LLOYD GEORGE WANTS EXPLANATION FROM COLLINS ON COALITION

British Not Satisfied that Agreement with De Valera Does Not Violate or Evade the Anglo-Irish Peace Treaty.

London, May 27.—Premier Lloyd George presided this afternoon at a meeting of representatives of the British and Irish Free State governments to get a first explanation of the relationship of the Collins-De Valera coalition agreement to the Anglo-Irish peace treaty. In addition to the premier the others present were Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill and Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, the latter two being representatives of the Irish Free State. Arrangements were made for a full meeting of the signatories to the Anglo-Irish treaty later in the day.

London, May 27.—Premier Lloyd George today took a hand in Anglo-Irish negotiations to determine if the Collins-De Valera coalition agreement violates the Anglo-Irish peace treaty.

The signatories to the treaty met at 10 Downing street to discuss the threatened breach between England and the Irish Free State in all its aspects.

Hugh Kennedy, chief legal adviser to the Irish provisional government, was on hand to supply an opinion on behalf of his clients that the coalition agreement does not evade the treaty.

Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, and his Irish colleagues appeared to be more cheerful over the outcome than the English. The circumstance resulted chiefly from an article in "The Republic of Ireland," the organ of the Irish Republicans, which stated that the coalition agreement provides for a continuance of the Dail and not a parliament of the Free State as proposed by the Anglo-Irish peace treaty.

Question of Oath.

Also, the issue is raised whether the newly elected members of the Dublin Parliament (in the forthcoming election) shall take oath to Britain or the Irish Republic. Members of the Irish provisional government have been trying to side step this problem by contending that no oath at all is necessary.

Premier Lloyd George is anxious to get a definite statement from Michael Collins (leading figure in the Irish provisional government) as to what he meant when he recently said that he preferred the coalition agreement to the Anglo-Irish treaty if necessary to make a choice for the peace of Ireland. That was the crux of the situation, the premier believed and he told his colleagues he desired a frank explanation on Collins's part.

In the meantime, Eamonn De Val-

RECORD TRANSATLANTIC SHIPMENT OF GOODS

London, May 27.—Foodstuffs which had been shipped from Chicago last Friday were sold and consumed in London today.

The White Star liner Majestic, which left New York last Saturday to make a record freight carrying run to England, docked at Southampton at 3 o'clock this morning. She carried a cargo of provisions which had been shipped from Chicago to New York by special train. These goods were immediately unloaded and pushed to London by another special freight. They were immediately sold here. This is the fastest trans-Atlantic shipment of foodstuffs on record.

era, head of the Republicans, who is in Dublin, has remained silent.

Battle in Dublin.

Dublin, May 27.—While representatives of the Irish Free State were conferring in London with the English government today a street battle broke out here in which an English soldier was killed. Two soldiers were attacked by gunmen. One of them fell at the first volley. Police rushed to the aid of the other soldier and in the battle which followed a woman and child were shot.

London, May 27.—Michael Collins arrived from Dublin during the morning, bringing with him a mass of documents for use in the conference. He immediately went to the Colonial Office for a conference with Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill.

FARMER STABS WIFE AND FOUR CHILDREN

Mother and One Child Expected to Die After Attack by Mentally Deranged Fall River Man.

Fall River, Mass., May 27.—Valenty Suley, also known as Suley, a farmer, living in Westport, a small town about five miles from here today stabbed his wife and four children, set fire to their home and fled into the woods. The woman and her children were saved from the fire by neighbors and taken to the city hospital here. The mother and one child are expected to die and the other three children are badly injured.

Suley had been acting strangely of late and it is believed he was mentally deranged.

Two deputies at Northwestport are searching the woods for the man.

The children of the Green school gave the operetta "Mother Goose's Garden Party" before a large audience last evening. The acting was splendid and the costumes made by the Parent's-Teachers' Association were beautiful. Much credit is due the teachers for training the children.

Of the entire graduating class of Wesleyan University this year only seven expect to enter the ministry.

JAZZ THE NATURAL ANTHEM OF AMERICA

Noted Musician Warns that a Nation is Just as Great as Its Music.

New York, May 27.—"Jazz, reeking of crime and sexual appeal, is rapidly becoming the national anthem of America," Willem Van De Wall, noted musician, declared today. He is co-operating with various institutions to discover just what effect music has upon delinquency, insanity and crime.

"A nation is just as great as its music," explained Van De Wall. "Heaven pity America if her students of art and morals are to be judged by the weird synopses of the 'Coontown Blues'—sample of present popular taste.

"Jazz music in its various forms covers up a multitude of sins and is the greatest advertisement for haunts of vice and crime.

"My experiments with delinquency, insanity and crime all show that jazz brings out the worst in such people—music of Rubenstein, Wagner, and other composers, brings out their best side.

"The only music publishers who are making any money at present are the ones who feature the weird and wildest sorts of jazz. The youth of the land are getting it for a daily diet and know it better than the Star Spangled Banner of America."

"Our better class of musicians are becoming extinct. Jazz originated among the lowest forms of civilization," Van De Wall asserted.

"We've pursued upon being the highest form of civilization yet seen to such music.

"We need a musical house cleaning from composer to consumer. It is worse than the movie situation."

RUMORED MARRIAGE IN BRITISH ROYALTY

Gossip Suggests Union of Duke of York and Lady Mary Cambridge.

London, May 27.—Rumors of another marriage in the British royal family at an early date were revived today by the fact that Lady Mary Cambridge has been the guest of King George and Queen Mary at Althorp last week. She frequently rode out with the king and the Duke of York, younger brother of the Prince of Wales.

Gossips had already selected Lady Mary as the possible bride of the Prince of Wales but intimate friends of the royal family were quick to deny any such possibility on the ground that she is the prince's first cousin. While the Duke of York also is cousin of Lady Mary the opinion evidently is maintained that while it might be all right for one of the younger brothers to marry a relative, it would not do for the first heir to the throne to do so.

LIQUOR BATTLE STAGED IN BALTIMORE

Bootleggers Supported by Crowd of 1500 Sympathizers.

Baltimore, May 27.—Poor market manhood alone prevented a possible heavy casualty toll, when prohibition agents and police on the one side and bootleggers and a crowd of 1,500 sympathizers on the other, exchanged a score of shots in a congested district during a raid here early today.

An "it was" one alleged bootlegger was shot through the face and is in a serious condition today. A large quantity of illicit liquor was seized. Four men were arrested earlier during a raid on a store, by the same prohibition agents.

Decision Based on Belief that Russia Will Employ Obstructionist Tactics that Will Prevent Definite Decisions.

Pris, May 27.—The first blow to Lloyd George's hopes for full success at the Russian conference at the Hague fell today when it became virtually certain that France will not participate in the meeting.

From a source close to Premier Poincare it was learned that, after communicating with Washington, the French premier exerted all his influence upon the French cabinet that France should follow the lead of the United States and refrain from participation in the Hague meeting.

However, even if France does remain away from the Hague conference, this will not prevent the meeting from being held. When arrangements were made for the conference the condition was introduced that the absence of one power would not prevent the others from taking part.

Premier Poincare and minister of justice Barthou are understood to hold the opinion that Russia will employ obstructionist tactics in the Hague meeting which would prevent definite decisions.

Premier Poincare is going to London on June 17 to assist in the celebration of Verdun Day. It is likely that Premier Lloyd George will be in London at the same time, as it has been announced that he will be represented by a deputy at the Russian conference. It would be too late, however, for a personal appeal on the part of the British prime minister to have France change her attitude regarding the Hague, as it opens on June fifteenth.

Washington, May 27.—In the opinion of officials here today the unwillingness of France to take part in the Hague conference has made it increasingly apparent that the policy pursued by the Soviet delegation at Geneva must be reversed or changed materially if other powers are to cooperate effectively in Russian reconstruction.

