MURDERS GIRL, KILLS SELF IN SPEEDING TAXI

Leaves Note in Verse That Shows Intent; New York Tragedy Follows a Ride in Central Park.

New York, March 31.—Inside a speeding taxicab, a youth shot and killed a girl, apparently his sweetheart, early today, and then turned his gun on himself, dying shortly afterwards.

The cause of the tragedy was un-revealed, although a series of notes were found on the dead youth which indicated he had carefully planned the murder and suicide.

Wrote in Verse.

The girl is believed to be Christine Spagon, in her early twenties, and the youth, Peter Patrissi, 25, a mechanic. These names were mentioned in the letters found on the youth.

A note written within the past 24 hours read:

"I'm standing on the threshold of eternity at last."

"As reckless of the future as I have been of the past."

This was signed "Peter."

Another missive dated March 30, unsigned, said: "Tragic day for us, Christine and me. I bought a spring coat and wrist watch for her yesterday."

Edward J. Strickler, taxi driver, said he picked up the pair at 72d street and Columbus avenue after they had stepped from another taxi and were arguing excitedly.

The girl directed Strickler to drive through Central Park. After riding for half an hour, Strickler said, the girl tapped on the glass and told him to drive to a house on East 22d street.

Hears Shots.

As Strickler was crossing this street at Third avenue he heard two shots inside the cab. Turning he saw the girl slumped down on the seat of the cab with the man's head resting on her shoulder.

Strickler drove to a police station where detectives took the lifeless body of the girl from the cab. The man died before an ambulance arrived.

The dead girl wore a sealskin coat, velvet slippers, red hat and flesh-colored stockings.

Connecticut Girl.

The pretty young woman was identified this afternoon as Mrs. Christine Spagon, 22, member of a prominent family near New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Antonia Pfohler, proprietor of a rooming house at 212 East Eighty-first street, said the victim had lived with her for three years up to seven months ago. The girl had been living apart from her husband, Mrs. Pfohler said, but a reconciliation had been effected last fall and they had gone off together.

Mrs. Pfohler said that the Spagon girl came of a prosperous family living on a large farm near New Haven, and that her father's name is "Mark."

CONSTRUCTION COMPANY TO BUILD SPUR TRACK

Manchester Concern to Put in North End Siding—Ware- house to Be Built.

The Manchester Construction Company has been awarded the contract to install 500 feet of railway in April place for Albert Heller and Max Levitt. The switch which joins the main line of the N. Y. N. H. & H. E. R. was installed some time ago by the railroad's workmen.

The local concern demonstrates through obtaining this contract that no branch of the construction field is outside its scope. Though the company has not built spur tracks previously it employs engineers who are thoroughly versed in such jobs.

The spur track will lead to a warehouse and coal yard to be constructed soon. The construction company expects to complete installing the spur by May 1.

"We wished for a daughter but we are mighty proud of this boy," Chaplin said today. "He weighs seven pounds."

Mrs. Chaplin was formerly Lita Grey, a motion picture actress. She is only 18 years old and was married in Empalme, Mexico, when 16 years old.

CALLS COOLIDGE "LOVELY BOY"

But Then, She Is 91 Years Old and Only Woman U. S. Senator.

Washington, March 31.—President Coolidge is a "lovely boy," the only woman who ever sat in the United States Senate, Mrs. Rebecca L. Felton, of Georgia, paid this compliment to the President today.

Mrs. Felton is 91.

"I like the President," she said, "and we are good friends. He visited Georgia once while vice-president. I was the only woman he posed with for a photograph—of course, besides Mrs. Coolidge. I still have the photograph."

Mrs. Felton visited the White House "for a chat" with the President while here to attend the unveiling of a statue to Dr. Crawford W. Long, of Georgia, in the capitol's Statuary Hall. She said she found the President "talkative."

PARKING HEARING ON MONDAY NIGHT

Board Wants Expression of Sentiment from Main Street Merchants.

Last night's traffic congestion on Main street in the business section of Manchester between 6 and 9 plainly demonstrated the need of some sort of restrictions on automobile parking. Many motorists were forced to leave their cars on side streets a long distance from the center of business. Those who attended the theaters were unable to find a space to leave their machines unless they arrived on the street just after supper time.

Calls Hearing.

In order to clear the way for a parking law that will meet with the approval of the local merchants, the Board of Selectmen has called a hearing for Monday night at the Hall of Records and all the merchants and anyone else interested are urged to attend. The hearing will open at 8 o'clock.

The board proposes an hour's limit on Main street from the Center to School street. That would force all who intended going to the theaters to stay off Main street. It would also curtail the "family gatherings" which are usual occurrences along the street on Tuesday and Saturday nights. The board realizes something must be done and merely wants an expression on the question from those interested.

BRIAND FINANCING PLAN TO WIN AT LAST

Socialists Agree to Refrain from Voting to Prevent New Cabinet Crisis.

Paris, March 31.—France appears to have been spared a new cabinet crisis. The socialist deputies in caucus today decided to refrain from voting on the financial project of the Briand cabinet.

This action combined with the action of the Radical Socialists' decision to support the project or to abstain from voting, makes it practically certain that the project will squeeze through with a narrow margin.

The continued decline of the franc, although minimized by the finance ministry, is expected to strengthen the government's position.

All of the ministry at this time was characterized as "extremely dangerous," it being pointed out that defeat of Briand would plunge the nation into an unprecedented financial chaos.

ELOPE ON HALF DOLLAR MEET AN ADVENTURE

Boston Couple, Afoot, Get Bridgeport - Stamford Lift But Car Proves Stolen.

Boston, March 31.—Eloping on a borrowed half dollar proved a hazard for Rose Di Angelo and Stephen Surdurizo, both 21, of this city.

They were walking to New York and had got as far as Stamford, when two young men who had given them an automobile ride were charged with stealing the car. The elopers had just left Bridgeport when they got the ride.

The Stamford police communicated with Stephen's father and the elopers were sent home today.

ACID FIGURES IN BROWNING'S NEW ROMANCE

Somebody Throws It Into Face of 15 Year Old Girl Whom Rich Reator Is to Wed, 'Tis Said.

New York, March 31.—A shadow was cast today over the latest romance of Edward W. Browning, millionaire, who attracted much attention several months ago when he adopted Mary Louise Spas.

Frances Heenan, pretty and fifteen, whom Browning wants to marry, is writhing from burns today following the throwing of acid at her face while she slept by an unidentified person.

Frances lives with her mother, a trained nurse. Browning's new Cinderella girl awoke screaming, but saw nobody.

Doctors cannot say yet whether the blonde Frances' beauty will be disfigured.

Browning has known the girl only a few weeks but has seen her almost every day since then. The wealthy rector intends to announce their engagement when she is sixteen in June, friends said.

Since the strange acid attack, Browning has been a constant visitor at the home of Frances, assuring her that beauty or no beauty, it will make no difference.

Sent Jealousy.

Police believe the acid-throwing was the result of jealousy by a love-stricken girl over Browning's devotion to Frances.

Mary Spas is reported to be due in New York today from Denver, Colorado, because of the death of her sister, who was buried here last week.

Browning adopted Mary, believing her to be sixteen, but the adoption was annulled when it was discovered that she was twenty-one.

NEW BEDFORD GIRL LED ROBBER GANG

Carried a Gun and Directed Operations of "Mob" Guilty of Many Breaks.

New Bedford, March 31.—"From Mill Hill to Gunwoman" is the anti-Laura Jean Jibber, role enacted by sixteen-year-old Emma P. Bennett, according to a confession which police today said she made.

The girl, armed with a pistol, led a gang of bandits in a series of robberies that range from ten-cent groceries to safe blowing. The "mob" mounted in thousands of dollars, police said.

Joseph H. Thomas and Leo McManus were arrested but they shielded the girl. They are said to have given information, however, which led to the arrest of Walter Maciejewski, John Vincenzo and Walter Wawat.

The last three, police said, reverted to the alibi and pointed to Emma as the "brains" of the alleged gang and the one who carried "the gat."

At first, according to police, Emma maintained innocence, but when she discovered what the three had said she made a confession.

Among the robberies she confessed was that of the safe of the Taister-Wills company, where $700 taken.

WEDDED LIFE ONLY LASTED FEW MINUTES

Norristown, Pa., March 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Frickert of this city are believed to hold the world's record for short marriages. A few minutes after the marriage ceremony was performed they quarrelled and separated, according to testimony given in divorce action brought by Mrs. Frickert, yesterday. She was granted a divorce.

Mrs. Frickert testified that on the day of the wedding ceremony her husband told her he had left his money and the wedding ring at home, so she was forced to pay for the license. When they reached home, she said, Frickert refused to repay her for the license or give her the ring and separated in rage.

The Frickerts were married in 1915.

HUGE DISTILLING PLANT RAIDED IN BROOKLYN.

New York, March 31.—A wholesale distilling plant, one of the most complete seized since prohibition, was raided today, four men being captured after a fight.

The plant, located in Brooklyn, furnished two grades of alcohol, police alleged, one for consumption in the "blind-plugs" along the waterfront, and the other, a more expensive grade, for delivery to bootleggers in the residential districts.

