FLEEING HONEYMOONERS NARROWLY ESCAPE DEATH

Pursued by Admirers, Local Newlyweds Collide With Trolley Car After Exciting Chase—Groom Slightly Injured—Trip Held.

Wedding bells are a sign of happiness and joy. They mark an important event in one's life that is hardly ever forgotten. It is a day, which in years to come, is usually looked back upon with happy reminiscences.

This will be the case of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rudolph Swanson, newlyweds, despite their narrow escape from death late Saturday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a trolley car at Buckland. The occupants of the trolley car were attempting to flee without their friends learning their destination. Three other automobiles bearing friends of the newlyweds were pursuing them at the time of the accident.

The bridegroom received a minor cut on his face but the bride escaped injury although she was badly shaken up and is in a highly nervous condition as a result of the accident.

Flee from Parsonage.

It appears that following the ceremony at the parsonage of the North Congregational church which was performed by Rev. Frederick C. Allen, pastor of that church at four o'clock, the newlyweds, with Miss Gladys Keith, the bridesmaid, and Carl Swanson, the best man, climbed into an Oldsmobile car which was waiting for them in front of the parsonage. The car bore a large sign entitled, "Just Married" in addition to having a large number of old shoes tied to the rear bumper. The car with its chauffeur, William House, then sped towards Buckland.

Pursued by Friends.

Friends of the newly married couple were on the alert. They had been watching for the pair to emerge from the parsonage and the Oldsmobile had scarcely started in the direction of Buckland than the admirers, who were bound they would learn the newlyweds' destination, climbed into other machines and started in pursuit. The driver of the trolley car, realizing he was being chased, increased the speed of his machine and succeeded in keeping in the lead by a comfortable margin.

Turned Off Trail.

When the car bearing the excited newlyweds reached the four-corners at Buckland, House, the driver, resorted to strategy. Instead of continuing straight ahead, he turned the Oldsmobile up the road towards Wapping and then took the first street to the left which brought the party back onto the road towards Hartford again. This maneuver failed to throw off the pursuit, and the following cars chased along close behind.

Struck by Trolley.

In the meanwhile the fleeing honeymooners were approaching the railroad underpass at Buckland. At a point several yards from the bridge, they met another automobile which had just come out from under the bridge. It was a Ford car. House turned out to pass the machine and in doing so failed to notice a trolley car, Rockville bound, which was just coming out from under the bridge. He applied his brakes quickly and attempted to pull out of the tracks and onto the road again. In doing so, his machine skidded and the rear of the car struck the trolley.

Rescued by Pursuers.

The Oldsmobile was badly damaged and how its occupants escaped serious injury is a mystery to those who witnessed the accident. Passengers from the trolley car, who by this time had realized that the oc-

DRY UP NATION AT ANY COST OF MEN OR MONEY

More Agents, More Pay and Sympathetic Officials, Demands Bishop Cannon Slapping at Andrews.

Washington, April 19.—A demand for more drastic enforcement of the prohibition law was made by dries today before the Senate judiciary sub-committee.

More agents, higher salaries, increased appropriations and placing of sympathetic officials in charge of enforcement were urged by Bishop James J. Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal church (South), in a program endorsed by the dries.

Cannon took what was regarded as an indirect slap at L. C. Andrews, dry czar, when he said that "to secure effective enforcement, the work must be committed to those who believe that the prohibition law is a good law."

Heavier Penalties.

Andrews aroused the dries by his recent statement to the committee that he believed that government sale of beer would aid enforcement.

WHITTEMORE TAME AS TRIAL BEGINS

Buffalo, N. Y., April 19.—With a cordon of armed police thrown around the courthouse, Richard Reese Whittemore, bandit leader, of Baltimore and New York City's underworld, went on trial for his life today in Supreme Court charged with the slaying of two bank messengers here during a daring daylight holdup of the Bank of Buffalo last October.

If Whittemore escapes the electric chair in New York he will face the charge of a murder in Baltimore for the killing of a guard when he escaped from prison.

Margaret Whittemore, wife of the leader of the "Candy Kid" bandit gang, was reported to be hiding in a nearby town.

Defense An Alibi.

Whittemore's defense will revolve about his alleged alibi that he was in New York City at the time of the Buffalo robbery.

A large crowd, the majority of them women and young girls, joined for admission to the trial in the corridors patrolled by armed deputies.

Attired in the most approved "sheik" fashion, Whittemore blinked and coughed nervously as his eyes swept the courtroom. He eagerly assented to the newspaper photographers' request that he pose for them.

The accused man's attitude had changed from that of braggadocio to a bearing meek and conciliatory in contrast and, at times, he presented an appearance of humility.

The bandit's attorneys, Bartlett Sumner and Melvin Green, arrived shortly after Whittemore, followed by Guy B. Moore, prosecutor.

The "Candy Kid" leaned against a table and listened to the indictment and Justice Hoonan's advice regarding jury challenges.

The roll of 250 talesmen was then called.

Five jurors had been chosen when the court adjourned for lunch.

MAUNO LOA GIVES WONDER SPECTACLE

Honolulu, April 19.—Mauna Loa's fiery lava rampage continued today. Already the surging flow of molten rock have taken considerable property toll. No loss of life, however, has been reported. The small village of Hoopuloa, in the South Kona district, on the western shore of Hawaii Island, has been wiped out by a great stream of flaming lava one thousand feet wide and twenty feet deep at the crest.

Twelve native houses, a pier and several tanks—comprising the village—were engulfed by the fiery river. All residents escaped, carrying with them such belongings as was possible. About 135 native fishermen lived in Hoopuloa.

When Lava Hit Sea.

After passing through the village, the gigantic flow struck the sea at 6:21 Sunday morning. An awe-inspiring spectacle resulted. Gigantic steam clouds, visible for miles around, were formed when the red hot rock flow mingled with the ocean. A succession of roaring explosions, plainly heard twenty miles away, added to the savage grandeur of the battle between the fire of the lava and the water of the sea.

Scores of excursion parties witnessed the spectacle from boats offshore.

Aces Fast Leaving U. S. Army's Flying Service

Crack Flyers Rapidly Quitting Service Where Conditions and Chance of Promotion Irk Them.

BY GEORGE BRITT
Washington, April 19.—The American army is losing its crack flyers!

The resignation of Lieutenant John Macready, who has gone farther towards the sky's ceiling than any other man in America, is only the latest and most notable loss to the service, or the war time ace and the holders of peace time records are resigning from the air service in appalling numbers.

Of the six heroes of the round-the-world flight, only three remain in uniform. Within the past few months the nearly a dozen famous flyers have quit. For the year 1925 the resignations in the air service amounted to 2.3 per cent, or nearly double the rate of 1.2 per cent in the infantry.

Each of these flyers who leaves represents a loss to the government, at actual replacement cost, of from $100,000 to $1,000,000.

Morale Shattered.

Why are they leaving? The answer seems to be that morale has

'LEAVES' JAIL JUST AS HE HAD TOLD THE JUDGE

Delaney, Star Prison Quit-ter, Out of N. Y. Pen and Now Being Sought for in Connecticut.

Eastview, N. Y., April 19.—Search was being made throughout Westchester county and Southern Connecticut today for John W. Delaney, alias John Dean, who broke out of the Westchester County penitentiary here last night.

It was his fourth escape. He broke jail from the penitentiary at San Diego, Cal., from the Nevada State penitentiary and a penal institution for minor delinquents in California's some years ago.

Delaney was in the kitchen of the prison. He seized an axe, smashed out the bars in a window two feet square and wriggled his way to freedom before he was missed. He hid for a time in a patch of wooded land nearby and in an abandoned schoolhouse, and made his way to freedom while an army of guards scoured the vicinity.

Warned Judge.

Delaney has come to be regarded as one of the most elusive prisoners on record. When sentenced to White Plains a week ago on a robbery charge, County Judge William F. Bleakley asked him how he managed to escape so often and so thoroughly.

"When I want to leave, your honor, I just leave," Delaney replied.

Authorities here believe Delaney headed for the Connecticut line.

PASSAIC STRIKE SITUATION TENSE

Police and Sheriffs Mass to Prevent Picketing—Governor Refuses to Act.

Passaic, N. J., April 19.—With the strike situation here becoming more threatening hourly as police and deputy sheriffs mass in an effort to prevent picketing, it was announced today that Samuel Untermeyer, famous lawyer, probably will make a personal plea before a Senate committee for a congressional investigation of the textile strike.

From his headquarters in Trenton, N. J., Governor A. Harry Moore this afternoon issued a statement setting forth that he had no power to intervene in the textile strike, except "to invade the strike zone with armed forces of the state." The governor said he "would not be coerced or cajoled" into sending the forces "except as a last resort."

Gov. Moore's Refusal.

Governor Moore explained that several offers on his part to act as mediator in the dispute had not been accepted.

Cleveland, April 19.—A few hours before she was to leave today for Syracuse, N. Y., to testify against a man held there on the charge of stealing an automobile recently in Detroit, Miss Franklin's front door bell rang at her home here. When she opened the door a strange woman threw acid in her face.

Mrs. Franklin, who was severely burned, told police she had received a letter threatening her life if she testified against the alleged automobile thief at Syracuse.

D. A. R. HEAD OUT AGAINST THE WETS

Mrs. Cook, President-General, Declares for 18th as She Opens 30th Congress.

Washington, April 19.—Daughters of the American Revolution were asked today to take a firm stand in preventing the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, President General, in her address opening the 35th Continental Congress.

