PLUMB PLAN THE BIG ISSUE IN '20 POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Solution of Railroad Problem
Affects Every Man and Woman in the Country Says
Author of Scheme—Labor Leaders Want McAdoo to Run for President on Government Control Platform
—Railroads Represent
4,000,000 Voters.

Washington, Dec. 27.—With the final word to be said by the President on the return of the railroads, the railroad unions are preparing to make the Plumb Plan one of the big issues of the 1920 election.

Glenn E. Plumb, author of the plan and general counsel for the labor brotherhoods, refused today to discuss the possible political effect of President's proclamation on the labor side.

Plumb said that the Plumb Plan is the leading issue in the campaign. He is bound to succeed in the solution of the railroad problem affects every man and woman in the country.

If Congress passes legislation that protects railway securities at the expense of the public, the rebound will sweep away the chances of the Republican party in the 1920 campaign. Democrats Not Responsible.

"The Democratic party will not be responsible. The Democratic Congressmen who vote with the Republican majority will be held responsible as individuals.

"The Plumb Plan League is growing by leaps and bounds. Applications are coming in at the rate of 2,000 and 3,000 a day. It is a mistake to think that interest in the league is centered in the Middle West and Northwest. The state showing the greatest activity in its behalf is Pennsylvania and the New England membership is growing remarkably."

Labor Wants McAdoo.
Talks with labor leaders disclose that the railroad workers hope for the Democratic party to nominate William G. McAdoo for President on a platform declaring for government control of the railroads with the workers sharing in the management.

Before next June the railroad unions will work to impress upon the old parties the fact that they directly represent nearly 4,000,000 voters, constituting more than 95 per cent of the membership of organized labor demanding that party platforms containing a plank endorsing the Plumb plan in principle at least.

Meeting Held Monday.
The immediate interest of the railroad unions and that of the American Federation of Labor is the railroad legislation before Congress. At the Plumb Plan League headquarters today it was stated that if the railroad brotherhoods chiefs do not arrive today or tomorrow a meeting of all railroad union heads will be held Monday morning as preliminary to the conference called by Samuel Gompers for the afternoon to plan final tactics against legislation offensive to labor.

Wilson at Tomorrow.
Washington, Dec. 27.—President Wilson will celebrate his sixty-third birthday tomorrow. The occasion will be quietly observed at the White House.

The President was born December 28, 1856 in Staunton, Virginia.

Alexandre Ribot,
Ex-Premier of France.

ALLIES MUST SUPPORT LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Nations Which Fought for Right Must Unite, Says
Ribot.

WRITES SPECIAL ARTICLE

Ex-Premier of France Gives His Views of What the Nations
Should Do Now.

Paris, Dec. 27.—The League of Nations will be of little real value to the world unless it is supported by a permanent agreement between the nations which fought side by side for the right of peoples and justice for all. Who would dare to predict what the world is facing after the awful tempest which has just shaken it? Three empires have fallen and on their ruins have sprung up nations which hope to be free. What will become of these peoples? Will they have the wisdom and the power to develop in peace? Has Prussian militarism, which for two centuries was the torment of Europe, sunk forever into the grave? May it not once again return to trouble us? Shall we be able to maintain that close union among the victorious nations which won the war? That is the sole guarantee of peace.

The Results of War.
The war did not result merely in the downfall of empires. It has shaken to its profoundest depths a society in the process of evolution, uneasy regarding its future, marching toward a new equilibrium. It set free the hope of many peoples, it brought to the surface ambitions which had been kept down, which did not dare hope for their liberation.

Labor World Upset.
The world of labor is upset, thrown out of its old ways. The workers of the world believe, now that they have seen the downfall of powers which they thought unconquerable, that society itself can be remodelled, just as nations have been, and that revolution will not be limited to a change of frontier lines. The whole social order is in danger.

ENDS CHRISTMAS PARTY IN GUTTER.

Not far from the Love Lane switch a very well dressed young man from Hartford was found lying in a stupefied condition yesterday and brought to the lock-up here. It was some time before he had recovered sufficiently from the effects of Italian wine and what he described as "one drink of whiskey" to give an account of himself and when he did regain his senses a Christmas party in Hartford was the last thing he could recall.

He declared he knew nothing of how he came to be on the road toward Manchester and less than nothing of how he came to be lying in the ditch. He had plenty of money and appeared to be much broken up to think he had been found drunk but aside from the story of the party, the wine and the whiskey his memory of the past twenty-four hours was a blank.

JOINT INTERVENTION IN MEXICO, THE PLAN OF BRITISH DIPLOMAT

Both This Country and England Have Much Money Invested There.

BRITAIN NEEDS MONEY TO SETTLE WAR DEBTS

France, Holland and South American Republic to be Represented on the Commission to Settle Default Problem.

London, Dec. 27.—Joint intervention in Mexico by a mixed foreign commission, on which Great Britain and the United States would occupy the chief places is advocated by H. Graham Richards, former British Consul General to Mexico.

Such intervention, Mr. Richards holds, would protect foreign investments in Mexico, amounting to $2,500,000,000 and up to now no return has been received for several years and would allow Mexico to develop in peace.

Britain's Investment.
Mr. Richards points out that Great Britain has $1,000,000,000 invested in Mexico, most of the railways having been built under the Porfirio Diaz regime with British money. He declares that with a heavy war debt, and a depreciated Pound Sterling, England can no longer neglect her Mexico interests.

U. S. Investments.
"The fact that the United States has $1,500,000,000 invested in Mexico, the existence of the Monroe Doctrine and also strategic and political considerations that must be taken into account would make it necessary for America to occupy first place in any settlement of Mexican chaos," said Mr. Richards.

