

FRENCH DEBT PACT SIGNED; $6,847,674,104

Briland Cabinet Approves; Press Is Sarcastic—Total 50 Per Cent of Debt With Normal Interest.

Washington, April 30.—An agreement for the funding of the French wartime debt of about $4,000,000,000 to the United States, under which France undertakes to pay a total of $6,847,674,104 over a period of sixty-two years, was signed yesterday afternoon by the American Debt Commission and Ambassador Berenger, after President Coolidge had given his approval. The terms had already been endorsed by cable by Premier Briand. To become finally binding the compact must be ratified by the French and American legislative bodies.

While the terms for the first ten years call for payments less by $35,000,000 than those offered by former Finance Minister Caillaux last October, the total to be paid in sixty-two years is $12,000,000,000 larger and there is no safeguard clause which would make the payments by France dependent upon receipt of German reparations.

For this reason it is felt that ratification by Congress is assured and the leniency of the terms in the early years is expected to result in favorable action by the French Senate and Chamber.

Under the agreement payments are $30,000,000 for the first and second years, $32,500,000 for the third and fourth years and $35,000,000 for the fifth year. They then increase to a maximum of $125,000,000 in the seventeenth year, continue at that level until the sixtieth year, and there is a final payment of $11,500,000.

No interest is charged for the first five years, and after that the interest, averaged, would be about 1.58 per cent. The present-day value, under the agreement figured at 4 1/4 per cent, is more than 50 per cent, as opposed to 26 per cent in the Italian agreement and 78 per cent in the British compact.

A clause will be written into the final form of the agreement granting to France the right to delay an individual payment in the first five years, for three years from the date it falls due, if France so desires, but this must be repaid before there can be other delays. A similar clause, granting a period of grace of two years, is in the British agreement.

BETTY MAKES HIT IN COURT CASE

Then After Showing Off Her Clothes, Miss Blythe Settles Suit Against Film Man.

London, April 30.—Having furnished one of those court dramas that the British love so well, Betty Blythe, American film star, today settled her case against G. B. Samuelson, British film producer, out of court.

For ten days the King's Bench division of the law courts has been hammering and Betty has been the cynosure of all eyes.

Early in the case Betty testified that her histrionic ability might be limited to one achievement which she claimed was the ability to wear clothes and she set out to prove it by appearing in court each day in attractive costumes of the latest fashion.

The newspapers played the case and worked public interest up to a high pitch and now comes the disappointing climax.

The terms of the settlement will be private and the breath of the followers will be deprived of the privilege of sitting in on the climax.

RECORDS SMASHED AT NORTH END

Almost 18,000 Packages Shipped from Two Concerns the Past Month.

With but one extra clerk, Postmaster Ernest F. Brown, of the North End is today completing a record breaking month's business. When it is told that about 5,600 sacks of mail were handled when the normal month's business is less than 1,000 one can imagine the extra effort involved.

A sack does not necessarily mean one article by any means. It was estimated that the Burr Nursery Co. shipped 14,000 C. O. D. packages and the Bon Ami Co. about 3,500. This is about the normal business of the nursery company but it is unusual for the soap company. The latter has a selling and advertising campaign under way and has been shipping its sales into every state and county in the United States.

During the month 1,000 packages of nursery stock has been sent daily from the North End post office. The Bon Ami did not ship every day but on the days they did, they sent out 750 packages. The biggest day's work was on last Wednesday when the force at the post office handled 450 sacks.

There is a tremendous amount of detail work in the job. As to the nursery stock, tags must be supplied with pre-cancelled stamps. Then the packages must be stamped, next the packages must be sorted as to state and in the end comes the sorting by state in the rear room of the post office which resembles a warehouse these days.

That does not end the procedure by any means. Postmaster Brown explained that the clerical work comes next. As all of the nursery stock was sent out C. O. D. it means money orders in sheaves. For instance the entries in the local book for the month of March filled about four pages. This month's entries run fill 50 pages. That means thousands and thousands of dollars that will be handled at the North End.

How all of this work was done with but one extra clerk is hard to believe but it was done and there never was a delay of over 12 hours on any shipment that came into the office. Since a postmaster must make an application for extra help three months ahead of time, Mr. Brown, who did not anticipate such a rush, did not put in his application and had to get along as best he could with but one man.

The rush is not yet over and will run into next month for several weeks, it is thought.

BALTIMORE TO GET CHANCE AT WHITTEMORE

New York City Waives Its Right to Gang Leader and He Faces Trial for Prison Murder.

New York, April 30.—Richard Reese Whittemore, New York City and Baltimore bandit, will be taken to Baltimore to be tried for the murder of a prison guard there during his escape from the penitentiary.

While Whittemore, back in his old cell in the toms, was gloating over his cheating the electric chair at his recent murder trial in Buffalo, District Attorney Job H. Banton, of New York City, announced that he would waive New York's rights to try the bandit for robbery here and consent to have him extradited to Maryland.

Wearing new clothing and smiling broadly, Whittemore arrived at the Grand Central terminal at 7:30 o'clock last night and immediately was taken to a cell in the toms. On the ten-hour trip to this city from Buffalo, in custody of four New York detectives, Whittemore showed his elation at the failure of the jury last Monday night to arrive at a verdict at his trial in the up-State city on an indictment charging him with participation in the shooting and killing of two bank guards there, and the decision last Wednesday night of District Attorney Guy B. Moore of Erie County not to call him to trial on that indictment again.

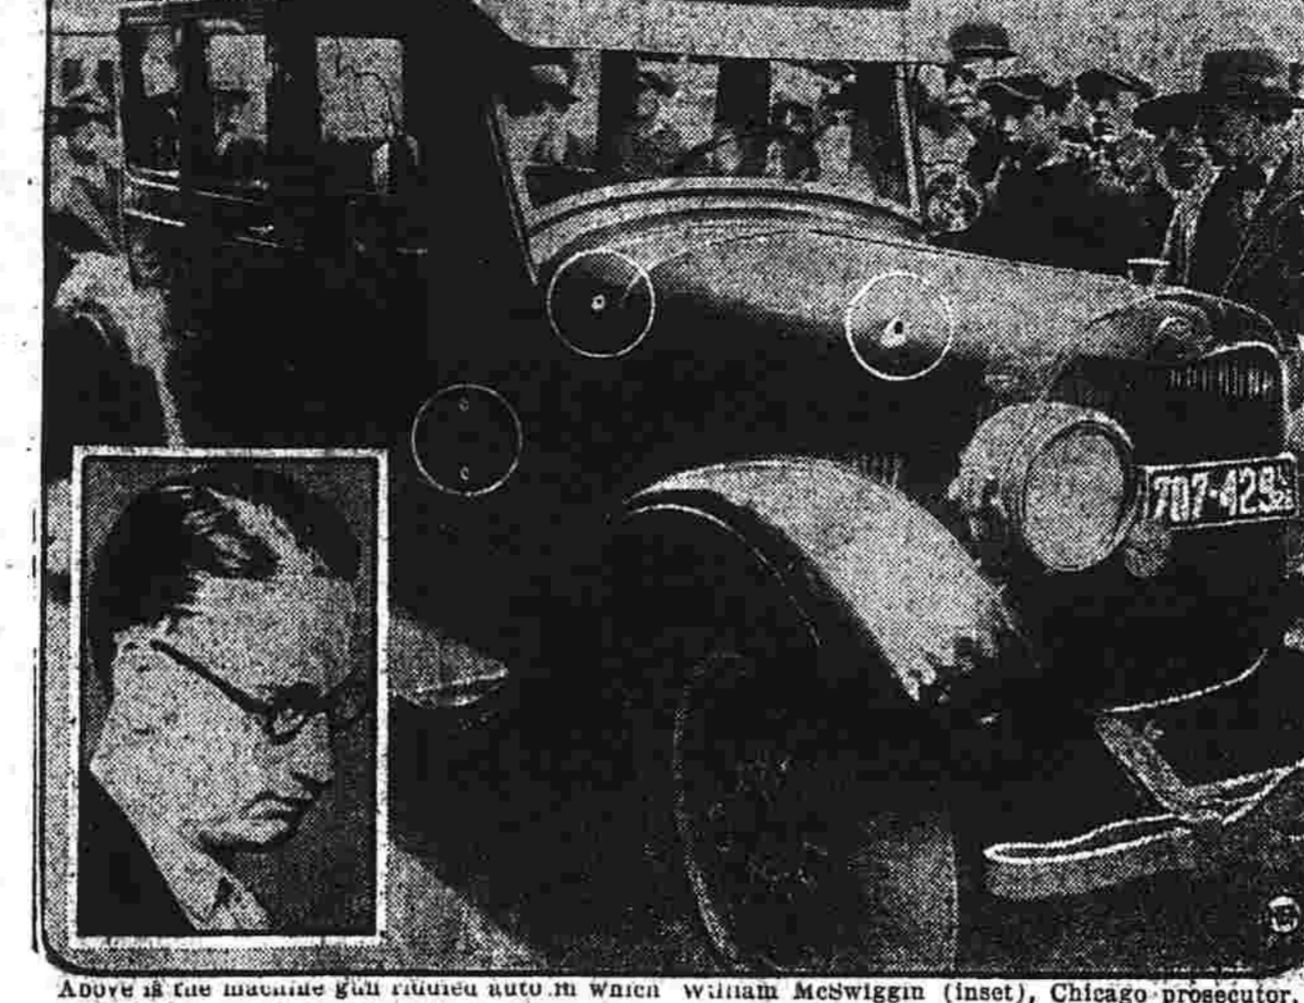

Conferred With Baltimore. Banton made his announcement following a telephone conference yesterday between himself and State's Attorney Herbert V. O'Connor, of Baltimore.

Whittemore today told how he killed John Holton, guard at the Maryland state penitentiary, when he made his escape in February, 1925.

GIRLS WANT U. S. RIFLE LESSONS

One Writes to President; Says Training Camps for Boys Show Favoritism.

Washington, April 30.—President Coolidge was asked today to "do something" to combat Uncle Sam's alleged favoritism for his sons as against his daughters.

Helen Moloney, 2211 82nd street, Brooklyn, was his petitioner. "I represent a number of girls with grievance," wrote Helen. "We are dissatisfied with the way the government treats girls. We think girls are just as important to this country as boys, and that they should receive the same opportunities from the government that boys do."

Not a foot of the march was made without constant calls of farewell either from the Foot Guard or the spectators. The Foot Guard marched in their new fatigue uniforms, having packed their British army dress clothes for direct shipment to their boat.

Anti-Gang Drive Smashes Chicago Vice Village; Crowe "Unfit"—Coroner Jury to Run Probe.

Chicago, April 30.—Cicero's underworld district today was almost a total wreck as the result of raids by sledge hammer squads taking part in the campaign to clean up the suburb as the result of the murder on Tuesday night of William H. McSwiggan, the "hanging prosecutor", and two other men.

Meanwhile the political groups which have undertaken the investigation into the underlying causes of the gang wars which have caused twenty-nine deaths in Chicago this year, are marking the pending resumption of Coroner Wolf's inquest tomorrow morning.

The coroner's jury, composed of leading Chicago business men, yesterday viewed the bodies of McSwiggan and the other victims of Tuesday night, and adjourned the specific inquiry into the killing until tomorrow morning.

Great Gang-Politics Probe. Coroner Wolf announced today, however, that at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon the jury will again be convened to start a general probe of gangs, bootleggers and politics, and their relation to each other in the numerous gang murders.

The coroner's jury, composed of leading Chicago business men, yesterday viewed the bodies of McSwiggan and the other victims of Tuesday night, and adjourned the specific inquiry into the killing until tomorrow morning.

PEACE WITH RIFFS NEARLY HOPELESS

CABINET APPROVES French Press, However, Inclined to Be Sarcastic.