Premier Poincare's declaration that the French government should

The amount was fixed at $50,000, which his attorneys said was "easy". They hurried back to White Plains where the wealthy young baker is "detained" in the county jail armed with Justice Seeger's order. It was expected he would be released immediately.

The amount of bail was fixed by mutual agreement on the part of Ward's attorneys and district attorney Westchester County. The proceedings were brief and the Westchester county authorities interposed no objections to the release of the prisoner.

spending two nights in the custody of the sheriff at White Plains jail. Defeated in their efforts to obtain his release on a writ of habeas corpus his legal array today went to Newburgh to appeal to supreme court justice Seeger for his release on bail. It was indicated that sheriff Werner and prosecutor Weeks of Westchester County would not oppose the move if the bond was fixed high enough.
"I am going to ask that the bail be almost prohibitive," said district attorney Weeks. "This is in view of the fact that Ward tried to kill himself a short time ago by drinking iodine. Also I don't believe his story."

SILK MILL NEWS GIRLS OF SERVICE DEPT. HOLD SUCCESSFUL OUTING

Eighteen of Them Go to Crystal Lake and Have Time of Their Lives—Details of the Affair.

The question aroused among the members of the Service Department during the last few days is: "What Makes a Successful Outing?" The men attempted to prove a week ago that the elements of a successful outing were men, a tug and cats. However, in order of their importance, however, the Service Department girls proved conclusively and entirely to their satisfaction that the first two elements are the least important. Their answer to the popular question is that the presence of girls and cats are all that is necessary to assure the success of an outing.
There is no question in the minds of the eighteen girls of the Service Department that no other outing can quite compare with the one held last evening at Crystal Lake. The fact that girls could handle every responsibility of such an affair, from the driving of cars, making the fire, launching the canoe and arriving safely, waving two bottles threateningly over their heads, and the little interruption of hitting the smooth, hard road was soon made up for. It is an interesting coincidence that the rattling of the same bottles on the return trip home aroused the suspicions of the sleepy policeman in North Manchester.

The supper was the delight of the evening. Under Mrs. Patnaude's supervision a table was soon set on the porch overlooking the lake, and it was loaded with the most tempting food. Mrs. Patnaude literally waved her magic wand and the result was a dish of wonderful French fried potatoes, chicken salad, sandwiches of all kinds, pickles and olives, and lastly, strawberry shortcake that can only be described as "the kind you read about." The only incident that disturbed contentment of every girl was when the question was aroused by Mrs. Donaghy as to who ate her tomato and lettuce sandwich. No one as yet has pleaded guilty, so the mystery of the disappearance of that delicious sandwich is not solved.
The girls experienced the joys of paddling a canoe again while others took a plunge in the lake. Another mystery connected with the outing was the fact that the female cat are due to Beatrice Green for the outing possible by offering her cottage to the girls.
The Service Department girls hereby suggest that if this idea of a successful outing is wrong, that the next time the men invite the girls on their outing and the proof will be final that girls are necessary to the success of any party.

JUNIOR MILL LEAGUE

Throwing and Weaving Mills Tied For First Place—Teams will Play Monday

The Throwing Mill is scheduled to play the fast Weaving Mill team Tuesday, Memorial Day, in the third game of the Junior league. But as the mills will not be working on that day, it will be necessary to play the game on Monday. No definite date has been agreed upon by the league officials.
It appears to the writer that the race for the Junior league championship will be between the Throwing Mill wrecking crew and the Weaving Mill. Both teams can hit when their men runs, which they demonstrated to their opponents this week. The Velvet and Ribbow mill have a good team and they are out to do their best. The Robbottites lost to the Throwers Tuesday by the big score of 27 to 14. The Velvet team lost to the Weavers 11 to 5 Wednesday. Each game was featured by heavy hitting in the pinches by the victors.
There is a great deal of comment going around the mills over the outcome of this battle next week. Some of the Weaving fans have offered a five to one bet that the Weavers will win. It is said that the bobbin slingers took up many of these bets, in particular betting on the wrecking crew to come through in the fourth or fifth inning.

FRANCE WONT GO TO HAGUE

not be represented at the Hague is taken to indicate his agreement with the view of President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes that nothing fruitful could come of the second conference on Russian affairs.
In connection with the newly appointed French attitude toward the Hague meeting, it was pointed out, however, that for a time it looked like France was not to be represented at Genoa, but finally went in with the other powers despite her earlier objections to meeting the Russians on an equal footing. It was held not improbable that Poincare's present adherence to the American view toward Russia would change within the next few weeks so as to permit the French government to resume the Russian negotiations in June.
News of Poincare's coolness toward the Hague was received with satisfaction by officials here. They took the new French policy as indicating an inclination among European governments to recognize, to some extent, at least, the principles laid down by the United States in the American note turning down the Hague invitation.
Secretary Hughes pointed out then his government could not take part in the Second European conference until the Soviet delegates agreed to a plan of reconstruction which embodied basic principles for the restoration of productivity in Russia and the establishment of a sound basis of credit.
President Harding is still eager to co-operate with other powers in helping Russia and although it has been declared officially that Secretary Hughes' last note did not close the doors to American participation, it was held today that the apathy of France toward the Hague conference was another reason for the United States to stay out.

GREENWICH VILLAGERS ALL BUNK

Southern Bohemian Village—its all Bohemian courses on the edge of Bohemia.

New York, May 27.—Greenwich Village—its all Bohemian courses on the edge of Bohemia, today, the bobbed haired Mimí of the so-called "Latin Quarter," which she helped to make famous, of Bohemian.
Half a dozen Bohemians, "The Village" began to move more than passing notice of the monk Murgorian, who had fled from the East River, her locks, slipped and she fell into the water, threw a Russian smoke bomb, her shoulders and began to peddle cigarettes to post, painter and potentate alike who made the pilgrimage below Fourteenth street.
Sonia sold cigarettes and atmosphere. Each pair of pills purchased from her carried a brief dissertation on the Russian moderns, with most references to Freudian complexes thrown in for good measure.
Many a foreign visitor who went slumming stopped his taxi to purchase smokes from the gypsy-like vender, and was met with this greeting: "Cigarettes? Ah yes. By the way, have you read Gorki's latest manifesto? No? Then you should. And I also would recommend Andrejev."
In those days Sonia—whose last name has never been revealed—was the light of the village.
No party at the "Purple Poodle" tea-room, or the "Bisaydip" or the "Greasy Vest" was complete without Sonia being present to sell cigarettes to spinsters seeking a thrill, and Sonia always lectured a bit on symbolism and futurism in art and literature.

Sonia was Greenwich Village. She made so much money peddling pills that she opened an "artistic" bookshop, where the "intellectuals" of four continents and seven seas gathered to discuss art, literature and Bohemianism.
But hard times came a knockin', and in recent months Sonia has made little money. To make matters worse, she has become ill, gravely so; and doctors say that Sonia may not live, much longer.
Most of her "artistic" friends have deserted her. Villagers whom she met in days of distress now have seemingly forgotten her. When seen today in a cheap little room in Washington Square by an International News representative, Sonia said: "Greenwich Village—its all bunk."
"Gee, if mothers knew what went on in some of those tearoom 'joints' they'd come a-running for their slapper daughters."

not be represented at the Hague is taken to indicate his agreement with the view of President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes that nothing fruitful could come of the second conference on Russian affairs.
In connection with the newly appointed French attitude toward the Hague meeting, it was pointed out, however, that for a time it looked like France was not to be represented at Genoa, but finally went in with the other powers despite her earlier objections to meeting the Russians on an equal footing. It was held not improbable that Poincare's present adherence to the American view toward Russia would change within the next few weeks so as to permit the French government to resume the Russian negotiations in June.
News of Poincare's coolness toward the Hague was received with satisfaction by officials here. They took the new French policy as indicating an inclination among European governments to recognize, to some extent, at least, the principles laid down by the United States in the American note turning down the Hague invitation.
Secretary Hughes pointed out then his government could not take part in the Second European conference until the Soviet delegates agreed to a plan of reconstruction which embodied basic principles for the restoration of productivity in Russia and the establishment of a sound basis of credit.
President Harding is still eager to co-operate with other powers in helping Russia and although it has been declared officially that Secretary Hughes' last note did not close the doors to American participation, it was held today that the apathy of France toward the Hague conference was another reason for the United States to stay out.

