Senator Lenroot Accuses La Follette and Others of Holding up Peace Treaty

Says They Deliberately Planned to Engage in a Filibuster to Hold Up Final Vote on Ratification.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Charge of a palpable filibuster to prevent final action on the treaty was made in the Senate this afternoon by Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, a Republican. Senator Lenroot openly accused Senators LaFollette of Wisconsin, France of Maryland, Republicans, and Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, of having "deliberately planned to engage in a filibuster to hold up a final vote on ratification."

British Seize 300 Cars Of Munitions from Turks

London, Nov. 12.—British troops in Asia Minor have seized 300 railway cars filled with ammunition from the Turks at Kutaya according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Constantinople today.

Recent dispatches emphasize the chaotic conditions in Turkey. Fighting recently broke out between Turkish troops and French soldiers near Antorra and there have been reports of other clashes. A Turkish revolutionary government has been established by Mustafa Kiamil Pasha in Armenia and it was rumored that he was seeking an alliance with the Russian Bolsheviks.

Work for Annual Fund Continues Here—Many Receive Pledges Today—Teams Meeting Friday.

Once again Manchester has answered to the Red Cross Roll Call with more than 100 per cent. of her quota. With 4,275 assigned as her portion of the 20,000,000 membership in the United States she has more than 400 members to the good with returns still to be counted and teams still to report from some lodges and outlying districts. The committee, though resolved never to use the term "Over the Top" nothing else is quite so expressive as Manchester's response.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 12.—"When I look over this assemblage and realize all the events of the past fifty years which have gone to make the suffrage history of Connecticut I feel like saying with Job, 'Oh Lord, how long?'" said Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton of Greenwich Vice President of the Connecticut Woman Suffrage Association, in responding to the welcome to Bridgeport at the annual convention of the association.

WORKERS ARE MARKING TIME IN MOST OF COAL DISTRICTS

Wage Scale Dispute Will be Settled at the Washington Conference on Friday—Union Officials and Operators Say No General Resumption of Work Can be Expected Before the End of the Week.

Indianapolis, Nov. 12.—With early settlement of the wage scale controversy between the miners and operators in prospect as a result of acceptance by union officials of Secretary of Labor Wilson's invitation to attend a conference in Washington Friday, interest here today turned to the probable effect a recall of the strike order will have upon the idle mine workers.

FEW MEN RETURNING TO WORK IN MINES.
Reports gathered today show that only a small percentage of the 400,000 soft coal miners who have been on strike returned to work this morning. In Pennsylvania a few districts reported men returning to their tasks but in practically every other section the men were reported to be waiting receipt of the formal order from their leaders calling the strike off.

QUOTATIONS DOWN

Money is tight—Selling General Throughout Country—Great Excitement on Change.

NEW YORK, NOV. 12.—The bears

dominated the stock market today amidst a scene of indescribable confusion on the floor of the stock exchanges. Prices ranged even below yesterday's slump, General Motors selling down to 296, shortly after one o'clock a decline of 88 points from yesterday morning's opening. Money was "tight" the rate jumping from 20 to 25 per cent for call loans during the afternoon. Great blocks of stocks were thrown upon the market, but they did not come from any particular quarter. The selling was general throughout the country. The slump was attributed to the money situation. The Federal Reserve Board issued a statement this afternoon saying that the situation was serious, but not alarming. The accounts of many speculators, who had bought stocks on "margins" were quickly wiped out. The trading was extremely heavy. By one o'clock it was estimated that more than 1,300,000 shares had been traded in.

TO CHOOSE OUR BOARD

Secretary of Labor Wilson planned today to urge the parties to the controversy to appoint their own board for negotiations when they meet on Friday and it was expected this plan will be followed rather than the acceptance of a board of arbitration. Leaders of the miners would prefer to settle the matter by negotiation, but some of them believe that the men in the coal fields would feel more certain of ultimate success, if the matter were left to a tribunal selected by the President of the United States and because of this it may become necessary for the conference to call upon the President to name such a tribunal.

HER MODEL FOR SPEECH

"You will note that these few remarks have been modeled after the approved lines of political speech-making—I listened carefully to both the Republicans and Democrats last year at our convention—, frank, very frank comment, but no vilification is the formula."

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS

Washington, Nov. 12.—Final arrangements for the government's attempt at an amicable adjustment of the difficulties between the coal miners and the operators were to be arranged today by Secretary of Labor Wilson, acceptance of the invitation to attend a conference here on Friday has been made by the leaders of the United Mine Workers of America, and it is expected the operators will make formal acceptance today, inasmuch as they have informally indicated they are ready for further negotiations.

IN WEST VIRGINIA

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 12.—Practically every soft coal mine in northern West Virginia was operating today. The official order calling off the strike was received last night and was at once communicated to the various locals. A few mines that were not prepared to operate today were the only ones idle. There was little dissatisfaction among the men.

ALL MINES CLOSED

Athens, Ohio, Nov. 12.—As far as could be learned not a single mine worker of the Hocking district where 10,000 men are idle, returned to work this morning. Many of them declare they will stay out until the Washington conference, starting next Friday takes action that will give them higher wages. The operators did not make any effort to resume work today as the miners had not received official orders from their leaders to return to work.

WATCHING THE MEN

Officials are watching the men who have returned to work. It was not expected that there would be a full compliance with the order immediately but it was expected that all mines would be in full operation next week when a definite plan for adjustment of differences will have been made.

MEN WILL NOT RETURN

The Fuel Administration and the Railroad Administration announced today that the restrictions which have been placed upon the use and distribution of coal will remain in effect until such time as there is assurance of an adequate production again. It was thought possible that the maximum prices and the preferential lists might be kept in force during negotiations.

MEN REMAIN OUT

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 12.—None of the 12,000 coal miners in the Springfield sub-district No. 4 returned to work today in answer to the strike recall order issued from Indianapolis. The territory takes in a 20 mile radius of Springfield. Sub-district officials declared the order to return to work had not been received in time of resumption of mining this morning. The order did not reach the district headquarters until after midnight. It was predicted, however, the men would be back in the mines tomorrow.