Paris, April 30.—The French cabinet today, after a protracted meeting made the bare announcement that it had approved the debt accord entered into by Ambassador Berenger with the United States government at Washington.

"We are issuing a communiqué this evening, giving the complete details of the accord," said Finance Minister Peret. "So far, the matter has been pres-ent.d as though France had made all the sacrifices. We desire to state the entire position."

Government officials admitted that ratifications of the agreement in the chamber of deputies would undoubtedly mean a fight but they expressed the hope that they would be able to force the ratifying vote successfully.

Chamber is Adjourned The government has one great advantage in its efforts to secure ratification of the agreement by the chamber, and that is time in which to marsh- forces. The chamber is now adjourned for a month, giving the government four weeks in which to create a favorable atmosphere for the presentation of the accord.

The comment of the majority of the newspapers in Paris was caustic. "Such figures would certainly have been called astronomical by the Anglo-Saxon press if imposed upon 'unquished Germany,'" the Nationalist Organ, Guaiolo, said.

"No person of good sense on either side of the Atlantic can believe that such a Draconian agreement will be supported by six generations of Frenchmen."

What an "Agreement?" "The 'Action Française, the Royalist news- paper," published the report under a headline reading: "agreement reached—and what an agreement!"

The Paris Midi declares that the debt settlement came as a complete surprise to the French cabinet and something of a shock.

Yesterday afternoon the government cabled Ambassador Berenger, requesting certain explanations before he signed the agreement. The ambassador signed the agreement before he received this cable, the newspaper states.

FRANC GOES DOWN

Settlement Fails to Stabilize French Currency.

Paris, April 30.—The French franc reacted unfavorably to the announcement of the Franco-American debt settlement, dropping 22 points shortly after the market opened today.

The franc opened at 30.10 and fell almost immediately to 30.32.

These ships had high bows and sterns, carved usually into dragon heads and tails. The big mainmast was usually made of wool, generally gaily painted in big vertical stripes. Each rower went armed, hanging his shield over the side.

It was in such ships, frail and dangerous by modern standards, that the Norsemen crossed the Atlantic.

Labrador Colony. MacMillan, incidentally, plans to do a little northern Labrador colonizing on his own hook.

"For 18 years I've been running back and forth," he says, "but this summer I'm going to pick a site up there to build an entire community as a permanent base which I will keep open for five years. ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Louis St. Clair Burr of West Center street and daughter Elena are spending the week in Green- wich. They are expected home on Monday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Scott of Cooper street is leaving Manchester tomorrow to return to her old home in Terryville. Mrs. Scott during her residence here of three years has made many friends and has taken an active part in church and women's club. Her class in Center church Sunday school remembered her with a fine fountain pen and at the recent meeting of the Commopoulitan club she was presented with a basket of beautiful flowers.

Earl Judatz and Fritz Dielenschneider, local youths, returned home yesterday afternoon from a several months' stay in Florida.

Gorman, six-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fricke, of 349 South Main street, died at the Manchester Memorial hospital at 7.50 last evening.

Joseph Perzanoski, proprietor of the Midland barber shop in the Cairns building at Middle turnpike has moved to 149 Center street, and will be ready for business tomorrow in the shop formerly conducted by Pontane.

The regular meeting of the directors of the Manchester Community center will be held this evening at eight o'clock at the White House instead of the first Tuesday in May.

Mrs. F. J. Moriarty of East Center street will entertain the members of the Delphian Society at luncheon at her home next Tuesday. The regular meeting will follow.

Following the meeting of Sunset Rebekah Lodge in Odd Fellows hall Monday evening, a social hour with a short program and dancing will be enjoyed and a full attendance of the members is desired. Through the courtesy of Kemp's Music House an orthophonic victrola with several of Marion Talley's records will be provided. The committee includes the Misses Mary Hutchins, Edith Walsh and Irene Penland, Ruth Morton and Mrs. Emma Brown.

Miss Louise Hahn and Miss Mabel Hauschula who have been visiting in Washington for the past week are staying over the weekend in New York City.

Rev. W. F. Davis, formerly pastor of the South Methodist church and Mrs. Davis have moved their household goods from Denison to 45 Wadsworth street. They return to Manchester to make their home here.

Surely Her Greatest!

HOLLYWOOD!

Hollywood—Gradually the bizarre gaudiness of the film set give way to the venerable and respectable pastimes of more communities. Pitching horseshoes has taken the studio world by storm. Time was when the haughty monarchs of Hollywood scoffed raucously at the retired patriarchs of Iowa who introduced the sport via Pasadena and Long Beach. Today almost every movie lot resounds with the clank of flying horseshoes during intervals between the cranking of cameras, and studio sergeants-at-arms are kept busy rounding up the actor devotees for more necessary, if not more important tasks.

Here are those, we presume, who would walk a mile for a camel. George Fitzmaurice, director of Rudy Valentino in "The Son of the Sheik," would walk many versts to locate a few of the humdrum quadrupeds. Companies on "desert" locations have exhausted the available supply of these critters in southern California. Rearrangement of plans due to the shortage compelled the Valentino company to bring the desert to the studio by way of 20 thousand tons of necessary shots.

Considering a movie career on the cold dollar basis, how much may a talented young novice expect during the first five years of the more and more difficult climb toward stardom?

The reputed salary any option arrangements between Paramount and the graduate students of this company's school for screen acting affords a good gauge.

Sixteen of these students, regarded as promising material, are reported to have a three months' contract at $75 per week. After that there is an option for six months at $150, another six at $200, with three further successive annual options at $300, $400 and $500 weekly.

This, if the successive options were exercised, would pay the actor $4500 the first year, $7200 the second, $12,500 the third, and so on up to a little over $25,000 the fifth year.

Compare these salaries (assured of course only by proven merit and sustained popularity) with what these same young men and women might by their own efforts earn during the first five years in business or professional channels.

For most youngsters, even of most brilliant promise, these figures will not destroy the dream of affluence held out by the movies. But for every one who manages to cling to opportunity and succeeds, hundreds, essaying the "extra" route to a contract, slip back with disillusionment into the realm of commoner chores.

The amazing progress and wide use of camera trickery—miniature glass shot, double exposure and moving mat, without some or all of which few movies now see the light of day—is rapidly eliminating the use of "doubles" who used to do the dangerous stunts for many stars. The camera can lie most convincingly and miraculously. And insurance rates on players' hazards are dropping.

C. OF C. CAMPAIGN AROUSING INTEREST

Problem of Out of Town Canvassers Seems to Be the Same All Over Country.

The campaign being waged by the local Chamber of Commerce against out of town house canvassers is arousing interest not only in New England but all over the country. Every day letters reach Secretary Rix from various states.

Recently an article telling of the local campaign, appeared in the United States C. of C. News which circulates from coast to coast. Then the letters began to pile in here. They are coming from as far off as Wisconsin.

The tenor of all of the letters which are written by secretaries of Chambers of Commerce, are all the same. They want to know just how the campaign is being conducted and what effect it has in protecting home merchants. It appears that Manchester's problem is also the problem of many of the towns and cities of the nation.

The campaign here is really instructing the housewives and already complaints that never before came to light, are being brought personally to the attention of the local Chamber of Commerce. Only last week an article was sold to a local woman for $24 which she could have purchased here in town for from $15 to $18.

IVANHOE—Sir Walter Scott's Classic in Pictorial Form

THE STORY THUS FAR—The scene is laid in the England of Richard I, when the Saxons were still smarting under Norman rule. Gurth, a swineherd, and Wamba, a jester, are accused by a cavalcade of knights seeking the castle of Cedric, the Saxon. Arriving there, Brian, the Templar, leader of the knights, fastens his eyes on Rowena, Cedric's daughter, in rapture. This draws a rebuke from Cedric, but the incident is smoothed over just as Oswald, a servant, announces the arrival of a guest. Cedric orders him admitted.

—By Redner

OSWALD, RETURNING WHISPERED INTO HIS EAR: "WAS EAR, 'A' EMB SURE 'S IT FIT THAT I SHALL MARSHALL HIM IN?" "LET GURTH, THE SWINEHERD, DO THINE OFFICE," SAID CEDRIC, HEARING THE TONGUE AT THE ENTRANCE OF AN UNBELIEVER, CEDRIC CONSOLSED HIS VISITORS.

CEDRIC CONVINCE NO MAN TO CONVERSE WITH HIM, AND "LET HIM FEED APART," SAID THE SAXON, "BUT HURRY, FOR HERE HE COMES," ADVANCING WITH HEAVY STEPS THE OLD MAN APPROACHED, CEDRIC COLDLY SIGNS TO HIM TO SIT AT THE LOWER END OF THE BOARD.

MEANWHILE, THE ABBOT, AND THE TEMPLAR CONTINUED THEIR DISCOURSE WITH CEDRIC ABOUT GALLANT DEEDS. WINE CUPS WERE FILLED, AND TOASTS OFFERED. A DISCUSSION AROSE AS TO WHO WERE THE CHAMPIONS FIGHTING FOR THE CROSS IN PALESTINE

THE EVENING SKY FOR MAY

This map shows the constellations visible at 9 p. m., May 1, 8 p. m., May 15 and 7 p. m. May 31, in latitude 35 degrees north. Though destined specifically for this latitude it is practicable for all parts of the United States and Southern Canada as a change of a few degrees in latitude has little effect on the appearance of the heavens. To view the constellations as they appear in the sky hold the map over the head with the top of the map toward the north. At the times mentioned the principal constellations in view are Leo and Gemini in the western sky, Virgo in the southeast, Bootes in the east, Ursa Major to the north of the zenith and Hydra with its riders, Corvus and Crater, stretching across the southern sky below the constellations of Cancer, Leo and Virgo. Brilliant Capella in the northwest Auriga with its brilliant Capella is still above the horizon while in the northeast the magnificent Vega in Lyra is now coming conspicuously into view. The constellation of Orion has now disappeared below the western horizon and also The Dog-Star, Sirius, in Canis Major, but the Little Dog-Star, Procyon, in Canis Minor, may still be seen far over in the west.

The only bright star in the southwest at this time is the second magnitude star Alpheratz in the head of Hydra. The Water-Snake. The head of Hydra is marked by a group of fairly bright stars to the south of Cancer and west of The Sickle in Leo. Spica, the white star of first magnitude in the southeast, in Virgo, represents the ear of wheat that the Maiden holds in her hand. North and a little to the east of Spica at the base of the kite-shaped group of stars in Bootes is the beautiful reddish yellow Arcturus, considered by some to be the finest star visible in the evening sky in spring and summer, though others prefer the diamond-like Vega. These two stars are almost exactly equal in brightness though they differ very slightly in color. The planet Saturn has now come into the evening sky and will be found far over in the southeast in Libra. It is slightly yellowish in color and is a shade brighter than Arcturus or Vega. It is now at its best for observation for it comes into opposition with the sun on the 14th of this month when it rises at sunset and remains visible throughout the night. Jupiter and Mars will now be found in the eastern sky before sunrise. Venus, by far the brightest of all the planets, is now a magnificent Morning Star. Jupiter and Mars are not far apart in the southern sky. Mars will be readily recognized by its reddish color. Though far inferior to Jupiter at this time it is steadily increasing in brightness as it approaches the earth and now outshines some of the stars of first magnitude. SIMPLE TRIMMING Grosgrain ribbon is used very effectively to band frocks of chiffon or georgette. So is the lacquered ribbon that has an unusually high gloss and lustre.

