

WIRTALLA IS RETAINED AS A POLICEMAN

Commissioners Thresh Out Charges Against Officer; Supernumerary Discharg- ed—Several Applicants.

Officer Rudolph Wirtalla was retained as a policeman by the Board of Police Commissioners after a hearing last night at the Hall of Records. Wirtalla tendered his resignation as an officer on March 26. On April 22 he notified the commissioners he desired to remain as a policeman and accordingly withdrew his resignation. Last night's hearing was given the officer to learn why he withdrew his resignation and so that he might answer charges of misconduct and infraction of department rules.

Wirtalla told the board he had planned to work in Springfield, that his plans did not materialize and that he desired to keep his work here. He therefore withdrew his resignation.

Charges Brought

Charges of misconduct were brought by Commissioner Edward J. Murphy and a charge of an infraction of department rules was brought by President Albert T. Dewey of the Board. No witnesses could be obtained to testify before the board. An attempt was made to bring in witnesses but none would appear and the subpoena was not resorted to.

Commissioner Murphy frankly told Officer Wirtalla he did not care to act as either persecutor or prosecutor in the case. As a commissioner he brought before the board things which were his duty. He believed that he had been considered by the officer as a member of the commission and as desirous of dropping him Murphy said he had nothing personal against Officer Wirtalla, but was merely carrying out his duties as a member of the board in bringing up the things he had learned and which were not becoming to an officer.

Investigates Stories

Commissioner Willard B. Rogers said that he, too, had heard rumors that were not to the credit of any man, if true. He had personally investigated all the stories that he had heard, and said that Chief of Police Samuel Gordon had investigated some of the cases with him. Commissioner Rogers branded as lies those who had started the stories, saying that in none of the cases did he or Chief Gordon find reason to believe that Officer Wirtalla had misbehaved. An attempt was made to get complete facts on specific charges but this was impossible because of the inconsistent stories some of the parties in question told.

It was evident, as the hearing progressed that Wirtalla was the victim of jealousy. There was no evidence to prove that he was guilty of misconduct, and yet, it could not be denied that there were several stories, or rumors, being circulated that tended to injure Wirtalla's character. Chief Gordon testified that Wirtalla had an excellent record as a police officer.

Defends Himself

Speaking in his own defense, Officer Wirtalla denied all the accusations of misconduct, which these rumors carried. He attributed the stories to jealousy of his good record as an officer. He insisted that the hardest working police officer is the one most condemned. He said he had tried to do his duty as an officer, and felt that many of those whom he had arrested had started the rumors.

President Dewey brought out the fact that someone, name unknown, had called him one night to inform him that Officer Wirtalla was gambling in a Main street barber shop. Sergeant Crockett was ordered to investigate and did. At last night's hearing Sergeant Crockett testified that he found a friendly game of set-back being played in the place. No money was in sight. Officer Wirtalla was not on duty at the time and it was about 10 p. m. President Dewey said he did not believe that was a serious offense but thought the officer should be more discreet and not frequent places that were liable to have a bad reputation.

Commissioner Rogers brought the Wirtalla matter to an abrupt close by saying that it was nonsense to labor under rumors. It was

UNDRIVEN HORSES IN RUM-RUNNING GAME

Mexico City, April 28.—"Old Dobbin" is now in the rum-running business. Horses, packed with liquor, are being turned loose on the Mexican border every night. They generally find their way to their owners on the American side. Border inspectors have orders to shoot such horses on sight.

COOLIDGE MAY BE UMPIRE ON DEBT

Commission Divided on French Settlement and President May Decide.

Washington, April 28.—The Franco-American debt negotiations were in a state of suspension today while Ambassador Berenger wrestled with the formulation of a new proposal more to the liking of the American Debt Commission.

Instead of the speedy settlement which officials had hoped for at the resumption of the negotiations last week, it is becoming increasingly apparent today that there still exists a wide difference between what the Americans think France can and should pay, and what the French are willing to pay. The negotiations now bid fair to be long drawn out—and some of the early optimism about an ultimate agreement has disappeared.

Less Than Callaux

Paris dispatches reporting that M. Berenger has been limited to an offer of $30,000,000 a year for the first part of the agreement was one year less than was offered by Joseph Callaux, the French representative in the abortive negotiations last October, although in their respects the Berenger proposal is materially better than anything Callaux proposed.

The flat ultimatum of Senator Reed Smoot, (R., Utah), the Senate's representative on the commission that he never would consent to bring any agreement before the Senate containing any kind of a "safeguard clause" demanded by France, was another. While France has abandoned her contention for an outright safety clause, relieving her of fulfillment of an agreement should Germany fall down on her reparations payments, M. Berenger has nevertheless insisted upon a modified safety clause.

Split in Opinion

Despite the regular treasury announcements that the debt commission are unanimous in their decisions, it is an open secret that decidedly different views are held by the membership concerning the French case—and the possibility was seen today of President Coolidge again having to take a hand in the situation, as he did once before.

On the previous occasion, President Coolidge sided with Senator Smoot, Secretary Hoover and congressional members of the commission, and turned thumbs down on M. Callaux's offer, which Secretary Mellon was understood to have approved.

It may be different this time, however, if and when the issue is again carried to the White House. The administration is exceedingly anxious to get the debt settlements all cleaned up.

M'CARL INSISTS THAT DRY SCOUTS WALK

Scolds Mellon for Asking That Ban on Auto Bills of Sleuths Be Lifted.

Washington, April 28.—With a sharp rebuke to the treasury department, Comptroller-General J. R. McCarl today refused to lift a ban established some time ago against the use of prohibition appropriation for the hire of automobiles employed in dry scouting forays.

In response to a request from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that suspensions in the accounts of prohibition administrators covering automobile hire be lifted, McCarl had said that such action would be contrary to the law. Accounts amounting to thousands of dollars for motor hire have been suspended. He placed the entire responsibility upon the treasury department, declaring that "notwithstanding decisions from this office, the unauthorized practice appears to have continued at least until recently."

YALE FREETHINKERS FOR NEW SOCIETY

Disavow Revealed Religion and Will Make Study of Super- natural Phenomena.

New Haven, April 28.—A society to be known as the Yale Freethinkers' society, composed of atheists, deists and agnostics, has been formed among students of Yale University. The society disavows revealed religion and will study intensively supernatural phenomena.

YANKEE YOUTH STILL HELD AS DUCE INSULTER

Guide Whose Face Young Abbott Slapped the In- former—Mother Appeals to American Consul.

Rome, April 28.—John Adams Abbott, young Harvard student who was arrested yesterday on charges of making remarks derogatory to the Fascist government, and Premier Mussolini, was still being detained by the police today despite his denials of the charges.

Mrs. Abbott, mother of the youth, said today that all the trouble arose from an altercation with an Italian guide who pushed into the line in front of Abbott, who was waiting to buy tickets for the Vatican Museum. She said that after a dispute her son had slapped the guide's face and told him, "If you are not satisfied, come to my hotel this evening."

Looked for Fight

The guide, with several friends, showed up at Abbott's hotel and a fight ensued. When the police intervened the guide made charges against the young American of insulting Fascism and the premier and he was arrested.

The charges made against my son are absurd," Mrs. Abbott said. "My son speaks Italian imperfectly and the guide who attacked him did not know English."

Faces 10 Days Jailing

"It was a private dispute which they are trying to color politically," "Astrolago, the guide, is a Fascist, and he boasted of the fact when my son slapped his face, which probably drew the retort from my son. I hope your chief isn't like you." It was probably something like that which brought forth the charges.

Mrs. Abbott has engaged a lawyer and has taken the matter up with the American consul, for she has been advised that her son may be detained in jail ten days awaiting trial.

Kin of Two Presidents

Born April 28.—John Adams Abbott, who was arrested in Rome charged with assaulting a guide and insulting Premier Mussolini of Italy, is a descendant of two presidents of the United States.

A member of a noted New England family, he counts among his ancestors Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams. Another of his forebears, Charles Francis Adams, was ambassador to Great Britain during the Civil War.

CO-ED, ALONE FOR STUNT, ATTACKED

Had Been Sent by Sorority Initiators to Isolated Spot Late at Night.

Columbus, O., April 28.—While Ohio State University circles buzzed with excitement, police and school authorities were co-operating today in a search for the unidentified man who assaulted a pretty 19-year-old girl student while she was being initiated into a prominent sorority. The attack took place last Thursday night at a lonely spot near the huge Ohio State stadium. The story of the attack was revealed when the girl was unable to leave University hospital yesterday.

According to a report to the police, the girl, all alone, had been sent from the sorority house to a stadium to get a message placed under a brick at a designated place. As the girl stumbled around looking for the brick, a man leaped out of the darkness and seized her. She fought desperately but she was overpowered. She was found by some of her sorority sisters and taken to Dean E. F. McCampbell of the Ohio State University of Medicine.

TOBACCO GROWER IN DIFFICULTIES

Windsor Locks Man Files in Bankruptcy Though Assets Exceed Debts.

New Haven, April 28.—Another Connecticut Valley tobacco farmer has filed a bankruptcy petition. James Quagliaroli, of Windsor Locks, placed his petition in the hands of the United States District court here today. His liabilities total $38,041, his assets are given as $37,470. Among the assets is a crop of tobacco valued at $9,280 on deposit with the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Association.

Charles N. Esten, a Hartford mortician, also filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy here today, with assets of $106 to meet liabilities of $312.

Hudson Overflows at Albany

A sea-going locomotive this turned out to be when the Hudson river overflowed its banks at Albany and covered the Quay Street docks.

WHITTEMORE JURY ENDS IN DEADLOCK

Buffalo Trial Fails to Con- vict Bandit of Killing During Bank Robbery.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 28.—William Reese Whittemore is saved from the electric chair by the failure of the jury to convict him of the murder of Charles W. Clifford, bank guard, Baltimore and New York City authorities today made efforts to obtain custody of the bandit for trial on other charges.

When the jury reported at eleven o'clock last night that they had reached a hopeless deadlock, Supreme Court Justice Noonan discharged them. Roscoe C. Stacy, foreman of the jury, insisted that it was useless to deliberate further. A crowd outside the courthouse greeted the announcement with cheers, but both Whittemore and his father, Rawlings V. Whittemore, received the verdict without a show of emotion. As the bandit was led back to his cell he bent over and kissed his wife.

Whittemore broke down, tears streaming down her cheeks. Warrants for Whittemore's arrest on robbery charges have been lodged with local authorities by Joab Banton, New York City district attorney.

Maryland Case "Air Tight"

Baltimore, April 28.—We want Whittemore. We have an air-tight case against him in Maryland for murder and he should be returned here for trial.

This statement was made today by Herbert O'Connor, state's attorney, following the hung jury in Buffalo, which permitted the Baltimore bandit to escape the electric chair in New York State.

Whittemore is wanted in Maryland for the murder of Robert H. Holtzman, a state prison guard, during his sensational escape from that institution.

DOUG AND MARY GET BIG ROME WELCOME

Rome, April 28.—Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford were given a tumultuous welcome upon their arrival here. They will be received in audience by the Pope tomorrow and Premier Mussolini will receive them on Saturday.

Patient Tickle Patient, Then There Is a Murder

MIDDLETOWN, April 28.—Inquiry by Coroner L. A. Smith into the death of John Cournoyer of Volunton on April 14 at the State Hospital here, developed that Cournoyer's predilection for having fun, together with a less humorous temperament on the part of Romeo Cadwell, of Bridgeport, brought about the tragedy. Both were patients.

Coroner Smith found that Cournoyer tickled Cadwell's ribs with his fingers as Cadwell was polishing the floor of a ward, and that Cadwell promptly felled him with a blow over the head with the floor polisher. Cournoyer died four hours later from a fractured skull.

