

LEWIS ARRANGES STRIKE PLANS

Unearth Madden Clue

Man Arrested in Long Island City, Said by Police to be the Man Who Actually Killed Cheney Brothers' Watchman.

Finger prints may be the means of solving just who was the murderer of Captain William F. Madden at Cheney Brothers silk mill in January 1919. Frank J. Murray, who was shot by gunmen from an automobile at Long Island City yesterday under mysterious circumstances, is believed to be, according to the New York police "Jacko" "Henney" alias John Moore, alleged to have been the man who fired the fatal shot at Captain Madden.

Although Clifford Macomber, also a special policeman on duty with Captain Madden at the time of the shooting, positively declares that there were only four men in the car, John Neuss, arrested by the New Jersey police declared that "Henney" Moore, the man now wounded by gunmen was the one who fired the shot. It was also learned that a brother, James Moore, was also in the car at the time. It is said that the finger-prints of Murray correspond with those of Moore.

The Madden Murder. Captain Madden was shot and killed when he surprised a gang of men about to commit a theft from the warehouse of Cheney Brothers in January, 1919. Five men were arrested in connection with the affair and are now serving life sentences at the State Prison at Wethersfield. They are: "Lefty" McDonald, Jack West, Fred Klien, William Miller and Bill Bressler.

It is believed by many that this is only an old time war on a stunt of the underworld to free their "pals." If the wounded man in the New York hospital believed that he had no chance for recovery he would, according to those who profess to know, make what is known in police circles as a "deathbed" confession in order that a new trial would be granted his pals.

The whole case has never been clearly understood even by the police of three states. A touring car and truck were implicated in the affair. The touring car had

EXPECT JAP CABINET CRISIS OVER CHOOSING OF PREMIER

Tokio, Aug. 22.—The Cabinet met today to discuss the selection of an acting premier to fill the post vacated by the death of Baron Kato. According to Japanese custom, news of Baron Kato's death has not yet been officially announced by the government. It is expected within a day or two. The death of the famous statesman is admittedly a blow to the party in power and may precipitate a crisis. Those most prominently mentioned in connection with the premiership are Foreign Minister Uchida, Home Minister Mizuno and Minister of Justice Okano.

Over 3,000 Are Killed In Moroccan Battles

Madrid, Aug. 24.—Casualties in the latest outbreak of fighting on the Moroccan front were estimated today at 3,000,—1,000 Spanish and 2,000 rebel tribesmen. The Spanish victory was believed today to have averted a political crisis. The casualties in the battle of Tifaurin were estimated at 500 Spaniards and 800 tribesmen. Two hundred rebels made a dash into Tetouan killing ten persons, including two women, and wounding 34. A military dispatch from Melilla said that the Spanish had collected 300 bodies of tribesmen killed in the fighting around Tifaurin. There are two Spanish columns near Tifaurin ready to go into action if the Rifis attack. Spanish aviators report that Abdel Krim, leader of the Rifis, is burning alive captive natives who had given assistance to the Spanish. Owing to lack of supplies, and shortage of convoys the Spanish forces may be unable to press their victory gained at Tifaurin. General Weyer is insisting that the offensive be vigorously resumed after the troops have rested. Spain now controls all the Moroccan territory between the Kert river and Albucaemas bay.

Kills His Colored Housekeeper

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Jealousy, the police charge, caused Samuel Morris to shoot and kill his housekeeper, Edith Barber, a negro, early today. Arraigned in police court, Morris pleaded not guilty to a charge of first degree murder. Delbert Waldron told the police that in attempting to disarm Morris he was struck over the head with the butt of the rifle. The alleged slayer escaped from the café but was captured a few minutes later by police.

SOUTH MANCHESTER WATER CO. FORESHADOWS INCREASED RATES

The steady growth of Manchester has made necessary important water development to assure constantly an adequate water supply. Prior to 1890 Cheney Brothers took care of that part of the territory south of the Middle Turnpike. In that year the South Manchester Water Company was incorporated to care for the expanding needs of the whole of the area, which practically coincides with the present Ninth School District. Beginning with the Taylor Reservoir, part of the flow into Globe Hollow, further population growth made necessary resort to the Porter Brook, the Howard Reservoir and in recent years to the water shed of Roaring Brook in East Glastonbury. The steady expansion of water needs has made necessary an investment by the company of $470,000. The Roaring Brook development eventually will give a maximum weekly supply of twenty million gallons, four times the present supply. Its completion will entail an additional investment practically equal to the amount already sunk by the company. The following announcement indicates that the present net income is not satisfactory and that new selling plans will be necessary to bring in the necessary additional revenue to care for the increased

Lieut. Griffis Is Not Worrying Over Attempt To Steal Slacker

Wurzburg, Germany, Aug. 24.—"If the Germans want to make a martyr of me, all right; I don't care, but it would be a mistake," declared Lieut. C. H. Griffis, of Hamilton, Ohio, one of the members of the band that tried to kidnap Grover C. Berdoff, today. The message was sent through a third party who had a long talk with Griffis in his cell. Griffis continued: "If the Germans attempt that it will alienate American sympathy away from Germany. That is what we want to do anyway." No reporters are admitted to see Griffis nor his companion, Victory Nelson who is also in jail in Wurzburg. They managed to communicate their views to international news through an underground channel. Griffis emphasized that he had no part in the actual attempt at kidnaping. He smilingly admitted, however, that he "was part of the intelligence behind the attempt." Griffis is 28 years old, of medium build and affable. He refuses to take his position seriously but oozes with his guards. Nelson is 25 years old, tall and slender. He is married to a French girl. Griffis intimated that a well known and influential man in the United States was the directing genius behind the attempt to seize Berdoff "dead or alive." "This man also is said to have finished the money. Griffis is said to have made the remark that this man was prepared to back up to the limit." In Good Health. Griffis is in good health and makes but complaints of the jail

