

THREE MAY DIE, 5 OTHERS HURT IN ROAD CRASH

Sedan vs. Truck Results in Junking of Lighter Vehicle at Westport — Night Accident.

Norwalk, March 26.—Three deaths may result from the head-on crash of a sedan and truck that met near Hill's Corner, Westport, late last night.

On the danger list at Norwalk hospital today are: Miss Mildred Horner, of 127 Main St., Norwalk; E. R. Goodwin, Jr., whose home is in Worcester, Mass., and who is engaged in business in New Haven; and Frederick C. Shull, of 876 Edgewood Ave., New Haven.

Miss Horner and Shull have internal injuries.

Scalp Torn Off.

Goodwin's scalp was almost torn off, his right arm was fractured in four places, and he has internal injuries.

George Caddo, of 53 Housatonic Ave., Bridgeport, and Thomas H. Emmisley, of 94 E. Main St., Bridgeport, are in the hospital less seriously hurt.

Under treatment at their homes here or in Bridgeport are Mrs. Caddo, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Volk, of 35 East Ave., Norwalk, and Mrs. Mervin A. Taylor, of West Ave., Norwalk.

Unexplained.

How the accident occurred is a mystery, according to the state police, who today said they were inclined to believe Shull was responsible.

Shull was driving a Franklin sedan toward Norwalk with Mr. and Mrs. Volk, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Horner and Goodwin. Caddo was driving a truck owned by the Kenney Express Co., of Bridgeport, toward that city from New York. His wife was with him, as was Emmisley, his helper.

In the crash the sedan was wrecked almost to junk.

Hartford Man Killed

Williammatic, March 26.—Mannuel Rodriguez, 39, of 303 Broad street, Hartford, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital this morning suffering from injuries received when the machine in which he was riding from Hartford to Williammatic crashed into a pole in the town of Columbia. He died at the hospital. The driver of the machine, Samuel Camacho, also of Hartford, was injured. The car apparently skidded on the wet highway getting beyond control of the driver.

AMERICAN WINNER OF THE GRAND NATIONAL

Jack Horner, Owned by Detroit Man, First Over British Jumps; Yankee Horse Third.

Liverpool, March 26.—Jack Horner at 2 1/2 to 1 today won the Grand National, the world's greatest steeplechase event.

Successfully making all the sixteen jumps, including the famous "water jump," over a two and a half foot fence and driving a half foot of water, Jack Horner came home with Old Taybridge second and Bright's Boy third.

Jack Horner won for America, for he is owned by C. Schwartz of Detroit, who purchased him two weeks ago for $20,000.

Two American horses finished in the money, as Bright's Boy, which finished third, is owned by S. (Laddie) Sanford.

MONK DEAD, BROTHERS TOO ILL TO BURY HIM

38 R. I. Monastery Inmates Out of 41 Sick With Grip, Call in Outside Aid.

Cumberland, R. I., March 26.—Brother Marie Joseph, a hero who laid to rest by the monks of the Cistercian monastery of Our Lady of the Valley yesterday. But for the first time in the history of the monastery they were today to call in outsiders to carry out the funeral rites because 38 of the 41 members of the colony are ill.

An epidemic of grip swept through the little monastery recently, including among its victims Brother Joseph. Seriously ill himself, he shouldered much of the burden of caring for the others. He contracted pneumonia and died on Tuesday.

SOME DEMOCRATS QUIT THE DEBT FACT BLOC

Washington, March 26.—The Senate Democratic-indebtor alliance began organizing today for a fight against ratification of the debt fact pact. The coalition is somewhat weakened by Democratic defections.

LEIPZIG COMMUNISTS GAVE COPS CASTOR OIL

Leipzig, Germany, March 26.—Castor Oil and not a mysterious poison, diminished Leipzig's police force by 300 when President Von Hindenburg visited the city, recently, it became known today.

German communists, taking a page out of the Fascist book, are alleged to have laded the oil into the food served the police. It incapacitated 300 of them from duty through the executive's visit.

BISHOP OF ATLANTA HEADS CONFERENCE

land area over which Bishop William F. Anderson presides as resident bishop, the eighty-sixth session of the New England-South Conference, which meets here in the new South Methodist church, April 6-12th will be presided over in its deliberations by Bishop Ernest Gladstone Richardson of Atlanta Area, Georgia.

The exchange and interchange of bishops for the administration of annual conference sessions is even more marked than in former days, and is in direct conformity with the expressed will of the last General Conference held in Springfield, Mass.

The Bishops of General Superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal church among other duties of their extensive work are expected to travel over the denominational connection frequently. This gives each bishop the opportunity for first hand touch with the men of the various conferences and in the conference sessions are expected to make for higher efficiency of administration and largest and best usefulness of the Methodist pastors, besides tending to strengthen the unifying elements of a large Christian body of churches.

Bishop Richardson was elevated to the episcopacy at the General Conference in 1920 at Des Moines, Iowa. This was the first General Conference session after the great war, and conditions of the work made it seem imperative that a large number of leading pastors and officials should be elected to the episcopal office. There were seven bishops chosen at this session. From the time of his ordination to the ministry of the Methodist church in 1896, Bishop Richardson...

ARREST BEARERS OF BREAD TO STRIKERS

Clifton Police Again Attack Textile Picketeters and Seize Truck Men for Speeding.

Pasaden, N. J., March 26.—Striking textile workers and the Clifton police clashed again yesterday afternoon when more than 1500 strikers were met by twenty policemen at the Ackerman Avenue Bridge over the Passaic River. Five of the strikers were arrested, two were severely bruised on the head and face and several others suffered minor injuries.

The police, under Chief William Coughlan, were waiting at the bridge with their clubs ready when the strikers appeared, marching from two directions. The marchers crowded on to the bridge Dundee Mills nearby. The police evidently intending to picket the strikers to disperse. Some of the crowd began to boo and jeer, and the fracas started.

Besides the five strikers who were arrested, three New York truck drivers, who had delivered bread and rolls to the strikers from Baker's Local 100 of New York, were taken into custody on charges...

STUDENTS FLEE FROM BIG BLAZE IN CAMBRIDGE

Big Wooden Structure of Business College Makes Fuel for Exciting Blaze With Many Injuries.

Cambridge, Mass., March 26.—One hundred business college students fled to the street, four firemen were blown through a door by a hot air explosion and several others severely cut by flying glass in a four-alarm fire that practically destroyed the Central building here today, with a loss estimated at $250,000.

The fire was discovered in the basement of the building, a huge wooden structure in the heart of the business district in Central Square. At the time 100 students in the Fisher Business college were at their studies on the third and fourth floors.

No Time for Wraps.

When the firemen reached the scene the flames had burst through the first floor and were rapidly eating toward the roof. The boys and girls in the business college fled to the street, many of them losing part of their wraps in their haste. Occupants of offices on the second floor followed the students.

Hot air explosions added to the danger and a number of firemen were cut about the face and hands by flying glass.

Lieut. John McCarthy and Hoseman James Fitzgerald, Patrick Murphy and Henry Cuddy were caught in one of the explosions and hurried through a doorway to the street. They were aided to a drug store nearby, but after receiving first aid treatment returned to their duties.

Sign a Peril.

A huge electric sign on the roof of the building added to the danger both to firemen and spectators and the police roped off all approaches. The building was owned by William Heinessey, the candy manufacturer. It was still blazing after several hours' hard fight.

HYPNOTIC THIEF STILL AT LIBERTY

Man Who Stole $480 from Local Woman Not Yet Located by the Police.

Descriptions of the swindler who stole $480 from Mrs. Robert Runday of 93 Charter Oak street Wednesday evening have been sent all over New England by the local police in the hope that he may be known in police circles in some city and be picked up when recognized on the street. It is feared, however, he is far away by this time after his little clean up in Manchester.

Officials Surprised

Authorities are surprised how a stranger can come to this town, distribute a few handbills and get from 50 cents to $10 for telling fortunes. It has been done here before but the victims have never complained. Again the alleged clairvoyant never attempted to take as much as $500 from any of his victims. That might explain why the police were not notified.

Girls Easy Marks

To show how the girls are in Manchester, a letter was found in the office occupied by the swindler in the Blatter Block. The writer told the clairvoyant that she was enclosing $10 and a letter from her sweetheart so that he could put a spell on the letter that would compel the writer to continue loving her. Although they are concealing their names, the police know of other girls who parted with as high as $10 for their "fortunes."

Men Also Victims

It was not only the girls, the police find. The men were equally as foolish. A young man told his friends that he was to get an important position on April 23. When asked where he answered: "I don't know but the fortune teller on Bissell street told me and I believe him. I gave him $5 for my fortune."

Newspapermen working on the case yesterday found that a woman renting rooms at 122 Bissell street was approached Wednesday morning by a man answering the description given by the Blatters, who wanted to rent rooms as offices. He said he was a clairvoyant. The man wanted the whole house, the woman said, but was willing only to pay for the rent of two rooms so she refused to accept him. It is thought that the swindler planned to change his headquarters but that the arrival of Mrs. Runday with her money changed the plans.

Cartridges into Garbage; Garbage into Incinerator

So a Stamford Disposal Plant Engineer Is Suffering from Injuries as Explosion Result.

Stamford, March 26.—Some resident of the North End of Stamford threw two boxes of twelve-gauge shot cartridges into his garbage can yesterday. John Folias, engineer of one of the city's incinerating plants, threw garbage and cartridges into his incinerator today.

The cartridges exploded with a roar and the explosion drove glass into Folias' left forearm, injuring him severely.

An investigation developed the fact that there were forty-six cartridges in the two boxes and that each was loaded with 1-8 ounce of 1-2 chilled shot.

Firemen Carry Patients With Infections As Hospital Burns

BRIDGEPORT, March 26.—Twenty-nine patients, suffering from contagious diseases, were rescued from the Municipal Isolation hospital, North End, this morning, when fire swept through the left wing of the institution, destroying the kitchen and two wards.

Twenty-five of the patients were removed from the building by firemen. Four girls suffering from tuberculosis were carried from the flames by Oscar Smith, chief engineer of the hospital.

Some of the patients were removed temporarily to the Hillside Hall at the Municipal farm, and others were taken to their homes.

R. I. HOUSE FAVORS RUM REFERENDUM

Adopts Resolution Asking Congress for Change in Law if People Vote for It.

Providence, March 26.—A resolution requesting that the Senators and Representatives of Rhode Island in Congress support legislation to amend the National Prohibition Act and to submit the question to a vote of the people, was passed by the Rhode Island House of Representatives, sponsored by the House by its Judiciary Committee, and will be taken up Tuesday.

After redrafting its report several times in a futile attempt to submit its recommendations unanimously, the committee obtained consent of the House that three members be granted until tomorrow to file a minority report opposing legislation.

Various Offenses.

The indictment presented by the majority charged unwarranted disparagement of attorneys, threats and coercion of state officials, threatening a jury in court, tyrannous attacks on the liberty of the press, profanity and other misbehavior, appointment of C. B. Thomas as "sole referee in bankruptcy," changes in court rules, connivance in a "bankruptcy ring," misuse of Bankruptcy funds, favoritism and partially, unlawful appointment of receivers, and confessed neglect of duties.

Senate as Courts.

If a majority of the House upholds these charges, the Senate will sit as a court to decide whether Judge English shall be removed from office. A two-thirds decision will be required in the Senate for conviction.

NEW MOVE MADE IN TACNA-ARICA RUMPUIS

Washington, March 26.—A drive to obtain a national referendum on the question of modifying the American prohibition law was being organized today among Congressmen.

The referendum, it was said, will be held in November, 1928, in connection with the congressional and presidential elections. If the referendum is approved, the law will be asked to cooperate in getting the referendum authorized by Congress.

Both wets and drys meanwhile were preparing lists of witnesses to be summoned to testify about prohibition at the "wet" hearings which start April 17 before the Senate Judiciary committee.

The wets will hold the stage first, having been granted the week of April 5 to 10 to present testimony in support of their demand for legislation legalizing "beer and wines" up to the point where the liquors are "intoxicating, in fact." Such legislation, the wets contend, would not require any change in the Eighteenth Amendment.

The drys will be heard during the week of April 12 to 17 to present testimony refuting the wets' arguments and in defense of the existing dry law. Although much preparation is being made by both sides

WASHINGTON'S KIN INVOLVED IN FAMILY ROW

Fortune of Two Millions Is Object of Strife in Split of the Highly Aristocratic Tudor House Peters.

Washington, March 26.—A marital split in one of the most ancient and exclusive families in capital society, garnished with a court contest over the $2,300,000 that remains of a colonial fortune, was revealed here today and caused a sensation in social circles.

The family involved is that of Armistead Peter, Jr., which for six generations has occupied the historic Tudor place in Georgetown. The Peters are kin of Martha Washington.

Comes Out in Suit

News of the marital and financial difficulties in the Peter family leaked out when attorneys for Mrs. Anna Peter, now living in Dobs Ferry, N. Y., filed suit in District Supreme Court against the American Security and Trust Co., to account for the $2,300,000 in jewels, cash and securities long held in the family vault in the institution. The vault is understood to have been held jointly in the name of Mr. and Mrs. Peter. They have lived apart for two years.

Mrs. Peter's attorneys applied for a writ which was granted by the supreme court and over the protests of the bank officers, Attorney J. Prescott Galley and U. S. Marshall Callahan inspected the vault.

Fortune Gone

Instead of the $2,300,000 in securities, cash and jewels it supposedly contained, only some of the jewels remained. These jewels were valued at approximately $300,000 leaving $2,000,000 in cash and negotiable securities to be legally fought over by Mrs. Peter and her husband, who still occupies Tudor place. He is said to be ill.

Attorneys for Peter declined to discuss the litigation today and smilingly declined to answer questions as to what had become of the $2,000,000.

The Tudor Place

Tudor place in Georgetown, the historic seat of the Peter family was built by Major L'Enfant who laid out the plan of the city of Washington. He occupied it as General the Marquis de Lafayette when he was a guest of the Peter ancestors following the revolution. At that time the Peter family had a fleet of sailing vessels in the West Indian trade, and his family fortune had its roots in that colonial enterprise.

MANY ACCUSATIONS FOR JUDGE ENGLISH

Judiciary Committee Brings Long String of Charges Against Federal Jurist.

Washington, March 26.—Five articles of impeachment against Federal Judge George W. English of Illinois, for "high misdemeanors in office" were laid before the House by its Judiciary Committee, and will be taken up Tuesday.

After redrafting its report several times in a futile attempt to submit its recommendations unanimously, the committee obtained consent of the House that three members be granted until tomorrow to file a minority report opposing legislation.

EVIDENCE IN TAYLOR MURDER CASE VANISHES

Los Angeles, March 26.—Practically all the evidence in the William Desmond Taylor murder mystery has disappeared from the office of District Attorney Asa Keyes, it was learned today.

Included in the missing documents is the dramatic statement of Mary Miles Minter, former motion picture star, telling of her undying love for the slain director.

So many original statements, documents and pieces of evidence in the Taylor investigation are mysteriously missing, it was admitted at the district attorney's office, that any plans for re-opening the case will probably have to be dropped.

Indictments, it was said, might be returned, but the chances for conviction were said to be extremely slight in view of the missing papers.

Disclosure that the documents had been removed was made today after, it was believed, District Attorney Keyes, following a new investigation in the East, had ordered Deputy District Attorney Pitts to prepare to present the case to the county grand jury.

SHP WITH 258 ABOARD DISABLED IN FAR SEA

London, March 26.—The Union Castle liner Garth Castle, 7,000 tons, bound from London to Cape Town, struck a rock last night off Ascension Island and was badly damaged. The ship was wireless and she is unable to proceed and that there are no facilities for repair within 2,000 miles.

