DEFIES WETS TO TAKE ISSUE TO THE POLLS

Dinwiddie Says the People Will Settle Rum Question; Wets Robbed of Time, Reed Charges.

Washington, April 22.—A challenge to the wets to carry their modification drive into the fall elections was issued today by Edwin C. Dinwiddie, superintendent of the National Temperance Bureau, while testifying before the Senate prohibition committee.

"This whole issue of modification will be decided by the American people at the polls on far weightier reasons than are given here," said Dinwiddie.

A row developed at the start of the session over the committee's decision that the wets would be given one and a quarter hours of testimony and both wets and dries three additional hours to sum up their cases.

Senator Reed, (D., Mo.) charged this decision robbed the wets of their right to be heard. "But it is believed there has been vast improvement in enforcement of the law, with prospects of even greater improvement in the future."

"No one maintains there has been 100 per cent enforcement," Dinwiddie said. "But it is believed there has been vast improvement in enforcement of the law, with prospects of even greater improvement in the future."

Prohibition deserves a "trial" Dinwiddie added, and this includes "duration of time." "But it is believed there has been vast improvement in enforcement of the law, with prospects of even greater improvement in the future."

DANCING BASKETS PUZZLE SAVANTS

Harvard Scientists Invent Device to Pry Into Dervish Secrets of Borneo Container.

Cambridge, Mass., April 22.—Revolving Borneo baskets got a "third degree" from Harvard scientists today.

The scientists were trying to solve the great problem — to wit: why do Borneo baskets gyrate.

A delicate electrical instrument was brought out of Craft Laboratory and taken to Peabody Museum.

And in this little apparatus rests the hope of Harvard.

The scientists hope to learn whether the Borneo baskets are motivated by static or by some other mysterious energizing agency.

The baskets, which have an uncanny natural disposition to keep on doing a whirling dervish dance, had been placed in tight glass cases by two young scientists bent on solving the great riddle. A few days later, after all oxygen had been pumped from the cases, the scientists peeped in. At first they thought the baskets were motionless, but soon they perceived them moving, just a little.

Then they tried a tightrope. The baskets were placed on a thin copper wire, six feet in length. For three weeks the baskets lung on the wire, thin as a hair. But still they made their regular quarter turns.

A piece of cardboard, hung in the place formerly occupied by the baskets, danced like a harlequin.

HUNDREDS HELD AS MAD WITH NO COURT ACT

Amazing State of Affairs at U. S. Insane Hospital Brought Out by Probe of "Guardian" Frauds.

Washington, April 22.—A remarkable admission that probably one-half of the several thousand inmates of St. Elizabeth's the government's big insane hospital here have been committed to the institution without competent court procedure, was spread upon the records of Congress today.

It came from Dr. W. A. White, head of the institution under questioning by members of the District Committee at a hearing into the status of ex-service patients. Dr. White was one of the alienists who testified to the insanity of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, in the Franks murder at Chicago.

Under Old Law

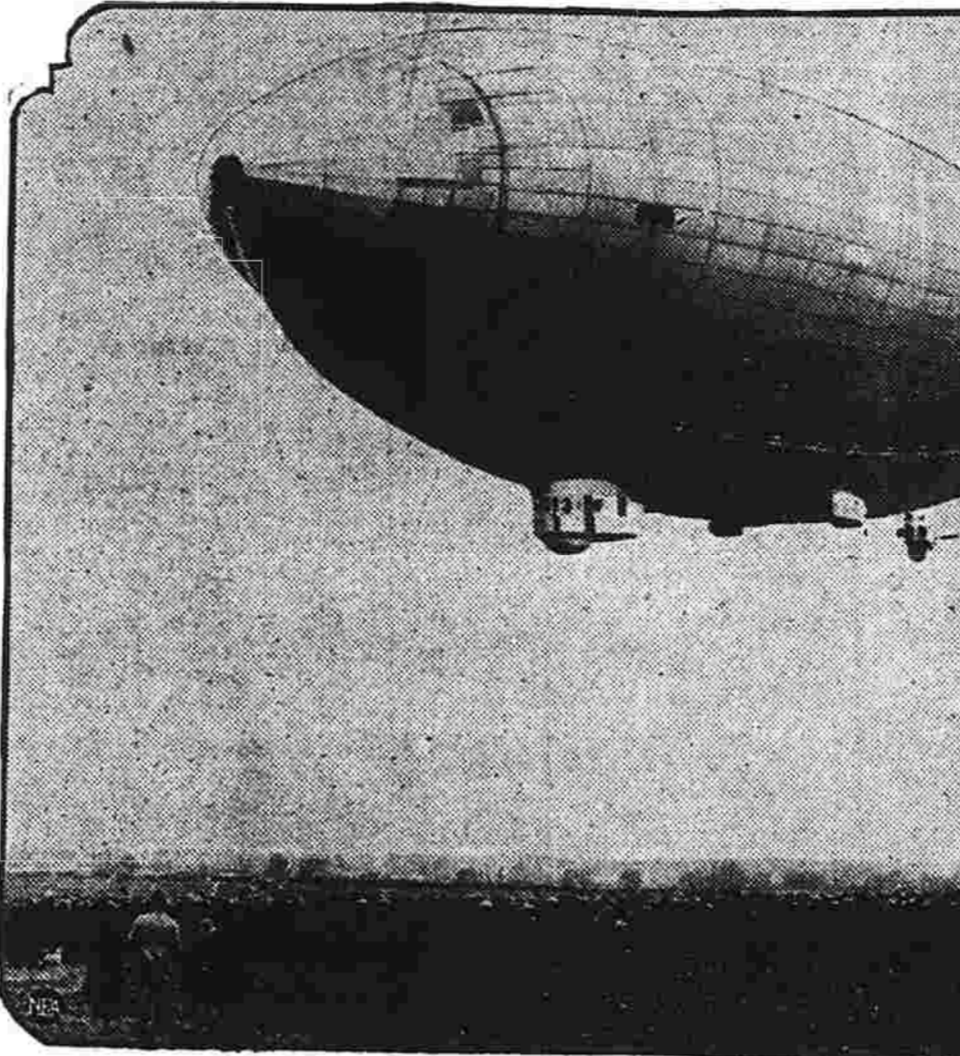

An old law, passed in 1875, it was brought out, operates to permit various governments, the Veterans' Bureau included, to have patients committed to the institution without a court ever having passed on the question of their sanity or insanity. That there have been abuses under the system was generally conceded.

Crandall Mackey, a local attorney, testifying to the abuses of the system, cited one case wherein a young man named Robert Lewis, had been committed and classed a "dangerous paranoiac." Mackey succeeded in getting his release, kept him under observation several months, and found him sane. He subsequently went into the World War as an officer, he said.

