GIANTS SUCCESS DUE TO DEFENSE

Pitching Staff Though Wobbly Gets Gilt Edge Support—Thirty-Nine Errorless Games to Date.

New York, Aug. 20.—Granting that a sound defense doesn't win ball games, merely saves them, it is nevertheless a fact to daily with the New York Giants had played thirty-nine errorless games, no less, up to and including August 13.

At that moment the club was runner and some were pleased to observe that hitting was the answer, since it is no Masonic secret that Giant pitching is a very sad affair, indeed.

However, it was simply a case of the punch in the batting order scoring enough runs to win games and the infield and outfield defense preventing the pitchers from being scored upon often enough to lose something ready won.

Better still, many of them came in big series. The Pirates and the Reds happen to be the Giants' most likely rivals, if any.

Incidentally, the McGraw entry has been more or less impartial about the business, every club in the league having been favored with an imperfect performance at one time or another.

The funny Phils are among the chief mourners. They have watched the Giants play seven errorless games this season, while the Dodgers and the Braves, favorites of fate, have witnessed only two.

Twice in recent months have the champions played four successive errorless games. Twice have they played errorless doubleheaders.

Can you beat it? Not with a horse-whip.

CHILDREN AND FAT.

Travelers in Europe have frequently informed us through the medium of the public prints that our friends overseas resent the extension of American advice unaccompanied by something more tangible.

Eastward the course of American advice, however, continues to take its way. A gentleman who is described as one of the best known medical men in the United States has written to Premier Poincare telling him how the people of France can have more children.

He promises France a population of 48,000,000 in thirty years if its people will eat more foods containing grease. He bases his theory on the fact that Russians, Germans and Laplanders, who have high birth rates, consume large quantities of animal fats.

Then, again, this unnamed American physician, by the very nature of the cure, he advocates, appears to attribute the declining French birth rate to a decreasing fertility instead of to a deliberate adoption of birth control.

MOTORISTS, WATCH OUT! "Watch your step—on the gas" is a wise slogan for motorists in Connecticut to use this week.

reckless rates of speed; dangerous headlights; use of motor vehicles in business—which is in itself contrary to law, and operation of cars from out of the state for periods longer than allowed without Connecticut registration.

The result of this intensive effort to halt destruction of life and property will be reflected in the accident record for the week and needless to say the publication of the figures will be awaited with a good deal of interest.

THE PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY. Commenting on the Democratic attack upon the appointment of the former representative C. Bascom Sloop as secretary to President Coolidge, Speaker of the House of Representatives Gillett made no bones about the affair in a pointed reply at Springfield the other day.

Mr. Gillett might have extended his statement to the sections of the South where the Republican Party has little or no strength without committing any very grievous error. Political purity in the solid South is an obsession of futile dreamers.

There is no need to travel very far to find adequate reason for the appointment of Mr. Sloop. Sixteen years in the House of Representatives has given the Virginia gentleman an exceptional experience of government and his qualities of temperament and mind have brought to him a remarkably wide and friendly acquaintance with political leaders of all shades of thought.

EXTREME TO EXTREME. Henry Ford evidently has come to believe in the truth of the old saw that a man who never changes his mind never changes anything.

But the most surprising change of all is disclosed in a biography of Mr. Ford by Allen L. Benson, which has just been published. The weak sentimentalist and pacifist of the World War, who told Mr. Benson in 1916 that "he would not be in favor of resisting even invasion of armed force," had become by last fall the bloodthirsty prophet of another World War.

There is an enlightening picture of the politically hatched champion who has the nerve to imagine that because he has been a wonderful success as a maker of automobiles he must therefore possess the exacting qualities of mind and spirit and temperament which the presidential office demands.

NEGRO LABOR. There can be little sympathy in these parts with the lamentations of the southern states over the exodus of negroes toward the north and northwest. The south has brought its troubles upon itself by its unjust and inhuman attitude toward the negro in past years. Now, conditions and his steady improvement as a man and a citizen.

