COL. COOLIDGE
KEEPING ALIVE
BY SHEER GRIT

Physical Machine Is Worn Out-Road Breakers Open Way for President to Father's Bedside.

Plymouth, Vt., March 17.—Grit and courage alone are keeping Col. John C. Coolidge, the President's father alive. Everything but a heart dominated by an iron will has failed to function, worn out.

From the sick room this morning came word that the patient was "fairly comfortable" and had secured some rest during the night.

Reporters Keep Vigil
The late bulletin issued by Dr.
Albert M. Cram tonight was so startling that newspapermen did not retire at all, or slept at naps, fully dressed, expecting the end momentarily. The doctor found the patient very much weaker, unable to partake of nourishment. He took even his medicine with difficulty.

For the first time since reporters gathered in sight of the Coolidge home to take up their vigil, the house was silent.

The doctor, through arrangement with the telephone company was able to keep in close contact with the sick room by the telephone, although ten miles away.

At 11:30 A.M., Dr. Cram issued the following bulletin:
"There is nothing new to be said of Col. Coolidge's condition.
His heart condition is fair and temperatures are normal. He remains very weak as he is unable to take any nourishment.

He is very comfortable when nourished and bears what pain and discomfort with acquiescence with great fortitude. No new developments anticipated during the next 24 hours.

Meanwhile the battle of man against nature to make it possible for the President to reach his father, continued with feverish energy.

The fight the snow
The district road commissioner at Ludlow, Carl Lawrence, directed his men and plow all night long to reach Plymouth ahead of the crew working from Woodstock. The latter reached Plymouth first but because of bad equipment did not dig deep enough.

From Ludlow the big rotary plow, grinding its way into the hills, is tossing snow thirty feet to either side of the road for a path
"th feet wide, and eating up solid banks of snow between four and eight feet deep, digging clear down to the macadam roadbed.

Daily the population of this village is being increased as the services of Colonel Coolidge's condition becomes more apparent.

Every train into Ludlow, the nearest railroad station, brings new faces, correspondents, photographers and telegraphers. They then take to the ancient horse and sleigh for the 12-mile journey to the scene of action.

The little country general store owned by Miss Florence Ciley has within a week become a hotel. In the hall above the store, used by President Coolidge as his office, when he visited his father more than a year ago, a score of newspapers sleep on tiny cots, muffled in horse blankets.

Long Ride for Bath
In between times the "boys" sit about the stove in the general store listening to native yarns about "Cal" and waiting for awaiting reports from the bedside.

One photographer, anxious for a bath, was forced to travel 24 miles to a hotel in a horse-drawn sleigh at an expense of nearly $20.

BOSTON HAS 150TH
EVACUATION DAY
Boston, March 17.—Earl Wesley Scott, whose career as a bogus war hero, adventurer and con artist o.
Boston degenerate was ended when he was taken to state prison to serve a three year term for automobile thievery, has been an inmate of the penitentiaries of Pennsylvania, Illinois and Atlanta, it was learned today. He is only 29 years old.

Miss Ruth Tremblay, Bates College girl, who is alleged to have received stolen goods from Scott, was out on probation.

ACQUITS TERRIER OF CAT MURDER

Judge Finds Teddy Not Guilty
When No Teeth Marks Are Found on Corpse.

Philadelphia, March 17.— Cleared from the stain of a murder accusation and his honor unsmirched, Teddy, a fox terrier, has been ordered acquitted, exonerated and dismissed from custody by Magistrate Glenn.

Teddy had been accused of the killing of Blackie, a trained cat, and his death was demanded by the cat's owner,
James G. Spear. Elmer T.
Witt, whom Teddy calls master, lives not far from Mr.
Spear.

When Blackie's body was found by the roadside last week the terrier was accused.
He was hauled before Magistrate Glenn on a charge of first degree murder. Mr. Witt was charged as an accessory before and after the fact in that he had trained Teddy to pursue cats.

Blackie was intended for a circus cat, according to Mr.
Spear. Evidence that Teddy was not a cat-chasing dog but an excellent breed of fox terrier was introduced by Mr. Witt.

Magistrate Glenn was persuaded and ordered Blackie's body disinterred. If marks of Teddy's teeth were found on the body it would be prima facie evidence of guilt. Officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals reported today the cat had been crushed and there were no dog bites on the body.

Mr. Witt had contended an automobile killed Blackie.

BISHOP ANDERSON
LECTURE TONIGHT

'Life's Perpetual Adventure' Subject of Address—Musical to Precede.

Under the auspices of the Men's Friendship Club Bishop William F.
Anderson of Boston will give his lecture on "Life's Perpetual Adventure" at eight o'clock tonight in the new South Methodist church.

Seats are not reserved so the early comers will have their choice of the best seats in the church.
The doors will be open at seven-fifteen. Preceding the lecture by the bishop which begins at eight o'clock, there will be a short musical program given by Archibald Sessions, organist, who will be assisted by Robert Gordon, baritone soloist both well-known to Manchester audiences and musical circles.

Large Audience Assured
Bishop Anderson's wide experience as an educator, preacher and administrator not only in the Methodist Episcopal church at home and abroad, but also among the Churches of Christ and the educational institutions of the country, has led him far and wide in travel and adventure, and gives him a rich and varied background which lends unusual force and interest to his masterful handling of the rather alluring subject "Life's Perpetual Adventure." Judging from the partial reports received thus far from the ten teams of ten each who have been handling the sale of tickets, there should be a splendid audience to greet the bishop, and enjoy his lecture.

A large number of Manchester citizens were privileged to hear Bishop Anderson at the formal dedication services of the new South Methodist church last November, at which time arrangements were made for him to lecture in the church at the earliest available date. He comes tonight to fulfill that engagement, and it is expected that many of the people of Manchester besides the group called Methodists will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear him.

LEAGUE TO BE MADE OVER IS GENEVA'S IDEA

Talk of Reorganization Is Sequel to Failure of Meeting—One Plan Is for Three Sections.

Geneva, March 17.—The League of Nations Assembly met today and accepted an admission of failure.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, addressed the Assembly announcing the decision of the Council to defer Germany's admission to the league until September.

Sir Austen spoke in climax to a series of bitter, nationalist struggle—a climax capped at the last moment by a renewal of Brazil's insistence that she could not accept Germany as a league member until Brazil is granted a permanent seat on the Council.

The Assembly voted to accept the decision of the Council to postpone Germany's entry into the league until September.

While criticism was being leveled at Brazil for her insistence, Mello Franco, the Brazilian delegate arose in defense of his attitude.

"I have acted upon instructions which are definite and irrevocable," said Mello Franco, declaring that he had received a lengthy cable from his government insisting upon his refusing concessions.

With this statement, the last hour of settlement of the dispute at this time went to Germany.

"We are proud of having defended the covenant," Mello Franco said. "And we are entirely within our rights in claiming a more equitable representation for America."

When Mello Franco had concluded, Sir Austen Chamberlain arose to explain the decision of the Council for postponement. It was evident that the main purport of his speech was to be an effort to save the Locarno treaty from being considered mere wreckage. Sir Austen declared that the powers signing the Locarno treaty are in accord, and had reached an agreement on Germany's entrance into the league, but that other difficulties intervened.

Reorganization.
The powers signing this treaty are resolved "to maintain and de-

PRESIDENT REFUSES TO SEE STRIKERS

Declines to Receive New Jersey
Textile Group—Southy Committee Like Taft's.

Washington, March 17.—A delegation representing the Passaic, New Jersey, textile strikers, was denied permission to present its grievances to President Coolidge.

Everett Sanders, secretary to the President, said the delegation would have to take its troubles to the Labor Department, not the White House.

"President Coolidge finds time to see Charleston dancers and others like that, but he hasn't time to talk to a delegation representing strikers upon whom 250,000 people are dependent for a livelihood," said Welsford, strike leader, sarcastically as he left the White House.

Mill owners said they had not been approached by conciliators of the department of labor, as had been reported, with a plan for a committee consisting of a representative of each side and a third conferee appointed by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

Set Hermit Now At Rest

Edward Wylie Scripps, noted publisher, who spent the last four years of his life sailing all over the world in his yacht, seldom going ashore. He died in a harbor of Liberia, Africa. Besides having been at the head of a great newspaper chain and daily news service, he created the News Enterprise Association, with which The Herald is affiliated.

Orange, Green
Army for 2
Harvard Sheets

Cambridge, March 17.—With green the popular color in this city today, citizens were startled to find the dignified building of the Harvard Crimson ablaze with orange.

An orange flag hung from the flagpole and the inspiring "march" with buckets of paste and crepe paper had plastered the building in orange color.

Soon after the anti-green dress was applied to the Crimson, a parant of the Harvard Lampoon staff, dressed in green, went across Harvard campus and a special St.
Patrick's number of "Lamp" was issued.

Arms Parley Must Await German Entry

Geneva, March 17.—The League of Nations preliminary conference on disarmament will probably be deferred until after Germany is admitted to the League, it was learned this afternoon.

The Council in its session considering the preliminary disarmament conference, and it is understood that there is a tendency to favor postponement so that Germany may participate as a member of the League.

Stores in Spring Dress
For the Annual Opening

Merchants Decorate for Event—Newest Styles to Be Shown—Music and Models in Many of the Business Places.

Though the ground is covered with snow and the chill of winter still bites the ears a step inside the doors of Manchester's stores reveals a welcome transformation. The interiors present the atmosphere of Spring. The bright green, the freshness and the inspiring feeling of Spring gives, are outstanding. The stores are all dressed up for the annual Spring opening which will be observed by practically every business house in town tomorrow night from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Musical entertainment is being provided in many stores and in several, living models will display the latest fashions in dresses, coats, hats and stockings. The Herald presents today a resume of what the most important stores are planning for the opening.

The J. W. Hale Company.
Behrend's orchestra will furnish music at Hale's from 7 to 9, the hours of the opening. All departments have been redecorated and the latest stock is on display. Five local experienced girls will display the latest styles on a specially built stage in the rear of the dress and cloak department. Souvenirs will be given all children accompanied by their parents in the Baby Shop.
Kemp's Music House.

At Kemp's a continuous musical program will be given throughout the evening, consisting of selections on the piano and the orthophonic Victrola.

GET NOWHERE
IN MATTEOTTI
DEATH TRIAL

Crown Witnesses Refuse to State Positively that Deputy Drove to scene and Not Tuberculosis.

Chieti, Italy, March 17.—Crown efforts to unravel the mystery of the death of Deputy Giacomo Matteotti made but little progress today.

During the morning session President Danza placed a number of crown witnesses on the stand in an effort to refute the story of Amerigo Dumini, Fascist leader, born in St. Louis, that Matteotti died a natural death, choking from blood while in the rear of the kidnapping car driven by Dumini.

The crown presented medical evidence tending to break down Dumini's evidence.

Whereas Dumini and his counsel had suggested that Matteotti died from a hemorrhage caused by tu-bercular trouble recurring due to the excitement of the kidnaping, the crown presented medical evidence which gave it as an expert opinion that Matteotti probably died from knife wounds.

The defense, which was directed by Signor Farinacci, secretary of the Fascist party, maintained that Matteotti's body, when found and examined by the crown's medical experts, was badly decomposed and that it was impossible to arrive at an expert opinion.

Explanation of Scars.
Evidence was presented that when Dumini and his comrades were arrested, two days after the discovery of Matteotti's body, bruises and evidences of having been engaged in a battle were found upon their bodies. The defense maintained that these bruises, so far as Dumini was concerned, were partly old war wounds and partly bruises which were received in clashes with Communists.

Dumini's story of the affair still stands as the only evidence by an eyewitness of what happened.

FIND BOUND BODY
IN WINDSOR CANAL

Windsor Locks, March 17.—
With a wound on the forehead and a broken nose, with feet strapped together and with hands tied behind his back, the body of Philip McDermott, 25 years old, who mysteriously disappeared last December, was found late yesterday under the ice in the canal here.

Authorities are at a loss for a murder motive. No one was seen with McDermott on the day of his disappearance. He was reported as walking in the general direction of the canal. He had been extremely dependent for several weeks before his disappearance, and for want of more accurate knowledge a suicide theory was accepted.

Near Bank.
John Bennett and Henry Schnell found the body beneath the thin ice near the canal bank. They recognized it as that of McDermott and summoned the authorities.

That McDermott tied his own hands behind his back and jumped into the canal here is the belief that prevails with officials here today. Dr. Joseph A. Coogan, medical examiner, pointed out that the strip of cloth with which Mc-Dermott's hands were tied had two slip knots, separated by seven or eight inches. Such knots, it was pointed out, could be tied easily by a person with his hands behind his back but could not be untied without aid.

TRIAL OF COWAN FOR BURTON MURDER ON

First Degree Sought by State; Prisoner Says He Wants to Die in Home for Blind.

New York, March 17.—A verdict of first degree murder against Harry Cowan, 50-year-old hotel clerk, was asked by the prosecution today when Cowan went on trial charged with having killed his sweetheart, Miss Edith Burton, in her Brooklyn apartment on December 28, last.

Cowan, blinded by a self-inflicted bullet wound, was led into the courtroom by an attendant.

MOVE ON FOOT TO KILL
BOND ISSUE SATURDAY

VICTIM IDENTIFIED
BOSTON'S STABBER

Security Woman Finds Cutting on Staff of School Man Just Out of Angham.

Boston, March 17.—Mrs. Lever-ett Saltenstall Tuckerman, 2nd, society matron, one of the eight victims of a crazy stabber, today positively identified Dominic Caprio, a North End young man, as the person who stabbed her a week ago as she was returning from church.

Other women failed to identify Caprio, who was arrested on Charles River Esplanade for accosting Policewoman Mary A. Sughra.

Caprio attempted to throw away a sharpened nail which he carried in his pocket.

Mrs. Tuckerman refused to prosecute the man. The prosecution had none since the attack in the Public Gardens.

Miss Florence McEachern and another woman, victims of the accorder, who had been terrorizing the women of Boston, were unable to identify Caprio.

Today Caprio was taken to the home of Mrs. Tuckerman, who has been confined to her Bay State Road home since the attack in the Public Gardens.

"That is the man," Mrs. Tuckerman was quoted by police as saying. "I remember his features."
The blinking of Caprio's eyelids, due to nervous trouble, is a marked characteristic.

Caprio asserted his innocence.
He admitted that he had accosted the policewoman. He maintained that he had found the pointed nail, which he attempted to throw away at the Joy street station, and had used it as a tooth pick.

Caprio is unmarried and lived with his mother in a two-room apartment in the North End.

Angham Baham.
The mother said that her son, who is 30 years old, was on a three weeks' leave of absence from the hospital for the insane in Northampton. He had been in an inmate there, suffering from shell shock.

Police at first thought that the Boston stabber they were hunting was the same man as terrorized the women of Bridgeport, Conn., but they have no record that he was ever in Bridgeport.

OF DEATH APPARATUS

graphs have never been made of a death house and hanging apparatus at the state prison here and never will be made as long as Warden H.
K. W. Scott is in control at the institution. Warden Scott so declared today when newspaper photographers asked his permission to take pictures of the newly erected death house.

The prospect of the death of Gerald Chapman by automatic machinery next month had created a desire to obtain the pictures and Warden Scott has received a flood of applications which were today denied in a body.

If Voters Do Not Approve Financing Method in Referendum Vote at Special Election 20 Mill Tax Will Be Necessary This Year.

The Herald learned today that there is a movement in town sponsored by a small group of taxpayers to go to the polls Saturday and in the special election vote down the proposed bond issue. There seems to be no particular leader of the group or movement, but it is understood that several employees at the silk mills have discussed the question and have decided to try to beat the bond issue and will try to get out a big vote against it.

Is a Referendum.
Saturday's special election is a referendum on the bond issue question. At the town meeting held March 1 it was voted to issue bonds in the amount of $355,000 covering $181,000 for the construction of a new Municipal Building as voted May 11, 1925, also $125,000 for acquiring a Trade School as voted July 9, 1924, and $50,000 for acquiring land of Edward J. Holt for cemetery purposes as voted October 5, 1925. All of these projects have been submitted to the voters in town meeting and have been approved by the voters, and authorized.

In addition to authorizing the work the town meeting has voted to issue the bonds, and the matter is then submitted on referendum.

These bonds are in the denomination of $1,000 each, and $20,000 becomes due each year from 1927 to 1943 and $16,000 in 1944, bearing interest at the rate of 4 1/4 per cent, which is extending the time for paying for these improvements over a period of eighteen years, which seems to be a very good method of financing the projects.

Would Take 7 More Mills.
In order to pay for these bills through current expenses, it would require a tax rate of about 7 mills, which would be a period of seven years. The taxpayers objected to the laying of a 13 mill tax at the last town meeting and it would seem inconsistent if these same taxpayers went to the polls and, in reality, voted to lay a 20 mill tax.

Legally Necessary.
In case the bond issue is voted down in Saturday's special election it will be absolutely and legally necessary to consider the $355,000 as current expenses. Then, the Board of Selectmen in a special meeting will vote to lay an additional tax sufficient to pay the added expense.
This tax will amount to, at least, 7 mills and on top of the 13 mill tax already laid will give a 20 mill tax to be paid this year.

This action would not be the fault of the Board of Selectmen.
The board will have to take such action by law. The Superior Court would insist, if the case were tested, that the Board of Selectmen had laid the additional tax and there would be nothing left to do but pay the bill.

Rolls Open 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.
Manchester's bonds have been authenticated at all times by the First National Bank of Boston, and the legal procedure followed by the town has been approved by this bank. Additional work and expense will be involved if the issue is voted down and an additional tax burden will be thrown on the shoulders of the taxpayers. The polls, which will be in the Lincoln school, will be open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock at night. All voters are urged to visit the polls and express their opinions at the election.

CHAPMAN SCORNS
"CHARITY" OF PARDON

He Would Rather Die on Gallows, Says Groehl, Than Accept That Way Out.

New York, March 17.—Gerald Chapman bandit-murderer, doomed to die on April 5, said "he would rather hang than receive charity at the hands of the Board of Pardon," according to Judge Frederick J.
Groehl, his chief counsel, in an interview today.

Groehl said that Chapman had sent out three invitations for his own hanging.

RIVER SUICIDE WAS NOT VALET SANDS

Definitely Decided Taylor Suspect Did Not End Life at Warehouse Point.
Hartford, March 17.—The man who committed suicide at Warehouse Point near here in 1922 was not Edward F. Sands, missing valet of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, slain in Los Angeles, it has been determined by the Connecticut State Police and the police of Los Angeles.