"Based upon a nation-wide survey conducted during the past three years, it is my deliberate opinion that the people of America will never repeal the Eighteenth Amendment," she said. "I am steadfast in the opinion that as Daughters of the American Revolution we should pledge ourselves not only to do whatever we can to prevent the repeal of the amendment, but to do our utmost by precept and example to aid and assist in its observance and enforcement."

Pointing out that America was at the cross-roads regarding law enforcement, Mrs. Cook said there could be no negative conduct "in relation to this great issue for all conduct is positive."

For or Against.

"We are either for or we are against law observance and law enforcement," she said. "Let it be understood that we cannot pick and choose from among the laws, those we will obey and those we will nullify in personal conduct."

"A welter of words and controversial claims are advanced by opponents of the amendment, but a statement compiled by insurance associations, is significant. In 1917, the death rate among policy holders from alcoholism was 4.9 per cent, for each 100,000. Five years later it was but 0.9 per cent.

Moreover, all candid folk, whether friends or opponents of the amendment, must agree that the increased purchasing power of the public, so general since the war, has in no small degree been due to the amendment. Tremendous sums of money once spent on liquor have gone to provide a six-year's' leeway contributing to the greater happiness, comfort and well-being of the national community.

Sees Law's Success.

"It is equally a matter of common knowledge that law enforcement without a militant public sentiment is impossible."

GOVERNMENT TO FIGHT J. T. KING'S DEFENSE

Dispute Counsel's Claim of Immunity Under Statute of Limitations.

New York, April 19.—The case of John T. King, former Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, indicted for perjury in connection with the American Metals Company investigation, was called today before Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow. On the request of attorneys for the government, the case was put over until April 26.

Counsel for King was to present an argument on the motion to quash the indictment. It is understood the basis of the argument for the move will be that the government is prohibited from prosecuting the charge under a three-year statute of limitations. The government, however, it is understood, will contest this argument, claiming this case is under another statute, providing a six-year's' leeway. Testimony offered by King in the investigation on the return of stock in the American Metals Corporation seized during the war, to German companies, is alleged to have revealed he swore falsely to his income tax return in 1921.

Kellogg Gives Notice to League of Nations This Country Will Not Take Part in Parley to Consider Senate Reservations.

Washington, April 19.—The United States will not attend a conference of the League of Nations to discuss America's entrance into the World Court because the Senate specifically provided that American reservations should become effective only through direct acceptance by each of the 48 nations in the tribunal.

This was the reason assigned by Secretary of State Kellogg in a note declining the League's invitation to meet in Geneva in September to consider the Senate reservations.

The text of the note was made public today.

Kellogg declared it would be a matter of regret to the United States if the League council did anything to create the impression that substantial difficulties would arise in America's method of dealing with each member of the court.

Kellogg's note was regarded as a reiteration of the administration's policy not to become involved in the League by American entrance into the court.

It also constituted a notice to the League that there will be no modification of America's conditional adherence—the court must take the United States with the reservations, or the United States will not become a party to the tribunal.

Separate Assent.

If the court members desire to meet to consider the Senate reservation, Kellogg said there would be no objection by the United States.

However, American entrance might be speeded by joint action by court members, Kellogg declared his "country" had no difficulty in the way of securing the assent of each signatory by direct exchange of notes.

HOW TO IMPROVE STATE'S HIGHWAYS

Secretary of Forestry Association Tells How Our Roads May Be Beautified.

By P. L. BUTTRICK. Civilization is impossible without roads, and roads which are beautiful as well as merely useful are an indication of a high civilization.

First, that authority should be given to the State Highway Commission to care for, as well as to plant shade trees, and that the necessary appropriations should be made for both purposes.

Second, that legislation designed to control objectionable outdoor advertising should be perfected.

Third, that local town tree wardens should be placed under the supervision of some state department, preferably the State Park and Forest Commission.

Fourth, existing legislation regarding pruning of trees on public highways should be clarified.

A state-wide committee is now being formed to work on the whole matter and to organize a definite campaign to make Connecticut the state of beautiful roadsides.

According to authorities, two 50-gallon stills were found in the hut.

cupants of the auto were newlyweds, gathered about the badly wrecked machine. In the meanwhile, the cars bearing the pursuers arrived at the scene.

The trolley car which figured in the crash was in charge of Motor-man John L. Cavanaugh and Conductor Ray Robertson.

Three preliminaries are on the books. In one of eight rounds, Ruby Bradley, Holyoke's colored flyweight, who recently decisively defeated Harry Goldstein, New England champion, will take on Johnny Breslin of New York, a stablemate of Delaney's.

Eddie Lord, who is now in Kid Kaplan's entourage, fights Phil Richards of England, in a six-round preliminary. Eddie defeated George Day in Hartford several weeks ago and is touted as a real coner by those who know.

The opening preliminary is offered as an added attraction and is a six-round bringing into action a pair of heavyweights, Murray Git-New York this winter while Rely of South America, Gilita has been campaigning with success around New York this winter while Rely has several creditable bouts to his credit, chief among them a battle with Pat McCarthy of Boston in which the Boston Irishman took a real soaking from the South American negro in the first few rounds, then winning on points after he changed his campaign from punching to boxing. Rely is a terrific hitter.

Jack Delaney's first appearance in Connecticut, since his senatorial rise to the front ranks of American boxers, is set for Monday evening, April 26, when the clever and hard-hitting light heavyweight fights the intrepid King Solomon in the star bout of George Mulligan's second boxing show in the big State Armory at Hartford.

COMPLAIN ABOUT DOGS. DO NOT GIVE NAMES

Local Dog Warden Says He Cannot Take Action Unless He Knows Who Makes Complaint.

Dog Warden Fred A. Krahn, speaking to a Herald man last night said that people should give their names or the name of an informant.

Mr. Krahn said that hardly a day passes but that he either receives a letter or a few telephone calls, complaining about dogs that bark at night to bother sick persons, or that they are noisy.

Also, the dog warden said that if a dog is lost, he should be notified immediately. Only last week he shot a dog valued at $50 because he held the animal three days according to law and then disposed of it because he did not know its name.

There are about 1,200 dogs in town, according to the dog warden, and about half have been licensed.

FIRE STARTS ANEW IN EAST HARTFORD

Nine Days After Big Warehouse Blaze Firemen Are Forced to Use Water.

Nine days after East Hartford's biggest fire when the Stowe-Olmstead tobacco warehouse burned with a loss of $600,000, embers in the debris which had been smoldering ever since the conflagration, were fanned into flames today by the high winds.

At one o'clock this afternoon the fire had gotten beyond control of the single line of hose attached to the warehouse and a box alarm was sent in to the East Hartford fire department.

Two high pressure streams were attached to the pump and played on the blaze.

In the brick warehouse was a mass of tobacco which had survived the big fire and workmen were forced to stop their work of reclaiming the tobacco and cleaning

CLOCKS.

Next Sunday day-light-saving time will go into effect in New York and Massachusetts. It will also go into effect in most of the large towns and cities of this state, even though discontinued by state law.

By far the greater part of Connecticut's population is urban. By far the greater part of the city and town dwellers like the daylight saving idea, find it to their positive advantage.

But one thing is quite certain: The ridiculous statute, adopted by the Connecticut legislature in a spirit of pique and which forbids the display of public clocks set at anything but eastern standard time, ought to come off the books.

The history of Connecticut is too fine, its record for tolerance and breadth of mind and all-around sanity too good, to make such grotesqueries on the part of its legislature welcome.

The American Union has its clown states; let Kansas and Tennessee and such other commonwealths as may wish to rival them have a monopoly of freak legislation.

Here we are old enough and rational enough and dignified enough to be a cut above such business as passing a criminal law on the setting of clocks.

Whatever the next legislature does about daylight saving time, if anything or nothing else, at least let it repeal that idiotic statute.

THOMPSON'S TRIP. Instead of a disposition to put obstacles in the way of Col. Carmi Thompson's trip to the Philippines as the direct representative of President Coolidge, those members of Congress who regard the administration of Island affairs with more or less suspicion ought to be giving three rousing cheers for the President's determination to get some first hand information on the situation over there.

It might be well for the objectors to the Thompson survey to remember that the Ohio man is not going to the Philippines as the secret representative of one Calvin Coolidge but as a special investigator for the President of the United States—which is an enormously different matter.

a more intimate and less perfumery relationship, is maintained between Manila and Washington. It is greatly to the credit of President Coolidge's wisdom and intentions that he goes thus publicly about the business of hauling the Philippine situation into daylight.

The same criticism is to be made of the dry's presentation of their case before the senate sub-committee, in its earlier stages, as was made of the wets' presentation of their case, also in the earlier stages. Up to today, the wets have simply exhorted and orated, with the single exception of putting on the testimony of a Canadian official who told about Ontario's experiment with government sale of beer.

The wets did the same thing for the first couple of days. After that they began to present facts and figures. If the drys have any more real evidence to show that the Volstead law is a good law and ought to be left alone, it would be a good idea for them to devote what time they have remaining to having witnesses give it before the committee.

Congressional committees are not likely to be impressed by oratory—not even dry committees like this one—for their members think prettily well of themselves as orators and do not make good audiences.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES. Congressional committees are not likely to be impressed by oratory—not even dry committees like this one—for their members think prettily well of themselves as orators and do not make good audiences.

Mauna Loa, on one of its periodic bays, this time has really done some damage, having wiped out one of the little Hawaiian villages that sit under the great volcano's wing, trusting to luck that nothing serious will ever happen.