SPIRIT OF ARMISTICE CLAIMS TOWN ALL DAY

Many Celebrations Take Place - Schools and Mills Desisted.

A. AND N. CLUB PARADES

Father McGurk and Superintendent Verplank Address Crowd in Clubhouse - Dancing Closes Celebration.

Patriotic Manchester celebrated its first anniversary of the signing of the Armistice with the same spirit that characterized its war activities. Even the opposition of nature failed to dampen the ardor of the people. The demonstration, although not as intense and spirited as the one of November 11th, 18, readily proved that Manchester still remembered that memorable day when the glad tidings were flashed across the Atlantic.

Even though the day was not a legal holiday the crowds on Main street during the afternoon gave evidence that many workers had declared it a personal holiday. A spirit of excitement surged over the town early in the morning and as the long hand pointed to the hour of eleven things were ready to break. Even the school kids became restless and the picture of the battle of Bunker Hill in "First Steps in American History" underwent a strange transformation. The youngsters saw Chateau-Thierry and Company G going over the top.

Eleven o'clock and a church bell rang out. This was followed by other bells and shrill whistles of sirens. Then, even amidst the confusing formation for an impromptu parade, there were those whose thoughts went afar to a grave in Flanders fields.

Youngsters who had deserted school desks gathered in squads and were joined by a number of workers who had been unable to get to work. The parade was a familiar sight to many of the town's residents.

The parade was a familiar sight to many of the town's residents. It was a day of remembrance and honor for the town.

The center of attraction throughout the day was the Army and Navy club and during the afternoon the ex-service men's hut was thronged with visitors, young and old. The player-piano worked overtime while the canteen did an enormous business. Those who had never visited the club before were impressed with the surroundings and it must be said that Pat McVeigh outdid himself as host. The interior had been tastefully decorated in Allied bunting and autumn colors.

"Service Men Parade. In the evening the hut was not large enough to accommodate the visitors. It was impossible to enter the building until the formation of the evening parade when a cheering throng marched up Main street. In the line of march was the Talcottville Fire and Drum Corps, the Silk

City Band and the Kiltie band. These organizations rendered their services.

It was with considerable trouble that Lieutenant Newman got the crowd at the club quieted for a short program of speeches and entertainment. In a short talk the Rev. William J. McGurk briefly described the celebration of the signing of the Armistice, and with reverence touched upon the memory of those who gave their lives in the struggle. "Every grave in Europe," said Father McGurk, "is America's pledge of American magnanimity. And every grave in Europe is hallowed with the principles of human liberty." Superintendent of Schools F. A. Verplank reminded his hearers of the wonderful achievements of America during the struggle and spoke of the excellent record of the American draft system. "We must not forget," said the speaker, "that those who stayed at home did splendid work. They made a record on this side that is comparable with the achievements on the other side." Vocal solos were rendered by Edward Taylor, Rosalind Crawford and Emma Trebbe. At the conclusion of this program the hut was thrown open to the public for merry-making and dancing.

Play Hooky. It is reported that there were a good many empty desks in the various schools of the town during the afternoon. In the Eighth district the morning recess was made twice its usual length but even that did not suffice for the patriotically inspired youngsters to fully express their enthusiasm and they "played hooky" during the afternoon.

HEROES' NAMES HAVE HONOR PLACE AT CLUB

Memorial With Floral Tribute Attracts Attention During Armistice Celebration Yesterday.

A memorial scroll attracted the attention of the hundreds of visitors at the Army and Navy club yesterday. During the afternoon and evening the scroll was always surrounded by a gathering and it could be seen that those who were affected as a familiar sight. The scroll contained the names of the heroes of the war. It was a day of remembrance and honor for the town.

A FEW AUTOS AND WAGON COLLIDE ON MAIN STREET

Accident More Amusing Than Serious and Drivers Just Laugh It Off.

Pedestrians on Main street in the vicinity of Pearl were treated to a four cornered mix-up last evening. Albert Hemingway was driving north on Main street when another car coming out from Pearl street crashed into him. The driver of a coal wagon became interested in the proceedings and stopped the team to look on. A delivery car owned by the Manchester Wall Paper Company came along and crashed into the rear of the coal wagon.

It was some time before the tangle was straightened out and none of the vehicles involved was seriously damaged. The ridiculous situation smoothed the ruffled feelings of those concerned and they departed on their way as happy as ever.

HOW U. S. PROVED ITSELF
SUPERIOR TO GERMANY

We Surpassed That Nation in Short Time Though Germans Had Been Preparing 40 Years.

The High School was treated to a short but excellent program yesterday afternoon in honor of Armistice Day. The high school orchestra entertained the school for the first time this year and won instant popularity.

Francis Strickland then recited "In Flanders Fields the Poppies Grow" and received most hearty applause.

Then the school showed the spirit of the day when it sang "Battle Hymn of the Republic."
Mr. Knapp introduced Supt. F. A. Verplanck with a tribute that was worthy of his war work.

Mr. Verplanck told the purposes of our two National Holidays, Fourth of July and Memorial Day and said that the spirit that has been shown made it evident that hereafter November 11 would be observed as another national holiday. He also said that it would be a day of rejoicing but that a time would be set apart in which to honor the memory of the boys that fell on Flanders fields.

In giving a brief outline of the work done by the United States in the World War he compared it to the world famed German "efficiency" in their 40 years preparation for the so-called "efficiency" that they possessed to go through Belgium in only 40 days.

When the United States declared war on April 6, we had an army of 200,000 men. In 19 months those men were increased to 4,000,000 which breaks the world's records for efficiency.

These soldiers had to be carried 8,000 miles over submarine infested water to be used. In the first year of the war one half million men were carried to France and in the next six months one million and a half were brought to France. In July, 1918, there were 308,000 men transported. This is equal to the population of Hartford, New Haven, and Meriden put together.

It took the government just fifteen minutes after war was declared to take the German ships to the harbors. The Germans wrecked the ships and boasted that some would never be used and it would take at least eight months to repair the rest of them but the U. S. had them all repaired in just three months and then the Germans own ships brought men over to France to fight them.