U. S. Would Welcome Aid.
"But Washington would probably welcome assistance.

"I feel certain that the American government would be only too pleased with some such solution of the Mexican troubles. The past reluctance of the United States to take any bold action has arisen from fear that she might be accused of aims at territorial aggrandizement. A mixed commission would preclude the possibility of such an accusation. This is a matter for immediate decision by the British government."

Britain Needs Money.
"Our tremendous war debts will

Whereabouts of D'Annunzio An International Mystery

London, Dec. 27.—The whereabouts and present activities of all Europe by seizing Fiume, have assumed the proportions of a great report contained in an exchange telegraph dispatch from Rome today, quoting the Tribuna, instead of throwing light upon the situation only deepened the mystery. This dispatch said:

"The situation at Fiume is unchanged. On Wednesday D'Annunzio promised to decide within 24 hours whether or not to leave the city. Afterwards he refused. His attitude has been obstructing the city's acceptance of Premier Nitti's compromise."

D'Annunzio was reported to have left Fiume on the English steamship Pannonia and later the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Zara telegraphed that he had landed there and had been arrested apparently by the Jugo-Slavs.

COP KILLS N. Y. BANDIT IN DUEL WITH PISTOLS

Member of Red Hope Gang Had Attempted to Rob Restaurant When Discovered.

New York, Dec. 27.—In a thrilling pistol duel in the streets of lower New York today, Philip La Houd, said to be a member of the "Red Hope" band of holdup men, was shot and killed by Policeman J. J. Wimmer.

The chase started after La Houd had attempted to hold up a restaurant with an automatic pistol in his hand. Wimmer gave chase drawing his own pistol as a result.

La Houd turned and opened fire but the policeman continued through Washington and Greenwich streets to Rector, where La Houd stopped to get better aim.

As he stood with his pistol pointed at the policeman the latter fired a bullet into his breast. La Houd died on his way to the hospital.

COL. VAN HAMM IS DEAD; A NOTED NEWSPAPERMAN

Was Managing Editor of the New York American—Left Law to Take Up News.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 27.—Colonel Caleb Marsh Van Hamm, for several years managing editor of the New York American, died here early today after an illness of several weeks. His daughter, Miss Rebecca, was with him when he passed away at 3 o'clock this morning. The body will be taken to Cincinnati where Colonel Van Hamm was born, for burial on Tuesday.

Col. Van Hamm was one of the best known newspaper men in the east, having held important executive positions on a number of big dailies before becoming managing editor of the New York American in 1910.

He was born in Cincinnati on March 11, 1861. He was graduated from the Law School of the University of Cincinnati in 1882 with an LL. B. Degree.

He was engaged in the practice of law for several years but gave up the practice of law to enter newspaper work.

GIFTS FOR P. O. EMPLOYEES.
The incoming mail on Christmas eve brought remembrances to the postal employees at the Manchester post office. The A. Willard Case Co., generously sent Christmas gifts of boxes of cigars "for those who smoke" and chocolates "for those who don't smoke." The post office employees were much pleased with the gifts.

EXPERTS PROBE CASE.
Paris, Dec. 27.—Experts from the Allied Shipping Board at London are on their way to Germany to inspect the docks at Hamburg and adjacent differences between the German and Allied claims for reparation over the sinking of the German fleet at Scapa Flow. It is now likely that the Protocol of Ratification will be signed the second week in January.

Scores of Others Who Drank Deadly Concoction Dying in Homes and Hospitals—Police Say Fake Whiskey Had Wide Sale Throughout the Nation—13 Dead in Hartford and 39 Dead in Chicopee, Mass.

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 27.—The death toll in the Christmas "whiskey horror" had mounted to 69 this afternoon. Scores of others made blind and plunged into great agony by a deadly concoction of wood alcohol were reported dying in hospitals and in private homes.

Authorities investigating the sale and distribution of the "fake whiskey" said that indications were that there had been a country wide sale of the bogus beverage. Many deaths will follow before the warning can be spread they feared.

The List by Cities.
The cities known to be affected by the poisonous beverage which was sent out of New York, are: Chicopee, 39 dead; Hartford, Conn., 13; Holyoke, 7; Springfield, 3; Chicago 4; Pittsburgh 2 and New York 1.

A cure that will save the lives of those stricken was found today by Dr. George Gagne of Chicopee. Dr. Gagne adopted the old method of using leeches to take poisoned blood from the veins of his patients.

ANALYZING THE BOOZE.
New Haven, Dec. 27.—Dr. E. M. Bailey, state chemist, was at work today at the state laboratory here making an analysis of the liquor sold in Hartford and the drinking of which caused more than two scores of deaths in this state and Massachusetts. Dr. Bailey said that he had a number of samples of the liquor and he hoped to complete the analysis sometime today. He had not proceeded far enough with the analysis to be able to tell what the ingredients of the "death mixture" are. He hopes to complete his examination today and will make his report to Prosecutor Alexander Creedon of Hartford, who he said would make public any information concerning the report.

IN HARTFORD.
Hartford, Conn., Dec. 27.—The total death toll as a result of drinking the deadly concoction of wood alcohol sold as a beverage in this city on Christmas day stood at thirteen early this forenoon, with three others not expected to recover and two apparently recovering from the deadly poison.