The affair happened too quickly for attendants to interfere in time.

CHICAGO WILD AS PROSECUTOR IS SLAIN BY DRUM-GUN BAND

500 PRIESTS AT CONSECRATION OF NEW BISHOP

Solemn Rites Attend Eleva- tion of Rt. Rev. McAuliffe as Auxiliary in Hartford Catholic Diocese.

Hartford, April 28.—Rt. Rev. Maurice McAuliffe, president of St. Thomas Seminary, was today consecrated auxiliary bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Hartford in St. Joseph's Cathedral, here, in the presence of a congregation that filled the Cathedral. More than five hundred priests and prelates from every part of the diocese and from all the eastern states were in the congregation.

Rt. Rev. John Joseph Nilan, bishop of Hartford, was the consecrator. Assisting consecrators were Rt. Rev. William A. Hickey, bishop of Providence, and Rt. Rev. John G. Murray, bishop of Portland, who in 1920 was consecrated the first auxiliary bishop of Hartford.

Consecrated Mass

A procession of clergy started at ten o'clock from the Cathedral parish house on Asylum avenue and moved to the main door of the Cathedral on Farmington avenue to the sanctuary where the mass of consecration began at 10:30. The preacher at the mass was Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Shanhan, rector of Catholic University at Washington, former chancellor of the Hartford diocese.

Following the consecration, this noon, the visiting bishops and priests were guests of Bishop McAuliffe at a dinner served in the parish house. During the evening service this evening Bishop McAuliffe will pontificate, while the sermon is to be preached by Rev. Francis F. May, Rector of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, in Hamden, who was once a professor at St. Thomas Seminary.

K. C. Honor Guard

The ceremonial of the consecration today was sung by a choir of thirty voices while the choir from St. Thomas Seminary sang the Gregorian mass chant. Members of the fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, escorted the consecrator procession and formed a guard of honor at the sanctuary.

The impressive ceremony of the bishop's consecration, which is divided into four parts, occurred during the mass which was celebrated both by Bishop Nilan, and Bishop-Elect McAuliffe, who officiated at a side altar near the main altar.

The prelude, or preliminary ceremonies of the consecration, included:

GET ORGANIZATION OF SHOPLIFTERS AND AIDES

New York Police Arrest Two Girls, Alleged Fence and Driver of Taxicab.

New York, April 28.—In the arrest of two girls, Sarah Cohen, 26 and Rose Landow, 28, together with a taxi-driver and an alleged fence, Brooklyn police were confident today that they had broken up a shoplifting ring.

Detectives raided the home of Harry Bobker, 28, together charged, $8,000 worth of clothing stolen from department stores. The two girls were arrested when they were trailed to Bobker's apartment.

A taxicab was used to transport the stolen goods, police assert, and they arrested Louis Shapast its driver.

REPORTS BILL FOR COAL MINE SEIZURE

Senate Committee Favors Copeland Measure for Strike Emergencies.

Washington, April 28.—Government seizure and operation of coal mines in periods of national emergency was recommended today by the Senate committee on education and labor, in agreeing to report favorably the Copeland coal bill. It would apply both to anthracite and bituminous mines.

GERMAN BUDGETEERS REJECT LOCAL OPTION

Berlin, April 28.—The dry campaign in Germany received a setback today when the budget committee of the Reichstag rejected a bill providing for local option.

USE THOMPSON GUN WITH 150 CARTRIDGES

Chicago, Ill., April 28.—Gamblers of Chicago have taken to the machine gun as their war weapon. The McSwigginn killing was the third attack within two weeks in which auto-mounted machine guns have been used.

The machine gun adopted by the gangsters is a Thompson sub-machine gun, a light weapon—it weighs about 70 pounds. It has a combined rifle butt and pistol grip. It will fire approximately 100 to 125 shots a minute and can be reloaded with a 150-cartridge drum in 30 seconds.

It sprays and at reasonably close range the intended victim has almost no chance. Guns, drums and cartridges can be purchased in a number of places in Chicago.

TO INDICT LAWYER MILK GRAFT HEAD

Well Known New York Attor- ney Slated for Arrest in Bribery Scandal.

New York, April 28.—The alleged "master mind" behind the $3,000,000 bootleg milk and foot graft conspiracy, said to be a prominent attorney, may be indicted at any moment, it was reported by the district attorney's office today.

Documents implicating this man were to be placed in the hands of Assistant District Attorney Pecora, according to the statement.

Mass of Evidence

District Attorney John E. McGehean said that he had sent a mass of evidence against Thomas J. Clougher, secretary to Dr. Frank J. Monaghan when the latter was health commissioner, and against a lawyer referred to as the "master mind" of the ring, to District Attorney Pecora.

Clougher has been indicted on three charges of accepting bribes while in office. He awaits bail of $50,000 in prison.

Harry Danziger, so-called "milk czar," has been indicted for extortion and faces a charge of bribing a public official.

FINDS HER BOY AFTER YEAR-LONG SEARCH

Mother Who Was Denied Ident- ity of Foster Parents Will Try to Get Him Back.

New York, April 28.—After a year-long search, Mrs. Margaret Danziger has found her 3-year-old son, David, her curly haired boy, in luxurious surroundings and well cared for, she said.

But she'll try to get him back. She misses him very much.

She told how she had turned Dan over to the Spanish Alumnae Society and then sought to recover him through the courts, when that organization refused to reveal the name of his foster-parents.

The boy is now said to be in custody of Dale Harder, son of a rich hotel mill owner, at Hudson, N. Y.

In the past year, while the boy was cared for in the luxurious upstate home, Mrs. Henderson, who is a nurse, kept herself virtually penniless by her constant quest for clues, her trail covering several states and almost every county in New York.

Mrs. Henderson said today that she is "very happy" and will soon institute legal action to get her boy back.

MRS. BELMONT SLAPS AT BISHOP MANNING

Surprised at Request for Money After Being Disciplined on Score of Divorce.

New York, April 28.—Bishop William T. Manning today declined to comment upon a letter he has received from Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, president of the National Women's party, in which she expressed surprise that she had been asked to contribute to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in view of the attitude the bishop has assumed regarding her divorce.

In the letter she reminded the bishop that a few years ago he would not permit her name to appear in the Trinity Church Year Book as president of the Trinity Seaside Home for Sick Children, although she had donated the

"Billy" McSwigginn, Young Aid to State Attorney, and Two Others Torn by Ma- chine Bullets in Lawless Cicero — Police Under County Power Start Huge Raid on Underworld; Murders Done by Gang With Gun Mounted in Automobile—City Raging for Vengeance.

Chicago, April 28.—William H. McSwigginn, star prosecutor on the staff of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, and two other men are dead here, victims of a band of assassins last night.

A machine gun mounted in an automobile poured its deadly volleys into a group of four men in a motor car standing in front of a saloon in Cicero. Two of the men were McSwigginn and James J. Doherty, leader of a Cicero beer-running gang. Both were killed instantly. Thomas Duffy fell, mortally wounded. He died an hour later in a hospital. A fourth man, unidentified, escaped.

More than 100 suspects were in Cicero, Chicago and Cook county jails this morning, as virtually the entire police department, sworn in as special county officers, started the drive to find the slayers of McSwigginn.

Work of a Moment

The murder car, heavily curtained, moved down the street slowly. When directly in front of the car in which McSwigginn and the three others were sitting, a machine gun mounted in the front seat began spitting fire. Three of the men were killed. The gangster car then sped on and was lost in the darkness.

Conflicting stories of witnesses only serve to intensify the mystery surrounding the whole tragic affair. According to one witness, the car in a parked automobile across the street immediately gathered up the bodies of McSwigginn and Doherty and drove away in their car. Another witness says the fourth man who survived the deadly machine gun fire dragged the two bodies out on the prairie toward Berwyn.

Both bodies, that of the youthful assistant state's attorney and Doherty's, were found in a field in Berwyn an hour after the shooting which occurred shortly before midnight.

Starts Great Roundup

State's Attorney Crowe was dumfounded when awakened in his home and told of the death of young McSwigginn. He immediately got in touch with Chief of Police Collins and then called a conference of all his detectives and assistant state's attorneys. A vigorous hunt was started for the men who had gathered all suspicious characters in Chicago and suburbs. The raiding order said: "Get every beer runner, every gunman, every bootlegger and every other kind of racketeer in the reach of an officer of the law."

McSwigginn's presence in the company of such men as Doherty and Duffy is not clear. He once prosecuted both men on a charge of killing Eddie Tanel, a Cicero resort keeper.

One theory is that McSwigginn, born and raised on the west side and well known to Doherty and Duffy, had engaged them in conversation in the hope of getting further evidence in cases which he was scheduled to prosecute.

Perhaps Chance Victim

Another theory is that the gangsters were not after McSwigginn at all, but sought to kill Doherty and Duffy, perhaps rival bootleggers, and that McSwigginn was a victim of chance.

Young McSwigginn, who was only 27 years old, because of his fearless prosecutions and the high average of convictions he obtained, had come to be called the "hanging prosecutor." He has sent five men to the gallows during the past year.

McSwigginn had many and powerful enemies among the criminal element. His latest important case was the prosecution of the Genna gangsters, Albert Anselmi and John Scalice, charged with killing two police officers. The case was stubbornly fought and McSwigginn obtained a conviction, but the men escaped the noose.

Scout Durkin Gang

Revenge for his relentless prosecution of these powerful underworld characters is being considered as a motive for his slaying.

Yet another theory, and one given widest credence, is that friends

The committee in charge of the successful affair was composed of the president, Mrs. Edna Case Parker, secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Cheney, treasurer, Mrs. James Irvine, and Past President of the auxiliary Mrs. William C. Cheney, with Mrs. James Shearer as chairman of the finance committee, and the leaders of each of the four groups of the Linen Auxiliary, Mrs. Frank Wolcott, chairman; Mrs. E. A. Lettney, Miss Mary Hutchinson, Mrs. R. O. Cheney, Mrs. Emma Beags.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bronsman and little daughter will move from Vine street, Hartford, tomorrow to Arthur Bamforth's house at 38 Hudson street, formerly the home of Contractor Harry Rylander.

Pivot bridge and progressive bridge and whist were played, with prizes given the holder of the highest and lowest scores in each section. The gifts were of nearly equal value and the choice was given the winner of the greatest number of points.

POLICE COURT

Francis Coville, Jr. pleaded guilty before Judge Johnson this morning to reckless driving. A minimum fine of $25 and costs was imposed. Coville was arrested by Officer John McGlinn on Maple street last evening.

According to the officer, Coville drove his car at an excessive rate of speed, and in attempting to pass another car struck the curb on the left hand side of the street. After pleading guilty the young man was put on another motor cycle patrolman's nights, and as soon as the police appropriation is figured out it will be determined whether an extra man can be put on.

FARM BLOC FOLK SEEK AGREEMENT

Fear of Failure All Around Urges Congress Members to Concentrate. Washington, April 28.—A new variety of bogey man, standing beside a plow and looking over a list of candidates, loomed over the Capitol today. It was the shade of the American farmer as pictured by an imposing group of representatives seeking to patch up their differences and unite behind farm relief legislation before the opening of the long deferred general debate Monday.

Confronting the members were three separate relief bills reported by the agriculture committee. Representing varying shades of opinion, each professed to offer a definite solution of the agrarian problem.

So concerned were many members of the Middle Western farm bloc over the possibility that in the general debate all such legislation might be talked to death by the proponents of an equalization fee privately declared they were prepared to drop their fight and unite behind the Hansen bill, which it is believed will satisfy the corn belt.