The State Police investigation made at the time the body was found almost definitely indicated that the dead man was not Sands, and this has been further attested by a letter received today from Captain of Detectives H. H. Clines of Los Angeles.

The letter says that the possibility of the dead man being Sands was investigated thoroughly by the Los Angeles police when the Warehouse Point case was first reported. A picture of the man who took his own life was forwarded to California and shown to persons who knew Sands well. It was learned that the picture in no way resembled the missing valet.

BORN ON TRAIN, GETS C. P. AS HIS INITIALS.

Toronto, March 17.—Mrs. J. Allen of Windsor gave birth to a son on the Winnipeg Flyer, the Canadian Pacific crack express, sixty miles from Toronto today. The infant will be named C. P. Allen, after the day and the railroad.

STORES IN SPRING DRESS FOR OPENING

attractive line of the season's newest offerings in Ladies' dresses, coats and lingerie. A stylish show window will afford visitors a glimpse of the newest and most attractive color combinations in Ladies' garments. There will be souvenirs for visitors.

Happiest & Robbier
Styles in Sporting Goods? Of course. New things are being brought out all the time and this enterprising firm gets the best of them. Just now the fishermen are interested in new tackle, an attractive line of which will be shown here. Baseball, tennis, archery and other outdoor sports are also represented as well as a number of new and desirable accessories for the automobile.

A. L. Hultman's
At Hultman's the season's newest offerings in Men's wear of every description will be shown at their best. Closest top coats, hats, shirt neckwear and shoes in the latest styles will be on display. A jazz orchestra of five pieces will play throughout the evening.

Dewey-Richman Company.
At this store people naturally expect to see the newest ideas in jewelry and stationery. A display of the newest patterns in silver hollow ware will be shown, ladies' aquamarine rings, which are very popular this season, also gentlemen's rings in many designs. A most attractive line of new Eaton, Crane & Pike stationery will also be shown.

Glennay's.
The Manchester public will have its chance to inspect the town's newest clothing and men's furnishings store tomorrow evening. Glennay's, as Christopher Glennay's new store in the Tinker building will be known, will open with a fresh stock of clothing, hats, furnishings of every description and men's shoes.

The store presents an entirely changed appearance, from the fine, new show windows to its light, attractive interior with new fixtures in mahogany finish. A fine musical program has been prepared for the entertainment of visitors. The Victorian orchestra will play and a song program will be given by Miss Ada Belle Crosby and Robert Gordon with Archibald Sessions at the piano.

C. E. House & Son, Inc.
House's store will present a spring-like appearance with seasonable decorations setting off the displays of the newest things in hats, shoes, men's and boys' wearables of every description. The shoe department will show spring styles in footwear for the whole family. The Manchester Male Quartet, Messrs. Boland, Taylor, Duggan and Johnson, accompanied by Burdette Hawley, will sing throughout the evening.

Rhode Island Textile Co.
The Rhode Island Textile Co.'s store will be a mecca for women on opening night. One will find a tempting array of everything new fabrics that will delight the eye and appeal to the tastes of every woman. One will be able to find innumerable new frocks from fabrics to be found on display.

The store has been arranged in a pleasing manner and is filled with capacity with new fabrics. The store is cordially invited to come Thursday evening and inspect this array.

Rubinow's
Rubinow's will present a fashion show of the latest creations in women's ready to wear that will delight the heart of every woman and Miss. Many frocks from the store's extensive assortment will be displayed by living models from New York and also by Miss Helen Kanehl, Miss Manchester of this town.

The big display will open promptly at 7 p. m. It would be timely to note that in view of the large numbers of people who have attended the fashion shows at this store in seasons past people who want to see this Spring's display will do well to get to the store early.

Manchester Electric Co.
The Manchester Electric Co. will feature a large line of electrical appliances at the Spring Opening exhibition at their store on Main street. Included in these will be the Savage Electric Washer, the Thor Ironing Machine and the Universal vacuum cleaner. These three appliances are things that will make housework a pleasure for any woman. They can be had for a very reasonable amount and can be operated at very little cost. People will do well to see this display and find out about these things as well as the numerous other appliances sold by the Manchester Electric Co.

Manchester Plumbing & Supply.
The Manchester Plumbing and Supply Co. have just completed their alterations and the rearrangement of their enlarged store. It will be opened for public inspection Thursday evening at which time there will be several demonstrations including a demonstration by a factory representative from the A. G. Spalding Co., manufacturers of the well known sporting goods by that name and also a demonstration of Sherwin & Williams paints. The display windows will be given over to two spectacular exhibits, one showing a continuous flow of paint and the other demonstrating a large Yale lock. The enlarged store of the Manchester Plumbing and Supply Co. puts it in a class with the best hardware stores in the state.

There will be music by Ed Smith's singing orchestra.

George H. Williams
George H. Williams has his new store in the Johnson block all dressed up for the big opening Thursday evening from 7 to 9 p. m. Men and young men who want to see what is being worn in the Spring of 1932 should attend without fail. George takes pride in showing the latest things for men at his store.

He has a large assortment of new suits and topcoats, shoes and hats and haberdashery. Everything has been arranged in tasteful displays and it will not be hard for any man to walk around and get a fine conception of the new styles and the things that he needs for the new Spring dressup.

Free souvenirs will be given to all adults.

The Fair.
The Fair in its new location in the Podrova-Jaffe block has a fine new store filled with a fine line of merchandise. New stocks have been coming in every day for the past few days for this big event. One will find a fine array of new fabrics and mothers will find a splendid assortment of new ready to wear for boys and girls. The Fair also features an extensive line of hosiery for men, women and children.

F. T. Blish Hardware Co.
The F. T. Blish Hardware Co. is planning a very unique program for the entertainment of their trade for the annual Spring Opening tomorrow evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

This year they have engaged the Charter Oak Colored Comedian Musicians of Hartford who appear in uniform. The latest jazz and popular dance music is one of the special features. They are known as one of the foremost instrumental orchestras in these parts with all of their special features.

Their entire force is stressing every point in arranging the store for the inspection of customers.

The company is offering prizes to the holders of the lucky tickets. Each person will be given a card on entering the store which he or she will sign and just before closing the drawing will be held and the lucky number holders will be awarded prizes.

Watkins Brothers
Watkins Brothers will present as the feature of their Spring Opening "The Cottage" which has all been furnished and decorated for the occasion. No entertainment program has yet been announced, but the Orthophonic Victrola will play a number of selections during the evening. All the floors of the Watkins store have been rearranged and the latest in Spring furniture is on display.

Wm. MUNROE HONORED ON 88th BIRTHDAY.
William M. Munroe of East Center street was surprised and pleased last night when a party of more than a dozen of his friends hereabouts gathered at his home in honor of his eighty-second birthday. It was a coincidence too that his nephew, Charles Glenney, of North Andover, Mass., happened to be going to New Haven, and stopped in to felicitate with Mr. Munroe while the party was in progress.

The friends not only brought him gifts but two birthday cakes and all the requisites for a delicious supper which all enjoyed. Mr. Munroe said it was the nicest birthday he ever remembered and had he known they were coming he would have provided a fiddler for old-fashioned dancing. He is

Scottish and entertained the group with several of his Scotch songs and other Scotch songs of the variety.

Mr. Munroe who has been a long resident of Manchester enjoys good health. He is fond of driving and frequently attends the movies. Both here and in Hartford and takes an active interest in current events.

AGED WOMEN DIE FROM GAS POISONING
Worcester, March 17.—Victims of coal gas, the bodies of Mrs. Mary Bates, 81, wife of a Civil War veteran, and Mrs. Annie Ellsworth, 79, housekeeper, were found today on the third floor apartment of a house on Beacon street. The bodies were discovered by firemen who had been called by neighbors who thought the house was on fire.

STATE TO AWARD CONTRACTS FOR OVER A MILLION

Eight Separate Contracts to Start Road Building Program for 1926.

The elimination of two grade crossings and the construction of about sixteen miles of new roadway and one new bridge are called for in proposals which the state highway department has prepared for submission to contractors. It is estimated that the work will cost more than $1,000,000.

Sealed bids for the work will be received at the department's headquarters, No. 12 Washington street, Hartford, up to Tuesday, March 23, at 2 p. m., and it is expected that the work will be under way in about two weeks after the award of contracts.

These improvements will inaugurate the state's road building program for 1926. Eight separate contracts are involved.

The grade crossing eliminations proposed are at Plainfield on the Norwich-Putnam road and at Old Saybrook on the Boston Post Road. In both cases, it is planned to construct overhead bridges. At Plainfield, Bishop's Crossing is the elimination planned and the contract calls for a concrete sub-structure for the bridge. At Old Saybrook the Saybrook Junction crossing will be removed by a relocation of the highway and a bridge over the tracks.

The largest improvement planned is on the Middletown-New Haven road at Durham where about five miles of reinforced concrete pavement will be laid. The road will be widened in many places to about twenty feet, a number of grades will be removed and in several places the road will be re-graded in order to eliminate sharp curves. This improvement will cover 28,720 linear feet.

In towns of Vernon and Tolland an improvement covering about four miles and one-half is planned on South street and Vernon avenue and on the Hartford-Tolland Turnpike, where a seven-inch water-bound macadam road will be built.

The other contracts called for are as follows: Chaplin—About 19,320 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Willimantic-Putnam road.

Windsor Locks—A twelve-foot span concrete box culvert on the Windsor-Windsor Locks road.

East Windsor—About 1,650 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Broad Brook-Ellington road.

Gulford—About 8,380 linear feet of grading and drainage work

EXTENSION SERVICE AT STATE COLLEGE

Storrs Maintains Staff of Specialists Who Spend Most of Their Time Helping Farmers.

Perhaps the best known phase of the work of Connecticut Agricultural College is that of its Extension Service, supported jointly by Federal and State governments, that carries improved methods worked out by the Experiment Station and college departments directly to the farms.

To make its work effective, the Extension Service maintains a staff of specialists with headquarters at Storrs but who spend most of their time out in the State helping farmers solve their many problems. The staff includes specialists in dairying, poultry raising, fruit growing, agricultural engineering, farm management, vegetable growing, bee keeping, marketing, clothing, millinery, home nursing and nutrition.

The Extension Service directs the work of the county agents, home demonstration agents and boys' and girls' club leaders throughout the State, maintaining close relationship with the county Farm Bureaus. Requests for help on farm problems should be made directly to the county agent, who will call in a State specialist when needed.

An outstanding example of the part the Extension Service plays in the program for better agriculture is found in the seed potato situation. The Experiment Station at Storrs discovered some years ago that northern grown potatoes, certified by state authorities as free of diseases, give increased yields over home grown seed of 75 to 100 bushels an acre. The Extension Service inaugurated a campaign for better seed with the result that most of the potato acreage in this State is now planted to northern grown, certified seed. It is estimated that this one item gave increased returns in 1925 of more than half a million dollars for the State.

By the use of nitrate of soda on his apple trees, as recommended by the fruit specialist, an East Woodstock farmer increased his net sales from $3 a tree to $6 a tree. Another farmer in Hebron, by using improved methods increased his fruit sales from $1,000 to $5,000 annually.

In the Purebred Bull Campaign, aimed at improvement of the State's dairy industry, two counties, New Haven and New London, broke all records for the United States in the number of purebred bulls placed in a year. At present the Extension Service is making a drive for wider use of clover and alfalfa as a means of cutting dairy costs. The Hartford County Farm Bureau is engaged in a five-year alfalfa campaign with a goal of 5,000 acres of alfalfa.

ELKS TO BE GUESTS AT STATE THEATER

Four Hundred Seats to Be Reserved for B. P. O. E. for Tomorrow Night's Performance.

Tomorrow night will be a red letter night in the history of Rockville Lodge of Elks, which includes about one hundred Manchester members. The entire organization and its individual guests, have been cordially invited to attend the State Theater free of charge. A block of 400 seats has been reserved through the courtesy of Manager Jack Sanson.

Three hundred members of the lodge and their friends are coming down from Rocky Hill. This will include many from Hoop Brook, Stafford, Bolton and other smaller places which the organization includes in its roster. Manchester members who have not already secured tickets for the theater party may do so by applying at George H. Williams' store anytime before the show starts. In commenting on the affair today, Mr. Williams said that any member of the lodge is entitled to bring along his wife or sweetheart "and if he hasn't any wife or sweetheart," continued George, "he is at liberty to 'draft' one into service."

The performance will feature five acts of high class vaudeville and ten reels of films including a seven-reel feature entitled "The Gilded Butterfly". The leading parts in the picture are acted by Alma Rubins and Bert Lott.

Following the performance, the Elks and their friends will adjourn to the Knights of Columbus hall on Bessell street, where they will be served with refreshments and where they will be given the opportunity to enjoy dancing with the State Theater orchestra furnishing the music.

The Elks from out of town are planning to arrive in Manchester early so as to be able to view the show windows of the Manchester merchants who are having their annual Spring Opening.

The Black Face Comedian, Charles Way, to introduce some new Charleston steps tomorrow evening at the Spring Opening of the F. T. Blish Hardware Co. He is also accompanied by five other well known colored musicians in uniform.—Adv.

FLASH SIGNAL CALLS PATROLMEN QUICKLY

Within Two Minutes After Auto Was Reported Missing Every Officer Knew of Fact.

Francis Hallett, of 238 Oak street left his Ford roadster in front of the State Theater at 8 o'clock last evening while he went inside to enjoy the show. When he came out at 9:30 the Ford was missing.

Hallett called up the police station and Captain Schendel turned on the flash signal. Within two minutes every officer on duty had called in and had been given the numbers of the missing car which were P-1614. The search then began but up until a late hour last evening the auto had not been located.

The flash signal is a revelation to one not knowing how quickly it operates. The first call came in last evening from Sergeant Crockett who was on Spruce street. He called in two seconds after the lights started to blink. He had hardly received word of the missing car before the buzzers started to sound in the police station. There were three men calling at the same time, following the sergeant's call. The last call, within two minutes, came from the West Side where the patrolmen cannot see the lights on various points of their beat.

Persons who visited the theater were surprised after the shows to find themselves in a snowstorm. They scurried homeward quickly. "What can you expect on Spring Opening Day?" said one of the local merchants last evening. No matter what date we set, that day will usher in a snowstorm.

Ft. Apache, Ariz., an old Indian military outpost, is now used as an Indian school.

WINTER'S DYING KICK
Just as Manchester was getting ready for spring, winter came back with what local weather sharps called its dying kick with a little snow storm last evening. Starting at 8 o'clock with snow flurries, the storm increased until at 10 o'clock heavy flakes were falling steadily. A half hour later the ground was covered.

Persons who visited the theater were surprised after the shows to find themselves in a snowstorm. They scurried homeward quickly. "What can you expect on Spring Opening Day?" said one of the local merchants last evening. No matter what date we set, that day will usher in a snowstorm.

Ft. Apache, Ariz., an old Indian military outpost, is now used as an Indian school.

Irish President Transmits St. Patrick's Day Message

W. T. Cosgrave Believes Ireland's Prosperity Is Assured—Urges Irish Born to Visit Their Homeland.

The following St. Patrick's Day message was written exclusively for The Herald and NEA Service by W. T. Cosgrave, president of the Irish Free State.

By W. T. COSGRAVE, President of the Irish Free State. The festival of St. Patrick may well be celebrated with increased rejoicing both in Ireland and wherever Irishmen meet in remembrance of their patron saint and their home country.

The year which has passed since we last celebrated St. Patrick's Day has been eventful for Ireland. The London agreement removed from the path of Irish development possible causes of future difficulty. It established good relations with people of northern Ireland in a way which I believe will result in co-operative effort between all good citizens in the interests of the country as a whole.

Recognize Need of Irish Nationality. It settled the outstanding financial question with Great Britain. Establishment and growth of the free state have produced marked change in the attitude of those who in times past opposed recognition of political freedom for Ireland.

More important still they have come to recognize that the Irish nationality can find expression in perfect accord with other nations of the commonwealth and of the world at large. As the Irish people themselves have come to feel their faith has been vindicated and their long fight for political recognition which they have felt inspiration which is derived from creative achievement.

This inspiration will manifest itself in the future in every sphere of the nation's life. Its results will be found in industry increased output and improved quality. It will be found in the building up of the national institutions and in seeing that our state makes contribution which it ought to the international life of the world.

Everywhere through the country practical reconstructive effort is making itself manifest. Work on the Shann electrical scheme is progressing satisfactorily. Production and handling of agricultural produce is becoming increasingly scientific.

Vast improvement in roads bears witness to the development now taking place. Now that the political contest is over and the facts of our country's history no longer tend to be misrepresented and adapted to advocacy of politicians, interest of Ireland is becoming more fully recognized in connection with European history. I feel that the return of St. Patrick's Day is the proper occasion for remembering what the history of our country has been.

Most Hearty Welcome Assured. Our most ancient monuments stand as they have stood for over three thousand years. Unaffected by victories or Roman armies and

Pat and Mike

Have you heard the story about Pat and Mike? Pat and his pal Mike probably are the world's leading comedians. More laughs are credited every day to these two Irish boys than any other members of the laugh producing family.

Pat is that red-haired man of all jobs, and Mike, the boy with the clay pipe, in his interlocutor. Pat and Mike may be digging ditches, driving automobiles, acting as butlers or carrying the hod—it's all the same to them, for Pat and Mike have to do most anything in order to carry out the fun that is sure to come when one tells the latest "Pat and Mike" joke.

Following are a few of their wise cracks: Pat (at the zoo)—They do be saying that a camel can go without a drink for two weeks. Mike—Shure, and a little drink goes a long way with the giraffe.

Pat—"Where you bin, Mike?" Mike—"To the bank." Pat—"Did you draw money or put some in?" Mike—"An I did neither, I filled my fountain pen."

Pat—"No one would guess that you and Jim are brothers, you are not half so tall as he is." Mike—"Shore an' we're only half brothers."

Pat—"Mike, I'm somewhat of a detective, myself. For instance, I know that fellow almost missed his train." Mike—"An' how do you know?"

Pat—"I see the imprint of lipstick on his nose." Pat—"Mike, why are you botherin' about paintin' the inside of your chicken coop?" Mike—"Shore an' I don't want these chicken eatin' the grain in the wood."

