MARYLAND MAN WEDDED TO HIS OWN DAUGHTER

Indictment of William Jones Unfolds Strange Tangle of Relationship.

DREAM BRINGS DISCOVERY

Girl's Grandmother Astounded When She Finds Out Circumstances of Marriage.

Baltimore, Nov. 24.—With the indictment here of William Jones, 51, on the charge of having married his own daughter and with being the father of her two sons, aged 9 and 4 years, there was unfolded one of the strangest tangles that has ever come to the notice of the local authorities. Detective Thomas Hogan, of Baltimore headquarters, left for Jacksonville, Fla., to bring Jones back to this city to stand trial.

Said He Was Stepfather
The indictment followed most unusual circumstances, revealed to states attorney Robert Leach by Mrs. Annabelle Jones, 27 years old. According to Mrs. Jones, when she was a child she lived at Cambridge, Md. When she was 15 years old her mother died. From that time on, she declares, her father's actions towards her changed. Some time later, the young woman avers, he told her he was not her real father but her stepfather. She believed him, Mrs. Jones said. In April 1911, they came to this city, shortly afterward, they were married at the home of a minister.

She then met Lee and Charles, who were the couple's children. Mrs. Jones said she had that time, Mrs. Jones declares, she had a dream in which she saw her wedding certificate as it really was, but next to Jones' name the word "father" appeared in large letters. She then communicated, Mrs. Jones declared, with Jones' mother, Mrs. Laura Jones, her grandmother, and mother-in-law, and was informed she says, that Jones was her real father and that her grandmother was astounded to learn that they had been married.

She told Jones of the circumstances, she said, and he gave her money to come to Baltimore from Jacksonville. Marriage license records here of April 13, 1911, show that a license was issued on that date to William Jones, 42 years old, widower, and Anna B. Freeman, 18 years old.

NO DECISION YET IN ALLINGHAM CASE

New Haven Coroner Has Not Yet Decided Whether Girl Killed by Trolley Was Thrown From Auto or Jumped.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 24.—Coroner Mix said today that he had received word from Watertown, New York, from the relatives of Frances Allingham, 22, who was run over by a trolley car in this city last Saturday night after she had been riding in an automobile with Henry Bannell and Fred C. O'Brien, of Wallingford, Conn., who had met her at a local cafe and restaurant and invited her out "for a good time." The coroner said that the Watertown relatives would probably claim the body. He declined to give their names.

The coroner is not yet ready to give his conclusions in the case. He has not yet decided whether the evidence shows that the young woman was thrown from the automobile to the trolley tracks or jumped from the machine. Bannell and O'Brien are still held, pending his decision.

James Conforts, who was released from jail today following the serving of a sentence for aggravated assault, and who was engaged to Miss Allingham and intended to claim the body, will not be given possession of the remains in view of the expressed intentions of the girl's relatives.

New York, Nov. 24.—The annex of the historic Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, where the late Henry Ward Beecher preached and where mementoes of the famous civil war character were kept, was swept by fire early today, with a loss estimated to be more than $70,000.

The fire started in a store-room, and many members of the congregation and three fire departments fought the blaze. Many Beecher relics, mementoes and documents were destroyed or damaged, while nine memorial windows—eight of them depicting the influence of Pilgrims upon American life—were wrecked. A hundred oil paintings were ruined, including one of Beecher himself, valued at $6,000.

In the church proper, the walls and ceilings were soaked by water and the pipes of the $100,000 organ filled with water, and the windows demolished by heat.

ATHENS PELTS GREEK PRINCES WITH FLOWERS

Returning Exiles Are Given an Enthusiastic Welcome by Capital.

AMERICAN WIFE SHARES

Athens, Nov. 24.—Prince Christopher and Andrew are the first of the exiled Greek princes to return home since former Premier Venizelos was put out of power by the monarchists in the general election.

When they arrived at the railway station, they were seized by enthusiastic friends and carried shoulder high to the street. A large crowd filled the streets. The princes were pelted with flowers, bulletins were decorated with flags and there was a procession with brass bands.

A member of the Rallis cabinet states that Constantine will soon return from Lucerne. Belief is growing in official circles that Great Britain will persuade France not to undertake drastic interference in Greek affairs when Constantine comes back.

Premier Rallis believes that there will be no international dispute over the return of Constantine.

"I hope for a successful result of our negotiations with the powers," said the Premier.

GULF GROWING STEADILY WIDER BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FRANCE

Relations Strained to a Degree Unequalled Since the War

French Statesmen and Writers Talk Plainly About Hostility Shown by England

—Bitter Attacks on Premier Lloyd George.

Paris, Nov. 24.—Despite reassuring official statements from both sides Anglo-French relations are again strained to a degree unequalled since the war and leading French statesmen and writers are making no attempt to conceal their feelings towards the English government.

The three chief issues in the estrangement of the two countries are German indemnity, the allied attitude towards Soviet Russia and the disposition of Turkish territory.

Former President Poincare, in an open letter declared that if England continues to urge France to further revisions of the Treaty of Versailles in favor of Germany, England herself should return the surrendered German fleet and the former German colonies.

M. Poincare's letter was addressed to an English editor, who had asked him to use his influence to obtain for Germany an amelioration of the treaty terms. The former president charged that the English are taking advantage of the election result, in support of the Sinn Fein.

Both the Matin and Echo de Paris have printed bitter attacks against Premier Lloyd George. Several prominent French journals have shown a spirit of retaliation by supporting the Sinn Fein.

THE "PRETTY BLONDE" IS STILL AT LARGE

Philadelphia Murder Mystery No Nearer Solution With Discovery of Stolen Automobile.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 24.—Early today the two men and the "pretty blonde" who left an automobile belonging to Henry T. Pierce, murdered Philadelphia business man, in a garage here, were still at large.

The car had been left at the garage to be repaired. When W. D. Plant, in charge of the garage, saw the license number, he notified the police. Both of the license plates had been bent double to prevent being read without close examination.