ACTRESS-CAPITALIST MARRY AT GREENWICH

New York, April 28.—Betty Pierce, Broadway actress, and Benjamin Fran'lin Lerin, capitalist, were married Monday at Greenwich, Conn. It was learned today. Both the bride and groom have been married before.

NEW "CAKE EATER" BANDIT GANG TAKEN

New York, April 28.—Joseph Garfalo, 31, was arrested with four companions today on charges of robbery. Garfalo is believed to be the ringleader of a band of "cake-eaters" bandits.

YEN TO TAKE REINS OF CHINA GOVERNMENT

Pekin, April 28.—Without a central government for eight days, China now anticipates the arrival of the regency and premiership by W. W. Yen, with the support of Chang Tso Lin and Wu Pei Fu.

E. KENT HUBBARD ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Middletown, April 28.—E. Kent Hubbard, for some time critically ill with pneumonia, has passed the crisis according to a bulletin issued here today by his physicians. Mr. Hubbard's temperature has dropped to normal, they declared, and they now expect his recovery.

CARTARET COPS AT PUGILIST'S FUNERAL

Whole Force Attends While Negroes, Unassailed, Continue to Leave Town.

Cartaret, N. J., April 28.—The entire police force, augmented by a number of state troopers in plain clothes, attended the funeral today of John Carroll, who was stabbed to death in an altercation with negroes.

The few colored persons seen on the streets were hurrying out of town. They were not molested nor were any disturbances reported. Carroll's death was the direct cause of race riots during which the First Baptist negro church was burned and negro residents were expelled from the town.

Many local stores were closed today in tribute to the stabbing victim. Ralph Johnson, who was stabbed during the same row which resulted in Carroll's death, will recover.

WIRTALLA RETAINED AS A POLICEMAN

Impossible to get any evidence, and the board could not give any weight to criticism not substantiated by facts. It was immediately voted to retain the officer. Officer Charles Ubert was given a reprimand for sleeping when he should be on duty.

Supernumerary Officer Harry Clemson was dismissed from the force for three infractions of rules in the past month. He did not give the board satisfactory reasons for his actions and it was the opinion of the board that he should be dropped.

There were seven applications before the board for appointments to the force. Three of the applications were tabled until the next meeting. The others were dismissed.

Chief Gordon informed the commission that it would be necessary to put on a night motorcycle officer beginning May 1. The board approved of this. It may be necessary to put on another motorcycle patrolman's nights, and as soon as the police appropriation is figured out it will be determined whether an extra man can be put on.

COMMISSION RESENTS UNJUST CRITICISM

Groups of Business Men Should Be Well Informed Before Discussing Pro and Con. Groups of so-called "interested" business men are doing more harm than good in discussing actions of the Board of Police Commissioners or any other town governing body unless they are thoroughly acquainted with the subjects they argue. Individuals too can do much harm through condemnation of any board without a complete knowledge of the facts. This was the opinion of the Police Commissioners expressed at a meeting last night.

Before Board. A prominent business man was before the board last night to explain criticisms he had heard made to make in public. He was not brought before the board for censure, but merely so that the board could learn the reason for making criticisms. It was learned that he did not know the facts and was talking from hearsay.

The fact that the present Board of Police Commissioners is not doing the patrolling of the Cheney mills by town officers is the cause of most of the unfavorable comment which has come to the attention of the commissioners. That the town is actually saving money through the arrangement is not known by most of those who are doing the criticizing. Cheney Brothers have been and still are more than generous in their handling of police problems and the commissioners feel that it is the right of folly for townspeople to criticize a plan that works 100 per cent better for the interests of all concerned.

ANDOVER

Miss Helen Hamilton is spending a few days at her home recuperating from a long illness at the Hartford hospital. Edward Getchell who has been confined to his home with the grip is reported to be seriously ill, threatened with pneumonia.

The Grange will hold its semi-monthly meeting in the town hall Monday evening. The brothers are asked to appear in overalls and the sisters in house dresses. Each sister is also requested to bring lunch for two in a pall. The committee in charge is composed of Sisters Marlon Stanley and Marlon Sall and Brother Percy. A short play will be presented during the evening.

Mrs. Charles Faulkner and grandson visited in Hartford Monday. Rehearsals for the May 17th Competitive program have been postponed until those which are being held for the play to be given in the Grange Monday evening have ceased.

There will be a choir rehearsal at the home of Mrs. Cobb on Thursday evening. Music for Mothers' Day Sunday will be rehearsed.

CHICAGO WILD AS OFFICIAL IS SLAIN

of the notorious bandit killer, Martin Durkin, who is scheduled to come to trial early next month with McSwiggin in the role of chief prosecutor, conspired to get him out of the way. McSwiggin was unmarried.

County Takes Charge. Cicero, for the first time in its history, has been taken over by county officers and police of Chicago, under special powers granted them this morning and allowing them to make arrests anywhere in Cook county. From the days before the Duncan sisters charged they were "beaten up" by Cicero Mayor William E. Dever testified before the wet and dry committee in Washington that Cicero was one of the plague spots which Chicago could not touch, the suburb has been a law unto itself, but today it was discovered in Oak Park. In it were McSwiggin's glasses and a hat and coat.

Chicago, aroused as it has never been before, seemingly, is taking a hand from every walk of city endeavor. Women's clubs have called hurried meetings; civic leaders have offered their services to the district attorney's office, and the police force of the city has been turned over to him in an effort once and for all to stamp out the gang shootings in Chicago which have cost 23 lives so far in 1926 and 87 since the latter part of 1923.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, a Lincoln sedan, in which McSwiggin and the men with him were sitting when they were shot to death, was discovered in Oak Park. In it were McSwiggin's glasses and a hat and coat.

Neither the district attorney's office nor the police are working on any definite clue in their early investigations. Because of that, an actual dragnet has been thrown out and for the first time the saloons, rooming houses and hotels in which foreign gunmen have been quartered, cafes and known rendezvous of criminals in Cicero were entered and all of their occupants sent to police station, for examination.

Officials, too, are looking for the fourth man who was with McSwiggin, Doherty and Duffy when they were killed. This man, escaping almost miraculously from the hose spray of bullets which killed the others, had not been found this morning.

Clue to Car's Driver. Police seek Miles O'Donnell who, with his brother, Steve, is credited in police records with originating the door of McSwiggin's car opened and Duffy came tumbling out. Then two more men. Two of them fell near the curb. Duffy ran around his own car and started for the prairies.

"Then two men jumped from the slayers' car and picked up the pair lying near the curb. They drove away rapidly. "As Duffy was running across the sidewalk, I heard two more shots. It was then he pitched his body on to the prairie. There Patrolman Alex Inglis and I found him." The bodies of McSwiggin and Doherty were found later in a field.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

Ovis Poll

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, The American Nature Association
Ovis Poll, a rather rare and a great mystery, Marco Polo, the thirteenth century globe trotter, first told the world about this giant sheep of the Turkistan Mountains that Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt brought back recently, but it was not until 1840 that the animal was definitely described and named after its discoverer. Hunters sought out the haunts of the old traveler's find and many specimens were brought back for study.

In the National Museum in Washington there is an example standing nearly four feet high at the shoulder. Its great horns measure 16 inches in circumference at the base, are nearly five feet long along the curve and nearly four feet from tip to tip.

The general color of the upper parts of the adult male in summer is light-speckled brown; most of all of the face, throat, chest, under parts and legs are white. A black line runs from the nape of the neck to the withers. In winter the hair would be considerably longer and form a well-marked white ruff on the throat and chest. Viewed from the side the horns make a complete circle and a quarter.

These giant sheep live among the highest mountains and like all wild sheep are keen of sight. They are not found alone among the rocky crags, but principally on the high, rolling plateaus, where they feed up to the snow line.

Despite their life at high altitudes they are affected by the rarefied air and when running at full speed open their mouths as though in want of breath.

This condition may in part be accounted for by the great weight of the horns, which causes the animal to carry its head quite erect and give it a peculiar stiff shoulder movement when running. To ease itself of its enormous burden and to rest its muscles of its neck, Ovis Poll, when lying down, frequently rests its horns on the ground. At such times the under parts of the neck and jaw do not touch the ground by several inches.

ROCKEFELLER CANCELS HIS OFFER TO EGYPT

Cairo, April 28.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has cabled King Fuad, withdrawing his offer of a gift of ten million dollars for the erection of a museum in Cairo.

The Rockefeller offer has been attacked in Egyptian circles and there has been a dispute over the conditions of the proposed grant.

POST OFFICE PUTS BAN ON PONZI SYNDICATE

Washington, April 28.—The post office department today issued a fraud order against the Charpon Land Syndicate of Jacksonville, Florida. Charles Ponzi, financial wizard, recently sentenced to jail for his Florida land operations, organized the syndicate.

The department charged that Ponzi sent circulars through the mails advertising a $7,290 yearly return on a $10 investment in "units of indebtedness."

VARICOSE VEINS REDUCED OR MONEY BACK, SAYS LOCAL DRUGGIST

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications cause the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. North End Pharmacy, South Manchester agents Magnell Drug Co., sell lots of it.—Adv.

STATE COPS PROBE LOCAL AUTO CRASH

Investigating Report That Peterson Was Not Driving Car in Rockville Accident.

The State Police at the Stafford Springs barracks today confirmed a report that they are conducting a further investigation into the case of Carl H. Peterson, 19-year-old local youth, who was freed in the Rockville Police Court by Judge E. Flak for blame in the automobile accident in which a Ford touring car said to be operated by Peterson, crashed into another local automobile driven by Michael Mooney, of Oak street. The State Police would give out no information excepting the verification but hinted that further court action might ensue.

Started by Rumor.
The cause of the further investigation into the accident grew out of a report that Peterson was not driving the automobile at the time of the accident but that Carl Peterson, his companion, was operating the machine.

It is known that the automobile belongs to Mrs. Elsie Carlson, wife of the man who was riding with Peterson at the time of the crash. It is also known that Carlson has driven the car considerably.

Police Not Satisfied.
When the case came up for a hearing in the Rockville court, Peterson was charged with driving under the influence of liquor and falling to give half of the road to a passing motorist. Peterson told the police who investigated the accident that he was driving the auto. As a result of insufficient evidence being produced by the state, Peterson had the first charge nolle and was found not guilty on the second count. The Rockville police were not satisfied that Peterson was driving the car, however, and turned the case over to the State Police for further investigation.

Serious Charges.
If the State Police can produce sufficient evidence to show that Carlson was driving the car and not Peterson, the youths may face serious charges in court. Under these circumstances Peterson would be charged with perjury according to the State Police, and Carlson with driving under the influence of liquor and falling to give a passing motorist half of the road. The reason advanced for the alleged change in drivers is that Carlson, who has a court record, would have been liable to face a stiff sentence if convicted.

It is understood that at the time of the crash that Peterson told the passengers in the other car that he was not driving. On this hangs the outcome of the case, if the State Police bring about another trial.

LICENSES SUSPENDED IN SIXTEEN CASES

Men Who Have Been Convicted of Driving Under Influence of Liquor.

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce the highway menace. There are sixteen names on the list. The case of one was appealed. The department statement advised people to notify the department or police in case they should see any of the following persons operating motor vehicles. The following is the list:

- Louis W. Bancroft, Warehouse Point.
- Jos. F. Caulfield, Waterbury.
- Richard Connors, Hartford.
- Carroll J. Cooke, Meriden.
- Joseph Farrar, So. Willington.
- John Fitzpatrick, Bridgeport.
- John H. Fretts, Bantam.
- Earl G. Gilbert, Hartford.
- Peter Glings, East Windsor.
- Clayton Hall, New Haven.
- Lewis A. Humphrey, Bridgeport.
- George J. Kuhlke, Bridgeport.
- Tony Mokulis, Ellington.
- Michael P. O'Connor, Hartford.
- James Panclera, Westerly, R. I.
- Fritz Slankler, Portland.

