GREEK REVOLUTIONARY TROOPS IN FULL OCCUPATION OF ATHENS

Leaders Demand Departure of Constantinople—Are Determined to Defend Thrace Against Occupation by Turks—Venizelos Expected to Return in Few Days.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Since the entrance of revolutionary troops into Athens, public opinion has veered strongly in favor of the allied powers, and official dispatches received at the Greek legation here today.

"The people, mad with enthusiasm, proceeded to the British, French and Italian legations cheering the allies of Greece," said the cablegram. "This spontaneous manifestation in which all classes took part shows that the true sentiment of the Greek people has always remained pure and faithful to the allied powers."

The former king Constantine, whose abdication in favor of his oldest son, Prince George, was formally communicated to the legation today does not share the optimism of his people, according to the text of his message of abdication received here. "The agitation carried on in Greece since the reverse in Asia Minor and the danger of losing Thrace reinforced the belief on the part of my subjects that my remaining on the throne prevents our powerful friends from coming efficaciously to the aid of Greece," said Constantine. "I am not of this opinion at all. In view of the fact, however, that this mistaken opinion is leading the country into a dangerous and costly situation, I have decided to abdicate in favor of my son, Prince George, and to leave the country for a short time."

Later it was reported that a woman was responsible for his accident.

CONSTANTINOPLE MUST BELONG TO TURKEY

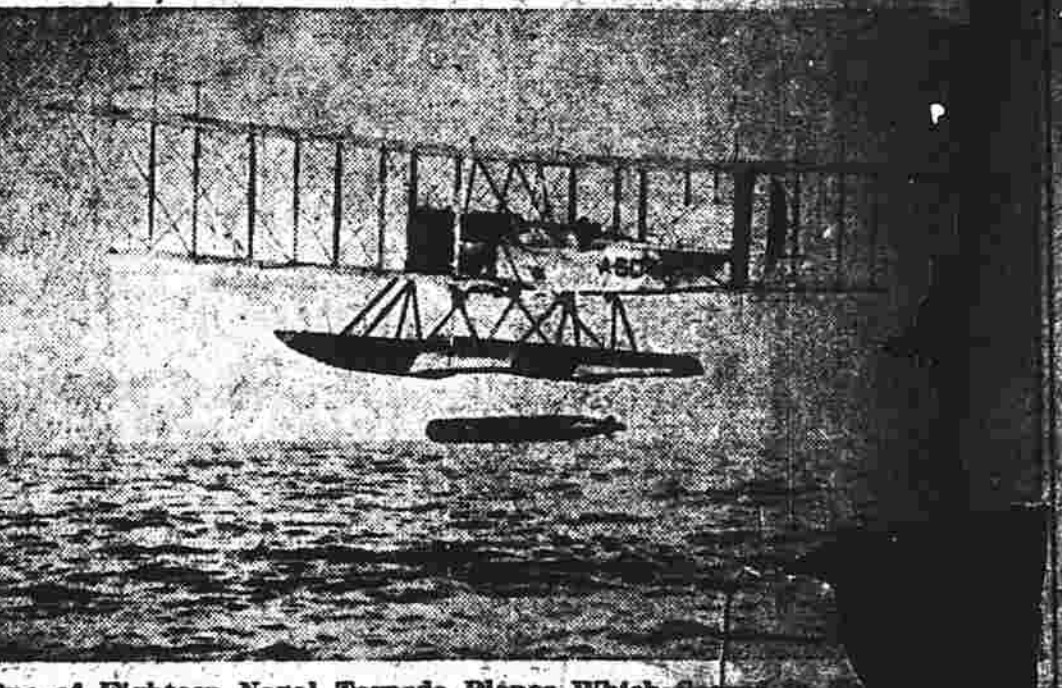

Soviet Foreign Minister Also Says Russia Must Have Part in Near East Solution.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—George Tchitcherin, peoples commissar for foreign affairs in the Russian government, departed for Moscow today declaring that Constantinople must belong to Turkey and that Russia must participate in the Near East conference. The Russian statesman has seen in Berlin since the end of the Genoa conference last spring. He has been taking treatment for a nervous ailment.

In an interview with Baron Von Meden, famous German journalist, Tchitcherin said:

"The American press is astonished because we refuse to admit an official American commission to enter Russia for an investigation so long as the United States refused to allow a similar Russian body to enter that country. When the entente recently made a similar proposition to Turkey the request was rejected. Shall we show less self-respect than Turkey?"

Asked for an opinion on the Near East situation, Tchitcherin said:

One of Eighteen Naval Torpedo Planes, Which Sank the American Battleships of the Virginia Class.

Navy Disagrees as to Results of Torpedo Plane Attack on Washington, Sept. 28.—The personnel of the United States navy is divided into two hostile camps today as a result of the tests of the Virginia Capes yesterday when the battleship Arkansas was attacked by a squadron of torpedo planes from Hampton Roads and theoretically destroyed.

Rear Admiral Moffet, chief of the naval air service, and Colonel C. H. Danforth, commandant at Langley Field, Va., declared the tests were eminently satisfactory in that it was clearly demonstrated that airplanes could make a successful attack on battleships.

Reports, however, from the officers aboard the battleship, who said the attacking planes could have been destroyed by the ship's anti-aircraft guns had they been properly directed.

They also pointed out that the airplanes could only be seen at a limited distance and that they were not out of the sky until they were within the range of the ship's anti-aircraft guns.

Rome, Sept. 28.—Hundreds of persons were reported killed and wounded today when a fortress at Spezia was blown up by lightning. The explosion was accompanied by a fire which destroyed several villages and destroyed a large number of houses.

Later advices said that first reports were evidently exaggerated and that the death list was expected to be small.

A revised estimate this evening put the dead at forty, including a marshal of the Italian army.

The explosion was accompanied by appalling scenes. All the hospitals for miles around were filled to overflowing. San Terenzo was badly damaged by explosions of huge stores of gunpowder which were set off by fire.

Warships Will Join the American Squadron at Constantinople.

CARRY RELIEF SUPPLIES

Vessels Not to Engage in Any Political Demonstration Decided on by Allies.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Captain Charles M. Tozer, was designated today by Secretary of the Navy Denby to command the squadron of 12 destroyers which have been ordered to proceed from Norfolk to Constantinople to protect American interests in the Near East. Captain Tozer is now aboard the destroyer Hopkins of the Virginia Capes. The Hopkins will serve as the flagship of the squadron.

All of the destroyers which will participate in the dash to Constantinople have been ordered to put in at Hampton Roads, Va., to take on enough supplies to last for three months. It was said at the Navy Department today that efforts would be made to rush the supplies aboard but that a week might elapse before the ships were ready.

The names of the destroyers ordered to Turkish waters were announced as follows:

Hatfield, Giner, Fox, Kane, Hopkins, Bainbridge, McFarland, Overton, Sturtevant, King, Barry and Goddard.

FRANCE WILL INSIST ON TURKEY GETTING THRACE

Paris, Sept. 28.—The French cabinet today decided that it would insist upon the transfer of Thrace to Turkey despite the overthrow of the anti-French government at Athens. Thrice originally been awarded to Greece through the influence of the British.