Plant says the driver of the automobile left it at the garage the previous night and asked that a new battery be installed, saying the car would be called for yesterday. Plant read the newspaper account of the Philadelphia murder. Description of the automobile and the license number tallied with the newspaper account, he said.

According to Plant, it is likely that the parties who occupied the car when it came to Wheeling became suspicious and probably left the city at once. There is no trace of them.

London, Nov. 24.—Former Premier H. H. Asquith, has given notice that he will move a resolution in the House of Commons this afternoon condemning the outrages against British army officers in Ireland.

Two persons died at Cork today from wounds received when a bomb was thrown in Patrick street. Sixteen persons were injured.

There was renewed activity by the British troops and Black and Tan policemen at Dublin throughout the night. Pedestrians were stopped in the streets and searches.

Chicago Pitcher in Hospital

"Hippo" Vaughn Knifed Dangerously by Father-in-law in Family Quarrel.

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 24.—James "Hippo" Vaughn, star left hander of the Chicago Cubs, is in a hospital here today suffering from severe knife wounds said to have been inflicted by his father-in-law during a quarrel in a saloon here. Dr. George D. Thompson, city physician, said today Vaughn's wounds are serious but probably will not be fatal.

The stabbing, it is said, was the outcome of recent domestic troubles in the Vaughn family. A suit for divorce filed by Mrs. Vaughn recently in which she charged the pitcher with cruelty and making false accusations against her of receiving attentions from other men was withdrawn yesterday.

OPEN AIR YOUNGSTERS HAVE PILGRIM FEAST

Sixteen Kiddies and Three "Indians" Enjoy Special Thanksgiving Dinner at North End.

A special Thanksgiving dinner was served at noon today to the 16 children attending the North End's new open air school.

There were two tables in the center of the room decorated in black and orange. The children were dressed as Pilgrims which reminded one of the Pilgrim's first Thanksgiving. But the children insisted that there must be a few Indians present, because the Pilgrims had invited neighboring Redskins to spend the day with them, so three of the boys represented Indians. These kiddies had a very pleasant time during the entire meal.

The menu was as follows: Chicken fricasse, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, and meal pudding with raisins. There was an abundance of oranges and apples in the center of each table and each child received a small favor.

The committee in charge of the Open Air School is about ready for business if they can only raise funds. At the present time it can take care of but 16 children. There are many more who need help and the committee hopes to see the funds grow in the future so that more can be accommodated. What the committee needs is the co-operation of the parents. If they would take more interest in the school and help the committee or form some sort of an organization, this Open Air School would surely be a success.

The Open Air School at the North End has been open about four weeks and the sixteen children who are attending, seem to enjoy their surroundings. When planning to open this school it was decided to furnish dinners for the children but owing to lack of funds, the children have had to go home to dinner. Each morning cocoa and crackers are served and in the afternoon, milk. The pupils, who can pay 10c a day, but of course this does not cover the cost of the food and the services.

A short while ago the Teachers' Association held an entertainment and was successful in raising $100 for the school.

At the present time the school is exhausted because of the cost of the equipment which was needed for the children and the school.

Even though their funds are exhausted, a Thanksgiving dinner was planned for these kiddies. Private donations and also generous sums from the teachers and superintendent made this possible, and this really was the first dinner served to these sixteen children.

DR. PARKHURST ON THANKSGIVING

New York Minister Deplores Falling Away from Ideals Through Congestion in Cities.

New York, Nov. 24.—"The nation ought to realize it is slipping off the old foundations—the individual homes and homesteads such as we had in New England—upon which our civilization and greatness has been built," said Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, New York's foremost minister in a Thanksgiving Day message obtained today by the International News Service.

Once a Home Affair. "Originally Thanksgiving Day was a domestic affair, a celebration in the home," Dr. Parkhurst said. "I look back 60 years—I am 78—and realize that the greatest influence upon my life has been that of my boyhood home—a house where every room had a history and where all had opportunity to develop individually in an atmosphere of simplicity, integrity and moral earnestness."

"That sort of influence had given its color to our national life, and I am thankful and we all ought to be thankful for it. It is still a power in America. It constitutes an ideal, based upon the home. People Massed in Cities. "But in our massing of people in cities, where individual homes in the old sense have become an impossibility, where people live stacked on top of one another in apartments, or crammed beside one another in rows of houses which all look alike, where children have only pavements to play upon, where the young are influenced by flashy dressed and heavily frescoed women—it is impossible to have the kind of home upon which we have drawn for the best that has come into our national life."

"Why, in Philadelphia, there are rows of houses which look so much alike even the dogs seek the wrong door steps. "This congestion of life, artificiality and lack of naturalness, is beginning to have its influence upon our country's morals; the thing is spreading. Women Unfit to Be Mothers. "Schools of women are seen on the streets unfit to be mothers. Yet they do become mothers and are their children's curse. "I recently asked a woman her daughter was progressing replied: "Oh, I'm too busy to bother about her." Her busy-ness consisted in social affairs. "We cannot develop the right kind of young manhood or young womanhood under congested conditions."

KNOX COMMENTS ON REPORT OF CABINET JOB

Washington, Nov. 24.—One of the first acts of Senator Philander C. Knox, when he reached the capital today, was to spike the report that he is already slated for the post of Secretary of State in the cabinet of President-elect Harding. "Anyone who says I contemplate it, or have any reason to contemplate it, is speaking entirely without authority."

Park Theater

The "Street Called Straight," a picturization of the novel by Basil King, has been made at the Goldwyn Studios and will be presented at the Park Theatre to night. It is the second picture which the Emment authors organization has made.

The story differs from that of the average film production in that its theme involves mental rather than physical complications. "The Street Called Straight" has a deep thought underlying it, and appeals to the intelligence of the spectator as well as to his emotions. The clearness with which the points of the theme are hammered home, and the subtle, convincing manner in which the significance of the situations is brought out, are due to Wallace Worsley who directed the production.

