Nine Years Ago Today, Says Connecticut Senator, We Entered on an Era of Wasted Lives and Treasure Because We Failed to Keep Ourselves in a State of Defense—Only One Choice Between Fat Unpreparedness and Lean Preparedness Against Attack.

Nine years ago today the United States declared war on Germany. The nine years that have passed since April 6, 1917, have been epochal transformations throughout the world.

United States Senator Bingham, who served in France, today wrote what he believes should be fresh in the minds of Americans on this anniversary.

Republican of Connecticut.
(Formerly Lieut. Col., Army Air Service, A. E. F.)

SEN. HIRAM BINGHAM.

Washington, April 6.—On the ninth anniversary of the declaration of war, the American people should remember we went to war with Germany, not because we were peaceless, but because we loved honor more.

(By JAMES L. KILGALLEN)
State Prison, Wethersfield, April 6.—Count fifteen. In the space of the time you have just counted, Gerald Chapman was shuffled into a brilliantly-lighted execution chamber here early today, laced for the rope he didn't see and—Snap! went a strap around his neck. Swoop! went a black hood over his head. Swish! went a rope around his neck.

Bridgeport, April 6.—That Frederic A. Boardman, New Milford man who afterward became a globe trotter and newspaper writer, killed himself here on Sunday so as to release a trust fund for the benefit of a sister now confined in an Oregon asylum, is a statement published here today by the Bridgeport Star.

A partial jack-knife dive—a grotesque sort of dance in the air.

The body drew up within itself in a tremulous convulsion and seemed to quiver as it hung there, suspended in the air.

The blazing ceiling lights seemed to emphasize the dying contortions of the victim. The body convulsed several times, the feet fluttered and the hands opened and closed in a quivering manner.

The twenty odd spectators, most of them newspapermen who were grouped along a wall viewing the scene, shuddered. Some of them turned their heads away. It was a sickening sight.

The rope was slowly back and forth for a second or more then slowly—oh, how slowly it seemed!—it was lowered until the feet dragged on the floor, limp and lifeless.

Dead. With the body on the floor, in a sitting posture, two doctors quickly stepped forward. They were Dr. P. B. Barry, prison physician, and Dr. F. Fox, Westfield medical examiner.

Father Barry also stepped forward. Whispered words were emanating from his lips. He was praying for the repose of the soul of this former choir boy whose course in life was misdirected along the perilous pathway of crime.

A guard whisked the death cap off Chapman's head, revealing a convulsed, distorted face, lines of pain deeply etched upon it. A basket was brought from somewhere, Chapman was lifted into it by two undertakers.

Three guards and two undertakers carried it out of the execution chamber and slowly the newspapermen who had witnessed the grim scene fled back to their headquarters on the second floor of the prison to type out their stories of the sickening sight that they had just beheld.

The body was claimed by Father Barry. It was taken at once to Dillon's morgue in Hartford. Burial took place today in Hartford, it was said. Every effort was made to keep the place of burial and details of the funeral secret.

Waiting for the newspapermen when they fled back to their headquarters to write their gruesome story was Judge Frederick J. Groehl, Chapman's chief counsel, who had fought the case down to the gallows.

Groehl inquired. "Did Chapman die game?" Groehl inquired. One of the newspapermen assured Groehl that he did.

"I knew he would," Groehl said soberly. Then he turned and with set face left the building.

Governor Besieged. Governor John H. Trumbull, at his home, was swamped with eleven hour telegrams urging him to do something to prevent the execution. He took no action, however.

Chapman's iron nerve did not desert him during his last hours alive, although last night he had several spells of nervousness. At six-thirty last evening he ate his last meal, a rather light repast. He nibbled at a fried pork chop, tasted a few fried potatoes, drank two cups of coffee and ate a small piece of layer cake.

As the prison clock slowly ticked off the fateful minutes, he sat quietly on his cot, occasionally arising and nervously pacing back and forth.

CHAPMAN'S CRIME History of the Murder for Which Bandit Was Hanged. The crime for which Gerald Chapman was executed was committed 17 months ago. It was the killing of James Skelly, a New Britain patrolman.

The policeman died in a store eleven miles southwest of Hartford; Chapman died in the Connecticut State Prison eleven miles southeast of Hartford. Here, at the apex of the triangle Chapman was convicted, and sentenced for the crime.

fall here and shortly afterward officials announced that Policeman James Skelly had been murdered by Gerald Chapman, of Leonard street, New York, of mail robbery fame.

Assisting State's Attorney Hugh M. Alexander prosecuted the trial charges in the county, was Edward J. Hickey, county detective. Within a few days after the murder Hickey left the city on a mysterious errand.

Chapman Captured. Another few days elapsed and news came from Muncie, Indiana, that Gerald Chapman had been captured in that city and would be charged with murdering the New Britain policeman.

The state's attorney told the public, Chapman present was lodged in Atlanta whence he had escaped months before. State's Attorney Alexander announced he would make every effort to have the man charged with the murder charge.

Chapman Convicted. Chapman's trial was finished on April 4, 1925; he was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to hang in New York.

Appeal to Supreme Court. Judge Groehl then had the Supreme Court of the United States as a source of last appeal for his client, who was to be hanged on March 3.

Meanwhile Sheehan has been kept in close confinement in Hartford County Jail. His sole appearance in public was set at Chapman's trial when he became the chief witness.

Chapman's Defense. Chapman's defense, which involved points never before presented in criminal court in the United States, is said to have been worked out by the prisoner himself.

Two grave-diggers and a professionally solemn undertaker lent an air of professional grief to the occasion, but it was evident that most of those who came to see Chapman buried, came not for reasons of grief but for curiosity.

Intestines centered about the two women, but their identities were closely guarded. It is believed that one of these women was the witness that the Chapman lawyers had hoped to have heard, to establish an alibi for Chapman.

The hanging of Chapman early today was a sordidly dramatic end to a dramatic career, but the dreary spectacle of the perfunctory funeral on the wind-swept cemetery site was an inglorious finale to an inglorious career.

Chapman died without embracing the faith in which he was brought up, was evidenced by his burial in unconsecrated ground and the fact that Father Barry did not wear vestments nor carry the crucifix.

The two women, who were questioned, were said not to be relatives of Chapman. In an effort to make the funeral secret, the gray coffin bearing Chapman's body was taken from the rear door of the undertaking establishment, but news photographers spotted it and the burial party was followed to the grave by photographers and reporters.

As far as can be learned the bandit left behind no will, no documents showing any earthly connections, and no statement of confession or denial.

Chapman, like his colleague, Dutch Anderson, had been surrounded with a plethora of the romantic lore of the world of crime, but neither left behind them any records, save the grimly brief reports on police blotters and prison journals.

Marion Talley Says Golden West Will Furnish Artists of Future

New York.—"I firmly believe that in the Middle West lies a fertile field for the artistic development of America in the future. Past performances have proved this true."

"In an interview with International News Service, so declared Marion Talley, the nineteen-year-old Kansas City girl, who joined the ranks of the Metropolitan Opera Company as a soprano. The girl won the acclaim of critics and the musical world in general when, as her debut she sang "Gilda" in Verdi's opera "Rigoletto" at the Metropolitan.

