.

BIG 5' MARK PRICE OF MEAT UP OR DOWN TO SUIT THEMSELVES

Federal Trade Commission So Declares in Public Report.

PACKERS ISSUE STRONG ATTACK ON COMMISSION

Morris, Armour, Cudahy and Swift Declare Report is Not Based on Facts—Morris Charges Socialism.

Washington, July 29.—Ability of the "big five" packers—Swift, Armour, Morris, Cudahy and Wilson—to determine from day to day the general level of livestock prices was declared incontrovertible in the third section of the federal trade commission's report on the industry made public tonight.

Information obtained in the commission's investigation was cited to show that the "big five" have an interest in twenty-eight of the fifty principal market yards of the country and a majority of voting stock in twenty-two others. It was said they buy most of the livestock sold at these markets.

"They discriminate against and put at great disadvantage independent buyers, who are their competitors," the report said. "They manipulate on occasions the livestock market in such a way as to cause extreme and unwarranted fluctuations in the daily prices paid for livestock. They have eliminated many competitors and prevented new ones from coming in. They have restricted the meat supply of the nation by manipulating the daily livestock prices and thus discouraging the producers of livestock."

"Of the meat trade in the hands of interstate slaughterers in the United States, the five big packing companies have more than 73 per cent of the total. They have the price of dressed meat and packing house products so well in hand that, within certain limitations, meat prices are made to respond to their wishes."

Not More Efficient.
Notwithstanding special advantages said to be enjoyed by the five big packers, the commission declared it was not demonstrable that they are more efficient than the "independents."

In tracing the ownership of the various stock yards, the commission in its report devoted much attention to the "remarkable financial de-

VICES" known as the bearer warrant, which it was said might be used not only to hide completely true ownership but also was equally effective in making possible the evasion of income, corporation and surtaxes. Such a warrant is a receipt for a stock certificate, the latter being made out to the treasurer of the corporation who delivers the warrant to the person who actually owns the stock. In this way it would be possible for a stockholder to receive dividends and vote without his identity being known. J. Ogden Armour was said by the commission to own 19.4 per cent of the Chicago stock yards company, but the use of bearer warrants was asserted to have prevented the commission from discovering who owned the other stock.

Much of the commission's report dealt with matters already made public in the hearings conducted by Francis J. Henry as special investigator for the commission.

STATEMENT BY PACKERS.

Chicago, July 29.—Declaring that the statements issued yesterday by the federal trade commission regarding the packing industry were cunning propaganda and that they were as a whole unfair and erroneous. Presidents of the big packing companies issued statements yesterday in answer to the federal trade commission's latest statements.

Edward Morris, president of Morris & Co., said:—

"The present agitation against the packing industry is 99 per cent premeditated, cold-blooded, cunning propaganda, engineered by men of socialistic tendencies who are seeking to bolster up unjust and iniquitous conclusions reached by them and to fasten socialistic control on the business of this country generally."

In his statement J. Ogden Armour declared that "this latest report of the commission is a re-hash of inferences and unfounded deductions contained in similar reports." The commission, he said, is avowedly behind the legislation now pending in Washington, "which in effect, will cripple the packing industry."

"We fully realize the difficulties caused by the high prices," said E. A. Cudahy, president of the Cudahy Packing Company, "but the high prices are not caused by the packers. In fact, we are a decided factor in holding the prices down from what otherwise they would be."

"The whole contention of the commission that we control and manipulate prices," declared Louis F. Swift, of Swift & Co., "is simply not based on facts. In the ownership of stock yards we are proud of the fact that we have improved marketing methods and thereby encouraged greater livestock production. Ownership of yards gives a packer no control of prices or trading methods."

The packers all contended that the commission's statements were issued in an effort to get Congress to pass the legislation now before it.

NEW ROAD TO SOUTH INTERESTS MANCHESTER

Cross Country Line Hartford to New London Available for Local Traffic.

