Fairbanks, Alaska, Reports Dirigible Over American Continent and Far North Metropolis Turns to Busi- ness of Greeting—Trans- polar Flight to Have Glo- rious Finish.

London, May 13.—The dirigible Norge has reached Alaska and is proceeding to Nome, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Fairbanks, Alaska, this afternoon.

Nome, Alaska, May 13.—This far north community is all a-tiptoe today, watching the skies for the appearance of the Norge.

The greatest excitement and enthusiasm has prevailed in this far northern outpost.

Anticipating his arrival, Captain Amundsen wired from Spitzbergen to Ralph Lomen, Norwegian vice consul here to have 100 men ready to handle ropes in units of ten men each.

There was no sleep in Nome last night, the entire population staying up to welcome the daring Amundsen and his co-explorers.

A field one mile north of the city was in readiness to receive the Norge. Cables have been strung entirely around this field to insure a safe landing.

The entire city of Nome and all surrounding posts was decorated in honor of the occasion.

Committees and Everything Reception committees had been appointed and all arrangements completed for the biggest demonstration in the history of the Arctic.

No direct communication with the dirigible has yet been established.

A feature of the city's decorations is a huge hunting arch with the words "From Rom to Nome." Over the flying field enormous letters spell out the names "Norge" and "Amundsen" had been drawn.

No Direct News
Bremerton, Wash., May 13.—Although naval radio stations in Alaska have heard signals from the dirigible Norge, now believed heading for Nome, after passing northernmost Alaska, since two a. m. this morning, the Alaskan operators, up to 8 a. m. (Pacific time), had not been able to get in direct communication with the airship.

This was the information radioed here at 9 o'clock to the big naval station which works the remote posts in the far north.

LOCAL TAXES PROBLEM MILLS TELLS CHAMBER

N. Y. Representatives Warn National Body to Cut Ex- penses and Revise Systems.

Washington, May 13.—America's real tax problem of the future lies in reduction of operating costs for state and local governments. Rep. Ozden L. Mills, (R., N. Y.), declared today at the National Convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Mills warned business men that unless local governments drastically reduce expenses and revise their tax systems on a sound basis, federal economies will be in vain.

The National Chamber of Commerce closed its annual meeting today with adoption of resolutions election of directors and a golf tournament, in which several hundred business men participated.

At the annual banquet held last night, Secretary of Commerce Hoover made the principal address.

Total expenditures by federal, state and local governments in 1924 were given as $10,252,000,000. Federal costs fell $285,000,000.

Mills asserted that states and municipalities are not only hoarding their tax revenues, but are resorting to bond issues to finance additional expenditures. Inadequacy of state and local governments were said to have increased from $3,322,000,000 in 1913 to $11,625,000,000 in 1924, with additional issues of $1,391,000,000 last year.

TOWERMAN DERAILS FIVE CARS, SAVES DISASTER

Atlanta, Ga., May 13.—Presence of mind of a sentry in a railroad tower in the Bellwood yards here today prevented a major rail disaster.

The guardsman in the tower derailed five coaches of the "Flamingo" crack Nashville-Chattanooga and St. Louis Chicago-to-Florida train, after part of the train has passed a switch and was in imminent danger of colliding with another train.

Two negro Pullman porters were injured and a half a dozen passengers bruised and shaken, when the five Pullmans left the rails and fell on their sides.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL PUT IN FIRST CLASS

Trustees Informed Yester- day of High Rank—Offi- cers Are Re-elected.

That the Manchester Memorial Hospital is an institution deserving of the support of Manchester people in the $35,000 campaign which is being carried on, was shown at the regular monthly meeting of the trustees held in the hospital building late yesterday afternoon.

During the session a report of the visit of Dr. Carl Eaton, representative of the American College of Surgeons, was read. This revealed that Dr. Eaton had again placed the local hospital in the Class A group.

Dr. Eaton is one of the board of inspectors from the American College of Surgeons in Chicago who makes visits to all the hospitals in the United States. It is his work to investigate conditions at the hospitals and to classify them.

The Chicago college is composed of some of the best doctors in the country. Dr. Eaton came to the Manchester Memorial hospital Saturday. He was met by the local hospital visiting staff which is composed of Doctors Caldwell, Burr, Sloane, Holmes, Friend, Moore, Tinker and Higgins.

Dr. Eaton's visit here resulted in his voicing praise in the way the hospital is operated. He also offered several helpful suggestions.

Re-Name Officers.
At the meeting of the trustees yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, officers were elected for the 1926-27 year. This proved a re-election, however, as the present staff was named for another term.

They are President, C. Elmore Watkins; vice president, Horace B. Cheney; secretary, F. A. Verplanck; treasurer, Manchester Trust Company. The naming of the Manchester Trust Company to handle the financial affairs proves to Manchester people that the money is carefully handled.

The board of trustees of the hospital is composed of Mrs. Albert Crowell, Mrs. W. S. Coburn, Miss Mary Chen, W. W. Robertson, W. P. Reidy, W. S. Hyde, P. J. O. Cornell, C. R. Burr, H. B. Cheney and F. A. Verplanck.

New Doctor Named.
Other business recorded at yesterday's meeting was the appointment of Dr. Charles Y. Bidgood, of Hartford, as a member of the visiting staff of the Manchester Memorial hospital. His work will be in the surgical division as urologist. It is understood that Dr. Bidgood

The concert which will be the last in the series held this winter at the South Methodist Episcopal church will be open to the public at no charge.

Mr. Patton has not been heard here for some time, and his best of friends here are sure to be in attendance at this concert. Miss Gustafson and Mr. Davis are soloists of wide experience and their roles in "The Creation" will ably display their voices.

PILSUDSKI TO BOSS POLAND AS DICTATOR

In Full Military Control at Warsaw and Will Take Over the Government Tonight.

Warsaw, Poland, May 13.—Marshal Pilsudski is in complete control of Warsaw and it is understood that he intends to take over the government functions tonight.

The marshal has refused to negotiate with the Vitos government which has retired to that section of the city which is under the protection of loyal government troops.

The number of Pilsudski troops is increasing hourly.

Pilsudski forces have now occupied the principle public buildings and military barracks.

Picking Cabinet
Marshal Pilsudski has already begun the selection of members of his cabinet, so certain is he of the ultimate success of his coup.

In a radio message broadcast to Europe, setting forth his aims, the marshal declares that he will dissolve the Polish parliament.

Berlin Not Informed
Berlin, May 13.—Communication between Berlin and Warsaw is interrupted and the exact status of the Polish revolution is in doubt.

The latest official advice from Warsaw declared that the government had the nation well under control and that the Pilsudski forces were making no progress.

Other advice told of street fighting in the suburbs of Warsaw and declared that there had been many casualties.

One report states that the revolutionaries have taken over the presidential palace and other public buildings, while conflicting reports state that government troops are in possession of all strategic points.

Meeting of Troops
Mutiny of a number of troops appears certain and it is reported here that both the monarchists and the Fascist have come out in favor of Marshal Pilsudski as dictator.

Though the report declares that the recently named premier Vitos has resigned, other reports state that he has gathered the loyal army about him, has called for volunteers and is preparing to defend the capital.

The revolt appears to have its inception with charges of corruption in the Parliament, with a possible monarchistic movement in the background.

The streets of Warsaw have been plastered with placards reading: "We will not let Poland be plundered. Long live Commander-in-Chief Pilsudski!"

AUTO LAW VIOLATIONS KEEP OUR COURT BUSY

All But One Case in Month Due to Motor Vehicles — Two This Morning.

Motor vehicle violations continue to occupy the attention of the police court. Since the first of the month, with one exception every case in court has been caused by motor vehicle violations.

This morning two more men faced Judge Johnson for this cause.

Frank Dallesander of Hartford was charged with driving an automobile without registration. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Sergeant John Crockett. The officer stopped the young man because he had only one headlight and found out he was driving without registration.

Simoes Vigue of Hartford, a truck driver, apparently was in a hurry on his way home yesterday afternoon. He allowed his five-ton truck to coast down Center street hill at a speed of 34 miles an hour. A truck is supposed to go no faster than 15 miles an hour. He was arrested by Sergeant William Barron. In court this morning a fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

ALFRED GREZEL BUYS HOME IN "HOLLYWOOD"

Alfred Grezel, local plumbing contractor, today purchased the handsome Colonial type home on Porter street in the "Hollywood" tract from Edward J. Holl. This new house is one of the prettiest in the East Center street and Porter street section.

Mr. Grezel is being congratulated today by his friends on securing the property. It is located in one of Mr. Holl's finest developments and is in a rapidly growing section. Property values on Porter street and toward Manchester Green are increasing rapidly as a result of the beautiful residential tracts which are being laid out there.

Mr. Grezel will make his home there, and intends to move his family as soon as possible.

Strike Did Great Harm To Labor, Says Leader

Appleton, Federation Secre- tary, Calls It Expression of Ignorance and Ego- tism—Charges Long Laid Schemes of Sabotage.

is to assist them to recover old markets and discover new ones. Their chances in this direction have been badly handicapped.

The strike has been an expression of economic ignorance and brutality careless personal egotism. It wasn't a sudden happening, it had been carefully prepared over all the months the coal subsidy had been running. Special schemes for dislocating the public services were laid before members of some unions on the Sunday preceding the strike. These schemes took months of elaborate planning, but they collapsed.

The effects of the general strike will continue for a long time. Everybody will suffer. Those who suffer least will be those who actually promoted the strike, and those who suffer most will be the poorest classes, who will be forced by an increased cost of living to add the producers in meeting the increases in taxation.

London, May 13.—The general strike is over. It has failed in all its objectives.

It has neither broken the government nor terrorized the people, nor helped the miners.

On the contrary it has damaged their present position and future prospects.

The only way to help the miners

STRIKE EFFECT WILL BE FELT MANY MONTHS

Enormous Losses Sure to Work Hardship on All Classes, Industrial Lead- ers Point Out.

London, May 13.—British industry—which was suffering from serious depression before the general strike threw it entirely out of gear—today faces many months of stupendous effort to make up the losses resulting from the stoppage.

The cost of the strike to the nation runs into at least nine figures, and estimates of its cost range from $250,000,000 to several billions of dollars.

The loss in trade alone is calculated in responsible quarters at $100,000,000 a day.

Not Felt For Weeks
Industrial leaders pointed out today that the full economic effects of the strike will not be felt for many weeks yet, but that the loss to the country is so enormous that it will work hardships upon all classes.

Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, has already begun to assemble a supplementary estimate of the costs of the strike to the government, for the maintenance of the essential services and the increasing of the police and the movement of troops.

Heavy Taxes Coming
Parliament will be asked to appropriate funds for the government's expenses, and there is no doubt but what extraordinary taxes will be levied to meet these expenditures.

The aftermath of the strike already threatens a serious increase in the number of unemployed, which had been reduced to a low point. With the possibility that many workers will not be given their jobs back again, it seems probable that the government will find itself faced with a more serious unemployment problem, and that the weekly expenditures for doles will be greatly augmented.

Losers Death Suit
NOT FILED IN YEAR
Judge Thomas Sustains De-murrer in Action Over 8-
Year-Old Killing.

New Haven, May 13.—Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in the United States District court, today issued a finding sustaining a demurrer filed in the suit of Gaetano Musso, of New York, against Michael C. Beckanstin and Essock Beckanstin, of Bridgeport, a suit growing out of the death of Musso's daughter by a car owned by the Beckanstins.

The Musso child was killed September 3, 1917. The father was appointed trustee by a probate court in New York on July 24, and immediately brought suit. The Beckanstins demurred on the ground that suit should have been brought within one year of the child's death. Musso contended that as he brought suit within a year of his appointment the case should stand.

Judge Thomas ruled that the Beckanstins' claim was correct and dismissed the suit.

MANY WORKERS REFUSE TO GO BACK TO THE JOB

Trade Unionists Are Ugly Over Settlement — Many Volunteers Still at Work; Government Continues to Operate Services — Spe- cial Police Are Retained; Trouble in Coal and Dock Districts — Some Con- cerns Bar Strikers.

London, May 13.—The government stepped into the breach tonight and came to the aid of labor, which virtually faced a lock-out as employers placed restrictions on the return of strikers to their jobs.

Premier Baldwin in the House of Commons announced that the government will not "countenance any attempt on the part of employers to force wage reductions against returning strikers."

London, May 13.—Britain's industrial strife continues.

Half a million railway workers today decided to continue on strike.

This decision was taken after the railroad companies had issued a joint statement that employees who struck had broken their contracts and they would be taken back only on conditions which would make another general strike improbable, and the railroads would reserve the right to take back only those whom they choose to reinstate.

Serious Situation.
The continuance of the railroad strike only adds to a serious situation which is rapidly developing.

Other employers are similar to those announced by the railroad companies.