"Miss Talley's mother, interested in every word her gifted daughter spoke, sat opposite in the sitting room of her apartment at 74 West 68th street, where they have lived since their return from Europe last September upon completion of the young singer's studies abroad."

"West Forges Ahead. "In music, as well in all the arts," the youthful soprano said, "the Middle West is forging ahead day by day. Its concerts are becoming more and more pronounced; its art galleries, and museums are filled; its libraries are choked with people seeking knowledge of the arts."

"Why, I actually believe that the Middle West has produced more American operatic stars than any other section of the country. There's Lawrence Tibbett, he came from Chicago, Marion Talley was born in St. Louis, Marie Alcock came from the Middle West. New York may be the best place to study, but" houses. The agents helped in that. We've pretty well stopped it now." Andrews said the concentration of liquor had been reduced from 300 to 50 per cent in the New York State. There are now 265 associate members who have been willing to pay their membership fee in advance, thereby assisting the club very materially. Every cent contributed by the associate and active members is used for the purpose of financing the concerts.

The active membership of the club numbers forty. Each member pays five dollars as a membership fee. This, in addition to attending the many rehearsals necessary to prepare a program, means a considerable sacrifice on the part of members. However, the club was organized for the sole purpose of giving good music, and public appreciation by large attendance at the concerts is considered ample reward by the club.

Tickets Will Go Fast. For the concert April 26 the associate members will require 550 tickets. This will leave approximately only 250 tickets for general sale. In view of the splendid program arranged, persons not members will make no mistake to arrange at once for their tickets at Watkins Brothers or at Kemp's Music House. The price will be one dollar and twenty-five cents.

CONTRASTS HANGING WITH DEATH IN WAR

Beyond the Earth. Don't ask me how I knew this. But I did know it. There was no fear in that man. Nothing of this sort at all. He had passed beyond the black cap covered his face from me, and they stooped to him, and twitched the nose about his neck.

And after that, after the death twitch, while he hung limp before us, a mere body of a mere string, I could not even bring myself to pray for him; because it seemed to me that he, a malefactor, had suffered so little compared with my comrades of the old days who did no wrong but only their little best to rescue civilization from the Beast.

Remember the Window. They paid a great price, those good comrades of mine. And as I saw American justice hang him; as I saw the doctors ply their stethoscopes on his cold heart; as I watched the rope lower him into the long, wicker, mummy-case; as I watched men cover him swiftly with a clean white cloth, and strap the mummy-case and carry him away, there was not even pity for him in me.

Because in that moment my pity was all for one, poor lonely woman for the widow of the man whom Gerald Chapman slew.

The April meeting of the Buckland Parent-Teacher association held last night in the school hall was well attended. During the business session it was voted to buy some playground equipment and to spend $300 in filling in the new piece of land for playgrounds recently bought by the Seventh District from Hackett Brothers.

A nominating committee was appointed to bring in names for officers for the coming year, the election of which will take place at the next meeting. Mrs. Inez Batson, Mrs. Ruby Thresher, David Armstrong, Frank Smith and Clarence Derrick were chosen on that committee.

It was decided to have the regular Parents' Day program during the day and to have an entertainment of all the classes combined in the evening in the assembly hall.

It was also voted to pay cartage for another child to enable it to attend the North End Open Air school making the sixth child from this district there.

Following the business Miss M. Little Fryer, kindergarten teacher gave a very interesting talk on kindergarten work and a program of dance numbers by children in the district was enjoyed.

The W. B. A. Guards are to have a rummage sale Wednesday and Thursday of this week for the purpose of raising funds for the trip to New Haven on June 3 when the guards are to have a part in the flag work.

Mrs. Florence Warner was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for the last meeting in May.

The drawing for the patchwork quilt donated by Mrs. Janet Linnell was held last night and was won by a member of Loyalty Review, Mrs. G. Haugen of Glastonbury.

Addresses H. S. Students. S. G. Bohlin of the Service Department at Cheney Brothers, delivered an interesting address to the combined classes in economics at a special assembly held in the high school assembly hall. Mr. Bohlin's subject was "Protection of Employees in Industry." He reviewed the history of workmen's compensation laws and dwelt at length on protective devices and measures taken in modern factories to reduce the hazards resulting from dust and other injurious conditions.

The classes studying economics have considered these topics in their regular classroom work. Last week Howell Cheney addressed the classes on "Capital in Industry."

The next special session will be conducted by R. LaMotte Russell of the Manchester Trust Co. who will talk about "Banks and Banking."

Addresses H. S. Students. S. G. Bohlin of the Service Department at Cheney Brothers, delivered an interesting address to the combined classes in economics at a special assembly held in the high school assembly hall. Mr. Bohlin's subject was "Protection of Employees in Industry." He reviewed the history of workmen's compensation laws and dwelt at length on protective devices and measures taken in modern factories to reduce the hazards resulting from dust and other injurious conditions.

The classes studying economics have considered these topics in their regular classroom work. Last week Howell Cheney addressed the classes on "Capital in Industry."

The next special session will be conducted by R. LaMotte Russell of the Manchester Trust Co. who will talk about "Banks and Banking."

Davis, Acquitted, Sues Paper for Five Millions. Topeka, Kan., April 5.—Former Governor Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas filed a suit for $5,000,000 damages against the Kansas City Journal-Post. Davis and his son, Russell, were acquitted on Saturday of charges of conspiracy in a pardon suit.

"Jeff," Mrs. Charles D. Whitchee's French bulldog and his caretaker returned last night from New York where he was exhibited at the show held by owners of French bulldogs at the Waldorf-Astoria. The thoroughbred puppy—for he is only that—captured all honors in sight and his picture appeared in yesterday's New York Herald-Tribune. Mrs. Whitchee bought him when six weeks old from Mrs. A. L. Barry of Bridgeport who had charge of him at the exhibit and received the prize of $20 in money.

"Jeff" who is registered in the American Kennel club of New York, captured the following awards at the show of the French Bulldog club of America: Two blue ribbons, first prize; one English medal, one German medal, two medals of the French Bulldog club, one purple winner's ribbon, nine special ribbons and the $20 above mentioned.

NEXT CHORAL CLUB CONCERT APRIL 26

Remarkable Program in High School Hall—Boston Ensemble Coming.

What will undoubtedly prove the most meritorious musical program ever attempted by the Men's Choral Club of Manchester will be the fifth concert of the club to be given here this month. The concert will be given at the High School hall on Monday evening, April 26.

The capabilities of the club are well known to Manchester audiences. Three concerts having been given by the club during the fall of 1924, and a fourth on November 30 last. The fifth concert will far surpass the other four, and will mark the most brilliant achievement in the club's history.

Of course the club is particularly fortunate in having for its director a leader of the talent and ability of Mr. Sessions. His work is of the very highest order and it is seldom possible to secure for a community of this size a director so well fitted to carry on a work of this kind.

Boston Symphony Ensemble. For the concert April 26 the assisting artists will be the Boston Symphony Ensemble and Miss Gladys Hahn, soprano soloist, of New York.

The Boston Symphony Ensemble needs no introduction. The ensemble consists of the following instruments: Violin, second violin, viola, cello, double bass, flute, clarinet, French horn, and piano. The artists have earned an enviable reputation throughout New England and the Choral Club is confident that all who hear them at the coming concert will be well repaid.