The promise of a new state road between Hartford and New London by way of Colchester and Norwich is of interest to Manchester residents, for while the road will not touch Manchester or come within six or seven miles of the town, it will be much used by people from this vicinity in their trips to Marlborough, East Hampton and the shore resorts around New London. As we understand it, the new road will run east from Glastonbury street and cross the north and south road from here through East Glastonbury about a mile south of the post office at that place. Thence it will continue east through the picturesque "Dark Hollow" and then, bending south, skirt the west shore of Marlborough pond and continue south to Colchester.

It will be about 20 minutes' drive, through South Main street, Buckingham and East Glastonbury to the connection with the new state road. At present the Dark Hollow road, though much traveled is very rough and is full of sharp curves and steep, though short, hills. When graded and surfaced it will make a nearly level highway and will be shaded by woods filled with laurel, ferns and wild flowers. It will shorten the drive to Marlborough lake to about 30 minutes and to East Hampton lake to about 45 minutes.

The new road will shorten the distance between Hartford and New London about 20 miles and will cut off nearly that much between Manchester and New London. Commissioner Bennett says work will begin on the new road this fall.

It will not be long before Manchester will begin to interest itself in an improved road to East Glastonbury to connect with the proposed state road. Such a road would not only be a convenience to Manchester travelers but would be a valuable feeder to this town from the east part of Glastonbury and Marlborough for which this town is the natural trading center.

POP CORN AS FOOD.

Besides being a source of entertainment for the children, pop corn, which is the corn kernel cooked whole, instead of being ground and then cooked, obviously has a high food value, as well as a good taste and when properly prepared for the table it may acceptably take the place of many of the breakfast foods now on the market. Pop corn may be eaten with milk and sugar like other breakfast cereals, or the parched kernels which do not "pop out" can be ground like coffee, and eaten with cream and sugar or can be boiled with water and served like oatmeal.

Hungry to Be Mother, Woman Adopts Brown-Eyed Baby Only to Find It Is of Colored Ancestry

New York, July 29.—A cooing little baby of five months, dressed in clothes of finest texture, and with a skin that is gradually becoming darker, is waiting in New York for some one to adopt it.

It is a negro baby, and since its birth it has had a good home in a well-to-do family, members of which until a few days ago did not dream that the little stranger they had adopted was not of white blood.

A scene of tragedy and heartache was enacted in the office of Dr. Mary Halton, in East Thirty-eighth street, Halton had advertised for a home for an infant girl (white) whose parents had died. When Dr. Halton arrived at her office a few days ago, a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Marion Blake, of Albany, was waiting. She told this story:

"I am a widow of comfortable means and live with my mother in Albany. For years I had one servant girl. A year ago she married a soldier but came back to us when he sailed for France.

Makes Awful Discovery.
"A few days before she gave birth to a child she received word her husband had died in a French hospital. The shock killed her. She died as the child was born. For years I had wanted to adopt a child and I took her baby.

"The babe was small and plump, reddish, as new-born infants usually are, and had bright, pretty brown eyes. I adopted her legally and had her christened 'Barbara.' The lives of both my mother and myself were glorified by the advent of the little orphan. Every day found the tiny mite occupying more and more room in our hearts.

"It was when she was three months old that we first noticed that her skin seemed to be growing darker each week. Neither my mother nor myself put fear into words, however, until the baby was four months old.

"Finally I took her to a hospital for an examination. I had to go home and tell my mother that Barbara was a colored baby.

"But I vowed that I would never part with her. Then I realized with a pang that Barbara would not always be a baby. Each morning I would awake and remember and each day tell myself it was only a bad dream.

Takes White Child.
"The last month has been one of agony. She is five months old now, and I realize that sooner or later I must give her up. It would eventually bring unhappiness to all concerned and the most unhappiness of all to herself.

"When I read that you had an infant girl for adoption I thought: 'Perhaps, if I had another baby near me it would be easier to part with mine.'

The exchange was made. Dr. Halton is concerned about Barbara. That the drama may end happily for all little "Bab," too, must find a home. Dr. Halton said: "Somewhere there must be good colored people who want her. I want to find a good home for her with her own people."

COOL AIR IN CELLAR AS ICE.

Keeping food cool is an essential part of summer housekeeping. With ice and a well-made ice chest, difficulties are few, but without them other methods are necessary: We must have a cool place for storage if we are to have good meals made up of foods properly kept and appetizingly served. When ice is not available we can use devices which make cool air—cold water and evaporating water do the work of ice.

