NOTHING BUT SILENCE COMES OUT OF ARCTIC

Not a Word from Norge Since Signals of Wednesday Night—Experts Mystified—Navy Station Still Sure Dirigible Was Heard Calling Nome — Alaska City Still Waits.

300 SIR KNIGHTS TEMPLAR MARCH IN PARADE HERE

Attend Service at South Methodist Church; Dinner Served—Masonic Choir Renders Concert.

The impenetrable silence of the far north today enveloped the Norge.

Despite the fact that all the radio facilities of the great Alaskan territory were engaged in the hunt, no trace of the great dirigible bearing the Amundsen-Ellsworth polar expedition party had been obtained, according to various centers in Alaska.

From Anchorage came the suggestion that the signals heard late Wednesday night, supposedly emanating from the Norge, might have been confused.

Sure Signals Came. The naval radio station, on the Island of St. Paul in the Preilborf group, however, was positive there was no mistake and that the signals heard there about 11 p. m. (Alaskan time) Wednesday night came from the Norge.

At that time the Norge was broadcasting on a 900-metre wave length the message: "Airship Norge, bound Nome, Alaska. Please answer if anyone hears us."

Later St. Paul heard the Norge again ask "Does anyone hear us?" At 11:10 the Norge called Nome, Alaska, and shortly thereafter, according to the listeners at St. Paul, established communication with some unidentified station, the Norge gave the signal "Go Ahead."

Since then nothing further has been heard from the Norge. Her position was not given in any of the few messages picked up on Wednesday night and doubt was expressed in many circles as to whether the dirigible had been sighted at Point Barrow as reported.

A storm is brewing in the Arctic regions. Rain fell at Nome yesterday, but ceased at noon.

The weather, however, was reported dark, cloudy and threatening and general weather conditions reported from the far north indicated a lowering barometer and probable difficult weather conditions in reported regions.

In addition to the United States naval stations at St. Paul and Nome which have been calling the Norge almost continuously ever since her signals were first believed heard, all of the smaller stations, at a score of points in Alaska, have been vainly endeavoring to catch her signals.

Experts Puzzled. The Anchorage station, undaunted by the fact that no response was received from a special welcome program broadcast early Thursday, prepared today to broadcast again tonight a special Norwegian program for the entertainment of the eighteen men aboard the Norge.

Aeronautical authorities were puzzled over the fact that in none of the messages picked up from the Norge Wednesday was any mention of position given. It was pointed out that the big airship, if her position was known, would have under normal circumstances indicated it.

May Have Sought Position. It was regarded as possible that the Norge may have been calling in an effort to ascertain her position through establishment of radio contact with Alaskan stations and might have been much further north than Point Barrow when the signals were sent.

St. Paul reported that at the time the messages were picked up the conditions for radio reception were especially good. Normally radio communication is excellent at this time of the year in Arctic territory.

NOME MYSTIFIED

Landing Crew of 100 Sticks to Waiting Job.

Nome, Alaska, May 14.—Nome was completely mystified today over the whereabouts of the Norge.

Her welcoming program held up by the non-appearance of the big airship, Name talked of nothing else.

Weather conditions, unfavorable yesterday, were somewhat improved. Rain which started early Thursday morning had ceased but it was still dark and cloudy, with prospect of further rain.

At the landing field a mile from the city the crew of 100 men, arranged for by Ralph Lomen, Norwegian vice-counsel, were being held in readiness.

Betting on Arrival. Nome's gambling spirit was Manchester's Main street was the scene last evening of an impressive Knights Templar parade.

Washington Commandery, No. 1, Knights Templar, with which a large number of Manchester men are affiliated, marched from the Center to the new South Methodist church at 6:15 to dine and listen to an address by Rev. Joseph Cooper.

The Hartford delegation arrived at the Center at about 6 o'clock. The line was quickly formed on East Center street and the parade started south promptly at 6:15. An escort of Manchester police headed the procession followed by Col's Armory band.

The Knights Templar Patrol was next in line. The patrol did trick drills all the way about the line of march. Then followed a group of Manchester Sir Knights followed by Washington Commandery.

Another group of local members of the organization brought up the rear of the procession.

At the church, the Knights removed their heavy marching regalia and descended to the dining room where they enjoyed an excellent repast of chicken soup, chicken salad and strawberry shortcake, prepared and served by the combined ladies' societies of the parish. They then retired.

STOCKINGS CLUE TO JEWEL THEFT Patrolman McGlenn Recovers Rings Worth $350 Two Hours After Theft.

With but a description of a pair of silk stockings as a clue to a $350 ring robbery, Patrolman John McGlenn, recovered the jewelry two hours after it had been reported stolen. Because of the age of the culprit, she is under 15, no names may be mentioned in reporting the theft. This is a state law.

Jewel Case Rifled. A South End woman who had left her home for an hour's shopping trip, discovered on her return that her jewel case had been rifled. Two rings were missing, a solitaire diamond and the other a setting of four rubies and diamond chips. Also the woman discovered that a pair of silk stockings was missing.

His Deductions. The husband reported the theft to the police and Patrolman McGlenn was assigned to the case. He at once figured that the thief was a woman and presumably a girl because of the theft of the stockings; also that she was an amateur or she would have taken the other jewels in the case, more valuable than the rings stolen and she would not have taken a pair of stockings.

Sees the Stockings. With a description of the stockings in his mind, Patrolman McGlenn watched school children and saw a girl wearing what he thought were the stockings. He had thought were the stockings. He had thought were the stockings.

Girl Confesses. Confronting the girl, McGlenn asked her where she bought the hose. She became confused. That gave him the tip and he accused her of the robbery. She confessed. The diamond ring she had hidden in her room and the other she gave to a young man who lived in the house.

To Be Tried. The jewels were returned to the owners and the girl will be tried in Juvenile Court. She said that she had been playing with the daughter of the owner of the jewelry and induced her to go into the house on the plea that she wanted a drink of water. While the other girl got the water, she rifled the jewel case.

U. S. GOLFERS' ROLLS MELTING Walker Cup Players Are Up Against Rabid Expenses in Great Britain Visit.

London, May 14.—The American Walker Cup golf team is finding that the high cost of living in England is putting a decided crimp in the thousand dollars each player was allowed for expenses by the United States Golf Association.

The players spent $600 for steamer fares and had $400 left for expenses here when they arrived, but this is being diminished at an alarming rate.

Because of the strike situation the players have been obliged to hire motor cars ever since they stepped off the Aquitania. Some members of the party, with long bank rolls, checked into one of London's highest-priced hotels and the others, with bank rolls not so long, followed like lambs being led to the slaughter.

When the team checked out of their London hotel today Watts Gun and Roland McKenzie found they had bills of $90 for a three-day stay.

Bobby Jones and Francis Ouimet shared a fine suite, which set them back $25 a day, without any food being tossed in.

The Americans moored to Sandwich today for the St. George's vase tournament tomorrow.

STUDENT NURSE TAKES SUICIDE SUGGESTION

Girl in Norwalk Institution Follows Example of Danbury Nurse and Dies.

Norwalk, May 14.—Elizabeth Macomber, a young student nurse in Norwalk hospital, heard her friends discuss the recent suicide in the Danbury hospital of a student nurse of about her own age. Miss Macomber obtained chloroform and gauze from the operating room in the hospital here, went to her own dormitory room and took her life.

So Dr. Samuel H. Huntington, local medical examiner, today reported to Coroner John J. Phelan at Bridgeport, in announcing the cause of Miss Macomber's death last evening.

Miss Macomber, 19, a native of New Canaan, had served three years as a student in the hospital.

DEATH BRINGS TO END CAREER OF J. T. KING

Bridgeport Political Leader Succumbs to Pneumonia Attack Early This Morning, in 53d Year.

Bridgeport, May 14.—John T. King, for many years a leading figure in the political affairs of Bridgeport and an important factor in the Republican party of the state and nation, died shortly after midnight from pneumonia. There had been a conference of physicians last evening, following administration of oxygen for several hours after a sinking spell yesterday.

It is expected that funeral services will be held here next Monday. Services will be held at the home on Windemere avenue and at the Church of the Sacred Heart.

John T. King was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 52 years ago. For some time he was a student at Niagara University, preparing for the priesthood. Abandoning this plan he left the university and went to Glastonbury, Pa., where he was an instructor in Latin at a college.

Came to State in 1895. Mr. King came to Bridgeport in 1895 as the representative of financial interests, being a bond salesman and a credit investigator. He obtained a city public service contract, entered politics and swiftly rose into prominence locally.

When the Paige-Marjold machine, used by the Connecticut Republican party, was at the height of its power, Mr. King challenged its forces and in 1911 forced the nomination of Clifford B. Wilson as mayor. For five terms Mr. Wilson held that office, being defeated in 1922 by Fred T. Atwater, who served a single term. During that term, Mr. King consolidated his forces once more and caused the election of F. W. Behrens, present mayor.

During his leadership, King was an opponent of the Republican state committee. From 1915 to 1921 he was powerful enough to have Mayor Wilson accepted as lieutenant-governor, the first man in a long time to hold that office for such a length of time.

King struggled hard to make the mayor of Bridgeport governor but never was able to muster quite enough strength in convention.

Han Wood's Campaign. King was state committeeman from the 21st district for many years and from 1916 to 1920 he was national committeeman from Connecticut.

His period of national prominence came in the spring of 1920 when he undertook to guide General Leonard Wood's campaign for the Republican nomination for the presidency. Shortly after the city extends over a delta region where the Don flows into the sea.

During his work in this campaign King became friendly with Harry M. Daugherty, later to become attorney-general, and with Jesse Smith, who was to die at his own hand in Washington. Earlier he had sustained a warm friendship with Theodore Roosevelt and with Ben Penrose, of Pennsylvania.

He became involved in alien property affairs after the war. Mr. King is survived by his wife, Ellen Molden King, and by one son, Gilbert, now a student in Paris.