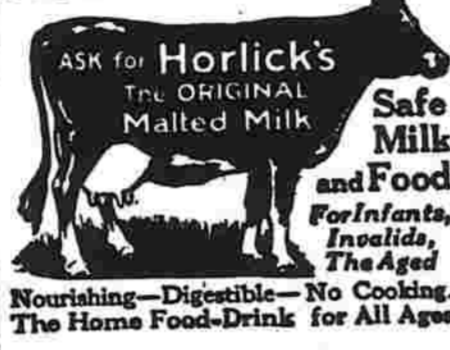

Pat—"Mike, I can get in any bootleggin' joint on my face." Mike—"Yes, I know, an' I saw you come out of one that way." Pat—"Yer friend seems to be drugged, Mike."

Mike—"To be shore he is, Pat. I drug him five blocks keepin' him away from the cops."

Pat—"Mike, what'n the devil did you want to go and get drunk for? Now you'll miss the fight to-night." Mike—"No I won't, Pat, I'm going right straight home."

4th Anniversary 4th

Four years ago March 17th we opened this filling station at the corner of Main and Hilliard Streets. To say we have been successful is to put it mildly. We have expanded as we went along until to-day we have one of the largest and most up-to-date filling stations in the state. This is due to the appreciation of the public for the service given and quality of goods handled. Now, to show our appreciation of this patronage we will run this special sale of Goodrich Cord Tires for this Anniversary Week only.

ABOUT TOWN
Green was much in evidence on the dresses and hair of the High school students today. Many of the male students also had their suits decorated in observance of St. Patrick's day.

The funeral of Mrs. David (Belle Wetmore) Hadden, of 52 Wells street, was held this morning from 10 o'clock to 11 o'clock at the parlors at ten o'clock. Rev. F. C. Allen officiated. The body was placed in the receiving vault in the East cemetery.

Many persons will await with eager interest the playing of the Irish folk songs at 6:40 this evening on the South Methodist church chime. Chimer James B. Hutchinson will be at the keyboard.

The State theatre was crowded to the doors at the first show last evening and the second show was also largely attended. The occasion was the High school senior benefit performance for the purpose of helping defray expenses for the Washington trip. A large amount of net profit was realized but the exact amount was not obtainable today because all of the tickets have not been checked up.

The nurses at the hospital are having a little breathing spell now. The number of patients has dropped from 64 to 53.

St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella will hold a St. Patrick's social in K. of C. hall tomorrow evening. Each member has the privilege of inviting a lady guest. A salad supper will be served at 7 o'clock in the banquet hall and will be followed by a whist. Mrs. Mary McEvitt is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Miss Edith Arnold of Charter Oak street has entered the Deaconess hospital at Brookline, Mass., for treatment. Miss Arnold will remain there at least two weeks.

The Sunshine club of the Swedish Congregational church will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Frank Johnson of 61 Strickland street.

The Ladies' Aid Society will serve the annual church supper at the North Methodist church tomorrow at 6:30 p. m., and all members and contributing friends are cordially invited. Reports of the societies of the church will be given and work for the coming year considered.

The Woman's Home Foreign Missionary societies of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold a joint sewing session at the church Friday beginning at 10 a. m., in the interests of the Red Cross. All ladies of the church who can do so are invited to attend and to bring lunch. Coffee will be served. The regular meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society will be held in the afternoon.

Mrs. George Johnson of 86 Bissell street is confined to her home with illness.

Ward Cheney Camp, Spanish War Veterans, will have a special meeting tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the state armory with Commander Johnson.

LEAGUE TO BE MADE OVER, GENEVA'S IDEA

velop it," he said. He expressed the hope that the difficulties now existing would be solved before the next meeting of the League Assembly. Sir Austen Chamberlain and Premier Briand joined in assuring the Assembly that all "misunderstandings between Germany and the signatories to the Locarno Pact" have disappeared and that all matters were "examined together in the spirit of conciliation." Suggestions for re-organization of the league are being made today. One suggestion is that the requirement for unanimous votes in the Council should be abolished. Another suggestion is that all permanent seats in the Council should be abolished and only non-permanent seats granted by election in the Assembly. Another suggestion is that the league should be divided into three sections, European, Asiatic and American, these sections to meet separately annually and collectively every two years.

Stand by Locarno. Following is the text of a communique issued last night by the signatories of the Locarno treaties: "The representatives of Germany, Belgium, France, Great Britain and Italy have met to examine the situation resulting from difficulties which have arisen and which hinder the accomplishment of their common wishes. They take note of the fact that they have reached an agreement and have overcome obstacles which had at one moment arisen between them. If, as there seems reason to feel, the above difficulties persist, the representatives of the seven powers who signed the protocol of Locarno would regret not to be able at this moment to reach the goal which they had in view; but they are happy to recognize that the work of peace which they realized at Locarno, and which exists in all its value and all its force, remains intact.

To Work Together. "They remain attached to it today, as yesterday, and are firmly resolved to work together to maintain and develop it. They are convinced that on the occasion of the next session of the Assembly the difficulties which exist at this moment will be surmounted and that the agreement reached with regard to the conditions for the entry of Germany into the League of Nations will be realized."

CHAMBERLAIN DEFIANT
Expected to Face Critics Sturdily on Return.

London, March 17.—Sir Austen Chamberlain is expected to return to London defiant of his critics. This was the interpretation here today of the remarks which Sir Austen made at Geneva in explanation of the failure of the League to settle the dispute over the conditions of Germany's entry into the League.

Sir Austen, it is believed, will not admit any degree of blame for the League's failure nor will he admit that the Locarno treaty has failed or is in danger of failing. This position, if taken by Sir Austen, promises interesting political events here, for it is clear that both the Liberal and Labor parties are preparing to charge him with at least partial responsibility for the Geneva failure.

Locarno Not Killed. The foreign office issued a statement today declaring that the "Locarno treaties are not killed" by the Geneva postponement. The statement declared that Great Britain is confident that Germany will be admitted to the League at the September meeting of the assembly. The cabinet will support Sir Austen's course at Geneva, it was stated.

Singularly enough the British press, which has been extremely critical of Sir Austen, was disposed to regard his policy with more leniency today. The Daily Mail suggests that the British foreign minister is entitled to the sympathy and moral support of his countrymen for the almost impossible task which he has attempted.

The Times, ignoring Sir Austen's attempts to place the blame for the Geneva breakdown and concludes that "France cannot escape blame for conniving at the claims of Poland, Spain and Brazil as a counterweight to the admission of Germany."

GERMANS ANGRY

Papers Agree, However, on Locarno Policy Continuation.

Berlin, March 17.—German newspapers united today in condemning the outcome of the League Council controversy as a terrific exposure of the weakness of the league as an instrument for universal peace and friendship. There is some disagreement in placing responsibility for the failure of the conference but the majority blame Briand and Chamberlain, describing them as "wreckers" who were outrageously unfair in that they made secret promises to Poland and Spain without the knowledge of Germany. The bulk of the press urges continuation of the Locarno policy, explaining that Germany is too weak to stand alone. The strategy pursued by the German delegation at Geneva is generally praised. The ultra-Nationalist press, as well as the Communist Rote Fahne, demands the immediate resignation of the Luther cabinet and predict governmental crisis throughout Europe. The Deutsche Zeitung declares: "What a humiliation for Germany! The German delegation hung around like beggars and now are driven off with empty hands. Liberty negroes would spit in anger if the same thing happened to them."

HILLS-LEHMAN

George Wilbur Hills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Hills of Wapping and Miss Edith G. Lehman of Elmwood were married yesterday at Christ church, Hartford by Dean Samuel R. Colladay. Miss Dorothy Tooley of Hartford and Truman C. Hills, brother of the groom were the only attendants.

The bride wore a bouffant dress of white canton crepe trimmed with old lace. Her veil which was caught with orange blossoms, had a fan of lace at the back of her head and was the bridal veil of her mother. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride and groom were dressed in pink taffeta with bertha of silver lace and hat of black mulline. She carried Madam Butterfly roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father, William Lehman. The groom is well known locally. He graduated from the State Trade school here and was captain of the basketball team, and later coached the boys. He is now employed by the Southern New England Telephone Company. The bride is a graduate of the West Hartford High school and the young people will make their home there on their return from a wedding trip.

CHARLES CHENEY TO TALK TO GET TOGETHER CLUB.

The March meeting of the Get Together club will be held Thursday, March 18 at 6 at Cheney hall. A turkey supper will be put on by the Main Office, Stationery Printing and Service Dept. Charles Cheney, president of Cheney Brothers will be the speaker of the evening. A large attendance is expected.

BOWLING BANQUET.

Tickets have been distributed for the Girls' Athletic Association annual banquet, scheduled for Thursday, March 25, 6:30, at Cheney hall. Following the dinner the bowling prizes will be awarded. A very fine program has been arranged which will be carried out in the main hall. Any member who may not have received a ticket please get in touch with the director in your department who will be glad to get one for you. Late this afternoon William Rubino announced that he had secured little Miss Dorothy Wirtalla to appear at his Spring Opening at Rubino's store tomorrow night. Miss Wirtalla will appear in several dance numbers.

SUSPECT TRAMPS OF SETTING FIRE

Structure Belonging to Burr Nursery Co. in Wapping, Destroyed by Blaze.

South Windsor authorities and police from Manchester and Rockville have been unable to find any trace up till this afternoon of the two tramps suspected of setting fire to a shed on the C. R. Burr Nursery farm near Thomas Burgess' home on the Wapping road yesterday afternoon. Neighbors report that they saw two shabbily dressed men walking down the road from the shed towards Rockville about five minutes before the blaze was discovered. The loss is estimated by C. R. Burr at $500.

Woman Discovers Fire

The fire was discovered by a woman who lives near the shed. She saw smoke and spread the alarm. Due to the fact that the fire was outside of the department district, it was impossible to check the progress of the flames which rapidly reduced the wooden structure to ashes. The attendance price furnished by Arthur Hultman was won by U. J. Lupien. The prize was a pair of green garters, with the request that they be put on. Mr. Lupien complied with the request.

Used as Stable

The shed which was destroyed, contained tools and was also a stable for horses. The animals were taken to safety before the blaze got under way. Strangers Seen Here. It was learned that Monday afternoon two men in ragged clothing, stopped at a business place near the Center and inquired the direction to Wapping. They acted suspiciously, according to the business man who was questioned by the legged tramps. After getting the desired information the pair started on their northward journey.

KIWANIANS HONOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

"Lumberjacks" Win First Leg in Attendance Contest; Green Prevails at Luncheon.

The first round of the attendance contest started today at the Kiwanis club luncheon. W. G. Glenney, captain of the "Lumberjacks" out of a possible 28 on his side had but two absentees. L. C. Clifford's team, the "Telephone Girls" had but three absentees. It was a tie until a telegram was received from President Charles Ray who is in New York City. He attended a meeting of Kiwanians there and as a consequence the tie was broken.

The club observed St. Patrick's day and everything on the program was in keeping. There were green hats, clay pipes and tobacco and shamrocks at each plate. For the Lumberjacks a carpenter's apron was provided and for the Telephone Girls a small receiver.

Nate Richards sang a parody on "Wearing of the Green." Ed Taylor sang "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms." "Come Back to Erin" and by request "Mother Macree," Thomas Murphy of Highland Park, a guest of Lawrence Case, entertained the Kiwanians with two Irish jigs.

In the absence of Charles Ray, president of the club, Vice-President William Knobs presided and introduced F. A. Verplanck who had charge of the program. Mr. Verplanck introduced the speaker and entertainers.

The attendance prize furnished by Arthur Hultman was won by U. J. Lupien. The prize was a pair of green garters, with the request that they be put on. Mr. Lupien complied with the request. After the hilarity had subsided, Rev. W. P. Reddy gave the Kiwanians a talk on the Celts and the traits of the people of that race that was well worth hearing. The Irish character became greatly changed through the influence of St. Patrick and his work and the revengeful spirit of the Celts of the olden times had been practically obliterated.

LODGE CELEBRATES 32nd ANNIVERSARY

The Daughters of Liberty celebrated their twenty-third anniversary at Orange hall last evening. The festivities began with a supper prepared and served by the committee of ladies in charge. It included creamed chicken, mashed potatoes, peas, pickles, hot biscuit, coffee and sponge cake with whipped cream. The biscuits and sponge cake were made right at the hall.

The tables were artistically decorated in the lodge colors with red, blue and purple paper. The napkins were orange, thus using the four colors. Candles were in the same colors and pots of tulips were used as centerpieces. The supper committee carrying the lighted candles preceded the gathering to the lodge room, singing "Thanks for the Buggy Ride."

George Tomlinson of the advisory board gave the address of welcome and past mistresses of the lodge each said a few words. Mrs. Mary Wright, recently from Scotland and member of a lodge there, sang "Mother of Mine." There was group singing with Mrs. Annie Johnson at the piano. An exhibition of the Charleston was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Sanderson and Mrs. Minnie Brown. Mrs. Sarah Ritchie and Mrs. Mary Dunlop executed the Highland fling. Mrs.

POWER BOAT BANDITS RAID NASSAU TREASURY

Miami, Fla., March 17.—Bandits last night robbed the Bahamas Islands treasury at Nassau, Bahamas, of $47,000 in English currency, and escaped in high-powered speed boats, according to word received here this afternoon by Sheriff Henry R. Chase.

The American consul at Nassau requested Sheriff Chase to advise all authorities along the eastern coast of the robbery. The bandits were believed headed for the American coast.

DEATH OF A CHILD.

Francis, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Barrett, of Coventry, who died yesterday was buried late this afternoon. Mr. Barrett is the well known plumber and he and his wife are receiving the sympathy of their friends as their other children are ill at the present time. Francis was afflicted with the mumps, then measles, and finally double pneumonia developed which was the cause of his death.

Waving and Curling Dries Life from Hair

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles in bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, and full of dandruff; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try "Danderine" to offset any bad effects. After the first application your hair will take on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and appear twice as thick and abundant. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing "Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.—Adv.

JOHN KORNSA.

After an illness of eight months with a complication of troubles, John Kornsa, aged 66, died at his home on 603 Center street at 9:30 last evening.

The funeral will take place Friday morning from his late home at 8:30 and from St. James' church at 9:00. The body will be placed in the receiving vault in St. James' cemetery.

Mr. Kornsa was born in Austria-Hungary and had lived in Manchester for twenty-four years. He was exceptionally well known about the west side of the town. He was the father to John Kornsa, Jr., former member of the White Sox baseball team of the west side.

Mr. Kornsa is survived by his wife, Mary; six children, Mrs. Elizabeth Sibich of Center street, Mrs. Julia Juligatz of West Hartford, Frank, John, Jr., Martin and George; one sister, Mrs. Mary Angell of Glenwood street, and five grandchildren.

TRINITY SOPHS WIN ST. PAT'S DAY RUSH

Hartford, March 17.—Trinity College sophomores will rule the walks here for the rest of the year. The sophomores were ruled victors in the annual Saint Patrick's day rush this noon after a warm battle in which the casualties were confined to wearing apparel.

The Freshmen, after hoisting their flag on a tree on the campus, failed to maintain it there against the sophomores' drive.

German Courts Swindle U. S. Buyers of Property

Many Americans Tricked Out of Property Bought in Germany — Frame Up Fraud Charges and Give Realty Back to Original Owners Without Compensation.

Berlin, March 17.—Unless Germany's Appellate Courts reverse the decisions of the courts of first instance—and in the few cases that have reached them they have not done so—Americans and other foreigners who bought real estate in Germany from 1919 to the end of 1923 will find they made a bad bargain.

A number of prominent American business men and bankers already have made this discovery. The result has been they have revised their intentions to make investments in Germany and have returned to America with their money.

Back to First Owners. Either because of alleged fraud, or by virtue of a retroactive law, Americans already have been despoiled of their property, and many similar cases are pending. In one case it has been discovered that official records have been altered by German officials apparently without any authorization.

There seems to be a movement to restore all such property to the original German owners. It is well organized. Resorts to chicanery, obviously has strong official backing and deliberately provokes lawsuits.

"Protective" Society Formed. The organization of chicanery is known as the Schutzverband Literarischer, protective association. It calls attention of original German owners to the fact the courts have been ruling for Germans in all such cases and urges them to get their property back without cost.

"One American recently was informed he had not obtained the necessary municipal consent to the purchase of a house in Berlin. His lawyer, investigating, discovered that objection to the American's ownership had been filed by officials without complaint from a third person, and that the required consent actually had been recorded in the German "ground book."

"Broke" Judge. The Schutzverband recently boasted to a Mr. F. of New York, that it had caused the transfer of a judge who had ruled against the without complaint from a German owner to a court where cases involving sales of real estate were not handled. It is a fact that the judge named has been transferred.

Move to Organize. New York, March 17.—The fact that hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of property in Germany, owned by Americans, may be given back to its original German owners under a retroactive law enacted by the Prussian Diet in July, 1924, as already hundreds of thousands of dollars in American-owned German real estate had been restored to Germans by methods alleged to be in violation of the Treaty of Versailles has been the subject of many anxious inquiries, it was learned here yesterday.

So desperate has the situation become, according to Maximilian Wirth, secretary of Zimmerman & Forshey, investment brokers at 170 Broadway, who have many clients who own German property, that a movement is on foot here to organize a protective association of American owners of German property with a view to combatting the alleged illegal activities of the German Schutzverband.

"Party" Makes Itself At Home In Wrong House

The inside story of the gin party at the North End on Sunday night when five men were arrested on Union street, came to light yesterday and discloses all the features of a regular "Comedy of Errors."

According to the story told by a man who witnessed the whole affair he went for some refreshments. He pointed out the house and told them his wife was away for the day and that they should make themselves "at home."

In some way the men composing the party picked out another house. They found the front door unlocked and proceeded to make themselves "at home." Thinking that they were in the house occupied by their friend they started a phonograph playing and proceeded to enjoy themselves while they awaited the man who they believed was the owner of the house.

However the rightful tenants of the block came back from the movies about 10 o'clock and seeing their rooms occupied by strangers, called the police and the arrests followed.

RADIO MAN TAKEN IN BAY STATE MURDER.

New York, March 17.—William Moir, 19, a radio worker on steamships, is under arrest here today. Police allege he is a fugitive from justice, and assert he is suspected of having been implicated in the murder in Burlington, Mass., on Sept. 17, 1924, of Frederick A. Clements, member of a wealthy Massachusetts family.