Meantime sightseers who happen to be in the islands at this particular time have had a wonderful experience, a gorgeous spectacle, and all without any extra charge added to the tourist ticket.

Florida developers are building Venetian canals, tropical lagoons and the like to make their sandbar look like something. Why not tackle a Mauna Loa?

For fifty or a hundred million dollars it would seem as if it might be possible to erect a passable mountain, at least at high as the Woolworth building, with a sheet iron runway for molten "lava", a couple of cement mixers inside to furnish the rumbles and plenty of dynamite crackers and red paint to provide an occasional eruption.

How in the world is the Everglade state going to retain its position as America's premier show place if Hawaii is to be permitted to pull off volcanic bustups that actually burn up villages without Florida doing anything about it.

SOME USE. The "Kid Dropper" gang and the "Little Augie" gang of New York's lower East Side have been engaged in a serial warfare for three years and the eleventh murder in connection therewith has just been staged.

Just why the police or society at large should be interested in ferreting out and punishing the perpetrators of crimes of this kind is a question that perhaps will bear more thinking about than would appear on the surface.

However, there is Madison Square Garden, which seems fated never to witness the activities of Mr. Jack Dempsey. There is bullet proof glass. There is Tex Rickard, with a thick bank roll. There are the "Kid Dropper" and "Little Augie" parties. What a perfectly corking substitute for a championship boxing match if the "Droppers" and "Augies" could be induced to sign up for a real finish battle, provided with plenty of cartridges and a good lively training course of dope, and turned loose at one another in the arena with say a hundred thousand dollar tonline for the survivors to share!

Through an unusual suavity and a lively appreciation of the value of the encyclopedia as an auxiliary when one sets up as an authority on everything conceivable, Rev. S. Parkes Cadman has succeeded in establishing the most pronounced vogue, as a radio lecturer, attained by any of those numerous individuals who were quick to seize upon the "air" as a road to fame.

His has been an amiable celebrity, and gained at no small expenditure of diplomacy in the selection and treatment of his subjects. Now he is in peril of ruining the whole works because his customary caution got away from him long enough to permit a loose tongue to betray his pronounced pacifist leanings.

The police had to be called in yesterday in Brooklyn when Dr. Cadman began to roast the Reserve Officers Training Camp and the whole institution of military preparedness.

So does another popular idol develop feet of clay.

THE NEWEST AMERICAN SALUTE.

IN NEW YORK

New York, April 19.—Wherever the "big tops" have been hoisted the name of May Wirth is well known.

May, who comes of a famous old circus family and who is a star of the "greatest show on earth," always visits, when playing in New York, the family of the first cavalier to enter her life.

It was in Australia—oh, many years ago. A number of American cowboys had been signed up for trick riding with the Wirth circus. Among them was one Cherokee Bill.

May was almost an infant in arms. She had been all dressed up by her aunt and told not to go near the horses and other animals as she would be certain to get dirty. But then as now, May was fond of horses and, when no one looked, she ran to the tent where a circle of horses stamped nervously, waiting their turn to go on.

One of them brought a heavy hoof down in a public display of water and farewell to May's clean dress. Just then Cherokee Bill came up, ready to swing into the saddle. He found little May in tears. She told the big cowboy her troubles and he said: "Oh, I'll fix it up with your aunt."

And he did. May escaped a spanking and was truly grateful. Years later May and Cherokee Bill met on Broadway. They were playing in the same theater. Only Cherokee Bill had become Will Rogers and she was the great May Wirth.

Speaking of the circus gives us one more chance to weep for the poor New York youngster. Remember how half the fun of a circus was prowling around the grounds eating peanuts and molasses popcorn and lemonade.

There are no such lots around Madison Square Garden. Instead one sees the peanut vendors gathered at the gaping mouths of the nearest subway exits crying their wares.

Oh, well, the city youngsters don't know the difference! Thanks to the Italian restaurants the world is soon to know more about a certain vegetable called broccoli.

For generations it has been a pet dish among Italians and well known Italian chefs. While New York "slummers" invariably order it, this vegetable is little known to the big crowd.

But now, it appears, Florida has just the proper climate for raising it. And one of the best known Broadwayites—Joe Best—is to become a broccoli farmer.

With the farmers insisting on coming to the cities and the city folk turning farmers there seems still some hope for the "back to the land" movement.

That much sympathy is being expressed for Chapman shouldn't be assumed. The consensus of opinion seems to be that he's small loss, whether he committed the specific crime for which he was hanged or not.

Numerous congressional critics do say, however, that such scenes as a newspaper described in Vethersfield Prison death chamber, would be surprising if a few congressmen should put themselves officially on record to that effect before the session ends.

To be sure, it didn't hurt Chapman any more to be hanged than it hurts others who are being hanged, electrocuted, shot, and beheaded, etc., but it is the public's duty to be out of it that causes all the present commotion.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

BY CHARLES F. STEWART. Washington, April 19.—Probably the hanging of Gerald Chapman was no worse than any other execution. Due, however, to Chapman's wide notoriety, news accounts of it were unusually horrible in gruesome detail.

Judging from unofficial congressional comment, they've caused a decided revulsion against capital punishment under any circumstances. Of course congressmen, as such have no responsibility for state laws, but they do, individually have influence in their respective states.

Besides, the Chapman case, in one way was peculiarly linked up with the federal government. The bandit enjoyed—or, rather, by no means enjoyed—the distinction of being the only man ever pardoned by the president of the United States in order to be hanged.

President Coolidge, in signing this pardon, relinquishing the Atlanta penitentiary's claims on Chapman and thus allowing the Connecticut authorities to string him up, really sent the outlaw to his death in a more direct sense than he was sent by the jury which convicted him, the judge who sentenced him or the board which refused him mercy at the last.

The Connecticut proceedings at least were automatic—the usual thing, done in the usual way. President Coolidge set a precedent, in granting a pardon which meant the same thing.

While the supreme court turned down Chapman's contention that a pardon can be refused by the man it is offered to, some lawyers in Congress do incline to believe there may be merit in the argument that the so-called Chapman pardon wasn't actually a pardon at all—a pardon being a remission of punishment, not its infliction.

Chapman didn't omit to point out that a pardon is supposed to be an act of clemency, which distinctly was what his own was not, but he didn't stress it, or assert that it wasn't, in reality, a pardon. What he emphasized was that he could refuse it if he chose.

This was the issue on which he was overruled by the supreme court. The question as to a definition hardly figured. Legal minds in Congress are raising it now. It doesn't matter to Chapman, but it's "circ" in the forenoon sharks who abhor Capitol Hill.

That much sympathy is being expressed for Chapman shouldn't be assumed. The consensus of opinion seems to be that he's small loss, whether he committed the specific crime for which he was hanged or not.

Numerous congressional critics do say, however, that such scenes as a newspaper described in Vethersfield Prison death chamber, would be surprising if a few congressmen should put themselves officially on record to that effect before the session ends.

To be sure, it didn't hurt Chapman any more to be hanged than it hurts others who are being hanged, electrocuted, shot, and beheaded, etc., but it is the public's duty to be out of it that causes all the present commotion.

PET CHARITY IS OFTEN SOMEONE'S PET FRAUD

Best Plan Is to Investigate Before Contributing to Solicitors for Funds—Certain People on "Touch" List.

known disinclination of the majority of people to turn a deaf ear to a plausible story of need.

rious national organizations, the Chamber of Commerce is in a position to advise anyone who is solicited for any unknown charity or advertising, as to the worthiness or authenticity of the project.

This is the seventh article prepared by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce for The Herald on fraudulent solicitors.

The Chamber of Commerce has no desire to discourage giving to charity, nor to question the legitimacy of those who are able to indulge themselves in the pleasure of helping others.

Ask for Indorsement. No one should hesitate to demand of any solicitor for any project that they bring an indorsement from the Chamber of Commerce.

The thoughtless, indiscriminate giving and subscribing that certain people still indulge in is the biggest factor in the multiplication of useless agencies and the encouragement of dishonest or fraudulent solicitations, for charity, advertising or merchandise.

"He looked so honest," or "He talked so fair, it doesn't seem possible that he could be dishonest" are also common remarks descriptive of men who are putting their God-given graces to their disadvantage.

Daughter: I've just accepted Mr. Ollie's mother. Mother: Gracious, child! I refused him myself twenty-five years ago.

It is impossible for any one individual to know all worthy charities. There is no earthly reason why anyone should contribute to any cause with which he is not familiar. It is a very-known fact that there are in every community, worthy individuals to whom any surplus funds will be welcome, but these worthy people are not equipped with the necessary nerve or experience to get out and beg for themselves, while hundreds of collectors for mythical charities go up and down the land picking up an easy living by the aid of a carefully formulated story, calculated to appeal to the sympathies of certain people in every community who are on the "touch list."