The experiences of the newly arrived negro in the northern states may not be exactly ideal. Nevertheless he is allowed to vote up here, he is not in any danger of lynching, he is not burned at the stake nor is he regarded as a pariah or an outcast, tolerated only because of the work he can do.

DAYLIGHT SAILING.

It could hardly be expected that such an obvious development as a daylight passenger service on the Connecticut River would be neglected indefinitely. Its proposed revival next spring comes as welcome news to the many who are without motor boats, sailing yachts or vessels of any description but who would be thankful for the pleasure afforded by a better acquaintance with the scenic beauties of the river from Hartford to Saybrook Point.

TWO GIANT AIRSHIPS TO FLY AMERICAN COLORS THIS FALL.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Two of the world's largest airships will be added to Uncle Sam's air force this fall. About September 1, the ZRI, gigantic all-American built ship now being inflated with helium gas in its hanger at Lakehurst, N. J., will be launched, the Bureau of Aeronautics of the U. S. Navy Department has just announced.

Hydrogen gas will be used by the German builders of the ZR3 in the trans-Atlantic flight to deliver the big ship. When turned over to the United States, it will be refilled with the non-explosive helium gas for actual service under the American flag.

DOG-IN-MANGER TACTICS CLOSE BEACH FOR ALL. When Edward Zipt became Chief of Police of the expensive suburb of Wilmette he swore to uphold the rights of the common people with considerable zip.

When the days grew hot flocks of steaming common people living on the fringes of Wilmette got in the habit of going swimming in Lake Michigan, which proved quite annoying to the more expensive residents along the waterfront.

Now, Eddie Zipt is no keggel-head. He knew the lake was public property, more or less. So he forbade the rich people to go in swimming, since they wouldn't let the poorer do so.

What's more, he stationed policemen there to see that the order was enforced. Now the beaches are left to the exclusive enjoyment of the sand fleas and water flies.

CITY FOLKS IGNORE STANDARD TIME LAW

Survey of State Shows That Willimantic is the Only Municipality to Obey.

A survey of the state shows that the anti-daylight saving law is making just as much impression as would Don Quixote battling against the Pyrenees Mountains, says the Bridgeport Times. The legislature might as well have passed a law forbidding city folks to eat.

The great number of Connecticut's people depend for their livelihood upon manufacturing and commerce. The legislature, as is well known, by no means fairly represents the population. Fifty towns under the present charter, all of them having less than 6,000 population, each have two representatives. And cities like Waterbury, Hartford, Meriden and Bridgeport are allowed only the same number. This is an old story. It has been at the back of more than one fantastic piece of legislation in recent years. But in this case, by passing the standard time law, which it obeyed in spirit as well as in letter would place every city in the state on a standard basis, the Connecticut legislature appears, as above stated, to have enacted a law that is almost impossible for city dwellers to obey. From a practical standpoint it is impossible. Such is the opinion, anyway, of business men in different parts of the state who were interviewed in this subject last week. On the south, they point out, New York is on daylight saving time; on the east Rhode Island business goes by daylight saving, and on the north Massachusetts has adopted daylight time. Insurance offices in Hartford couldn't very well open and close an hour later than their New York and Boston branches. Merchants receiving shipments of goods from daylight areas would experience all sorts of difficulties. Some departments of the store would have to work overtime. Factories would have to unnecessarily rehandle goods in their shipping departments if they operated their plants on standard time, when the schedule has been placed on daylight saving time.

Of the cities visited, only one, Willimantic, was on standard time. It is hard to say why this city favors standard time. Possibly its location on the edge of extensive agricultural territory has something to do with it. And the fact that it is not connected by a main railroad line with the cities of the daylight saving states may enter into it. And another factor worthy of consideration is that advocates of standard time made an issue of the question. Like most issues people took sides on it. Naturally they couldn't all be on the same side. A clerk in one of the leading hardware stores who was interviewed said personally it made no difference to him one way or the other. He follows no outdoor sport. He owns no automobile, and he doesn't go in for gardening. And he said that a large number of the workers in the textile mills, of which many are girls, have no especial out-of-doors hobby. Those interested in standard time packed the meeting, at which the vote was taken, he said, with employees of the textile factories, who, since they did not personally benefit by daylight saving, were willing to vote against it.