340 CONVICTS SAIL FOR DEVIL'S ISLAND

Mourey, Shattuck Butler, Says He'll Escape and Re- turn to New York.

La Rochelle, France, March 31.—La Martinere, the last convict ship afloat, sailed yesterday for French Guiana, carrying 340 lifers and long-term sentenced men.

One of the most notorious of convicts for the South American station in more than two years. They go to Devil's island, notorious penal colony where existence is called living death.

One derelict under stress of emotion, waving good-bye to his sweetheart across the port, collapsed and died.

Amid Bayonets.

The convicts were trotted out of St. Martin's penitentiary between rows of steel-helmeted soldiers with rifles and fixed bayonets, and their step was heavy and faltering.

They wore grotesque figures in ill-fitting, coarse woollen garments, as like sheep they were herded into a small lighter, with two square feet each in which to huddle. But there never was a whisper of revolt from these broken spirits.

Braks He'll be in New York.

One man stood out among the spineless, dejected multitude, stolid, erect, with fierce moustaches. He attracted the attention of all.

"He is Gabriel Mourey," a guard, armed to the teeth, responded to a query. "He is the man who robbed the American banker Shattuck."

Mourey was Shattuck's butler in New York. He locked Shattuck and his wife in a wine cellar of the home and robbed the house and fled. Shattuck personally trailed Mourey to Paris, had him arrested and convicted under the French law.

Mourey heard the comment and smiled confidently as he recognized the Associated Press correspondent who had attended his trial.

"Tell them," he said, "that I will be the butler for some high class society people in New York city inside of two years."

Five mothers and seven sisters were there to wave good-bye and a forlorn hope to departing relatives. There were no wives.

CHENEY BROS. INSTITUTE EMPLOYEES' SAVINGS PLAN

Entirely Optional With Work- ers—Simple and Direct Means of Saving.

The committee has taken the matter up with the local banks and the Building & Loan Association, with the result that a plan has been developed which will permit any employee of Cheney Brothers to save a portion of his earnings.

Under the plan, each employee is authorized to have a certain percentage of his pay deposited in the Savings Bank of Manchester, or the Building & Loan Association.

The plan is as follows:

Directions for Employees.

1. Employees may, at their own discretion, authorize deductions from their weekly pay in multiples of even dollars, halves and quarters of dollars; these deductions to be deposited in either the Savings Bank of Manchester, or the Building & Loan Association.
2. In all cases of deposits governed by these plans the employee will retain possession of their pass books and will have control of the withdrawal of deposits, and amendments at all times of authorizations covering deductions from pay and deposits. This service is designed entirely for the con-

ALCORN BLASTS "GREGORY" AS CHAPMAN PAL

Exposes Missing "Witness" as Ex-Convict Who Was at Sea When He Pretends to Have Seen Chapman.

Hartford, March 31.—That Chapman's star "missing witness," known to the case as "Gregory" and supposed to be able to support Chapman's alibi, is an ex-convict, a member of the Chapman-Anderson gang; that he has been in touch with the office of Judge Groehl, Chapman's chief counsel, for a long time; that his failure to show up in New York after reporting by wire that he was on his way there is attributable to the fact that he was kept out of the country by immigration officials at Rouse's Point on the Canada Line as a deported criminal alien; and that "Gregory" was on the high seas at the time he is alleged to have seen Chapman in New York, was all made public here last night by State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn.

Gregory is the alleged witness who it was reported telegraphed to Groehl from a small town in up-state New York that he would appear as an alibi witness.

Last summer, Gregory went from New York to Hartford with Nathan O. Freedman of the defense counsel, and identified Chapman at the state prison as a man with whom he rode on a train from Springfield, Mass., to New York on October 11, 1924 between 4.10 p. m. and 8.15 p. m.

The patrolman was killed early the next morning too soon for Chapman to have returned to New Britain, according to the attorneys.

Employed on Liner.

Mr. Alcorn said that he now has evidence to show that instead of being on the Springfield-New York train on that date, Gregory was in fact employed on a trans-Atlantic liner as an assistant storekeeper. This information is contained in a statement from Dr. William T. Hanson of the Bridgewater hospital at Bridgewater, Mass.

Mr. Alcorn said he made public this information to support the stand he took Monday at the habeas corpus hearing before Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas at New Haven. At the hearing he called Ray M. Wiley of the Chapman defense staff, "the Springfield alibi expert" and followed it with the statement that "I know more about you and your footprints than you think I do."

The following facts were given out at the state attorney's office:

The correct name of Charles W. Gregory is James Ernest Roland, alias Rowland. He was born May 1, 1885, in Iroquois, Ontario. He is married, his wife is dead and a daughter is dead. A number of years ago, he was in Iroquois, Ontario, was sentenced to the penitentiary at Kingston, Ontario, for ten years for

TRAFFIC COP WAS LIQUOR SALESMAN

Took Orders From Passing Motor- ists, Charge Against Popu- lar Maine Policeman.

Portland, Me., March 31.—Police Traffic Officer William Foley had one of the busiest posts in this city, that in Longfellow Square.

Autoists and pedestrians often noticed that he was on familiar terms with drivers of certain high-priced motors.

Today the city was aghast when Maine's most popular traffic officer and four prominent clubmen were under charges of illegal possession of liquor.

The liquor, federal agents asserted, was sold by a Boston woman bootlegger through the agency of the traffic policeman, Foley. It is alleged, did his salesmanship act while on duty in uniform in Longfellow Square.

The clubmen under arrest are: Roger Vinton Snow, Henry M. Payson, Philip H. James and Albert E. Spiers.

MRS. WHITTEMORE MUST FACE TRIAL

Gang Leader Breaks Agree- ment, Tells Banton a "Tis- sue of Lies."

New York, March 31.—Hunting the fortune in jewels stolen by Richard Reese Whittemore and his "Night Club" bandit gang, detectives, guided by a member of the band, today were searching for a West Side rooming house where part of the accumulated $1,000,000 in loot is believed hidden.

Meanwhile, indictments of two fences, alleged to have bought most of the booty taken by the gang, whom he sold his loot, are expected to be handed down by the Kings County Grand Jury, probably this afternoon.

Hope for Confession.

On the success of the search for the hiding place, and the possibility that the fences, if indicted, will confess, the authorities pin their hope on recovering some portion of the jewels.

Despite District Attorney Banton's promise to free Whittemore's wife if the bandit chief would disclose the names of the fences to whom he sold his loot, it was learned that Whittemore had gone back on his part of the bargain.

"The story told him by Whittemore was a 'tissue of lies,'" Banton said. Whittemore, tried by the Court of Errors by a stipulation filed in the Superior court here today the suit of the Public Utilities Commission of Connecticut and the Waterbury Taxis and Jitneys Co., against the Shore Line Railway Co. of New Haven, is to go straight to the highest court without a preliminary Superior court hearing.

The 1925 session of the State Legislature granted the Shore Line Company the right to operate buses between Saybrook and New Haven. At an earlier day the Public Utilities Commission had granted such a franchise to the Waterbury concern. When the Shore Line buses were started the Waterbury company brought suit for an injunction and damages of $100,000, and the Public Utilities Commission was cited as a co-plaintiff.

SUES HUSBAND AND CHILDREN FOR $100,000

Waterbury, March 31.—Twice has Mrs. Mary Donovan Sheehy of Waterbury, brought and withdrawn evidence proceedings against Michael. Mrs. Donovan today brought suit for $100,000 against the husband and their six children, asking him to pay $25,000 and the children to pay $75,000. Mrs. Sheehy, who sued her husband on the ground of intolerable cruelty, alleging he forced her to work in a factory for her support and refused her medical aid, now contends that Sheehy transferred much of his property to the children to prevent her from obtaining it.

GOV. SMITH RECOVERERS

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—Gov. Al Smith today had virtually recovered from the cold and sore throat which has confined him since Sunday. The governor is expected to return to the capital tomorrow.

TRAFFIC COP WAS LIQUOR SALESMAN

Took Orders From Passing Motor- ists, Charge Against Popu- lar Maine Policeman.

Portland, Me., March 31.—Police Traffic Officer William Foley had one of the busiest posts in this city, that in Longfellow Square.

Autoists and pedestrians often noticed that he was on familiar terms with drivers of certain high-priced motors.

Today the city was aghast when Maine's most popular traffic officer and four prominent clubmen were under charges of illegal possession of liquor.

The liquor, federal agents asserted, was sold by a Boston woman bootlegger through the agency of the traffic policeman, Foley. It is alleged, did his salesmanship act while on duty in uniform in Longfellow Square.

The clubmen under arrest are: Roger Vinton Snow, Henry M. Payson, Philip H. James and Albert E. Spiers.

Countess of Cathcart Starts for Home, Broke

Ashes of Roses a "Flop" and Vera Is Out Full $20,000; No Grouch Against America, However.

New York, March 31.—Vera, the Countess of Cathcart, sailed for her home in England today—"broke."

Her play, "Ashes of Love," has collapsed and she has lost $20,000 on the venture; she is a little lonesome for dear old London and her two kiddies; she is rather worried over the illness of her fiance, Ralph Neale, British playwright and actor, and, besides, she wants to recoup her financial losses by writing for the English newspapers on "My Experiences in America."