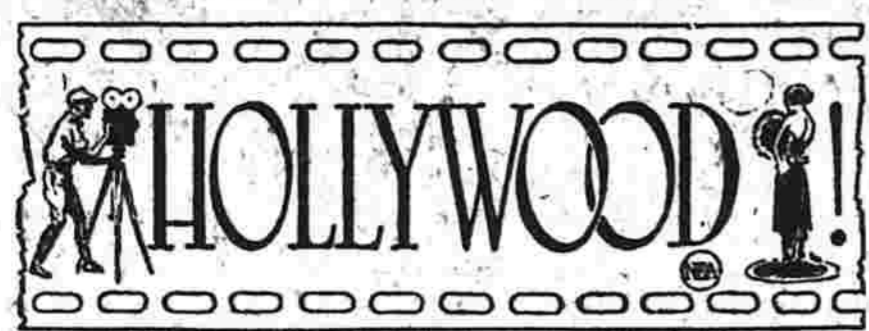

It may be that the solicitors are not actually dishonest, as there are hundreds of ill-considered projects conceived in a moment of enthusiasm and oftentimes sponsored by estimable people who would not think of doing anything dishonest, but who lend their names either to a project with no organized project or a huge overhead so that very little of the money even reaches those it is subscribed to aid, or else they are unwittingly the dupes of some crafty promoter.

Daughter: I know. We've just had a good laugh about it.—Punch. The average family in the United States spends $10 a year for soap.

Some of these collectors carry elaborate credentials which in reality mean nothing and if investigated, would prove them to be the rankest impostors collecting for their own private use and having no connection with any charitable or philanthropic service.

The money that is handed over daily in most communities for fraudulent advertising in the name of war veterans, express or railroad employees, labor organizations, and what-not, would really support many of our worthy poor.

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Hollywood—The screen's emphasis on young love and marshmallow romance doesn't jibe with the audience demand, if the result of C. B. De Mille's just completed movie idea contest may be accepted as a criterion of public preference.

This contest, to which 39,000 sons from all walks of life contributed, may be considered as a straw ballot of what the contestants and their families and associates prefer by way of film entertainment.

Subjects, tabulated in percentages, show the following: Historical Biographical and costume, 17 per cent; Biblical, 14; spiritual, 6; moral problems, 5.45; political and governmental, 5.25; parents and children, 5.40; religion, apart from Bible, 2.30; marriage, 1.3; industrial problems, 1.35; YOUNG LOVE, 1.30; ROMANCE IN GENERAL, 0.5; war, 1.12; westerns, 0.3; adventure, 0.8.

Note the almost negligible place given to sheer romance and the decided counter-balance of "weighty" topics.

Due allowance, of course, must be made for the contestants' appeal to De Mille's known predilections and the influence of his "Ten Commandments." But this was considerably offset by the producer's announcement that he did not court Biblical subjects.

The prize-winning "The Deluge" (the Biblical flood), submitted by Catherine Comstock, a Sunday school teacher of Long Beach, Calif., for which she received $1,000.

Doctors, lawyers, school teachers, newspaper men, ministers and engineers led the van of the contestants in the order named—and most of the clergymen submitted colorful, romantic subjects not related to their calling.

In citing the great burden of responsibility carried by the American movie makers, because of the world-wide influence of their product, Ed. Neill says:

"When one learns that in barbarous lands, where the natives used to put noses as a sign of affection, they now emulate the American kiss, and that the great missionary effect of the final osculatory 'fade-out' that typifies our happy endings."

Responsibility indeed!

Ernest Torrence, superb character actor, has just realized the ambition of a lifetime. He has built, in his new home, the largest bathtub in Hollywood.

Torrence is six feet three. If now he can prevail upon the Pullmans to build berths of equal dimensions, he will be a happy Scotchman.

Wallace Beery's ability to look and talk as hard-boiled as he seems in his villainous roles, when occasion demands, prevented an unscheduled battle in the forthcoming "Old Ironsides."

A very salty old windjammer skipper, hired for the occasion, did not know Beery's identity. When the skipper belted an order, knuckling a sailor cross decks for tardiness, Wally merely yawned where he hung lazily in the shrouds.

The old salt, violently affronted at this indifference, started up the rigging with his choicest line of waterfront talk. Beery countered with an equally choice brand.

This unbelievable backlash from a supposedly lazy sailor checked the irate captain long enough for Director Jim Cruze to shout explanations. The savage breasts were soothed to chuckles over a bottle of pop.

Lots Moran, lovely young heroine of the pictured "Stella Dallas," is tripping about the studios in a transport of delight over the deluge of nice things that have been said about that perfect performance.

Not yet spoiled by adulation, Leamy B. getting a little canny about publicity. Nothing so quickly removes the fine bloom of naïveté as a volume of press clipping praise.

"Youngsters who have thus far escaped its ban are Miss Moran, Mary Brian and Mary Philbin. Each can still blush at a compliment, and what so rare as a genuine blush in Hollywood!

The lusty movie infant seems at last to be cutting adrift from the apron strings of stage play and published story and to be developing a language of its own. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's product for the coming year will be 50 per cent original stories. Paramount will use 35 per cent of stories written directly for the film.

A hundred bass would be simple. Most of the fishing is done there with natural bait. For that reason it does not appeal to the bait and fly caster.

But by the use of a trolling spoon the limit is quickly reached and a bait caster can get his limit any day when the weather is favorable.

DRINK MORE VODKA

Moscow.—The government will produce 500,000,000 quarts of vodka in the coming year, according to estimates. This will yield the state about $250,000,000 in revenue, or ten per cent of the entire budget. The government within the last six months has more than doubled its output of vodka.

STRAW NOW FIREPROOF.

Paris.—The French have a new fireproof building material made of straw. The straw is pressed into regular panels nine feet long by six wide and two inches thick, bound together by lengthwise wires about six inches apart. The heavy pressure under which the panels are constructed as well as the mineral content of the straw account for its being fireproof.

OPEN FORUM

A WORD OF APPRECIATION.

Editor, The Herald:

Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper for the following words of appreciation concerning the Rev. Joseph Cooper, who was re-appointed minister of the South Manchester Methodist Episcopal church for the fifth time at the recent session of the New England Southern Conference.

Yesterday was the first Sunday of the new conference year and he was greeted by appreciative audiences at both the morning and evening services who listened with rapt attention as he so eloquently proclaimed the messages which God had given to him.

Many expressions of satisfaction and delight were heard from members of the church and congregation because this good man has been re-appointed for another year as the pastor of this great church.

For four years he has moved about in this community gaining the love and respect of people in all the walks of life because of his unselfish devotion not only to the work of his own parish but to every good work which the community as a whole is trying to carry forward.

The leadership of this man of God is almost without a parallel in the whole New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church and fortunate is the church and fortunate the community that can command the services of such a man.

Every department of the church over which he is minister is in a flourishing condition, and there is a unity of purpose on the part of all those who have been chosen as leaders to make this the most wonderful year in the history of the church. Several articles appearing in the press recently would lead some to believe, who are not familiar with Methodist polity, that the church would be divided over the choice of its minister.

That would be unfortunate if true, but it is not true.

There is no division, neither has there been any danger of a division at any time. The Rev. Cooper has the loyal support of all the members of his church both young and old. And the beautiful stone structure at Main street and Hartford Road, with its wonderful modern equipment, erected under his leadership, makes this a better community in which to live.

May God bless all our churches and the Godly men who have been chosen as their ministers, and may we as laymen and lay women rally to their support.

HUNDREDS TURNED AWAY AT STATE LAST NIGHT

Still Chance to See Harry Langdon in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" the Big Feature.

Hundreds were turned away from the State theater last night who wished to see Harry Langdon in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," and Cecil B. DeMille's "Three Faces East." There is still a chance to see these two features today or tomorrow's matinee at 2:15 and evening at 7:00 and 9:00.

Harry Langdon, First National comedy king, just tramps in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," his new feature comedy. This picture is now showing at the State theater here. It is the first of the feature comedies that the comedian will make under the terms of his recent contract with First National.

Harry is forced to take to the highways and byways when his father informs him that the mortgage will have to be lifted from the house. He enters a transcontinental foot race and wins not only a large prize, but the hand of a beautiful girl.

The story of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" is an original with Langdon. He has had it in mind for many years. A corps of age groups collaborated with the comedian on the story.

Harry Edwards, who has been associated with the comedian since the days of his short comedies, directed.

The cast includes Joan Crawford, Edwards Davis, Tom Murray.

ALICE FRANCIS AND BROOKS BENEDICT

Could you kill your sweetheart to save your country from crushing defeat in time of war?

This is the question that confronts Jetta Goudal in the dramatic climax of "Three Faces East," a war-time drama of the Secret Service, now being shown at the State theater, where it is meeting with great success. Jetta Goudal plays an amazing part in this picture. She is deep in the confidence of rival powers apparently giving valuable information to both sides, and it is not until the last few feet of film that her true identity is revealed.

The featured cast for "Three Faces East" includes prominent players in important roles, Henry Walthall, Clive Brook, Robert Ames and Elythe Chapman all participating in this tense drama.

CHAUTAQUA GUARANTORS TO MEET

For the purpose of organization there will be a short meeting of the guarantors for 1926 Chautauqua at five o'clock this evening at the Connecticut Business College, Odd Fellows building.

The Misses Reinhold and Breed who have been in town for the last few weeks in the interest of Swarthmore Chautauqua are winding up their work here. The young women have been successful in securing the requisite number of guarantors so that the high class programs furnished by the organization is assured to Manchester this summer.

In all probability the Chautauqua tent will be pitched in the center of the town, if permission can be secured from the government to use the post office site.

POLICE COURT

Mitchell Liberty pleaded guilty in the local police court this morning to the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

He was arrested late Saturday night on East Center street by Officer Walter Cassels. Attorney William S. Hyde represented Liberty in court.

Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $125 and costs and a jail sentence of ten days. The judge suspended execution of the jail sentence.

Robert McKeown was before the court on a charge of assault on Ernest Wilson. Attorney Hyde who represented him asked for a continuance of the case until Tuesday the 27th. The request was granted.