Three More Dead.
In addition to the victims numbered yesterday among those who consumed the poisonous draught three died during last night. Benny Persky, 28, of 83 Portland street, succumbed at the Hartford hospital at 4:20 this morning. His father, John Persky was reported to be in a serious condition and unlikely to recover. At St. Francis hospital Akseynty Gorosko, 37, of 103 Portland street, admitted yesterday night died at 3:45 this morning, while Joseph Silverstein, 35, of Hushope avenue, admitted yesterday afternoon died at 5:30 this morning. Tony Dorsway, 28, of 59 Hushope avenue and Michael Husko, 35, of 275 Windsor street, one of the first victims, are still in a serious condition.

At Hartford hospital Anthony Tietek, 24, and at St. Francis hospital Marcus Farenshuk, 35, were reported to have some chance of recovery.

Victims Went Blind.
The hospital authorities report that the symptoms in all cases are similar. The patients are first stricken with blindness, then they become delirious, following which they lapse into a comatose state and death follows. Several of the victims died in convulsions.

The case of Frank Rose, the Windsor street saloonkeeper, from whose place four barrels and several jugs of the death liquor was removed by the police Thursday night and Nathan Salsberg, Jacob Brownerwine and Saul Josepha, were called in the police court this morning.

Tracing Fake Booze.
Meantime the police with assistance of the state police and Internal Revenue agents are bending their efforts to tracing the deadly concoction to its source which has been fixed as New York City. Wherever possible the statements of the victims are being obtained and practically all the liquor consumed here has been traced to two saloons, one conducted by Rose on Windsor street and the other on Avon street, the name of the proprietor being withheld for the present by the police.

Performing Autopsies.
Under the direction of Coroner Cathoun several physicians were busy throughout the night performing autopsies on the bodies of the dead in order to determine the exact effect of the deadly liquor in causing the deaths of the victims.

Many of the victims have families and gloom prevailed the section of the city in Portland and Windsor streets, inhabited by Russians and Poles where the effects of the death potion was largest.

Had Five.
From statements of the coroner and others it was learned that the purchasers of the concoction were suspicious of it after they had obtained it for a price said to be $1,000 a barrel in New York. Rose is said to have confessed that he had some of the stuff analyzed at a drug store and was told it was all right. It is also reported that he was notified by wire from New York not to sell the liquor but apparently disregarded the warning. The word is said to have been passed around the foreign colony that a supply of whiskey had come from some source and the "liquor" was in great demand for Christmas celebrations which were quickly turned into tragedies.

In the Police Court.
When the four accused dispensers of the poison liquor were arraigned in the police court their cases were all continued until next Wednesday without bail at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Alex Creedon. Frank Rose, one of the principals, was represented in court by Attorney Benedict M. Holden while Jacob Bronerwine had for counsel Judge Joseph P. Tuttle. Prosecutor Creedon told Judge Francis Pallotti that the case of the state was still incomplete and that more time was desired for the examination of evidence and witnesses. He asked for the continuance to Wednesday.

The Defense.
Judge Tuttle informed the court that while not wishing to appear to have entered into an agreement with the state he would not oppose a continuance without bail today and again next Wednesday if desired. Attorney Holden, however, said that while he would not object to a continuance today without bail if a further continuance was desired on a charge of first degree murder he would oppose it unless bail was fixed, because of the failure to establish a Prima Facie case.

Collector Walsh Speaks.
From U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue James J. Walsh of this city it was learned today that no action has as yet been taken by his department to institute criminal action in the cases of the men under arrest for dispensing bogus "whiskey" here and in Massachusetts on Christmas day.

Collector Walsh made it known today that if the concoction was in reality wood alcohol it is not strictly within the jurisdiction of the state.

December 28, Sunday school at 9.15 a. m. Church service with sermon by the pastor at 10.30 a. m. There will be a special service on Wednesday night at 7.30. "The year is closed—the record made, The last deed done, the last word said; The memory alone remains Of all its joys, its griefs, its gains; And now with purpose full and clear, I turn to meet another year." Pastor's Appeal.
A special appeal to the members and friends of the Concordia Lutheran church.
"I was hungry and ye gave me to eat; naked and ye clothed me; I was sick, and ye visited me. Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even the least, ye did it unto me."
"With God's help and a heroic faith," so writes Dr. J. A. Morehead, chairman of the Lutheran Commission to Europe, in pleading for help equal to the need. Without either we will fail to reach the emergency. It is so overwhelming and so pitiful. In Finland and Estonia they have killed our pastors. Many were tortured fendishly before death brought them relief. They had to dig their own graves and were buried alive.
In Poland they deported 100,000 Lutheran men. Later they deported the wives and children—to Siberia. They destroyed the houses. They desecrated the churches. Today these refugees are returning to desolation and want that beggars description.
In many parts of Germany, in Austria and in Hungary destruction and disorder are placing incredible burdens on our fellow-Lutherans. The Lutheran Commissioners to Europe have seen the need. They are appealing as sober eye-witnesses that we—"With God's help and a heroic faith"—rise to meet it as it ought to be met.
The Concordia church has organized a Relief Organization to appeal to the members and friends of the Congregation for immediate and generous help. This committee is taking care of the shipping and distribution.
To be mentioned are 1—Groceries: coffee, cocoa, condensed milk, barley, tea, soap, etc. 2—Clothing: men's and women's underwear, men's suits and overcoats, women's skirts, waists and coats, stockings, shoes, sweaters, mufflers, blankets, caps, etc.
And—last but not least—It costs money today to ship to Europe much money. The committee wants to see the Lutherans take hold now with every ounce of energy. This is a race with winter and death. Deferment help is no help. Only if all do their utmost at once will it be possible to help and to save. If you believe this true act today. Tomorrow may be too late.
With best wishes for a "Happy New Year",
Rev. H. Stippich, Pastor.