Miss Gladys Hahn, the soprano soloist, has a most beautiful voice and will be very popular with her audience. She will be heard in a go toward defraying expenses of the conference. Automobiles and street cars brought delegates from all over the Southern New England district to Manchester this morning. They were met by members of the housing committee and brought to their boarding places by Boy Scouts. A card was given each delegate on arriving to him to his host. Many of the delegates are staying at homes of members of the congregation while some others are at the Sheridan hotel. Some of the deaconesses and women are being put up at the Teachers' hall on Main street.

Hibbard will preside.

SETTING ICE PRICES AT NEW HAVEN TODAY. With summer months approaching, Manchester housewives are beginning to speculate as to the price which will be charged by local ice dealers. Last year the price averaged sixty cents a hundred pounds.

Today L. T. Wood is in New Haven attending a meeting of all the ice dealers in Connecticut. Conditions will be discussed and prices will be set.

The price of ice will not only affect housewives but will also affect the price of ice-cream and numerous other products. Judging from the large crop which the local dealers harvested, it is possible that the price will be a trifle lower than it was last season.

TUESDAY, APRIL 6, 1926.

TO THE END.

Connecticut has seen the Chapman case through to its end. Her authorities and her courts have withstood, without yielding at any point, the consolidated powers of criminalism, seeking in the interest of their cult to gain the upper hand over law and order.

The state of Connecticut has demonstrated itself to be unsafe territory for "super-bandits" and "master criminals" to operate in. There will be fewer invasions by these gentry as the outcome of the Chapman case. There will be less readiness on the part of criminal-practice lawyers from outside to gamble for reputation in the courts of this commonwealth.

Gerald Chapman developed in his latter days a penchant for the use of the word "futility." He used it in his verses; he employed it in his dramatic but disillusioning speech before the Pardons Board; he introduced it into his discussions of his prospects with his counsel.

That was because he had come to realize the utter sense of frustration that must come and ought to come to any individual who encounters, as he did, the steadfast counter-will of a great community grimly determined to pursue the path of rigid justice regardless of consequences to the creature who places himself in opposition.

It was in Connecticut that Gerald Chapman for the first time found himself in a grip that could be loosened by no trick, no threat, no cajolery, no bribe, no device of his own or his criminal associates.

It was here he found that the law meant what it said; that it was not a thing of pretence and make-believe, with holes in it for the easy finger grip of crooks with money to spend—it was here that there came to him an idea new and astounding to him and his kind, that there was no truth in their theory that "you can always get away with it if you've got guts and dough."

representing the character of the country through which Balto, et al., made their famous sledge dash to Nome with diphtheria serum, and goes on to say: "The same sort of increase of ignorance may easily take place with regard to the Arctic this summer, unless the handlers of the news, the headline writers and the editors combine in a planned effort" to redeem themselves.

"Let us hope," says the Times, "that they will only earn encomiums from these instructors. The Times will certainly try not to confuse the Arctic with the North Pole, nor get the North Pole mixed up with the magnetic or the cold poles. As to the magnetic pole, who expects that Amundsen or Wilkins or Byrd will visit it? What the world is waiting for is the discovery of land north of Beaufort sea. That will be news, even to the signers."

To this we take the liberty of adding the thought that these Arctic explorations, in comparison with other scientific efforts going on in the world, are of about as much importance as a grain of sand in a load of coal. The newspapers are not interested in them because of their technical revelations—which will never contribute anything whatever to human happiness or the brightness of life, but because of whatever dramatic interest may attach to them.

It might be a good idea if the people directly interested in putting over these Arctic activities were to realize that nobody else gives a hoot about their stunts except for their picturesqueness.

BROWNING.

We are suspicious of Robert West Browning, so-called "Cinderella man."

Somebody wrote a story once about an individual who hit New York pretty nearly broke and an utter stranger, with antecedents of no use in getting a foothold in the big city.

He invested most of what money he had in a white suit, white hat, white shoes, white socks, white shirts, collars and ties, and then proceeded to walk about town—Broadway, Fifth Avenue, Thirty-fourth, Forty-second streets, and the like, saying nothing to anybody.

In a week he was a famous mystery man. In another week he had the choice of many good jobs, and by and by he was rich. All because he had the shrewdness to realize that the big town into which he had strayed was the easiest spot on earth in which to gain notoriety and to capitalize it after it was captured.

Browning, according to all accounts, has obtained an enormous amount of publicity by doing things no more freakish, and apparently no more reprehensible, than the man in the white suit. Conceivably a man might cultivate the acquaintance of ten thousand young girls of adolescent age in an entirely honorable way, if he saw fit to do so, and without these friendships being anybody's business but his own, the girls' and that of their parents.

And this falling Mr. Browning, being in the real estate business, would seem to have begun to realize, and to turn to his own account. He looks like the biggest bear for free publicity, and the most successful one, that Gotham has produced in some time.

The hearings will prove nothing, shed no new light, contribute in no way to the solution of the rum problem, unless they switch to an entirely different track from that on which they have started out.

Congressional hearings ought to be something more than forums for the mere expression of opinions. They should be scales for the weighing of evidence. The wets have millions of tons of evidence. Instead of presenting it they are showing off their lung power.

CONFERENCE.

Manchester, a churchly town, extends greeting to the members of the New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, and trusts and expects that, in their first gathering here during a long term of years, they will find themselves in a happy and congenial environment.

DAILY POEM

CLEANING.

'Round the house there's somethin' doin', and I think that work is brewin', fer the wife is makin' plans that come each year. With the springtime now in season, there's no doubt that that's the reason why the dustin', cleanin', scrubbin' job is here.

All engagements we are droppin'. 'Stead of steppin' out, we're moppin'. To a married man the thought is understood. As the front rug is hangin', for its beatin' and its bangin'—when the wife says, "beat it"—Gee, I wish I could.

'E'en the yard, with dirt appallin', needs a thorough overhaulin', and the shovel, rake and hoe are put to use. Little gardens must be planned on, raked up spots one must not stand on, are the places where real labor's put to use.

Up on ladders, then ankleelin', Washin' baseboard, tile and ceiling, till your knees, your arms and mental power are dumb. Yep, it's up to you—get busy! Plough until you're fairly dizzy. That's the penalty you pay 'cause spring has come.

A Tough Baby

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART. Washington, April 6.—Folk who "want their rights" are the curse of Washington. The town's full of them, trying to get things out of the government—money generally—that they think they have legitimately coming to them.

The worst of it is that a lot of these unfortunates have real grievances. It isn't imagination on their part. They've suffered actual injustice. Official promises they've had made to them have been broken. They can't get their pay for public services they've performed. They've been deprived of property without due process of law.

Of course all this is assuming that the kicker is comparatively unimportant. Barrels of money or a strong political pull get prompt attention even in some rather dubious cases. Folk with money and a pull, however, aren't included among the nuisances. They're waited on and go off about their business.

Let's observe the fate of one of these unlucky wights who arrives in Washington from his home town with a perfectly valid claim against the government.

He knows it's valid, so he takes it for granted he'll have no trouble in getting it acted on favorably. He calls on his congressman who says he'll look after it. But he doesn't. He's busy. It doesn't mean anything to him personally. He neglects it. Our claimant calls again and again, and again, always at an inconvenient time for the congressman, until the latter shudders the minute he sees him in his office doorway.