The vote turned out to be in favor of the standard time. It was governed by any Rotary club or golf club, was one of the popular arguments of which much was heard. And, so this man stated, many of the girls employed in the textile mills were reported as objecting to going to bed an hour earlier.

In Norwich the officials of the Standard Time League, who are apparently self-elected, and all live in that city, saw to it that daylight saving was made an issue of. Here the vote turned out to be in favor of daylight saving. But nevertheless the standard timeers subject their own city and the surrounding territory to a continuous bombardment of standard time arguments and propaganda. Bottle ballast is used with a weight in the bottom and sealed up so they won't sink, are filled with literature in favor of standard time, and set afloat in rivers and streams.

Nothing seems to be happening according to the New Britain chief of police, William Hart, though the clock on the wall at police headquarters has been set on daylight saving time ever since the city went into a daylight saving schedule the last Sunday in April.

In the capital city, where the legislature sat that framed the law, the chimneys of St. Joseph still peal forth on daylight saving time, and this is typical of the general attitude of the city. The law didn't mention chimneys, so the ringing of them on daylight saving time is no violation. The city as a whole observes the letter of the law, by setting all clocks out of doors on standard time. But inside practically all the leading department stores are on daylight saving time. In fact, when the city prosecuting attorney, Nathan A. Schatz, gave a tentative opinion that clocks in such places as banks, stores and restaurants, would be considered as public clocks under the provisions of the bill, his verdict was met with flat-footed opposition.

Bridgeport is unanimous for daylight saving time. With its numerous beaches, and its municipal parks, the city has a considerable element in its population that knows how to make good use of extra hours of daylight. Daylight saving was adopted by unanimous vote of the city council. It is not conceivable that New London, with its large hotel and summer resort business, and New York steamer on daylight saving time, as well as railroads, could operate on any but daylight saving time.

Sixty-six vessels for one shipping company in the same number of years is the record of a Clyde shipbuilding yard.

BOOTLEG RADIO PROFITS EXCEL BOOZE RUNNING

Manufacturers Turn Out Own Vacuum Tubes for Radio, Aping Patented Kind.

New York—The "rum runner" and the distiller of "bottled in the barn" is a piker compared to New York's latest dealers in contraband—the "radio bootlegger."

This new species, dealing in vacuum tubes, used in receiving sets, is now operating seven factories in New Jersey, five in Manhattan and four in Brooklyn.

The business is said to be netting a clear profit of well over $1,500,000 a month.

The manufacture of "standard tubes" is in the hands of a closed group—the General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. Between them these concerns, controlling patent rights, turn out the tubes known to every radio fan in the country.

The Westinghouse product is: U. V. 200, U. V. 201, U. V. 201-A, U. V. 199, W. D. 11 and the W. D. 12.

The General Electric produces the C-300, C-301, C-301-A, C-299, C-11 and C-12, all bearing the name E. T. Cunningham, etched in the glass.

In addition to this group, the Western Electric Company controls patents on tubes known as U. V. T. 1 and U. V. T. 2, used as an amplifier, and the M. or "peanut" tube, not sold for amateur use.

The great factories of the General Electric, situated at Harrison, N. J., employ thousands of girls in the manufacture of these tubes, while the Westinghouse plant is at Bloomfield, a suburb of Newark.

The workers are skilled in their trades, and it is from their ranks that the "bootlegger" gathers his labor.

The "bootlegger" gets the acquaintance of these girls and, by promises of either higher wages or by the employment of a bonus system, jures them into his factory, operating under the guise of a maker of some other article, and there turns out his "bootleg tubes."

