

CONGRESS CAN PAY COSTS OF A REFERENDUM

Has Right to Authorize a Vote of Rum by People, Declares Senate's Legislative Counsel, Leeds.

Washington, May 8.—The most question of whether Congress has the power to authorize a national referendum on prohibition leaped into prominence again today on Capitol Hill when the Senate judiciary committee made public a series of rebuttal arguments growing out of the recent hearings, including one by Frederick F. Lee, the Senate's own legislative counsel, declaring that Congress has such power under the constitution.

The bills, led by Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon league, have vehemently denied that Congress possessed such power.

Can Use Money.

In a 5,000 word brief, citing numerous judicial decisions, Lee held that Congress not only has the power to direct a national referendum, but that it can also appropriate money to finance such an undertaking because it is the sole judge of what it shall spend "for the public welfare."

Lee, who passes upon the constitutionality of thousands of bills each session of Congress and whose decisions are almost law to the Senate, held that Congress could authorize a referendum under its constitutional power to "gather information" for use in legislation. He added that Congress could delegate this power to the states but he warned that a constitutional issue might be raised in some states once the power was delegated.

Wheeler's Defense.

The dry got their greatest joy in Wheeler's heated defense of prohibition. The American people, he said, will not surrender to the bootlegger and brewer and is "not in the mood to permit criminals and law-breakers to violate its constitution and repeal its laws."

GLORIA GOULD QUITS AMERICA

To Become a Parisian Since She Can't Afford to Live in the United States.

Paris, May 8.—Gloria Gould Bishop has definitely renounced her American domicile to join the American colony in Paris.

"I can't afford to live in New York any more even if I want to," said Mrs. Bishop in an interview.

"Life has become so expensive at home now that I find it needs an income much larger than mine to live comfortably in the United States. I have therefore definitely determined to make Paris my home."

"That doesn't mean I shall expatriate myself forever," she said. "I couldn't help loving the land of my birth. But, really, the life of a social matron demands more sacrifices than I am ready to make."

Mrs. Bishop denied that a divorce from her husband is imminent.

"My husband knows where I am and for the present I am not anticipating any legal action in regard to our separation."

When asked if her husband was going to join her, she replied—"you'd better ask him."

PARADE TO OPEN "BOOSTER" WEEK

Five Bands in Line Tonight; Fund Solicitation Next Week Here.

A parade of bands and drum corps will be held in Manchester tonight to introduce "Band Booster Week." The line of march will be from the Center starting at 7:30, north to Depot Square, and then back down Main street. The bands and corps taking part will be the Talcottville Pipe and Drum Corps, St. Patrick's Pipe Band, Manchester Pipe Band, the Silk City Flute Band and the Center Flute Band.

"Band Booster Week" will be sponsored here by the Center Flute Band. This band will be host on August 6 and 7 to the Convention of Bands, Flute and Drum Corps of Connecticut, New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The local police issued the statement after two members of the New York City police department came here and spent several hours interviewing the prisoners.

WEIGHTED BODY OF WOMAN IN FOND

Lynnfield, Mass., May 8.—Police today were trying to identify the body of a woman, weighted down by a stone-laden suitcase, tightly tied to her neck in Pillsbury pond. Police were undecided whether it was a case of suicide or murder.

OWNERS OF SEMINOLE PLEDGE MORE MONEY

Local stockholders of the Seminole Estates, to the number of about twenty-five met at the School Street Hotel last evening for a discussion of the affairs of the corporation. Attorney William S. Hyde acted as spokesman and explained the conditions which led up to the recent reorganization and incorporation of the Seminole Estates.

Explanations were also made by President Frank N. Tyler and Treasurer Frank H. Anderson. In order to raise funds which are needed immediately to safeguard the original investment, it is proposed to float a second mortgage to run for one year. This will be done by issuing notes in units of $500, which will be subscribed by the stockholders. A number of these subscriptions were pledged last evening.

AMBLING AMOS CAPTURES FOUR BOLD BANDITS

Famous Darien Cop Hits Into Gunmen Group, This Time and Gets 'Em All Despite Artillery.

Darien, May 8.—Four armed bandits were captured here early today while fleeing from Boston, where it is charged they had participated in several robberies, and are held in the Darien town jail awaiting action by the local and Massachusetts authorities.

They gave their names as John Margin, of Cambridge, Mass.; John Miller, 24, of Cambridge; Kasimir and William Barsek, brothers, of New York.

The men were captured on the Post road at 4 a. m. this morning by Motorcycle Policeman Amos Anderson of the local police force, between Noroton and Darien.

According to the police, William Barsek made a confession in which he admitted participation in robberies in New York and Massachusetts in which the men arrested with him took part.

In Boston they broke into a private garage, stole Massachusetts license plates and put them on their machine. In Cambridge they robbed a grocery store, covering the manager with a gun, and getting $50.

When arrested by Policeman Anderson the men had three automatic pistols and one six-shooter. They did not attempt to use them.

Anderson is the Darien officer who has made a phenomenal record in arresting rum runners and automobile thieves.

Toll of Three Killings.

The men under arrest admitted, according to local police, early this afternoon, that they are responsible for the killing of three persons during hold-ups in New York. One was in Dean street, Brooklyn, during which a man and a woman were killed by the bandits. The other slaying occurred in a Manhattan hold-up.

The local police issued the statement after two members of the New York City police department came here and spent several hours interviewing the prisoners.

DEADLOCK MAY BRING OUTLAWING OF STRIKE

DECLARES WAR WAS FORCED ON LABOR UNIONS

Arthur Pugh, Strike Leader, Asserts Unions Wanted Peace But Government Was Eager for Fight.

Arthur Pugh, chairman of the negotiating committee of the Trade Union Congress and the man whose signature on the strike order plunged Britain into the world's greatest industrial battle, breaks his silence with this exclusive interview.

It was obtained by Milton Bronner, London correspondent for NEA Service and the Manchester Herald. The interview is offered for its value as the point of view of an outstanding partisan leader and no editorial responsibility is assumed for the sentiments expressed.

Pugh started life as a steel worker.

By ARTHUR PUGH.

London, May 8.—General stoppage of industry is in progress for the first time in the history of Britain.

The immediate cause was the locking out of nearly a million mine workers while negotiations for wage adjustments were proceeding, and the refusal of the mine owners to agree to withdraw the lockout notices and of the government to obtain their withdrawal so that negotiations might be continued free from threat by either side.

The government insisted the mine workers must agree to accept a wage reduction before lockout notices could be withdrawn and negotiations resumed on all other issues covered by report of the National Coal Commission.

This demand was resolutely resisted by the Miners Federation of Great Britain with the united support of the whole of the British trades union movement, who contended that negotiations must proceed on a basis of equality and the government should insist, in respect of the lockout, upon the cardinal principle to which it applies, namely, that the status quo must be restored and maintained throughout the negotiations.

The unions having determined not to surrender the vital principle that a single issue should not be settled in advance, but that all issues should be left open for discussion and settlement by negotiation.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS STATE RECOGNITION

Boys' Glee Club Victory Puts School Back on Music Map After 18 Years Absence.

For the first time in the history of the South Manchester High school, a boys' glee club representing the school has received state wide recognition, by virtue of winning the boys' blue-club championship in the inter-scholastic glee club contest held yesterday in the Joan Pritch High school at Windsor.

The S. M. H. S. Boys' Glee club was organized last September at the beginning of the school year, under the direction of Miss E. Marian Doward. It made its first public appearance during Educational Week last fall. Since then it has been carefully trained under Miss Doward's capable direction. It has sung many times before the school assemblies, and made a decided hit when it rendered several numbers at the local school's dramatic club presentation of "Little Women." At the suggestion of Miss C. Louise Dickerman, music supervisor of the Joan Pritch High school of Windsor, the local, West Hartford, East Hartford, Windsor, Glastonbury, Farmington, and Bristol high schools decided to hold an inter-scholastic glee club contest in Windsor in May. Bristol afterward dropped out, but the other schools went ahead with the work.

The purpose of this contest was to promote a greater interest in high school glee club work. Boys' and Climax Ahead.

"The situation is becoming more intense and the climax is not reached," the Gazette said. "Orders have been sent by the leaders of Railway and Transport union to do their utmost to paralyze and break down the supply of food and necessities of life."

These accusations were met with vigorous denial by officials of the Trade Union Congress.

Reports that the War Department was about to call upon the reserves were officially denied in a communique stating that as yet "no

GOVERNMENT TO OUTLAW STRIKE NOW INDICATED

"Illegal," Declares Simon and Press—Paving Way for Drastic Action as Troops Show Machine Guns.

London, May 8.—Newspapers today gave the widest publicity to an address of Sir John Simon before the House of Commons yesterday, stressing his exposition of the constitutional point that the general strike was illegal and that each trade-union leader was liable to prosecution and loss of "the utmost farthing of his personal possessions."

"The unlawful character of the general strike," the Times said, "has not hitherto been so clearly stated. The ultimate responsibility rests upon the members of the General Council of the Trades Union Congress collectively and individually."

All Responsible.

The Times takes the view that individual union members cannot escape responsibility any more than their leaders.

Some papers, however, including the Cardiff Western Mail, declared that protection of the law will be extended to the strikers if "they have the courage to disobey the unlawful tyrannous orders of trade union officials."

In well-informed circles, the speech of Sir John was interpreted as paving the way for, and justifying, drastic government measures.

Somewhat in support of this view was a statement appearing in the British Gazette, the official government organ, that "an organized attempt was being made to starve the people and wreck the state."

The government renewed its charges of yesterday that strikers are seeking to starve the nation into submission, and announced that food ships cannot be re-loaded because of intimidations of strikers. Destroyers and naval forces are being sent to the ports to relieve this situation.

New Food Depot.

The government created a food transport depot in the Horse Guards Parade today, where 3,000 motors were mobilized to move food. Shelter tents were erected and canteens were opened to feed the hungry.

Post office telephone and telegraph lines along the London Northeastern railroad were cut last night, but otherwise there have been only minor disorders and violence reported today.

Prospects of any peace negotiations during the week-end were dim. Most of the strike leaders have left London to address strike meetings in the provinces.

Premier Baldwin remained at No. 10 Downing street and summoned a cabinet meeting to review the situation tonight to review the situation.

The movement of trains and other means of transportation continued to show some improvement. Interference with buses and street cars occurred in many quarters of London today, but not with as great frequency as earlier in the week.

One bus was overturned and burned at Newington.

Thirty-six persons arrested in London yesterday were arraigned today and given sentences ranging from two weeks to four months of hard labor.

Government authorities today reported that food ships are being held up in some ports, their unloading being impossible because of intimidations of strikers.