PINE FOREST

HARTFORD'S AND SO. MANCHESTER'S NEWEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL SUBURBAN DEVELOPMENT
The first of PINE FOREST'S houses, in the English style of architecture, is almost nearing completion, the imported Lloyd's paper will be on by this week end, and it certainly is worth a visit, since it will give a conception of the beauty of the GOEBEN-BUILT houses that are being built at PINE FOREST. We have seen nothing in South Manchester that can equal these houses in either Quality or Design.
When consideration is taken of the fact that no lots will be sold, (although selection is permitted), and that every one of the 80 houses will be Specially Designed GOEBEN-BUILT houses, that each one of these houses will be placed in a setting in Park fashion, some ideas can be obtained, not only of the beauty of this new community when completed, but the increase in values bound to accrue as development progresses.
For insurance men, Executives, Heads of Departments, and those who demand something in a class different from the commonplace, inspection of PINE FOREST is invited. Surprise will be expressed at the moderate cost of a property such as these, but the special inducements offered on the first of our houses may be withdrawn at any time, since they are figured on a cost basis.
Special appointments will gladly be made, but inspection will be invited at all times. One of our officers will be at the English house Sunday afternoon to give additional information and make appointments.
It is suggested that reservations be made at earliest date. Construction on the third and fourth houses at PINE FOREST will commence within a few days.

FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1926.

STREETS.
Establishment of street lines giving less than a fifty foot width should not, in this day and generation, be given the slightest favorable consideration in Manchester, either by authorities or interested property owners. That there were persons who, at the hearing on Wednesday night, advocated a forty foot line for Keene street, is to be attributed to the probable fact that they hadn't really thought about the matter at all, but gave only a casual glance at the circumstance that the making of a broader thoroughfare there would be of momentary inconvenience to themselves.

The old timers of colonial days might almost have been inspired with a vision of 1926 motorized traffic congestion when, more than a century and a half ago, they established "four rod" highways, one of them being this same Keene street. At all events the liberality of their conception of a proper road is in rather striking contrast to suggestions of a forty foot street where our experiences now tell us the original sixty-six foot boulevard would be none too broad.

With towns like Bristol establishing the sixty foot street as a standard, certainly Manchester must in no circumstances permit herself longer to think in terms of forty foot lines. The day for that kind of thoroughfare is past. And with special reference to Keene street, which at some not far distant day is likely enough to become an important artery of travel to Glastonbury, if there is any doubt at all it is whether the layout should not be sixty rather than fifty feet.

It is today that we must guard against being looked on, twenty years hence, as a town of back alleys.

"SETTLED."
Completion of the debt funding arrangements with our European war debtors is arrived at with the reaching of an agreement with France.

Either from our angle or that of France the deal just completed might just as well be what it is as something else, or it might just as well have been something else as what it is. That there is the slightest probability that any of these war debt "settlements" will ever be fulfilled it is impossible to believe. That a generation yet unborn will, in its day, recognize the validity of pledges to pay increasingly burdensome sums out of the earnings of people who were not alive when the obligation was contracted is not consistent with human nature. It is extremely doubtful whether it is in any way consistent with economic or social justice.

In this controversy over the French debt both the United States and France have been squabbling over a shadow. They have both dealt with the subject as though it were genuine—America as though she actually expected to collect six thousand millions of dollars, France as though she were actually going to have to pay that vast sum if she signed on the line.

What the United States treasury receives from Europe on account of the World War loans will be, in every human probability, what she gets out of them in the next score or so of years—perhaps in the next decade. In one way or other, either through European concert or by general consent all around, the vast obligations signed by the various debtor nations must, sooner or later, be scrapped. Europe cannot and will not keep her nose to the grindstone year after year, through two generations, to pay money to the United States which we do not need and could not use except to our own disadvantage.

The very real value of the debt agreements lies in the fact that they remove a subject of controversy which has done nothing but harm, breeding animosities and resentments and keeping European financial arrangements in a simmer of uncertainty.

They might well have been reached long ago, for they are not otherwise very important.

HAUGEN BILL.
New England people, with the exception of some few of the rural population who keep in touch with all sorts of agricultural interests, have paid little attention to the "farm relief" legislation which has been greatly agitated in the west but which has not, until now, been much in the light at Washington during this session of Congress. Now, however, the subject is very likely to become of interest to East as well as West, because the Congress situation is pregnant with the possibilities of a first class row.

At the very time when President Coolidge is admonishing the national legislators that Congress must adjourn as soon as it possibly can, without embarking on any new undertaking whatever involving expenditures of any considerable size, along comes the declaration of Western and mid-Western members of both houses—some of them staunch administration men—that Congress shall do nothing of the kind, but instead shall adopt some highly important farm-relief measure before quitting. And these relief measures run into big money.

There is the Tincher bill, which would create a Federal Farm board and turn over to it a fund of $100,000,000 to be used until 1950. This fund the board would lend to farmers' co-operative marketing associations, to buy and hold the farm surplus so as to maintain prices whenever there was a crop in excess of the season's demand. This bill has more or less the theoretical approval of the administration—or did have until it came into conflict with the President's present determination to have an early adjournment.

And then there is the Haugen bill, which is earnestly disapproved by the administration but which seems to have the support of a fast growing element in Congress, and which Frank Lowden, potential Republican candidate for President, is boosting with all his very great influence.

This bill begins where the Tincher bill does, and provides also for a government board handling a revolving fund for crop price maintenance. But it goes much further. Not only does it propose to make the stabilizing fund $350,000,000 instead of $100,000,000, but it provides that the government board itself may buy and hold grain or other farm produce to maintain prices here at the world prices plus the tariff. And it further provides that, after two years, the funds of the board shall be renewed by a tax collected by the government on all produce sold by the board, this income being intended to pay for any losses suffered in selling crop surpluses abroad for less than the farmers' received.

We shall hear very much more about this Haugen bill in the next few weeks than we have heard in the past. It may turn out to be about ten times as big a thing, politically, as any other that has happened in this session of Congress.

There is one phenomenon in connection with this matter of criminal worship that is peculiarly puzzling. The great centers of criminal life and activity in this country are, naturally, New York and Chicago. Yet even with the large populations of more or less undisciplined and unassimilated persons in those huge cities, there is no evidence that "super-bandits" and "dapper slayers" receive anything like the degree of sympathy among otherwise respectable people that they do in lesser communities.

The attitude of the Hartford man in the street toward Chapman, when he was on trial there, was notorious and did no credit at all to the moral fibre and intelligence of the ordinary strata of capital society. And the same maudlin admiration of the young villain Whitmore was conspicuous in Buffalo during the court proceedings there.

Is it possible that the populations of our secondary cities are less inherently decent than those of the great towns? Certainly we hear of no such performances over murderers in the big cities. Perhaps the metropolitan populations know the breed better.

Washington, April 30—The general impression in Washington is that President Coolidge means to be renominated in 1928. If, however, by any chance he changes his mind, it's said Secretary of Commerce Hoover is his choice. Or, in case he does keep the 1928 nomination for himself, it's inferred he'd be for Hoover in 1932.

Hoover would be 58 then, and it's a long time ahead.

The essential point is that Coolidge thinks well enough of his commerce secretary to believe he'd make the best president he knows of, next to himself.

That the president depends more on Hoover than any other member of his cabinet, with the single exception of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in the latter's own particular department, isn't much of a secret.

This is speaking, of course, of official relationships. Personally the chief executive doubtless is more intimate with Attorney General Sargent.

Hoover's department is near the foot of the list in formal order of cabinet seniority, ranking only the Department of Labor, but actually the Californian has succeeded in making it the most important of all, in many ways.

Barring the portfolio of justice, for which he lacks the legal training, and of the treasury, so long as it remains in Mellon's hands, Hoover could have had any other place in the president's official family long ago, had he wished.

Indeed, at various times the president has wanted to transfer him, but Hoover preferred not.

It's easy to understand why. Nominally any change, except downward, into the Labor Department, would be promotion for him, but really he'd have less authority—at any rate temporarily, while he was expanding his new department, as he has the one he presides over now.

Unquestionably that's what he'd do.

From the minute he took office, the process of assimilation, by the Commerce Department, of a bureau here, a division there, a commission some other place, has been going on.

Anywhere he went it's a certainty the same thing would begin, only it would have to begin at the beginning.

For instance, as secretary of commerce, Hoover gazed covetously upon the Bureau of Mines and the patent office, originally appendages of the Interior Department.

He wanted 'em for his department and he got 'em.

Hoover's the soul of efficiency, but is efficiency—except political efficiency—an asset to a politician? I wonder.

Still, Coolidge evidently believes in him politically.

And nobody can say Cal Coolidge doesn't know his politics.

THINKING PLANTS.
Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose, famous plant physiologist of India, who has been engaged for thirty years on a line of research all his own, and whose experiments show that vegetables feel and react, even if they do not think, in only lesser degree than animals, now announces a device whereby he has actually measured the nervous impulses of a plant's fibres, corresponding to the brain and spinal cord of higher animals.

He declares that he has not only succeeded in revealing brain action in plants but has caught and measured the brain impulse even before it is translated into action by the plant's muscular organism.

There will be plenty of scoffers at these claims. And there will be a good many persons who will not scoff at all.

Why do certain flowers turn to the sun, and follow its course during the day? Why do some varieties unfold their blossoms one day and keep them closed the next and perhaps the next and open again on the third, with no seeming regularity? How explain the carnivorous qualities of certain insect-catching plants? And moreover, how explain the tradition—is it altogether a tradition?—that flowers will "grow for" one person who loves them while they appear to sulk and do but poorly under the ministrations of another, no less skillful, but less temperamental?

One of the most intriguing ideas in the world—and it is not confined to poets—is that plants and flowers know something of what is going on about them; that there is an intelligence of a sort not altogether unlike our own, among them. If Sir Jagadis can convince the world of it he will have served a wonderful purpose—and will have made this earth a happier place to live in, for millions and millions of those who love the little prisoners of the soil.

IN NEW YORK
New York, April 30—Perhaps nothing reflects the cosmopolitanism of New York better than the habits of the big hotels.

In one of these are many shelves of French, Spanish, German, Italian and other foreign works, for visitors from those countries.

No matter how great may be the bustle in the lobby, no matter how hectic may be the chatter, just outside the hotel, the library is so located in the building that complete quiet can be enjoyed.

I know several harassed business men who flee to one of these hotel libraries during the noon lunch hours, not so much to read, as to find one quiet place where they can forget the hubbub and relax.

Speaking of this babel of sound for which New York is famed, there is an opinion held by many that average New Yorkers thrive on noise and would be unhappy without it. The fact is that the average new arrival is thrilled by the symphony of bangings and clatterings and squeakings and hurries to write home about it.

As for the permanent New Yorker there is little he can do about it but when someone tries to battle the noises he or she becomes a civic hero.

Which is just what happened in the case of Mrs. Julia Rice, who has done more than any individual in Manhattan to slay the giant discord.

Thus far her success has been limited to Hudson River ferry whistles, school buildings and hospital zones.

And that is no mean accomplishment. She all but lost her health in making the fight.

It seems that Mrs. Rice has occupied an apartment on Riverside Drive. The tooting of whistles scraped terribly upon her nerves, and, looking into the question, she found that no one had ever tried to find out whether the whistling could be stopped. She swung into the fight and was responsible for corrective legislation.

Then she went after the noise-makers in the vicinities of hospitals and schools and created zones of quiet.

Flat wheel cars, needlessly noisy motors and shrieking street vendors now claim her attention and perhaps she may be able to do something about it. If she does she will doubtless be immortalized by a monument some day.

—GILBERT SWAN.

Singing as you work is all right, unless the boss thinks you are well satisfied and yet you raise. Being too cautious or too reckless or too anything is too bad.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

The Bourne From Which No Insect Returns

By ARTHUR N. PACK.

President, The American Nature Association

"Abandon hope all ye who enter here," might well be posted over the door leading down into the hollowed leaf of the pitcher plant, for on the bodies of insects which venture into this seductive haven does the plant derive much of its nutriment.

Our common pitcher plant, the leaves of which hold water as well as a pitcher, is a rather common inhabitant of the boggy meadows in our northern states, and farther south lives in many cold bogs.