MISSING GROOM CASE BECOMES BIG MYSTERY

Doctor Found in Brooklyn Hospital Says He Knows Nothing About Wedding.

New York, Dec. 27.—The case of Dr. William G. Vermilye, Brooklyn physician who failed to appear on Christmas Eve at Monson, Mass., to marry Miss Ruth M. Keeney, former instructor in Spanish at Bucknell University, developed into a mystery today when it was stated at the Cumberland Street hospital in Brooklyn that the doctor is in that institution as a charity patient. At the hospital it was understood that Dr. Vermilye was unable to pay for his treatment and was put in a public ward.

Dr. Vermilye this afternoon issued the following brief statement: "Upon my return to the United States, I was met by an invitation to my own wedding. I am not hiding from any one."

The hospital authorities said that Dr. Vermilye had applied for admission to the hospital Thursday saying that he had symptoms of appendicitis and believed that an operation was necessary.

Miss Keeney is reported to be on her way to this city.

JOINT INTERVENTION TO HELP OUT MEXICO

not permit us longer to neglect investments totalling millions in pounds sterling, Mexico which is larger than France, Germany and Austria-Hungary combined, is still only half exploited. Our past labors entitle us to future benefits. The Central American Republic presents us with an extensive and expanding market for our industrial productions and now in view of this fact alone any measures adopted to give it a stable government again and to render its activities normal will necessarily gain approval on this side."

Describes Carranza. Mr. Richards describes President Carranza as "Anti-American and Pro-German."

The former Consul General suggests that the proposed mixed commission direct Mexican affairs until a stable Mexican government is established. He recommends that it be composed of the United States, Great Britain, France, Holland and possibly a South American republic.

NAMES PRISON REFORMER IN SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Portsmouth Woman Says Osborne Caused Her Husband to Leave Her.

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 27.—Lieut. Commander Thomas Mott Osborne, prison reformer and commandant of the United States Navy Prison here, was today named as defendant in a suit for $25,000 damages by Julia V. Mullaney of Portsmouth, who charges Commander Osborne with alienation of her husband's affections. She declares in papers in her suit filed today that after she had been only two days married to Chief Yeoman William J. Duffy, who is said to be a close friend of Commander Osborne, the latter influenced Duffy to leave her.

Duffy later married Helen M. Healey who was formerly the Mullaney girl's chum. Duffy and his second bride were living together as man and wife when both were arrested and they are now under bail.

ALLIES MUST SUPPORT A LEAGUE OF NATIONS

We have no need to be astonished by these agitations. After a storm, the ocean does not become calm in an hour. Its waves continue to roll over wide reaches. We must not, however, be afraid of these waves. A society accustomed to the virile habits of liberty, remains in itself the means of defense. It will perish only when it abandons them.

France Must Live. France has never had such a high place in the imagination and in the gratitude of the peoples of the earth. She won the admiration even of those who professed to believe she was a decadent. But she is mourning her children, all that magnificent youth which the war has taken from her. She is asking herself how she can repair the ruins and take up again her laborious life. A France wounded almost to death, her forces of re-constitution weakened, facing a Germany intact, a Germany which we're going to help so that she can pay a portion of her debt; what a spectacle for a world which France served from the ownership of the barbarians.

France must live. She has not yet fulfilled her mission in its entirety. In the great world changes which are taking place under our eyes France has something to say and something to do which only she can say and do. If it becomes necessary she will find in herself, as she has done after every great crisis, fresh resources which will again astonish the world.

The men of my generation have lived through many transformations in ways of living, of administering, of governing, in methods of work. We have seen great revolutions in science and politics. We have witnessed extraordinary discoveries and also certain progress in the social order. We shall miss only the view of what France will be in 25 or 30 years. But we have never despaired of her, even in the darkest days.

Six miles above the earth's surface seems to be the latest sky record. It was made in a Curtiss plane. There is a vast difference between the life of a poet and a pullet.

COLLEGIANS WIN FROM ARMY-NAVY ON FOULS

35-31 is Final Score in the Fastest Game of Season.

LOCALS SURPRISE CROWD

Army-Navy Team Plays Marvelous Game Against Referee's Whistle and Machine Work of Visitors.

With fifteen points gained on fouls the All-Collegians were able to win 35 to 31 last night from the Army-Navy team in the fastest game of basketball ever played in the Rec. gymnasium. The Army-Navy team fought a good battle against the marvelous floor work of their opponents and against Referee McCarty's version of basketball rules. How near they came to tying and perhaps winning the game is the best indication of the kind of basketball they played last night.

The All-Collegians came close to being a faultless machine. It is true that, perhaps with on or two exceptions, their eyes were not very keen on the basket but they demonstrated how far scientific floor work could be carried. The visitors did not have any spectacular individual players. They worked as a team and each man played his position. Only three men on the visiting team scored and King came away with three baskets. Only one basket made by the All-Collegians was on a particularly fine shot and this was early in the second half when Herbert scored from the middle of the floor. The other baskets made by the visitors were hard won and through the use of their best skill in passing.

Very few teams could have withstood the Army-Navy team last night and especially against their playing in the first half. The service men opened in a whirlwind style and introduced the Hartford men to all points on the floor.

The visitors started the scoring with one point on a foul. But Massey duplicated this in a few seconds and Keith carrying the ball up the floor scored the first field basket on a long throw. Keith played a wonderful game in the first half and scored three of five field goals made by the local team. In fact if the Army-Navy men could have maintained their stride throughout the game the result might have been different. Weltman was able to tie the score with foul shots—and he was deadly at it—so that the half ended 16-15.