Technically, the picture is as close to perfection as modern motion picture art can make it. The sets represent perfectly the high station in life occupied by the characters; and the interior art decorations suggest the culture and refinement to be found in many old American families. Beautiful photographs by reveals many

HARDING INSPECTS THE CANAL AND ITS STAFF

Will Have Thanksgiving Dinner With President Porras of Panama.

WEATHER IS VERY HOT

Canal Zone Employees Have Asked a Conference With Senator Regarding Working Conditions.

Cristobal, Nov. 24.—Making his first inspection trip through the Panama Canal, President-elect Warren G. Harding, today greeted canal employees in overalls and high officials in spick and span white suits alike.

When several engineers and others with greasy hands, hesitated to shake hands, Senator Harding said: "that's all right, boys, I've had greasy hands myself," and proceeded to grip greetings all around.

The Harding party left Cristobal early today aboard a mine sweeper, travelling as far as the famous Gatun lock, where Gov. Harding of the canal zone was to join the party.

Senator Harding will disembark at the lock and proceed to Bilboa, where he will pay his respects to President Porras, of Panama, in a formal call.

Tonight, Senator Harding will have dinner with Governor Harding and other Americans in the canal zone, and the President-elect may make a brief speech.

The Harding party will remain at Ancon until Friday. On Thursday, the Senator plans to play golf in the morning and have dinner with the President of Panama; on Friday he will have another round of golf and in the afternoon inspect canal fortifications.

The tropical heat is not bothering the President-elect a bit, but Mrs. Harding says she would like it better, if it were not so hot. But she is standing up to the weather change very well.

Canal zone employees have asked a conference with Senator Harding regarding working conditions.

Other members of the executive committee of the Executive Council, including the Hon. James H. Doolittle, of New York, and the Hon. Charles McNary, of Oregon, will accompany the Senator.

The meeting opens at half-past ten with the reports of town and country work, and at two, in the afternoon, after adjournment for luncheon, with the address of Governor-elect Lake, who will be followed by Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson.

Those who are not able to attend are nevertheless urged to become members of the League and to send their names to Mrs. James W. Russell, 35 Bloomfield avenue, Hartford.

CONN. REPUBLICAN WOMEN GO TO HOLD BANQUET TUES.

Governor-elect Lake and Mrs. Roosevelt Robinson, Principal Speakers at Hotel Tarr.

The Connecticut League of Republican Women, of which Mrs. J. W. Alsop is chairman, is to hold its annual meeting in the ballroom of the Hotel Tarr in New Haven, on Tuesday, the 30th of November, and with an attractive program. Not only will it have the privilege of listening to speeches by Governor-elect Lake and by Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, whose political addresses at the Republican Convention and during the recent campaign have been of so high an order that so enthusiastic reception.

The Connecticut League, although little more than a year old, has been successful in enlisting the interest and focusing the efforts of many of the intelligent and progressive Republican women of the State. Its purpose is not only to strengthen the party but to inform its members concerning legislation, and to extend in all directions, such educational work as shall render women conversant with practical methods of utilizing their new advantages for the benefit of Republicans.

It is hoped that as a result of this meeting the organization will increase greatly in membership and all Republican women, who have at heart the welfare of the Republican Party in Connecticut and the growth in education of their fellow women voters, will wish to attend on November 30th, and become members. They are promised an interesting as well as an instructive evening and afternoon.

SILK MILL NEWS

Woman Entitled to Service Emblems In The Five to Ten Years Group

Any Errors Should Be Reported to the Employment Bureau—A Star or Jewel for Every Five Years—To Distribute Emblems During Christmas Week.

The second group of employees of Cheney Brothers who have been with the company more than five years and less than ten is published here-with. This group includes all of the women of the class and though every effort has been made to have the list correct there may be errors due to the indefiniteness of the old records. So if mistakes have been made, Mr. Lamb of the Employment Bureau will be pleased to see that they are corrected.

As explained in the Saturday issue of the Silk Mill News when the men of the five-ten year group were published, Cheney Brothers will present to every employee who has been in the service more than five years previous to September 1, 1920, a service emblem. On this emblem will be a star for every five years of service, except in the higher grades where jewels will take the place of stars. These emblems are to be distributed to those entitled to them during Christmas week.

BATICKS BADLY BATTERED BY PRISMATIC PRINTERS

Staye's Men Give Behrend's Colts an Awful Punishment—Arty Bendall Helps.

Fifty-five pins gave the Prismatics the Print Room such a lead over the Baticks that the latter had very little chance to show their backs. Behrend's almost managed to say yesterday about the last match between the two teams. Even O. Custer had no alibi. Behrend was not interested in bowling. But Capt. Staye had his line working fine and when asked what was the most striking feature about the game said that it was his own score. But Arthur Bendall rolled three scores over a hundred, the highest being 116 and the string 329.

The box scores follow:

Prismatic.
Staye	100 89 99—288
Gallagher	88 103 94—280
Steinberg	81 96 92—269
A. Bendall	112 116 101—329
Mallon	74 98 80—259
450 502 466—1418
Batick.
Behrend	102 83 103—288
E. Johnson	94 92 103—289
Hemingway	76 95 119—290
O. Custer	76 86 90—252

Silk Mill Ends

All departments of the mills will be closed tomorrow, Thanksgiving Day, and operations will be resumed Friday.

Mrs. Louise Frawley of the Weaving Mill Restaurant wants to thank the members of the Girls' Baseball team for the beautiful Boston fern and basket which she received from the girls as a token of appreciation for the work done by her at the girls' upper. Mrs. Frawley was delighted with the fern as well as with the spirit that prompted the gift.

Al Harrison of the Main Office objected to the use of the words "when the smoke cleared away" being used in connection with a recent pool battle, as described in the Silk Mill News. But as the game is played by shooting and where there is shooting there must be fire and where there is fire there is smoke, the phrase is not so far-fetched. Be more discreet, Al. Remember the time you fished at Coventry for three hours and never got a bite and then found your hook in the boat all the time.