SPLIT IN RANKS OF G. O. P. REPORT

Washington, Aug. 24.—A long smoldering feud between Senator Hiram Johnson of California, and Secretary of Commerce Hoover leaped today into open warfare with prospects of developing a wide chasm within the Republican party. Recalling the Republican defeat which followed the famous Taft-Roosevelt and Johnson-Hughes feuds, party leaders fear the break will have its effect on the next election. Greater significance is attached to the quarrel because both Johnson and Hoover have been mentioned as potential Republican nominees in 1924. The open break came when Johnson issued a statement charging that followers of Hoover in California had taken a party line from one of his friends to use against him politically. Johnson charged one letter so obtained contained a statement he wrote last May in which he said he would not be a candidate for President in 1924. Use of this statement now, it is said, has handicapped the Senator's friends who are preparing to

SCHOOL STREET FIRE CAUSES SOME DAMAGE

The extent of the damage caused by the fire which late yesterday afternoon gutted the tire repair shop owned by Porterfield Bros. on School street, had not been determined this morning. It is said, however, that the damage will run into a sum close to $3,000. Prompt work on the part of William Taylor, caretaker of Hose House 4 and George England of Spruce street, kept the fire within limits until the remaining trucks of the department arrived. One of No. 4's trucks is at present out of the house and the remaining truck is a ladder conveyance, carrying no hose and nothing to extinguish fires except for a chemical tank. As soon as the alarm was sent in the ladder truck #77 run out and George England turned the hose on the burning building. He had the fire well under control when the trucks of the other departments appeared on the scene. Three streams of water from the fire pumps were soon turned on the building and in a short time the fire was all out. Damage in the building was caused chiefly by water and smoke and the apartments in the second story of the building also suffered from the effects of smoke and water. Mr. Porterfield said that the fire had its origin in a small vulcanizer at the rear of the store.

HEAD OF MINE WORKERS MAKES ARRANGEMENTS

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 24.—From his sick bed, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today directed the final arrangements for a walkout of his 155,000 anthracite men a week from tomorrow. James Marks, president of District No. 2—the field where bituminous must be produced if the anthracite consuming public is to be protected against famine—called at the Lewis suite in the Ambassador hotel this morning. Marks reiterated his promise of co-operation to the anthracite workers. He is understood to have intimated to Lewis that the men in the Pennsylvania bituminous fields are strong for a sympathetic "vacation" strike. The Lewis suite was the rendezvous of union men and advisers who called to make suggestions. Lewis was advised by some of his callers to stay here quietly and await developments. "Warrior Awaits News." Down at the Traymore hotel—a mile on the board walk from the Ambassador—Samuel B. Wannier, spokesman of the operators was questioned on this question from the Lewis suite. "The strike is a business matter and I will not be carried out by some of these agitators," he said. "It appears likely now that neither side will move to end the present deadlock without pressure from some outside source." "No Conference." Lewis was not able to confer with the operators regarding the keeping of maintenance men in the mines after the first of September in the event of a strike. It is learned, however, that pumpmen and engineers will be kept in the pits as in preceding walkouts. Despite the reported statements of Marks, it was stated from sources close to Lewis that he does not endorse the idea of "sympathetic strikes" in the bituminous fields. Lewis was represented as "embarrassed" by Marks' plan. It was stated, however, that Lewis, while insisting that no contract between the miners and the bituminous operators be strictly observed it does not mean that Lewis and other officers of the United Mine Workers will pay no attention to bituminous production during the progress of the anthracite strike.

SHAKEUP IN BOARD OF SELECTMEN IF CHENEY RESIGNS

It was learned today on good authority that there was a possibility that William C. Cheney, who has been chairman of the board of selectmen for several years would not be a candidate for the job this fall. He considers that he has served the town as selectman long enough. Pressure of personal business is increasing all the time and he would like to be relieved of his town work. At present Mr. Cheney is at York Harbor, Maine, and consequently could not be reached. He is expected home on Monday and not until that time will it be fully determined whether he will be a candidate or not. Every effort will be made to induce Mr. Cheney to remain at the head of the board. During his term of office the work of the selectmen has moved along with extraordinary smoothness. There is a lot of work to be carried out that needs his attention. Next Monday will be the last day that men and women will have an opportunity to file their nomination papers for town offices. Up to this noon but few had taken the trouble to do this although it is expected there will be several candidates. The open break came when Johnson issued a statement charging that followers of Hoover in California had taken a party line from one of his friends to use against him politically. Johnson charged one letter so obtained contained a statement he wrote last May in which he said he would not be a candidate for President in 1924. Use of this statement now, it is said, has handicapped the Senator's friends who are preparing to

MEXICAN TRADE TO GET A BOOST

Washington, Aug. 24.—One of the first tangible results of the recognition of Mexico by the United States, will be an immediate stimulation in the trade between the two countries, officials of the Department of Commerce said today. In anticipation of the forthcoming resumption of diplomatic relations, Secretary of Commerce Hoover has ordered an inquiry to determine the particular needs of Mexico for American goods so that manufacturers in the United States can make their plans accordingly. Trade Stagnant. Trade across the Rio Grande has been in a state of partial stagnation since recognition was withdrawn in 1920, many manufacturers and jobbers in this country, who specialize in Latin-American commercial needs, passing up the Mexican markets. Despite the apparent stability of the Oregon operation during the past two years they were never certain of the status or safety of their interests in Mexico. Enough Capital. A steady influx of capital, chiefly for the purpose of mineral development, is expected to follow the resumption of political relations. Larger sums also will be spent in purchasing Mexican products for export to the United States. Only $113,000,000 worth of American goods were shipped into Mexico last year, the trade balance being $22,000,000 in Mexico's favor.