In the early part of the second half the men on the local line-up were shifted and for several minutes they could not get into the play. And in these few minutes the visitors forged ahead until at one time they were ten points ahead. Then suddenly the scoring changed from all Collegian to all Army-Navy. The visitors were tied-down with impenetrable guarding. Quish's work at tossing fouls, Madden's easy shots to the basket cut the lead smaller and smaller. "Jerry" Fay got tired of the way the Collegians were playing and got in some heavy work with two clever throws for two counts apiece. But then the whistling and the game ended All Collegians 35, Army-Navy 31. The Army-Navy men played a whale of a game. They will profit by the contest last night. They are rapidly working into the best team Manchester has yet produced and this is no small reputation.

The lineup:
 All-Collegians Army-Navy
 Weltman Russell, Quish

 Cohan Wilson, Massey

 Cabelus Keith, Fay

Score: All Collegians 35, Army-Navy 31. Russell 1, Keith 3, Anderson 1, Madden 2, Fay 2, Quish 1, Cohan 2, King 3, Herbert 2, Fouls, Massey 5, Quish 6, Weltman 15.

HOW TO CATCH ELEPHANTS

Some Suggestions Made by African Paper Would Seem to Border Slightly on the Ridiculous.

Half the inventors in England seem to have set to work on the problem of capturing or destroying the Audo Bush elephants. One man wants to drive them on to lighters moored in the Sunday river, and another suggests hunting them in whippet tanks, which, of course, will go through jungle like a hot knife through a pat of butter. We don't think much of these ideas, however. They do not appeal to us as being sufficiently simple and practical. But as mere destructive criticism is never satisfying, we put forward the following schemes, which could be carried out easily:

First. Erect searchlights round the Bush and concentrate them upon the elephants at night. Dazzled by the glare the brutes will dash head-first into the trunks of the trees and stun themselves. Their feet can then be tied together, and they can be dragged away by donkeys or oxen to cages and subsequently sold to circus proprietors or zoological gardens.

Second. Let a big airship (the R-34 would do) move to and fro over the Bush, dragging it thoroughly with grappling hooks. The elephant fished up could be carried without a moment's pause north of the Zambesi and gently lowered to the ground, so that they could make their way into the wilds of Central Africa.

Third. Allow several submarines to sink to the bottom of the Sunday river. A gang of natives blowing trumpets and beating tin trays would then drive the elephants into the water. As they were swimming across, the submarines would come to the surface underneath them, lifting them out of the water. The submarines would steam away to any destination fixed upon, carrying the elephants on their decks.

Fourth. Scatter several tons of extra strong sypaper throughout the Bush. This will adhere to the trunks and feet of the elephants and the more they attempt to get rid of it the more it will collect until in the end they are suffocated.—Johannesburg (Transvaal) Sunday Times.

THE FATAL DRINK.

It is impossible that the wood alcohol "whisky" which has had such tragic results in this and neighboring states could have been brewed and shipped in the quantities alleged to have been sent out from New York without there being sufficient clues to lead the authorities directly to those responsible for the murderous concoction. The fact that this poison could be on sale in so many cities shows a disgraceful inefficiency on the part of the authorities and should bring some of them to a strict accounting. It does but little good to arrest a lot of saloon owners and bartenders unless boot-legalizing is to be rigorously prosecuted under all circumstances. It should not be necessary to kill thirty or forty men to awaken a sense of duty among those charged with the enforcement of the law.

One other aspect of the situation deserves attention and that is the wild and senseless talk against prohibition which one hears on the street since the lamentable deaths of the wood alcohol victims. These sad events show the criminal limits to which some men are willing to go either through ignorance or greed, but they have absolutely nothing to do with the right or wrong of prohibition. Men occasionally get shot while trying to desert from the army but their regrettable fate constitutes no argument against the rules of military discipline.

ANOTHER STRONG CANDIDATE.

The announcement of strong and able candidates in the Republican party is a very timely one. It is almost daily stated that a few months ago men were shaking their heads over the political situation and anxiously scanning the political horizon for a party leader. Today the Republican party has offered the country half a dozen men of presidential caliber and several more who at least deserve consideration. As we have already remarked, the party owes a great debt to its managers who have proved so unequivocally that there is an organization still able to make its traditional boast of having, as it were, presidential timber to burn.

The candidacy of Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, adds still another brilliant name to the astonishing list already before the country. President Butler's record in the great institution of learning which he has piloted so successfully proves him to be an executive of consummate ability. He is more popular with the conservative element of the University and will undoubtedly make his strongest appeal to that element of the country at large. To big financial interests he would prove a most acceptable candidate and, if we do not mistake the signs of the times, big financial interests are going to come very close to naming the next President of these United States.

Among those who are actively backing President Butler he is proclaimed as both a national and international candidate but of course that is simply the fond dream of the political enthusiast. The fact is that national figures are rare in this country and international ones can be counted on the fingers of one hand. President Butler's name will hardly be found in either class. Roosevelt had at least a real national reputation before he became President and he soon expanded it to international renown. Taft was favorably noted in this country because of his work in Cuba but without the Roosevelt sponsorship could hardly have become a national figure. Wilson was a totally unknown quantity until the Republican-Progressive split landed him in the Presidential chair. Among the men already on the Republican list of candidates Wood and Johnson are the only ones who bulk large in the national mind. The kind of fame which is being claimed for President Butler comes after and not before election to office in this country though the campaign of course gives the nation a better idea of each national candidate.