Park Theater

What the Trade Review Said of "Headin' West" Playing at the Park Tonight.

"Hoot Gibson has put over a few good ones lately, but this one is the best yet. This one has a good story, interesting and crammed with excitement. It has a novel opening in which Hoot is introduced via a parachute from an airplane. There are several good highlights which lack nothing to make them realistic. There is little or no padding and, summed up, the picture is good entertainment."
Glady's Walton, who has gained more fame as a delineator of flapper figures than any other actress of the stage or screen, is the star of "Playin' With Fire," the Universal film comedy drama coming on Saturday to the Park Theater. Supporting her are many popular players, including Hallam Copley, Harold Miller, Kathryn McGuire, Eddie Gribbon, Hayward Mack, Sydney Franklin, Elliott Laurel, Lydia Knott, Elinor Hancock and Danny Hoy. Dallas Fitzgerald directed the picture from J. U. Giesy's and William M. Clayton's story.

Wallace Reid comes to the Park Theater Monday and Tuesday in the "World's Champion," his latest Paramount picture. As a special attraction Manager Foy has booked Ben Turpin in his latest fun maker "Step Forward." In this comedy Ben takes the role of a street conductor and needless to say it is a riot of laughter.
The new management of the Park theatre wishing to give its patrons the very latest in moving picture land takes pleasure in announcing the personal appearance of Al. Benson and his Metropolitan Singing Novelty. The management assures the public that this novel innovation

The East Side fire departments responded to a call from the corner of Spruce and Bissell streets to a fire on the roof of the home of Thomas McKinney on Bissell street, about 7:45 this morning. The flames were spreading on a shingled roof on the ell of the house when the firemen arrived. It evidently started from the outside and was extinguished before any damage had been done.

Have Made Good Scores Under the Coaching of Walter Olson.

The High school Rifle Club has been practicing faithfully at the Hartford school range under the direction of Coach Walter Olson, and some good scores have been made. Practice in four positions has given the boys a good training in the use of the rifle and not only has taught them to shoot straight but has trained them to handle a gun with safety.
A team has been chosen from those who make the highest scores to represent the school against the Hartford High school Rifle Club in the near future. No date has been set as the track meets of the two schools have conflicted with what prospect the match will be arranged for as soon as possible and judging by some of the scores made in the team's practice the Hartford boys will have to make it hard for the bull's eye if they intend to carry away the honors.
The team with their substitutes is given below and the scores made in the latest practice in four positions: Possible 100.

THE EVER-VICTORIOUS.

Lloyd George has earned the overwhelming vote of confidence accorded him by the British House of Commons on Thursday night.

His summing up of the vital problem of Russia is extraordinarily immersed in wrappings of farsighted wisdom. He is a history maker but, more important, he is a student and a beneficiary of history.

Lloyd George's defence contained some very striking pictures and emphasized some salient facts that are not generally understood.

There is a conflict impending in Europe, says Lloyd George with all the gravity and emphasis at his command.

Lloyd George calls attention to a much overlooked, salient fact in present day Russia, the possession of 95 per cent. of the land by a peasant proprietary.

Russia is a fact, not a theory, and should not be allowed to become an obsession. Many will agree with the British premier that "the peace of the world and the security and stability of Europe depend upon an arrangement with Russia whereby the volume of trade upon which millions depend for their daily bread can be increased."

His present international creed upon which he is deliberately basing his claim to continued and permanent fame is summed up in his considered statement that "it is hopeless for Russia, whatever her government, to expect to extricate herself from the pit of squalid misery without the assistance of the other thirty-four nations."

THE HAGUE CONFERENCE. The latest pronouncement of the Russian government gives little hope of profitable achievement at the forthcoming Hague meeting of the powers.

For some unexplained reason the soft pedal was suddenly placed at Genoa upon Russia's counter claims against the allies for damages sustained in the western-supported movements of Kolchak, Denikine and Wrangel.

FOURTH SCHOOL DISTRICT HOLDS FORMAL OPENING

New Building Greatly Admired—Children Give Delightful Program—Assembly Hall Crowded.

The Fourth School District last night joined the circle of community assemblies which is being formed by the outlying school districts of Manchester.

The new school building is located on the shore of Globe Hollow reservoir, a short distance south of the old one.

The new building is of the one story type, resembling that recently completed at Manchester Green, although smaller.

The building committee consisted of Howard I. Taylor, Fitch Barber and R. B. Martin, the last being the district committee man.

When the stage program opened last night, the little hall was crowded and groups of eager spectators massed around the doors and windows in an effort to get a glimpse of the performers.

LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT. By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

One of the best ways to practice thrift is to keep a personal budget. This is especially applicable to those who heretofore have not been thrifty in their methods of living.

It is much easier to practice thrift systematically than to go about it in a haphazard manner. To the average busy person it may seem a waste of time to keep a record of every penny spent, but only in this way can one gain a correct grasp of the situation, and be able to eliminate items of expenditure that are unnecessary and of no constructive value.

COLLEGE TRACK AND FIELD MEET AT CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge, Mass., May 27.—The final events of the inter-collegiate track and field championships came down to a decision today with a melancholy sky overhead and the prospect of another California victory loomed as to leave not a reasonable doubt of its nature.

LESSONS IN BASEBALL

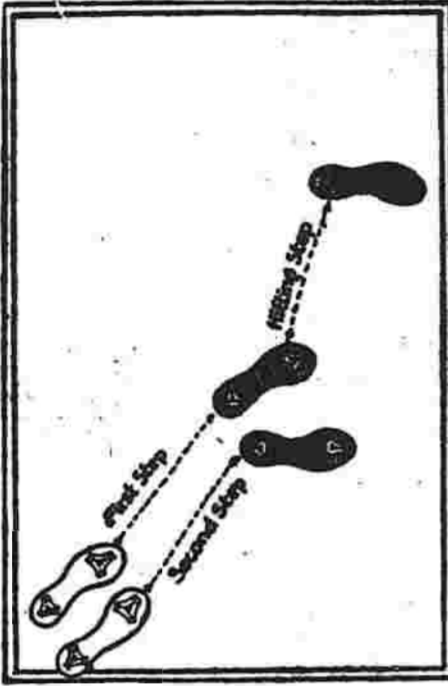

by J. B. SHERIDAN
AUTHOR OF BASEBALL FOR BEGINNERS

Copyright, 1922, by the International Syndicate

LESSON 49

THE VALUE OF THE FOOT SHIFT AT BAT.

Shifts in batting position are common among professionals who get enough batting practice to make their eyes good. It is to be doubted that amateurs or those who play only one or two games a week and who get little batting practice can shift steps yet maintain an eye good enough to hit the ball. For those who can accomplish it successfully the shift in batting step, two, three or more steps to hit, standing in various parts of the box, etc., is valuable for this reason:

GEORGE DAVIS' BATTING SHIFT

By shifting his step, in, forward, etc., by walking in towards the ball or staying back far enough from the plate the batter can do much to bring the ball "where he likes it."

The famous shortstop of the White Sox of 1905-06 was one of the most finished of baseball players. Davis had an original weakness, "pulling away" from the plate. He cured this weakness by taking as shown above, his stance the extreme rear outside corner of the batter's box as far as he could possibly get from the plate and taking three steps in to hit. Davis was a most finished hitter. He batted both right and left handed and used the same shift from either side of the plate. The player who has a tendency to pull away from the plate as he hits will do well to study Davis' shift to cure that weakness.