Fenning Inquiry

The committee is investigating the activities of Frederick A. Fenning, Commissioner of the District of Columbia, who is charged with maintaining "a guardianship business" for veterans committed to the institution, in which he has secured thousands of dollars in fees.

ST. LAWRENCE AROUSES FROM WINTER'S SLEEP

Montreal, April 22.—The St. Lawrence river today was opened to navigation, after being frozen all winter.

The freight steamer Oslenian, the first vessel from overseas to try and navigate the river this spring, was reported in the Gulf of St. Lawrence en route to Quebec. A second steamer, the Wadsworth, bound to Montreal, was being assisted through the ice fields off North Sydney by the government ice breaker Mikula.

ITALY DEBT PLAN, WINNING, DELAYED

Ratified But Effect Is Held Up by Move to Reconsider er, Filibuster Possible.

Washington, April 22.—Administration leaders in the Senate today sought to untangle the snarl into which the Italian debt settlement was plunged when Senator Howell (D., Mo.), moved notice he would move to reconsider the 54 to 33 vote by which the Senate, late yesterday afternoon, adopted the resolution of ratification.

Although the Senate ratified the past, its action will not become final until the motion to reconsider is made, acted upon and rejected. In the meantime, Republican irreconcilables and a group of world court Democrats intend to reopen the acrimonious debate that preceded the final vote.

Bothersome Tactics

While administration leaders insisted the Reed motion would be defeated easily, they were much perturbed by the move. Reed announced his action was taken to allow the Senate another opportunity to vote on an amendment, Senator Howell (R., Neb.), which would write a new provision into the settlement, calling on Italy to issue new tax-free bonds to the United States in exchange for the debt settlement's bonds, which are subject to Italian taxation.

This provision, under Howell's amendment, would be called into action whenever the secretary of the treasury desired. It was defeated just before the final roll-call by a vote of 74 to 55 and Reed declared that half the senators didn't understand it when they voted.

To Fight Filibuster

Under the Senate rules Reed has two days to make his motion and it will then be debatable unless a motion is made to table it. Republican spokesmen announced they would take this course if the motion of the settlement attempted a filibuster against disposition of the motion.

The administration forces also were anxious to call up the five other pending debt settlements, of which the $437,025,570 Belgium loan is the largest. Senator Smoot (R., Utah), announced he would ask their consideration within the next few days.

FOREST FIRES WORK RUIN IN CONNECTICUT

Miles of Timber in Towns Destroyed—Million Loss in New York and New Jersey.

Hartford, April 22.—Showers during the night checked serious forest and grass fires that had been raging for hours in Bristol, Burlington and Colchester, but damage to a large extent was done.

Volunteers in the three towns worked on the fires from mid-afternoon yesterday until far into the night when most of the danger seemed over and the rain did the rest. Many square miles of timber was destroyed and numerous farms threatened.

The serious danger still exists of further fires in the opinion of Austin F. Hayes, state forester. Mr. Hayes today pointed out that at this season rain must be fairly steady to end the danger. There is so much dead matter on the ground and new that conditions are ideal for fresh fires within a day after a rain.

Rain Promised

Weather bureau offices here and in New Haven are cooperating with the forestry department by issuing warnings against possible outdoor fires. At the same time the weather bureau offices forecast considerable rain for the next twenty-four hours, which is expected to stop what fires may still be smoldering.

Million Dollar Loss

New York, April 22.—Four forest fires licking their devastating way over more than 100 miles of timberland in Essex, Lewis, Warren and Rockland county, N. Y., damage was estimated today in excess of $1,000,000.

Prediction of rain for tomorrow was expected to aid the thousands of volunteers, state troopers, and fire wardens in their desperate fight to stop the march of the flames.

Summer homes, farmhouses and clubs have been consumed in the path of the fire. Hundreds of families have packed their belongings on automobiles ready to flee. One death has been reported to date.

Dirigible Safe

Fires raging in the vicinity of the naval station at Lakehurst, N. J., caused Capt. George W. Steele, Jr. to announce after investigation that the dirigible Los Angeles was in no danger.

Fires in Sullivan, Ulster and Orange counties, New York, continue to smolder today, although a dying wind removed the perils of the flames.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 22.—Mobilization of alibi witnesses to save Richard Whittemore from the electric chair which awaits him if convicted for the bank of Buffalo murder-robbery holdup was begun by the defense today.

From Philadelphia came a group of eight witnesses who are expected to testify that Whittemore and others of his gang attended a birthday party there the night of October 28 and remained at the party till 4 o'clock the next morning, so that manifestly he could not be in Buffalo at 9 o'clock on the 29th when the hold-up occurred.

Underworld Leader

From New York came David Jerus, underworld leader, whose testimony will demonstrate the inaccuracy of eye witnesses' identification. His testimony will be designed to offset four eye witnesses who declare they saw Whittemore in a new fire starting at Pomona, N. J., leaped the White Horse Pike, between Philadelphia and Atlantic City, causing two automobile tanks to explode today.

Fires in Sullivan, Ulster and Orange counties, New York, continue to smolder today, although a dying wind removed the perils of the flames.

FACE SHOWDOWN ON PLASTERERS' WAGES

Chicago Building Likely to Be Tied Up by Union Demand for Fourteen Dollars a Day.

Chicago, April 22.—Complete tie-up of building operations was threatened here today after an announcement of the Plasterers' Union that the demand for a $14 day and five-day week would be enforced starting May 7.

The proposal to enforce the demand was made by 1,600 members of the Plasterers' Union at a turbulent meeting last night. It passed over the protest of International President Edward McGovern.

Plasterers' orators from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and St. Louis who told of the fancy wages plasterers are getting in those cities are said to have swayed local workers against the advice of their leaders.

The present minimum wage is $12 a day for a six-day week. Local builders have banded together to oppose the increase.

Russian Who Chased Butcher With Axe Was Suffering from Drink.

John Trymboulak, Hillstown farmer, who terrorized the residents who live in the vicinity of his home Tuesday afternoon by chasing a local butcher with an axe, will face a hearing in the Manchester Police Court tomorrow morning before Judge Raymond A. Johnson on a charge of attempted assault. Trymboulak was in court yesterday and the judge ordered him examined for his sanity upon the recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Charles R. Hathaway, Doctor D. C. Y. Moore announced this morning that the examination did not reveal any trace of insanity. As a consequence, Trymboulak will face trial tomorrow.

Due to Drink

From the decision the doctors reached, it is apparent that they believe Trymboulak's queer actions have been the result of excessive drinking. Taking the doctors' findings as correct, it would seem that Trymboulak would have had to be drunk to become involved in escapades.