She isn't going away bitter as a result of her experiences in the United States—far from it. She bestowed warm praise on American women, calling them brave and intelligent, and she lauded the American press for the stand it took when the immigration authorities at Ellis Island sought to bar her from the country on grounds of "moral turpitude."

"I enjoyed my adventures," she smiled. "At least I kept my sense of humor. I don't know what I would have done without it."

She said her play, "Ashes of Love" failed, not because it was a poor play, but because of bad publicity. It was poor policy to announce, when the play opened in Washington, that it was the story of her life, when it wasn't, she asserted.

Also, the publicity she got when Earl Carroll gave his "wine bath tub" party didn't do her any good—in fact, "it hurt." And besides, she wasn't at the party, she said.

GRIP DOES NOT HIT MANCHESTER SCHOOLS

Although High School is Somewhat Handicapped, Other Schools Have Nearly Full Teaching Staffs.

The present epidemic of grip which is sweeping over the country and which has confined many Manchester residents to their homes, has also raised havoc with the faculty at the South Manchester High school. Despite the epidemic, however, the attendance of students at the school is practically normal. Extreme care on the part of the school authorities in regard to ventilation in the school rooms is responsible for the small amount of sickness among the pupils. There are a remarkable small number of names on the absent list at present. The faculty and student enrollment in all the other schools in the town have been hit more or less by the epidemic but the majority of them report their attendance as practically normal again.

The high school two English teachers, Miss May Thayer and Miss Winnifred Ellis were recently taken ill with the grip. Then Mrs. L. P. Merriman of West Hartford and Mrs. Lena Rand of Wethersfield, who substituted for them, were also stricken with the grip. Now Mrs. Elbert Shelton of Cambridge street, a graduate of Oberlin college, and Miss Mildred Barry of South Windsor, a graduate of New Rochelle College, are filling the vacancies.

This exhibition should prove that his program tomorrow will be well worth seeing.

In addition to Mr. Brush's entertainment, Miss Ada Porter, local contralto soloist, will sing. She will be accompanied at the piano by Miss E. Marion Dorward, supervisor of singing at the South Manchester High school, who recently returned from a supervisors' convention at Atlantic City, N. J. The program will commence at 3:15.

FISHERMEN ALL SET FOR TROUT TOMORROW

About 250 Licenses Issued by Town Clerk Turkington; Some Tips on Getting 'Em.

According to Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington, about 250 licenses for fishing having been issued to local followers of Jack Walton since the first of the year. Tomorrow the law goes off on trout and it is expected that the streams in this neighborhood will be "whipped" by rod experts all day tomorrow, beginning at daybreak.

The law does not go off with relation to the state-leased streams until the 15th of this month.

Expert's Opinion.

A local expert in speaking about trout fishing today said:

"A trout will only take a worm tomorrow. The weather is just right for trout fishing. I would advise the tyro to go out tomorrow at daybreak. Of course, I cannot tell him just where to go. That is something he must find out for himself. But this I will say: that within a radius of three miles of Manchester he can get trout weighing as much as two pounds—maybe. As a matter of fact, John Murdock of Lydallville showed me a trout he caught last year within two miles of Manchester that weighed three and a quarter pounds.

Fish Downstream.

"Always fish downstream although that is against the theory of some of the books. Use any kind of a trouthook from No. 0 down to a No. 2. Use hipboots or waders. Pick out the deep pools under the ripples."

This information comes from a prominent member of the Manchester Fish and Game club. He also wishes to announce that a membership campaign is being conducted by this organization and three prizes will be offered on April 8 at the School street Rec for the person bringing in the most members. These prizes have been contributed by local sportsmen. The club now has 240 members and expects to increase it to 400 or more.

COUNTRY STORE TONIGHT AT THE STATE THEATER

Country Store tonight at the State Theater. As plenty of new presents will be given away, the management spent much time during the past week in procuring a splendid variety to make it a big night. Also two beautiful features will please the most discriminating. The first to be shown: "The Outsider" with Lou Tellegen and Jacqueline Logan in a splendid picture. Indeed, comedy drama "Don't" with Sally O'Neil leading completes the program for the evening.

A fine vaudeville bill comes to the State Thursday, Friday and Saturday containing a varied program properly balanced.

"Koman Troupe" Japanese acrobatic wonders will stir you with their feats for which their race is noted. A bright bit of musical comedy work will be done by Harry Gordon & Co. Arthur and Lydia Wilson will entertain delightfully in a pretty scenic act. Blackface comedy by Raymond and Royce will bring many a good laugh and Twist and Twirl, the name of our last act, reaches a high mark in the art of stepping.

Bebe Daniels featured in the "Splendid Crime" tells through her portrayal the trials and tribulations of a girl crook. This feature will accompany the vaudeville bill just described.

"The Splendid Crime" is packed with fast action, romantic interest, comedy complications and tender drama. The title gets its name from the surprise climax Mr. de Mille has ingeniously introduced and which leads to a snappy, satisfying ending.

Bebe Daniels romps through her role of the lovable little thief with the joyous abandon of a player who has at last found a perfect part and reveals in it her native conclusion that "housebreakin' ain't no work for a lady," her efforts to break away from her crooked companions, her reform and final sacrifice to save the man she loves, develop a host of amusing and semi-dramatic situations.

Neil Hamilton, that magnetic screen find of D. W. Griffith, is Bebe's leading man—the youthful millionaire who prompts her to reform and for whose sake she commits "the splendid crime." Anthony Jowitt and Anne Cornwall are the other two prominent supporting players who assist themselves with considerable distinction.

"The Splendid Crime" is indeed a splendid entertainment in itself.

WAPPING

Questionnaire Night was observed Sunday evening and the service was largely attended. The pastor summarized the statistics of the fifty-six questionnaires recently returned from the local church members and attendants. They revealed that the community sentiment is strongly in favor of federation and of selecting one church building for permanent use and for selecting as such building, the Congregational church.

A special Palm Sunday feature was a half-hour presentation of the Passion week story by means of piano music and the spoken words. Miss Annie Strickland of Highland Park gave both the reading and the music with impressive effect. Miss Esther Sturgeon, of South Manchester, sang a contralto solo, with Miss Strickland playing the accompaniment.

Next Sunday morning at the special Easter service many new members will be received and Communion service will be observed.

The official board of the Methodist church met last Monday evening and voted the following resolution: "That we request the members of a committee of six, to use their influence in securing the Congregational church as a permanent house of worship throughout the entire year."

The committee of six of the Federated church, will meet at the parsonage at 8 o'clock this evening.

Rev. Truman H. Woodward spent the day Monday with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. William D. Woodward of Staffordville.

Miss Betty Stoughton returned to her work in Hartford Tuesday morning after a relapse of the grip.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply with the fingers and works right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

TALCOTTVILLE

The Golden Rule club will meet in the church assembly rooms on Thursday instead of Friday of the week, at 7:30 o'clock.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Blankenburg was the scene of much merriment on Monday evening when they entertained in honor of their nephew, Master Douglas Fisk of Rockville. The evening was given over to music and mystery, music being furnished by the Talcottville junior orchestra, made up as follows, violins, Fred Wood and Marcus Cleveland, Saxophone, Wilbur Smith, Jr. Piano, Alfred Rivenburg and ukulele, Douglas Fisk. Dudley "Houdini" Douglas kept his audience mystified for over an hour by his clever magical work which would do justice to many a professional. Those present were, Arthur, Clifton and John Monaghan, Geo. and Ernest Gardner, Marcus Cleveland, Fred Wood, Alfred Rivenburg, Wilbur H. Smith, Jr. and Dudley Douglas.

Walter Smith is confined to his home by illness.

WHITE AND BLACK IN MURDER DEALS

Ohio Moonshiners, Drawing No Color Line, Sell Homi- cides to Order.

Pomeroy, O., March 31.—With the slaying of James McCumber, victim of a "murder to order" moonshine gang, solved by the confessions of John ("Shorry") Bryant, negro, John Hendrick and Richard Rhodes, authorities believed today that Pomeroy Bend's "mount of horror" would soon have wrested from it the secret of weird murders stretching unsolved far back into the past.

The grand jury was expected to return indictments against the men named in the McCumber shooting and question the trio concerning four other mysterious deaths.

Hendrick was accused of another murder by "King Tim" O'Brien, a former czar of moonshiners, who is alleged to have told Sheriff Rice that he hired Hendrick to murder Almbra Susan Rhodes on May 6, 1923.

McCumber deserted his white wife and went to live with Jerry Nuber and his wife, a negro family, the confession related. While the moonshine was "flowing freely" Nubers, Bryant said he wanted her and was afraid McCumber might object.

McCumber disappeared from the Nuber home March 15. His body, with head battered, was found nine days later in an abandoned cistern. Bryant confessed to "throwing" a fake birthday party to which he invited all the whites and blacks in the gang, except McCumber. While the moonshine was "flowing freely" Bryant said, he sent Dedrick and Rhodes to "get" McCumber.

Hendrick took up the story at this point.

"We forced him to walk with us through the hills for four miles," Dedrick said. "Then we shot him with a revolver. He fell to the ground groaning and then we placed our heels on his neck to stop his noise."