RUSSIA HURRICANE TAKES HUGE TOLL

Sudden Rise of Sea of Azov and River Don Results in Great Disaster.

Moscow, May 14.—Many lives have been lost and millions of dollars' worth of damage has been done by a great hurricane that has whipped the waters of the Azov Sea and the Don river into flood tides, inundating the city of Rostov.

Dispatches from Rostov today said that the high ground of the city is littered with bodies of the victims of the hurricane and the flood.

Sea and River Unite. The hurricane arose suddenly last night and did untold damage, but the greatest catastrophe came when the high winds drove the waters of the Azov Sea over the mouth of the Don river, converting the lower basin of the river into one great stormy sea, inundating the city.

The river Don rose eighteen feet in a few hours.

The flood is said to be the worst for 25 years, and reports state that the damage is most extensive.

Relief ships have been ordered to Rostov.

Upper Volga Flooded. The upper Volga is also reported to have flooded, its waters having swept for thirty miles beyond the normal banks of the river, driving 50,000 from their homes.

In Ninnovogrod there are 28,000 homeless, and 10,000 are homeless in Kazan where the Volga is at the highest point it has reached since 1888.

Rostov is the principal city of the Republic of the Don Cossacks, with a population of 204,000.

The city of Rostov is on the Don river, which flows into the Gulf of Tagauros, an arm of the sea of Azov. A portion of the city extends over a delta region where the Don flows into the sea.

During his work in this campaign King became friendly with Harry M. Daugherty, later to become attorney-general, and with Jesse Smith, who was to die at his own hand in Washington. Earlier he had sustained a warm friendship with Theodore Roosevelt and with Ben Penrose, of Pennsylvania.

He became involved in alien property affairs after the war. Mr. King is survived by his wife, Ellen Molden King, and by one son, Gilbert, now a student in Paris.

Confused Situation Following Strike Greatly Cleared by Signing of Agreement Between Roads and Employees—Union Strikers to Be Taken Back as Soon as Jobs Open—Some May Lose Their Places.

London, May 14.—Great Britain today made a great stride towards resumption of normal conditions, when a settlement of the railroad strike was made.

The railroad unions, which had ordered a continuance of the strike of their members because of conditions which the railway companies laid down upon the return of workers who joined in the general strike, came to an agreement with the railway companies this afternoon, and it is expected that railroad transportation will be practically normal within 48 hours.

Agreement Signed. The agreement, reached in a conference between the representatives of the unions and the companies has been signed.

Premier Baldwin, speaking to a crowded House of Commons, declared that "progress is being made" in the peace conferences affecting the coal and railroad industry.

The premier indicated however, that there is little prospect of any settlement of the coal strike before next week.

The agreement for the settlement of the strike was signed by the union representatives and executives of the railroads soon after 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Terms of the railroad agreement are considered rather severe upon the unions.

J. H. Thomas, coming from the House of Commons, announced the settlement of the railroad strike.

"You see I am wearing the smile of peace," he said.

The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York were again in the gallery of the House of Commons when Premier Baldwin made his statement.

Negotiations for the settlement of the dock workers' strike are proceeding without any hitch.

The miners' delegate conference re-assembled at 4 o'clock this afternoon but adjourned until ten tomorrow morning when it will consider the new proposals being made by Premier Baldwin.

The London County Council has agreed to take back all striking employees of the London street car lines. Volunteer workers will also be retained permanently on the staffs of the lines.

Some May Go. The newspaper strike is also approaching an end. The printers and other mechanical workers, with the exception of the packers' have agreed to the newspaper proprietors' demands that in the future there will be no interference with editorial policy and strikes without notice will be illegal.

Full publication of newspapers is now expected on Monday.

Railroad Agreement. The agreement for the settlement of the railroad strike is as follows: "Employees of the railroad companies who have gone on strike shall be taken back to work as soon as the traffic offers work for them. "The principle to be followed in reinstatement is seniority in each grade. "The Trades Union admit that in calling the strike they committed a wrongful act against the companies and agree that by reinstatement the companies do not surrender their legal right to claim damages arising out of the strike, from the strikers and others responsible. "Some May Go. The unions undertake not to again instruct their members to strike without previous negotiations; to give no support of any kind to their members to take any unauthorized action. "The agreement further adds that "the companies intimate that arising out of the strike it may be necessary to remove certain persons to other positions, but no reduction of such persons shall be reduced. "The settlement does not extend

Two Boys Confess They Stole Fifteen Dollars' Worth of Merchandise.

Another outbreak of juvenile crime was reported here yesterday but was of a trivial nature as far as the value of the stolen goods.

Yesterday afternoon two small North End lads about twelve years of age went into Pagani Brothers candy and fruit store at the North End with a group of other children. While the clerks were busy waiting on customers, the pair succeeded in getting away with a flashlight, some cigars and Victrola needles amounting to about fifteen dollars' worth.

The affair was investigated by Officer Rudolph Wirtalla and the boys were apprehended. The stolen goods were returned. Whether the boys will be brought up for a hearing in the Juvenile court has not been given out.

THREE CARS FIGURE IN ODD ACCIDENT

No One Hurt But One of the Autos Burns Up.

An accident of serious nature was narrowly averted last evening on the Rockville-Manchester road between the Cohen and Thrall farms this side of Lyman's switch. Three automobiles figured in the crash. No one was injured outside of minor bruises. One car caught fire and was a total wreck. The accident, which was somewhat odd, occurred at nine o'clock. A Maxwell coach operated by J. P. Nelson of Maple avenue, Hartford, was proceeding towards Rockville. Two other autos, a Ford coupe, driven by John Cousley of New Britain and a Chevrolet coupe operated by Renato C. Haun of 791 Main street, this town, were proceeding in the direction of Rockville.

Cars Collide

At the point between the Cohen and Thrall farms, the machine operated by Nelson struck the Chevrolet driven by Haun. The local man's car was knocked to the side of the road. The Maxwell was not "down and out", however, and continued along the road several yards and then bumped into the second machine, the one driven by the New Britain man. This proved the fins of the Maxwell, however, for the driver had scarcely leaped out of the car before it caught fire and burned to the frame. The car was a total wreck.

No One Hurt

With the local man in the first car which the Maxwell struck was Joseph Cullen of Spruce street. How any of the occupants of the three machines escaped serious injury is a mystery. The New Britain man's car was towed to Robert's garage at Manchester Green. It is badly damaged, the front being stove in. Roberts also removed the remains of the burned car from the road and traffic which had been held up for considerable time, was resumed.

The drivers and occupants of the three machines have been ordered to appear in the Rockville court tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock for an informal hearing before the police and prosecuting Attorney Dennis J. McCarthy. If the officials find the investigation warrants it, a trial will be held Monday morning in the Rockville court.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

At the local high school assembly yesterday afternoon, a group of seniors that had gone on the Washington trip spoke to the students and told them what they had seen on their trip. George Krause, president of the senior class, introduced the speakers. The first was Evelyn Clark, who told of the start of the trip, the ride from Manchester to Washington, and what transpired the first night at the National Hotel, where the local party stayed while in the National Capital. Miss Martha Blatter was the second speaker. She told what the seniors saw on the second day. She described the visits to the Franciscan Monastery and the reproduction there of the Roman catacombs; of the visit to the National Museum and to the Congressional Library where the original copies of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution were seen. Alva Anderson, the next speaker, related accounts of the visits to the Botanical Gardens, the Capitol, the Naval Academy; of the local party's introduction to Senator Bingham and of their attending a performance in the Washington Keith-Albee Theatre. Her remarks were interspersed with many humorous statements, and her talk was much enjoyed. Miss Faith Fallow spoke after Miss Anderson, and told of the events of the fourth day. She told of the Pan American building, the White House and its various rooms and things of interest, of the Senate in session, the Zoological gardens, Mt. Saint Alban's Cathedral and of the Lincoln Memorial, all of which were visited by the party on the fourth day. Robert Burr then, in a humorous manner, told of the events of the fifth day. On this day he said visits were made to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Washington Monument, Arlington National Cemetery, Mt. Vernon and a ride was taken up the Potomac River. Burr's talk was greatly enjoyed. Sherwood Anderson, the last speaker, related the events, few as they were, on the ride home. He said the local travelers slept most of the way.

At the beginning of the assembly Sherwood Anderson, president of the local High School's Boys' Glee Club, presented to Mr. Quimby and the school the silver loving cup which the local singers won at the Inter-scholastic Glee Club contest held in Windsor last Saturday. Mr. Quimby, in accepting the trophy, expressed appreciation for the excellent work done by the local club in the Windsor contest, and for the fine work done by Miss E. Marion Dorward, director of the club in training of the singers. An award in the commercial department was made to Miss Eva Fantom for excellency in typewriting.

The Argonaut Club held a meeting Wednesday evening and elected officers for the final term this year. The officers elected were the following: President, Alice Modin; vice-president, Olive Smith; treasurer, Rosana McGill; secretary, Eleanor Dwyer. Refreshment committee: Chairman, Mildred Noren; Esther Holmes and Elizabeth James. Entertainment committee: Olive Smith, chairman; Florence Scheldige and Florence Buckminster.

On Monday afternoon next the first of a series of Freshmen assemblies will be held. Monday's assembly will be in the hands of Miss Nutt's room. The program follows:

Speeches on the subject of "Un-used Alibis." Scripture reading by William Kanehl. Introductory remarks by Jacob Rubinow. First speaker, George Flavell, topic on Francis Parkman. Second speaker, Raymond Woodbridge, topic on Theodore Roosevelt. Third speaker, Clarence Turkington, topic on Charles Dickens. Fourth speaker, Herbert Crockett, topic on Dr. Steinmiz. An orchestra composed of Collins Driggs, pianist, William Kanehl, cornet, James Wilson, drums, and Wesley Warnock, violin, will furnish music. Chorus singing will be led by Collins Driggs.