It is estimated that 2,000 "bootleg tubes" a day are being turned out in the New Jersey plants and an additional 1,500 in the Brooklyn establishments.

EDITOR TELLS 'EM WHERE TO HEAD IN

Des Moines, Ia.—Editor F. J. Raymond, publisher of the Blakesburg (Ia.) Weekly Excelsior, is tired of running free advertisements and in an advertisement of his own tells the world about it as follows:

"Here you will find a schedule of prices from which no deviation will be made, but we hope to do a certain percentage of our earnings toward founding an asylum for those feeble-minded people who believe an editor has a soft snap."

"For telling Excelsior readers a man is a successful citizen when everybody knows he is as lazy as a bench warmer. $2.75."

"For referring to some gallivanting fellow as one who is mourned by the entire community when he will only be missed by the booters. $10.18."

"Referring to one as a hero and a man of courage and one who will stand by his convictions when everybody knows he is a moral coward and would sell out for a dime. $4.13."

"Referring to some gossip female as an estimable lady whom is a pleasure to meet and know when every man in town would rather see Satan come. $3.10."

"Calling an ordinary preacher an eminent divine. 54 cents."

"Lambasting the daylighters out of John Barleycorn at the behest of the local dry forces. $5.77."

"Whooping 'em up for the repeal of the local White Mule Funnell Club. $3.77."

"Referring to a deceased merchant who never advertised and who was too stingy to contribute toward needed public improvements as a laudable citizen and a progressive resident. $344.99."

PA GETS INTERESTED IN VEGETABLE TRADE

It may be an old idea, but any how it works. While mother has thoughts of replenishing the depleted larder when she hears the traveling marketman's singsong "veg-ett-ubulus, nice frash veg-ett-ubulus today," father also has perked up and taken notice of the innocently laden wagon of truck produce and fruit. Therefore, after ma has made her housewife purchase pa drops his morning paper and speaks out the side door to wistfully the itinerant peddler when ma has disappeared into the house with her armful of lettuce heads, corn ears and maybe a bunch of bananas.

"Well, mista, wot you want, hey? Mebbe a nice basket peaches, hey wot?"

"Sure," says pa, slipping the dealer a wink. The latter then dips his hand deep into a bulging barrel of potatoes, fumbles around and triumphantly brings to light a bottle of unconstituted fluid.

"Charge it," says pa, "as spinach." Then he hastens away with a bulge under his coat and a grin on his face. Seated once more reading his paper, he chuckles to himself.

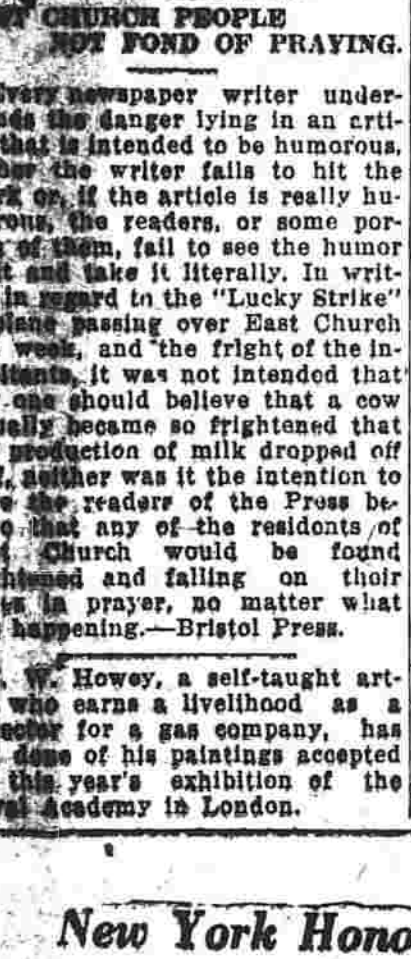

Now the traveling huckster has a thriving and satisfactory business. Of course the steady customer gets the fresh carrots and the best of the bunch.