Many strikers are declining to return to work, and a new deadlock, this one between capital and labor, rather than between labor and the government, has been reached.

The strike of a million coal miners remains effective.

"Stubborn Resistance."
The Trades Union Council held a long session reviewing the entire situation and issued a statement announcing that they are prepared to "offer stubborn resistance" unless all strikers are permitted to return to their work.

The railroads issued the following statement:

"The companies feel compelled to make these restrictions in the interest of the public and to safeguard the future peace and discipline on the railways.

"Rumors that the companies are refusing to take back men except at wage reductions are absolutely incorrect.

To Deal Separately.
"All men who can be employed immediately are being accepted for duty and others will be accepted as soon as possible, subject to two conditions. First, every man who left his work without notice has broken his contract of service and the companies feel that they must reserve any rights they possess in the matter; secondly, a number of men in positions of trust have gone on strike and others have been guilty of acts of intimidation and violence. The companies propose to examine these cases individually and mean while they reserve their decisions regarding them."

"Humiliating Terms"
The National Union of railwaymen's action in declining to remain on strike was taken at the same time that a statement of serious portent was being issued from the Trades Union Council.

"Some employers are attempting to enforce humiliating terms as conditions of the employees returning to work," said the spokesman of the Trades Union Council.

The general council called off the general strike in confidence that the prime minister meant what he said when he asked for resumption of negotiations towards honorable peace.

"Must Stop Attacks"
"Peace forever depends on the employers abstaining from victimization. If it is continued, the unions for the sake of self-protection would be compelled to offer

VON HINDENBURG A GERMAN ANCHOR

President Is Only Factor of Stability in Mixed Political Situation.

Berlin, May 13.—President Hindenburg stands out today as the one stable factor in the German political crisis.

The Luther Cabinet is coming on in the interim, but Herr Luther has asked the president to relieve him of his duties as soon as possible.

No single person stands out as the probable next premier. The names of Dr. Luther, Herr Stresemann, Herr Jarres and former Chancellor Marx have all been mentioned, but it is doubtful whether any of these could muster the necessary majority.

Flag Episode
The situation is further confused by the public passions which have been aroused by the controversy over the restoration of the old imperial flag and the forthcoming plebiscite on the disposition of the former princes.

BIG SETBACK PARTY AT WEST SIDE REC

Miss Helen Bodreau Remembered by Her Friends—Leaves Work There Tomorrow.

One of the largest setback parties of the season was held at the West Side recreation center last night. It is estimated that more than a hundred were in attendance, no doubt because of the fact that it was the last evening affair in which Miss Helen Bodreau was to be present in an official capacity. Miss Bodreau who has been director of activities there for the past few years is leaving tomorrow. Her many friends among the men and women, as well as the boys who play pool and avail themselves of the other privileges of the recreation center, united in contributing a purse of $29. Daniel Rena made the presentation speech and Miss Bodreau gracefully responded, thanking them all for their kindness and good will. She was also given a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas and a handsome sofa pillow.

Bountiful refreshments were served to all. Mrs. Louise Frawley donated the coffee and assisted in serving the sandwiches. Dishes of State were on every table and colorful prizes were provided.

The prize winners in setback were first, Mrs. Hudson and Henry Nelson; second, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Louis Chagnon and third Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson.

LOCAL DELEGATES MEET PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

The Connecticut delegates to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States convention in Washington were received by President Coolidge at noon yesterday.

Senator Bingham introduced the delegates to the president and ex-President Stanley Bullard of the State Chamber, extended to President Coolidge an invitation to be the guest of the Connecticut State Chamber at its annual meeting in New London on June 22.

Mr. Bullard also extended to the delegates the name of the City of New London, an invitation to accept residence in that city as a summer White House on the grounds near the old Pequot House.

President Coolidge chatted cordially with the Connecticut business men and evidenced an intimate knowledge and keen interest in the conditions in Connecticut. The President expressed his desire to accept both invitations if the public business would permit.

Mr. A. Cheney and Fred J. Bendall were among those presented to President Coolidge.

This will probably be the only meeting of guarantors before Chautauqua comes here this summer.

U. S. HAS HALF OF WORLD'S RAILROADS

Washington.—The United States has nearly one-half of the railroads and facilities in the entire world, according to a report on the Cummins consolidation bill, awaiting action today before the Senate.

American trackage of all kinds totals 4,000 miles, the report revealed, as follows:

Single main track, 250,000.

Second, third and fourth main track, 40,000.

Terminal, switching, side and passing tracks, 116,000.

There are 2,500,000 freight and 53,000 passenger cars, exclusive of sleeping, parlor, dining and privately owned cars, and 70,000 loco motives.

This equipment is owned by 1,500 and operated by about 1,000 separate and independent railway companies, according to the report, only 190 of which are rated by the Interstate Commerce Commission as first-class roads, or enterprises with annual gross operating revenue of $1,000,000 or more.

A single track mileage of 236,000 is controlled by class 1 roads. All but the remaining mileage is controlled by roads with revenues below $1,000,000 annually.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL PUT IN FIRST CLASS

Intends to open an office in Manchester soon.

The trustees have recently rented another house on Haynes street located at No. 37. This is the third building opposite the hospital which the trustees have acquired. It will be used to house nurses and employees of the hospital, the latter building being too congested to care for the orkers in addition to the patients. Yesterday there were 43 patients in the hospital which is classed as a 50-bed institution.

Another action which the trustees took yesterday was to negotiate with the Eldridge estate owner to see if it will be possible to secure his permission to run a pipe from the septic tank to the sewer on Middle Turnpike West. At present the waste from the hospital runs into a large septic tank which is placed on the hospital property as far away from the building as possible. This has not proved quite satisfactory and the trustees believe that if the owner of the Eldridge property can be influenced to allow a pipe to be run through his land to the street sewer, it will be a vast improvement.

No part of Cuba is over forty miles from the sea.

COP TO A FENCE

Willimantic Robbery Suspects Make Captive of Stamford Policeman.

Stamford, May 13.—After overcoming local policeman and handcuffing him to a fence here, two men, armed and accompanied by a woman, dashed by policemen here and at Greenwich and escaped into New York state. The fact that their car carried a woman caused the officers to refrain from shooting.

The bandits were suspected of one robbery in Willimantic and seven in Norwalk, and police along the line were notified to watch for them. A car of conspicuous color being described.

Motorcycle Officer Lewis Schlegtweg stopped the car on East Main street and the driver asked him to get a doctor for the woman. Schlegtweg ordered the party to drive to police headquarters.

Take Gun and Irons.

Schlegtweg was suddenly confronted by an automatic in the hands of one of the men, who ordered him to "look at the stars," and the driver took away his revolver and handcuffs. Then the bandits shackled him to the fence.

Meanwhile two officers had been sent out from headquarters to watch for the car. They saw it approaching and ran into the street. The driver drove straight at them and then sped away.

Greenwich was notified and a lone policeman went out. He met the same reception as the two Stamford policemen and the car shot off into New York state. Port Chester police failed even to get a glimpse of the car.

CREATE A NEW CRISIS

the most stubborn resistance and the whole purpose expressed by Premier Baldwin would be rendered null and void.

"The government must stop this attack on trades unions."

The three unions of railwaymen involved in the new strike number 550,000 members.

A serious aspect was given to the situation by the fact that the railway clerks, who were not out on the general strike, decided to join the new strike movement.

It is estimated that tonight an additional 1,200,000 strikers officially out in the coal industry and on the railways, and possibly another 2,000,000 have failed to return to their work after the general strike.

Cabinet in Session.

The cabinet held a long session and considered the serious situation which threatens to result from the fact that as yet there has been no general movement of the strikers to return to their work.

Scotland Yard has decided to keep the special police on the active list for at least a fortnight.

Two large detachments of police were today sent to outlying districts in London where strikers were freed from Trades Union Congress control, have begun quarrelling among themselves.

Government Perplexed.

It was learned after the cabinet session, that the government is perplexed by the impasse which threatens to be created if strikers persist in remaining away from their work.

For the present the government's policy will be to handle the situation as it did before the general strike was called off, though this will be done as delicately as possible in order to avoid any possible charge or provocation.

Informal steps are being taken to adjust the coal dispute on the basis of Sir Herbert Samuel's memorandum, but there appears no immediate chance of breaking the deadlock and the resumption of mining.

In spite of the calling off of the general strike conditions brought on by the tie-up remain practically unchanged, with the great body of trade unionists still idle. The General Council of the Trades Union Congress has found that it is much easier to get a strike started than to bring it to an end.

Ban on Strikes.

Many large companies have flatly refused to take back all the men who walked out, while in some industries the strikers themselves declined to return despite instructions from their labor leaders.

Railroads and street cars throughout the nation are still running today with volunteer labor aided by skilled men whom the companies have permitted to resume employment. While special police remain in control of London, the nation's chief of piloting the lumbering motor cars through the streets has been made more difficult by the return to their jobs of hundreds of taxi drivers.

The coal strike, involving nearly a million men which was almost lost sight of during the general strike, is still in progress with the miners' federation as determined not to accept wage reductions as they were when the strike was first called.

Turbulent Quarters.

Fears by the police of serious disorders during the hours immediately following the cancellation of the general strike did not prove groundless. As a result of outbreaks in the Doncaster coal fields and among the dock strikers at the East End of London, a large force of special constables remained on duty throughout the country with unrelaxed vigilance.

The worst disorders in London occurred in the Borough of Poplar, where the population is made up almost entirely of dock workers and railroad men. The police made several charges with their clubs during the night in the vicinity of the Poplar Town Hall.

Among those injured were the mayor of Poplar, Councillor Jack Hammon, and Rev. Cyril Mayne, pastor of All-Saints church, all of whom were attending a meeting of strikers at the Town Hall where vigorous protest against terminating the strike was made.

Much Bitterness.

Among the more moderate leaders of both trade unionists and employers there has been an immediate effort to respond fully to the appeal of King George and Premier Baldwin for a quick return to peace, but there is also plenty of evidence that much bitterness exists among all classes. This is expected to be one of the most serious aftermaths of the struggle, in addition to the great economic loss to the nation.

The Trade Union movement will also suffer severely because of dissatisfaction among the many workers at the abrupt ending of a battle from which they have received no gain.

Can't Compel Employers.

The government broadcast a statement today declaring that it had no power to compel employers to take back all of the men who had struck, but asking that adjustments be made in the spirit of co-operation and conciliation.

The failure of full resumption of the essential services kept Hyde Park milk depot and the meat station at Smithfield market running in full blast. No serious food shortage has as yet developed.

The executive committee of the Miners' Federation was in session today and completed a report for presentation to the delegate conference to meet tomorrow.

THEORY FOR WARD

Authorities Search Hospitals But Missing Man's Wife Scouts the Idea.

New York, May 13.—The possibility that Walter S. Ward, son of the millionaire baker, who mysteriously disappeared one week ago, was the victim of amnesia, caused authorities today to begin a search of hospitals between here and Baltimore.

Young Ward, whose damaged auto was found in Trenton, N. J., was suffering from headaches, shortly before his disappearance, according to friends. It was also recalled that the youthful sportsman was subject to fainting spells during his trial for the murder of Clarence Peters three years ago, in which he was acquitted.

However, Mrs. Beryl Ward, his wife, continued today to believe that her husband was kidnapped or slain by blackmailers. Mrs. Ward is led with a nervous breakdown, scooped at the amnesia theory.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 13.—George Smuddy, police chief of Jellico, Tenn., and Joe Collier, 29, are dead, and policeman Joe S. Gavlor, of Jellico, Ky., is seriously wounded today, as a result of a gun battle in the border coal town.

The battle started when the two policemen sought to arrest Collier, a fugitive wanted for the attempted killing of his wife and small daughter. Collier took refuge in a barber shop.

"I'll die before I'll go to jail," he shouted, opening fire on the policemen.

UNKNOWN WAITING STATION LOST TO NORTH END

Of the thousands who wait for cars in the past fifteen years at Depot Square, few knew that there was a "trolley station" there, provided for patrons of the Connecticut Co. during inclement weather. They only knew it today when the shelter had been tipped upside down preparatory to its removal.

Persons awaiting cars seldom go to the east side of the street now. They generally congregate on the west side and in stormy weather, seek shelter under the shed of the G. E. Willis Co. There is a reason underlying this, because in walking toward the car they had to dodge but one line of traffic whereas they had taken shelter across the street, they would have had to dodge three lines of traffic. As a result no one used the shelter so the trolley company decided to dispense with it.

CHAMBER TO SEE "BON AMI" MADE

W. W. Robertson Invites Members to Tour Factory and Be Dinner Guests.

Among the coming events planned for the Chamber of Commerce, one that will be looked forward to with the greatest interest is scheduled for June 25. On this date W. W. Robertson, local manager of the Orford Soap company has invited the entire membership of the Chamber to be the guests of the company for a tour of inspection of the plant. The company will also entertain the Chamber members at a dinner which will be served at the Harding school.