Up to the present time the Turks have contented themselves in occupying towns in the neutral zone where there are no British troops. They have not undertaken any offensive action against the British soldiers.

The Turks are well supplied with war materials. It is estimated that they have sixty airplanes. British airplanes are on duty continuously watching the movements of the Turkish soldiers.

Cannot Save Constantinople

This city is calm, but there is much tension in the atmosphere. British officials admit that the allies could not hope to save Constantinople if the Turks advanced upon the city and an uprising occurred here at the same time.

Turks in Neutral Zone.

The Turks are reinforcing the troops that seized Kum Kale and Erekenak at the western end of the Dardanelles. Turkish cavalry has crossed the neutral zone from Bigha, occupying Ahmetli, 22 miles east of Niagara.

Hamid Bey, representative of the Angora government, said that Kemal would not allow the neutral zone to be used as a base for the Allies.

The teams were matched and, with the exception of one match, the preliminaries have been played off.

Last week the enthusiasts formed a Singles Tournament which lasted for the entire week. This aroused competition between the players and they made a request to the Principal for a doubles tournament. If Your Shoe Isn't Flexible

If the arch of your shoe isn't flexible like the arch of the foot, it prevents the foot muscles from exercising as Nature intended. And it is that restraint which accounts for many tired feet and weakened arches. But in the flexible-shank Cantleyver Shoe the muscles are exercised with every step. The shoe conforms with the foot; the muscles have free play, circulation is improved and the foot grows healthy and normal.

Cantleyvers are good-looking comfortable shoes, the lines are graceful, the leathers are of fine quality. They add much to your appearance in smartness, and in the easy carriage which they encourage. The natural inner sole line provides for room and allows the foot to lie in its comfortable straight-forward position. This—and the set of the heel—insure good posture.

When you wear a Cantleyver Shoe, the under-arch sole draws up to conform to the curve of the foot arch and supports it. This smooth fit and the freedom of the flexible shank keep the arches strong. Try a pair.

"BIG BERTHAS" DIM CHANCE OF A FRENCH-BRITISH BREACH

Washington, D. C.—The "Big Bertha" is likely to prove one of the most effective arguments for continuing the entente between Great Britain and France.

This opinion, advanced first by General Herr, Inspector-General of French Artillery and one of the heroes of Verdun, is receiving the serious consideration of British politicians and military experts alike, and probably will have its influence in the determination of British policy toward France, according to advices just received here from London.

With modern, long-range cannon, General Herr declares, France could control the English Channel and bombard many English cities including London, while Great Britain, with the same instruments of modern warfare, could level Lille, Le Havre, Arras or Amiens.

Could Increase Range of Guns. "The range of Germany's 'Big Berthas' used during the war reached 130 kilometres, but this could indubitably be increased," said General Herr. "One may be sure that the average range of artillery in the next war will be 140 kilometres and that, thanks to the betterment of metallurgy and ballistics, the range may attain even 200 kilometres. In such circumstances the Allies could keep under fire Westphalia, the Duchies of Hesse, Baden, Württemberg and even the whole district of Wiesbaden, in Bavaria."

"No material contingency could hamper the installation of long-range guns, which could be easily moved along the front, thanks to our important railway systems. Great Britain, to defend her coasts, would extend her zone of action to Visines and keep under her firing Bruges, Lille, Arras, Amiens, Le Havre and the south of Cherbourg and finally circle round the United Kingdom at a distance of 140 kilometres. On the other hand, French guns would keep under fire the mouth of the Meuse, also Harwich, London, Portsmouth, Southampton, Dorchester, Dartmouth and the coast of Cornwall and Bilbao."

From these premises General Herr draws the obvious inference that a war between Great Britain and France would be too disastrous to contemplate, hence the desirability of continuing the entente or good understanding which now exists.

Whole Coast Within Range. Discussing the subject from a naval point of view, General Herr points out that the "whole English coast would be under range of our guns, while at the same time the British fleet could easily naval base on any point of the French or Belgian coast.

"Such events are fortanately, unlikely," the General adds, but points out that, "people must, however, guard themselves against the unexpected."

It would be much more difficult to utilize the long-range guns on naval vessels, General Herr declares, because of the necessity of regulating firing at sea and, also, because men-of-war would be required to return to their base to remove worn-out material, thus reducing the offensive strength of squadrons.

Guns Invented by Germans. "The new type of long-range gun was first invented by the Germans, who, while attacking the British forces in March, 1918, simultaneously bombarded Paris," General Herr continues. "It is, however, untrue to assume that our engineers were entirely ignorant of this type of gun and that this came as a surprise."

"The invasion of our territory deprived us of the possibility of reaching objectives other than spots close to our own soil or in Belgium. Such gun wars of no immediate use to us, and we therefore considered it unnecessary to waste time by manufacturing them while our factories scarcely produced enough ammunition for our armies and those of several allies. Our experts knew exactly all necessary data and one may affirm without betraying any secrets that in the event of a new war France will be able to use extensively this new means of warfare."

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS OPEN CONVENTION

Entire Slate Shrouded in Uncertainty With Murphy in Control.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The 734 delegates comprising the Democratic state convention went into their initial session today with the entire slate of nominees from governor to state engineer, shrouded in uncertainty.

After many hours of conferences between the various elements represented in Syracuse, some of which lasted most of the night, the party slate still rested by common consent this morning with Charles F. Murphy the chieftain of Tammany Hall, whose control of a majority of delegates makes him the undisputed dictator of the meeting.

In the absence of any clarifying developments, the delegates will

Leaders of the boom for ex-governor Al Smith, expressed every confidence today in advance of the convention opening that Smith will dominate the ticket.

The friends of William R. Hearst, New York publisher, headed by Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, John H. McCooey of Brooklyn, and Edwin S. Harris, former chairman of the Democratic state committee, were equally confident that their efforts to nominate Mr. Hearst will be successful.

Between these two opposing camps several other candidates were mentioned.

Representative G. Ten Eyck of Albany and other names have not been so prominently mentioned.

Today's session of the convention was scheduled to be short and snappy, the prime feature being the keynote address delivered by Governor James J. Walker, one of Murphy's chief lieutenants.

In one letter, written Jan. 21, 1921, Miss Lavoy referred to her affair with Cressy as "some romance."

"The next time we meet, she grows angry and says, 'What is the story? You think of titles and so will I, just for fun. Ah, ha! here are a few I happened to think of. Take your pick.'

There followed a list of titles which included such fanciful names as "My Kentucky Sweetheart," "What is to be," "Kentucky Dreams," and "Oceans of Love."

On January 17, 1921, Miss Lavoy poured out her love for Cressy in a letter highly romantic.