The Garth Castle has 233 passengers on board and a crew of 130. It is understood that there is no danger, but no decision has yet been made as to what disposition will be made to care for the passengers. It is probable that another vessel will have to be dispatched to take them off and tow the Garth Castle into port.

Ascension Island is approximately 2,000 miles off the coast of South Africa and not in the path of frequent steamships.

FALLS THREE IN BURNING
HIMSELF; ROPE A SUCCESS

Vernon, N. Y., March 24.—Justin Jacobs, farmer, committed suicide today by hanging himself from the hinges of a door. The man had made three attempts to commit himself by setting his home on fire.

TO RESUME MAKING ANTI-KNOCK IN APRIL

Washington, March 26.—Under new regulations issued today by the United States Public Health Service, manufacturers of tetraethyl lead gasoline will resume production next month.

Production was stopped last year while the Health Service made an investigation of the chemical, which had caused numerous deaths.

The number of tetraethyl plants will be reduced from about 1,000 to between 20 and 30, distributed all over the country.

150 QUACK DOCTORS FOUND IN NEW YORK

New York, March 26.—One hundred and fifty bogus doctors of this city today face prosecution, following an investigation begun by Chief Magistrate William McAdoo into reports of Health Department officials that scores of quacks, taking advantage of the prevalence of influenza and pneumonia here, were illegally practicing medicine.

The evidence was uncovered when three women detectives, simulating illness, submitted to examination by some fifty quacks.

YUCATAN DIVORCE MILL LOSES GRIST

Americans in Exodus as Mexico Rules Separation Law Unconstitutional.

Mexico City, March 26.—There was a general exodus of unhappily married persons from Yucatan today, as the result of the Mexican Supreme Court decision that Yucatan divorce laws are unconstitutional. Many Americans who had been in Yucatan seeking divorces have moved into Morelos and Sonora where the divorce laws are constitutional.

Divorces already granted in Yucatan may be declared illegal if the decree are questioned in court, according to the best legal opinion in Mexico City. It was announced that there would be no action to declare these divorces void, unless complaint is made in specific cases.

The decision of the supreme court in declaring the law unconstitutional has brought charges and recriminations, the Yucatan adherents claiming that the decision was handed down at the behest of a "divorce" operating in Morelos and Sonora.

SEEKS A NEW WRIT IN CHAPMAN CASE

New York, March 26.—Scouts are scouring Connecticut and Massachusetts today for new witnesses whose testimony, according to Frederick J. Groehl, chief counsel for Gerald Chapman, may save the bandit from hanging a week from next Monday.

So certain is Groehl, according to his statement, that this new evidence, if obtainable, will warrant a new trial, that he will seek a writ of habeas corpus today in the United States courts.

Two new witnesses have been located, Charles W. Gregory, a New York machanic, who disappeared after promising to testify for Chapman, wired Groehl that he is on his way here from northern New York state. The other is a young man who signed himself "Fair Play" on a post card, offering to testify if Chapman was convicted. It is said that he saw the slayer of James Skelly, the New Britain politician, and knows he was not Chapman.

Look for Woman

For corroboration of "Fair Play's" story, Groehl is seeking a woman who is said to have accompanied the young man from New Britain to New York.

A handsome young woman, whose identity could not be learned, was present yesterday at a conference of Chapman's attorneys here. She learned that one wit-ness sought in in Lynn, Mass., and other in New Britain, and the others near Hartford.

Search in Lynn

Lynn, Mass., March 26.—Search of this city was being made by detectives today for a witness, who attorneys for the defense assert, will prove of immense value in the eleventh hour attempt to save Gerald Chapman from the gallows at Wethersfield prison, Connecticut, on April 6.

Police of this city were not called into the search as detectives were unwilling to give out the name of the man they sought or what they expected him to prove.

It is known, however, that the Lynn man's testimony is needed for an entirely new phase of the case, and not to corroborate the alibi of Chapman.

GROEHL AGAIN TURNS TO FEDERAL COURT IN FRESH HABEAS CORPUS MOVE.

HARTFORD HOPES TO ESCAPE FLOOD

Hartford, March 26.—The Connecticut River presumably will be able to carry away northern New England's snow blanket in orderly fashion this spring, and for the first time in years this district may escape a flood.

Such is the opinion of river men here today.

Less Than Foot Rise

The Connecticut had risen less than a foot from midnight to noon and observers believed that weather conditions are such that no great amount of water will be released into the river at a single time.

Alternating frosts and thaws are expected to keep the attention without doing damage along the river.

DEATH OF DAVID HERRICK

David Herrick, aged 55, formerly of Manchester, died yesterday in Paterson, N. J. He is survived by two sisters, the Misses Jane and Minnie Herrick, both of Paterson.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 from the Deane Undertaking rooms of Hill Street, Paterson.

WILL FREE WIFE IF WHITTEMORE "COMES CLEAN"

Banton Says He Will Let "Tiger Girl" Go if Bandit Chief Tells Everything About Gem Fences.

New York, March 26.—The fate of Margaret Whittemore, the "Tiger Girl," hangs today on the word of her bandit leader husband, Richard Reese Whittemore who has promised the authorities he will unseal his lips for love of her.

She is now in jail, one of the nine members of the Whittemore robbery and murder gang under arrest.

His wife's freedom is the price the "Candy Kid" puts upon revelations that she would "startle New York." His story, it is expected to lay bare the whole system of banditry by which the Night Club gang were able to steal nearly $1,000,000 in two years without a single hold-up going awry.

Will Free Wife

District Attorney Josh H. Banton said this morning he would free pretty young Mrs. Whittemore if her husband "comes clean" with his story.

The authorities are convinced that if Whittemore talks they will be able to arrest the "higher-ups" who furnished the band with information about the "easy jobs" and then purchased the loot, often making part payments in advance.

Several mysterious murders and disappearances of witnesses may, also be cleared up.

Six murders already are laid to the Whittemore gang by the authorities.

Banton already has the confessions of Anthony Paladino and Leon Kramer, members of the gang. Paladino disclosed, according to the authorities, how the Whittemore gang worked with the smoothness of a well-coached football team.

Hunt Two Fences

Every robber was rehearsed in advance, and each man was coached to the part he was to play.

Paladino named two fences, who "sight the proceeds of most of the robberies. These men are being hunted and if captured, will face 10 years in prison terms.

As far as the bandits themselves are concerned, Banton said he has plenty of evidence to convict them all. Whittemore will be turned over to Maryland officials soon, it is believed, to face trial for killing an aged prison guard. He has been identified as one of the bandits who took part in the killing of two bank guards in a hold-up at Buffalo, N. Y.

Bandits Arraigned

Whittemore and three members of the gang, were arraigned today but the hearing was postponed until next Thursday by request of Assistant District Attorney William Moloney.

Mrs. Whittemore's hearing was adjourned until next Thursday at the request of her attorney.

It was hinted at the district attorney's offices that when the bandits are arraigned again, they will be indicted as second offenders. Convictions in this instance would carry a maximum of 10 years in prison.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 from the Deane Undertaking rooms of Hill Street, Paterson.

SHRIMP WITH 258 ABOARD DISABLED IN FAR SEA

London, March 26.—The Union Castle liner Garth Castle, 7,000 tons, bound from London to Cape Town, struck a rock last night off Ascension Island and was badly damaged. The ship was wireless and she is unable to proceed and that there are no facilities for repair within 2,000 miles.

The Garth Castle has 233 passengers on board and a crew of 130. It is understood that there is no danger, but no decision has yet been made as to what disposition will be made to care for the passengers. It is probable that another vessel will have to be dispatched to take them off and tow the Garth Castle into port.

Ascension Island is approximately 2,000 miles off the coast of South Africa and not in the path of frequent steamships.

WILLIAMS EXPECTED TO ADMIT HIS GUILT

San Diego, Cal., March 25.—Charged with intoxication and conduct unbecoming an officer, Colonel Alexander Williams, Fourth Regiment, U. S. M. C., probably will plead guilty before a general court-martial to meet here to consider the accusations made by his superior, Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commander of the Marine base here, according to the colonel's friends.

BRITAIN 'NOT SQUEALING' ON DEBT TO AMERICA

London, March 26.—"Great Britain is not squealing and does not intend to repudiate its debt settlement with the United States." This statement was issued today from a semi-official source on behalf of Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, who feels that his recent speech in the House of Commons, complaining against the American policy of debt collection, has been misunderstood in the United States.

Churchill's semi-official spokesmen declared that the chancellor desired merely to bring the state of European economies to the attention of the American people. Government officials were quick to deny reports that Churchill is endeavoring to alter the American debt settlement by appealing to the American public, over the head of the government.

Mrs. George H. Briggs of 56 Valley street entertained with a birthday party for her little son Austin who was nine years old yesterday. About a dozen little ones of his age were present. They played lively games and gathered around an attractively decorated dining table in pink and yellow, and laden with good things. Austin received a number of choice gifts.

HARTFORD MAN KILLED BY RAILROAD TRAIN

B. C. Hicks, Real Estate Dealer, Dies on the Rails at New Britain. Berlin, March 26.—B. C. Hicks, 50, a real estate dealer at 32 Benton street, Hartford, was instantly killed by a south-bound freight train here today. Hicks left a passenger train here at an early hour and entered the station. He told the night operator he fell asleep on the train and was carried past his station. Though invited by the operator to wait for another train, he left the station. Some time later his body was found beside the tracks.

RECORD LOW FRANC FORECASTS NEW

Falls Below 29 for First Time on Fear of Failure of Peret's Turnover Tax Project.

Paris, March 26.—Reflecting pessimism over the probability of the chamber passing Finance Minister Peret's financial project, the franc fell to a new low record today.

The franc closed at 29.10 to the dollar, which is the first time in history that it has fallen below 29.

The bourse was quick to react to reports from the Finance Commission of the Chamber where M. Peret appeared today to explain his program.

The reaction of the commission to the Finance Minister's statement was unfavorable and there were immediate indications that the proposed turnover tax might cause an early defeat of the project, leading either to the resignation of Peret or the entire Briand cabinet.

MRS. WILLIAM FORBES DIES THIS AFTERNOON

Just before the Herald went to press news was received of the death of Mrs. Mary Forbes, widow of the late William Forbes, who has been at the Manchester hospital for several weeks past. It will be remembered that Mr. Forbes and his wife entered the institution on the same day and his death occurred February 2.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed but it is probable the service will be held Monday morning at St. Bridget's church.

MAINE FOLK GLOAT OVER JAIL SCANDAL

Hundreds Jam House of Representatives at Hearing of Charges Against Sheriff.

Augusta, Me., March 26.—Hundreds packed the House of Representatives today eager for further revelations of alleged wild revels on Christmas day, 1924; that Sheriff Cummings was a pal of bootleggers; that "wild women" had the run of the jail; that there was a "millionaire's card club" in the jail, with play for high stakes; that visitors to the jail frequently found the inmates they came to see intoxicated.

Charges to date are that everybody in the county jail was drunk on Christmas day, 1924; that Sheriff Cummings was a pal of bootleggers; that "wild women" had the run of the jail; that there was a "millionaire's card club" in the jail, with play for high stakes; that visitors to the jail frequently found the inmates they came to see intoxicated.

for the hearings, neither faction anticipates any action by the present Congress toward modifying the law. The hearings rather will be used by both wets and dries to get their views before the people and to arouse the country on the issue, which will undoubtedly be injected into the 1928 campaigns.

The "wet" case will be directed by Capt. W. H. Stayton, of Baltimore, and Julian Codman, of Boston. Codman, a prominent attorney, will have charge of the examination of wet witnesses. On the "dry" side, Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon League, will direct the presentation of evidence supporting the dry law.

HARVARD ATHLETE FINED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

PUBLIC KEEPS OUT OF THE SLUMPING MARKET

Decline in Stock Hits New Points, With Trading All in Professional Hands.

New York, March 26.—The continued movement to lower prices today was led by the western utility stocks and a few of the stocks of manufacturing companies which have not previously figured in the sensational decline. Selling of the utility stocks was largely attributed to bearish tactics, since offerings were concentrated on only a few of the outstanding stocks, including Columbia Gas & Electric, Standard Gas & Electric, American Waterworks, North American and Montana Power. Columbia lost about five points and the others from two to three points.

The market was comparatively quiet and dull today, with professional traders responsible for the bulk of the activities of industrial stocks. Public buying was negligible, and bears appeared to be in no special hurry to cover their outstanding short commitments. General Motors and Hudson were at the head of a moderate rally in the motor stocks in the fourth hour; United States Steel received strong support and sold above 123, while Baldwin succeeded in advancing through par.

Seats-Roebuck and a few of the mercantile stocks regained from two to five points of their recent losses. Elsewhere the market was featureless, with short covering the only incentive for purchasing of speculative stocks.

ABOUT TOWN

The Woman's Home League of the Salvation Army will conduct a food and apron sale in the store formerly occupied by Bamforth Brothers in the State theater building tomorrow afternoon at 2.30.

Mrs. Arthur E. Loomis of Keeney street underwent an operation for appendicitis today at the Manchester Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Edgar Scranton of Strant street is confined to her home with an attack of grip.

The Home Missionary society of the North Methodist church met this afternoon with Mrs. F. B. Clarke instead of Mrs. Axel Johnson of Cambridge street. The latter's little daughter is ill with chicken pox.

Skunks have been quite plentiful in the center of the town recently. George W. Strant shot one this morning near his residence on Main street.

Doris, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tomm of Strant street is ill and under the care of a physician.

Herbert Blevins of 16 Eldridge street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blevins, was operated upon yesterday at the Springfield Mass. hospital. Herbert is a pupil at the Nathan Hale school here and is popular.

Chief Clerk Charles E. McGregor, R. M. S., District No. 5, of New Haven, will make his annual visit at the South Manchester Post Office Monday, to give the local clerks their annual case examination on the mailing plan of this state.

A large number of local ex-service men who went across with Company G in the World War, will tune their radios in on Station WTIC tonight. Waterbury Night is scheduled to be broadcast from Travelers and included in the program will be several songs by Louis Ayotte, of Waterbury. Ayotte was a soldier in Company G. He went across on the famous Lenape and composed the now noted song in military circles, "The Lenape."

Ayotte was exceedingly popular among the members of his company.

SPEND EVENING AT REC. Members of the Center church enjoyed an evening at the school street Rec last night. They played games and used all the recreation facilities in the building until a late hour.

Swimming for girls was in charge of Miss Mary Wilcox and Mrs. H. Bidwell. Walter Olson took care of the boys in the junior gym and Miss Marjorie C. Geary led the girls in games at the gym.

The men shot pool, bowled and played volley ball.

HOWELL CHENEY TALKS ON 'USE OF CAPITAL'

"The Use of Capital in the Silk Industry" was the topic on which Howell Cheney, a member of the firm of Cheney Brothers, addressed the combined Sophomore economic classes this afternoon at one o'clock. The classes, which are being taught by Miss Marguerite Oates and Arthur N. Potter, night school principal, totaled 125 students. Mr. Cheney's talk was most inspiring.

His talk was timely inasmuch as the classes are at present studying accumulation and value of capital and the need of capital in conducting business. Mr. Cheney told of the importance of having machinery and mills all of which mean capital. Mr. Cheney's talk which was from an educational standpoint, was eagerly followed by the students. It furnished them with many new ideas on the inside facts pertaining to capital and its use.

LUTHER LEAGUE TO MEET. Fathers are invited to the meeting of the Luther League of the Swedish church at 8 o'clock this evening. They will be welcomed by Leonard Johnson and the response on behalf of the parents will be given by Charles F. Johnson.