BULLET IN HIS HEART LEAVES HOSPITAL ALIVE

Pennsylvania Miner Carries Lead Slug That Moves With Each Pulse Beat.

Shamokin, Pa., March 31.—With a .32 calibre bullet lodged in his heart, Salvatore Generia, 30, of Girardville, was discharged today from Fountain Springs hospital here.

Generia was shot by a companion on the night of Feb. 12, while celebrating the end of the great coal strike. The bullet entered the outer heart. He was taken to the hospital in a critical condition.

Several attempts were made to move with each heart beat and the photograph was blurred. Rather than submit to an operation, Generia decided to live with the bullet in his heart. Physicians stated that an operation would be fatal.

Olean, N. Y., March 31.—Thomas Sheehan, local contractor, today received a post card from a friend dead two years. As the postal rates had changed since the card was posted, the postmaster called on Sheehan to pay one cent for postage due.

The card was postmarked "Williamsport, Pa., 1920."

Hair Dry, Brittle
from Constant
Waving, Curling

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles in bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, and full of dandruff; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try "Danderine" to offset any bad effects. After the first application your hair will take on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and appear twice as thick and abundant. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing "Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the air to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.—Adv.

FERRYBOAT ASHORE ON CAPTAIN'S ISLAND

Breaks from Towboat While on Way to New York—Light Keeper Takes Off Three Men.

Stamford, March 31.—The strain of wallowing about the Sound in the northeast gale there today was too much for a ferryboat being towed from Bristol, R. I., to a New York dry dock by a tug of the Bronx Towing Co., and the craft broke her hawser and piled up on the rocks off Captain's Island.

With the tug standing by and unable to get close to the vessel, Rudolph Item, keeper of Captain's Island light, put out in a power boat and took off three colored men. Landed at Portchester, the men gave their names as Lloyd Ryan, Elmer Young and John Davis, all Harlem.

The boat is owned by Thomas B. Brennan and was to be overhauled for the summer season. The tug will stand by until the weather abates, expecting meanwhile that the next tide will free the stranded vessel.

Enough attended the whist party on Tuesday evening to fill twelve tables. Winners of the first prizes were Mr. Edwin Cook and Mrs. A. L. Frink; winners of the second prizes or booby prizes were Miss Sally Newton and Clarence White.

Refreshments consisting of sandwiches and coffee were served by the committee which was composed of Mrs. Guy Bartlett, the Misses Evelyn White and Mildred Hamilton, Mr. Frank Hamilton and Burton Lewis. Although it was not "St. Patrick's Day," a humorous incident occurred when, by mistake, the sugar bowls were filled with salt instead of sugar and several were victims of the mistake before it was noticed by the committee in charge.

Miss Sally Newton of Hartford was a visitor in town Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Sam Capolla of Stamford is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ellen Jones.

Miss Mary Capolla was operated on for adenoids and tonsils at the St. Francis hospital in Hartford, Tuesday.

Plans are under way for the lake which is to be built on the Bobik place. Those in charge are Judge Edward Yeomans, Mark Bess and Charles White. It is planned to build a big dam and to flood the large meadow. This will make a splendid spot for the resort lake will be an added attraction to the many people who spend their summers in the country. An added advantage to the spot chosen is the abundance of fine sand which is in evidence. The place is not far from the center of the town and in a pretty location.

ANDERSON FLAYS THE DRY LEAGUE

Former Head Says Anti-Sa- loon Body Double-Crossed Republican Party.

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—Prohibition held the center of the legislative stage at the capital today. A measure proposing a referendum, asking Congress to modify the Volstead law, was to be reported favorably by the Senate Judiciary committee. Senator Karlo, Republican of Queens, sponsor of the proposal, said there were more than enough votes in the upper House to pass the measure. It may be passed within a few minutes after it is reported there.

In the assembly the bill providing for a statewide prohibition enforcement law, which was reported yesterday without recommendation by the codes committee, will be advanced today to the order of final passage.

HERE'S REAL RELIEF FROM NEURITIS

In 24 Hours Pains Cease and
You Get Rest and Comfort
Again.

Torturing pains—the kind that pierce and burn and never seem to let up—that rob a man of his sleep—that make him just a bag of nerves and all worn out.

Those are the pains that dope and coal tar products can only relieve. You've got to get something more lasting.

The quickest, safest and surest way to get rid of the persistent, nerve-racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenru Special Formula No. 2. Be sure you get No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and notice how in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced if not entirely banished those severe, torturing pains that have caused you so many sleepless nights. Continue for two or three days more or until the pains have entirely disappeared.

It doesn't matter how long you may have suffered or whether your Neuritis is in the shoulder, arm, neck or legs, Allenru Special Formula No. 2 will stop the torture and give you speedy relief.

North End Pharmacy, South Manchester agents Macdonell Drug Co., or any good druggist will be glad to supply you.—Adv.

COVENTRY

League was made by William H. Anderson, its former superintendent, in a letter he sent today to members of the legislature.

The Anti-Saloon League has lost its grip and the dry cause is on the defense in New York "because the management of the league double-crossed the Republican dry leadership," Anderson charged in his letter.

"The League, under its present management, defeated Col. Roosevelt, prevented the passage of the state enforcement bills a year ago, re-elected Gov. Smith and is responsible for most of the trouble in which the Republican party finds itself today," he said.

Anderson charged that the League owes him $45,000. He said he would like to lay his claims before an "inter-denominational court of prohibition morality" composed of representatives of the denominational bodies which make up the Anti-Saloon League.

The YELLOW STUB

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN because of the "disgrace." JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Cleveland, where the theater is. The stub is traced to a political boss, THOMAS O'DAY, who says he gave it to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters OLGA. She faints hearing police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come in possession of a man who had "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Cleveland and later is attacked by two men but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy accuses her of marrying for money.

That night Jimmy and Olga see a man they both recognize, she as the man who had got the stub, he as one of his assailants. The man escapes. They identify him by his police picture as IRVING JENSEN.

Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. His heartless indifference hatred in her and she breaks their engagement.

LIEUTENANT O'DAY, a police man, warns Jimmy that he is in love with him. He invites Jimmy to his home for dinner and there he asks him if Henry Rand came from Dublin, in New York state, and if he was the son of Thaddeus Rand.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII

I know what it is about you that's had me wonderin' where I'd seen you before. It's your resemblance to old Thaddeus Rand.

"Yes, I know the story, all right. Twixt take a bit of tellin' for it's been many a year since it a'n' happened an' it's no compliment exactly to your grandfather, but I guess you can stand to hear it."

"Just so it's the truth, Lieutenant. I want to hear it all," Jimmy laid his hand on the other's arm. "Go on," he urged.

"I'll try to give the truth. Mind, now, I was a kid of seven or thereabouts—it happened back in 1858 or 1857—an' some of it might not come back to me just right. But the story was gossip in our little town for years, long after your father and grandfather had left.

shaver. That's one reason why I remember him so well.

"I don't know how old your father came to Dublin, but he was just a little kid and he grew up with the rest of the boys an' went to school with 'em. Unlike his father, he was a real popular lad. He was just a regular boy—into every sort of mischief that red-blooded boys get into an' fond of playin' pranks. He was a ring leader in all the sports an' he was generally looked up to by all the other village boys. People used to wonder how Thaddeus Rand, with his cold, proud ways, could have such a son.

"Well, the years sort of moved along, an' Thaddeus Rand still kept his drug store, makin' a fair livin' out of it, as proud as ever. He was deus out of his shop with a hammer. "Well, it got to be talked about the village that Thaddeus an' Angelo had had fallin' out over their kids an' Marie an' Harry were not to speak to each other again. The kids tried hard, I guess, to be obedient children, an' for a while it looked like the thing was goin' to blow over.

"Thaddeus kept a close watch on Harry, an' kept him in the drug store every minute of the day that he wasn't in school. As for Angelo, he made his son Louis walk to school an' back with Marie every day.

"The kids stood it for a while, but the thing went a lot deeper than anybody thought. Gradually they got to stealin' a few minutes together in school, an' then it got to the note writin' stage. There were plenty of kids, girls mostly, who were willin' to carry notes between them.

"Then that was found out, an' Harry an' Marie had another talkin' to from their parents. Thaddeus, they say, even went so far as to threaten to cast Harry off if he didn't cut out his foolishness an' do it right away. The boy came to

"Father never said much about his past," said Jimmy, "but he hinted that he had run away from home as a boy."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII

O'DAY waved Jimmy Rand's question aside. "Tell me all you know about your grandfather and we'll see how the stories fit."

"Very little," Jimmy answered. "Dad never mentioned him around the house. My father never said much about his past, but he hinted that he had run away from home as a boy."

"He never talked about Thaddeus Rand at all?"

"I know nothing about my grandfather," Jimmy answered. "I've never even seen a picture of him. I'm sure Dad was a little bitter about him. There was some kind of estrangement and Dad left him."

"And you don't know anything about your father's past?"

"Not a thing. For the last thirty years he had worked in the same place and lived in the same town. That's about all any of the family knows about him. Once in a while when he'd be correcting my sister or me for something we had done, he'd say that we were being dealt with a great deal more leniently than he had been as a boy."

"That's about as far as he'd go. I've always imagined, from that, that Thaddeus Rand was a pretty stern parent."