On the issue of the League of Nations it is to be in issue in the next campaign. President Butler's position is somewhat obscure. He is the author of many eloquent and forceful appeals for world organization such as would be established by the covenant of the Treaty of Versailles but as soon as the Treaty was published in this country he attacked it on the ground that it was not as well written as it might have been. Whether President Butler considers the literary weaknesses of the Treaty as sufficient to warrant its rejection is not known, but as a candidate he may feel impelled to reverse his former statements as a champion of world peace or to favor a league of nations but not the League of Nations.

Though President Butler's recent veering on the question of international policy is something of a weakness, he still remains one of the best qualified of the self announced candidates to assist the Wilson administration for extravagance and free handed squandering of public funds. In 1918 Theodore Roosevelt made the sagacious remark that what was needed was a man who could "rip up Wilson" and in Nicholas Murray Butler the Republican party has such a man. No where else on the remarkable list which that party is prepared to lay before the country is there a man better able to discuss the great economic issues of the next campaign and it is on these that the presidency will turn. On almost every economic question from labor policies to tariff bills President Butler stands in clean cut opposition to the Wilson methods. His candidacy would give the country a chance to hear the questions set forth in masterly fashion and to choose between solutions which are frankly hostile and plainly differentiated.

There is a popular demand for a business man as the next candidate and in President Butler the country will recognize a man with business ability of supreme quality. He would conduct an aggressive campaign and attract to his side a great mass of voters who pride themselves on common sense and conservatism. If the Republican candidate is to come from the Atlantic seaboard his name will sound suspiciously like Nicholas Murray Butler.

THREE CAMELS ESCAPE.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 27.—Three camels which escaped from the Barnum and Bailey circus winter quarters here today created amusement and some consternation in the west side business section today. After two hours rambling about the streets, munching edibles from fruit stands and frightening pedestrians, and being charged with attempts to bite an ex-policeman who tried to interrupt their promenade, they were caught by Fireman Vincent Carroll with the aid of a policeman and again placed in captivity.

THE RAILROAD RETURN.

(New York Sun.) The President's decision is sagacious because it fixes the new and absolute deadline of March 1 for paying the railway losses out of the United States Treasury. The issue of saving the roads from bankruptcy and of maintaining their service for the public is put squarely and finally up to Congress. Congress can no longer go on fiddling with this paramount national question. Congress dare not take the responsibility of letting the helpless American railway system coast down grade to its own ruin and to the ruin of the country.

The President's decision is patriotic because short of military invasion, pillage and devastation by a merciless enemy Power nothing worse could befall the industries, the business, the bread and butter of the American people than a breakdown of the national railway system. And nothing but the Government's shouldering of the colossal winter deficits and the President's forcing of Congress to prompt and adequate action could have saved the roads from utter breakdown.

WOMEN OF LINCOLN HAVE INSTITUTED BOYCOTT ON EGGS.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 27.—With eggs selling for ninety cents a dozen, Lincoln women, through the local woman's club, have instituted a boycott against the precious hen fruit. Nearly 1,000 women have pledged themselves not to buy an egg until the price comes down. Other articles will be placed under a similar ban from time to time, the club announces.

Grocers have told the women that the prices would stay high as long as the consumers continued to pay without remonstrances. One of the prominent grocers told the chairman of the investigation committee that 1,000 women working together could accomplish almost anything in the way of reducing prices they desired.

department. Mr. Walsh said that the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department in Washington had recently stationed in Boston an expert chemist in order to expedite the analysis in cases of suspected violation of the prohibition act. Samples of the fluid obtained here have been sent to this expert, Walsh said.

Law Permits Wood Alcohol. If it is proved that the stuff sold here in reality wood alcohol there is nothing for the Internal Revenue Department to do, the Collector declared. The law permits wood alcohol, or as it is officially known, denatured alcohol, to be sold in quantities of ten gallons or less without tax, he explained. To handle it in wholesale quantities more than ten gallons, permits from the Internal Revenue Department are required and labels must be used.

Any criminal action as a result of the sale or use of the liquor dispensed in this city must come from the city or the state authorities, he said.

45 Dead in N. E. States. Springfield, Mass., Dec. 27.—Forty-five persons, including several women are dead today in Western New England as the result of drinking "fake" whiskey, believed to have been made of wood alcohol, colored with burnt sugar and flavored with extract of rye.

Scores of others are in hospitals in horrible agony, blindness being the worst feature of the cases. The victims died terrible deaths, most of them becoming paralyzed.

Death Toll Mounts Hourly. With the death toll mounting hourly the police and federal revenue authorities of Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York were making frantic efforts to warn those who may have the deadly fluid in their possession.

Twenty-four are dead in Chicopee, thirteen in Hartford, six in Holyoke and two in Springfield. The sale of the murderous concoction has been traced to New York City and several arrests have been made in Chicopee and Hartford.

Authorities have discovered that one single lot of "fake" whiskey caused the heavy toll and great suffering throughout the Connecticut Valley. An attempt was made from New York City, 12 barrels of which brought around $12,000, it is said. The first delivery was Hartford, which was the distributing point for Connecticut. From Hartford the stuff went out by taxicab and automobile truck on Christmas Eve. The men responsible traded on the Christmas festival spirit. It is feared that some of the "whiskey" may have reached Danbury, New Britain and other places within automobile radius of Hartford.

Dropped Dead in Streets. Victims dropped in the streets, died in their beds, blinded, and in many cases in violent convulsions. Most of them were without medical attention. They had been plunged in agony and the end came so quickly that they were unable to summon aid. All of the victims showed the same symptoms. Autopsies have been performed but the authorities have not given their findings.