Within its curious cup it catches drops from the summer rain, and this liquid is slightly sweetened by a fluid within the rim. This serves as an attraction for insects of many kinds. Entering the open door the little visitor finds a pathway decorated with purple lines, all pointing the way downward.

As the fly or beetle follows this alluring path, it finds its way beset with many tiny hairs, but as these all bend downward they are passed with little difficulty. Even should the little creature decide to turn back these hairs block its way and so it keeps on.

Below this barrage a slippery slope is encountered, and this usu-

Our northern plant (sarracenia purpurea), has close relatives in the south and west, and other species with similar habits are found in Asia and Africa. Some of these are even larger than ours, and are able to capture small bugs and reptiles.

DAILY ALMANAC

Today is feast day of St. Catherine of Siena, daughter of a tradesman who became a spiritual leader in the church.

France ceded Louisiana to the United States April 30, 1803.

Most divorces are caused by women marrying the men they do. This year will be half gone before long and all the 1927 model autos not on the market yet.

TWO FEATURE FILMS AT CIRCLE TONIGHT

"The Speed Limit," the latest Gotham Production which comes to the Circle Theatre Friday and Saturday typifies the spirit of the minute. Youth, reckless, full of life and with speed in everything as its motto.

Raymond McKee, one of screen-dom's most rapidly rising younger personalities, is cast in the leading role of the young garage mechanic who has developed a process of making tires last longer. He has no capital, so he and his two buddies, Herman Berger, a Jewish boy, and "Eight Ball" Jackson, a colored boy, pool their wages so he can make his experiments.

Ray gets an opportunity to give his new tires a great try-out in a 100-mile track race. But difficulties are put in his way. A crook tries to steal his process and also prevent him winning the race but when youth and ambition combine, no ordinary circumstances can stop them.

The entire picture is handled in a light comedy vein and the laughs in the picture are interrupted only by thrills.

The big thrill comes in the great auto race in which the world's fastest drivers are seen burning up the track at phenomenal speeds. There are several hair-raising smash-ups before Ray comes out ahead.

Dainty Ethel Shannon is the woman in the case and this pretty auburn haired actress makes an excellent foil for Ray McKee.

The other feature "Her Second Chance" with Ann Q. Nilsson. You'll never forget your best chance in months for a night of thrilling drama—the story of a woman who wanted a second chance for revenge—and found her first chance in love. Don't miss this double feature bill. Today the Circle presents for the last times Betty Compton in "Counsel for the Defense" and Lefty Flynn in "Sir Lumberjack."

NORMA TALMADGE IN SURPRISE ROLE

The State Theater's next attraction will give photoplay-goers what is predicted as the biggest surprise of the year. Screen-dom's most famous dramatic actress has turned comedienne and will open a three days' engagement Sunday.

Norma Talmadge is the start, and her latest picture is "Kiki," an elaborate cinema version of the David Belasco stage success. Entirely different from any role she ever portrayed on the screen during her long career, "Kiki" is said to afford Miss Talmadge an ideal vehicle.

The Princess Yetive of Graustark has changed into a Paris street gamin—a ragged, short skirted miss who lives by her wits and bewitching ways. Her adventures carry her into theatrical life and into the homes of the rich. She winds up by—well, she finally realizes her ambition to be a "great lady."

Miss Talmadge's supporting cast reveals many distinguished screen names—Ronald Colman, Gertrude Astor, Marc MacDermott, George K. Arthur, William Orlamond, Erwin Connelly, Frankie Darro and Mack Swain.

ILLINOIS COAL MINES GIVE UP THE GHOST

Coal City, Ill.—Desolation now marks the sites of many former Illinois coal mines, which have vanished, leaving only piles of shale and weather-beaten upper structures to mark their former industry.

Forty-two years ago, the counties adjacent to this place fairly bristled with mines and teemed with activity. There were numerous shafts here and at Wilmington, Braidwood and other cities.

One by one, they have been closed and with the order just received to suspend operation of the Coal City Mines, the last of the bituminous shafts in Grundy County will pass into the discard. No more miners will be out of work as a result.

A year ago, the mine at South Wilmington also met a similar fate, marking the closing of the last of the Will County mines.

The lower scale paid to non-union miners in Kentucky made it impossible for the Illinois mines to pay union wages, to compete with the former, and lack of orders necessitated that the Illinois shafts close.

The Lasting Service

Equip Your Present Heating Plant With A

SUPER

Automatic Oil Heater

It Eliminates Smoke, Soot, Coal Gas, Ashes, Irregular Heating, Cold Rooms, Work and Worry.

Just what is heating comfort? To really have a comfortably heated home the heat itself must be kept at a certain comfortable temperature all the time.

Secondly you must have absolute freedom from labor and anxiety in connection with the heating system.

Neither of these requirements can be obtained with coal, yet both of them can be obtained to perfection with the SUPER OIL HEATOR.

Fuel Oil is about 2c a gallon cheaper than furnace oil. The SUPER OIL HEATOR burns fuel oil efficiently, due to the arrangement of its burner, which produces a more intense heat than any other type of burner, thus making the most economical HEATOR in existence.

The thermostat regulates the automatic control of the burner. It is placed at a convenient point on the wall of the hall or living room. Whenever the temperature of the house drops below the point for which the regulator is set, the burner immediately begins to function, producing heat and vice versa.

The SUPER OIL HEATOR is most simple in construction. It requires no changing in your present equipment and no attention to operate.

Nearly every other type of oil heaters have ugly projections outside the furnace. The SUPER OIL HEATOR is entirely enclosed in the fire box.

No Oil Burner is absolutely silent, but the SUPER OIL HEATOR is by far the quietest. It's like the purr of a kitten.

The carburetor outside the furnace vaporizes the fuel and the motor pump forces the emulsion of oil and air to the burner. There is practically no oil inside the furnace.

The burner of the SUPER OIL HEATOR is so arranged that it produces a more intense heat than any other type of burner, eliminating all smell, soot and smoke.

The SUPER OIL HEATOR burns Fuel Oil and burns it with a clean, odorless, sootless flame. This oil is about 2c a gallon cheaper than Furnace Oil.

The SUPER OIL HEATOR was selected by the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT for the new Super Submarines V-1, 2, and 3. It was chosen because of its reliability and efficiency.

The HEATOR is entirely housed within the furnace walls. This requires no change in your present equipment.

Unusual Insurance Feature

The motor and the motor pump are fully guaranteed by the SUPER OIL HEATOR CO. against break-down and defects for one year and this guarantee is insured by The Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Co., who have carefully examined and passed on the design and construction of the motor and motor pump. Every burner, motor and motor pump complete will be insured for one year for loss or damage resulting from fire, lightning or theft by the Insurance Company of North America.

The SUPER OIL HEATOR is the most efficient and reliable oil burner manufactured today, and if you use it for one week you will never shovel another pound of coal as long as you live.

This Burner Is Now On Demonstration At Our Display Room.

S. M. H. S. Opens Its Baseball Season Tomorrow

AMATEUR NINES ONLY SALVATION AS PRO BASEBALL FAILS TO BUD

No Big Team for Manchester This Season But Fans Will Have Fast Amateur Games Served.

After experiencing a poor year in basketball, Manchester is about to step into a similar situation in baseball as the season opens. It is now an almost positive fact that Manchester will have no representative baseball club this year. Following the $5,000 deficit which the team incurred last year, there is no one who is anxious to take hold of the reins. For this they can hardly be blamed. Baseball has not been a paying proposition here for several years and the future prospects are not exceptionally bright to say the least.

The approaching season in pro ranks will probably find the majority of the members of last year's Manchester Baseball club in action regardless of whether a team is organized here or not. Several of the players have been offered jobs down the river in the Middlesex County League with such teams as Deep River, Branford and others. Among those who will doubtless draw their pay checks in the circuit are "Punk" Lamprecht, Jack Burkhardt, Freddie Warnock and possibly Sipples and Kotsch. Sipples has signed to play Saturday ball with the Elmwood Ends, however, but may play elsewhere on the Sabbath. "Wood" Wallett, second string backstop on the Manchester club last year, will also be with the Elmwood team as will "Red" Thornton, another local lad.

STURGEON HITS TWO HOMERS AS TEAM WINS

The Birchstones defeated the Cubs 3 to 2 yesterday afternoon in a red hot battle that sizzled all the way. Sturgeon, veteran twirler for the winners, excelled. He made two home runs. The summary:

Sturgeon pitched a great game, striking out nine of the Phillies in five innings, a great pitching feat for so early in the season against a club noted for its punch.

Form Reverses.

This has been a most unusual spring in baseball circles aside from the cold weather. In the exhibition games the Boston Braves were the sensation of the Florida Grapefruit circuit while the Phillies had trouble winning a ball game from anybody.

With the start of the season, the Phillies immediately broke into the games won column while the Braves suffered repeated reverses. The St. Louis Cardinals after winning two straight exhibition games came home to meet the St. Louis Browns in a two-game spring series. The Browns won both contests.

SEND IN FIVE PINCH-HITTERS BUT LOSE TILT

Detroit, April 30.—In a game played here the other day between the Tigers and St. Louis, the latter used five pinch-hitters, four in one inning—the sixth.

Hargrave, Rice, Gerber, Bennett and Falk were the five sent in. Falk hitting for Pitcher Bolen in the ninth. Hargrave and Rice both got safeties.

REMEMBER—
Fritz Pollard, of Brown? Pollard, a colored boy, was a backfield star of 10 years ago, an All-American selection. Pollard was one of the greatest griders his race has ever produced. He put the Providence school on the football map in a single season. Around the Brown campus they still tell you about Pollard's dashing dashes and open field canters, if you'll lend an ear.

INTRODUCING—
Archie Hahn, celebrated Michigan sprinter of some 30 years back. Hahn was one of the fleetest Michigan collegians of his day anywhere up to 220 yards. Ran 75 yards indoors in 7 3/8 seconds, also several Olympic marks that still defy the four-year assaults. Hahn has stayed pretty close to track activities. He's now assistant trainer at Princeton, working for his old boss, Keene Fitzpatrick, who tutored him at Michigan.

DIAMOND DUST

The Giants lost to the Braves, 4 to 2, and are now only half a game in front of the Robins and Reds.

A triple by Falk broke up a pretty pitching duel between Petty and Knight, Brooklyn beating the Phillies 3 to 1. Petty turned in his fourth straight win and Fournier got his fourth homer of the season getting the jump on the circuit clouters of both leagues.

The Reds went out their annual hitting spree and scuttled the Pirates, 16 to 9, making ten runs in one inning. Cincinnati polished off five Pittsburgh pitchers and Manager McKechnie was forced to use everybody on the club except the bat boy's great-uncle.

The Cubs nosed out St. Louis, 6 to 5, when Duster Mails, pitching for the Cards threw away the game, Other St. Louis errors were costly.

The Senators outbatted the Yankees, but the Huguenot piled up such a big lead off Joe Bush that later Washington rallies fell short. Goshlin and Blue checked in with four hits apiece. Score: Yankees 8, Washington 5.

The Yankees gained clear title to first place when the Indians lost to the White Sox, 7 to 3.

Tiring of the vagaries of flaming youth, Connie Mack pinned his faith on Old Jack Quinn. The veteran obliged by blanking the Red Sox 4 to 0.

Changes in the line-up stirred the Browns into beating Detroit, 8 to 2. Ty Cobb got his first homer of the season.

WORTH IN SPORT KNOWING

In 1915 Larry Doyle, th with the New York Giants, won the National League batting crown with a mark of .320. It was the lowest average ever to win a championship in the old circuit.

Four years later Eddie Roush of the Reds came through with a .321 figure to lead the procession. The late Jake Daubert turned in a mark of .329 in 1914 for third lowest.

During the last six seasons the lowest average to bring a clouting crown was .370, made by Rogers Hornsby in 1920. In three of the last four years Hornsby has hit better than .400.