BRIDE OF A MONTH BRUTALLY MURDERED

Denver, Colo., Aug. 24.—Police today were asked to search for a young man known only by the name of "Jack" who is believed to have committed the most brutal murder in the history of Colorado Springs. Mrs. Elsie Jorgensen Suttle, a 17 year old bride of a month, was killed in her home by the only one of a bunch of five letters which lay beneath her crushed and mutilated body when police were called. Young Man Calls. Early Thursday a young man called at the Suttle home and asked to see the young bride. He was refused permission. The girl's mother-in-law then left the house for a few minutes. On her return she entered her daughter-in-law's room. The girl was lying in a pool of blood across the bed. Her night clothing were torn to shreds and her head covered by a bloody pillow, had been propped against the wall. Hit With Hammer. According to physicians, the girl had been struck with a blunt instrument, possibly a hammer. Finger prints were found around her throat and her collar bones had been broken. One blow had cut into the side of her face, mangling her eye. Another blow had opened a quarter inch crack in her skull and four others had lacerated her scalp and crushed her ear. A love affair is believed to have been the motive for the deed and the police are withholding the contents of the letters on the grounds that they may furnish a clue to the young man. A Spafford, a former sweetheart is also being sought in connection with the crime. Try a Fresh Pineapple Sundae at Pagan's Goodie Shop, 887 Main street, South Manchester.—Adv. RAPID INCREASE IN WATER NEEDS OF PUBLIC ENTAILS IMPORTANT EXPANSION OF SOURCES THAT WILL MEAN DOUBLING OF PRESENT INVESTMENT.

Both Griffis and Nelson were attached to the Graves Registration Service at the American military cemetery at Romagne. "During the war," said Griffis, "I admitted German agents even though they were our enemies. Now I should think the Germans could understand my motive and not sympathize with a coward. I only did my duty as I did in the war. I could not expect Berdoff to do his more than he did in the war. This is an American affair. The Germans should not worry about it." "I am proud of what little I had to do with this matter. I am sure the people at home understand. That is all I care about. "I am not worrying. I have funds. Certain parties in the United States are willing to back me to the limit." Friends have hired Herr Siebert of Wiesbaden, one of the best criminal lawyers in Germany, to defend Griffis and Nelson.

READY FOR STRIKE

Washington, Aug. 24.—Despite menacing reports from Atlantic City, President Coolidge today maintained unshaken hope today that anthracite operators and miners, by voluntary resumption of wage negotiations, will avert a hard coal strike. At the same time, however, the executive, ready for any eventualities, has perfected all plans for a nationwide distribution of substitutes for hard coal. The federal government, directly or indirectly, contemplates no immediate step to bring about peace by inviting the warring factions back to the council table. Negotiations are being conducted by the administration to make permanent the substitute distribution organization so that whenever a coal strike threatens in the future the country will be assured a steady supply of hard coal. These outstanding facts constitute the administration's attitude and plans in the anthracite crisis. On these bases the administration has charted its course in dealing with the threatened hard coal tie up. Because of the belief that government interference at this moment not only would be met with failure but would add complexity to an already perplexing situation it was declared at the White House that both President Coolidge and John Hays Hammond, chairman of the United States Coal Commission feel that the next move must, and will, come from Atlantic City where the operators and miners are encamped. The growing belief is well informed circles is that the dispute, now that they have seen the government's promise to supply the country with fuel regardless of a mere threat but one "episode" of actual fulfillment, will, perhaps rain-

GAZING REPUBLICANS. Senator Copeland says that the Republicans will lose in 1924 because they have been star-gazing instead of observing the humdrum needs of the people. It may be wondered what constellations the Republicans have been gazing at. Some of them have undoubtedly been fixing their attention on Aquarius, the water-man, while Crater, the starry wine-cup, may have engaged the study of others. Or perhaps they have been busy observing Orion, the mighty hunter who is always trying to throw the heavenly bull.

Park Theater

Manager Toy has picked a winning double feature bill for his patrons at the Park theater for the last two days of this week. Today and Saturday he will show "Wonders of the Sea" and "Desert Driven" as his feature pictures and another chapter of "The Eagle's Talons" and a two reel comedy for good measure.

One looks on in amazement at the marvelous array of pictures which include the fish and plant life of the submerged gardens of the Bahamas. One striking picture reveals a girl swimming among the sea gardens and coral growths. Other views present an old wreck which, according to a subtitle, is said to be near the original Treasure Island. "Wonders of the Sea" is fantastic and thrilling. When Mr. Williamson and another man go beneath the surface in diving suits to explore the depths, the spectator is overwhelmed with suspense.

There is drama taking place down there when the producer spears the deadly moray, while the other diver has a narrow escape from an octopus. Seeing this vicious moray squirm on the end of the lance is enough to send shivers up and down the spine. Then the waters become suddenly dark and muddy—which is explained by the fact that the octopus has caught one of the men by the foot and the cloudy substance is camouflage thrown off to blind his victims. And the producer, who knows what he is talking about states in a subtitle that wherever an octopus is, his enemy the shark, is not far away.

The producer wears the regulation diving suit, while his companion gets his oxygen from compressed air. The climax is a thriller. It shows a shark taking some bait and after a bit of flirtation with it, finally getting caught on the hook. When he is dragged to the surface, one gets a huge close-up of this demon of the deep, who has endeavored to chew up the boat. This scene disproves the theory that sharks turn over on their backs when they attack. The photography is wonderfully clear. In all a picture which is vastly entertaining.

"Desert Driven" is a thrilling melodrama of the plains but threading the series of heroic rescues, the fast horseback riding, the realistic escape from prison, is an exquisitely colorful and throbbing love story as thrilling and lyrical as any ever written. The famous San Quentin penitentiary of California has been reproduced in the film and the escape of the convict from the cell, the plunge over the prison wall and the chase by the guards is graphically shown in the film.

Circle Theater

Today's showing will close the highly successful engagement at the Circle theater of "Man From Hell's River," the screen version of James Oliver Curwood's compelling drama of the Canadian Northwest. The popular star and director, Irving Cummings, is featured and those who have witnessed the picture expressed satisfaction over his vigorous portrayal of the Mountie. The star is supported by an all-star cast that includes Eva Novak, Wallace Beery and the mighty dog-hero, Rin Tin Tin. "Man From Hell's River" tells a most absorbing and exciting story—a story which may rightly be called one of the greatest snow pictures ever made. Yosemite National Park in wintertime furnishes a highly picturesque background.

On the same bill will be a comedy and a news reel.

Tomorrow's big double feature bill will contain the last chapter of that great serial, "The Oregon Trail," "The Baragals," a modern melodrama and Jack Hoxie in "The Forbidden Trail."

Douglas Fairbanks in his famous portrayal of Robin Hood has nothing on Jack Hoxie when it comes to the manipulation of a sword.