FARMER FASTS 50 DAYS.

Jones City, Okla.—After 50 days without food, Frank A. Wolfe, farmer, is again eating. Wolfe said he tried the fasting cure for an almost hopeless case of ulcerated stomach and intestinal trouble. He walks an average of 50 blocks a day and reports he has strength enough now to lift a 300-pound load.

Few Shamrocks Noticed Today On Our Streets

Seems as if St. Patrick is losing his grip on America as a popular saint as the years roll on. Time was and not so many years ago at that, when the Irish made this day one long to be remembered with parades and dances and all sorts of festivities.

Every son of Erin marched gaily forth with a sprig of green or a real shamrock in the lapel of his coat. If he had neither he was up at least a green necktie for the occasion.

In the pre-Volstead days the bar-rooms had a bowl on the mahogany in which reposed real shamrocks from "the old sod" for those who wished to wear them. And in this respect a story is told that a German some years ago mistook the shamrocks for water cress in an Oak street place and ate the whole supply. He barely escaped with his life.

This morning special notice was taken of pedestrians and those known to be Irish and there were few shamrocks worn. Postmaster who used to get many packages of shamrocks from Ireland consigned to local residents, report that for the past two years there have been hardly any received here.

WATER COMPANY IS OLDEST UTILITY IN CONNECTICUT

Durham Had Plant in 1797; First City Systems in Bridgeport, Hartford and New Haven.

According to the records of the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission, the most ancient public utility company in the state is the Durham Aqueduct Company, which began business in 1797 and which is now 129 years old. Water companies are the most ancient of all utilities, the electric light, gas, trolley, the telephone companies, all being of comparatively modern origin.

In 1797, shortly after the close of the Revolutionary War, the people of Durham entered upon a plan

HAPPENY IS "DARKHORSE" CHECKER TOURNAMENT FAVORITE

Carrying the hopes of the whole East Side on his shoulders, the popular Peter Happeny this afternoon announced his last minute entry into the town championship checker tournament which will be held at the West Side Rec. this evening.

The entry of the "darkhorse" candidate into the race caused Happeny to be subject to much joshing from his friends along Main street this afternoon. One who learned of the news remarked to Peter: "Whoever you could play checkers?" But the witty Peter refused to be kidded in this sense and counteracted with: "I may be no good but I'll play you for a spaghetti supper right now." This ended the argument then and there.

Happeny is the fifteenth entry in the tournament.

NO LUNACY BOARD IN FRESH CASE

Troy, O., March 17.—No lunacy commission will be called to inquire into the sanity of Jacob Nesbitt, confessed murderer of his wife, Mrs. Frances Drake Nesbitt, L. H. Shipman, his attorney, announced today.

The defense will be temporary insanity, Shipman said. With the defense attempting to establish that Nesbitt was temporarily insane because of constant "nagging" by his wife.

BONDING.

Just what plan is in the mind of the disgruntled element in Manchester which is arranging to oppose, in Saturday's election, the ratification of the bond issue, it would be difficult to guess.

Probably not one in a dozen of the persons who have expressed their intention of voting and working against the bonds is aware that the situation resolves itself into the choice between selling bonds and thus spreading the cost of the improvements provided for over a considerable term of years or, on the other hand, of having the entire expenditure thrust upon their own shoulders in the form of a single extraordinary tax levy of staggering proportions.

All the measures and improvements to be paid for by the contemplated issue of securities have been authorized by the citizens in town meetings. Under that authorization a considerable part of the expenditure has already been made.

The rest is an irrevocable commitment for which every dollar of property in Manchester, private as well as public, could be held legally responsible. Not one of these steps can be retraced by the device of voting against the bond issue.

There is just one choice in this matter—approve the bonds and permit the financing of the improvements to go naturally along in the course already agreed on, or disapprove the bonds and pay the whole bill for permanent improvements in one lump sum, on top of the normal expenses of the year.

It isn't very hard to imagine the frenzied shrieks that would go up, from the very persons who are investigating this revolt at the polls on Saturday, if their scheme should succeed and if they should then be compelled to pay a 7 mill tax bill this year right on top of the 13 mill tax to which many of them objected so strenuously.

Yet that is precisely how the situation analyzes. You may vote this bond issue and your tax will remain at 13 mills. You may vote down this bond issue and your tax this year will be approximately 20 mills.

You cannot block the improvements already voted, for the authority has already been granted, the commitment made. You cannot block the improvements already voted, for the authority has already been granted, the commitment made.

If you want to pay twenty mills of taxes this year, go ahead and beat the bond issue.

GENEVA.

The cause of world peace has suffered a blow at Geneva. That it has not been entirely wrecked is to be hoped, with degrees of confidence that will vary with the point of view of the observer.

Postponement of the once clear intention of taking Germany into the League on the basis of the open understanding at Locarno is a better step than the definite refusal to redeem that pledge, which seemed to be the inevitable alternative.

At all events the confidence created in the human family by the outcome of the Locarno conference has been in large measure dissipated. Only a complete abandonment of the spirit of intrigue and hole-in-corner politics that have marked the Geneva rumpus, between now and next September, can save the League from utter discredit and so from becoming the most colossal failure that the world has ever experienced.

There are a good many people in the United States who will be pleased with the issue of the Geneva meeting. They will be still better pleased if the September meeting does no better—if, in short, the League falls into utter collapse.

This is because, from the start, without any special information or without being at all endowed with the gift of prophecy, they predicted failure for this first effort on the part of mankind to institute a machine for the prevention of war. And it is a natural thing to wish to have one's predictions fulfilled.

There are a good many others, however, who cannot view the events at Geneva, or contemplate the possibility of their renewal next fall, without dread.

There were already, in Europe, a thousand aggravations, any half dozen of which constituted a potential seed of war, and which the influence of the League alone has kept from germinating.

Not only is that influence seriously impaired by the events of the last ten days, it is entirely possible that at Geneva may have been sown new crops of bitterness which will come rapidly to fruition.

There are those who see, in the otherwise inexplicable attitude of Brazil, for instance, the operation of a mere tool in the crafty hand of Mussolini, employed to destroy the security of Germany which would have been guaranteed by her entrance into the League as per program.

If this phase of the trouble is demonstrated, later, by proof, it will lead to hatred such as has not existed in Europe since the armistice.

If the League falls there is nothing on earth to prevent a renewal of the world struggle that was merely halted in 1918. And if America keeps out of it, the next time, it will be only by building about her such a wall of isolation as will cut off every atom of her contact with outside-civilization for centuries.

PINCHOT.

The Pennsylvania senatorship campaign, with the lively and ever fresh Gifford Pinchot battling against George Wharton Pepper, primarily, and a couple of other not unimportant skirmishers, secondarily, should provide one of the most interesting political proceedings of the next seven months, even in a period destined to be marked by many a good fight.

Pinchot licked "the gang" once, in 1922, a fact which it is consistent with his temperament to remember, gleefully. The fact that "the gang" subsequently licked him by utterly refusing to elect him a delegate to the 1924 presidential convention that same sanguine temperament would easily permit him to forget.

Also, Gifford has the W. C. T. U. back of him. They have just told him that he is a noble man and that they are all going to vote for him—a circumstance perhaps not remotely connected with the fact that Mrs. Pinchot is about half as good again a campaigner as her husband.

With the W. C. Mrs. Pinchot and the prestige of that one-time victory over the forces of evil, all at his back, Gifford prances gaily into the fray. What George Wharton and the rest of the boys do to him, between now and next fall, may be something terrible but it won't prevent him from bobbing up again afterward.

Meantime, as a book maker's proposition his chance of getting the Republican senatorial nomination ought to pay—if he wins—just about a hundred to one.

AS PROMISED; AS IS.

There has been a tremendous amount of criticism recently of conditions in New York's old Bellevue hospital, particularly in the psychopathic ward, where beds are crowded so that there is less than two feet of space between them.

It is an interesting sidelight on this situation that Dr. John J. McGrath, president of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, explains that there has been such a tremendous increase in the number of patients in the psychopathic and alcoholic wards, since the inauguration of prohibition, that the institution has simply been rendered helpless to provide properly for them.

Of course, the standard dry reply to this statement will be, first that Dr. McGrath is a liar, catering to the worst elements in society, and secondly, that it serves the patients right.

Grant the force of these arguments, it still remains to reconcile the conditions at Bellevue with the unqualified promise of the dry that within two years after the adoption of prohibition every jail and every alcoholic ward in the country would be emptied.

FREAK CRIMES.

An Omaha sniper, going about shooting people with a silenced gun, apparently for little else than diversion; a Bridgeport stabber, making an avocation of knifing young girls on the street; a Boston ditto—only conceivably the same person—who has cut about a dozen women within a few days; a Brooklyn freb who set 13 fires in a single day; these creatures are not altogether a new development in the world but they are getting altogether too common in the United States.

Sheer unnatural perversity all of them, quite outside of the ordinary seams of criminology, where there is always to be found, as the basis of crime, a motive recognizable as human, if evil. Two influences have been at work for years in the breeding of perversion and degeneracy in this country—drugs, for one; the other the reception into our population of thousands of abnormal and subnormal creatures spawned in the moral pest holes of the Mediterranean littoral.

These factors, combined with the fact that for six years the police activities of the United States have been disorganized by the superposed problems of prohibition and the automobile, are probably accountable for the high growth of a crop of human weeds in America which, under normal conditions, would have attracted the attention of society, and would have been dealt with, long ago.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

WEDNESDAY

Christ as the Comforter

Read Jn. 14:13-19. Text: 14:18. I will not leave you desolate.

Meditation—We go down into the valley of death or disaster. Our hearts are broken. He is turned to ashes and we feel we cannot bear it. All is darkness and anguish, and his voice as the sound of many waters come to us from afar. "I will not leave you desolate, "I come unto you."

Christ in the person of the comforter comes as light unto the darkened chamber of the soul. "Heart, heart, awake! The love that loveth all Make a deeper calm than Herod's cave— God in thee—can his children's folly gail? Love may be hurt, but shall not love be brave?"

Prayer—O Thou Man of Sorrows and acquainted with grief, we come to Thee for comfort. When we are most desolate then send forth Thy light upon us till we know we are not alone, but are at ease with Thee. In that companionship may we have strength and peace. Amen.

UNLUCKY NUMBER.

"Daddy, do you remember when you first met mother?" "Yes, dear, it was at a dinner party and there were thirteen at the table."—Pambling Show.

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 17.—See-sawing up and down Broadway I met Joyce Hawley, she of the far-famed wine bath... and she was hurrying to the rehearsal of a musical show in which she will appear.... Her name has bounced up and down the town since the night of the Carroll birthday party... Yet, it was but four years ago, I am told, that Joyce breezed in from Austin, Texas, looking for a job as model to commercial artists....

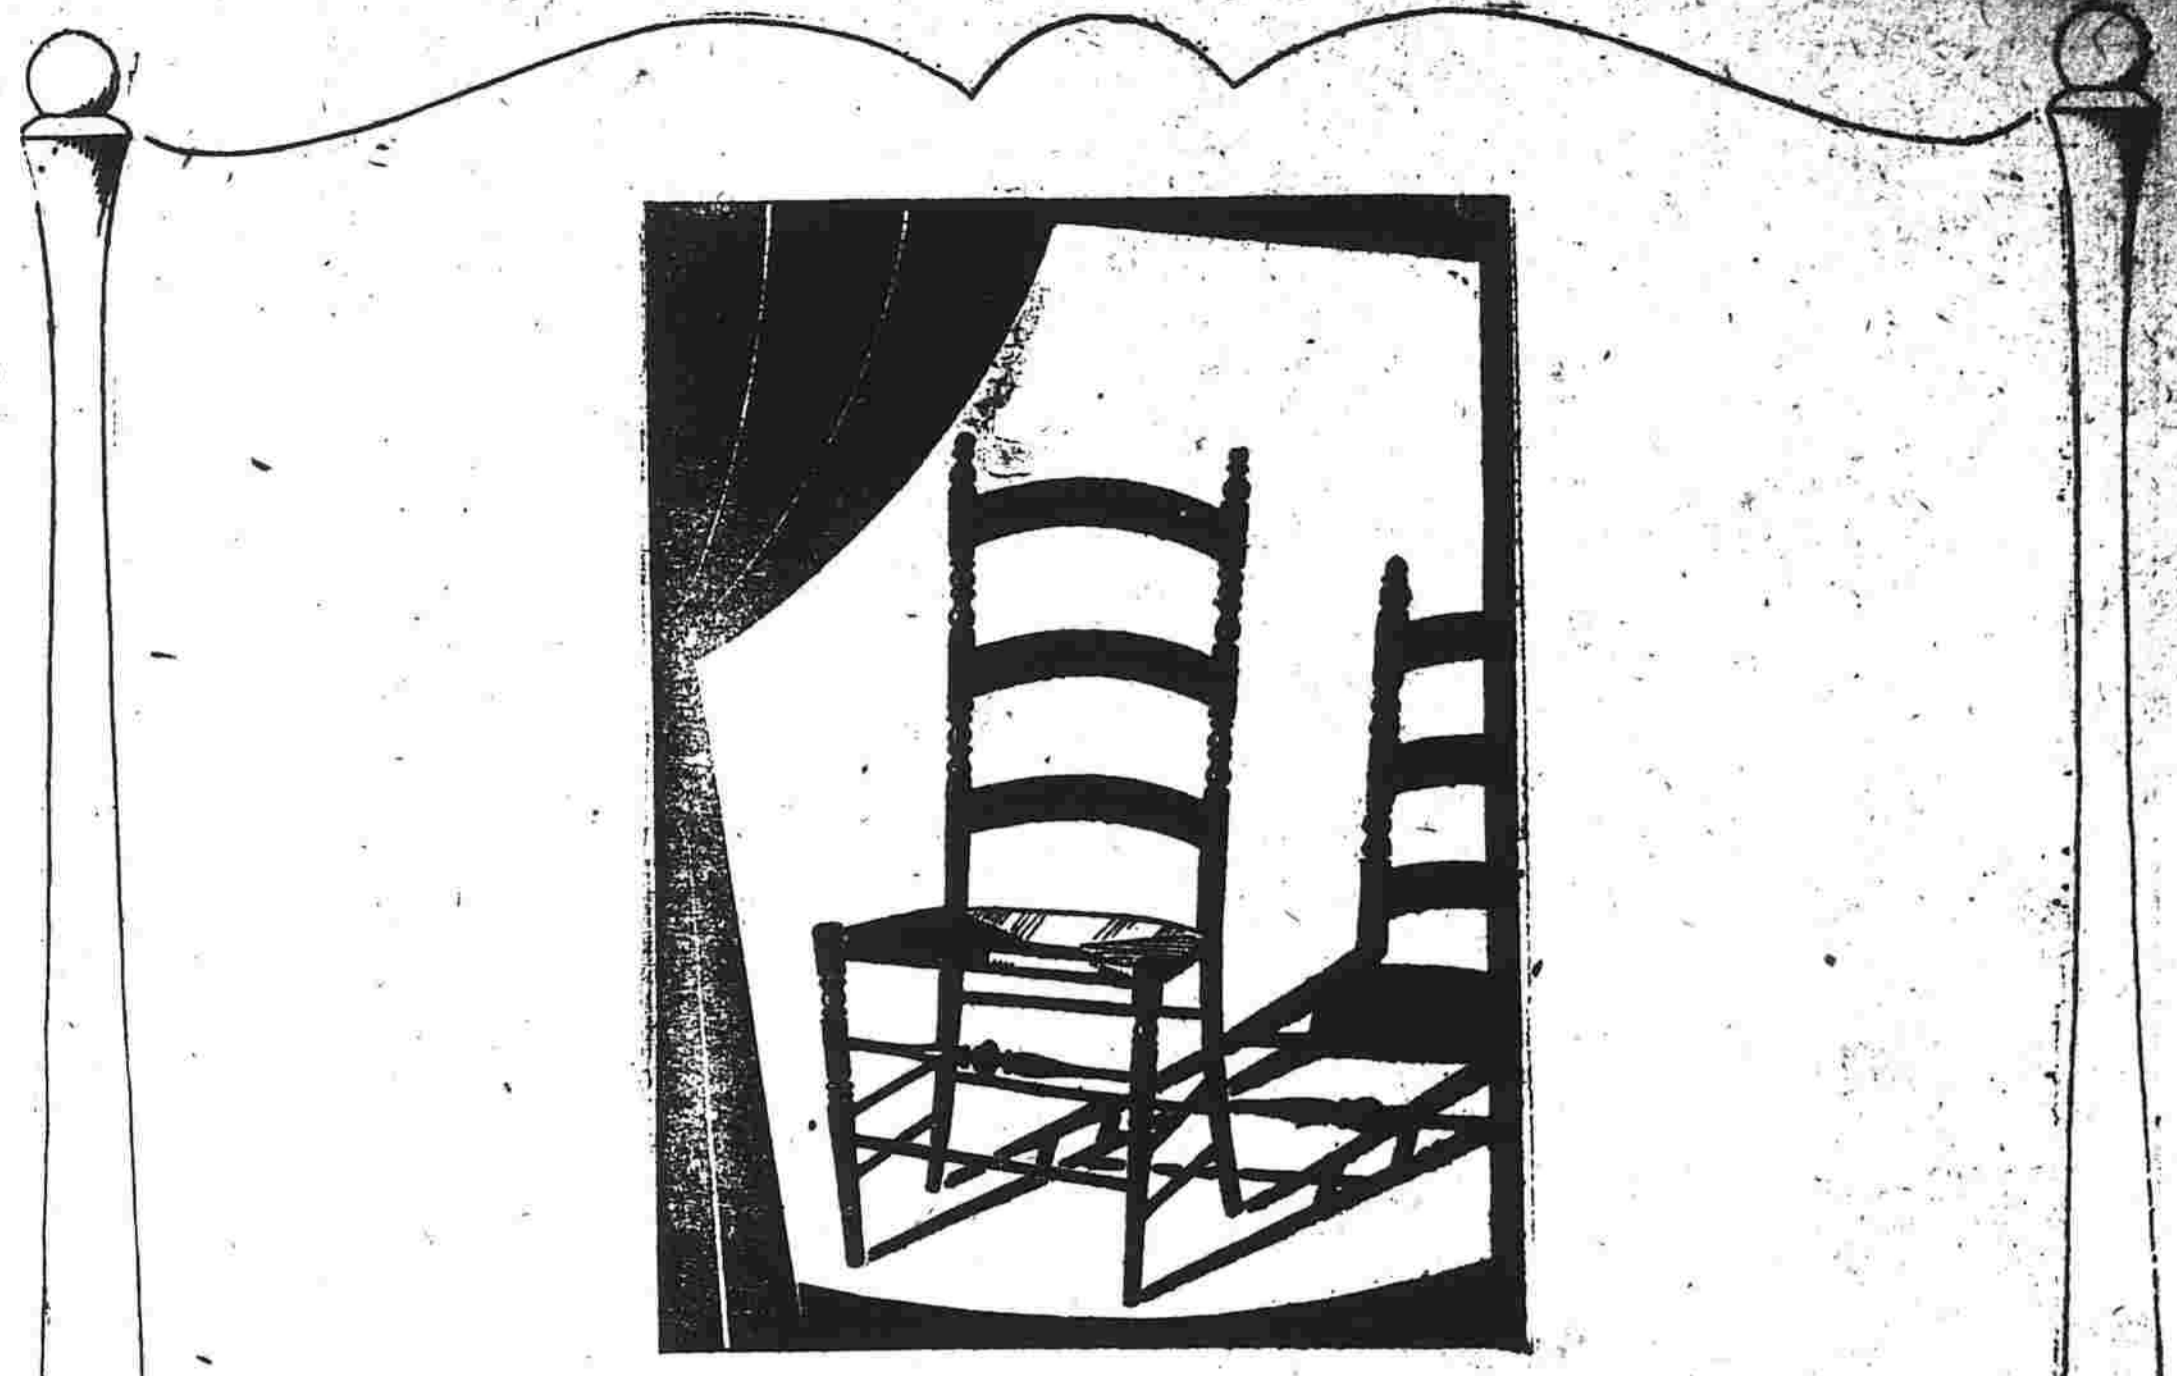

Just a block beyond a friend pointed to one D. J. Keith. That's the most feared critic in New York," said my companion.... I did not recall having seen his name attached to newspaper drama reviews.... "Oh, he doesn't write for the papers," laughed my friend, "I said he was the most feared critic. He represents the ticket brokers at all the out-of-town openings. He watches every new play from Baltimore to New Haven. He hops over to see it and then wires the ticket-selling agencies what he thinks of the box office chances of a show. They always take his word. Now and then he is mistaken regarding a hit, but he is never mistaken regarding a flop. His telegrams can make a difference of $30,000 in advance sales. His viewpoint has nothing to do with art—he gives hard-boiled, can-it-be-box opinions. A lot of managers have tried out a play without his knowledge, but he always finds out somehow and up he bobs...."