The Leviathan landed men at the rate of 400 an hour and made a round trip in 30 days. These ships were protected by the English Navy supported by our navy.

This was the bloodiest war in history. 42 of every 100 Russians in the army died but only two men in every 100 in the U. S. Army died. There were more men killed in this war than in all the wars for the past 1900 years.

This was the first war in which more men were killed in battle than by disease. There was no typhoid fever in the U. S. Army but the first killed 88 out of every 100 men that died.

By these statements Mr. Verplanck proved that in 19 months the U. S. showed more "efficiency" than the Germans could put into effect after 40 years of preparation.

Mr. Verplanck also reminded the school of another problem that the U. S. has to solve and that is the problem of capital and labor. He said that it was time to separate in other words, follow the Golden Rule.

and ever received in the high school hall.
The orchestra then played another selection after which the whole school stood and sang the flag.
The closing number was the "Star Spangled Banner" sung by the school.

Make Splendid Showing in Their Four Day Red Cross Work.

BUT GET NO SUPPER.

By the Time They Arrived at the Army-Navy Club the Cupboard Was Bare.

Nearly a thousand dollars for the Red Cross Roll Call was the record set by the women gleaners in their four day campaign for additional memberships and funds. At a meeting held last evening the final reports showed that the Red Cross Women Gleaners augmented by a force of canteen workers had turned over to the Roll Call, the sum of $971.75. Taking into consideration the fact that the ex-service men had scoured the town previous to the women's drive, this is certainly a remarkable record.

The supper which was promised the women workers by the Army-Navy Club last evening was postponed owing to the scarcity of food. Manchester residents seemed to have a liking for the all-hots yesterday. At ten o'clock last evening the supply of sausages at the Army and Navy club's canteen had been exhausted even after several reinforcements.

And when the women workers arrived last evening there wasn't an all-hot in sight. To even things up and in order to square themselves the Army and Navy club will hold a supper and dance at the hall on Friday evening at eight o'clock in honor of the Red Cross Women Gleaners and the Red Cross Women Canteen workers.

OF GREAT IMPORTANCE
SAYS SHE WILL EXCEED HUSBAND'S MAJORITY BY "A COOL 8,000 VOTES," IN SATURDAY ELECTIONS.

Plymouth, England, Nov. 12.—Viscountess Nancy Astor predicted today that she would exceed her husband's majority of 11,000 by "A cool 8,000 votes" when the ballots are cast in the parliamentary election in the district next Saturday.

The Viscountess is standing for the seat held in commons before her husband was elevated to the peerage on the death of his father.

"If all do their duty and keep to their present rate of promises I will romp home the winner" declared the Viscountess jubilantly.

One woman in the audience interrupted a meeting today to ask the candidate.

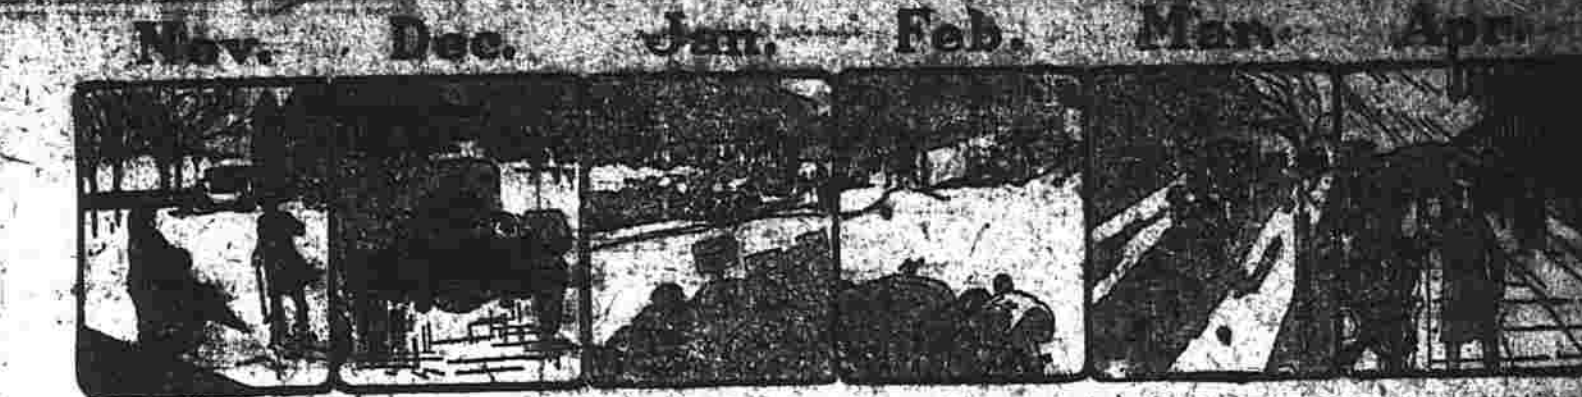

"Would you like to live on two pounds (less than $10) a week?"

"No," replied the Viscountess without hesitation, "but would you be doing what I am doing if you had what I have?"

STATE COLLEGE TROPHIES.
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—John E. Eddy, a waiter of Cambridge, Mass., was held without bail to await extradition when arraigned this morning before Magistrate Francis X. McQuade today charged with being a fugitive from justice.

The police say Eddy is wanted by Cambridge authorities who allege that while employed as waiter at Harvard University he gained entrance to certain buildings and stole several cups, one of which had been donated to the institution by Commodore Vanderbilt. Inspector Walsh of the Cambridge Police Department traced the stolen property to this city. Eddy was arrested last night by Detective O'Neill.

MINERS RETURN TO WORK TODAY

NO WORD RECEIVED YET.
Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 12.—Although steam was up at most of the mines in the Michigan district No. 4 today reports reaching here say production of coal had not begun as yet. Union officials say the men will not return to work until President Stevens of the union in the district returns from the Indianapolis conference. The order to return to work has not yet been received by officials here.

UNDER MARTIAL LAW.

Hartford, N. D., Nov. 12.—Following the failure late last night of coal miners and operators to come to an agreement, Gov. L. J. Adjutant General Frasier has been ordered to assume command at once.