Hoxie demonstrated the most scientific skill in his wielding of the sword during a duel with Joe McDermott, his heavy, in "The Forbidden Trail."

Some time ago when Hoxie believed himself becoming too well supplied of avoirdupois, he took up the practice of fencing, and finding it so fascinating, continued his course for the entire season, thereby reducing his weight to the desired number of pounds and gaining the knowledge of the science of the art which he had long wished to possess.

In the sword duel, Jack, who discovers the heavy just as he is about to make his escape, picks up a hot poker from the shack's fireplace and, his opponent using a real sword, they engage in a terrific battle. It was exceedingly more difficult to manipulate the poker than a little sword, and Hoxie had to demonstrate real skill to make it register as any accomplishment whatever on the screen.

NEW LONDON WOMAN BECOMES HUMAN TORCH. When the oil stove which she was about to ignite to cook supper, exploded last evening, Mrs. Victoria Faulkner, 48, Logger Hill, Watertown, wife of G. Nelson Faulkner, received body and face burns, which proved so serious that the woman died at the Lawrence and Memorial Association's hospital this morning. Mrs. Faulkner, following the explosion which was so forceful that it blew the bottom out of the can of wood alcohol the woman was using, ran from her kitchen, her clothes a mass of flames and her screams attracting her seven year old adopted son, and the nearby neighbors.—New London Day.

BOOK REVIEWS

"The Alaskan," by James Oliver Curwood (Cosmopolitan Book Corp.) is a good yarn. The story is simple, straightforward, and moves swiftly. The characters are few and clearly drawn. If the appeal is largely to the primitive in human nature, there is nothing so did in the book. Because Alaska has been to the fore in the public mind of late the setting of the story has an added interest. That portions of the book are in the nature of special pleading does not detract from its interest.

A new book by Gene Stratton-Porter is bound to be read by several millions of people. Those who read "The White Flag" (Doubleday, Page & Co.) will find it a typical Porter story, interesting and well told. In it the good suffer tribulation and the wicked flourish for a season, but in the end rewards and punishments are duly meted out. One wonders, however, whether Mahala were quite so frank and open as Mrs. Porter insists she was; whether Jason's parentage were responsible for his lamentable failure as a hero; and whether such a respectable villain as Martin Moreland ever existed in real life.

The late W. H. Hudson was probably one of the greatest masters of English style. His work was slow in attracting attention but before his death he had come into his own and his abilities were everywhere recognized. One of his most charming books, perhaps the very best of them all, is "Green Mansions." It is a tale of the love of Mr. Abel for the bird-girl Rima, and its tragic end comes to those who look beneath the story will find that it symbolizes one of the highest aspirations of the human soul.

GEN. PERSHING IS FOR NON-MILITARY SCOUTING.

General John J. Pershing, Chief of Staff, War Department, on the occasion of the 13th Annual Meeting of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, spent a morning with members of his staff inspecting with members of his staff inspecting the Boy Scout Camp in the Palisades Interstate Park, and pronounced them "Wonderful." "The work you are doing," he afterward told the National Council members at a luncheon address, "should appeal to every citizen. It would be an education to many men to witness the work being done in them."

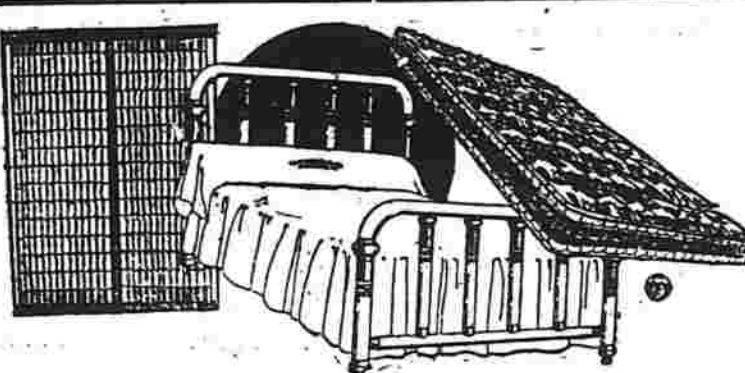

General Pershing also went emphatically on record in favor of the non-military program of Scouting for boys of scout age, declaring with earnestness: "I would not introduce military training into the Boy Scout Movement if I could. I believe the work you are doing is perhaps more broadening than that which would be given under a military regime. In any event, you are teaching boys the right thing—to be good citizens. Any man who is a good citizen will make a good soldier in time of peril."

TRAIL BLAZERS. THE ADVANCE GUARD. They fret and fume at the humdrum round of sleep and food and toil.

They loaf and shirk at routine work which hasn't a hope of change.

But given the lure of a gambler's chance at copper or gold or oil

Out at the edge of a new frontier where life is raw and strange.

They'll wager the last red cent they own, they'll wager their strength and health.

On finding gold at the rainbow's end, or oil in the desert's heart.

They'll sweat and starve and toil like hounds for a will-o'-the-wisp of wealth.

Which dances ever before their eyes to lead them over the chart!

Some of them win, but most of them lose, and wearily beat it back.

Shabby and broke, to the home-kept folk, who look at these "tramps" askance.

But as soon as the rovers get a stake they're off on another track.

Slaves of glamor that draws them on, and bondsmen of Romance.

Though fame and fortune may wait at home, they care for these not at all.

Their veins are filled with a restless food that drives them on afar.

For they are bound in a mightier spell and held in a greater thrall.

And ever they struggle further on to the light of a distant star!

Gamblers, rovers, adventurers all, who dream it is wealth they seek.

Though it is only the wander-fret that drives them on their way.

For if, by chance, their well comes in, or they strike a paying streak.

They're off again to a newer field where the game is still to play!

Questing ever a gambler's thrill they flee from the towns of men.

They push ahead to the raw frontier where life begins anew.

And the settler comes on the trail they break—and pushes them on again.

For civilization dogs the heels of a highly uncivilized crew!

In the last few years Berton Braley has made distinguished advance to the front line of the frequently broke but not completely uncivilized crew," except in we must confess in all humility the necessarily superficial thought of the "home-kept folk."

Braley went through the mill that grinds slow but grinds exceedingly small as did a man in somewhat similar experiences and with an outlook on the mystery of life not essentially nor fundamentally different from his.