This even a ball on the inside corner can be cut to the opposing field. If he likes a high ball he can help himself by running up on the pitch and hitting the ball while it is still high, well in front of the plate. So, if he likes a low ball he may be able to stand far back in the box to compensate the pitcher to give him the sort of ball he fancies most.

The shift also makes it difficult for the pitcher to accurately gauge any ball he pitches where it should break to foot the batter, where it should shoot, etc.

Batters who have extra good eyes, and who are keen judges of a pitched ball, men like LaJotte, Groh, McGraw, etc., can stand far back from the plate, catch the probable direction of the ball very quickly and step to take care of it. If the ball is meant to be over or on the inside of the

SPORT CALENDAR.
Manchester vs. American Chain Mt. Nebo, 3.30.
Atlas vs. Wethersfield, West Side Playgrounds Game Called 3:30
Pirates vs. White Sox, Rockville, Main Street Grounds Game Called at 3 O'clock.
Babe Ruth is in bad again. He has thrown dirt. Ban Johnson said that there will be no mud slinging in the American League and it looks as if the Battering Babe is due for another seige on the bench.
The Atlas baseball team will meet the Wethersfield team at the West Side playgrounds tomorrow afternoon. Young Pop Edgar is slated to pitch for the locals.
The Herald force will meet the Rockville Leader inslingers on the diamond. The game will be played in Rockville. It is said that the C. E. will lead the rooting section. I don't know whether this will get by him but "he's too old and too fat to play baseball."
The Pirates of this place will meet the White Sox of Rockville at the Main street grounds Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Windy City aggregation has trimmed a couple of local teams this year and the Manchester lads claim that they will reverse the decision here tomorrow. The visitors are said to have the best 18 year old team in the state.
This afternoon the High school team is at New Britain. Coach Clarke said that he will offer no alibi if the locals are trimmed. The team is in one shape and with Seelert in the box there is bound to be fireworks.
To the Sports Editor:
It has been mentioned in Sport Chatter that the Athletics were defeated by a team which called itself the Cardinals and I wish to take this opportunity to deny the statement. Adv.

The game was called by the Cardinals not by the Mohawks. In the last of the sixth the score was a tie, three all. In the first half of the seventh, the Cardinals scored three runs making the score 6-3. The Mohawks came back strong in the half and scored two runs making the score 6-5, in favor of the Cardinals with one out. The catcher was hit by a pitched ball and time was called. The Cardinals then refused to resume playing as they agreed to play a nine inning game later. With one out and the game called by the Cardinals the score should revert to 3-3. Now the Mohawks stand ready to meet the Cardinals at any time and are willing to back up their claim with money if that is what the Cardinals are after. The manager of the Cardinals is asked to meet the manager of the Mohawks and arrange for a game.
Yours in Sport,
W. W. BULLA,
Manager of the Mohawks.

The Manchester Green A. C. will stack up against the fast Nutmegs on Coleman's diamond tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The team has been practicing hard all week under the watchful eye of Coach Pitkin, and is expected to give a good account of itself. Next Sunday, they will journey to New Britain to meet the crack St. Mary's Club of that place.

The St. Mary's Club will meet Windsor Tuesday morning at the Main street grounds in the first game of a series. The local club has been practicing hard for some time and took both games they have played so far this season in easy fashion. It is reported that the boys from the farming district have some ball club and will give the Saints a run for the honors.

It was rumored around last night that Brock Wilson had returned. The former third sacker of the local club could not be located. It was predicted that Wilson would have made good had he stayed. Reports from the Canadian scribes showed that they were impressed with his work and promised a bright future for the hard hitting third sacker.

SPORT BRIEFS

COLLEGE BOATRACE.
Ithaca, N. Y., May 27.—The Harvard and Cornell crews were ready today for their annual two mile race on Lake Cayuga. Cornell is generally favored to win by a handsome margin.
BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF.
Prestwick, Scotland, May 27.—England was pitted against Scotland in the final play of the British amateur golf championship tournament today. E. W. Holderness, former Oxford player and an Englishman, was favorite over John Caven, a Scotch bookkeeper.

CHICAGO TENNIS.
Chicago, May 27.—Finals in the singles and doubles of the big tennis conference tennis championship will be played here today. In the singles Henry Norton of Minnesota, George Reinold and Charles Merkle of Michigan, and Nelson Meyers of Illinois are the contenders. Dubach and Brown of Illinois are the favorites in the doubles.
HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS.
Chicago, May 27.—America's hopes in future Olympiads dug their spikes in the cinders of Stagg Field here today, amid a massed flock of interscholastic track and field records that have stood for years. Predictions were freely made that when the finals of the national interscholastic meet are ended late today some new marks for athletes to shoot at in coming years will be established. Qualifying events staged yesterday did not produce new records because the athletes were performing under restraint. The leash will be off this afternoon.
Teams from Huntington Beach, Calif.; Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Oklahoma City, Okla., are given the edge in the high school section by the dopsters.
With performers qualifying in five events Lake Forest Academy looked formidable in the academy section.
Of the individual stars a lot is looked for from Bud Houser, the weight boosting marvel from Oxnard, Calif. He qualified in the shot put, discus and javelin without half trying.
The star individual performer in the preliminaries was Naegell of Hillsdale, Minn., who started in six events and qualified in all of them.

H. S. SECOND WINS

Mullens, the left handed finger for the second team of the local High school held the Wethersfield team to four hits which were well scattered and won the game at the West Side playgrounds yesterday by the score of 11 to 5. The local catcher started at the bat with two doubles and a single, out of four times up.
It looked as if there would be a close game up until the third inning but the second team started a rally in the fourth which netted them six runs. Not satisfied with this the batters scored 3 more in the closing innings. During the contest they clouted the ball for fifteen safe bingles four of which were for extra bases. Three of the runs for the opposing team were due to errors by the locals. A few of the errors were bad ones but the players redeemed themselves by starting at the bat.
A return game will be played with the Wethersfield team on next Saturday, June 3. The game will be played in that place and the second team will leave here at one o'clock and go to Wethersfield by trolley. The box score:

LOCALS ARE OUT TO WIN OVER AMERICAN CHAIN

Old Peter Wilson to Oppose Jack Burkhardt on the Mound—Tomorrow's Game to be First of a Series.
Our old friend, the American Chain team of Bridgeport with the usual snappy aggregation of ball tossers will invade Mt. Nebo for the first time this season, tomorrow. Last year the hostiles fared badly in matches away from the series, and they are determined to furnish the first setback of the season to Dwyer's colts. When a sufficient flock of natives have arrived at the ball park it is possible that the ump will yell "Fly Ball!" about 3:30.
According to Manager Chambers, Big Jack Burkhardt will ascend the mound for the home talent. Judging from the performances of the tall heaver so far this year the Bridgeport team is in for a strenuous afternoon. His two victories over the Williamant tribe has increased his standing among the semi-pro teams hereabouts considerably over 2.75 per cent.
The example set by Leary behind the bat has done wonders with the local team. Last week they were out there full of "pep" and ginger, chattering away like a flock of magpies. It looked for a while as though Pete Wood did need verbal encouragement. He was wilder than a hare but tightened up when the hostiles got real dangerous. Several sparkling plays helped the big heaver out of two bad holes.
It is possible that the locals inner defenses will be the same. Dwyer and Sipples, cavorting around the keystone sack with McCarthy at third and Fay on the first sack looked good last week. It is possible that Lamprecht will be back this week. In the outfield Scheldge, Johnson and the hard hitting Kotisch will range round the pastures.
Ivers the peppy first baseman of the Chain team regarded as its strongest link, will be out there scattering verbal quips to encourage his bat last year he seemed behind into a fly obaber and will hold center field. This bird can sock the apple and is a dangerous man in a tight place.
Sherwood and Douglas, a brace of good players will fill in at second. It is possible that Douglas, a promising youngster, will be given a chance as Sherwood was injured a week ago at New Haven. Klingor at short means a lot to the defense of the visitors. It will be remembered that he robbed Munson of a sure triple last year by a great stop and throw.
Now comes the real secret of the visitors' popularity. Pete Wilson the grand old man of all Connecticut, will do the flinging and from the port side at that. To date the locals have not faced a portsider and it is felt that they will have to swing a mean club to down the veteran. Wilson has all the trick of the trade stored away and usually calls them into play when his opponents get troublesome. The old fellow hurled a couple of hectic battles here last year forcing Munson's charges to go the limit to win.
With Wilson and Burkhardt on the mound the fans can expect a pitchers' battle right from the start. How the teams will take the field:

PLAN SYMPHONIES BY STARLIGHT IN HOLLYWOOD HILLS

Los Angeles.—Hollywood loves music, if it does specialize in silent drama. Forty nights this summer the famous Philharmonic symphony orchestra will play in a great natural bowl in the hills for the artists and actors and musicians and writers who live in Hollywood.