Some of the residents who live near Trymboulak's home are still of the belief that Trymboulak is not in his right mind, despite the result of the examination. They point to the instance last summer when Trymboulak took a saw and started to saw through his horse's back. The instance last year in January when Trymboulak was arrested for assaulting his wife is also recalled. At that time his wife, who is the mother of three small

Cold Weather Hurt Business All Over Town

Today's warm rain is hailed with delight, not only by the farmers and home garden makers but by business men all over Manchester, for the late spring has had a bad effect on business all around.

The farmers say that although the frost is out of the ground the weather has been too cold to plant seeds of any kind. That will not alone keep back truck gardeners, but will delay the harvesting of tobacco which is an important crop in this vicinity.

The business men say that the backward seas hurt business in almost all lines. No seeds were sold and even topcoats, bought especially at this time of the year, were not bought as much as last year at this time.

Painters found it too cold to spread the paint during a part of last week and that delayed many jobs. However, it is expected, that from now on, business of all kinds will pick up.

The Guard Report

Weekly News Items from Manchester's N. G. Companies.

Howitzer Company
First Sergeant Albert Stevenson has been transferred to the 152nd Collecting Company, 118th Medical Regiment, located in Hartford, and now has the grade of sergeant with that organization.

Sergeant Helmar Anderson has been promoted to first sergeant, vice Stevenson transferred.

The Howitzer Company has started its spring training program, preparatory to going to camps. Uniforms, equipment and other material being made ready for camp service. New enlistments are coming in to replace those men who will be discharged soon.

Recent enlistments include Robert Shaw of Buckland and Leo P. Moriarty of Church street, Manchester. Private Moriarty has had four years service in the National Guard.

Company G
Several members of Company G have been receiving interesting letters from Lt. Thomas Quish who is at the Army Service School at Camp Benning, Ga. The student officers regardless of rank are started in with the school of the soldier, same as an army recruit and worked up through the various movements of squad, platoon and company, learning through explanation, demonstration the correct and latest movements in the army course. There are regular army troops stationed at Fort Benning who go through the various movements in slow motion so the student officers can get the smallest detail and understand each and every movement from start to finish. Lt. Quish states it is hard work but the course is well worth the effort, as they try to cram into the students in three months what it takes ordinarily nine months in the regular army to go over. Not all the instructors at Ft. Benning are West Pointers, but quite a number are from civil life but they have to know "their stuff" to train their place at the Fort which is known to be one of the best army service schools in the country.

Recruiting is still going on strong with Company G, and each week almost one or two men are signed over, either for a first enlistment of three years, or a re-enlistment period of one year. Capt. Hassel desires to take about seventy or seventy-five men to camp this year and there are still vacancies for eight or ten good strong men of the right calibre who wish to put in an enlistment in Manchester's veteran organization.

Among the latest members to sign over for another period are Sgt. Raymond Hagedorn, Sgt. Michael Minicucci, Sgt. Raymond Willard and former Sgt. Joseph Pentland.

Hugh G. Hewitt who has just recently completed a term of enlistment in the regular army, Ordnance Dept. station at the Armory at Springfield, Mass., enlisted in the company last Monday night. Pvt. Hewitt is one of the original members of Company G when it was re-organized in 1921 by Capt. John Pentland.

Pvt. Pagan and McCavanaugh are already tuning their motor cycles in anticipation of taking them to camp in July.

The officers of Company G and the Howitzer Company enjoyed very much a picture entitled "Life of Riley" which depicted the life and work at the Army Cavalry school at Ft. Riley, Kansas. This picture was shown in the squad drill room at the Hartford Armory last evening.

better the chances are of saving the child's life.

Shortly after the discovery of the diphtheria germ it was found that when these germs are grown in the laboratory they produce a poison known as "diphtheria toxin," and the germs and the toxin can be separated from each other by a process of filtration.

This toxin can be made so strong that the hundredth part of a drop is sufficient to kill an average-sized guinea pig.

Later in the study of diphtheria it was found that by giving an animal repeated injections of dilute toxin, it would become resistant to immune to diphtheria—in other words, that you could not kill the animal with the disease itself.

Developing Serum.
By further experimentation it was found that the blood serum of an animal that had been exposed to diphtheria in a human being if given in time. This specially developed serum is known as "diphtheria anti-toxin." It acts by counteracting the effect of the toxin produced by the growth of the germ in the body or in the throat, to be more exact.

The next step in the study of this disease was the discovery of the fact that the giving of antitoxin to persons who had been exposed to diphtheria would prevent their becoming ill of this disease. This protection does not last more than a few weeks, so our scientists went still further, and gave us finally two very wonderful, two very useful measures, namely: the Shick test and toxin-antitoxin immunization. What are these measures? You will be told in another article.

Conquest of Diphtheria

This is the first of a series of two articles on diphtheria.

BY DR. HUGH S. CUMMING, Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service

If your child gets diphtheria you are to blame unless you have done your part to protect him.

Looking up the history of diphtheria we find that man was familiar with this disease long before the Christian era. The year 1613 was known in Spain as "diphtheria year," and medical history is full of accounts of disastrous epidemics of diphtheria in many parts of the world.

In 1821, a French physician demonstrated the fact that diphtheria was being spread among the troops by the common drinking cup, and he it was who first described this disease very carefully, and gave it its present name.

Not much more was learned about diphtheria until 1833 and 1834 when the diphtheria germ, a microscopic plant, was discovered and proved to be the cause of this disease. Now the diphtheria bacillus, or diphtheria germ, though a very small microscopic plant, is a fairly large one compared to some other disease germs, that is, it is about one-eighth thousandth to one five-thousandth of an inch in length, which may be regarded as a fair sized disease germ.

Using the Discovery.
About the first use made of this discovery of the bacillus of diphtheria was that of determining by a bacteriological examination whether or not a child or other person who has a sore throat is suffering from diphtheria.

That is now an almost universal practice where modern physicians are to be found, and to let a child become seriously ill or die of diphtheria without a bacteriological examination when one can be had would not only be a disgrace, but it would be criminal, because the earlier the disease is recognized the shorter the time it takes to cure. The germ is so small that it can be seen only with a microscope. It is so small that it can be seen only with a microscope. It is so small that it can be seen only with a microscope.

There will be a double feature at the Circle today and tomorrow. Those who ask for real dramatic action along with thrills should not fail to see "The Desert's Price," the William Fox production starring Buck Jones which comes for two days to the Circle theater beginning tonight.