We have reference to Robert S. Service. Pace "Songs of the Yukon" and Braley's really valuable stuff that he hasten to remark is big enough to be copyrighted by the N. E. A. Service, Incorporated, from which we have had the temerity to quote, we hesitate to class them with professional outdoor men like Theodore Roberts. The divine afflatus may descend in immeasurable generosity on the just and unjust alike but the real outdoor man seeks expression more than filthy lucre. Oh, yes, to copy an ancient slogan which expressed divagation from the straight and narrow path, foolish, futile or otherwise, we have no money today but, manana, tomorrow we may need money, we may be deluged in riches that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon could not begin to count, riches uncountable, or we may be like that aviator who succeeded in making a terribly dangerous landing and incidentally establishing an aerial record and whose first remark was: "Have you got a chew of tobacco?"

Talking about the Braley's and the Services is not quite such dry work as sitting in on a Greenwich Village symposium to decide the exact strength or weakness of the latest exotic dramatic importation from Russia or thereabouts. But the recreation has its mechanical as well as its spiritual limitations. Sometimes, we confess, we feel like writing until Gabriel blows his trumpets and then there are those unfortunate hiatuses when we don't want to write at all. We wish that Raymond S. Spears were here in physical presence to head the department that circumstances compel us to label "Contingued in our Next."

Life is vain, I'll be consumed with rust, we have forgotten even the name of Helen, we have never been to Carcassonne and our memories of "the jasmine flower in her fair young breast" are incredibly dim. Still our hymn shall be "Sursum Corda." "Talk of pluck" said crippled Bill Henley. "It was gray and dirty weather and I heard a drum go rolling" and, by jingo, he said, "rags and tatters, belts and bayonets... they meant it, with a thunder." We weep with La Paloma and we indubitably know that the oak and the ash and the bonnie birken tree are still growing green in the north countries.

But those scandalmongering three sisters have clipped our once silvery wings and have condemned us to an environment that is important and welcome enough to make us glad we are living in America. Talking impersonally and as a change we never allow ourselves to forget that we are the Constitution State, that no other year in history can compare with 1839; we continue to stand on our virtuous dignity when an ignorant outsider forgets himself so far as to mention wooden nutmegs, and we have more professional politics to the square inch than even Herkimer County ever produced in its heyday of activity, when Dan ruled the roost.

But, except for those awful people from New York and Massachusetts who insist on making us something to walk, drive, trample and kill each other over we are "a land of settled government, a land of just and old renown where Freedom (With a capital F) broadens slowly down from precedent to precedent." We admit that we exercise a little more care over our presidents, for example, than our precedents, but that is neither here nor there. We allow no Don Seltzes to tell us where we choose to get off.

It may not be superficially suspected but we assure anyone who is inveigled into reading this divagating discourse that there is a point to it, which we suddenly become conscious of when we read Mr. Braley's poem. It may look like the hieroglyphics that the stubbornly theocratic King Tut affected, or something dug up somewhere from China to Peru, or the next contribution to the Smithsonian Institution from the long dead Mayan civilization. But, we can hardly express our conclusions and ideas and concentrate upon the point better than the modest man who clothed himself in anonymity to write the following:

"We are the smirched, Queen Honor is the spotless. We slept through wars where Honor could not sleep. We were faint-hearted. Honor was full-vallant. We kept a silence Honor could not keep."

"Yet this late day we make a song to praise her. We, codeless, will yet vindicate her code. She, who was mighty, walks with us the beggars. The merchants drive her out upon the road."

"She makes a throne of sod beside our campfire. We give the maiden-queen our regas and tears. A battered, rascal guard have rallied round her. To keep her safe until the better years."

We are all on the road to Mandalay where so many flying fishes return to play and the dawn seldom comes up out of China like thunder 'cross the bay except occasionally when Chan-Tso-Lin sticks a suggestive pin into the sleepy Sun-Yat-Sen.

A STREET PROGRAM. "The English do not know of course how to cope with heat and things, but why aren't the streets of New York watered?"

The sardonic inclusiveness of the foregoing quotation from a New York newspaper may not have its immediate appeal to Manchester. But it has its points and its applicable derivatives. There is no need to strain at a gnat and swallow a camel, but around some of the most populous barbarian outskirts of this perfect town even a thoroughly certified Egyptian camel might find himself nonplussed during and after the severe thunderstorms that have been conspicuous by their absence in the present month but made their presence notably felt earlier in the summer.

We are not girding unnecessarily. At least we have not that intention.

We believe in keeping the tax rate down but also in spending money that in our time, not in posterity's gaily pictured mirage, will be reflected in better streets, better houses, better people in a better town. We are often tempted to ask with Boyle Roche what posterity has done for us that we should be called upon to do so much for it. We realize we are trading on dangerous ground if we tentatively allow ourselves to go close enough to the web to be slimed over with any adherent juice from the bonds versus taxes dispute. We are always willing to wait, deal with any particular case on its merits and apply the fundamental principle only when it is needed.

But it seems high time for the initiation of a comprehensive and squarely just street program. Manchester is laboring under large financial responsibilities at the present time but the value of a clear idea of the road we are going to travel in the next few years is unmistakably certain.

DIVIDENDS AND TAXES. Ten years ago the total dividends paid to the stockholders of American railroads were about two and a half times the total railroad taxes. Last year the taxes paid were eleven per cent. greater than the aggregate dividends.

In 1913 the railroads paid $322,000,000 in dividends and $127,000,000 in taxes. In 1922 the dividends had dropped to $271,000,000 and the taxes had increased to $301,000,000.

An increase of five billion dollars in the property investment of the railroads since 1913 brought an automatic increase of 33 per cent. in taxes but the total increase in taxes amounted to 115 per cent. while the dividends decreased 16 per cent.

To put it otherwise, in 1913 $1,446 was paid out in dividends per mile of line compared with $531 in taxes. In 1922 $1,156 was paid out in dividends per mile of line and $1,282 in taxes.

