Amateurs Do Good Work With "Two Crooks and a Lady," a Harvard Play.

The Town Players which was organized during the past winter under the auspices of the School Street Recreation Center gave their final performance of the season in the auditorium last night.

The production last evening was "Two Crooks and a Lady," by Eugene Piliot, first produced by the "47 Workshop" of Harvard University.

The cast of "Two Crooks and a Lady" included only five of the players. The leading role, that of "Miller, the Hawk," was played by Albert Addy and he did exceptionally good work.

NATIONAL SONGS AT THE LAWN FETE

Music of Many Nations at "White House"—Alluring Spanish, Japanese and Mexican Airs.

Among the entertainment features for the 1926 lawn fete of the Manchester Community Club June 10 and 11, none will be more appealing than the big musical offering, "Songs of the Nations."

All of the national songs will be given in costume, which will of course add to the effect. This part of the program will be under the direction of Mrs. Willo Nae Suprenant.

"Songs of the Nations" will require an unusually large number for its proper presentation, and while all will not be on the operatic stage at the same time, a total of 150 voices will be heard during the course of the program.

"Little Maids of Far Japan" will be enacted by costumed maidens in the quaint attire of the Land of the once powerful Mikado.

Chrysler Quality and Value In a New Low-Priced Six
 The new Chrysler "60"—a lower-priced six—is unqualifiedly guaranteed to give you more value for your money than any other car in its class.
 This supreme value is assured you because in designing the "60" Chrysler Engineers set about creating a car of entirely original design and construction, going the absolute limit to put into it a dollar's worth of value for every dollar of its purchase price.
 In Chrysler "60" there is also the same supreme quality that has been built into the famous Chrysler "70" and the unsurpassable Imperial "60"—a quality that is now a definitely known quantity in motordom.

Reduced $50 to $200—Unchanged Except Price
 At these new sensationally lower prices all features of supremacy of the famous Chrysler "70" which have set it apart as the standard of motoring in its class for more than two years, are made even more outstanding.
 For in the accomplishment of these new lower prices there is absolutely no change in the performance, quality, comfort, style, equipment, design or workmanship in body or chassis which have proved themselves in tens of thousands of miles of driving by thousands upon thousands of owners.
 These sensational reductions today establish Chrysler "70" even more exceptionally as the world's one outstanding motor car value in its class.

You will find us eager to demonstrate to you the extraordinary features at these new prices of Chrysler "60" or Chrysler "70"

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Now my fortune is all gone!" said the little Whiffet. "I gave it all to that queer Dingbat in the side-show."

"Well, what's the difference?" said Nick. "He told you where to find your shadow, didn't he? You won't need money any more."

"I hope not," said the little Rag-bag fellow. "If I don't find it soon, my beautiful purple bombazine suit will be worn out and now that Mom and Pop have had to move out of the rag-bag into the hat-box, I shall never get another."

"Oh, bombazine never wears out!" cried Nancy. "It stays so on the back of Mrs. Darlington Willowby James."

"Mrs. Who?" almost shrieked the little Whiffet.

"Mrs. Darlington Willowby James, the one with the green tea gown and her hands under her chin," said Nancy. "She's my best."

The Whiffet looked so queer that Nick laughed. "That's one of her paper-dolls," he said. "She's got words on her back."

"Yes, but it's all right," nodded Nancy. "Black and white are quite good for underthings now, and Mother says—"

"Dear me," said the poor little Whiffet. "I'm getting kind of dizzy. I'd certainly like to find my shadow."

"I know," said Nancy, patting him. "I shouldn't mix you up with things. But you mentioned—"

"—me and I thought I'd tell you. Now then, where did that queer person in the show tell us to go?"

"He said to hunt up Mister Snoopsy," said Nick. "He's a parrot who lives in a cave between Hidy Go Land and the sea."

"It sounds terrible," said the Whiffet.

"Well, it isn't," said someone. "Not tearable at all! Both Towser and I have been at it all day, he at one end and I at the other, and it won't give an inch."

There sat a puppy dog with a red tongue, panting as though he had run the whole way to Kalamazoo and back.

"What are you talking about?" asked the Whiffet crossly. "More paper-dolls?"

"Not paper! Rag!" barked the puppy. "Somebody left it outside last night and Towser and I found it so we agreed to take half apiece. But it wouldn't tear."

"I should say not," remarked a Rag Doll, setting up suddenly from the grass where she had fainted.

"I'm stuffed with the best white cotton and my skin is made of sugar-sacking. As for my dress, it's just odds and ends. But they are very good odds and ends, the best in the rag bag."

"Rag-bag!" cried the Whiffet. "Was it Mrs. Brown's rag-bag?"

"Yes," nodded the Rag Doll.

Suddenly the Whiffet shouted out. "Why, your apron is exactly like my suit. It's purple bombazine too! We're cousins!"

And what did he do but throw his short arms around the astonished Rag Doll's neck and kiss her soundly.

"I've just come from Hidy Go Land," said the Rag Doll. "I'm on my way home."

"Hidy Go Land!" cried Nancy and Nick and the little Whiffet together. "Do you know Mister Snoopsy?"

"I should say so," said the Rag Doll. "He sneaks around and steals things in 'Hidy Go Land. Barrels of them."

"Did he steal any shadows?" asked the Whiffet fearfully.

"I should say so," said the Doll. "He steals them and makes them do his work."

The crew of the vessel Irene had been lost at sea for 120 days and no one had anything to smoke. But the shrewd captain had a surmise.

He appeared with a glass jar partially filled with loose cigarettes, "Boys," he said, "I've just counted these cigarettes by 3's, 7's, 8's and 6's, and in each case, I had 1 left over. The man who guesses the fewest number I can possibly have gets 5 cigarettes. The balance we'll split among the crew."

What answer cured the 5 cigarettes?

Last puzzle answer:

Two names are hidden in the puzzle. The first is "Borah," the name of a famous senator, and the second is "Idaho," the state which elected him. All objects are words of five letters. The first picture is described by the word "Bride," the second by the word "Order," the third by the word "Boast," the fourth by the word "Ashes," the fifth by the word "Hoops." The initials of these words in their given order spell "Borah" and the third letter of the same spell "Idaho."

MEMORIAL DAY
"In Flanders fields the Poppies grow Beside the crosses row on row"

Silent sentinels, they stand and hallow the ground where our fairest manhood fought and died. Reverently they bow their flowery heads in memory of the flower of our youth. Let us, too, on this Memorial Day honor not only the heroes who died in Flanders fields, but all those brave hearts who throughout our history have gone forth. Let us resolve to do our bit to make this a better world so that it won't be said they died in vain.

The Same Story
 Each year I have advised those needing heating systems to have the work done in the Summer months. Each year some take notice, have the work done when it does not have to be rushed and are ready when cold weather comes. But there are always those who wait until the last call, get a rush job and shiver before it is ready for use. Here is the warning: ACT NOW! Be ready next Fall.

What Does the Future Hold for Them?

DOES it reveal your wife living without many of the comforts she enjoyed when you were here; your son obliged to give up his studies for the professional career he hoped to build; your daughter compelled to forego opportunities for culture and advancement?
 This may be a true picture if the property and funds you leave to your family are not rightly managed and conserved.
 Your wife and children could not be expected to apply to investment and business matters the knowledge which it has taken you many active years to acquire.