Both Ferdinand Earle, artist and film producer, and his wife, Charlotte Christian Earle, a talented pianist who has been heard from coast to coast, are doing their part to make this summer's starlight music festival a financial as well as artistic success.

"The average cultured Easterner, coming from the first time to the western coast, expects to bid the stars a fond adieu," comments Mr. Earle. "He knows how marvelously fine the mountains are, how the flowers must be, but the great orchestras and theaters and art galleries and museums and libraries of New York and other big cities tug at his heart.

"Over in Europe, one of the most delightful attractions is the open-air concert, that is kept up summer and winter," continued the artist. "Many a time I have stood on the piazza San Marco at Venice and listened to Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony or the enchantment music from 'Parvula' or heard spirited renditions of the Italian masters.

"But Los Angeles, already rich in music and musicians, is not merely to rival the open-air concerts of the Continent with its orchestras playing bravely amid the din of city parks and city streets; it is to have great concerts in an amphitheater of stately mountains, in a natural wonderland such as Manhattan or all Europe cannot offer.

"I feel certain that Mrs. J. Carter's courageous and indefatigable campaign to accomplish this will receive due recognition from the musicians and music lovers of the world."

HENRY FORD'S WEEKLY SAYS— (Dearborn Independent.) A German aeronautical experimenter, on a motorless soaring machine with hawk-like wings, rose from an absolute standstill to an altitude of 200 feet without assistance, and flew for 21 minutes and 37 seconds. He landed at a point only 40 feet lower than his starting point. Boston University is going to turn out head waiters and "bell hops" in a six weeks' course by the vocational department of the College of Business.

Stenographers in the service of the United States Government lose $6,000,000 worth of the government's time each year, rousing their cheeks and lips, according to efficiency experts of the Treasury department. This is figured on a basis of 40,000 girls on the government payroll as stenographers and typists receiving $1,200 a year and upward.

During the past few months the American Legion at Toledo, O., has caused 32 persons to be put in jail for falsely collecting funds for sick and wounded world war veterans, obtained the release from jail of seven ex-soldiers, found jobs for 1,057 more and conducted 135 military funerals.

Large numbers of ex-soldiers who are suffering from shell shock are looking for work in New York City. The American Legion obtained work for one but he got into such a heated argument with the man who was hiring him that the Legion had to take him away and arrange for his commitment in a government hospital.

A tract of land along the Potomac river has been turned over to the American Legion and other veterans' organizations for use as a summer camp for the hundreds of disabled ex-soldiers from Maryland and West Virginia who are now confined in the four government hospitals at Washington, D. C.

News reaches some places quicker than it does others. The American Legion has received a letter from a world war veteran who says, "I understand the government is giving us adjusted compensation with the option of taking land or money. I've just discovered an island in the St. Lawrence river that I want, so tell the government I'll take that."

IN THE GREAT OPEN SPACES THERE IS MORE OF LESS—A LOCAL ISSUE. The man who gets drunk on a mountain top offends nobody but himself. Here in New York the neighbors hear about it.

All the tests of virtue are rigorous for folk who live elbow to elbow with nothing between them but partitions of little old last year's wall paper and a thin dab of plaster. If the man in the flat next door, or the one underneath, ever spoke of us as a good man, it would mean something. As a matter of fact, he is not likely to do so, because he thinks twelve o'clock is late, and often annoys our guests by rapping on the steampipes. However, all this is irrelevant. If he gave us a character it would be won in spite of the closest possible scrutiny.

Perhaps he seems less amiable to Mrs. Jones, but nobody would think of asking a farmer's wife for an opinion about anything. Farmer Jones is under the necessity of cultivating manners, because he can be as rude as he pleases, and it will pass for downright native frankness. To his horses he is privileged to fall even more freely. And, speaking of horses, according to our city standards, Farmer Jones would very probably be set down, or sent up, as a swindler. In his community they merely laugh and call him a shrewd man for horse trading.—Haywood Brown, in Judge.

PARIS, May 5.—Bearing instructions to maintain a stern attitude towards Russia, minister of justice Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation attending the international economic conference departed for Genoa today.

Barthou's chief instructions were understood to be grouped as follows: 1. To insist that private property rights be respected by Russia so that the owners of property that was nationalized by the Moscow government can secure their own possessions.

2. To bear in mind that there is no obligation on the part of the French toward Britain to compel France to recognize the Soviet government.

3. In view of the fact that Chancellor Wirth and Walter Rathenau of the German delegation have refused to sign the French conditions for the ten year non-aggression pact, M. Barthou is under orders to prevent any revision of the pact that would weaken the Treaty of Versailles.

Marcel Hutin, writing in the Echo de Paris, quotes a diplomat as saying: "Although Premier Lloyd George denies that the British have acquired oil properties formerly belonging to the French, we and the Belgians have proofs to the contrary."

WISDOM FROM THE BAT OF A "BABE." (From "Hit or Miss," in the Chicago News.) What America needs is college presidents as brainy as Babe Ruth, according to Dr. A. E. Winship, editor of the Journal of Education. Babe Ruth has a larger salary than any of five university presidents, says Dr. Winship, and this salary is earned by "pure intensified brain power, such as no other American equals."

Dr. Winship evidently has a pretty shrewd idea of the function of a university president. He thinks that a prime responsibility of that post is getting the money and he does not feel that all of them do their duty at the collection plate. He likes the way Babe Ruth stands up to the plate and pulls down the dough, and he feels that the heads of our institutions of learning may well profit by the Babe's example.

HOW "ALLIANCE" DIFFERS FROM "ENTENTE CORDIALE" Washington.—The difference between an "alliance" and "entente cordiale" is all in how you say it, according to Senator Reed (Dem.) of Missouri, one of the Senate's most formidable foes of foreign treaties. "If you say it 'with flowers' it's an 'entente cordiale,' according to Reed, while if you say it 'with force' it's an 'alliance.'"

"An entente is an agreement couched in gentle terms, while an alliance is the same thing couched in harsh terms," to use Reed's exact description. One is no more binding than the other. The sole bond in each is the friendship of that post-signatory nation. No bond, therefore, is stronger than the weight of the nation's pledged word."

PRETTY ANKLES HELP WOMAN WIN LAWSUIT Paris.—Mademoiselle Blanche Otero has much to thank her pretty features—and particularly her pretty ankles—for she admits it, for both of these played an important part in swaying the jury's verdict in a recent trial in which the well-known dancer claimed 100,000 francs damages for a crushed foot sustained in a taxi cab accident.

Blanche Otero claims that she has the prettiest ankles in France and that these are an asset, as she was a professional dancer.

The lawyer of the taxi cab company said Miss Otero was much too old to dance professionally. A controversy raged, for the dancer was not in court. The jury decided that Blanche Otero should come to court, she did, and showing her feet, revealed her pretty ankles. Five minutes later a verdict in her favor was returned.

Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream, 30c a pint, at Edward J. Murphy's Pharmacy, Dept. Square.—Adv.

One of whom, my business, I am which. Owing to circumstances that I seem to have proved myself inadequate to control, I have become, as the lawyers say, "seized" of certain properties and possessions that require management and intelligent personal attention. I feel in the custodianship of these things, as if I were a nervous woman who had been presented with a den of snakes or a roomful of mice to care for.

I keep these various evidences of alleged wealth in a long sheet-steel box with a hump over the end, which I lock up, keep in a hole in the wall of a steel-lined room. I cannot get into this place, hole without the assistance of a uniformed attendant who comes and makes medicine with a key that has a strong family resemblance to one I own. After he has primed the lock I can insert my own key and the door flies accommodatingly open. Then I haul out that box and open it and look awestricken at its contents.

Some of the handsomeness of these contents, that I admire most from a wholly aesthetic standpoint, I am told, of least value commercially. I have, for example, some mining stock. I know it is good, for I know a man who went through the mine himself, personally accompanied by the owner and his daughter, and this friend of mine saw the gold just as plain as could be. So at 10 cents for each hundred-dollar share, I bought a thousand of them. Subsequently anxious efforts on my part to locate that mine and to find out anything complimentary about it have proved very discouraging indeed. And as for dividends on that stock, periods have passed with the most commendable regularity. I have occupied the reviewing stand while they passed. A man to whom I showed the stock laughed and said it was worthless. But it was by believing a fellow, that I was led originally to buy the stock. So I will not believe anybody again I shall hang on to that stock. I feel sure I shall.

However, far be it from me to raise Ned about any of these things. I have been vouchsafed by the smooth boys. When a fellow will pay a hundred dollars for that much of that sort of stuff, he is very badly off in good sense, and any price he may pay for it must not be regarded as exorbitant. And it is well to be stung just enough in early life by buying fake stock so that one is, as it were, vaccinated or inoculated. It may save him hundreds or thousands later on. So my worthless stock is in some ways the best investment I have made. It is not really a loss, but it still is, very dear to me.—Strickland Gillilan in Farm Life.

ANSONIA WOMAN GOT TEN DOLLAR WEDDING RING. White Plains, N. Y., April 19.—Charging that her fiancé tricked her into a civil marriage when an orthodox Jewish religious ceremony is the only form she recognizes, Mrs. Rose Cohen of 34 Columbia street, Ansonia, Conn., today filed suit in supreme court for annulment of her marriage to Abraham Cohen, a Yonkers dentist living at New Haven.

The litigants are first cousins Mrs. Cohen says they became engaged at a party given by her sister in Bridgeport, Conn., on May first last. The intended bridegroom was to have taken place September 25, 1921 but on May eighth, Mrs. Cohen said, Cohen and she were married by civil ceremony in New York to prevent another woman from "making trouble" for him.

After the engagement, Mrs. Cohen said, Cohen bought her a ten cent wedding ring. Mrs. Cohen repeated on the stand that she "was not married" but admitted under questioning by Justice Morchauer that she went through a marriage ceremony in the Lincolnville bureau. He pleaded with me so much I really thought he cared for me," she said.

"They all do," was Justice Morchauer's comment. At his mother's home the same day she received a real wedding ring from Cohen, she said, but the next day, "who had been so sweet, became like a tiger."

When she suggested that they break their engagement, Mrs. Cohen said he replied: "Ha, ha! That's the time I put one over on you. You are my wife and you have to obey me."

FAMED INDIAN DIES AT BLUFF, UTAH, HOME Denver.—Tse-Ne-Gat, Ute Indian who gained nation-wide fame in 1914, when he was acquitted of a charge of murdering a Mexican here, is dead at his desert home, near Bluff, Utah, according to word received here.

Tse-Ne-Gat made scores of friends in this city while he was held in the county jail awaiting trial on the charge of murdering a Mexican desperado. The killing occurred on the Arroyo Springs reservation, in Montezuma county, southwestern Colorado, and precipitated an uprising among the Utes that necessitated the sending of General Hugh Denison to the scene to control the riot.

Tse-Ne-Gat contracted tuberculosis while he was confined in the county jail here, but was said later to have regained his health and for several years past has been living on the Arroyo Springs reservation, Colorado and his wife. The cause of his death is unknown here.

JAP. CROWN PRINCE TO ATTAIN HIS MAJORITY Tokio.—Prince Yasuhiko, second son of the present emperor of Japan, will attain his majority on June 28, when he will become twenty years old, according to the Western way of reckoning, and he will be appointed by his father at that time to found a new branch of the imperial family. The prince was born in the town of the Mikasa, Saitama, in that time and will be a sea captain in the Japanese navy and the House of Peers.

INDIANAPOLIS GIRLS BAN FLAPPER STYLES. Indianapolis.—Convinced that most schoolgirls today are sacrificing their health in a mad rush to follow the evolution of the flapper from girl and "razz," Indianapolis girls in good dress, in the public schools, have decreed that flapper styles must go. The classes, in line with this verdict, worked out a number of "sane" costumes for exhibition at the Indiana Health Exposition at the State Fair grounds. But they did spare the goddesses, at the same time ruling that they shall be flappers. They turned thumbs down on the high heel. Shimmered down, the majority decided upon these standards of dress, named in order of importance: 1, cleanliness; 2, appropriateness; 3, comfort; 4, washable quality; 5, simplicity of design; 6, fastness of color. Gingham, crepe, middle cloth, percale, poplin, plique and linen were materials favored.

NEVADA HEARS RADIO TALK FROM HAWAII. Fallon, Nev.—"Come over to Hawaii, and I'll give you a bottle of beer." This conversation between a Hawaiian and a Californian came over the wireless of Dale Likes, fifteen-year-old Fallon radio enthusiast, in loud, clear tones.

Dale bought his instrument and made everything else himself. He is a regularly licensed radio man of the United States Government, and his station is officially known as Radio 6ATM.

A hotel man at Catalina giving a produce order to a dealer in San Diego, orchestra music from San Francisco, San Bernardino and Spokane and a sermon from the Trinity Church, in Denver, are some of the interesting things that Dale Likes hears in Fallon.

KICK OF ELECTRIC LOCK FAILS TO BAR OFFICERS. Poplar Bluff, Mo.—An electrically charged lock on a huge tool box failed to keep prohibition officers from getting a quantity of moonshine whiskey hidden inside, even if it did have an awful "kick"—almost as powerful in fact as the moonshine.

The officers found the toolbox in a garage here. After getting a jolt when they tried to open the lock they cut the wires and forced open the cover. "A regular box of TNT inside and out," one of the officers remarked as they carted away the illicit liquor.

COLLEGES AND THE GIRL SCOUTS. The National Council of Girl Scouts, with headquarters in New York, has made a drive during the last six months to stimulate college training classes that the number of volunteer Scout leaders may be increased and that these young women may be equipped to act as Scout captains.

Two training courses have been included in the work of the extension department of the New York University; one has been adopted by the Chautauque Institute; one has been created by the College of the State of New York, and one by Smith College at Northampton, Mass. During the spring courses will be given at Holyoke College, Vassar, Wellesley, the Connecticut College for Women and the Sargeant School. During 1920 and 1921, 38 training courses have been given.

In these courses inspiration, method versus content, organization, psychology and health of the young girl have been stressed. The students are largely made up of settlement workers, business women and students. It is a remarkable fact that out of all those to take the course, but two women could properly be described as belonging to the so-called leisure class.

REVEALS HIDING PLACE OF GOLD ON DEATHBED. Great Bond, Kansas.—H. J. Brack, a pioneer farmer of Western Kansas, often told friends and neighbors he "had a cellar under his house as good as gold."

Before he died recently he called the members of his family to his bedside and told them to dig in the cellar and they would find gold. A search for the buried treasure after his death revealed over $60,000 in gold pieces buried in the cellar, his accumulation of a lifetime.