These are some of the hard facts that Senator La Follette and his wild-eyed followers strive to obscure. The great increases in taxes and labor costs reduce the amount available for dividends and so make it more difficult for the railroads to get capital for improvements and expansion. This lack of capital curtails earnings, both gross and net, and so the vicious circle goes on, with inadequate transportation and hampered industries as results. Whatever their crimes in the past, American railroads are now in danger of being legislated, controlled and taxed into bankruptcy.

A copyright news item describes Mayo as "the seaboard county" of SEABOARD COUNTIES.

Ireland. There is an exciting election campaign in progress there now so loose statements are to be expected. Who can answer off-hand, for example, how many seaboard counties there are in Mainland in the Bermudas or in North Island and South Island of the New Zealand group? It is news to learn that the county of Mayo, God help it, extends around the entire coastline of the island of Ireland, although some of the excellent people who claim it as their birthplace may believe that it includes even the interior. There was a time when its ports were centers of a historic and notable trade with France, just as its neighbor, Galway, gained fame, wealth and an almost alien perspective in art and civilization through a highly active commerce with Spain. Just imagine how California would feel if Maine claimed to be "the seaboard state" of the United States. If the despatch quoted from gets back to Ireland before August 27, the date of the general election, the voters will be provided with a brand new issue which may transcend in importance even the yet unsettled fate of De Valera.

BRANDEEGE. A Washington report is to the effect that Senator Brandegee is to be the chief adviser of the Coolidge administration. We do not believe the report to begin with, but we would be glad to know that it was a fact. Mr. Brandegee has been a viciously abused man in his political capacity but not the most unscrupulous of his enemies care to deny that he is in the forefront of American leadership, seeking sincerely, above all else, the genuine welfare of his country. We doubt very much whether Mr. Coolidge will have any "chief adviser" but if he decides to have one he might easily do a great deal worse than listen to the wise counsel of an experienced and thoroughly reliable servant of the American people as Frank Brandegee has been and is.

THE SWIFTS.

From the Spectator.

Now, day by day, the season drifts To autumn. See the gathering swifts

As busy as a good ship's crew. In suits of white and navy blue; About the mast they lift and dip As though the tree were a sailing ship

With green sail swelling in the wind? Yet the strange spirit of their kind That sends the birds adventuring With scent or sound of foreign spring

Breathes an enchantment from the sea, And wild hearts answer restlessly: So shall tomorrow find them down, Their ship—forsaken and alone— A derelict, her gallant sail Flying in rags before the gale.

ABOUT PIONERS.

(Worcester Post.)

Mr. Blightgrouch and his family were back in the city after a picnic which they figured had been marred by the interference of some farmers.

"Fellow can't go anywhere out in the country now and have a quiet spread," he complained. "We stopped in a shady spot and lit a fire for our coffee. Up came a farmer and chased us. We moved on to another and got put off the premises. We drank cold coffee then, ate our lunch and moved on to a huckleberry patch, from which we were promptly ejected as soon as a Kool dog showed the owner where we were.

All of which puts the poor farmer in an unkindly light. But is he as bad as pictured? Careless picnickers forgetting to extinguish their fires these hot days can ruin his farm with refuse. And still others in quest of huckleberries forget to close pasture gates, often letting his cows run into gardens or roadways and ruin.

City folks don't let strangers ride on their lawns, steal flowers and loot their factories. Why should the farmer let them make of his acres a public park?

CONNECTICUT VALLEY TOBACCO ASSOCIATION PLANS FURTHER GROWTH

Will Build Three Large Warehouses on East Side of River Subsidiary Corporation is Formed to Carry on Work. CHILDREN'S POWER DRIVEN VEHICLES MUST BE LICENSED

Children's vehicles propelled or drawn by any power other than muscular must be registered and carry regular automobile number plates when used on Connecticut highways, according to an interpretation of the law by the state motor vehicle department. The interpretation was made necessary by the fact that several such vehicles equipped with small gas motor have been acquired by Connecticut parents for their children within the last few months. The department holds that they come within the definition of a motor vehicle notwithstanding the fact that such of them as have been brought to the attention of Commissioner Stockel are built more along lines of a toy than a vehicle for real utility.

100,000 TO MAKE THE 'BOYS' LIFE' BIGGER AND BETTER.

Thousands of Boy Scouts and thousands of boys who are not scouts who are readers and boosters of BOYS' LIFE, the Boy Scouts Magazine, are rejoicing because of the official announcement made at the Thirteenth Annual Meeting of the Boy Scouts of America to the effect that $100,000 has been contributed by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial to be put into the magazine to make it bigger and better. BOYS' LIFE, while incidentally the official magazine of the Boy Scouts of America, is also a publication for all boys, as its name implies. It has a splendid record in the magazine field; starting without capital ten years ago it has developed a large circulation and grown to many pages of stories of adventure and fiction, as well as practical information of interest to all boys. The Boy Scouts of America believe that reading is an important element in the leisure time of the growing boy, and they propose to increase the emphasis upon this feature of their program. The facts were presented to the Memorial in such a way as to secure for BOYS' LIFE this special contribution of $100,000 in order that the magazine might be increased in quality and size and extend its influence to hundreds of thousands more boys. The Chief Scout Executive in commenting on this remarkable achievement stated that it was the hope of the Boy Scouts of America to have the magazine of such quality and general interest as to enlist as boosters for it all teachers of boys in the country, as well as all mothers and fathers who are vitally concerned as to how their boys grow into manhood. This arrangement will make possible prompt first payments on the 1923 crop, the desire of the officers being that the first payment accompany the packing report.

STRESEMANN WILLING TO ARBITRATE RUHR

Says He Will Leave Occupation Problem to an Impartial Tribunal - Certain Justice Will Be Done.

Berlin, Aug. 24.—"Germany is willing to leave the right or the wrong of Ruhr occupation to an impartial tribunal," said Chancellor Stresemann in a speech to the German Chambers of Commerce today.

Chancellor Stresemann continued: "We believe that putting our own house in order is the best form of German foreign policy.

"Our reparations payments up to date are considerably higher than we have been credited with by the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission. We are willing to submit to any impartial judges the amount paid in up to date."

The Chancellor was the guest of German captains of industry.

"The American Institute of Politics estimate the total German payments to date at 26,000,000,000 gold marks," added Chancellor Stresemann. "The German government's own estimate is more than 42,000,000,000 gold marks."