Our claimant sees some more congressmen, who encourage him at first, to get rid of him temporarily. But before long they, too, get mighty sick of him.

Finally Congress adjourns and the whole thing goes over until the next session. Our claimant is dreadfully disappointed. However, when the lawmakers reconvene he's on hand. This time he's known in advance as a frightful bore. He's dodged it if it can possibly be managed.

The same thing continues, session after session, indefinitely, only getting worse, session by session.

Cumulative disappointment and the injustice of it all "get" our claimant. He's now a bit daffy. He can't talk about anything but his claim. When he gets started on that he talks interminably. Consequently you're ready to jump out of a fifth story window when you see him coming.

WATKINS BROTHERS, INC. FLORIDA BRANCH — THE WATKINS-LIMBACHER CO. — ST. PETERSBURG.

IN NEW YORK. New York, April 6.—For the first time in a couple of generations or more, a portly figure in top hat, morning coat, a gardenia in his buttonhole was missing from the Easter parade.

"Silk Hat Henry" he had been nicknamed—a moniker most familiar in that precious era of "gentlemen"—the days of Col. "Jim" Ricker, for whom was named the once most popular beverage; Col. Tom Ochiltree, bon vivant and champion of womanhood, on two continents; "Cap" Wheeler, who was always there to "pay"; and such gallants and men-about-town, who built an almost dead tradition.

For 33 years "Silk Hat Henry" was a landmark in the corridors of the Waldorf-Astoria. When he appeared on the Avenue in a pearl-gray derby the world knew that spring had come. One by one this old and hearty company joined the parade of phantoms until "Harry" was the sole survivor.

Troop No. 5 of the Swedish Lutheran church coming out on top with a score of 15 to 9. Ronald Brown, assistant scoutmaster of Troop No. 25 of Hartford, acted as judge and did the job in good style. "My Beauty Beliefs"

By NEYSA McMEIN, Famous "Pretty Girl" Artist.

Nothing so "gets me" in a woman's beauty as a sheen and glow and sparkle on her hair. Some girls have it made with the w. k. henna when it is red—or pink—and sometimes green. But a safer way is the lowly lemon. Brown hair is made to sparkle with an auburn mist. Blonde hair looks more than ever like fields of wheat and yellow primroses, all from the squirty citrus fruit. The ideal way is to strain the juice of one most juicy largish lemon into the last rinse of water and dabble the tresses therein. The acid lemon "cuts" the soap, perfumes hair, and bestows the auburn sheen o'er it.

WHITEMORE FLIPPANT AS HE DENIES GUILT.
Buffalo, N. Y., April 5.—Richard Reese Whittemore, chief of the "Candy Kid" bandit gang, was arraigned before Justice Noon today on a charge of murder in connection with the robbing of the Bank of Buffalo of $93,000 and killing two bank guards. The bandit chief tossed his head flippantly as he said, "not guilty" to the indictment charging him with murder, first degree.

Natural in action, because natural in its ingredients, Taniac revitalizes the blood, tones up the digestive organs and invigorates the whole system. It is compounded from nature's own storehouse of herbs, barks and roots. As an added precaution, keep your bowels open with mild-acting Taniac Vegetable Pills.

Shocks London

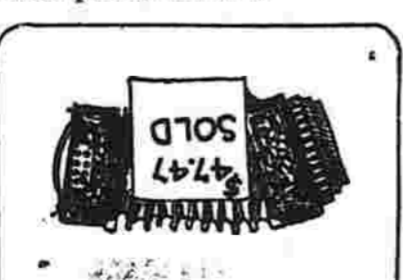

M. Christine French, composer, has shocked London with "Onward, Christian Soldiers" set to fox-trot time. FRENCH FORCES DRIVE DRUSES FROM VILLAGE
Belru, April 5.—The French forces made an Easter drive against the rebel Drust tribesmen and captured the village of Mejd-el-Shams, according to reports received here. The Druses have held this village for several months.

Tonight they are diamond studded stars in a brightly lighted and heavenly firmament. Tomorrow—charred remnants and drifting ashes in a world entirely oblivious of them. Billy Franey and Billy West, star comedians, once upon a time headed their own productions. Their salaries ran into the thousands. Franey is an "extra" today, and gone are the luxuries which once linked him to his starring past. West, who wore the famous chaplinesque garb—battered derby, and baggy trousers—and many years ago claimed authorship of its creation, is cinematically dead. Oblivion swallowed him with a single gulp. Max Linder and Lester Cuneo lived as gay comedians. Through their films they made the world laugh. Then they killed themselves. At the height of their careers they had money to burn; death found them penniless. VIT-L STATISTICS: There are more buxoms per square foot in Hollywood than in any other place on earth. Careful investigation reveals that casting directors are responsible for this ailment. They keep aspiring players returning to their offices day after day for work they never intend to give them. Greta Garbo, imported Swedish actress, caused a mild sensation upon arriving in Hollywood when she was asked if she intended to take a house in Beverly Hills, the home of star-artistocracy. "A house?" replied Greta. "My no, I am looking for a furnished room." Beverly Hills is the residential rendezvous of the Hollywood greats. Lillian Gish, Frances Marion, Marion Davies, Harold Lloyd, Corinne Griffith, Herbert Howe, Tom Mix, John Gilbert and countless others live there. Each home boasts a different architecture. Fred Niblo, the director, is building a house on the Hills just below that of Frances Marion. "What style of architecture is it to be—Spanish, Italian, or Arabic?" he was asked. "I am going to be very daring and original," replied Niblo. "No one is really of Hollywood until he has consumed the celebrated corn beef and cabbage served by Lew Cody in the downstairs rathskeller of his bungalow. What is home without a rathskeller? Say the stars today, and every new home is boasting one. Pola Negri confesses that when she first arrived here and was a very, very haughty queen, she used to steal off at night to the amusement park at Venice and shoot the chutes! Marion Davies loves the same hilarious place, particularly the chutes and the shooting galleries. And one evening the crowds were startled to behold the beautiful Alice Terry shoot out on to the pavement from Crazy Castle, a hot dog clutched in her queenly hand. While blessed are those who have attended Bessie Love's wiener roasts and heard her sing to the lit of her ukulele, "Ah, Willie the Weeper."

A PUZZLE A DAY

We are three partners. I am a word of four letters often used in mending. If you transpose mt, I am a mattress. My senior partner is also a word of four letters and he is the opposite of sick. My junior partner is a word of the same length. His other name is foretoken. Neither of my partners can be transposed. If you join us, and transpose us we form the name of a man who occupies an important position in our government. Who is this man? Last puzzle answer:

The instrument dealer who resold this accordion paid $47.47 for it originally. He sold it for $105 to Bill Dunham. After its return, he reduced it systematically, or 18 per cent at each mark down. So that each price is 82 per cent of the previous price. To discover the answer divide the prices as follows: $86.10 by $105.00; $70.60 by $86.10; $57.89 by $70.60. In each case the answer will be either 82 per cent or a few tenths more or less than 82 per cent. This can be accounted for by the fact that we have no coin smaller than a penny. Then take 82 per cent of $57.89 and you get the cost price as well as the final sale price.

The Ideal Home Garden—No. 2

Spade the Ground Early, Fertilize It, Then Give it a Short Rest, for Best Results

This is the second of a series of 10 articles explaining the planting, arrangement and care of the backyard garden.