FLAG DRILL TO OPEN SPRING DANCE EXHIBIT

Members of Women's Class to Do Intricate Formation Number—Tickets on Sale Now.

The opening number of the spring gym exhibition to be given at the East Side Recreation Center on Friday evening at 8 o'clock will be the Flag Drill. This is a difficult drill performed with small flags in intricate formation. The effect is an intricate maze of flying banners and will be especially well viewed from the balcony seats. This drill will be given by members of the women's gym classes. They are as follows: Flora Nelson, Helen Gleason, Mrs. O. Mallon, Bridget Trevor, Mrs. L. Sipe, Mrs. W. Vennart, Dagmar Hyer, Mrs. R. Barrett, Rose Woodhouse, Pauline Beebe, Mrs. M. Metter, Mrs. William Robinson, Eva Armstrong, Mrs. H. Bidwell, Mrs. B. Kraetschmar, Mrs. F. Farr and Mrs. E. Spanknebel.

One of the best numbers on the winter exhibition program was the dance given by the children's rhythmic class. At this exhibition the children are again to appear. They will give two simple folk dances which will demonstrate several rhythmic steps. These children are between the ages of four and eight. Those who will dance are as follows: Sally Osgby, Betty Woodruff, Barbara Lundberg, Marion Montie, Pearl Prentice, Priscilla Pillsbury, Mildred Beebe, Alice Preston, Jane Bantly, Alice Bennett, Valerie Miller, Bernice Beebe, Sally Scott and Lois Catherine Shelton.

Other numbers on the program include the May Pole Dance, Highland Fling, Irish Jig, a Japanese Fan Dance, and several classical dances. The closing number will be a volley ball game staged by the Town Team, captained by George Gibbons, vs. the Norwich Y. M. C. A. team.

Those who attended the winter exhibition know by experience that it is best to secure tickets in advance. Others are urged to follow their example.

LONERGAN HEADS COMMISSION

Hartford, April 28.—The State Chamber is sending to its entire membership the following letter:

Ex-Governor Templeton appointed as members of the "Commission on the Jefferson Memorial Foundation" William E. Loneragan of Hartford, William E. Thoms of Waterbury and Roland U. Tyler of Hadam, to represent Connecticut in a national movement to raise funds to purchase Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, for a national memorial and patriotic shrine.

Mr. Loneragan, who is chairman for Connecticut, recently placed this matter before the State Chamber.

The Board of Directors of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, on April 25 at New Haven, passed the following expression of sentiment regarding the plan to purchase Thomas Jefferson's home, and instructed the acting secretary to send this vote to the members of the Chamber and to release it to the press.

VOTED: That the directors of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce approve the movement to make a national historical shrine of Monticello, Thomas Jefferson's home, since it is one of the great historical characters closely associated with the formation of our government and the origin of our republic, having been our third president. We believe that this movement is worthy of the recognition of individuals and organizations in general and that it merits dissemination among our school children from a patriotic and historical standpoint.

Sciatic Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint, is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pain which shoots down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The disease is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain.

The quickest, safest and surest way to get rid of the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenru Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and notice how in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced, if not entirely banished, all pain and soreness. Continue until the Neuritis has entirely disappeared and you are able to work and rest in comfort once again. North End Pharmacy, So. Manchester agents Magnell Drug Co., keep Allenru Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sell lots of it.—Adv.

GIRL ATTORNEY SAVES HONOR OF FATHER

Betty Compton Plays Star Role in "Counsel for the Defense" at Circle Tomorrow.

A few years ago a woman pleading the case of her client before the bar of justice aroused no little excitement, warranting even much comment in the local newspapers. But in "Counsel for the Defense" which opens at the Circle theater tomorrow for a run of two days, the versatile film star Betty Compton interprets the role of an entirely new type of female barrister.

The star appears as a young woman just out of college who is confronted by one of life's most tragic situations just a few days after she has received her diploma. Her father, an esteemed resident of a small town, is being victimized by political rogues who would rob him of his inheritance. The daughter is confronted with the problem of not only saving him from financial ruin but preventing his reputation from being ruthlessly shattered. She is not an experienced attorney and yet she must defend her father on hard legal technicalities because of the cunningness of the scoundrels and their success in intimidating every lawyer in town against accepting a retainer from the old man.

She tackles her job undaunted by these odds however and defies the crooks and their schemes to thwart her until she finally runs them into a corner and exposes the whole nefarious plot.

It may readily be seen from the little so far told about the story that Betty Compton has one of the most gripping and compelling roles of her long and brilliant career as a screen star.

Others in the cast besides Miss Compton are House Peters, Jay Hunt and Rocklife Fellows. The story is from Leroy Scott's novel.

The co-feature for tomorrow and Friday will be Lefty Flynn in "Sir Lumber Jack" Today you will have a chance to see the last showing of Tom Mix in "The Best Bad Man" and Patsy Ruth Miller in "Why Girls Go Back Home."

Special Sale—Women's one or two-strap pumps—greys, tans and patent leather. $3.95-$33.95. W. H. Gardner, Park Bldg.—Adv.

BIG VAUDEVILLE BILL AT STATE TOMORROW

Five Feature Acts and Famous Geo. M. Cohan Comedy "The Song and Dance Man"; Country Store Tonight.

Tomorrow brings to the State the regular week-end vaudeville bill. The selection of acts for this week is unusually good and State theatre patrons should be pleased with the show. There are several of the acts worthy of being termed headliners.

Diris DeLane and Company present an act called "Tunes and Steps." They are a clever song and dance team. Then Mattie Lippard and Company appear in a gorgeous cycle of songs. Their act is worth seeing alone. Another breezy musical skit is presented by Hunting and France. A clever comedy act is that of Rogers and Donald entitled "The Italian Count." A sensational variety act is presented by the Three Blanks.

The feature picture is one of the best that has ever been shown here. It is George M. Cohan's play "The Song and Dance Man." Tom Moore plays the role originated by George M. Cohan and a better take off of the Yankee Doodle Dandy has never been done. Bessie Love plays the part of the musical comedy queen, and she does that Charleston like you've never seen it done. Anyone who has seen George M. Cohan or has seen any of his productions knows that this picture must be good.

Tonight the State presents another of its popular Country Store nights. There will be plenty of groceries for the lucky ticket holder.

HURLBURT LAMPRECHT.

Miss Henrietta Charlotte Lamprecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lamprecht of 34 Village street and Frederick C. Hurlburt of Burnside, were married at three o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. O. Weber, pastor of the Lutheran Concordia church.

The attendants were Mrs. Olga Walker, sister of the bride and Reinhold Lamprecht, her brother. As the bridal party entered the living room the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by the bride's sister, Miss Adelaide Lamprecht.

The bride was attired in a gown of white georgette over white satin. Her veil of tulle fell from a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's dress was of white canton crepe with hat to match and she carried Madame Butterfly roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for close friends and relatives was held, the home being tastefully decorated.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold wrist watch and to his best man he gave a set of cuff links and the clasp.

The bride's gift to the groom was cuff links and the clasp and to her bridesmaid a ring with ruby birthstone.

On their return from a wedding trip to New York and nearby places of interest, Mr. and Mrs. Hurlburt will live in their newly furnished home at 87 Larrabee street, Burnside.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23, 1926.

MACHINE GUNS.

The machine gun, mounted on an automobile seat, has just come into general use among the elite of banditry in Chicago. And one of its first victims is an assistant state attorney. He was riddled with bullets along with two of the most distinguished bootlegging crooks of the Windy city, with whom he was in converse in front of a saloon in that classic suburb Cicero—which settlement is to the rum industry what Cripple Creek was to the mining activities of the eighties.

The thing seems incredible. It is beyond the understanding of people who developed their sense of proportion in an era when everybody was honest and orderly except an almost insignificant minority that went about its crime in fear and trembling and by stealth. What the country does not yet realize is that not only has there grown up in America an important desperate element, swollen in its confidence by the realization of its numerical strength and fortified with fortunes gained in one way or other through the liquor traffic, but, what is worse, a very large class of indifferent persons who, while not bootleggers, hijackers or bandits themselves, are utterly out of sympathy with law as an abstract factor of civilization.

We have, in fact, established informal civil war as a component of our state of being. We have, in six years, descended from the position of a first class country with a first class government extending all the way from the national capital to the smallest village, to the state of Mexico in the days of Pancho Villa.

True, the machine gun as a concomitant of every day life has not yet extended beyond the suburban limits of Chicago. But does anybody doubt that, if things follow their present trend another two years, we shall see forays commonly made upon our banks, perhaps upon a sub-treasury of the United States, by not one machine gun but a dozen or fifty, with gas bombs and who knows but a howitzer as part of the game?

Banditry in America is taking on the form of war—one sided war. Possibly, before an actual majority of the people are arrayed on the bandits' side, we shall do something about it.

BUCK PASSING.

The youth who stole a nine-year-old girl in Brooklyn and started the machinery of an extortion operation against her parents, but who got cold feet almost at once and abandoned the enterprise of his own accord, tells the police that he "got his idea from the movies." That's right; soak the movies! Make the people's most popular form of entertainment the goat for every youthful crime.

Before there were any movies at all there was the dime novel—which sold, by the way, largely for a nickel. And boys who went a-pirating and a-burgling of corner grocery stores always put their offenses up to Beadle or Nick Carter.

Before there was any dime novels there were bottle nosed old liars who got groups of boys about them and bragged of their wicked exploits. And when those boys got into jail for hen-roosting they snivled and said they would have been good boys if it hadn't been for old Billy Ananias.

But where did old Bottle Nose get his ideas from and where did Nick Carter and Beadle plots originate and how come the movies to think of kidnapping and burglary, anyhow? Did any of these factors really have anything to do with the origin of sin and crime? Or were there sin and crime to start with and these agencies merely reflectors, in a way, of matters that had gone on for a long time? If the crime came before the reconstructor or the novel or the movie, who or what put the earlier criminals hep to evil?

There was a little tot of a girl who, on being told about the Devil and his quite abandoned and hopeless character, flatly refused to accept the picture as drawn. "I don't believe," she said, "he could ever have been half as bad as that if somebody hadn't put him up to it."

We might as well save ourselves a good bit of circumlocution and chasing around Robin Hood's barn by applying the doctrine of original sin to any body who will kidnap a child to get money to spend on a "gold digger" flapper as to hunt around for somebody else to hang it on.

LEPERS.

There is wild excitement in Massachusetts over the fact that a woman afflicted with leprosy has been living in Ludlow and that, instead of submitting to isolation at the colony for lepers maintained by the federal government in Louisiana, she has skipped away, leprosy and all, to New York. The reason for all the fuss being that, in the Bay State imagination, the leper has exposed goodness knows how many persons to infection, and is still doing so in some unknown quarter of the metropolis.

All of which is without the slightest regard to the fact that modern science has established that if there is any danger of the transmission of leprosy by casual contact it is extremely remote. In fact there are many physicians who claim that leprosy is not communicable at all, but has become more or less epidemic at historic periods and in certain parts of the world solely because so many people lived in similar conditions exactly calculated to set up the disease. Moreover leprosy is no longer regarded as incurable and every year many lepers are discharged from the colony at Molokai, quite well.