In this picture Jones is seen at his best in the character of the handsome young owner of a large cattle ranch who returns from the East to find his property under a cloud of suspicion. After some clever detective work he establishes the guilt of the real culprits and brings the story to its thrilling climax.

He is well supported by a cast which includes Florence Gilbert, Edna Marion, Ernest Butterworth, Arthur Housemann, and Montague Love.

The Other Feature.
"The Part Time Wife," a new Gotham production has many things to recommend it and not the least is the novel atmosphere which surrounds the story.

The plot deals with the love affair of a prominent screen star, a woman marries a poor newspaper man. He persuades her to give up her screen career to live on his small income. The result is perfectly logical and expected. She becomes dissatisfied and longs for the money and fame that she had discarded. An opportunity comes for her to go back again on the screen and she accepts. She tells her husband she will be his "part-time wife." When she is working on a picture she will be "Doris Fuller" the photoplay artist. When she is between pictures she will be Mrs. Kenneth Scott—his wife. The plan works well until—but that would be revealing the most interesting part of the story.

Suffice to say that all ends well and the "part-time wife" is taken on at full time.

Alice Calhoun is both charming and clever in the role of Doris Fuller while Robert Ellis gives one of his always finished performances as Ken Scott the perplexed husband.

FINE VAUDEVILLE AT STATE TONIGHT

The most refined and selected vaudeville will be presented at the State for three days starting today. Parish and Fern, bright variety bits; Furness and Evans in "The Champion Song Seller," then comes Jean Phillips and Co., in delightful bits of songs and dances; Ross and Hayes, a laughing comedy classic. For the final act, Bud Snyder and Company, the famous Hippodrome clown.

For the feature picture will be shown Rex Beach's story "The Barrier."

Imagine owning a fortune and not having the money to get it. This was the distressing experience of Henry B. Walthall, noted screen and stage actor, who will be seen in "The Barrier," and Harry Carey, western star.

Walthall and Carey, some years ago when motion pictures were just beginning to buy the works of famous authors, made arrangements to produce a Rex Beach story. In this way, they obtained exclusive screen rights to all of Rex Beach's works.

The result is that Walthall today is appearing for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in a play he would have owned had he been able to finance its production.

George Hill directed "The Barrier," said to be the most thrilling of Beach's frontier tales, and the cast includes Norman Kerry, Lionel Barrymore, Marceline Day, Henry B. Walthall, Pat Harmon and Bert Woodruff.

"The Vanishing American" comes to the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Husbands are all right in their place but they don't amount to a tinker's something-or-nothing on the Navajo Indian reservation in Arizona.

The wife there is the whole show and when friend husband fails to behave as his better half thinks he should, she throws him right out of the house. She rules the roost exactly as she sees fit and when there is marital trouble and the husband is given his walking orders his only recourse is to get friends to intercede for him with his wife.

A heeppened Navajo husband is shown in "The Vanishing American," Zane Grey's epic of the American Indian which comes to the State Sunday Monday and Tuesday. Richard Dix, Lois Wilson, THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1926.

WOODS FIRES.

This is American Forest week, by proclamation of the President of the United States. It is a period supposedly devoted to an unusual degree to consideration of the problems of conservation and reforestation.

There is peculiar irony in a situation where the habitual callousness of the people toward the forest growths reaches the climax of four great and destructive woods conflagrations raging at the same time within the narrow borders of a little state like this, during the very week when the public is besought to give the woodland problem especial thought.

The stunning extent to which Connecticut timberlands are being devastated by fire is inexcusable. The fires do not start of themselves. Neither, to any appreciable degree, are they the work of anglers and gunners, as is so often erroneously assumed.

But it is highly probable that nine out of ten of Connecticut's forest fires result from the burning of brush and stubble by foreign-born and unassimilated farmers who either do not know the law or are serenely indifferent to it when there is no one about to witness its violation.

This duty devolves largely upon the justice courts of Connecticut's country towns, and these courts, unfortunately, are sorely given to falling down hard. The country justice is far too apt to dread the giving of offense, is far too considerate of the struggles of his neighbor to "set along" and is liable to be a bit of a politician into the bargain.

Connecticut's timberland is going to keep on burning up until the sport of gambling with flames and northwest winds and neighboring woodlots is penalized as it should be. When people are sent to jail for good long terms for burning the woods, the woods will stop burning.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

It is the attitude of the radical proponents of prohibition that, after their own persistent and successful campaign for the alteration of the law of the land to conform to their special views, no other person or group has any right to campaign, in turn, for further change which would amend the work of their hands.

This attitude is shared in varying degrees by various drys, from Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who is politely and "steadfastly" of the opinion that as Daughters of the American Revolution—members of the large women's patriotic organization in the country—we should pledge ourselves to do whatsoever we can to prevent the repeal of the amendment," to Bishop McDowell, who declares that only lawbreakers seek to alter the status quo.

We people of this state have another constitution besides that of the United States. It is that of the Commonwealth of Connecticut. We had the first written constitution in the world. Constitutional government as it is now known was born in this State of Connecticut.

And to those who would deny the right to question the infallibility of a particular law, either fundamental or statutory, we will reply by quoting the second section of the Connecticut Declaration of Rights, the finest, wisest and most lasting principle of government that was ever put into words:

"That all political power is inherent in the people, and all governments are founded on their authority, and instituted for their benefit; and that they have at all times an undeniable and indefeasible right to alter their form of government in such manner as they may think expedient."

Then let us go back to the first section of that Declaration of Rights:

"That all men, when they form a social compact, are equal in rights; and that no man or set of men are entitled to exclusive public emoluments or privileges from the community."

Therein breathes the soul of democracy. That is the expression of the Constitution of the State of Connecticut on the subject of rule by "boards of public morals," by religious bodies, by paternalists who would manage the mass of the people for the people's benefit, forsooth; that is its answer to those who rave at the disloyalty of such as would dare attack the sacred Constitution of the United States—sacred only since it contained an eighteenth amendment.

We stand on the Connecticut idea—on the right of the citizen to advocate change in any law, anywhere, any time, be it good or bad, if it be the will of the people that it be changed.

12-MILE LIMIT.

The decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, presumably voiding the "twelve mile limit" within which rum-bearing foreign vessels may be seized, is an interesting document, the importance of which to the liquor smuggling situation will probably be developed later.

Apparently the meat of the decision is that while the United States may make all the treaties it wants with foreign powers, granting this country the right to search and seize here or there on the high seas, those treaties do not in fact enlarge the territorial waters of the United States nor extend the jurisdiction of United States courts.

It would appear that two courses are open, if the pursuit of liquor smugglers is to be continued outside the historic three mile limit of territorial waters. One is for Congress to create an extension of court jurisdiction by specific and elaborate action—its right to do which the court intimates but of course does not guarantee.