TWO INJURED WHEN AUTO
COLLIDES WITH TROLLEY

Truck Skids and Bumps Into Auto Also—Hartford Man in Waterbury Hospital.

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 12.—Benjamin Ziskin of 125 Mather street, Hartford was in the police court today on a charge of reckless driving as a result of the truck, belonging to Silver Bros. of Hartford which he was driving yesterday afternoon skidding on the road from Oakville to this city, striking a trolley car and then bounding off into an automobile driven by James J. Connelly of Norfolk Conn. The case was continued.

Nick Capobiano of 60 Front street, Hartford, who was riding with Ziskin is still in the hospital with painful injuries as a result of the accident as is Miss Dora Murphy of this city, who was riding from her work in Oakville with Ziskin. Frank Bullane of Hartford and another young woman, a companion of Miss Murphy, were also injured.

RAILROAD MEN ATTEMPT TO SECURE SETTLEMENT

Say Workers Want Full Demands or They Will Strike—Debating the Question Today.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Director General Hines of the Railroad Administration and the chiefs of the four big Railroad Brotherhoods were today to continue their attempt to secure a settlement of the demands of the railroad workers.

Lengthy conferences were held yesterday, but without avail and there were indications that today's conferences would not be final. The conference thus far has dealt with the demand of the railroad workers for time and a halt for overtime and for a revision of working conditions regulations.

The best information indicated that the Director General will not meet the demands of the workers in toto, but will attempt to secure a compromise with them on the larger issues, and will grant concessions in the issues of lesser import.

W. G. Lee, and other leaders of the Brotherhoods were insistent today that their demands would have to be met, but steadfastly maintained that negotiations thus far have been amicable and they believed that an understanding would be reached which would be suitable to all.

Railroad workers outside of the Brotherhoods, but affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, were more pessimistic today. The leaders of this group feel that their men want their full demands or a strike, and they were not at all skeptical of the possibilities of a strike.

PATRIOTIC AND RIGHT.

After sitting in continuous session for eighteen hours the officials of the miners' organization have decided to call off the strike and order the 425,000 members back to work.

What really happened at Indianapolis was a triumph of patriotism over selfishness. When the miners came face to face with the issue they saw that defiance of the injunction order and the mandate of the federal court to halt the strike was simply defiance of the government of the United States.

Thus the United Mine Workers found themselves opposing not the mine operators, but the government of the United States. That is their government and they have declared that they will not fight against it.

The workers have proved themselves loyal. They have declared that the general welfare comes first, that they will not lift their hands against the authority of the nation. Now the country looks to the operators. These gentlemen have sat tight while the federal authorities were acting against the workers but if they think that the government is going to pull any chestnuts out of the fire for them they are in for the surprise of their lives.

The danger of the strike is over and the principles of law and order have been vindicated. Americanism came to the fore at the miners' meeting and was accepted by them as their motto and their guide.

In this action the miners have not only greatly strengthened their own position in public opinion but they have done much to restore public confidence in labor organizations in general.

ONE WAY TO REDUCE PRICES. A prominent labor leader, who travels all over the United States in the interest of one of the largest and most conservative labor unions in this country, said to the writer yesterday, "I wish that all the stores would draw the shades in their display, and withdraw their advertisements from newspapers and periodicals for the next six months."

tumble. "But wouldn't the price of labor drop also?" he was asked. "Of course it would" was the reply, but we would not object to that if the cost of living led the way in the decline."

Although most of the returned soldiers are back on their old jobs or in other places equally good, employers of labor say that many are still looking for work "with their eyes shut." One contractor who visited several army employment agencies recently with an offer of 60 cents an hour for unskilled labor tells us that he received not a single response although his offer was made known to several hundred ex-service men who were out of employment.

The question whether the automobile bus can be operated successfully in competition with street cars on suburban lines will be answered within the next three months. The increased trolley fares, have led many to travel by bus, which generally gives somewhat quicker service and a lower fare. As long as the ground is clear of snow and the temperature is not severely cold the motor bus gives satisfactory service.

BODIES OF 111 AMERICANS ARRIVE ON A TRANSPORT.

New York, Nov. 12.—The transport Lake Daraga, bearing the bodies of 111 American soldiers killed in battle with the Bolsheviks in the Archangel sector from Armistice Day 1918 until the Americans left Archangel last July, docked at midnight according to a wireless message from the transport received here today.

STOPS DRY ENFORCEMENT.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 12.—A temporary injunction against the enforcement of the prohibition act was granted today by Judge Arthur L. Brown of the Federal Court on the ground that the eighteenth amendment was inconsistent. United States Attorney Harry A. A. E. BOWERS TO SPEAK AT SUFF'S CONVENTION

Will Discuss Duty of G. O. P. Toward Suffrage in Conn.

TAFT GUEST OF HONOR

Two-hundred Delegates and Many Guests Arrive in Bridgeport for Fiftieth Annual Convention of Suffrage Association.

The fiftieth annual convention of the Connecticut Woman Suffrage Association will open this morning at 12 o'clock in the Hotel Spatfield, Bridgeport. Over 200 delegates have made application for hotel reservations and entertainment, according to the Bridgeport hotel managers and Mrs. H. W. Fleck of Bridgeport who is chairman of the Hospitality Committee.

Miss Ludington, president of the association, will call the convention to order at 12 noon. Mrs. Shaw will extend the welcome of Bridgeport and Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton of Greenwich, vice-president of the association, will give the response to the welcome.

The afternoon session will be opened at 2 p. m. After the reading of the minutes of the last convention, reports of committees and state officers will be given. Each of the eight county chairmen will give brief reports of the county work which has been done during the year.

The most important feature of the afternoon session will be the report given by Mrs. Florence L. C. Kitchell on the adventures of the presidential suffrage bill in the last state legislature. Mrs. Kitchell acted as legislative secretary for the association during the last year and has a very intimate knowledge of all that happened to suffrage legislation during the 1919 session of the legislature.

One of the biggest events in the convention program will occur this evening when ex-President William Howard Taft will speak just following the Republican dinner, which will be held at 7.45 o'clock, on the "Responsibility of the Party in Power in Connecticut Toward Woman Suffrage." Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns of Chicago, chairman of the Illinois Republican Women's Executive Committee, will also speak, bringing to the same subject a Republican woman's point of view.