A leper at large is not nearly as dangerous as a person with a grip cough in a street car, either to himself or to the community. Yet because of an ancient and entirely erroneous assumption you can start a panic quicker with a leper than you could with a hydrophobic dog.

And it will probably take two or three hundred years for the myth of the leprosy peril to die out.

WHOLE-HOG.

By all means let us have the laws proposed by the prohibition administration—all five of them. The advocates of modification in the House acted wisely yesterday in voting for the measure revising the machinery of enforcement by legalizing the reorganization of the dry unit by General Andrews and creating both prohibition and customs bureaus in the Treasury department. It is to be hoped that the Senate wets will pursue the same course. This, as everybody knows, is a notoriously dusty Congress and it is not only fair to let the dregs go as far as they like without useless obstructive delay, but it is necessary to the cause of real reform in the liquor situation.

This is no time for wet members of Congress to show off. What should be done and must be done is to fill the hand of the prohibition forces so that they can play it to the limit. Volsteadism must be given no chance for an alibi. If it is necessary to attach a ten-year penalty to the sale of a drink in order to prove the futility and hopelessness of the ghastly blunder, and if the dregs have the temerity to ask for such law, then it is the business of the opposition to go along with the temporary majority in providing it.

During the next two years Volstead-type prohibition is going to get its last inning. When, in 1928, the whole enormous question is submitted to the people it must be in such shape that the dregs cannot protest that they were hampered in the administration of the laws by an antagonistic congress. Let's shoot the works.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND.

Somebody, with a sharp eye out to the beauties of that creature Opportunity, eased it into the consciousness of the War Department that Governor's island, New York harbor, being of no strategic worth in these modern times, might be sold as surplus military property, turning a neat sum into the treasury. Nothing, in all probability, was said about the very much greater sum that "the boys" would garner by the exploitation and resale of the property later, but it is easy to imagine the mouth waterings with which that deal may have been considered in reality circles.

Not that anything crooked was contemplated—by no means. Just a first class chance for a whale of a clean-up, with the government picking up eighteen or twenty millions of velvet, and the boys probably as much more. The sort of a transaction to fatten purses and comfort souls all around.

And now drops the inevitable bombshell with which such dreams are almost always hoist. There is a measly little joker in the proposition—but there more than a century ago by some cautious old kill-joy. After the War Department had taken the proposition under consideration and wagged its head wisely over it for quite some little time, along comes the state of New York, grinning, and says, "Take a look at your deed."

So it comes out, very much to the surprise of the Department and the boys, that the federal government couldn't sell Governor's island any more than it could sell the moon. There it is, all in black and white, signed, sealed and delivered, that if the United States ever gives up the use of the island for military purposes it shall revert to the State of New York.

So that's that—and the boys are not going to clean up by re-selling Governor's island, wither for warehouses or residences.

IN NEW YORK

New York, April 23—See-sawing up and down Manhattan Isle, I came upon Arthur Hammerstein who once turned little plays into great productions, but who now findeth it far more fun to turn little buds into giant dahlias down on his Long Island estate. Thus appeareth, in due time, the call of the soil. Was there not the great Henry W. Savage, whose name flashed across a nation's billboards, who now seemeth content to raise the squirt-time grapefruit in Florida? ...

Which remindeth me that this Hammerstein is most sad about the theater, giving heed that theaters of the drama are tawdry even in appearance, whereas the new movie houses blossom as the peacock. ...

Not many years hence, he rumbles, drama producers will be opening cabs for movie houses, or something like that. "The brains of the dramatic world are centered upon the films," he crieth. Ah, well, I shall be getting gray hair when this cometh about, so what matters it. ...

Heigh, ho, already the boys forget the size of the winter coal bills. Two hundred couples per day seek marriage licenses, thus fracturing Manhattan's love records. ...

Even the lonely penguin at the Aquarium hath taken to himself, I note, and yet seemeth not as happy as he might be. ...

Wherever one traveleth one seeth the fair Peggy Joyce these days. Night clubs, first nights at theaters and sundry places. And always in glittering array. ...

Saw Richard Dix, beloved of so many film-going maids that I am oft tempted to cease this sorry trade and take me to the film. A something over which the casting director might have some jurisdiction. And this Dix was wearing a bandage about his hand. And upon my inquiry did sit me down and spin a strange tale of how he had been working in a picture in which were working many pugilists, not the least of which was Richard Dix. And of how a great fight scene was called for and he was pitted against a four-rounder, and did so forget himself as to let go a wallop that fractured a most valuable finger. I trust, for the sake of art, that all this be true. For who, in all the great parade of film prize fights e'er heard of an unmy-dollar-a-minute star tolerating any real damage? ...

Derby hats, they tell me on Fifth Avenue, are extremely nix. In other words "not being done this season," which pleaseth my heart since they never became my particular style of beauty. On the other hand Panama hats will be turned down in raking manner, which also pleaseth my heart since my various ancient Panamas no longer will stay in any other shape. GILBERT SWAN.

While the boll weevil has held cotton production in the United States almost at a level of tea years, Peru has nearly doubled its cotton crop.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

By CHARLES F. STEWART.

Washington, April 23.—American Congresses of Journalists, like the one Washington has just been having, are good things. All kinds of Pan-American blow-outs which induce representative North and Latin Americans to visit back and forth are good things.

China is a good deal better understood in this country than most of Latin America. This isn't to say that China, either, is at all well understood here. Latin America understands the United States a little better than the United States understands Latin America, but not much.

Of course this is highly undesirable. It means international bungling, which makes bad work. The reason Latin Americans know more about us than we know about them is that a good many of them, or the upper class, have visited here a time or two—generally not for long enough to find much out, but at least they have some sort of an idea of the way we look.

There's also quite a sprinkling of Latin American students in North American universities, and these really come to a pretty fair understanding of us. But, precious few North Americans get farther into Latin America than Havana, Panama and Mexico, and we send no students to the southern republics at all. As for North Americans who know Mexico, they're the worst off of the bunch, for they imagine that the people farther down the line are like Mexicans, which they're not a bit.

Mexicans are largely Indians. Among, for instance, the Argentines, who are pure white in far larger proportion than the total population of the United States, they're regarded as mainly ignorant savages.

The North American habit of lumping them off in the same class is hotly resented, too. As a matter of fact, the east coast republics are predominantly European, with a pretty strong African infusion from about Rio de Janeiro on up north.

Here's another mistake we make: We know, more or less, how to get along with Europeans. Plenty of them come to see us and plenty of us go to see them.

If we'd put on our European manners with South Americans they'd fit, for a vast majority of South Americans are from Europe more recently than we are, culturally and by sympathy, they're Europeans yet.

To figure that a Latin American requires a special treatment or that we can treat him like one of ourselves is to take him all wrong. Then again, Latin America, outside Brazil, is basically Spanish. Having won it, we've nearly forgotten that we had a war with Spain, but the Spanish haven't not even the Spanish of the new world. We need to be extra polite. Furthermore, if we had to, we know we could lick all Latin America put together. For us to know it is okeh. We don't care. Unfortunately Latin America knows it, too, and on Latin America's part it is not extra polite.

To company, such as the delegates to the Pan-American Congress of Journalists, of course we are extra polite, and they go home and report that we're nice folks. Now it's our turn to go down and show that we can be nice as visitors, too.

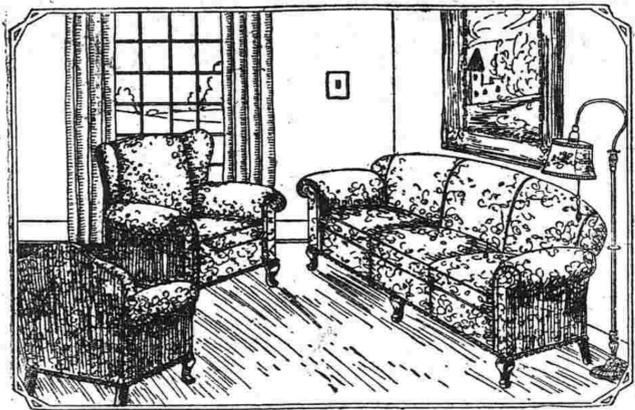

Men's hearts ought not to be set against one another, but set with one another, and all against the evil thing only.—Carlyle.

In the United States there are about 3,000,000 persons ill all the time, and doctors say 42 per cent of this illness is preventable.

DAILY POEM

HIKING

A bit of real hiking is much to my liking. It does one a whole lot of good. Right out in the air, where the spirit is rare. If you haven't tried it, you should. Just put on old clothes. Go wh—each hiker goes and drink in of nature's rare scene. Get mud on your shoes, 'cause there's nothing to lose. It's fun—if you know what I mean. Go plodding along on the hill of a song and imagine you're feeling just great. Of course, if you're aching, while lengthy walks take—just call it the working of fate. Such a stroll, after all, if you answer the call, is whatever good fun you can make it. But, if offered a life in a car, as a gift, just use your good judgment—and take it.

Today is feast day of St. Paul of the Cross, whose 81 years of life were modeled on the Passion of Christ. Maryland, the seventh state, ratified the United States Constitution April 28, 1788. James Monroe was born in Westmoreland county, Virginia, April 28, 1758.

Advertisement for a piano. It features an illustration of a piano and the text: '#495 Made for your home. Yours is a cozy cottage, tucked away somewhere in a bit of old fashioned garden. You have always wanted a piano — a grand — but you couldn't find one that would fit into your living room without crowding the other furniture. But now there is such a piano. It was made for your home! It takes up very little more room than an upright, yet it gives that aristocratic atmosphere to your home that only a grand can impart. Best of all it costs no more than a good upright—on easy terms, too! $495 WATKINS BROTHERS'.

The Famous Model "C" Glenwood

"The kind your mother used to bake with"

Glenwood ranges have made cooking easy for two generations of housewives who have made New England baking famous.

"It's a Glenwood" that's all the guarantee you need

THE one word "Glenwood" on the oven door of any range you may buy is a guarantee in itself. You don't need any further assurance of its worth. One of the oldest range manufacturers in New England stands back of that name to see that the range gives you the kind of service you have the right to expect. You can take that for granted, always.

The "C" model coal range shown here is just the right size for the average family. Its big, square oven bakes food exactly right—top, bottom and all through. It has six covers in the cooking top and is finished in either black and nickel or in pearl gray porcelain enamel that you can wipe clean in a jiffy with a damp cloth. Come in and see our new Glenwoods.

IVANHOE—Sir Walter Scott's Classic in Pictorial Form

THE STORY THUS FAR—The scene is laid in the England of King Richard I, when the Saxons were still smarting under the Norman yoke. Gurth, a swineherd, and Wamba, a yester, are accosted by a cavalcade of knights seeking the castle of Cedric, the Saxon. Cedric directs his daughter, Rowena, not to meet the strangers, and makes evident to them his displeasure at having to entertain them. He calls for Gurth and Wamba.

PEAKING TO HIS SERVANTS, CEDRIC SAID, 'WHAT HO! HOW COMES IT YOU ARE LATE. GURTH, HASTY THOU LEFT THY HERD TO MARSHAL?' THE SWINEHERD ANSWERED, 'I AM ANSWERED GURTH, WAMBA EXPLAINED THAT THE FAULT OF THEIR TARDINESS WAS NOT THEIRS.'

TO THY PLACES, KNAVE! GURTH, GET THE DOG AND LET THIS NOT HAPPEN AGAIN! THEN TURNING TO HIS GUESTS—'I CRAVE YOUR PARDON, YOU HOMELY FARE IS BEFORE YOU; FEED AND LET WELCOME MAKE AMENDS FOR HARD FARE.'