"Darling boy," she wrote, "I have never been so handsome for anyone in my life. I know big is the only time I ever really and truly loved any one. As for your wife, darling boy, it stands this way. If we love each other, the next time we meet as we did today, my answer will be 'elsewhere in the same letter she told Cressy that "life seems empty without you," and declared that she had "many friends but only one sweetheart, you know." In closing, she wrote:

"The primroses are doing lovely. Am sending a little blossom for anyone who has been kissed many times by me. It is covered with sweet, pure love."

BAFFLING MYSTERY FOLLOWS GARAGE FIRE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 28.—Holding steadfastly to her story that she believes her husband had perished in the fire which destroyed a garage, Mrs. Gertrude Brenn, 22, bride was held by police today in a baffling "body mystery."

Search continued for the husband, Harry Brenn, proprietor of the ruined garage in which the charred remains of a human were found. Belief that Brenn is still alive is based on the investigation of the charred torso which disclosed it to be that of a young woman.

The authorities were endeavoring to link this body with that of Miss Celestia Schneider, 18, which was stolen from the grave in Mount Hope cemetery. The homicide squad found a broken shovel and bits of a shroud in the ruins of the garage.

Brenn is said to have carried about $15,000 worth of insurance, having just recently secured a $5,000 policy with a Kansas City company. His wife, the police say, had made preparations to return to Andernach, Germany, where she married Brenn when he was in the American army.

BANDITS LOOT OHIO BANK

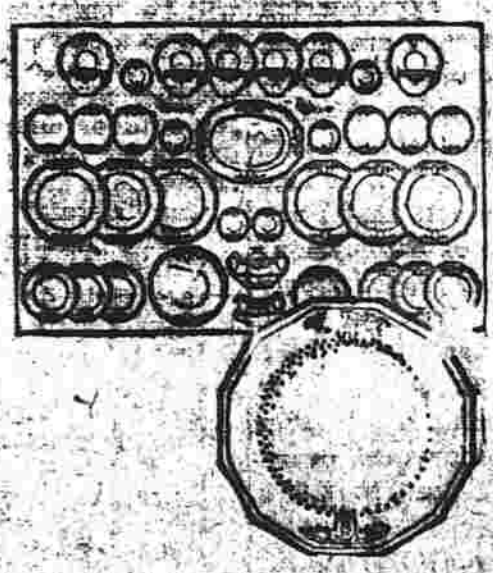

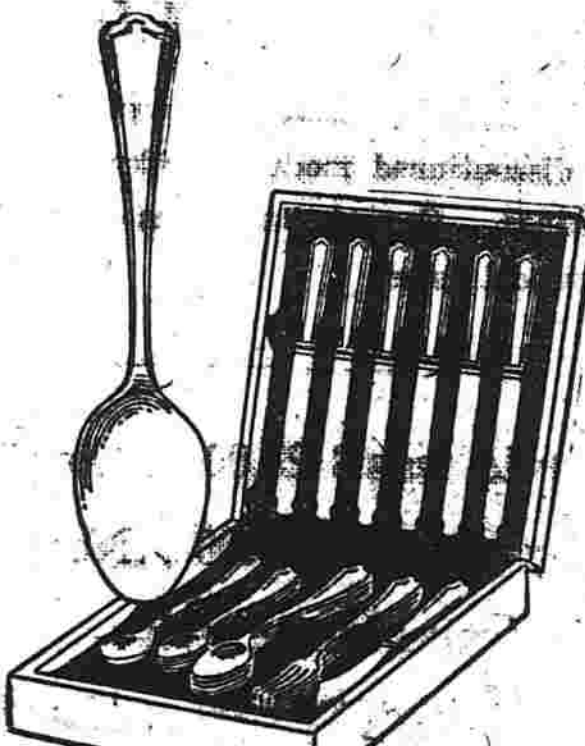

Cincinnati, Sept. 28.—Five unmasked bandits held up the Hamilton County Bank in Walnut Hills this morning and looted the safe of cash and securities estimated at $14,000, making their escape in an auto in which they drove up to the bank entrance. The men rushed into the bank, with drawn revolvers and shouted commands for those inside to open their hands. Early depositors were taken by surprise and were ordered to open their purses. The bandits then made a dash for the door.

THE NOVEMBER OUTLOOK

The most hidebound, dyed-in-the-wool, blown-in-the-bottle Republican does not venture the thought that the overwhelming defeat and repudiation of the Democratic Party in 1920 could remain forever static.

It is, however, indubitably true that the average American instinctively prefers a Republican government to a Democratic administration.

David Lawrence, one of the shrewdest political diagnosticians who write for the Democratic press, is taking a swing around the circle with the intention of visiting every important political center before the November elections.

So far Mr. Lawrence has reported on the pivotal states of New York and Ohio and he finds basic political conditions in both states very similar.

He does find an outspoken criticism of the Harding administration and especially of Congress in relation to the strikes and to certain legislation but he admits that it does not mean and cannot constitute any change in the direction of the political tide.

No government can please everybody and it is inevitable that the Republicans should be sharply criticised at certain times and places.

Whether this fear is well grounded or not there is no doubt that most of the colleges are making registration records. Harvard, for instance, opens its 287th year with close to 3,000 students.

His opponents contend that if the men are incompetent, intellectually inert and uneager the fault rests with the colleges which have full control over admissions and retentions and which have the means of converting unalacrity into alertness and uneagerness into eagerness.

Those college presidents who have made their views public thoroughly agree with the Dartmouth head. It is an interesting controversy which cannot fail to benefit the colleges and education eventually.

"DISGRACEFUL CONDUCT"

Fortunately it is not often that such a peculiar defiance and disrespect of the law takes place as that in a New York court the other day when four Baltimore detectives kidnapped and spirited away a prisoner in the midst of a habeas corpus proceeding.

Walter Socolow, wanted for banditry in Maryland, was apprehended by New York police and held upon a fugitive warrant. He sued for a writ of habeas corpus which was dismissed by the presiding justice.

The decision of the government to confine prohibition enforcement to the three mile limit hardly could be different. There was no real justification for extending the right of search and seizure to twelve miles from shore, especially as the United States has consistently opposed that claim by other nations and is itself engaged in the transportation and sale of liquor beyond the three-mile limit.

Even had the recent negotiations with Great Britain turned out otherwise and the two nations had agreed to an extension of territorial waters to twelve miles that result would not settle possible and probable difficulties with other maritime nations.

DETECT FALSE COINS AT SUBWAY GATES

Ellis Island Romance Nipped in the Bud by Cold Hearted Authorities.

New York, Sept. 27.—No longer do men scoff at the mention of women's "tea rooms," as places for daily nourishment. The day has vanished when they stood for a fragile slice of cinnamon toast and a chocolate éclair.

Maybe, it's because women, themselves, are doing harder and more responsible work in the world that has turned their thoughts toward real food. At any rate, I have discovered that nowhere in this city of chop houses and grill rooms does one get more substantial roast beef than in the cafeteria of the American Women's Association, at 218 Madison avenue, and whether it's because the Association is composed of business and professional women or whether they enjoy seeing the number of men that flock to their restaurant, I am not certain.

Approaching more grave unemployment

Return the official that there were employed in England, with 1,000 more receiving

During the past nine months of the British Treasury has received $55,000,000 in gold.