It is a good point to remember in planning your home garden that the ground should be spaded early. After all the earth in the plot has been turned over, let the soil rest for a while. A short rest for the dirt will improve the texture of your garden and add to the productivity.

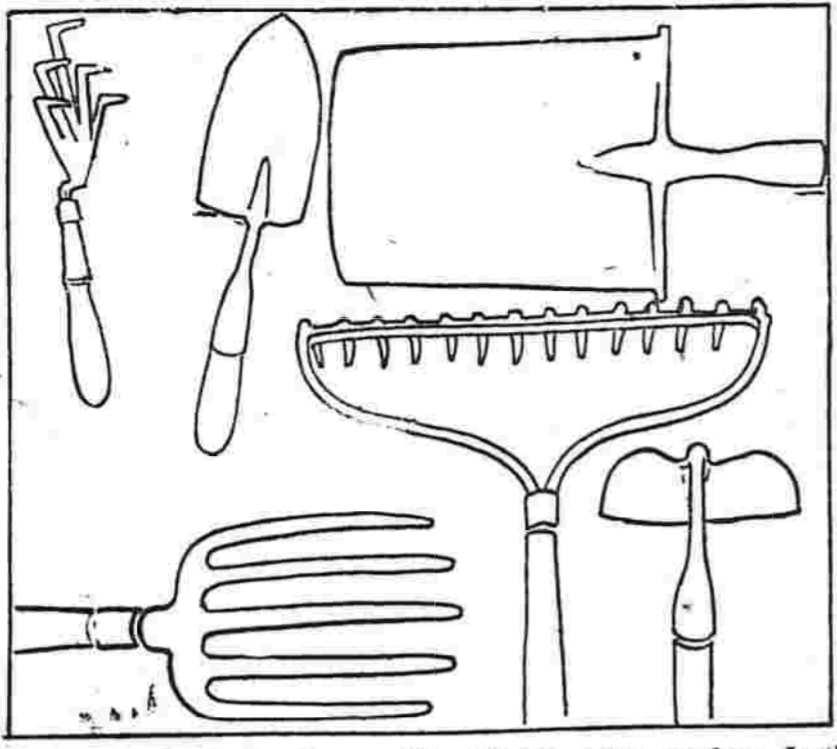

An excellent fertilizer is a little stable manure, worked in at the time of the spading. This adds qualities of fertility to all soil which is a valuable aid in gardening.

If you find a pile of ashes in the backyard, or if ashes are scattered over the land where you intended to plant, don't bring your hands. As a matter of fact, ashes are very good in helping to give the soil life, and if you can work in a small quantity of sifted ashes when spading, so much the better.

Let the Soil Rest. Many make the mistake of turning the earth and planting right away. It is a mistake to begin making use of the earth the minute you have spaded it up. Your garden will be much better for a short rest.

A good spade and a good trowel are the most important of garden tools. You can do almost any little chore about the garden with these. The hoe, garden rake, spading fork and tapeline. Individual gardeners will adjust their own preferences.

Frequent shallow cultivation should be given to the vegetables in your garden. By keeping the surface of the soil stirred, a dust mulch is formed which prevents the loss of moisture through the pores in the soil and keeps down the weeds. Watch those weeds!

Common garden tools, all you will need for your garden. In the sketch are shown a claw weeder, hoe, spade, spading fork, rake and trowel.

Cultivation Important. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on cultivation. This must be done regularly. If the work is done regularly no unsightly, dangerous weeds will appear in your garden.

The hoe, the rake and the claw weeder are handy in keeping the weeds away. If you prevent weeds you will find that you will have vastly less work and trouble than if you tackle them after they have gained a start. Do not be discouraged by the size of your backyard. You can raise a nice plot of vegetables in a space 10 by 30 feet. And it will keep you busy, too!

If you can make your gardening exercise rather than work, and get the children interested, the backyard can be turned into a healthful, helpful little recreation center.

"I BID---

Bridge Czars Announce New Rules for Scoring Honors.

New York, April 6.—Auction bridge has taken note of the demand for new styles at the Easter season.

This by stepping out in a new set of rules, tailored by The Whist Club of New York City. Three important alterations in the game's former rules raiment are made.

Honors values revised, so that honors are scored uniformly for all suits instead of carrying in accordance with trick values. Bidding in minor suits stimulated.

High instead of low wins the deal and decides partnerships in the draw.

New penalties imposed for the revoke.

Other changes regulate the correction of insufficient bids and lead out of turn.

Spades Highest.

Five wealthy New York business men, comprising the draft committee of The Whist Club, crafted the revised code. Approval of the American Whist League has been given.

The revisions are the first since 1920.

Edicts of the New York club are observed in several foreign countries, including Canada, as well as in the United States.

Adoption of the new scheme of honor values is the most radical of the rules changes. Scoring is simplified and the importance of bids in the minor suits is enhanced by the change.

Honor values in No Trump bids are not altered.

In the draw, as between cards of equal rank, the suits rank: Aces, Kings, Queens, Jacks, Ten, Nine, Eight, Seven, Six, Five, Four, Three, Two, One.

Spades (highest), Hearts, Diamonds, Clubs (lowest), High wins, reads the brief new rule on the draw.

An insufficient bid—that is, one which isn't higher than the last previous bid—may be corrected by the bidder without penalty before another player calls attention to it or declares. The correction must be in the same trumps, however.

If the player on the left of the insufficient bidder declares before attention to the error is called, the insufficient bid stands and is treated as if sufficient.

Over-Bid Is Void. If another player calls attention to the insufficient bid before it has been corrected and before the next player has declared, the erring bidder must make his bid sufficient and his partner is barred from further bidding. The erring bidder has his choice of suits or No Trump to correct the insufficiency, however.

Bids of more than seven are void, and as penalty either opponent may demand a new deal, require the declaration to be played by the offending side at seven, undoubled or doubled, or direct that the auction be continued by his side from that point.

A new provision on leads out of turn reads: Declarer lead out of turn either from his own hand or Dummy, such lead shall stand, unless an adversary call attention to the error before he or his partner plays. When attention is called to the error in time, Declarer must lead from the proper hand; and if that hand have a card of the suit led from the wrong hand, he must lead that suit."

NEW HONORS.

Honor values were based on suit values under the old auction bridge code. The new rules prescribe the following, uniform for all suits:

Three honors . . . . .	30 points
Three in one hand, . . . . .	40 points
Four in partner's . . . . .	40 points
Two in each hand . . . . .	40 points
Two in one hand, . . . . .	50 points
Three in partner's . . . . .	80 points
Four in one hand, . . . . .	80 points
Four in partner's . . . . .	100 points
Five in one hand . . . . .	100 points
No Trump Honors (unchanged)
Three aces . . . . .	30 points
Four aces . . . . .	40 points
Four in one hand . . . . .	100 points

FIGHT FANS DISAPPOINTED OVER BERLENBACH BOUT

"Pop 'em Paul" Did Not Show Up Against Jersey Heavy—Garcia Bout Best on the Card.