NO SIGNS YET OF YIELDING IN THE BRITISH CONFLICT

Fewer Disorders But Situation Grows More Tense—Many Troop Movements With Machine Guns Showing—Government Asks for 30,000 Volunteer Police—Railroad Telegraph Wires Cut—Rationing Begins in Some Sections as Food Is Tied Up—Canteens Feed Penniless; Attacks on Buses Decrease in London—Glasgow Still Turbulent—Train Service Improving.

London, May 8.—Not since war days has London faced so gloomy and depressing a Saturday night.

The general strike has the capital and the nation in its grip and with no signs of peace the usual Saturday night gaieties have disappeared.

Heavily armed troops, armored cars, machine gun companies, and naval forces fill those areas where the British working man generally does his Saturday night celebrating.

All moved troops through the working class districts, perhaps in warning against any Saturday night disorders.

In Downing Street the cabinet met and heard rumors of possible attacks on the docks and food warehouses in East India Dock Road.

In Eccleston Square the Trades Union Congress leaders were in session, planning measures to tighten up the tie-up in places where there has been relaxation.

Only grim determination to fight emanated from either Downing street or Eccleston Square.

Government Statement.

"The situation throughout the country is virtually unchanged. Quiet is reported generally," said a government communique.

"Rumors that troops are disaffected and have refused strike duty are baseless," continued the government communique.

"Ninety-two thousand volunteers enrolled for duty yesterday. A recruiting centre in Waltham-stow was discontinued because it was mobbed by strikers."

The government renewed its charges of yesterday that strikers are seeking to starve the nation into submission, and announced that food ships cannot be re-loaded because of intimidations of strikers. Destroyers and naval forces are being sent to the ports to relieve this situation.

STRIKE'S FIFTH DAY SITUATION IN BRIEF

The fifth day finds the deadlock in the strike complete. No peace negotiations have been reported.

A. J. Cook, miner's leader, predicts that there will be no peace parties for another week.

The Trades Union Congress is in session and the cabinet has been summoned to meet this evening.

Disorders are continuing but with less frequency than during the early days of the strike.

Fond rationing has become necessary in some areas. Trains and street cars are running with more frequency.

The government charges that strikers' intimidations are stopping the unloading of food cargoes at the docks. Naval forces have been dispatched to guard the volunteer dockers.

Shipping conditions are uncertain. Twenty-five ships are in Liverpool. Some sailings have been cancelled.

The government is opening new food depots. Telephone and telegraph wires have been cut.

Police magistrates meted out sentences ranging to four months of hard labor to rioters. Indications point to government intention to take drastic action against all its leaders.

Archbishop of Canterbury, which was received with little consideration.

The Archbishop proposed, first, cancellation of the general strike order; second, renewal of the coal subsidy for a short definite period; third, withdrawal by the mine owners of the notices of reduced wages.

The Bishop of London, writing to J. A. Thomas, head of the Railway Men's Union, offered to act as mediator in the coal dispute.

More Troops Appear.

During the afternoon there was an increasing appearance of troops in the trouble areas of London.

Troops, armed with machine guns and full equipped, moved to a destination unknown.

Victoria Park in Hackney was taken over by the government and a military camp has been established there.

Strike leaders charge that the movement of troops is intimidation by the government.

Talk of Dock Raids.

Excitement was tense in the East End this afternoon as rumors were afloat that strikers and unemployed are combining for raids on the East India docks tonight, in order to secure food supplies for themselves.

Troops are guarding the docks and are believed to be sufficient to withstand any raids.

RATIONING BEGINS

Food Plentiful But Tied Up in Wholesale Markets.

London, May 8.—Food rationing was resorted to in some sections of London today. Many housewives found that eggs were not to be purchased, while purchases of butter were limited to half a pound, and only small quantities of bread and flour were doled out.

This rationing was upon the initiative of the food dealers themselves.

Machine Guns on Trucks.

However, movement of troops was more noticeable all day yesterday and this morning than on any other days of the strike. Trucks loaded with machine guns were a common sight.

Fully armed soldiers marching on business bent, were to be seen in the East End, and other districts where trouble is most feared. In other industrial centers of the country greater than usual activity among the military forces was also reported.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS STATE RECOGNITION

girls' clubs were entered, and two silver loving cups for prizes were then donated by the Parent-Teachers' Association of West Hartford. But the local boys and girls clubs have worked hard and diligently for this contest, and the result of their work is highly gratifying to themselves, Miss Doward, and the school as a whole.

There was much to be accomplished before a winning glee club could be built up. Miss Doward had to begin from the bottom and work upward. The glee club had never before had a boys' glee club that had worked long or hard enough to gain any recognition. The local singers had never received any amount of choral training, and the arts of shading, phrasing, tone coloring and quality had to be taught them. That this has been done so successfully is entirely due to Miss Doward's capable work. In the contest yesterday the local boys not only sang their prize number better than any other school entered, but they rendered their other selection in such a manner to receive thunderous applause from the audience at the conclusion of their singing. The numbers sung by them were "Shadow March", the prize song, and "Return, Soft Gentle Evening".

The Manchester championship Boys' Glee club is composed of the following members:

First tenors: Paul Packard, Fred Tilden, Carl Hallegren, Francis Burr and Edward Dadaud.

Second tenors: William Johnson, William O'Connell, Albert Tuttle, Earl Rohan and Frank Prete.

First basses: Russell Remig, Sherwood Anderson, Robert Burr, and John Johnston.

Second basses: Lester Wolcott, John Hutchinson, John Johnson, and John Stevenson.

The Girls' Glee club, although not successful in winning the other cup in competition, carried off second honors. The West Hartford Girls' Glee club received first rating. The selections the local singers sang were "The Swallows", the prize number, and "To A Wild Rose." They sang them well, and were a close second to West Hartford.

The Judges

The judges in the contest were Mr. Ralph Baldwin, music director of the Baldwin High schools, Mr. Ralph Lowrey, and Mr. Arthur Priest, organist in the Christ Church Cathedral of Hartford. The judges' decisions were based on the phrasing, intonation, shading, tone color and quality, and enunciation.

There were a possible six hundred points in the rating that any school might gain. For each violation of the above mentioned points, a subtraction was made from each school's total. The local Boys' Glee club received the highest number of points among the boys' clubs. The Girls' Glee club received the second best rating among the girls' clubs.

While the judges were considering the ratings after all the schools entered had finished singing, Andrew Rankin, cornet soloist of the local high school orchestra, rendered several solos, which were well received. The West Hartford Boys' Glee club sang a short number in the interim and Miss Dickerman, director of the Windsor clubs, led the audience in a number of old time songs. After the winners had been announced, an ensemble number, "The Stars and Stripes Forever" was sung, in which Mr. Baldwin directed all the schools. Miss Doward accompanied on the piano. Very capable piano accompanist work for the local girls' club's singing was done by Miss Hazel Robinson.

Miss E. Marian Doward is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music of Boston, and a graduate of Mr. Baldwin's Institute of Music Pedagogy. She had been music supervisor in several schools before coming to Manchester, and came here from the Spaulding High school of Barre, Vermont. She has had much experience in directing choral work, and the local high school is fortunate in having her as its music director. Her work in building up the two local glee clubs was no small task, and the result of her accomplishment in making a championship glee club should be greatly appreciated.

GEN. EDWARDS TELLS OVERSEAS INCIDENT

Connecticut Soldier Wanted to Hear His Band Play Favorite March as He Died.

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, unforgettable war-time leader of the 26th Division, has told an extremely moving story of an overseas incident centering around the 102nd U. S. Infantry Band, which in its peace-time guise is the 102nd Regiment Band, C. M. C., is to broadcast an hour's program from the band room in the New Haven armory, through WTIC at Hartford, on Thursday evening, May 13.

General Edwards, in an interview published some time ago in Leslie's Weekly, said, in telling about one of his hospital visits after the St. Mihiel attack:

"Just as I was leaving, a nurse ran after me and said: 'General, a Connecticut man has heard that you are here, and has begged me to ask you to see him. He is dying, but he doesn't know it. He says he has a favor to ask.'

"Just then a chaplain came up and had the same request. They hurried back, the chaplain leading, and the doughboy said: 'My God, chaplain, what are you looking so darn glum about? Just because you think I am going to die? And you don't know how to tell me about it? Hell! What did I come over here for? Didn't I come over here to die if that had to be the chance? Haven't I had my big chance? Have I failed? What the hell are you worrying about?'

"Just then I was approaching the death bed, and the boy exclaimed, 'Oh, General, excuse me for bothering you, but I am dying. I know it. I don't want to ask favors, but the 102nd Infantry Band is here, and I thought I'd ask you if you would have them come and play just once outside here. I want to hear the 2nd Connecticut March once more.'

"In a minute the 102nd Band was there and it was playing the strains of the march. The boy lifted himself up with a smile of satisfaction on his face. His arm beat the time of the music. He pretended to lead the 102nd Band. At the last note he dropped back to his pillow, dead."

tion, the government abruptly wrecked peace efforts of the general council and left the trades union movement with no alternative but to render all possible assistance to the locked-out miners.

Struggled for Peace.

The trades unions struggled for peace.

But the government had determined upon war.

Under the guise of defense of the constitution it precipitated this grave national crisis in order to enforce its own will upon the unions.

The General Council of the Trades Union Congress has met this combined challenge to the rights of the trades unions in a dispute and to the standard of life of the mine workers and their families by calling upon approximately two million workers in key industries and vital services to withdraw their labor.

The response has exceeded all expectations, and an almost complete stoppage of industry has ensued.

For Rights of Workers.

British labor is engaged in its sternest struggle for the rights and well-being of its workers.

In a spirit of quiet determination and unity the workers will carry on

They feel assured of the cordial sympathy of all trades unionists, not only in America, but in every part of the world, and are confident their efforts will be anxiously watched by organized workers in all countries, who will readily appreciate that British labor is contending for principles and interests that are vital and common to all.

FRANK MONDELL'S SON GETS JAIL SENTENCE

Drunk and Disorderly With Fifth Widener's Ex-Husband After Fraternity Meeting.

Philadelphia, May 8.—Carter Randolph Leidy, prominent society man and former husband of "Fifi" Widener Leidy, was fined $10 and costs here today on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Leidy's companion, William Harrison Mondell, of New Castle, Wyoming, was given 30 days in jail on the same charge. The men were arraigned before magistrate Henry after they had spent a few hours in cells at the police station.

Two policemen arrested Mondell when they said he was found amid the ruins of a plate glass window of a garage. Leidy was standing beside him. As Mondell was being taken to a police box, it was said that Leidy struck one of the officers. He then was arrested.

Casper Dolney, a turnkey at the jail, testified that Mondell struck him on the way to the courtroom.

Leidy pleaded guilty to the charges. Mondell denied he was intoxicated.