Trade situation is somewhat better than during the past year, but the winter's prospect is gloomy for a large portion of the English population, which seems almost unimpaired.

Unemployment has ceased and there is no slackness in the season, it is evident. The Government is carrying out a program of national works in an effort to relieve the situation, but there is little hope that the Government will be able to absorb the percentage of the workless labor.

House Cleaning Time Will Soon Be Here

How are you going to do house cleaning this fall? The same old, tedious way or the new electrical way.

People who own Royal Electric Cleaners never have to do "house-cleaning." Each fall and spring they take their rugs and mattresses out to sun—nothing more is necessary for the daily use of the Royal keeps the house perfectly clean.

And the Royal does not stop at rugs. Mattresses, walls, draperies, clothes and furniture cushions are just as easily cleaned.

DOES LAUNDRY WORK AND HOUSEWORK TOO

Surprised to Find Herself Feeling So Well

Taunton, Mass.—"I used to have pains in my back and legs so badly, with other troubles that women sometimes have, that my doctor ordered me to stay in bed a week in every month. It didn't do me much good, so one day after talking with a friend who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about the same troubles I had, I thought I would try it also. I find that I can work in the laundry all through the time and do my household work, too. Last month I was so surprised at myself to be up and around and feeling so good while before I used to feel so completely lifeless. I have told some of the girls who work with me and have such troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I tell them how it has helped me. You can use my testimonial for the good of others."—Mrs. BLANCH SILVIA, 69 Grant St., Taunton, Mass.

ARMED MEN RANSACK WOMAN'S APARTMENTS

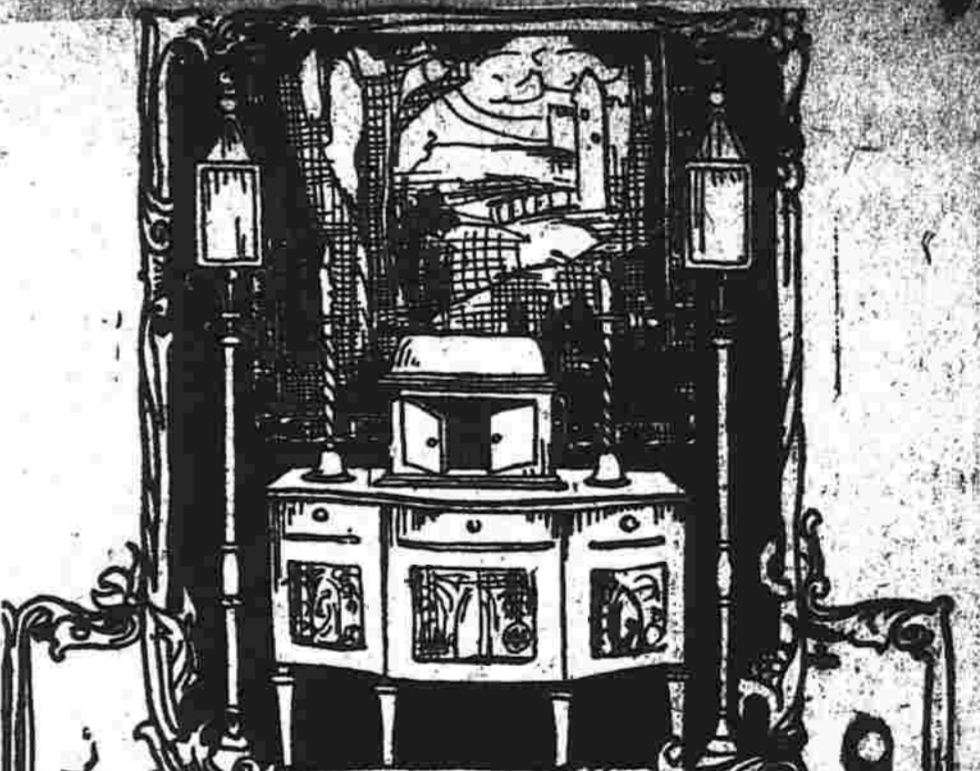

Mysterious Invasion of Rooms Perplexes the Chicago Police.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—A perplexing mystery baffled police today who were investigating the invasion of the apartment of Mrs. Paul Biese, wife of the well-known orchestra leader of "jazz" fame by two armed men.

Mrs. Biese, it was revealed, for the first time, has been estranged from her husband since a year ago last February and has been living with her sister, Miss Dorothy Ellis, a former show girl.

Two men, following a mysterious telephone call to the apartment last night, forced their way into the apartment, ransacked the rooms, and when Miss Ellis offered a protest struck her in the mouth and beat her. Mrs. Biese, who locked herself in a bedroom of the apartment, screamed from a window for help and the men fled. Robbery was not a motive, police said today, although the apartment was ransacked thoroughly.

tion to the Greek populace, said: "Since my return on December 25th, 1920, I have done everything in accordance with the constitution for the defense of my country and the better interests of my country. For day after day my country has led our country into a critical situation. But Greece now, as in many other instances in the course of her long history, will again overcome the difficulties and continue her brilliant path provided she faces the dangers with a united front, assisted by her powerful friends.

"I am not wishing to leave with the slightest suspicion existent that I prevented the sacred unity of the Greeks or that I tried to prevent assistance from our friends. I have abdicated royal power and authority at this moment. My oldest son, George, is your king. I am sure that the entire nation will rally round him and support him. I feel that my own sacrifice in view of the critical situation of the hour is slight."

Former premier Triantafyllas explained the activities of the government in the revolutionary crisis, saying: "After the ultimatum from the revolutionaries we sent General Papoulas out to Laurium to talk with the rebel chiefs. He arrived at midnight and began at once to parley with the ringleaders of the uprising. The only thing that the government could do was to await developments in the meantime. Constantine abdicated and the revolutionaries began to approach the city."

BRISTOL BETTORS' BANK BOOKS TO BE LOOSENED UP SATURDAY LOCALS PLAY AT WILLIMANTIC

Fans Anxious to Learn Who Will Represent Silk City in Deciding Game—Tribe at Thread City Sunday.

Manchester fans are wondering if Bristol's baseball world will keep the rubber bands on their bank rolls Saturday. Last year, Bristol money was as scarce as bathing suits in Iceland.

Capital City to the home of the New Departure. Manchester has a team battling strength of .357, based on the last ten games of the season when the team hit its real stride.

Deep sleep is in the wind. This adds the element of mystery to the game. If the Manchester backers were sure who would start the battle on the mound they would know how to place their money.

Willimantic Sunday. Manchester will play at Willimantic Sunday. The Thread City aggregation has been bolstered up during the past two months and a real snappy ball team placed on the field.

It is said that Big Jack Burkhardt, who tamed the thread makers earlier in the season, will be sent against them on the Sabbath. Burkhardt, when right, can make the Willimantic outfielders and the Art Johnson had been knocked for a row of Iberian igloos, still lingers in the memories of the fans.