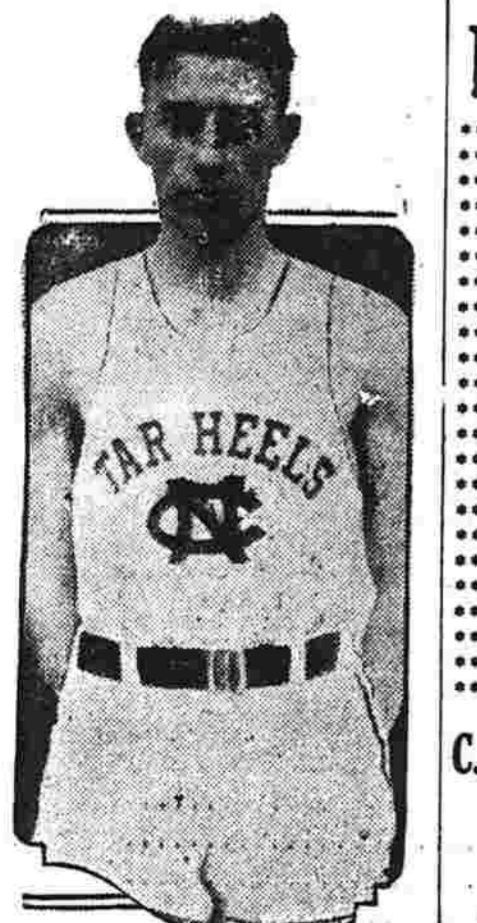

About 7,500 fight fans from all over New England journeyed to the Hartford State Armory last evening to get a look at the much touted "Pop 'em" Paul Berlenbach and to say that it was a much disappointed crowd after the affair was over was putting it rather mildly. There was very little real fighting in the 10 rounds owing to the hit and cover tactics of his opponent. After the first milling of the three preceding bouts the final was more like a preliminary on mats.

Announcer Jack Stafford made a big hit with the crowd for he had a voice that carried to the farthest corners of the armory without the aid of a megaphone. Bill Conway of Hartford did a very creditable job at refereeing though he did not have any very close ones to decide. Jack Delaney of the Bridgeport was introduced to the audience and received a big hand as did Rosenberg of New York, the bantam weight champion of the world.

Opening Bout
The opening Jack Catkisch of Pittsburg and Sammy Cooper of New Haven together. The weights were announced as Cooper 144 1-2 and Catkisch 145 but the latter had a bit of advantage in strength and seemed to be unable to avoid. Catkisch felt his man out in the first but in the second he started in with his right and before the round was closed he had a beautiful cauliflower ear. In the third round Cooper was practically out but the bell saved him. From then on the finish Sammy gave a great exhibition of gummy and at times gave as good as he received. Catkisch left many openings but Cooper did not have the strength to do any damage. There was not a knockdown but the ropes aided Cooper in standing up on several occasions. Catkisch was given the decision.

Second Match
In the second bout Pincus Silverberg of Ansonia faced Willie LaMorte of New York and discovered that he could not give away five pounds in weight and get away with it. Silverberg weighed 110 1-2 and LaMorte 115. Pincus is fast on his feet but has no sock to go with his cleverness. After LaMorte had looked him over in the first he opened up in the second and showed that he had brought his wallop with him and proceeded to give Silverberg an artistic lacing. In the third round Jack knocked Pincus onto his knees and then pegged him around the ring until a tiffle over two minutes had elapsed.

The Star Attraction
The big bout of the evening was staged when Johnny Drew at 131 1-2 and "Mexican" Bobby Garcia at 129 1-4 took their corners. The fight was fast from the start to finish with Garcia opening each round with his characteristic rush to meet Drew in his corner. Drew would probably have made a better showing if he had boxed more instead of mixing things at close quarters. Drew is a clever boxer while Garcia is the fighter. As long as the latter can keep them coming where he can beat a tattoo on their stomachs with an occasional cross to the jaw for variety's sake, he will always win the decision. For the first five rounds Drew looked good but after that it was only a question of how game he was and he proved to everybody's satisfaction that he had no "yellow" in his makeup.

Double Victor
He's just led the University of North Carolina team to the Southern Conference basketball title. While so occupied he found time to turn in more points than any other player in the organization, getting 47. For the past few seasons Cobb has been one of the Tar Heels' outstanding pastimers.

SOME OF CONRAN'S WORK THIS SEASON.

Here are some of the feats performed by Tommy Conran, town champion bowler, this season:
Average for 100 match games — 107.25.
High single is 148.
75 of 100 games over 100 mark.
Defeated Murphy by 44 pins.
Defeated Hayes by 61 pins.
Defeated Wilkie by 61 pins.
Defeated Schubert by 5 pins.

Garcia left his jaw unprotected and took all Drew had while he was working on his opponent's kidneys and stomach. In the last three rounds Drew took a terrible beating and in the final his face was a mass of blood and he was so groggy he could hardly stay on his feet but Garcia did not have the punch to put him away. Garcia was given the decision in the best bout ever held in Hartford.

Berlenbach Fizzle
In the so-called main bout of the evening Berlenbach came in at 175 1-2 and Neuman at 177 1-2. The latter's reputation of never having been knocked off his feet is still good but the way he crouched and covered last night it would take a cyclone to knock him off his pins. He would balance himself and start a Western Union punch and then he would hide behind his hands and arms while Berlenbach dodged around trying to find a vulnerable place to hit. It finally became a joke and the crowd amused itself by booing the fighters. Whenever Paul could find an opening he would sting him with sharp rights, opening up a cut under Neuman's eye in the fourth. While Berlenbach took some hefty wallops during the milling there was not a mark on him. It is claimed he hurt his right hand in the fourth and would take no chances of badly injuring his duke by placing his full weight back of his punches during the rest of the fight. Berlenbach was given the decision in the only poor bout of the evening amid the loud booing of the crowd.

LEADERS Their Records 1925 PITCHING

GROVER ALEXANDER.
Started major league career with Phillies in 1911. Traded to Cubs in winter of 1917. Has never had losing season. In 1918 season—curtailed owing to World War—pitched only three games. But won two of them. In 1915, 1916, 1917 won 30 or more games each campaign. Best year was 1915, when he won 31 and lost 10. Has won 20 or more games eight times. Especially noted for uncanny control. In 39 games in 1923 only issued 30 passes. In 1915 allowed only 1.22 earned runs per fracas. Has been in one world series. Won one, lost one. Fanned 10 in 18 innings and permitted 14 hits. Leads National League in shut-outs. In 1916 pitched 16 shut-outs, league record. In 1911 pitched four shutouts in succession. Led league twice in pitching percentages, 1913 and 1915.

WORTH IN SPORT KNOWING

For batting consistency... you've got to hand it to Horace Ford, former Boston, Philadelphia and Brooklyn infielder. Ford hit pretty close to the same mark every season over a five-year stretch. In 1921 he batted .279; 1922, .272; 1923, .271; 1924, .272 and in 1925, .273. In his first season with the Braves... in 1919 Ford hit .241. As a base-stealer, Ford did pretty much the same. He stole about the same number of sacks each season. He was no Max Carey in the swiping art, however. In the five campaigns he pilfered just nine bases, ranking with the poorest in the majors.

C. B. A. A. ANNUAL ELECTION APRIL 14

Jenney of Cheney Brothers' Athletic Association announced today that the annual election of officers and the smoker formerly scheduled for last night but postponed on account of the Berlenbach-Neuman fight, will be held Wednesday evening, April 14. Four high class boxing bouts have been arranged and real action is promised from the start to the finish. Prior to the bouts, a business session and election of officers will be held. Refreshments will be served following the bouts.