Mr. Robertson told a Herald man this morning that he had invited William H. Childs and N. T. Pulsifer, both former Manchester men, and had their promise that they would make an effort to attend this gathering. Mr. Childs has been at the head of the Orford Soap company practically since its organization and is well known here where he was born and lived until he removed to Brooklyn. It will be decidedly interesting to members of the Chamber, especially those from the north side of the town, to have these two men present.

Guests From New York. Mr. Pulsifer was for many years at the head of the Oakland Paper company and always took a great interest in Manchester and its welfare. The meeting will give the Chamber members an opportunity to get acquainted with the different processes in the manufacture of Bon Ami and will prove a revelation to those who have never been inside the factory. Besides the two men mentioned a number of the general officers of the company will be present.

On Thursday, May 20, the Chamber will meet with the Get-Together club of Cheney Brothers at Cheney hall. This will take the form of a May festival and the dinner will include roast chicken and strawberry shortcake. Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt of the Harvard church, Brookline, Mass., will speak and the Deerfield Academy Glee club will furnish entertainment.

Going to Storrs. On June 17 it is planned to have the Chamber members with their wives go to Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs on an outing. Transportation will be furnished all those who care to go and dinner will be served immediately upon arrival of the party at the college.

President Beach will give the members a short talk and during the day an opportunity will be given for inspection of the college and farm buildings.

FIND MANCHESTER STOLEN FROM NEIGHBOR

Tolland Turnpike Road Sign Was in East Hartford 9-10 of Mile.

Following the article which appeared in the "Manchester Herald" Tuesday regarding Manchester's mistake in placing of the town boundary marker, Secretary Rix of the Chamber of Commerce invited Town Engineer J. Frank Bowen to view the three signs set up on the Manchester-East Hartford boundary.

The sign on Spencer street and also the one on Center street near the residence of C. H. Wickham were discovered to be properly placed, but upon inspection of the Tolland Turnpike sign, it was discovered that a stone, supposed to mark the boundary between the towns had been used in error as the real town boundary stone was 9-10 of a mile nearer Manchester. A letter has been sent to the East Hartford Chamber of Commerce acknowledging the error and arrangements will be made at once to have the sign relocated.

An unusually excellent dinner was one of the features of the May meeting of Watkins Brothers Duncan Phyfe Club held at their club rooms at Watkins' store last night. Clam chowder, breaded veal cutlet, with tomato sauce, mashed potatoes, asparagus, cold-slaw, coffee, rolls and home-made apple pie with cheese was the menu for the evening.

Following the supper, William Rush, manager of the Hartford store, told about his winter in Florida, telling about the Watkins-Limbacher store at Florida. The Seminole estates, Connecticut night at one of the big hotels held in honor of our governor, and other things of interest.

As part of the entertainment, Mr. Watkins, chairman of the entertainment committee, asked everyone to tell about the worst or hardest job he had to do each day and how it could be made more pleasant. Answers ranged anywhere from getting up in the morning to going to bed at night, and some unusually clever jokes were exchanged.

William Thumth, manager of Watkins Easy Washer department had secured the service of L. J. Drager, district manager, who brought with him a moving picture machine and three reels of movies, showing how the Easy Washer is made, the history of the machine, and a model sale.

Herald's Extra Makes Big Hit In Manchester

Exhibiting enterprise worthy of the biggest newspapers, The Evening Herald yesterday issued an extra on the strike situation in England that beat its rivals by hours. That the experiment was a success is attested by the fact that very few of the extras were returned unsold.

An extra in a town of this size means a tremendous amount of double work and detail. As to the mechanical part of the job it means that the men squeeze into four hours the usual work that takes eight hours. That was done yesterday.

"Flash" Comes In. It was shortly after eight o'clock yesterday morning when a "Flash" came over the electrically operated telegraph machines in The Herald office stating that the general strike in England had been declared off. At once the editors decided to issue an extra. There was a reason for this as news from England is vitally interesting to this town because of the number of residents of British descent who make their homes here.

Speeded Up. As soon as the decision was made every department began to speed up. Two hours work had to be packed into one and every person from the managing editor down to the copy boys worked accordingly.

The question of newsboys was the hardest problem as even though the newspapers were rushed to the streets they could not be distributed without the aid of the boys. Since the boys were at school the assistant principal at the Barnard school was appealed to and she gave permission for sixteen boys to leave school a little earlier than usual.

While the boys were gathering at the South End Herald office, autos with the papers, damp from the press were rushed to newsstands and to the newsboys. The work had been timed so well that when the mill help left the factories boys were screaming their wares. Herald's sold like the proverbial hot cakes.

The experiment proved so successful that it has been decided that any time in the future when big news "breaks" The Herald will issue special editions.

STATE C. E. CONVENTION IN HARTFORD THIS WEEK

Opens Tomorrow at Central Baptist Church—Banquet Tomorrow Night.

The Thirty-First Connecticut Christian Endeavor Convention will be held in Hartford Friday to Sunday of this week. Delegates from every corner of the state are planning to be present at the meetings which start with a reception to officers and the Alumni Fellowship Dinner. It is expected that over 300 covers will be laid for this banquet which is to be held in the dining room of the Central Baptist church, this church being the headquarters for the entire convention. Herbert W. Hicks, director of Christian Service at the Hartford Y. M. C. A. and for over four years executive secretary of the Christian Endeavor in Connecticut, will be toastmaster. Greetings for the Hartford churches will be brought by Dr. John Newton Lockey and for the Hartford Christian Endeavor Union by David S. Butler, president. The response will be by Andrew H. Kane of Bridgeport, president of the State Union. The address of the evening will be by Dr. Ira Landrith, Extension Secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Dr. Landrith is a powerful platform man and has traveled the country extensively. His topic of "Christian Endeavor Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" is one which he is well qualified to handle. It was Dr. Landrith who wrote into the platform of the International Christian Endeavor Convention held in Atlantic City in 1911, the slogan "A Saloonless Nation by 1920". Dr. Landrith is coming from Chicago for this convention and returns at once to Chicago to carry on his work for Christian Endeavor in Illinois. Music for the banquet will be furnished by the Moonlight Sorenders. The convention program for Saturday contains leadership training classes on "Program Building", "Stewardship and Missions", "Junior and Intermediate Work" and "Expressional Activities", a general conference on socials and an address in the evening by Dr. Landrith.

Sunday at 8:30 a. m. an open air meeting on the north steps of the Capitol will be held with Rev. Frank B. Haggard, Rev. John F. Johnstone, D.D., and Rev. Chas. K. Tracey as the speakers. A law observance rally in the afternoon with an address on "America's New Crusade" by Carlton M. Sherwood, Executive Secretary Citizens' Committee of One Thousand, New York City, and a World Friendship meeting Sunday evening with an address on "Are We Drifting to War or Peace in the Pacific" by Harry N. BRITAIN.

She didn't muddle through, she didn't blunder through. She just waded through.

At the outset of the general strike this newspaper expressed faith that Britain would come out of the mess, somehow. We are free to admit that we rather expected that she would come crawling out of it more or less on her hands and knees, with some terrible smudges on her nose and no end of scratches, contusions and bruises, very well satisfied to have survived even on those terms.

Precisely what solution she shall find for her coal mining difficulties is a matter aside from her conquest over the general strike—and, though a serious enough matter, still one of mere minor importance compared to the main issue of national industrial paralysis.

And out of the singular imperturbability and invincible fortitude with which the British people carried on that strange nine days of desperate but unbroken conflict—for it was all the British people, Laborites and general public alike who displayed the same grim, silent courage—has arisen one especial thought.

If there should be anywhere in this world any people, any governing group, any nation or combination of nations, that is entertaining deep down in its consciousness some remote notion of some day attacking Britain, some faint idea that by sudden foray through the air, by clouds of unknown gases, by the disaffection of her colonies or by whatever device of frightfulness the future may develop, to the end of conquest over the British nation, it would be well to put away that lingering dream.

If the great strike proved anything in the world it was that the British people are unbeatable—that no situation conceivable for man to create can destroy their solidarity—that panic is not for them.

It may be worth all the huge experiment cost, just to have shown the world so conclusively the utter predominance of this quality in the British national character.

POLE OWNERSHIP.

If the Oslo dispatches stating that Norway has laid formal claim to the North Pole are authentic, it would probably be just as well for the cartographers to block off that particle of the maps under the Norwegian shading, and let it go at that.

That Norway's assumption of ownership is no better founded than ours would be is of small consequence since she has made the grab and we did not.

Anyhow, who on earth cares? If there is any glory in owning the North pole—or in claiming to own it, why not let Norway enjoy it, in undisputed possession.

Besides, Norway still has a king, and places like the North Pole are good to have in reserve for this or a perfectly wonderful day for the way in which it is to beat it, all of a sudden, in isolated places.

Some time Norway may be able to use the Pole as a place for his Norse majesty to sit, waiting for a chance to go back home.

GERMANY.

Since Von Hindenburg became president of the German republic there has grown up a much greater degree of confidence in the good faith and stability of a new Germany than ever before existed.

He is a forthright soul, is Hindenburg, and having committed himself to the new kind of Germany, the old kind is not likely to get a great deal of consideration from him in the reorganization of the government necessitated by the retirement of the Luther cabinet.

The situation is not an exciting one. Germany, at present, has no stomach for a returned or a new Kaiser, or for any new war.

POLAND.

There are three major political parties in Poland, the Monarchists, the Moderates and the Socialists. Premier Witos' government, formed only a few days ago, is supposed to be Moderate. It is really a peasant party control.

The Polish peasants are opposed to taxes for a great military establishment. Pretty much everybody else, however, is militaristic—the monarchists because they are monarchists, the socialists and the town dwellers because they have nationalistic aspirations along with their other ideas—and because of Pilsudski, who in his appeal to the people is like Theodore Roosevelt, a circus parade and a clanking personification of Mars, rolled into one.

Now comes the news that Pilsudski is on the war path and that there has been or is a big fight on, in and around Warsaw.

MERCIFUL.

Possibly the ends of justice may have been properly served in the escape of Mrs. Mary O'Meara of Stamford, who embezzled $4,000 from the bank in which she was employed, without any further punishment than is involved in the attendant publicity and the harrowing up of her feelings by a public prosecution.

Just the same, the suspension of an entire sentence, in such a case, as was deemed the right course in the O'Meara circumstance, would seem well calculated to rob the example of most of its force.

If men and women in positions of trust are encouraged in the belief that, if found out in thefts, they have only to present a sufficiently dramatic or tragic figure in order to be let off with a real harsh scolding, there will be more of an incentive to the framing up of good stage settings for embezzlements than to adherence to the commandment, "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's goods."

How to be merciful without being maudlin, and how to instill respect for the law without enforcing it are two of the biggest of problems.

SWAPPING.

Somebody maintains that New England farmers are not so sagacious as they were once, and to tell the truth they haven't the horse trading now to keep their minds up to the grade.—Boston Transcript.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington, May 13.—Washington society is simply thrilled by news of the engagement of Senator William Cabell Bruce's son, David K. Este, and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon's daughter, Alice.

Among the socially anointed of Maryland and Virginia, the Cabells and the Bruces have been pre-eminent since early colonial days.

Senator Bruce, before his election to the upper house of Congress, was a highly successful lawyer and is extremely well-to-do but not enormously wealthy, as wealth counts today—probably less than a millionaire.

Young Bruce—he's 28 to Miss Mellon's 33—is going to be a diplomat.

He's been named vice counsel to Rome and it wouldn't be surprising if he got on pretty fast. He has influential connections, even if this is a Republican administration and his father's a Democratic senator.

At that, David K. Este Bruce might make a good diplomat. He's had a legal training, he's soldiered, of course, during the world war, he's traveled, he's a socialist and he's mixed, all his "with top-notch people—no fluff, no sassiness" kind, but the real goods.

All the Bruces have real ability. The senator, for instance, is one of the genuinely big men in the upper house. The radicals refer to him as a reactionary and he certainly is conservative, but he's an enlightened one.

If Bruce looks like satisfactory material for a diplomat, Miss Mellon assuredly is safe to gamble on as the ideal candidate for a diplomat's wife.

Since she was 18 she has presided over her father's home in Washington. She has entertained the elect of this country and from many foreign lands.

Like the man she is to wed, she has spent much time abroad and is fluent in several tongues. She's a skilled musician, a clever horse-woman and has a reputation as the best-dressed girl in the capital's "younger set."

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 13.—Just outside my window, and for many blocks along the street, clumsy, crawling things with slim steel necks and great iron mouths are digging new catacombs in which men will one day travel with the speed of the winds.

There is something of nightmare in these preliminary gestures toward a subway. A "caterpillar hoist" stretches its dozen iron legs down a block like the skeleton of some prehistoric monster caught in primeval ooze and held through the centuries.