Yankees Get Better Than Even Break in Team Playing for Classic Series

World's Champs Weak in Box This Year—Outfield the Only Department that Giants are Able to Hold Their Own.

New York, Sept. 22.—Team for team and man for man, the New York Yankees outrank the New York Giants and should come home on the bit in the majority of games in the impending world's series, conceded exclusively to what incurable optimists of the place are pleased to call "the big town," for the second successive year.

Joyed a none too successful season, but it takes a curve ball pitcher to stop the Yanks, and Jess is all of that. For this reason, young Jonnard, who has won six out of seven on the season, may not get by. He has nothing but a good fast ball.

If Barrows can repeat his 1921 performance and Nott comes back to his best, the Giants' stock would boom accordingly. These are "if" premises, however.

Offensively, the Giants carry the verdict by some considerable margin; defensively, the Yanks enjoy a slight edge. Taking both departments together, the Giants are the pick.

At first base Pipp holds Kelly even in hitting and, judged on his present form, is a better fielder. At one time neither could go to his left for a batted ball, but Pipp has learned the secret somehow. Kelly has the better arm, but the opportunity to make use of it may never arise.

Offensively, they are a much more polished and consistent club than the Yankees. They are better hitters, faster on the bases and more versatile all around, but the margin of the Yank's defensive superiority is pronounced; that it overcomes everything, pitchers will always win a short series, and the Yanks have them.

Following is a comparison of positions: Catchers. Wally Schang, who will handle all the games for the Yankees, is a better catcher than either Frank Snyder or Earl Smith, the Giant brace stringers. Mechanically, he is no better than Snyder and doesn't think any quicker or more clearly, but he can get much more out of a ball club by his hustle and fight.

There is such a thing as a catcher keeping a team keyed up, for he handles the ball more than any other player and can inspire his mates by the fire and energy he puts into his work. Schang can do this, Snyder can not.

Smith doesn't figure. He is nothing but a mechanical catcher, equally dangerous with Schang and Snyder as a hitter, but not the best man in the world in a big series. Too irremovable.

As a second-string proposition he tops Hoffmann and De Vormer, of the Yanks, but neither of these latter will show, unless Schang is injured. Wally is just as consistent a hitter as Snyder and will hit them just as far when needed. He gets out of it.

Pitchers. Nothing to it but the Yankees, they can muster Joe, Bush, one of the league's leading pitchers; Bob Hawkey, who won more than twenty games; Carl Mays and Walter Coy, stars of the 1921 series and being back to form after an individual season, and Sam Jones, like he improved, against Nehf, J. J. Burns, McQuillen, Scott and Ryan, should be more than enough.

Traveling at their present speed, they should win two games, and at least one. That would be a simple victory to be divided among them. The Yankees' pitchers are not what they were in 1921. Art Nehf, who was carried under the strain of trying the club all season; Tony Douglas, who gave McQuillen in a constant loss; and Ryan and Scott, who were out of it.

It is now almost an assured fact that Ruth will be the champion home run hitter of the major leagues this year.

HORNBY THE CHAMP. New York, Sept. 23.—If Rogers Hornsby, of the St. Louis Cardinals can maintain his present pace for the remaining four games scheduled, he will be the tenth player in baseball history to hit above the .400 mark and the first National League player to attain that goal in 22 years. The last National League player to hit above .400 was the late Ed Delahanty, who hung up a mark of .403 in 1899.

It is now almost an assured fact that Ruth will be the champion home run hitter of the major leagues this year.

The Brains That Guide

Boards are supposed to be long, narrow and wooden, but these three gents, who constitute the Champion Giants' Board of Strategy, are nothing like that. Left to right, they are: Hughey Jennings (including freckles), Manager John McGraw and Coach Cozy Dolan.

LOCAL SPORT CHATTER

The average person craves excitement. Saturday afternoon at Clark's stadium in Hartford, Manchester and Bristol will meet in the deciding game of the series.

The Atlas football team will meet at the South Office of the Herald this evening at 7 o'clock sharp.

The "I told you so" club held their annual meeting last night and consoled each other with the facts that they had picked the Giants to sue.

No matter who wins the American League flag, they will meet just the same.

The manager of the Liberty basketball wishes to correct a statement made by the Spartans in last night's issue. The statement said that the Spartans had arranged a game with the Liberty which is untrue. However, if the Spartans want a game the manager of the Liberty says the teams can meet if the manager of the Spartans interviews him and besides this they will have to get a floor to play the game on. If the Spartans' manager wishes to do these things the Liberty will play them, and if they do not, the game will not be played.

The Arrows will hold a meeting tonight in the Herald office at 7 o'clock. Matters of importance will be discussed, and every member of the team is urged to be present.

The All-Stars is the name of a new team that has been organized. They wish to respond to the challenge made last night by the Spartans. The former team would like to arrange a game for any time that the Spartans wish, that is if a floor can be found. So, if the Spartans wish to arrange a game or a series, they can leave their answer at the South Herald office.

The main thing that is bothering the Juvenile teams in town this season is the fact that a floor cannot be found on which they can play their games. It is too bad that the youngsters have to go without a floor. For they are now in training for the time when they will perhaps represent the town, and therefore they should receive some attention.

The Charter Oak football team will hold a practice Friday night in front of Frazar's shop on Charter Oak street. All members are urged to attend.

Basketball players are getting tuned up at the school street Recreation Center these cool nights. The younger teams are selecting their players for the season and the Herald will give them a boost to put their teams across. Drop around to the Oak street office and let's have your dope for the coming season.

The Young Giants will hold a practice Sunday morning at the Charter Oak lot at ten o'clock. All members are requested to attend.

The eighth grade boys of the Barnard school are organizing a football team. All those wishing a tryout should report at the Charter Oak lot Friday at 3:30.

The Cubs football team will play the Emeralds at the Charter Oak street grounds on Saturday afternoon at 3:30. This is the Cubs' first game and they expect to come home with the bacon. A practice will be held at Charter Oak street. All members are requested to be on hand.

OLD TIMERS PICK THE GIANTS TO WIN

Dan Brouthers, Once Famous Batter and Amos Rusie, Once Famous Pitcher Give Their Views of the Series.

New York, Sept. 22.—(N. Y.)—Joseph Leslie Bush has won 26 out of 22 American League games for the New York Yankees but he won't win a game from the Giants in the World Series, according to the theory of Dan Brouthers, champion hitter of another day and age. Dan holds Joseph in such slight esteem when coupled with Giants hitters that he freely predicts the early and complete downfall of the American League ace. The latter, he says is "made to order" for the Giants.

Brouthers, fat, bulbous of nose, and wearing a brown velvet vest, was one of two central figures in a faning session today. The other was Amos Rusie, speed ball king of the nineties. He likewise favors the Giants, basing his prediction on the belief that McGraw's hitters will not be fooled by Brouthers' pitchers.

There is already more fact than fancy in what this old timer says. The Giants are a free swinging team that takes very kindly to fast ball pitchers. Consider Dixie Vance, of the Dodgers, as an example. Pitching for a second division club, Dixie has won 18 games, six of them shut outs. He has not been able to finish a game against the Giants. Grover Alexander, once star pitcher of the Cubs, is another speed ball artist who fared very poorly against the McGraw entry.