The NUT CRACKER by JOE WILLIAMS

When Mr. O'Goofy heard Germany would not be admitted to the league this year he commented: "Well, what chance would those birds have had against the Pirates or the Athletics, anyway?"

England has just crowned a new heavyweight champion... But we haven't heard whether the boys crowned him with a chair or an anvil.

Song inspired by watching a rookie batter swing in the spring:

"There's yes yes in your eyes but no no in your bat."

They say Tiger Flowers is the most popular negro fighter who ever held a title... If you think this includes pale-faced 165-pounders in the fight racket you're crooked.

Vera, the Countess of Pushcart, did not go over very big in her new play... Indeed, the critics seem to infer she was vera, vera bad.

"So Huggins said to me, go up to the plate and show this clown Ruth how to hit a home-run."

Red Grange asserts he refused to accept $10,000 to indorse a brand of cigars... It couldn't possibly have been the ones that satisfy them.

"That was on Wednesday. The next day I phoned Ford and said, 'Henry, you can call on me any time for any amount, and that's from the heart.'"

In the spring young men's fancy lightly turns to masher nibbles, plus eights, gin buck—open-face—

"Now don't think this is ego or anything like that but this egg Dem... couldn't punch a lick unless I showed him how to get his left over."

The limousine rolls by, silently, swiftly... You can hear the rattle and jangle of the silver a mile off... The important and unimportant in life are like that, too.

Pay no attention to the old adages... Where would the saxophone player be if he didn't toot his own horn.

Tommy Milton has an unusual distinction... He is one of the few auto racers who ever lived to retire.

Brains break out in the most unexpected places... For instance, Roland Rockport of Marblehead thinks Punta Gordon is a dropkick-er.

Bobby Jones had some tough breaks in his match with Walter Hagen, but the toughest of all was the impulse which moved him to agree to play it.

It is not always necessary to go to the dog races to bet on the dogs... Sometimes you do that when you go to the horse races.

Miss Glenna Collett, 22, was beaten by Miss Virginia Van Wie, 17, in a golf match the other day... Again proving youth must be served.

New Net King

Here's the new indoor champ. He won the honors after sweeping through a field which included such famous stars as Bill Tilden and Vincent Richards, finally whipping the defending titleholder, Jean Borotra, in a hectic struggle. Lacoste looms as a most threatening menace to America's regime in the court pastime.

HELPFUL HINTS OF GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

JOCK HUTCHISON—LET CLUBS DO IT.

Don't be afraid to use the ground on all occasions after the ball is hit. Ninety per cent. of the failures in golf come from trying to pick the ball off the ground. Of course, this can be overdone and one can get in the habit of taking too much turf but it is a fault easily corrected.

Beginners err mostly with their irons in attempting to loft the ball with a movement of the hands or the body instead of letting the club do it. The clubs they mostly fall with are the mid-iron and the mashie, and there are no two clubs in the golfing kit that are easier to play.

Here is the secret of success with both of these clubs. Hit the ball crisply and send the club-head straight on after the ball, letting it run along the ground as far as the hands and arms will permit.

If you are afflicted with the topping habit, try to drive the ball into the ground. You will get the proper idea of the stroke immediately, as this is quite impossible. The loft of the club will throw the ball into the air every time.

Give your pipe a chance!

SOME pipes were "born with two strikes on 'em." Just never had a chance to offer their best. You can judge your pipe only by the tobacco you put in it. If you haven't smoked P. A., your pipe hasn't had its chance. To those men who know the keenest pipe-enjoyment, Prince Albert stands out like a beacon of cheer on a moonless night.

P. A. won't bite your tongue or parch your throat, because the Prince Albert process cut out bite and parch right at the outset of P. A.'s brilliant career. This means that you can hit it up with your jimmy-pipe and P. A. from the minute breakfast is over until you nestle down between the sheets at night. You not only can, but will!

Prince Albert has put pipes into the mouths of more men than any other tobacco that ever came down the pike... and has kept them there! Because no other tobacco is like P. A. Cool and fragrant as mountain air murmuring through the pines. Sweet as the breath of spring.

If you're looking for proof, you needn't search beyond the nearest shop where they hand out smoke-gladness in tidy red tins marked "Prince Albert." Give your pipe a chance. Pack it with P. A. and light up. That first wonderful pull will tell you P. A. was simply made-to-order for you!

GREAT GOLD FIELD IN PANAMA, REPORT

British Outfit Declares It Has Found Rich Area Larger Than Rand.
 London, April 5.—Great interest was aroused here today by reports of the discovery of a great new gold-field in Panama, which would be worked by British capital.
 Two years ago a London syndicate, backed by Sir Alfred Mond, Solly Joel and other financiers, sent J. J. Calderwood to Panama to prospect. The result of his prospecting has been the discovery of a gold-field, which is said to be bigger than the Rand fields in area.
 Henry Mond, son of Sir Alfred, who is a director of the American Nickel Corporation, has visited the new fields and declared today that he had seen "free gold on the surface, and in old Indian workings, great reefs of gold-bearing rock."
 Solly Joel admitted that he is participating in a syndicate which will develop the new field.

A photograph makes terrible noises when it's almost run down. So does a pedestrian.

A disposition asserts itself to refer almost every problem to Henry Ford, except that of traffic congestion.

Auto drivers who watch the scenery instead of the road are liable to become part of both.

"No, lambkin."

Backache Is a Warning!
 Manchester Folks Are Learning How to Heed It.

Are you miserable with an aching back? Do you get up lame and stiff; drag through the day feeling tired, weak and depressed? Then you should help your kidneys. Backache is often the first sign of failing kidneys. Urinary troubles quickly follow. Neglected, there's danger of gravel, dropsy or fatal Bright's disease. Don't wait for serious kidney sickness! Use Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys, before it is too late. This Manchester resident tells an experience:

W. A. Corliss, 226 Woodbridge St., says: "Constant jarring and lifting disordered my kidneys. My back was weak and sore and any jar sent sharp pains through my back that felt as though I had been struck with a knife. Doan's Pills relieved me and I was soon as strong and well as ever."

Saving Lives By Means Of Artificial Respiration

BY DR. HUGH S. CUMMING
 Surgeon General,
 U. S. Public Health Service.

Frequently it happens that persons apparently drowned have been restored to consciousness by artificial respiration.

If you are planning a vacation in the out-of-doors near the water you should know how to administer artificial respiration.

In attempting to restore a person apparently drowned the first step should be to remove the collar and loosen the shirt band of the patient. Remove wet clothing as soon as practicable particularly if weather is chilly, and replace with dry clothing or blankets.

Lay the patient on the ground face downward. The arms may be raised about the head, one arm flexed so that the forehead rests upon it. The face must be turned slightly to one side so that the nose and the mouth will not be closed by pressure against the ground.

Stand or kneel astride the patient. Place your hands close together, palm down, one on each side of his backbone at about the region of the short ribs, that is near the middle of the body.

Having placed your hands on the patient in this manner you now lean forward and throw your weight on your hands which are against the patient's back. In this way the lower part of the patient's chest is pressed against the ground and to a certain extent the abdominal contents are forced out against the diaphragm.