We can usually count upon finding cool air in the cellar, and it is valuable indeed if clean and well ventilated. But one housewife immediately says, "I am too busy to use my time carrying the food up and down those cellar steps." Every housewife is, but how about a dumb waiter on which the food could be sent to and from the cellar?

A shaft made of boards and plaster and extending from the cellar through the roof by way of the kitchen or pantry is another device which has proved useful in some parts of the country for using the cool air of the cellar. Wire or perforated shelves are fitted into the shaft and a door opens from it. As the air in the upper part of the shaft grows warmer the cold air from the cellar is drawn up and the constant upward movement of colder air cools the food on the shelves.

An iceless refrigerator which depends on the rapid evaporation of water for its cooling action is described in "Farm Home Conventions," Farmer Bulletin 927, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. The use of a fireless cooker as an iceless refrigerator is discussed in it, too.

A miniature iceless refrigerator, useful where only small amounts of food need to be cooled, is made by inverting an unglazed earthenware flowerpot in a dish of water. Food may be kept cool also by placing the dish in cold water and changing the water as it becomes warm.

To keep food cool when ice is not available takes ingenuity and care.

But others have done it, so why can you not?

OUR ANNUAL FALL SALE OF BED BLANKETS

A Most Opportune Sale as Prices will Be Very Much Higher as the Season Advances.
We know that we can save you money if you will buy your winter supply of Bed Blankets at this sale. The facts are these:
Blanket Manufacturers are already sold up for the season, and under no considerations will they accept reorders.

You can always depend upon C. S. Hills & Co.'s prices and qualities and this sale will be no exception.

GREAT FURNITURE SALE.
Everyone who reads the newspapers knows that furniture is going to be much higher in price later on—labor costs more, material costs more, finished product costs more and Wise, Smith & Co., truthfully state in their August sale announcements that they could get much higher prices later for every bit of furniture in their mammoth stocks, but that is not Wise, Smith & Co.'s way of doing business. The furniture which they bought early in the year will be offered at their August sale at prices consistent with the then prevailing market prices and you have only to buy now in order to profit by these circumstances. If you wait until later you will certainly have to pay more, simply because wholesale prices are advancing all the time. So, it is very good advice when Wise, Smith & Co. urge you to buy furniture at their August sale. You will notice that the prices are very low for these times—for instance a Colonial design dining room suite of golden oak, dining table, buffet and six chairs for $112.99. A living room suite consisting of sofa, arm chair and rocker upholstered in mulberry of blue velour for as little as $159.95. A bed room suite of Sheraton design, mahogany dresser, chest of drawers and the suite can be bought for $189. Single pieces are offered at proportionate savings and it is safe to say that Wise, Smith & Co.'s great

August furniture sale will be more appreciated, than ever, this year.

TAGGING THE BASES

Douglas won his first game for the Giants against Brooklyn. Burns helped by contributing four hits. The Reds found the Pirates double, Daubert led the assault against Pittsburgh's pitchers with five hits. The Yankees were held in check in the pinches by Pennock, who pitched superb ball. The Yankees made one run out of eight hits, four of which were doubles. Luderus made a home run and three singles off Boston's hitters but the Phillies lost in the seventh when Risey weakened. Conrde Mack has announced that he will consider no offers for pitcher Perry. It is rumored that White Sox and other first division teams have been angling for the pitcher.

WHAT MAY DELAY TRIP.
Washington, July 29.—Unless the present extreme hot wave subsides it is possible that President Wilson may delay the start of his speaking tour until August 15, it was learned at the White House today. Navy Admiral Cary T. Grayson, the President's personal physician, has strongly urged that he not attempt the trip until the weather conditions become more favorable.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT PLACES WOMAN OF 23 ON PROBATION TERM

Promises Judge She Will Reform if Given Another Chance.

SAYS SHE HAS HUSBAND; HAS BEEN HERE 3 YEARS

Judge Arnott Threatens Her With House of Correction if Offense is Repeated.