At all events it looks as if, for the moment, the activities of the Coast Guard with relation to Rum Row were seriously handicapped.

GRAFT.

That the ill-white zealotry of Uphaw of Georgia, ace of the dry forces of the House of Representatives, arises solely from his love of humanity and righteousness for righteousness' sake, is conclusively proven by the fact that he is paid for all the numerous addresses he makes, outside of Congressional halls, by the Anti-Saloon League.

The Anti-Saloon League does not pay Uphaw for the speeches against rum that he makes in the House. To do so would be to reward in Uphaw and the officials of the Anti-Saloon League going to a federal penitentiary. But does any sane person believe that he would stay on the Anti-Saloon payroll, for these outside addresses, if he did not spout for Volstead prohibition in his official capacity?

Uphaw is not alone. Rep. Hudson, chairman of the Alcoholic Liquor Traffic Committee of the House, admits having been paid for speeches on prohibition, and so does Rep. Cramton of Michigan, another conspicuous dry leader in Congress.

Senator Fess, an ardent champion of Volsteadism, is more circumspect. He only accepts "expenses" from the dry league.

It is all pure and holy and of exceeding virtue, this defense of the "constitution" by the Anti-Saloon League—this purchase of Congressmen with cash.

IN NEW YORK

New York, April 22.—See-sawing up and down Broadway I passed Sir Thomas Lipton, looking a few dozen pounds heavier. He may or may not have another yacht race challenge up his sleeve. Someone asked the British tea magnate why he had never married. His reply was: "The price of tea is far too low to afford a wife."

Saw Milt Gross, creator of "Nize Baby," at the Illustrator's Ball. He seemed worried and ill at ease. Kept looking at his watch. It seems "Nize Baby" recently arrived at the Gross home. "They're easier to write about than to have," he sighed, ducking out well before midnight.

Saw Lorenz Hart, who had to graduate from Harvard. . . or was it Yale? In order to show Broadway how musical comedy lyrics should be written. . . He tried peddling his clever verses to the regular producers but they were declared "too good" and "not popular enough." "If I hadn't gone to college I could have made a fortune," sighed Hart. And then the Theater Guild put on an intimate little review. . . Hart wrote the lyrics. . . Today he has orders for sixty-seven musical shows. . . In which he is assisted by Richard Rogers, classmate at Harvard. . . or was it Yale? . . . where Rogers learned the square root of a ukulele, and "now he is the captain of the queen's navee."

Saw a small mob waiting at the stage door entrance after the opening night of Raquel Meller. . . She came out carrying a big bouquet of carnations. . . Imagine, carnations for a $25-a-seat artiste. . . The mob cried for the flowers, which she distributed much as she does violets in one of her stage songs. . . I then understood why she carried carnations. . . One can give away so many. . . They're really not expensive now. . .

Wandering away from Broadway I found myself on Fulton street. . . Street of most sinister significance in New York. . . And yet there was nothing to suggest the sinister in the busy hustling point. . . But that isn't the idea. . . Fulton street is the criminal "dead line." . . It is the police rule that any man with a criminal record may not go south of that thoroughfare. . . This sinister cross road is carefully watched by plainclothes men and "camera-eyed" cops. . . Anyone for whom the jail doors have ever opened is grabbed if seen crossing. . . —GILBERT SWAN.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, April 22.—The canniest politician at the capital, if you ask him whether his politics are Democratic or Republican, will smile and answer:

"I'm a servant of the people. Sir. Just a servant of the people." That's Harry, doorkeeper and messenger of the House ways and means committee. His full name is Harry Parker, although few know anything but the Harry. Ever since William McKinley was chairman of the ways and means committee, for 38 years, Harry has served the people as guardian of the committee door.

"Folks come here to work who talk a lot about being Republicans or Democrats," says Harry, and he doesn't mean the elected members of Congress although he could, with reason. "And pretty soon they come walking by all dressed up and they tell somebody 'I USED to have that job right there.' My politics is just to scatter sunshine and to a servant of the people, and I still got my job."

Harry was born at Washington's home, Mt. Vernon, where his father was a watchman for many years. Presidents, leaders in Congress and other distinguished personages have been his friends all his life. He has a sweeping familiarity with the personalities and incidents of two generations of public life, and his memory for acquaintances is astounding.

The other day he called without hesitation the name of a man who returned after 17 years absence, and the man had been merely a congressman's secretary.

"They are all dear to my heart," says Harry, the politician, when one asks which is his favorite among his famous acquaintances, "but Mr. Claude Kitchen was certainly a lovely man."

During Kitchen's last illness Harry went to his home every night, asking if he could not be of service. He tells with pride that he carried a key to the Kitchen home which Kitchen gave him.

The Palmy Days. The palmy days of congressional gaiety, according to Harry, were in the time of Speaker Reed. There was a famous revolving closet in a committee room of the house chamber.

Dinner would be served to the committee in this room. The closet contained the seasonings and tableware, but its shelves could be turned like a revolving door, and the other side, says Harry, "had everything they needed to refresh themselves."

Religion has an important place in Harry's personality. "When you want to hire a servant, get one that's always singing and praying," Harry advises. "Then he'll give you a full day's work. That is so in politics, too. Most of the chairmen of this committee have been religious men." "We're still got Mr. McKinley's Bible here, and the other chairmen still read it. You could always tell when Mr. McKinley was going to make a big speech because he would get his Bible down and read it a long time."

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

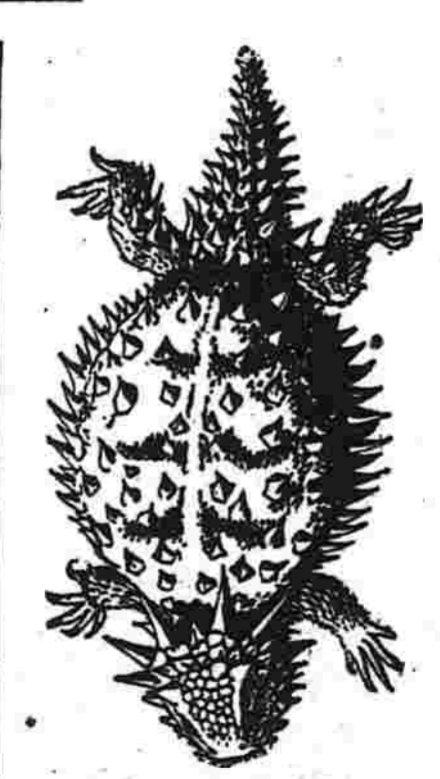

A STRANGE DESERT RACE.