It is a wonderful thing, this business. It is a business that is intended to be humorous. Either the writer fails to hit the mark or, if the article is really humorous, the readers, or some portion of them, fail to see the humor of it and take it literally. In writing in regard to the "Lucky Strike" airplane passing over East Church last week, and the flight of the inhabitants, it was not intended that any one should believe that a cow actually became so frightened that her production of milk dropped off half, neither was it the intention to have the readers of the Press believe that any of the residents of East Church would be found frightened and falling on their knees in prayer, no matter what was happening.—Bristol Press.

Circle Theater

An event bound to arouse unusual interest centers in the coming of another Wesley Barry attraction. This is "Heroes of the Street," produced by Warner Brothers and scheduled to play at the Circle Theater tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday.

The reason for the interest is that "Freckles" Wesley has won a large following by his bubbling personality on the screen and the good fun and clean comedy that go with his pictures, notably in "School Days," and "Rags to Riches," both Warner Brothers productions. His inimitable characterization of boys out for adventure and getting into mischief every minute of the day have gained him an enviable reputation.

Great pains have been taken in the scenes of this picture, some of them elaborate and on lavish scale, such as the reproductions of the "Midnight Frolics" and the transformation of a city block in Los Angeles into a New York winter scene, for which 250 tons of salt were necessary.

In "Heroes of the Street," young Wesley fights his way through to the exciting end, sometimes with fat and muscle, at other times with brain, but always with plenty of nerve and pluck. The story is about Mickey Callahan, son of a police officer. Mickey is busy licking all the bullies of his neighborhood—and keeping his kid brother and sister disciplined, when tragedy stalks into his house with the sinister murder of his father by a mysterious gang of crooks.

From a happy-go-lucky boy Mickey becomes a lad touched with the pathos in his home and leaving no stone unturned to find the person responsible for the tragedy. An unusual love story of the stage is blended with the mystery element.

On the same bill will be a new reel and a comedy.

HUMAN EMBRYO IS SIMILAR TO FROG

Syracuse, N. Y.—Darwin was right, in spite of William Jennings Bryan and prominent church persons who fear that acceptance of the scientist's theory will challenge religion's foundations, experiments at Syracuse University seem to show.

If anyone doubts that the human embryo clearly shows gill marks which later change to ears, or a tail which is later absorbed before birth, let him call on Professor William M. Smallwood, of the department of biology, at the local university, and he will show some startling specimens.

In its first stage of formation the embryonic heart of a human can hardly be distinguished from that of a frog. Its shape and functioning are almost identical. The radical change comes later. Another organ which appears to strengthen the evolution theory is the kidney. At first, in the human embryo, it resembles that of a fish, then a reptile and then a frog.

Professor Smallwood produces organs, tissues, nerve and artery systems to show exactly how the various phyla in the animal kingdom developed as they were thrown against new conditions in their fight for existence. It was the survival of the fittest, and the animals were forced to adapt themselves to demands of life or die.

Man did not ascend from the monkey, as some people believe the Darwinian theory attempts to prove. Professor Smallwood points out, Darwin simply wanted to show that man went through the same struggle to survive and in doing so developed the highly-perfected body he now has.

Man and monkeys may have come from a closely allied source, but at no time were these sources identical, says Professor Smallwood. Evolutionists do not seek to destroy the theory of the creation. Rather they believe their discoveries will strengthen this theory, he declares.

UNIQUE DWELLING ON HISTORIC SITE

Bellaire, Ohio.—Plans for a unique dwelling to be erected on the cliff above the national road at what is known as McCulloch's Leap, in Wheeling, W. Va., are being drawn by J. R. Anderson, local architect.

At the summit of the national road's route over Wheeling Hill, toward Washington, Pa., is a steep declivity extending several hundred feet to Wheeling Creek shore. On the opposite side of the road is a cliff measuring still higher.