Mrs. Elsie Mannisse, who has lived in Manchester for the past three years, part of the time at the south end and part at the north end, was before Judge Arnott in the police court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was arrested last night or early this morning by Officer Crockett in the neighborhood of Middle Turnpike. She was then in the company of a young man from Highland Park who had been with her the greater part of the evening. She is a married woman and has two children, although only 23 years old. She does not live with her husband. Captain Campbell and Officer Crockett both testified as to her past conduct. She has been on the street most of the time nights and the admissions she made to the officers were such that her guilt was apparent.

On the witness stand Mrs. Mannisse told the judge that she came from Stafford Hollow some three years ago and lived at the south end. She broke down in the court and had to be taken out of the room for a time until she recovered her composure. She admitted being out with two Manchester men whom she knew little about and named the men. She promised to live a better life if the judge would give her a chance. The prosecutor suggested that she be brought into court upon a more serious charge, but the judge thought that if that were done the men who were in her company should also be brought in.

The judge suspended judgment and placed the woman in charge of Probation Officer Goslee and told her that if she was brought into court again on a similar charge he would send her to a house of correction.

LOCAL WOMAN IN DANGER AS LIGHTNING STRIKES

Mrs. William Aspinall Near Window as Bolt Shatters Tree by the House—Much Glass Broken.

During the squall yesterday, lightning chose the west end section of the town for its playground. It's antics not only wrought destruction but came near killing a woman as well. The incident happened on Cedar street, near the home of Mrs. William Aspinall, Jr. Mrs. Aspinall was taking the screen out of one of the windows of the house when a bolt of lightning struck a large tree nearby. The big tree was shattered from top to bottom and the flying fragments of wood crashed through the window where she was standing.

Every pane of glass in the windows on the west side of the Aspinall home were broken as were a number on the south side. The plaster in the bathroom was torn from the walls and a bed in one of the rooms was hurled from its position. It is said that some of the wooden chips flew quite a distance away, landing on the lawns of neighboring residents.

SEWER DIGGERS STRIKE.

Demand Eight Hour Day Which When Conceded Brings Doubled Force.

The work of building the sewer on Washington street was started yesterday morning and it had not been underway more than an hour when the three men who were digging went on strike. They were satisfied with the pay given by the district but they would not work nine hours. They wanted an eight hour day. Dr. F. A. Sweet, the president of the district, was called and he decided that the only way to get the job done was to comply with the wishes of the men and the eight hour day was consented to. This morning seven men were on the job digging.

Miss Mary Clomson is visiting the Camp Fire Girls at Columbia Lake.

Editorial

It is well said that "Patience Is a Virtue." None of us are infallible—we are all subject to errors. When they happen, let us not be too quick in condemnation.

Take our own case for example. At all times we strive to render the best possible service to everyone and are not looking for any excuse.

Yet, this is vacation time and our number of salespeople is greatly reduced. This leaves more work for others to do, which makes it impossible to render the same individual service to which you are accustomed.

Our salespeople are human beings, just like yourself. Would you want to work fifty-two weeks in the year without rest or recreation?

Please think of this when you come into the store during this month.

YOUNG CYCLIST ESCAPES INJURY BY QUICK MOVE

Threw Himself Off Bicycle When Automobile Hits Rear Wheel—Accident Apparently Unavoidable.

Louis Smith, fourteen year old son of Willis A. Smith of 56 Clinton street, escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon by his presence of mind, when a bicycle which he was riding was struck by an Oldsmobile auto owned and driven by John Tournard of Oak street. The lad feeling the impact, threw himself from the wheel just as the car passed over the rear of the bicycle, shattering it to bits. The lad escaped with a sprained ankle and a number of minor bruises.

The accident happened when the Smith youngster, who works in the weaving department, was riding up Forest street hill after working hours. This section is usually crowded at this time with the mill workers returning home. Mr. Tournard going in the same direction, tried to pass the lad and it is thought that he struck a culvert which sent the car into the rear end of the bicycle. The lad threw himself to one side, the car passing over the bicycle. Mr. Tournard took the boy into his car and carried him to the office of Dr. William E. Tinker where an examination disclosed a sprained ankle and a number of body bruises.