About fifteen bowling girls met last night to arrange for a dance to be given by their league Friday evening at Cheney Hall. Almost two hundred tickets have been sold so a good crowd is assured. The music will be by the Tuxedo orchestra.

Informal card parties have been added to the bi-weekly amusements at Cheney Hall and the new idea has met with considerable approval.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, Nov. 24.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of five points on October 1 decline of 1 to 22 points on other months. There was not much feature to the trading early. Yesterday's big covering movement seemed to have eliminated most of the short interests and while Liverpool and New Orleans bought here the South was a fairly good seller. December showed the most weakness on the call because of notices on about 500 bales. Pressure increased after the start and prices held about 25 points under last night's close.

GIRLS TOLD TO REMAIN FAITHFUL TO ATHLETES

Dean Frederick Flickinger set all tongues wagging at Northwestern university as the result of a rather vigorous talk he made at chapel recently.

"You students are degenerating into 'pink tea hounds,' and what I want Northwestern to be is a fighting school," he declared.

"No football playing students should refrain from going out with girls. Those on the team who, because of training rules, can't go out with their sweethearts, resent seeing them go out with other students. They worry, and their playing falls off."

"Girls should refuse to go out with the 'pink tea hounds' during the football season."

PREPARING TO MAKE PARIS OLYMPIC CITY

Would Like to Have Big Meet Every Four Years.

Campaign Inaugurated by Sporting Papers to Prove That Moving About of Games in Different Countries is Wrong.

France is preparing to make Paris the Olympic city, where, every four years in a gigantic stadium, magnificent and permanent, athletes from all parts of the world will compete in the quadrennial Olympic games instead of taking place in various cities of Europe and America.

A press campaign by Paris sporting papers is being waged to "prove the moving about of the Olympic games from city to city and from country to country every four years is all wrong."

If the present system of allotting the Olympic games to cities and not to countries is maintained every capital of every state in the Union of the United States has a right to have its Olympic games as well as Antwerp, the newspapers argue.

The question of the awarding of the 1924 Olympic games should have been settled in Antwerp, but owing to the large number of cities claiming the honor it was decided to delay the solution of the problem until the Lausanne congress in June, 1921.

It is said to say that the proposed plan will not meet with the approval of the International Olympic committee, which is composed of representatives from all the nations of the world interested in athletics.

Paris would be an ideal place to hold the Olympic games, as the French are great lovers of athletics and turn out in large numbers for all sporting events, and they have the facilities for housing and feeding the visiting athletes and the thousands who would visit Paris to witness the games, but nevertheless it would be bad judgment to submit to the plea to hold these games in Paris instead of following the present plan.

Baron de Coubertin of France, the president of the International Olympic committee, is responsible in a large measure for the revival of the modern Olympic games, and the plan of holding the games in a different country every four years was his idea, and it is doubtful if there will ever be any change so long as he is at the head of the committee.

TARAL COMMENTS ON CHANGES IN RACING

Veteran Jockey of American Courses is Surprised.

Does Not Understand Why Riders Drive Mounts at Top Speed From Moment Barrier is Released 'Regardless of Distance.'

There have been few riders to possess the confidence of the public in the same degree as Fred Taral, who has recently returned to the United States to take up a permanent residence after many years of absence in Germany, and none is better qualified than the "Honest Dutchman" to comment on the change in the quality of the horsemanship on our courses since the period when he was one of a galaxy of riders that were conspicuous for their excellence.

The veteran was surprised to find that the practice of waiting with a horse appeared to have become a lost art in so far as the present-day jockey is concerned. After watching a day's sport at Jamaica, during which each rider in the six races was engaged in an effort to drive his mount at top speed from the moment the barrier was released, no matter what distance was to be covered, he remarked to some friends:

"I can't see why a boy shouldn't wait in second or third place when he has his horse in hand and is going easy. Making the pace is a handicap in any instance. Every jockey should study his fields the night before a race and he ought to know something of the characteristics of the horses opposed to him and their riders as well. He could thus map out a plan of action for the following day. This was my custom and I know that it was done by many other lads as well."

Polish Wrestler Wants to Win All of His Matches Decisively—After Championship.

Stanislaus Zbyszko, Polish heavyweight wrestler, who is determined to wrest the world's championship from Earl Caddock, or whoever may possess it when he meets the champion, is not content with just going along and outwrestling his opponent, a "worthy foe" as he puts it. decisively and in straight falls is what will establish him as a real serious contender for the championship.