The site of the proposed dwelling house is to be built. It will have two towers, resembling an English castle. There will be two apartments on the top floor and one on the lower. The house will be visible down the Ohio River Valley for, perhaps, a dozen miles.

The site of the proposed dwelling history books relate, has been made famous because a Major McCulloch, a pioneer soldier, rode his horse over the steep hillside while escaping from Indians.

Park Theater

For those who like a picture that shows the life of the day and yet one that is not a sermon or preachy will not want to miss "The World Gone Mad!" at the Park theatre today and tomorrow. With this picture will be seen "East of Eden" in "California or Bust" a picture that is really funny. The regular news weekly will also be shown.

The wretched pace of our modern life; the unbridled excesses in which thousands are indulging; the shams and the whims and follies of men and women in all stations of life are belabored with shattering blows by Daniel Carson Goodman's powerfully prophetic and significant photodrama, "Has the World Gone Mad!"

From Mother Eve clear down to the luxurious Peggy Hopkins, women have held their own in the battle of sex with men, but in the fighting, both sides have erred and erred often. Today jazz and dixie traveling at a terrific pace in its social life. In our own country the front pages of a hundred newspapers blaze with the fires of mad passion that result in murder and divorce—and what not. Festive parties and soul-kissing trysts occupy the minds of the once-decorous young. No youth is without his pocket whiskey flask; no girl without her gold-tipped cigarettes or jeweled pipe.

Mothers at forty undergo the tortures of face lifting and reduce themselves in flesh to the point of exhaustion. Others apply the lipstick and the glowing tulle of rouge, and then sally forth to tempt the male in illicit romances. Husbands are no less indiscreet.

How long can we play the game? How long can this helter-skelter, high-powered era of jazz and dixie and wine and song go on?

Daniel Carson Goodman gives his own clean-cut view of it in "Has the World Gone Mad!" a story of terrific drama that speaks no one's feelings, a production that goes right to the core of the problem and reveals the truth in thundering situations and emotional situations.

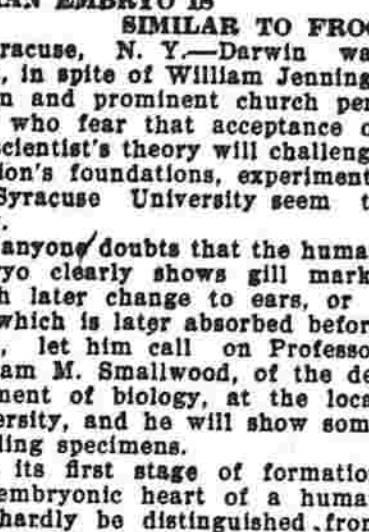

"Has the World Gone Mad!" becomes a vast human treatise developed with amazing skill by Mr. Goodman, who perhaps has greater understanding of men and women today than any other producer of motion pictures now before the fury of the public.

TURKS SUFFER MOST IN EXCHANGE OF CITIZENS WITH GREECE
Constantinople. — The exchange of populations between Greece and Turkey—one of the sternest measures for preserving peace ever decided upon by two nations—is now under way. The Turkish commission has asked the National Assembly at Ankara for ten million Turkish pounds to expend in this work, but even with this sum forthcoming the Turks are bound to suffer far more than the Greeks because relief societies are aiding the latter. Greece also has obtained a loan through the League of Nations. The returning Turks who are entirely without means are being allotted to villages, decided upon by the commission, which is distributing them proportionately all over Turkey. Housing conditions and unemployment are appalling. One can imagine the acuteness of the situation next winter when it is considered that two hundred thousand Turks will return from Thrace alone. All empty houses have been requisitioned, but these are vastly inadequate.
The government cannot begin to take care of the orphans. Turkey's splendid peace found her nation in rags.