Of the opposite school, the venerable Bush holds that in the modern game with the lively ball and slugging a paramount issue, pitching does not exert the influence it did once. Therefore, taking into account the Giants' greater speed and more consistent hitting, he looks for the National League representatives to some home on these Gardens.

It is all good, plausible reasoning but the sentimental side of it must be reckoned. Rusie and Brouthers are National Leaguers and have every reason to think kindly of John McGraw. It is barely possible that an old-time American League can advance arguments just as glib in favor of the Yanks. That is baseball and always will be.

CLERMONT JOHNSON WANTS O. K. New York, Sept. 22.—After passing in review before members of the New York State Athletic Commission in a gymnasium workout, Clem Johnson, Giant negro from Beitlah Gumann, was given official sanction to meet Harry Witt tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in his first, Johnson faced Indian Stanton, an unknown, Jack Renault, the Canadian and George O'Dwyer, a protégé of Jack Johnson, in brief bouts.

DESCAMPES PROTESTS. Paris, Sept. 22.—Francois Descampes, manager of Georges Carpentier, late afternoon protested to the French boxing federation against the knockout decision awarded to "Baby Face" Neilsen in his heavy bout with Carpentier. According to the federation, Neilsen will fight the winner of the Carpentier-Morgan match in London in November.

THE LATEST RECRUIT TO THE YANKS OF DAREDEVIL AVIATORS IS NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD GEORGE E. PICKENHART OF FLORENCE, N. C. At a recent meeting of the National Aeronautics Association, Pickenhart was named as the latest recruit to the Yanks of daredevil aviators.

BETTING ON THE SERIES

New York, Sept. 22.—The largest world series bet recorded to date has been made on the Yankees, at odds of about seven to five. The wager was made by Jay O'Brien who laid $2,700 against $2,000 that the Yankees are the prevailing odds, although some are holding out for eight to five and better. A commission of $2,500, to be placed on the Yanks at the prevailing odds, has been received by Jack Doyle, from Baron Long, of California.

Daredevil

John Franklin Baker. Before Ruth's time, known as "Big Boy" because he won the 1917 world series for the Yankees, Baker is a nineteen-year-old boy from Florence, N. C. He is a member of the great team of the Athletics in the same fall.

From Now Until the Final Decision is Reached in the League The Herald Will Run This Feature Daily.

Walter C. Hoge. Judged on his season's record, a fine first baseman and hitter, the Yankees in point of service, being the sole remnant of the old machine that assisted when O'Rourke, Ruppert and Huston took over the club. Played semi-pro ball around Hastings, Mich., in 1912 and caught on with Grand Rapids in the Central League. Didn't stick. Played the 1911-1912 seasons with Kalamazoo in the Southern Michigan League up with Detroit for a while. The 1912 and 1913 seasons, down with Providence in the International League during a part of the latter season, hitting .444 in fourteen games.

Up with Detroit to start the 1914 season, down with Rochester to finish it. Sold at the water-gate to assist the forlorn Yanks of 1914. Been with them since. Best season in 1918, when he hit .304 in ninety-one games. Sometimes called Pipp the Pickler, but only when he is going well. Born Chicago, February 7, 1893. Left handed exclusively; height 6 feet 2 inches; weight 189 pounds.

Aaron Lee Ward. Second baseman of the New York Yankees, sensation-but not altogether steady as a fielder and merely an ordinary hitter, although given to shooting them far on occasions. Started with Little Rock of the Southern Association, in 1915, played shortstop for Montgomery of the South Atlantic League, hitting .348 in 1916, then back to Little Rock in 1917 and on to Charleston before the end of the campaign. Came up to the Yankees in the Fall as a shortstop and sat on the bench for three seasons, but finally broke into the line-up at third base in 1920.

Born, Booneville, Ark., August 28, 1897. bats and throws right handed; height, 5 feet 11 1/2 inches; weight, 160 pounds. Lewis Everett Scott. Star shortstop of the New York Yankees and perhaps the best defensive infielder in baseball. Not a prolific hitter but a tidy person in the pinches. Is the iron man of baseball, having established a record for consecutive games played and is still going without a break. Started his career with Kokomo of the Northern Indiana League in 1908, and thence to Toledo of the Ohio and Pennsylvania leagues and up to the Boston Red Sox in 1914. He was shipped to the American Association before the season started, and called in the Fall.

Got a steady job with the Sox the following year and never looked back. Traded to the Yankees with Ben and Jones, for Pockinpan, Collins, Piercy and Quinn, at the start of the present season. His best year, 1919, when he hit .378. Born, Bluffton, Ind., November 19, 1892; bats and throws right handed; height, 5 feet 9 1/2 inches; weight, 154 pounds.

Joseph A. Dugan. Star third baseman of the New York Yankees and known as "Jumping Joe" because of his habit of turning up missing every now and then when he was with the Athletics. Joseph was not a howling success at the outset, hitting only .184 in forty-three games in 1917 and .180 in 130 games in 1918. He seemed to be a mark for any good pitcher who could work the corners, but Joe had no eye at all for good batted balls at that time. He improved rapidly in 1919, hitting .371, and in 1920, he reached his high-water mark, .322 in 153 games. Until this time he had alternated at second base and shortstop, but in 1921 was shifted to third, in a natural position.

Just before the start of the present campaign he was sent to Boston via Washington in a big three-cornered deal, and several months ago followed the beaten path from the Red Sox to the Yankees. The deal that was heartily condemned by various sections of the country outside New York. Dugan was born in Mahanoy City, Pa., May 12, 1897, bats and throws right handed; is 5 feet 11 1/2 inches in height and weighs 156 pounds.

POCKETS.
Pockets are the things that will make a man defy a 100-degree-in-the-shade sun, all wrapped up in a vest and a heavy coat. He does it because if he discards the vest and coat he'd have to have a wheelbarrow to cart around the junk he keeps stored in his pockets and never uses, but that would make him feel about as comfortable as a Mississippi stevedore at a White House reception, where he to leave it at home.

Pockets are the places where Friend Wife finds the letter she gave you to mail a week or ten days ago, and pockets are the things that get holes in 'em and make us lose their dimes and locker keys, etcetera.

As Linc Bascombe points out pockets were originally the exclusive property of man, where he could hide hands when they seemed too conspicuous and where he could conveniently drop anything he'd like to carry along home and still leave his hands free to do the glad hand stunt and maneuver a cigar.

And then along comes this equal rights and everything and woman annexed pockets. She's getting away with 'em too.

With us men folks every pocket has a meaning all its own. For instance, just take the left hip trouser's pocket and there usually reposes the family wallet with its two dollar bills (currency) and $78 bills (pay-able). In the right hip pant's pocket, originally made so eminent tailors tell us, to hold a little affair-orce known as a flask, now rests the handkerchief. And there's the side pants pockets for keys and knives, and a little pocket for change, and a watch and maybe a couple of puzzle doo-dads.