PLAN FREE DANCING AT CAPITOL PARK PAVILION

The new management of Capitol Park, Hartford's mammoth amusement resort, will inaugurate a new innovation Saturday night, when the large open air pavilion in the center of the park will be thrown open to the public as a free dancing platform. One of Hartford's finest orchestras has been engaged to furnish the syncopating strains necessary and it is fully expected that local devotees of the terpsichorean art will flock to Capitol Park in full force. New and fancy decorations have been installed around the dancing space and the floor has been put into wonderful condition. All of the popular rides will be in operation and Sunday afternoon and night a band concert will be given. Admission to the park is free, excepting on Monday nights, when an admission charge on the gate is made. This admission charge is made on account of the open air amateur boxing bouts that are held every Monday night but for the small charge a combination ticket is given allowing the purchaser a ride on every amusement device open in the park. The large attendance that marked the opening of the park last Saturday and Sunday is expected to be eclipsed this week-end. Follow the crowd to Capitol Park.

"I WAS SICKLY AND COULDN'T EAT"

Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought permanent relief

Constipation takes its toll in health and happiness—but read what Mr. Jessup has to say: "I was always sickly and could not eat—but last May I was told about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN I have not lost a day's work. In May I weighed 159 pounds. I now weigh 185 pounds, and it's all due to eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."
 J. E. Jessup, East St. Louis, Ill.
 Don't let constipation sap your health, undermine your strength. It can cause over forty serious ailments! Bloated skin, sick headaches, nervousness, anemia—are but a few of the symptoms. Beware!

POTPOURI

We have all eaten history. We all have heard of wal. There's almond, hazel and pecan. Why, sure we know them all. And, now here's to the latest. You've often seen their struts. They're popular the country 'round, are snappy charleston nuts.

Some place in North Dakota, a professor craned his neck, and power to think, by heck. Well, said that folk are losing all their mebbe so, but here's a point that's written with much vim. We haven't lost the power to think, just what we think of him.

I had a swell idea for a poem. 'Twas a peach. I'll bet it might have made you howl, or laugh or maybe screech. But, say, I'm only human, and I can't be sprung because I really have forgotten why the blamed idea was.

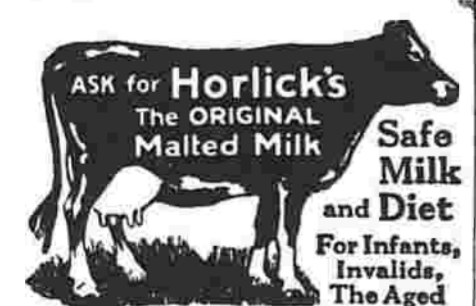

A hurdy-gurdy's bad enough. A sour trombone's a fright. The neighbor on his violin, keeps folk awake all night. An ailing youngster's tough to hear, but howling with the croup, but worst of all the sounds I know, is someone eating soup.

TAXES.

When Representative Mills of New York told the National Chamber of Commerce that no possible amount of cutting of federal taxes was going to appreciably free the people of this country from the taxation burden so long as municipal and state taxes were permitted to mount as they have in recent years...

Nothing is surer than that the people of this country are taxing themselves far too heavily—not for the cost of the war, and not for the cost of national government, but for the ordinary affairs of their own local governments.

States are spending far too much tax money on roads—even when all the business advantages of good roads are taken into consideration.

The towns and cities, many of them, are spending too much tax money on officials who enjoy snaps much more remunerative and much less laborious than the job of the average citizen who helps to meet the payroll.

There is a tender spot—a dangerous one! One wonders how many Chambers of Commerce will have the courage to follow the recommendations of Mr. Mills to the logical conclusion of tackling the costs of the public schools.

One thing the Chamber will recognize, of course, with its business training—and that is that no town and no state can cut its tax rate appreciably unless it is willing to cut out the things that produce the excess taxation.

WOODS FIRES.

Anglers of Connecticut will in very few cases protest against the ruling of the State Board of Fisheries and Game, closing state-leased streams to fishing during periods of extreme drought and fire hazard.

Undoubtedly, among the new crop of sportsmen that has developed in just the last few years as the direct result of automobile transportation, there is an occasional individual who has no more regard for the most elementary law of woodcraft than he has for the ethics of sportsmanship at large, and who is liable enough to throw away a burning match or a cigar or cigarette stub, or to make a camp fire and leave the embers alive—but there are few even of this sort among the devotees of the rod.

It is highly probable that, for every forest fire set in Connecticut by anglers, twenty are started by vagrant tourists and holiday makers, who never in their lives had a rod in their hands, but who shed a perfect shower of burning cigarette stubs from their speeding cars, who build fires by the roadsides for luncheon purposes or the mere fun of it and then roll away and leave them, and who not only know nothing about the ordinary safeguards of woodsmanship but care less.

What is more, the most reckless statements as to the extent of forest fires in this state are habitually being made by the newspapers. A dispatch from Middletown, in a Hartford paper, for example, tells of the destruction of six thousand acres of forest in a fire which, according to the same dispatch, had covered a strip "one mile long and three-quarters of a mile wide."

There are 640 acres in a square mile. It would take about a dozen such fires as the one in question to burn over 8,000 acres.

We would not minimize the injury done by woods fires, nor enter the slightest objection to any measures for their prevention. But we cannot see that there is any merit in putting the blame for the vast majority of them in exactly the wrong place. The notion that an important step for the prevention of forest fires has been taken by closing the leased brooks to anglers would be an utterly mistaken one.

It is a perfectly correct step, but of relative insignificance. Other authorities than the Fish and Game Commission will have to tackle the problem.

SLIPPING AWAY.

Tomorrow a little party of eight persons bitten by the gully of inquisitiveness, will quietly leave Boston for the west coast of Africa.

There has been little publicity over their plans. Compared with the amount of space given to almost any explorer-lecturer who contemplates a little trip up north with a long series of subsequent profitable engagements in the background, or with a big league team manager who is dickering for the purchase of two new pitchers and a bigger pocketbook, the amount of column room taken up by Dr. Richard P. Strong's expedition, outside of medical journals, is microscopic.

Yet the Strong expedition is really almost as important as a fifteen minute flight in the Arctic and worth at least a fifth part the attention of a ball game.

These eight scientists, you see, are intensely curious as to the original causes and processes of the sleeping sickness. They want to find out all there is to be found out about it. Because the sleeping sickness is coming to be a real problem. There are a great many more cases of it than there used to be, in Europe and America, and so far the medical profession has been pretty well stumped by it.

So they are going to the place where sleeping sickness is right at home; where it takes not a very rarely occasional victim but victims a-plenty; when anybody who hangs around and waits for it long enough is good and likely to get it—and to pass over into the great beyond through its mysterious and baffling influence.

to a face with a battle in the courts against charges of colossal corruption reaching into the halls of justice in the national capital.

Of the circumstances surrounding those charges this is no time to speak.

But there is something about the career of John T. King that is not generally known.

He did not drift into the "practical" side of politics. It did not merely happen that he came to look upon municipal, state and national affairs as opportunity for the making of personal profits.

John T. King, as a youth, was something of an idealist, something almost of a mystic, sensitively developed on his spiritual side, suffering perhaps from an over-nice balance between enthusiasm for the finer things of existence and a tendency toward hopelessness of their realization. Quite suddenly, after some years of observation of the lack of sincerity in public life that seemed to him its most conspicuous attribute, in a reaction of disgust, young King took a resolution.

"I'm going to chuck all this high morality stuff," he told an intimate friend, "and I'm going out to get mine."

From that moment John T. King's attitude toward life was definitely established. If he ever experienced a return of the old spiritual urge he never admitted it. He made politics a business and the business made him rich and powerful. But the man of affairs was no more like the student man than if he had died before and been recreated.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

Washington, May 14.—While a general strike in England is, of course, none of this country's business, yet the recent labor flaps up there was viewed with not a little trepidation by official Washington.

Nobody who never was in a general strike can have the least real idea how frightfully it gums things up.

Some of the dispatches have referred to England's as only the second in history, the one in Germany at the time of the Dr. Knapp putsch having been the first.

It happened in Buenos Aires—a city of about 2,000,000, so that it far the medical profession has been pretty well stumped by it.