COLLEGE CHATTER

By Art Carlson

NORTHROP AND KREUZ.
At Columbus last June Phil Northrup of Michigan walked away with the javelin throw, setting a new Big Ten record. At Iowa City next month Northrup won't have the field to himself this time. From the Wisconsin stronghold will come Bob Kreuz. Kreuz has been hurling the stick close to 200 feet this spring. He bids fair to give the Wolverine plenty of competition, somewhat different entertainment than was accorded Phil a year ago.

Illinois seems assured of first place in the shot-put at the same carnival. Gill's sophomore, Lyon, appears to be the best in the conference at the event especially since Schwarze, Wisconsin giant, is ineligible. Lyon is consistent around 46 feet. Dauber, Iowa, stands out as his most dangerous rival with just a possible chance of crashing through.

Perhaps you've noticed no fighter ever drew the color line when the matter involved green-backs. In Ohio if you lose a bet at the track you can ask for your money back and it will be cheerfully refunded. . . . But if you are kicked in the shins and a police dog attacks your hip pockets with his fangs don't be surprised.

The excuse for horse racing is that it improves the breed of thoroughbreds. . . . What it does to the breed of gamblers is something else. They say you'll soon be able to circle the globe in 17 hours. . . . And even then you'll hear someone crabbng about the snail-like pace.

Another college boy has entered the heavyweight boxing ranks. . . . This sudden interest of collegians in battling may account for the growing effeminate tone of the game. And, by the way, do you remember the good old days when big Wayne Munn came from the cloistered university halls to put wrestling on his feet? . . . And how he, in turn, was promptly hopped on his back?

Well, anyway, no one can say we stooped to the low forms of punning in commenting on the victory of young Mr. Miles in the Boston marathon.

The temperamental star always has this important edge on the rest of the field. . . . The dub has nothing to be temperamental about.

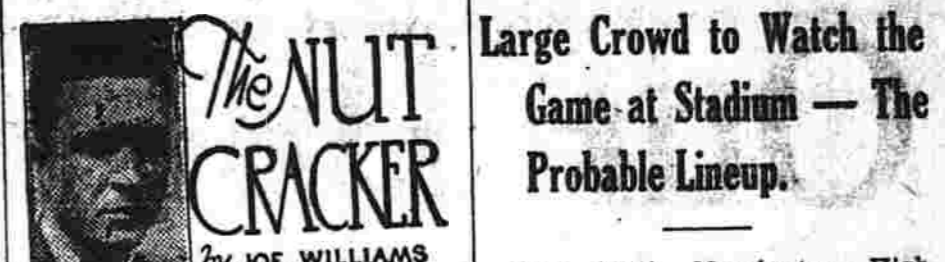

It's all right for fighters to develop footwork but the all-night dance hall is no place to perfect it. It's time to look around and choose your favorite exit when the better half begins to take up pistol practice.

SANTS TO PRACTICE
All members of the St. Mary's baseball team are requested to report for practice tomorrow at 10:30 at the West Side playgrounds at two o'clock. The team plans to open its season in a few weeks and every practice session is important.

BON AMI NINE ORGANIZES
J. E. Rand has been elected manager and Howard Keene, captain of the Orford Soap Company baseball team. Practice sessions are to start shortly. The team will participate in the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. league, an eight team circuit.

MIDDLETOWN HIGH HERE FOR OPENING CONFLICT

Large Crowd to Watch the Game at Stadium — The Probable Lineup.

Georges Carpenter evidently intends to do most of his sleeping outdoors this summer. . . . We hope he has agreed to take on three Americans.

Mr. O'Goofy is thoroughly disgusted with his moll. . . . She thinks a bookmaker works in a library.

There are many promising candidates. Boggin will make a real catcher in time when he has the necessary experience. Lyne is a hard worker, but has much to learn about the work behind the bat. Boyce, of course, will be the main stay in the box. Gudaitis is a plucky and hard working pitcher, and much is expected of him. Charter has a good curve, but is wild. Hand, Haraburda and Mantell are other twirlers that may amount to something as the season goes on. Farr, Dahlquist and Foley are probably the regular infield. In the outfield Hollins and Frank and Albert Lupien all look good, while Kerr, Theodore Lupien and Bernard and Ferdinand Vidal will contend with them for the regular berths.

For tomorrow's game coach Breckenridge will start the following lineup:
Holland, centerfield.
F. Lupien, right field.
Boggin, catch.
Farr, third base.
A. Lupien, left field.
Dahlquist, short stop.
Quish, first base.
Foley, second base.
Boyce or Gudaitis, pitcher.

LEADING SWIMMERS

Philadelphia.—Virtually every leading swimmer in the United States will compete in the National Athletic Union championship to be held here July 28-30, under the auspices of the Sequi-Centennial Exposition at the Municipal Stadium, according to an announcement made by Dr. George W. Orton, head of Sequi sports.

Dr. Orton received a communication from John T. Taylor, chairman of the A. A. U. Swimming Committee, in which he said that the money appropriated for the Sequi-Centennial meet, will enable the amateur organization to send representatives from all districts to the meet.

From the Middle-West will come the famous quartet of the Illinois A. C.—Eismuller, Skelton, Berg and Milla—which will try to retain its present title. In addition these men will compete in individual championships.

Harry Glancy, national one-mile and 300-yard medley champion and Walter Laufer, 220-yard backstroke champion, will represent the Ohio A. A. U. district.

Pete Des Jardins, fancy diving champion, will be the lone representative from Florida. Al White, the Olympic fancy and springboard diving champion, and Dave Fall, who finished second to White in the Olympics, will compete from the Pacific Coast district.

Buddy Smith will try to gain fame for the Southern district and H. Coll, the Niagara A. A. U. district.

BEGIN HERE TODAY HARRY MORTON, middle-aged and handsome, sips with a girl called NONA in a night club. She is jealous of his other women friends. He refuses to enter her apartment to talk with her, and goes to his own city apartment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER II THE trim house-maid, waiting in the reception hall of the Morton home was listening at the study door. So was her mistress. They could hear the steady rumble of voices from within, where Morton and his visitor were closeted.

The words were not distinguishable, but from time to time they could make out the voice of the stranger, raised in evident denunciation. Morton's tone was even and quiet, as always. The conference lasted nearly an hour. It ended abruptly.

The door was banged open, and the stranger, struggling, was propelled through it. Morton's hand on his collar. The little house-maid leaped to the front door, and opened it. Morton thrust the man outside, and threw after him the shabby hat and overcoat that had hung on a hall rack.

"Now stay out," instructed Morton, calmly. "Don't try to come back, and don't stay in town." The man was swearing, under his breath. He picked up the hat and coat, and with a sidelong glance at Morton and the trembling girl, he moved down the walk and out the high iron gate. Morton stood watching him as he hurried the side walk, and shuffled off of sight.

"Did he hurt you?" she asked, her voice choking. Morton patted her on the shoulder. "I never get hurt," he said. "Don't trouble yourself about it, dear. Bad little girls should not be listening at the keyhole, anyway. Did you hear anything that we said in there?"

The girl shook her head, and Morton seemed pleased. He made no explanation, and Audrey asked him for none. She hovered about him anxiously, though, as he sat at luncheon, and insisted on serving him herself. Once she passed her hand over his slightly graying hair.

As he left the house, on his way downtown, Morton thrust into his overcoat pocket a packet of papers that he withdrew from a little while later in his study.

and I don't want her to know any more of him than she knows already. She saw him today for the first time in eighteen years. She was a year old when she saw him last." He laughed. "She didn't remember him."

Morton ran down the rickety stairs. His step was uncommonly light for a man in the middle years, and his stride and figure were like a boy's as he swung up the street again toward his own office. Passers-by saluted him, and once he stopped to make cordial inquiry as to the health of an aged man who sat in a battered, cheap automobile beside the curb.

"I've been waiting for you, SO long, Mr. Morton," she exclaimed, rushing forward to seize his hand. Morton stood, his hat in his left hand, while she clung to his right. His forehead wore a slight frown.

"That fellow was in town here today. I threw him out of my house. Also, I told him to get out of Rochester. I want you to make sure that he does, and I want you to put a man to watch my house at night, for a few days. You can call him off as soon as you make sure that this fellow is gone."

Morton struck his front teeth with his thumbnail, thoughtfully. "All right. You know my little girl Audrey? Well, this worthless, no-good water claims to be her stepfather. Perhaps you don't know it—certainly I never told anybody—but I fled before I came to Rochester. This man seems to feel that he has a sort of claim on her—or on me, as her guardian. At any rate, he came to my house today and threatened to make trouble if I did not give him a very considerable sum of money."

Morton shook his head. "I don't need the police. I can take care of him, as long as I know he's around. What I'm afraid of is that he'll make an attempt to kidnap Audrey, or something like that. Have your men look around for him, and get him hanging out of any of these cheap lodging places. If he is, call me up. I can get him out of town. In any event, see that my house is watched."

Arising, he took his hat and overcoat. The detective nodded. "I'll have a good man at your house tonight," he said, "and I'll scout around my self to see if this chap is in town. Sure you don't want him arrested as a vagrant?"

"No," Morton said. "For one thing, if he is arrested, I'm afraid my little girl will find out about him. dyed criminal, the story is sadly disillustoning. For it proves that in love, a man is very much the same sort of person that he is in other phases of life."

The Search For Youth

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service.

The unattainable state known as rejuvenation may be approximated when right living is substituted for faulty health habits.

Thus, it is known that a wisely directed medical regime at water, in places, spas and springs may be productive of surprising improvement, noticeable to patient and friends alike.

So long as the natural longing on the part of mankind for eternal youth and perpetual life cannot be gratified it becomes necessary to turn to less spectacular means of approximating these desires.

With reasonable attention to certain well-defined and readily accessible principles of personal hygiene it is possible to keep pace with Father Time instead of falling prematurely by the wayside.

It is particularly important that those who desire to enjoy hale and happy old age lay a substantial health foundation in early life.

Early Foundation. The inevitable loss of old age must be fully realized, accepted and the changing conditions courageously met. When a person becomes old, he cannot expect to have his youth restored.

He may expect, however, to reap the benefit of a wisely directed earlier career. Not only will such a person grow old gracefully but he will be better prepared to meet the increased strains placed upon a gradually weakening organism.

HER OWN WAY A GIRL OF TODAY

AN UGLY THREAT before Mr. Hathaway knew it was gone. As I stepped into the hall I heard the violent ringing of his bell and before I got into the elevator, Mr. Hathaway's secretary came running after me, and asked if I would return to Mr. Hathaway's office for a moment as he wanted to see me.

When I went back he asked me for my address, saying he wanted to know where to find me when he'd straightened things out. I gave him Mamie's address and thanked him.

This time as I was going to the elevator, I ran plump into Sellers, the detective of the Beaux Arts. He stopped short and looked at me, seemingly in great surprise, and then as it dawned in his mind that probably I had been to see Mr. Hathaway, his face changed and grew quite terrible to look at.

I shuddered a little, as fascinated I tried to take my eyes off his face. He saw me cringing away from him, because, for the life of me, I could not help fearing him, and coming near where I stood waiting for the elevator he said out of the corner of his mouth:

"Mind your step, girl, mind your step, or you'll find yourself in a hole that you can't jump out of. I'm just going to see the old man now and I'll give him such a description of you that, no matter what you've said he'll ver dream but what you're lying."

"I don't know what you mean, sir. You have no right to speak to me."

"Yes, you do know what I mean, my girl, and I tell you again, mind your step."

I think if the elevator had not come just then I would have screamed. As it was, I was shaking from sheer terror of that cruel, ugly face.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Sumner

Mama's Only-Only! Mama's and papa's darling, the only child, has a chance to be as normal and, in general, as acceptable a member of society, as the child with brothers and sisters.