"A hard man," O'Day nodded his head gravely.

"You knew him?" Jimmy asked.

"Yes, an' I knew your father after a fashion, although he was a lad of sixteen when he ran away an' I'm a little shaver just startin' school."

O'Day chewed reflectively on his cigar. "It's funny, the tricks a man's memory will play on him. I wonder now that I didn't connect your father with this Henry Rand that I knew nearly forty years ago, when I first heard your story. Now as strict as sin with your father. Made him work in the drug store after school hours an' never let him out at night. It's a wonder the lad ever found time to play at all, but that he did, somehow, as I was tellin' you.

"I guess he was in his second or third year of high school—about sixteen years old—when he got in this scrape. He fell in love, an' he felt hard. One of these schoolboy infatuations, you understand, that we older folks always laugh at, but which are no laughing matter at all when you're got one. It just about swept Harry Rand off his feet."

"Finally the thing got to be gossip; it spread all the faster, I guess, because she was the shoemaker's daughter an' the son of proud old Thaddeus Rand. Thaddeus, when he heard about it, shut his mouth tight an' had one of his silent fits. He laid down the law to Harry, also, but he never let him speak to the girl again."

"Then he marches down to Angelo Rand's shop an' lets off steam. 'You keep your daughter away from my son,' he says. 'I'll do my part; now you do yours.'

"O'Day gets mad himself. He didn't like Thaddeus' attitude for which I don't blame him. 'You think my daughter's not good enough for your boy, eh?' he says to Thaddeus. 'You listen to me, I don't like it any more than you do, you hear? You think I like it, eh?'

"I'll talk to Marie," he says. 'You keep watch on your son. Marie's a good girl; she'll do what I say. Now you get out,' an' he chases old Thadschool the next mornin', lookin' pale as a ghost, with his jaw stuck out, an' said never a word.

"Mind you, I was too young at the time to know the whole story. I'm repeatin' it as it came to me later on by my older brother, who was a classmate of Harry's."

"Marie was cryin' when she came to school the next day. Some say that old Angelo had given her a lookin', which I wouldn't put past him."

O'Day lit a fresh cigar, then settled back in his chair. He continued, looking straight at Jimmy: "They didn't trust those kids right, Rand. I hope I'm never guilty of such cruelty to my own. They didn't say a word to anybody in school that day, but at lunch time they had disappeared."

"They didn't show up all afternoon. When evening came, old Angelo an' Thaddeus went to the constable. They almost had a fight right in front of him, each blamin' the other, you see. They organized a search party, but the kids had lit out, or killed themselves—nobody knew which. They didn't come back that night, an' the next day the whole town was lookin' for them."

"Finally they found 'em—late the next afternoon. They had run away together—sloped—an' they were arrested by the police in a town about thirty miles away."

"They landed back in Dublin that night. Someone drove 'em home in a surrey. An' when they got back, Rand, there was hell to pay."

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

My Say-So!

"Too many things are being invented. Improvements come so fast that perfectly good articles are thrown into the discard in the human passion to have the newest." Said by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, addressing a body of engineers. One more reason why the H. C. of L. forbids babies but puts a radio with all the super-attachments in every American home.

Handsome young Italian cavalry officer shoots himself because his suit of love is spurned by American girl. And the poet said, "Love is a woman's all!" The tables are turned a bit in this modern day when woman combines a few other things with her "all." Some men should learn the same valuable lesson!

Hollywood's stars are eating carrots instead of oatmeal for breakfast—grated raw. Their press agents say that these tales of women dying from too much dieting have worried the screen girls!

Mrs. Rose Garvey, 113, died a day or so ago. Three bachelor sons, aged 82, 74 and 70, buried her. They had vowed that not one of them would marry as long as his mother lived. One wonders if a woman who accepts so much can rest easy in her grave!

Books and Authors.

The moral is, say some, that literary gentlemen should be more cautious than to marry literary wives. This, because of Marie Salpêtre recently published life of her famous husband, man of letters, called "Edgar Salpêtre: The Man." Critics say that "her book is truthful to the verge of cruelty." One way of "getting even!"

Speaking of wives who write husbands' lives, there is Jessie Conrad's "Joseph Conrad As I Knew Him," in gentle, loving vein. The Salpêtre book will, doubtless, be the better seller, albeit Conrad is the better known man than Salpêtre.

Woman's Beauty.

"If one looks for grooming and a well dressed appearance, the American woman, as a whole, is far superior to the women abroad, even French women. But, if one looks for distinction and individuality, the European woman is more beautiful." This from the ruby lips of Greto Garbo, Swedish movie star.

HER OWN WAY

By A GIRL OF TODAY

TEMPTATION WINS

"Don't you worry over Lola Lawrence," said Madame Seria, when I explained I didn't want to add anything to her troubles if she had found out that there was something the matter with her voice. Lola's musical talent is just about right for light opera. It was never big enough for anything else."

"I began to thank Madame Seria effusively, but she stopped me immediately.

"Go ahead, child. Make these rich wasters pay for your voice if possible, but take my advice, don't be too easy. It's a game with most of these men—a game they love to play—and the girl who gives them the most for their money is the girl who will lose out every time. I sometimes think they enjoy being digger. Buddy Tremaine is a charming man and he is music-mad. But, he'll always had money, he thinks it will buy anything he wants."

"One can hardly blame him for this, for up to the outsider it seems to do the trick."

"You're wrong, my dear. Much more than Lola Lawrence, and in the clothes you will wear this afternoon, you will be beautiful—more beautiful than she. You have a freshness and a seeming innocence that Mr. Tremaine will find refreshing. It will delight him beyond measure. One seldom finds such girls as models nowadays."

"I think you've put the whole thing over, Mamie, without giving up too much. A kiss or two doesn't mean anything, you know."

"Above all else, keep your head. Don't fall in love with Buddy Tremaine. He can be kindness itself and he will be. He is comparative very handsome and probably has the most fascinating personality in all the city. Every girl who is out for a sweetheart in town, has been after him."

"Remember what I've told you, my dear. If you let your heart go, you're lost. I'm only saying this to you because I believe you care more for music than anything else in the world. If I thought you were vain or frivolous I wouldn't take this trouble with you. But, my dear, I feel a great interest in you. With my help, and I will freely give it, I think you can make Buddy Tremaine do a good deed and even think of someone beside himself!"

"Julie, we carried that plot 'Madame Seria herself saw that my friend were on in just the right manner. She dressed my hair herself and left my face devoid of anything but a little powder. She said I did not need any make-up."

"I did my little stunt of singing as I was changing my gown, and oh, how I welcomed the look of admiration in Buddy Tremaine's eyes as I came back in a different frock, the last cadence of the song just dying on my breath."

WEAR YOUR TRESSES LONG, MILADY, OR—WOE'S WORD!—MUSTACHES'LL GET YOU!

BY ALLENE SUMNER

New York, March 13.—"An, the side-burns 'll get you if you don't watch out!"

"An, that isn't the half of it, dearie!"

"An, the mustaches'll get you if you don't watch out!"

And that's only two-thirds of it, dearie!

"An, the bald pate'll get you if you don't watch out!"

Also, goatees!

That's what's going to happen to all little girls—and big ladies, too—who bob their hair, or keep on bobbing it.

Sideburns, mustaches, bald pates, these three—as chummy as faith, hope and charity.

It's just one round of ammunition from the American Master Hairdressers Association, meeting in solemn session here, fired against the succent-tressed sisterhood!

This round is fired by one Dr. Frank Parker.

Dr. Parker has seen fair heads come and go for 52 years. Dr. Parker, one gathered, after a sojourn in the teeming maistrom of our nation's beauty makers in solemn session, is to the association what ham is to eggs or Izzy to Moe.

And the association howled in wild applause when Dr. Parker dished up the sideburn-mustachio-bald trinity.

"It's only logical," says he. "There is a capillary attraction in the human system for hair if it's not allowed to grow hair on the top of the head, side burns and mustaches are the only reasonable thing. Even now we see more women with traces of mustaches than ever before!"

As to the bald stuff, that's simple, too.

"Bobs cause strain on the top of the head!"

Comes the father of the association, president Charles Nessler. "Long hair must again adorn the head of woman! She has lost her elusive feminine beauty, her birth-right, and she knows it. Her charm has given way to masculinity. Now she seeks it again," he reports. Comes A. L. Loeber, greatest importing member of the association, to say—

"Bobbing dropped 80 per cent in this country last year. Only 20 per cent of women who originally bobbed their hair do it today."

"Two hundred and thirty-seven per cent more false hair was sold to women of America in January, 1926, than for the same month in 1925."

Comes the official program, pleading: "We appeal to every member to work against the insidious influence of the bob and to work for the glory of long hair, or something like that."

And that's not all. For the first time, possibly, in the history of bobbing, no woman was permitted to sit at a banquet—the association gave it—unless her bobbed hair had been hidden away beneath a "bob cover."

And that "bob cover," or transformation, is the rub; it appears.

HATS OFFER CONTRAST

The colored felt hats of the moment, with small brims and no trimming are ideal with the tailored suit, particularly if they bring out a color contrast. Models of Pervenche blue, artichoke, green, and the brownish orange shades are exceedingly good.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

"Why couldn't I be part red and part blue?" went on Marky anxiously.