First Clue From Hartford. The first manifestations of the outrage appeared in Hartford where the attention of the police was drawn to the deaths of persons who dropped in the streets suffering terrible agony under mysterious but identical circumstances. Then followed the deaths in the Massachusetts cities.

Four men are under arrest in Hartford on charges of murder in connection with the sale of the beverage. Three others are held in Chicopee awaiting the report of the Medical Examiner. Most Victims Were Poles. Many of the victims in Chicopee were Poles, several were married. Those found alive were rushed to hospitals in Springfield. Ambulances were kept busy running back and forth between the two cities.

Physicians were called from all out-lying cities to give aid. Undertakers were kept busy removing the bodies. Hospitals here and at Hartford were crowded with the seriously ill from the fake whiskey which was retailed for 50 cents a drink and eight drinks were usually sufficient to cause death. It is estimated that enormous sums were made from the sale of the deadly concoction.

Reports have been received of four deaths in Chicago, two at Pittsburgh, and one in New York City, but whether these deaths are from the same concoction that caused the "whiskey horror" in the Connecticut Valley, is not known here.

BOOZE CAME FROM N. Y.

New York, Dec. 27.—The appalling increase in deaths from wood alcohol stirred the municipal and federal authorities into a brand new investigation in an effort to stamp out the traffic in illegal drinks.

Between December 1 and December 20 between 15 and 20 persons are known to have died in this city from drinking wood alcohol and the medical authorities believe that many more died from the same cause but that the cases were not properly diagnosed.

Agents of the Department of Justice said that they had learned that the wood alcohol "whiskey" which caused so many deaths in New England during Christmas celebrations was made in this city. More than a score of persons are known to have been killed by wood alcohol in Connecticut and Massachusetts while others are in the hospitals.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Instructions to arrest all vendors of "fake" and poisonous concoctions sold under the guise of intoxicating beverages were sent out today to Federal Revenue agents throughout the country by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The action is taken as a result of the large number of deaths, and many cases of blindness, that have resulted during the holiday season through the drinking of wood alcohol and other poisons which have been sold as liquors.

Officials of the Bureau stated that energetic efforts have been made since the Prohibition Enforcement Act went into effect to apprehend the dealers in "fake" mixtures as well as real liquors.

The Bureau will suggest to Congress as soon as it convenes again that legislation be granted that will make the purchase of wood alcohol more difficult than it is now.

Circle Theater

There will be rejoicing in the homes of all juvenile motion picture fans when they learn that their supreme favorite child actress, Baby Marie Osborne, will be appearing at the Circle theater tonight in her latest Pathé Program Feature, "The Little Diplomat."

The Danville Film Corporation with a keen realization of what a splendid role "Little Sambo" makes the "Little Mary Sunshine" gave the clever little pickaninny an excellent part in this production. Not satisfied to please only the children, Diango secured the services of such well known screen artists as Betty Compson, Jack Connolly, Al and Murdoch MacQuarrie, and many others to support their juvenile star in her latest offering.

"The Little Diplomat" is a story showing how "virtue is its own reward." Mrs. Bradley West in the goodness of her heart adopts a little French orphan girl, who reveals in her new-found freedom, far from her native battle-scarred France. When the opportunity presents itself Little Marie repays her guardian's kindness in a most practical manner, by radiating a spirit of happiness throughout the home and by bravely frustrating an audacious attempt on the part of a band of crooks to rob the safe of her war godmother's husband.

It is a pleasing little tale which is unfolded in the five reels of "The Little Diplomat"—a tale which will not only delight the children but will also tug at the heartstrings of their elders. The versatile little actress, Baby Marie Osborne, has a role which suits her admirably, and her pranks with Little Sambo are even more ludicrous and amusing than in any of her previous ventures.

REVOLT AT IRKUTSK.

But Washington Hears Kolchak Still Holds the City.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Social revolutionists are said to have started an uprising at Irkutsk, and on December 25, were in possession of the railroad station across the river from that city, according to State Department advices received today.

Admiral Kolchak still holds the city, it was said. Only a small train operated by Czech troops is operated across the river. The representatives of the American Red Cross who were working in the vicinity are reported safe. Representatives of the Entente at Irkutsk have not left the city.

IS ANCIENT GAME

Football One of Oldest Sports Known to Man.

As Played Today It Is Said to Be a Mild and Tame Exercise Compared With the Strenuous Original Form.

Football is considered a strenuous game, but the style of play in this generation is a mild and tame exercise as compared to the original forms of the sport, according to a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

The history of the ancient classic is described by J. R. Hildebrand in a communication to the society, which follows:

"Running, throwing, hitting and kicking are the fundamental muscular operations of America's characteristic sports, baseball, football, tennis and golf. The peoples of antiquity manifested all those instincts in cruder form.

"Luzon hillmen, the Polynesians and the Eskimo and Sumatra islanders had games played by kicking a ball, Greeks played it, and the Roman game, harpastum, derived its name from the Greek ἵστρον, which is evidence that carrying the ball was practiced by them. With shoes of hide, the medieval Italians played a game which seems the direct ancestor of the Anglo-Saxon college sport. Gaelic scholars point to a football game in Ireland before the time of Christ, and until comparatively recent times Shrove Tuesday was as distinctively an occasion for football as is our Thanksgiving today.

"In old England football was even rougher than most sports of those hardy times. James I thought it was 'meeter for lameing than making able theusers thereof.' Henry VIII and Elizabeth ruled against it. Edward II frowned upon it for its interference with archery and also because of the commotion it caused. In those times it was played in the city streets. A writer of the sixteenth century called it a 'devilish pastime' and charged it with inciting 'envy and sometimes brawling, murder and homicide.'