Washington, May 8.—William Harrison Mondell, reported in Philadelphia dispatches as having been arrested and fined on disorderly conduct charges there, is the son of Frank W. Mondell, former Republican leader of the House.

Young Mondell, accompanied by John Bryn, son of the Norwegian minister to the United States, went to Philadelphia yesterday to attend a fraternity convention.

CHENEY BENEFIT HAS A DIVIDEND

Announcement Made of Distribution to Be Made to Members of Organization.

Prior to June 1, 1926, there will be distributed to full members of the Benefit Association of Cheney Brothers who are eligible to participate in the distribution, an amount equal to $182,773.33, which is the balance that was available for that purpose on March 27, 1926. The total contributions of the members who were eligible to participate in this distribution amounted to $291,885.00 up to March 27, 1926. Hence there will be returned to such eligible members $182,773.33 divided by $291,885.00, or .626 cents on each dollar of contribution during their last periods of membership.

The conditions governing eligibility to participate in this distribution are as follows:

A.—Distribution is to be made to full members only.

B.—The full members must have contributed at least 12 months during the last period of full membership.

C.—The member must have been in good standing on July 1, 1925.

D.—In the cases of full members who died, were pensioned, or left the employ after July 1, 1925, contributions must have been made for at least 12 consecutive months before said date of death, pension, or leaving employ. Deductions to be made from the dividends due these members, for contributions

E.—Ex-service men shall be given full credit for their last periods of full membership prior to enlistment if they returned to Cheney Brothers employ within six months from the date of discharge from service; and opted full membership in the Benefit Association within 18 months of re-employment, and have remained full members in good standing since that date.

Women may drive cars with oversize tires, but they never will wear oversize shoes themselves.

CHURCHES

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL.

Mothers' Sunday will be observed tomorrow. The pastor will preach upon the theme, "Daughters of God." The subject of the children's sermon is "Holy Toll." The following music will be rendered: Prelude—Barcarole... Hofmann Anthem—"Hark, Hark, My Soul" Shelley

Offertory—Soprano Solo—"Mother, My Dear" Trehanne Postlude—"Triumphal March" Gullmant

Sunday school is at 12:10. The Christian Endeavor meeting will be held at 6:45 p. m. The topic is, "How to Build Happy Homes," and the leader will be Miss Edith Pearson.

The Ever-Ready Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Miss Ethel Fish, 217 North Elm street, next Tuesday evening at 7:45 p. m.

Last call for volunteers for cleaning the church. Thursday, May 15, are the big days, Saturday especially for the men. All Thursday helpers report at the church at 9 a. m., Saturday helpers at 2 p. m. It is important to know how many will help as the work is varied and must be divided. And it is a big task; fifty persons are none too many. Very few have responded thus far. Let's all pull together now and get back of our business committee. Tell Mr. Anderson you'll be there, and tell him some time before 6 p. m. Monday (important!). Telephone either 748-2 or 500. Those working on Thursday will perhaps desire to bring a basket lunch.

The Ladies' Aid society of the church are planning for a May Time Supper to be held Thursday evening, May 20, at 6:30 p. m. Let us make it a good fellowship and get together time. Bring the family and invite your friends and neighbors. Supper tickets will be sold by the ladies of our Aid society. The proceeds will go towards paying for our calendars.

The members of the Christian Endeavor society wish to announce that on Friday evening, May 21, at 8 p. m., a play entitled, "The Country Minister," will be given in the Harding school by the "Maskers" of the Fourth Congregational church, Hartford.

The semi-annual meeting of the Hartford branch of the Board of Missions, will be held at the Newton church, Wednesday, May 12, at 11 a. m. and 1:45 p. m. The women of our church are heartily invited to attend.

The Evening Herald Sunday School Lessons

by William T. Ellis.
For Every Age, Creed and Nationality.

WHEN THE BIBLE SCORED A "SCOOP"

*The International Sunday School Lesson for May 9, is, "Abraham and The Kings"—Genesis 14:1-24.

Since the Bible represents Jehovah as laughing at the discomfiture of His foes, surely Christians may indulge in a gentle chuckle over the way this old book has "scored" all the learned tones of the historians. It happens that the chapter of Genesis assigned as today's Sunday School Lesson was for ages under fire, because it talked of great kings and kingdoms concerning whom all secular historians are silent. Many a jibe has been poked at the "illiterate" and "stupid" composer of this tale, with his weirdly made-up names of imaginary enemies, all created solely to exalt the more or less mythical Hebrew patriarch, Abraham. Even today there are "smart" chaps who deride the Genesis version of history.

Now the spade has vindicated Moses. Even the names of the five kings from the East have been affirmed from the cuneiform records. One of them, Amraphel, is none other than the great Babylonian monarch, Hammurabi, whose code of laws is one of the greatest finds of archaeology. Although only a thousand years or so, the records that have been dug up have as yet been deciphered, we find that the exclusive story told by Genesis is corroborated by these records which have been for ages buried in the sands. The Old Testament incidents, at present obscure, are incidentally to be illuminated by contemporary documents from the excavations.

One Big Fact About the Old Book. Meanwhile this Lesson should give everybody who studies it a firm grip on one fact. Dated history in the Bible may be said to begin here. Scripture and archaeology are henceforth broadly and mutually confirmed. After Abraham, we may deal with dates. There is no warrant for putting Old Testament history into a dim and misty past. The historicity of Genesis, after Abraham, is better attested than that of any other ancient document. Whatever adjustments and reconciliations with dated archaeological records may some day be necessary will be incidental and unimportant. Within the memory of living men, the earth has yielded up many secrets of the past to corroborate the inspired Book. Irresponsible and irreverent triflers may attempt to repudiate Genesis; but they will find no real scholars in their company.

In the light of the now known data we must discard the notion, long prevalent among liberal theologians, that Abraham was merely an Arab Sheikh, of no particular importance; a sort of religious vagrant whose biography got into the Hebrew literature. As the Bible set along made clear, only we had been willing to take it at face value, Abraham was a figure of importance; a wealthy citizen of the Chaldees; a man commanding a retinue so large that he could at a moment's notice put into the field more than three hundred trained fighting men. He was a personality of such power that the rulers who were his neighbors entered into defensive alliances with him.

A Little Lesson in Geography. The scenes of this story are familiar to me. Because I have personally traversed them, the strategy of the action seems real and natural. The five confederate kings from the East extended their sway even to the borders of Egypt; world dominion at this period still centered in and about the Tigris-Euphrates region, the Garden of Eden land and in Egypt. Arabia then, as now, claimed as its right the Mediterranean coastal countries. I have lately interviewed King Ibn Saud on that subject. The road was open from Babylon to Jerusalem; it is now covered every day by the automobiles of the Nairn Transportation Company, carrying passengers and the overland mail.

In the story we glimpse the Horites of Mount Seir, that is the cave dwellers of mysterious and matchless Petra. The "slime pits," or bitumen pits, recall the recent exploration of the Standard Oil Company into this region. The cities of the plain we now look for under the lower end of the Dead Sea, where an ancient and degenerate civilization was submerged by water, after its destruction by fire and brimstone. Kadesh-Barnea is put within the scene of operations, although traditionally it is in the remote and inaccessible wilderness. I recently visited Kadesh, and discovered several hitherto overlooked facts about it; one being its central position on the old trans-Sinai highway. There is not an incident of this Genesis tale that does not square with geography and history.

Perhaps this is a good occasion for mastering the simple fact that Hebron and Jerusalem always have been strategic centers in the life of the Holy Land. Abraham's home by the oak of Mamre was simply suburban to Hebron, where he buried his dead and where David later reigned. The Russian Church has built a monastery near an oak the New Testament cites as a pre-figuration of Christ.

Wise as well as brave was Abraham. Because he prized his freedom and disinterestedness, he would not touch any of the booty which his prowess had wrested from the eastern hosts; but restored it all to the kings from whom it had been taken. His adventure had been a noble expression of blood-loyalty; therefore he would not sully it by any sordid considerations. What would have happened had all the victorious nations in the world war likewise eschewed loot? In Abraham's case, the lustre of his exploit shines undimmed; he who is called "the Friend of God" was also a true friend of man.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS.

The government of a country never gets ahead of the religion of a country.—Calvin Coolidge.

While the cup of blessing may and often does, run over, I doubt if the cup of suffering is ever more than filled to the brim.—George MacDonald.

Great truths are portions of the soul of man.
Great souls are portions of eternity.—James Russell Lowell.

It is a poor heart, and a poorer age, that cannot accept the conditions of life with some heroic readiness.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures. He leadeth me beside the still waters.—Psalm 23.

While Thee I seek, protecting Power,
Be my vain wishes stilled;
And may this consecrated hour
With better hopes be filled.
—Helen Maria Williams.

No man or woman of the humblest sort can really be strong, gentle, pure and good without the world being the better for it; without somebody being helped and comforted by the very existence of that goodness.—Phillips Brooks.

TO ARMS FOR A FRIEND.

When the allied kings of the East had pushed the rebellious cities of the Dead Sea plain they carried off Lot, Abraham's nephew, a resident of Sodom. Lot's choice of the enervating life of the decadent city never brought him anything but woe. His great relative would have been justified in washing his hands of him. But he did not. The East does not take blood ties lightly. There "a brother is born for adversity." When Abraham heard the word of the escaped messenger that Lot was a prisoner, at once he got into action.

We may picture the hasty conference of Abraham and his confederate chiefs. This was to test the reality of their bond. They appraised the situation, measured their resources, and laid out a plan of pursuit. Waiting until the victorious kings were out of the zone of probable counter attack, and so had relaxed their vigilance, Abraham and his party divided their forces and made a concerted surprise attack by night. They could not have faced the kings of the East in open battle array; but this "raid," as the Arabs call it, yielded them the prize sought and all the recovered booty they could carry.

CAT ADOPTS FOX.

Pawtucket, R. I.—Pearl, a black and white cat, mother of four kittens, has adopted a silver gray fox. All are reported to be doing well, the fox taking a liking to her new mother.

CLAMS CATCH MICE.

Cushing, Me.—Mrs. O. W. Creamer left a basket of clams in her cellar one night. She found three dead mice held fast between the shells of three clams. Now the neighbors are taking it up.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank all our relatives and friends for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother. We also wish to thank the Daughters of Scotia, the Manchester Plumbers' Association and the Manchester Soccer Club. James Little and Family.

CONQUERORS

By GEORGE HENRY DOLE.
International Sunday School Lesson Text, May 9.

In all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us.—Rom. 8-37.

Our understanding of things in childhood and earlier years is necessarily external and superficial. Particularly in this true of Scripture passages committed to memory. With experience in mature years the understanding deepens, and it is observed that power comes from the Lord not in an external and arbitrary way, but internally and according to immutable laws.