Marky Muskrat went off to Scrub-Up Land with the March Hare and the Twins like the good little fellow he was.

But he didn't want to be spring-cleaned any more than you like to have a bath when you're all ready to go out to play.

"I'll just look the same," he said. "I'll just be an ugly old brown mouse no matter how clean I am. I know, because I can see myself in the water as plainly as if I had a looking glass."

"Don't you wish you looked like me!" mocked a voice just then.

And there sat Bobby Bluejay in old brown that looks like mud. Why, I'm almost exactly the color of the mud bank I live in! Sometimes Mama Muskrat used to say that, unless she looked two or three times she couldn't see me at all."

By this time they had reached the little bush where the path turned off to that corner of Fairyland where Mister Rubadub lived.

"You'll feel much better when you get the burrs and tangles brushed out of you, Marky," said Niek kindly. "Rubadub won't hurt you. Then you can go and get a good square meal in the Land-Where-Spring-Is-Coming. Everybody feels sort of blue when he's hungry."

Suddenly Marky began to grin. Then he began to laugh. He laughed so hard that he couldn't get his breath long enough to tell them what it was all about, until they had reached the place where Mister Rubadub was waiting.

"What's so funny?" asked the fairyman curiously. "Won't you tell us, so we all can laugh?"

"Sure!" nodded Marky happily. "Niek just said something that put an idea into my head. He said everybody felt blue when he was hungry. Why can't I be blue as well as feel blue, Mister Rubadub? I'm tired and sick of being brown."

At these astonishing words Mister Rubadub scratched his head. Nancy and Niek looked at the March Hare, and the March Hare wagged his ears and looked at them.

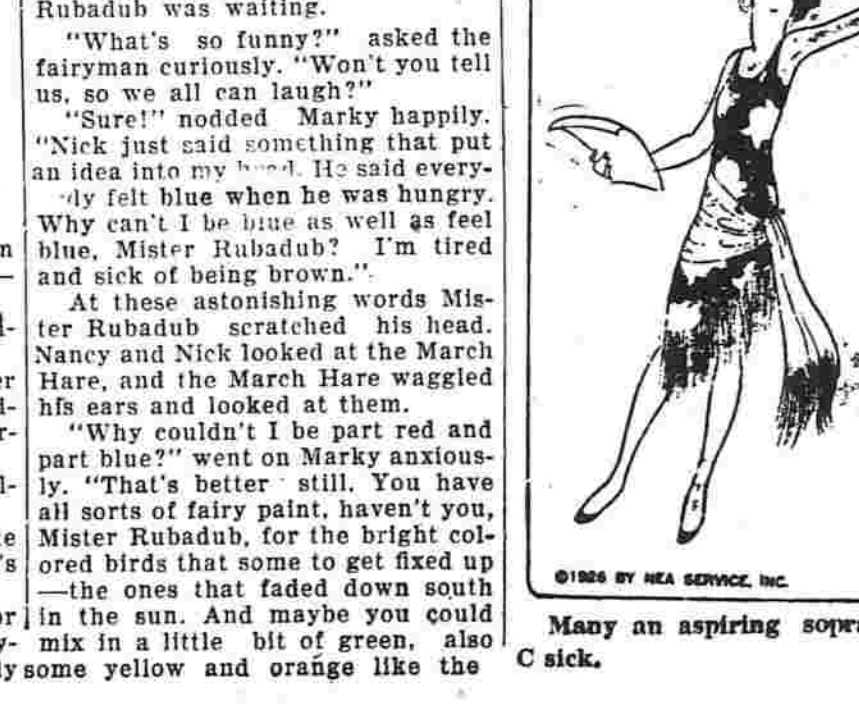

"Why couldn't I be part red and part blue?" went on Marky anxiously. "That's a better still. You have all sorts of fairy paint, haven't you, Mister Rubadub, for the bright colored birds that come to get fixed up—the ones that faded down south in the sun. And maybe you could mix in a little bit of green, also some yellow and orange like the oroles wear. I'd like to be all colors, Mister Rubadub. Just for once! I'm so sick of just looking like mud."

Marky pleaded so hard that the fairyman stopped scratching his head, and the March Hare stopped wagging his ears and Nancy and Niek stopped smiling at each other. Everybody began to feel sorry for the plain little muskrat who was so tired of himself.

"I might try," agreed Mister Rubadub finally. "But you'll look like mud." "I don't care," cried Marky happily. "Please commence."

HENRI BENDEL ON MODISH HATS AND CAPES

By Henri Bendel
New York.—If you want something new in millinery—and what woman doesn't!—the new black satin tam is your logical purchase. For early spring, satin and fabric hats have the sanction of Paris, and of the discriminating women of this country. They are a relief from felt.

The one photographed is very popular now in New York, and I consider it enormously smart because the angle and the shape can be modified to suit the wearer. However, the tam must not be too jaunty and casual if it is to be harmonious with the present mode. The smart French woman wears her hat planted very firmly and squarely on her head and shows very little of her hair. The extreme show none.

The black hat is smart for early spring because it is the logical piece of millinery to wear with the black and white combination which you will surely want to own.

After so much color there is a new and surprising appeal to black and white, and this chic is indisputable, especially for the very young. A lustrous black satin frock of simple line and cut is given dash, while being kept very dainty and girlish, by collar and cuffs of immaculate white satin, such as the lady of the tam is wearing.

Another style item that is bound to exert a great influence in the spring mode is the vogue of the cape.

Paris never has been very fond of the cape—the Parisienne much prefers the line of a coat even if very gorgeous and vivid—but this season she appears to have banished her prejudices and conquered her inhibitions, and has accepted the cape so wholeheartedly that the rest of the fashionable world can only follow her lead.

Paris is showing it in many adaptations, not only for street and for dress wear, but for sports and for the most intriguing and sophisticated evening wraps.

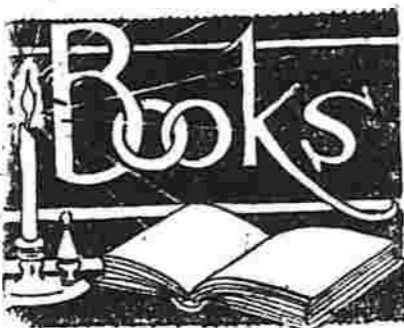

I am showing you one of shades of burgundy and gold cloth. The very gorgeous embroidered motif at the back is done in heavy gold thread to match the stitchery on the sleeves and the front paneling. This cape is voluminous about the hem but very snug at shoulder and that is the secret of the silhouette. For a cape is not easy to wear. It requires a suggestion of cavalier to give it charm and daring. Also, it requires a slender, youthful figure and good architecture. The ankles must be shapely and the shoulders not too broad.

However, the cape coat and the short cape can be adapted to any figure. A cape that is worn only in the back and attached at the shoulders will do marvels at concealing a bad line in the back, and can subtract pounds if handled discreetly.

Frequently I am questioned as to the length of the skirt for spring, and invariably I reply that the smartness of the length of skirt is determined entirely by the figure, more especially by the shape of one's legs.

I repeat what I have often said—no woman is ever smart in a skirt so short that it reveals too much of imperfection. If in doubt, better add the extra inch or so.

WASHINGTON TUBBS II

COLONEL HOUSE ISSUES HIS NATIONAL PAPERS

The increasing demand for historical truth has resulted recently in a scramble for world famous statesmen to strip all veils from contemporary events and give to the world a close-up view of men and affairs in undressed state.

There was Viscount Grey in England and Walter H. Page, and many others, and now comes "The Intimate Papers of Colonel House" (Houghton Mifflin).

Here is a most disturbing chronicle of the "power behind the throne" in the Wilson administration. Here are letters, the diary and the notations which for a number of years have been sleeping in the Yale University and now are edited by Professor Seymour of the Yale history department.

Through this pile of documentation runs the extraordinary romance of a slender westerner, in whose heart swelled great political ambitions, but who was willing to become a mere shadow—almost out of the picture, in fact—while his political and governmental ideas were being put into action.

House rises from these two volumes as a mysterious and sometimes baffling figure. Son of a Civil-War blockade running merchant, he found himself in Houston, Texas with enough money to take care of any want. He became a politician, but he was "making" governors and was being advised to go after national politics.

The Maker of Wilson
He "discovered" Woodrow Wilson, decided Wilson was presidential material and, in due time, Wilson became president. But just behind his chair stood the slim figure of the man who admitted that his "ambition was so great that it never seemed to me to be worth while to satisfy it." So he did not go after things for himself. He was "more interested in measuring than in moving." He didn't "give a whoop in 'lades who was in." He was frankly cynical about the stupidities and selfishness of office holders and statesmen. He realized that there were perhaps a few senators and the president who did most everything and ran things. There were, he realized, a few men who made the important speeches. He had few illusions, but he had a vast number of economic and governmental ideas.

Philip Dru
These he put forth quite honestly in an "anonymously" written book, "Philip Dru: A Story of Today and Tomorrow." In it his hero became a dictator through the agency of a rebellion and used his power to build up a "world-wide social structure that was wrongly begun."