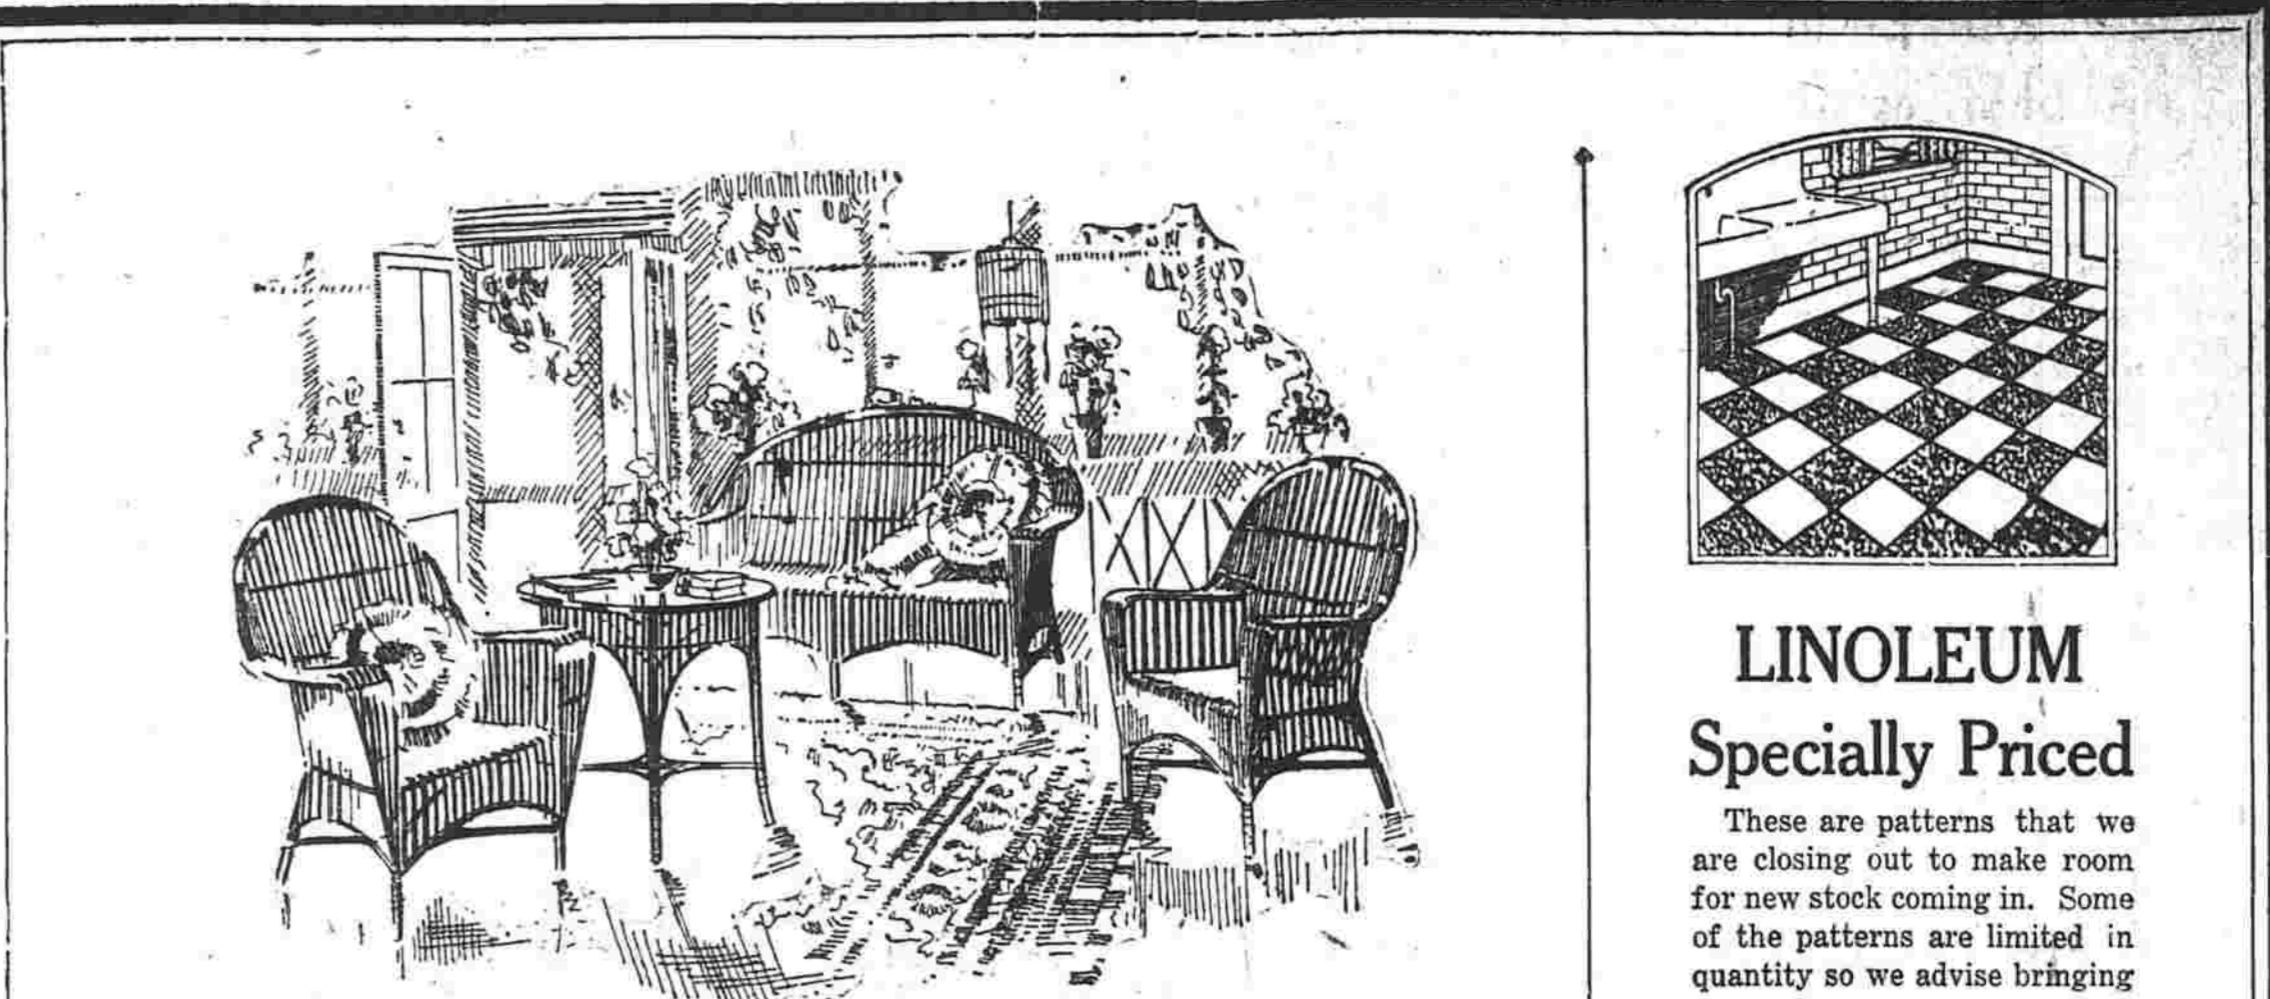

Every single soul in that town who worked for wages quit—down to the last hired girl. They didn't all want to, by any means, but to be caught working for anybody was only about one and one-half second preliminary to being unceremoniously bumped off.

"The official death list was something over 800 and they only counted the ones who were formally brought in and laid out in the morgue."

"The number of chaparones was swelled to present size immediately after a party of cynical veterans, interested in the return of light wines and beer, had decorated the symbol with pennants of mourner's crepe."

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 14.—Tourists dropping in on Miss Liberty this summer at her station in New York harbor may be impressed by the number of her chaparones.

One hundred military police look after the protection of the immortal young lady who wields her never-dying light over New York harbor.

It may be just coincidence, but the number of chaparones was swelled to present size immediately after a party of cynical veterans, interested in the return of light wines and beer, had decorated the symbol with pennants of mourner's crepe.

This, of course, will materially increase Miss Liberty's cost of upkeep.

The floodlights which come from her beacon at night time cost the government about $500 a month. There are 252 of them in her torch.

James Clark Ross came into port after a nine month cruise in the Antarctic. Her hold stowed with 39,000 barrels of whole oil representing 531 blue whales.

LEWIS HIGH OF SOUTHTON HERE TO OPPOSE HIGH SCHOOL

Winners of Hartford County Y. M. C. A. Meet to Find Strong Opposition from S. M. H. S. Cinder Path Stars.

Tomorrow afternoon the Lewis High school track team of Southton will oppose the S. M. H. S. track team at the West Side athletic grounds. The meet is scheduled to begin at two o'clock, daylight saving time.

The Lewis High squad will be a hard nut for the local athletes to crack. The Lewis team came to Manchester last week and cleaned up in the "Y" meet. Of course the opposition presented by Manchester was rather weak, but the Southton team showed that it had the real stuff. It was a well balanced and strong team throughout, and will give the local High school a hard run. The Manchester tracksters last Monday cleaned up the Chapman Tech team with comparative ease, and showed that they are out for business. Lewis will know that it has had a tough battle when the last event is finished. "Pete" Wigren, local High school track coach, refuses to make any prediction as to how the locals will show up against the Manchester boys to put up a good fight, at any rate.

The following is a list of the events in their order, and the probable entries from both schools:

100 yard dash: Manchester—Krause, Sheridan, Hall, Bogzini; Southton team.

He realizes that the locals will be up against one of the very best High school track squads in the state. He expects the and Mantelli, Lewis—Weaver, DePaule, Ambler.

Shot Put: Manchester—Mantelli, Hickling, Kittel, LaCoss, Lewis—Weaver, Arcult, Wiese.

440 yard run: Manchester—Bray, Chambers, Driggs, Lewis—Kins, Nolan, McGurn.

High jump: Manchester—Madden, Krause, Hall, Lewis—Kilbourne, Ambler, DePaule.

Discus: Manchester—LaCoss, Kittel, Haraburda, Mantelli, Allen, Madden, Lewis—Arcult, Wiese.

Mile run: Manchester—Hentschel, Packard, Haraburda, Shannon, Tomlinson, Joe McCluskey, Lewis—Maneri, Walts, Schmidt.

220 yard dash: Manchester—Krause, Sheridan, Driggs, Gozini, Lewis—Kins, Kilbourne, Smith, Javelin: Manchester—Allen, Madden, Mantelli, Hall, Hentschel, Lewis—Arcult, Wiese.

880 yard run (half mile): Manchester—Bray, Chambers, Cervini, Lewis—McGurn, Schmidt, Maneri.

Broad jump: Manchester—Krause, Hall, Mantelli, Chambers, Lewis—Kilbourne, Ambler.

CHENEY BROTHERS OPEN SEASON AGAINST STRONG MERIDEN CLUB

Large Crowd Expected to Turn Out for Opening Game at Stadium—Georgetti to Pitch for Manchester.

Meriden

Dowd, cf ..... O'Neill
Lamprecht, c ..... Hackbarth
Georgetti, p ..... P. French

"Queer" Georgetti, mainstay of Cheney Brothers pitching staff, will hurl the opening game for his club against the International Silver Company of Meriden, tomorrow afternoon at the Stadium. Play will commence at three o'clock. Jack Dwyer will call the balls and strikes and decisions at home while Ralph Russell will take care of the bases.

Over 700 complimentary tickets have been issued for the game to members of the Athletic Association and this should assure a large attendance at the game. The reason for this move was to start the season off with a bang and get the mill workers to back their team.

Georgetti, former Son of Italy pitcher, should give the visitors plenty of opposition. He has a fine assortment of curves that have paved the way for numerous victories.