The conquering power is something most real and practical. To be a conqueror is so to lay hold of and use power from the Lord that we are saved from the passions, thoughts, and fears that distress. It is an illusion to think that one is saved by belief, unless he knows what real belief is and has it. A prayer is not answered by ending a petition, "This we ask in thy name," unless one knows that to ask in His name is to ask from the Lord's qualities within one, and he so qualified.

No one conquers who says "I cannot." Neither the French, the British, nor the Americans won the World War. The real conquering power was from the knowledge of right, and faith in it. In the leaders, that faith never failed. The conqueror of self must have a like faith in the truth, and that by the truth he can gain the desired victory.

Self cannot cast out self. Beelzebub cannot cast out Beelzebub. The power to conquer comes from above, outside of self, from the Lord alone. Victory necessitates the will to victory rightly placed—not in self, but in the Lord through co-operation with Him. The saving power comes from a center outside of the self, lifting one into a life above self.

A will to victory centered in self eventually will fail, for self has no power over the higher powers of the spirit. We are more than conquerors through Jesus Christ. The converse is also true, the Lord is more than a conqueror through us. He is more than a conqueror because He not only puts out sinful inclinations, but gives a delightful love of the truth and bestows satisfying peace.

One lay slowly dying of a disease, who said, I cannot write, I cannot turn in bed, nor use my members; but I can smile, I can spread gladness. I am happy and in peace. O that mighty, blessed power that conquers pain, sorrow, fears, and death! What is it? Whence comes it? It is God's light. His love, the touch of which gives joy. He who has it is the conqueror.

Happy Daze

Well, sir, I had a little 'breathin' spell these last few days, everybody bein' back on the job after the epidemic,—and comin' off so hot as it did, you know a fella's sort o' got to take it easy. Always was glad when the first real warm days come round, so's you could really settle down to that lazy, good-fer-nothin' feelin' and enjoy it. Thought it never was comin' this year. Only one reason for it, too, far's I can see—it's these February Sales stringin' along the way they do, later and later every year—way into April some of 'em. Can't have Spring weather with February Sales going on.

I been kind o' mixed up anyway, on the calendar in everything else since I took this job of advertisin'. Don't seem to get the hang of it,—but I figured the boss 'd be lookin' for action pretty soon, so I been studyin' up some. Seemed like everybody else was runnin' these bang-up big Sales—tellin' how things was goin' cheaper 'n cheaper all the time, chasin' each other down the ladder like the devil was after 'em or the sheriff anyhow—well, sir, I thought I got the idea of it, 'specially this "Dollar Down" stuff. You know how 'tis—buy anything up to the Public Library for a Dollar Down. Must be nobody 'round here's got mor'n a Dollar ahead to spend at one time, I figured.

So I wrote me a wee story 'bout a solid mahogany bedroom set that the factory had give us for a birthday present and that we was sellin' for less than cost—found a swell picture and fixed it up real pretty—say, I figured to myself, "Happy, when they see that ad, and the price, with a great big $1 Down on top, there'll be a stampede fer miles round."

Well, sir, I showed it to the boss, and he give me one look. "Happy," says he, "what you think we're runnin', a furniture store or a hock shop?" "What's the matter," I says, "that's the stuff that'll hit 'em right between the eyes." "Yeh," he says, "you rock 'em to sleep and get their Dollar, but where'm I goin' to get off. I haven't got any such bedroom set to sell 'em, and I wouldn't sell it that way if I had. If you're goin' to do this advertisin', you tell 'em the truth or keep still."

Well, come to think it over, I decided not to run that ad. Might be all right to sell gents' overcoats, or diamond rings, for a Dollar Down, if you had that kind o' rings—but usually a fella ain't anxious to make a trade unless he's on the safe side of the bargain, and we don't have that kind of bedroom sets.

Anyhow, that threw me off on advertisin' this week, but I turned up here again Saturday night like I always do—Happy Holmes for over Sunday, if there ain't time durin' the week. If I'd been on to this idea about tellin' the truth, I might a had a wee story 'bout these new couch hammocks we're showin',—for the truth is, nothin' else looks quite so invitin' along this time of year as one of these cool, comfy, swinging sedans. I tell you, it's a glorious feelin' to get the old porch rigged up with one of 'em, lookin' ahead to the swelterin' days that's comin', and just thinkin' how you're goin' to settle down there in the cool o' the evenin' and laugh it off. Boy, there's nothin' like it.

Well, sorry I haven't made out better with this advertisin', but I've got away with most everything else before now, and guess I can learn to tell the truth if necessary. Anyhow, I'll take another shot at it next week.

Happy Holmes

MOTHERS' DAY.

Tomorrow will be Mothers' Day. One day out of 365 devoted to a sort of apotheosis of maternity—when motherhood is the source of race continuation and perhaps the true secret key to the progress of civilization, every day. It seems, somehow, a meagre allotment, when we give one day in seven to homage to that Supreme Power whose most obvious expression is through the institution of the Mother.

And yet, perhaps, one day is enough. A Mother's day every month or every week would only mean a multiplicity of failures to put in cogent form the strangely fugitive, elusive thoughts and impulses that hover about the word. For somehow we do not seem to be able to rightly analyze and weigh and sort out and classify, even once in the year—or once in a lifetime—the obligations and debts of the world to the mothers of its children, and then to charge off the credits and strike a just balance.

So we are given, perhaps, to be coming, in our Mother's day reflections, just a little hyper-sentimental, sometimes the tiniest bit mawkish; a trifle inclined to overdo the "poor mother" angle, to slip into pathos and thence into bathos. Very beautiful indeed is motherhood; surpassingly mysterious its love and devotion—all human impulses of course the least selfish, and of them all bringing mankind nearest at once to God and to the least that perishes. Very lovely are its works—sacrifice and abnegation and brooding guardianship and, oftentimes, inspirations. And deep and poignant are its agonies and its sorrows.

"Poor Mother, she gives her all and she lives her life, for her children! Let us bring to Mother a flower to tell her, as we cannot in words, how well we understand." So say we on Mother's day, and wipe our eyes in annual renewal of an emotion that might better be spread, in morsels, through every day of the year.

But are we, thus, just to Mother? What right have we to assume this "poor Mother" attitude? Can we be sorry for our better, for those whose plane is loftier than our own? Does one ever think of extending condolences to victors or falling into maudlin sympathy with those who have magnificently achieved? Can we, then, condole, misty eyed, with Mother, without a subtle intimation of weakness or inferiority? And what earthly right have any of us to take that stand?

even in Great Britain the trades unions do not monopolize the ability or the will to work. The unions struck twenty-eight electric power houses, the entire equipment of London. Theoretically, that should have reduced London to darkness and added to the helplessness and bewilderment of the non-labor population.

Instead of which, and in spite of the highly technical character of the work involved, volunteers at once took over the operation of nineteen of the twenty-eight power houses and substantially normal lighting service continued. Transport workers supplying a chain of 800 restaurants struck. Theoretically this should have put the restaurants out of commission and added to the helplessness and the hunger of the community. Instead of which the places of the strikers were taken by volunteers so quickly and so efficiently that the restaurants did not even suspend.

These are the merest illustrations of a fundamental weakness in the theory of this general strike and for that matter of practically any strike that is combatted with resolution. Organized labor does not, to anything like the extent to which it pretends, control the latent power of the community to do its work. That part of the populace at large that labor is so often sneered as parasitical and dependent on the recognized workers has an infinite capacity, at a pinch, of standing on its own feet, of doing in an emergency the things that classified toilers do as a regular thing.

The general strike overlooked, in its anticipation, the fact that the high collar man can, if need be, take off his high collar and don overalls, that he has two hands and two feet and, on an average, as good a head on his shoulders as the man who carries a union card. It is the old story of the individual or the group which believes itself to be indispensable. There are very, very few indispensable persons or groups anywhere in this world. It might almost be safe to say there is none.

JOHN T. KING.

Indictment and conviction are two different things. No accused person can be regarded as guilty until proven so upon actual trial. The fact that John T. King has been formally presented to the attention of the federal criminal courts in the light of a conspirator with former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and former Allen Property Custodian Thomas W. Miller to defraud the United States government is by no means equivalent to a determination that he committed the acts charged.

Nevertheless the Republican party of Connecticut is to be congratulated that it rid itself of any responsibility for the Bridgeport man long before he attracted the attention of federal grand juries and underwent indictment, first for perjury concerning his income tax and now for his presumptive connection with this ill-smelling affair of the American Metals Co. and the dubious dealings between the alien property custodian's office and the German owners of the Metals concern.

It is to be assumed, in default of any present proof to the contrary, that Mr. King's connection with that highly favored affair was lawful and free from turpitude. But there is, perhaps unfortunately, a disposition on the part of the public to jump at conclusions in such matters, to take it for granted that people do not get indicted for crimes of which their skirts are absolutely clear. And the usefulness of political party leaders who fall to keep themselves altogether remote from fraud indictments, is more apt to be destroyed than merely diminished.

In the circumstances it ought to be much more pleasing to the Republican organization of Connecticut that John T. King has been fighting it than would have been the fact that he was an integral part of it—if he ever had been. Connecticut C. O. P. leaders—bona fide, not masquerading—do not become indicted for perjury and for frauds on the government. They are not of that breed.

ADIRONDACKS. President Coolidge's determination not to come to New England for his summer vacation, this year, would seem to be a wise one. New England is, of course, proud of its New England President, and has felt a certain justifiable satisfaction in the possession of the "Summer White House", first in Vermont and then at Swampscott, and it would enjoy another period of that distinction.

But New England, however important to the history, culture and affairs of the United States, is nevertheless a very small part of the American Union, either geographically or in population; and the viewpoint of the much larger remainder of the country is entitled to consideration. It is most probable that President Coolidge would have a better time, enjoy himself more thoroughly, rest better and gain more physical and mental advantage from a vacation spent on his own little farm in Plymouth than through any other recreational arrangement that could be made. But he undoubtedly realizes quite well that it would do his party no good to have the impression grow throughout the country that the President had no place in his heart for any other section than New England.

The Adirondacks are not Vermont, and the camps of the North Woods are not like the little white farm house "back home." But there is much of the same crispness in the air, the same quietude, the same opportunity for relaxation. It will probably prove the next best thing. And the kick about "New England forever" will be hobbled.

IN NEW YORK

New York.—Two dramas of Broadway!... Each a chapter in human weakness... Each a preachment on vanity and restraint... Each typical of the ironic undercurrent to the outward gaiety of the bright light belt.

No. 1.—Two sisters. Both beautiful. Daughters of moderately well-off parents in an up-state town. Both with stage ambitions. One several years older and much wiser than the other. "Look after Babe," the parents admonished the elder sister.

After a few preliminary skirmishes with Broadway the older sister begins to win success in the films. It's not so easy for the younger one. She gets a few odd jobs in choruses and such. She drifts into fast company. She starts coming into the apartment in the early morning. Frequently she is drunk. She is reprimanded by the other. There are many sisterly quarrels and tears in the hours just before the dawn.