Senator Bowers to Speak.

During the dinner, at which Miss Ludington will preside, several prominent state Republicans will give brief talks on what they consider to be their party's duty toward woman suffrage. Some of these speakers will be Colonel Isaac Ullian, New Haven; Hon. Clifford B. Wilson, Bridgeport; Judge John H. Light, South Norwalk; Hon. Orville H. Ripley, Winsted; Judge Harrison B. Freeman, Hartford; Senator John B. Dillon, Huntington; Senator Chas. E. Williamson, Darien; Hon. Samuel C. Shaw, Bridgeport; Senator Clifford B. Hough, Washington, Conn.; Senator A. E. Bowers, Manchester.

The speakers and members of the executive board of the association will be guests of honor at specially reserved tables. A table will also be reserved for representatives of the press.

REDS BREAK THROUGH.

London, Nov. 12.—The following Bolshevik War Office communication was received by wireless from Moscow today: "The Soviet troops have broken Gen. Denikin's front, over a new line of 47 miles. One division has advanced 105 miles in three days." (Gen. Denikin's forces are opposing the Reds on the southern and southwestern fronts.)

RUSSIANS SAY KULESH NEVER TALKED REVOLT

Workers Union Here Pledges Loyalty—No Use for Outside Radicals.

NO SECRET MEETING

Russians Say They Are Sincere in Desire to Learn About Farm Machinery.

The local director of Americanization, Mrs. Florence Hillsburg, visited the meeting place of the Russian Peasants Workers' Union last night to obtain a statement of their attitude toward the Americanization Committee, its principles and its work.

She was particularly interested in their intentions regarding the class in machine practice which has just been established, their attitude toward Mark Kulesh, who was recently arrested as a "red" and their future policy toward law and order in this town.

The Russians were timid and cautious at first, but as the Director stated frankly their positions in the town at present, the general feeling of interest in their proceedings, and the policy which has been followed from the first by the Americanization Committee, they talked more freely and answered all questions promptly.

One of their number, seeming to voice the sentiment of all, said, "Everybody is suspicious of us; we are helpless. What can we do? We can do nothing to help ourselves." The Director replied by assuring them that there was certainly no reason why they need be helpless. That if they meant to give a square deal and abide by the principles of loyalty, all they needed to do was to lay aside all secrecy and state publicly their attitude.

In the first place she asked just what was their object in asking for a class in machine practice? Was it, as they stated in the beginning, for the purpose of handling the machinery?

The reply to this was equally quick and cordial, and the Director was told that she might look around all she pleased and investigate as far as she wished, that there were no firearms or other objectionable materials in that room or around it, and never had been.

Further questions brought out the statement that radical leaders and lecturers from outside were unwelcome in that room.

About Kulesh.

Questioned as to their feelings about Mark Kulesh, they became very interested, expressing a deep interest as to what disposition will be made of his case, but maintaining that they could do nothing to help him. They said that the machine guns reported in his possession were not in the least genuine articles nor connected with any plot.

The conference was closed by an agreement that just as soon as the Director can arrange it, she will cooperate with them in the establishment of a special class in English and geography, teaching also various facts about obtaining farm land in the U. S., and farming in general.

MRS. E. S. NEWCOMB.

After an illness lasting for the past year Mrs. E. S. Newcomb died at her home on East Center street yesterday afternoon. She is survived by her husband and by two brothers, John L. Ellis and Arthur B. Ellis, and by a sister, Addie Ellis.

Editorial Another Milestone

Today marks another milestone in our history—the signing of the contract for our new building at the corner of Main and Oak streets. This building is to be a much larger and finer building than the ordinary town warrants. But that was true in 1891 when we built the store we are now occupying. That store at the time was the largest in New England outside of the finest cities. We cannot take a step backward; the people in this town appreciate and buy the best furniture this country produces and we believe are ready to support a store adequate to display that type of furniture.

The new building is to be completed by July 1st. In the meantime we ask your continued indulgence in our present crowded quarters.

When you do doubt have gathered and stored away in some place to protect them from the early fall frosts. A common mistake in keeping these is to put them where it is too cool and damp. On the contrary these should be kept in a warm dry place until the outer shells have become thoroughly dried and hardened. When the shells have reached this condition the pumpkins and squash may then be kept in a dry place in which the temperature does not fall far below fifty (50) degrees. Under these conditions pumpkins and squash which have been gathered with the stems attached may be kept until spring.

The root crops: Such as carrots, beets, turnips and parsnips require in a general way the same storage conditions—that is, a cool, moist place. The chief difference in handling these is in the time of storing the different roots, and the power of frost resistance. Carrots and beets should be gathered before hard freezing weather. Turnips will withstand a considerable freezing, while parsnips might be left in the ground all winter, were it not that they were wanted for use before they could be taken from the ground in the spring. So carrots and beets would be the first of these to be stored, then the turnips, and lastly the parsnips. One corner of a cool, damp cellar might be used. If one does not have such a place, pits two of three feet deep might be dug and the roots stored in these, and covered only lightly at first, and as the severity of the winter increases the covering should be increased. For a small amount of these roots, boxes and barrels might be used in the bottom of either placing a few inches of moist sand, then the roots in alternate layers of sand, and these kept in a cool part of the cellar. Parsnips may be kept very well in the pit of an old hot bed, and only covered with leaves, or straw, as these will not be injured by freezing unless permitted to freeze and thaw alternately.—A. T. Stevens, Department of Vegetable Gardening, Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs.

CALL LITTLE FATOR ANOTHER TOD SLOAN

Clever Jockey Cost Samuel Hildreth $15,000.

Riders of Today Do Not Class With Boys of Olden Times—Youngsters Do Not Make Study of Various Tracks.

They are touting little Laverne Fator, the jockey for "Whips," contract Samuel Hildreth recently paid $15,000, as the "second Tod Sloan."

It isn't that I am blinded by the glamour of money and the years that have drifted by since Sloan rode. I am not. I am of those who believe implicitly in the improvement of athletics in all branches of sport.