HE SAVORY REFEAST WAS ABOUT TO START WHEN HE SUDDENLY THE MAJORDOMO CRIED, 'FORBEAR! NOW REACHING ITS HEIGHTS. REMONSTRANCE, BRIAN THE TEMPLAR KEPT HIS DARK EYES RIVETED ON THE BLOND SAXON BEAUTY.'

ALL STOOD UP. THE TEMPLAR WHISPERED TO THE MAJORDOMO, BUT THE PRIOR WARNED HIM, 'CHECK THY REMONSTRANCE, CEDRIC OBSERVES YOU.' UNHEEDING THIS REMONSTRANCE, BRIAN THE TEMPLAR KEPT HIS DARK EYES RIVETED ON THE BLOND SAXON BEAUTY. (By the Continuator)

RICKARD HOLDS THE JOKER IN TILT WITH FIGHT BOARD

Walsh Thinks that Promoter Has Something Up His Sleeve in Dempsey Match.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, April 23.—This man's town was busy today seeking the joker, as all Broadway knows. Tex Rickard must hold in order to have filled his hand on the Dempsey-Wills-Tunney situation. The draw has been made and the show down will come within a matter of days when Rickard either must voluntarily go before the State Athletic Commission and lay his cards on the table or be summoned arbitrarily for much the same purpose.

That Rickard has filled his hand and is not in the slightest danger of being caught out on a limb, no one doubts for an instant. An old gambler, he knows he has gone too far to escape being called and yet he persists in going further.

Garen at Stake
With his new garden and all his New York interests at stake, he is betting everything on his ability to force a Dempsey-Tunney meeting against official opposition here and the man who will do that must be pretty well convinced that he cannot go wrong.

Rickard knows something that is not known by the State Athletic Commission, the writer or anyone with the possible exception of a favored few. This "something" furnished the exact location of the joker in the deck and whatever it is, it takes the teeth out of the commission's threat to "dispose" the promoter if he does what he probably has done already—match Dempsey and Tunney.

Back in Town
Rickard arrived in town late yesterday with Dempsey's contact made a noise like a rubber heel and disappeared. When cornered, he had little to say that was pertinent and nothing that was new.

He contrived to gain several days of grace by hiding out while the commission was in session and, later, let it be known that he did not plan to go before the board until he had made a definite settlement of Dempsey's opponent.

This was just so much sweet sprits of appeasement. If the commission tells Rickard to come down at 11:50 P. M. tomorrow, Rickard must play ball with the board.

While the guessing was at its height today, it was reported that Rickard's negotiations with Dempsey and Tunney were just a smoke screen, behind which he planned to put over the Wills match.

FISTIC CHAMPS TAKE NO RISKS

Titleholders Just Business Men These Days—Not Eager to Defend Crowns.

Los Angeles, April 23.—Are swivel chairs and pencils to replace padded mitts and punching bags in present day ring circles?

Business men, not fighters—such are the boxing champions of today. This holds true in practically every recognized division of mittmen.

Despite threats of the New York boxing commission and an occasional decree issued by the California commission, our modern champs are content to sit back and let their titles work for them—instead of working for their titles.

Starting at the top of the heap, there is Jack Dempsey—a farce as a rule of the heavyweights. The plea that there are no heavies who could give him a real fight is offered in his defense. This may be true but Dempsey has been adverse to proving it. Since his fight with "Doc" McCoy, the champion has sidestepped every effort made to get him in the ring against a title-contender.

(He's reported to have signed to meet Gene Tunney this summer.) Dempsey claims he will fight any time a promoter is willing to pay the money on the line. But oh, what a price he asks—$750,000! Try to imagine Jim Jeffries, Jas. J. Corbett or John L. Sullivan remaining idle for such a length of time.

Tiger Fighters
The light heavy "eight is short of championship contenders. Berlenbach won his title from Mike McFigue last year. He might be classed as a fighting champion, as champions go these days, having defended his crown twice.

With Berlenbach and Flowers disposed of, it would require quite an optimist to name any others as "fighting" champions. Mickey Walker once came under that heading. But since going under the management of Jack Kearns, the welterweight king is descending in to the non-active division.

Following his rise to the throne, Walker fought 15 battles. Last year he fought eight times, but only once was his title at stake.

Rocky Kansas has not yet defended his lightweight crown, won from Jimmy Goodrich, who was one of the poorest excuses of a champion ever produced by the 135-pounders.

Light Morgan won the junior-light weight championship from Mike Ballerino in 1925, and he has not yet entered the ring in defense of it.

Babe Herman beat Kid Kaplan once and was robbed of the decision. And the featherweight ruler turns a deaf ear when a rematch is suggested.

Bud Taylor beat Charley "Phil" Rosenberg in 1923 and he would be a 2-to-1 favorite to repeat, but the bantamweight champ can't see that match.

Fidel La Barba won the flyweight crown from Frankie Genaro last August and it's the same old story all over again—he hasn't risked it to any extent.

All of these boxers know the financial value of being world champions. They can demand big purses without risking anything. So, they ask, why should he throw away our banquet tickets?

LEAGUE DEFIES LANDIS

New York, April 23.—Formal ratification of the American League's new constitution was to be made at a special meeting at the Hotel Belmont today, although reports were in circulation that the session had been called for the purpose of taking final and definite action on the resin ball issue. The league has defied Judge Landis by refusing to accept the use of resin for its pitchers.

LEADS BELOIT

PAUL NESBITT.

He's captain and star sprinter of the Beloit College track team. For two years he's been defeated but once, that being in his first start in the century event. Nesbitt is also a member of the half-mile relay quartet. This is his last season at Beloit.

Billy Evans Says

Plot Thickens.

The resin plot thickens. Four of the larger leagues, the American, International, Pacific Coast and American Association, have placed a ban on the resin bag. The rules state that all umpires must carry a resin bag and produce it upon request for the use of the pitchers.

The National League umpires, in experimenting with the resin bag in the south this spring, have merely placed it on the ground a short distance back of the pitcher's rubber.

It seems in one of the games a ground hit ball came in contact with the resin bag, deflecting its course and making it impossible for the fielder to handle the drive. A dispute resulted.

It caused the umpires to make a rule that the ball was in play if by accident it should come into contact with the bag.

Carrying the bag on one's person is not a very pleasant task, as the resin soils the uniform of the umpire. This no doubt explains why the National League umpires have merely placed it on the grass back of the pitching mound.

Johnny Morrison flashed a two-hit game on the Cubs and the Pirates won 2 to 0. Grover Alexander pitched good ball for the losers but was in a tough spot.

Brooklyn and Boston staged a see-saw contest and when the towel was lifted the Dodgers found themselves ahead by a score of 5 to 5. McDrew turned in his second victory of the season.

The teeth of Mr. Cornelius McGillocuddy threatened to crack under the strain of constant gnashing as the Yankees hammered Eddie Rommel for ten hits in five innings. The Yanks won, 8 to 2, Bob Shawkey allowing only five hits.

Walter Johnson pitched another clinic against the Red Sox, holding them to four hits while his mates pounded out a 9 to 1 victory. Bluege's homer with two on put the game on ice.

Cleveland kept pace with the Yankees, winning from the Browns in the tenth, 8 to 3. Benze, a rookie pitcher, helped win his own game with a double.

Such action would only tend to make trouble and help said pitcher dig his own grave.

Proper Use.
It seems that issue is being taken to the reference to the resin ball. The low down on the resin bag situation must be applied merely to the hands, not the ball.

While resin itself is not such a dangerous weapon, the admission of its use opens devious ways and means for the smart pitcher, so inclined, to cheat.

THE NUT CRACKER

By JOE WILLIAMS

Henry Ford has succumbed to boisterous headlines and is telling the world how it got that way and what to do about it.

The man who translated sardine cans into animated quivers with surplus rattles and full-grown jolts imagines he has something to say to the leaping population of this puncture-proof sphere.

"To be successful," whistles the gent who made pleasure cars a torture, "you must first be successful."

This is in direct and damaging contradiction to the simple formula of the great shell of the screen who started out in life as a gardener and is still a gardener.

Detroit's celebrated squeak and squawk man thinks the nation is headed for extra-size slabs of prosperity, and that economic conditions are simply beautiful.

Be that as it may, there is no place like home, which may explain why so few people want to stay there nowaights.

Mr. Ford sputters to general effect that workingman has fate of building up a fortune but in stifling throes impulsive to tell everybody how you did it.

One of greatest difficulties known to dissatisfied smokers is note in building up a fortune but in stifling throes impulsive to tell everybody how you did it.

Wealth comes to most people only after traveling a long, rocky road. It also came this way to the big honk and honk man of Michigan but he traveled by proxy.

Henry the Fliv proved he could take a joke. He took it to the U. S. mint and made pikers like Morgan and Rockefeller move to cheaper quarters.

DIAMOND DUST

The Giants took a strangle hold on first place by nosing out the Phillies, 9 to 8, overcoming a five-run lead and winning in the ninth on Kelly's single.

Johnny Morrison flashed a two-hit game on the Cubs and the Pirates won 2 to 0. Grover Alexander pitched good ball for the losers but was in a tough spot.

Brooklyn and Boston staged a see-saw contest and when the towel was lifted the Dodgers found themselves ahead by a score of 5 to 5. McDrew turned in his second victory of the season.

The teeth of Mr. Cornelius McGillocuddy threatened to crack under the strain of constant gnashing as the Yankees hammered Eddie Rommel for ten hits in five innings. The Yanks won, 8 to 2, Bob Shawkey allowing only five hits.

Walter Johnson pitched another clinic against the Red Sox, holding them to four hits while his mates pounded out a 9 to 1 victory. Bluege's homer with two on put the game on ice.

Cleveland kept pace with the Yankees, winning from the Browns in the tenth, 8 to 3. Benze, a rookie pitcher, helped win his own game with a double.

Such action would only tend to make trouble and help said pitcher dig his own grave.

Proper Use.
It seems that issue is being taken to the reference to the resin ball. The low down on the resin bag situation must be applied merely to the hands, not the ball.

While resin itself is not such a dangerous weapon, the admission of its use opens devious ways and means for the smart pitcher, so inclined, to cheat.

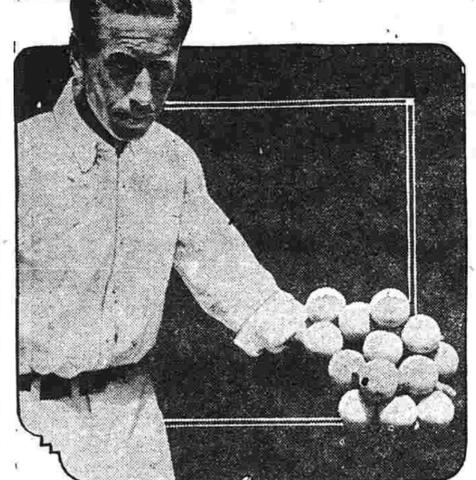

It is certainly that foreign substances other than resin will be employed this year in every league that permits the use of the resin bag. In other words, the resin bag will cover a multitude of sins that will be perpetrated on the ball field this summer.

Final Ruling.
The final ruling handed down in the resin problem is that the use of resin is optional with the pitcher rather than the league.

This would make it seem that the leagues who have already placed a ban on the practice have overstepped their rights.

DOESN'T USE GLUE, EITHER

George Agutter, Noted Net Pro, Carries 13 Balls in One Hand—Sans Trouble!

George Agutter, noted tennis professional, doesn't need a basket to carry extra balls around in—not when he's capable of holding 13 of them in one hand, as shown in the above picture. Tennis balls are fairly large and grasping 13 is quite a feat. If you don't think so, just try it some day. Agutter can serve a pretty speedy ball across the net while holding nine balls. There's another little stunt you may like to endeavor to emulate.