Our Dainty Feet! What do mine eyes behold? Titled English beauty, touring America, raves on about the dainty American woman with her beautiful tiny feet and ankles. Sounds suspiciously to me like a certain toothsome morsel cooked from the apple fruit! Show me a lady that sells more T's and S's wide than any other number!

Dollar a Kiss! Here's a riddle for married people. How long should a couple be married in order to total 25,000 kisses? A Chicago judge awards a fair plaintiff $25,000 extra or $1 a kiss for the 25,000 kisses which she should have had, but never did have, in her married life. Just one kiss a day would take almost 70 years to make 25,000! The judge must figure that the normal married life demands them before, during and after meals.

A Budget Machine. A budget machine has been patented by a Mrs. Anne Peaks Kennedy which automatically tells the family what a fixed income what should be spent for various items. One merely fixes the dial at the yearly income and a button does the rest. The invention of the age, we prophesy. Much has been said about budgets, but their making has heretofore been too involved for the average wage-maker's mentality. One week's home or rent or payment on home, says the machine.

chime; half that amount for heat, light, laundry; telephone, ice; one-fifth of income for food, one-tenth for clothes.

Twin Garters. In ladylike Queen Victoria's time they called table legs "table limbs." Girls did not wear fancy garters those days. Wasted effort! Today they wear two, narrow ones above the knee, wider ones to match below. Fetching!

Avast, Pigknuckles! If you look not upon the liver when it is red or the steak when it is brown; if, in short, you are vegetarian only you will like "The Golden Rule Cook Book" by F. H. French which tells how to make even the lowly spinach taste like ambrosia divine and gives complete vegetarian menus of even banquet dimensions.

Two Famous Girls. Last spring an English girl wrote the season's best seller. She was Margaret Kennedy, author of "The Constant Nymph." This year "a slip of a girl," Sylvia Thompson, writes "The Hounds of Spring," promised as the season's best seller. Both girls are alumnae of the same English schools. Maybe something in this idea that every little school has a specialty all its own!

Politely Refuse substitutes if you seek the famous Quaker flavor

THE point to remember when buying breakfast oats is that only Quaker Oats have the rich Quaker flavor that you want. One package of oats without that flavor may spoil your breakfasts for a week.

The price you pay is the same. Thus "trying" a substitute is a folly. Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years milling experience. No other oats has it. Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed.

Get Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, or regular Quaker Oats as you have always known. Your grocer has both kinds.

WEEKLY JOB Give the refrigerator a thorough cleaning and airing each week.

KEEP THEM BRIGHT Sal soda is very efficacious for cleaning iron and steel utensils.

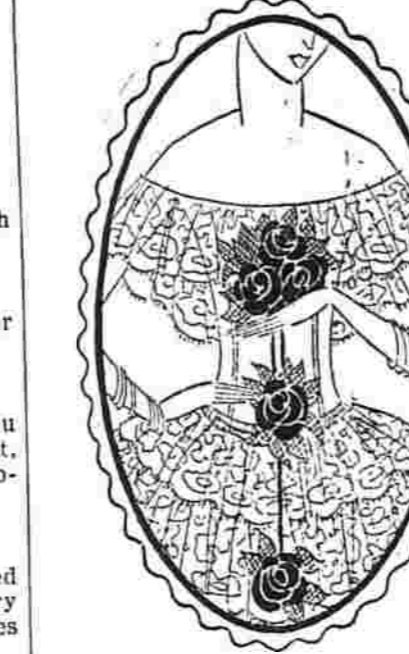

BRING DOWN HEAT If fat gets too hot before you have the food ready to fry in it, put in a handful of raw sliced potatoes.

STITCH IN TIME All clothes should be mended before they are put in the laundry as a rip or tear usually increases in size.

TEMPERATURE COUNTS Flannels should be washed on a clear bright day and dried as quickly as possible.

KEEP THEM SOFT Never rub flannels any more than necessary when laundering them as this thickens and hardens them.

DON'T MARRY A MAN TO REFORM HIM

BY CYNTHIA GREY

Murder trial "fans" by the hundreds thronged the courthouse at Buffalo, N. Y., when Richard Reese Whittemore, latest of the "super-criminals," went on trial. But in the heart of the throng, Margaret Whittemore was bitterly alone.

The newspapers spun a romantic story around Whittemore and the girl he "loved devotedly"—the girl he would "protect at all costs." However bare in other respects, Whittemore at least was true to his mate, they said.

PLEATS IN GROUP The pleated skirt of this season is more apt to be pleated in groups than in the usual even manner.

A TOUCH OF PEP The transparent, thin evening gown of this season that is carried out in black chiffon or lace is quilted frequently trimmed with rhinestones or tiny jet incrustations that give glitter and life to it.

JABOTS FOR EVENING Paris is using the jabot on evening gowns. A charming adaptation is the use of pleated gold cloth on a metal brocade gown.

THREE BIRTHDAYS Pine Grove, Pa.—A triplicate birthday anniversary was celebrated at the home of W. C. Frank, on the same day Mr. Frank was 46, and the latter's son, Basil, 4.

VINES CATCH MEASLES Los Angeles.—An epidemic of "measles" or what is known in France as "apoplexy" is afflicting California grapevines. A 4 to 6 per cent sodium arsenate solution is the remedy put forward by agriculturists.

Nearly everyone knows the comfort and necessity of a permanent wave for the Summer months. It is unaffected by water or moisture of any sort. When we consider that we are dealing with the only head of hair we possess, you will naturally be particular as to the treatment it receives. For this reason you will appreciate the New Nestle Circuline process, perfected after over 20 years' diligent research by Mr. Charles Nessler, the original inventor of Permanent-Waving. This method eliminates uncertainty and guess-work absolutely.

A small sample of your hair is tested at the Nestle Laboratory, (for hair texture differs almost as much as individuals). The customer having the choice of waves from the close wave up to the wide flowing wave, which ever is chosen the result is a perfect duplicate of naturally wavy hair, no kinks or ridges of twisted winding.

Proof of the excellency of the Nestle Process can be seen by the report of the Eighth Annual Exhibition of the American Master Hairdressers Association, March 8th and 9th, 1926, at New York. Five first prizes for permanent waving, all won by Nestle waves; five second prizes, four won by Nestle waves.

ALL FEATURE ACTS ON STATE PROGRAM

Vaudeville Tops Previous Bills—"Song and Dance Man" Fine Picture.

(By Member Herald Staff.)
There is this much about the vaudeville program which opened at the State theater last night for three days—every act is something different. There is good entertainment throughout the entire bill—so much so that it is difficult to pick the headliner.

Accompanying the vaudeville is a different motion picture. George M. Cohan's "Song and Dance Man" is a corker. Tom Moore must have spent months trawling George Cohan around to learn his own peculiar stage traits—for Tom has copied every little peculiarity Cohan ever displayed. There's fun aplenty in the picture, and there's real tragedy, and since Bessie Love is the star lady there is pulchritude.

Dale and DeLane open the vaudeville. Miss Dale and Miss DeLane are two most shapely girls. One has an operatic soprano voice, and the other is an unusually clever dancer. And right at the end of their act they have a big surprise.

Mattylee Lipnard and her plantist are next on the program. Miss Lipnard is a pretty, vivacious blonde, with just the voice for putting across a new line of snappy songs. And she has personality. She reminds one of Mae Murray, and, without a doubt, she tries to give that impression. The act has one of the prettiest drop curtains yet displayed at the State but perhaps you won't see that since Miss Lipnard is out front during the whole act.

Hunting and Francis have a rather unusual sort of an act and introduce their patter and songs in a different way. The lady of the act sings well and the man has a good comedy line.

The best comedy act is presented by Rogers and Donnelly. Rogers is an old-time burlesque comedian and he brings all the tricks of the same into play. His trick dancing, ably assisted by his trick shoes give him a chance to be extremely funny. But after you see Miss Donnelly you'll realize why he doesn't get funny with her.

Tumbling and juggling acts have to be real good to please Manchester audiences, but The Three Blanks are sure to register a hit here. The Papa Blank is really the main show and he accomplishes some extraordinary feats. Mamma and Baby Blank ably assist him in juggling and in carrying out his stunts.

In addition to the vaudeville and feature picture an Educational comedy is shown as well as a Pathe news reel and the first of a series of six lessons in how to do the Charleston by Arthur Murray, famous instructor.

WATER SYSTEMS
EXPANDED LAST YEAR IN CONN.

Companies Laid Many New Pipe Lines Including Those Connecting Different Communities and Improved Plants.

Large extensions of water company systems in Connecticut, costing many thousands of dollars, took place throughout the state during the past year, according to the Connecticut Committee on Public Service Information. Practically every water company in the state found it necessary to lay new pipe lines to extend service to new customers or to improve the service to old customers. Improvements upon and additions to plant and equipment were also general throughout the state.

Undoubtedly the most important move made toward the improvement of Connecticut's water supply during 1925 was the beginning of work on the new $3,500,000 reservoir of the New Haven Water Company at Branford, which will be the largest reservoir in the state and one of the largest in the country. Another important feature of the year's work was the connection of Shelton, Westport, and Bridgeport into one great water supply system by means of interconnecting pipe lines. The large task of laying these lines was conducted during the year.

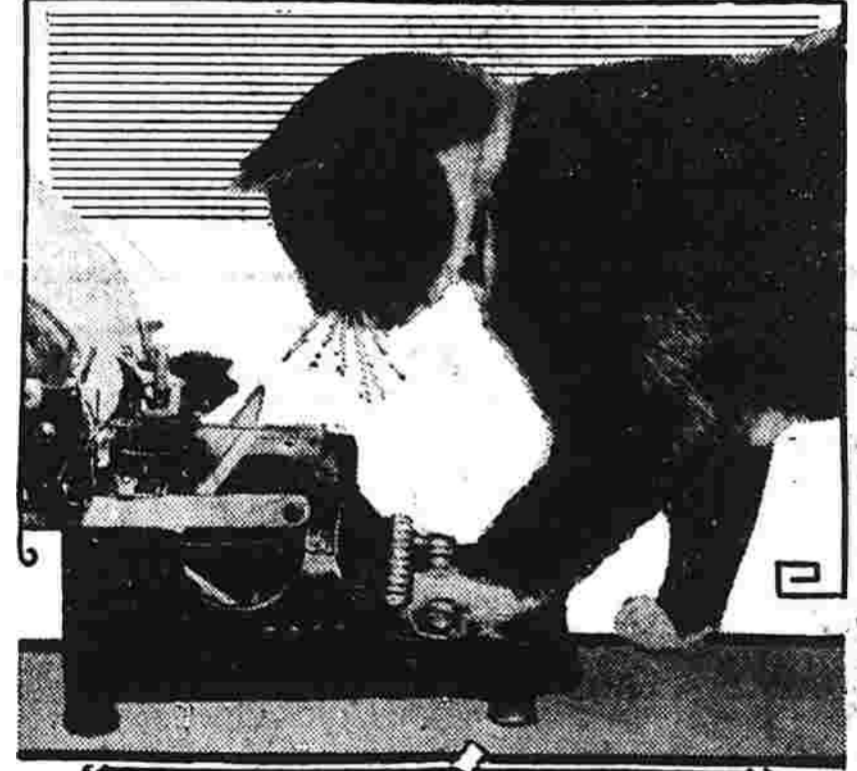

Every water company in Connecticut, although its reservoirs were hit by the perils of dryness, maintained service through all months with no difficulty, the fact that there was a shortage of rain in a few months being offset by the foresight of the engineers who constructed Connecticut's water systems. Besides their work in water service, Connecticut water companies undertook a considerable task in the planting of some 175,000 pine trees on their watershed land in line with their reforestation policy.