The program will include readings by Miss Alva Anderson and Miss Beatrice Johnson. A social time will follow the program.

Herbert Blevins of 16 Eldridge street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blevins, was operated upon yesterday at the Springfield Mass. hospital. Herbert is a pupil at the Nathan Hale school here and is popular.

THREE SPONSORSHIPS FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF

Three local persons yesterday sent $100 contributions to the Near East Relief fund being raised here under the chairmanship of W. W. Robertson. These are "sponsorships" and the donors will be assigned special Near East children assigned to their care.

There is considerable interest in town over the sponsorship plan, which gives a personal contact with the children in the American orphanages in the Near East. Photographs of the children are gladly shown to the givers of contributions of this size.

In addition to the $100 gifts, a number of other contributions have also been received by Harold C. Alvord, treasurer, ranging from $60 down with a number of $10 and less. The sum of $60, while it does not include the sum necessary for the vocational training of an orphan, furnishes however, food and shelter to a child for one year, and is known as an orphan "adoption."

Tonight at the State and Circle theatres Willard B. Rogers will show slides of the orphans and speak briefly on the importance of the work of the Near East Relief. Arrangements for this have been made through the courtesy of the managements. No funds will be solicited.

H. F. Kazmier, state director of the Near East Relief, is to address the Cosmopolitan Club this afternoon. Mrs. H. A. Nettleton is to be in charge of an exhibit of Oriental embroideries made by the older orphan girls and by refugee women.

The Manchester schools, under the direction of A. F. Hovos, superintendent, are planning to add their quota to the fund for the boys and girls in the Near East. This morning the pupils of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades heard the work of the Near East Relief described, were shown pictures of some of the orphans and a tin cup, made out of an old condensed milk can, such as the children use for drinking. It was explained that every tin can and administration of the orphanages in the Near East is of the simplest. In many of the more crowded centers, such as at Alexandropol, in Armenia, where there are now 10,000 children in an orphanage, beds for the smaller children are bunks of chicken wire built one above another on the walls. In the Zepelon, in Athens, where several thousand orphan boys are housed, beds are made up on the floor. Food is very simple too, though carefully balanced as to calories. A typical supper for the children is grits, apricots and cocoa. Some of the orphanages have meat stew once a week, but the children know nothing of candy or other luxuries of diet. All the condensed milk cans that come from America are carefully saved, and the boys who learn tin-smithing make them into serviceable drinking cups.

In addition to members of the local Near East Relief committee a number of other women and girls have been assisting in clerical preparations for the effort here. Among those on a special committee have been Mrs. A. N. Potter, Mrs. Harry Melkeljohn, Mrs. E. C. Eddy, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. John Kietzle, Mrs. Newman, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. William Findlay, Mrs. G. S. Rohlin, Mrs. M. A. Hadigan, Mrs. R. M. Chapman, Mrs. G. W. Beadle, all from the Center Congregational church and Mrs. John A. Hood, Mrs. Thomas F. Moriarty and Mrs. C. L. Mahoney, members of the local committee.

Girl scouts and High school pupils have also been assisting in sending out letters. Among these are Emily Smith, Naomi Foster, Eleanor Hobby, Margaret Elliott, Eunice Brown, Doris Campbell, Ruth Cigiste, Fern Martin, Catherine Patten, Elizabeth Washkewich, Elizabeth Dziadus, Leokadia Gryk, Dorothy Holland, Lillian Murdock, Veronica McGann, Catherine Fraber, Margaret Mulholland, Clara Edwards, Mary Haggerty, Edna Howard.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD. — These envious ones called him "the queerest fish in a strange sea." And Josef von Sternberg, who was plain Joe Sternberg before film fakes were cast upon him, rather enjoyed the epithet.

To kindle the flame that covetous ones began, Joe changed his name to the more euphonious one, garnered himself in Bohemian attire, let his hair grow into waving locks and walked about the film circles with the aid of a large and knotted staff. He gave them plenty to talk about. And in so doing provided the passages parade with a free and amusing show.

Sternberg is the celluloid entity who became convulsed with the idea that thought could be depicted on the screen. In "The Salvation Hunters" he proved that it was possible although the picture failed commercially due to a public that relishes "The Sins of Susie" and the like.

And just when oblivion yawned for Sternberg, Charlie Chaplin assigned him to direct Edna Purviance in what will probably be one of the most interesting pictures of the year.

All is well in Hollywood. I heard a sermon over the radio the other Sunday at Roscoe Arbuckle's home in Beverly Hills.

Why Shakespeare quit writing: Edmund Lowe, movie vamp of the male species, says: "The most difficult task in an actor's life is keeping physically fit between pictures. Without the necessity of having to rise at seven in the morning to go to the studio, the temptation to remain abed until mid-day is strong. But a few days of this sort of thing and the actor would find it difficult to return to the regular workday routine."

Jimmy Starr, a scrivener, wrote his masterpiece, named it "Latin Love" and sold it to a movie company. When released it bore the title stamp of "Shackled Youth."

"My, O my," wailed Jimmy, when he saw the title change. "Youth on Crutches" would have been even better."

Answer to J. S. M.—No, Rex Ingram's latest picture, "Mars Nostrum," is not a race horse story.

There is many a man in Hollywood who would feel greatly complimented if Rupert Hughes said of him what he charged against George Washington. Hughes merely declared that "the Father of our country" was "a distiller of good whiskey, fluent with cursing and often danced through the night."

Banner Productions are making a film entitled "The Man With the Brooding Eyes." We suggest its sequel, "The Man With the Liver Complaint," also be made.

Motion picture producers are glad that Moses only wrote ten commandments. Because of the lack in commandments film men have been able to reap fortunes from Moses' oversight.

"The Last Commandment," "The Eleventh Commandment" and "The Unknown Commandment" have all been created for the screen. Now comes Robert T. Kane with another one. He calls it "The New Commandment." Unless Blanche Sweet, who plays the leading role, is the "New Commandment," I failed to locate it.

In "Just Suppose," Richard Barthelmess enacts the role of a prince. One of the minor players in the cast, Prince Rokenedine, is of authentic nobility. Another essence to favor our make-believe kingdoms.

TROOP NO. 2 Troop 2 fell in at 7:30 with the salute to the flag. After the patrol appearances were recorded a short drill was held. During the study period various subjects were taken up. Scout Brannick passed the pace test. At the troop meeting the troop work was discussed. The games played were Hand Polo, Touch, Rooster Fight and Mount Tag. The troop was then dismissed.

There will be a hike Saturday for the purpose of test passing. It will start at 2 p. m. in front of St. James' church.

SIKORSKY CONCERN MAY LOCATE AT SPRINGFIELD Springfield, March 26.—If Springfield will provide a suitable site, it has an excellent chance of having located here the mammoth plant of the Sikorsky Manufacturing Corporation of Long Island, one of the largest makers of airplanes in the country, capitalized for $1,000,000 and having orders for $500,000 worth of machines.

Count Igor Sikorsky, distinguished aeronautical expert, who established the company in 1923 and who is its president spent yesterday in conference with Chamber of Commerce officials and prominent citizens here.

SAY DRIVER WHO CRASHED WITH BUS WAS DRUNK Springfield, March 26.—Testimony that Harold J. Fenwick, driver of the truck that crashed head on into an interstate bus filled with passengers in Longmeadow on the night of March 14, seriously injuring a dozen of the passengers and causing the destruction of the bus by fire, was under the influence of liquor was given by five witnesses when Fenwick was placed on trial on charges of operating in a dangerous manner, going away after an accident without making himself known and operating while under the influence of liquor, the latter charge being made yesterday. The case was not finished.

MAGNUS SKOG. DRINKS GIN, GRABS AUTO WHEEL, DIES IN CRASH.

Magnus Skog of 139 Cooper Hill street died this morning at the Memorial hospital following a brief illness with pneumonia. He had been employed by Cheney Brothers for the past 25 years and was a loom fixer in the Velvet mill. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon from his late home at 3 o'clock. The Rev. P. J. O. Cornell will officiate and burial will be in the East cemetery.

He is survived by his wife and four children: Henry, Hildur, Clifford and Astrid. One brother and seven sisters also survive him. They are Alfred Skog, Mrs. Hjalmar Salquist of Superior, Wis., Mrs. Emma Skogland of Minneapolis, Mrs. Charles Jackson of East Hartford, Mrs. Herman Nyquist of Sweden, Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. Thomas Kerr and Mrs. Axel Jyllenhammer of this town.

Mr. Skog was a member of the Swedish Lutheran church and Linne Lodge, K. of P.

Miss Mae Thayer, teacher of Sophomore English at the South Manchester High school is ill with the grip. Mrs. L. P. Merriman, of West Hartford is filling the vacancy.

ILLNESS KEEPS WALES FROM PVG STEEPLCHASE

London, March 26.—The Prince of Wales has developed a cold in his left ear, it was reported today. Physicians have advised him to remain in York House for a few days until the affection passes.

The Prince's malady was not considered serious but it kept him from attending the Grand National at Aintree, the big steeplechase event of the year, and may interfere with his plans for leaving for Biarritz next week.

Nicest Laxative,
"Cascarets" 10c

Don't stay head-achy, dizzy, sick. Nothing else relieves that bilious, constipated feeling so nicely as candy-like "Cascarets." Take one or two of these pleasant laxative tablets any time, to gently stimulate your liver and start your bowels. Then you will feel fine, your head becomes clear, stomach sweet, tongue pink, skin rosy.

"Cascarets" gently cleanse, sweeten and refresh the entire system. They never grip, overact or sicken. Directions for men, women and children on each box, any drugstore.—Adv.

TEACHER OF H. S. RESIGNS TODAY

Miss Ruth H. Davis Quits Job at Local Institution to Take Care of Her Sister.

After five years of faithful service during which she has made numerous friends and left a splendid record, Miss Ruth H. Davis, teacher of biology and general science at the South Manchester High School, resigned her position today. Owing to the illness of her sister in Somerville, Mass., Miss Davis deemed it best to discontinue her duties as a teacher to take care of her sister.

Miss Davis's sister recently was badly injured when she fell and broke her hip. She was taken to the hospital where her condition was regarded as serious for some time. Later, as she improved, she was removed to her home and is now confined to her home.

Her Successor
Miss Davis will be succeeded by Phillip S. Emery of Bates College, who has been teaching biology and general science at the Central Village High School in Plainfield. Mr. Emery is not only well qualified as a teacher, but is an athlete of no small ability. He has coached the basketball, baseball and football teams at Plainfield. He is expected to prove a valuable addition to the high school faculty.

With the departure of Miss Davis, the High School faculty has suffered a loss. During her term of service here she has been most successful. She had built an increased appreciation for nature studies among her pupils.

Numbered among her collection of animals in her laboratory, may be found the following: a quince, two Japanese dancing mice, gray squirrels, three flying squirrels, two aquariums containing gold fish, frogs, tadpoles, lizards, and a spotted salamander.

CENTER CHOIR TO SING STAINER'S CRUCIFIXION

Vesper Services on Sunday to Be Observed by Beautiful Singing.

Stainer's Crucifixion will be sung by an augmented choir at the Vesper service at Center church Sunday afternoon. It has been the custom at this church for several years on Palm Sunday to present this beautiful cantata, the words being written by Rev. J. S. Simpson and the music by Sir John Stainer.

Maurice Wallen, tenor soloist of the Asylum Hill Congregational church of Hartford, and considered one of the leading tenors in the city and Jarle Johnson, bass of Center church quartet, will sing the solo parts in the cantata which is given under the direction of Miss C. Louise Dickerman, organist.

The singers for this final vesper service will be the following:

- Sopranos
- Mrs. Viola Dunham
- Miss Hazel Trotter
- Mrs. Harold Symington
- Miss Lella Brewer
- Altos
- Miss Emma Trebbe
- Mrs. Paul Agard
- Miss Lillian Burr
- Mrs. Bessie Turner
- Tenors
- Maurice Wallen
- James Moore
- Ralph Brown
- Rudolph Swanson

A ROUND TRIP TICKET!

A ROUND TRIP TICKET!
That's what they call it when a player crashes out a home run on the baseball diamond. The circuit clout, the four-bagger—it's the big thing in every ball game.

Here's another kind of A Round Trip Ticket.
It's in the form of a jaunt to the opening game of the big league season; a chance to see the stars in action—to shake the hand of your favorite—and present him a silver cup right at home plate before a record-breaking crowd.

Moreover, this Round Trip Ticket is ABSOLUTELY FREE! All you have to do is pick your favorite American or National League player, write a 200-word story telling the reasons for your selection and bring or mail it to the Baseball Contest Editor, The Herald. There'll be two winners, one for each league.

Every boy 18 years of age and under is eligible to compete.
NEA Service, Inc., of Cleveland, O., and The Herald are making possible this Round Trip Ticket and all the features that go with it.

Maybe you'll be the boy to slam out the winning home run like the lad in the accompanying layout. Maybe you'll be the one to emulate the big league star with the mighty wallop—crash one over the fence—and thereby win A Round Trip Ticket to the opening day game in one of the major league cities.

Anyway, it's worth trying. You'll never get more out of a "home" than you'll obtain by "busting" one in this great pre-season game.
Better hurry! Contest closes at midnight, Wednesday, March 31.

JAPANESE TARIFF WILL NOT HURT
TRADE WITH U. S.

Rates Provide for Higher Import Duties on Number of Commodities.

Washington—Except in minor cases the new Japanese tariff, providing for higher rates on a number of import commodities, will not greatly affect the trade from the United States, according to F. R. Eldridge, chief of the Far Eastern Division of the Department of Commerce.

Importers in Japan agree that a definite settlement of the tariff question, which is expected to come into effect by April 1, will bring about a considerable improvement in general trade conditions, removing the uncertainty which has existed for several months.

"The outstanding development in Japan recently was the introduction of the new customs tariff bill and the marked advance in Japanese exchange," Eldridge said.

"For a time it seemed that the inability of political groups to agree on the government's tax law might result in the dissolution of the Diet, thereby postponing consideration of the tariff bill.

Compromise Effected
"The two leading parties, however, have effected a compromise and consequently the tariff bill probably will pass at this session."

Sales of imported goods in Japan have been fairly heavy in the early months of 1926, especially in products on which deliveries could be made before the anticipated effective date of the new tariff. Well stocked lines, officials said, may suffer somewhat from the sharp rise in exchange.

"The advance in exchange is causing considerable anxiety in Japan since it has been caused largely by speculation in foreign countries on yen exchange and the present quotations are considered higher than economic conditions warrant," Eldridge said.

"Japanese economists fear that the present high level will result detrimentally to exports and export industries, and unduly stimulate imports, thereby contributing to the adverse balance of trade. There has been a temporary reaction to this advance in certain Japanese industrial stocks, although up to the present the general optimism in regard to 1926 has stimulated the bond stock market and strengthened the general level of prices."

Agitation in India
Officials said that the agitation in India to abolish the existing commercial treaty with Japan, in order to protect the domestic cotton industry from the competition of Japanese cotton goods is causing considerable apprehension among Japanese mill owners.

Since the chief contention of the Indian mills is that they are unable to compete with Japan's lower labor, the putting into effect of the Japanese factory laws is now under consideration.

Eldridge said these laws were passed several years ago but have not been applied fully to the cotton industry since it was felt that the sudden sharp restriction of hours would seriously cripple Japan's premier industry.

The new regulations limit hours of labor to two shifts of eight hours or a total of sixteen hours, instead of the present twenty to twenty-two-hour daily schedule. This may result in the enlargement of the manufacturing facilities in order to maintain the volume of production, officials said.

JAMS IN BUSSSES.