BASEBALL ENJOYED ITS MOST PROSPEROUS YEAR

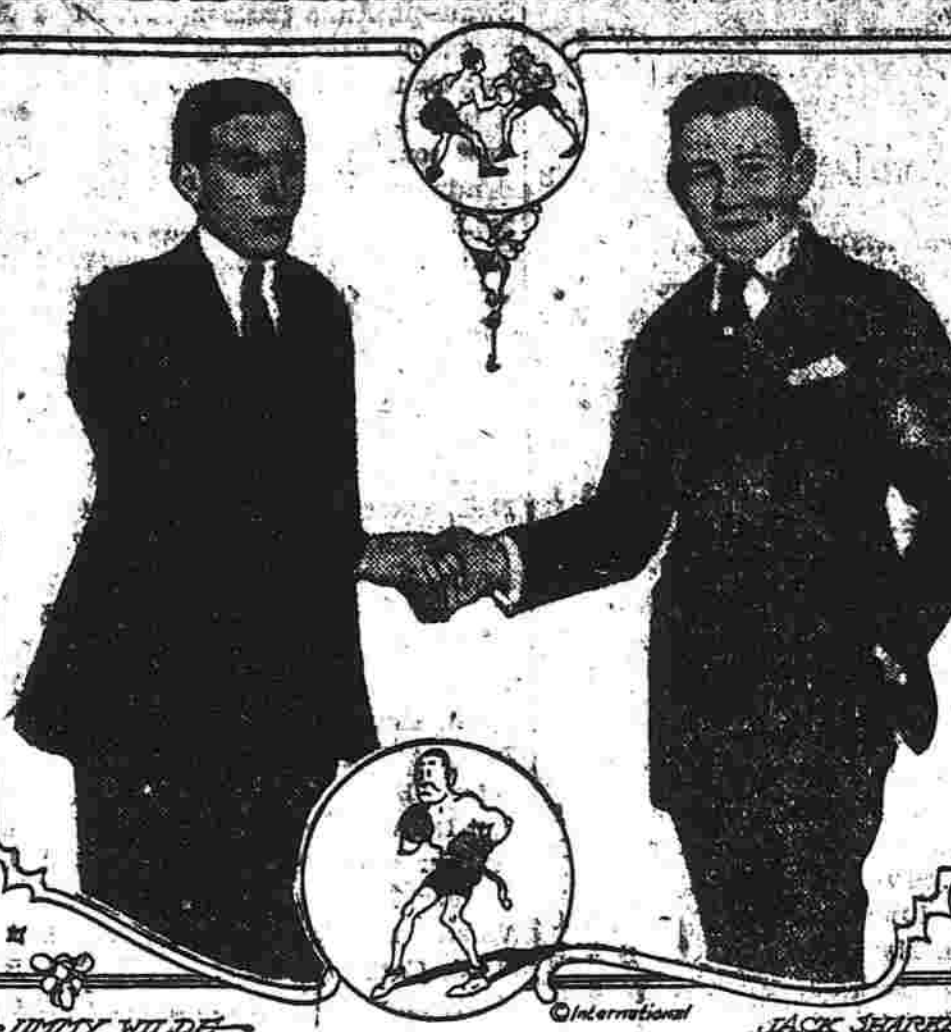

Baseball has closed the most prosperous year in its history. The estimated "cleanup" for the majors is in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. Not a club in either circuit lost money. Every one made huge profits—eyen the lowly Athletics and Phillies.

The tall-end clubs didn't draw so well at home, but when on the road, and pitted against outfits that were in the pennant fight, the crowds simply packed in. And the visiting teams gathered in 50 per cent of the "spoils."

The Yankees, with Babe Ruth as the magnet, are reported as having cleared close to $2,000,000 on the year—a profit far in excess of anything in the long annals of the game. The Indians garnered in the vicinity of $850,000, and the Dodgers grabbed over $750,000. The White Sox, packing the parks at home and abroad, are said to have netted Comiskey more than half a million.

And the Giants, tall-enders throughout the early months and pennant warriors later—earned nearly $1,000,000.

TRICKS IN RING CONDEMNED

Smart Boxers Get Away With It, but Ordinary Fighters Are Not Quite Smooth Enough.

Smart boxers can get away with ring tricks, but the ordinary run mess things up, according to Harry Donahue, Eastern lightweight. He says:

"Dirty tricks in the ring are the worst things a boxer can pull. He not only hurts himself, but he hurts the fight and the fight game. Some boxers are so smart they can get away with it, but the ordinary lads can't. Johnny Kilbane and Paddy McFarland were two of the trickiest men I ever boxed, but they had their work so polished that they very few discovered it. Kilbane had a habit of tripping an opponent and throwing him on his back. He did it on me and almost put me out. He had dazed me with a right to the chin and before I could recover balance he put his foot behind mine and pulled it from beneath me. I fell flat on my back, my head striking the floor with such force that I was almost completely stunned. McFarland's favorite trick was to stab with his finger ends, particularly on the wishbone. The first stab would not hurt, nor perhaps the second, but he would continue to stab, stab, stab, until the pain would become unendurable."

POLICE PROTECTION NEEDED

Umpires at Football Contests in Australia Find Their Task Difficult at Times.

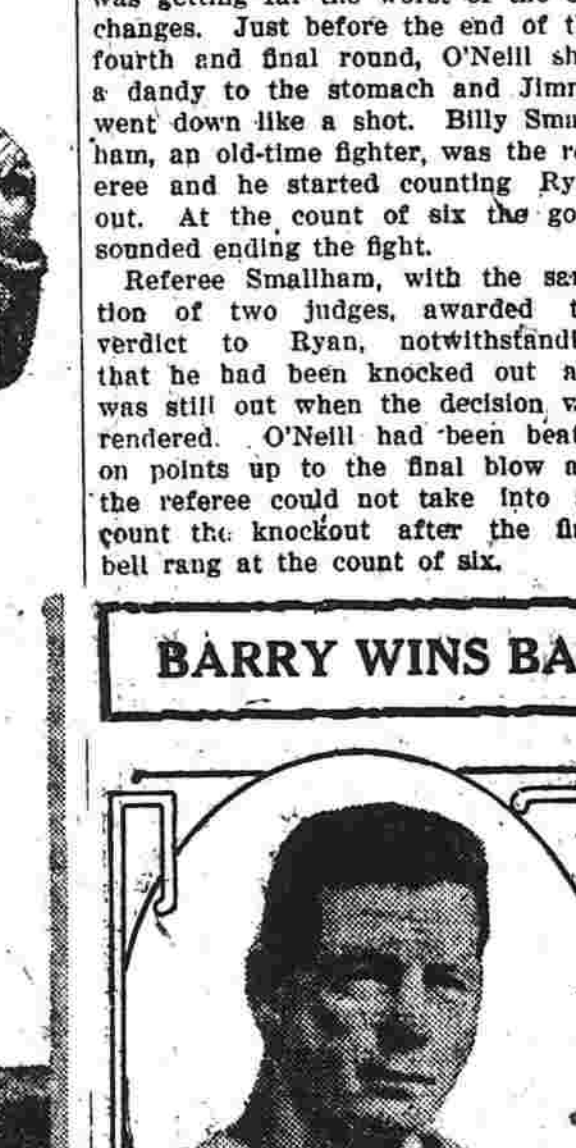

Football in Melbourne has its humorous side. The "Australian game" is deservedly popular, and in Victoria and South Australia it holds the field against rugby and association. But the excellence of the game itself does not presuppose a similar high standard of merit on the part of the gentle "bar-racker" or "roofer." Umpires have found their task more difficult on many occasions recently after a hard-fought game than during play, with the result that they recently demanded that six policemen escort an umpire off the football ground after a match, and two mounted police act as a further escort.