But the riding of horses is different from athletic competition. There is no gainsaying the fact that the jockeys of today, with the exception of Johnny Loftus, do not class with the boys of Sloan's time, writes Jim Simont in New York Evening Mail.

There was one year at the old Morris Park when Sloan was practically unbeatable over the course that had a noticeable incline at the far turn. He won races with a regularity that was uncanny.

It was purely by accident that the reason for Sloan's great success at Morris Park was discovered. This is the story as Jack Doyle tells it.

"A horseman had been out on a late party," says Doyle. "He was returning to the stables at Morris Park about 5 o'clock in the morning when he met Tod Sloan walking in from the track."

"Out pretty early Tod, aren't you?" he asked. "Yes," answered Sloan. "But you see, I couldn't sleep and came out for a breath of air."

Tod Sloan.

"Several years later Sloan met this horseman on Broadway one night and they got to talking of the old days at Morris Park. 'Do you remember that morning you met me walking in from the track at 5 o'clock?' asked Tod.

"Very well," said the horseman. "Tell the truth now, Tod, were you just getting in from a party?"

"No," answered Sloan. "I'll tell you about that. Morris Park is gone and I'm not riding any more, so I don't mind giving up some of my secrets."

"If you will remember there was a steep incline near the far turn at Morris Park. Then the track sloped down again toward the stretch."

"I was out that morning finding out just where the incline started and where it ended and the down grade began. After that I could always ease my mounts up as I hit the hill and save them until I got to the top. Then I could make my run on the down grade with a fresh horse under me. If you'll remember, I won many a race over that Morris Park course after you met me walking that morning."

"And there you have it, Tod Sloan, when he was at the height of his career, would go out at dawn to find out something about a certain spot in a track that might help him win races. Do you think Fator or the other youngsters riding today would think of these things, or if they thought of them, would take the trouble to find out about them?"

"Well, maybe Fator would. I hope so. But I must say that I doubt if very much."

PLACE FOR GRIDIRON DOINGS

Eddie Mahan, Recently Returned From Overseas Service, Won't Play Professionally.

YALE SWIFTS LINE

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12.—Yale coaches have devised a plan which they hope will stop McGraw, the big Tiger linebacker, in next Saturday's football battle here.

Eddie Mahan, noted Harvard football player, who recently returned from two years' overseas service with the marine corps, donned his football togs and got out on Soldiers' field to do his share towards whipping Fisher's candidates into shape to thrash Yale.

Harvard club, and talked over professional football with his old chum, Brickley is said to be making considerable money, but Mahan is inclined to think that the proper place for gridiron doings is in the colleges and schools, hence his decision to help the Harvard coaching staff, rather than get into the professional game.

The American cup sloop Resolute is now in the hands of Herreshoff's painters. The well known craft was recently thoroughly inspected by Robert W. Emmons 2d and Charles Francis Adams, formerly manager and skipper of the boat in the shed where it was stored for three years.

Resolute may be either a Principal in Next Cup Race or Used as a Trial Boat.

Resolute was found to be in excellent condition.

Richard B. Wilson was endorsed as a Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination at a meeting of the Fifth District Republican Club here last night, which adopted resolutions to that end.

Passenger traffic on the New York subways increased 74,122,453 in nine months ending Sept. 30.

Football interest is great. Never was there such interest in the gridiron pastime as is evident this year.

ADVENTURES THAT MADE AN AMERICAN

With the Rural Mail Man
BY E. S. ALEXANDER

"Hey! Stop him! Stop him!" Hunting Eye heard the cry behind him. Looking back he saw a horse running along the road toward him. After it ran a man. He hid in the bushes by the roadside and when the horse came past leaped out and by hanging to the bridle stepped it. "That's lucky for me," said the man coming up, "if he'd gone much further I'd have had mail scattered all over the road. Get in. I'll give you a ride."

"Who are you?" asked the Indian boy. "I'm the rural mail carrier. You see the town back here has a post office. The whole country is divided into districts and about the middle of each district is a town with a post office. Each district is divided into rural delivery routes. The route starts from the post office and goes out one road to the end of the district, then comes back by another road. A carrier goes over each of these routes once a day. He delivers to the farmers the mail addressed to them and carries back to the post office the mail they wish to send."

Just then the carrier pulled up to a box set on a post by the side of the road and took a package. "Letters aren't always that big, are they?" asked Hunting Eye. "No, we carry small packages as well as letters. The carrying of them is called Parcel Post. A letter below a certain weight will be carried anywhere in the United States."

WOODCRAFT

The Working Mosses
BY ADELIA BEALE BEARD

There seems to be a good deal of moss of one kind or another scattered around, and when we come to think about it we naturally wonder why. We find it almost everywhere, in every part of the world. Moss on the trees, moss on the ground, moss on rocks, in bogs, and on the water. It grows along the roadside and deep in the woods.

It is wonderfully pretty and interesting stuff in spite of the dry and difficult names botanists have given to different varieties. Some of them like miniature forests of tiny ferns and evergreen trees, some like vines and ferns and other kinds bear small, flower-like crests of brilliant colors. Often it is dry and springy, deep and soft, and in the shady woods it makes a fine mattress or cushion for a tired boy or girl to rest on. But if you think it has no other use than that you are greatly mistaken.

Mosses are among the most industrious of nature's skilled workers and they never ask for a vacation. Everything is busy in the well ordered world of out-of-doors, and it is the mosses' part to help keep this earth in good repair and fit for us to live on. What is used up must be replaced and the mosses are tremendously busy making new soil.

They work in various ways. When they collect gasses from the air to send down into the ground, and when they draw lime-solutions from water to distribute in places where they are needed, they use chemical methods; but they use actual force when they pry off particles from hard rocks to add to the bits of earth, dust, and leafy refuse gathered and held by their closely massed foliage and roots.

The spongy mosses that grow on decaying logs take from the dead wood and give back to the soil ingredients which the trees, when alive, absorbed from the soil. Other mosses fill in and build up marshy places, making soil for larger plants. They are all workers, you see. Won't it be worth while to find out more about them?