It should not be left for the police of Bridgeport alone to tackle the very serious question of outrageous overloading of interurban busses.

This is a comparatively new development, the motor omnibus traveling between towns, but it promises to become very soon a service of first class importance.

There are certain perils inseparable from motor travel on the highways and these are shared by the busses. That cannot be helped—not at all events, until such time as slow growing reforms have come to fruition.

One practice that ought to be stamped out is that of filling the already extremely narrow aisles with tiny iron chairs occupied by passengers.

There is, in such a situation, not only the acute danger in case of any kind of accident, even a slight one, but a strain upon the nerves of persons of any reasonable amount of imagination that no public service concern should be permitted to impose.

The state of Connecticut is under no obligation to its bus companies.

The favor is all on the other side. There should be no hesitancy in enforcing what laws we have to prevent overcrowding and indifference to the passenger's safety and comfort, nor in creating such other laws in that direction as new conditions may demand.

FORESTS.

It is unfortunate that the "weekling" had has run to such lengths in this country as to become little more than a jest for the "Forest Week" to be observed next month is an institution of such great inherent value and importance that it deserves a place in the consideration of the people alongside the Fourth of July and Christmas.

In our dawning consciousness of the vital character of conservation of our resources, the forests are entitled to absolutely first place; because if the land be denuded of its arboral growths there will be no value to any effort for the preservation of our waterways, our mineral supplies or our wild life.

It is past understanding that the dependence of our civilization on its forests is not better recognized by American school authorities and the nation's children given at least elementary instruction in the relationship between tree growth and water supply, rainfall, climate and crops.

It is equally incomprehensible that the nation's lawmakers can see any one of a thousand matters of inferior economic concern but cannot be made to understand that the forests must not only be saved from ruthless destruction but must be renewed by processes conducted on a big and liberal scale.

The cause of the forests is carelessly confided to a tiny group of earnest, struggling devotees, capable of the finest kind of leadership but denied followers.

STAGE CLAPTRAP. The efforts of Chapman's lawyers to befuddle the public by the invention of a cloud of so-called new witnesses at the eleventh hour are a cheap copy of the methods of the "mystery" dramatists who introduce a mass of extraneous matter into a perfectly simple story so that the mind of the spectator may lose sight of the main thread in the tangle of fluff in which it is wrapped.

It so happens, however, that this device of the stage and the movie studio is intended to affect an audience which has nothing whatever to do with the case. It is the courts of Connecticut and the United States—and primarily Connecticut's hard headed governor—that must be deluded, not the moron element among the picture paper readers, in order to successfully put over the factor of doubt which the lawyers are seeking to establish.

Neither the governor nor the courts are going to be pulled around by the nose through the medium of this claptrap.

The reaction among intelligent people cannot fail to be one of utter resentment that this little crowd of criminal lawyers should credit them, the Governor of Connecticut, the Board of Pardons and the courts with being such complete asses as to put a particle of stock in these shallow inventions.

WHEELER.

The Senate's action in demanding an accounting from the Department of Justice for all moneys expended in the double prosecution of Senator Hurton K. Wheeler for alleged illegal practices in connection with oil leases is, of course, a cry of the pack.

It suggests that the Justice Department hasn't got the Wheeler case entirely off its hands yet. It will be recalled that Wheeler was indicted while making things unpleasant for the then Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. He and his friends declared it a frame-up from the first.

When Stone was promoted to the federal supreme bench, Attorney General Sargent inherited the case. He was urged to dismiss it, but he couldn't very well do that. It would have implied that he didn't consider it much of a case, which would have been too rank a reflection on Stone.

Whether or not Sargent was mighty glad to have the thing off his hands, it's a fact that he emphatically hasn't tried to start anything again.

On the theory that Wheeler was persecuted rather than prosecuted, as he contends, this was a pretty easy way for his persecutors to wiggle out.

ITALIAN DEBT.

The Italian debt settlement debate, begun in the Senate yesterday, promises to be rather more than lively. It would probably be still more interesting if some Senators were to speak their minds on the matter who will remain silent or else say what is not in their minds at all, as a matter of policy.

This thing comes before the country as an administration measure and as such will have the backing of many persons, both in and out of the Senate, who have no enthusiasm for it.

Italy, of course, is a relatively poor country. Under any ordinary circumstances there would be very general support for the terms, so very liberal as contrasted to those offered to her neighbor countries, which have been granted to her by our government.

But when Senator Smoot made the point that Mussolini and Italy's dreams of conquest are none of the Senate's business in considering the debt pact he went a long way—farther than plenty of people in his own party are willing to go.

Today is feast day of St. Ludger, bishop, who founded the monastery of Werden, near Cologne. The first embargo act was passed by Congress, March 26, 1794. Today is birthday anniversary of William Lecky, author

It is entirely impossible to conceive of President Coolidge or Secretary Mellon holding this particular "administration" measure very close to their hearts, or of their being deeply distressed if the Senate should refuse to ratify.

It looks like a pretty good matter to postpone until the other party to the deal gets sober.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

How many among us (senators) will care to incur the displeasure of the Department of Justice if it may with impunity empty perjured testimony to wreak its vengeance upon those who thus dare? I propose to demonstrate that that is just what it did in the case of my colleague, Senator Wheeler.

Washington, March 26.—Strong language that. It went with Senator Walsh's demand on Attorney General John G. Sargent to advise the Senate if he intended to make perjury charges against George B. Hayes, "surprise witness" against Senator Wheeler in the latter's trial in Montana on an accusation of improperly using his official position in a personal client's interest with the Department of the Interior.

It suggests that the Justice Department hasn't got the Wheeler case entirely off its hands yet. It will be recalled that Wheeler was indicted while making things unpleasant for the then Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. He and his friends declared it a frame-up from the first.

When Stone was promoted to the federal supreme bench, Attorney General Sargent inherited the case. He was urged to dismiss it, but he couldn't very well do that. It would have implied that he didn't consider it much of a case, which would have been too rank a reflection on Stone.

Whether or not Sargent was mighty glad to have the thing off his hands, it's a fact that he emphatically hasn't tried to start anything again.

On the theory that Wheeler was persecuted rather than prosecuted, as he contends, this was a pretty easy way for his persecutors to wiggle out.

But it seems Senator Walsh doesn't mean to let 'em wiggle out. Hayes can't be raked over the coals without making it hot for everybody connected with his side of the case.

All in all, there are hints of troublous times ahead for some folks if Walsh hangs on, and persistence is his middle name.

FRIDAY In His Name

Read Jn. 16:20-24. Text: 16:24. Hitherto have ye asked nothing in My name: Ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.

Prayer.—Oh, Thou who are Holiness, Justice and Love, into Thy name we are baptized, consecrated to become like unto Thee, and like unto Him who gave Himself for us because He loved us when we were most unlovable in our sins. We are also baptized into the name of the Holy Spirit. Help us to be like the Spirit of the Living God. Give us grace to live in the Name that is above every name. Amen.

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 26.—I have read much about "listening to the great city go by."

Some tell of standing with closed eyes catching the roar on the record and what did Stone do but pick up the Wheeler case where Daugherty had had to let it drop—the second time, however, as a District of Columbia, instead of a Montana, matter.

When Stone was promoted to the federal supreme bench, Attorney General Sargent inherited the case. He was urged to dismiss it, but he couldn't very well do that. It would have implied that he didn't consider it much of a case, which would have been too rank a reflection on Stone.

Whether or not Sargent was mighty glad to have the thing off his hands, it's a fact that he emphatically hasn't tried to start anything again.

On the theory that Wheeler was persecuted rather than prosecuted, as he contends, this was a pretty easy way for his persecutors to wiggle out.

But it seems Senator Walsh doesn't mean to let 'em wiggle out. Hayes can't be raked over the coals without making it hot for everybody connected with his side of the case.

All in all, there are hints of troublous times ahead for some folks if Walsh hangs on, and persistence is his middle name.

Foot! I used to think that car wheels and elevated roarings were the most irritating of New York noises. But I had never had to listen, hour upon hour.

No, it's the feet—the swish, slap, swish of feet! The parade is going by some place below, and it never ends. A parade as long as the day and filled with as many paraders as flow by a given point. Where are they all going? What are they all doing? Oh, yes, to them, what they do and where they go are terribly important. Propped up in bed one can laugh.

Tomorrow—I say to myself—my feet will swish along in the parade and it will seem important. And this is "tomorrow" and it does seem important.

But try it yourself, the next time you come to New York. I don't recommend getting gripped. But if you can arrange to lie in bed when all others are up and away, listen to it—but you'll be amazed that they the city's feet—sounds funny, doesn't it swish in your ears for days afterward.

—GILBERT SWAN.

YOUNG STRIBLING NOT IN CLASS WITH TUNNEY, EXPERT'S OPINION

Walsh Says Fighter's Failure to Stop Slattery Shows He is Not Heavyweight Contender.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, March 26.—If Gene Tunney is half the man his supporters would have one believe, then William Lawrence Young (Stribling) is entitled to consider himself fortunate that the Miami transaction neglected to transact. At any rate, William indicated as much last night when he failed to stop Jimmy Slattery in ten rounds.

All Stribling won was the decision. He lost nearly everything else including prestige as an embryonic contender for the heavyweight title.

This basis of argument may seem rather odious to both parties but the fault is not mine. I didn't make the match. It was made in a moment of abstraction by Stribling's handlers, who apparently neglected to consider the fact that they were sending their man in against a boxer who had been knocked out by a very light mid-dleweight.

Loose Caste. The inference is obvious. If Stribling didn't repeat the performance, he naturally would lose caste. He did, but through no particular fault of his own. For one thing, Slattery was in better condition than he was the night Dave Shadewald fought him henceforth for another, he fought a one-way fight to the rear.

It also may be of moment that Slattery was almost affectionate in the clinches, often holding both of Stribling's hands locked under his armpits until the referee broke them. It isn't necessary to add that this campaign, in which Slattery won all reason, which was Slattery's inalienable privilege. It would not have been the best of good business to trade wallop, particularly when one is reputed to have a jaw with a porcelain inlay.

A Boxing Match. Still, they say it takes two to make a fight and that probably is the reason last night's activities came within the letter of the law. It was strictly a boxing exhibition. Slattery, his confidence gone, declined to open up until the ninth round when it was apparent that he was due to go the limit. Twice in the last two rounds he crossed his right to Stribling's jaw but the gesture was too long overdue to make much difference, if any. I gave him only two of the ten rounds so much for Slattery.

As for Stribling, he cannot escape the onus of failing to knock Slattery out in the seventh round. Any man with a real punch would have done so. He had James ready for the big tumble from lefts and rights to the jaw, set himself for the finisher—and missed three of them. But a moment later, he caught Slattery full on the jaw with a right and nothing happened.

James never would have seen the eighth round against punchers like Berlenbach and Delaney. The seventh round was one of a comparative few that produced anything savoring of action. Using a body attack whenever Slattery's affectionate arms would permit him, Stribling easily carried the first four rounds, although some of his blows were work may have cut into his points. The fifth saw Slattery step inside Stribling's leads for counters that earned him a shade at the bell but from the seventh to the ninth it was all Stribling.

ATLAS A. C. SHOW WILL PACK 'EM IN

Berlenbach Sure to Tackle Neuman Hard After Recent Defeat

Taking the large number of inquiries from all over New England for seats as a criterion the Atlas A. C. static show on Monday night, April 5, will undoubtedly draw the largest crowd ever packed into the State Armory at Hartford. As soon as Messrs. Rorty and Gallivan secured ample financial backing they lost no time in boarding the rail for New York where they received the signature of one of Tex Rickard's best drawing cards, Paul Berlenbach. This will give the fans through this section a chance to see a champion in action.

Berlenbach always packs them in, not so much because he is a clever boxer, for he is not, but the fans know they will see a real scrap every minute he is in the ring. He is not fussy about covering up to save punishment but his sole idea seems to be to get into position to deliver his devastating right where it will do the most damage. Paul is not a smooth working machine like Delaney but he keeps wading in, giving his opponent no chance to get set or rest up.