FIND MAGNETIC IRON DEPOSITS IN MEXICO.
Mexico City.—Vast deposits of magnetic iron ore have been discovered in the State of Sinaloa, not very far from the port of Mazatlan. Under the new laws the property will have to be worked by a Mexican concern unless the government lets the concession to foreigners for a period of years. Efforts are being made to organize a company here, but in any event, since the government owns the subsoil it will prove a tremendous source of new revenue.

TO PREVENT ODORS
Whenever water in which strong vegetables such as cabbage, cauliflower, onions or turnips is poured down the drain it should be followed immediately by plenty of cold water. This will avoid bad odors.

SAND IN MARBLE
Middlebury, Vt.—A large pocket of sand was found recently in an otherwise solid block of marble. Geologists say the marble was formed under water and probably the sand was caught in the center of the formation.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Mister Tingaling and the Twins left the hive of the honey bees and all the friendly bees buzzed a goodbye.

"Good-bye!" called the Queen Bee. "I hope that Mrs. Tingaling will like the honey. And tell her she can eat all she wants, and it won't make her fat."

Away started Mister Tingaling and the Twins, pulling the square honeycomb along like a little wagon.

"Let's sing a song," said the little fairyman. "I'm feeling happier than I have for six weeks. I feel just like singing."

"What shall we sing?" said the Twins.

But before anybody could answer there was a loud buzzing, and looking back they beheld a large wasp settle himself right on the honey and start to eat it.

"Get out!" shouted Mister Tingaling.

"I won't," said the wasp. "I like honey and I'm going to have some. If you put me off, I'll sting you."

"Oh, then just help yourself!" said the fairyman. "I guess you can't eat much anyway. Come on, children. Don't pay any attention to the cross old thing. Let's sing."

"What'll we sing?" said the Twins again.

"Why, let's sing, let's sing—let's sing. Why we'll sing—"

But just then there was another buzzing.

And looking back quietly the rent collectors saw a big hornet settling. "That's my honey," said the hornet.

"I don't care," said the hornet. "I like honey and I'm going to have some. Move over, wasp! Gimme room! Um, yum! That's good, sweet honey! Don't worry! There will be lots left for you, Mister Fairyman."

"I guess you won't eat much," said Mister Tingaling. "Come on, let's sing, children!"

But before they could decide what to sing, there was another buzzing and this time it was a dragonfly.

Then next came a yellow-jacket, and after that came a June bug. And pretty soon the entire top of the honey-comb was covered with passengers helping themselves to the honey and getting a free ride.

"My goodness! You'd think I ran a bus line!" cried Mister Tingaling.

"I'd call it a dining car—meals at all hours!" laughed Nancy.

Mister Tingaling had forgotten all about stinging by this time. He was looking pretty blue. "How am I ever going to get all those creatures off my honey when I get home?" he kept thinking.

Suddenly they heard a dreadful voice—Snatcher Snatch's voice—saying, "Here, give me that honey! I like honey and if you don't give me that honey, I'll grab it and run off with it."

"Help yourself!" said Mister Tingaling quickly.

Out of the woods hopped the bad little goblin, and he grabbed the honey with both hands.

But the wasp and the hornet and the yellow jacket began to buzz angrily around him and he ran away yelling at the top of his lungs.

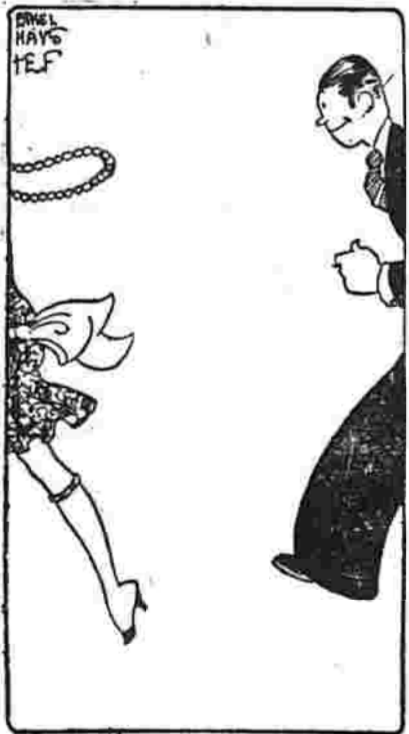

"One good turn deserves another," they buzzed. "Thank you very much. We're full now and we're going. Good-bye."

"Now, let's sing," said the fairyman. But I don't know what they sang so I can't tell you.

A PUZZLE A DAY

The new manager of the book store at the corner of Avenue A and First street laid in a large stock of books. The store had formerly sold only fiction but he felt certain that other types of books could be sold as well. So he bought 100 cheap books on statistics. They were covered with the temporary cover shown above. Notice the square containing 36 letters on it. These letters form a sentence found in the book. Directions for discovering it are as follows: 1. Start at one square and travel in a continuous line crossing every square once. 2. The name of a famous ball player is concealed in the squares. What is the complete sentence? Last puzzle answer: There are 27 rooms in the Wayside Hotel, where tourists visiting Yellowstone National Park occasionally stay. At the time, the room clerk reported to the manager that there were 23 guests in the hotel. If four more had been registered, there would have been 27 guests, one for every room in the hotel. If 5 guests had left, there would have been 18 guests or 9 rooms more than the number of guests registered and that equals 1-2 a vacant room for every guest.

Before the MIKE
Gilbert McClurg, noted speaker, writer and traveler, will conduct a series of 20 talks on the subject of "panoramic Colorado" from station KFXP, Colorado Springs. The series will open May 10 and will continue into June. McClurg's reputation as an interesting speaker is well established, and his talks are considered one of the big events on the KFXP program.

A specialist of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago gives a short talk each Monday morning from 10:15 to 11 o'clock from station WGN. Dolly care of the infant, facts concerning food for the growing child, proper sleeping periods and other such information is heard in these Monday morning talks.

The oldest German singing society of Hartford, Conn., will present a program from station WTIC of that city on May 12 at 7 p. m. The Hartford Singsong is made up of 70 male voices and is one of the oldest singing organizations in the east. Eric Tesche, tenor, will assist with the program.

Carl Bannwart, a member of the regular staff of lecturers on forestry at the New York Botanical Garden, will give a series of talks on trees and their place in cities. His talks will be broadcast by WAMM, Newark, N. J., every Tuesday.

Sasha Culbertson, violinist and popular broadcast soloist, is one of the few men in history who have fought for their country without having seen it. His father, Armon Culbertson, left America when a young man to represent American business interests in Russia. He married a Russian girl and Sasha Culbertson was born. At the outbreak of the World War the family moved to Switzerland and upon the entrance of the United States into the conflict Sasha enlisted with the A. E. F. in Paris. After the armistice he came to the United States and viewed the shores of his native land for the first time.

NEW WHITE STAR LINER IS NEARING COMPLETION

Belfast.—Satisfactory progress is being made with the construction here of the new White Star liner "Laurentic," destined for the Liverpool-Montreal service. With a gross tonnage of 18,700 tons, the "Laurentic" will be the largest ship in the White Star's Canadian fleet, and also the largest ship on the St. Lawrence route. Her dimensions are 604 feet in length and 75 feet wide. She will have luxurious accommodation for 600 Cabin Class and 1,000 third-class passengers. All the latest devices for safety at sea are being fitted.

LEGION TO TAKE PART ON MEMORIAL DAY

At last evening's meeting of the Dilworth Council, Post No. 102, American Legion, held in the School Street Rec. auditorium, it was voted to participate in the Memorial Day parade and to attend the morning service at the Second Congregational church. The Legion also voted to attend the state banquet at the Hotel Hartford, May 26. National Commander, McQuigg will be present.

A class of thirty-four candidates were initiated last evening following which there was a snappy entertainment composed of a four-trumpet band. Refreshments round boxing bout, singing and in-ware served.

The list of veterans initiated follows: E. Harrington, R. J. McKinney, J. Dwyer, J. R. Fogarty, H. Murphy, C. Priest, H. Nutrie, R. Von Donk, R. W. Edgar, J. Jaffe, P. Dilworth, T. Gleason, W. BANDITS ROB THEATRICAL MAN IN N. Y. HOTEL

New York, April 30.—Three bandits armed with blackjacks held up Gustave McCune, theatrical producer, in his room in the Hotel Ansonia today, beat him and bound him with his neckties and escaped with $3,000 in jewelry and $28 in cash.

BYRD'S EXPLORING PARTY AT BERGEN

Join Amundsen Advance Group—Possibly May Fly First for Polar Region.

Spitzbergen, April 30.—The expedition of Lieutenant Byrd has arrived here to make preparations for a polar flight, in addition to the group under Captain Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth, already here completing arrangements for their dirigible expedition to the pole.

Lieutenant Byrd reported an excellent trip across the Atlantic and was confident that his expedition would be able to make arrangements to hop off for the pole in a comparatively short time.

BRIDGEPORT REPORTER, JOBLESS, SEEKS DEATH

New York, April 30.—Merrick Nason, Springfield, Mass., was rescued from what police described as "an attempt at suicide" by a policeman who jumped into the river and dragged him out.

Nason, who is a Bridgeport newspaper man, told police that failure to secure employment led to his attempted suicide. He is being held at Bellevue hospital for observation.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS TO BE GUESTS HERE

Washington Commandery, No. 1, Knight Templars, of Hartford, and of which there are many Manchester members, will observe Ascension Day on May 13 in Manchester. The Knight Templars will be entertained at the South Methodist church. They will dine there and listen to an address by Rev. Joseph Cooper.

The lodge members will come to a parade there marching to the church. They will bring a band with them. Dinner will be served at the church at 6 p. m.

FORTY AND EIGHT CLUB Voiture, Locale, No. 270 of the Hommes 40—Chevaux 8, the inscription our boys found on the box cars in France, meaning the capacity of the car was 40 men and eight horses, held its first meeting at the School Street Rec. last evening.

This club is the fun making group of the American Legion. It is a county organization. There were 35 members present.

It was arranged that a promenade will be held in the state armory on May 15. Committees were appointed to complete details.

TOMORROW LAST DRY TO PAY TOWN TAX The Hall of Records was a busy place today and will be even more busy tomorrow. The town tax must be paid before tomorrow night or interest at the rate of nine per cent will be added. As a result there is a rush of taxpayers to see the collector. He will however, keep his office open until 9 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night to accommodate late comers.

According to the collector, the taxpayers up to the last ten days have responded very slowly but during the present week, the money has been coming in steadily.

SENATOR BRATTON'S ELECTION CONFIRMED Washington, April 30.—The Senate today adopted a resolution declaring Senator Samuel N. Bratton (D., N. M.) was legally elected. The action closed ex-Senator H. O. Burton's contest for the seat.

Pinehurst Market News

The wholesale price on the best potatoes dropped about a dollar on a two-bushel bag since Monday. Our price is now 49c a half peck. "Go easy"—don't use as many potatoes as usual and they will come down some more.

We are hard to please (and we admit it), when it comes to the selection of our Meats, Vegetables and other food products. But we have to make careful selections for if you don't "BUY Good Things to Eat" you can't "SELL good things to eat" and our customers have learned to expect the very best from Pinehurst and furthermore it is part of our service to see that they get what they expect.

These suggestions for a Sunday dinner are taken from Good Housekeeping's book of menus:

CARDINAL SAYS WORLD'S GOODS HURTS CHARITY

Penuriousness of Those Who Become Wealthy Is Lammented by O'Connell.

Boston.—Severely condemning many members of his own faith for their penuriousness, Cardinal O'Connell declared he has "given up wishing that Catholics might become materially well to do, because their sudden wealth renders them uncharitable."

On the other hand, the prince of the Catholic church in New England said that many non-Catholics, though undemonstrative in their religion, opened their purses liberally to fine causes and would therefore be recipients of Divine blessing.

Newly acquired riches by many Catholics, unaccustomed to wealth, had rendered them vain and selfish, he said.

Talks to His People.