"Nevertheless, by the time of Charles II football had become fairly established at Cambridge. It was ever held in high esteem in Ireland. There, when all other sports were prohibited for archery's sake, 'only the great football' was exempt. Women joined with the men in playing it on Shrove Tuesdays. So many participated that few knew the whereabouts of the ball. An expedient which not so long ago aroused a furore in the American sporting world was adopted by a player who shook out the shavings with which the balls of those days were stuffed and carried it under his shirt to the goal.

"Abandoned as a general pastime because of its roughness, it was retained in colleges until, within the past half century, it sprang into renewed popularity in greatly modified form.

"The British carried football into Jerusalem, when they recovered the sacred city. Missionaries have taught it to heathen tribes.

"The reason why it has become a panacea of civilization and is so popular among college men of America was summarized by Howard S. Ellis, writing about the Syrian Protestant college at Beirut, in an article for the National Geographic Magazine. 'You will find the son of a prince playing football under the canopy of a peasant or the son of a cook. We believe in football there and we have 17 or 18 different football teams in college. The game develops the ability to receive a hard blow without showing the white feather or drawing a dagger. This means that when the men get out of college they will stand upon their feet as men.'

Farming by Machinery in Australia. As yet agriculture in Australia has not reached American standards in many districts. The advance in wages, however, is showing the necessity of resorting more freely to machinery. It is stated that more than 150 motor tractors have been sold to farmers in the eastern part of the Riverina, a fertile district on the southern border of New South Wales. Apart from the aspect of labor, buyers declare that there is a real economy in the use of the tractors. A single machine will do the work of ten horses, and, moreover, will do it well when the ground is so hard that horse teams would be able to do little more than scratch it. Of late fodder has been very dear and this is another reason for favoring machine plowing. The tractors are also used for cutting chaff and wood, and for dragging grain to market.

Fuel Yield of Irish Sogs.

The joint council of the executive professionals in Ireland recently adopted the following resolution: "That the bogs of Ireland are estimated to have an area of 8,000,000 acres, and to contain the equivalent of over 8,000,000,000 tons of coal; that the land is the basis of agricultural output, and fuel the basis of industrial output, and that therefore a determined effort should be made, as part of the policy of Irish reconstruction, to determine whether or not (a) this 8,000,000 acres is available for agriculture, and (b) this 8,000,000,000 tons of coal equivalent is available as fuel in competition with the substitution for coal."

FLEA RAISING PAYS, SAYS THE PROFESSOR

London, Dec. 27.—There's money in fleas, avers Professor Mark Northcote, of Hackney, flea specialist. By means of his trained flea circus, he's travelled four times around the globe and made his living.

The professor is short of fleas, just the common jumpy variety, but not dog or cat fleas. They're lazy. He's so short of them that he's advertising for good healthy fleas at 65 cents a dozen.

"I never had any difficulty in getting fleas in Australia," said Northcote. "When I ran short I just went to the nearest barn or where men sleep together, get a blanket and put it in the sun. In about five minutes out came the fleas and I'd put the biggest ones in bottles."

"What do you feed them on, Professor, mulberry leaves?" "No," came his answer, as he bared his right arm. "Myself."

On his arm were millions of little red spots. It looked as though he had scarlet fever from the wrist to the elbow, and a particularly bad attack at that.

"Once every other day, when they're not working I feed them," said the professor. "But when they're working they get two meals; one just after breakfast for one about suppertime for the evening show."

"And how long does it take to train a flea to perform, Professor? What are some of the difficulties, and how do you overcome them?" "Oh!" said he, "it takes three or four days to make them behave themselves, and it's very simple. A flea naturally jumps. And though it may help him over many a difficulty, it causes one for me, and I have to teach him to walk."

"So, for the first few days he goes into a little glass test tube, securely corked. He tries to get out and jumps to the top; he jumps again, falls down and hurts himself. Two or three days of this usually subdues him, and then he's ready to be harnessed."

"Now a flea is like an elephant; he has a trunk in front and a regular neck behind his neck you place a collar and to this fasten a piece of wire, fine as human

ALL SALOONS SHOULD HAVE BEEN CLOSED SAYS HOENTHAL

State Prohibition Chairman Thinks if Saloons Had Been Closed the Wood Alcohol Horror Would Not Have Occurred.

Manchester has evidently escaped a portion of the deadly concoction sent out from New York city to the New England states for "blind tiger" sales.

Chief-of-Police, Samuel Gordon said that no cases had been reported to the police and that the town was evidently free from the death dealing substitute.

"Such a condition as prevails in Connecticut and Massachusetts," says Mr. Hohenthal, "never came to pass in prohibition states. Cases where substitutes have been used have happened in the large cities, but only in a very limited way."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EVENING HERALD

Take a Look at This House

A home like this cost about $3,500 to build a few years ago. If you should build a house similar to this one today, the price would figure in the neighborhood of $7000. These figures we admit are correct. Now then—answer this question! Would you insure this house for $1,750, that cost $6,500? No, of course you would not—you would insure it for what it was worth.

Now, listen! The point is this. Is it not a greater risk to keep a house that is worth $7,000 insured for $3,500 or less, than it is to have a house worth $3,500 insured for $1,750? Think this over seriously—it applies to every property owner, and if you are a property owner it means you! Not everyone else but you. Protect your own interests by carrying enough fire insurance. Your furniture, store, stocks, etc., should be looked over and inventoried in the same way. You may be carrying $500 or $1,000 on furniture and clothing that is worth twice as much as it is insured for.