He will have Eddie Lamprecht on the receiving end thus assuring him of the strong support from that area. Lewis may also be drafted into service behind the plate for part of the game.

The Meriden Insileos are coming here with a clean slate. They have played two games and have won both. The Middletown Recreation team fell a 6 to 4 victim and the Safety Box Company, of New Haven, was defeated 7 to 3. The veteran Harry French will work in the box for Meriden and this means Manchester will have its hands full attempting to bang out base hits. He is credited with both of Meriden's victories. Against the New Haven team he relieved Bogos in the fifth inning with the bases full and the score tied but pulled out of the hole.

In Dahlke, the visitors have a hard hitting first baseman. In the New Haven game, Dahlke slammed out three hits in four attempts. Two were extra base blows.

Hanna Captain
Clarry Hanna has been named captain of the silk mill team and he will lead his charges against the Insileos tomorrow. Hanna will guard the dizzy sack, his favorite corner.

Much is expected of Stratton, White, Brennan, Cole and Dowd in tomorrow's game. All are veterans of the game and should prove the backbone of the mill team this season. On their shoulders will lie the majority of Manchester's chances of victory tomorrow.

BURKHARDT SIGNED BY SONS OF ITALY

Everything seems to be all set for the opening game of the Sons of Italy against the Colored Stars of Hartford at the West Side Sunday afternoon. On the eve of the game it was announced today that Big Jack Burkhardt had been signed up by the Sons and would probably start on the mound in this game. St. John has been definitely signed by this team for the twilight schedule, it was also announced.

The Sons announce a series with the Groton town team to begin there on May 23. The second game in this series will be played

S. M. H. S. BASEBALL TEAM PLAYS WINDHAM TOMORROW

Locals Go to Thread City to Play Rivals — Gudaitis Slated to Do Mound Duty.

Coach Breckenridge's S. M. H. S. baseball team will travel to Windham tomorrow afternoon to play the local high school nine of that city. It will not be a league game but, nevertheless, Manchester is anxious to win as Williamant is one of the local's greatest rivals.

It was announced last night that Gudaitis will pitch for Manchester. The ace of the local pitching staff, Boyce, is down in his studies and will not be able to play until he gets back into good standing. The length of time Boyce is off the team will depend entirely on himself. It is possible to make up his marks in two weeks' time.

The loss of Boyce comes at a critical time in the schedule of the local team, however, as in addition to Saturday's game, three more will be played next week. Two of these will be league encounters.

Monday the locals go to East Hartford. Wednesday Manchester plays at Bristol and Saturday Windham plays here.

State's Prison Ball Team Meets Saints Tomorrow Afternoon in Wethersfield

Boyce Slated for Mound Duty—Locals Leave Center at 12.45—Opening Game for Prisoners.

Extra! Extra!
The St. Mary's baseball team has been sentenced to jail. The judge is Manager Wilfred Bulla. The length of the incarceration is to be one afternoon.

In other words Manager Bulla's charges are booked to furnish the opposition for the States Prison baseball nine at Wethersfield tomorrow afternoon. It will be the opening game for the prison team. For the Saints, it will be the second.

Bobby Boyce is slated to toe the rubber for Manchester. His batterymate will be "Pat" Carlson. It will be Boyce's first appearance on the mound this season. Soelet pitched the opening game for the Saints at Rockville last Sunday. He was defeated 8-4 but poor support was largely responsible for the setback.

As usual, of course, the lineup of the prisoners will not be revealed as this is against the rules of the prison. The names of the prison players will simply be "catcher, pitcher, first baseman, etc." The Wethersfield prison has always put a fast team on the field and this year's should prove no exception.

The local team will make the trip by auto. They will leave the Center at 12:45 sharp.

Manchester will take the field with the following lineup according to Manager Bulla: Carlson, c.; Boyce, p.; MacDonald, lf.; Ferguson, 2b.; Thornton, ss.; Partons, 3b.; Stevenson, lf.; St. John or Dowd, cf., and Seelert, rf.

MANCHESTER HANDS NEW BRITAIN NINE 19-0 WHITEWASHING

Local Trade School Has No Trouble in Swamping Riv- als on Latter's Diamond Yesterday.

New Britain Trade school, one of Manchester's greatest rivals, fell an overwhelming prey to the local Mechanics yesterday afternoon on its own diamond 19 to 0. It was the sixth consecutive victory for Manchester in as many games played. The next opponent will be Windham High on May 22.

Sammy Thurs was on the mound yesterday and whiffed eleven batters. He failed to walk a single batter. Only six hits were registered at his expense.

The hitting of Rudy Pospisil was a feature. Rudy slugged out four hits in six trips to the plate. Thurs was only one behind him.

Manchester started strong, scoring two runs in the opener and three in the second. The Silk City boys were not satisfied, however, and proceeded to put the game on ice in the third frame with eleven runs. The summary:

YALE TRIP IS CANCELLED; LOCALS MEET ST. THOMAS

Principal Quimby Calls Off
Tourney Participation on Account of Expense Required to Make Trip.

Manager Gotberg of the South
Manchester High school tennis team announced today that the trip to the Yale tournament scheduled for tomorrow afternoon had been cancelled and that the local team will play against St. Thomas Friday in Hartford instead.

The reason given out for the late cancellation of the Yale trip was that Principal Quimby had decided it inadvisable to make the trip. Manager Gotberg said Principal Quimby told him that in view of the several long road trips on the tennis team's state, he did not think it was advisable to carry out the previous plans.

In meeting the St. Thomas team
Manchester will buck up against a top notch opponent. With the local team will be "Muck" Mc-Cann, former S. M. H. S. star.
Others on the St. Thomas team will be Joyce, Powers and Dunn.
Manchester will use Gotberg,
Boyle, Cole and Frank McCann, a cousin of "Muck" McCann.

BRIDGEPORT CITY OFFICIALS INJURED City Attorney and Assistant Hurt in Wreck on Way to Hartford Hearing.

New Haven, May 14.—Alexander
Delaney, city attorney of Bridgeport, is in the X-ray department of New Haven hospital this afternoon after being injured in an automobile accident on Allingtown Hill.
Milford turnpike. Henry Greenstein, his assistant, is in the same hospital suffering from a sprained ankle and contusions.

The two officials were on their way to Hartford to represent the city in the case of the Bridgeport Hydraulic Co., which is seeking higher rates. Their machine skid-ded on Allingtown Hill and struck a pole.

According to hospital authorities, Mr. Delaney's exact condition will not be known for some hours.
Mr. Greenstein, they say, is not seriously hurt.

The hearing at Hartford was called off when news of the accident was telephoned to that city.

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HARRY MORTON, wealthy, handsome, has maintained for 15 years a home in Rochester. Gossips never have learned anything about his past.

He also maintains an expensive apartment in New York, which he visits almost weekly. His 19-year-old adopted daughter, AUDREY, is madly in love with him. So is NONA, a New York girl, connected with the stage.

He tells Audrey he never can marry her. To divert her attention, he hires a young secretary, JOHN PARISH. She detects his purpose. Then he sends for NONA to come to Rochester, having first sent her five thousand dollars with which to buy a piece of jewelry. She comes. MORTON tells Audrey that he has made over to her, as his adopted child, half of all his wealth. Audrey learns of NONA's visit, and meets her. MORTON and NONA contrive to leave Audrey alone in NONA's hotel room. She finds they have gone out together. MORTON leaves NONA at the hotel elevator that night, but does not return home. He has taken NONA to the theater, and about the city, where his friends could see them. Audrey waits up all night for him, finally falling asleep in her chair. At seven o'clock she finds he has not returned home. Kneeling beside his bed, she cries, "She's got him!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

Nona was on her knees beside the girl in an instant. "Does it hurt you, too?" she cried. "Don't cry, little girl. I've cried, too; it doesn't do any good."

CHAPTER XIV
MORTON returned home, shortly after eight o'clock. Audrey was sitting on a stool in the hall way, her head leaning against the wall, and her hands clasped in her lap.

He took quick note of the tired circles about her eyes, and of her bloodless face, but he made no comment.

"Hello, dear," he said, stooping over and kissing her.

She looked up at him, her eyes wide and lusterless, and made an attempt to speak. Her throat refused to function, and she emitted only a little questioning sound.

MORTON talked on, rapidly. "Got shaved by a barber, who squirted violet water on me," he said, handing his coat and stick to the maid. "I think he must have put some stickum on my hair, too."

Walking up and down, he rubbed his hands together briskly. "Just about enough time to get a bath change my linen, and go back down town."

"The girl had continued to stare at him, her face drawn. At last she managed to speak.

"Nona?" she said, hardly above a whisper.

MORTON winced as he caught the agony in her voice, but he kept his tone cheerful and impersonal.

"I suppose NONA will be wondering what has become of us," he said. "We'd better be getting downtown as soon as we can."

She slowly arose to her feet, and moved toward him. Her step was that of one who has been very ill. She placed her hands on his shoulders, and looked questioningly into his eyes.

There was something wrong with the smile on his face; it seemed to be fixed there, almost against his will. He made a little gesture as if to take his girl in his arms. Then his hands dropped again.

"You're trying to fool me!" she said, standing motionless.

"Fool you?" he inquired. His voice was artificially alert. Like his smile, its brightness was unreal.

"You've never tried to fool me before."

"Did you—were you—oh, daddy, daddy, daddy!" Her voice trailed off, and she sank fainting to the floor.

It was a different MORTON who stooped, picked her up, and ran with her to the kitchen. To the house maid who ran after him panic-stricken, he gave abrupt orders:

"Turn on the ice-water faucet. Fill that glass. When the water comes cool enough throw a glassful in her face."

Audrey's dress was open at the throat, but he pulled it wider. "Damn!" he swore, half aloud. "Oh you meany brute! What in God's name have I done! Oh child! Child! Child!"

He was rubbing her hands and wrists, and from time to time wiping her eyes, tenderly, where the water that the maid had thrown remained in the girl's eyes.