Saw two famous invalids seeming quite able to sit up and take their entertainment at the opening of Sophie Tucker's nightclub.... One was Nellie Revell; the other was Mayor Walker, who seems sufficiently recovered to attend movie premieres, press club parties and cabaret christenings....

Robert S. Williams, bird expert of the New York botanical garden, rushes to tell me that "I'm 'all wet' regarding the 'hurdy gurdy' as the official harbinger of spring in New York.... It seems that Manhattan has a feather 'harbinger,' but it isn't the robin.... It is the red wing blackbird, writes Mont Williams, 'and it is the first migratory bird we notice in the spring. It appears as soon as the ice gets off the lake'.... But what bothers me now is how in tarshy a big manages to find a healthy garden.... This red winged blackbird is a wise hombre, however.... Williams adds that 'a good place to find the birds in the garden is around the steam pipes which run from the power house.'"

Wandered past the old Milbourn mansion in which President McKinley died.... There is an amusing anecdote of how several "man-hunters" were inspecting the mansion shortly after the event.... In the group were Sam Harris, Terry McGovern, prize-fighter, and one or two others.... A reporter came up and asked them what they were doing there.... "Thinking of buying it for Terry," said one of the party, jokingly.... The reporter hurried back and his paper became quite excited.... The city of New York hurried to purchase the mansion as a landmark, which it now is.... —GILBERT SWAN.

SPRING OPENING

'SWORTH IT! There comes a time in each man's life when he will pick himself a wife, and meet the fate that's in his cup. He settles down—and settles up.

He meets the girl who seems the one and then the act is said and done. He seeks the cheer that marriage brings—and gets a lot of other things. No man desires to live alone. He wants a home of his own. It pays to have the marriage thrills. And then he starts in paying bills. It cheers a lot when tots are found. Therein real happiness is found. So peg a plenty's soon turned loose when kids are raised—who raise the deuce. There's eight hours' work and eight hours' play, and eight hours'

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, March 17.—Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn of California emphatically denies that she aspires to leadership of the wet bloc in the House of Representatives. Maybe she doesn't, but there's such a thing as being drafted. Mrs. Kahn is being talked about for the job, anyway. Congressman John Philip Hill of Maryland is wet leader now, but Hill is figuring on breaking into the Senate.

Besides, some of the wets have an idea there would be strategic advantages in having a woman as their standard bearer, assuming, of course, that she was a capable one, which there isn't any doubt about in Mrs. Kahn's case.

The popular impression is that women are dryer than men, on an average. A good many of them might be won over, with a woman leading the fight for dry law modification. So the wets reason.

Mrs. Kahn, by the way, reasons otherwise. "On the prohibition question," she told me, "womeu, like men, differ, with localities and groups, but I believe they average about alike, the country over."

Congressman Hill certainly isn't jealous of the talk about Mrs. Kahn, as wet leader. Indeed, Mrs. Kahn says she thinks he started it, "for a joke," as she puts it. Mrs. Kahn's unduly modest. The wets aren't joking.

Speaking of "wets," Mrs. Kahn doesn't take kindly to the designation, "wet"—as if she were a friend of the "demon rum."

"I'm for modification of the Volstead Act—for light wines and beer," she said to me, "in the interests of temperance—not to encourage drinking—to discourage it. "I'm for an enforceable law."

It never seemed to me that 2.75 per cent drinks would improve conditions the wets complain of. We have one-half of 1 per cent beer now. It doesn't satisfy the bibulous and their efforts to find satisfaction elsewhere is what makes all the trouble. I don't believe they'd like 2.75 per cent much better, so how would it help anything?

I put this question to Mrs. Kahn. "Perhaps 2.75 per cent is just a gesture," she replied. "I'm not well enough acquainted with alcoholic beverages to know exactly what percentage of alcohol would be the minimum—which is what it ought to be kept at—to make beer and light wines acceptable. "But, personally, when I say beer and light wines, I mean real beer and real light wines, with a satcient alcoholic content to make them so."

"The wets know they can't do anything in this Congress. They may even have to submit to having some things done to them."

But they do hope for some in the next congressional election. If this hope is realized, even though the wets still lack a majority to modify the law, their succeeding drive will be terrific. On the other hand, if they lose, their demoralization will be very considerable.

A THOUGHT As I Mrs. Kahn the Lord God I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked—rather that he should turn from his ways and live. O-mighty God, don't let the so lowly Ave all the rogues, thieves, rascals, and scoundrels in this little republic—

We Don't Stand On Ceremony-----

So there's no formality about our Annual Spring Showing of all that's new in Clothing, Furnishings and Shoes on Thursday evening, March 15th, from 7 P. M. to 9 P. M., to which you are most cordially invited.

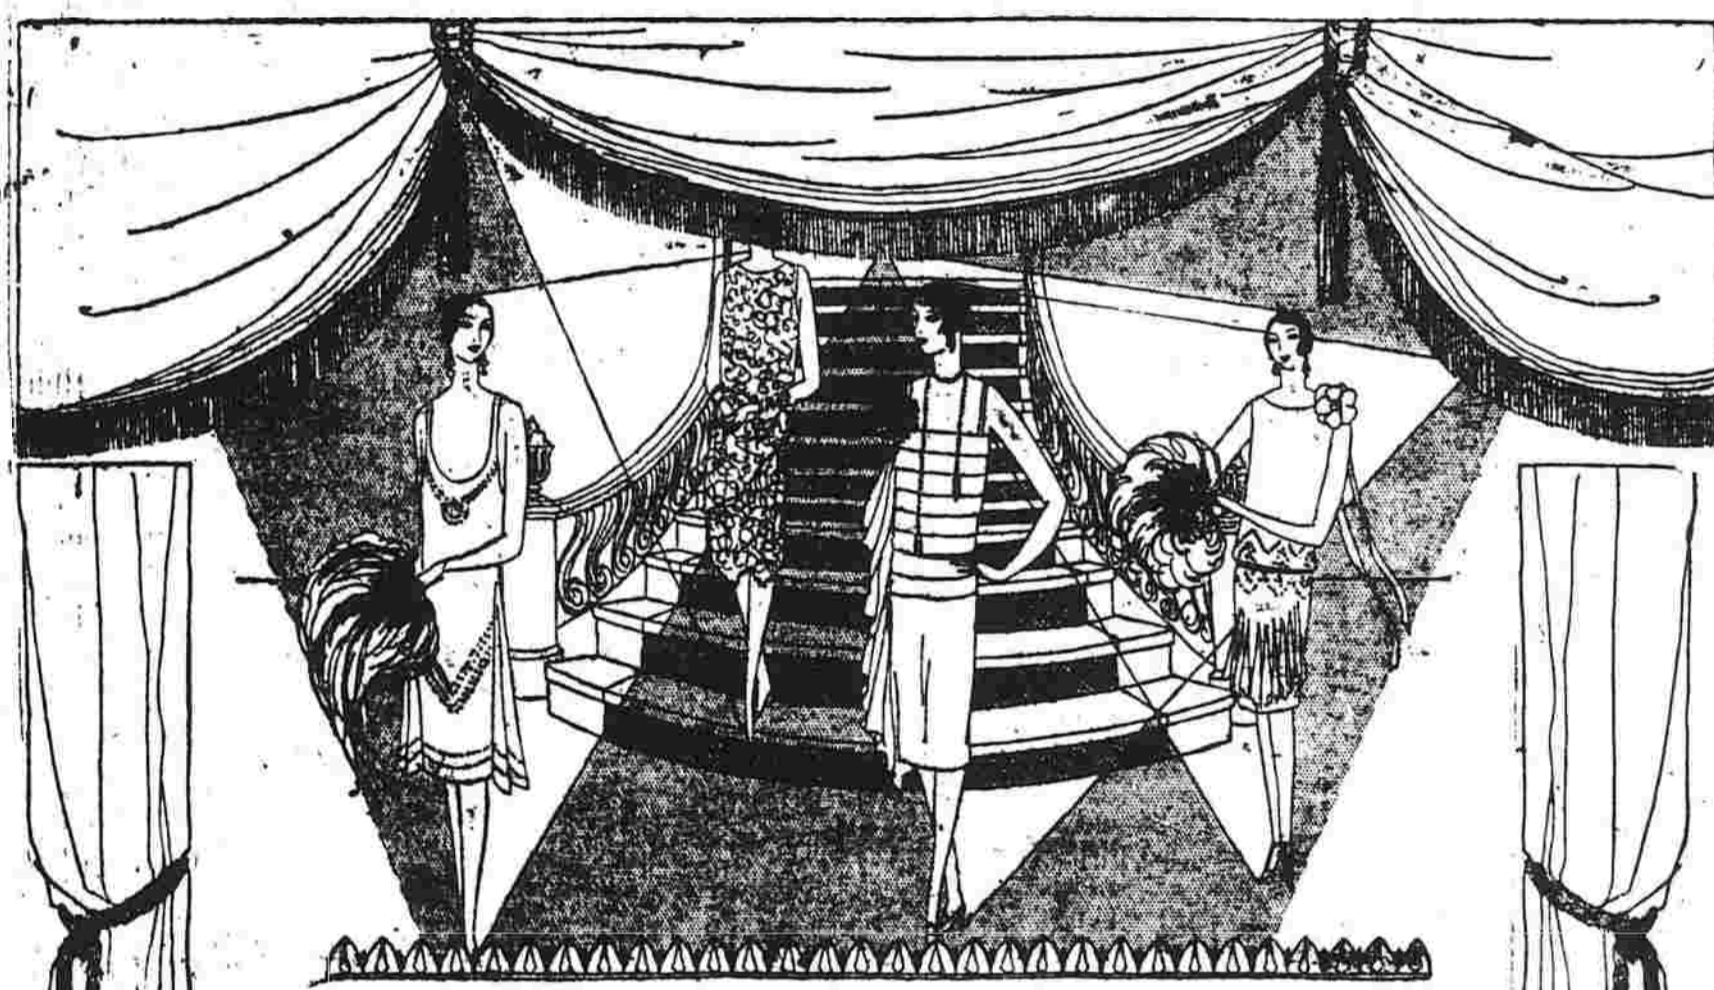

Our one reason for staging this annual exhibition is to let you know that you're as welcome when you come a-looking as when you come to buy.

Come, see what's what for Spring. It will be a pleasure to show you—and we're sure that getting acquainted with the new styles—will help you to choose your Spring wardrobe with greater satisfaction to yourself.

Special displays in our windows and in the store help to tell the story. Come and see them.

These eskimos were of an unusual type and were very anxious to work for the explorer. So he took a group of them with him on his long tramp to the next village. There he added half as many more eskimos to his party. This brought the total number of persons in camp to twenty-seven.

How many eskimos were added to the party at the first eskimo village?

HOFF, ALL AROUND CHAMP, BREAKS 3 WORLD RECORDS

Athlete from Norway Now Leads World — Norton and Osborne Fail in Tests.

New York, March 17.—With new world records to his credit, Charley Hoff of Norway, was the unofficial world's all-around champion today almost by default, as a result of Harold Osborne's withdrawal and the disqualification of Emerson Norton in the hurdles. They were his two rivals in the three-man sprint. Another test at the Knights of Columbus games last night and Osborne was able to compete in only three events before an old ankle injury forced him out.

Hopeless Race

Norton continued with the invader to the last but it was a hopeless gesture after the officials decided the Georgetown athlete was entitled to no points in the 60 yard high hurdles because he knocked down two of the four obstacles.

These anti-climaxes however, didn't detract one whit from the lustre of Hoff's performance. Almost at the end of the seven-event test, he was fresh enough to clear a new world's indoor record height of 13 feet, 7 inches in the pole vault, adding a fraction of an inch to his own mark. Another indoor record performance was his 23 feet 7 3/8 inches in the broad jump, displacing Bill Dowding's record by about six inches.

Third Record

The Norwegian's third record was his 5,885.3 points for the septathlon. Norton having held the old record.

Norton had a total of 4,704.4 points and would have totaled 5,500 except for his hurdle disqualification.

Osborne's failure to win the high jump, his pet event, ended his chances and he limped from the enclosure a very downcast youth. His withdrawal followed the shot put, in which he again was unable to give his best efforts.

Hoff won five events, the 60-yard dash, the broad jump, the pole vault, the hurdles, and the 400 metre run. Norton took the remaining two, the high jump and shot put.

DETROIT LEADING IN ALLEY TOURNEY

Teams from All Over Country Competing in Toledo; The Standing.

Toledo, Ohio, March 17.—Detroit bowlers had advanced to better positions in the American Bowling Congress standing here today and with more entries in tonight's schedule, had a good chance to assume a commanding lead in the five-man events.

Other cities which will be represented tonight are Chicago, Newark, Toledo, Windsor, Port Huron, Benton Harbor, Ft. Wayne and Peoria.

The Paul Duggalls and the Lahue Ca Navans, of Detroit, moved up into the prize money last night, the former hitting 2,338 for second place and the latter 2,848 for eleventh position. The Berghoffs of Tiffin, with 2,807, and the Russel Aylings, of Toledo, with 2,805, also moved up nearer the leaders.

W. Francis, of Jackson climbed into third place in the singles in the afternoon bowling with 692.

The three leaders in each event follow:

TO DIVIDE LEAGUE.

New York, March 17.—Reports were in circulation today that the National Professional Hockey League either would be forced to accept a twelve-club circuit for 1927, with new teams in Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit, or that its supremacy would be menaced by an outlaw organization. If the scope of the league is increased at its annual meeting on April 10, it is said that it will be divided into eastern and western sections with the winners of each meeting in a series to decide the national championship.

Local Sport Chatter

The West Side bowling team comprised of Bill Anderson, Cleveland Ellington, Pete Hansen, Jack Stevenson and Carl Bjorkman will meet the Bon Ami five of the North alleys. The West Side aggregation is highly confident of emerging the winner in view of the fact they have already taken two falls out of the crack Casino five and the Center church team. They have not lost a match this season. Next Monday night the West Siders will tackle the Men's Friendly Five, of the South Methodist church in a match which promises to be anything but "friendly."

The Manchester Girls' bowling team will clash with the Rogers Recreation team in the Rogers building in New Britain tomorrow night. The regular local team will make the trip.

Tomorrow noon the S. M. H. S. basketball representatives will depart from Manchester for the Tutts tournament. The school is planning to give them a big send-off.

"Pop" Edgar is playing one of the guard positions for the Wapping basketball team and is turning in some fine performances. It is reported, Wapping has annually turned to Manchester for players to round out its team and Edgar is their present choice. Mullin has also played a few games with them.

Plainfield opens a four-game stretch in as many nights tomorrow night when it tackles the crack South Kingston team at Peasdale, R. I., in the fourth game of their series for the Southern New England Professional Rule championship. Friday and Saturday nights Plainfield will be in action against Bristol and New Departures. Malcolm, Feldman, et al. The first game will be played in Plainfield with the Saturday night contest in Bristol. Sunday the Plainfield team is slated to play in Middale, Mass.

The Laurel basketball team wishes it known to the world that it is willing to tackle the local Liberties in a series for the junior town basketball championship. The Liberties, who have played considerably more games than any other Manchester junior team, states that it will meet no other team except the Liberties. Last year the Liberties won the title from the Laurels by one lone point, and when the two outfits clash this time, it should develop into another hair-raising game.

While most every aspect of the game the Tutts is considered favorable to the S. M. H. S. boys, there is one that may not turn out so pleasant. Every coach who saw the flashy playing of Elmo Mantell at Tutts last year has vividly remembered it and they will doubtless instruct their players to keep a close tab on the local whirlwind. Well, if they can do it they deserve credit and then some. If Elmo is watched above everybody else, that maybe Tutts' Captain Quill, right forward; Holland, left forward; Quish, center; Bray, right guard, and Dahlquist, left guard. This will leave Gotberg, Gorman and LaCosca to be summoned in any emergency for reserve duty. They are a capable trio and will probably get the call to participate in some of the games.