By ARTHUR N. PACK President, the American Nature Association

In our southwestern states, and in the deserts generally of our western sections, live the horned lizards, or, as they are generally called, horned toads. There are several species but they are much alike in appearance and habits.

The horned toad, like a few other reptiles, lives on a sort of borderline as regards its reproduction. Some lay a couple of dozen eggs which they bury in a warm bank where they hatch in about 20 days by nature's warmth, while others retain the eggs within their bodies and bring forth their young alive—tiny pink editions of themselves, ready at their birth to take care of themselves in a world where young horned toads have many enemies.

Besides feigning death, an artifice which saves many a one from unwelcome notice, the horned toad has another means of defense that is almost unique in nature. Under certain circumstances when threatened, it squirts from a duct under its eyelid a blood-like liquid which is so distasteful to most animals that it forms an effective deterrent.

Horned Toad

To further curiosity, and often preserves its life. And so, though living in a forbidding land, where even its simple food is scarce, the race of horned toads persists. Their gentleness makes them interesting as pets, and they are active destroyers of insects. If their lot be cast in places where these are in abundance.

Send a stamped addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine of Washington through arrangements made by this paper.

seemed worth all the things she had saved. And then came the time when the end of her rope was reached 'cause she lost all her wedding bells hope. But that didn't fret her, or bring on the tears like all of the things that she's saved up for years. Her love dream was blighted. It passed on its way. She opened a little antique store one day. And how did she do it? You'd never have guessed—with things that she'd put in her little hope chest.

A PUZZLE-A DAY
 In the state of Kansas lives P. P. Doze, who raises and sells tens of thousands of rabbits yearly. Every afternoon his helpers set snares, and nets to trap the rabbits without injuring them. When captured, they are sorted, and graded. Then they are shipped to persons in every part of the United States. Mr. Doze feels that no week is successful unless his orders are increased by one dozen rabbits. During the last eight weeks he has been very happy, because each week the total quantity shipped has been 12 greater than the previous week. In all 3,536 rabbits were shipped during the eight weeks.
 How many did he ship in the first and succeeding weeks?
 Last puzzle answer:
 The school principal left Mrs. Kahn to her own devices, when they were both in the center of the garden at point marked "A." From this point she walked in a continuous line along the paths as indicated by the wavy line until she came to the spot marked "B." Here she was stopped by a member of the school board. You will notice that she did not retrace her steps, and yet she covered every path. She might also have started at "B" and reversed her steps.

LOCALS MEET STAMFORD FOR STATE TITLE SUNDAY

SEE SPLIT IN COMMISSION OVER DEMPSEY'S NEXT FIGHT

Rickard's Announcement That He Has Dempsey-Tunney Bout Fixed for September Causes Argument in Ranks.

New York, April 22.—Threats of a split within the ranks of the New York State Athletic Commission today followed the announcement from Fort Worth that Jack Dempsey had signed with Tex Rickard to defend his heavyweight title next September. William Muldoon, for the first time, lined up behind Rickard today in declaring that he was unalterably opposed to a Dempsey-Wills bout, thus taking issue with his chairman, James A. Farley, who reiterated that Wills must get a crack at the title or Rickard would have his New York license revoked.

Chairman For Wills. Col. John J. Phelan, chairman of the license committee here, said that his body was with Farley in his fight for the recognition of Wills but George E. Brower, third member of the State Commission, declined to express his sentiments. On top of this state of affairs came a report today that Rickard may go into court in an attempt to prevent the board from interfering with his plan to stage a Dempsey-Tunney match, ignoring Wills. The promoter will be held before the board upon his return to give an account of himself. He will find one member at least on his side, Muldoon stated.

May Resign. "I have never been in favor of a Dempsey-Wills bout and never will be," he declared. "As far as I am concerned, there is no need to take the Dempsey-Tunney match. It is not unlikely that I will resign." The same threat has been made on behalf of Farley. It was said today by his friends that if he is out-voted on the Dempsey-Wills-Tunney controversy, he will hand in his resignation.

DIAMOND DUST

There's no place like home, at least for ball clubs. Six teams opened the season on their home grounds yesterday, and each won.

The Athletics squeaked the Senators 5 to 2. Another Washington veteran, Coveleskie, cracked while Ed Rommel allowed only three hits.

Forty thousand fans saw the Yankees trim the Red Sox, 8 to 5, a homer by Combs with two on breaking up the game after the Sox had taken a four run lead. Both Jones and Ehmke, the starting pitchers, viewed most of the game from the clubhouse window.

The Tigers had to call on the fire department to put out the Indians, who went off the reservation and walloped the Cobblers 12 to 2. Cleveland remained tied with the Yanks for first place while Detroit dropped in the third slot.

Alexander went the route for the Cubs while his mates shelled Pete Donohue off the mound and beat the Reds 4 to 2.

BRAY HIGH SCORER IN S. M. H. S. MEET

Tom Zachary, obtained from Washington, pitched the Browns to a 5 to 1 decision over the White Sox, allowing only four singles. The slugging of Baby Doll Jackson featured.

The Braves nosed out their ancient jinx, the Phillies, in the ninth by a score of 2 to 1. A single by pinch hitter Gibson ended a pitching duel between Knight and Mordridge.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS.

At Montreal: Louis (Kid) Kaplan, featherweight champion, knocked out Lee (Kid) Roy, Canadian champion, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round match.

At Cleveland: Johnny Dato, Cleveland, and Chick Suggs, colored bantamweight of New Bedford, fought a 12-round draw.

At Lakeland, Fla.: Young Wallace, New Orleans welterweight, knocked out John O'Hara, Pittsburgh, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

The final totals read: seniors, 25; juniors, 23; sophomores, 13; freshmen, 6. The events yesterday were more hotly contested than on Monday. The juniors were out for blood, but the big lead was held by the seniors on Monday.

WORTH IN SPORT KNOWING

Chicago had one of the poorest clubs in its National League history last season, finishing in the cellar. It was pretty well down in the depths all campaign. But the Cubs boasted one honor, however, despite the disastrous chase. They topped the circuit in fielding with a mark of .969, one point ahead of the Giants and Reds. In double plays they ranked next to Pittsburgh, the leader.

DIAMOND IS PUTS DECIDED

After a player has batted out of order, and the mistake is discovered, can he bat in the same inning? A player must always bat in his proper position in the batting order or suffer a possible penalty. If he bats out of order in a certain inning and the mistake is discovered it in no way affects his proper batting status.

LOCALS WIN TWICE

Manchester has won the trophy on two occasions while Danersk has been successful once. The competition carries with it the honor of soccer champion of Connecticut. Last season Hartford, Thistles won the competition by eliminating the Waterbury team in the final round game at South Manchester by the odd goal in three.