When Audrey began to stir, he drew her protectively into his lap, with his arm wrapped around her face.

"I've got to go on with the thing. I've got to," he groaned. "But God forgive me! Forgive me, dearest little child!"

Audrey had refused to go to bed after she finally came out of her faint. She told MORTON, listlessly, that she wanted to go downtown with him. While her maid was helping her to dress, MORTON hurriedly changed his own clothes. His linen had been crinkled from use the day before, and there was a little streak of soil upon his collar.

Audrey ate a few mouthfuls of breakfast, half-heartedly. MORTON himself scarcely was able to eat. He kept his eyes fixed anxiously upon the girl, and his spirits rose as she moved more vigorously and certainly. He was very tender with her as he took her arm, when they left the house, and helped her down the steps, and out to the waiting automobile.

He held her hand and patted it, absently, from time to time, as they rode to his office. "I'll be in here only a few moments," he said. "Do you want to wait?"

Audrey responded, almost without interest: "Is NONA up there?" He quickly shook his head.

"I'll wait down here in the car," she told him.

He hurried inside, up the elevator, and into his office. Without taking off his coat and hat, he called NONA's name, and asked for her room. She answered sleepily.

"I'm coming over there with Audrey," he said. "NONA, the poor child is ghastly tired, and in deep trouble."

"I'm sorry, HARRY," said NONA. "Truly, I'm dreadfully sorry. Is there anything I can do?"

"Nothing now," MORTON told her, "except I want you to be kind to her."

put his arm about her. "Are you sick, dear?" he gasped.

She did not answer him, but kept her hand on NONA's arm.

"Nona, I've got to ask you," she went on. "Where were you—were you and he together last night?"

Her voice was imploring, as if it were raised in prayer.

NONA moved back. "Together?" Her astonishment was not to be doubted. "He left me at the elevator at eleven o'clock! He said he couldn't come upstairs, because everybody would know."

Audrey looked at MORTON, and saw chagrined corroboration in his eyes. "Oh!"

It was a sigh of thanksgiving.

NONA and MORTON looked at one another, and then back at the girl. Some new force had come into Audrey; new life and strength. Color flooded into her pale cheeks, and with a little restless gesture, she moved her head away from MORTON's arms.

"Forgive me!" she said to him. "I thought—something!"

NONA took the girl's hands, and lifted them, clasping them closely. Her dark eyes were kind, and her lips were curved into a smile that was almost tender.

"You really and truly love him, too, don't you?" she said. "We both love him—what's going to happen to us all?"

She dropped Audrey's hands, and turned to MORTON. Emitting a little mirthless laugh, she touched him on the shoulder with her forehead.

"Nona, she and I had MORTON here—heaven knows how many others—all after you! Poor man!"

It was not until they were on the train that night, on the way to New York, that Audrey first noticed the brilliant diamond and platinum pin that was on NONA's breast. She leaned over and touched it.

"That's beautiful," she said.

NONA made silent inquiry of MORTON if she should reply.

"He gave it to me—made me a present of it only two or three days ago," NONA said.

MORTON arose abruptly, and left the Pullman drawing room in which they were waiting, and snatched her hand away from the pin, as if it had stung her.

"Why—why did he do that?" she asked.

"Lured if I know," NONA said, comfortably. "He just sent a young fellow over with five thousand dollars, and told me to buy something pretty. And I did. Do you like it?"

MORTON did not answer, but looked down at the large aquamarine ring that adorned her own right hand. "I don't understand," she said, at last. "I guess I don't understand anything. My whole life seems to have turned into a jumble. A week ago I was happy—maybe the happiest girl in the whole world. Now I'm only miserable." Her lips quivered, and a big tear stole down her cheek.

NONA put her hand on the girl's knee. "Don't cry, child," she advised.

"Don't you ever cry?" Audrey asked her, dabbing at her eyes with her little handkerchief.

"Lord, yes," said NONA. "I've cried a lot, really. A week ago I was happy—maybe the happiest girl in the whole world. Now I'm only miserable." Her lips quivered, and a big tear stole down her cheek.

All Workers Must Play

This is the second of a series of four articles on vacations. Tomorrow—Tips on Camping.

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING, Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service.

A vacation is one of the most important of our social institutions. In a world that is so arranged that most of us are compelled to work during the greater portion of the year a change, a rest, a vacation, if properly taken makes the work possible.

Every man and woman who works is entitled to a vacation. Every woman engaged in maintaining a home is entitled to a vacation.

If you can possibly afford it, you owe it to yourself and to those with whom you are associated in your homes or in your business of some kind to get away from home and business for a change of surroundings, for a few weeks during the summer.

Build Up Vigor. It is not necessary for you to go long distances but it is necessary that you get out into the open. A vacation should be a time set aside for the building up of that reserve of health and bodily vigor necessary to carry you through the long periods of work which must follow before the next vacation season arrives.

Perhaps instead of spending your vacation at a resort you are planning to camp out this summer. If so, you should familiarize yourself with the health requirements of a good camping site.

You should know that the top of a low ridge, the summit of a knoll with gently sloping sides, or on the high bank of a river in the absence of mosquitoes is the best camp site. If it is possible, you should select a place where the soil is sand or gravel.

Such soil assures adequate drainage. You should know that all underbrush about a camp should be cleared away for such underbrush frequently shelters mosquitoes.

If you are planning to spend some time on one camp site or in a permanent camp you should be sure that the camp is provided with wooden flooring raised a few inches above the earth. Due care should be given to see that a pure water supply is available. Unless you know that the water is pure it is best to take no chances and boil all water used for drinking purposes.

Sunburn. Be careful about sunburn. Do not expose your skin too long at one time to the intense rays of the sun. Don't be afraid of fresh air and sunshine, but acquire your summer tan gradually. Don't try to crowd a three months' tan into 24 hours.

Sunlight is one of nature's most powerful medicines. You may be more sensitive to the effects of sunburn than are some other people. Individuals differ as to the amount of sunlight which they can endure without injury.

Eye strain frequently results from direct exposure to sunlight for a long period of time. Disturbances of the circulatory and nervous systems may also be brought about by long exposure. Sun bathing, like water baths, are beneficial provided you do not remain in them too long.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL OF TODAY WORKING OUT THE CASE.

Involuntarily I drew a long sigh. I was beginning to feel very, very tired. Mamie saw this and said to Jim and Jerry: "Now you two men get out of here. Do you know it is after one o'clock? It is time you are going home, and certainly Judy has had enough excitement for one day."

With this she fairly pushed them out of the door, handed their coats and hats to them in the hall and banging the outside door after them came back to me.

"You said something, Mamie, when you remarked that I have had enough excitement for one day," I told her. "No wonder girls leave home. I used to think that when taking an automobile ride if we drew up to the side of the road and the man with me began a petting party it was most exciting and I felt I was living the life as I walked home. But look what has happened to me here."

"This morning I got my money back and that wonderful bag from Jerry. Then I saw Mr. Hathaway. Senior, himself and told him a few things and he certainly is going to give the Beaux Arts restaurant a shaking up."

"He probably has done it already," remarked Mamie, "and that is why you were nearly choked to death. Those things over there are not going to give up their soft berth without a struggle. They are not going to let a little girl like you stand in the way."

"I expect you may be right at that," I told Mamie. "For as I left Mr. Hathaway's office this morning I ran into Sagers at the elevator, and if I look could kill or he hadn't been afraid of being found out I probably would have been choked before I got to the park bench."

"But surely, Mamie, you don't think that the manager of the Beaux Arts restaurant would stoop to such a thing as robbing and choking a defenseless girl?"

"No, I don't think Sellers would do it himself. But he might just pass the word along to one of those henchmen of his and he would not feel badly if you turned up missing some day."

"Well, whether it was Sellers or somebody else, I got mine. And Mamie, I got a job right off the bat at Morton's Department Store. It was Robinson himself that gave it to me. I am beginning to think I am some little old vamp."

I stopped. I felt myself blushing.

"And then—?" prodded Mamie.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

The Maple Seed Is a Flying Machine BY ARTHUR N. PACK

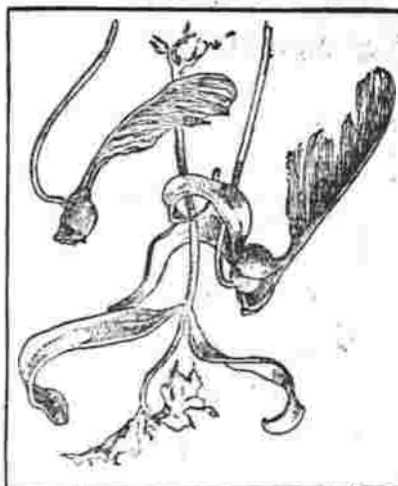

President, The American Nature Association

We have all seen the winged seeds of the maple usually called keys. In such seeds the wings serve as sails which catch the wind and cause them to be carried some distance from the mother tree, when without these, they would merely fall directly to the ground. In the maple two seeds are combined and a very efficient flying machine results.

These seeds ripen in early summer, and some day when the wind is blowing they become loosened from the tree and sail away. They fly with a whirling motion and if the tree be tall and the wind strong, they may travel a hundred or two hundred feet before they strike the ground. There they begin to decay, the two seeds are separated, and perhaps are trampled into the ground, by animal.

Before long the moist earth awakens the latent life in the tiny seed. It bursts its bonds and sends a tiny root into the ground. At the same time, two long slim leaves push out.

Between them springs the central stalk which is to form the trunk of the great maple, and within a few days two tiny reddish leaves shaped exactly like the mature leaves of the parent tree may be seen. Now the young maples still only an inch or two in height, but for the first time bearing the suggestion of a tree, may carpet the ground.