Coach Clarke is optimistic about his team's chances at the tourney. He sees no outstanding reason why the S. M. H. S. tribe cannot wade through the tourney and bring home the bacon. While being inclined to be a bit more conservative, The Herald sports department is also the possessor of inflated hopes.

Fourteen contestants will battle for the checker supremacy of Manchester tonight at the West Side Recreation building at 8 o'clock. Lawrence Durfee, of the Machine Shop, won last year's tourney and he is among the present entries. Setback and whist parties will also be in order and dancing will follow.

For some unexplained reason the exhibition pool match between Benese and Cotter scheduled for the North End Monday did not materialize.

At the time of this writing, no official word has reached Manchester relative to who S. M. H. S. will meet in its opening game at Tutts. Word is expected before the team departs tomorrow and The Herald will carry full particulars as soon as they are available.

Be sure and don't miss Friday night's issue of The Manchester Evening Herald. This paper will carry complete details of the opening game at Tutts and will also carry a bulletin result of the afternoon game if it is concluded in time. The Herald sports department will be the first place in Manchester where the news will be received. It will be relayed to Principal Quimby's office in the High school and thence to the students by a bell system.

Unless the teachers at the High school exert unforeseen precaution against any celebration on the part of the students in event of a Manchester victory, it is quite possible that the newspaper broadside "pandemonium reigns" will be applicable to the description of the way in which the students receive the news.

POWDERPUFFWEIGHT CHAMPION

Louise Adler.

Louise Adler of Pasadena, Calif., is a firm believer in equal rights for women and, if necessary, she is willing and able to use physical force to carry her point.

Miss Adler, by the way, claims the championship of a newly created boxing division, the powderpuffweight class. Although her weight is only 128, she lays claim to the title of all divisions, regardless of weight or size.

Tutored by Billy Papke, former middleweight champion, Miss Adler has progressed so rapidly that the once conqueror of Stanley Ketchel says she keeps him busy keeping out of the way of left jabs and right crosses.

Her measurements — well just look the photo over and you will decide for yourself that statistics are unnecessary.

She's 20 years old and doesn't believe in the much expounded theory that you must pluck 'em young and treat 'em rough.

Report Says Tilden Dropped $30,000 In Attempt to Get Into the Movies

Tennis Champ Is Recovering from the Shock in South; To Go Back to His Old Game.

New York, March 17.—Backstairs gossip, who sometimes know their vegetables, were whispering a rather depressing story today about William T. Tilden, 2nd, paying approximately $30,000 for the privilege of acting in semi-private on Broadway. Details of the major operation said to have been performed on the young man's checking account were lacking, except that the show breathed its painful last some days ago, the public having stayed away in droves.

The tennis champion now is recovering from the shock at Jacksonville, Fla. He has gone back to the realm of lawn tennis.

Tilden's losses, according to conservative estimates, were not less than $50,000, taking into consideration the amount of serious money he is alleged to have sunk in motion pictures.

It was said on good authority today that the closing of Tilden's show, far from assuring his appearance at Wimbledon this year, may serve to cement his half-formed determination to turn up missing. If he really has dropped important money on Broadway, Tilden will remain at home, they say, in order to avoid the penalty of the player-writer rule. He cannot write on any tournaments in which he is a contestant; the laudable hope of refurbishing the exchequer.

Meanwhile the Davis cup committee is due to meet on Thursday night and one of the projects for consideration is to devise some method whereby Tilden may be coerced into taking part in the trip to England. The writer wishes the committee plenty of luck because it probably will need more than that.

Down in Tennessee the game commissioners won't permit you to shoot a bounding bunny after the first of March. So, you see, the south is today doing its part in the conservation of the country's wild life.

A few short years ago the report went through the country that "all over the south" organized robin shoots were in progress during the early spring migrations of these birds. The folks up north were informed that dove hunters over balled fields were on tap at most any time.

That's all a thing of the past. Every southern state has its game laws and for the most part they are as fair as those in the north. Violations of these laws in the south are becoming less and less.

The effect of better observance of the game laws in the southern states is plainly manifested in the vast increase in the numbers of migratory birds now racing to the north.

A few years back robins, meadow larks, blackbirds and bobolinks (reed birds) were killed in great numbers. Education is now showing its effect.

WOMEN'S NET TOURNAMENT.

Brookline, Mass., March 17.—Eight players remained in the singles for the third round play in the National Women's Tennis tournament on the covered courts of Longwood Cricket Club today.

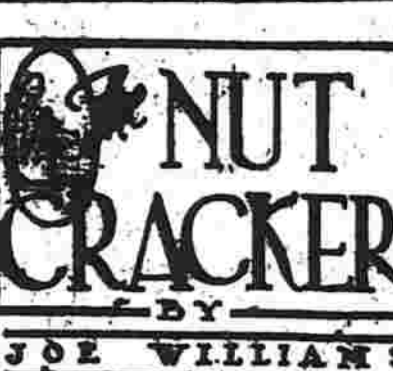

The doubles division, with six teams, also entered the round leading to the semi-finals. Play in the mixed doubles was to get under way today with the start of the girls' indoor national singles, a new event, tomorrow.

The Californians—Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Miss Mark K. Brons—were still the favorites in the singles and doubles division.

Danielson Emerges Two-Point Winner Over Cheney Brothers in Torrid Tilt

JOE WILLIAMS

John Coolidge of the Washington Coolidges is breaking into the swell fight news of the day.

The president's son exposed his Republican snout to the hardened furies of a Democratic left-hook in a college bout and was bounced around like a Japanese acrobat.

Young Coolidge lost the decision and was promptly challenged by the Prince of Wales to a ladder race in the international kiddy-kar sweepstakes.

The honor of Vermont Republicanism might have been saved if John the Jabber had demanded a veto or a cloture after the second round.

"I'd rather miss a right than be president," gashed the heir to the White House publicity bureau as he ducked one of Master Silverman's haymakers.

At that, the Coolidge youth has the correct program. He can make more jack in the welterweight division than he can ever make in the president's chair.

The country looks with swank favor on Jolting John's knuckling aspirations. You can pick up a president after any successful police strike but a good two-fisted ring champ is harder to find than brains in a humming-bird.

Nose busters are no novelty in the refined vicinity of the White House. When you met Teddy Roosevelt he'd say, "Pardon my glove." It was usually a five-ounce boxing glove.

Maybe it would be a salubrious thing for the country at large if the White House began operating on the belligerent principles of left-hooks and right-crosses.

An administration made up of masher nibblcks and electric horses is all right for the high hats and the low necks.

But a lot of oppressed tax dodgers prefer muscular sincerity to diplomatic gumbo.

Or, as Plato said, a government with a kick in it never caused anybody to kick.

The weekly sitting of the Army and Navy club pinocchle tournament will be held, as usual, on Friday night at the clubhouse at 7:30.

Postpaid Scores Eight Field Goals as Locals Lose 30-28 on Danielson Court

With "Kewpie" Postland dropping 'em in from all angles, Cheney Brothers basketball team came within a hair's breadth of defeating the strong Danielson team in that village last evening. The local met defeat by the narrow margin of two points, 30 to 28.

The game was fast and hotly contested from the start to the finish. Manchester put up a gallant fight but was not quite able to cope with the home team's slashing attack. At the end of the first half, Danielson was in the van 13 to 10.

Postland, who did not start the game, contributed two field goals during the opening period of play. The second half found Joe Postland hooping all kinds of shots—six more field goals—and as a consequence, Manchester outscored its opponent but was unable to overcome the lead.

Dietz, who filled Stavitky's succions, found himself pitted against a colored player, Blakeley. Whether Dietz's remembrances of the Stalnst-Brigade game in which he participated had anything to do with last night is known by Dietz alone. Anyway, Dietz was taken by surprise when he found his opponent was of the opposite color. The result was that Dietz failed to score a single point while Blakeley scored three field goals and a foul. SETBACK TOURNAY FINISHES TOMORROW

The final sitting of the third and final C. B. A. setback tournament will take place at the West Side Rec tomorrow night at eight o'clock.

The sitting was formerly slated for Cheney hall but was changed in view of the hall being in use by the Get Together club.

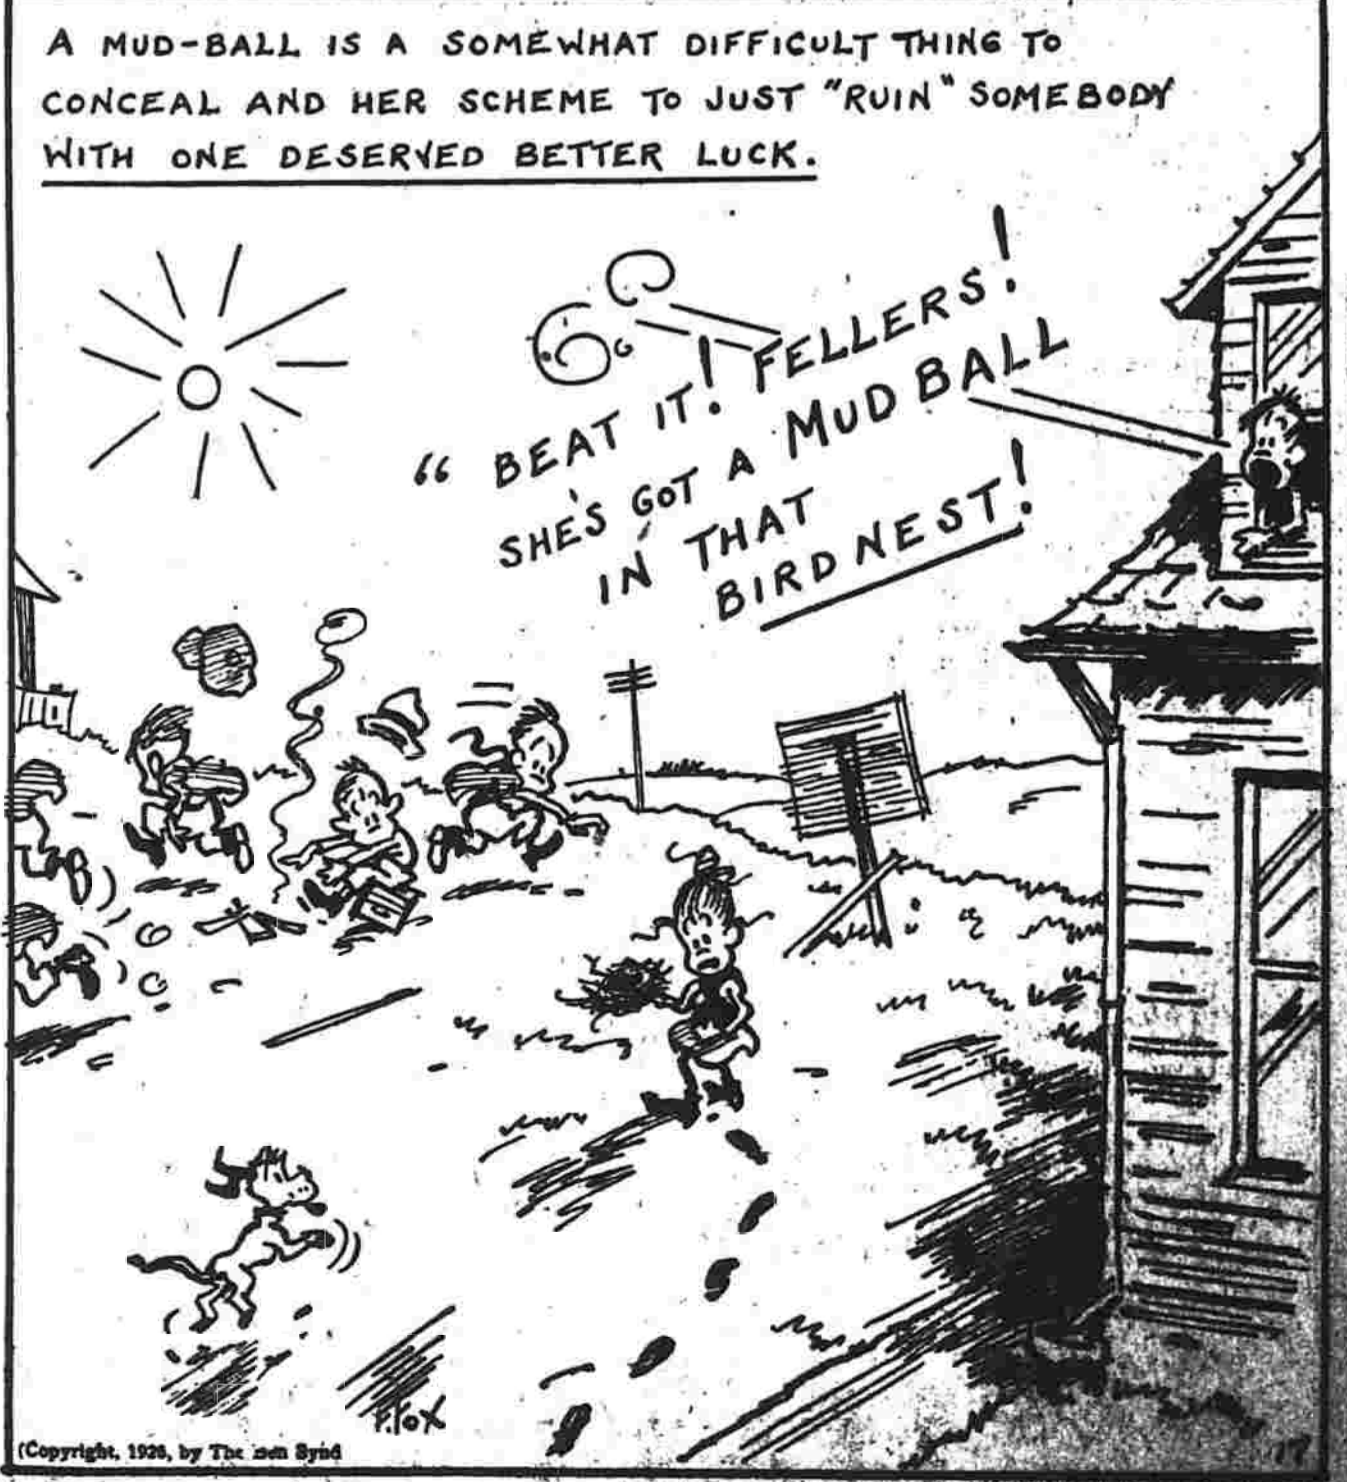

The usual prizes will be awarded for winners of high and second highest scores.

HITCH IN PLANS.

New York, March 17.—A hitch developed today in the proposed Jack Delaney-Paul Berlenbach bout for the light heavyweight championship when Pete Reilly, manager of Delaney, declared that financial arrangements would have to be made to his satisfaction before he would go through with the match.

Tex Rickard made no comment on the situation but Garden officials intimated that the difficulties would be smoothed out, so the bout could go on for June 10.

HELPFUL HINTS GOLFING STARS

WALTER HAGEN—FORCE CANNOT REPLACE RHYTHM.

Force, and force alone, can never take the place of rhythm and correct timing. I know any number of powerful built men who can not drive a golf ball 200 yards to save their necks. They have been naturally endowed with strength but they have never learned the art of using it properly.

One man in particular, a friend of mine of long standing, has been especially anxious to learn the game and to play in good form. I have given him lesson after lesson and, realizing that it was a hopeless task, turned him over to other pros, thinking that they could discover weaknesses and help him, but after a short time they, too, have given up.

It is not that he is muscle bound. Some men are, I will admit, but this does not always prevent them from hitting a long ball if they will learn to hit it scientifically.

There are many little chaps who drive a very long ball and who apparently are using no great force at all. As a matter of fact force is applied to the shot but it is so evenly and beautifully distributed that it is hardly discernable.

THE YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Cleveland, where the theater is. The stub is traced to THOMAS FOGARTY, who says he gave the stub and handkerchief to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints when she learns police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands. Olga tells police the stub and handkerchief might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.

Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Cleveland. Later he is followed and attacked by two men, from one of whom he wrests a blackjack and escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church presses his courtship for Mary through her mother.

She was sitting alone, and she looked disconsolate. She was Mary Lowell.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

JIMMY RAND awoke the next morning with a violent headache, the after effects of the previous night's encounter with his mysterious adherers. His ear was swollen; he ached in every muscle. He lay in bed longer than usual, turning over in his mind the jumble of events that had crowded in on him during the last few days, trying to put some semblance of order to his chaotic thoughts.

The landlady knocked on his door and, when he opened it, handed him a letter.

"It just came, Mr. Rand." It was a special delivery. She hesitated a moment and then she said, "I—sort of thought you might not be feeling well this morning, Mr. Rand, after last night, and I fixed some breakfast for you. I'll bring it right up."

"That's mighty kind of you, Mrs. King, I'm sure. You shouldn't have gone to all that trouble for me." He was a little ungrateful in the face of this unexpected kindness.

He sat on the bed to open his letter. It was postmarked Grafton and was from Detective Mooney. Mrs. King found him with a puzzled frown on his face when she returned with the breakfast tray.

"I hope it's not bad news, Mr. Rand." She could not keep the curiosity out of her voice. This new roomer at hers, with his mysterious phone calls and strange encounters, was a puzzling proposition.

He smiled. "No, Mrs. King, it's from an old friend in Grafton. He's just telling me the news."

"Oh! She thrust her hands in her apron pocket and left the room.

Between bits of buttered toast, Jimmy read the letter again:

"Dear Rand, I'm writing to tell you a new angle on this case of yours. It's the doggonedest case I've ever on and it's got me nearly batty. You remember that the day clerk in the Grand Hotel said the man who registered for the room your father was found murdered in gave the name of H. A. Jones of New York. Well, the clerk shows up yesterday with the word that he had seen this man Jones on the street the day before.

"He tried to follow him, but he lost him and came in to tell us about it. We've been looking for him ever since. Now I think you're on a wild goose chase, sticking around in Cleveland. This fellow probably has a pretty good reason for hanging around Grafton, and that's where we'll find him if we do.