But these bridge-like monsters in spite of their weight of many dozens, can skip lightly from one side of the street to the other on greased rails. Find me a more fantastic sight.

And the "crawling cranes" with fat, red bodies, like some gigantic bug, puffing their unwieldy way through traffic, crowding out man and the best and machine alike, creeping along on tractor belts over the sidewalks and up and down the sandhills.

Lines of drillmen stand, like figures in a ballet, driving the steel noses of their hammers into the rubbery asphalt. Gradually the great rocks which support this huge metropolis give way to sand as golden as lies on any seashore.

Slowly the street turns to gaping holes and, with almost indecent audacity, the ugly foundations and criss-crossings of pipe are revealed. Beneath rough boards that take the place of sidewalks great cavities appear, as if some gargantuan dentist had been pulling out teeth. The buildings seem to rest on black space, and one by one the men disappear below the street.

Great things are about and yet not a man seems at work. Only the curious crowds gathered at the guard-fences! The ants have gone deeper into their holes.

Soon the gaping holes outside will be covered over again. And you will come to New York, and I will start for my work, and we will flash like startled birds through a great black tunnel—and none of us will wonder!

I am coming firmly to believe that a man could jump suddenly from the earth and start skyward on wings while his Manhattan fellows stood calmly on the sidewalk and remarked, "It's about time they were doing something like that!"

—GILBERT SWAN.

$112.50 FOR OLD SACKS. Columbus, Ga.—Miss Maggie Ridenour, of 108 Eighth street, collected old paper sacks for five years. The other day she sold them for $112.50.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

This Is the Love Season for the Lowly Toad

BY ARTHUR N. PACK, President, The American Nature Association. The toad here pictured is sending forth that clear musical trill which so commonly greets us from the flooded meadows of our northern states in late April or May, the love season of the toad and of many of our lowly friends.

Common Toad

Digging himself out from the cavity in the soft earth or garden or hillside where he hid himself for the winter, the toad hops the nearest pool and in the shallow water, or floating, if it be deeper, he swells his elastic throat into a big bubble and sends forth on the evening air the call which tells us that spring has fairly arrived.

is always the one just ahead. Wouldn't it be a terrible world if children were as bad as neighbors think children are? It soon will be warm enough to let your coal bills gobly without paying something on them. When starting trouble remember it takes much longer to end it. Biting off more than you can chew is almost as big a mistake as going hungry. Once every man who blossomed forth in a checkered suit in the spring was considered a gambler. Trouble with having a grouchy look is you seldom get a pleasant one. Lots of beer arguments in Congress. Most of the congressmen seem to be at loggerheads.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED

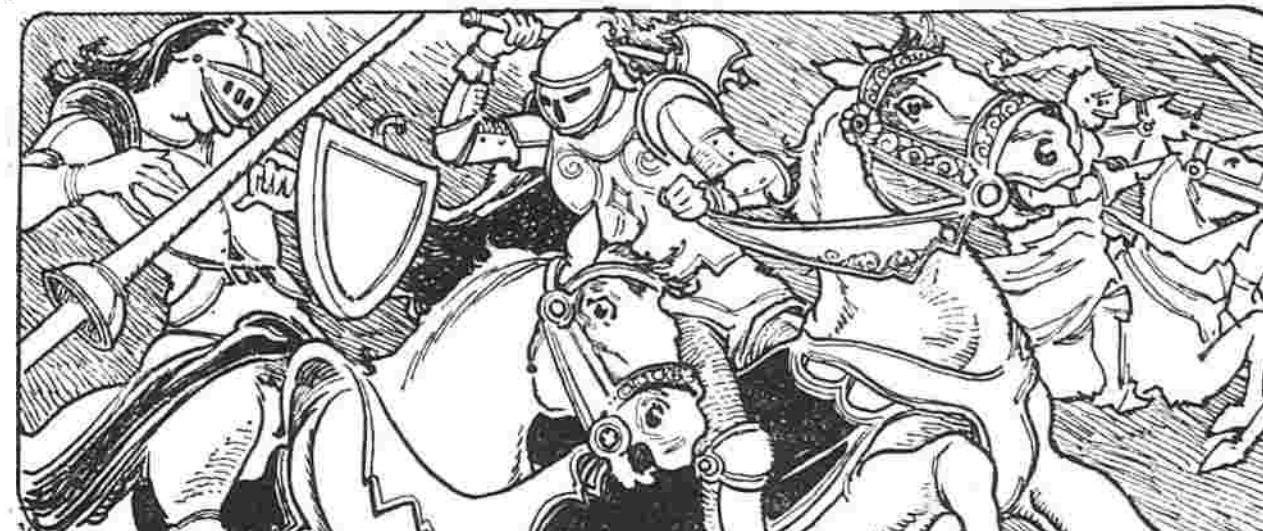

On Road at Milford. Milford, May 13.—An unidentified man, apparently about 75 years old, was struck and instantly killed on the New Haven turnpike today by a machine driven by William Luke, of East Haven.

IVANHOE—Sir Walter Scott's Classic in Pictorial Form

THE STORY THUS FAR—The scene is the England of Richard I. A party of knights, en route to a tournament, visits Cedric the Saxon, their leader, Brian the Templar, incurring Cedric's ire by his admiration of Cedric's daughter, Rowena. One of the party, disguised as a palmer, or wandering friar, leaves the castle, rents armor and horse from a Jew and wins the tournament, overthrowing the famous knight, Bois-Guilbert. He crowns Rowena queen of love and beauty and sends Gurth, his squire, to pay the Jew for the armor. Gurth is held up by Robin Hood's men, who release him when they learn the palmer employs him. At the tournament, meanwhile, arrangements are made for the final event—a general passage of arms. Athelstane, Cedric's cousin, one of the contestants, is jealous of the strange knight who crowned her the day before.

RADICALLY THE RANKS OF THE EMBATTLED KNIGHTS THINNED OUT. IT WAS OBSERVED THAT THE DISHONORED KNIGHT AND BOIS-GUILBERT WERE ONCE MORE IN COMBAT.

A GIANT KNIGHT, CALLED BY THE CROWD THE BLACK SLUGGARD BECAUSE OF HIS SEEMING INDIFFERENCE, SUDDENLY SPURRED HIS HORSE AND CHARGED FRONT-DE-BOEUF WITH A BLOW OF HIS SWORD.

HE DISHONORED KNIGHT SOON UNHORSED BOIS-GUILBERT AND WAS COMMANDING HIM TO YIELD HIMSELF WHEN PRINCE JOHN, NOT CARING TO SEE HIS WARDER AND ENDED THE COMBAT, EVERYONE THOUGHT THE DAY'S HONORS SHOULD AGAIN GO TO THE UNKNOWN KNIGHT, BUT PRINCE JOHN NAMED THE BLACK SLUGGARD.

HOWEVER, THIS KNIGHT COULD NOT BE FOUND, AND AGAIN WAS THE DISHONORED KNIGHT NAMED CHAMPION. HE RECEIVED THE CORONET FROM LADY ROWENA, AND AGAINST HIS PROTESTS HIS HELMET WAS REMOVED, DISCLOSING THE FEATURES OF IVANHOE, CEDRIC'S DISHONORED SON. ROWENA, RECOGNIZING HIM, UTTERED A CRY, AND IVANHOE, SORELY WOUNDED, FAINTED.

VAUDEVILLE TONIGHT AT STATE THEATER

De Mille Production "The Wedding Song" on Big Program for Week End.

Another fine vaudeville bill at the State for tonight, tomorrow and Saturday. The first act on the bill, The Martells, cycling, feats that create admiration.

The second act is a star's impressions of stars, a laughing offering. For the third act Archer and Belford in "The Piano Movers". Kelleim and O'Dar—you'll have to say "great" after you see them.

The last act is a comedy act with Cole and the six acts, an act with seven people and a jazz band. For the feature picture the State presents Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Wedding Song" with Leatrice Joy.

A family of crooks, ranging from grandma to granddaughter, plays an important part in the development of the plot of Leatrice Joy's latest starring vehicle, "The Wedding Song", a strong melo-dramatic play which will be shown at the State theater for three days beginning today. Robert Ames is featured as leading man.

This bogus family of crooks provide much of the comedy. They are dear, sweet self-sacrificing "Grandma" and goddaughter "Brother". When not playing their roles for the benefit of their prey, Grandma shoots craps on the floor with the rest of them.

There is a dramatic climax which makes this picture one of the most thrilling ever seen here. The supporting cast which includes Charles Gerard, Jack Curtis, Ross Rudam, Gertrude Claire and Ethel Wales, is wholly adequate.

The senior Y. M. C. A. will hold a special for its members, the Y. M. C. A. communion, at the Y. M. C. A. church, 101 North Main street, at 10 o'clock and afternoon session at 2 o'clock, Saturday.

Mrs. Walter N. Foster motored to Somersville Wednesday evening where she spoke at the Mothers' and Daughters' banquet of that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Post have purchased fourteen acres of land from John Belcher recently, situated on Foster street and are to build a house there. Edith Strong has been drilling a well there already.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Files have returned from a week's visit in Maine, where they have been visiting their two sons, Jordan and Harry, who are attending the Hebron academy.

MOTHER LOVE THEME OF STORY AT CIRCLE

Newspaper Writer in "Headlines" Enmeshed in Divorce Net Set for Flapper Daughter

"Headlines," the new Eucora drama which is being shown at the Circle theater today and tomorrow, is a stirring story bound up with the exciting life of newspaper folk.

A widowed authoress and newspaper writer is grief-stricken when her flapper daughter becomes involved in one escapade after another and finally begins flirting with the mother's suitor, even while she has become enmeshed in a society affair which has been staged by a wealthy woman in order to get evidence for divorce proceedings against an erring husband.

The sorrows of the mother, who feels that advancing age and the action of her daughter may lose her the man she loves, has further burdens added when the girl is finally trapped in the married man's home. The mother rushes to the apartment and sacrifices her own good name in order to protect the daughter. It is only through the quick work of a city editor who is in love with the flapper, that the affair is not broadcast to the world in flaming headlines.

Such popular players as Alice Joyce, Malcolm McGregor and Virginia Lee Corbin are included in the cast. The companion feature for today and tomorrow will be Dolores Costello in "Bride of the Storm."

INSTANT RELIEF FROM BUNIONS—SOFT CORNS

No sensible person will continue to suffer from those intense, agonizing, throbbing bunions which so speedily the pain disappears. A few more applications and the swollen joint is reduced to normal.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that soft corns seem to shrivel right up and drop off.

CHARMING HOUSE OF ENGLISH TYPE

Courtesy, Curtis Companies, Clinton, Ia.

Another charming and practical little house is shown here. In two-story English type. It has just four rooms and a dining alcove—a size that seems to meet the requirements of many home builders. The arrangement of the large corner porch is unusual and very pleasing, adding, as it does, to the width of the house. The single chimney in the center of the house is economical. It serves both kitchen, range and furnace, and if a fireplace were wanted in this house, the same chimney could be made to serve.

There is no vestibule or entrance hall in this small home. That space is added to the living room instead. The dining alcove opens from both kitchen and living room. It is large enough to have casements on two sides, and to include a corner china closet. The kitchen is supplemented by a store closet. Notice the handy location of the refrigerator, outside of the kitchen, and just inside the grade door. Extra large closets feature the two bedrooms upstairs. The casement windows on two sides assure a good circulation of air in these sleeping rooms. The casements in pairs and groups add much to the exterior of this house, and are thoroughly in keeping with the English type of the house.

tain that the water supply is pure, you had better not take chances. Protect yourself by boiling all water used for drinking purposes. If your camp colony is provided with a kitchen and mess tent such tents should be screened. Dishes should always be washed in boiling water. All garbage should be placed in covered receptacles and promptly disposed of. The same should be done with all waste. The best method of disposing of these wastes is by burning.

Some astronomers believe that the moon is made of material that was once part of the earth's crust.

A Tip On Vacations

This is the first of a series of four articles on vacations. Tomorrow—in the Open.

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING
Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service.

In going on your vacation, especially if you are spending it in the open, you should be prepared to deal intelligently with minor injuries and accidents. You should know what to do in case of sudden illness. If you are planning a camping trip to some place far from a doctor you should provide yourself with a first aid kit and a few simple remedies.

It is important that you should understand that only the necessary first aid treatment should be given by one who is not familiar with the science of medicine. In case of sudden illness—such as that of the patient is out to bed if possible and if the condition appears serious you should of course prepare to seek medical aid. This can often be helped by hot applications. Headaches may be relieved by cloths wrung out in cold water and frequently changed. However, you should know that headaches are usually but a symptom of some more serious condition.