"WAY DOWN EAST" COMING BACK HERE

Fans Demand That It Be Shown at Circle—To Remain Two Days.

D. W. Griffith's picturization of "Way Down East" based on the stage play by Lottie Blair Parker, which for the past twenty-two years was one of the rural classics of the American theater, will be presented at the Circle theater on Tuesday for two days with the following cast: Lillian Gish, Richard Barthelme, Mary Hay, Burr Macintosh, Lowell Sherman, Creighton Hale, Mrs. Morgan Belmont, Kate Bruce, Edgar Nelson, George Neville, Vivian Ogden, Porter Strong, Josephine Bernard, Mrs. David Laidreau, Patricia Fruen, Florence Short, Emily Fitzroy and Myrtle Sutch.

Mr. Griffith's production of "Way Down East" represents ten months' work of the most exacting character, for in his screen version of the story he has endeavored to follow closely the narrative of the stage play, with here and there a digression for the purpose of dramatic value of elaboration.

"Way Down East" is the biggest production Mr. Griffith has made. Several Griffith innovations are promised, including a thrilling snowstorm and a genuine New England ice break on the river. The other feature will be Kenneth Harlan in "The Sap."

Today the Circle presents two features, Monte Blue in "The Man Upstairs" and an all star cast in

ALL OF PARTY DEAF MUTES ON VISIT TO MANCHESTER.

An auto party all of the men and women deaf mutes stopped at a local garage last evening for some gas and oil. They said they were from New Haven.

It was an odd sight for the garage keeper near the Center to hear the party laughing but so talking. Looking into the big touring car which was lighted, he noticed that they were all speaking with their fingers.

After writing on a pad what they wanted and saying that they were from New Haven and were on a visit here, the party went on its way.

"Clicking Hoofs." Also gold night. Gold will be given away.

A BASS PARADISE.

Any man who attempts to designate "the best" small-mouth bass grounds in the world would immediately be put down as having a very limited knowledge.

I have done quite a spell of bass fishing at this place, there and elsewhere. Been over quite a bit of country—northern Wisconsin, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maine, the far west and to the celebrated waters of Ontario and Quebec.

I've had some great small-mouth bass fishing. Caught 'em with worms, minnows and crickets, plus and spoon-casts, and trolled for 'em, and have taken 'em on the fly, in both still and fast water. I've battled small-mouth on a steel rod and on split bamboo. Needless to say I'm a bass enthusiast.

But where is the greatest bass grounds in the world? Who can answer that question? I can't, but I'll tell you where you can catch more small-mouth bass than any place I know. It's at Long Point Bay, Port Rowan, Ontario.

Port Rowan is directly across Lake Erie from the city of Erie, Pa. You can reach it by railway, power boat or motor road, via Buffalo or Detroit. It's easy to get to and out of.

Outside of bass fishing the surroundings are not particularly attractive—but the bass are there. The season opens on June 16 and the daily creel limit is eight fish. That's where the rub comes in.

"Not a man comes fishing on this bay that shouldn't be arrested before he goes home," one of the natives told me. Of course that depends on the man. I do know that one of the resort proprietors tried to get the daily limit changed to read "40 fish in one day."

Long Point bass run small in the main. I mean from three-quarters of a pound to two pounds. You get an odd one that weighs more, but they are in the minority. But on a good day, and most days are good, with live minnows catching

Least puzzle answer: The aviator referred to is Lieutenant John H. Macready. "If the weather conditions permit, you will be at the Potomac READY to make a flight July 4, 1926. This will give you an opportunity to try out your new plane under favorable conditions."

2,465 CHILDREN HURT BY AUTOS IN STATE

Motor vehicles caused injuries to 2,465 children in Connecticut last year, it is announced by the state motor vehicle department.

Injuries proved fatal to 108 of them. Special reports furnished to the education departments of Hartford and Stamford show that 281 of the children were injured in the former city and 71 in the latter.

"In view of the appalling loss of life in preventable accidents in the United States, the importance of safety education is apparent," says a recommendation of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety which is being widely disseminated in Connecticut by the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

"Recreation leaders are strongly urged to do everything in their power to cooperate with the safety movement in the playground program and in local institutes for playground directors."

In support of this work, Mrs. Charles A. Goodwin has sent out letters to many people in Hartford asking for contributions to the Playground and Recreation Association.

School authorities in several municipalities of Connecticut are taking hold of the problem in earnest, and the motor vehicle department is giving its co-operation.

At the request of the officials of Hartford and Stamford, the department sends to each of those cities a monthly statement showing all the accidents to children due to motor vehicles which occurred in the previous month.

These statements include the following information: the date, the hour, the location of the accident, the extent of the injury, and the identity and age of the victim.

The information enables the authorities to concentrate their precautionary measures in the degree on the locations and hours shown to be the most hazardous to children.

In addition to the cities mentioned above, 283 children were injured by motor vehicles last year in Bridgeport, 315 in New Haven, 132 in Waterbury, 136 in New Britain, 153 in Meriden and 59 in New London.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

IS IT LILY OR CABBAGE? BY ARTHUR N. PACK

Which wild flower is the beautiful relative, the calla lily, has been the cause of drawing good money from the pockets of many an innocent urbanite.

The resemblance of the skunk cabbage sprout to its beautiful relative, the calla lily, has been the cause of drawing good money from the pockets of many an innocent urbanite.

The skunk cabbage plays a somewhat important part in Nature's wonderful scheme. With the earliest days of spring the blossoms commence to leave the nooks and crannies where they have been hibernating and start out in search of food.

Send a stamped addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine of Washington through arrangements made by this paper.

Measles Hard To Fight

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING, Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service. Measles is a disease which is extremely difficult to combat in the present state of our knowledge.

Failure to enforce quarantine measures during the early period of measles and failure to quarantine unrecognized or unreported cases greatly increases the opportunity for measles to spread.

Such diseases as diphtheria and typhoid fever is the increase in the number of deaths from cancer. While some of this increase can be explained as being due to better reporting, to more accurate diagnosis and to the fact that the lengthening of the span of life has enabled more people to live to the age at which cancer develops, still it seems definitely established that a part of the increase in cancer is actual and cannot be accounted for by these factors alone.

Observation made in the course of the studies of child hygiene continue to emphasize the importance of the correction in children of defective vision, carious teeth, diseased tonsils, adenoids and other abnormal conditions likely to be found at this age.

LOCAL RADIO FANS GET RUGBY, ENGLAND

Two local radio enthusiasts who are well advanced in radio work, Russell Mason and Louis Richmond, were able to "listen in" to a program broadcast direct from Rugby, England, yesterday.

Yesterday they heard David Saranof, president of the radio corporation of America, talking over the radio from the U. S. station at Point Long Island, to Owen D. Young, vice-president of the General Electric Company in Rugby, England.

The voice came over the radio in clear, distinct tones. The voice from England was naturally much fainter but was nevertheless audible.

THE YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

Silently he mounted the dark stairs.

He shifted his weight a little, relieving his cramped muscles. A board creaked ominously. He held his breath, waiting. . . ready to meet Jensen should he rush out of the room.

He waited what seemed to Jimmy an interminably long time before he turned back again to the phone. Jimmy breathed a sigh of relief as he heard him say. "All right, go ahead. Thought I heard something in the hall. This house so old. . . gives me the creeps. . . boards squeakin'."

At the head of the stairs he stopped once more. Jensen's voice was more distinct, but still it was impossible to distinguish his words. Jimmy thought: "If only I could mention the other man's name. . . Just once. . . God! I've got to hear what he's saying."

He moved slowly, silently, up the hall. He was inside the room, just as he had pictured him. And now Jimmy, crouched outside, hardly daring to breathe, could hear what he was saying. "Huh? . . . Yeah. . . Well, I'm gettin' ready to pull my freight."

"Rent," spoke up Mister Tingaling briskly. "Rent!" cried Bob White. "Why, I'm just about to move. I only live here in the winter. In the spring this field has to be plowed and planted again and all the cornshocks will be taken away."

IT TOOK CAPT. FRIED THREE YEARS TO WIN GIRL OF HIS HEART ANOTHER GREAT AMERICAN ROMANCE

Mr. and Mrs. George Fried (at home).

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

New York—Captain George Fried, hero of the Antioch disaster, is not only a man of courage and action on the high seas, but in the uncharted realms of love.

He fell in love at sight, and the first time he even called upon the brown-eyed, vivacious girl who had with one glance completely changed his views on bachelorhood, he gave her aunt and uncle, with whom she lived, a start by announcing after the introduction:

"I am going to marry your niece." It was three years before he made good his assertion, but he never once wavered or gave up the ship. And he had some real rescue work to do.

There were no drowning or freezing sailors to be put into life boats, but there were some husky, healthy specimens of manhood that had to be put out of the running, and often he realized that wind and waves and elements generally are easier to subdue than humans.

The captain and his wife met, appropriately enough, on a boat, the "America," then bringing troops back from France, and the captain was chief officer. She attended a party on the boat while it was in port and her first glimpse of Captain Fried revealed him in all the glory of gold braid and a blue uniform.

"And a uniform is very appealing," Mrs. Fried admits. However, history has it that this first meeting did not result in such a complete and unconditional surrender of affection for her as it did with him.

After all, she wasn't going to be cheated out of her courtship even by a uniform. So his prompt proposal did not bring a prompt acceptance or lead him to the altar any more precipitately than a more casual campaign.