Into the Wilson administration began to trickle reforms and doctrine held by the mythical "Philip Dru," who was none other than House, graduated income tax, tax on net earnings of corporations, universal suffrage, with women included; an expert tariff board and other innovations.

House, in his "Phil Dru" role, was pulling the strings. The letters take Colonel House on his historic peace mission, they show him meeting various notables and having little use for any statesman, excepting Viscount Grey; they show the late Kaiser as a quite human person.

Fiction-Like Power
But the point of outstanding interest is the relationship of House and Wilson. If it was merely power that House sought, surely he seems to have possessed it. He becomes almost a fictional character. He carelessly plays at billiards, well away from the scene, while his ideas and plans are being recited by the president and while his dreams are becoming laws of the land. He is "letting" Wilson, as the whole story is bared openly and between the lines, he may be found well away from the American scene, hibernating in Europe.

An Ambitious Shadow
In a general way it is hopefully disillusioning. His utter contempt for office is obviously one of the chief things that cemented him to Wilson. Wilson knew quite well no reward was expected. Nor was any received.

Kept a Diary
And all the time, during eight years, the slender Texan was each night putting in a diary his notes on the events of the day.

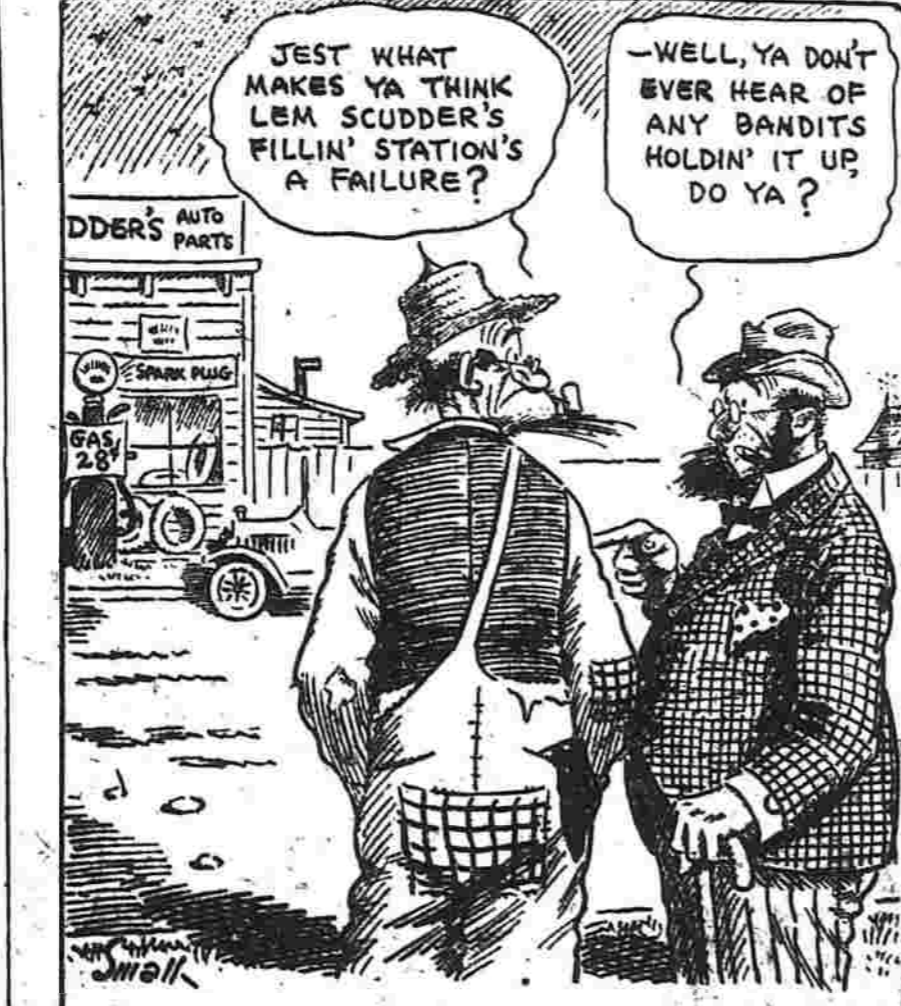

There can be no landing of history under such circumstances, although the results are likely to be disturbingly astounding. And this chronicle is that.

And not the least disturbing feature is that one "loses" the second volume with the conviction that very much that was said of Woodrow Wilson is true; that he did browse over Wordsworth when events of great moment were waiting for him to take the initiative and was all too frequently the spokesman of others' ideas; that he was careless and impractical. On the other hand, House stands ready to take full responsibility for certain things that might be regarded as well as those that went well. He emerges from his confession a most romantic and elusive personality.

BUCKINGHAM

(By Special Correspondent)
I presume that many of the business men of Manchester, who are readers of The Herald, have had some experience with work in cutting timber. The experienced men by the use of wedges will fall a tree at any spot selected by them even against the wind and they keep a watchful eye on the tree and step to one side in safety. The inexperienced man is often very nervous and the writer has heard many an amusing story of men running the way the tree was falling and just barely escaped being brushed by the branches. The latest story came this week by the testimony of a young man living in Glastonbury who was cutting timber the winter and had an unexperienced youth well along in his teens who was exceptionally nervous. The timber was standing by the side of a ditch four feet deep in which was water and brush.

MUDD CENTER FOLKS

THE BIG-CITY PAPERS REPORT SO MANY GAS STATION ROBBERIES THAT MUDD CENTER CITIZENS HAVE EXPECTED LEM SCUDDER'S GARAGE TO BE HELD UP—THE REASON WHY HIS STATION HAS BEEN OVERLOOKED HAS JUST DAMMED ON THEM.

The wind was blowing the wrong way so it was necessary to wedge every tree to prevent it falling across that ditch. The youth commented about the wind quite often and wished it would stop blowing and when a wedge was driven he got behind a tree declaring that he wasn't going to take a chance.

A tree started to fall away from the ditch so the youth promptly lost his head and made a flying leap into the ditch landing in the water and brush and was out of the ditch and up the other side so quick that the water didn't have a chance to wet his feet. He exclaimed, "my that was a close call for me!" About an hour before quitting time the youth urged the young man—"Come on, let's quit now, it is too dangerous!" The youth kept teasing "let's quit!" "I have an appointment with my girl this afternoon to go to Hartford." But it was no use, he had to work until the whistle blew.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION
Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have
Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician
Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color. These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

The next day was the same work again and the youth told of keeping his appointment. "I tell you what, I will never take a girl to Hartford again. We went into all the stores in Hartford. My girl wanted to buy a hat and shoes. I wanted to buy a hat and suit. Say, my girl never bought a thing." Then the youth's dad spoke up: "You have nothing to say! all you bought for yourself was a 59 cent cap."

TOWN SERIES FINAL TONIGHT

SAINTS AND C. B. A. A. TO CLASH IN REC GYM

Mill Team Slight Favorite; No Preliminary Game; Plenty of Time for Dancing; Game Starts at 8.30 Prompt.

Diets	C	Wylie
Boyce	RG	L. Cervini

er words he will pull Captain Kerr back into the backcourt position and send in House at Forward. It is almost a sure shot that Diets and Stavitsky will again oppose each other at the center berths. Stavitsky has shown a slight scoring edge on his adversary in the past two games but has shown his ability. He may break loose tonight.

It is almost a certainty also that Mullin and Boyce will have another of their forty minute sessions. Boyce has played unobtrusive ball so far in the series holding the C. B. A. leader to one lone field goal while he has annexed five. Mullin, like Stavitsky, is due but whether he will be able to come through is another question.

Red Cervini will doubtless oppose Kerr if he plays forward, or House, if he starts the game. Wylie will face Lutz.

Another Menace
Lutz is another player who has failed to hoop in his usual number yet and may take advantage of the glorious opportunity this evening.

Another point that must be remembered to Cheney Brothers' cause is the manner in which Joe Pentland plays. Joe had a wonderful night last week but if he attempts too much individual work tonight, he may upset the whole foundation of a Cheney Brother victory. Kerr is also occupying a key position in the Cheney's line-up. The playing of these two chame is liable to either "make or break" their team's chances.

Anyway, summing it all up, it should be a great game—one well worth the price of admission—and may be the best team win!

SENATORS' CHANCES WILL DEPEND UPON FREDDY MARBERRY

Billy Evans Says If Relief Hurler is Right, Nats Will See Another Flagwinner.

By BILLY EVANS
Tampa, Florida, March 31.—"If that fellow had been right we would never have lost the 1925 world series. On his condition depends much of our pennant chances for this year."

President Clark Griffith of the Washington club was doing the talking as he pointed his finger in the direction of Pitcher Fred Marberry.

"How soft it would have been for him to have stopped the Pirates in the last few innings of the final game at Pittsburgh.

"It is impossible to compute how valuable a fellow is who can pinch-hit like that guy."

Having umpired many of the remarkable pitching feats that Marberry has turned in as a relief hurler, I could appreciate the opinion of the Washington owner.

Realizing what Marberry means to the Senators, I watched him closely for about 10 minutes as he warmed up to pitch a few innings against the Boston Braves. He seemed to be pitching natural and showed me a good fast ball. But his 1926 debut was far from auspicious.