THIS KIND OF GROWTH ON DEAD WOOD IS THE WORK OF THE MOSS.

PHYSICAL MARVEL AT 15 YEARS OF AGE

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 12.—A Samson as a baby and a Hercules at the age of fifteen.

That's the title that can be given to Dean Duffield Cutting, who at fifteen stands six feet three inches tall, weighs 135 pounds, and is an all-around physical marvel. He has attained his physical perfection by following a programme that is in itself astounding to the heavy eaters of today.

On November 19, 1905, the Seattle Daily Times published an article about Dean, then less than two years of age, naming him the Baby Samson. The newspaper has followed his progress through these thirteen years. It was predicted then that the boy would be a marvel and his mode of living has been carefully watched.

Young Cutting rises every morning at 5:30 o'clock. He has his breakfast—one quart of cool water, and then starts for work in a local shipyard. He plays around with a mere 75-pound drill during the morning and takes his lunch at 11 o'clock—three peanut sandwiches, two or three bananas and one pint of milk. Note that nothing warm has touched his stomach since rising.

In the afternoon he continues his juggling act with the 75-pound drill and returns home at 5 o'clock. He then takes a hot bath and eats his dinner. Usually it is beans without pork, mashed Irish or sweet potatoes and other vegetables. He has never eaten meat. When a child he saw a picture of a dog retrieving a fowl and has never wanted meat as a consequence.

When he was two years old he started training, using two-pound dumbbells.

At eleven years of age he kicked a football 109 feet. During the same year he had his first and only fight. An older boy called him a coward and a "fraidy cat."

After school they met and Dean landed on him once. Oshy pupils thought the lad dead, but he came to after an hour and didn't want to call Dean a "fraidy cat" any more.

He can lift his mother and carry her around the house as if she were a doll. His father, who weighs 180 pounds, has had more than one slide in his son's arms.

Dean's great strength has been actually tested in many ways. He has carried a 100-pound sack of flour on his back and at the State University all agree that he is a marvel.

His fellow workers at the shipyard hoot the idea that he is, but fifteen years of age. They believe him twenty-five. He does not want to become a professional athlete nor a prize fighter. He is looking forward to returning to school, where he will become a sophomore this coming semester. Football holds an attraction for him.

At two he was a Samson. Today he is a Hercules. What will he be when he grows up?

BRITISH DISCOVERS U. S. IN NINETEEN NINETEEN

London, Nov. 12.—Columbus discovered America in 1492. It's one of the accepted facts. Just like two plus two equals four. We learned it so long ago that we forget why we know it.

And now perhaps it isn't so after all. Perhaps it's just one of those pre-war theories, like "might makes right," which has had to go into the discard in the light of the new day that is presumed to be dawning.

For England is discovering America—today, yesterday and tomorrow; perhaps next month or even next year she will still be on discovery bent and learning more each day.

The modern discoverers do not knock about Europe, champions of a forlorn hope until the day when they are able to persuade some gracious queen to hook her jewels to finance an argosy. They walk up funny little-cubby holes—"counting houses"—in Fleet street, the Park row of England and there draw liberally upon the coffers of the publishing barons.

This done, they pack a few cases of special brand tea and the publishing baron pulls a few strings and slips them aboard a west bound ocean liner. Various and sundry British and American business men would give a thousand pounds per for these coveted state rooms that take explorers scribbles to our shores. But publicity is power, and when a British publishing baron desires one of his minions to discover America the state room is forthcoming, regardless of the waiting list of bankers and industrial magnates.

Then they do discover.

A thirsting public follows the exciting and dangerous journey of the modern Columbus through State after State. It gulps down columns of wonderful, even marvelous facts about this new continent of ours.

Britain is told how we eat, what we eat, how we dress, how smart our girls appear, how high our buildings are, how many automobiles we have, how much we make, how many people are after what we make and how much of it they get.

An avidly curious public learns that we have hotels that are to be seen in themselves, that "Hennery" Ford has a swimming pool in his garage, that the "Hennery" Ford has a swimming pool in his garage, that the "Hennery" Ford has a swimming pool in his garage.

A half-column tells of the avidity of our restaurant proprietors and head waiters and pictures the "cold cleanliness" of some restaurants. Another "discoverer" tells an Arabi-an Night's tale of wonderful mechanical inventions that make household work a positive pleasure.

England assuredly is discovering America with a vengeance that almost implies America didn't exist before the correspondent-explorers sailed westward. Their tales are interesting, even to an American familiar with the subject matter. Despite the running comment sometimes visible, which holds up our customs and habits as not being in the British style, the stories of these scribbles are beckoning many to a newly discovered land of promise. Thousands have read and taken stock of cash and courage to learn whether they dare venture into the Western land which they had previously lumped vaguely as a combination of Bill Cody and Douglas Fairbanks.

HASN'T SHAVED SINCE CIVIL WAR. PLANEY REMOVES 'EM.
Haywood, Cal., Nov. 12.—For the first time since the Civil War Henry C. Boylston, of this city, has trimmed his whiskers. However, it wasn't his fault.

When Boylston's detachment of the Confederate Army surrendered, he vowed he never trim his whiskers as long as he lived.

He was planting lumber with an automatic planer, operating with rotating knives. Lengthy whiskers tickled in his vest, he bent over the board, but he bent too far. The whiskers caught in the knives and with a yell of pain Boylston bid good-bye to his hirsute adornment. It was the first time since 1863 his phiz had seen the daylight.

A clean shave at the barber shop finished the job.

WOMEN TO BAN COSTLY GOWNS IN MANY CITIES

New York, Nov. 12.—Pope Benedict XV, in decreeing from Rome that Italian Catholic women's uniforms are to be highly praised for their campaign against "immodest" feminine attire has started a non-denominational movement which, according to New York women's Catholic organizations, as well as some of the highest social and fashion leaders in this city today, threatens to declass the styles and deflate clothing profiteering prices.

Women, from the poorest shop girl to the wealthiest fashion leader, are to participate. Yesteryear's clothes are to be "revamped," last season's hats are to be retrimmed, shoes are to be resoled, and the slogan is to be "Down with extravagance!"