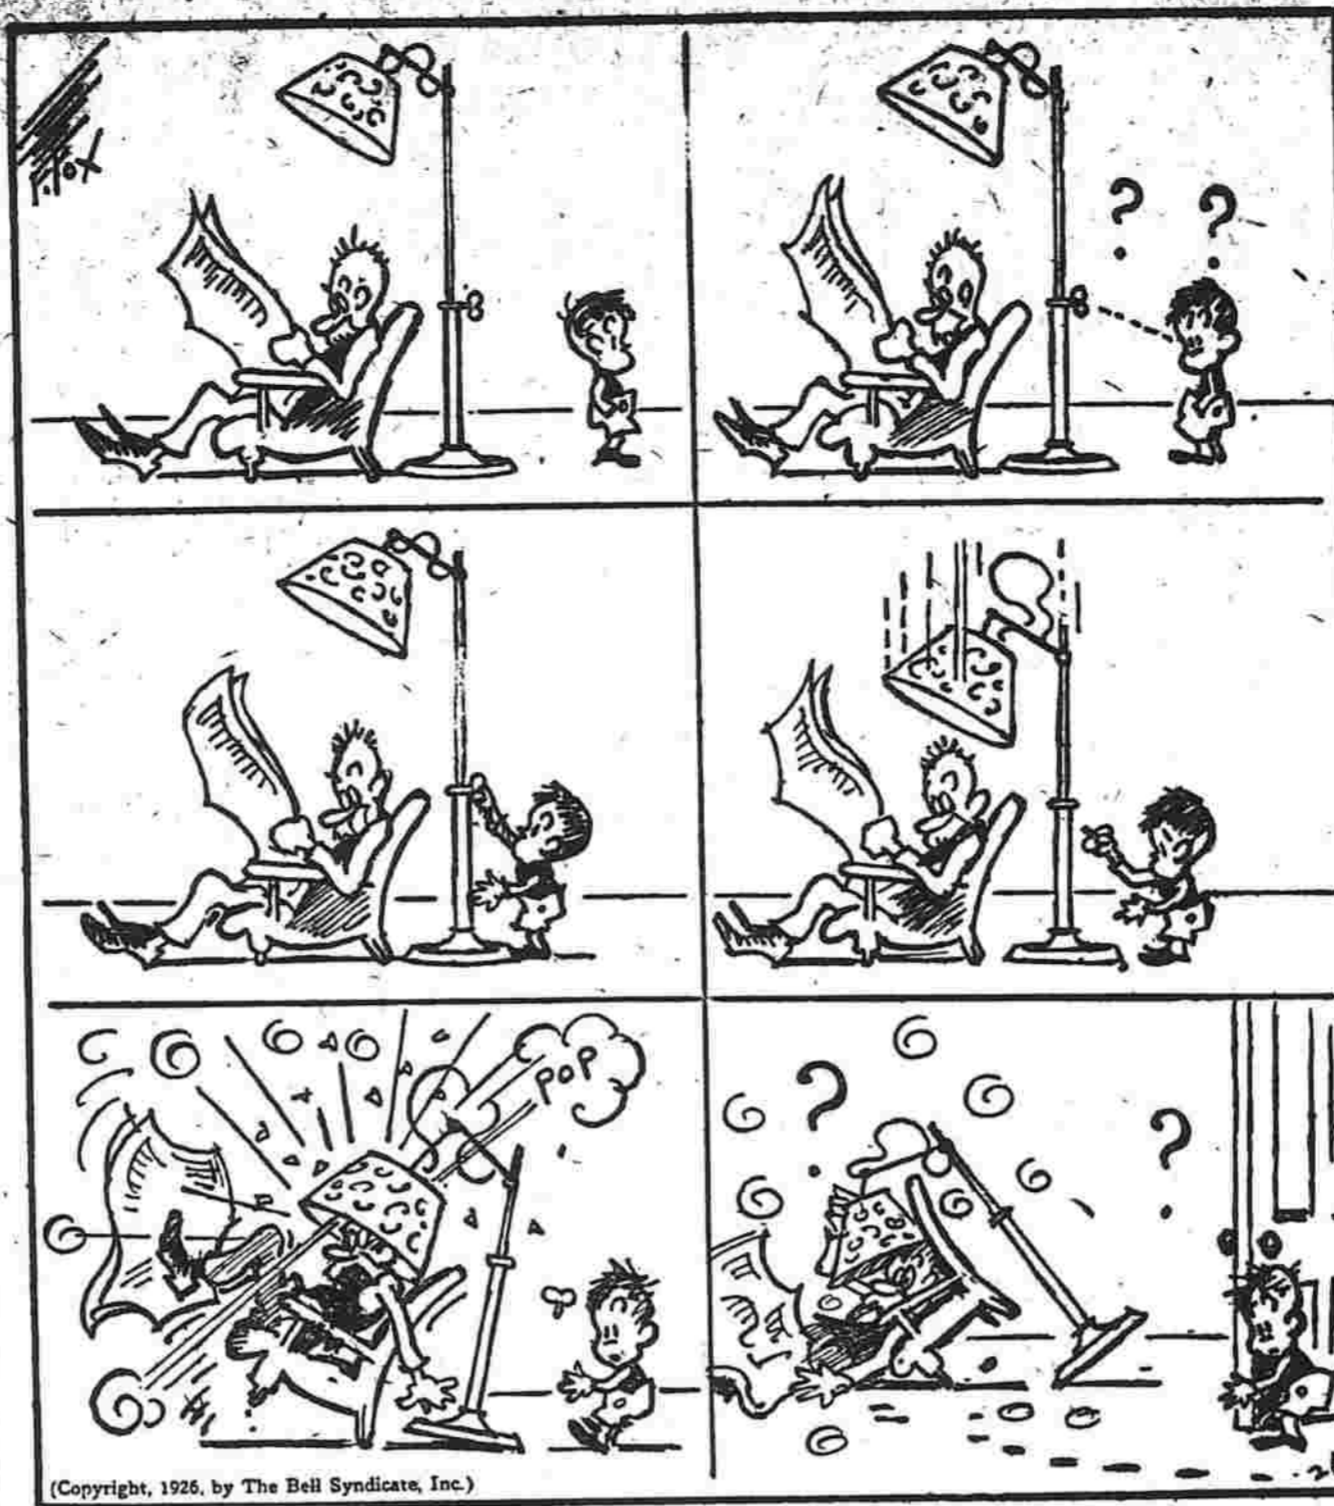

After the mauling given to him last Friday night in Madison Square Garden by the 22-year-old Cleveland boxer, Rikabo, it is foregone conclusion that the second man in the ring April 5 will not be in for any very restful evening. It is rather hard for anybody but a very clever man to give away 15 pounds in weight, as he did Friday night, and get away with it. He has come to the conclusion that he would look better against men of his own weight. Under these conditions the promoters had rather a serious problem before them in finding a man of the right weight who could also give Paul plenty of fight. They feel that they have accomplished this very thing when they secured Ray Neuman, the Jersey City Fat Boy.

Most of the static Welsheimers of this vicinity immediately came to the conclusion that this battle was to be a setup for Berlenbach. Now they arrived at this conclusion it is rather hard to conceive. A casual perusal of Neuman's record shows that he has engaged in 63 bouts and has won 18 of them by the knockout route, 14 by decisions and has been in 19 no decision affairs and lost only seven of his starts. At one time he was a partner with Jack Dempsey. He has never been knocked down or out, though he has been up against some of the reputed hardest hitters in the ring today, Young Stribling and Gene Tunney among others. He is only 23 years of age and has been in the professional end of the game about two years.

Neuman gave Tunney one of his hardest battles and Stribling, did not come out of his mixup with him in New Haven with enough strength to have any reason for throwing out his chest. Ray always carries surplus fat around his waistband which road work and gym have failed to eliminate but it does not lessen his stamina nor does it seem to have any reason for throwing out his chest. Not satisfied with securing a star final the matchmaker's are placing a semi-final on the card which would be considered a leading attraction for most programs. Bobby Garcia, who has been one of the outstanding rivals of Kid Kaplan, has been engaged to mingle for ten rounds with Johnny Drew of Worcester, whom many people figure will eventually take a speller's crown away from him. Garcia appeared earlier in the season on one of the Atlas A. C.'s programs and made a fine impression on the fans by the business like way he took the measure of Johnny Kochanski. He showed he could take the stiffest kind of punches and still keep bringing in and delivering his short-arming blows to his opponent's dining-room with an occasional cross to the jaw for variety's sake. It is a question of being in there to collect his end of the purse but he is there to see how quickly he can make his opponent ready for the stretcher bearers.

given a good account of himself. Silverberg is fast on his feet and clever with his hands but he will never get arrested for killing anybody in the ring. With 36 rounds of boxing the fans are assured of getting their money's worth.

EIGHTH WINS GRAMMAR SCHOOL CHAMPIONSHIP

The final of a series of three basketball games for the grammar school championship of the town was played yesterday afternoon at the Harding school by teams representing the eighth grades of the Eighth and Ninth Districts and was won by the Eighth District boys, 12-11. The game was hotly contested all the way through.

BASEBALL YOUNG MAN'S GAME? HOW ABOUT THESE OLD TIMERS?

(By Davis J. Walsh)

New York, March 26.—Maybe it is just another proof of the Time-Cannot-Age-Nor-Custom-State theory of longevity; perhaps it is a case of inferior competitive talent. All I know about it is that a lot of very spry old-timers still are able to follow the pace in some of our best baseball circles.

Of course, the most notable example of elderly zeal was furnished by Joe McMinnity, who only recently decided to call it a career; at the tender age of 54 or words to that general effect. There is only one Joe, at that, but a lot of the boys are in their swing. Babe Adams for instance, still is able to get by in the major leagues at 43, leading one to believe that he could pitch in the minors until he is 69. He is the patriarch of the profession at this writing, but Jack Quinn, still a first string pitcher for the Athletics is only two years younger. Jack hangs on largely because he is a great spring pitcher.

HELPFUL HINTS OF GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

There is no fault greater in golf than to let the elbows fly around aimlessly in making a golf swing. Whenever I want to be absolutely certain to make a good drive I remember to keep both my elbows in close to the body to make sure of my pivot.

Getting into the habit of keeping the elbows in is a great help in many ways than one. It prevents one's using the arms too much without the body. It helps the action of the left knee and the raising of the right heel, because it would be extremely awkward to take the club to the correct position over the shoulder without bending the knee naturally.

When the knee bends outward toward the ball, as it should, and not in toward the other knee, the left heel comes in easily and the leg rests on the ball of the foot slightly favoring the right side.

This bit of advice has put more good golfers back on their game and helped others to acquire a good golf swing than any other thing I know of.

WORTH IN SPORT KNOWING

Ray Kremer, start Pitts-burg pitcher, put in 11 seasons in the minors before getting his major league chance. He was 23 years old when he "came up"—a veteran in a baseball sense.

Pirates, Kremer won 18 games and lost 10. Strangely enough, that was the best bit of pitching he had done in his professional career up to that time.

LEADERS THEIR RECORDS 1925 BATTING

Made major league debut with Detroit in summer of 1905. Bought for $700. Led American League in batting season.

Has lifetime batting mark of .373, topping American League in that respect. Also leads his circuit in games played, times at bat, runs scored, most hits, most triples, most total bases, most stolen sacks. Holds the major league mark in many of them.

STYLE OF BASKETBALL HERE DIFFERENT THAN BAY STATE

EVANS FINDS CARDS FULL OF OPTIMISM

BY BILLY EVANS

San Antonio, Tex., March 26.—On my way south I had a few hours' layover in St. Louis between trains. To kill the time I jumped into a taxi and rode out to the new ball park that is being constructed for the Cardinals. It will be a ball park worthy of housing a champion when completed. Incidentally, new ball parks have proved mascots for any number of clubs.

It didn't take me long to discover that St. Louis has great hopes for the Browns and Cardinals this year, particularly the National League entrant. Recognized by a number of the workmen, they immediately suspended operations to discuss the possibilities of the two clubs. That was the cue for me to "duck."

There are going to be a lot of disappointed people in St. Louis unless one of the clubs delivers. When I bumped into the Cardinals in this quaint city, I found the players just as optimistic as the fans, from Manager Hornsby down to the lowliest busher.

The Cardinals figure they have a great chance, every member of the club is striving for condition, realizing a good start is a tremendous advantage. This is a feature of play Manager Hornsby is stressing. He wants his team to get away in good style. A game in April, he figures, counts as much as one that is won in September and means much more to the club's morale.

While the Cardinals admit several other clubs in the league look gladder on this state, at least none of them has any license to beat 'em out.

Here is the way Manager Hornsby sizes up the situation: "My pitching should be as formidable as that of any of the clubs. I am more than satisfied with our attack. The defense should be improved over that of last year, due to the additional experience a number of the youngsters have gained."

"I believe in the club and the club has come to believe in itself. That, I feel, is the greatest advantage we have made toward a high position.

"True, other clubs may look more flashy on paper or when perusing their records, but I am satisfied with my lineup."

Already Managers McKechnie and McGraw of the Pirates and Giants, respectively, have sounded a warning as to the Cardinals, so it looks as if St. Louis might be for considerable rejoicing before the year is over.

WEST SIDE REC WINS ANOTHER

The undefeated West Side Rec bowling five added the Bon Ami team to its string of victories last night at Conran's alleys at North Star. The winners captured every game. Tom Weir was high with 106. The scores:

WHEN JUDGE LANDIS PUTS KIBOSH ON BALL PLAYERS, THEY STAY OUT

By DAVIS J. WALSH. New York, March 26.—That querulous gent with the rather nasal curiosity as to the whereabouts of 86-ally, that old gibe at the night very well turns his attention to the growing list of young men banished to the outer-darkness by Judge Landis. One thing I'll say for the Judge: Once he hits anybody, they stay hit. It isn't necessary to take a re-count on the knockout.

Massachusetts' Teams Depend Largely on "Pivot" Game With Slower, But More Accurate Passes.

There is a striking difference in the brand of basketball played in Massachusetts and that played in Connecticut. This was illustrated plainly at the Tufts tournament this year. The majority of the High school quintets in the Bay State depend almost wholly on the pivot game around which occurs a slower passing game than is flashed in this state. The three Connecticut teams at the tourney, Meriden, New Haven Commercial and South Manchester, possessed much faster teams from the Bay State and other High school quintets farther north. This passing, while acknowledged as swifter is, however, more reckless.

Medford was a fine example of the direct opposite to the teams from this state. They play a careful passing game. Their passes are swift and sure but there is a delay in the ball without first making sure of its destination. They make very few wild heaves in their passing or their shots.

The key of pivoting is by far their greatest asset. It is this art which enables them to retain possession of the ball for such a long time once they secure it. The pivoting game was not used in the least by any of the three teams from this state. It is apparent that none of the players of the three teams are acquainted with it.

The Bay State coaches drill their charges on just that style of play. The pivoting game is performed like this: A player gets possession of the ball. He dribbles, or passes if he can and if he is checked in these attempts, he stands with one foot automatically "fast" to the floor and literally pivots around on this spot. This enables him to face any position he may wish and also makes it decidedly hazardous for an opposing player to take the ball away from him, as he would probably foul. The Connecticut teams had several personal fouls charged against their players for this inability to take away the ball.

Small Floor Helped. It is true, however, that the small floor space in the Goddard gym at Medford was an asset to this style of play. On a larger floor, it is quite possible that the flashy passwork of the Connecticut teams would prove superior. This, however, is just a matter of speculation, but it is admitted that the Bay State teams' defenses coupled with their ability to retain the ball for considerable length of time while on the offense would prove a big obstacle to overcome on any floor.

HEBRON

Work on an artesian well was begun Monday on the place owned by Miss Marion Gott on Hebron Green. The same company who dug an artesian well on the C. E. Kellogg place recently, is doing the work.

New measles cases continue to be reported from day to day, the latest being Earl, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Porter, at the Postoffice Place. Chicken pox has also put in an appearance. There have been five cases of it in the children of William and Sherwood Griffin. A guest at the Griffin home, Mrs. Nettie Munsell, aged 74, is also reported ill with the disease. The cases are all of a light form.

Mrs. Frank Clark went to Hartford on Monday to be near her husband, who is at the Hartford hospital recovering from a recent operation. Mrs. Clark will spend two weeks in Hartford at which time Mr. Clark hopes to be able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scriber of Westbrook, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard O. Thompson during the week-end.

Everett G. Lord recently purchased a yoke of oxen. Since the purchase one of the pair has been taken with a severe case of pneumonia.

Miss Ellen Jones, teacher at the Jones street school, who has been ill at the Hartford hospital since the first of the month with measles and pneumonia is now making a good recovery. She sat up for the first time since her illness, on Monday. Her mother and brother who have also been ill with measles are recovering. Miss Jones' plate in the school is being taken for the present by Mrs. Nellie Skinner of Westchester.

Jones street people report hearing peep frogs for the first time this spring on Monday evening. Monday was a very warm spring-like day here.

By order of school authorities two trees on the east side of the Center school grounds were cut Monday. The trees which were large maples interfered with the proper lighting of the school room in the primary part. Two good-sized maples are left on that side, sufficient to give shade for the playground. The trees have caused complaint for years, for the reason above stated.

The underpinning of the local town hall is reported as being in a very unsafe condition. William Tynan has been looking it over and says that he thinks it ought to be attended to before the building is used for public purposes. The plaster on the ceiling also looks as if it might fall at any minute and ought to be seen to at once. The location of the hall is very damp and this is probably the reason for the trouble. It is full of water in the cellar or basement every spring. The ground is springy all around and there is also snow and ice which set in from the road end which melts and adds to the moisture. The building is one of the very old ones of the town. It was built some years before the Civil War and was formerly a Methodist meetinghouse. The architecture is somewhat quaint.

The condition of the roads especially in the rural districts is very bad being deep with mud and in some places almost impassable. Even on the state roads there are some very bad spots. There are four places on the Amston road make driving difficult and it is very muddy all about the Green. At this time last year people here say the roads were all settled.

Miss Helen Rathbun, daughter of Rufus Rathbun, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Ackley in Willimantic.

ANDOVER

Edward Post was a visitor in Hartford Wednesday.

Charles White spent Wednesday in Hartford.

H. E. Frink of Boston and E. H. Frink of South Manchester spent Monday evening in town.

Addison Blinham of Hartford was a caller in town Tuesday.

Mrs. Fred Bishop is confined to her home by illness. Dr. Reardon of Willimantic is in attendance.

Miss Julia Perkins is in Manchester taking care of Mrs. Lulu Lord, who is very ill.

Mrs. Helen Fitzgerald and Mrs. Lewis Phelps spent Tuesday in Hartford.

Everett Allen visited in Hartford Wednesday.

There will be a choir rehearsal at the home of Mrs. Cobb Friday evening. Music for Palm Sunday will be rehearsed.

Miss Essie Frink spent Thursday evening in Hartford.

Miss Hazel Carey is convalescing at the Hartford hospital after a recent operation.

Due to a misunderstanding as to dates, the Chinese speaker, Chan Yu Chen, of the Hartford Theological Seminary, who was to have given a stereoscopic lecture at the Christian Endeavor meeting on Sunday evening, was unable to be present. The meeting was in charge of the Rev. Mr. Ericson, a missionary from Congo, Africa. Mr. Ericson gave an interesting talk of his experiences in Congo to a congregation of about forty members of the society. Mr. Chang Yu Chen will give his lecture during the latter part of April. This will be his last lecture in this country, as he is soon to leave the Seminary.