A Very Young Maple

A given tree may produce thousands of the flying seeds, and these, hundreds may fall on good ground and sprout. Yet of all these it may be that only one will be found for only a few trees. Yet such is the lavishness of Nature, that she is willing to send forth myriads of the flying seeds, in order to make sure of producing at least one tree to take the place of the parent.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe. Fletcher's Castoria safely relieves

The WOMAN'S DAY

Women and Investment

"Women have a great horror of a dependent old age than have men," says someone, which may explain why, more than 50 per cent of lots sold on the land contract plan nowadays are to women. Hardly a business woman over 30 exists but who has dabbled in the gentle art of real estate. She explains "it's the only way to work towards an income. I can't do it with savings from salary." And it works! It is no exaggeration to say that it's almost impossible to lose in real estate and it's the surest route to economically safe middle-age.

How'd Ya Do It? "How did you do it? How did you know what to buy?" I asked a $2,000-a-year woman friend the other day who had turned over 2000 extra dollars last year by proper buying. "I read books," she told me. Here's her list: "Clay's 'Sound Investing,' Escher's 'Practical Investing,' Henry's 'How to Invest Money,' Meade's 'The Careful Investor.' LOCAL SOCCER
TEAM PLAYING THISTLES NEXT

To Replay Game in Which Thistles Used Ineligible Men Sunday.

After an idleness of several weeks, the Manchester soccer eleven will swing into action again Sunday afternoon at the Charter Oak Park field in Hartford. The game will start at 3:30 and James Miller, of New Haven, will referee.

This game is in the Protective Cup Competition and is a replay of a game staged a month ago when the Thistles used two ineligible players. Manchester protested the game and as a result the game was ordered replayed.

With the present weather conditions continuing, the field will be dry. Manchester is far better on a dry field than on a wet one as was shown in the game with Stamford in which Manchester was badly whipped.

A large crowd of local fans are planning to make the trip to the Capital City Sunday. Manchester will use its best lineup.

TWO UNUSUAL PICTURES AT CIRCLE TOMORROW

"The Dixie Merchant" and Elinor Glyn's "Soulmates" for Week End Program.

"The Dixie Merchant"—one of the most thrilling and at the same time one of the most human stories of the South ever screened, produced by Fox Films under the direction of Frank Borzage comes to the Circle Theater tomorrow and Sunday.

It is a comprehensive story of human nature woven around very real characters whose lives, though simple, are filled with interest. No attempt has been made to gloss over the faults and failings of the people in the story—they are taken just as one would find them in real life.

There is the old "merchant," Jean Paul Flippy, a part played by J. Farrell MacDonald, J. P., as he is called, is a dreamer with all of his future plans dependent on the success of his horse "Marsellaise" on the track. He mortgages and loses his home to buy the mare and keep her in condition, but even then he is confident that "Something will turn up"—and it does. We'll see the picture.

The companion feature to "The Dixie Merchant" will be Jack Conway's "Soul Mates" written by Elinor Glyn with Allen Finkle. There never was a real love story until "Soul Mates" was filmed. "Soul Mates" has a greater love story than "Three Weeks", is more romantic than "His House" and is a better comedy than "Man and Maid". Today the Circle presents for the last showing Allee Joyce in "Headlines" and Dolores Costello in "Bride of The Storm."

POLICE COURT

Jacob Lutz of Trotter street pleaded guilty this morning before Judge Johnson in the Manchester police court for driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was placed under arrest by Officer Charles Ubert last evening. Several witnesses testified that Lutz was intoxicated and unfit to drive a car. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed and a suspended jail sentence of ten days.

Thomas McCarthy who was with Lutz was before the court on an intoxication charge and pleaded guilty. It was his seventh visit to the police station. He was given a jail sentence of ten days.

MANCHESTER GRANGE CELEBRATES FORTY-FIRST ANNIVERSARY.

More than a hundred local Grangers attended the forty-first anniversary celebration of Manchester Grange P. of H. in Tinker hall Wednesday evening. Ten other Granges were represented among the guests, five past masters and two of the charter members were present, one now being a member of East Hartford Grange and the other, Frank Buckland, brother of the late W. L. Buckland.

A short history of Manchester Grange was read by the secretary, Mrs. Laura Loomis, vocal solos were given by Garfield Kenney, piano solos by Dorothy Hanson and a recitation by Irene Powers.

Worthy overseer of the Connecticut state Grange, Louis Tolles of Southington, gave the principal address. Mr. Tolles also favored with a whistling solo. Others who made impromptu remarks were State Lecturer Lenny Whitan and Assistant Steward Charles Adams, both of Groton, and the past masters present.

The gavel presented by Mrs. Jennie Thompson, a member who is still in St. Petersburg, was used for the first time last night. A social with light refreshments followed the program.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

While Mister Dusty was unfolding his shadows for the Whiffet to look over, Nick said, "What does your sign say 'Ingredients' for, Mister Dusty?" "What are ingredients?"

"I don't know," said the fairyman. "I really haven't the slightest idea. I've been waiting and waiting for someone to bring in a dictionary so I could find out."

"But why do you have it on your sign then?" asked Nancy.

"Because when people come along and see such a long, queer word like that," said Mister Dusty, "they get so curious about it. Then when they get inside they look around and buy something. It's good business. But here are the shadows. Will any of them do?"

"I don't know. I haven't tried them on yet," said the Whiffet.

"But I'm pretty sure mine isn't here. My shadow was a beautiful shadow with a big necktie and pockets and a quill in its cap. Why this one is nothing but ears. It would never do."

"I'm afraid not," said the fairyman, folding it up and laying it back on the shelf. "I bought it from the donkey."

"And this one would never do, either," said the Whiffet. "It's too long. I could wrap it around me three times."

"I'm afraid so," said Mister Dusty, folding the shadow up and laying it on top of the other. "I bought it from the crocodile."

"This one is like a balloon," said the Whiffet. "I should always be tripping on it."

"Right you are," said Mister Dusty hastily, folding it up and laying it on the shelf with the others. "I bought that one from the elephant for five pounds of peanuts."

"Oh, dear!" said the Whiffet. "I don't believe you have anything that would do, Mister Dusty. I'm afraid we shall have to be going."

But just then Nick remembered that they had promised Jack-in-the-Pulpit to look for a shadow for him.

"What is he like?" asked the fairyman, getting his bundle of shadows down again.

"He is sort of like my little finger," said Nick holding it up.

"Then I have the very thing!" exclaimed Mister Dusty, and taking a big pair of scissors he went out to a sunny patch and called Nick.

"Hold up your little finger," he said.

So Nick held up his little finger so that it cast a shadow on the ground. Then Mister Dusty carefully cut it around with his scissors and lifted it up and handed it to him.

"You may send this back to Jack-in-the-Pulpit with my compliments," said he. "And tell him to keep on sending me customers. There won't be any charge. It's a present."

"Oh, dear!" said the little ragged Whiffet. "I'm afraid I'll never find my shadow. Couldn't you make me one, too, with your scissors?"

"No," said Mister Dusty. "No one can have two shadows in the world. You'll have to keep on hunting."

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Most of the chorus girls use the safety razor password: "Gillette me have that Gem?"

Percy:—"I have a flat, Min." Minerva:—"But, Percy, we must ask Dad first."

"Come out from among them and be ye separate,"—stop trying to define a hick town.

SOME OLD ONES
"Yassuh, Boss, dat's de best stuff you ever—"
"Expenses have been mighty heavy this month, so you'd better—"
"If you don't stop, I'll—"
"This is the last time I'm ever—"
"Good-night, I've never enjoyed—"
"Well, being as how it's you—"
"That's absolutely final!"
"No."

There's a lotta men here that are no better than the police and newspapers fake them be.

The man who loves his pay envelope more than his work has little chance for success.

ABOUT FOOD
The orator eats tongue, we hear;
The Sultan, turkey lunch.
The and-taker drinks his beer;
The prize fighter his punch;
The acrobats spring water drink;
The toastmaster, eats toast;
Surveyors eat their stakes, we think,
And Editors, a roast.
Shoemakers have a fillet of sole;
The printer, pi and sweets;
The hungry actor eats his role;
While policemen munch their beats.

Screen stars have been carefully left out of the Society Blue Book. Well, with their salaries, they have nothing to be blue about.

It's hard to say just what can be going on down in Texas, but from the way the wind blows it must be hot stuff.

With the return of short skirts the fatted calf is very much in evidence again.

She was only a coal dealer's daughter but holy smoke, where has she been!

The only valuable thing about time is the way you use it.

This is the season when the man who is too darn lazy to move, is saved the trouble of looking for a new home.

After all, doing things right is half as much trouble and twice as much fun.

It's pretty hard to keep your anger bottled up sometimes, when there are so many people hanging around with corkscrews.

The frame work of the bed, and the mattress arrived safe and sound—but the most important part was missing. Then a wagon drove into the driveway and, after looking out the window, little Mary shouted, "Mother, spring has come."

The alarm clock started in to ring. Then suddenly it ceased. It fell into the bathtub, and the thing was ringing wet.

Dag's radio store was on the verge of failure so the creditors sent a credit man to try to put the store on a paying basis. Mr. Dag was at home, sick, so a clerk showed the expert through the store. Attached to a powerful radio set, was the above tag.

"What's this?" the credit man asked. "The cost tag in code, he was told. 'All I know about it is that 'Y' stands for '4.' 'That's all right,' said the credit man, 'I'll figure it out myself.' And he did.

Last puzzle answer.
On the six marbles were painted the following letters, "S C R E A M." In this order they form the word "Scream" which means a loud yell. Cut off its head and it is "cream," something good to drink. Cut off its neck also, and it is "ream," a quantity of paper. Cut off two-thirds of it and it is "am," one of the most common verbs. Rearrange five of its letters and it is "scare," meaning to frighten.

GUARANTORS MEET FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Director Meets Local Backers and Explains How His Organization Operates.

Burt P. McKinnis, circuit director of the Swarthmore Chautauqua, met the Chautauqua guarantors at the School Street Recreation building last evening.

C. Denison Talcott, chairman of the guarantors committee, presided and presented Mr. McKinnis, who gave a most interesting and instructive talk on the aims and purposes, and more particularly, the accomplishments of the Chautauqua.