The strawberry festival held by the ladies of the Congregational church was a huge success, so many more attending than had been expected that many were turned away supperless. The old-fashioned and modern dances which followed also had many participants. About $69 was realized. Following the annual Memorial Day custom the morning service tomorrow will be a union one. Rev. Truman H. Woodward will be the speaker at the service which is to be held in the Congregational church. Joseph Grigoliat has become the owner of a very good looking used Cleveland car. SORROWS OF THE IRISH FLAPPER

(Los Angeles Times) The Irish orators and newspapers talk as though the evacuation of the English soldier was a cause of unmitigated joy in Ireland, but we have Katherine Tynan's word for it that the beloved Irish girl of the old style novelists with her hoydenish charms, is distinctly distrustful at the loss of her dancing partners, her hunting companions, her guests and hosts, her possible lovers and husbands. According to this literary lady, conditions of life under the military occupation of Ireland were quite exceptionally pleasant for the Irish girl. The better class Englishman has pretty good taste and he took enthusiastically to Ireland and Irish lassies. The free and fearless Irish girl enchanted him. And the girls which were thrown on the hospitality of the homes in which these Irish girls abound. Moreover, Katherine Tynan, whose Irish novels have won such popular appeal, warns that the old Ireland is passing, that none of the character of the novelists delighted to write about is left. Whole classes have changed their characteristics, become ridiculous, and like other nationalities, are nothing has arisen to replace these stock figures, the old box 'o' trick with which the novelist felt so at home.

GAME ROOSTER KILLS CAT IN BATTLE FIGHT

Gallipolis, Ohio.—Paul Stevens, of Gallipolis, always knew he had a pretty fine gamecock in Long Tom the champion of his stable, but now he's willing that he should go out of his class. The reason for his confidence is this: "The other night an old tomcat with a long and honorable fighting record was looked in Long Tom's coop by mistake. In the morning the owner opened the coop to feed Long Tom and found the lifeless body of the cat. "Cats, dogs, any animals. They all look alike," Stevens says. COLUMBIA

Mrs. Clayton E. Hunt went to Providence on Monday for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Goff. Howard Yeomans, son of Mrs. Mary B. Yeomans, who has resided in Cleveland, O., for several years, has removed to Hartford and is visiting at his mother's residence on the Green. Miss May Turner, of Willimantic, was in town Wednesday, the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Grace H. Champlin. A very serious accident occurred on Williams' Crossing on the road to Norwich, when the automobile in which Rev. T. Newton Owen, pastor of the Columbia Congregational church, accompanied by Mrs. F. Raymond Hunt and her three-year-old son, Francis, were traveling to New London to visit Mrs. Hunt's mother who is ill, was struck by a freight train. Mr. Owen sustained a broken rib and was cut about the face and head. Mrs. Hunt has a compound fracture of the leg below the knee, several cuts on the head and arm, also concussion of the brain. The boy is suffering from a dislocated ankle and torn ligaments in the leg. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Willimantic and their injuries were attended to by Dr. J. A. Girouard. Mrs. Hunt had not regained consciousness at a late hour and was regarded to be in a very critical condition. Mr. Owen, who is the owner of the car and was driving, is understood to have stated that he did not see the red danger signals at the crossing, and was struck by a freight train which dragged his car 100 feet along the track, completely demolishing it. The driver of the car behind the wrecked car was understood to have said that no danger signals were displayed at the crossing.

BOLTON

Miss Helen Taylor was a visitor in Worcester on Wednesday. The schools in Bolton observed field day Wednesday. It was a success in every way and was appreciated by a large attendance. The North school received the most points and was therefore awarded the silver cup. The District of Bolton did exceptionally well and received several honors. The judges were the Misses Donnie and Bonnie Cotterell and Clifford Brownell, state superintendent of physical training. Mrs. J. Wesson Phelps, Miss Adella Loomis and Miss Helen Taylor attended the library meeting in Willimantic Thursday. Elmer Finley of New York is at his home here. He expects a moving truck from New York, which will move some of his furniture from his Bolton home to New York. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pinyney's bungalow is nearing completion. Mrs. Maxwell Hutchinson is visiting in Worcester.

FILMS TEACH WORK OF MACHINE SHOP TO ENTHUSIASTIC BOYS

Chicago, May 2.—That girls in the classroom distract the attention of high school boys who really want to buckle down to earnest study, is the candid reason a group of Lane Technical High school boys gave to a representative of the Society of Visual Education, to explain the popularity of that exclusively boys' school. "Not that we are woman-haters, but we are," one youth hastened to postscript, "but we need to be thinking of the future." "The need today is for vocational training," declares William J. Bogan principal of "Lane Tech," and on this basis he accounts for the fact that 4200 boys are over-crowding the school where a foundry, wood-shop, forge, machine, electrical and printing shops are important features. Practical training is what the boys need, and practical, up-to-date methods are in use in every department. When boys in overalls can sit in rapid attention watching dry, technical shop scenes, as presented by the Society's eight-reel film on the operation of the milling machine, it is evident that the motion picture has more important uses than the exposition of the charms of screen beauties. A wave of admiring comment and a half-stifled "Oh, gee!" occasionally gave credit to the dexterous moves of the master mechanic who in the picture performed the work about which the boys in their shop work had found especially difficult. One boy was in high glee when his keen eyes discovered from the screen a quick method of finding the center of his stock for a deep cut. "Gosh, I had known that yesterday it would have saved me half an hour of hunting around," he exclaimed. "Such a film acts as a stimulant upon the boys," declared Mr. Bogan. "They observe an expert doing the work they are called upon to do themselves in the school shop, and it naturally spurs them on to greater achievement. "I recall the remark of a teacher who viewed a physics film some time ago. 'Oh, yes,' he said, 'the picture is all right, but there is nothing new about it. It is identical with the lesson as I teach it.' It was not long before he realized that that was the very reason why the film was so valuable to his pupils. The motion picture clarified the exact points he had been trying without visual means to explain in class lessons. To the more advanced students, moreover, the film taken as a whole afforded a thorough review of the work of many weeks in a very short space of time. "It is a common remark among the teachers that no matter in what position our boys are placed, they always find their feet," added Mr. Bogan. "The technical course develops initiative and independence of thought, and these are qualities which prove useful even to the boys who leave Lane to enter professional lines."

Sense and Nonsense

Howdy-do Friends—People and plus are useless when they lose their heads.

There was an old man in Wenatchee Whose methods of business were snatchy; He gobbled the crop Till they formed a co-op But now all his schemesets ton't hatchy.

Always! No matter how hard she quarrels with her husband, an actress always makes up. So do some of Manchester's young wives.

In Evidence. "We are advertised by our stylish friends." "What do you sell?" "Ladies' hosiery."

The big companies are said to be selling tractors below cost. Maybe they make up the loss by selling a great many of them.

That Did It. When the school inspector walked in the class pulled itself together and determined not to make any mistakes this time.

All went well until the inspector picked on Jimmie. "Now, my lad," he said. "What's the plural of mouse?" "Mice," said Jimmie. "Right," said the inspector. "And now what is the plural of baby?" "Twins!" said Jimmie—and that did it.

That So, Girls? Again they're asking why girls shut their eyes when they are kissed. Look at some of the men who kiss 'em. That's the answer.

"It has been our observation, that the man with the open mind is all right so long as he doesn't let his mouth get that way."

Force of Circumstances. It is reported lega are going out of style in the musical shows. Well, the shows are expected to have something one doesn't see everywhere.

The Name Without the Game. His frugal wife cleaned his winter coat. With liberal measure of gasoline; And his friends remarked, "Old man, we note That you have purchased a new machine."

Urban Trend. Babies are still being born on farms, but few of them ever learn to be satisfied with country life.

A Spirited Loss. Did you consider old Tom Ginn to be a hard drinker? On the contrary, a very easy one. His "intake material" was always in perfect working order, the "exhaust" was the only thing that bothered him.