"But during those three years, I don't believe I ever really considered anyone else seriously," she recalls. "I was really making up my mind whether or not I wanted to be a sailor's wife with my husband on the sea and in foreign ports more than he would be at home."

And after three years of indecision, she decided very promptly and they ran into Greenwich hastily and were married.

"While he is away I miss him, of course," she went on, "but I have time to keep up with my friends, read, and go to the theater and do the things I enjoy and when he is on this side of the Atlantic we make a regular holiday out of our home-life. We never have a chance to get tired of each other."

"I bake him apple pies and prepare all the home made food he enjoys so much, and time passes so quickly that before we realize it, he has to go back to the ship."

"At first he used to come back from every trip, loaded like a Santa Claus. The house became a museum and I had more trinkets than I knew what to do with. I had to curb his generosity or live in a five story house."

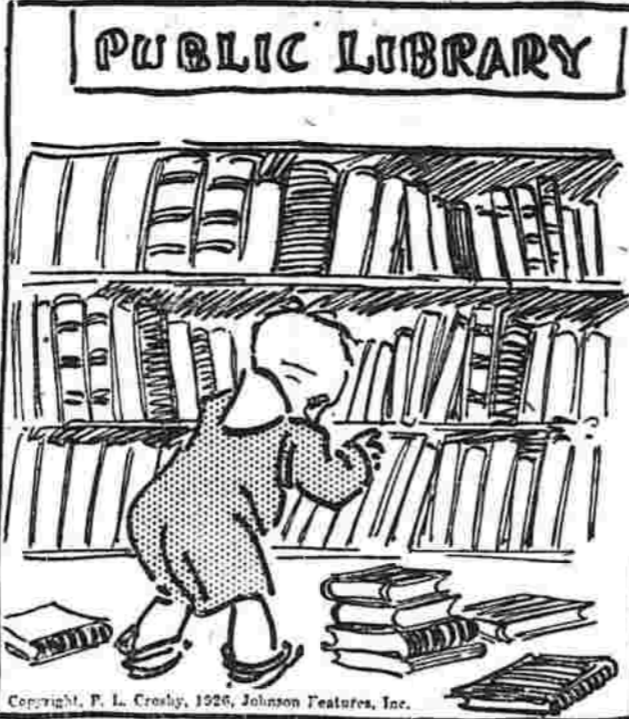

The Frieds have been married four years. "For years I've appreciated the qualities that the Antioch disaster revealed spectacularly to the world," she concluded. "I've never known him to desert a friend or lack sportsmanship. In fact, he's been my hero—well for seven years."

Mr. Fitzgerald and his nephew, Charles, visited the Hebron cottage on Tuesday and attended to some necessary repairs.

A magnificent example of the aurora borealis or "Northern lights" was seen here from seven P. M. and lasting into the small hours of the night on Wednesday. Many of our people, even to some who suffering with lumbago, watched the spectacle until "midnight. All kinds of phenomena connected with this appearance were to be seen, including that known as the corona, when a nebulous spot formed in the zenith, from which streams of light rays in every direction down to the horizon. It assumed the appearance at times of an arch of light across the heavens from east to west, and a wavy, flickering motion called "the merry dancers" was seen in a marked degree. The waves and floods of light seemed as if being turned on and off for experimental purposes. There were slight tinges of rainbow color at times, but this was not marked.

FURTHER HELP WILL BE GIVEN BRITISH MINERS

Industrial Crisis Looms for Next Month in Case Agreement Is Not Made.

London—To prevent an industrial crisis in May after the coal subsidy ends, the Government has decided to grant further financial assistance to the coal industry, but with the proviso that the miners and operators accept the recommendations of the Royal Coal Commission designed to put coal mining on a paying basis. By agreeing to the terms of the Commission's report, both the employers and the workers will be required to make a number of concessions, and it is not outside the range of possibility that complete agreement will be impossible. This would only mean one thing

—a nation-wide coal strike, which would probably have the support of most of England's powerful trade unions.

Between Two Evils Confronted by this danger, the Government feels that, between two evils, further drawing upon the public purse to keep the coal industry going, would be the lesser. There is almost unanimous agreement among those immediately concerned with the solution of the coal problem, that the subsidy can not continue indefinitely, making the industry a permanent parasite. For the present, however, it is feared that some mining companies would collapse if the cash they have been receiving from the Government were to be suddenly withdrawn.

Many months will be needed to carry out all the plans of the Government for the re-organization of the coal industry. The miners have, for the moment, dropped their demands for nationalization and are giving sympathetic attention to the Government's scheme for turning the industry into a single unit, con-working on a basis of understanding with the present owners, but ing and co-operation with the miners.

To Make Improvements Among the improvements to be effected are the re-grouping of pits, establishing of a central selling agency for coal, grading of coal under standard descriptions, common ownership of freight cars, and municipal sale of coal to eliminate the profits of middlemen.

Both the coal owners and the miners are approaching the problem in a spirit of good will.

Plainfield Finds Manchester Players Worth $1,200

ALL OUR PROMINENT ATHLETES ARE IN EUROPE THIS SEASON

To Be Away from Home Until After July 1—Only Baseball Players and Fighters Here at This Time.

(By Davis J. Walsh)
New York, April 19.—Mr. and Mrs. American Athlete wish to announce that, owing to the exigencies of the season, they will be "at home" after July 1. Doing Europe has become just as popular athletically as socially and, while some of the relations will be about the premises from time to time, the immediate family will not be receiving before that date.

As a matter of fact, they expect to be taking and among the things they hope to acquire are the British amateur and open golf titles; the Walker and Wightman cups; the French international trophies in tennis and golf and the Wimbledon tennis championships in both sexes. They may also acquire a coat of tan, a British accent and the trick of swimming the channel with both feet of the bottom at all times.

Athletic Argosies.

The greatest of all athletic argosies is about to begin and between May when the Walker cup team sails for England, and the Fourth of July, when most of the invaders will be turned toward home, the sport situation here is very likely to draw a blank, except for the daily routine of baseball and the daily habit of boxing promoters who hope to interest Jack Dempsey in the precise location of the dotted line.

Unless this miracle is achieved, American sport cannot expect to match action with the schedule abroad for the period in question. For one thing, there will hardly be a prominent golfer left in America, with Jones, Oulme, Gullford, MacKenzie, Von Elm, Sweetest, Gunn and Gardner playing the British courses as amateurs and twelve of the leading pros, including Hagen, Sarazen, Barnes, Mac Smith, Farrell and MacFarlane, hot on the trail of the British open title.

All in Europe.
No American women tennis player of any consequence will be here. Helen Wills has been in Europe for some months and her second meeting with Mike Suzanne at Wimbledon will outlast anything the American sport program may care to offer. Elizabeth Ryan, Mary Browne, Mrs. Jessup and Eleanor Goss soon will be on their merry way in quest of the Wightman cup and their departure will leave the field bereft of champions, Mrs. Malory having beaten the gun by leaving for abroad early in the year.

Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey will form a two-man team at Wimbledon and, while Tilden, Johnston, Williams and the others will remain, as is, there will be little action until after the foreign championships are out of the way.

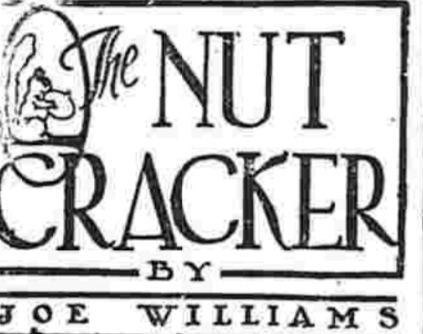

As for the women swimmers, most of them seem to feel that they are in duty bound to cross the channel on a trudgeon-crawl basis. Gertrude Ederle is to make another attempt and Helen Wainwright will be with her. It is also said that Norman Ross will give the thing a whirl.

Meantime, a Cornell-Princeton track team will tour England for some reason or other and there is talk that the University of Pennsylvania will send a crew to the English Henley.

Shot Put King

HERMAN SCHWARZE
Another world's record went by the boards at the national indoor track and field championships in Chicago the other night when Herman Schwarze put the 16-pound shot 50 feet, 7 5/8 inches. His effort exceeded by a few inches the mark hung up by John Kuck of Kansas State Teachers' College a short time ago. Schwarze is a Wisconsin athlete, but competed unattached in the Windy City games.

There seems to be some slavish and gaudy trouble brewing in the upper and lower bungalows in Washington, D. C., these days and most of it is beer.

To beer or not to beer, that is the triple-distilled question that is gripping the ear-phones of a tongue scorching nation.

Are we to return to the felonious era of sour-stomach quartets and non-skid pretzels, or shall we continue a colony of speak-sotties and loud political squawks?

Are we to go back to the balmy nights when white-aproned Gus always bought the "last one on the house," or is Tony Devucio to remain as our chief source of poisonous delight?

It is a dizzy planet. While we are filling the front-line trenches with straw votes in the great battle for authenticated suds, the eyebrow pickers of Armenia go on strike demanding an eight-hour day and plumbers' wages.

The straw votes piled up a staggering majority in favor of official witness, served publicly and without etherized amendments. A staggering majority is what was needed most.

It is a dippy-dappy world. While the blistered tonsils of America flutter for legalized hangovers, all the Prince of Wales wants is a new Charleston antic.

An alcoholic filibuster has been spilled to bring medicated malt within the reach of all; the poor, the rich and all the men who married Miss Peggy Hopkins.