One morning the younger sister is particularly bad shape. "What would mother say?" implores the older sister. The other leaves the room. Ten minutes later she is writing on the floor. She has drunk a fatal dose of poison.

No. 2.—He is a "clown" in one of the very "grit" shows. His brand of humor is known to be particularly "broad." He is presumed to represent the sick, wisecracking type. Love, respectability—all such things are themes for jokes.

Constancy of man and woman? Just "gravy" for his brand of ridicule. He becomes enamored of a famous beauty. Her figure has won her many a prize and no little fame in the show world.

All Broadway knew they were "thick as mush." She was accepted as "his girl." Their names were always paired, they were always together at the night clubs and public affairs.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

Washington, May 8.—We're coming to a five-day working week, according to Congressman Meyer Jacobstein of Rochester, N. Y., economist and specialist on capital and labor relationships.

Labor won't have to see this 40-hour week out of capital by main strength, Jacobstein adds. Rather, he suggests, capital thought of it first.

The explanation is that industry is producing today at such a rate that consumption can't keep up. Capital's afraid of over-production, so called. Too much of this kind of a good thing, with the form of social organization we've got is about as bad as not enough.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor referred to this same matter in a speech he made some time ago. Manufacturers, he asserted, are finding it necessary already to restrict their outputs to avoid turning out goods far in excess of the whole world's needs.

It struck me at the time that this must overshadow a shorter working day or week and I asked some of the experts at the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Manufacturers' Association about it.

They said Green was right but they had an idea the slack will be taken up gradually as the working class taste grows for conveniences and luxuries only the rich have enjoyed hitherto, like the already-developed popular taste for automobiles.

To some extent Jacobstein agrees with these experts. That is, he expects to see more and more people wanting more and more things. However, he believes industry's present gearing assures shorter working hours, too, and in his judgment the workers will continue to find plenty of ways of employing their spare moments profitably.

He doesn't consider time wasted spent in study and a reasonable amount of play. "For one thing," he reminded me, "we're greatly increasing our minimum number of school years—quite generally up to 18."

That means fewer young workers in the industries. "Besides," he gives additional opportunity for the healthy play instinct to develop in the young, and to become fixed so as to last over into maturity. Go to any big park in the country. You'll find it filled with working men and women engaged in the once purely aristocratic game of golf.

Congressman Jacobstein is a university professor by training. It's a somewhat theoretical line. A professional student hardly seems like the man to choose for the severely practical job of settling a bitter labor dispute.

All the same, Jacobstein was the individual picked to attempt an ironing out of a complicated rum-pus of long standing in the clothing trade at Rochester. Nobody expected him to succeed, but he did, ending a situation which threatened ruin of what was perhaps the city's biggest industry.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

By ARTHUR N. PACK. President, The American Nature Association.

The gray fox is the common fox over most of our southern states, where the early settlers found it in many places the only species.

It belongs to a type peculiar to America and differing in many respects from the foxes of the old world. When the landed aristocrats hunted it with hounds, however, they were disappointed, for it lacks the speed and endurance of the red foxes of either Europe or America, and rather than allow itself to be taken by the dogs, the gray fox preferred to seek refuge in its burrow, whence it could be dislodged only by digging, a performance not on the program of those who rode after the hounds.

They found, also, to their astonishment, that a sloping tree leading to a deep hollow, was negotiated by the gray fox with ease, and that even a straight and slender one, if here and there a friendly limb gave support, often saved its life. So in disgust they well-nigh gave up the chase of the gray, and since they must hunt foxes, they imported them from England or from the northern states.

The gray fox, aside from its tree-climbing habit, which is resorted to only when dire danger threatens differs little in its customs from its red cousin. The various wild fox of the forest, such as he can outwit or capture in fair flight, forms his prey.

Sometimes, indeed, poultry, and especially when the unfenced forest forms the feeding and roosting place of domestic fowls, is levied on for a part of his fare. Like his cousin the red fox, however, the good that he does by destroying the mice and other small destructive rodents has never been fully appraised.

To Brain Workers: Walk!

Walking particularly needed by so-called brain-workers, for such people by reason of sedentary occupation and mental occupation, seldom get the amount of exercise essential to well being.

Manual laborers, farmers, ranch men, postmen, and those in similar occupations are far less subject to apoplexy and various organic derangements than are brain-workers.

Mental fatigue, "sadsache, insomnia" and other danger signals of overwork are often dissipated by brain-workers and reliance is placed upon dangerous and temporary forms of artificial relief.

Walking is not a panacea for all ills but it frequently will improve the health of the person who compelled to work indoors.

Diverts Blood. Systematic walking diverts a largely increased volume of blood to the muscular system and particularly to the lower extremities. As a result congestion in the internal organs is diminished.

Many who have forgotten the pleasures of walking will receive a new sense when they habituate themselves to the exercise.

Other things they will tire easily and be astonished at their shortness of breath.

However, by pursuing the exercise diligently they will notice a sensation of buoyancy and well being that will offer ample reward for the time and energy expended.

Until one is accustomed to walking it is best to cover only short distances. Then, as the muscles and mind become familiar with the pleasant task of walking, the distance may be increased.

A daily walk is better than an occasional one and a spurt of three or four hours is an economical one for the human machinery.

PARIS IS WORKSHOP OF RUSSIAN ROYALTY

Paris.—Paris is fast becoming the great workshop for Russian princesses.

"Tao" is the name of the latest smart dressmaking firm, organized by the Princess Troubetzkoy, her friend, Mademoiselle Annenkov, and the Princess Obolensky. All three of these women of noble birth passed harrowing years in Russia under the Bolsheviks, but finally escaped to Paris, where they began to study dressmaking.

After a modest beginning in a small house of the Faubourg St. Honoré, they took over a large house near the Champs Elysees, washed the floors themselves, papered the walls and got things into good shape. With all their artistic talent, it did not take long to build up an establishment which equals that of any French woman.

In another corner of the capital works Marie, former Grand Duchess of Russia and a cousin of the murdered Czar. Once the center of a brilliant social set in St. Petersburg, now Lenina street, the wife of a Grand Duke—today she piles her needle and thread with all the skill of a veteran Parisian expert.

This skillful Russian woman has served a long apprenticeship in a Paris shop. Six years ago she left Russia and since then has suffered a great deal, but she says it has all done her good. Her story is much like that of thousands of other Russian refugees, escaping to the South, then to Rumania, eventually to England and finally to Paris where she arrived almost penniless.

She was not long in finding work, for she is an excellent embroiderer. After a few hard years, she set up her own establishment and now has a splendid clientele.

"All will be better by and by," she says with real Russian optimism "and Russia will be habitable for all."

DAILY ALMANAC

Today is feast day of "The Apparition of St. Michael, the Archangel." General Lafayette visited Louisville, Ky., May 8, 1825. The New York-Denver telephone line was opened May 8, 1811.

PEONY 136 YEARS OLD. Edwardsville Ill.—A peony here has bloomed for 136 years. In 1790 George Barnaback, an early settler, sent to Germany for the plant. It has survived four generations.

THE ERROR. The declaration of the British general strike seems to have been a more or less logical determination based upon entirely mistaken premises.

If the people who do the work of the country stop working, then the people who do not work, but merely own and control, will be helpless. This, reduced to its elementary terms, is the idea of a general strike.

But judging from results something more than the calling of a strike by a trades union central organization was necessary, even in England, where trades unionism is more elaborately organized than anywhere else in the world. It was necessary, in order to have the initial proposition hold good, that not a part but all the workers should stop. And it appears that the lazy man aims at nothing and generally hits it.—James Ellis.

IVANHOE—Sir Walter Scott's Classic in Pictorial Form

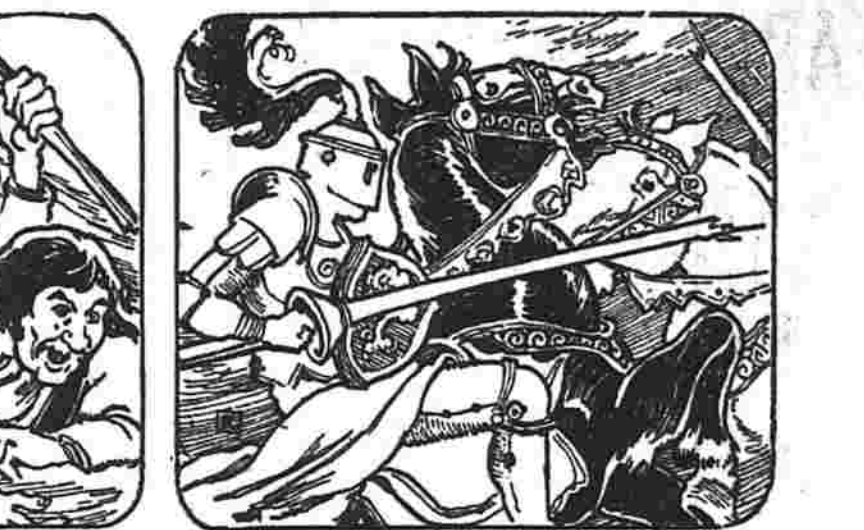

THE STORY THUS FAR—The story is laid in the England of Richard the Lion Hearted. Gurth, a swineherd, and Wamba, a jester, are accosted by a party of knights seeking the castle of Cedric, the Saxon. The knights are coldly received, and their leader, Brian the Templar, incurs Cedric's ire by his admiration of Cedric's daughter, Rowena. A Jewish stranger enters the hall. With a man disguised in the outfit of palmer or wandering friar, the Jew flees the castle as Brian plans to seize him. As they part the Jew tells the palmer where he can find armor for the big tournament. The challengers about to win the tournament when an unknown knight suddenly appears.

THE CROWD WAS ASTONISHED BUT NOT MORE SO THAN BOB-COURTNEY WHO HAD THUS SUDDENLY BEEN CHALLENGED TO MORTAL COMBAT BY THIS SLENDER STRANGER. "HAVE YOU CONFESSED YOURSELF BROTHER?" SAID THE TEMPLAR. "THAT I PERIL YOUR LIFE SO FRANKLY?" "I AM FITTER TO MEET DEATH THAN THOU ART," ANSWERED THE KNIGHT.

WHEN THE TWO CHAMPIONS STOOD OPPOSED TO EACH OTHER THE PUBLIC EXPECTATION WAS STRAINED TO THE HIGHEST PITCH. FEW THOUGHT THAT THE ENCOUNTER COULD TERMINATE WELL FOR THE DISHONORERED KNIGHT, YET HIS COURAGE AND GALANTRY SECURED THE GENERAL GOOD WISHES OF THE SPECTATORS.