Harold Curtis of Detroit, Michigan, visited his father-in-law, Sherman Bishop, of this town, recently.

Eilsworth Covell has started building a garage on the land which he purchased across from the Ralph Bass place.

There will be a dance in the town hall Saturday evening given by a party from Windham.

HO! HO! THE YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN, because of the "disgrace." JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Cleveland, where the theater is. The stub is traced to THOMAS FOGARTY, a political boss, who says he gave it to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints at hearing police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lit Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Cleveland and later is attacked at night by two men, but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Mary tells Jimmy this when they meet and he, trying to hurt her, accuses her of marrying for money.

That evening Jimmy and Olga, out together, see in an auto a man they both recognize—she as the man who had got the stub, he as one of the men who had attacked him. The man and his companion escape. Later they recognize his picture at police headquarters as that of IKE JENSEN.

Church, out driving with Mary, drives over a dog and kills it. His heartiness over the affair kindles hatred in her and she breaks their engagement.

Jimmy goes home and finds a letter from his sister Janet.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVIII

family gossip and the state of Mrs. Rand's health.

The recurrence of the anonymous warning had Jimmy thoroughly enraged. What had at first amounted to nothing more than an annoyance was now beginning to get on his nerves. He picked up his empty pipe and stuck it savagely in his mouth. It was not that he feared anything, he told himself, for, he asked, if anyone really contemplated harm to him why would there be any warning. But it was the thought of this unknown person eternally keeping watch over him and his affairs, knowing his every movement.

"Good morning, Mr. Hilton," said at the cheery note in Mary Lowell's greeting the chief clerk of the Q.

His face reddened. "Why, why, he floundered.

"You were wrong," she said softly, and walked away, feeling a sudden pity for this tragic, war-torn boy.

True to his promise, Church dropped in again late in the afternoon. He didn't even make a pretense of seeing Hilton but went to Mary directly.

"I've got the car outside, Mary. Let me drive you home." He had a bunch of flowers in his hand.

"What's the good of it?" she asked wearily. "It's no use. I've quite made up my mind."

"Mary, you spoke in the heat of anger. We all do and say things we are sorry for when we are mad."

"But I have had plenty of time to cool off. No, it's no use. You'll have to excuse me." She turned to the coat rack.

"Mary, give me another chance. You haven't given me a chance at all. I tell you—"

"Mr. Church," she cut in. "I'm through. Do I make myself clear?"

Jimmy offered his hand, but Church snarled and turned away.

and R. Railroad looked up in some surprise.

"Good morning, Miss Lowell. I, er—" He stopped, and rubbed his chin.

"Oh, nothing," he said, and bent over his desk.

She had told her mother that morning—told her with definiteness and firmness—that she had broken with Samuel Church.

It was no use, she had insisted when her mother had protested and never would. She hated him and the little boy as if such a thing against any man were enough to damn him forever.

And she had put on her hat and rushed off to work, feeling strangely light and free.

Shortly before noon Church came in the office, pulling papers out of his pocket, and immediately went into a conference with Hilton.

But he was engaged very briefly and Mary sensed, when he came out of Hilton's inner office, that was only a pretext to see her.

"Mary," he said, leaning over her desk, "you've had time to think it over now. Tell me that you didn't mean what you said yesterday."

Her fingers never once paused as they flew over her typewriter. "I meant it," she said shortly.

"Mary, you couldn't. You don't realize what you're saying. Listen. I was angry when that—that accident happened; so angry that I didn't even see the dog until it was too ting absentminded. He came in to see me about a matter that we'd already gone over thoroughly by telephone.

"Oh, I beg pardon," he added hastily, his face coloring slightly. "I had forgotten you two were engaged."

"Did he tell you that?" asked Mary.

"Yes. Said it wasn't generally known, but that you'd announce it later. Told it to me in confidence."

"Well, it's not true. At least, it's no longer true."

He whistled and then stuck his tongue in his cheek. Finally curiosity got the better of him. "You mean you—you broke off with him?"

"No," he said. "She turned and walked to the door of Hilton's private office. It closed behind her, and he was left alone with his ring and his flowers. The first he shoved back into his pocket. The flowers he marched out of the office."

In the street below he jostled his way heedlessly through the crowd, chewing viciously on a cigar that he had stuck in his mouth. He bit through the cigar, grabbed it out of his mouth and flung it away.

"Mr. Church," said a voice at his elbow. It was Jimmy Rand.

"I wanted to congratulate you, Mr. Church," Jimmy offered his hand, but Church snarled and turned away.

"Young pup," he muttered, and walked down the street, leaving Jimmy standing in dumfounded amazement.

The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

Morning's Wise-Cracks.

Titled British aristocracy trails its garments into a public courtroom to wrangle over the fortune of Levi Collier, pioneer merchant prince of Chicago. Cousins at one attorney's table. What You Should Know.

Mussolini and the Fascist are imperiled as bosses of Italy by the trial of Amerigo Dumini for the kidnaping and murder of Matteotti, Italian deputy. This murder has stirred up more anti-Fascist sentiment in the nation than any other episode since this rule began.

Transatlantic wireless telephoning is now an actuality and promises to supplant the wireless cable method.

Better and cheaper homes for the labor class is the slogan of a new $1,000,000 Ohio corporation. Its plan is spreading rapidly. HER OWN WAY by WAY A GIRL OF TODAY THE TEARS OF THE STRONG.

I stood for a moment looking at her, perfectly agnostic. I could hardly believe it was Mamie Riley, who had stood in my mind for all that was self-reliant and self-sufficient, that was weeping there.

"What is the matter, Mamie?" I asked as I put my arms around her.

She looked up, rather dazed at first and then when she realized that it was I, she tried to stifle the sob that rose in her throat.

"I thought you were in, Judy, and upstairs in bed. I was trying to get the tears out of my system before I came upstairs."

"But, my dear girl, surely you must know, that I am not one of those friends that would leave you to weep alone! Of course I don't want to intrude upon you, but won't you let me share your trouble?"

As I said this, Mamie's sobs broke out afresh.

"Hush, dear, you know what will happen if you wake your mother. She looked frightened as we both listened intently, and then she whispered:

"I can't stand it, Julie, I can't stand it!"

"What can't you stand, dear? Maybe if you can't stand it alone, with me to brace you, you can keep upright, even if the burden is heavy."

Mamie sat up and wiped her eyes.

"Julie," she said, "my prayer for you is that you will never have every hope you have in the world taken from you all at once. I fell sweep."

"Surely, Mamie, that's not happened. I have always been here, looked upon you as the hope of my life. I never knew. Come, isn't some of it a part of the pity you are now feeling for yourself?"

"Yes, dear, I know. I know that self-pity is the most terrible of all emotions. But, honestly, Julie, I have nothing to look forward to."

As she said this she broke out again.

I let her cry. It seemed to me that that was the kindest thing I could do for her.

After a few minutes she seemed to get a new hold upon herself.

"Has anyone told you, Julie, that ever since I could talk my great ambition was to be an opera singer?"

"I kept this determination to myself—a secret in my heart—but to my mother, all kind of play-actors, including grand opera stars, are emissaries of the devil. Mother, as you know, was left with three children and she worked hard to bring us up. When I was fourteen the youngest legal age when one could leave school, I had to go out to earn my living."

"MY BEAUTY BELIEFS"

By FANNIE HURST Author of Some of the Finest American Novels and Short Stories.

Come what may, come what may, I insist on my hour's walk in the park immediately upon rising every morning.

I don't want to do it at all. The thing I like best in all the world is not moving too much. But it must be done.

I want briskly, alertly, look at all the trees and birds and flowers and brooklets and imagine that I feel the sparkle of youth surge to my eyes and the pink blush of girlish beauty flood my cheeks.

I leave my chest up and down like a coal stoker, breathing deeply and—morously, cogitating about the great open spaces and the joy of the fresh air of morn.

Seriously, I think that fresh air and brisk walking are the best beautifiers known.

Quaker Oats
"stands by" you through the morning

That's why doctors urge it to start every day

To feel right through the morning, you must have well-balanced, complete food at breakfast. At most other meals—that is, at luncheon and at dinner—you usually get that kind of food.

But at breakfast the great dietary mistake is most often made—a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder; 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast in your home.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers.

In pantries where tempting home-baked cookies are treasured in stone crocks, the bread-box usually holds a loaf of Bond

ADVENTURES of the TWINS by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"He ought to be spring-cleaned," said Rubadub

The burglar alarm over the tub in Scrub-Up Land went "Brrrr! Brrrr! Tinkle, tinkle, tinkle, brrrr!"

Rubadub jumped.

"Hey, Mister March Hare!" he called sharply. "Come back! Someone's trying to sneak off without getting spring-cleaned."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed the March Hare, who was just about to leave with the tub in search of some more Meadow people to scrub up so they could go to the Land-Where-Spring-Is-Coming.

Spring was getting very near now, and there were still ever so many of them not finished.

"Whose number is it?" said the same thing—that of all the people they had to barber, or bring to the barber. Prickles was the very worst. Indeed he was just about as dreadful as anyone could possibly be.

Prickles appears to be just as soft and pleasant as a lamb to look at. His long brown hair lies down so flat and sleek against his sides, that you never would dream that right under it is a whole coat of daggers.

Yes, sir! Stiff, sharp, spiny daggers. They grow out of his skin, too, like the brown hair, but oh, how different!

And if anything displeases his Royal Porcupiness, he just gives his skin a jerk and up go all his little quill daggers until, instead of a little lamb, he looks like a battleship with a thousand guns sticking out all over.

And then, woe betide anybody who comes near enough to touch him!

He just gives his tail a slap (all sticking full of jaggers just like the rest of his bristling body) and whomever he touches gets a lot of jaggers stuck into him and they won't come out!

So no wonder that Mister Rubadub and the March Hare were looking as though the world had turned a somersault.

"He ought to be spring-cleaned," said Rubadub. "Why don't you go and get him, Mister Hare?"

The March Hare rubbed his nose tenderly.

"I was just wondering," he said slowly, "if he is so very dirty. If he really needs spring-cleaning."

"Well, get him," said Nick. "Nancy and I can get him in two minutes. He'll come for us, I'm sure. And Mister Rubadub can barber him."

It was Rubadub's turn to look thoughtful.

Is this your BIRTHDAY FRIDAY, MARCH 26

If so, this is the time of the year when you are apt to become nervous and fidgety.

You are a great lover of outdoor life and long winters bore you, as you crave warm weather and a chance to get in the great outdoors.

You anxiously are waiting for those motor trips out on the country roads and those picnics in the woods.

You favor good fishing and hunting, and love to explore the wild country.

"I wonder if he is so very dirty?" he mused. "It might be that he didn't get so very dirty this winter after all. Maybe if he goes to the Land-Where-Spring-Is-Coming, he'll get caught in a shower. That would wash him off and he would do for another year."

"Why, Mister Rubadub! And Mister Hare!" said Nancy in a shocked voice. "I do believe you two are afraid of Prickles Potpourri!"

Mister Rubadub began to fuss about busily. "Afraldi! No such thing! But there isn't a bit of use trying to catch him now. It's quite ten minutes since the alarm rang."

"Not the least bit," the March Hare assured them. "It would be a waste of time!"

Weren't they the old scallawags though!

NEARLY. CITY NOSES ARE KEENER

New York—City folk have better noses than country persons, not more beautiful but keener. Dr. E. E. Free of the Forum, has reached that conclusion by having 400 persons smell different things, from spoiled eggs to attar of roses.

HE KNOWS HIS STUFF.

HINDENBURG CALLED A "MASS MURDERER" BY REDS. Berlin, March 26.—The Reichstag was the scene of tumult this afternoon when the Communist deputy Keenen referred to President Hindenburg as a "mass murderer," referring to his war record. After the excitement had abated the Reichstag approved a salary of 60,000 marks for the president and expenses of 120,000 (approximately $20,000.)

DAILY POEM

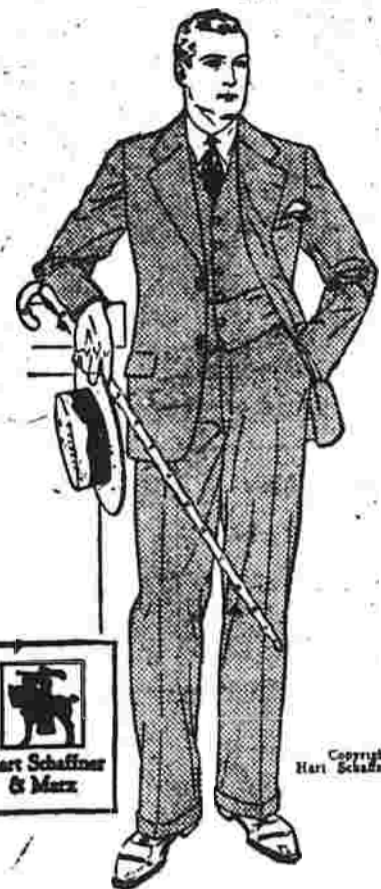

A WARNING
Hey, look where you're goin'. Your nerves are too tense. Your drivin' is showin' you haven't much sense. You'll save but a minute through speedin' along and all there is in it is gettin' in wrong.

You may think you're plucky, an' game at the wheel. In truth you're just lucky. Say, how would you feel, if some little kiddie were hit by your car. The roads are right skiddy. How foolish you are!
This ragged and tearin' has gotta be stopped. The thrill of it's wearin' till good sense is dropped. Your nerves will be wrecked. Take your foot off that gas. It seems you expect that no auto must pass. Say, where are ya goin', an' why all the speed? Some common sense

A PUZZLE A DAY

Almost any day you will find hanging around the Cleveland Indians training camp in Florida, two small hero lovers. Both boys are ardent fans and have been collecting baseball supplies for a year. John has the better collection. He owns 2 balls, 5 new bats and 3 gloves. While poor Jim has 3 old bats, 4 balls, and a glove. So one morning he said, "Hey John! I'll trade two balls for one of your bats." "Not much," returned John, "I want my five bats." "Say, if I can make my three bats into six, will you trade?" asked Jim shyly. "Sure, when that happens the bat is yours," was the reply.
Can you tell me whether or not Jim got the new bat?
Last puzzle answer:
The diluted crankcase oil was divided into two grades, very poor and fair. For the lowest grade he received 4 cents for every 7 quarts, and for the fair grade 12 cents a quart. On Monday he sold 49 quarts of the low grade for 23 cents and 1 quart of the fair for 12

OPEN FORUM

HELP THE CHILDREN

Editor of The Herald: I have donated to the Near East Relief Fund, I have agreed to say a word for this worthy cause in the local theatres this evening and I agreed to write this letter to your worthy publication.

Therefore, I feel that I have a right to ask the citizens of Manchester to give a little thought to the Near East Relief campaign. I would like to start by transposing the saying, "The strong must support the weak" to "The strong should support the Weak." The latter appeals but does not dictate.

This great country of ours has always been ready to do the "Big Brother act." We have never, however, given money and help in a more worthy cause than the Near East Relief for until we assumed this responsibility thousands of little boys and girls who know no father or mother were actually eating grass on the hillsides.

I am not going to debate the question whether Manchester should give to this campaign. This is not a controversial question. Our real job is to get Manchester men and women to pause long enough to visualize just what suffering, hardship, even torture these children have endured. It is very difficult in prosperous, happy Manchester for men and women to realize the extent of the suffering of these little tots.