Eastern League. Waterbury at Hartford. Springfield at Albany. National League. St. Louis at Pittsburgh. Cincinnati at Chicago. New York at Brooklyn. Philadelphia at Boston. American League. Chicago at St. Louis. Detroit at Cleveland. Washington at Philadelphia. Boston at New York.

MANCHESTER'S WORK

In the preliminary rounds of the competition, the Manchester team had a great struggle in disposing of the two Hartford teams. In the first round it was favored with a bye while in the second round it eliminated the Hartford Thistle team after a spirited contest by the score of 4-1, the game proving more close than the score indicated. In the semi-final round the Scandia team was defeated after one of the most sensational games ever played in South Manchester, only one goal separating the teams at the finish. A penalty goal in the concluding stages of the contest bring victory and glory to the Manchester team.

FEATURE ARTICLES ABOUT INTERESTING WOMEN

THE YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

She flung herself on the couch and gave way to bitter tears. "I love him so," she sobbed.

Jimmy Rand, his son, goes to Cleveland, where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer. Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he finds Olga. She faints at hearing she is wanted for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi, and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy and Olga, out one night, see the man they are looking for—the man she says got the stub. He escapes, but they identify him by a police photo as IKE JENSEN. Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. She breaks their engagement. Jimmy gets a phone call from Olga, saying she has found Jensen. Jimmy rushes to her apartment to find her gone. Her disappearance is a newspaper sensation for days.

And then, to turn on his heel and cut her dead. She simply couldn't believe it. For an instant she had believed him gone suddenly mad. She had gone home, where a fresh bunch of flowers, carefully watered by her mother, mocked her. They were from Samuel Church, and with them was a note—a note of apology, asking for "another chance."

Olga was conscious once more, though faint and in a state of semi-hysteria, when Jimmy Rand entered her over to kindly nurse with instructions for constant attendance and a private room. "Shock," he said briefly in answer to their questioning looks. Himself, he waylaid the first doctor he saw. "Falls in my side," he explained. "Think it's a smashed rib. Want you to do something to sort of patch it up and hold it together and let me get out of here."

ADVENTURES of the TWINS by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Jumping Jimina!" cried Mister Tingaling waking up suddenly and looking at his watch. "It's twenty minutes after the day before yesterday! What's happened?" Nancy stretched and yawned, and Nick yawned and stretched. Then they opened their eyes, too. "Why—it's—we—" cried Nick jumping up and looking around in a dazed way. "I think—oh, don't you remember? I have a feeling that Mr. Hathaway knows nothing about this and he would like to probe it to the bottom, for—"

RELIC SOFA. OLIVAS, KAN.—The proprietor of a local second-hand store bought an old sofa from a home where seven daughters have been courted in the parlor. Taking it apart he found 47 hairpins, 13 needles, eight cigarettes, five photographs, 217 pins, some grains of coffee, six pocket knives, 15 paper chips, a vial of headache tablets, 34 lumps of chewing gum, nine toothpicks and four buttonholes.

for it was only a moment when Mr. Hathaway spoke. "What do you want with me, young woman? Tell it to me as quickly as you can. I am a very busy man." "I've come to tell you that your largest and most fashionable restaurant is a den of thieves and it's only a question of time before your employes there will pull off a stunt that will make the police shut up the place."

"MY BEAUTY BELIEFS"

By ROSE WILDER LANE
Author of "He Was a Man" and "The Peaks of Shala."

It really doesn't matter one little bit whether or not you are born beautiful. The whole trick is to think that you are. The only way in which to think that you are beautiful is to be confident, and confidence must be born of happiness, and happiness is born of alertness and interest in everything.

Household Suggestions

SANDWICH FILLING
A delicious sandwich filling is made by flaking a can of tuna fish and adding mayonnaise dressing, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper to taste. It is most nutritious on whole wheat bread.

FOR YOUR HEALTH
See that you do not neglect fish on your menu. It contains iodine which is so necessary to the body and the oils are rich in vitamins.

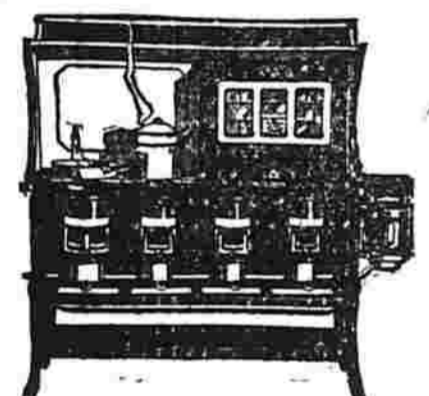

WHITE ENAMEL CARE.
Nothing is more effective than turpentine for keeping the bath tub free from stains.

ASPARAGUS HUNT
When buying asparagus select straight, smooth stalks that are brittle and snap readily.

MORE SUBSTANCE
When buying lettuce select heads with crisp, tender leaves that are heavy and feel solid and firm when pressed.

A QUICK PROCESS
You can toast wieners in a tempt i.e. brown by setting them in the spaces allotted for toast in your electric toaster. Put a pan beneath to catch the drippings.

FOR SALAD DRESSING
Lemon juice is preferred to vinegar for salad dressing by the most discriminating cooks.

The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

Rum and Milk!
The famous young lady of Fashion, one Cleone Knox of County down, who ruled the county swains' hearts some two centuries ago, sedately tells of sipping her rum and milk much in the fashion of present maidens their double chocolate sodas.

Spun Glass Dress
The infantia Eulalie owned a dress made of 2,500,000 threads of spun glass. It weighed but a pound. The total costume of the maid of 1926 weighs but a pound, according to statistics.

Comes tidings of a new fabric made from ostrich down "as soft as a baby's cheek," and finer than silk. The 1926 girl who boasts that "I can't bear anything but silk next my skin" is not so different from her cave ancestors who "jawed" their mates if they brought coarse haired skins home from the hunt and not silky velvety pelts for their coats and dresses.

"My Little Town"
"My little town, that has not yet attained
The height and breadth of cities,
Oh, stay small!
What profit is the vastness they have gained,
Their strength of stone and steel;
When, growing tall,
They lose the singing company of leaves;
And growing wide, they have no room for grass;

No rose-vines reaching for contented eaves,
No spaces to watch the seasons as they pass."
—Anne Blackwell Payne.

Might Like to Know
It was highly indelicate for ladies of ancient times to use forks rather than fingers. The old Roman poet Ovid wrote a couplet to a lady advising her how to pick her meat daintily with her fingers, and sketching the ugliness of "the spearing fork." Forks today are used for cake always. It is quite improper to eat any frosted cake with the fingers.