Then, as Bob Van Hise observes, there's the vest pocket where we put strangers' business cards that are all engraved "everything and too nice to throw away, and a pocket for pencils and a nail file and maybe a comb and some cards of our own and a box of matches and maybe some smoking and some toothpicks and a fountain pen.

And the side coat pockets where we put everything till they sag out like a couple of toy balloons with oversized warts, and another change pocket and a front pocket here we carry cigars and an inside pocket where we stow away enough ballast to float a balloon for a day.

In fact about the only thing we're not successfully getting away with via the pocket route is a hammer and perhaps a saw.

Pockets became a real nuisance to Olmecs Fred Dewey, only when a man is unfortunate enough to have two suits, 'cause it takes

A half hour to transfer the accumulated debris from the pockets of one suit, to the pockets

Park Theater

Is it the actress herself or the glamour of the footlights that is the magnet that attracts the men to the stage idol like moths to a candle? Statistics would seem to prove that it is the theatre's halo of romance and not the woman herself. Take for an example a chorus girl. Before she begins her theatrical career, graduating from the ranks of the shop girl, stenographer or factory employee, she is surrounded by men, generally confined to the men or boys of her own class. But the minute she reaches the smile across the footlights she is sought by men of wealth and culture. Staid business men compete with each other for her smiles and men of affairs are delighted to be seen in her company in the smart restaurants and cabarets.

And when she becomes a star or prima donna the doors of our best society are thrown open to her. But woe unto her if she delays making a matrimonial alliance until too late. Her fair weather friends melt away like the dew before a Summer sun. This would seem to prove that it is the stage and not the woman that attracts.

And when a man marries an actress—and she gives up the stage for the finer duties of the home, how many times do we find this husband after a few years—haunting the stage door and basking in the smiles of one of her former sisters of the footlights?

In "Curtain" Katherine MacDonald's latest picture, this subject is most convincingly handled by the author, Miss MacDonald, as a foot-light favorite and the toast of the town, is married to a man of wealth after a whirlwind courtship. But after a few years absence from the stage, he grows tired of her and seeks romance at the hands of her successor in the limelight. An entirely satisfactory finale occurs, but not until some impressive traumas on this great question have been presented.

"Curtain" will be the first National attraction at the Park Theatre, to-night. Coming Friday and Saturday, Betty Compton and Tom Moore in "Across the Border."

Circle Theater

The feature picture at the Circle theater this evening and to-morrow will be James Oliver Curwood's famous story, "The Valley of Silent Men."

Away up in the Canadian Rockies, amid the mighty forces of Nature, a man must be a man even to survive. "Kent, the Tracker," a corporal of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, as he was known throughout the land, was trailing a fur thief, when he was shot from ambush. After "getting his man" he had just strength to ride to the nearest cabin, where he finds his friend, Jacques Radison, standing over the body of John Barkley, an outlaw fur trader, who had been strangled with a strand of woman's hair. Radison is accused of the crime, which Kent, who believes he has only a few days to live, takes upon himself. Quite unexpectedly upon his return, comes Marete, a French Canadian girl. She learns of Kent's confession and sacrifices for her brother Jacques. At the point of a gun, Marete delivers Kent from jail, secretes him in the home of Keady, Inspector of the Post, on the same night that Keady is shot by an unknown murderer from a window.

Marete and her sweetheart elude the police who are in hot pursuit, by means of a short cut through the mountains. Their safety lies in getting to Marete's valley. The mountains prove dangerous. Marete falls from a peak and is injured. The journey is continued after a short delay and they reach Marete's cabin in time to hear the confession of the two murders from the lips of Pierre, Marete's father. His daughter's story, Pierre's confession, and the fate of the "Silent Men" radiates a brilliant picture. The Path, Venus and Comedy, also be known.

The appearance of Boyle, famous blind entertainer, and his daughter, Grace, will be the attraction of the Circle to-night and to-morrow. Boyle is an accomplished musician as a humorist and his daughter also gained a wide reputation as an entertainer. They will appear at 7:30 afternoon and evening performances.

RIFLE PLANNED BY MARINES AIDED MARKSMEN AT MILAN
Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—The history of the U. S. Rifle Team which succeeded in defeating teams from other nations competing in the international Rifle Matches, recently concluded at Milan, Italy, is largely attributed to the model rifle used by the American riflemen in the matches.

The rifle is of the regulation Springfield type, to which certain improvements were added by the Marines. The new model has a heavy barrel and a new type of gun rest, especially designed to support the weight of the rifle and aid the marksman in maintaining a steady hold. It has an adjustable sling swivel, a front sight attachment in which various sights may be fitted, and a shoulder- hook, which holds the butt of the rifle close to the shoulder. The latter innovation was adapted from the old Schutzen rifle.

Ten rifles were fitted with the new devices by the U. S. Marines at their workshop on South Broad Street, this city, and forwarded to Quantico, Va., where try-outs for the Milan Matches were conducted. The new model met with instant favor, and were taken to Milan by the American riflemen. It is believed the new model aided greatly in securing the final victory, and especially in helping to defeat the Swiss riflemen who for a long time were invincible in international matches.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poisons Start to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours. Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenbur's Sure Converter of Rheumatism does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest traces of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment. Allenbur's has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the patient was helpless. Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenbur's, who for many years suffered the tortments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenbur's decisively cures his or her ailment, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above every instance. Marshall Drug Co., South Manchester, can supply you.

POSTOFFICE EMPLOYEES

Washington, Sept. 28.—The Post-Office Department is now engaged in the development of a system of tests and efficiency ratings to be applied in determining an employee's "conduct performance." The convention of the national association of postmasters was informed today by William C. Sullivan, of the division of postal services, that the system, designed as an experiment, was inadequate and unsatisfactory.

"In devising a new plan," he said, "great effort has been made to provide a known factor on which a person you do yourselves an injury or injustice for you thus deprive yourselves of a safe gauge for your judgment of the relative worth of things in your offices. A person's intelligence must be a factor in determining his value, but we cannot attempt to make a person's unfavorable reaction on the basis of judgment of his worth."

The new system, which it is hoped may soon be promulgated, afforded means to reach employees to establish their worth and the postmasters and supervisors to fairly rate his capacity and value to the service.

MONTE CRISTO SET LEFT TO PLEASE CALIFORNIANS

Picturehouse French Village, Balboa, Cal. $30,000

TOW A SHOW PLACE

Some Is Replica of Marcellus Waterfront With Cobblestone Street and Sea Wall

What is obviously the most picturesque "location" yet built for motion pictures in a French fishing village constructed at Balboa, Cal. It was used in several of the important scenes in the William Fox special "Monte Cristo," directed by Emmett J. Flynn. Books in the office of Richard E. Sibley, chief art and technical director for the Fox West Coast Studios, Hollywood, California show the initial cost to have been $30,000. The entire set was left to the citizens of Balboa at their request. "Monte Cristo" is the next attraction at the Circle. There are two streets in the village, one of them fronting on the ocean, and each reflect the picturesque architecture of the simple folk of the Napoleonic period. The homes, taverns, stores, and shipping offices, are faithful reproductions of the water front of Marcellus, France as it came from old prints and etchings in the possession of New York and New Orleans French historical societies loaned to Mr. Sibley and even cobbling of the street to get the desired result and to show Marcellus as it was when Edmund Dantes, later "Monte Cristo" sailed home in the good ship Pharon. It was even necessary to build cobbles and crabs to construct the sea wall so vividly described by Dumas in his wonderful narrative.