"You're letting this Maynard woman kid you. She's in on this somehow, and that story of being picked up by somebody who got her ticket stub and handkerchief sounds pretty thin. I'll bet she knows who this Jones guy is and she's covering up for him. She never thought the thing would be traced to her and she had time to think up a yarn when the police got her. My own private idea of this thing is that this guy Jones is operating some sort of blackmail gag and he uses a woman now and then to help him out. He answers the description of a man who's been doing that sort of thing in cities around this neck of the woods for some time.

"In the case of your father he ran up against the wrong man and he got scared and killed him. You see it's not right. You might think this is some kind of wild dream I've got, but I think I know what I'm talking about. At any rate, Mr. H. A. Jones isn't in Cleveland and I think you're wasting your time. Why don't you let them bring the Maynard woman back here and come back yourself?"

"Best regards," "MOONEY"

"Mooney, you're dead wrong," Jimmy said softly as he folded the letter. "If the man I'm looking for is in Grafton, how do you explain these warnings I'm getting to leave town? How do you explain that affair last night? No, Mooney, if it's H. A. Jones, or whatever his name is, is in Grafton, then H. A. Jones isn't the man we want. He's right here in Cleveland, and he needs Olga Maynard to help me find him."

He finished his breakfast hurriedly and then sat down and wrote Mooney an answer, telling of the warnings and the attack of the night before.

"Of course," he wrote, "you mustn't think I'm ignoring the possibility that H. A. Jones may be in Grafton. Keep on looking for him. But there's a lot going on here that I want to find the reason for."

The days that followed were un-eyes away from him as she spoke. "But I thought somehow that you realized, in one she spoke, apparently. Whether you do or you don't, you should go back to Grafton. I don't want to see you hurt."

He studied her a long time. "Don't you realize what has happened? That if I go back to Grafton you'll have to go there, too? The district attorney consented to letting you go free temporarily so you could help me find this man you told about. They'll be wanting to make an arrest soon. They think they have to save their faces. Someone will have to stand trial pretty soon for this murder. If I go back now, it will be you."

Olga appeared to be thinking this over. She bit her lip nervously, and tears came to her eyes.

"I don't care," she said softly, turning to face him. "You don't care who you do to me. You go back. You've been kind to me—the only one who has, the only one who helped me. I don't want anything to happen to you."

He flushed uncomfortably, not so much at what she had said as at the way she had said it. It suddenly occurred to him that a remarkable change had come over this girl. That hardened manner which had characterized her on the occasion of their first few meetings had gone. The old air of defiance—it had amounted at times almost to brazenness—also was missing.

"You've changed a lot since I first met you," he said hesitantly, and her eyes dropped before his inquiring look.

"Are you surprised?" she asked. "Haven't you seen what has happened been enough to change me?"

"Troubles do sober us," he agreed. "I'm a different sort of person myself to what I was before this happened. But you ought to know your own mind better than I do. I was about to tell her that her very appearance had changed—that she was dressed differently—more quietly—and was using less rouge. But he thought better of it.

"The old life doesn't interest me any more," she said. "I don't know. Something inside of me has snapped since."

"Since when, Olga?" It was the first time he had called her that.

"Oh, since this happened," she answered evasively.

They parted then, and he went home, vaguely troubled.

The sun was shining brightly when he left his room the next morning, and the air was cold and bracing. He had taken stock of his finances the night before and it hadn't been encouraging.

"Less than $200 between me and starvation," he said ruefully. "If I don't get a job soon I'll be on my uppers." There was clothing to buy, his evenings with Olga, although not expensive individually, were making serious inroads. He was still firmly determined not to ask his mother or Janet for help.

The cheerful aspect of the morning faded as a good omen, and he went quite hopefully about the task of job hunting. But it was just another morning of discouragement, and noon time found him weary and dejected.

He told himself, "If I don't find something to keep me busy in the day time—something to get my mind off myself—I'll go crazy."

That was the idea. Park and wandered absent mindedly along the walks. The sun had taken the chill off the air. Office workers, out on their lunch hour, were sitting on the benches, gossiping and laughing.

"That's what I need," he murmured almost savagely, "something to make me laugh."

He plodded on, his hands thrust in his overcoat pockets, his head down. A squirrel jumped across his path and he idly followed the tricky little creature with his eyes. Then he saw something ahead of him that made his heart leap.

On a park bench just ahead of him, a girl was sitting alone, resting her weight on her arm and looking down at the ground. There was something disconsolate looking about her, but that was not why he had started so eagerly at sight of her. She was Mary Lowell.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

Tablespoon O' News.

Divorce to the tune of 7 to every one marriage is vigorously lambasted by Bishop William T. Manning of New York City.

"Departure from the ideal of monogamic marriage is not progress but reversion to barbarism."

The bishop cites the 57 divorces in all Canada in 1916 and the 112,036 in America the same year.

It seems that man must pay a little more, thus reversing the old tale of the woman who pays and pays and pays. Friends of Lord Craven demand censorship of "Ashes," the play by Vera Caspary. Craven's friends claim that the play is the story of Vera's elopement with the earl. Sort of a case of locking the barn after the pony's stolen, isn't it? Thought everyone knew all about it now, anyway!

Lady Cynthia Mosley of London, touring our nation's industrial world, is "amazed" at the high living standard of American workmen. She isn't the only one. Most of us know John Smiths with a monthly income of $150 who have auto, radio, piano, overstuffed furniture, and a gorgeous grocery bill!

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL OF TODAY

A HAT-CHECKER'S PHILOSOPHY.

Out-of-the-Kitchen Girls.

Most women do not neglect their husbands for their offering. This fact was established after a spirited debate by the fair members of the Legislative League of New York.

"A hat girl is a good one to try out those tricks on, Jimmie, for she's defenseless. There's only one in a while that a Sir Galahad or whatever his name was, like you, comes to her defense. I've often wondered how in the world Mamie could stand all the slush that's handed out to her and not get her hands frosted as well as a frozen face. She just smiles at 'em, Jimmie, and doesn't hear a word they say. I asked her once if she hadn't stuffed her ears with cotton and she said:

"No, dear, but I just draw my hearing inside of me and I don't hear a thing unless it's a sentence that has the word 'hat' in it."

"Yes, Judy, Mamie's a great girl, isn't she? But just now I want to talk about yourself. If you must have come to the city and I don't see just yet why you came at all, what in the world made you take such a position? Surely, your Dad didn't let you come without money enough to tide you over until you could find something and not work in that restaurant?"

"Dad did give me two hundred and fifty dollars and it was stolen from me right in that restaurant the first night I got here. When I went to pay for my dinner I found my bag was gone. The manager said it was trying to beat them out of it."

"And that's just what he would do, the dirty bum," interrupted Jimmie.

"I tell you I was awfully frightened. I didn't know what I was going to do, but after a good deal of bluster, Mr. Sterns said I could help in the hat-checking station to help pay for the meal I had just eaten."

"I think I'll go back and bust his nose," remarked Jimmie, sotto voce.

"Don't bother about him, dear, I was mighty glad of it, because, you see, I met Mamie. She was the first woman I had spoken to except that awful, pallid-looking thing in the women's dressing room, since I left home. I didn't know I cared so much for my own sex. I thought I liked me best. But you see I was so discouraged I was almost ready to go home and I know if I did, I would have to marry Chuck."

"What do you mean 'Chuck'?" asked Jim in a choked voice.

"I mean just what I say. You know Charlie Becker, don't you?"

"Yes, I knew him, but we never chummed together a bit. I was the son of the Irish grocer, Costello, who drove his father's delivery wagon from house to house and he was the son of the banker. He went to Harvard with an allowance and I worked my way through Cornell, so you see we didn't have much in common. I don't think he ever spoke to me after we went to college and I don't think to this day he knows that I am a college man, if that means anything."

"TOMORROW: The Inevitable Question."

Buying the House O' Dreams.

If you pay a sixth of your income for rent, you can afford a fourth of it for buying a home, as the home is an investment, too. You should have, experts say, down payment for at least one-fifth. It is best to borrow the balance from a building and loan association, with a first mortgage on the house.

Bunk Advice.

It is not considered the very best form to permit the children to whittle the furniture, although I know one clever mother who permits her offspring to carve their monograms at their own plates and thus save the price of monogrammed napkin rings.

The Progeny.

"Where in the world can I find a book to give me ideas on how to keep the children amused on Saturdays? I have my baking and cleaning and they drive me wild!"

Ask your librarian for Beard's "Jolly Book of Boredom"; "Little Folk's Handy Book"; Boyd's "When Mother Lets Us Out Pleasures"; and Lutz's "What to Draw and How to Draw It."

Chinese Tea.

Our Chinese friends make it like this: Level teaspoon of tea to a cup of water. Heat water until it barely boils. Pour into teapot, keep covered three minutes, and pour.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Let's hope for pleasant weather tomorrow evening for the joint spring opening of the merchants. If possible I will try to get an advance glimpse of some of the approved fashionable garments for spring and tell you about it in tomorrow's Herald. Nothing will be for sale Thursday night but you can greatly encourage the different stores by your attendance and appreciation of what is being done for your benefit.

On the home page soon we will run a series of a dozen articles written by women known throughout the country, with their pictures of course, under the caption "My Beauty Beliefs." There will be one by Mrs. Coolidge, the "first lady" as told to one who shampoos her. These will be brief articles and will be free from formulas and do-this-and-so.

Mrs. Dakin, the nutrition specialist from Storrs was unable to give her lecture and vegetable demonstration at the White House yesterday. Miss Olea Sands of the same college extension service was there in her bright, chatty way of the value of vegetables in the diet. She said at one of the Hartford restaurants they told her they sold more of the vegetable plates to men than women, while women usually make the complaint that they cannot get the men to eat the all-vegetable dinner. She recommended starting by serving such a meal one in fourteen days, then once in seven. Let them get used to it gradually. At women's clubs and restaurants there is no doubt that the vegetable plate is the favorite and two thirds of the orders are for such meals.

An attractive vegetable platter was prepared at the White House yesterday afternoon, consisting of creamed potatoes, sautéed carrots and peas. The demonstrator recommended the use of the fancy vegetable cutters, also that the color and variety be planned for. For instance, one starchy vegetable or one that grows underground, one leafy vegetable for roughage or iron, such as spinach, lettuce, raw cabbage or cold slaw, and one that grows on a vine. Vegetables grown in Connecticut contain iron, while in Wisconsin they do not. Carrots and beets are rich in iron, and fish also was eaten more frequently there would be less liability to scurvy.

Spinach, beet greens and all greens should be carefully cooked in a small amount of water and until they are just tender, not until the tissues break down and they are tough. People often add a teaspoon of soda to keep the color in greens. By so doing the valuable vitamins are killed. If the vegetables are boiled rapidly the color will be preserved. Plan to save the remaining liquid for soups. A thin cream sauce in the proportion of a tablespoon each flour and butter to a cup of milk is right for soups; two tablespoons butter and flour to the cup of milk for creaming vegetables, and for a croquette mixture.

Waffles should be crisp, tender and very light, and the mixing has a great deal to do with their success. By beating with a Dover egg beater the mixture may be made very light, folding the egg whites in last. Baking should begin immediately, the batter is ready. Usually they are served with syrup or butter, but for an informal supper they go well with creamed ham, chicken a la king, creamed fish and vegetables, fried sausage, crisped bacon or deviled meats. Or, the waffle may be served as a dessert. In that case crushed fruit, preserved in heavy syrup or jams will add toothsome. Still another delightful combination is to bake the waffle very crisp and then make a sandwich placing a slice of ice cream between two waffles. Frozen sherbets or ices will be equally good.

I received a number of replies to the inquiry for decorating objects with wax. One reader of the Herald took the trouble to call up a friend in another town who does expert work in this line. All urge experimenting by the beginner before attempting anything ambitious. The wax is put on in spots, and the article is revolved over a flame of candle or alcohol lamp, care being taken not to have the heat intense. Books of instructions may be bought for a small sum or if materials are bought at the large stores having art department lessons may be had free. If our enquirer desires to have the work done at a small expense, I can put her in touch with some one who does this work frequently and exceedingly well.

MARY TAYLOR.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Just then who should come around the corner but a large rabbit with spectacles and a big book.

"What can we do to help you, Mr. Rubadub?" asked Nick when the fairyman of Scrub-Up Land had finished telling the Twins all about everything.

"Oh, lots of things, said Mister Rubadub brightly. "I certainly have my hands full. You have no idea how stubborn some of the woodfolk get when I go to give them a good scrubbing to make them presentable."

"Oh, do you scrub them?" asked Namee.

"Do I scrub them?" asked Rubadub shaking with laughter. "Oh, no! Not at all. I just put them inand that one after that, then that one next and the other one to follow."

"It's the March Hare!" cried Nick recognizing the rabbit at once. "Hello, Mister Hare, don't you remember us?"

The March Hare looked at them over his glasses for an instant, and then snapping his book shut, he hurried over, grinning from ear to ear.

"Well, if it isn't Nancy and Nick, the almost shouted with joy. "Do I remember you? I should say I do. How could I ever forget the way you helped me one time to waken up all the spring people."

"The spring people? Who were they?" asked Mister Rubadub curiously. Fairyman are like other people, you know. They hate to be left out of things and he wanted to know all about it.

"Don't you know?" said the March Hare in an astonished voice. "The Rag Man and the Hurdy Gurdy Man and the Scissors Grinder and the Circus people and the Easter Bunny, and—"

"Oh, those," said Mister Rubadub. "Sure, I know them all. They're old friends of mine."

"I started out a bit early this year," said the March Hare. "I rang all their doorbells a week or two ahead of time to warn them they would soon be needed. That's why I didn't need much help, my dears. As you will learn when you are older, foresight is better than hindsight, or a stitch in time saves nine. That's quite sensible. They say I am mad, but you see I am not. Now to business."

"Did you get the addresses?" asked Mister Rubadub, peering over the March Hare's shoulder as he opened the big book again.

"Some," said the March Hare. "But you have no idea how hard it is to find some of the places."

VETERAN REPORTER DESCRIBES HANGING

Tells What Happens When Law Snuffs Out Life of Slayer—A Horrible Sight.

Today's news from Wethersfield that Gerald Chapman must hang on April 6, will cause editors "all over the country to prepare for their readers column after column of news pertaining to Chapman's life and crimes and of hangings in general. Last evening a Herald man spoke to a veteran New York police reporter who witnessed a half dozen hangings and who described just what happens when a man is executed. Similar Scenes. "I've never been to Wethersfield," said this man, "but I suppose a hanging anywhere is about the same and yet it is not the same because I never got used to the scene. The last hanging I witnessed affected me the same as the first. I dreamed of the terrible scenes a month afterwards.

"The first hanging I witnessed was a terrible one. The newspaper I worked on was fighting to do away with the noose and substitute the electric chair on the grounds that it was a more humane method of putting to death a slayer. My editor gave me a weird assignment. He told me to get to the murderer, in this case a Negro, and ask him to give a sign if he was not dead after the trap was sprung. The idea was to prove that a man was not instantly killed by hanging.

"I could not reach the condemned man directly but I got in touch with the death watch and through them with the Negro minister who was visiting the slayer whose name was John Tapely. The prison was in Jersey City, N. J. "The day before the execution the minister reported to me that he had induced Tapely to try and extend the index finger of his left hand three times if he was alive after the trap sprung.

Day of Execution. "The day of the execution arrived. There is a law in New Jersey which makes it compulsory for the jury that sentences a man to death to be present to see that the sentence has been carried out. The men of the jury were lined up on both sides of a long corridor. At the end was the gibbet, two upright bars with a heavy timber across the top. It was a different arrangement than at Wethersfield where the man drops through a trap door. In this case bags of sand were placed on the gibbet. The body was jerked up almost to the crossbeam and then dropped a few feet when the rope slackened. The weight of the man's body was supposed to break his neck.

Kept Eyes Closed. "While we waited I glanced at the jury. Each man had his eyes tightly closed. I had to keep my eyes open because I had to report what happened.

"Then came the procession from the death cell. First came the sheriff. Behind him came Tapely supported by two colored ministers. They were trying to sing a hymn but as soon as they came in sight of the gibbet the singing ceased. Tapely was dressed in black. Slippers were on his feet. His arms were bound to his side by straps. The black cap was attached to his collar and the noose was around his neck.

"At the end of the noose around Tapely's neck was a big ring. The end of the rope hanging from the gibbet had a big snap, the kind one used to see on harnesses in the old days.

His Jaw Drops. "Tapely's jaw dropped to his chest when he saw the rope. He was coal black in color but his face turned gray, a terrible sight. The hangman escorted the condemned man to his place below the rope which had been marked with a circle of chalk.

"Have you anything to say? he was asked.

"Tapely tried to speak but could not.

"All right," answered the hangman. He placed the black cap over the man's head and was reaching for the rope when Tapely fell. With his arms bound, the man fell directly on his face. Picking him up, the hangmen put the snap into the ring, gave the signal and Tapely shot upwards. His body swung around three or four times and then the index finger of the left hand moved. It extended twice, tried a third time and then stopped. "The doctors stepped forward but said the man was not yet dead so he was allowed to swing for several more minutes. Then the doctors pronounced him dead. "This seems ordinary when reduced to writing but the sight was a horrible one and unless a reporter is obliged to go to these affairs he tries to dodge the assignment if he ever witnessed a hanging."

GUARDING WATER SUPPLY IS WORK THAT NEVER ENDS

Connecticut Reservoir Overseers Constantly on Job Winter and Summer; Have Manifold Tasks.

Guarding Connecticut's water supply is an arduous task which continues the year around. Even in the winter months when trespassers are least apt to be found on watershed land, the reservoir overseers who in many cases live on watersheds in homes supplied by the water companies, are constantly vigilant in preventing the dangers of pollution. These overseers are constantly on duty winter and summer, taking care of the reservoirs and the acres of watershed land owned by the companies. It is the primary duty of the overseers to safeguard the water supply. This involves patrolling the waters and bordering lands, guarding against fires, illegal fishing, and the pollution of the ponds. They must keep brush from growing within fifty feet of the "flow" lines, and keep trespassers from encroaching on forbidden property. One of the chief duties of the overseers is the chlorination of the water, or a process of putting chlorine gas into the water as it passes into the pipes to prevent typhoid. Another task is the prevention of "working" water, caused by the presence of decayed vegetation. The overseer must also be a forester and a farmer in order to conduct agricultural and reforestation work. Many hundred acres of watershed land are cultivated and as many as 50,000 to 75,000 trees are set out by some of the companies each year. The overseers also have much work in the winter in cutting and harvesting ice and in cutting and hauling wood.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little, olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They clear "clouded brain" and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 50c.