Lady Newborough, who was Miss Grace Carr, of Louisville, and a sister of Mrs. Bingham, wife of Brigadier-General Cecil E. Bingham, and now stopping at the Holland House, is willing to tell her social companions how women in England are fighting the high cost of living by reworking their old clothes.

Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw is willing to halt her work in the New York State League for Women's Voters long enough to encourage any effort to discourage profiteering, and Mrs. Vincent Astor, too, is opposed to fashion styles which mean scanty material and long prices.

The League of Catholic Women for Social and Civic Reform, which includes some of the brightest names on the social calendar in its patronesses and board of governors, and the Carroll Club, an organization for Catholic working girls, are today considering the plans of Pope Benedict for determined campaigns against "vulgar" styles and needless costs in clothing. Rouge, paint, lip sticks, eyebrow pencils may be banned, and high heels, short skirts and low waists are to be restricted, if not abandoned.

Lady Newborough was clad in the simplest of morning gowns when at the Holland House she declared that American women are dressing beautifully, but with too much extravagance. "I believe that any movement tending to uglify women's women's clothing is ridiculous," she said, "but certainly some action is needed to halt the terrible prices women are paying for their clothes."

Lady Newborough said that the prices of women's clothes are so high that they are almost unaffordable. "I believe that any movement tending to uglify women's women's clothing is ridiculous," she said, "but certainly some action is needed to halt the terrible prices women are paying for their clothes."

"Eyes of the World" made the great hit that was expected of it last evening. There was a goodly crowd present but because of the celebration many will see the play this evening so it is wise to be around early.

The augmented orchestra and special effects helped the picture wonderfully last evening.

"Eyes of the World" is just as big as "Hearts of the World" and tells a more interesting story. There are many thrills to it and massive scenes. Thousands are in the cast and all parts of the world are used to piece together the story.

It is a big picture and so well known by reputation to all movie fans that the house will be packed tonight.

KING DISCLOSES QUICK WIT DURING VISIT TO FRISCO CLUB. San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 12.—King Albert of Belgium was being escorted through the rooms of the Olympic club here on his recent visit. Judge Fitzpatrick escorting him. "This is our card room," said the Judge when they reached that sanctum.

"Then you'd probably rather have an ace than a 'king' in here," was Albert's immediate reply.

Circle Theater

Has the question, "Something To Do" ever worried you? But the case of Bryant Washburn in the role of Jack Merrill in his latest Paramount picture, "Something To Do," which will be shown at the Circle Theater tonight was different. Jack had a great bank account and time had begun to hang heavily on his hands as, with his money, he had decided there was to see and done all there was to do—all except one thing—to help somebody else.

By the mere chance of finding a girl's handkerchief in his coat pocket, put there by his crooked valet who had been falsely presented to the girl as "Lord Sidney," and was courting her, Jack discovered that there was yet left something for him to do.

Catching his deceitful valet in his misrepresentations, Jack makes him confess everything, and also finds in his possession a photograph of the girl, Janet, on which was written a note stating that the girl had no freedom and wanted help. Therein, Jack saw his chance. Thompson, the valet, kisses Jack in getting a fake title, "The Earl of Dunraven," and armed with this Jack goes to a reception given by Mrs. Parkin, the girl's aunt.

Mrs. Parkin, coveting the family fortune, has had the girl's father interned in an insane asylum and bribed the keeper to keep him there. The keeper has given her a receipt for the bribe. How this is obtained by the aid of Jack makes an interesting story. Ann Little is the leading woman.

"The Term of the Range" a new serial, is on the same bill. And as an added attraction adding manager "Doc" Sullivan will present two vocalists in popular selections, Mildred Polsten, soprano and John Conlon, baritone.

If you invested a few dollars in any one of the great motor or rubber corporations a few years ago you would now be wealthy.

This new industry is already showing a marked increase in rubber purchases.

Since commencing business a few months ago the company now has about 1,000 stockholders in Waterbury, Hartford, New Haven and surrounding smaller towns who are receiving 25% discount from list prices on Kelley "K" Tires (6,000-mile guarantee) and Kelley Blue Tubes (1 year guarantee.) It is proposed to locate service stations throughout New England and thereafter expand throughout the country, as rapidly as conservative business judgment will warrant.

Expect to control patents covering the elimination of air bags in cord tires. Patents now applied for.

Did you ever stop to consider all the good things you have already let slip by. Don't let another one go by.

Plans have been completed and a foundation was completed yesterday, whereby the company secured five acres of land as a site for an up-to-date plant. The building will be situated on West Elm street and will adjoin the main line of the New Haven railroad. All electrically equipped spur track will soon be run in. The land was bought through Clark Hall and Peck, title searchers, and the purchase price is not divulged. The factory building, which will be 800 feet by 100, will have 75,000 or more feet of floor space. The equipment used will be the best word in factory appliances and will cost about a quarter of a million. There will be a cooling plant for water with a capacity of 28,000 daily, the use of coal may be dispensed with as fuel oil may be used to supply heat and power. The factory and separate power plant will cost another $250,000. It is expected that from 400 to 500 peo-

WILL INVESTIGATE SCHOOL CONGESTION IN SIXTH DISTRICT

New Building Committee Chosen at Meeting Held Last Night.

OLD STORE ROOM USED TO ACCOMMODATE PUPILS

Present School Building Will Be Enlarged or New School Built—Congestion a Serious Problem.

That the voters of the Sixth School District realize the need of either a new school building or larger quarters for that district was indicated by the attendance at a meeting held in the district school house last evening for the purpose of discussing the situation.

It was brought out at the meeting that the Sixth district is facing a serious congestion and that the present school building is entirely inadequate. In order to take care of all the pupils the committee has hired a store room on the Olcott place and has converted it into a school room.

The voters seemed to be of the opinion that steps should be taken at once to eliminate the school congestion. The old building committee was discharged from further consideration and a new committee was appointed.

The committee has been authorized to investigate and secure a site for school purposes. It is the opinion of the committee the district should have a new school building instead of an addition to the present building, it is very probable that the voters will favor the plan.