Clubs are springing up in big towns, and the girl in Jersey and shorts, is no longer going to be viewed only as an occasional "freak" match. The new movement promises to be the biggest development in girls' sports since hockey and golf became fitting to them.

It was the same cue that he has used ever since he was nine years old. When he first began to show ability as a player his father presented him with the cue, so that it might be said that Greenleaf practically learned to play with it.

BARRY WINS BACK SCULLING TITLE

Ernest Barry.

Ernest Barry, the challenger, scored a clean-cut victory on the Estabrook river in his contest with Alfred Petron of New South Wales for the world's sculling championship. Barry regained his title by his skill and superior power, and Australian sportsmen attached little or no importance to the fact that his shell touched that of Petron early in the race. Petron said that he had been disheartened with the decision of the umpire as he considered he had won on a foul.

Barry announces that he will now retire from the championship, as he has fulfilled his purpose of regaining the title from Petron. He is willing to allow younger men to succeed him.

EVE UNSSELL. Scenario Writer, Paramount Pictures.

PETER—I don't think it is so very surprising that so far American moving pictures have been popular in England. English audiences are not at all the stolid set of people you think. I returned recently from a thirteen months' stay abroad organizing the scenario department of the Famous Players Lasky studios in London and I found English and Scotch audiences even more demonstrative than Americans in applauding moving pictures.

As for their preferences, they do not want to see plays about society and the nobility, and they like American moving pictures better than their own, because their own industry stood still during the war and has not yet had time to recover. They like cowboy plays and melodramas, but a sentimental piece has to have a very good strong story back of it to win approval. Most of the celebrated authors and playwrights over there are already interested in writing for the screen, so there will be plenty of material to supply good scenarios for the picture that are being made now.

All the literary celebrities I met in London were struck by the great change that had come over the picture industry since the war.

Novels adapted to the screen have promised to write an original story for moving pictures. Sir James M. Barrie finds moving pictures give even greater scope for his fancies than the stage and his "Sentimental Tommy" is already being made over here. Arnold Bennett, Edward Knoblock and Henry Arthur Jones are all writing directly for Paramount Pictures. Even Bernard Shaw has come to the conclusion it is not impossible to have a good story in a motion picture.

With all these at the writing end, and with the experienced directors who have already gone to London to make motion pictures and the costly studios that have just been finished, English moving pictures in a little while may come to equal those we are making here. At any rate, as long as they have already begun turning out English films, we shall soon have the opportunity of seeing them and making comparisons.

EVE UNSSELL.

SURGERY WITHOUT PAIN.

Chloroform was not discovered by Sir James Simpson. It was the famous English surgeon, however, who sixteen years after the anesthetic was first discovered in 1831, began his experiments. He boldly tried chloroform on himself and two colleagues to test its effect, and the three were discovered one day lying on the floor, apparently dead. They recovered and compared notes, and so chloroform came into general surgical use.

CIVIL WAR AT AN END SAYS GEN. BRUSILOFF

Russian Cavalry Leader Sees No Menace in Campaign of Petlura.

WRANGLER HELPED POLES

Veteran of World War Declares that if Poland Again Attacks Russia She Will Dig Her Own Grave.

Moscow, Nov. 20.—By wireless to Berlin, Nov. 24.—"Civil war in Russia appears to be approaching its end as a result of the decisive victory of the Soviet army over General Wrangel on the Crimean front," said General Brusiloff today. General Brusiloff is one of the most famous cavalry generals of the old imperialistic regime in Russia. He led the final successful drive of the Russians against the Austro-Germans in the world war. After the collapse of the Kerensky government, General Brusiloff cast his lot with the Soviet and has been one of the military advisors of the peoples commissary for war. He lives in Moscow with his wife and nephew in a comfortable but plain home. His complete analysis of the present military situation in Russia follows:

Wrangler Helped the Poles

"General Wrangel could never under any circumstances by himself manage the Soviet government. His principal role was to aid the Poles. It was due to Wrangel that the Poles won their military successes. When the war with Poland was finished, Wrangel's part was finished also. He was then abandoned by France. "Wrangel managed to weaken our front against Poland because we had to concentrate for protection in south Russia.

"Even if Wrangel's intentions had been honest he could never have done anything for Russia. I pity very much the officers who were misled by him. All they did was to give more territory to Poland and spoil much blood on both sides.

General Brusiloff was told that the latest campaign against the front was that of the best troops of the Soviet army were slaughtered in one day's fighting while the Reds were storming Wrangel's defenses at Perekop at the Northern end of the Crimean Peninsula.

"While I did not see the battlefield, I knew the positions could not be taken without heavy loss of life," said General Brusiloff. "It was inevitable because of the geographical positions of the isthmus as well as the strength of the fortifications which had to be reached before Crimea could be penetrated."

General Brusiloff was asked if he thought that the anti-Bolshevik forces under General Petlura and General Balachovitch could menace the security of the Soviets. The veteran smiled, as he replied:

"The first law of a successful general is to have an army, so far as I know there is no army left to fight against the Red army. As for Petlura, I know him slightly. He was never a military man. He was connected solely with the Zemstvos."

"Do you think Poland will again go to war against Soviet Russia?" General Brusiloff was asked.

Poland Will Dig Own Grave

"Great Britain and France want a strong Poland, but if the Poles are clever they will realize that they are strong enough," replied the general. "They have now taken from Soviet Russia everything they will ever be able to take. "If they fight Russia again they will dig their own graves." As the correspondent was leaving, Madame Brusiloff remarked how much her husband had always been against intervention and civil war. "Yes, the report was printed abroad that I was not with the Soviets, while the story was circulated in Poland that I had been shot for the failure of the offensive against Poland," interrupted General Brusiloff.