A change of drinking water frequently results in intestinal disorders and diarrhea. In all cases of severe diarrhea it is imperative to stop all food at once and give the patient plenty of water to drink. A 24-hour fast will frequently effect a cure.

You should beware of the various insect pests. The farther your camp is removed from human habitation, stables and hog pens, the freer it will be from flies. High ground or drained ground with no standing water anywhere near will be found to be fairly free from mosquitoes. If the locality is not free from mosquitoes cotton mosquito bars should be used.

A pure water supply is absolutely essential if you would reap any healthful benefits from camping out. Unless you are positively cer-

HOW SKINNY KIDS GAIN WEIGHT AND STRENGTH

Everyone knows that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamins, is a flesh builder supreme. In children where rickets are suspected it even helps to build up the bones and strengthens the body. But let us all be glad! The poor underweight, sickly, puny kids don't have to take the vile, nasty, oil itself any more for thanks to science McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets has taken its place. Sugar coated they are and as easy to take as candy and if you will give them to your sickly child for thirty days, you'll be very happy indeed. If you are not, the druggist from whom you bought them is authorized to return your money. 50 tablets 60 cents—but be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine.—Adv.

There's just one explosive to use in ditching work

FOR blasting ditches it is necessary to use 50% "straight" dynamite because of its water-resisting and sensitive qualities. Du Pont 50% "straight" dynamite is made especially for ditch blasting by the propagation method,—placing charges as shown above and firing them by detonation of one charge midway from ends of ditch.

Drain your wet land by the dynamite plan,—turn your swamp and marsh acres into profitable fields. Old ditches can be improved with the help of 50% straight dynamite. Now is the time to make drainage improvements.

We have a complete stock of du Pont explosives and blasting accessories and can make prompt deliveries. Order your explosives today.

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

AUDREY, 19-year-old ward of HARRY MORTON, is madly in love with him. He is wealthy, unmarried, middle-aged and handsome, immensely attractive to women. NONA, a New York girl, connected with the stage, also is in love with him, and jealous of Audrey.

Morton with his ward has lived for 15 years in Rochester, but the gossip never had learned anything about his past. Almost weekly he visits expensive apartments that he maintains in New York, where he also has an office.

He tells Audrey he never can marry her, and he hires JOHN PARRISH, shy but good young man, as his secretary, to divert Audrey's mind from himself. She detects the plan. Then he sends for Nona to come to Rochester. He shows Audrey the documents by which he has transferred to herself her fortune. Audrey learns of Nona's coming, meets her, and goes with her and Morton to Nona's hotel rooms, and there Morton and Nona contrive to leave her Nona's coat and hat also are left behind. Audrey is told by the hotel clerk that Nona and Morton have gone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XIII

"BUT she had no hat nor coat!" Audrey cried, clasping her hands.

The clerk was polite, but there was a little smile on his lips.

"I noticed," he said, drily, "that when she went out she did not have sufficient wraps."

Audrey turned away, uncertainly trembling, scarcely able to walk she went through the lobby, and down the street, half unconsciously she turned her steps toward home.

"Mr. Morton called up," the little housemaid said, as she entered the door.

Audrey listened, without raising her eyes. She was very weary, and she leaned against the door, and he said he would not be home for dinner this evening," the maid went on.

Audrey made a hopeless gesture and going up to her room, locked herself in.

Morton and Nona were in a down town apartment store.

"You can get your coat and hat and gloves here, without having to sleep around," he said.

A department manager of the store was bowing and smiling beside him. Morton was too well known in Rochester to need introduction.

"Will you please see that the lady gets whatever she needs, and that the amount is charged to me?" said Morton.

Nona was towed away to the department manager, with two sales women following after. Morton seated himself on a stool, and watched the little daily drama of department store life as it moved past him.

A woman customer entered, whom Morton recognized. He arose, lifted his hat, and bowed.

"You had old charms?" she cried, shaking her finger at him playfully. He smiled an inquiry.

"I saw you meet that lovely young beauty at the train," she said, "and if anybody should ask me—you must say, 'Did you notice Audrey?'" he asked.

The woman pursed her mouth, and rolled her plump chin into her collar with the air of one who knows much.

"I noticed her," she said, "and if anybody should ask me—you must say, 'Did you notice Audrey?'" he asked.

"Are you prepared to do what I ask you to do?"

"Of course," she said, tenderly "anything in this whole world."

"Then show that to Audrey, carelessly, before you get away from town. And let it out, as if by accident, that I gave it to you."

With a choked cry, the girl sank upon her knees, and laying her arms upon the coverlet, buried her head in her hands.

Morton laughed. "How charmingly observant you are!"

"I notice things," she admitted as she trotted away.

Morton continued chuckling to himself, as he took his seat again. It was nearly an hour until Nona reappeared, clad in a gorgeous coat with fur collar, and a little new wrap-around tuxedo, and gloves, and carrying a muff.

"You didn't tell me to get a muff, she said, 'but they're coming into style again.'"

She whirled around so he could get a better view.

"Isn't the coat pretty? It was only five hundred dollars! Aren't you proud of me? And I got a little old-fashioned all-wool handkerchief. They're coming into style again too."

She waved the kerchief at him and he laughed.

"All right," he said, "perhaps it is just as well that diamond stonewashers aren't in style again. By the way, let me see what you bought with that money I sent you in New York."

She pulled her coat aside, and showed him a bunch of diamonds and diamonds, nearly five million long, that was pinned to her dress.

"Isn't it darling? But why did you ask me to get it? And who was the fancy boy who brought it?"

"He acted as if he wanted to kill me!"

Morton chuckled as he led her from the store. "That is my next secretary," he explained, "I mean him because he had such an excellent moral record. Just at present he is almost too good to stay in this wicked world. But he'll come out all right."

"But why did you send me the five thousand?" she persisted.

"Well," he said, "I just wanted you to have it. Before you get away I want you to do something."

"Are you prepared to do what I ask you to do?"

"Of course," she said, tenderly "anything in this whole world."

"Then show that to Audrey, carelessly, before you get away from town. And let it out, as if by accident, that I gave it to you."

The girl was surprised. "But I torium. "Oh, perhaps so my friends could see a very beautiful girl."

She dimpled. "Am I beautiful?" she asked him.

"Of course," he said. "You know that."

She produced a tiny mirror, and examined her face. "You know, you never told me that before."

They looked back to the hotel and at the elevator door Morton took off his hat and extended his hand. "Goodnight, Nona," he said.

She showed surprise. "Aren't you coming up?"

Morton shook his head. "There is a censor under every hat in Rochester—at least, for me," he said. "If I went up to your apartment at eleven o'clock at night, a deputation headed by the hotel management, and including half the folks in this lobby, would be there four minutes later to ask me 'how come?'"

She looked at him thoughtfully. "Why did you want me to come?" she asked.

"I wanted to see you," he said. "Isn't that reason enough?"

"But I cut off my rehearsals, and I suppose I'll lose my engagement. I sent word to them that I was very sick, and had to come to the Springs for treatment."

"Long I forgot about your rehearsals," he said. "We'll have to fix that."

"Then you won't come up?"

"No, I've got to say goodnight. Pleasant dreams."

"Goodnight, sweetheart," she said, her eyes deep, and her voice low and yearning.

The lights in Morton's house were blazing, at midnight. With a fur coat thrown over her shoulders, Audrey was walking up and down the street, waiting for a taxi.

Every footfall that sounded in the distance brought her to sharp attention. She would watch, until the pedestrian would appear. Then, her head sinking, she would resume her walk.

The air was chill, and she shivered a little, as once or twice she stopped, and drew the coat closer around her. Once a taxicab drew almost to a halt before the door.

ANOTHER GREAT AMERICAN ROMANCE BUSTER KEATON TUMBLED INTO HEART OF NATALIE TALMADGE

Buster Keaton tumbled into matrimony at the ripe age of three. Sarah Bernhardt was one of his early champions.

As one of the "Keaton Family" vaudeville troupe, he early learned the art of falling without being hurt, and was used as a catch ball by his father and mother in their acrobatic act.

Once, when they were on the same bill with the Divine Sarah, she stood in the wings and watched the mite of humanity being thrown across the stage, over walls and off of tables. In a frenzy of indignation she rushed at his parents as they came off stage.

"You ought to have ze great shame," she shouted, "to make money from ze cruelty to ze little caroon, you, you—"

But Buster stepped between them. "I like it," he said. "You let my father alone. I can take care of myself."

He has kept this attitude all his life. The only person allowed to take care of him is his wife, Natalie. And she has to do it under cover.

They were attended by John Emerson, now president of the Actors Equity Association and Anita Loos, author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Emerson and Miss Loos had been married in the same garden two years before.

They have spent most of their married life in Hollywood, with occasional trips back to New York. Their two sons are now four and two years old, respectively.

The elder, known to the world as "Winks," bids fair to be a great comedienne. His interest in Buster is extraordinary, his mother says. When Constance Talmadge was married a few weeks ago Winks brought her, of his own accord, a wedding gift in a jewel case. When she opened it, she shrieked. It contained a long, slippery worm that he had dug up for her in the garden, as the finest present he could think of.

Natalie has given up her screen work. She has always been interested in the business side of the movie game, and now that she also has a home and two small boys to take care of, as well as a tumbling husband, there is no time for anything else.

This And That In Feminine Lore

Women whom people guess to be ten years younger than they really are know the value of a good facial—such as they give at the Lily Beauty Shop, upstairs in the House and Hale building.

Native asparagus is in the market now in plentiful supply. The season is about two weeks late for it and we all hope it will last two weeks later. Serve it frequently, the flagging spring appetite craves it. Cook it carefully and preserve the valuable constituents, cook it rapidly and always without soda which destroys the vitamins. Some people steam it, or stand it up in the kettle. I usually start the thick ends cooking first, then put in the tips. Like all other green vegetables, the sooner it is cooked the better. Asparagus that has been long cut develops a slightly bitter taste. The favorite way is creamed. It is good with butter only, in salads, soups and I have even seen a recipe for asparagus shortcake. If the asparagus is of the short thick variety an odd salad may be made by piling the sticks log cabin fashion on a bed of lettuce. The mayonnaise mixture is then dropped in the center of the "cabin." We are giving two other salad recipes, using asparagus, that will be found delicious as well as different.

May Salad.

Two bunches asparagus, 2 tablespoons French dressing, 2 slices canned pineapple or equivalent in fresh, 3 tablespoons broken English walnut meats, 3 cup diced celery, mayonnaise, lettuce.

Wash and scrape asparagus and tie in small bunches. Cook heads out of water for fifteen minutes. Lay flat in water and cook ten minutes longer or until tender. Drain, untie and chill. Pour over French dressing and let stand on ice for one hour. Cut pineapple in dice, combine with celery and nuts and add mayonnaise to make very moist. Arrange the asparagus in neat piles on crisp lettuce and pour over the mayonnaise mixture.

Miss Florence Rosalie Kelly, twenty-one, of Orange, has been sworn in as a Justice of the Peace, the youngest person to hold such a position in New Jersey. She is studying in the New Jersey Law School.

MARY TAYLOR.

Whether you are to be a June bride or not, you will be interested in a series of articles we will print on the home page from time to time, on the all-important subject of "clothes"—the modish trousseau, what to serve for the wedding breakfast, etc., etc.

Jellied Asparagus Salad

Two bunches asparagus, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 3/4 cup cold water, 2 cups teal or chicken broth, 1 tablespoon minced carrot, 1 tablespoon minced celery, 1 slice onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 sprigs parsley, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Wash and scrape asparagus and cook until tender. Cool. Add carrot, celery, onion, salt, sugar and parsley to meat broth and simmer fifteen minutes. Strain through cheese cloth, reheat, and add gelatine softened in cold water and lemon juice. Let stand until firm and pour into a shallow pan or mold. When beginning to set add asparagus in neat rows arranged in such a way that the vegetable will not be broken in serving. When chilled and firm cut in squares and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Green salads are so full of health. They have become a daily craze. Since every housewife learned the use of good BLUE RIBBON Mayonnaise.

HER OWN WAY A GIRL OF TODAY

MAMIE SUSPECTS SELLERS.

Jerry grinned at my story, although I could see underneath he was very much in earnest.

"How long is it going to take for you to become well enough to quit your job, Judy, so that you will feel perfectly secure in taking at least fifty dollars with you?"

"What a queer proposal," I said to myself, and yet somehow it seemed to be all right.

"What a queer proposal," I said to myself, and yet somehow it seemed to be all right.

"That will depend," I answered, however.

By this time we had arrived at Mamie's flat. To my surprise when I arose to my feet to take the car, everything turned black.

I faintly heard an exclamation from and knew no more until I found myself lying on the sofa in Mrs. Riley's sitting room with Jimmie, Mamie and Jerry clustered about me.

"I never fainted before in my life," I exclaimed.

"Now that isn't the right thing to say at all, Judy," remonstrated Jimmie. "You should be saying, 'Where am I?'"