TIMELY KNOWLEDGE FOR AUTO DRIVERS

Furnished by the Department of Motor Vehicles—Laws Affecting the Rules of the Road as Passed by the Last Legislature.
Right of way is specifically denied vehicles entering public highways from private ways under legislation adopted by the recent session of the Legislature. "The signaling or stopping of vehicles on public highways to solicit contributions or alms is made punishable by a $50 fine.
These and other provisions calculated to reduce the traffic hazard in the face of the steady increase in motor vehicles operated on Connecticut highways, as well as changes in the law to meet other conditions coming to the attention of the department of motor vehicles in the past two years, may be found in a booklet on motor vehicle laws issued by the department. The booklet is revised to July 1, 1923 by the insertion of amendments passed by the Legislature of 1923 and is a complete book of motor vehicle laws passed in 1921 and 1923.
For the convenience of those having occasion frequently to refer to the motor vehicle laws, the department has arranged to publish in booklet form the number of which, while not printed as to indicate changes, is taken, are not necessarily in the same order as in the statute books. In the list given below, the sections referred to are those of the principal changes made by the recent session:
Changes definition of a motor vehicle manufacturer to mean one who has manufactured or one who can prove to the commissioner that he intends to manufacture at least twenty-five motor vehicles a year. Section 1.
Includes "motor vehicle having not more than three wheels in contact with the ground" in the definition of a motorcycle. Sec. 1. The fee of $5 a year for the side car in addition to the registration fee for the motorcycle will not be charged after January 1, 1924. Thereafter the fee for side car will be included in the motorcycle registration. Section 22 (c)
Changes the definition of "commercial motor vehicle" to include a motor vehicle for use and used for passenger and commercial purposes. Section 1.
Beginning January 1, 1924, provision is made for issuance of number plates having a special distinguishing number or mark for manufacturers, dealers and repairers, in addition to the plates having a general distinguishing number or mark (which may be used for business purposes only)—trial, demonstration or adjustment. The issuing of these special plates for five days or less is permitted, provided the dealer keeps sufficient record to identify at any time driver operating car bearing such plates. Sec. 23.
Registration fees for such special markers are $20 per pair for motor vehicles and $10 per set for motorcycles. Sec. 22 (h).
No motor vehicle owned by a person who shall have been found guilty of a violation of any provision of the motor vehicle act shall be operated on the highways of this state without Connecticut registration, during the remainder of such calendar year until the commissioner shall find that such motor vehicle has not been transferred by such person with intent to evade the provisions of this non-resident section. Sec. 17.
Beginning January 1, 1924, the minimum fee for registration of pneumatic-tired commercial trucks of one-half ton capacity or less will be reduced from $22.50 to $15. Sec. 22 (a).
Manufacturers are required to report to the commissioner on the use of their motor vehicle engines annually, on December 31st of the year last preceding, and to include in the report Section 22 (1) classification for motor hearses used exclusively for transportation of the dead, registration fee to be based on cubic inch displacement or capacity. Sec. 22 (v).
Goes into effect January 1, 1924.
Fixes fee for registration of trailers used exclusively for camping, fishing and other recreational purposes at $2 a year—Sec. 22 (w).
Makes it prima facie evidence of reckless driving if a commercial motor vehicle not equipped with pneumatic or cushion tires exceeds speed of 15 miles an hour, or if a commercial motor vehicle of two tons capacity or less and entirely equipped with cushion tires exceeds 20 miles an hour. Sec. 26 (b).
Enlarges section with regard to effect of suspensions to provide that "no person shall operate, or cause to be operated any motor vehicle, the registration of which shall have been refused, suspended or revoked, or any motor vehicle, the right to operate which shall have been suspended or revoked." Nor shall any person whose right to operate a motor vehicle in this state has been suspended or revoked, operate a motor vehicle during such period. Sec. 34.
Makes a licensed operator in-structing an unlicensed operator in the operation of a motor vehicle responsible for the operation thereof. Section 39.
Makes it legal to use an additional light on the rear of a motor vehicle for use as a signaling device. Sec. 41 (g).
The provision for the release on his own recognizance of any person arrested for a violation of certain motor vehicle laws, has been broadened to include non-resident owners, as well as operators, residing in any state the proper authorities of which shall agree with the commissioner of this state to revoke said non-resident's registration certificate or operator's license if he fails to appear here for trial, when notified; further providing that whenever the commissioner shall notify any court or justice of such agreement with another state, such non-resident shall be released upon his own recognizance. Sec. 55.
In addition to motor vehicle inspectors, any officer attached to any organized police department, or any state police officer is authorized to take abandoned motor vehicles into their custody. Sec. 68.
Denies right of way to vehicles entering upon a public highway from a private way. Section 2, Chapter 334 (Rules of the Road).