Paul M. Pearson, president of the Swarthmore Chautauqua, "Your letter affords me an opportunity to renew the assurance of my high esteem of this splendid movement which has done so much for the intellectual and spiritual advancement of the country."

Chairman Talcott will shortly announce the appointment of an executive committee to handle the details of the final organization.

The fifty guarantors are this year relieved of the necessity of ticket selling and incidentally of the probability of any deficit through the enrollment of fifty high and grammar school girls who will sell the tickets in competition for a prize consisting of a week's trip to Philadelphia at the time of the Sesqui-Centennial celebration and the Swarthmore convention which comes during Labor Day week, September 5 to 11 inclusive.

Chautauqua week in Manchester will be from Tuesday afternoon, July 27th to Monday evening, August 2nd.

300 SIR KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ON PARADE

formed their line on the lawn in front of the church and marched in, taking seats in the body of the auditorium which had been reserved for them. The galleries and side pews were well filled with an audience composed principally of ladies.

Chorus Sings
A male chorus composed of about twenty Masonic members of the Manchester Choral club, under the direction of Organist Archibald Sessions, sang two selections, "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones."

The pastor, Rev. Joseph Cooper on whose invitation the visitation of Washington Commandery was made, warmly greeted the visitors and preached an interesting, instructive and scholarly sermon. He took his text from a portion of Revelations III, 12, "The Pillars of the Temple" and was followed with close attention by his large audience.

Following the service the Knights Templar, headed by the band, marched to the Center where the out of town members boarded special trolleys for Hartford.

ONLY SILENCE COMES OUT OF THE ARCTIC

aroused and many bets were being made on whether the ship would arrive, and on the time. While in some quarters belief was expressed today that the Norge might have made a landing somewhere between Point Barrow and Nome, this was discredited by those who know Captain Amundsen, they declared that there is no "unknown" land in that area and that he would not risk a landing without proper facilities when so close to Nome where he would be assured every assistance.

It is frankly admitted that if the Norge was over Alaskan territory when her radio signals were heard Wednesday night, she should have reached here, barring the possibility that she might have lost her course and have been carried by, either to the south or westward, in the heavy weather. This, however, would not explain the failure of the most powerful radio stations in Alaska to get in touch with her.

Meanwhile excitement runs high. The city is decorated in honor of Amundsen's coming and his welcome will be warm no matter how long delayed.

NO NEWS AT CORDOVA

Navy Radio Stations Without Word from Dirigible.

Cordova, Alaska, May 14.—No further direct news had been picked up early today by United States naval radio stations in the far north.

St. Paul Island station in the Pribilof, which first heard the Norge, has picked up nothing additional despite the fact that it has been calling the dirigible almost continually.

The United States naval radio compass station located at Hinchinbrook, Alaska, intercepted some information from an unknown source which indicated that the Norge had been sighted over Point Barrow at 3 o'clock on the morning of the thirteenth and reported all well. This report, however, has not been verified by other sources.

Pilsudski Reported Wounded
Paris, May 14.—General Pilsudski has been slightly wounded in the fighting in Warsaw, according to messages received here from German sources.

The last advances to the Polish legation were to the effect that negotiations were in progress between General Pilsudski and the government to prevent civil war.

IMPERSONATOR IS STATE'S FEATURE

Julia Curtiss Gets Big Hand on Week End Bill—Fine Feature Film.

(By Member Herald Staff)

An unusually clever girl graces the State theatre stage for the week-end program which opened last night. She is billed simply as Julia Curtiss. She calls herself "The Singing Mimic." Miss Curtiss is the cleverest impersonator of the State's Select Vaudeville show.

She has brought to Manchester, she gives her impression of famous singers and actors in the role of animals. She has a fine voice, a pleasing personality and she surely can impersonate.

The Martelles are next in importance on the vaudeville bill. Both fellows in this act are clever cyclists. They do a waltz number on bicycle wheels that is certainly worth seeing.

Muriel Cole is a clever dancer and a snappy little actress, but her jazz band outfit to try to pick up some of her pep. Miss Cole's rapid fire dancing, however, makes up for the lack of life in the band.

Arthur Archer and Grace Beldford put on a perfectly silly, but nevertheless very funny act. Archer admits he is a nut, and doesn't attempt to cover it up in any way whatever. But Miss Beldford is a cute little lady with a big voice.

She sings well, and her presence on the stage rather excuses her partner's foolishness.

Kellen and O'Dar presented a good sketch of songs and musical numbers, doing especially well with piano accordions. A short drama will be inserted in tonight's bill.

Leatrice Joy is seen in pictures again in her latest Cecil B. De Mille feature "The Wedding Song." Miss Joy's return to the screen is welcome and she couldn't play in a finer picture than this one at the State. It has Robert Ames, former Hartford boy, in the lead opposite Miss Joy and is a thrilling story of pearl diving and a crooked girl who sees the right path is the path of true love.

There are several film features in junction with the program. The comedy is a Lloyd Hamilton special. There is a Pathe News and a Charleston film in conjunction.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF STATE NEXT WEEK

Today the State Theater announces that it will celebrate its First Anniversary next week. Because the State theater has grown to be such an important factor in the commercial life of Manchester the Manchester merchants are joining the State in celebrating and are to call next week "State Theater Anniversary and Community Week."

Practically every store on Main street in the South End is decorated today. In the middle of today's Herald will be found a full two page announcement of the anniversary and announcements by several Main street merchants.

Special programs will be presented at the State theater all next week, and many of the merchants are holding special sales in connection.

The Herald is presenting Manager Jack Sansot of the State theater with several hundred extra copies of today's issue which will be sent to Rockville, Hebron, Andover, Bolton, Glastonbury, Burnside and East Hartford for distribution tonight.

Further announcements will be found in the Herald tomorrow.

THREE ARTISTS HERE FOR CONCERT SUNDAY

Symphony orchestra in London, England.

A chorus of 40 voices will sing "The Creation." Archibald Sessions is directing the presentation and will preside at the organ. The oratorio will begin promptly at 7:30 Sunday evening, and the public is cordially invited to be present.

Patton needs no introduction to Manchester people. He has sung here numerous times and seems to improve with every appearance. He is scoring triumph after triumph in concert this season, and no doubt, will be at his best on Sunday.

Miss Lillian Gustafson is American born of Swedish parents, both of whom were singers. She graduated with highest honors from the Mlle. Walthier Institute of Musical Art in New York and has been soloist for several symphony orchestra concerts. She was soloist at the Springfield festival in 1924.

Ernest Davis comes here with an enviable reputation. Besides his several appearances in London he has sung for the New York Symphony orchestra and was with the Boston Grand Opera Company several seasons. He sings leading tenor roles in standard operatic repertoire.

This presentation of Haydn's "Creation" will conclude the series of Sunday concerts that has been given at the South Methodist church this season.

BRITISH RAILROADERS CALL OFF THE STRIKE

"to persons who have been guilty of violence or intimidation."

"Under the circumstances it is a satisfactory settlement," said J. H. Thomas. "The main thing was to get the wheels of industry re-started."

Miners Get Proposals.
Premier Baldwin's proposals for settlement of the coal dispute was submitted to the miners' representatives tonight.

The proposals are based largely upon the formula drawn up by Sir Herbert Samuel, and promise temporary restoration to the industry. The proposals suggest that the miners restore wages to the status quo of the scale in effect before the strike was called, that a national Wages Commission be established, and that the report of the Royal Coal Commission be carried out.

TWO BIG FEATURES COMING TO STATE

On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the State theater will offer as the first of its First Anniversary programs a bill bearing two big photoplay features. The first feature is "Brown of Harvard," the best college story ever filmed, a picture that is making an astounding hit throughout the country.

The second feature is "The Blind Goddess" starring Jack Holt, and Esther Ralston. This picture is a feature in itself, and is being heavily advertised in other cities where it is playing.

There will be two shows at the State Sunday night, the first at 6:45 and the second at 8:45. There will be "shows on Monday and Tuesday at 2:15, 7 and 9. This will be one of the biggest motion picture bills ever offered to any theater audience anywhere. It is being done here as a part of the State theater's celebration of its First Anniversary Week.

No more, no less... but Quaker Oats has the flavor

THE difference in breakfast oats is in their flavor. The price mostly is the same.
Millions demand the Quaker brand because of its tasty, wonderful flavor. For flavor is the important point in food.
Some 50 years were spent perfecting that famous Quaker flavor. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.
Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates and vitamins and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.
Get Quick Quaker (cooks in 3 to 5 minutes) or Quaker Oats today at your grocer. See how much finer tomorrow's breakfast will be than today's.

Maybe we aren't glad to see SPINACH, DANDELIONS, and LETTUCE coming in from Chris Peterson—he certainly knows how to market vegetables.
Have you tried a bunch of Asparagus we have been getting from South Windsor? Each bunch is more than full weight, and every inch of the Asparagus is tender and it has a flavor that will make you call for Mr. Skinner's Asparagus.
We have just received a fresh shipment of Iven's Cookies including several new varieties. Animal Cookies in tin boxes at a lower price than bulk Animals, Graham Waters in cans and the most delicious Chocolate coated Grahams covered with a milk chocolate and flavored with honey.
For a salad you can order Hot House Cucumbers, Tomatoes, Lettuce or Celery.
For your meat course, Saturday or Sunday:
Why not a piece of PINEHURST QUALITY CORNED BEEF—served hot or cold, everyone likes it. You can order lean solid pieces—such as Briskets, Thick Ribs, Sirloin Flanks; or if you like a piece with a little fat in it (and, really, a little fat greatly improves Corned Beef), we can give you a nice Rib piece at 12c to 14c a pound. Please let us have your corned beef order tonight so that it can be delivered to you on the early service delivery tomorrow.
Lamb is lean and tender—have you ever tried a Shoulder of Lamb, boned and rolled? Serve it with Mint Jelly, or Brown Gravy and Baked Brown Potatoes.