ANDOVER

For some time past there has been much discussion about the elimination of the grade crossing at the Center. This to take place with the proposed new state highway, running from the Congregational church to the back of what is now the town hall shed, is put through.

At a town meeting Friday evening this was thoroughly discussed. Winthrop White was elected chairman of the meeting, at which a large representation from the town was present. The warning of the meeting was read by Mr. White, who then called for questions. At length the motion was put before the assembly as follows: "That the town of Andover does not want the crossing at the Center closed." For about an hour and a half the subject was discussed. Those taking a leading part in the discussion were Charles Wright, Judge Edward M. Yeomans, George Merritt, Charles Backus, Mrs. Benton, Miss Olive Hutchinson and Herbert Thompson.

As a result of the meeting the following committee was appointed to work with the selectmen in this matter, and represent the town: L. B. Whitcomb, George Stanley, Mrs. Benton, Miss Olive Hutchinson and Herbert Thompson.

The committee was authorized and directed to state before the Public Utilities Commission, the Highway Commissioner, or any commission required, that the town of Andover was opposed to the closing of the crossing. After a few additional remarks the meeting was adjourned.

The following committee was chosen by the Grange on Monday evening to go before the Public Utilities Commission or any commission advisable, representing the Grange, to state that the Andover Grange No. 76 opposed the closing of the grade crossing at the Center. C. L. Backus, Mrs. Charles Wright, Mrs. Thomas Lewis, Howard Stanley and Erskine Hyde.

Charles Backus spent part of last week with his son, Charles Backus, of New London.

Mrs. Newton visited in town Friday evening.

Roscoe Talbot spent Friday evening in Andover.

The card party Friday evening was postponed because of the town meeting.

Charles Phelps, a student of the Connecticut Agricultural College, spent Friday night at his home.

Rosalie Clements was a visitor in town Friday evening.

Miss Anna Wood spent the weekend with Mrs. Ralph Bess.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frink on Sunday were E. H. Frink and family of South Manchester. Mrs. J. T. Murphy, of Wapping, and Eugene W. Platt, of Bristol, and Mrs. Frank Lavey of Hartford and Mrs. Henry Generous of North Windham, were visitors of Mrs. Thomas Lewis Friday.

Mrs. Ward Talbot visited in Manchester Thursday.

Miss Verena Rose is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Fred Sackett, of this town.

ITALIAN BONDS DROP AS SYNDICATE QUILTS

Issued at 94 1/2. They Tumble to 89 When Support of Bankers Is Withdrawn.

New York, May 8.—The Kingdom of Italy 7 per cent bonds of 1951 declined sharply in the listed market today following the dissolution of the bankers' syndicate which floated the issue last November. The bonds were sold at 94 1/2, and the syndicate has been supporting them in the listed market at that price. With the withdrawal of the syndicate the best bid for the bonds at the opening of the market today was 89, a decline of 5 1/2 points from yesterday's close.

SHAMROCKS TO FACE TOM SIPPLES' TEAM

POMPEY AND BUBBLING OVER ARE FAVORITES IN BIG RACE

Out of Class of Other Horses in Turf Classic to Be Run Monday.

New York, May 8.—Take Pompey and Bubbling Over away from the Derby and you would see a superior horse race in the 1 3-16 mile Preakness at Pimlico on Monday. If you care to accept the opinion expressed by disinterested horsemen today, however, one could take the tip away from the mustache and achieve the same effect.

The impending appearance of this pair at Churchill Downs promises to make the Derby a two-horse race but it may be the greatest since Man O' War's memorable duels with Sir Barton and John P. Grier or the match race between Eternal and Billy Kelly.

Inaugurate Season in Manchester

Pictured above is the Shamrocks baseball team of the North End, last year's champions of the Twilight League. This team will meet the Elmwood New Departures, Industrial Champions of Hartford, tomorrow afternoon at Hickey's Grove at three o'clock.

Manchester Whips Rockville; Locals Win Fourth Straight

Trade School Trims Rockville High 8-5—Take Early Lead and Hold It; Outbit Opponents Two to One.

Rockville, old time rivals, and the Mechanics brought home the bacon this starting the 1926 feud off in a commendable manner. The local team did not take long in getting started. It scored two runs in the opening inning and was never headed thereafter.

Manchester grounded out but Ball walked and went to second on Pospisil's single. Thurz fled out to left but Pucin came through with a single scoring Ball. Another single by Ramsey scored Pospisil. Koplinsky was out Peterson to Beebe for the third out.

Five In Fifth. In the fifth inning, Manchester put the game on ice. Five runs were scored, and here is how: Schieffeling opened with a single. Manchuck duplicated. Ball flew out to center but Pospisil came through with another single scoring Schieffeling. Thurz kept the ball rolling with another one-base, scoring Manchuck. Zimmerman, who had replaced Pucin and Kozloski, who had been sent in for Ramsey, both singled in succession and two more runs were across the plate. Koplinsky sent the final run in with another single. It was the fifth consecutive hit for Manchester. Cannelliey ended the inning with a grounder to third.

Rockville came to life in the sixth seventh and eighth. Three runs, two singles and stole second. Peterson grounded out Thurz to Pucin. Pucin scored Tansey with a single. Rothie singled to Kozloski, but Murphy and Kelman were safe on errors, two more runs tallying. Ambrosi singled but Thurz retired the side by fanning Beebe.

Pospisil Retires Side. In the eighth frame Thurz got into hot water and Pospisil was sent in to relieve him. It was the support of Thurz more than anything else that caused the local pitcher to falter. Carvey was safe on an error and Tansey walked. It was the only pass Thurz issued in the game. Peterson singled scoring Carvey. At this point Pospisil tried to pitch for Manchester. He retired the next three batters on strikes but one run was scored when Schieffeling threw wildly to third trying to pick off a runner.

SAINTS TO FACE ROCKVILLE NINE; SEELERT ON HILL

Manchester-Rockville Feud to Be Renewed Tomorrow Afternoon as Season Opens.

"Art" Seelert, portside finger, is slated to ascend the mound for the St. Mary's baseball club when that team opens its season tomorrow afternoon at the Rockville Fair Grounds against the Polish American club. Seelert pitched the Manchester team to many a victory last season and should perform in creditable style tomorrow.

S. M. H. S. TRACK TEAM OPENS SEASON MODAY AGAINST CHAPMAN TECH

Coach "Pete" Wigren today announced his team for the opening S. M. H. S. track meet in New London against Chapman Tech on Monday afternoon. This meet will be one of the most important of the year. Last season the Chapman team came to town and soundly thrashed the locals, but for revenge, and expect to turn the same trick on Chapman this year. The locals have improved considerably this year and Coach Wigren expects to develop a team which will be capable of holding its own with anything in the state. The boys have been working hard in practice, and will doubtless show up well Monday.

Local Team Books Groton for First Game—Practice Tomorrow Morning.

Manager Pete Vendrillo announced today that the opening of the season for the Son's of Italy will be a w/k from tomorrow when the locals will travel to Groton to engage the fast team representing that town.

SEMI-PRO SEASON STARTS HERE TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Sipples, Walleit, Thornton and Holland With Elmwood in Opening Game; McLaughlin or Farrand to Pitch for Locals.

with such hard bitters as St. John, and Jim McLaughlin to cooperate with, the Shamrocks should pound out sufficient hits to send a few runs across the platter at least.

PROBABLE LINEUP.

Shamrocks	Elmwood
Massey, ss	Barton, 2b
Kellar, 2b	Thornton, 3b
St. John, cf	Walleit, c
Wilson, 3b	Sipples, ss
J. McLaughlin, lb
Kelley, c	Alexander, lf
Brownell, lf	Petibone, rf
McCarthy, rf	Lawsen, lf
W. McLaughlin, p	Holland, cf
Farrand, p	Parker, p

Headling the Elmwood team will be no less a person than our own noted Tommy Sipples, star center fielder of last year's Manchester club. Sipples who works at the New Departure plant will perform at short for the visitors and will doubtless bat in the clean-up position in the batting order.

McLaughlin or Farrand. When the "ump" calls "play ball" either Bill McLaughlin or "Count" Farrand will be on the hill for the Shamrocks. Both are in condition and should "chuck out" an assortment of curves that will make a puzzle to the Elmwood batters. The team's moundman will be well supported from his fielders judging from the caliber of the infield and outfield talent on the lineup.

FLOWERS SIXTH NEGRO CHAMPION

History of Previous Champs Before Tiger Whipped Harry Greb.

The climb to the middleweight throne of Tiger Flowers, Georgia negro scrapper, who recently defeated Harry Greb of the crowd, makes the sixth negro champion in prize ring history.

George Dixon is the first negro champion prize ring history displays. "Twas back in the years of 1901, 1899 and 1892 that Dixon ruled the bantamweight division. In 1892 Dixon stepped out to gain new laurels and was successful enough to become featherweight champion of the world, holding his throne from 1892 until 1897, when Solly Smith knocked him off.

NASH AND AJAX MOTORS SHOW GREAT PROGRESS "The past month," says E. H. McCarthy, general sales manager of the Nash Motors Company and Ajax Motors Company, "showed a gain in Nash business of 70.9 per cent over April of a year ago. This figure includes sales of the Nash-built Ajax. Exclusive of Ajax the percentage of increase mounts up to a total 35 per cent. When it is remembered that April of 1925 was at the time the greatest month in all Nash history, this phenomenal enlarged volume of business takes on still greater significance. April also marked the twentieth consecutive month, with a single exception, that Nash business has shown an increase over the corresponding months of the previous year. The one month when this record was not maintained was November, when output was arbitrarily halted to bring out the "Enclosed Car" motor. "Not only has April set a new record for the Nash Motors Company but latest reports from our distributing centers throughout the United States show that the past six weeks were the greatest consecutive six weeks of bona fide retail deliveries since the company was founded. It is interesting to note also that these same six weeks witnessed the largest consecutive volume of bona fide used car sales in these 51 cities that have ever been recorded. "This is a healthy condition and one which reflects credit on our dealer organization. For with sales of new cars running higher and higher each month it is quite important that used car business be enlarged proportionately. We are very well satisfied with the way business has been going during 1926. The year is only one-third behind us and already our total shipments for these first four months, January, February, March and April, constitute 57.7 per cent of our entire shipment during 1925. And 1925 was our biggest year. "Comparing this same four month period with the corresponding period of a year ago reveals a tremendous gain in Nash shipments of 89.4 per cent. In other words, the Nash dealer body is doing business at a rate almost double that of last year. "The travelers' tree is a palm, so called, because the traveler can get cool water to drink by tapping the base of the leaf stalk.