"I know where I am," I answered decidedly, "and it is right glad I am that I am here."

"Are you passing those around, Judy?" asked Jimmie Costello.

"There, she is all right now," remarked Jerry.

"Are you able to tell us, Judy, what happened?"

"You bet I am. I am ready to tell everything."

And then I proceeded to explain about going out into the park.

"I'll have to get another twenty-five dollars out of the bank for you tomorrow, Mamie. And I guess after this I won't carry a bag of any kind. All of Chicago's thieves seem to pick on me."

"I think it was very foolish," I said turning to Jerry. "for you to give me such an expensive bag. Don't you ever do it again."

"I didn't give it to you," said Jerry staunchly. "I made those other fellows pay for it."

"That is probably the reason that one of the men came back to take it from me."

"Do you think, Judy, it was one of those thugs from my father's restaurant?" asked Jerry.

"I am almost sure of it," I answered.

Jerry gave a long low whistle.

Which proves that in the midst of rapid homecoming with his goldlocks, "Daddy" must get some time to read the fashion magazines which insist almost as never before that complete outfits have mounting or matching must be worn. Musical nations who aspire to "do something" with their voices might get jobs singing in hospital wards. Science now holds the curative powers of song and it is said that doctors are engaging sweet-voiced damsels to carol for them before certain patients.

For the special benefit of those who complain about the high cost of a can of beans on a dining car, the railroads reveal these figures. A dining car alone costs $50,000, they explain. Laundry averages four cents a person, crew, forty cents, fuel and ice, five cents, and 25 cents for miscellany before the food cost itself is considered at all.

BLACK FOR EVENING WEAR IS CHOICE OF SMART SET Austerity Relieved by Touches of Color.

By HENRI BENDLER—Noted Fashion Designer. Black and silver form the perfect illusion in this Chanel evening gown.

New York.—Summer nights look dark. Nowhere has fashion more successfully and convincingly promoted black than in evening attire. Whether one goes into soberness by day or not is still a debatable question, since very high colors are even for street, and sports attire is gay enough. But for evening black has quite suddenly become the choice. Black chiffon, lace and black satin have swept everything before them. Even white is beginning to look to its laurels.

Not Austerity. However, the black of this season is not entirely unrelieved, or has it any suggestion of austerity. Instead it is combined with brilliant color, or with rhinestones, paillettes, sequins or embroidery that lifts it from the commonplace. The two Paris importations illustrated today show you the black evening gown at its best. The black satin model, one of worth's inspirations, is a gown of distinction and real charm—and will endure through several changes of fashion because it belongs to no particular time or period. The black satin is gracefully and artfully draped at the side and is caught by an enormous dragon-fly of orchid rose, and gold kid, the wings being outlined in silver beads. Shoulder straps depart from the conventional entirely—they have the same wing motifs you find at the side. Truly subtle is the introduction of tulle at the waist and the train, softening and blurring the outlines and giving a lightness and grace to the solid black. Less regal in character and more youthful in cut is the Chanel frock that gives the effect of moonlight on a summer sea. The background is black chiffon, and over this are scattered big silver poppies of metal sequins encased with little knots of black chiffon studded with rhinestones. Chiffon forms the sash and the vest. Low Cut. Here you have the extremely low cut in the back that Paris is so enthusiastic about now, the boleros and the irregular skirt line. Incidentally you have ease, grace and a cut that is almost universally becoming. I feel this warning about black is not amiss—watch your grooming and your make-up. Unless you are faultlessly groomed black will lack distinction on you. While the fair skin has always been considered the perfect contrast to the black frock, this season I find many women are keeping to the ochre or sunburn makeup, using a very vivid lip stick, and the effect is extremely chic. Artificiality is always pardonable if it is effective. Ethel Wales is accounted the best bridge player in Hollywood. Clive Brook is just learning. When a friend of his suggested that Miss Wales teach him the fine points of the game, she replied, "I shall be delighted to teach Mr. Brook bridge if he will teach me how to act."

HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood.—The unique "Beard-on-Men's Club" of Hollywood, comprised mostly of former gold-miners and adventurers now contributing "atmosphere" to pictures, is in a state of unstable equilibrium as a result of gold strikes in Ontario and the California desert. Thus far however, only a few of the more restless spirits have followed the stampede call. The majority prefer the assured $7.50 and $10 per day as movie extras to uncertain prospects afield. Studio pay-rift, depending chiefly upon a beard, with very little competition to disturb the constant demand, has provided comforts such as few of the old timers had hitherto known. They are unwilling to surrender their polished flippers for burro or dogteam.

"You can wear handcuffs in a picture and get sympathy, as 'Jimmy Valentine,' but you can't get any compassion with a monocle," asserts H. B. Warner, noted crook characterizations. "The festive eye-piece rouses only derision in the average man." Warner will wear one in Cosmopolitan's "The Temptress."

Recent canvass of on-call girls without bobbed hair disclosed that there were available in Hollywood 18 maids who still retain unshorn tresses. And we recently met a hopeful inventor who was seeking endorsement from Hollywood stars for a new brand of stayput hairpins!

REPORT COURTEOUS Mistress (to cook who is leaving): Mary, I'd like to give you a good reference but you never had the meals ready at the proper time. How could I put it nicely? Mary: Just say I got the meals the same as I got my pay.—Pearson's.

To get the effect of one blind eye in his next role as a renegade sea captain for M-G-M's "Road to Mandalay," Lon Chaney found a chemical which when applied to the orb coats it with an opaque film. Wearing it is so painful and the chances of injury are so great that it can be used for only an hour a day. The ingenious Chaney shrinks at no discomfort to achieve bizarre or hideous effects.

Former newspaper men today occupy 725 key positions in the motion picture industry, according to a compilation by Will Hays.

A popular diversion for picture stars is horse racing at Tia Juana, notorious little Mexican border town, whence many repair on Saturdays and Sundays. Usually the returning devotees boast of extravagant winnings.

Vilma Banky, leading lady with Valentino in "Son of the Shiek," was less fortunate, or more veracious, in her first venture with the bangtails. The horse on which she had wagered $10 was disqualified for running the race too soon and alone. Next time she picks a favorite, wince Vilma, it's got to have brains as well as beauty.

In the Kitchen with 6 Famous Cooks

FOUR DELICIOUS CAKES FROM FOUR CORNERS OF THE UNITED STATES

(Ed. Note: This is one of a special series of articles contributed by 6 Famous Cooks. Their recipes are "different." Cut them out and paste them in your cook book.)

Who ever heard of a family without at least one "cake-eating" member? It's pretty certain that such a household doesn't exist. Usually there are several folks clamoring for cake and more cake. It's the one food which seldom has "left-overs."

It's also one of the foods which can be made just as rich or just as plain as the cook wants to make it.

- Laplender Frosting: 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 square chocolate cut fine, 1 tablespoon milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat the egg, add milk, butter, sugar and chocolate. Cook slowly over flame, stirring constantly. When mixture comes to a boil, remove from fire, add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread.

For the Chocolate Fans: Rich Devil's Food Cake with Laplander Frosting is a cake which appeals especially to those who like chocolate. Miss Margaret Allen Hall, nutrition expert at the Battle Creek College of Home Economics, gives this as her favorite recipe: 1/2 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 square chocolate. Cream the butter with one cup of sugar. Beat egg yolks, add the other cup sugar, beat until creamy. Combine the two mixtures. Sift baking powder with flour and add to creamed mixture alternately with the milk. Add melted chocolate and nuts, and fold in egg whites. Bake in deep pan, or in layers. Cover with Laplander frosting.

For the Children: Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer, the Philadelphia cooking expert, has an excellent recipe for a soft molasses cake. "Give the children as much as they want," says Mrs. Rorer. "It's wholesome and nourishing." Here is Mrs. Rorer's recipe: Dissolve one teaspoonful of baking soda in two tablespoonfuls of warm water. Add one cupful New Orleans molasses, a quarter of a pound of melted butter, one cupful of boiling water, and one tablespoonful of ground ginger. Add three cupfuls of pastry flour and beat until smooth. Bake in a shallow pan on upper rack in a medium oven for about 40 minutes. This may be served with whipped cream as a delicious dessert.

Use Bananas, Too: Bananas flavor the delicious cake recommended by Mrs. Kate Brew Vaughn, Los Angeles cooking expert. The ingredients are: 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup shortening, 2 eggs, 1 cup mashed bananas, 4 tablespoon flour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup chopped walnut meats.

Sunshine Prune Cake: Mrs. Belle DeGraf, San Francisco, home economics counselor, contributes her recipe for Sunshine Prune Cake. 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 cup milk or water, 1/2 cup melted shortening, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon lemon. Sift dry ingredients, except sugar; beat eggs until very light, add sugar gradually, beating with egg beater. When creamy, add dry ingredients alternately with liquid, mixing well. Add flavoring and melted shortening. Pour batter in a shallow, well greased pan, cover top with pitted uncooked prunes, placing the fruit in even rows, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Bake in a moderate oven. (Don't miss next week's special cooking article on this page.)

It's Worth It: Every housewife who uses an oil stove should devote five minutes to it each morning, filling the reservoir and wiping the wicks. This care insures perfect flame and no soot or odor. Vegetable Cookery: In cooking vegetables use as little water as possible. Save it boiling when the vegetables are put in, otherwise the vitamins, salts, and flavor are lost.

Is cake baking really difficult?

"Not when you have the right stove," say six famous cooks.

There is no reason why cake-making should be less successful than any other cooking operation—when the cook can depend upon her stove.

THAT is the statement of six famous cooks who have just completed a practical cooking test of the Perfection Stove. All six agreed in praising the Perfection highly for its baking ability, as well as for its general performance. "Speaking of cakes, half the making is in the baking," said Miss Rosa Michaelis, New Orleans, domestic science specialist.

Delicate Angel-Food "An even temperature must be maintained while an angel food and other cakes are baking," added Miss Margaret A. Hall, nutrition expert of the Battle Creek College of Home Economics. "When I baked cakes in the Perfection oven I used a standard, portable oven thermometer as a check. The flame did not creep or crawl. You can depend on the Perfection flame to remain as you set it." "My orange cakes and devil's foods were delicious," commented Mrs. Kate B. Vaughn, Los Angeles, household economics director. "The air circulation in the Perfection oven seems perfect. All excess moisture was carried away."

"It's the 'live heat' of the Perfection Oven which brings such good results," said Mrs. Rorer, famous Philadelphia cook. "The Perfection oven is so roomy that there is room for several cakes at a time," said Mrs. Belle DeGraf, San Francisco. "And, through the glass door of the oven you can see just how they are baking. No need to open the door and lose any heat." Miss Lucy G. Allen, of the Boston School of Cookery, commented on the visible oil supply. "You can see," she remarked, "whether you have enough for your cooking. If not, it's easy to refill the Perfection reservoir without soiling your hands."

High Praise. These are just a few of Perfection's good baking points which the six expert cooks praised highly. You will find many others when you bake on a Perfection. It's the stove which proves cake-baking is not difficult. See the 1926 Perfections at any dealer's. All sizes from a one-burner model at $6.75 to a five-burner range at $120.00. "This is the flame for pre-heating the oven," says Mrs. Rorer. "It has yellow tips, 1 1/2 inches high above the blue flame." "You can see when the glass reservoir tank needs refilling, and refill it without getting a drop of oil on your fingers," says Miss Allen.

INDIANS HAVE A CHANCE EVEN WITH STARS WEAK

Cleveland Team Doing Well Although Jamieson and Speaker Are Not Hitting Well.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, May 13.—When a ball club can win with two-thirds of its natural punch hitting like an empty sleeve, it may be assumed that the rest of the outfit has more than a break in the juck and the right idea. This in effect was the sentiment expressed to the writer today by Tris Speaker, whose Cleveland Indians have confounded the intelligentsia by rushing to the American League pace and staying right with it.

This is the same club that was magnanimously rated above the Red Sox, largely because of the hitting of Speaker and Jamieson, among others. According to the latest available figures, Jamieson is hitting .225 while Speaker's bat has been silent like the X in haberdasher. His average is approximately .213.

Therefore, he feels he can be pardoned for regarding the present pace of the Indians as more or less of a permanent institution.

Club Improved
"Neither Jamieson nor myself has delivered; yet the boys are able to win," he said. "The reason, I believe, may be found in the fact that I have a genuinely improved ball club. Instead of slumping, it should be able to carry on consistently, for both Jamieson and I expect to hit many points better than we are doing now and the team, as a whole, is not the kind that is due for a flop.

Pitching Staff
"We are getting good pitching for the first time in several seasons and men like Uile, Shaute and Smith are hardly in the experimental stage. If they are good now, they figure to be good through August and September. Young Levson has come through splendidly to round out a good staff of pitchers.