Forces Out Air.

The effect of this double procedure is to diminish the capacity of the chest and force out air. The pressure should be applied firmly, but gently and then removed. To remove the pressure simply bend your body backward and take the weight off your hands.

This removal and pressure causes the chest to expand and the organs of the abdomen to recede. These organs recede because of their own elasticity. This expansion of the chest cavity draws air into the lungs through the windpipe.

You then pause for about three seconds to allow the fresh air to become mixed with the blood. Then you repeat the process. This procedure of compressing the chest and then relieving it and pausing for three seconds is continued regularly until the patient begins to breathe.

Timing Movements.

The movements are performed at the rate of 12 to 14 times per minute. About a second of time is required in the air. This, with the three seconds' pause makes a total of five seconds for the complete cycle.

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
 Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drug store.—Adv.

Cultivating the nearby sales territory.

LOCATED as we are in the heart of Connecticut and supplying a territory within a radius of thirty miles, we find toll telephone calls our greatest asset," says Mr. F. O. Rackliffe, Secretary of the Rackliffe Bros. Co., Inc., of New Britain. Thus proving again that business is always to be had in the home area—if it can be covered often enough. Toll telephone service makes the quickest selling trips known.

Nor does this enterprising firm stop there. A daily call system with manufacturers outside the State has given a marked increase of efficiency in prompt handling of customers' orders, rendering the sort of service which wins—and retains—good will.

Mr. Rackliffe is one of Connecticut's many modern business men who know that toll telephone service is an invaluable aid in buying, in selling, in carrying on day-to-day business affairs of all kinds, at great savings in money, time, and effort. "Since we have adopted the telephone as our chief service weapon," he states, "we have very materially increased our business."

What toll telephone service is doing for the Rackliffe Bros. Co., Inc., it can do—and is doing—for other firms throughout the State.

Is it doing as much for you?

Our local Exchange Manager will gladly discuss with you the efficient use of toll telephone service; and if desired, our Commercial Service Department will devise, without charge, a Telephone Sales Plan suited to your individual needs.

FARMHAND'S DEATH CAUSED BY BOOZE

Coroner Costella So Finds at Autopsy—Why Body Was Placed in Road Not Yet Explained

Although an autopsy performed late yesterday afternoon at the Hartford hospital by Coroner Henry N. Costello, of Hartford, on the body of August Kalvatis, Buckland farmhand, revealed that the man died from acute alcoholism, authorities are still unable to determine how he happened to be found lying dead in the middle of the road.

It is pointed out by those who have investigated the unusual circumstances connected with the case, that regardless of whether Kalvatis died from alcoholism or not, he did not die in the middle of the road where Charles Chaponis found his body at seven o'clock in the morning. This is deduced from the fact that the blood had been washed from his injuries by persons who knew the nature of the death.

Police Theory The theory which seems to be the most logical is that Kalvatis was at a drinking party with some of his friends Saturday night and that he died as the result of drinking "hooch." It is believed that when Kalvatis died, he probably fell to the floor, his head striking some article of furniture. His friends probably decided to carry away the body and leave it in the highway in hopes that the police would believe Kalvatis was the victim of an automobile accident.

This theory also has a drawback inasmuch as it fails to explain why the blood was washed off the man's face unless this was done while the friends believed Kalvatis to be still alive. The position in which the body was left and the fact that buttons were torn off the man's overcoat which was bespattered with grease tends to show that Kalvatis was probably "planted" in the road and then run over by an automobile in attempt to confuse the police.

THE SEA BEAST COMING TO STATE

John Barrymore in "The Sea Beast" comes to the State Theater Sunday for a run of three days. The picture, adapted from Herman Melville's "Moby Dick" and produced by Warner Brothers under the direction of Millard Webb, has been acclaimed as the most important photoplay of the year. It deals with the New England whalers of 1840 who, in their clipper ships, carried the American flag over the seven seas. It is said to have done for this heroic chapter in American history what "The Covered Wagon" did for the western pioneers and "The Iron Horse" did for the building of the railroads.

Barrymore, who has not been seen in pictures since, as "Beau Brummel," he won the gold medal for the greatest acting of the 1924 season, is said to have contributed another masterpiece of acting to the screen in the role of Ahab Cecey, the fighting sailor whose towering pride and mighty strength carried him through blistering passion and murderous adventure.

CROWDS ON MAIN STREET ARGUE OVER HANGING

Stay Awake Until Midnight Hoping Something Would Turn Up to Save Chapman.

Scenes along Main street in the south end last evening up until midnight were similar to scenes during the World War when groups gathered about bulletin boards awaiting first news from the front. In restaurants and in shops which kept open especially for the occasion the men gathered to talk of the Chapman hanging. The sentiment seemed all to be in favor of the bandit and the hope was expressed repeatedly that the murderer would escape the noose. They hoped against hope until midnight when word came that the sentence of the court had been carried out.

"Chapman is dead" was flashed along the street and the crowds disappeared. At the South Herald office the phone rang all during the night. Men and women asked if there was any chance of the bandit getting a reprieve. When it was told that Chapman must hang many of the questioners seemed angry. One woman said that she felt sorry that Chapman had to hang and then explained in the next breath that the reason was that she had wagered $5 that the man would not hang.

MYRTLE BEACH BAN LIFTED BY THE POLICE

Manchester residents who own cottages at Myrtle Beach, Milford, will doubtless be pleased to learn that the ban which resulted in the closing of the park last summer has been lifted by the police commissioners. Last year following a charge that merchants who conducted places of business there were commercializing by operating on Sunday, the police commissioners ruled that the Sunday rule be stopped pending an investigation. The movement was investigated by a group of blue-law workers. This year, however, the police commissioners have decided to issue a seven-day business license to the merchants which means that the park will be open on Sundays as well as other days in the week.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL AT CIRCLE THEATER

All the poetry and drama of the lumber camp—in other words, all the softness and all the hardness of the lumberjack, have been put into "Combat," the Universal-Jewel starring Holise Peters, at the Circle Theatre today. Moments range from deadly fights to love. From fierce combat, from hate to rivalry in affairs of love, both carried on, by the way, in the lumberjack's own rugged way.

Holise Peters is the center of all action. He plays a roughneck role, a sort of character in which he stands alone above all other screen stars. He is pre-eminently fitted for this sort of characterization with his immense well-formed body, his handsome features and his charming personality.

Another person well cast as a contrast to Peters is Wanda Hawley, the small leading lady whose delicate wistfulness is opposed to Peters' rugged strength.

The picture is admirably directed by Lynn Reynolds and has an excellent supporting cast. The work of C. E. Anderson, as the leader of a gang of lumber poachers, and Walter McGrail, as the weakling aspirant for the superintendency, is well done.

One of the most spectacular forest fires ever screened occupies the most prominent berth of being the climax of the picture. This sequence is well done and is jammed with even more thrills than the earlier part of the picture, which seems to be as exciting as mortal man can make it.

Excellent support is furnished by C. E. Anderson, Charles Malles, Steve Clemente and Howard Truesdell. Also "Borrowed Finery," by George Bronson Howard, a Tiffany production. It tells a story that holds the interest from its very start, and the direction is deftly handled by Oscar Apfel. The scenes and photography are excellent.