At the close of last season his fast ball would have scarcely broken a pane of glass, yet as he warmed up he looked like the Marberry of old.

Sent to the pitching mound to work for a few innings against Boston, he at once changed his style of ease to a rather cramped delivery. His fast ball was just ordinary. He managed to get by one inning but in the next session he was patted for six runs and the ball game.

Marberry had previously told me that his arm felt perfectly all right. Trainer Mike Martin, in explaining the failure of Marberry to show any stuff, said it was due to the fear he has of reinjuring the arm. He doesn't seem to be able to realize that there is nothing wrong so instead of pitching free, he uses a cramped style that keeps him from getting anything on the ball.

"It is just like learning all over again for Marberry and he won't strike his stride until he gets enough confidence in his recovery to cut loose."

Unquestionably no club in the American League needs a pitcher of the Marberry type more than the Senators, for the Washington club's veteran staff is prone to whobble late in the game.

Pitchers like Johnson, Reuther, Coveleskie and Bush often find the nine-inning route a trifle too long. A pitcher like Marberry, able to hold a one-run lead for a couple of innings, is just about the ball club's last season he saved 15 or 20 such ball games.

Marberry says his arm is O. K. but time alone will tell the story. It's too early to make a definite prediction as to the ultimate recovery of the injured arm.

BILL MCGONIGAL SHAMROCK COACH

Vetran Umpire to Handle Reins of North End Outfit; First Practice Sunday.

"Bill" McGonigal, well known North End baseball umpire, has been secured to coach the Shamrock baseball team for the coming season. Manager Robert Coleman announced last night.

McGonigal is well versed on baseball as a result of many years of close connection with the sport. During his years of umpiring, his judgment has never been questioned. McGonigal will have full control of the Shamrock team and should develop a winning team.

This year's team, which is open to any newcomers who desire a try-out, will be built around Jim McLaughlin, George Kelley, "Count" Farrand and Bill McLaughlin. Ted McCarthy, "Hook" Brennan, Harold Clemons, and "Shorty" Long will also be strong for a regular berth.

McCarthy is a catcher and also an outfielder. He will probably divide the backstopping work with Kelley and play in the outfield other times. Bill McLaughlin and "Count" Farrand, last year's moundsmen are the only candidates to do for the pitching berths. The infield has Jim and "Dutch" Kollar for first base.

LePage moved to California. Pete Genevieve, of Rockville will be a candidate for the shortstop berth.

The outfield is more or less a question. None of the candidates unless it is Long, have any real hold on a position.

The first practice session of the season will be held Sunday afternoon, weather permitting. A meeting of the players will also be held Monday night at Manager Coleman's home on Lydall street.

The Shamrock club is planning to sell tickets on a 5-Tube Atwater Kent radio set, which will be raffled off April 24.

DEMPSEY GIVEN SIX MORE WEEKS TO SIGN PAPERS

If He Does Not Accept Will Challenge He Will Lose Caste in New York at Least.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, March 31.—Jack Dempsey has been given only six weeks to "live."

This was the "od word" passed along today for what it might be worth, following yesterday's public threat by James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, to drop the gullotine upon the champion's professional head for his chronic neglect of Harry Willis' challenge in this state. In discussing the situation with friends, Farley is said to have named May 15 as a suitable date for the "execution."

Jack Not Worrying
The condemned man, of course, will eat a hearty meal.

Meanwhile, the possibility exists that the "death" may be greatly exaggerated, a la Mark Twain, but in boxing circles today there was a well-defined belief that the local commission may be able to make the edict stick because Dempsey's popularity has become like the smile on a landlord's face. It just simply isn't.

Farley, in brief, will make a play for public sympathy, it being at once his hope and belief that the dear old populace, wearied of Dempsey's non-appearance, will accept the winner of a Tunney-Willis match as the champion.

In no other way, he admitted, can the action of the local commission be made to appear in a serious light. It's ruling will become operative, automatically, in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, but otherwise it will lack official recognition.

Farley admitted that, if at some later date, Dempsey decided to return to the ring, the public probably would regard him as the real champion in a meeting with either Willis or Tunney.

COMMUNITY GIRLS TROUNCE WINDSOR LOCKS FIVE 31-12

Miss Welles Scores Seven Field Goals in Leading the Attack—Home Team Held Scoreless in First Half.

The Manchester Community Girls' basketball team won an easy victory over the Windsor Locks five in the "Canal City" Monday night by the score of 31 to 12.

The Manchester team took the lead at the start of the game and was never headed. In fact, the Silk Town lassies held the Windsor Locks team scoreless in the first half, at the end of which Manchester was leading 17 to 0.

The playing of Miss Marjiam Welles was far excellence. Her dribbling was the keynote of the local team's victory. She was almost impossible to stop as the upstators soon discovered. Miss Hanlon and Miss Woodhouse also played an important part in the offensive. The defensive playing of Manchester's backcourt performers was also of a stellar brand. The summary:

Rademacher competing singly against a five-man relay team broke his own five-hundred yard and five-hundred metre breast stroke records respectively at the swimming carnival held under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Athletic Club here last night.

Six minutes and fifty-six and three-fifths seconds was his time for the five hundred yards and it took him seven minutes and thirty-five and two-fifths seconds to finish in the 500 metre event.

State of Connecticut

BY HIS EXCELLENCY
JOHN H. TRUMBULL
 GOVERNOR

A Proclamation

For many years we of this State have set aside Good Friday as a day of religious obligation. It is customary also, that the Governor, by Proclamation, at this time enjoin upon the people those lessons of penitence, unselfishness and humility which this solemn anniversary naturally suggests. It is with a deep sense of this obligation, imposed upon me by this tradition, that I designate Friday, April second next, as a day of Fasting and Prayer.

The functions of Church and State have long been separately administered in Connecticut. But one need have no ecclesiastical sanction to preach spiritual preparedness. And I believe that to be one of the vital reasons for the proclamation of this day by the civil authorities. In a period of great material prosperity, the ravages of sorrow and need and sin will not perhaps be as evident or as disabling as in time of adversity. And there is, in consequence, a temptation at such times to relax our grip on the great moral forces which make for national security. In time of plenty, therefore, there is particular need of such opportunities as this day affords, to take stock of our spiritual resources, to relearn the lessons of piety and courage and service, and thereby to acquire that strength and purity of purpose, which will enable us to give our lives, if need be, to uphold the good that is in the world.

Given under my hand and seal of the State at the Capitol, in Hartford, this twenty-third day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and fiftieth.

JOHN H. TRUMBULL.

By His Excellency's Command:
FRANCIS A. PALLOTTI, Secretary.

Arguing with a policeman is about as effective as turning on an electric light in the daytime.

"Bow-legs are a sign of courage," says a scientist. They certainly are if their owner wears an up-to-date skirt.

Pluck wins—it always wins, though days be slow. And nights be dark 'twixt days that come and go. Still pluck will win. Its average is sure. He gains the prize who can the most endure. Who faces issues—who who never shirks. Who waits and watches and who always works.

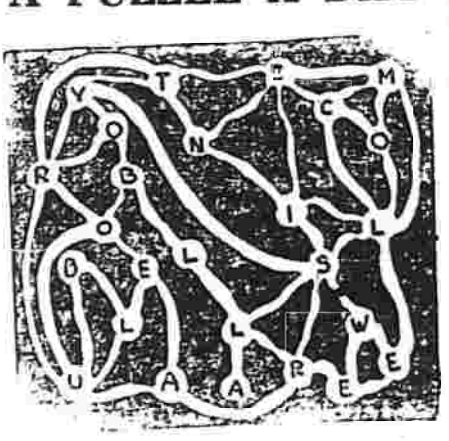

A good neighbor is one who feeds his chickens on his own flowers and vegetables.

Willie: I looked through the key-hole last night when May's fellow called on her.
 Pa: What did you find out?
 Willie: The electric light.

A PUZZLE A DAY

At Big Bend, Wis. is a large farm, maintained by Daniel W. Norris. The farm swarms with boys, who work and run it. At some time or other all the boys have been arrested. A mysterious chart which hangs on the recreation room wall tells all who can decipher it that the boys' past life is forgotten.

If you start at the correct point and travel in a continuous line, touching every letter once only, you will spell a complete sentence which represents the aim of the farm.

Last puzzle answer:
 The San Antonio town crier paid $500 for two horses. The cheap horse cost him $125, but it was balky and he was glad to get rid of it for $112.50. His loss on this horse was $12.50 or 10 per cent. The other horse cost $375 and on this one he made $37.50 or 10 per cent, for he sold it for $412.50. This makes a total of $525 that the town crier received from his sales, or a profit of $25 which is 5 per cent.

CAN SOME READER HELP?

Editor, The Herald:—
Can you give me some information about this? This morning (Sunday) I tuned in Springfield on my radio and the Community church service came in all right for about 30 minutes. Then the most terrible grinding started. It lasted about 15 minutes and I couldn't hear a word said. Then it cleared up and went all right again. Every night lately it is the same. Some times it will clear up and sometimes I have to shut out. I live on Laurel street and I asked another Laurel street radio fan what it was. He thought it was an electric light leak near us. Do you know what causes it and will you speak of it in your paper? It is making a terrible nuisance, whatever it is.