The startling exhortation of his church members was made during an address by the Cardinal before the members of one of the greatest Catholic charitable organizations in this city, the St. Vincent de Paul Conference.

"Some Catholics," he said, "than to have acquired large fortunes. It would have been much better for their own lives, for their own characters and for their prospects of heaven."

"They have lost touch with the world, with real life, and the cause of their silly vanity is a few million dollars."

"I won't say it is so in every case. There are noble men and women Catholics who have become enormously wealthy and who live simple, beautiful lives. They live well as their fathers and mothers lived and they live to do things for all fine causes."

"It doesn't make any difference whether a man is king or emperor or who he is, if he loses touch with the plain people of the world, he loses touch with the most interesting thing in life."

Problem Needs Study.

"I do not know what the averages are in this matter," he continued, referring to the non-charity of the newly rich, "but it is worthy studying. Somebody ought to take up the problem, find out what proportion of our people it is who get suddenly rich and lose their heads, and then compare it with the others who are not of the faith."

"What I see all around me is that the Protestant people of today, even though they seem to be lacking in external demonstrations of religion, have become wonderfully charitable. If they do not go to church they give to every worthy cause and do not close themselves up tight and hold to themselves a dollar that is coming to them."

"Now that is true. Remember, these non-Catholics who are constantly giving millions of money to great causes, to fine causes, will certainly receive God's blessing."

BOY CROOK ADMITS KILLING POLICEMAN

Boston Pair Captured in Lodging House While Posses Was Searching Woods.

Boston, April 30.—Crowds stormed the Fields Corner police station today in the vain hope of getting a view of Albert Deshon and Robert Sambursky, boys under arrest for the slaying of Patrolman Frank J. Comeau. They were arrested in an East Boston lodging house while a police posse combed the Medfield woods.

Deshon confessed that he killed Comeau. Desires for money with which to buy sinners for girl friends was responsible for the robbery. Deshon and Sambursky were staged by Deshon, Sambursky and another boy, Stanley Toothaker, also in custody.

The Deshon boy said he shot down the policeman when the latter questioned him about the registration of a stolen automobile the two were driving.

BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS.

STATE WILL STOCK LAKES IN VICINITY

Local Fishermen Expect Their Allotment Daily—Land to Be Posted.

It was stated today by one of the members of the Manchester Fish and Game Club that fish for stock purposes are expected daily from the State Fish and Game commission. These fish, among which there will be perch, bullheads, pickerel and bass, will be placed in the following lakes and ponds: Cedar Swamp, Bolton; North, Coventry; Columbia and Sperry pond.

It was also stated today that the signs prohibiting hunting and fishing without permission of the property owner have been received. These notices permitting members of the local club to fish and hunt will be distributed Sunday morning by members of the club. Those who are willing to aid in the work are requested to meet at nine o'clock at August Senkbell's store on Oak street. The signs will be posted in Manchester, Vernon, Bolton and Andover territory.

FORTY? DON'T DESPAIR THERE'S JOY BEYOND

By CYNTHIA GREY.

In this age of the flapper, what of the woman of 40?

Literature, drama, tradition conspire to terrify women as they approach middle age. "A man dies only once," says Arnold Bennett. "A woman dies twice. The woman of 40 is at her first death. It is a 'living death.' It usually lasts for several years. With some women it lasts till the second death."

Then there is Joseph Hergeshelm, who tells the terrific story of the charming woman who killed herself on the day that she first discovered a wrinkle.

There is Fimero's lovely lady, Fabia Tanqueray, who says of a neighbor, "She is six and forty, than which I could wish no worse misfortune to my dearest enemy."

The conspiracy extends to the clothes manufacturers. "Why must we dress to resemble 'chickens'?" wail the middle-aged women. The answer is simple.

There are few clothes made for the 40-year-old woman of average purse.

All in all, the prospect for the woman of 40, looks pretty dark, theoretically speaking.

But what about her actual status in society? Is the outlook as black as it is painted?

Many of the happiest women I know have reached, or passed, the stage of life when poise and perspective may be trusted to make up for the first, fine, careless raptures of youth. Some of them are just beginning to enjoy life.

Several of them are such sensible women, that I even dared to ask them about it.

The first to answer was a college professor who has given most of her life to the wearing routine of the classroom, but who still attacks her work with joyous enthusiasm.

"Middle age?" she said. "Don't be sorry for middle age. Be sorry for youth."

"It is youth that gets the hard knocks, that sees its dreams shattered, that meets every disaster with rigid nerves and refuses to adjust itself to reality."

I think that the years from 14 to 28 are the hardest ones in life, they are so fraught with disillusionment and rebellion.

"But at 40—well, at 40, one has learned to sit loosely in the saddle to ride life, instead of letting life ride her."

As for the desperate contrivings of women to stay the passing of time and to fight off wrinkles and gray hair and sagging muscles, that is all very well, so far as it goes.

But not even the most shrewd beauty doctor can contend that rejuvenation methods go the whole way. For youth, after all, is spiritual as well as physical. One may not come back, even though the natural color of the hair does.

But even with youth gone, there are enough compensations in the tranquility, the increased knowledge of life and above all, the tolerance—of middle age to give the lie to those who cry its terrors.

Ask the first rosy grandmother that you see.

HAS OLD SHILLING

Saco, Me.—Miss Minnie Fickett of this city, has a shilling, dated 1727, about the size of a dime. On one side is the word "Hamburg" around the figure of a feudal castle. The coin was found 50 years ago when a building was being torn down at Little Falls, Me.

Beef cattle require about one ounce of salt per day.

CENTER FLUTE BAND IS SOLICITING FUNDS

Wants Help in Putting Across Big Drum Corps Field Day Here.

The 41st Annual Convention Parade and Field Day of the Connecticut Fifers and Drummers' Association will be held in Manchester Friday, August 6, and Saturday, August 7, under the auspices of the Center Flute Band. This is the first big celebration Manchester has ever had of this kind, and it promises to be one that will be enjoyed by everyone.

The celebration will open on Friday evening with a meeting of the executive board and directors of the association.

On Saturday the big parade and field day will be held. It will be one of the most colorful parades that the people of Manchester have ever witnessed, every organization being uniformed in the parade, and about fifteen hundred men will be in the line from all parts of New England, New York and New Jersey. It is expected over five thousand visitors will be in town on that day.

To entertain the visiting organizations, the purchasing of prizes and other incidentals in connection with the event is going to entail a large expense. The Center Flute Band is an organization of 25 men, and with the help of the town people they want to put this field day over in good old Manchester style.

May 10 to May 15 is going to be known as the Drum Corps Booster Week, when a personal solicitation will be made for funds. Any contribution will be greatly appreciated. And we guarantee you will be amply repaid for what you give to make the event a success, and you will enjoy the music that was the Spirit of 1776 that made our country a free place to live in.

Came spring, as the movies have it, and the perennial beauty contests. Here's the first, just by way of keeping the records straight. She's Miss Ussau, nee Dobbins, christened Jane, of Nassau, N. Y.

NEW TOWN DIRECTORY IS VALUABLE VOLUME

1926 Edition Being Delivered Now—Contains Accurate List of Residents Here.

New Haven, owners of the copyright of the Manchester Directory, are delivering the 1926 edition. Advertisers have received their copies and they are to be on public sale soon. The new directory is an accurate listing of all business establishments and residents of Manchester. There is a business directory and a street number directory. The book also contains considerable information of value. The solicitors of the Price & Lee Company covered Manchester late in 1925. This company publishes directories for several cities in this vicinity and is a member of the Association of North American Directory Publishers.

GREAT STRIKE DUE IN BRITAIN TONIGHT

Last Moment Efforts to Avoid Coal Crisis Are Practically Hopeless.

London, April 30.—Miners, operators and Premier Baldwin plunged into a series of conferences today in last minute efforts to avert the coal strike which will take place at midnight unless an agreement is reached before that hour.

Settlement of the difficulties were reported no nearer than it was six months ago. At midnight the government subsidy granted in order to assist mine owners to maintain high wage levels expires. At that hour, also, the operators' notices closing down the pits also becomes effective. The miners have vigorously affirmed their intention of not working for the new wage scales posted by the operators.

One Chance In 1,000 J. H. Thomas, who on behalf of the coal trade unions Congress has been taking a prominent part in the negotiations, said the chances were a thousand to one for a closing down of the coal industry.

The Trade Union Congress is proposing that the government extend the subsidy temporarily at the rate of $500,000 per day in order to avert the crisis. The Congress has adopted a decision pledging "general support" to the miners. The decision gives the miners the active aid of 200 unions, representing 5,000,000 workers, but does not necessarily mean a general strike.

An Egyptian company has obtained a government concession for the education of Egyptians in provincial towns and villages by means of motion pictures.

ANDREWS TO SEEK GREAT BRITAIN'S AID

Sails for England in May to Negotiate Pact for West Indies Search.

Washington, April 30.—Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, chief of prohibition enforcement, will sail for England on May 22 to negotiate a new anti-liquor smuggling agreement with Great Britain, it was announced here today.

Andrews will be accompanied by Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard and William R. Vallance, assistant solicitor of the state department. Basic features of the agreement are understood to have already been agreed upon.

Under the pact, American Coast Guard cutters would be permitted to enter British West Indies possessions in quest of rum runners, or information as to liquor smuggling. The British and American governments will cooperate in the interchange of information relative to the movement of criminals.

The Washington zoo has recently received two rare lizards from the zoological gardens at Wellington, New Zealand.

OLD FASHION DANCE CONTEST THURSDAY

The Old Fashion Dance contest which came about as a result of a challenge from Willimantic printed in The Herald will be held at the State theatre next Thursday night. Two sets of six couples each will dance, one from Willimantic and one from Manchester.

There will be three judges picked from the vaudeville actors and actresses who will be playing at the State at the time. A large loving cup will be presented to the winning set.

DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA IN ANNIVERSARY FEAST

State Regent and Members of Glastonbury Circle Are Guests Here.

The annual banquet of St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella, was held last night in the Hotel Sheridan. They had for their guest of the evening, Mrs. Mary Klause of Bristol, state regent and Mrs. Margaret Hannan, of New Britain, a national officer. The arrangements for the banquet were in charge of Mrs. William Cotter, who arranged all the necessary details. The officers, and some of the members of Glastonbury Circle, to the number of twenty-four were also present. Mrs. R. E. Carney, regent of the local circle, was the toast mistress and in addition to addresses, by the state regent, National Director Mrs. Margaret Hannan and Mrs. William Worledge, regent of the Glastonbury Council there were also vocal and other musical selections. The dining room was decorated with potted plants and ferns and the favors were small May baskets and festoon caps. Between courses there was chorus singing and at the end a cheer was given for Mrs. Sheridan, who is a member of the circle, for the assistance given and the dinner served, which enabled the circle to again record a successful anniversary celebration.

Our Song Book Makes Big Hit In California

Watkins Brothers received a letter from California yesterday requesting information about their "Collection of Favorite Songs." It seems the writer had run across a copy of Watkins latest collection in California, and desiring such a booklet for a banquet, wrote the local firm, asking how the song books could be obtained. A number of years ago Watkins Brothers originated the song book idea for the use of their Duncan Phyfe Club. A guest at one of the monthly meetings noticed the books and later asked to borrow them for a banquet. From that time on there has been a constant demand for the popular song books and Watkins have found it necessary to reprint it at least twice a year in quantities running as high as five thousand copies. The latest edition, just recently off the press, is by far the biggest and best ever compiled. It contains the most popular patriotic, plantation, popular songs of yesterday and stunt songs, as well as the best popular hits, so that it is an easy matter to find some appropriate songs for any occasion in the booklets. The song books are loaned, free of charge if returned after use, to any organization having a banquet of similar gathering where group singing is planned. They can be obtained by applying at the Switch Board at Watkins store.