"An annual weakness, since the release of Wambegans, was second base. It is one of our strongest positions, now. Spurgeon is a fine ball player and getting better all the time. Right field was another of my troubles but Summa seems to have made the grade at last.

"Joe Sewell, of course, is a great shortstop and a great hitter. Burns, at first base is hitting like he did in 1920, our champion-hip year. In fact, the entire club is hitting well, in spite of the fact that Jamieson and myself. Last of all, the boys are hustling."

Speaker, as always, declined to offer any predictions as to where he thought his club or any other would finish. He merely said that the Indians' chances looked good and that he hoped for the best.
"Boston is the only eastern club I have been able to get a real line on," he added. "In the west, the White Sox looked awfully good to us. The Tigers and Browns were going well enough when we met them but were not getting our quality of pitching. I think it was this edge that allowed us to win."

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Montreal:—Jack Delaney, Bridgeport, Conn., light heavyweight stopped Martin O'Grady in the seventh round of their scheduled ten round bout.

At Cleveland:—Babe Herman, New York, knocked out Charley Manter, New Bedford, Mass., in the eighth round of their scheduled ten round go.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa:—Sailor Larson knocked out Harold Smith of Chicago, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten; bantamweights.

EARL SANDE UP TO HIS USUAL TRICKS.

Earl Sande seems to be up to his old tricks. The other day he rode Mino of the Oak Ridge stable to victory in the Springfield handicap, feature race at Jamaica. Whatever horse Sande rides in the Kentucky Derby will bear a bit of watching.

Many Pick Pompey to Win—

POMPEY

Louisville, May 13.—With the withdrawal of the crack Calaris, Pompey has leaped to the front as a favorite in many racing quarters. Pompey, owned by W. R. Coe, was one of the big winners on the tracks in 1925. He won the East View stakes at Empire City, the Belmont Futurity, Saratoga Hopeful and United States Hotel stakes, among others. Pompey is certain to command much respect.

SONS TO PRESENT CHARLIE CULOTTA IN FULL REGALIA

Oak Street Barber to Bat Against Selectman Rogers' First Ball on Sunday at West Side.

In addition to the attraction of seeing Selectman Thomas Rogers and Director Walter Olson of the Recreation Center in action as a batter, the Sons of Italy, in their opening home game of the season at the West Side Sunday afternoon, will present Charles "McGraw" Culotta, in person, as the first batter to face Selectman Rogers. The Oak Street barber-baseball magnate, will appear in uniform and has made the statement that Selectman Rogers cannot strike him out.

This statement is not so far fetched as it might seem for Charlie got his first training in the national game when he acted as mascot for the real John McGraw's team in New Jersey. He was one of Manchester's most successful magnates when he managed the Echoes and later his Morning Glories which specialized in Sunday morning games. Charlie will also make a speech. What he will say has not yet been divulged but a treat is in store for the fans.

The opposing team on the field Sunday will be the Colored Stars of Hartford, one of the fastest negro teams in Connecticut. Led by Cannonball Smith, the visitors will give the Manchester team a fast game all the way. There are legends among the Colored Stars and local teams know this well for several home runs and three bases hits were noted out by members of the visiting aggregation in previous appearances here.

DIAMOND DUST

The deadlock for first place in the American League was shattered when the Yanks nosed out Cleveland in the tenth, six to five. Shocker helped win his own game by poing three hits.

Philadelphia, making records faster than Charlie Hoff and Nurm put together, beat the White Sox in the tenth, four to three, and is the first team in the American League to win nine straight this season.

The Browns, now 30,000 feet below sea level in their search for a new route to China, lost to Washington and the Senators, seven to four. Washington jumped to second place.
A double by Wheat and a triple by Herman in the ninth broke up a great pitching duel between McWeeny and Root. Brooklyn winning from Chicago, two to nothing. McWeeny has held the opposition runless in nineteen consecutive innings.

Pittsburgh staged a holiday in pounding four Philly pitchers for seventeen hits. The score was 14 to 3 when the Pirates retired to let the Phils bury their dead.

Fearing they would all be sold down the river, the Giants woke up and beat St. Louis, two to one. All the runs scored were homers, made by Southworth, Meusel and Bell.

Denobus held the Braves to three hits as the Reds beat them nine to one.

WORTH IN SPORT KNOWING

•• When Glenn Wright, Pittsburgh's star shortstop was kept out of the lineup the other day, due to an injury, it brought to a halt a nifty string of consecutive games Wright had played since coming to the majors.
•• Wright, as you know, broke in with the Pirates in the spring of 1924. He played every inning of every game that year—153 tilts. Last season Wright again took part in every brush on the Smoky Town club's schedule—153. That made 306 straight frays the tot had participated in. A remarkable record for a player's first two campaigns.
•• Wright will now have to start all over again, of course. But he may even be better that mark. Who can tell?

SHAMROCKS TO PRACTICE

All members of the Shamrock Baseball club are requested to report for practice tonight at six o'clock. A special meeting will follow in the Manchester Community clubhouse.

PLAYING WIND
There are some things, though, that give the best of golfers much concern, the most prominent of which is the wind. Many a professional star will tell you that golf's real hazards are in the air, meaning, of course, the wind. And what is there about the wind that makes it so troublesome? Many times they actually sacrificed a stroke and played away from a green. A direct shot may find a sand trap.

BACK IN 1910 Wallace "Mark" Hanna was champion heavy weight boxer of the navy. Now he conducts a boxing school on a steamer plying between Los Angeles and Honolulu. Passengers have taken to the idea in great style.

Billy Evans Says

RUTH'S COMEBACK

"Glad to see the Babe is going good." Since the opening of the season I have heard that remark many times.
The speaker in each instance was some big league ball player, discussing the sensational showing of the Yankees and the fine all-around play of Ruth.
Babe Ruth is mighty popular with his fellow ball players, which after all is the true test. They are glad to see him come back so strong. The players realize the Ruthian craze brought in more money at the gate than any other thing in the history of baseball.
With Babe Ruth among the stars, baseball has its best drawing card working again. It means more money for everybody to have the Babe stepping out in front.

Channel Congestion

It looks as if the English Channel would be quite cluttered this summer if all the prospective swimmers make good their threat to attempt the feat.
Once a swim for the masculine sex, trying to find the channel has become a habit with the fair ones.
Already two of America's best women swimmers, Gertrude Ederle and Helen Wainwright, have announced their intention of trying to make the difficult swim.
Looks as if it would be necessary to delegate a number of aquatic traffic cops to handle the congestion that seems certain to result in the channel when warm weather really hits us.

Difficult Task

Playing a sun field is one of the most difficult jobs in baseball, for at least two reasons.
First, it calls for unusual judgment on every ball hit, the ability to again pick up the flight of the ball after you have once lost it in the sun.
Second, it places a severe strain on the eyes and naturally handicaps a player in his batting. I have heard star players express the opinion that playing a sun field lessens a player's batting average at least 30 points.

I doubt if I ever saw a more finished sun-fielder than Harry Hooper, who rounded out his big league career last season as a member of the Chicago White Sox.
For 12 years he played the difficult sun garden in Boston and followed this up with five seasons in the trying sun field at Comiskey park in Chicago.

"Every time I lose a fly ball in the sun, I think of Harry Hooper and what a marvel he was," remarked Harry Hellman, champion batsman of the American League, to me recently.
"Like all of us I have seen Hooper miss fly balls, but I never saw him stagger around under one like most of us."

Form Upsets

In spring training the two St. Louis clubs looked great. When a highly-touted club gets away to a poor start, the reaction of the fans is all the more severe.
For that reason both the Browns and the Cardinals have been subjected to considerable "razing" from those who originally came out to cheer.

Diamond Disputes Decided

What is the status of a substitute player who enters a game without informing the umpire of the fact?

The impression is rather general that unless a substitute inform the umpire of his entrance into the game it is not legal.

This erroneous belief is due to the fact that the player is supposed to first report to the umpire. In league baseball there is a fine of $25 for failure on the part of the substitute to do this.

While failure to properly report to the umpire is confusing and creates many disputes, it often happens and the rules regard it as legal.
The substitute, if a pitcher is considered in the game the moment he takes his position on the rubber; if a fielder when he takes the place in the field of the man he substitutes for; if a batsman, the moment he gets into the batter's box; if a runner, when the substitute replaces him on the base he is holding.
In such cases any play made by or on such unannounced substitute shall be legal.

Hal Wittie of the Red Sox provided that all rookies aren't lemons by beating Detroit, four to two. The batting of Haney, Flagstead, and Rigney, all former Tigers won the game.

MEETING AGAIN POSTPONED AS MANAGERS FAIL TO AGREE

POOR HANK'S OUTFIT IS GOOD CELLAR BET.

Columbus looks like a good bet for the cellar in the American Association race. Poor Hank Gowdy of National League and world series fame is having a tough time of it in his debut season. In their first 18 tilts the Gowdy Senators won but three.

Another Difficulty

When the storm had abated, another loomed. This was the eligibility question. All teams except the St. Mary's were in favor of using entirely local talent. Manager Bulla's objection was that he could not gather a strong enough team to play with local talent. After a long discussion he finally said he would enter with a local team if given the middle of June before the league opened thus bringing him the services of Wright and Robb who are away at college.

Other Objections

This followed with objections to the effect that the three rounds would not be finished in time and it was here that the session was brought to an abrupt ending with the motion that the managers secure the signature of their players and find "who's who" before any further discussion was carried on. This motion was seconded and the meeting adjourned.

If the four managers are equally successful in securing players in their canvass before Monday, the possibilities are that a league may be formed. Otherwise there is but little hope.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nancy and Niek and the Whiffet kept right on looking for his shadow—the Whiffet's lost shadow, you know.

They asked everybody they met if he had seen it, but nobody had. Jack-in-the-Pulpit, however, who is a very learned person and knows about most things like shadows and such, gave them some good advice.

"Why don't you go to the second-hand store?" he asked. "They keep all sorts of things. And even if you can't find your own shadow, Whiffet, you may find one just as good."

"Why, so I might," said the little Whiffet happily. "Where is the second-hand store, Mister Jack?"

"It's kept by a fairy called Dusty, up behind the barn," said Jack-in-the-Pulpit. "Ask the Old White Horse. He'll direct you. And while you're at it, if you see a shadow cheap that would fit me, just have Dusty wrap it up and mail it to me collect, will you? But I won't pay over seven and a half cents for it, or three for a quarter, mind. They haven't given me any salary since I started preaching, and I'm living on my savings."

"Have you lost your shadow, too?" asked Nancy in surprise. "Never had any," said Jack. "The sun never gets in the woods here. But I'd sort of like to have one around if I take it into my head to go visiting. I may go to see my grandmother any day."

The Twins and the Whiffet thanked Jack-in-the-Pulpit for his advice and promised to get him a shadow also if they could pick one up cheap. Then they said goodbye and started off to find Dusty's second-hand shop behind the barn.

"Yes, you're on the right path," whinnied the Old White Horse. "Keep to the right when you pass the corn-crib, then turn to your left at the pump. That takes you right through the grape harbor and when you get to the end of it you will see the wood-pile. Mister Dusty's second-hand store is between the wood-pile and the barn."

The Twins and the Whiffet thanked the Old White Horse and followed his directions.

And in three winks and a shake of a lamb's tail, they were there. The sign said: "THINGS BOUGHT AND SOLD, BOUGHT EXPENSIVELY AND SOLD CHEAPLY! KITE-TAILS, EARMUFFS, AND INGREDIENTS A SPECIALTY. STEP IN!"

So in went the Whiffet and the Twins, and a little bell somewhere went tinkling—along, and out came a small person with a business-like look, who said he was Mister Dusty and what could he do for them?

"Do you keep shadows?" spoke up the Whiffet in his high squeaky voice. "What size?" asked Mister Dusty. "Whiffet size," said the Whiffet. "Whiffet's are all alike. They're just as big when they're babies as they are when they're grown-up."

"I see," said Mister Dusty, reacting up on his shelf where several folded up shadows were lying. "I'll look and see what I have. Is there any special color? I have light black, middling and dark black."

"Oh, I'll take anything!" cried the Whiffet. "Perhaps you have my own shadow, though, Mister Dusty. I lost it coming over the stile and someone must have found it."

"Maybe so," said the fairyman, unfolding all his shadows on the counter.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Florists say the outlook for spring is very rosy.

One thing that causes a late spring is early displays of fishing tackle in the show windows of sporting goods stores.

Four Tragedies

A man struck a match to see if the gasoline tank was empty. It wasn't.

Another man touched a trolley wire to see if it was live. It was.

A man jumped out of a boat to see if he could swim. He couldn't.

A man cut out his advertising to see if he could save money. He didn't.

Life is a game of give and take and if you want to get along with folks you'll have to do most of the giving.

Spring usually may be depended on to bring winter.