New health in Tanlac

"I scarcely dared to eat. Liver, kidneys and bowels were disordered. I suffered night and day. Tanlac toned up my system, gradually eliminated organic troubles and now I enjoy sound health." Samuel Vile, 504 Main St., Dickson City, Pa.

This statement merely backs up what over one hundred thousand grateful users have said about Tanlac. Our files are packed with such testimony. If your system is run down, if you can't seem to eat or sleep, have lost weight or suffer from trying pain, why not let Tanlac start you back to vigorous strength and health. No long, wretched wait to get results! Tanlac starts right in to build you up. It cleans the blood, revitalizes digestive organs, fires up the liver and makes you feel like a new person. For constipation take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

"BOOTLEG TRUST" PROFIT PLACED AT $200,000,000 YEAR

Millionaires Backed Huge Syndicate of Hoock Runners—Organized in 12 Cities.

Cleveland, O., March 17.—This is the story of the barons of bootlegging who played for blue chips only, and without a limit.

They organized the greatest conspiracy against the federal laws in all our history.

They sought—and obtained—control of the bootleg industry, an industry which, though illegitimate, has taken rank in the last few years with the country's biggest.

Percentage profits made by other "big businesses" paled into puny insignificance beside their own enormous gains. They played a hazardous game, and through it ran a sinister trail of daring out-laws.

Murder—bribe—jacking—bribery—betrayal of high trust.

For three years this gigantic syndicate went about its crooked business, piling up huge profits and growing with each year units and network of its operations reached from coast to coast.

Made $200,000,000 A Year. With an estimated output from all the distilleries of 900,000 gallons a week, the ring distributed at wholesale prices nearly a quarter of a billion dollars worth of the stuff to the bootleg trade in one year.

And all but one-eighth of this was profit! True, some of the profits were used to bribe crooked officials and to hire murderous gunmen, but the stakes were high—higher than any legitimate business offered. And even if only three-fourths of it had been net profit—a low estimate—the ring still cleared nearly $200,000,000.

It is doubtful if any corporation in the country, no matter how big, can show such a profit.

Then Uncle Sam struck. Here in Cleveland, base of operations of the bootleg barons, the government laid down its cards, and the biggest conspiracy indictment in the history of the country was returned.

Millionaires Back of It. It named 112 defendants in 12 cities, reaching from Boston to San Francisco. Others will be indicted.

The entire plot, the government charges, was conceived and carried out by four Philadelphia millionaires and their associates, known as "the Wall Street of the rum ring."

These four were two sets of brothers, Dave and Ben Gerson and Frank and Ben Gerson, and the "Big Four," controlled the trade from their luxurious offices in Philadelphia, it is alleged.

In April, 1925, the Gersons and the Fogels organized the Superior Industrial Alcohol Company and two subsidiaries in Cleveland. The ostensible purpose was to withdraw pure grain alcohol from government warehouses and denature it. When alcohol is withdrawn for denaturing purposes it may be had for 50 cents a gallon, without paying the government tax of $2.20, which is levied on beverage alcohol.

The Superior distillery, the government charges, did not denature alcohol, but bought, made and sold pure grain alcohol. The two subsidiaries, it is alleged, handled enough denatured alcohol to "cover up" the Superior company.

Distributing syndicates were organized in the underworld from coast to coast, to wholesale the alcohol to bootleggers. It couldn't have been done, of course, unless palms had been "greased," and federal officials, detectives, railroad police, even judges, are involved in the conspiracy.

In June, 1925, Thomas E. Stone, then tri-state prohibition director in charge of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, tipped by a railroad police chief who couldn't be bribed, seized a carload of grain alcohol on a siding in Cleveland. It was traced to the Superior distillery.

Then Harry Volpe of Providence, R. I., went to Stone and U. S. Attorney A. E. Bernsteen and told them a story of having been double crossed. Volpe, a grocer, had made three fortunes, in the bootlegging business and had lost them all by being "gypped."

An instance of the enormous profits made can be had from Volpe's story of how, as a keeper of a tiny store on a Rhode Island beach, he had been annoyed by rum runners unloading cargoes of whisky on his beach. They offered him 25 cents a case for the privilege, and in three weeks he had collected $43,000.

No "Ribbon Clerks." And Volpe was only "small fry!" Then he went out after bigger profits, but stubbed his toe because the "big boys" played a game that "kept the ribbon clerks out."

In Minneapolis two of the indicted men are serving life sentences for murder. They, too, plead that they were framed and double-crossed, although they do admit having been hired as professional gunmen by the ring to protect alcohol shipments. Other shootings and murders there were, but they never were solved.

Without Volpe's confession, the government might have been stumped. Even so, it was necessary to call in George E. Golding and Eugene R. O'Brien, special federal agents, and a corps of assistants.

They checked the operations of the heads of the rum ring in the east. Telephone, telegraph and messenger communications were traced. Bills of lading and orders were checked.

An elaborate code had been worked out by the conspirators, and the wires, after the first shipment seizure in Cleveland, sizzled with long distance calls. A woman in Atlantic City who had leased her residence—a pretentious mansion—became suspicious when she saw a monthly telephone bill that ran into the hundreds of dollars.

Sleuths traced it, and found that the house was being used as a temporary headquarters.

Troop No. 4 had their first hike of the season Saturday afternoon. The full troop was present with the exception of two who were unable to attend. The boys assembled at their regular headquarters at 1:15 and proceeded to the center where hot dogs were purchased, then proceeded up Porter street to Highland Park. Several stops were made. On the way signaling was practiced using the Semaphore code.

When Highland Park was reached the boys then refreshed themselves, drinking from the spring near the clubhouse. They then proceeded to the lookout at a fine view of the Connecticut Valley was obtained.

Several of the boys passed tests on the trip and games were played the principal one being "Capture the Flag." On the way home a stop was made below falls where the boys who had not previously seen the mine were given the opportunity to do so.

The troop arrived home about 6:15 and all seemed pleased with the afternoon's outing.

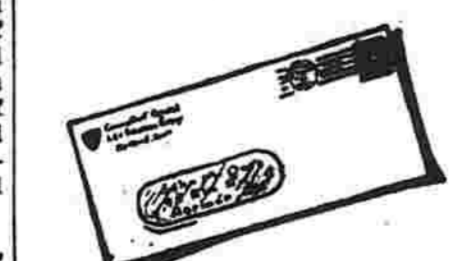

"Scout Master" is a play developed by the boys and leader of Troop No. 5 of the Swedish Lutheran church. It is a three act comedy and will be put on at Cheney Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. It is full of interesting side lights which will hold the attention of both young and old. The plot is centered around a boy who is kidnapped as a baby and as he grows up becomes a tramp and later comes under the influence of the boy scouts. It is a very clever play and everyone interested in scouting should not fail to see it.

MATRIMONIAL VACATIONS

BY CYNTHIA GREY. The little phrase above pops up again these days.

Fannie Hurst, it may be recalled had a seven-year "marital vacation."

I talked with Fannie Hurst or Mrs. Jacques Danielson on the morning that her secret was discovered. Fannie just could not see why all the uproar.

"We each have a life to live aside from wifehood and husbandhood," she said. "Why not give one another the chance to do that job best? I just couldn't write here with a man growling around! And where in the world would he play his piano while I wrote?"

Asked Fannie, casting puzzled brown eyes over her cozy flat above the greenness of Central Park.

Oh, an infinite number of husbands and wife artists and writers and musicians and lecturers and the like are living apart from one another nowadays whilst professing to love one another dearly and never dreaming of separation or divorce.

I have noticed that wives in the bulk and wives of an older generation, especially, make almost invariably the same reply whenever this subject of "matrimonial vacations" comes up!

"If they loved one another, they couldn't be apart!" they say, thus neatly disposing of the whole matter.

But, honestly and seriously and sanely now, can it be disposed of so easily?

Is it altogether fair to say that two people do not love one another enough to be married if they ever have any yearning to be apart from one another and to do self-expressive work, individualistic work?

I don't believe it is altogether fair. I am inclined to believe that two people may be happily married and yet desire something apart from the partners of that marriage and have a perfect right to so desire!

After all, this 100 per cent love of which our mothers speak was at least 90 per cent love of job as well as man.

Wives of a generation or so ago found self-expression through their homes. There was a big woman-ized job for them to do there. Flax to be spun, stockings to be knitted, candles to be made, dyeing, canning, drying the fruits and vegetables.

But today's economic scheme has taken most of these jobs out of the home. Efficiency has made retail work yield to wholesale.

Today's wife turns a tap and has her warm and cold water. Moves a slide in the wall and has heat. Presses another button and has light. It is as cheap to buy canned fruits and vegetables as to "put them up" herself.

In fact, he may even be a nuisance. She pines for a job. She proceeds to do her job even if it does not hook up with her husband quite so closely as did the old job.

Whereupon he shouted, "Lights! Action! Camera!" and the filming of a true story of the films was continued.

TWO FILMS—COUNTRY STORE ON STATE'S BILL

Theatre-goers will enjoy the fun tonight at the Country Store at the State in particular as it promises to be as good as the best in the past. Go prepared to have lots of fun and participating in the receiving of loads of presents of pleasing variety. The Store is replete with unexpected amusement as each prize is disposed of. There are many to be given out tonight.

Besides the Country Store "The Beautiful Cheat," an adaptation of the interesting magazine serial by Nina Wilcox Putnam. The picture was produced as a Universal-Jewel.

Laura LaPlante, blonde star, has the role of Marie LaTour in "The Beautiful Cheat," an adaptation of the interesting magazine serial by Nina Wilcox Putnam. The picture was produced as a Universal-Jewel.

It was with unusual zest that the entire circle undertook the production of this picture. "Certainly we ought to be able to create a masterpiece when we are telling about ourselves," was the consensus of opinion.

"This is more fun than I've had in any picture I've ever played in," asserted Miss LaPlante. "Easy? Fun?" grunted Edward Sloman, director. "Don't kid yourself. It's harder to make a movie queen act like a movie queen than anything I ever tackled."

SQUARE DANCE CONTEST, 2 FEATURES AT CIRCLE

A treat that will be long remembered by those who witness it on Thursday night is in store for Circle patrons when the Old Fashioned Dancing Contest will be staged at the Circle theatre in addition to the big double feature program of photoplays. The contestants arranged will be entirely local. One set with John McConville as promoter will be made up of step-dancers who made their debut many years since as are adept today as they were in their youth. This set of dancers will be pitted against a younger set in a square dance that is certain to prove a thriller for young and old alike.

The feature pictures for Thursday and Friday will include "The Reckless Lady" and "Tom Tyler in 'Born to Battle.'" The regular Circle picture prices will prevail Thursday evening.

The Great Surprise Charleston Contest Will Also Be Staged at the Circle Theatre next Monday night with a double feature program at picture prices.

THIRST LEADS TO CELL

Pittsburgh — "I want some liquor," said a voice from outside the rear door of the home of William Robertson, colored. Then a hand containing an empty bottle was thrust through the aperture made by the door, which stood ajar.

Sergeant Warren McClure, who was inside with his squad, reached out, took hold of the hand and pulled the owner. "My thirst got me into this," Clarence Merriott said later in his cell.

ARREST FIVE FOR FLORIDA SWINDLE

Federal Authorities Charge Boomers With Using the Mails to Defraud.

New York, March 17.—The first arrests here for fraud in connection with the Florida boom were made yesterday when government authorities took into custody five men of the Griffin Development and Construction Company. They were charged with using the mails to defraud.

Charles Greenhaus, secretary of the corporation, whose activities as a stockholder have previously been under investigation, was one of the men arrested. Harry Griffin, president of the corporation, also was held. Hall was fined at $5,000 each, William C. Price, Ivan Franklin Israel and W. Kyle, salesmen, were held in $2,500 bail each.

Many Victims. Officials charged that the Florida land boom was capitalized in such a manner that many patrons suffered losses through the purchase of lots represented as being owned by the corporation. Greenhaus and seven others recently were temporarily enjoined from further transactions in Florida land sales.

United States District Attorney Buckner, it was learned, began his investigation more than a month ago. According to a statement from the Federal Building postal cards signed by salesmen were sent to thousands of stockholders in defunct corporations, inviting them to call at the Griffin Company offices. When they called, officials said, they were offered a chance to "recoup" their previous losses by purchasing lots in Putnam County, Fla., on the installment plan.

PINCHOT SAILS INTO SENATOR PEPPER

Points to Support of W. C. T. U and Accuses Rival of Playing Wet and Dry.

Harrisburg, March 17.—Gov. Pinchot has issued a statement attacking Senator George Wharton Pepper's candidacy for the Republican nomination for re-election to the Senate, asserting that Pepper now found himself without the support of either the wets or dries.

The governor also made public a telegram from Ella George, President of the Pennsylvania Women's Christian Temperance Union, pledging him the support of her organization.

The telegram praised the governor, not only for his fight for prohibition, but the other moral issues for which "you have battled so nobly."

The Pinchot statement charges Senator Pepper with playing both wets and dries by proclaiming himself a dry but throwing his influence to the assistance of the anti-prohibition faction.

Referring to Pepper's statement in which he charged indirectly that the Pinchot supporters belonged to the "unatic fringe," the governor says Pepper speaks with the violence of "a man who has been badly hurt, who has taken orders from the gang, and now in his hour of need, the gang has forsaken him."

DON'T STAY TOO LONG IN WATER

BY DR. HUGH S. CUMMING
Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service

There is little to be gained from a health viewpoint by lolling in the water for several hours at a time. To obtain the beneficial effects of a swim one should not remain in the water longer than 30 minutes.

It is much better to enter the water several times daily, taking a brisk rub after each swim and change into dry clothes, instead of allowing the clothing to dry on the body as some do at the seashore.

Everyone who swims should know how to protect himself while in the water and also be familiar with lifesaving methods. Diving in shallow water, unnecessarily long swims beyond reach of assistance and swimming beneath fixed objects are acts of poor judgment.

The prone method of resuscitation, including artificial respiration, known as the Shafer method, should be known to every swimmer. Immediate application of the principles embodied in the Shafer method will sometimes save life even when practiced by the inexperienced.

Description of these methods are available from various sources among which may be mentioned the American Red Cross, which issues bulletins and gives practical demonstrations of life-saving methods.

Swimming is a sport to be encouraged because of its value as exercise and diversion. The casual swimmer soon discovers unused muscles and finds himself breathing more deeply than has been his custom. It is an exercise not limited by age, being available for elderly as well as the young, provided they have no organic impairment and react well to the hardy exercise involved.

To the mentally and physically tired swimming acts as a disseminator of fatigue products, planting in their stead a sense of well being and exhilaration. It is distinctly a sport worth cultivating, provided the necessary safeguards are provided in an intelligent and sensible manner. Mere bathers should double the pleasure they derive from the water by learning to swim.

Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Keep it handy for instant use.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

SEVERAL THINGS TO DO HERE ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Dances and Parties This Evening—Irish Airs on Church Chime.

St. Patrick's day will not go by unobserved in Manchester. Dances and parties in numerous places in town have been scheduled for this evening and the one who cannot find his enjoyment will be hard to please.

First of all comes the annual ball of the Hibernians in Kacey hall. This will start with an entertainment and dancing will follow. There will be old fashioned and modern sets with music by the Paramount orchestra.

At the West Side Rec a whist party and dance will be held. Whist will be played until 10 o'clock and dancing, modern and old fashioned will continue until 12.

And at the Harding school hall there will be a carnival and dance with green as the predominant color and blues the music motif. For those who desire something more serious there is Bishop Anderson's talk at the South Methodist church. Also, James B. Hutchinson will give a concert of Irish airs under the auspices of the church from 6.40 until 7.40 this evening. The numbers will include "Vale of Avoca," "Tara," "Bells of Shandon," "Wearin' of the Green" and the "River Shannon."

MISS MANCHESTER JUDGES BEAUTIES.

Miss Manchester, accompanied by Miss Hridgeport and Mr. America judged the beauties at Ansonia at the Merchants and Manufacturers' second annual Exposition under the auspices of Co. T, 129 Infantry, C. N. G.

The popularity of Miss Manchester and her associates Miss Hridgeport and Mr. America have attracted large crowds of admirers. Miss Manchester renders her own impersonation of the dance entitled Miss Liberty and was received with great applause.

Miss Manchester will be at the exposition throughout the week and on Saturday, the final night, will assist at the crowning of the future Miss Naugatuck Valley.

NO DANCING ALLOWED—The Blish Hardware Co. with the Colored Comedian Orchestra for Spring Opening night furnishes you the very latest jazz and diversified Charleston steps music. No one is permitted to dance, however.—Adv.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES AT THE GREEN

James Burd Passes Away at Memorial Hospital—Was 81 Years of Age.

James Burd, who has made his home for the last thirteen years with his sister, Mrs. Jane Robinson at the Green, died early this morning at the Memorial hospital. He had been confined to that institution since February 18, suffering with a complication of diseases incident to old age.

Mr. Burd, who was a familiar figure around the Green for years, was 81 years of age. He was born in Philadelphia but spent much of his life in the coal regions of Ohio. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted with the 29th Pennsylvania Infantry and fought all through the war. He was wounded in the shoulder toward the close of the conflict.

Mr. Burd is survived by two sons, Alva and James, and two daughters, Mrs. Rosa Toland and Mrs. Mary Smith. All live in Ohio. He also leaves eight grandchildren and a brother Charles.

Arrangements for the funeral have not as yet been completed.

POLICE COURT

Henry Williams, a truck driver for B. Lubin & Son, junk dealers of Hartford was in the Manchester police court this morning for failure to have on his truck a mirror and also a marker giving the weight and capacity of the truck. Yesterday Williams was in Manchester with a truck load of waste paper. On the way over from the Center a quantity of the paper fell from the truck and was scattered all over the street. Policemen saw the mess and found out who the truck belonged to. They traced the man to Lydall & Foulds mill, found Williams and ordered him to appear in court. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

U. S. ORDERS 35 PLANES OF CURTIS CONCERN.

Buffalo, March 17.—It was announced today that the first government order for airplanes to be placed with a Buffalo corporation since the end of the world war has been given to the Curtis Airplane and Motor Co.

Roy Keyes of the Curtis Company, said that the order calls for thirty-five navy pursuit planes and pontoons valued at over $600,000.