There is an important difference between medicated malt and the stuff you buy surreptitiously these days. Medicated malt only makes you sick; the other puts a lily in your knuckles.

It is a curious globe. While the Amalgamated Beer Keg Jugglers of America are demanding their routes back, the Countess of Cathcart is transcribing moral turpitude into silver shillings.

"Sweep the cob-webs off the bung-starter, mother dear, for popper's got a job again."

It is a strange sphere. While the swinging-door builders have gone into spring training for the first time since 1913, no one has yet caged the excruciating prince as a rare specimen of the cuckoo family.

Wins Title

BERNICE PHELAN
This 14-year-old Fresno (Calif.) girl won the junior championship for 50 yards in the Pacific Athletic Association meet recently. Though comparatively new at the water sport, she stands out as a most promising performer. Coast critics predict a great future for her.

Prentice's Title Threatened As Wildfire Is Rattled Off

Sam Prentice, who recently came into the limelight by trimming Roy Roberts in the famous horse race at Manchester Green is now a horseless jockey. His famous steed, Wildfire, which was owned by Tony Gamba, was raffled off Saturday night at the dance at Manchester Green. Arthur Knoft, well-known local real estate and insurance dealer is the new owner. "Art's" plans, now that he has become the owner of a racing horse, are somewhat doubtful. It is possible that he will use Wildfire in the course of his business although he may go into the racing game and defend the horse's title against Robert's "Glistening Dick."

Conjecture as to what Prentice will now do, is causing the most speculation at Manchester Green. It is hinted that Prentice was afraid to defend his title against Robert's and therefore requested Gamba to sell the horse in order that he (Prentice) might retire an undefeated champion. But Prentice, according to the rules of the "Manchester Green Horse Racing Association" must either defend his title before May 1 or default to Roberts. And Prentice will not be allowed to use his Ford sedan in the race either. He must either "get on the good side" of Knoft thus acquiring Wildfire, or else borrow some other steed.

DIAMOND DUST

The White Sox scalped the Indians, 5 to 1, and stepped into first place in the American League. Ted Lyons had the Indians eating out of his glove all the way while George Uhle was effective except in the fifth inning.

After tying the score in the ninth on Meusel's homer, the Yanks succumbed to the Senators in the eleventh, 3 to 2. Hits were scarcer than doubleheaders in April.

The Tigers climbed to second place by lacing the Browns, 7 to 4. The Browns are the only big league club that has not yet won a game.

Larry Benton of the Braves, the champion hard-luck pitcher of the big leagues, dropped a 3 to 2 decision to the Giants after allowing only one hit, a homer by Snyder, in eight innings. Chick Davies, Rookie from New Haven, held the Braves to one hit in five innings.

Jess Petty of the Dodgers turned in another 14-karat performance, beating the Phillies 2 to 1 in eleven innings. Johnny Butler, Brooklyn's expensive second baseman, made his debut, a good impression and only one error.

The Cardinals scored early and often in defeating the Cubs, 10 to 5, and now roost on the top perch in the National League.

LEAN AND LANKY

ARCHIE COMPSTON
Famous British golfer who is competing in this country, paired with Arnaud Massy, French champion. Compston, like his erstwhile partner, has long been a prominent figure in the Scottish pastime. The two started their American invasion recently and have been doing well.

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS' MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.
FRANCIS OULMET IMPROVEMENT IN AVERAGE GAME
It has suddenly struck the millions of American golfers with much amazement that we are shooting a 600-yard longer course today some 20 strokes better than Harry Vardon and the stars around 1900 negotiated the 72-holes journey of an open. Figures prove all this and clearly bring to light that the winner of the big medal matches of today must be between three and four strokes better to the round than the victor of 20 seasons back. That would be a staggering handicap for one star to yield to another today.

Of course, the first "kick" one gets from such a statement is that the livelier ball of today more than brings about the reduction in stroking. But does it? It is not a fact that the increased yardage—about 600 to the 18-holes journey—somewhat offsets the advantages gained by using the present-day ball in place of the old "gummy"?

FIGURES SHOW WHY OUR ATHLETES HAVE DESERTED THE HOME TOWN

BECKMAN HAS RIVAL HERE IN MANCHESTER.

Johnny Beckman may hold the world's record of being the highest paid basketball player but Johnny Mullin, of this town, might be termed, a close second. During his brief service with the Plainfield team Mullin received $25 for each point he scored.

As a matter of fact, Mullin played in part of two games and sat on the bench in another. He was paid approximately $25 for his service during which he scored one foul goal.

BENSON SECOND HIGHEST SCORER

Rates Next to Dissinger on Plainfield Team Which Completes Great Season; Local Players Score More Than Half of Points.

The official season record of the Plainfield basketball team, made public today, shows fifteen victories and eight defeats in a season which was decidedly more successful than the record tends to reveal. Practically every game on its home court resulted in a victory. Four of the eight losses came when the team fell into a slump at the close of the season losing its last four games. The most important victories were over South Kingston, New Britain and Jewett City.

Dissinger Leads Scorers

Roy Dissinger, crack forward, led the team in scoring. He registered 72 field goals, 29 fouls, for a total of 173 points, practically half as many points as Plainfield's opponents made in the entire season. Harry Benson, local star, was second. It is odd to note that both Dissinger and Normandin, Plainfield forwards, each scored 72 field goals. If that is not a sign of teamwork, what is? Norris who was fourth high scorer, and who held his opponent to the lowest score of "any member of the Plainfield team, tallied 58 field goals. This was exactly the same number made by Benson Manchester players scored more than half of the points registered by Plainfield.

Superstition

Charley Jamieson of the Cleveland club had a bad year at the bat last season. Ball players are superstitious. When off their game they grope about for a logical reason.

Just before the season opened last year Jamieson changed his style of bat, going to a heavier one. Not having much success he began to experiment and throughout the year used perhaps a dozen different models.

The result a very poor season at the bat. This year he has reformed, going back to the old model.

Several years ago, when Ken Williams gave Babe Ruth such a healthy chase for home run honors, he made up his mind if his bat was a trifle heavier it would cause a lot of fly balls that were being caught to sail over the fence.

He made the experiment but it failed. Not only did he fall off in his home runs but his general batting style suffered.

Benson, Norris, Bissell and Madden Earned Well Over $200 Apiece for Season—Will Continue to Play Out of Town—Fans Here Will Only Support A No. 1 Team in Any Sport—Baseball Prospects Doubtful.

Billy Evans Says

Versatile
At the close of the football season Glenn Warner pronounced Ernie Nevers the greatest football player he ever coached.

Some compliment when you recall that Warner developed Jim Thorpe, as well as a host of other stars.

This spring finds Ernie Nevers a member of the St. Louis Browns as a pitcher. No less a person than George Sisler pronounces him one of the best college twirling prospects that has broken into the majors in years.

As I saw Nevers step under the shower and observed his powerful physique it caused me to think that he would have been a great-taken the mat came up in preference to the diamond or gridiron.

One look at him and I venture some of these highly touted prospectors would call for the smelling salts.

Super-Athlete

Speaking of Jim Thorpe, I saw the once super-athlete a few weeks ago while attending the whippet races at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Jim looked almost the same as the first time I met him some 16 years ago. A trifle heavier, of course, for he has passed the 40 mark; yet he still looked every inch the athlete.

Thorpe had been one of the football players who tried to make Florida enthrall over the game long after the camphor balls had been tucked away with the grid suits up north.

As I gave Jim the once over, I made a comparison of him with the latest athletic sensation, Charley Hoff. I asked Jim if he thought he could have trimmed Hoff in a series of 10 athletic events.

"I'm pretty sure I could," was Jim's modest reply. "Certainly would like to go back about 15 years and make the test."

To me Jim Thorpe will always be the greatest football player, the super-athlete of all time.

Condition

What part does weight play in the career of a big league pitcher?

That question will be definitely settled this year by the showing of Joe Shaute of the Cleveland Indians and Wait Hoyt of the New York Yankees.

Last year Shaute reported 35 pounds overweight, tipping the scales at 235. This year he is a few pounds under 190.

Wait Hoyt, who went something like eight games last season before he could win one, despite the fact he had a world of stuff, is exactly 20 pounds lighter.

A too large waistline is fatal to a pitcher. It not only cuts down on his stamina but makes him a sucker on fielding bunts.

I look for both Shaute and Hoyt to better their record from 25 to 50 per cent this year.

Local Players' Salaries.

Quite naturally Harry Benson, Roy Norris, Harold Madden and George Stavinsky will go back to Plainfield next year. It is understood from absolutely reliable authority that Benson and Norris each "sailed" away approximately $225 for their service with Plainfield. Madden, who played in seventeen games, earned himself about $200. These amounts do not include the cash which Norris and Madden picked up by playing with Meriden.

Other Players.

Other Manchester players received approximately the following amounts from the Plainfield club for shorter periods of service: Stavinsky, $60; Thornton, $70; Bissell, $40; Mullin, $25; and Smith, who refereed several games, $30. This makes a grand total of $875 net profit for the Manchester players and does not include the $325 expense money which they received and which makes the grand total of $1,200. Bissell also earned a very substantial sum for his services with the Meriden team while it is understood Thornton's playing with Elmwood caused his pay envelope to swell.

FLOWERS-GREB MATCH.

New York, April 19.—Jesse McManon, matchmaker for Tex Rickard, has declared that he expects to close a middleweight championship match between Tiger Flowers and Harry Greb some time today. He has set the date as May 27 and the place as Madison Square Garden.