MARTIAL LAW IN SPAIN.

Athens, Aug. 24.—Martial law was proclaimed at Piraeus today as the result of disorders arising from strike troubles. A Communist plot was feared. Three hundred arrests were made.

Citizen organization helped the authorities restore order. The prisoners will be court martialled.

It is alleged that money was received from a suspicious source by a Bolshevik agent who cashed checks upon an American bank.

Officials claim the strike is collapsing.

reached a point nearly opposite the warehouse when the occupants were surprised by Captain Maddesten. As he boarded the car, after ordering the driver to the house, a shot was fired from the car. Madden fell from the running board and died almost instantly.

After a thrilling chase, Sergeant Dan Ahearn who chased the car through the streets of Hartford captured Klion. Neuss who was later captured by the Jersey police claimed that Moore did the shooting. Not much was attached to his story although first degree murder was never proven. The five men implicated were tried and sentenced to life imprisonment at Wethersfield.

It could not be learned what action would be taken in event that Moore's identity was established.

It would probably mean that a new trial would be ordered.

SEES PAL'S GHOST.

Johnston, R. I., Aug. 24.—The "ghost" of nine-year-old Michael Lurgio, hovered over the cot bed of Little Antonio Pesta, eight, all night. This morning, Antonio, pale and frightened, told the police of the shooting of Michael. The Johnston police are holding Antonio and Henry Rossi, 13. The Lurgio boy, according to Antonio, was shot while the trio were playing on a farm. Terrified by the tragedy, it was decided to hide Michael's body.

"Bad dreams" pursued Antonio all night and led to the confession.

Tokio, Aug. 24.—A new kind of flashlight for instantaneous photography has been devised by Kyofei Susehiro, a Japanese physicist, based on researches on exploding wires electrically made by Prof. J. A. Anderson at the Mt. Wilson Observatory in California. Mercury is sucked up in a very fine capillary tube and then through minute wire electrodes burned quickly by electricity. The result is a bright flash whose length depends on the size of the mercury filament.

NUMBER FIVE

antly resume wage discussions which have been broken off, twice within a month.

Optimistic View

This, particularly, was the optimistic view held by Hammond, who all along has expressed the belief there would be no strike. It was pointed out that the administration's distribution plan was nothing but a sanctioned national boycott of hard coal. To permit by strike the country to become accustomed to burning substitutes, with the imminent possibility that the demand for hard coal thereby would be materially lessened for all time, would be little short of calamity to both operators and miners; a move which neither would afford to make, it was declared.

So well satisfied is the administration that a suspension of yard coal production would not injure the country because of the distribution plan, reports that bituminous workers might "go on vacation in sympathy for anthracite miners" were generally disparaged.

Under law the office of the federal fuel distributor expires on September 22. If a strike is called and if not over by that time, Mr. Coolidge plans by executive order to keep F. R. Wedeligh at the head of the government's distribution agencies, it was declared today.

Plans for keeping in existence the national and state fuel distribution offices will be complete at the New York conference of governors next Tuesday.

HAMMOND'S RESASONS.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Definite reasons why the administration adheres to the belief there will be no strike in the anthracite fields next month, were given by John Hays Hammond, chairman of the United States Coal Commission, in a conference with newspaper men today.

Hammond said to strike would be virtual suicide to both operators and miners, because they would suffer heavily in loss of future markets.

Specific reasons why the administration does not believe operators and miners will deliberately brave a tie-up were enumerated as follows:

The Argument.

Operators:

1. There is no question of the sincerity of the operators to come to some arrangement with miners.
2. A shut-down of the mines would involve a great expense in keeping the mines from being flooded.
3. The operators are confronted with the fact that they are liable to lose their market in the days after the public has experienced and found substitutes available for hard coal.
4. Regardless of the public welfare the operators therefore will make every endeavor to come to terms with the workers.

Miners:

1. If a strike is called the miners are sure to be heavy losers.
2. Should mines be shut down two or three months and arrangements then made to re-open them, miners will find that the fuel needs of the public have amply been provided for.
3. Such a situation means that when the miners do come back to work they will be able to labor only part time as the market for anthracite coal will be cut down materially.
4. The representatives of the operators and miners cannot well afford to face this situation," Hammond said. "They know that they will lose in the future if a strike is called."

At the same time Hammond reiterated that the administration has no thought of intervening to break the Atlantic City deadlock and warned that "there is nothing in the situation to justify a panicky feeling on the part of the public."

"Those who will suffer most in the event of a strike are the operators and miners themselves," Hammond said.

"There will be a great deal of hesitation on either side to assume the responsibility for a shut down," he continued. "Self interest should bring the two groups together for a settlement of wage differences."

THREE BURNED TO DEATH.

Ringham, Mass., Aug. 24.—Two men and a girl met horrible deaths in an auto accident here. After crashing into a disabled truck, the machine in which they were returning from a summer camp on the south shore burst into flames. The charred and mangled bodies were identified today as those of Earl Finley of Wollaston; Thomas Gorham and Miss Lillian Schofield, both of South Boston. As there was neither a survivor nor an eye witness, it is not known whether the three victims died before they were enveloped in flames.

NOTED KNITTER TO WED.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 24.—Mrs. Elizabeth Craven Wyman, who won the $2,000 prize awarded in a national knitting contest, in which she defeated Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, will be married at her Jamestown home tomorrow to Professor Allan Westcott of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. The check for $2,000 arrived today on Mrs. Wyman's 30th birthday.

Mrs. Wyman is the daughter of the late Commodore Craven, U. S. N. Two months ago she divorced Lieut. G. L. Wyman, U. S. N. The suit was not contested. She has two children, and Professor Westcott, a widower, has three.

NOTED AUTHOR DEAD.

London, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Kay Douglas Wiggin, well known American writer, is dead in a private hospital at Harrok, said a dispatch from that place this afternoon. She was in ill health upon her arrival in England several months ago.

Mrs. Wiggin was 66 years old. Her best known book was "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

Mrs. Wiggin's body will be sent to the United States for burial.