Maybe, it would be well for fathers and mothers to, for a moment, imagine their children torn from their homes and left not only parentless but homeless, foodless, clothingless—just absolutely destitute.

Oh, I can hear some fathers and mothers saying that they have a big job on their hands to support their own children. All of those arguments are but alibis, falsely built up to attempt to shield a selfish viewpoint—one which practically says: "So long as I have plenty to eat I should worry about others."

Here is still another angle. There are people in Manchester who can well afford to support these worthy causes but who never give a cent. People who do give do so for the love of humanity—they derive their compensation from the wonderful feeling that follows the execution of a kindly act toward humanity—the donors do not care for the publication of their names but why not, Mr. Editor, check over the list of those who can give but never do so and publish their names under the caption, "Manchester's Tight-Wads."

In closing I may say that we want only those who can afford to give to do so. Everyone can give a little. The lives of 35,000 kiddies are at stake. If that one statement won't propel every human being into giving something, why say more?

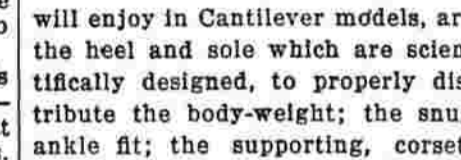

For 35,000 Orphans. WILLARD B. ROGERS.

Hammond, Ind. — Several furniture dealers and five lawyers recently contended for hours in the city court for the possession of a bed belonging to Mary Ware, colored. The bed had been seized on a judgment. It was worth about $10.

Attractive Styles and Enjoyable Comfort

In Shoes For Spring and Summer

While the forepart of Cantilever Shoes is trim and graceful, room is provided for all your toes to lie straight and bend and feel happy!

Other comfort ideas, which you will enjoy in Cantilever models, are the heel and sole which are scientifically designed, to properly distribute the body-weight; the snug ankle fit; the supporting, corset-like instep.

If your feet are now in good condition, keep them so by wearing Cantilever Shoes.

Foot health is priceless. Safeguard it, as you do the health of your whole physique! How can you be happy if your feet give out?

BUCKINGHAM

The writer read a letter a few days ago that was mailed from Yochow, Province of Hunan, China, on December 26, 1925, and the same reached Manchester one month later, about Feb. 1, 1926.

The letter was from Rev. Hesser C. Ruhl, formerly pastor of the Buckingham church, and he tells of the birth of a baby boy in his home on June 3, 1925, who has been named Foster Gehring Ruhl.

The clerk of the church has a letter from the granddaughter of Connecticut's war governor, William A. Buckingham. She offers a "bust" of former Governor Buckingham to the Congregational church if they will accept the same as a gift from the governor's granddaughter.

The annual meeting of the Buckingham Cemetery Association will be held in the church vestry on April 5, at 7:30 p. m.

The Hartford East conference of Congregational churches will meet with the Buckingham church on May 5.

There is a lot of brush lying along the highways that has been cut and should be burned. Section 1424 of the General Statutes was amended in 1925 authorizing the State Forest Fire Warden or the First Selectman of any town wherein any cut brush or tree growth remains within fifteen feet of the traveled portion of any highway, may order the owner or tenant of land adjacent to highway, if cut by him or his authority, or other person who cut same, or caused the same to be cut as the case may be, to remove or burn such brush or tree growth.

The order must be in writing giving not less than ten days or more than sixty days to comply with the order. Any person who shall fail to comply with the order is liable to a fine of not more than $100 and shall be liable for any expenses incurred by the town or state in removing said cut brush or tree growth.

COVENTRY

Saturday night the Grange will serve a chicken dinner to the members of the Connecticut Agricultural College basketball team and their friends.

The ladies want to be practicing up on baking the chocolate cake to be judged at the Grange meeting. The women at this meeting will have a chance to compete again at the East Central Pomona meeting to be held at Columbia next month.

Mrs. Bessie Williams of New Britain is visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter S. Haven.

The old Brewster homestead, now occupied by Bryon W. Hall is being built over into a two family house.

Some Manchester people have purchased a piece of property from William E. Orcutt and expect to build before long.

Roads are in a terrible condition and very few are safe for autos until the frost is all out of the ground.

Several farmers have their baby chicks already. Friends in town will be pleased to hear that Mrs. H. B. Elliott of Manchester, formerly Miss Hannah E. Kingsbury is doing splendidly with her gift shop she has opened in her home. The Rag Rugs she makes are lovely. She had made over one hundred this past year on her loom.

WAPPING

Debbie Donahue who has been quite seriously sick with grip and pleurisy and under the care of Dr. Holmes, has so far improved as to be able to return to his work in Hartford on Thursday morning.

Miss Almira Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Adams is recuperating at the home of her brother, Lester Adams in Manchester, after suffering with an attack of tonsillitis.

YANKS TO LEAVE

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26.—Having watched his Yankees win their fourth straight exhibition game by defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 4, Col. Jacob Ruppert left for home late last night, predicting that the Yanks would finish in the first division. This is to be the Yanks' last day in camp.

GIANTS ARE FIT

Sarasota, Fla., March 26.—The Giants were ready to bid farewell to Sarasota today and head for Tampa, where they will hook up with the Senators for an exhibition tour. Three games of the series will be played at the Washington stronghold before the team fits the trail for home. Nehf's broken finger furnishes the only casualty and Terry's non-appearance the only worry.

BRIDGEPORT PREPARING FOR ITS SHRINE BALL

Bridgeport, March 26.—James C. Burger, of Denver, Colo., imperial potentate of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of North America, accompanied by his wife, will be the guest of honor of Pyramid Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., here on April 9, at the occasion of the annual Shrine ball. Hundreds of Shriners and their friends are expected to participate in this, the most brilliant public function of the order of all the year.

NO MORE CONSTIPATION FOR HIM

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran and 100% effective

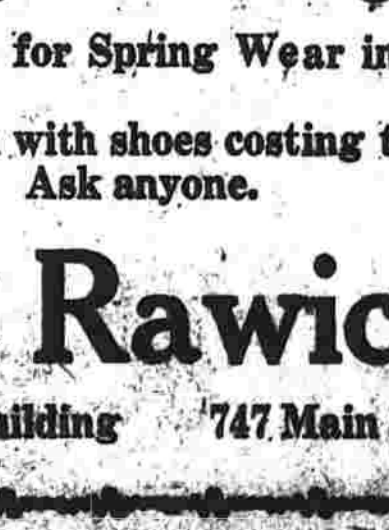

Mr. Dymbar tried resorts and mineral springs in vain. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieved him. Read his testimonial: "I suffered from indigestion and constipation and varied seasons and mineral springs, which only gave temporary relief. None gave permanent relief except Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I consider your bran one of the greatest inventions of this age."

Yours sincerely, L. D. Dymbar, Sparrowsburg, S. C.

Constipation is the bane of health. Over forty diseases may be traced to it. It fills the system with vile poisons and saps strength. You can't afford to ignore its warning signals. Dizziness, bad breath, spots before the eyes, are just a few of the symptoms.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation or your grocer will refund the money. A delicious cereal, ready to serve. Fine with milk or fruit. Use in cooking too.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan, and sold by grocers everywhere. Served at leading hotels and restaurants.

NEED PERMIT TO ENJOY JOKE AT SYRACUSE U.

Quip Must Have Sanction Before Laugh Is Legal at Methodist University.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Students at Syracuse University, a Methodist institution, may not laugh at a joke unless the quip has the official sanction of the university administration.

At least that is the interpretation of students to the latest move of Chancellor Charles W. Flint in naming the vice-chancellor, William P. Graham, as official censor. The censorship was imposed following three issues of the only humorous publication at the university, the Salt Shaker. Jokes about prohibition, about co-eds and those at the expense of the religious executives, are notable by their absence in the latest issue of the Salt Shaker, which the Chancellor has decreed shall be literary rather than humorous in the future.

A Sad Tale

The tale of alleged humorous publications at the Syracuse university has been a sad one. The Orange Peel, the best known of these publications was suspended and banished by the late Chancellor, James R. Day. In the subsequent years students, time and again, petitioned the administration to sanction a humorous publication, but each request was met with blunt and short refusal.

Then the students decided to start the Salt Shaker without university official approval. It was tolerated until the Chancellor decided to shake the Salt Shaker and in this process C. Albro Newton, one of the editors, found himself an ex-editor and many members of the Salt Shaker staff were back at their studies. Miss Mary Landenberg, it was announced, would thereafter be the sole editor.

The Blue Pencil

She was called into conference with Chancellor Flint, who informed her that hereafter the vice-chancellor would wield the blue pencil and scissors on all copy which was intended for publication. Furthermore Miss Landenberg was informed, the future trend of the Salt Shaker should be to developing appreciation of literature rather than humor.

There is much doubt if the Salt Shaker will survive after the end of the present term, for literary publications at Syracuse university have died sudden deaths from lack of support, and there is no publication at the institution which admits it aspires to development of literary appreciation.

STATE TAGGING AUTOS WITH BAD EQUIPMENT

Nearly fifteen thousand motor vehicles have been tagged in Connecticut by the state police in the past nine months for defects in equipment, chiefly as to headlights according to information which the state motor vehicle department has furnished to Secretary of the State, Aaron H. Grout of Vermont. This system, the motor vehicle department reports, has worked out satisfactorily. It puts upon the motorist the burden of seeing to it that his headlights are in proper focus and otherwise in conformity with the state requirements. It supersedes a plan tried out for awhile last year under which headlight tests for the general public were made by the state police in their several barracks throughout the state. The state police department found that this activity required the attention of more of its men than it could spare from other police duties, and the tagging method was inaugurated. They began tagging vehicles found on the highways whenever anything wrong was discovered as to their equipment.

In thus tagging a car, the police officer gives the operator a tag or leaves one in the car and keeps a stub on the tag in each case showing the registration number of the car and what apparently is the matter with the equipment. This notation corresponds with that written on the tag left for the use of the operator, who is expected to have the improper condition remedied and to notify the state police headquarters at the earliest possible moment that this has been done. When this assurance is not received by the state police within a reasonable time, the department takes it upon itself to check up the car in question. The plan is believed to have eliminated much of the headlight glare menace.

It was in connection with a proposal to formulate a new plan to deal with the headlight situation in Vermont that the secretary of that state made inquiry as to the procedure followed in Connecticut.

STEALS POCKETBOOK

Greensburg, Ind.—That crime has spread to the ranks of the canine family was shown recently when a dog stole a pocketbook containing $40 in $10 bills from Mrs. Archie Brown, near here. She was at a traction station and left the pocketbook in a basket while buying a ticket. The dog stole the pocketbook and ran to a nearby alley where he was tearing the pocketbook apart when discovered.

POISON DOSE SECRET

Bicknell, Ind.—Bert Tedrow, 30 took six bichloride of mercury tablets and although he suffered intense pain 24 hours, refused to tell the physicians the cause of his illness. Domestic troubles caused the act.

FREAK LINGUISTIC CASE.

Honolulu.—A freak linguistic case, same to light here recently in the court of domestic relations. Robert Soares, born here and now 11, cannot speak the language of Hawaii; that is, English, nor can he speak Portuguese, the language of his forebears. He is a fluent speaker of Japanese, however. He has lived with a Japanese couple since his parents deserted him.

BARRED WHEN BABY.

Terra Haute, Ind.—Joseph Kasprick, 23, of Jugo-Slavic descent, arrived at Clinton to make his home with his mother and sister. He has not seen them for 20 years, admittance to the United States having been refused him on account of illness when he was three years old. He served in the army 18 months in order to obtain a passport to this country.

Timely Tips For Prudent Housekeepers

BLAB HAS ITS PRICE

Because his wife talked too much, we are told, Prince Anton Bibesco has left his job as Rumanian minister to Washington. The loquacious wife, it will be recalled, is the Princess Bibesco, daughter of a famous mother who also talked too much, none other than Margot Asquith herself!

Many of us recall the furore and alarm that greeted Margot Asquith's "Memoirs." None so high as to escape unscathed. As wife of Britain's prime minister, Mrs. Asquith had mingled with Britain's mightiest. She had wined them and dined them.

She had had confidences better left unconfided. Margot Asquith knew things that would make a nation totter. What woman could resist? Especially with publishers pleading for the chance to give her golden shekels for doing it?

The books came forth. Old friendships ended. Scandal and grief touched innocent families of folks "written up" in Margot's book.

Margot Asquith's memoirs were only the forerunner of a stream of behind-the-scenes stuff which began to pour from publishing houses. Everyone began telling secrets best left untold, and was royally paid for it.

MUDD CENTER FOLKS ARE WAITING PATIENTLY TO SEE THE WORK OF EDGAR SNOW WILLOCK, THEIR TALENTED POET AND WRITER, FLASHED ON THE SILVER SCREEN AND CAN NOT UNDERSTAND WHY THE HOLLYWOOD MOGULS KEEP PASSING UP HIS PLOTS—MRS. WILLOCK, HOWEVER, HAS HER OWN THEORY AS TO WHY HER HUSBAND'S EFFORTS HAVE NOT BROUGHT HOME THE BACON...

THE STORY OF TOAST.

By Dr. L. A. Rumsey.

Toast is food, one of the best, the most easily digested, the most completely assimilated of all foods prepared for man. To toast a slice of bread is to develop and bring out the individual flavor of each ingredient and then to seal it in. The sugars in the outside layers of the honeycombed crumb are caramelized, changed into golden goodness. Tiny shreds of gluten, the life sustaining proteins of the wheat, are parched; roasted into crispness. The moist crumb absorbs and holds the flavors imprisoned between two crisply golden walls of toasted crumb. The bread itself was already the most completely digestible of all our foods. Yet toasting has improved it.

The human body assimilates the food we eat only after it has been completely digested. Properly toasting good bread has prepared it for easier and quicker assimilation.

A slice of bread toasting on the breakfast table delights the eye as it takes on that deep golden brown color. It stimulates the appetite, creates hunger as the delightful aroma of toasting bread reaches the nostrils. The desire to eat culminates in crisp, tender, crunchy bites of freshly buttered toast, with a wheaty flavor that appeals for more, until the food hunger is satisfied completely.

The proper way to make perfect toast is at the table. Cold, stale, soggy toast, piled three or four slices deep, carried from the kitchen to the table, has lost its stimulating value to the appetite. Watching it, smelling it, anticipating its goodness is half the battle. Quickly buttered while piping hot, the food value of the butter is added to the toast. The flow of gastric juices is quickened, the whole digestive system is toned up and appetite is created in preparation for the desired food. An electric toaster is practically a necessity for the breakfast table, as well as a great convenience in preparing other meals.

ANDOVER

Miss Laura Hills of Gilead was a recent visitor of Miss Essie Frink. Miss Esther Jones spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Capole, of Stamford.

Due to the illness of the Rev. E. J. Cook, regular pastor of the Congregational church, the Rev. Lester J. Kregel of the Hartford Theological Seminary, preached at that church Sunday morning. It is thought that Mr. Cook will be able to return to service this week.

Charles Backus spent Thursday in Hartford.

Charles Phelps has returned home after spending several days in New York.

The Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening will be in charge of a Chinese speaker, who will give an illustrated lecture on China. This is the first special meeting held by the society since the electric lights have been installed, and it is hoped that a large number will attend. The meeting will begin at seven o'clock, as usual.