WORTH IN SPORT KNOWING

Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is one big league pilot who didn't have much experience as a major league player.

Hendricks, according to the records, played just two seasons in fast company. In 1902 he was with New York and Chicago in the National and in 1903 cavorted for Washington in the American.

He was in but nine games the first season and 32 the second, a total of but 42 tilts. He had a batting average of .211.

THE REFEREE

Did Joe Chip ever knock out Harry Greb? If so, when and in how many rounds?—F. G. J.

Chip kayoed Greb in 1918 in two rounds.

Was Dick Burros, Boston Braves' first baseman, ever with the Athletics?—G. H. J.

Yes, several years ago.

Is Ralph Hills, Princeton's famous shot-putter, still on the Tiger track squad?—G. H. K.

No, Hills has graduated.

How many times did Louis "Kid" Kaplan and Babe Herman meet last year?—J. W.

Twice, the first ending in a draw and the second going to Kaplan on points.

THIRTY-SIX MEN STRUCK OUT BY TWO MOUNDMEN

Thirty-six batters breezed the cool Mt. Nebo air yesterday afternoon before the effective pitching of "Ruddy" Pospisil and Phillips in a game between the local State Trade School and Glastonbury High school. Manchester was an easy winner, the score being 6 to 1.

Manchester took the lead in the first inning when Manchuk worked Phillips for a free ticket to first, stole second and scored when Thurz, local clean-up batter, smashed a double to deep left field.

Glastonbury High's first turn at bat resulted in the first three batters being fanned by Pospisil. In the second frame, the mechanics collected three more runs on a combination of hits, passes and errors and in the sixth inning picked up two more tallies.

In the meanwhile, Glastonbury could do nothing against the assortment of curves served them by Pospisil. The local hurler in his debut for the Trade School, struck out no less than twenty batters and made two of the four hits registered by his team. Phillips fanned sixteen hitters and also made two of the four hits which his team collected. The summary:

THESE WOMEN

©1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

The names and situations in this story are fictitious. WOMEN love trouble. If they haven't any, they go out and make some for themselves.

Morton laughed, as he reached across the table for a match. "Don't you—all of you!" he insisted. The girl gazed at him somberly. For a long while she made no reply, but studied his face as he blew careless smoke wreaths from his cigarette.

She was weeping now, her crimsoned lips twitching.

"You and your women!" she said, suddenly. Her jeweled fingers clung together, hither and thither, her knuckles showed white. "Your women—that's the only trouble. I didn't make that trouble. You made it!"

Morton laughed again. "What's the matter with my women?" he inquired. "Aren't you one of them?" After a moment he added: "Maybe you're the only one."

Her black eyes narrowed, and her lips drew back over her white teeth. "That isn't so! I'm not! I don't mean anything to you at all!" She took the tall glass that stood before her, and drained it. Then she turned her bare shoulder to him and stared at the dancers in the center of the room.

It was one o'clock in the morning, and activities at the night club were in full swing. The room was small—surprisingly small to yield the immense profit that was said to flow to its proprietor. Two dozen tables, at the most, were crowded about the tiny dance floor.

Nearly all the tables were filled, with men and girls in evening dress. A languid couple or two danced to the music of a moaning orchestra. The folk at the tables, equally as languid, watched them, picking at the scanty food that lay on their plates, and drinking. Now and then a waiter, bowing over one of the tables, would slip a pint bottle of whiskey, wrapped in a napkin, into the lap of a guest.

In one corner, a young man was asleep, his head on his arm. The girl who sat with him held her arm protectively over his shoulder. Next to her sat a man with a pasty, dead white face, who automatically took glass after glass of raw liquor. His eyes were glazed; fishy. He stared straight before him, never moving except to fill his glass, lift it, drain it, and fill it again. There was a woman with him, who talked, but he did not look at her, nor answer.

Morton followed the gaze of his girl companion for a moment, and then turned to a survey of her. Her hair, black and straight and glistening, clung tightly to her small head. A single strand of pearls hung around her neck, moving on her full bosom as she breathed. Her arms were rounded and shapely, adorned only with a broad bracelet on one wrist. Her dress was of gold tissue.

"Pretty fair taste," he commented, half aloud. She turned toward him. "What?" "I was saying to myself," he said, "that you are dressed in pretty fair taste."

She shrugged her shoulders. "Thanks—it cost enough, this outfit." Possessing himself of one of her hands, he examined it. "Fingers slender; no trace of work; too many rings—but they all wear too many now. Two of the rings are good ones."

Her attention, though, had wandered. She looked about the room again, watching the dancers for a moment, and then inspecting the couples that sat near her. "What do people come here for?" she demanded abruptly. "Why not?"

"Oh," she said, "they all look so ghastly bored. And Lord, no wonder!" She smiled, bitterly. "There's no fun in being tough."

She held out her glass, and Morton filled it, from a silver flask. "Then why be tough?" he queried. "Because they're all blasted fools," she said. "I'm a fool. You're a fool. I don't know whether you're a fool or not."

She held her glass before her, inspecting it, and then looked at him as she had before, searchingly. "Do you realize," she continued, "that I've known you nearly a year, and I don't know any more about you than I did at first? I don't know whether you are married, or not. I don't know whether you care anything about me, or not. I don't know one single thing about you, really."

Morton smiled, and repossessed himself of her hand. "Poor little doubting Nona! Do you want me to tell you the story of my life?"

"No, I don't," her tone was curt. "I wouldn't believe it if you did tell me." She hesitated, and when she resumed, her voice was softer. "I guess what I really want to know is about Lois, and Camella, and—and—those girls. Harry, sweetheart, do you care about them? I mean, do you like them as well as you do me?"

Her eyes had filled with tears, and Morton patted her hand. "Listen, Nona," he assured her. "I never told one of those women

I cared anything about them." "You never told me, either," she retorted, rising and stepping to his side. "That's your line! I know it! You just sit and laugh, while a girl breaks her heart about you!"

She was weeping now, her crimsoned lips twitching, and her chin quivering in little convulsive movements on his shoulder. Morton rubbed his cheek, reflectively, and turned.

"Come on," he directed. "We're not having a very good time. Let's go."

He handed a $50 bill to the waiter without pausing to examine the charges on the card, and led the girl to the dimly lighted reception hall. She held her handkerchief to her eyes, but the crowd paid no attention. It was used to crying girls.

"Go in and powder your nose," he told her. "I'll wait." Obediently she disappeared into the women's dressing room. A check boy, obviously young but singularly old-looking with his knowing eyes and hollowed cheeks and temples, brought Morton's overcoat. He took without a word, the dollar he received as reward. Then, with Morton's silk hat and slender walking-stick, he stood at attention until Nona came. Upon her, the boy bestowed a wink. She accepted it as a matter of course.

"Hello, Fatsy," she said. The traces of her tears were gone. "Be good, girlie," he responded, handing Morton the hat and cane. The man took her elbow. "We should have had the boy at supper with us, perhaps," he commented as they entered the elevator. "Social soul, isn't he?"

"Oh, I know him," she said. "He used to be call-boy at the old Casino."

"Quit the theater to get rich, eh?" Nona laughed, a little grimly. "Nobody gets rich around these bootlegging places except the proprietor. You don't suppose Fatsy gets those tips, do you? They don't let him have any pockets in his coat and pants. All tips go to the house—except the waiters'. But Fatsy gets fifty dollars a week. They can't afford to have him sore, and trotting to the district attorney."

A long, enclosed motor car was waiting in the dark street, and as Morton and Nona appeared the chauffeur disengaged his machine from the line of night-hawk taxis, and drew up to the curb.

"We'll take Nona home," said Morton. The chauffeur nodded, closed the door, leaped into his seat and threw in the gear. (To Be Continued) (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

Time was when our story tellers, singers and poets sang of this thing love that "to the woman all of life is, to the man but passing incident." Now comes Judge Walter S. Gates declaring that men take the marriage vow seriously, women but lightly. "Girls marry for an adventure or for meal tickets. Men marry for home and take obligations to home seriously." I don't believe one word of it. It's six of one, half dozen 'o'other.

Feetrest Speaks. Being on the subject of love and matrimony, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, wife of the poet Robert Browning, and one of the world's few women who possessed both the joy of self-expression through her pen and a marvellously happy married life, wrote "A Woman's Question": "You require a cook for your mutton and beef; I require a far better thing; A seamstress you're wanting for your stockings and shirts— I look for a man and a king."

Paulin Says. Did you ever hear tell of "A Rest Day for Faces"? Neither did I, albeit I know all about fish week, ham week, prune day, rutabaga week, and tutti-frutti Sundays. Pauline Starke says—"One day a week the face should be free, unhampered by any make-up. I set aside one day a week in which to rest the face. Arising, I wash my face in warm water and a pure soap. I rinse the soap with warm water and apply cold water. No rouge, no lipstick, no powder, no cream, all day long."

Wear on "Face Rest Day." Most maids and matrons must wear special toggery on "Face Rest Day," or the populace will be unable to stand the shock of the assault to their aesthetic senses. If she would look extra smart she might wear an ensemble costume of short skirt and three-quarter coat of different but harmonizing colors and material. Thus, black crepe skirt and beige kasha coat or beige skirt and navy coat.

Homely Wives. Men married to homely women are much happier than men married to beautiful girls, thinks a movie actor who might get unduly puffed up if I mentioned him by name. He explains—"A beautiful woman thinks that she can rest upon her laurels, but a homely one must be cheerful and have a ready wit to get by at all. The beautiful woman thinks that she does not need to learn to cook and sew and run a house."

CYNTHIA GREY SAYS: How wonderful it must be to be the wife of a genius. I heard an effusive woman say to the wife of one of America's foremost novelists. "Just think—to live so close to masterpieces and to see them born under one's own eyes!" The novelist's wife smiled with just a touch of irony. When the gusher had gone away, she said, "I wish to be like that, before I married. I thought earth held no greater glory than to be a genius' wife."

"Now I wish to heaven that Jake were the most commonplace salaried clerk in New York. I'd be far happier." I wonder if she would. Her life, since Jake's success, has included exceptional honors and distinctions. She is invited to twice as many parties as she can attend. Other women envy Jake because her all the money she can use. She bears a name famous the country over. But—she has no husband. She has only a badly spotted child to take care of. Like all artistic people, Jake is entirely self-centered. He requires infinite attention and applause to keep his enthusiasm working. While not deliberately neglecting his wife, he utterly disregards her happiness. And as for the "masterpieces" of which the admirer spoke, their birth is a time of chaos for his unfortunate family—a time when the house must be as silent as the tomb, when no guests may enter. When the wife must act as his maidservant 24 hours a day, when the slightest prank of the children brings down a storm of temper from Jake that rocks the foundation of the house. In answer to my inquiry as to what was the trouble, he said, with pathetic resignation, "Nothing—only Daddy's starting a new book." Everything in this life must be paid for. No so-called masterpiece is produced without suffering—and often it is the artist's nearest and dearest who pay the penalty. Being the wife of a genius is no joke. Just ask Mrs. Jake and others like her. Most of them would gladly trade their genius for Babbitts who would whistle in the bath tub, mend the flower boxes, play with the children, and shamelessly prefer Eddie Guest to John Masenfeld.

Could You Bring His Life Back?

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING, Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service.

The ability to perform artificial respiration successfully is a desirable accomplishment. Many a life has been lost because of a lack of calm, intelligent and prompt action on the part of the bystander. Suppose you were suddenly thrust into a position where artificial respiration would save a human life. Could you perform it? Among the more important emergencies that call for artificial respiration are electric shock, poisoning by illuminating gas, poisoning by certain drugs such as opium, morphine, chloroform and ether and suffocation, particularly when due to drowning.