Exempts from taxation gasoline used for motor boats.
Requires the expenditure for highway construction, maintenance or reconstruction all receipts from the gasoline tax. Chapter 300, P. A. 1921 as amended by Chap. 203 P. A. 1923.
The courts will have to decide this case and the rector's reputation is balanced against the missing "half-crown."
Hamburg.—Unprecedented demands for gorillas for gland operations have shot prices for these animals almost out of sight on Hamburg's menagerie market. The average price is now $3,000 per animal.
The king of the jungle, the lion, brings an average price of only $1,250. Giraffes and rhinoceros, however, being scarce, cost $5,000 to $6,000.
The organs of amell in a vulture and carrion crow are so keen that they can scent their prey for a distance of forty miles.

This might serve as the title of the interesting case of Rev. Charles Hainby Barton, octogenarian rector in this village.
The rector was committed for trial on a charge of having fraudulently converted a "half crown"—fifty cents—to his own use. Previously the rector was up in court charged with having wilfully damaged a monument in his churchyard.
Testimony was given that Charles Hardy, Lady Katharine Hardy and Miss Hilton were the only three persons who attended communion service at the rector's church on June 17. It was testified that Hardy put ten shillings in

WHEN RUIN OF STRAW HATS SIGNALIZED WHITE WAY OPENING

Either there is more respect for law and order in town now than there was five years ago or else police are more efficient. Last Friday night the new White Way was opened without a ripple of disturbance whereas its predecessor, then thought to be the last word in street lighting, was ushered in five years ago by a near riot. The occasion called for a demonstration, and there being no official celebration of the event, the younger class took it into their own hands to observe the affair in their own way.

The lights were turned on and the unsuspecting young men came out all dolled up, topped with straw hats. As soon as it became reasonably dark the desperate work of the hardened villains was begun and it lasted all the evening. Policemen were called by several young hopefuls who had had their lids torn from their heads and stepped on. The policemen who responded to the calls could find nobody around to blame for the outrage and it kept on.

About eleven o'clock at night there was not one straw lid on Main street. That is to say, there was not one complete straw lid on Main street. There were plenty of straw lids strewn over Main street but they were in such a condition that they could not be used again. In fact, they were hors d' combat; null and void, in other words, squashed.

WELCOME RAIN YESTERDAY.

The severe electrical storm late yesterday afternoon caused little damage in Manchester. As far as could be learned today, there was no damage done by lightning. The usual miniature lakes in different parts of the town were filled up as usual and several automobiles had trouble navigating them. Three cars stalled on Main street from the Center to Depot Square.

FINDS HOBOS ARE SCARCE NOWADAYS.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Another great American tradition has passed away. With the friendly corner bartender, the old-taken bucket and the man who raised a family of ten on $15 a week, the leisurely hobo has gone into discard. So claims Deputy Police Chief George Peacock, who, as head of the detective bureau and chief officer of Police Court for a generation, ought to be in a position to know. He says: "They used to be a daily sight. Scarcely a day passed when we did not have four or five in court on one charge or another. Today the hobo is as scarce as hen's teeth. 'I think many of them have found it easier to make an honest living these days than to go from house to house and city to city to live on the charity of their more ambitious fellowmen.'"