"My husband was not even chief of staff and was not responsible for the operations against the Poles," said Madame Brusiloff. "He offered himself for that position, but they selected somebody else. At present, he is serving on the Soviet supreme war council."

Brusiloff's only son, an officer in the Red army, was captured by General Denikin's troops last year and executed.

Moscow newspapers continue to print long accounts of the final battles on the Crimean front. One headline will serve to give the tenor of the articles: "With their own bodies have the workers and peasants broken down the defenses of Wrangel."

Major-Army and Navy Game For Tomorrow Called Off

North End Team Unable to Get Team in Shape—To Play Next Sunday—No Football Here Tomorrow Except Soccer Game in Morning.

The foot ball game between the Army and Navy and the Majors will not be played on Thanksgiving morning. It has been postponed until next Sunday. The Majors were unable to get their team in shape for tomorrow.

Manager Chambers won the toss and the game will be played at Mt. Lebo at 2:30 o'clock. "Mull" McCarthy will referee, assisted by "Sammy" Massey as umpire. George Tenzel will act as head linesman.

The Majors will have "Jim" Dwyer in their line-up for Sunday's game. He is now living at Derby, Conn. and is on the police force of that city. Jim has been with a north end team for years trying to secure a win over the team from the south end. He is coming back again this year and hopes to be on the winning side.

The other foot ball teams will play out of town so that Manchester will not have any gridiron battles over the Holiday. The Atlas will play in Unionville in the afternoon. The Eagles will journey to Middletown and play the team which beat them 6 to 0 a few weeks ago. A large number of fans from Manchester will witness the game between the Rambler-Tigers and All-Hartford to morrow afternoon.

Worried With $50,000 a Year

Charlie Chaplin's Divorced Wife Doesn't Know How She Can Manage.

New York, Nov. 24.—Mildred Harris, motion picture actress and divorced wife of Charlie Chaplin, is worried and she scarcely knows how she's going to get along on $50,000 a year during the next year.

"If I can manage it next year, I'll be all right," she said. "For then I shall receive a divorce settlement of $250,000." "I'm entitled to half the income from Charlie's last four pictures, which would be $465,000," she said, "but I've consented to take $250,000 and call it square."

Twining a platinum necklace around a ring-decked finger, Miss Harris, in figuring how she was going to "get by" on a mere $50,000 next year, admitted she intended doing a little shopping. "There's a car I absolutely must have," she pouted, "and a dinner ring and a set of furs and a few simple frocks."

She asserted she did not plan to use the name Chaplin. "If I thought Charlie objected to my using his name, I would do it to spite him," she said. "It was my wish, not his, that I drop the name."

DUBLIN 'HERMETICALLY SEALED' TO-DAY

London, Nov. 24.—The stars say Sinn Fein documents captured Sunday and since contain boasts that outrages were contemplated in London and Manchester. Dublin was "hermetically sealed" today while a raid-up of the archives of the week-end murders was in progress.

ENOUGH ARTILLERY TO EQUIP A LARGE ARMY

Shortage of Men is Chief Obstacle in Betterment of Service.

ENLISTMENT VERY SLOW

Many Regiments Have Little More Than Strength of Batteries According to Annual Report.

Washington, Nov. 24.—For the first time in half a century, the United States has on hand sufficient stocks of artillery, left over from the war, to equip a large sized army, according to the annual report of Major General William J. Snow, chief of field artillery, to the Secretary of War, made public today.

"Should war unfortunately break out in the next few years," said General Snow, "we should be spared the spectacle of artillery drilling with improvised wooden guns, home made telephones, rope harness and similar expedients which characterized the first year of the present war."

Shortage of Men

General Snow reviews the year's activity of the field artillery as a combination of a great deal of work with small visible results. At no time during the year, he says, have there been sufficient regular officers to properly carry on training of troops, and recruiting-enlisted men has been slow and difficult. Financial inducements in civil life and unsettled conditions in the army were given as the main causes for resignations of officers and lack of reenlistments of enlisted men. The result was that during the entire year, many regiments have remained at little more than the strength of batteries.

Mules Better Than Horses

During the year four light regiments have been motorized for experimental purposes. Although a thorough test of the experiment could not be made due to the shortage of enlisted men, considerable data has been accumulated and the experiment will be continued until sufficient information has been obtained to justify conclusions as to the substitution of motors for horses throughout the field artillery. One battery of artillery has been equipped with mules instead of horses on the showing of statistics that these animals lost through sickness and injuries during the world about one-tenth of the number of horses lost.

ROB PINOCHIE PLAYERS OF $18,000.

Pittsburg, Nov. 24.—Four men were playing pinochie in the office of Dr. Joseph Kramer, in a downtown building shortly before midnight, when two masked robbers entered, bound the players, robbed them of $18,000 and escaped. Morris Stein a Detroit salesman was relieved of $12,000.

U. S. GOODS POPULAR.

Washington.—The popularity of American goods in Norway is described in a report to the Department of Commerce by Trade Commissioner Neils A. Bengtson, which says that American automobiles and trucks are so predominant that they give a distinct American touch to street traffic in many cities.

ARMY MULE FOILED AT VERDUN BROUGHT HOME

Horn Amid Galling Shells, She Went to the Division and Back of War Now in Texas.

"Born on the battlefield"—this is the sobriquet proudly worn by Mlle. Verdun, probably the most aristocratic equine in the United States, and only an Army mule.

No recruit is full-fledged in the 15th Field Artillery, now in Texas, until he is permitted to groom and mascot—introducing you to Mlle. Verdun, gold shiner from France.

She was foaled on April 18, 1918, on the red and bloody slopes of Verdun, just four hours after her dam had finished hauling shells for Battery E, 15th Field Artillery, Second Division, she being a wheel mare in that crackjack battery of the famous "Indian Head" Division.

Mlle. Verdun first saw the light of day, or rather night, on this fateful globe of ours at 3 a. m., when the artillery fire was at its height. She scorned to die of fright, but thrived, and a few days later the battery marched ten miles, and the new-born mascot with it, under her own power. Before she was a month old she had hiked another thirty miles in two days, and not a major officer did the Second Division pull off that Mlle. Verdun was not in the thick of it. For good measure she hiked a hundred miles to the Rhine, keeping watch with the rest of the Army of Occupation.