HEBRON The Grange held its regular meeting at Gilead hall Tuesday evening. Features of the evening were a paper on Mussolini by Mrs. Robert Poots, an instrumental trio by J. Banks Jones, violin, Kenneth Ellis, saxophone, and Miss Marcella Zabriskie, piano. C. Daniel Way gave a talk on "Ways in Which Farmers Can Get the Best Prices." Mrs. Edwin T. Smith is lecturer. A meeting of the Tolland County Council of Religious Education was held at the Congregational church parlors Wednesday afternoon and evening. The afternoon program was devoted to an informal talk on the Sunday school in rural sections, with questions and discussions. A supper was served to the visiting clergy and about twenty Sunday school workers and others interested. The Rev. Eugene S. Richards spoke on "Poes and Friends of World Christianity," in the evening. The Rev. Edwin E. Sundt of South Willington was also present and led the afternoon discussions. The Rev. W. W. Malcomb, pastor of the church assisted. Miss Margaret Marshall of Whitteville, Mass., is visiting at the home of Miss Adelle White. Curtis White, also of Whitteville, spent the week end with relatives. Mrs. Emma Park has returned to her home in Jones street. A movement is on foot to see if the Hebron and Gilead Congregational churches will adopt the daylight saving plan. A committee will meet to discuss the matter. The condition of William Schuyler who was taken to the Hartford hospital two or more weeks ago suffering an acute mania is reported as very serious. The last report was that he lies in a stupor. The soldiers' memorial grounds have been improved this spring by the planting of new trees and the clearing away of waste. One of the numbers at the last meeting of the Grange was a whistling solo and encore by Mrs. Elizabeth Cummings. J. Kellogg White and family were guests on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Helen White. Mr. and Mrs. D. Arnold Kellogg visited recently at the home of Miss Caroline E. Kellogg, Mr. Kellogg's sister.

You have heard it—they are all good automobiles.

THE impression that all cars sold at approximately the same price give approximately the same results, never was less true than today. There are now two ways of building motor cars. One is to forget quality and build cars for trading purposes. The cost of production is cut to the bone, so that dealers may offer you more than the market value for your used car. The Buick way is to build for quality's sake—to give owners a better new car full of value—with every modern feature. Compare Buick design to that of other cars of the same or higher list price, and fix Buick superiority firmly in your mind, before you spend your money. HIGHLIGHTS OF ACTION
IN "BIG PARADE"

The first screen story of Laurence Stallings, noted newspaper man, novelist and playwright, has been booked for an engagement for one week at Parsons theater starting Monday, May 10th. This is "The Big Parade" a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, directed by King Vidor and starring John Gilbert. This unusual photoplay will be presented here by a complete touring organization including an orchestra of twenty pieces.

The plot of "The Big Parade" might be written in one sentence—An American Boy goes to France, Jim Apperson, son of a rich family, leaves for France without any heroic missions. Slim, a riveter, and Bull, a bartender, are in his company and they become buddies for the duration of the big adventure. We follow them through their training in a rural French village where Jim meets Melissande and immediately forgets about the girl he left at home.

Then the big parade! The long line of lorries moving to the front. Melissande is left standing in the road clutching one of Jim's hobnailed shoes. This is an exquisite scene, intelligently directed. Then the march through the forest with snipers and machine guns every where. The rhythm of this unbeatable advance of khaki clad figures makes a deep impress. On and on until the climax in the shell-hole when Jim goes over-the-top to avenge his two pals. You'll never see such a scene pictured on the screen again!

Supporting John Gilbert in his first starring picture are Rene Adoree as Melissande and such well-known players as Hobart Bosworth, Claire Adams, Claire McDowell, Karl Dane, Tom O'Brien, Robert Ober and Rosita Maratini.

Telling You What the Boys Are Doing

Richard Ball has been selected captain of the baseball team. This is Ball's second year as backstop and will be his last as he graduates in the summer. He is a student in the machine department.

Outdoor enthusiasts are already placing orders with the carpentry department. The students of this department are very busy at this time of the year installing screen doors, porch enclosures, garage doors, finishing the inside of houses being built by local contractors. They have one order for a fifteen-foot row boat. Special emphasis is being laid by the students on the erection of stairs in houses.

F. J. Trinder, state director of vocational education visited the school Thursday afternoon and inspected the various departments and the work being transacted in them. He was favorably impressed.

Greater interest is being shown this year in the cooperative courses than for many years. No one department seems to be favored more than any other but there is an equal distribution of the number of boys sending in applications for enrollment.

Many all-day students from out-of-town are applying for enrollment in the school. Stafford Springs is the greatest contributor. The local school is apparently a magnet to students from that city.

The enrollment at the school now shows a large number from Stafford Springs. The reason for the early demand for applications is to avoid being placed on the usual waiting list which develops in September.

At the last meeting of the faculty a discussion was held regarding a benefit performance for the Athletic Association which will be held later at one of the local theaters. Further arrangements will be announced later.

The students in the Electric Department have started a department paper known as "The Booster." This paper has been issued twice and is meeting with the approval of those who have read it. The paper contains articles regarding the electrical work and also has a page of sports in addition to comic strips. With a little more effort on the editorial staff's part, the paper will rise to greater heights. Forty-six copies of the first issue were sold. A new duplicating machine has been purchased.

Supremacy
in Fine Steel

In the percentage of Costly Chrome Vanadium Steel used, Dodge Brothers Motor Car outranks any other automobile in the world, regardless of cost.

It is everywhere conceded that Chrome Vanadium Steel is the toughest and most enduring metal ever created for use in the vital parts of a motor car.

It may not be so well known, however, that Dodge Brothers Motor Car ranks first in the world in the use of this costly and fatigue-proof material.

Dodge Brothers power assembly is almost entirely Chrome Vanadium—motor, connecting rods, crankshaft, transmission, universal joint, drive shaft, differential and rear axle.

Even the front axle is Chrome Vanadium—the entire steering unit—and every leaf of the springs.

In fact, wherever any manufacturer uses alloy steels, Dodge Brothers use costly Chrome Vanadium. And in numerous instances Dodge Brothers employ it where plain carbon steel, even in the costliest cars, is commonly thought sufficient.

This has been true from the day Dodge Brothers built their first motor car.

This explains why the words Long Life, Safety and Dependability are habitually associated with the name Dodge Brothers wherever motor cars are serving mankind.

CHRYSLER "58"

Chrysler engineers have designed the Chrysler "58" to satisfy the rigorous driving requirements of today, joined to a most unusual economy of operation.

How well they have succeeded is shown by the fact that the Chrysler "58" attains and maintains a speed of 58 miles per hour, accelerates from 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, and achieves 25 miles to the gallon.

Some cars have one of these features; a few have two—but none, regardless of price, except Chrysler "58", gives all three in combination.

Before you buy your next car you owe it to yourself to learn at first hand the exact measure of excess value which Chrysler "58" at its electrifying low price, offers you.

You will find us ready to extend to you every opportunity to make searching investigation and exhaustive comparisons.

"Say, young lady," said the officer as his grip tightened upon my shoulder. "You don't expect me to believe all of this pipe dream do you?"

"I certainly do. I wish you would take me to the station. I'm afraid to go alone."

"All right, I just will run you in." The policeman pulled me after him to the alarm box and sent in a call.

In a few minutes a patrol wagon came clattering up and I was hustled in. I was dragged unceremoniously into the station, and the officer told his story, which was that I had been sneaking out of the park at night.

To separate the leaves of a hard head of lettuce without tearing them, first cut the core from the head with a sharp pointed knife. Into the cavity thus made let the water run from your cold water faucet. This will easily and perfectly separate the delicate leaves.

The Kiwanians are to celebrate Mothers' Day by going to church tomorrow. Non churchgoers everywhere might follow their example. The sermons are usually inspiring, the music and flowers beautiful, and almost every one wearing a carnation, white for the mother who has passed on and colored for the mother still living.

Let us remember to in some way show our appreciation of our mothers at this time. She will know we have been thinking of her if she receives a box of fragrant flowers or something else equally acceptable. Or let it be something that will save her effort, her time, her steps. If she has almost everything of that kind, perhaps an enduring gift of jewelry will please her, and bring pleasant memories in the years to come.

MARION DAVIES' FINEST PICTURE

In "Beverly of Graustark" She Has Made the Most of Her Best Role.

Marion Davies, the appealing orphan in "Zander the Great," the piquant princess Mary in "When Knighthood Was in Flower," the intriguing "Fely" of "Lights of Old Broadway"—Marion Davies, who has given the screen as varied a string of characterizations that nothing else seemed possible, has come forward with still another—and this time one that marks a new page in screen history.

This is her role in "Beverly of Graustark," her new Cosmopolitan production now being seen at the Circle theater. The world knows her as a screen beauty and as an emotional star, and lately has come to welcome her digressions into comedy in whimsical flashes in her story.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"I do believe that Snitcher Snatch and the three Gazoos are home to bed," said Mister Tinkling. "We haven't seen them for nearly two hours."

"Yes, they have, most likely," said Nancy. "We can collect the rest of the rents without any more trouble, I guess."

"They were an awful nuisance," said Nick. "You never knew what they were going to do next and their manners were dreadful."

"That's right," declared the fairman. "Dreadful! But of course they may grow up into good Gazoos. One can never tell. By the way, my dears, here we are at the Post Office. I'll just go in and get my mail."

Mister Stamps, the fairy postman said that he would try to have one for me today."

They all went into the Post Office then and asked Mister Stamps, if there was any mail for Mister Tinkling.

And mind you—there was. It said:

"Dear Landlord: If you and your two helpers will come to the briar-patch at five o'clock you will get your fortunes told. Please don't be late."

"Expecting yours,"

"Oofy Gooty."

The Post Office clock said one minute to five, so you may be sure that Tinkling didn't even wait to put his letter into the envelope. Off went the three of them plitter patter as fast as they could run to the briar-patch—rent book, pocketbook, lead pencil and all!

But just as they reached the place, they saw a white line on the ground. Near it was a sign which said, "Chalk line. Stop!"

So they all stopped—just like that.

"Does Oofy Gooty live here?" called Mister Tinkling.

"Yes," answered a squeaky voice from the briar-patch. "This is Oofy Gooty. Do you wish to have your fortunes told?"

"Yes, sir! I mean, yes, ma'am. Or should I say, 'Yes, sir!'" stammered Mister Tinkling nervously. "Will you tell me a good fortune or a bad fortune?"

"A good fortune," said the voice.

"Oofy Gooty!" said Mister Tinkling to the Twins with a puzzled look. "Where have I heard that name before?"

But although Nancy and Nick and the fairman tried and tried, they simply could not remember who Oofy Gooty was.

"Yes, Oofy Gooty says you are to have a good fortune!" went on the voice. "But you must do as I say."

"All right, I'll do it," said Mister Tinkling. "What is it?"