"Exactly how soon could you obtain a divorce for me?"

"When do you expect to announce your engagement?"

"Talk about torture—"

"Nothing is worse than sitting in a barber's chair with your mouth full of lather, watching the boy trying to give another customer your hat."

You can't tell if a man with spring fever is stretching himself or telling a fish tale.

For reducing the price of eggs nothing has been found to beat the spring of the year.

"There Ain't No Justice"

I should like to see the apple blossoms flutter down

And envelope me in a veritable snowstorm;

I should like to see them swirl around the ground

And piled in a huge drift at my feet.

But darn it! It's snowing again And I shall have to wear galoshes.

Spring clothes look fine on slender people, but don't feel so well on slender incomes.

A state exchange leads its editorial column this week with an able editorial on spring. The editorial is as follows: "Fore."

He (in front of her parents): "Here, son, take this quarter and go see the Snek."

Buttermilk: "If it's all the same to you, I'd just as soon stay here and watch you and sister, after mamma and papa go to bed."

Any man can fool a woman before she is married, but it takes a genius to do it afterwards.

People are so unoriginal. Ever since Dante wrote his "Inferno" to please Beatrice, every boy who falls in love tells his girl he would go through hell for her.

"And what position does your son play on the team?"

"I'm not sure, but I think he is the one that makes the touchdowns."

"What a whale of a difference a few scents make," said Lady Fatima after being kissed by an oriental onion-eating Romeo.

Michigan farmer caught an eagle in a skunk trap, much to the eagle's disgust.

It is fine to get back to nature if you can have one hand free to scratch bites next day.

It's a great life if you don't weaken, and a greater one if you weaken just a little bit.

A corking good time is one thing—and an uncorking one is something else again.

The original wise-cracker was the one that hid in the corner of the bread can so nobody would eat it.

MOTHER—Why, Tommy! You've taken half that piece of bread in one bite.

TOMMY—You said a mouthful, mother!

"You'll get a ring," he promised her.

"If you will be my own."

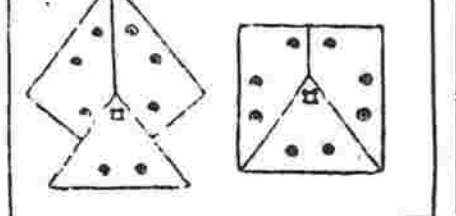

And when she said, "I will," he simply called her on the phone.

A PUZZLE A DAY

The local marbles champion picked up six brown marbles and painted a letter on each one.

Putting the lettered marbles face down on the table he told his friends this story: "Here is a word of six letters meaning a loud cry. If you behold it, it is something that is good to drink. If you cut its neck off also, it is a quantity of paper. If you cut off two-thirds of it, it is one of the most common verbs, and if you rearrange five of its letters it is a verb meaning to frighten."

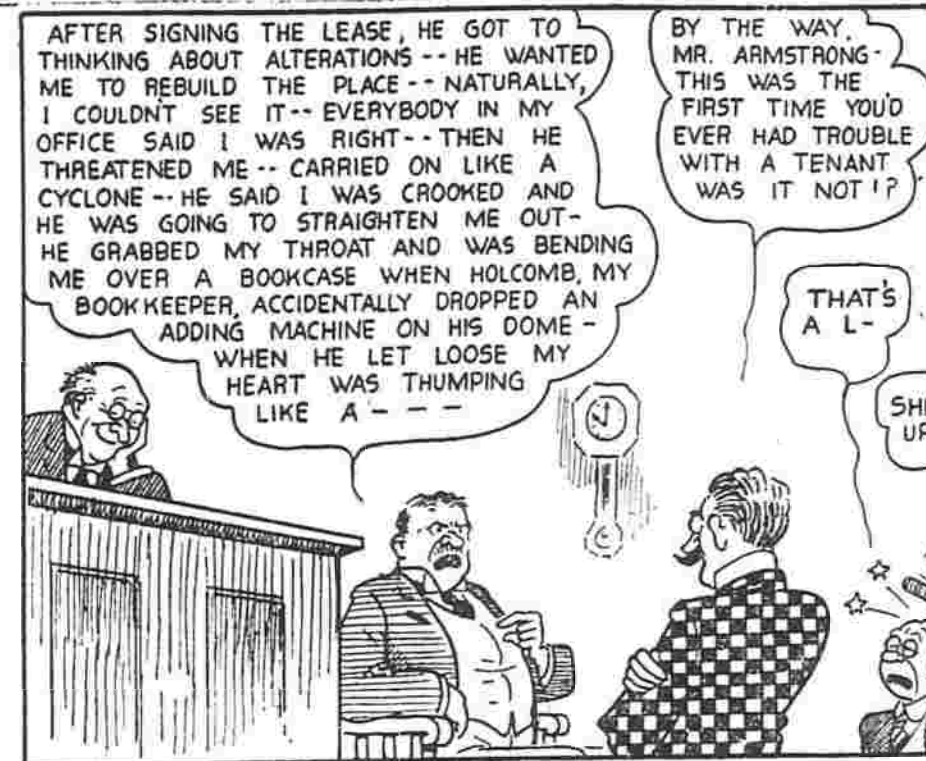

What was the word? Last puzzle answer:

The Newton Touring Club president cut the decorated square of paper into three parts shown in figure "B." He assembled them as shown in figure "A" to form the new club insignia.

GAS BUGGIES or HEM AND AMY—Justice Isn't Always Strained

AFTER SEVERAL DAYS' CONFINEMENT IN JAIL, DURING WHICH TIME THE PROSECUTION HAS BEEN BUSY LINING UP WITNESSES TO SUPPORT ITS CHARGE OF ARSON, HEM'S INDIGNANT PROTESTS ARE FINALLY HEEDDED, AND HE IS HALED INTO COURT FOR A PRELIMINARY HEARING—

I RUN A FISH STORE NEXT DOOR--WHEN HE SAID HE'D LIKE TO BUY OUR LANDLORD, I SPOKE HE WAS KIDDIN'--THAT'S WHY I AGREED WITH HIM AND JOKINGLY SAID I'D LIKE TO BEAT HIM TO IT--

LISTEN, BROTHER--I APPRECIATE YOUR WILLINGNESS TO TESTIFY BUT I DON'T WANT YOU TO MISS YOUR LUNCH--IF WE SNAP THINGS UP, WE'LL BE THROUGH BY TWELVE--JUST TELL ABOUT HIM GETTING A PAIL OF GAS AT YOUR STATION--NEVER MIND THAT PART ABOUT HIM OFTEN DOING IT BEFORE WHEN HIS CAR RAN DRY--

MR. JUDGE, AS THE COURT JUST APPOINTED ME TO HANDLE THE AFFAIRS OF THE DEFENSE, I'D LIKE TO ASK FOR A POSTPONEMENT--I SHALL NEED TIME TO--

THERE'S NO USE WASTING THE TAXPAYERS' MONEY BY DRAGGING THIS OUT ANY LONGER--IT'S A CLEAR CASE--DEFENDANT IS BOUND OVER FOR TRIAL--BAIL--TEN THOUSAND--

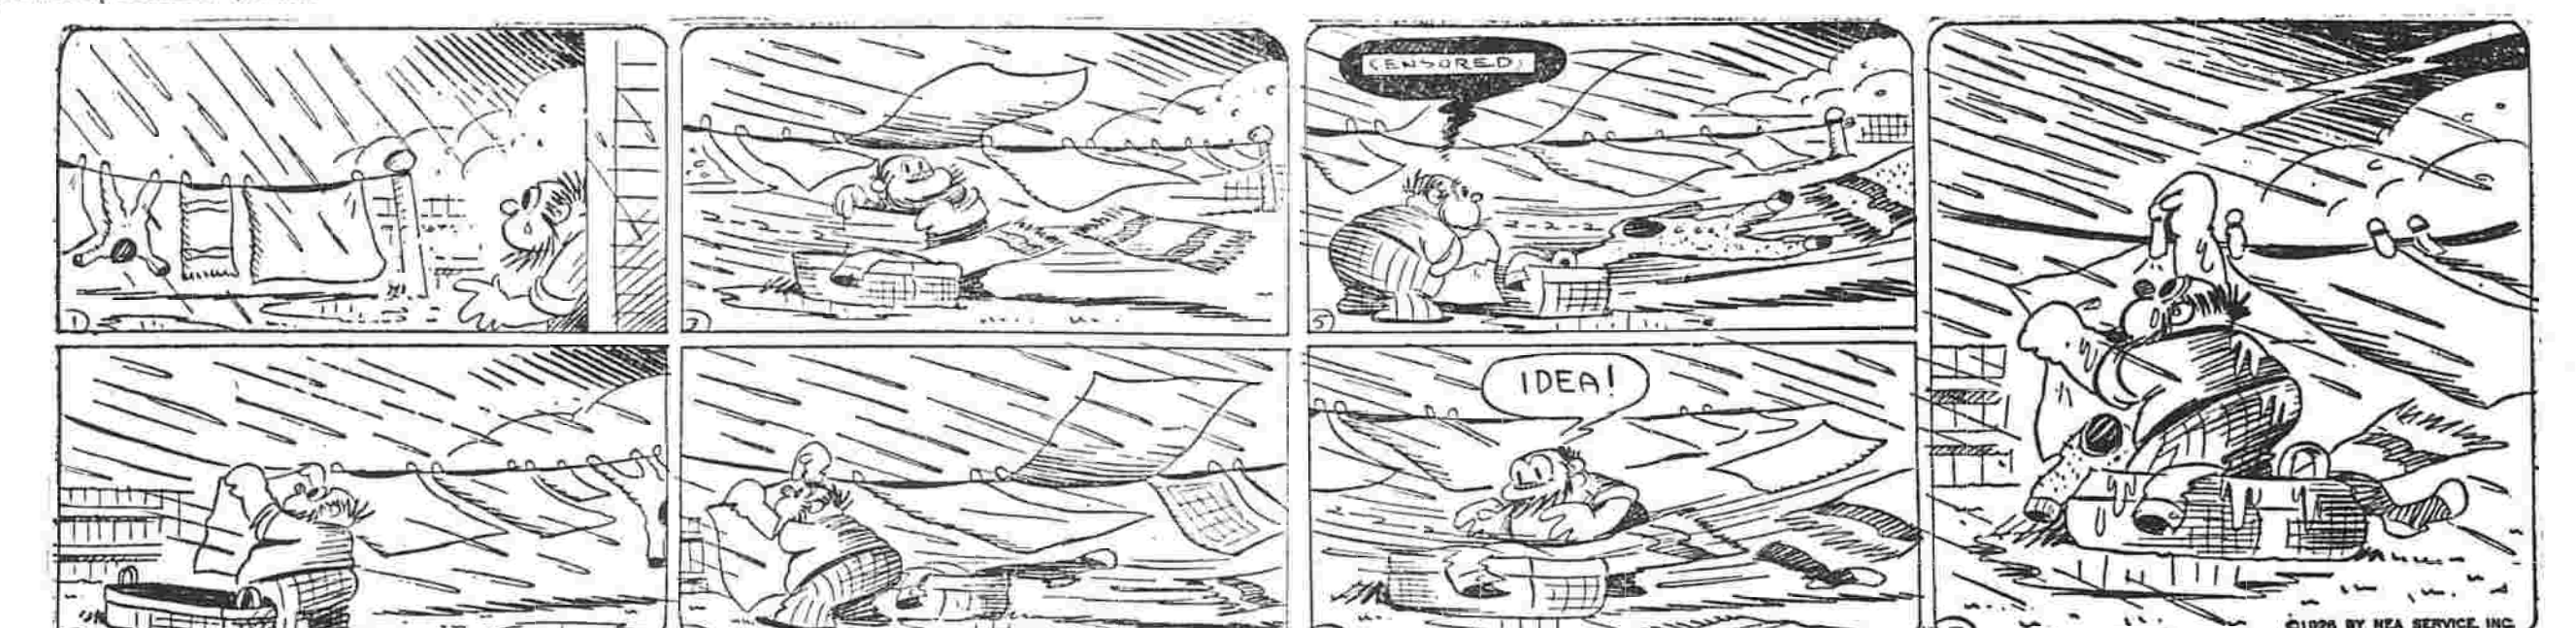

OH, I WISH I HAD SOMEONE TO LOVE ME, SOMEONE TO CALL ME THEIR OWN; OH, I WISH I HAD SOMEONE TO LIVE WITH, FOR I'M TIRED OF LIVING ALONE.

OH, MEET ME TONIGHT IN THE MOONLIGHT, MEET ME TONIGHT ALL ALONE; FOR I'VE A SAD STORY TO TELL YOU, A STORY THAT'S NEVER BEEN KNOWN.

Our experience with CABLE-NELSON players is that they are as reliable and dependable as a good clock, and cost but little or no more for up-keep.