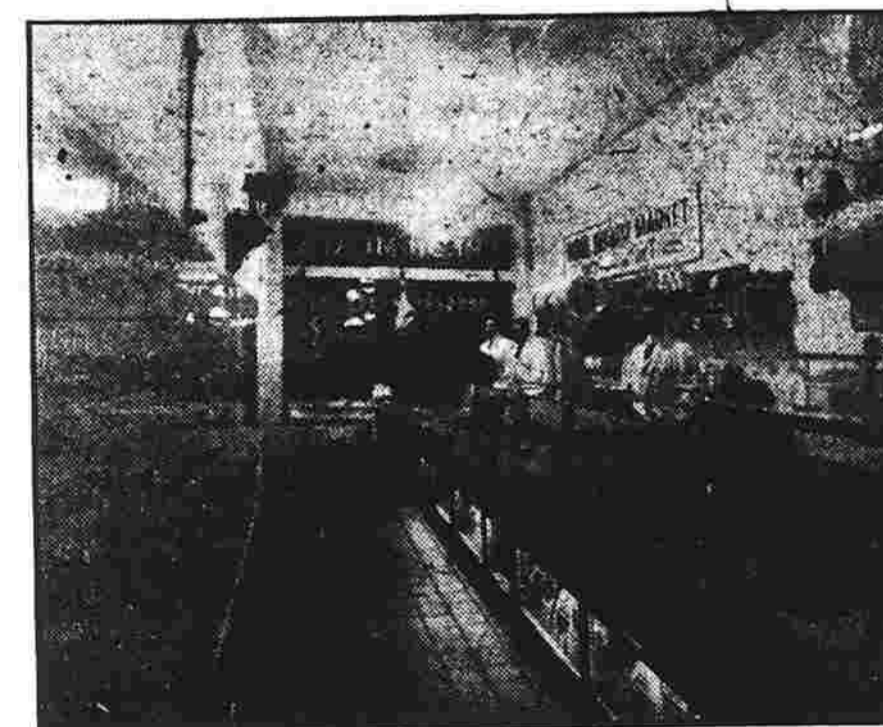

The cantata which was to have been given on Good Friday will not be presented this year, due to the recent illness of the choir leader, and the short time in which to hold rehearsals. However, there will be a special service held the evening of Good Friday, the details of which will be announced later.

Rehearsals have been started by the Grange orchestra which is organized under the leadership of Wallace Hillard. The players are as follows: Ha Hamilton, pianist;

Lois Caswell, Edward Gatchell, Everett Allen and Holden Wright. Cecil Smith will give a dance in the town hall Saturday evening. The dances will be half round and half square.

that is cut from shallow, polluted ponds or polluted rivers will contain intestinal organisms that are not safe.

Any dirty, cloudy, ice may be infected as well as polluted and should not be used in such a way that it comes in contact with food or water.

The greatest danger connected with ice lies in improper handling. If ice is dragged across dirty streets and sidewalks, peddled in dirty cars and handled by unclean hands, that may carry typhoid and other disease germs, there is danger.

Clear ice may or may not be free from danger and dirty or cloudy ice should be regarded with suspicion. It should not be placed in water or in food which is to be eaten uncooked.

It is impossible to overestimate the danger resulting from the handling of ice by unknown persons if the ice is placed in direct contact with drinking water.

Consequently in hotels, cars, stations and similar places where intelligent personal supervision is impracticable those furnishing the water should be required by law to adopt such means of cooling water as do not require direct contact of the ice with the water that is being cooled.

Raps Cigarette Smoking Among School Children

Cigarette smoking, one of the evils which high school authorities all over the state are seeking to abate, was the subject on which Professor Edwin Brush, former Chautauqua entertainer, who is living in Manchester for the present, addressed the student body of the South Manchester high school at assembly yesterday afternoon. His subject was "The Dangers of the Cigarette."

In a most interesting manner, Professor Brush, who is also a magician, told of the various poisons contained in the paper tubes. He said cigarettes contain carbon monoxide. While used in a small quantity, Prof. Brush said that continual use results in the breaking down of tissues of the body and is injurious to a person's health.

The speaker said he did not oppose the use of tobacco in other forms by adults. Prof. Brush asserted that the sale of cigarettes is a menace to the tobacco business inasmuch as the cigarettes are, to a great extent, adulterated.

Prior to his talk, Mr. Brush entertained his audience with some sleight-of-hand tricks. He revealed the nature of the entertainment which he will provide in the high school hall April 1. Today, Mr. Brush is giving a similar demonstration and talk at New Britain high school. He is making a tour of the state in which he is including the majority of the larger high schools.

Prof. Brush is about to enter the Keith circuit.

CONN. DRAFTERS TO COMPETE IN HOME PLANNING

Gas Companies Foster Competition Among Architects to Bring Out Best Residential Designs.

Connecticut architects are eligible to compete in the new nationwide contest now being conducted by the American Gas Association, of which practically all Connecticut gas companies are members, to bring before the public plans of a selected number of well designed houses which lend themselves to suburban and residential localities and which incorporate adequate and economical provision for gas service. The winning plans will be available to homebuilders in Connecticut in the future as a guide in laying plans for new homes.

The contest calls for plans for a six-room house, twenty-five hundred dollars will be distributed among nine prize winners, and in addition, five plans will be chosen for honorable mention.

The competition will make it possible for every home owner or prospective home owner to secure plans that allow for the most modern and efficient gas appliances and piping. In the past many builders have overlooked the great convenience of gas service in the home, and the competition is planned to offset this. The architect will be able to build homes that will make living more comfortable for the owner.

The terms of the contest and other information on the uses to which gas service may be applied in charge to anyone who wishes to the home will be furnished without charge if he applies to the Architectural Advisor, William Adams Dallas, care of the American Gas Association, 342 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.

PACT IN BALKANS SAID TO DEPEND ON MACEDONIA

Appeal Is Made to Stop Opposition to Central Europe Peace by Revolutionists.

By CONSTANTINE STEPHANOFF

Sofia, Bulgaria.—The whole problem of the successful conclusion of a Balkan Pact hinges around the Macedonian question, according to Professor Miltkoff, the well-known Russian political observer.

Writing in his newspaper, "Poslednia Novosti," the professor declares that in his view the Macedonian problem is the greatest drawback to the consummation of such a Pact, and appeals to the Macedonian Revolutionary Organization to change its revolutionary methods and do all it can to avoid obstructing a Serbo-Bulgarian rapprochement.

Causes Irritation. Professor Miltkoff's article has caused some irritation in Macedonian circles, and a circular has been sent to him informing him that the Macedonians are not hindering the negotiations, but are trying to help the formation of such a Pact in every way possible. The circular states that the Macedonians do not desire to mix in Bulgarian politics, but they desire it to be known to all the world that Macedonians and their patriotic organizations will always oppose such governments as the late Premier Stambolisky's which, they assert, did great harm to the Macedonian cause and its interests.

Replying to the charge of its adoption of revolutionary methods, the circular draws attention to the fact the Macedonians believe that if they laid down their arms they would immediately be persecuted to a great extent, and perhaps massacred, by their enemies.

Ask Freedom. "The Macedonians' refugees will lay down their arms as soon as the Serbian government changes its tactics and allows us the same freedom as its own citizens," the circular states. "All we desire is the elementary right of freedom granted to us by the League of Nations."

"We are ready to lay down our arms and form an autonomous province under the Serbian regime," the circular declares, "but we cannot lay down those arms while the Serbians have deprived us of all our churches and schools, suppressed our local language, and otherwise persecuted us. The change of tactics must first begin at Belgrade."

"We, too, are willing to see the Macedonians become a link for a Serbo-Bulgarian understanding, and the uniting of all southern Slavs. But as long as Macedonians groan under the most oppressive bondage as they do, it will be useless to talk of Macedonians desisting from their revolutionary methods."

MEXICO DECREES FAR REACHING LABOR RIGHTS

New Law Gives Everybody Legitimate Protection at Work or on Strike.

Mexico City.—The "rights of labor" just decreed by President Calles is one of the most far-reaching of any country in the world. The law, an extremely detailed one, was passed by Congress before adjournment in December, but like other laws it is enforced by presidential regulations. This law gives every person the right to engage in any legitimate endeavor, which does not affect the rights of third parties nor offend society.

The interests of a third party are attacked when an effort is made to replace a laborer who has been discharged, or he is unjustly replaced without having first submitted the case to the Board of Arbitration and Conciliation for decision. When a laborer who has been absent from his work, for cause, returns and is denied permission to resume his work the same tribunal must decide the merits of the case, not the employer.

Strikes Offend Society.

Society is offended when a strike having been called an effort is made to replace the workers, without the striking having first been settled by the board—in short, strike-breaking. Or should a short-majority of the workers declare a strike it is illegal for the minority to continue work. The administrative body, the Board of Arbitration and Conciliation, has the right to employ all necessary federal agencies to prevent a violation of the rights of the third party, or an offense to society. This body has been functioning some time under the terms of the Constitution, but the regulations give it additional powers. There are many unique instances of its operation. A firm with a large number of employees, but heading for the rocks in the general depression asked some months ago to reduce its personnel. The board explained that it would be necessary for a member to examine the books. The consent was given. The auditor found on the books an account carried for a branch which had closed its doors several months before. He informed the management that it would have to continue the employees on the payroll. When told this would prove impossible, the auditor replied that it would become necessary therefore for him to declare the firm bankrupt. Anxious to avoid this the firm agreed to continue. Now it has closed its doors flat broke. The employees still have an asset and the firm as a liability, three months pay due each.

Club Closed. The discharge of one colored waiter at the Mexico City Country Club came near causing a diplomatic incident. He appealed his case to the labor body and with its approval called a general strike of all the employees of the Country Club. They closed the gates and declined to allow those within to leave or those without to enter. The American Ambassador was on the inside, but the American shield on the front of his car had the desired effect and the gates were opened for him.

The law and its regulations, however, have their good side. Until quite recently the Mexican laborer has been little better than a slave. Under the new law he is to have better living and working conditions, liability insurance, old age pensions and the proper care of expectant mothers.

CONN. CO. RUNS BUSES ON 180 HIGHWAY MILES

Bus Transportation Has Progressed Rapidly as an Auxiliary to Trolley Service in This State.

In the transportation service performed by the Connecticut Company, the bus, today, holds an important place according to the Connecticut Committee on Public Service Information, which states that in July 1921 and to date has established 25 bus routes throughout the state. Of these routes, 17 are within cities and 8 are suburban or interurban. The routes cover a total of 180 miles of highway. This service is supplementary to the company's rail service, operating over 719 single track miles. The company's rail cars operate an average of 81,000 miles per day and its buses an average of 90,000 miles per day, a total of 171,000 miles per day.

That the rail service is a vital necessity and will continue to form the backbone of the transportation facilities in Connecticut was clearly demonstrated during the severe storms in February, when it was physically impossible, except in a few instances, to operate over highways and the only means of transportation for a few days was the trolley service.

The place of the bus in railway transportation is described by Ldeius S. Storrs, managing director of the American Electric Railway Association and former head of the Connecticut Co., as follows: "The bus has proved a great and in supplement service. It has not demonstrated its ability to supplant the electric car, largely owing to its inability to handle crowds quickly, but it is useful in serving new territories when traffic does not warrant the laying of rail lines. No one who knows bus operating costs and appreciates the need of a large vehicle, such as the trolley, will contend that buses are going to supplant street cars."

MIDGETS FEATURE BILL AT THE STATE

Little People Stage Entertaining Review—Rest of Bill and Picture Good.

(By Member Herald Staff.) Leo Singer's Midgets appeared at the State theater last night in a review of twelve scenes. They were received by a crowded house and were warmly applauded. This act was the headliner on a bill of three numbers. The other vaudeville acts are good and the picture program is one of the best that has been presented recently.

The first act on the vaudeville bill is Ellen Harvey. Miss Harvey dances on a tight wire and she does a good job. She is clever and has succeeded in doing one stunt few other wire dancers can do. She balances on one foot crouching close to the wire, let the other foot reach toward the floor and steps up on to the wire again. She goes across the stage in that manner, and does it with apparent ease.

WINTER BACKFIRES AND SCARES SPRING AWAY

New York, March 26.—A north-west gale, accompanied by rain and snow, gripped the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras to Maine today, bringing to an abrupt halt the spring-like weather that had been prevailing. Freezing temperatures are predicted for tomorrow.

Rain was general this morning seaboard, and inland the storm was from Virginia to Maine along the coast as far south as Maryland. In New York City the storm was ushered in by a rain squall.

READY FOR EGG HUNT
TOMORROW AT 10 A. M.

"White House" Grounds Will Swarm With Little Folks; Scouts Will Help—The Prizes and Rules.

Plans have been completed for the Easter Egg Hunt to be held on the "White House" grounds tomorrow at 10 a. m. Boys and girls between the ages of six to ten will be the only ones allowed to participate in the hunt. The "White House" grounds will be laid out in four sections, one section will be for girls below six years of age, who should in as many cases as possible be accompanied by their parents. The second section will be for boys below the age of six, while the third and fourth sections will be for boys and girls from six to ten years of age. There will be a prize for the child finding the most eggs in his or her section.

Director Washburn advises that all the participants bring with them some small basket, paper bag or card board box to put their eggs in. Capt. Shaw's Girl Scouts will be on hand to supervise the girls' sections while Scout Master Ineson will have a detail of Boy Scouts to oversee the boys' section. The boundaries of each section will be plainly marked and any contestant going over the boundary lines into another section is automatically out of the contest. Sharp eyes and an observance of these simple rules will reward the boy or girl that is on the alert.

The eggs will not be placed in difficult spots and may be readily found, but contestants must look for them. Two children cannot help each other, that is, put all eggs found into one basket; each child must look for his own. However, the smaller children below the ages of six may receive some guidance by those accompanying them. Should the weather interfere the hunt will be held the next clear Saturday.

MRS. R. K. ANDERSON TO ASSIST SESSIONS

North End Organist and South Methodist Church Artist in Joint Recital Tonight.

Mrs. R. K. Anderson, organist and music director at the Second Congregational church, will appear in joint organ recital with Archibald Sessions, organist and director at the South Methodist church at 8 o'clock tonight. This will be the sixth in a series of organ recitals Mr. Sessions has been presenting during the Lenten season.

Mr. Sessions will play the numbers on the first half of the program while Mrs. Anderson will play those on the last half. The program follows:
 Choral and Variations Mendelssohn
 Prizesong (Meisterlieders) Wagner
 Pastorale Scriabin
 Souvenir Tchaikowski
 Marche Triomphale Callaerts
 Berceuse Faulkes
 Sunset and Evening Bells Federlein
 Chanson sans Paroles Debussy
 On Wings of Song Mendelssohn

FIREWORKS EXPECTED
AT 5TH DIST. MEETING

Despite the illness of Mrs. Laura Loomis, district treasurer, tonight's special meeting of the "Fighting Fifth" district will be carried out as per schedule. The meeting is called for eight o'clock.

It is expected by those who have been following the meetings in the past that tonight's meeting will end as the others have—with nothing accomplished.

The purpose of the meeting is an attempt to have taxpayers take some action on the obligations which the district has assumed as a result of recent improvements made at the schoolhouse. In the past few months several meetings have been called for the same purpose but they have resulted in nothing being done. Each time, Committeeman Loomis wants a movement for action regarding meeting of the current expenses, the opposing faction votes to adjourn and the motion is always carried.

The last session broke all time records inasmuch as it ended in less than a half hour. The meetings usually take four or five hours.

AUTOS COLLIDE
 A Hudson and a Ford came together yesterday afternoon at the junction of Chestnut and Park streets. The driver of the Ford, Russell Burnett, of 58 Chestnut street, was placed under arrest for driving without a license. The investigation was conducted by Officer John McGinn.

The large car, driven by Russell E. Van Rye of Pearl street, Hartford, was proceeding north on Chestnut street and the other automobile was approaching from the east on Park street. They came together and the Ford was damaged to some extent.