"First you must all go and hide your eyes and count to five hundred by fives. But the charm won't work unless your hands are empty. You must lay everything you have with you on the chalk-line and then go over to three yonder birch trees and do your counting. When you come back you will know all about your fortune."

"Do we have to go to?" asked the Twins.

"Sure!" said Oofy Gooty. "So the fairman and the Twins laid the rent-book and the pencil and a pocketbook on the chalk line and went and counted up to five hundred in fives.

When they came back, everything was gone. And there was another note which said: "Don't try to follow me or your hair will turn green. Oofy Gooty."

There's more to this story, my dears.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Inquiry is out, for the old-fashioned mother who used to seek light on what her baby boy would be in future life by placing a Bible, a purse and a bottle before him to see which he would reach for.

Wasted words: Telling a go-getter that all things come to those who wait.

About the worst example a small boy ever meets with is in his arithmetic.

She: Joe tried to write a book but had to quit.

He: Why, what was the trouble?

She: Well, on the fourth page the hero swallowed an insult and choked down his anger, on page six he dropped his eyes and his face fell and on page seven he was struck dumb with wrath and Joe was afraid he was too crippled by then to have as a hero so he just quit writing.

Another thing that is hard for little boys to understand is why mud is good for women's faces and bad for boys' feet.

Queen: Charles, the baby has the stomach ache.

King: Page the Secretary of the Interior.

During a recent trip to Europe, George Ade was presented to a German professor of literature who said: "Mr. Ade, have your works been translated into German?"

"No," replied Ade, "they haven't been translated into English yet."

Pome.

Every time we go to town them traffic cops just stick aroun'.

Makes no difference which way we're bound.

They gotta quit callin' us hill-billies down.

Say, what is the matter with this town? Inquired a hypercritical tourist. Why haven't its citizens enough enterprise to put up a sign somewhere bearing the name Whillersville?

Prob'ly the reason, replied Ragon Tatters, is that its name ain't Whillersville; it's Pea Ridge.

The high cost of living is caused mainly by the high cost of things we could live without.

The barber cut him short.

It's foolish enough for a youngster to fall in a puddle of water—but a blamed sight more foolish for him to cry and get that much wetter.

A PUZZLE A DAY

George Elkins is one of our oldest farmers. In fact, he has been tilling the same farm in Illinois for over 80 years. Last year, the old farmer and John, his oldest farmhand, had an argument in trying to recall the date when they first worked together.

This was Mr. Elkins' side of the argument: He was three times as old as John on the day he first hired John. Last year John was as old as Mr. Elkins was then. And Mr. Elkins figured, that at the time John is three times as old as his (John's) last mentioned age, their combined ages will be 360 years.

How old were the two men at the time of the argument?

Last puzzle answer:

CODE - UXYZLMVWVQ
REGULAR-ABCDEFGHIJ
TRACEDDDP
KLMNOPQRST
UVWVYZ

Here is the complete code alphabet used by the wife of the game warden in her telegram. Printed letters are code letters, written letters are the letters of the regular alphabet. The deciphered telegram reads as follows: "Not a man comes fishing on this bay; that shouldn't be arrested before he goes home." The tenth word "shouldn't" was given. The second word could only be "A" or "I." But the ninth word determines it as "A," as there is no such word as "thit."

OLD FASHIONED AND MODERN DANCE SATURDAY EVENING, MAY 8th at Manchester Green School Al Behrend's Orchestra Prof. Louis Beebe, Prompter.

ABOUT TOWN

William Schnell, of Bank street, left this afternoon for Groton to spend the week-end. William Ferguson of South Main street represented Drake Post No. 4, G. A. R., at the department encampment held in Bridgeport on Thursday and Friday.

Arthur Harry, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ristau of East Middle Turnpike, who died yesterday will be buried tomorrow in the East cemetery. Rev. H. O. Weber, pastor of the Lutheran Concordia church will officiate. The little one is survived by two brothers and two sisters.

The regular monthly meeting of the Manchester Poultry club will be held at the office of Town Engineer Frank B. Bowen next Monday evening at eight o'clock. Mrs. George M. Bidwell of Union street is ill, threatened with pneumonia.

A number of Epworth Leaguers from Manchester enjoyed the roast beef supper and meeting of the Nutmeg Trail at Burnside last evening. The favors were noisemakers, each containing fortune-telling slips. Community singing followed, together with an address on "Youth" by Mr. Aiken, who was one of the teachers at the religious training course here early in the year. The presidents of the different leagues gave short reports of their work. Rockville league won the banner for the largest attendance.

Russell Crawford, Roy Norris, Harold Madden and George Wright left today for Providence as delegates to the New England conference from St. Mary's young people's fellowship club. They made the trip in an automobile owned by William Crawford. The W. B. A. Guards will have a rehearsal at the Barnard school Monday evening at 7.45. Captain Ethel Cowles desires every one taking part in the drill to be present.

Rev. H. O. Weber of the Lutheran Concordia church, who underwent an operation last Monday at the Hartford hospital, is recovering. He hopes to be able to resume his duties soon. Miss Mary B. Demsey, daughter of Mrs. Almie Demsey of 573 Hartford road, and Otto Carl Hansen of the Edgewood house were married this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the parsonage of Center Congregational church. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Watson Woodruff.

The monthly meeting of the Manchester Girl Scout Council will be held on Tuesday evening, May 11 at 8 P. M. with Mrs. F. H. Jones of Woodbridge street. Mrs. Ellen O'Donnell and son Francis have returned to their home in Hartford after spending two weeks with Mrs. O'Donnell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman of North School street.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Shaw of Woodbridge street, accompanied by Miss Beatrice Shaw of North Elm street, will motor down to Ossining, N. Y. tomorrow where they will leave Mrs. Shaw. The latter is captain of Troop 5, Girl Scouts will represent Manchester at the international conference of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides which begins at Camp Edith Macy, New York, on Tuesday.

The Hartford County W. C. T. U. will hold its annual convention in Wethersfield M. E. church Wednesday, May 12, sessions at ten and two o'clock. Rev. Dr. J. F. Johnson of Hartford will address the afternoon session. The state president, Mrs. Newton and Mrs. Wilson, vice-president at large, will also speak. A luncheon at 50 cents will be served at the church. Members and friends are urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson and daughters of Clinton street motored to Rochester, N. Y. today to spend the week-end with relatives. Leonard H. Johnson of Hill street accompanied them. Cherry trees all over Manchester are in bloom and the prospects point to a sizeable crop of this fruit in town this year.

Bill McKee of Laurel street has practically finished and furnished his new cottage at Saybrook Manor. He has been spending the past few week-ends there. Chauncey B. Ellsworth of Marble street is the oldest man so far to take out a combination hunting and fishing license. Mr. Ellsworth who is 85 enjoys hunting more than fishing.

John Gillis of 25 Winter street, will spend the week-end in New York City where he will await the arrival of his sister, Lilly Gillis, from Europe. He will attend a big soccer game there also. In another column of today's Herald will be found the notice of the special meeting of the voters of the town, which will take place next Friday evening in the High school hall at seven o'clock. Eastern Standard time, for the purpose of making an appropriation of $50,000 for the town's share in the building of Center street from Main street to Adams street.

The Tigers, who claim to be last year's South End champions, are open to meet any team averaging 17 years. Managers may communicate with Louis Neron 591 North street, with Manchester. Phone 930-2.

RETIRE AS TEACHER AT TRADE SCHOOL

Mrs. Jennie Bidwell Resigns Because of Health—Instructor 11 Years.

Mrs. Jennie Bidwell, of 26 Linden street, with a record of eleven years of service as an instructor in the local State Trade school, has retired owing to ill health. It was announced today by Director A. A. Warren. Mrs. Bidwell's period of service which dates back to the Nov. 1, 1915 when the Textile school was in the Old Mill at Cheney Brothers, is the longest of any of the instructors at the school. Mrs. Bidwell was instructor in the textile department which included reeling, winding, doubling and twisting. She was very efficient in her work and it was with regret that her resignation was accepted. The new successor to Mrs. Bidwell has not been selected but it is all probable it will be an experienced employee in the textile work at Cheney Brothers. The successor will be named next week.

CROWDED TROLLEY CAR OFF TRACK AT CENTER

No One Injured When Car Runs Into Gutter—Rails Spread.

Forty passengers on a Hartford bound trolley car were furnished with a real thrill at 7:30 this morning when the car jumped the track near Center and Linden streets, followed the rails for a distance of about twenty feet, and then went across the street into the gutter before it could be stopped. No one was injured. The car was crowded with insurance workers and although excited, there was no panic. The passengers were transferred to another trolley and taken to Hartford. The derailed car was hauled back to the tracks by the wrecking crew. The car was in charge of Motor-Man Angelo and Conductor Edgar Mohr. The accident was due to spreading of the rails. When the trolley jumped the tracks, it just missed an automobile coming up the hill on Center street.

Dog of Mayor Treat Killed By Poisoner

The mysterious deaths of two dogs during the past two days indicate that a dog-poisoner is at work in Manchester. The dogs which have died suddenly are owned by Louis G. Cowles and Mayor Robert V. Treat, who are neighbors on East Center street. Mayor Treat said today that he planned to conduct an investigation into the death of his dog, a collie. He said, however, that he would not have the dog examined. Mrs. Cowles, who owned a little terrier, would not say that the deaths were intentional but rather laid the cause to something which the dogs had picked up. The Cowles dog was found dead yesterday afternoon by a neighbor in the rear of the Cowles residence. The Mayor's dog was found dead this morning. Both had evidently died from the same kind of poison.

POLICE COURT

Raymond W. Phillips of Glastonbury was before the Manchester police court this morning on the charge of driving without registration. The young man had just bought a used car yesterday and was taking a spin over to Manchester to try it out. He had no tag light on the car and when Traffic Officer Wirtalla stopped him about this, he found he was without registration. Phillips pleaded guilty and a fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

Farm wages, which figure so prominently in production costs, were higher in 1925 than in any of the years since 1920.

RECOVERS LOST $10 BILL

Because he remembered that he had walked through Bissell street, Ernest Reichert of Bidwell street recovered $10 he had lost this morning. The money was found by Winfred White of 9 Foster street, a driver for L. T. Wood, who saw it lying at the side of the road. The driver thought it was a tobacco coupon but he got down off his truck and picked it up. He turned it over to Mr. Wood and a few minutes later Reichert called up and asked if anybody had found any money. He identified the bill and later came and got it.

Financial Judgment You can bequeath it to your wife and family by a clause in your will naming this institution as executor or trustee of your estate. LET your heirs receive a heritage of thoughtful foresight as well as money. Plan your will to relieve them of financial problems and risks. Our experience and responsibility are now at your command and will be at theirs if you so provide in your will. A talk with us will incur no obligation, and it may be an important step in assuring a safe financial future for your family. Manchester Trust Co.