It was along this sea wall that the Pharon was warped, to be greeted by M. Morrel, owner of the vessel. But a stone's throw away may be seen the tavern of the miserly Caderousse, from which came Dantes, here, to greet his returning son. Further down the street is the home of the lovely Mercedes, sweetheart of the young sailor, who awaited so eagerly his homecoming.

In response to the wishes of the merchants and residents of Balboa, William Fox, after completion of the photoplay scenes, generously left the picturesque village standing. Tourists driving down the coast from Los Angeles visit the set as one of the show places of the neighborhood.

Where Extra Service is Demanded Firestone Cords Predominate

WHEREVER the excursions and tests of tires are most severe—there you will find Firestone Cords in universal use.

The hard jobs seek Firestone. And so well has Firestone responded under difficult conditions—so consistently has mileage mounted to totals impossible to obtain from ordinary tires that today Most Miles per Dollar is the buying slogan of touring motorists everywhere.

The blending and tempering of rubber, gum dipped cord construction, air-bay cure—all these mileage methods have been developed by men whose life work is the production of constantly increasing tire values for the public.

Users in this vicinity verify Firestone reputation, and report almost daily some new Firestone record of extra distance travelled.

Don't be satisfied to buy tires—buy values—the longest mileage at the lowest price consistent with such reliable performance.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Truck Breaks White Way Standard Which Misses Hitting Woman By Inches.

A three ton truck owned by S. Vogels & Sons of Hartford, driven by Stanley Clark, of Wethersfield, backed into a White Way standard in front of I. P. Campbell's store at Depot Square today. Miss Pauline Potter, of 53 Spruce street, was hit on the heel by the falling standard. Patrolman Wirtalla investigated.

According to Clark, the driver, he was backing his truck close to the curb and did not realize that he was so close. The truck hit the standard and struck it over narrowly missing Miss Potter.

The woman was taken to Murphy's drug store and later to her home by Patrolman Wirtalla. Her injury consists of a badly bruised left heel.

SELLS SKIMMED MILK AND IS FINED $32

Sample Sent to Laboratories and Found to Be Below Standard—Dealer Could Give No Explanation.

Joseph Kalinowski of Florence street, was brought before Judge Johnson in the police court this morning on the charge of selling milk that was below standard grade. The attention of the milk inspector was called to the fact that samples of milk taken from Kalinowski's wagon and analyzed by the state authorities in New Haven were far below standard.

Mrs. Henry Nettleton of the local health board and W. J. Warner an inspector of the dairy and food department, had taken samples of the milk sold by Kalinowski when it was sent to the office of the dairy commissioner for analysis, it was found that the milk had been skimmed. Mr. Kalinowski could give no explanation. He told the judge that he thought his milk looked better than that of many other dealers he had seen.

The prosecuting attorney said that it was despicable business for any man to sell milk that had been skimmed for the real article. He believed the man should be punished severely. He said that Kalinowski had been warned on a previous occasion. Mr. Warner said that the milk in question had been deliberately skimmed. The tests showed this.

RECORD RUN IS MADE BY SOUTH END DEPT.

Local Firemen Arrive in Glastonbury in Time to Save Russell Tryon's Home.

A record run by Hose Company No. 2 of the South Manchester Fire Department at 10 o'clock last night to the home of Russell Tryon in Glastonbury was made in time to save the house which had caught fire. By using chemicals the firemen were able to confine the blaze to the pantry and a small cupboard. The pantry was gutted and the loss will be close to $300 it was stated today. At ten o'clock last night a telephone call from Russell's home was received by Chief O. J. Atwood of the South Manchester Fire Department. He notified Hose Co. ASSOCIATION DIRECTORS VOTE BOWLING EXPENSES

To Allow Pin Topplers $50 to Start Season—$25 for Soccer Players—Smoker to Be Held October 13.

At a meeting last evening of the directors of the Men's Athletic Association of Cheney Brothers it was voted to allow the Mill Bowling League fifty dollars for the association treasury for expenses for the season which is approaching. The league will need far more than that to complete the season but other means will be taken of obtaining the money. Inasmuch as fifty dollars is the average amount of conducting other leagues in the season it was decided to allow the bowlers the same amount.

Twenty-five dollars was voted to the Soccer League of the mills to purchase jerseys for the players. Other jerseys have already been awarded the soccer players and the total expense of their league will run around fifty dollars. Two soccer footballs will be purchased for the league and the money to purchase these was voted at a previous meeting.

In commenting upon allowing this money from the treasury it was learned last night from Treasurer Thomas Chambers that there is now $523.30 in the association's account.

The date of October 13 was reported by Thomas Chambers as that chosen for an association smoker. It was voted to run the affair provided expenses were kept within $200. Fred Hansen, president of the Volley Ball league was present and reported that he was planning on getting an early start with volleyball this season. It was also reported that Harry Benson would get the basketball league started as soon as he learned definitely what nights the league could use the Recreation Center gymnasium.

ANOTHER SMOKER.

Tom Chambers to Secure Boxers to Entertain A. A. Members. Another Athletic Association smoker which should prove to be one of the biggest times of the year for the men in the mills is planned as a result of the meeting of the directors of the Men's Association held last evening. Tom Chambers has been named chairman of the affair and has secured the services of a number of boxers to exhibit their ability before the A. A. members. The smoker is to be held Friday evening October 13. None but Athletic Association members will be allowed to attend the smoker. Those who are not members may join the association before the date of the smoker and those who have their membership cards may receive them by paying five cents extra.

Three good boxing bouts will be staged on the evening of the smoker and one wrestling exhibition will be put on. In addition an attempt will be made to stage the Flying Trio which has made such a hit locally. Refreshments will be served and they will consist of cider and frankfurts in rolls. There will be plenty of cigars, cider and frankfurts for all who attend.

The whole affair will be gratis for members of the association. The membership numbers a little over three hundred now and it is expected that a number will join in order to attend the smoker.

HIGHWAY IN GOOD SHAPE.

Town Engineer Bowen told a Herald man this morning after he read a brief article in the Open Forum Tuesday night, he took a trip over the road from Dr. Welton's driveway on Porter street to the Porter school house and said that he could find nothing the matter with the highway. Besides having a good highway, they have a gravel walk all the way out there, Mr. Bowen said.

TO ROUND UP DOGS.

Dog Warden Wirtalla is planning to make a round-up of all the dogs in town next week. He says complaints have come to him that many of the dogs are running around without the necessary tags. Every dog that is found without a tag will be picked up and the owner will be brought into court for failing to obey the law.