The Fairy Tales
All the thrills of the old fairy tales is buried in this little line in a news dispatch of the flood of Bagdad—"the royal ladies and their entourage were removed from the royal date gardens with all possible speed." Almost too good to be true in this modern day.

GAREY, TETOLER, FOR A REFERENDUM

Chicago, April 22—Elibert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, declared himself in favor of a national referendum on modification of the prohibition law, in an interview here today.

"There is only one way to settle the controversy," said Gary, "and that is to let the people vote on it. I do not use intoxicants myself, but that has nothing to do with the matter."

FOR LEATHER CHAIRS.

If you have the problem of keeping leather furniture clean try dusting it carefully and washing with a soft cloth wrung out of hot milk. Then rub dry with a clean cloth and polish with a soft one. If it seems to need a polish, try oil and turpentine.

BREADS AND BISCUITS AS 3 EXPERT COOKS MAKE THEM

(Ed. Note: This is one of a series of articles on cooking which 6 famous cooks are contributing to this paper.)

Bread can be much more than the uninteresting, prosaic "staff of life." It can be made so delicious that you eat it because you want to, not because you think you ought to.

Famous cooks have unearthed many delicious bread and biscuit recipes from various parts of the country for you. Follow their recipes for pleasing variety in breads.

Easy Bran Muffin

Mrs. Rorer, the Philadelphia cooking expert, recommends her bran muffins for breakfast. They are very nutritious and healthful, she says. "One might paraphrase the old saying into a bran muffin a day keeps the doctor away." It would hold just as true.

"These muffins are easily made," she affirms. "Beat one egg, add a cup of milk, a half teaspoon salt, one tablespoonful sugar, and one tablespoonful melted butter. Sift one cupful flour with three level teaspoons baking powder, and bake in a hot oven, in greased gem pans for 20 minutes."

Notes for Nourishment
Mrs. Rorer has a very appetizing and nourishing nut bread. Here's how to make it:
Chop enough pecans to make a half cupful. Put two cupfuls flour in a bowl, add four level teaspoons of baking powder, half a teaspoon salt, and two tablespoons of sugar, and sift. Mix in the nuts. Beat one egg, add one cupful of milk, mix and add the flour. Beat well, and turn at once into a greased bread pan.

Let stand 10 minutes. Light oven 8 minutes before bread is light. Bake half an hour at medium heat. Raisins may be substituted for nuts.

Nut bread makes very good sandwiches if spread with butter. Cream cheese may also be used for a simple, delicious filling.

Southern Corn Bread

Corn bread, that favorite of the South, is another nutritious change from the every-day white bread. Made with the recipe of Miss Michaelis, famous New Orleans cook, it's a welcome part of any meal.

Here are the ingredients:
1/2 cup of corn meal
1 1/2 cups cornmeal
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 eggs
2 1/2 tablespoons baking powder
1 1/2 tablespoons shortening
2 cups water (or milk, or the two mixed)

Sift corn meal, salt, sugar, and baking powder together. Add water or milk. Add yolks of eggs and shortening which has been beaten. Add stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Put into a hot greased pan, and bake in hot oven. This can be served with butter or with syrup.

Real Biscuits

If you have a patient right arm, you are bound to make successful biscuits. This is another old southern recipe of Miss Michaelis.

1 quart flour
1 1/2 teaspoons of lard
1 pint of milk
1 teaspoon salt

Sift dry ingredients. Then add the shortening and blend by using the fingers—be smooth; add gradually the liquid and knead all together till the dough is formed. Should be a rather stiff dough. Then lay the dough on a biscuit board and beat with rolling pin half an hour. Knead lightly and beat again for ten minutes, till air bubbles form all over the dough. Then roll out and cut with cutter in any shape and stick top here and there with fork. Bake in moderate oven about fifteen minutes or till top and bottom are a light brown.

Use Oranges

Orange muffins are just the thing for breakfast. Toasted, they are delicious to serve with afternoon tea. Mrs. Belle DeGraf, San Francisco, formerly with the Pacific Coast Branch of the New York Cooking School, gives this delectable recipe:

1 cup flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup orange juice
Grated rind of one orange

Beat eggs and add liquid. Sift and combine dry ingredients. Add melted shortening and first mixture. Bake in greased muffin pans, in moderate oven about 20 minutes.

You may serve a different bread biscuit every meal. These recipes are especially helpful to women with the lunch problem, as different sandwich fillings may be used with all but the beaten biscuit with good result.

Much Ventilation

One manufacturer is selling an efficient oven with 100 holes. These holes provide perfect air circulation and carry away all surplus moisture and all odor. This oven is especially made for oil stoves.

Baking Hint

The oven should always be preheated a few minutes before biscuits are put in. They require fast baking.

For Oil Stove Users

Women who cook with oil will appreciate one of the newer oil stove models with a reversible, easily filled glass reservoir. The hands do not come in contact with the kerosene at all.

What 30 Years of Cooking taught Mrs. Rorer about Stoves
By MRS. SARAH TYSON RORER
Philadelphia Cooking Expert

"I PREFER oil stoves to any other kind. I speak from the fullness of 30 years' experience with them. Oil is clean, economical, and dependable. It saves a world of work. No coal or wood to carry in, no ashes to carry out. And no dust.

"I have just completed a special experiment on the 1926 model Perfection Oil Stove, testing it under all possible cooking conditions. I cooked many meals in my own kitchen. Every dish was deliciously cooked.

Immediate Cooking
"Steak began to broil and my molasses cake began to rise almost as soon as I lighted the burners. There was no waiting for the heat to 'come up.'

"The bottom of every utensil used in the experiment was as clean as a china dish. No scouring was necessary. Those long Perfection chimneys certainly are insurance against sooty kettles.

All at the Same Time
"I cooked many things at once. For boiling beef I used a very low flame. I French-fried potatoes over a hot flame with yellow tips about 1 1/2 inches high above the blue area. I cooked white sauce over a medium flame.

"I used all grades of heat at the same time satisfactorily.

All flames remained steady and even. They did not creep or 'crawl.' This is a real blessing to the cook. She can forget her stove and keep her mind on her cooking.

"Very Well Satisfied"
"Altogether I was very well satisfied with the Perfection Stove. And, my good opinion of oil stoves has increased, if that is possible."

4,500,000 In Use
The other five famous cooks were enthusiastic about the 1926 Perfection, too. And every day 4,500,000 women get real cooking satisfaction from their Perfections. You, too, will get the most cooking satisfaction the year around when you cook on the latest model Perfection.