The Schaefer Method. Unless the air is good, immediately get the victim to pure air and perform the Schaefer method of artificial respiration at once. Place the person face downward, that is so that the body rests on the abdomen.

Quickly feel with your finger in his mouth and remove any foreign body, such as tobacco, false teeth. If the mouth is tight shut, pay no attention to the above instructions until later, but immediately begin resuscitation. Every moment of delay is serious.

Extend one arm directly overhead, bending the other at the elbow, with the face resting on the hand or forearm so that the nose and mouth are free for breathing. An assistant may loosen all tight clothing.

Blankets, hot-water bottles, or hot bricks well wrapped in paper or cloth may be placed about the person by an assistant. Kneel, straddling the patient's hips with your knees just below the patient's hip-bones. Place the palms of your hands on the small of the back with the fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger resting just below the last rib, the other fingers and thumb slightly and naturally separated, the tips of the fingers just out of sight.

While counting 1, 2 and with the arms held straight, swing forward slowly so that your weight is gradually brought to bear on the patient. This operation forces air out of the lungs.

Remove Pressure. While counting 3 immediately swing back so as to completely remove the pressure. When the pressure is removed the patient's chest walls through their elasticity expand and the lungs are thus supplied with fresh air. Repeat two seconds or while slowly counting 4 and 5. Swing forward again, repeating the operation. The double movement of compressing and releasing, causing a complete respiration, takes about 4 seconds, and should be performed about 12 to 15 times a minute. If no watch is visible, follow the rate of your own breathing. Continue artificial respiration without interruption until natural breathing is restored. If necessary, keep it up 4 hours or longer, or until a physician declares rigor mortis (stiffening of the body) has set in. If natural breathing stops after being restored, use resuscitation again. Artificial respiration should always be gentle and slow.

Hair Dry, Brittle from Constant Waving, Curling

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles in bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, and full of dandruff; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try "Danderine" to offset any bad effects. After the first application your hair will take on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and abundant. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing "Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.—Adv.

New Beauty Cream Becomes Popular. You will be enthusiastic over a new French Process Cream for whitening and beautifying the skin. It is so pure and different from other creams. Women say they see a great improvement in their complexions after the first application. If you want smoother, brighter and younger skin, use MELLO-GLO Cream. It's wonderful. The J. W. Hale Co., South Manchester.

PERFECT PERMANENT WAVING. Nearly everyone knows the comfort and necessity of a permanent wave for the Summer months. It is unaffected by water or moisture of any sort. When we consider that we are dealing with the only head of hair we possess, you will naturally be particular as to the treatment it receives. For this reason you will appreciate the New Nestle Circuline process, perfected after over 20 years' diligent research by Mr. Charles Nessler, the original inventor of Permanent Waving. This method eliminates uncertainty and guess-work absolutely. A small sample of your hair is tested at the Nestle Laboratory, (for hair texture differs almost as much as individuals). On the report of that test your hair is waved with a positive certainty of results. The customer having the choice of waves from the close wave up to the wide flowing wave, which ever is chosen the result is a perfect duplicate of naturally wavy hair, no kinks or ridges of twisted winding. Proof of the excellency of the Nestle Process can be seen by the report of the Eighth Annual Exhibition of the American Master Hairdressers Association, March 8th and 9th, 1926, at New York. Five first prizes for permanent waving, all won by Nestle wavers; five second prizes, four won by Nestle wavers. Mrs. Robinson's honest conscientious service has not only brought her a multitude of customers but also a host of friends in the Beauty Parlor business, so much so that she is at present arranging for additional space in the House & Hale Building. This confidence is much appreciated and she shall be pleased to serve you by giving you a Nestle Circuline Wave which will delight you, or by rendering any other service you may require. # ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nancy and Nick were so busy getting Mister Tingaling out of the sausage machine (into which he had faintly when the three Gazookumses jumped out of the window) that they never noticed the things the little rascals had left behind. It was Mister Tingaling who saw them first.

The minute they lifted the little fairyman out of the sausage machine and stood him on his feet, he saw them.

"Oh, look!" he cried, his eyes as round as his hat. "Looky there! Whoop-ee! Hurrah!"

There on the floor lay the big pocketbook, the rent-book and the lead pencil as nice as you please. Nancy was the first to run and open the pocketbook.

"It's empty!" she cried. "The Gazookumses stole the money."

"Where's the butcher?" asked Nick looking around.

"Here," said a straggling voice up near the ceiling.

And as sure as I am writing on paper, there hung the real butcher on a hook like a piece of beef or pork.

"Oh, you poor thing!" cried Nancy. "Get the ladder, Nick."

Nick went to the cellar and got the ladder, and Nancy got a big sharp knife, and they got the butcher down.

But there wasn't enough left of his coat to make a patch-work quilt or a hooked rug.

"Won't you tell us your story?" asked Nick.

"Story!" shouted Mister Tingaling. "What is this anyway, tea-party or rent-day, I'd like to know."

"Well, it's no tea-party, so it must be rent-day," said the poor butcher. "Is this your money? I took it from those bad little—little what did you call them?" said the butcher. "That's what they chased me for. Then they stole my long apron and cap. I never saw such awful creatures as those Gazookumses are."

"Gazookumses!" corrected Nick. "That's what I said—Kagoozumases," said the butcher.

"No—Gazookumses," said Nick. "Didn't I say so? Sazookumses," declared the butcher.

"No, that's not right either," said Nick. "It's Ga-zook-um-see. There!"

"That's what I said all along," said the butcher. "Ga-ga-ga-say, what did you say their name was? Eh?"

"Oh, the idea!" said Nancy. "Let's be going."

"Yes, indeed. I should say so," remarked Mister Tingaling. "All this Gazookumsing when there's so much to be done! I want to thank you, my dear fellow, for your kindness in getting my money for me."

"There you go!" said the butcher, "calling me a dear fellow. Everybody thinks I am dear and I'm not. Beef is six shillings tuppence, and pork is two bits a pound. That's not dear."

They left the butcher still talking about the price of meat.

"Now let's see," said Mister Tingaling. "Where are we! And where did we leave off? I want to thank you, my dear fellow, for your kindness in getting my money for me."

"Don't say it," said poor Mister Tingaling, sticking his fingers in his ears.

A PUZZLE A DAY

Mrs. Gary, the arithmetic teacher, was sick with influenza. No substitute could be secured, so Miss Brown, the spelling teacher, offered to combine Mrs. Gary's classes with her own for the day. As she did not wish the children to miss either a spelling or an arithmetic lesson, she decided to unite the two. Each grade had a different problem. Above is the one given to the 5B class. The children were told to follow the directions given in the illustrated problem, and a word would be the result. This they did, but their answers were many and varied.

Can you tell me what the answer was that Miss Brown marked correct?

According to Senator Brookhart's story, the partners must have owned 86 sheep. For the oldest partner, bedded the leader of the flock and his mate first, which left 84 sheep. These he divided into 28 parts, putting 3 in a stall (3 times 28 equals 84 plus 2 equals 86). The roly poly farmer also bedded the leading pair first, leaving 84 sheep, and put 4 in a stall or fitted 21 stalls (4 times 21 equals 84 plus 8 equals 86). The youngest man took care of the leader and his mate separately and then put 7 sheep in a stall, filling 12 stalls. (7 times 12 equals 84 plus 2 equals 86).

ABOUT TOWN

Doctors are reporting an unusual number of grip cases and cases of heavy colds. The cold spring and early summer is causing the sickness.

William Duncan of 55 Autumn street was operated on at the Manchester Memorial hospital yesterday afternoon for acute appendicitis. He was admitted at noon yesterday and is now resting comfortably.

The shrubbery in the rear of police headquarters has been torn out and the earth will be filled in with concrete. It will make it easier for the police to drive in their cars to the station.

The outside of the new City hall is receiving its scrubbing preparatory to taking down the scaffolding that hides the exterior. The plasterers are now busy on the interior.

The big, imposing front doors of the new addition to the armory have been hung. The job is about completed. All that is needed is the grading on the Main street side.

The girl students from the state agricultural college caused considerable commotion on Main street in the South End yesterday afternoon. They came in a big bus and visited the stores in town.

The courtroom at police headquarters was filled with young men last evening awaiting a call from the police commissioners for examination as to their fitness in applying for jobs as supernumeraries.

The chilly weather still has its effect on business. There were less than the usual number of shoppers on the business streets last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Osmond J. Liebe are moving today from Oak street to their newly built Dutch colonial home on Strickland street just east of Druggist E. J. Murphy's residence. The new house was built by Contractors Larson and Crawford. Mr. Liebe is with Bamforth Brothers Hardware company.

Miss Madelyn Stroker of Spruce street was pleasantly surprised last evening when a party of her friends tendered her a farewell party at her home. Games, dancing and a buffet luncheon were enjoyed. Miss Stroker left today for Boston, Mass., for an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Greenleaf, sr.

Members of the local tribe of Red Men are asked to make returns at once for tickets for the benefit held at the State theater last night to one of the following committee: Walter Gustafson, Walter Montia, Frank Diana and W. C. Schiedge. The committee is anxious to close its books immediately and this cannot be done until all returns are made.

High School Party Inspects Bureau of Engraving; Pay Tribute to Unknown Soldier.

(Special to The Herald) Washington, D. C., April 28.—A slight change in the original itinerary of the South Manchester High school party in Washington today. Special cars took the entire group to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving where they saw more money in process of construction than they could count and more stamps being printed than they could lick in a year. The various groups went in small parties on personally conducted tours headed by the young lady guides of the building.

After leaving the Bureau of Printing and Engraving many of the party took cars back to the shopping center between 11th and 12th streets. A more hardy group headed by some of the boys walked over on the Mall and climbed the Washington Monument. An effort was made by some to count the steps but authorities differed either because they were out of breath or because they became tired as they reached the top. At any rate they were unanimous that it is over 550 feet high.

Following an early luncheon everyone walked to 12th street where special electric trains were waiting to take us to Arlington and Mt. Vernon. At Arlington the important experience was a tribute paid to the grave of the Unknown Soldier. With heads bowed the class and friends stood around this granite tablet which marks the resting spot of America's typical patriot. Standing where we could see the whitened towers and domes of the government buildings across the Potomac, we felt a new thrill of patriotism in this brief but meaningful ceremony.

From Arlington the pilgrims go to Alexandria, visiting the famous

STORRS STUDENTS VISIT AT WATKINS BROS. STORE

A big class of students from the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, and their instructor Miss Wilma Keyes, came to Manchester yesterday to study furniture and fabrics at Watkins Brothers store.

Mr. Conrow, of Watkins Brothers, explained the use of the store and inlays, the different periods, and fabrics with which the upholstered pieces are covered. "The Cottage", the store's suite of model rooms, which is now furnished entirely in maple, was especially interesting to the students and they spent a long time studying the effects in colors and arrangement. It has been created by Watkins interior decorators. Tea and home made cake was served to all the guests at the conclusion of their visit by Mr. T. J. Kidney, in charge of Watkins Drapery Shop. The refreshments Drapery Shop. The refreshments to the students. They all agreed that two hours was altogether too short a time in which to do the store full justice and they will probably return in the near future to spend half a day at Watkins.

Autolists in the North End yesterday saw a strange sight. It was warm and a number of small boys had their clothes off on the banks of the river opposite the Power house on North Main street. Although the weather was warm enough the water was icy cold and it is not thought that the youngsters really went into the water for a swim. The closing down of the schools for the week finds the streets filled with youngsters these days.