"How are you going to get her home?" asked many a first-class private of the vet, and the vet passed the buck to the quartermaster. An ironbound ukase had gone out that no animals or such were to go back to the United States, even if they were regimental mascots.

"Oh, very well," said the boys of Battery E. "We haven't fought in France two years for nothing." And behold, Mlle. Verdun, mysteriously missing for many a day, bloomed forth again at quarantine on this side of the Atlantic, too late to be sent back. There a relentless veterinary officer thrust her into quarantine, but now she is free, and queen of all she surveys, at Camp Travis, San Antonio, Texas, where they are now recruiting the famous Second up to full strength again.

Mlle. Verdun was the only child of a millionaire family she could not be more groomed and maintained, petted and fed than she is. To a man the veterans of the 15th Field Artillery down at lively San Antonio, where the only shell fire one hears is the safe and easy practice at the targets under summer suns in winter, have sworn to make her lines fall in the pleasantest possible places.

A FAMILY WHICH DESPISES MILLIONS

Hamilton Garland Follows in Footsteps of Brother Who Has Refused Million Dollar Legacy.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 23.—Following in the altruistic footsteps of his brother, Charles Garland, who refused his million dollar share of his father's estate, Hamilton Garland, a sophomore at Harvard, one of the late James A. Garland's three sons, will decline to accept his legacy when he becomes of age.

"In my opinion, my brother was right when he refused his share," Hamilton Garland Garland said today, "and when I reach my majority next year I will do the same thing. No reason exists why I should take an advantage over my fellow man. As I have never done anything to warrant the money, I shall not accept it."

"All men deserve an equal opportunity in life and as long as the laws of inheritance exist, such a condition of equality cannot exist. Simple happiness for myself and for my fellow-man is my chief aim in life."

HARDING TO KEEP BUSY IN CONGRESS. Washington, Nov. 24.—President-elect Warren G. Harding's intention to spend a large part of his time in Washington after Congress convenes, December sixth, is disclosed by Harry W. Daugherty, his confidential adviser, who was regarded by Republicans and Democratic leaders here today as foreshadowing unusual political developments at the national capital during the next three months. Mr. Harding, who is due to arrive at Newport News, Va., from the Panama Zone on December 4, will, according to Daugherty, spend at least one day in Washington, probably on or about the day Congress reconvenes, before going back to his "home town" of Marion. WOMAN JUMPS 50 FEET TO HER DEATH. Stoneham, Mass., Nov. 24.—Clumping out of a window of a sun parlor on the roof of the N. E. sanatorium, Miss Margaret Madagan, 36, a wealthy Cohoes, N. Y., woman scaled a 5-foot fence, stood on the ledge of the roof and leaped fifty feet to the ground. Her legs were broken, her skull fractured and there were other injuries. She died in the sanatorium operating room. The sensational suicide occurred late Monday but did not become known until today. STATE MATRONS. HEALTH BOARD READY TO AID MILK PRODUCER

Anxious to Have State Pay More for Cows With Tuberculosis.

TO SAFEGUARD CHILDREN

Tuberculin Test Absolute—Farmer Not Responsible for Infected Animals—Some Misunderstanding Cleared Up.

The local board of health is perturbed over a newspaper account of its efforts to have cows furnishing milk to Manchester undergo a tuberculin test.
An official in speaking of the matter today said that the account was not based on a foundation of fact.
"In the first place," he said, "the article stated that the board of health favors a by-law making it compulsory for all producers to have their cows tested. That is not so. We are trying to arouse interest in this matter so that the farmers will get more adequate compensation from the state if their cows are found to have tuberculosis and have to be slaughtered."
"Next, the article says that it is impossible to ascertain positively whether a cow has tuberculosis. That statement never came from a person who had made even a careless study of the question. All authorities agree that the tuberculin test is an absolute test."
"Next the article goes on to say that William J. Maguire volunteered to have his cows tested. Many of his best cows were killed because they were adjudged tubercular. Then when the post mortem was held there were found no signs of tuberculosis or as the article says: 'Not the slightest indication.'"
"I have here the official records of that case and they are open for anyone who wishes to read them. The record is dated June 19, 1919. Some of the cows were killed on June 11 and some on June 16. As you can see by these records thirteen of the cows were found tubercular at the post mortem just as the tests developed. Two were allowed to live with the understanding that if anyone was to drink the milk from these cows he must be notified that the cows had tuberculosis. So much for the records which speak for themselves."
The official then added that he was certain that neither the reporter who wrote the article nor the dairyman who handled the milk nor the milk producer would knowingly hand his children milk to drink that came from a cow suffering from tuberculosis. And he concluded by stating that this was so self evident that there was no use arguing the matter.
Another member of the local board of health was interviewed on the matter. He said:
"The whole matter is a health precaution. For years the farmers of Connecticut have been imposed upon by dealers in other states. Connecticut has become a dumping ground for tuberculosis cows. The farmers are not to blame. They are not responsible for the this state of affairs. The federal government considers a diseased cow a menace to the public health and condemns it. It thinks but of the menace and forgets entirely the money that the farmer has paid for that cow and how much it has cost him to keep it."
"We realize this. We want to be fair to the producer and you will find out that the producer himself does not want diseased cows but it is a matter of dollars and cents to him and I don't blame him."
"As an example of this feeling among the milk producers themselves I will state that at our meeting last week at the Rec., there were no objections made to our plan after it had been explained, and four farmers handed in applications to have their cows tested."
"This whole agitation is one to have the next Legislature pass laws that will more adequately compensate a farmer for his cows if they have to be slaughtered."
"Surely no one has any objection to that and on the other hand no citizen has any objection to anyone trying to safeguard the lives of little children. So there you have the whole aim of the local board of health in the matter of a milk supply for Manchester."