One of the world's leading modistes has gone into bankruptcy, indicating either that the lady of fashion has been retrenching or has not been paying her bills.

Not Saying Much. Whitewash usually is more effective upon a wall than upon a senatorial reputation.

We continue to read that food prices are coming down, but the grocer and butcher look upon the market reports as mere scraps of paper.

PROTECTION FOR SMALL INVESTORS. Small investors, the odd-lot buyers, have for years been a growing element in the securities market. So long as the brokers they deal with play fair and prosper, these little buyers have no right to complain if they lose in a hazardous game. But if the firms to whom they entrust their money be dishonest, indeliberate or financially weak, the odd-lotter occasionally has a grilling experience. During late trouble in brokerage world, when numerous concerns went into insolvency, the odd-lotter especially fared hard. The difficulty with a small investor is that he is too much at the mercy of unreliable brokers. Proper protection for small investors who buy outright, on margin or on installment, is one of the pressing problems of the securities market. They cannot be ignored and refused a hand in, and if they are allowed to be as files dashing into a spider's web, distress to investors and scandal in the financial world are bound to occur. It should be possible for persons of moderate means to put their savings into reliable securities and to be as well safeguarded in the dealings, as those of larger means. Men of abundant capital, singly or in combination, alone can provide adequate protection.

GIVE IT OIL An engine is oiled a number of times daily, and "rests" half of every 24 hours. Your watch runs day and night, continuously; but when was IT last oiled? The delicate pivots may be grinding away on dry jewels. Can you afford to ruin your watch through neglect? Better bring it to us, before the injury goes further.

It is to the credit of the officials of the New York Stock Exchange that they have been considering ways and means of making the odd-lot business more attractive for the investors. Enlightened self-interest, no less than benevolent regard for persons aiming at safe investments, dictates such a course. The contemplated reforms in this direction will afford relief. But there are two outstanding ways in which to help the odd-lotter. One is to put all outside brokers under strict supervision in some fashion, and the other is to organize strong concern, which have men of standing and substance in them, men who will be able to guarantee to the odd-lotter sound securities, fair prices, and a perfectly square deal.—Theodore Williams, in Leslie's Weekly.

RUMOR IS DENIED. Denial that there is any purpose on the part of the Episcopal church to "boil down," "re-write" or otherwise change the Ten Commandments was made here in a statement by Rt. Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, D. D., Bishop of Pittsburgh, and Chairman of the Joint Commission on Revision of the Book of Common Prayer. It was the report of this Commission which will be presented to the General Convention of the Episcopal Church at Portland, Oregon, next September which led to misunderstandings regarding recommendations as to the use of the Commandments while the Commission makes. Bishop Whitehead says: "The Commission on the Revision of the Prayer Book proposes no alteration whatever in the Commandments, but rather emphasizes them by proposing the optional use of the shortest possible form, relieved of the unessential argument or reasoning which shows them clearly designed for the time and circumstances of the Jewish nation. "In this the Commission follows the example of Jesus Christ—there could be no better—and of St. Paul, who in rehearsing the Commandments both use the shortest form, and even omit all reference to the Fourth Commandment, which fact is quite significant. "Christ himself teaches the incomparable superiority of the two positive commandments of the Gospel. A man could obey all the ten words and not be a Christian. He cannot observe the Gospel commands and not be a Christian. So the stress should be laid upon the latter.

YOUTHFUL CRIMINAL FACES FOURTH TERM Indianapolis—With three prison terms already written upon the history of his brief career, nineteen-year-old Ernest Pulp faces a fourth term behind prison walls. Standing before Judge James Collins in Criminal Court, when he was sentenced to serve from two to fourteen years in the Indiana State Reformatory on a charge of burglary, Pulp recited the story of previous offenses. He was sent to the Missouri State Prison for highway robbery, to Oklahoma State Prison on a charge of receiving stolen goods, and to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for selling Government property, he said. In each case part of the sentence was commuted.

FRANCE'S EMPTY CRADLES (Samuel Hopkins Adams, in Leslie's Weekly) France's gravest danger is not external but internal. It is perhaps it will be not by murder, as the shrieking militarist politicians would have the world believe, but by suicide. She is a waning nation. Notwithstanding the accession of a second-class power of only twenty-five million inhabitants, and a great military authority, adds this touching and sorrowful warning: "France is dying because her cradles are empty. All the reparations in Europe can not compensate for this condition.

Circle Theater Every race of man has used some symbol to typify the home and family life. The expression "household gods" has come to us through centuries—centuries—but of course meant much more in ancient times than it does now. The old Greeks and Romans held the home sacred and always had some object to symbolize it. A relic of older customs was an English law several centuries ago whereby a man was taxed according to the number of hearths he had in his home. One of the most beautiful customs of more recent times was a Southern practice, still in vogue in many places of a newly married couple planting a tree beside their new home. It was believed that so long as the tree flourished no harm could come to the home. Charles Neville Buck, a famous writer and authority on Southern tradition, has written a story called "The Roof Tree" from which a picture was made by William Fox, starring the well-known screen player, William Russell. The story is laid in the hills of Kentucky, and Russell is seen as a young Virginian who flees to Kentucky after the murder of his sister's husband. How he comes under the protection of a roof tree planted by his own grandfather is interestingly told. The picture is said to be one of the most dramatic tales of Southern feud days ever made. The "Roof Tree" will be seen at the Circle Theater today.

TWO BREAKS REPORTED TO THE LOCAL POLICE

Grocery Store Entered and $15 Stolen from Cash Drawer—$200 Worth of Goods Taken from Cool Dealer.

It was reported today that thieves entered the store of Fava & Bosco on Oak street underneath the Manchester City Club in the Gorman Block and secured about $15.

The break probably occurred after 2 o'clock. The lights are on until this time and the newspaper offices in this section were open until shortly before 2 o'clock.

The burglars rifled the cash drawer and took about $15 in dimes, quarters and half dollars. The money was used as change to begin the next day's business.

Another break was reported to the police by Wilson Richardson of Russell street. Forty-three fancy chicks about a week old were taken together with about $100 worth of tools which are used in the coal business which Mr. Richardson conducts.

The hens were valued at four dollars apiece and the chicks around a dollar. The loss is placed close to $200 by Mr. Richardson. It was evidently understood by the thief or thieves that the birds were of good breeding.

BUSTER BROWN SPEAKS.

He and Tige Attract Such a Crowd on Main Street That Traffic is Blocked.

Buster Brown came to town yesterday and spoke to a group of over a thousand from a platform mounted on a truck in front of C. E. House & Sons' store on Main street. "Tige" was with him, too. Tige sat still like the educated dog that he is, with his spectacles on and quietly smoked his pipe while his master talked to the crowd.

The youngsters in their enthusiasm replied to his questions in a chorus that could be heard many blocks. They gathered in such a throng that the traffic on that side of the street was completely blocked for nearly an hour.

To the first girl who came to the platform wearing Buster Brown Shoes he presented a gold vanity case. Then they were lined up and each one given a souvenir, either a whistle or a toy balloon.

Buster Brown with his pal Tige travels the country from coast to coast delivering such speeches to the children on Buster Brown shoes and giving away souvenirs. He is about the size of a four-year-old child but can talk like a professional politician.

Constant Care A locomotive, built for service and speed, needs constant care, or serious results may follow. Neglect to watch carefully and repair the many vital parts of this servant of industry would result, possibly, in serious loss of life and money. Likewise, your estate, built perhaps by years of struggle, needs constant care to protect it against loss. When you are no longer here, who will then manage your affairs. Your judgment and experience in guarding your business and property interests cannot be bequeathed to your heirs. If you name your wife or a friend to care for your estate, have you stopped to consider the burden of responsibility you impose on them? You can protect your heirs from possible financial loss and assure your estate of constant and expert care by naming this Company in your will as your executor and trustee.