WASHINGTON TUBBS II

Before the Mike

An interesting analysis of college life, its reaction on the student and on the community, will be delivered Friday evening, April 30, from the studio of WTIC, Hartford, Conn., by R. K. Morton. The speaker is a graduate of Boston University and at present a graduate-student at Harvard. His subject is "College; From the Inside Out."

The stage and screen have pictured history. Literature has narrated it, and now radio will attempt to recreate it in the broadest studio, Station WGN, Chicago, is beginning a series of attempts which open up this new field. The series which attracts WGN's attention concerns old-time prizefights. The first of these was the famous 75-round affair between Jake Kilrain and John L. Sullivan for the championship of the world. The entire scene of action, including a characterization of those who attended, was reported in a similar fashion to our modern sport returns.

Announcements concerning numbers to be broadcast from station WTIC, Chicago, are limited in time and follow a standard form, according to the station's new policy. The name of the performer, his selection and the call letters of the station precede the number. Following the selection is an announcement of the name of the performer, his selection, the call letters of the station and its location. All other matter is eliminated from announcements.

WEAF, New York City, has added Arnold Morgan to its staff of announcers. Morgan was a member of the original "Eveready Group" and has been soloist at the Grace Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The series of Sunday night operas broadcast by WJZ, New York City, is meeting with popular favor from radio listeners. The opera to be broadcast in the near future are: April 25, "The Fortune Teller," by Victor Herbert (in English); May 9, "The Flying Dutchman," by Wagner (in German); May 23, "The Secret of Suzanne," by Wolf-Ferrari (in Italian); June 6, "La Traviata," by Verdi, (in Italian).

Howard Melaney, who is now on a concert tour, singing at many leading radio stations and making phonograph records, a short time ago walked into the studio of WCCO, St. Paul, unheralded and asked for an opportunity to broadcast. His tryout convinced the program directors that he was well worthy of a place. As a result of these concerts, publicity obtained in the press and over the radio made success possible.

SHORT CUTS
 Things to Know in Building and Operating a Receiver.

Before attempting to charge a battery from the DC light circuit determine the polarity of each power line. When the negative line is put in salt water, bubbles will form, while no action will take place around the other lead. If you connect the wrong leads to the battery you may buckle the plates, discharge or short-circuit the battery or sulphate the cells.

Improve your volume control by hooking an 0-50000-ohm resistance of the three-tap type across the secondary of the first audio transformer. The two end terminals on the resistance, sometimes called a modulator, to the transformer, and the middle terminal or tap to the grid of the last tube.

Shielding of sensitive sets increases selectivity. Line the cabinet with copper or brass sheeting to keep unwanted energy from coils, but keep the shield out of the field of the radio-frequency instruments.

If your two-step amplifier as a whole causes distortion, try a .001 mfd. fixed condenser across the former or use a power tube in the last stage.

Antenna and ground leads to the set should be as far apart as possible. Keep one at right angles to the other if you can.

NO TUNING WORRY

Franklyn Arganbright, of Fort Leavenworth, Kas., is listening to a radio concert over a loud speaker, without any worry about tuning in. There are 219 other homes in this town equipped with loud speakers, all connected to one radio set. It is estimated that the one radio set serves a daily audience of 1000 persons.

When the struggle becomes too weary she may resign the battle . . . return home and marry or stay here and find work in a factory. . . Hollywood and Los Angeles shops and factories are filled with girls and women whose dreams have fallen to earth on the streets of the film capital.

Mary Charleston, wisest of the stars of yesterday's group now trying to regain lost laurels along the cinema trail, is seeking to stage a "come-back" by playing character parts. Mary, in private life the wife of Henry B. Walthall, is probably the only one of the old-time stars, who could step back into the youthful niche she held so long ago.

To be truly great in cinema stations one must first be born for comedy, is a film-town proverb. Sponsors for this belief cite the names of the following who began their movie careers in the Mack Sennett pic-throwing parlors: Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, Bebe Daniels, Phyllis Haver, Louise Fazenda, Marie Prevost, Mabel Normand, Mae Busch, Syd Chaplin, Charlie Murray, Ben Turpin, Ford Sterling and Wallace Beery.

I have just been gazing through motion picture magazines, nothing in particular the manner in which movie actresses must display publicity. There is only one person remaining to be executed—an actress in her first apparel, the diaper, to be published under the caption: "Like the Movies, Still in Her Infancy."

How Ohio Lawyer Married King's Sweetheart, Disclosed By Records

Patrick Purdy Hull, Struggling Country Attorney, Wooded and Won Lola Montez, Love of King Ludwig of Bavaria Nearly Century Ago—Strange Story Revived by Papers in Old Court House, Just Brought to Light.

By WILLIAM A. DUFF.
 Mansfield, O.—A romance of more than three quarters of a century ago which culminated in the marriage of Patrick Purdy Hull, a young lawyer, and the famous danseuse, Lola Montez, for love of whom King Ludwig I. of Bavaria, lost his throne, is revived by the discovery in the city auditor's office of the tally sheets of an election held here March 27, 1848.

In that election Hull was defeated in his fight to become Mayor of Mansfield, then a village of 2,300 population, by Samuel J. Kirkwood, a fellow member of the Richmond County bar, who later became governor of Iowa, United States Senator from that state, and Secretary of the Interior in the Cabinet of President Garfield. The same year, King Ludwig, through his mad infatuation for the beautiful, vivacious, high-kicking danseuse, who later was to become the wife of Hull, the defeated candidate here, was compelled to abdicate.

While Hull sat dejectedly in his little office on that election night, and scanned the returns that meant his defeat, he little dreamed that in a few short years he would become the husband of probably the most sought-after woman in the world at that time.

King Ludwig had made Lola Montez Countess of Landfeld, arranged for her an annuity of 20,000 florins and installed her in a beautiful villa at Munich. That March day in 1848—or perhaps it was night—the populace revolted, burned the residence of the famous dancer, and forced her to flee for her life. In London she married Captain George T. Heald, separated from him soon after, went to Madrid, and in 1850 was in America.

It was in New York that she met the jovial, witty young Mansfield lawyer. Soon afterwards they and fast living. "Ah, Mme. Knapp, you little know what sorrow and distress everyone has in such gayety," she said to me one day. "I am only sorry that I never before had a little home like this and friends who really love me. I have been notorious; never famous."

In Mrs. Knapp's letter she also told of the difficulties between the dancer and her lawyer husband, which led to a separation.
 "Patrick Hull and the Countess were both erratic creatures and it wasn't many months before they began to clash. They went down to Marysville one day and while there had a stormy scene about money matters, and also because the Countess kept up correspondence with several men in Berlin and Munich. The Countess actually pushed Patrick out of their room at the old Exchange Hotel and threatened to kill him if he didn't leave the hotel at once. Out of a second-story window she threw his grip sack and some of his personal belongings and told him to be gone."

Never Mentioned Hull.
 "She never mentioned Hull's name again except once when she said she had 'dismissed Pat.' After that she began entertaining on a lavish scale and most of the prominent men of that day were her guests at various times.
 In the winter of 1856 Lola sailed from San Francisco for Australia, but was back in New York again in 1860. She died there in 1861 and is buried in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Patrick Hull never returned to Ohio. Not many years after Lola so unceremoniously drove him out of her life, he died and was buried in California.
 More than 3,300 miles apart are the graves of the famous dancer who threw a king to lose his throne and her genial, Buckeye lover and husband, whose dream of wedded bliss was of such short duration.

 See this Brougham and drive it at your very earliest opportunity—for we doubt if even the tremendous new Paige factories will be able to build enough for all those who will want this truly outstanding "buy."

MAN HIT BY AUTO
STILL ON DANGER LIST

Doctors Not Yet Certain Whether Skull of Joseph Prentice Has Been Fractured.

Although it has not yet been determined whether Joseph Prentice of North Coventry, has a fractured skull, he is not yet out of danger. There is a difference of opinion among the doctors but a few days more will settle the question. Prentice was struck by a New York auto on Thursday and for a time it was thought he would not recover.

The auto that hit Prentice at the Melrose bridge on the road to Rockville was owned by John J. English, of New York City. He was caught at Westport and gave bonds to appear in court whenever wanted. It is thought that he will be tried in Vernon.

What the charge against English will be is not yet known either. The claim that he tried to evade responsibility is denied both by Mr. English and his chauffeur. As to a charge of reckless driving they will claim that the accident was unavoidable as the road had just been oiled and the auto skidded.

FIRE IN TALCOTTVILLE
BURNS OVER 200 ACRES

Fifty Fire Fighters Work for Hours Before Blaze is Brought Under Control.

Fire starting, it is believed, from sparks from a passing locomotive on the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad, in a patch of woods opposite the cemetery in Talcottville early yesterday afternoon burned over approximately 200 acres of woodland before it was put under control. According to reports, about 200 autoists visited the scene while a band of only fifty men fought the blaze.

Fed by pine trees and scrub oaks, the fire burned furiously and it was apparent from the start that the blaze would be difficult to stop. Fire wardens were summoned from various parts of Tolland county and groups of fire fighters were organized under them. The men set down small brush, dug trenches and used other efforts to check the blaze. It was finally extinguished just before it crossed the road near Cook's Cider mill shortly before six o'clock.

The fire was eating its way in a southeast direction towards Lydallville.

It was said at Talcott Brothers this morning that 70 acres of the burned area belonged to the company while the rest was owned by farmers.

gether. Sergeant John Crockett investigated. The men got together and settled the damages without going to court.