The authoress was a native of Maine. Before taking up writing she was interested in kindergarten teaching and visited California to study this branch of education. She taught for about a year in Santa Barbara College, later establishing a kindergarten in San Francisco. She was married in 1880 to Samuel B. Wiggin, a San Francisco lawyer. Eight years later the couple moved to New York. Mrs. Wiggin's first story appeared in 1878.

BIG IRISH STRIKE.

Cork, Ireland, Aug. 24.—Trade was paralyzed here today as a result of a general strike. Thousands are idle. The poorer districts are hard pressed as there is only a small supply of coal on hand. The water supply is threatened.

THE STOCK MARKET.

New York, Aug. 24.—Aside from renewed weakness in the stocks of various independent oil companies, forenoon trading on the Stock Exchange today was devoid of special interest. Price movements were limited except in some specialties.

Producers & Refiners moved into new low ground, selling down two points to 24-7/8. Maryland Oil broke nearly two points to below 28.

De Pont was unusually active, rising over two points to above 129.

Mack Truck advanced 1 1/2 to 81.

Interest in the Railroads centered in the Erie issues, the Common advancing nearly one point to 1 3/4 and the First Preferred 1-3 to 25.

New York, Aug. 24.—The Stock Market opened slightly irregular today.

Fractional advances and declines were about evenly divided. American Ice and Kayer & Co. were strong spots, the former rising 1-8 to 97-1/8 and the latter one point to 38-1/2.

United States Steel rose 1-2 to 82, Bethlehem Steel 1-8 to 52 1-2, Gulf States Steel 1-4 to 32 3-4, and Baldwin Locomotive 1-4 to 122 1-8.

American Locomotive lost 1-8 to 74 and Studebaker 1-8 to 108 1-8.

General Motors rose 1-4 to 15 3-4.

Stclair Oil yielded 1-2 to 20 1-4 and Crown & Refiners 3-8 to 16 1-2, while Pan-American Petroleum rose 1-8 to 60.

Railroads opened steady.

PLANT ATTACKED.

Norwalk, Conn., Aug. 24.—Attachments totalling $65,000 were filed here today against the Trux Corp. of East Norwalk, by Thomas C. Stearns, of Westport, president of a company, who claims $5,000 in unpaid notes and $15,000 in salary due for five years, and by William Ely, of Providence, R. I., who claims $20,000 in notes due and unpaid, and who is suing for $40,000 on that claim.

The suits follow the recent application of Arthur J. Dickinson and E. F. Wilson, both of New York, stockholders, for a receiver on the ground of mismanagement.

Some trade experts predict that American exports to Mexico will double during the next fiscal year, as Mexicans are in need of farm machinery and larger quantities of manufactured goods normally supplied by American merchants. Secretary Hoover will assist American commercial interests in assigning special agents to different Mexican states to investigate trade conditions, and he will also send out representatives of his own to inquire into the needs of Mexico in the American market.

NUMBER THREE

It is understood that there will be at least three candidates for the office of assessor, and two for registrar. There is surely going to be a contest for the board of selection. That means that when the eleventh day of September rolls around that the voters of the town will have an opportunity to choose the candidates of their choice for these different offices.

It was announced yesterday that Edgar Morgan had thrown his hat into the political ring for assessor. Samuel Nelson had previously announced that he would be a candidate for the same office. Wallace Robb is also to be a candidate. This is the job that has been held for the past dozen years by Robert J. Smith, who has declined to be a candidate in this election.

Yesterday it was learned that James B. Wilson of Garma street, would be a candidate for assessor of voters. Mr. Wilson is well known in town. He is a prominent Odd Fellow and is employed by the C. E. Wilson Nursery Co. He will not be alone in his efforts to become registrar as it is understood that James Vetch would like the job. Thomas Ferguson, who has held the job as registrar for the past 20 years will not be a candidate. With his work as clerk of the local town court and his duties at The Herald office he considers that he has enough to do. As far as can be learned there are no other contestants, other than stated expected.

Primary day in Manchester will be Tuesday, September 11. The new primary lists are now in the hands of the printer and will be ready the early part of next week.

NUMBER FOUR

launch a presidential boom in his behalf.

Started Years Ago. The Johnson-Hoover feud started years ago when both men had only state followings in California. Johnson was the victor in their earlier clashes but Hoover gave the Senator his first public defeat three years ago. This came when the Secretary's organization carried California's Republican delegation to the 1926 convention for Harding over the Senator's own candidacy. This act almost precipitated open warfare on a national scale but by his kindly influence the late President Harding prevented a clash.

War Declared. In his statement a declaration of war in effect—Johnson challenging his "opposition" to a finish fight in California for the state's delegation to the 1934 Republican convention. Declaring he would contest for a "Progressive delegation" political observers here believed Johnson literally had thrown his hat into the presidential ring. While Johnson would not add to the statement, Hoover also remained silent. Shown a copy of Johnson's charges the secretary said he had no reply to make "at this time."

Though both are Republicans, Hoover and Johnson are as far apart as the poles, politically. Johnson is leader of the Senate "Reconcilables" and Hoover is a leader of Republican League of Nations advocates. Johnson opposes the World Court plan; Hoover helped to write it.

TRAPPED IN ELEVATOR

New York, Aug. 24.—One hundred men and women were trapped today in a falling elevator transporting them from the street level at 181st Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, to the subway platform 100 feet below. Panic followed after the car hit the bottom of the shaft. The passengers fought to reach the door and tramped a few who fell. No one, however, was seriously hurt.

TOWN TALK

Getting back at the coal men is a sentiment that is spreading all over New England. It has spread through Manchester to such an extent that many people say they will not burn a ton of coal during the coming winter.

Senator A. E. Bowers is one of these men who claims he will not be forced to use any coal this winter. He has none in his cellar and does not intend to put any in.

It isn't enough for the price of coal to go sky-rocketing and the fear of a strike in September hanging over us, but just when we begin to use more heat of all kinds than we have during the heat of the summer, the price of that necessity has gone up wholesale at any rate from six to ten cents a pound from the price asked a comparatively short time ago.

The summer season is ebbing fast. The cool nights and mornings are reminders of what will come later. The flowers that bloom in the early fall are seen with a certain amount of melancholy.
